East Carolina vs. Memphis State

The Pirates return home today to host Memphis State after losing 35-0 at Washington last weekend. The Pirates (1-2) will be looking to even their record against Memphis State (2-2) who's coming off of a 6-0 win over Arkansas.

ECU/Memphis State Rivalry Grows

The Pirates and Tigers meet for the fourth time in the series history as the rivalry continues to grow. In the first meeting between the teams (1990), ECU defeated the Tigers 24-17 in Memphis. The following year was also decided by just a touchdown as ECU won 20-13 in Greenville. Last season, Memphis State took its first win in the series with a 42-7 victory in Memphis.

Today's Corporate Sponsor

Pizza Hut®

The East Carolina University Department of Athletics thanks today's corporate sponsor, Pizza Hut of eastern North Carolina, for its support of Pirate Athletics.

Pizza Hut of eastern North Carolina is one of the most established Pizza Hut franchises in the United States. Started in 1970, the group has grown to 26 restaurants in nearly 20 different cities employing over 1,000 employees. Their long-standing philosophy has been to support local organizations such as ECU, the eastern N.C. Boy Scouts, Red Cross blood drives, Family Night With The Kinston Indians, along with other efforts to be an important part of the cities where they are located.

Nationwide, Pizza Hut is the third largest restaurant chain in America with over 7,000 restaurants here and abroad. In fact, there are over 200 Pizza Hut restaurants in Australia ... which shows you how Pizza Hut pizza is a world favorite!

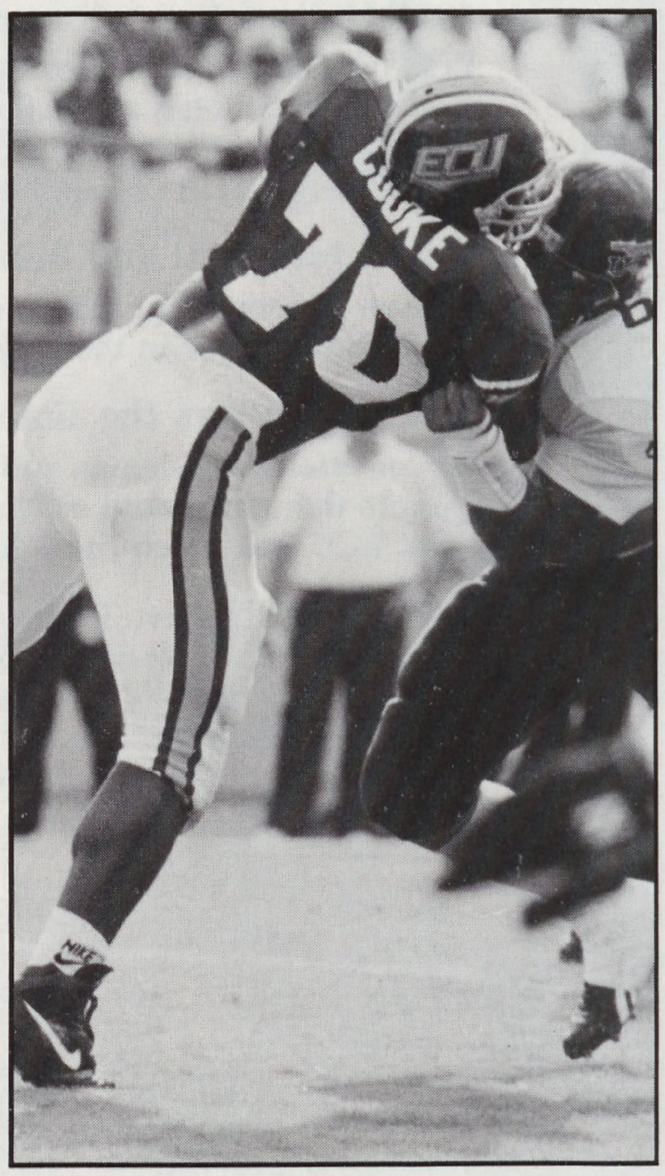
Crandell Out For the Season

Redshirt freshman quarterback Marcus Crandell suffered a season-ending injury against Central Florida and has been replaced by redshirt freshman Chris Hester. Crandell dislocated his left ankle and had a fibular fracture in his left leg. The Robersonville, N.C. native, underwent 2½ hours of surgery following the game as doctors also inserted a metal plate in the leg. Crandell has started rehabilitation and looks to return in action in the spring.

Hester, who is recovering from a broken right thumb, completed 17 of 23 passes for 216 yards and one touchdown, after replacing Crandell against Central Florida. In last week's ECU/Washington game, Hester made his first collegiate start and completed 12 of 23 passes for 99 yards.

Cooke Has Good Day At the Office

Senior defensive lineman Jeff Cooke led ECU's defensive effort against Washington as the Pirates held the Huskies to 288 yards. Cooke had nine tackles on the day with a sack for a loss of four yards and another tackle for a loss of two yards. Cooke also had a pass deflection.



Jeff Cooke

On This Date

East Carolina is 3-3 in games played on Oct. 2 prior to today.

1937 ..... lost to Guilford, 0-7
1954 ..... defeated Catawba, 26-7
1965 ..... lost to Furman, 7-14
1971 ..... defeated The Citadel, 31-25
1976 ..... defeated The Citadel, 22-3
1982 ..... lost to Missouri, 9-28

Next Week:

The Pirates travel to Columbia, S.C. to take on the South Carolina Gamecocks. USC is 2-2 on the season with wins over Georgia and Louisiana Tech. The Gamecocks are at home today against Alabama.

The CFA and Hitachi Support Teaching in America

Timothy Marshmon Honored as "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" Scholarship Recipient

Last fall, Hitachi, Ltd. and the College Football Association launched the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" scholarship program, with the hope that by sharing their mutual goals of improving education, they could help today's students become tomorrow's teachers. Now in its second year, the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program offers a senior or graduate student football player, student coach, student manager or student trainer from each of the 67 CFA member institutions a $5,000 scholarship to continue his or her studies in pursuit of a teaching career.

Today, it is Hitachi's and the CFA's privilege to honor Timothy Marshmon, the inaugural "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" scholarship recipient from East Carolina University.

Marshmon played cornerback for the Pirates and earned his degree last December in education. He was consistently a member of the ECU Honor Roll and a member of the football team's Academic Top Twenty List.

"Teaching is helping each child reach his or her fullest potential without making them feel intimidated," says Marshmon. "It is treating each child as an individual and not just a part of a group. All kids are different and deserve the personal attention needed in order for each child to reach his or her aspirations."

The total of $335,000 being donated makes the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program the largest corporate-funded scholarship associated with college football. But most importantly, by granting these scholarships to individuals who actually aspire to a career in teaching, the program hopes to upgrade both the quality and number of people entering the teaching profession.

The enthusiasm of this year's scholarship recipients is echoed by the support of the national spokesperson for the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program, Gale Sayers, who followed up an illustrious collegiate and professional football career with an advanced degree in education and a role in college administration. Now a successful businessman, Sayers has been touring the country, speaking out on the importance of education. "I have always said that as you prepare to play, you should also prepare to quit," says Sayers. "Whether you are able to make it into professional athletics or not, the day will come when you will no longer be able to rely on your athletic ability for a living. At that point, the only thing you can fall back on is your education. And the backbone of all education is found in the inspiration and desire to learn that only a teacher can engender."

Indeed, the need for quality teachers at all grade levels in America has never been greater. According to the U.S. Department of Education, from now until the year 2001, there will be an 18.4 percent increase in the demand for new public school teachers. This translates into a potential shortage of some 310,000 teachers, projects the American Federation of Teachers. Moreover, this shortage is expected to come at a time when the number of high school graduates alone is expected to increase by approximately 28.6 percent. Statistics such as these clearly underscore the timeliness of the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" program.

"We are pleased to have been able to support education in America with this scholarship program, and are proud to be continuing our support for a second year," said Koichi Ueno, president, Hitachi America, Ltd. "The 'Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow' program extends our ongoing support of American education, from direct grants and student scholarships to programs and employee volunteerism, by encouraging pride in education and the teaching profession."

In truth, the "Hitachi Promise of Tomorrow" uniquely melds the strengths and talents of numerous "players" — business, 67 institutions of higher learning, hundreds of motivated students — into a powerful "team" for American education. "With America's schools facing increased demands at a time of decreased funding, the CFA believes that, by combining the visibility of college football and the corporate resources of Hitachi, we can make a positive contribution to education," says Dr. Richard Eakin, chancellor of East Carolina University and chairman of the CFA Board of Directors.

OFF THE FIELD...

College Football programs provide an economic impact that creates significant income for the local community and serves as an effective source for rallying alumni.

Communities with a population of less than 100,000 produce 55% of today's players. –1991 CFA Player Survey

College Football players graduate at a rate higher than the male student population in general. The average graduation rate for CFA players in 1992 was 59%. The national average for men, according to the NCAA Report 1991–1992 Division I Graduation Rate Summary, is 54%.

A U.S. Department of Education study found that at age 32, former varsity football and basketball players had the highest rate of home ownership (77%), the lowest rate of unemployment and had earnings that were ten percent above the mean for all former students who attend a four-year institution.

–Light and Shadows of College Athletics

Nearly four of every ten Americans consider themselves a college football fan, which calculates to nearly 100 million fans.

–1990 CFA Gallup study

The average size of a CFA member football squad is 113 players and averages 29 walk-ons.

The practice fields are the classroom. Ficklen Stadium is the final exam. Steve Logan is the teacher.

It's the way the second-year East Carolina head coach prefers it.

"When I sat down and asked myself what I enjoyed most about coaching," said Logan, "it was the teaching that I enjoyed most and if teaching is what I enjoy then I would be teaching on Saturday as well."

If you spent time watching Logan on the sidelines, you'll get a feel how the 40-year-old coach uses Saturdays as another teaching tool.

He'll take one of his young quarterbacks on the sidelines and discuss different plans, options and ideas. It's a two-way conversation and the best way for a student-athlete to know what he's doing right and what he's doing wrong.

"He doesn't pressure you, he doesn't yell at you, but he makes sure you understand what you did wrong," said Jeff Blake, former Pirate and current New York Jet quarterback. "He makes sure you know everything about the game. He taught me how to keep my composure, how to be a leader."

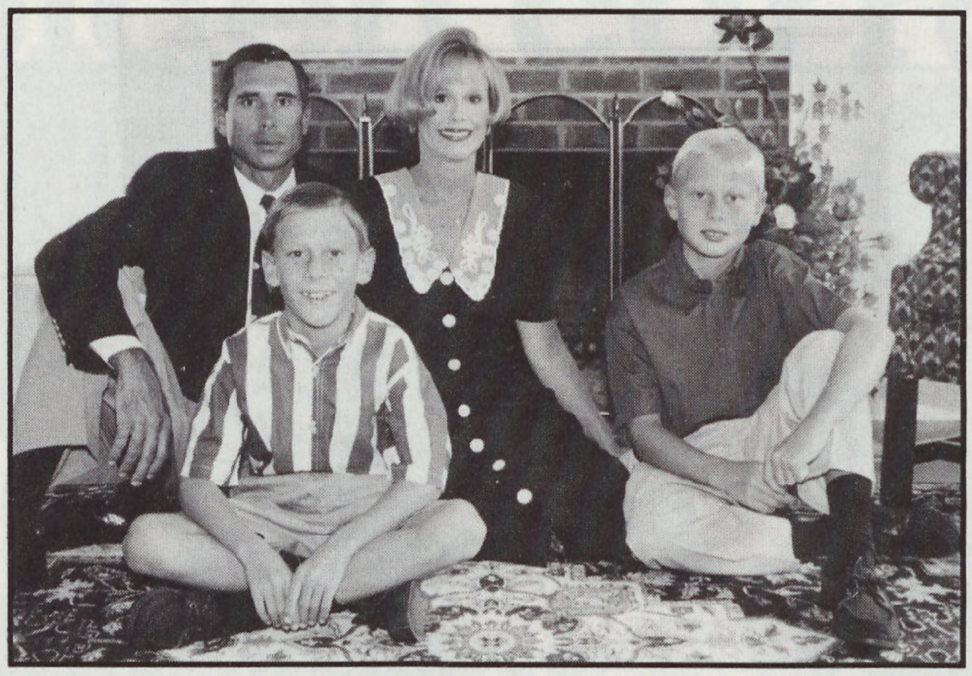
The teaching and leadership roles continue also off the playing and practice fields. The Lawton, Okla. native, feels that if student-athletes are going to be the best they are going to be, it requires self-discipline, dedication and hard work.

Members of the football squad are told three things by Logan about playing football at East Carolina: 1) if you go to class and practice hard, you will play; 2) have fun playing the game of football, and; 3) play as hard as possible on every play and the wins and losses will take care of themselves.

"I like to see the responsibility for the little things fall upon the players rather than for me telling them to do it," said Logan. "I believe in natural consequences being a strong disciplinarian."

"We never talk to our student-athletes about winning and losing — never," continues Logan. "We talk to them about showing up, playing every play as hard as they can play it and play to the last play of the game. We don't care who it is we're playing. We give a ton of respect to whoever that may be, home or on the road."

Logan developed much of his philosophy through the influence of several head coaches. He worked on the staff of current Ohio State coach John Cooper at Tulsa, with current Dallas Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson at Oklahoma State, with Bill McCartney at Colorado and with Bill Lewis at ECU.



The Logans: Steve with wife, Laura, and sons, Nathanael and Vincent.

When Lewis resigned to take the head coaching position at Georgia Tech, ECU Director of Athletics Dave Hart, Jr. did not have far to look for the school's 17th head football coach.

"It became obvious to me through conversations with Steve that he was the best man for the job," said Hart. "Steve Logan is the right person to lead this program and Steve's offensive scheme will become this program's signature."

Logan is mostly credited with the development of the Pirate offensive attack during the 1990-91 seasons when he was ECU's offensive coordinator. In 1991, East Carolina finished the season with an 11-1 record and reached a Top Ten national ranking.

During the 1990-91 seasons, Logan coached quarterback Jeff Blake. The Sanford, Fla. native broke or tied 32 school records before leaving ECU, including most passing yards in a game, season and career. He was named the 1991 ECAC Player of the Year.

In 1992, it was Michael Anderson's turn to rewrite ECU record books. The Decatur, Ga., native broke or tied 12 school records last season, including all of the school's sophomore records.

Logan continues to monitor the offensive side of the football closely. He still coaches the quarterbacks but also makes his way around the practice field to observe his coaches in action.

"What we're doing here in the passing game and with our offense, I feel, is on the cutting edge," said Logan. "I believe our offense is unlimited on how successful we can be. We just have to work hard and keep teaching the ideals that will make our program succeed."

Last season, the Pirates finished 10th in the nation in passing offense, averaging 280.45 yards per game. ECU also was 18th in total offense, averaging 421.09 yards per game.

An '83 Tulsa graduate, Logan did not play football and had plans to get a doctorate degree and become a college professor.

"I realized I wasn't going to the NFL," said Logan. "But, I had to teach in the public schools before going to graduate school. There (Union High School) they wanted me to coach football. I got addicted."

During the next five years, Logan became a high school assistant coach while he completed all but six hours of credits towards his masters degree.

Leaving Union High school, Logan coached tight ends at Oklahoma State for Jimmy Johnson. He became hooked on the college game.

"I loved working with the kids and having an impact on their decisions in and outside football," said Logan. "That, and the intrigue of competitive strategy, really hooked me."

And, since he began coaching in the college ranks, Logan has wanted to be a head coach. And, on Jan. 11, 1992, his dreams were realized.

Logan, an avid tennis player, and his wife, Lauren, are the proud parents of two sons — Vincent (11) and Nathanael (9).

Shared Visions

East Carolina University is about to make history — again. Because people have cared, what began as a teacher's college nearly a century ago has become a major educational institution, offering quality programs and service in almost every academic field. Our Schools of Art, Business, Medicine, Music, and others are among the finest in our region, our state, and our nation. Our students, faculty, and staff have distinguished themselves time and again — in academics, in business, in the arts, in medicine, and in sports.

It's time, however, for ECU to take the next step, to move forward again, to become the very best it can be. Hundreds of students, faculty, staff, and alumni have taken part in an exhaustive assessment of the university's strengths. We have identified a number of opportunities to build upon our strengths, and we want to capitalize on those opportunities. ECU is ready to join the ranks of our nation's finest institutions, and we're ready to make sure it does.

Shared Visions, the Campaign for East Carolina University, is the first comprehensive fund-raising campaign in the university's history. The board of trustees, the directors of the university's three foundations, the university's development staff, and a leadership group of some of the university's most valued friends have committed themselves to its success. Under their guidance, a slate of priorities has been established, a timetable created, a core group of volunteers assembled, and the initial phase of the campaign begun.

The goal of the campaign is to raise $50 million over a period of five years. Those resources will be divided among the university's three foundations, and used for student development, faculty enrichment, program enhancement, facilities improvement, and annual support. In Strategies for Distinction, the university committed itself to:

- achieve distinction in undergraduate education.
- strengthen its commitment to excellence in teaching.
- Develop a university culture based on respect for individual rights and human dignity.
- expand existing doctoral programs and develop new doctoral programs from existing institutional strengths.
- strengthen its commitment to research, scholarship, and creative activity.
- vigorously enhance its programs in the health sciences.
- build a competitive Division I-A athletics program, based on integrity, good management, and vigorous academic support services.

Those are also the goals of Shared Visions. Improvements of the type we've planned, ambitious as they are, require generous private support. Shared Visions offers our friends a chance to help provide that support, to share in the adventure of moving ECU confidently into the next century.

We can make no greater investment in the future of our region than to support the Shared Visions Campaign. With your support, our gal — the realization of our visions — will certainly be achieved.

East Carolina University is a diverse, comprehensive university known for academic quality and for the pursuit of excellence in those areas most compatible with its mission, history and opportunities.

Founded in 1907 as a school for the training of teachers, ECU has grown and developed in progressive stages as a liberal arts college, a regional university and since 1972, part of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system. ECU was designated a university by an act of the N.C. legislature in 1967.

With an on-campus enrollment of 17,500 students, ECU is organized into academic and health sciences divisions. It has a College of Arts and Sciences with 19 academic departments and professional Schools of Medicine, Nursing, Allied Health Sciences, Health and Human Performance, Business, Education, Industry and Technology, Human Environmental Sciences, Social Work, Music and Art. It has a research-oriented Graduate School which offers advanced degrees including the Ph.D. and the doctorate in educational leadership. Through its Division of Continuing Education and Summer School and University College, ECU offers many academic programs as well as programs for personal and professional enrichment.

ECU's strategic goals include achieving distinction in undergraduate education, a commitment to excellence in teaching, respect for individual rights and human diversity, expansion of doctoral programs, strengthening and stimulating research, scholarship and creative activity, improvement of teacher education and public schools, recruitment and support of academically proficient and talented students, and effective advancement of the University.

ECU has a Center for International Studies and sponsors several foreign exchange programs with campuses in Europe, Central America and Asia. It has gained international attention for its graduate program in Maritime History and Underwater Research.

With two commencements each year, ECU confers degrees upon 3,500 students annually and has more than 67,000 living alumni around the world. Its on-campus enrollment makes ECU the third largest university in the state of North Carolina, and off-campus extension programs and non-credit educational offerings attract an additional 3,000 students per year.

ECU is a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) with Division 1A programs in 10 men's and eight women's sports. In football, ECU is independently (non-conference) aligned, while most other programs are affiliated with the Colonial Athletic Association.

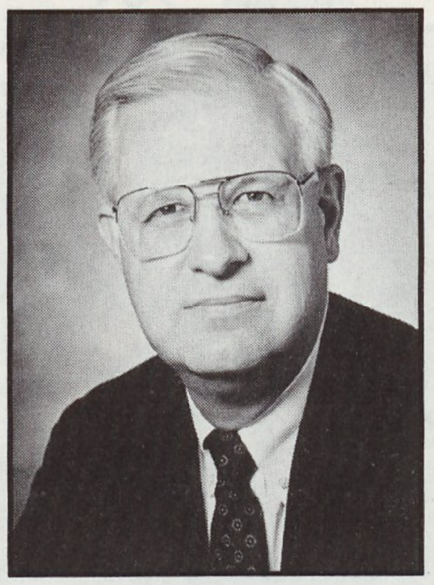
CHANCELLOR RICHARD EAKIN

For Chancellor Richard R. Eakin, the terms "academics" and "athletics" are not mutually exclusive, but mutually reinforcing. He knows from personal experience.

As a Geneva College undergraduate, he majored in mathematics and physics while a member of the basketball team. He also served as President of the Student Senate and Class Valedictorian and was graduated in 1960 with the honor summa cum laude.

Today Dick Eakin is in his seventh year as ECU's chief executive officer and his leadership mark is evident throughout ECU, including athletics.



He has a vision of greatness for ECU and leads in the belief that the university can build upon and add to its elements of distinction and strong tradition for excellence in teaching, research, regional services, and athletics.

With enthusiasm and remarkable stamina, Dr. Eakin pursues this vision around the clock and on-the-road as ECU's highly visible top ambassador.

Strategic planning has been the linchpin of the Chancellor's administration. From it has evolved new degree programs, new and stronger centers for excellence, campus beautification and modernization of facilities, an emphasis on computer technology for students and faculty, and an energetic, focused fund-raising plan for academics, athletics, and medicine.

Improved campus life and student services continue to be high on the Chancellor's agenda. Under his direction, the campus will soon have a state-of-the-art dining hall, a student recreation and wellness center, and a $26 million addition to the campus library. ECU's reputation as one of the leading family practice, primary care medical schools in the country is being enhanced with new centers for the treatment of cancer, diabetes, heart disease, and alcohol and drug abuse.

In pursuit of ECU's goals, Chancellor Eakin is chairman of the Board of Directors of the College Football Association (CFA), holds leadership positions with the Southern Association for Colleges and Schools (SACS), and is in the forefront of economic and community development in Greenville and throughout Eastern North Carolina.

Prior to his ECU appointment in 1987, Eakin served for 23 years as a member of the mathematics faculty at Bowling Green State University, where he was also a vice president.

A native of New Castle, Pennsylvania, Dr. Eakin was awarded a master's degree as well as a doctorate in mathematics with a minor in economics from Washington State University. He and his wife, the former Jo Ann McGeehan, have two adult children, Matthew of Charlotte and Maridy of Raleigh.

Eakin Named Chairman of the Board for College Football Association

ECU Chancellor, Dr. Richard Eakin, is the new Chairman of the Board for the College Football Association.

The CFA represents most major Division I-A college football programs in the United States. Exceptions include programs affiliated with the Big Ten and Pac-10 conferences.

A total of 65 schools are members.

Eakin's election to the post came in a vote by board members at the annual CFA convention on June 6. He succeeds Dr. E. Roger Sayers, president of the University of Alabama, in the board's chair position.

"I think it will have a positive outcome for us," said Eakin, in commenting on his new leadership role.

"It certainly reflects the fact that East Carolina is respected among the members of the College Football Association," he said.

"Dr. Eakin's appointment is a very prestigious one which casts East Carolina University in a very favorable light. The challenges ahead are significant in nature for us and college football in general. Having our Chancellor in this role within the CFA is certainly a positive for all concerned."

Dave Hart, ECU Director of Athletics

Eakin has served on the CFA Board of Directors for the past three years. He is the representative for football programs that are independent of conference affiliation.

Ficklen Stadium

September 21, 1963, was a great day in ECU football history. During a game in which East Carolina College defeated Wake Forest University, a dream was realized — the new James S. Ficklen Stadium was dedicated. In less than two years, $283,387 had been raised to build the new stadium — an amount that exceeded a $200,000 campaign goal.

In its early years, the stadium included permanent stands only on the south side, a small press box, and lighting system. In 1975, installation of a new lighting system turned Ficklen Stadium into one of the best-lighted stadiums in the Southeast. Then, in 1978, the seating capacity was expanded from 20,000 to 35,000 seats, and a three-level press box and modern scoreboard were constructed. In 1983, the playing surface was treated to a complete renovation, from drainage to gravel base and treated topsoil to new grass.

Now that Pirate football is a major and well-established regional attraction, it is time for Ficklen Stadium to expand once again. And now that ECU football is poised and positioned for major conference affiliation, Ficklen Stadium must be brought up to new standards.

"Everyday I hold a vision of taking an East Carolina football team on to the field in front of 50,000 Pirate fans and winning on the very last play of the game."

— ECU Head Football Coach, Steve Logan

Plans for Ficklen Stadium Expansion

- Phase I — Completed prior to the '93 season, this phase involved the replacement of the original section of the south side of Ficklen Stadium. Due to concrete flaking, the State mandated replacement of this section. At the same time, all of Ficklen Stadium's concrete seating areas were sandblasted and sealed, and undersupports were refurbished.
- Phase II — Construction of a two-story structure from end zone to end zone above the south side of Ficklen Stadium. The two-story structure will house a modern press box facility on the first story and an enclosed donor seating area on the second story. Estimated cost is $9.5 million, to be raised through private contributions during the Shared Visions Campaign.
- Phase III — Decking of the south side of Ficklen Stadium will increase seating capacity to nearly 50,000, providing East Carolina University with a modern stadium large enough to showcase the Pirate football team and meet increased fan interest. Expansion of Ficklen Stadium as planned will help ECU attract major Division I-A football teams to Greenville. It will also enhance the opportunity of major conference affiliation for the Pirate football program.

Shared V

The Campaign for Ea

In March 1993, Chancellor Richard R. Eakin and the university's Board of Trustees announced the Shared Visions Campaign for East Carolina University.

As one of the university's three non-profit foundations, East Carolina University Educational Foundation joins the Shared Visions Campaign in preparing to launch a new era of distinction and achievement at East Carolina University. The Educational Foundation's special mission is the athletics program — an area of university's life which has never received support via public funds. Private support has always provided the margin of excellence.

The university seeks to raise $50 million for academics, the medical school, and the Pirate athletics program. As part of the campaign goal, the Educational Foundation seeks to raise $14 million of the Shared Visions Campaign goal, to expand and improve Pirate athletics facilities, endow student-athlete scholarships, and enhance the student-development program.

Participation in the 1992 Peach Bowl and in the 1993 NCAA basketball tournament have focused national attention on ECU as no other activities could. The benefits of this visibility extend to every department and program of the university, and to all students and alumni. Gifts that strengthen the athletics program help build ECU's national reputation. In addition, the Pirate athletics program has a profound economic impact on Pitt County and the region. Future successes will only account for an even greater economic impact.

However, athletics at ECU stands at a crossroads. ECU's athletics program's financial strength is modest compared to its accomplishments. "Of the 67-member CFA institutions, the Pirate athletics budget is at the bottom five percent (5%) of member institutions," stated Dave Hart, Jr., ECU's Director of Athletics. "We have got to expand our base revenues, if ECU is going to be able to achieve excellence at the Division I-A level. The Shared Visions Campaign is vital to the Pirate athletics program's financial condition, and could not have come at a more important time!"

"The Shared Visions Campaign, in many respects, will dictate the future of ECU Athletics. The campaign affords an exciting avenue for significant financial development at the most crucial time in the history of our athletic program."

— East Carolina Director of Athletics, Dave Hart, Jr.

Visions

East Carolina University

To increase operating revenues, the Pirate athletics program must increase revenues from season and individual game ticket sales. Within existing facilities — Ficklen Stadium and Minges Coliseum — there is literally very little room for significant increases in revenues. These facilities must be expanded and upgraded to accommodate more spectators and project a desired image for the 90's and beyond.

Currently, the Pirate athletics program has $1 million in endowed scholarship funds. This is small in comparison to scholarship endowments maintained by other athletics programs which ECU competes against. By further endowment of student-athlete scholarships, the Educational Foundation will move closer to its goal of full scholarship funding of ECU's sixteen sports program.

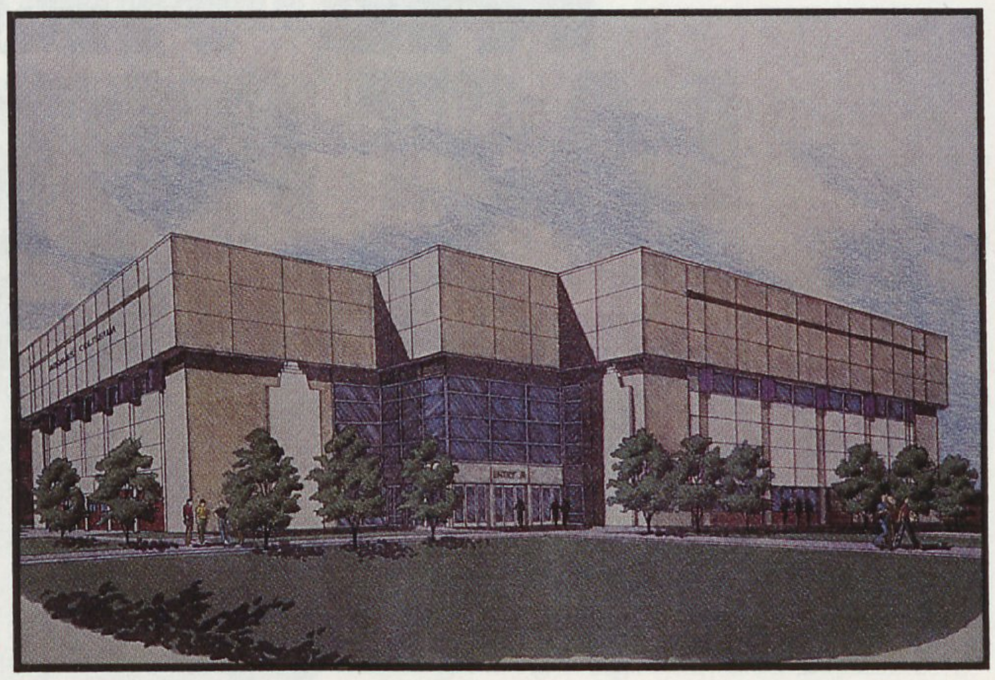
Of equal importance is the further endowment of ECU's student development program for Pirate student-athletes. As one of the model programs within the NCAA, ECU's student development program focuses on the nurturing of Pirate student-athletes throughout their college years in the areas of academic, personal and career development. Bob and Margaret Ward of Burlington, N.C., recently contributed $500,000 towards the establishment of a $1 million endowment for the Pirate student development program.

Enhancement of facilities, a strong scholarship base and a well funded student development program are all essential to ECU's athletics program. Falling behind and missing golden opportunities at this crucial stage would, indeed, be lamentable in the development of the athletics program and of Pirate student-athletes.

And because no state funds are allotted to ECU's athletics program, private support is necessary for the success of Pirate athletics. The opportunities are at hand. The time is now. The response from ECU's alumni and fans must be — Yes! Invest in ECU Athletics. The return is well worth the investment.

"The Minges Coliseum renovation represents the beginning of a new era of East Carolina basketball. Shared Visions is so essential to the improvement of our program and continued pursuit of excellence throughout our university. To me, Shared Visions is a total commitment by all ECU fans and alumni to have the best and be the best."

— ECU Head Basketball Coach, Eddie Payne



Minges Coliseum

Since it opened in 1967 at an original cost of $2 million, Minges Coliseum has been a "much used" facility. In recent years, it has become increasingly apparent that Minges Coliseum is an outdated facility, and must be brought into the twenty-first century if athletics and academic components of the university are going to meet their needs. Committed to such progress, the university has developed plans for renovation of Minges Coliseum into a modern 7,800-seat arena. Renovation plans call for:

- Chair-back seating
- New playing surface
- Air conditioning
- Modern concession stands
- New rest room facilities
- New locker space

Upon completion, Minges Coliseum will be a comfortable, well-designed arena, which will be used by ECU and the region to attract topflight entertainment, host university and athletic events, and provide modernized space for physical education and special population needs. Athletics, physical education and intramurals have worked hand-in-hand in the planning of this renovation project.

Gift Opportunities

Individuals and businesses who contribute to the East Carolina University Educational Foundation during the university's Shared Visions Campaign, will receive certain benefits from their participation. For gifts of $10,000 to $1 million, contributors will receive rights to purchase season tickets in the enclosed donor seating area proposed for Ficklen Stadium and V.I.P. seating planned for Minges Coliseum. Maintenance of these seat rights will require a minimum annual contribution to the Educational Foundation's scholarship fund.

For contributions of $100,000 or more, contributors are offered certain athletics facility naming opportunities, which will remain in perpetuity.

All contributors of $1,000 or more to this campaign for ECU athletics, will have their names prominently recognized at ECU's athletics facilities complex, and receive Pirate Club membership priority points for contributions made. Further, all gift pledges can be paid over a five-year period. It is important that Pirate Club members maintain their annual support levels so that the Educational Foundation can meet its goals for unrestricted scholarship support of ECU student-athletes.

DAVE HART, JR.-DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Dave Hart, Jr., who has gained national recognition for his skills in areas of athletics management, public relations, marketing, and fundraising, enters his sixth year as Director of Athletics at East Carolina University.

Since being appointed Athletics Director on December 21, 1987, by ECU Chancellor Richard Eakin, Hart has become one of the country's most respected athletics administrators.

In making the appointment, Chancellor Eakin stated that, ''Dave has an exceptional understanding of all aspects of athletics administration, has a strong commitment to excellence and integrity throughout the men's and women's programs, and possesses, in my judgement, the leadership qualities to develop our athletics program and move it to new levels of achievement.''

Hart has done just that in leading ECU's athletics program. East Carolina athletics has moved to another level as it relates to image and respect. Last spring, as the University completed its Southern Association of Colleges and Schools accreditation program, the Athletics Department received one of four commendations from the SACS review team for the manner in which athletics is managed at ECU. In addition, the Athletics Department completed the NCAA's Pilot Certification Program as one of 38 universities which volunteered their participation in the pilot program which has since become mandated.

Since becoming Director of Athletics, Hart has structured several programs of significance within the department. The most notable one is ECU's comprehensive Student Development Program for all student-athletes. Last winter the Athletics Department received a half-million dollar gift from Bob and Margaret Ward of Burlington, North Carolina, earmarked for Student Development. During Hart's tenure as Athletics Director, ECU student-athletes have made significant progress academically.

Facility enhancement has also been very evident during Hart's tenure. Renovations to Scales Field House (non-revenue sports), Harrington Field (baseball) and the football practice facility, compliment very nicely ECU's beautiful Ward Sports Medicine Complex which is one of the finest facilities of its kind in the entire nation. This coming Spring a nine-million dollar renovation of Minges Coliseum will be underway which will include chairback seating, air conditioning, a new playing surface, new concession stands and new locker rooms for the men's and women's programs. The renovation project will take ECU's basketball programs to a new and exciting level.

Phase One of a three-phased stadium renovation and expansion plan was completed in August. The original section of the Stadium, on the Press Box side, was replaced. Plans are in place to extend the Press Box to both goal lines in order to accommodate club level seating. Phase III of the Stadium Expansion Project calls for an upper deck on the north side of the Stadium taking the seating capacity to approximately 50,000. Phase III is targeted for 1996.

Pirate athletics continue to gain in exposure and credibility under Hart's tenure. Pirate football completed the best season in school history in 1991, finishing 11-1 and #9 in the nation, the ECU baseball team has made four trips to the NCAA tournament since 1988, and the Pirate golf team captured their 5th CAA golf crown in the last six years. The Pirate Basketball team won the CAA Championship this past winter, making the first appearance in the NCAA Tournament since 1972.

Hart was named associate director of athletics for external relations and executive director of the Pirate Club in 1985. His duties included the raising of funds for athletic scholarships through the Pirate Club, as well as overseeing all external areas of the athletic department.

During his first two years in that position, the Pirate Club experienced record-setting growth as it surpassed the coveted $1 million mark in contributions for the first time ever. The 1987 campaign saw another record performance under his direction as the Club exceeded the $1.2 million level.

Hart first joined the ECU athletic department in 1983 as an assistant athletic director for marketing. It was the first time that ECU had ever employed a full-time staff member for marketing, and it immediately brought dividends.

ECU's marketing program gained national attention for the rapid growth in crowd participation through tailgating and other promotional efforts. Hart was also responsible for implementing the ''Great Pirate Purple/Gold Pigskin Pig-Out Party,'' which is a weekend extravaganza surrounding the spring football game.

Additionally, attendance at home football games increased greatly as evidenced by the fact that 11 of the top 12 crowds in Ficklen Stadium history have entered the turnstiles since the 1983 season. Promotional ventures such as the ''Ain't It Great to Tailgate'' idea have added to the atmosphere at Pirate home games.

Hart has served on several prestigious committees during his tenure as Athletics Director, including the Committee for Integrity and Image in College Athletics. He currently serves on the Missions and Values Committee. Hart chairs the CAA's Marketing Committee and is a member of the conference committee on expansion.

Hart is a popular speaker at the national level and has authored articles for a number of national publications. He has made numerous speaking presentations at conventions and seminars on program management, marketing, fundraising, and personnel transition. For the past seven years he has been an instructor at the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics' Management Institute.

Hart, just the fifth athletics director in ECU history, received his undergraduate and graduate degrees from the University of Alabama, earning a B.S. in English/Speech in 1971 and a master's degree in 1972. He attended Alabama on a basketball scholarship and was a graduate assistant coach for the Crimson Tide program in 1972. He won nine varsity letters in football, basketball and baseball at Annapolis (MD) High School where he was also an All-State basketball and football player.

He is married to the former Pam Humble of Tuscaloosa, AL, and they have three children — Ricky (21), Jamie (19), and Kelly (16).

R.W. MOORE

In the game of life, everyone can win.

R.W. and Joan Moore, co-captains of R.W. Moore Equipment Company's winning team, believe in making everyone a winner.

At a football game, it's fun to pull for your favorite team. It's too bad that someone has to lose.

Fortunately, in life, there's a way we can all come out winners. Here's how. By treating each other with respect and concern. By disciplining ourselves to work hard and focus on what's important. And by putting aside our differences to strive for the common good.

So today, pull for your team, and tomorrow, pull for everybody to win!

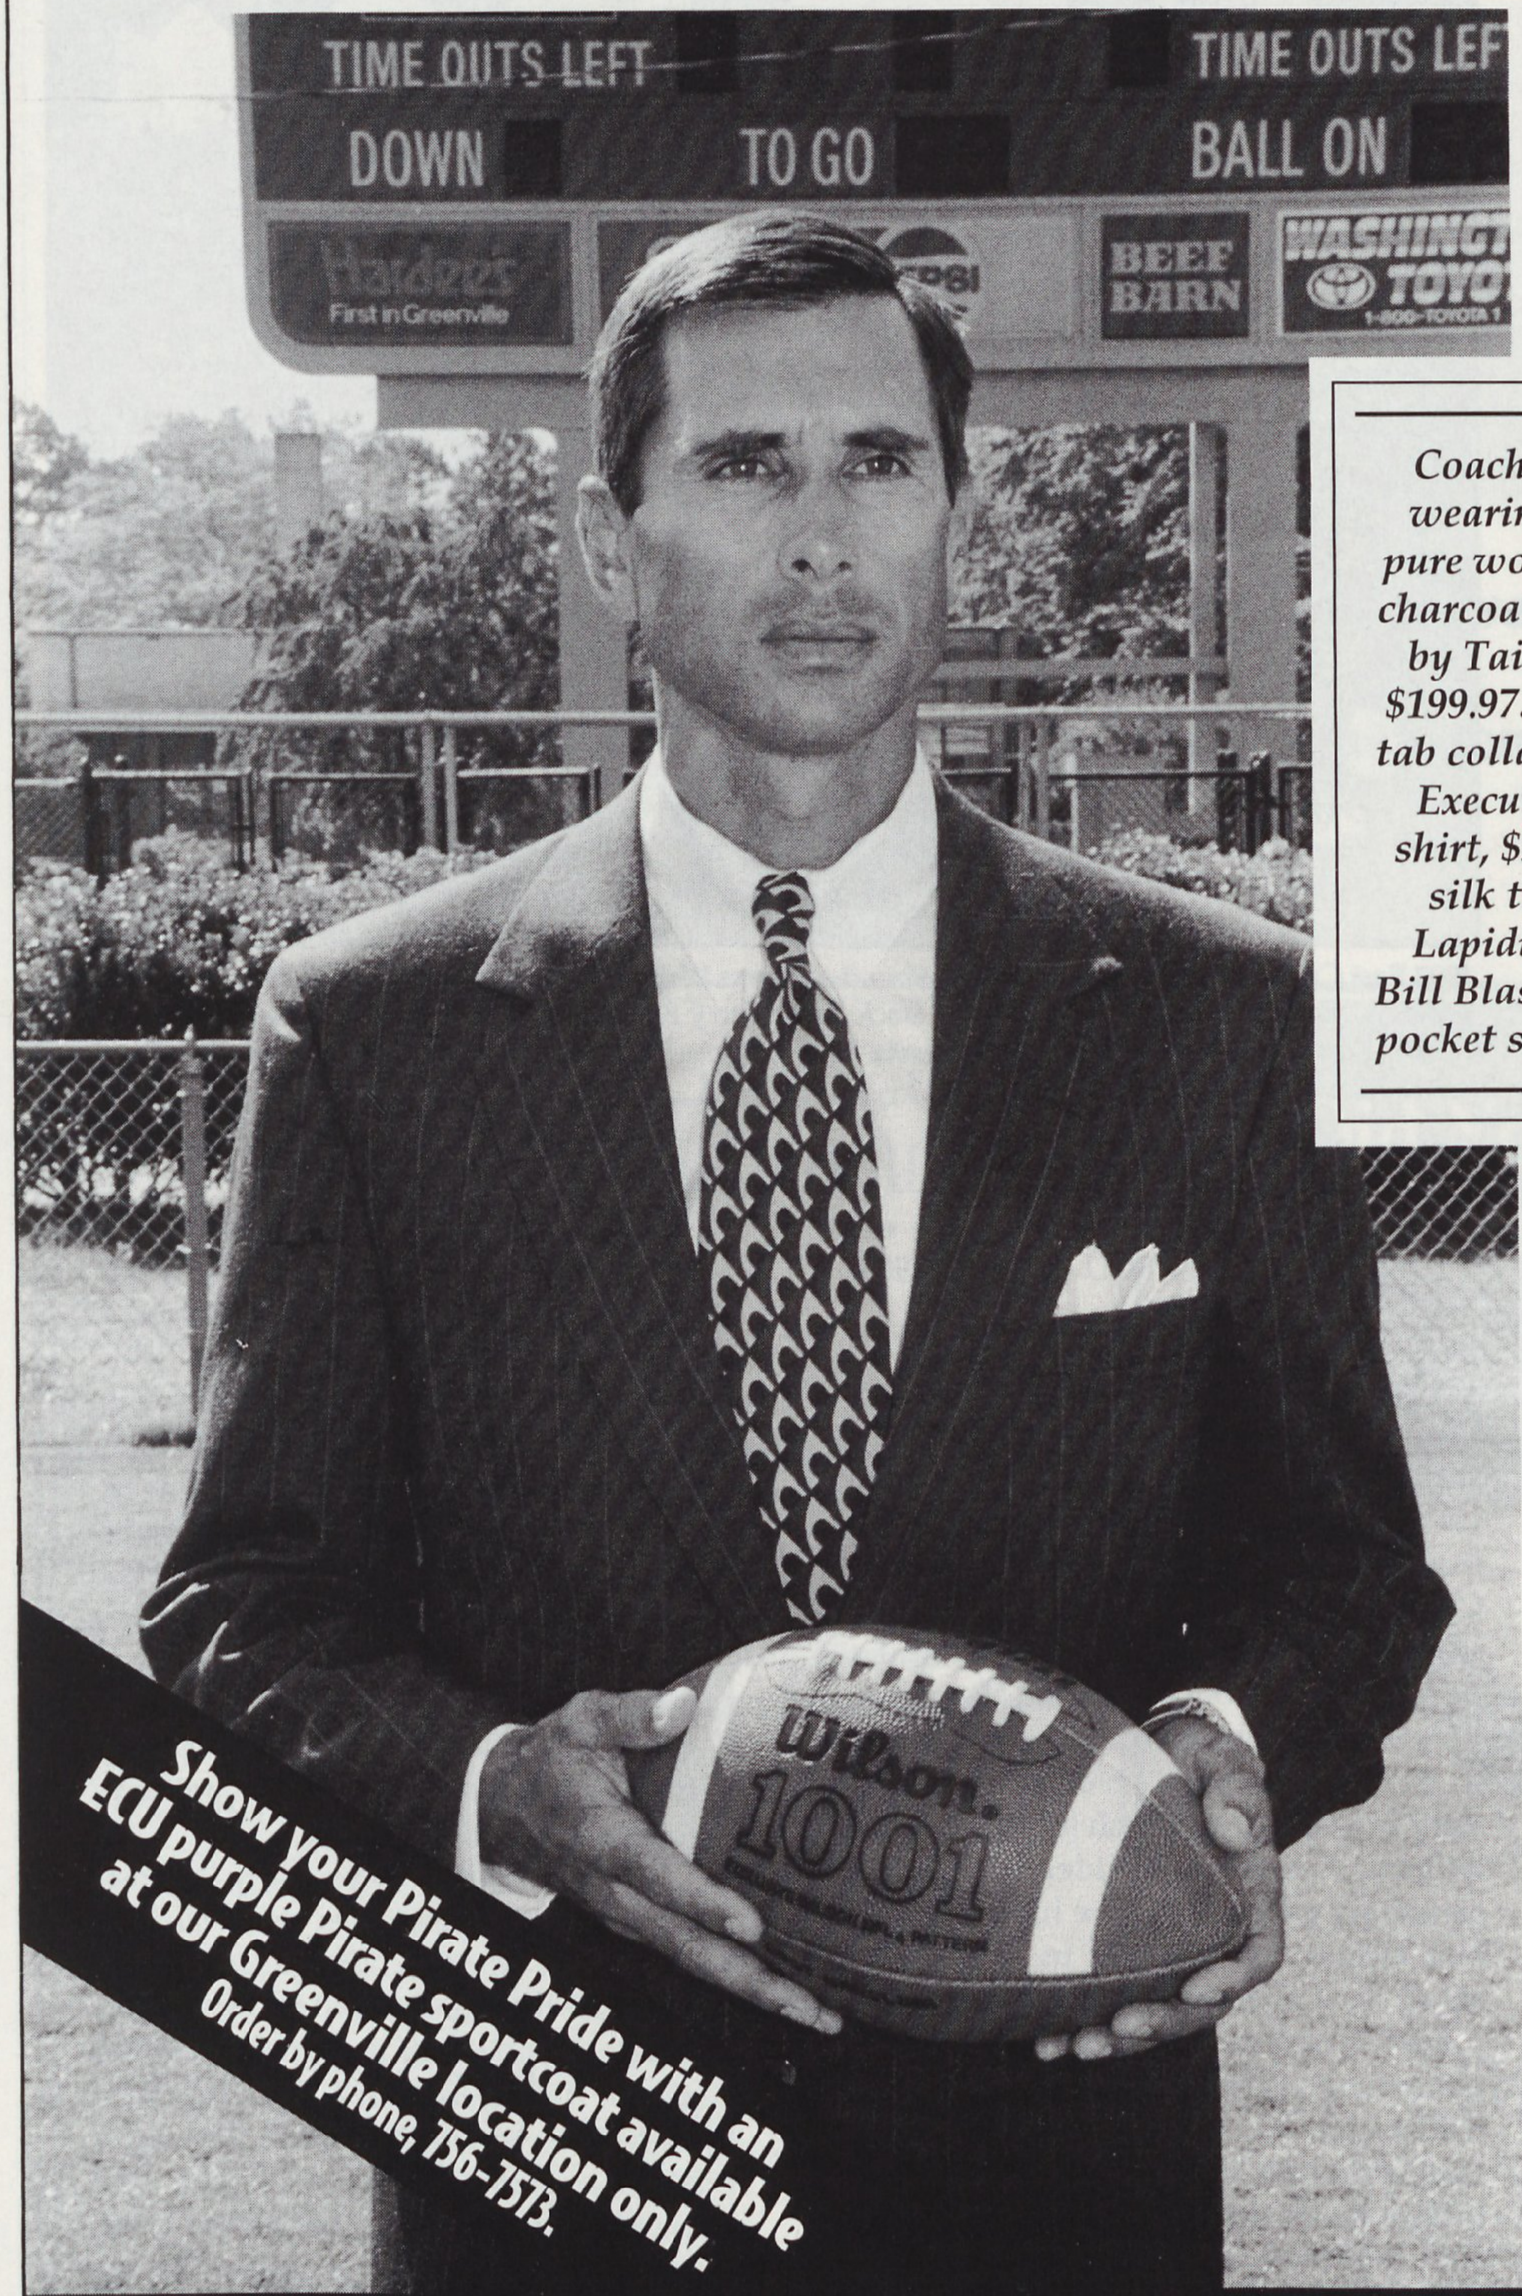
Coach Logan Sports A Winning Look From S&K.



East Carolina University Football Coach Steve Logan has a strategy for just about every situation— including how to get the most for his clothing dollar. "It's simple. Just shop at S&K."

Coach Logan is wearing a 100% pure worsted wool charcoal stripe suit by Tailors Row, $199.97. All cotton tab collar Club Run Executive dress shirt, $29.99. Pure silk tie by Ted Lapidus, $19.99. Bill Blass 100% silk pocket square, $4.99

S&K sells names like Botany 500, Tailors Row, Nino Cerruti, Jones New York, Ocsar de la Renta, Deansgate, Fenzia and more. And we sell them at 30% off and more. Every day.

We also offer expert in-store alterations and a money back guarantee.

But don't take our word for it. Ask Coach Logan. Better still, come see for yourself.

PIRATE SPIRIT/TRADITION

Alma Mater

of East Carolina University

Praise to your name so fair,
Dear old East Carolina.
Your joys we'll all share
And your friends we'll ever be.
We pledge our loyalty
And our heart's devotion.
To Thee, our Alma Mater
Love and Praise.

Here's To The Pirates

by Mitch Doub, Joe Distefano,
Tom Goolsby, Phil Marnell

Here's to the Pirates of ECU!
We're going to raise our battle flag high,
We're going to sing it long,
Shout it loud;
And then they'll know
That we are Pirate Proud.
Because the battle's been fought,
And now it's won,
And everybody knows
that we're Number One!
Because we're full of Pride,
We've got them bowing to our side,
Here's to ECU!

Traditional

by Ron Jacobs

We're from East Carolina
the Purple and Gold;
The Pirates of the country
No others quite as bold.

— GO PIRATES —

Stand up for the Pirates
As we go to the Victory
So let's give 'em a hand
Come on folks, Let's stand!
and show 'em, we're from EC!

School Colors

Old Gold and Royal Purple were established as the official ECU colors in 1909.

Nickname

The Pirate, a symbol of East Carolina University and its athletic teams, was adopted from the legend and lore of coastal North Carolina and was a natural choice for a nickname when intercollegiate athletics began at the school more than 57 years ago.

Pirates, fierce and colorful, were prominent in North Carolina's colonial period. The state's Outer Banks which jut far out into the Atlantic were ideal hideouts for these legendary gangsters of the high seas. Many had homes and families in small villages along the Carolina coast.

East Carolina University's interest in pirates and sea lore began in 1934. That year, the Tecoan, the yearbook for what was then East Carolina Teachers College, carried pirates as its theme. The pages were filled with paintings and sketches of patched eye figures, tall ships and buried treasure. The book referred to the tales of the infamous "Teachy the Pirate" often told by natives in the nearby historic town of Bath.

Retired Numbers

Four numbers have been retired in the history of East Carolina University's football program. Those are numbers 16, 18, 29 and 36.

The jersey number 16 was last worn by Robert Faris, a kicker from Falls Church, Va. Faris was killed in an automobile accident while returning to campus for fall practice prior to his senior season in 1967.

The jersey number 18 was last worn by Norman Swindell, a blocking back from New Bern. The most valuable player on the 1965 team, Swindell drowned near his home during the Christmas holidays following the 1965 season.

The jersey number 29 was worn by James Speight, running back from Greenville. The MVP of the 1957 and 1959 squads, Speight still holds the school record for most points in a single game with 26, while third on the all-time rushing list with 2,700 career yards.

The jersey number 36 was worn by Roger Thrift, a quarterback from New Bern, N.C. He earned letters during the 1949 and 1950 seasons. His jersey was retired by the Student Government Association.

Speight and Thrift are members of the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame.

MARCHING PIRATES

This Fall is an exciting time for Marching Pirate fans! In addition to the popular Pirate Pregame, the band is performing two diverse halftime shows this season. The "Classical Show" begins with a unique arrangement of the Fanfare for the Common Man by Aaron Copland. Peter Tchaikovsky's 1812 Overture is an exciting finale for not just everyone in the stadium, but everyone in Greenville. Watch for the fireworks and cannons! The "Love Show" features big-band arrangements of popular hits by Harry Connick, Jr., Aretha Franklin, Natalie Cole, and even Elvis!

Established in 1938, the Marching Pirates are the largest and one of the oldest performing ensembles on the campus of East Carolina University. This diverse group of approximately 200 students represents a wide variety of disciplines from each school within the university.

As the dominant spirit organization at ECU, the Marching Pirates perform at every pep rally and home game, and will perform at the ECU vs. Virginia Tech game in Blacksburg, Virginia. In addition, the band presents exhibitions at high school band contests throughout North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia.

The Marching Pirates not only provide entertainment at athletic events, but this highly visible organization also plays an active role in recruiting for the university and its outstanding School of Music. The band also serves as a type of laboratory course by providing teaching opportunities for instrumental music education majors.

Given this unique position in the university environment, the Marching Pirates are dedicated to the highest standards of excellence, entertainment, and education.

Welcome to Christopher Knighten in his first year as Director of the Marching Pirates. A native of Texas, Knighten received the Bachelor of Music Education degree from Baylor University and the Master of Music degree in wind conducting from the University of Colorado at Boulder. He is a candidate for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree in instrumental conducting at the University of Colorado.

Prior to his appointment at East Carolina University, Knighten held similar positions at the University of Colorado at Boulder, Baylor University, and Richland High School in Ft. Worth, Texas. He has written shows performed at two Orange Bowls, the John Hancock Bowl, the Copper Bowl, and the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade.

Jill Wagner, feature twirler, is a senior fashion merchandising major with a minor in business. A native of Tabb, Virginia, she has twirled since she was five years old and currently holds the titles of "College Miss Majorette of the East" and "College Miss Majorette of Virginia." Wagner not only competes nationally, but also enjoys teaching young twirlers and majorette squads.

We hope you enjoy the 1993 Marching Pirates!

Four Inducted Into The ECU Hall of Fame

Christenbury, Futrell, Jones and Raynor Honored Today

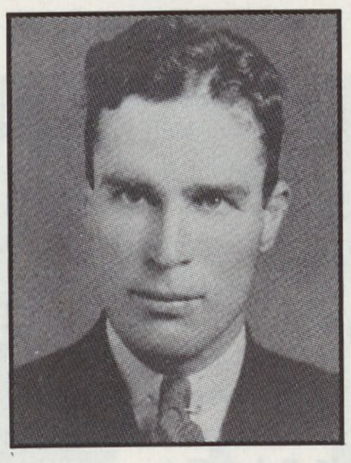
Each year, the East Carolina Department of Athletics honors individuals who have brought outstanding recognition to themselves and to the University by inducting new members into the Athletics Hall of Fame.

Today, ECU honors John Christenbury, Charles Futrell, Leora "Sam" Jones and Jim Raynor as its newest inductees.

The 1993 inductees have each brought to ECU athletics a unique story and made individual contributions to the development of the program. To them and the previous inductees, we thank you for continuing the ECU Athletics tradition.

Read more about the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame on page 98.

John Christenbury



This year's list of inductees to the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame includes a name that is already immortalized in East Carolina University history. The induction of John Christenbury to the prestigious Hall marks a remembrance of one of ECU's most loved figures.

Christenbury, a 1930 graduate of Davidson College, served as the head coach of football, baseball and basketball at East Carolina Teachers College from 1940-1941. Christenbury led the Teachers (ECTC's mascot name) to a 5-3 record in 1940, the school's first-ever winning season. The following year, Christenbury led the Teachers to a 7-0 record, the school's only undefeated/untied season to date.

As World War II began, Christenbury volunteered for service, but was eventually killed along with hundreds of other servicemen in a 1944 ammunition ship explosion. Following his death, Christenbury's name was given to the gymnasium that currently stands on 10th Street.

Retired Admiral William Greene, an ECU Hall of Famer, said he feels gratitude and love for Christenbury after knowing him from his childhood until his college football career. Christenbury recruited Greene from Brevard College to play on the football squad at ECTC and, according to him, made a strong impression on him.

"He was one of the strongest leaders I've ever known, both through precept and example," Greene said. "He never cursed, he never spoke strongly; he'd give you 16 laps if you didn't do right, but he never was abusive ... He was motivating, caring and reassuring, when you played for him you felt that you were taught, cared for and raised."

When reminiscing about Christenbury, Greene recalls one particular trip the squad took to play Western Carolina:

"We went to Western Carolina on an old, rickety bus and stopped overnight at High Point College. We had to stay there, so Coach said that he was going to take us to a movie, 'The Hunchback of Notre Dame.' That's the way he was, he was very generous, but, well, a couple of us were a little naive and thought it was a football movie!"

Greene said that he believed Christenbury would be proud of the direction that ECU athletics is headed in, especially in the academic commitment the university takes for its players. He also added that the coach would have been proud to be a part of the program's roots.

"If [Christenbury] were alive right now, he would turn to Dr. Eakin and say, 'I am proud of the school spirit and support shown at ECU' and then he would commend Dave Hart and Steve Logan on their hard work. He would say, 'I am proud to be part of the growth and the beginnings of this fine football team'."

—Warren Sumner, SID Student Assistant

Christenbury's former players have established an Alumni Honors Scholarship to honor their coach.

Charles Futrell

If you consider yourself to be in good shape, East Carolina Hall of Fame inductee, Charles Futrell, probably has you beat.

At 73 years old, Futrell is preparing for his second Gatorade Ironman Triathlon, which includes two miles of swimming through open ocean water, a 112-mile bike ride over the hilly, hot and windy lava fields in Hawaii and a 26.2 mile marathon at its final leg.

Futrell has added incentive for this year's race as he currently holds the American record in the 70-and-over category with a time of 15 hours, 35 minutes and 22 seconds.

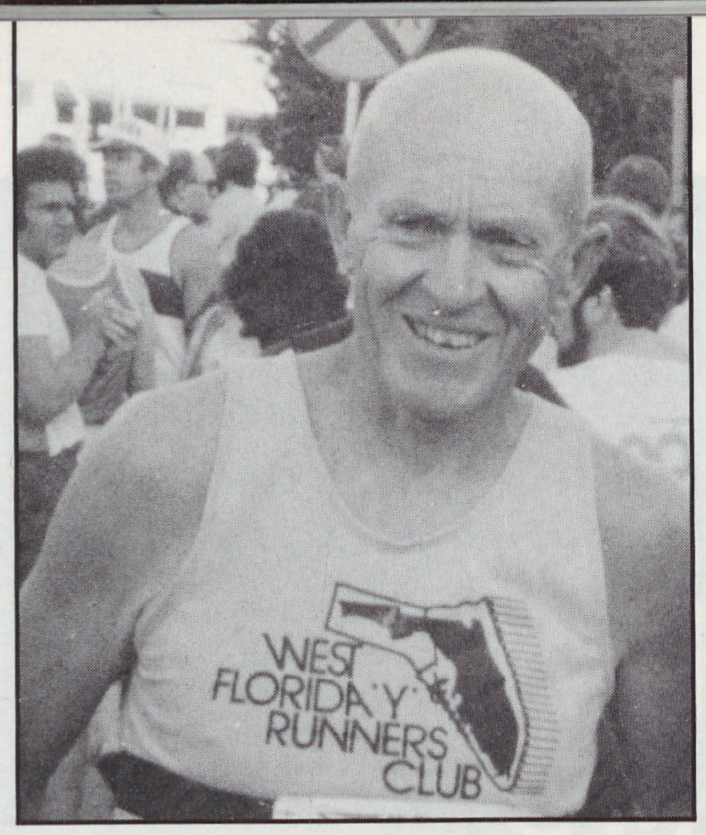
With most of his time now being spent training, Futrell is very much looking forward to the Hall of Fame weekend here in Greenville.

"I still have a very soft spot for East Carolina in my heart," Futrell said. "I'm wearing the school colors with ECU on my chest during the race in Hawaii."

Futrell, who has competed in over 300 races during his career, including two New York Marathons, thinks back to his years at ECU and can't help but notice the tremendous changes.

"My father used to be a good gardener back then," Futrell said. "In fact, he had a watermelon patch that would just about be on the 50 yard line now at Ficklen Stadium."

Growing up in Greenville, Futrell knew everyone on the faculty at ECU. He was the very first waterboy to carry for the Pirate football team which played its games where now sits the Wright Building.



Futrell has competed in over 300 races during his career, including two New York Marathons.

"I used to pitch horseshoes with Robert H. Wright, the first president of ECU," Futrell said. "I was only a young boy then, but I gave him my best."

While at ECU, Futrell participated on the Pirate baseball and football teams from 1938-41 while serving as team captain and batting .404 on the baseball team.

He continued in athletics by becoming a successful high school coach in Maryland up until his retirement in 1976.

Further proof of his character is being shown today when former members of his early 1950s high school teams arrive here in Greenville to honor their coach. Many of which he hasn't seen in nearly 40 years.

This is no doubt a special day for Futrell and his family. He and wife, Peggy, are now in their 47th year of marriage and have two children, a son, Robert, and a daughter, Allison.

"I am the sole survivor of my family," Futrell said. "All the members are buried in the Greenwood Cemetery just a couple of miles from Ficklen Stadium. To be inducted will be a very meaningful and emotional day for me."

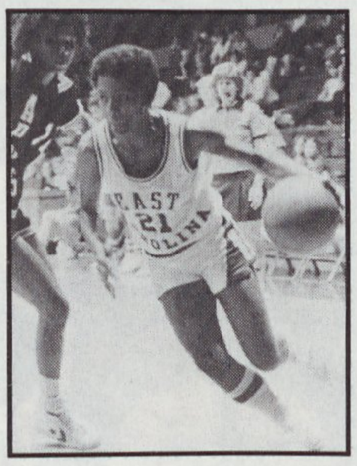
Leora "Sam" Jones



"I can't believe it," 1993 Hall of Fame inductee Leora 'Sam' Jones said. "It's really a very big honor for me to have it. It's something every athlete who loves their sport strives for, to be in their school's Hall of Fame."

These are the words of a shocked woman. Jones has sacrificed her life for her sports and to be honored by ECU as a Hall of Famer is a long term goal accomplished.

For the last 10 years, Jones has competed on the United States Team Handball team in search of celebrity status. "I've always wanted to be a star," Jones said. "If you're the best at what you do, you automatically shine all the time."

And shine she has. While at ECU, Jones led the women's basketball team to a combined record of 40-17 and helped the Lady Pirates to back-to-back AIAW and NCAA national tournament berths with a career scoring average of 16.0 points per game.

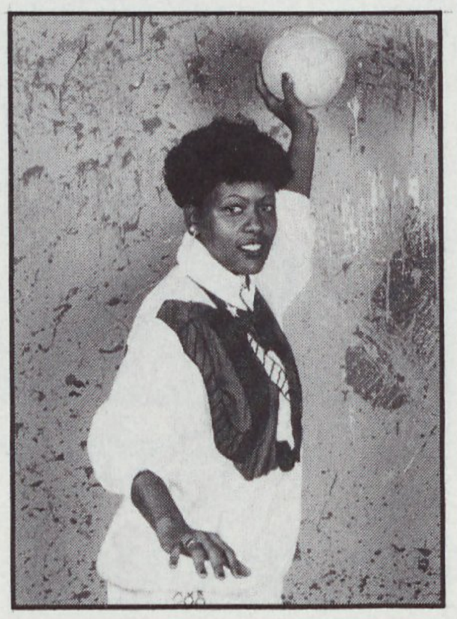
She also lays claims to several ECU records as well: sixth in career scoring average (16.0), fifth in season steals (75), and sixth in career assists (252).

Since leaving ECU in 1982, Jones has been playing Team Handball both abroad as a club sport in Europe and for the U.S. National Team. She has also competed in the last three Olympic games.

Her best individual Olympic performance came in the 1988 season when she was the second leading scorer with 35 points. In 1984, the team came home with a fourth place finish with Jones scoring 32 goals and nine assists.

During her career, Jones has been named the U.S. Team Handball Federation Athlete of the Year three times.

On the way to her goal, these were the days that wore on Jones' soul. She left behind her family, her job and her fiance to compete. "I gave up everything I knew for the game," Jones said. "I wasn't going to come back with nothing, if you leave home, you've got to go out and accomplish your goals."



Jones has been named as the U.S. Team Handball Federation Athlete of the Year three times.

Currently, Jones finds herself once again away from home living in Lake Placid, New York, serving as assistant coach to the U.S. Women's National/Olympic handball team.

This requires practices twice a day and once on Saturday. The team also travels all around the world to compete in tournaments in preparation for the 1996 Olympic Games in Atlanta, Georgia.

"I considered myself retired," Jones said. "But when they called and offered me the job, they obviously showed they had the confidence in me to get the job done, so I took the job."

As assistant coach, Jones will try to instill some of what she learned at ECU under Lady Pirate basketball coach Cathy Andruzzi. "When I think of ECU, I think of Cathy first, the way she prepared us for life after college. These are some of the things I think about when I'm coaching the players here in Lake Placid, her values."

—Kerry Nester, SID Student Assistant

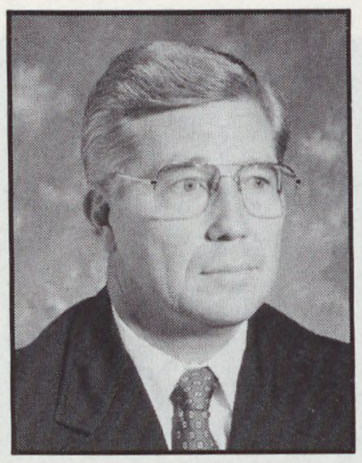
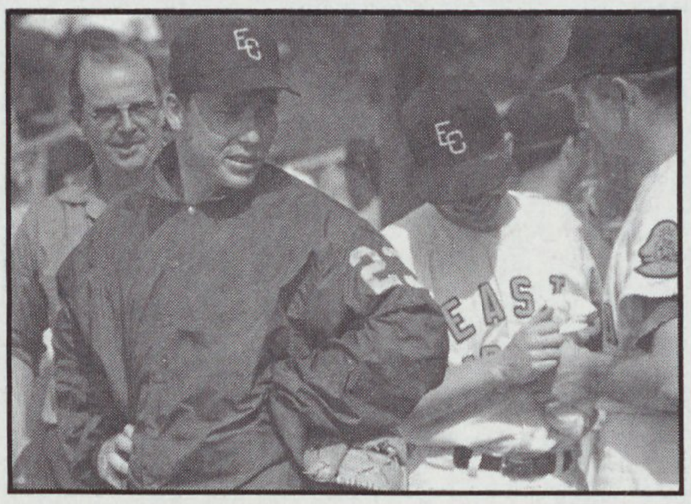
Jim Raynor



Pirate baseball legend Jim Raynor is a "major league" addition to the East Carolina University Athletics Hall of Fame.

During his career as a Pirate pitcher, Raynor posted a 17-2 record on the mound and captured the attention of professional scouts around the country after his senior season in 1966.

Raynor joined the ECU pitching ranks in 1963 as a freshman putting together a 3-0 pitching record and firmly grasping a position as one of the Pirates' top guns for his sophomore season in 1964. This would turn out to be Raynor's biggest year as a Pirate as he would post a 6-0 record and would be named as an All-State selection.



Raynor was drafted in 1966 by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

After falling in 1965 to an injury, Raynor would return in 1966 with yet another outstanding season and a chance to play professional baseball. Raynor went 8-2 on the mound with a 1.50 ERA and 92 strikeouts in 1966 and was drafted by the Los Angeles Dodgers. Raynor played in the Dodgers' organization for five years and made the team's major league roster in 1969, but a commitment to teaching cost him a trip to spring training and an opportunity to play in the "big league."

"I never played there," Raynor said. "But I got my foot in the door."

Raynor said the experience he gained at ECU was largely responsible for his post-collegiate success.

"While I was [at ECU], I gained a lot of confidence in my ability to pitch. It also gave me the chance to show the professional scouts what I could do."

Raynor, who now lives and teaches in Clinton, N.C., said that he is honored by the announcement of his selection to East Carolina's Hall of Fame.

"It's extremely difficult for me to describe how I feel, I know that there's a lot of words, but all I can think is 'very, very good'," Raynor said. "To know some of the Hall of Famers I know; it just makes me very pleased. I know that there are some great athletes in the Hall of Fame and I'm just honored to be counted as one of them."

OUTSTANDING STUDENT-ATHLETES

R.W. Moore Scholarship

The "King of the Gridiron" scholarship is presented at each home football game to the outstanding East Carolina University football player for that particular game as voted on by the media in attendance.

Redshirt freshman quarterback Chris Hester earned the "King of the Gridiron" award following his performance against Central Florida. Hester took over ECU's quarterback duties after Marcus Crandell's injury and completed 17 of 23 passes for 216 yards and one touchdown.

Mr. R.W. Moore of Raleigh, president of R.W. Moore Equipment Company, initiated the scholarship in 1977. This season marks the 17th consecutive year for the presentations.

The scholarship carries a $1,000 value and is presented in the name of the deserving player to the ECU Educational Foundation (Pirate Club). The money is then contributed to the general athletic scholarship fund.

East Carolina University extends its appreciation to Mr. Moore for this outstanding service to the University and the athletics department.

R.W. Moore Scholarship winners:

Morris Foreman, Syracuse
Tony Davis, Peter Zophy, Virginia Tech
Clayton Driver, Cincinnati
Junior Smith, Southern Mississippi
Junior Smith, Arkansas State

1993
Junior Smith, Syracuse
Chris Hester, Central Florida

Derrick Leaphart

Sprint/Carolina Telephone Scholarship

Today, East Carolina honors junior Derrick Leaphart as its Sprint/Carolina Telephone scholarship winner for his outstanding achievements in academics and contribution to the Pirate football program.

The Pirates' starting center, Leaphart is majoring in Business and hails from Decatur, Ga.

The award, a $4,000 academic/athletic scholarship, is given in his name by Sprint/Carolina Telephone.

Since 1984, Sprint/Carolina Telephone has contributed a scholarship for each home game and it is a donation that ECU officials greatly appreciate.

Sprint/Carolina Telephone is also a sponsor of ECU's Academics/Athletics incentive program which encourages continued academic excellence by ECU's student-athletes.

All ECU student-athletes receiving academic honors (honor roll, Dean's list or Chancellor's list) during the year will receive a t-shirt with the custom-designed logo "Academics, Athletics, Partners in Excellence."

Football Academic Leadership Team

Promoting Academic Excellence

In 1992, the East Carolina Student Development Office and the ECU football office initiated the Football Academic Leadership Team (A.L.T.) to promote academic excellence and team leadership. Heading into the 1993 season, the team has proven successful.

Following its theme, "Winning with Teamwork," A.L.T. is comprised of 15 members of the football squad and serves as a liaison between the office of Student Development and members of the football team.

Along with leadership on the field, members have a variety of objectives and responsibilities with A.L.T.

They include: creating a positive, winning work ethic in the classroom; challenging fellow teammates to maximize their potential; serving as role models and mentors for fellow teammates both on the field and in the classroom; assisting the Student Development office in communicating academically-related issues to the squad; providing support and/or recognition to team members on academic matters and serving as ambassadors for the football program at official functions.

Members of the A.L.T. also assist in the Faculty Guest Coach Program during the season and participate in the "Athletes for Education" speakers bureau in which student-athletes encourage academic success.

FICKLEN STADIUM

The James Skinner Ficklen Memorial Stadium was dedicated on September 21, 1963, with East Carolina defeating Wake Forest 20-10.

The dedication game was the culmination of a dream come true for then East Carolina College and all of eastern North Carolina. The original plan was announced on Oct. 7, 1961, by Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of the College, at a meeting of the Society of Buccaneers.

Within a year, $283,387 had been raised, although the goal had been only $200,000. With the funds in hand, Ficklen Stadium was built.

The stadium was named for the late James Skinner Ficklen, a Greenville resident, who distinguished himself as one of America's leading tobacconists. At the time of his death in 1955, Ficklen was President and Chairman of the Board of the E.B. Ficklen Tobacco Company of Greenville. He was a close friend of the College and established a financial aid foundation, the Ficklen Foundation, to aid students of the College.

The original stadium consisted of the permanent stands on the south side, a small press box and the old lighting system which was removed after the 1974 season. Total cost was $300,000.

The north side permanent seating was constructed in 1968, increasing the stadium seating capacity to 20,000.

The first major change in Ficklen Stadium was the lighting systems, a change that occurred just before the 1975 season opened. The old inner stadium lights on six poles were removed and replaced with six towers outside the stadium. The system is a combination of metallic and incandescent lights. There are 288 fixtures of 1500 watts each on six 162-foot towers. Cost of the system was $450,000.

A radical change greeted fans as the 1978 season opened. An expansion on all four corners boosted Ficklen's seating capacity from 20,000 to 35,000, the third largest stadium in North Carolina. This expansion was made possible with 2½ million dollars through a drive in the spring of 1977.

In addition to more seats, an ultra-modern press box with three levels and an elevator for access was built. The much needed press box has space for 92 writers and an entire floor for electronic media. Also, a modern scoreboard with a lightbank message center was placed on the east end of Ficklen.

During the summer of 1983, a complete renovation took place on the playing surface. A new drainage system, a new base of gravel and sand, new treated topsoil and a new grass was installed. The new grass, Tifton 419 Hybrid Bermuda was sprigged at the rate of 600 bushels per acre.

Future plans call for expansion of Ficklen Stadium, with an upper deck. That would add an estimated 15,000 seats, giving the stadium a capacity of 50,000. Also, plans call for a renovation of the press box, enlarging it to include a club seating level.

In 1992, the season attendance record fell in Ficklen Stadium as the Pirates drew a school-record 164,068 fans for five home games.

SPORTS MEDICINE

The East Carolina University Sports Medicine Division and Curriculum, reputed to be one of the finest programs in the Southeast, affords every Pirate athlete the best available care and treatment of injuries.

The East Carolina sports medicine program offers the best possible prevention, evaluation, immediate treatment, and rehabilitation of injuries.

Acting Head Trainer Mike Hanley, Assistants Jim Bazluki and Sue Graner, Graduate Assistant Mike Myers and Team Physician Dr. John Siegel oversee the sports medicine program for football. All serve on the staff of the ECU Sports Medicine Conference and as faculty for the Sports Medicine Curriculum within the School of Health and Human Performance.

They are assisted by more than a dozen community-based professionals who lend valuable time in the athletic health care and instructing the 30 to 35 undergraduate students enrolled in ECU's sports medicine educational program for athletic trainers. Dr. Edwin Bartlett and Dr. Tally Lassiter, Jr. are the orthopaedic consultants for football.

The Sports Medicine Center is in the Ward Sports Medicine Building. The Division, which has been in operation since 1971, is now able to better serve the student-athletes and educate sports medicine student athletic trainers using the latest, state-of-the-art facilities and equipment.

The Sports Medicine Staff are in attendance at every athletic event that involves East Carolina University athletes. Radio communication from practice field to the center is a must and a sports medicine vehicle provides instant transportation for injured athletes to the center. Prevention, evaluation, treatment, and rehabilitation are the main objectives of the Sports Medicine Division and when an injury does occur, the staff provides on-the-spot treatment to make certain the injury does not become more serious.

The Sports Medicine Curriculum, a part of the School of Health and Human Performance, is the only undergraduate athletic training program approved by the NATA in Eastern North Carolina and one of only two in the state.

The ECU Sports Medicine program has produced quality athletic trainers who have excelled in the Sports Medicine Field. Ronnie Barnes, now a member of the ECU Athletics Hall of Fame, has been the head trainer of the New York Giants since 1980. Also working with professional athletic teams are Tommy Craig as head trainer of the Toronto Blue Jays and Jamie Reed who serves as athletic trainer for the Baltimore Orioles.

Other graduates of the program work nationwide as collegiate and high school trainers as well as in recreational and sports medicine practices.

Dedication, sincere sensitivity, and individual attention are the basic motivators which distinguish East Carolina University's "Sports Paramedics" from any others. People helping people in a first-class setting. That's East Carolina Sports Medicine!

Change is in the air.

To meet the changing needs of today's business traveler, we've been making quite a few changes ourselves, including:

► New Schedules. Today, we're number one in jet departures from Philadelphia, New York's LaGuardia, Boston, Washington, D.C. and Tampa, to name just a few airports.

► New Terminals. 1992 marked the opening of two of the world's most modern terminals at LaGuardia and Pittsburgh.

► A New Alliance With British Airways. Ultimately, we'll be able to take you to 339 cities in 71 countries, and offer you a new world of service, superb quality, and international style.

► New Frequent Traveler Benefits. Members of the USAir Frequent Traveler Program enjoy the fastest free ticket to the most destinations. And this year we've introduced Priority Gold Plus, with the most generous upgrade system in the sky. And now, USAir Frequent Traveler Program members will be able to earn and redeem mileage credit on any British Airways flight worldwide.

USAir
USAir begins with you

Obviously, there's a lot that's new at USAir. In fact, in the history of aviation, no other airline has made so many changes so fast.

And all of it's for you.

For reservations and information call your travel consultant or USAir at 1-800-428-4322.

Pirate Sports Network

Pirate football may be heard throughout North Carolina as well as portions of South Carolina and Virginia via the Pirate Sports Network, owned and operated by the East Carolina University Athletics Department.

All operations of the Pirate Sports Network are coordinated, produced and directed by Jeff Charles, Director of Electronic Media at East Carolina.

This year's Network is anchored by WDLX 93.3 FM with its 100,000 watt signal that blankets all of Eastern North Carolina. Key market affiliates include WCRY 1460 AM Fuquay-Varina (Raleigh), WGLD 1320 AM (Greensboro), WTOB 1380 AM (Winston-Salem), WAAK 960 AM (Charlotte-Gastonia), WOJY 1490 AM (Hampton, Virginia) serving Tidewater. WCZI 98.3 FM is the Flagship station.

Jeff Charles, "Voice of the Pirates," with Carlester Crumpler and Steve Gowan.

Carlester Crumpler, ECU's all-time leading rusher, begins his sixth year as analyst, Steve Gowan hosts the pre-game, half-time, post-game shows and updates scores, Warren Baker and Tom Doyle serve as engineer-producers with Martin Fuerer handling sideline duties. Spotters include Aaron Beaulieu and Jim Bass. Britt Purtee is the statistician.

Charles begins his sixth year as "Voice" of the Pirates and his fourteenth year of college play-by-play. The Piqua, Ohio native served as the "Voice" of Virginia Tech and Furman University and also broadcast Big Ten play-by-play for the University of Illinois. He also served as sports director at WSB Atlanta where he handled Peach Bowl duties and hosted a nightly talk show on the 50,000-watt clear channel station.

In addition to his duties at ECU, Charles works Metro Conference basketball telecasts for Raycom and does selected telecasts for Home Team Sports. He has also worked college basketball games for ESPN.

Charles and his wife Debby have one son Britt, and a daughter Heather, deceased.

Anheuser-Busch returns for its 17th year as the primary network sponsor.

All-American kicker Joe Allison won the 1992 Lou Groza Award by booting 23-of-25 FG's.

One-on-One with MSU's Chuck Stobart

By Warren Sumner, SID Student Assistant

Chuck Stobart, head coach of the Memphis State Tiger football team, is a perfect example of what a person with high motivation can do. Stobart, a 28-year veteran of college coaching, and after working as an assistant at Michigan and Southern Cal, has been a part of some of the nation's most high-profile college football programs. Stobart now spearheads a highly competitive MSU unit that is coming off their first winning season in four years.

The 58-year-old coach has survived the rigors of relocation, rebuilding and the pressure to produce a winning program that surrounds any college football coach. He has endured all of these taxations with grace, but perhaps his most admirable achievement was handling the discontent of Tiger players afflicting the program after it lost its first three games of the season. Stobart responded to the players' complaints by opening the lines of communications and the Tigers rebounded with a five-game win streak that put them in line for a winning season. Last year's win over ECU in Memphis put them over the .500 mark and into the limelight of national respectability.

Now as Stobart faces another tough schedule including Southern Mississippi and Ole Miss, not to mention ending the season against perennial national championship contender in Miami, he is prepared to apply what he has learned.

Q. What did last year's incident with your players teach you as a coach?

A. "Well, I think as a coach it slows you down. It tells you that you can't keep going 100 miles per hour. I guess through this and all the years of coaching you learn you have to organize and keep the lines of communications going."

Q. Memphis State and East Carolina are in similar predicaments due to the fact they are independents. How do you handle the difficulty of dealing with the difficulties surrounding the unavailability of post-season opportunity?

A. "When you are an independent, all you can do is try to win more games. If you are independent then it's very important that you get on a roll, you've got to be successful throughout your program to try to stay competitive."

Q. You enjoyed success last year. What do you attribute to that, and what can be expected from your team this year?

A. "As would probably any other football coach, I would have to say I have a real good group of assistant coaches. They are great. I think our football team is geared on being a real sound defense with a very thorough kicking game. We are working to distribute the ball on offense better."

Q. In your extensive coaching career you have been in many different coaching positions at many different schools. What one person, would you say, has influenced your coaching style the most?

A. "I'd have to say Bo Schembechler. I spent 10 years with him (at Miami, Ohio and Michigan) and he taught me a great deal. He showed me a great deal about getting organized and being thorough in my approach."

Q. Coach, can you talk a little about what you expect when you play East Carolina?

A. "Obviously, East Carolina is always a well-coached football team. They always have kids who can play the game. I've faced ECU since I was head coach at the University of Toledo in 1977 and it's always been tough."

ECU EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

The East Carolina University Educational Foundation, better known as the Pirate Club, is the fund-raising arm of the East Carolina University athletics program. Money raised through the Pirate Club's annual fund drive is used to help fund Pirate student-athlete scholarship costs. The Educational Foundation's goal for 1993 is to turn over a record $975,000 in unrestricted scholarship funds to the University's Athletics Department. Future goals of the Pirate Club include full-funding of all student-athlete scholarship costs associated with ECU's sixteen men and women's sports programs by 1995. In today's dollars, that translates to approximately $1.7 million in unrestricted scholarship support.

Today, the Pirate Club has thirty-five community chapter organizations, which are the "backbone" of the Pirate Club organization. Although the majority of community chapters are located in North Carolina, the Pirate Club has community chapters in Georgia, South Carolina, Virginia and Washington, D.C., serving the majority of its 4,500 contributing members. In addition to receiving a sense of pride and personal satisfaction from investing in the lives of ECU student-athletes, Pirate Club members receive certain other benefits including priority in purchasing season football and basketball tickets; priority in purchasing bowl and post season game tickets; private and semi-private parking at home athletic contests; access to the Pat Draughon Donor Lounge and access to the Pirate Club Building during ECU athletic events; monthly updates on the Pirate athletics program through the "Purple Report"; and various recognition items.

To our many Pirate Club members, we thank you for your continued support. To those of you who are not members and who share a dream for ECU athletics, we extend an invitation to you to join the Pirate Club today and help move the Pirate athletics program to even greater heights.

BE YOUR BEST.

On the field. On the job. At home with the kids. Wherever it is, you want to do your best and enjoy life to the fullest.
That's where fitness comes in. According to a recent Gallup poll, "since beginning an exercise program:

- 71% of Americans report a major surge in energy levels.
- 55% report "less stress" on the job.
- 50% report they are sick less often than usual.
- Nearly one-half of all Americans believe that people who exercise become more confident and self assured."

If you're serious about your good health and need some fun in your life ... come discover Greenville Athletic Club. To us, being our best also means maintaining a clean club with a friendly staff that will help you achieve your fitness goals.

PLAY THE GAME TO WIN. GET FIT FOR LIFE.

Call 756-9175 for a visit today.

Winning The Big Ones!

You don't win the big ones alone. It takes a coordinated and concentrated team effort. And winning seasons are measured by more than touchdowns and field goals. They're the result of individuals working together to achieve a common goal — to be winners.

The Greenville-Joyner Agency points with pride to all the pirate teams of ECU whose achievements throughout the years have brought national recognition to ECU.

The road becomes a second home for those connected with collegiate athletics. Indeed, being on the road and traveling thousands of miles each year is a major part of the job.

Almost every facet of the job — recruiting, scouting competition, making public appearances, etc. — are activities that keep athletic personnel on the move.

The "wheels" that keep East Carolina's athletic program rolling are a group known as Courtesy Car Dealers, and they play a vital role in allowing the Pirate staff to meet their demands.

Far more than just a fringe benefit, these cars given by the East Carolina Courtesy Car Dealers are necessities for a growing and successful athletic program.

The entire East Carolina staff wishes to thank each dealer providing a car to this fleet of courtesy cars. We hope our fans will look to these fine people for their automotive needs at every opportunity.

Thanks Courtesy Car Dealers! You keep the wheels of East Carolina athletics rolling.

Thanks also goes to Adam's Auto Wash of Greenville. Adam's helps keep ECU's courtesy cars looking clean.

ATHLETICS HALL OF FAME

The East Carolina Athletics Hall of Fame was initiated in 1974 as an organization to honor those individuals who have, by direct participation in East Carolina University intercollegiate athletics, brought outstanding recognition to themselves and to the University.

The first honorees were inducted during Homecoming festivities at halftime of the East Carolina-The Citadel football game in 1974. Ten members were selected for the first year. Since then, the Hall of Fame has grown to over 50 members. During the 1993 Hall of Fame Weekend, ECU will honor its newest inductees: John Christenbury, Charles Futrell, Leora "Sam" Jones and Jim Raynor.

To be selected, a committee of nine persons must vote with two-thirds of those giving their approval. Those five shall be the official selection committee. To be eligible for selection, a person must not have been connected with the University in the capacity to which the nominee is being elected for a minimum of ten academic years.

The Hall of Fame is located on the second floor of the Ward Sports Medicine Building. Dedicated in 1990, it features plaques honoring the members and a Hall of Fame guide.

A LOOK AT '93-'94 PIRATE BASKETBALL

East Carolina's basketball fortunes have certainly picked up since the Pirates claimed the Colonial Athletic Association title last season.

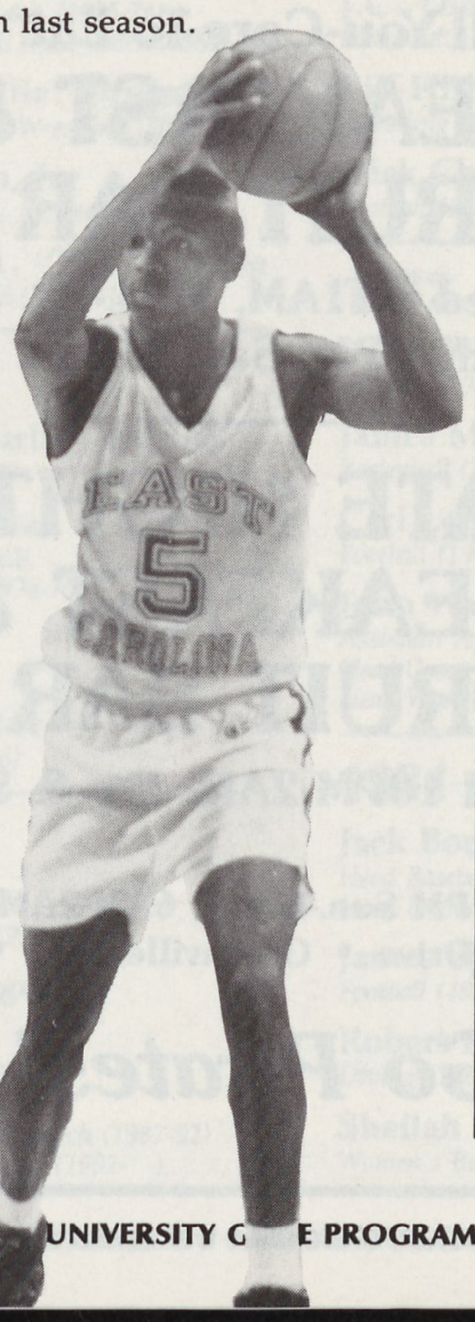
Recruiting analyst Bob Gibbons has picked ECU's spring recruiting class 11th in the nation. Put that along with the Pirates' four returning starters, and Coach Eddie Payne's squad should be improved from last season.

ECU finished the regular season last year at 10-16. But, three wins in the Richfood-Colonial Tournament in Richmond, Va., and the Pirates were crowned CAA champs. The Pirates fell to eventual national champion North Carolina, 85-65, in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

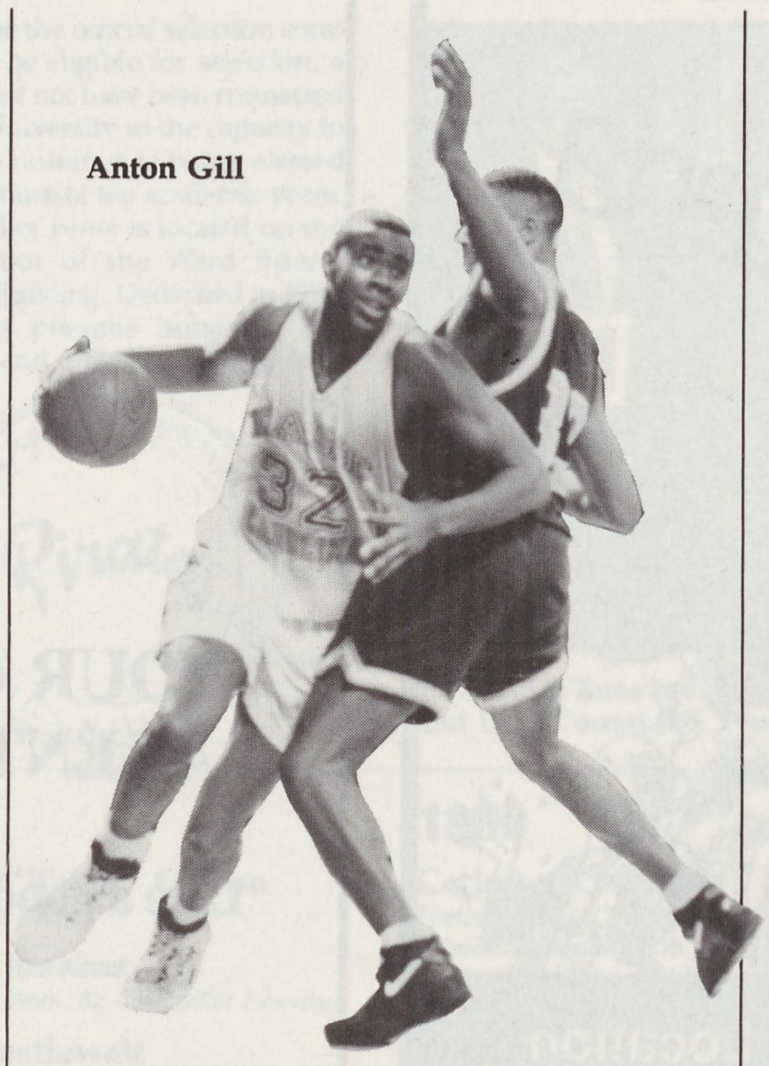
The Pirates will miss seniors Ike Copeland, Ronnell Peterson and James Lewis from last season's squad.

Senior Lester Lyons and sophomore Kareem Richardson combine to give East Carolina one of the best backcourts in the CAA. Lyons averaged 15.4 points, 2.7 rebounds, 2.6 assists and 2.3 steals per game last season. He was named MVP of the Toledo MVP Classic and the CAA Tournament.

Richardson earned his starting berth late in the season and the Pirates became a much better squad. ECU was 7-7 in games Richardson started and 6-10 when he came off the bench. He finished the season averaging 7.1 points, 2.0 rebounds and 2.5 assists per game. He was a CAA All-Rookie Team selection last season.



Lester Lyons



Anton Gill

Senior Curley Young and junior Anton Gill return to start in the front court. Young, a defensive specialist, peaked in the CAA Tournament last season. He averaged 6.1 points and 3.5 rebounds per game last year and had 15 points against James Madison in the CAA Tournament title game.

Gill started much of last season at power forward, but could be moved to center this year. Gill's offensive prowess is proven, averaging 10.3 points per game and shooting 49.3 percent from the floor last season.

Returning players Wilbert Hunter, Kevin Armstrong, Simpson Toliver and T.J. Long will add depth in the front court.

Hunter averaged 6.0 points and 3.0 rebounds last season and started the first 13 games, but his production fell off at the end of the season.

Armstrong was still coming back from knee surgery last season. He played in 19 games, averaging 0.8 points and 0.7 rebounds last year. One of just two four-year players, Armstrong could play a backup role at the power forward position.

Toliver could also play a supporting role in the front court. Last season, as a freshman, he averaged 0.7 points and 0.7 rebounds per game. He'll need to add some bulk during the off-season to be a major contributor in 1993-94.

Long, a walk-on sophomore guard, averaged 0.8 points and 0.3 rebounds in four games last season.

The new class of Pirates should play a key role in the upcoming season. Don Douglas, a 6-11 center, redshirted last season. He has the benefit of knowing the system and an extra year of developing skills.

Chuckie Robinson, a junior college transfer, and freshmen Tim Basham, Chuck Jones and Louis Moore, will vie for playing time at the forward spot. Skipp Schaefbauer, Mr. Basketball in the state of Minnesota in 1992-93, will play a reserve role in the backcourt.

The Pirates open the 1993-94 season in Charlotte, N.C. on Nov. 29 against UNC Charlotte. ECU's non-conference schedule also includes two in-season tournaments — Dec. 3-4 at the Mount St. Mary's Tournament and Dec. 30-31 at the Wisconsin-Green Bay Tournament.

A LOOK AT '93-'94 LADY PIRATE BASKETBALL

After contending for the Colonial Athletic Association title for the past four years, the East Carolina women's basketball team will begin the '93-'94 season with a completely new starting cast.

ECU lost its entire starting lineup from the 16-12 '92-'93 squad to graduation. The five accounted for 55.8 points of the 70.4 averaged by the Lady Pirates, who led the CAA in scoring last season.

Included in the lineup was the '92-'93 national assists leader, Gaynor O'Donnell; first-team All-CAA center, Rhonda Smith; and Toina Coley, who was second in the nation in steals in '92-'93.

With a roster that consists of 10 sophomores and freshmen, second-year head coach Rosie Thompson will start rebuilding around her only experienced player — 5'10'' forward, sophomore Tomekia Blackmon.

A member of the CAA All-Rookie team, Blackmon averaged 9.7 points a game while leading the conference in field goal percentage (100-165, 60.6%).

She averaged 21.3 minutes a game last season, missing ECU's last three games with an ACL injury to her left knee.

Blackmon's rehabilitation from knee surgery in March has been successful and sports medicine officials expect her to be at 100 percent come the season opener.

Five guards on the ECU roster will battle for starting rights in the backcourt, having to replace the experience of O'Donnell and Coley.

Sophomore Danielle Charlesworth transferred from the University of Richmond and sat out last season. An All-Rookie team selection as a freshman at Richmond, Charlesworth played in 28 games as a reserve. Coming into the season, Charlesworth looks to be ECU's top candidate at point.

Three returning guards will also be challenging for starting roles.

Senior Shonda Baker averaged 2.1 points a game and 11.6 minutes a game last season as a transfer. Baker started in three games last season and Thompson hopes she can build on that experience this year.

Sophomores Belinda Cagle and Angela James saw limited time as freshmen. Cagle played in 25 of 28 ECU games and averaged 5.8 minutes per game. James saw action in just 13 games.

Freshman guard Justine Allpress continues ECU's new international tradition as the England native follows O'Donnell's lead into the ECU program.

The 5'7'' guard from Staffordshire, England, averaged 25 points a game and was the top scorer in the European Schools Championship in 1993.

While Blackmon's experience gives ECU a seasoned strong forward, four players are up for starting rights at forward. Of the four, only sophomore LaTesha Sutton is a returning player.

A 5'9'' starting candidate at small forward, Sutton played in 15 games as a freshman, including nine CAA contests. In the CAA tournament, she averaged 19 minutes a game, filling in for the injured Blackmon.

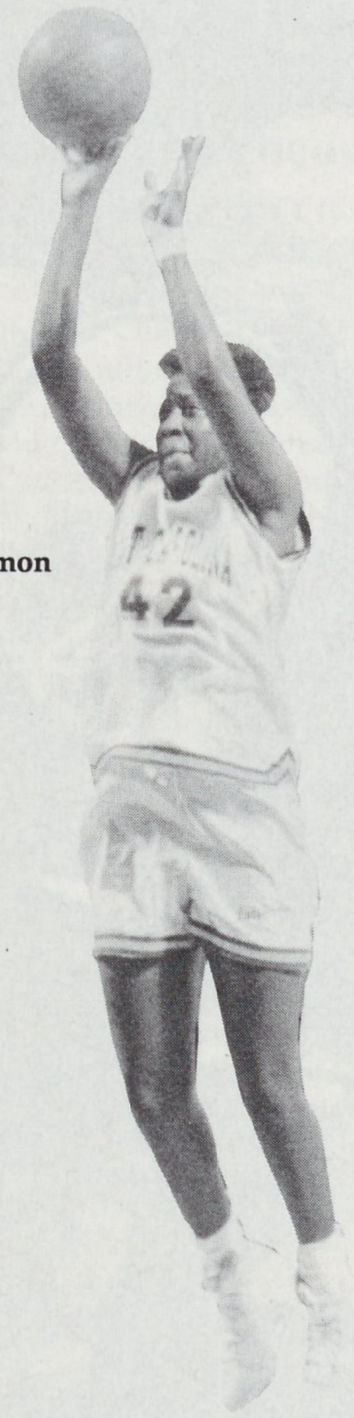
Three true-freshmen could interchange with Blackmon and Sutton in the starting forward positions.

Krystal Collins, a 6' forward from Dixon High School, could earn the starting nod with her outside shooting ability. Collins averaged 21.6 points a game as a senior playing center and will need to improve her ball handling skills for the forward spot.

Like Collins, 5'11'' freshman Shay Hayes from Pomfret, Md., shows offensive potential and could come into a starting role.

Tracey Kelley, a 6' freshman forward from Middletown, Md., will provide ECU depth at the strong forward despite lack of collegiate experience.

ECU's top post position remains a question in the pre-season. Senior Janet Rodgerson is a three-year letterman, however, she has only averaged 1.2 points and 1.8 rebounds during her career. As a junior, the 6'2'' Bear Grass native averaged six minutes and 2.4 points a game.



Tomekia Blackmon

Rodgerson will be challenged by the strength and international experience of the Sweden native, Michaela Wallerstrom. The 6'2'' freshman averaged 16.5 points a game last season and led her team to the World Cup playoffs in 1992.

With a roster of untested talent, the Lady Pirates have been picked seventh in the preseason CAA polls.

The conference race could be one of the strongest ever with two-time defending CAA champion Old Dominion returning an all-star cast including two-time CAA Player of the Year, Celeste Hill.

Along with a strong CAA schedule, ECU faces a strong non-conference slate in the '93-'94 season.

After opening the season with three road games, ECU travels to the UCF Holiday Classic with Division I powers Alabama, Kentucky and North Carolina. The Lady Pirates open their home schedule on Jan. 5 with Duke and also host North Carolina State in February.

Wired For Sight And Sound

ECU Develops Technology For Distance Learning

By George Threewitts
ECU News Bureau

Microwave links, fiber optics and satellites have produced dramatic change in the communications industry. As a result, television can show live events from anywhere in the world. Pictures and sound are vastly improved. Communication networks are flourishing. Conferences that once required long distance travel for participants have become teleconferences that can be attended without leaving town.

At East Carolina University, communication technology is also producing some profound changes—in health care, in the look of classrooms, and in the way professors teach.

Dr. J. Barry Du Vall of the ECU School of Industry and Technology is among a rapidly growing number of college professors supporting the use of video networks to teach classes. Du Vall is co-directing a joint teaching project between ECU and the School of Technology at North Carolina A&T University which will offer a shared master's degree program in Industrial Technology at the two campuses.

The project involves the use of a private statewide communications network called "CONCERT" (Communications for North Carolina Education, Research and Technology) to deliver courses to graduate students at each university. The network links more than 13 N.C. universities and research institutions through the use of private microwave links, fiber optics and satellite technologies.

"If the tests that are underway are successful, both institutions will teach courses to students at their own universities, while simultaneously teaching students at the other location," Du Vall said.

He said the project could expand the number and types of graduate courses available to students on each campus. It could also improve the level of interaction between the schools and their faculty.

"Many other joint ventures may be possible," he said. "This is only the beginning."

The first class conducted jointly between the two campuses originated from Greensboro. The second class was at ECU this summer. Students participated in the classes at the originating site and at video reception classrooms wired to microwave dishes and television monitors. Video classrooms used most frequently at ECU are in the Joyner Library and at the School of Medicine.

Teaching a class at one site and receiving instruction at another is not new. Educational television has used the idea for years.

Universities in Oklahoma, Washington, and Colorado began using audio and visual technologies to carry their classroom presentations to distant locations more than 20 years ago. Initially, these schools relied on mailing video tapes to adult students who couldn't attend classes on campus.

In recent years the schools have developed interactive video to carry their classes to adults living in outlying places. It is this interactive function—the capability for a teacher at one classroom site to interact with students at another site—that has brought renewed interest to video teaching.

The technologies have created a new field of study called "distance learning." Much of the future of colleges and universities will depend on distance learning, according to Du Vall.

For example, he said ECU is now exploring the possibilities of offering a master's degree program over an interactive network at a number of manufacturing facilities operated by Black and Decker.

"As more and more universities become involved in distance learning, students will select programs which serve their needs and are more accessible," Du Vall said.

"Universities will have to become aggressively involved in new approaches, or they will become extinct."

The CONCERT network has been under development since 1985. It is funded by the state and is managed by the Center for Communications at the Research Triangle Park.

In a related development, ECU unveiled last spring its new NILEC (Network for Interactive Learning of Eastern North Carolina) system. The system is under development at the ECU School of Medicine and is a joint project between ECU and Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

NILEC is being tested for video and data applications related to education, health care and other purposes. Since testing began in January, the network has carried courses in nursing, teacher education and radiological technology to students in Ahoskie and Jacksonville. In addition, doctors in Greenville have examined patients at distant sites using an electronic stethoscope and other diagnostic tools.

David Balch of the ECU Center for Health Sciences Communication described the network as "the leading edge of a wave of advances in communications technologies being used to build a national network of electronic information 'highways'."

The result of these networks and the arrival of electronic communication systems, according to Du Vall, would also serve another important purpose. They would eliminate the time and expense of travel and thereby save money for the university.

"Instead of an instructor traveling for hours to teach a class at some distant location, communication technology permits images and sounds to be instantly transmitted and received," he said.

The technology, according to Du Vall, offers numerous possibilities for both teaching and community service. He said he expects ECU's Schools of Medicine, Education and Industry and Technology to be at the forefront in the development of distance learning for years to come.

Pirate Pro-Am Benefits ECU Golf Team: Six-Time CAA Champions

By Warren Sumner, SID Student Assistant

On October 4, the East Carolina University golf program will hold its annual ECU Pirate Pro-Am Golf Classic at Greenville's Brook Valley Country Club. The tournament, a primary fundraiser for the Pirate golf team, will feature a bit of everything for the golf enthusiast, as the event will feature national and local professionals teaming with amateur players.

While the tournament will include appearances by some fiercely competitive national players, according to ECU golf coach Hal Morrison, the primary focus of the event will be having a good time.

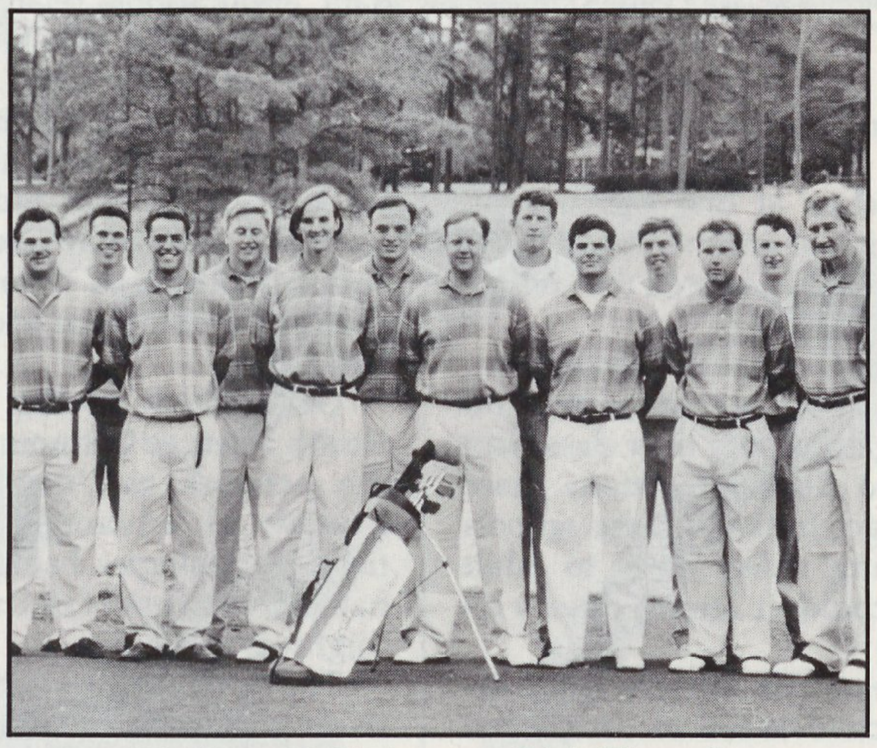
"The professional can win money and the amateur can win some merchandise," Morrison said. "But the main reason we're out here is to have fun and try to raise some money for the program."

Morrison said that this year's event will host the play of circuit professionals Bobby Wadkins and Neil Lancaster, as well as a horde of local pros and celebrities. Morrison said that the tourneys held in years past have been a tremendous help to his golf program, and the money raised has helped him recruit quality players to East Carolina.

Morrison's suggestion is definitely supported by his record at East Carolina as just a short year after the coach debuted, his Pirate golf teams have captured the CAA Golf Championship title in 1987, 1988, 1990, 1991, 1992 and 1993. Prior to Morrison's 1986 arrival, the ECU golf program had been unable to win a conference title.

Morrison said that the stricter emphasis put on recruiting coupled with the necessity of college experience for aspiring professionals has helped him attract the kind of players necessary for a successful program.

"Sometimes it's hard to compete against Carolina and Wake Forest, who all have long traditions. Of course the good ones, every school is after, but we've put a lot more emphasis on working hard at recruiting," Morrison said. "That and the changing of the demands for professional play has helped us. College golf has become the feeding grounds of professional golf. It's like football, you can't go directly to the pros as easily anymore ... it's almost to the point if a kid hopes to play professionally, he almost has to play in college competition."



1993 Pirate Golf Team — CAA Champions

Morrison said he is impressed by what he has seen out of the team during practice and looks for a lot to come out of this team. When talking about the upcoming season, Morrison lists veterans Dave Coates, Josh Dickenson and Trey Jarvis as faces to watch on the Pirate squad, as well as freshman Rob Anderson.

In the Pirate's first fall tournament, ECU finished ninth at the Kiawah Island Intercollegiate. The Pirates' next tournament will be Oct. 29 at the Sea Scape Intercollegiate in Kitty Hawk, N.C.

Pirate Athletic Updates

ECU Volleyball In Two Week Home Stretch

East Carolina's volleyball team looks to improve on its season record as it spends two weeks at home in Minges Coliseum. Following the Loyola of Maryland tournament Sept. 24-25 where ECU picked up its third win of the season, ECU hosted UNC Wilmington on Sept. 28 and Mt. Olive last night. The Lady Pirates are at home on Tuesday, hosting North Carolina A&T and next weekend (Oct. 8-9), ECU will host the Holiday Inn / Golden Corral Lady Pirate Invitational featuring ECU, Campbell, Loyola, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga and the College of Charleston.

Soccer In CAA Action Today

ECU's soccer team travels to William & Mary today, taking on the 10th ranked Tribe. Last week, ECU fell to Richmond, 6-1 and played at Wake Forest on Wednesday. The Pirates have two home matches remaining in the 1993 season as they host Methodist on Oct. 14 & Elon on Oct. 18.

ECU Cross Country Having Successful Season

The Pirate Cross Country teams look to continue the early success of the season as it travels to the Methodist College Invitational today. For the women's team, freshmen Dava and Tara Rhodes have each had top-ten finishes in ECU's first four meets. Last weekend, ECU's women's team took second place of 12 teams at the Greensboro Invitational. The Lady Pirates were just four points behind first place Georgia. The men's team finished high, taking fifth place.

ECU Golfers Finished Tied For Ninth in First Fall Tournament

The Pirate golf team tied for ninth with Florida State at the Kiawah Island Intercollegiate tournament on Sept. 20-21 in its first tournament of the fall. Seventeen teams from across the South participated in the two-day 54-hole event. ECU shot a three-round total of 873 while Houston won the tournament, shooting 854. ECU's top performer was Trey Jervis who finished tied for 19th with a score of 217. The Pirates have one tournament remaining on the fall schedule - Oct. 29-30 at the ODU Sea Scape Collegiate in Kitty Hawk, N.C.

UPCOMING ECU ATHLETIC EVENTS

October 4th

The Brook Valley/Pirate Pro-Am Golf Classic, sponsored by Taco Bell, Pepsi and Classy 98.3 and 103.3, is scheduled for Oct. 4 at the Brook Valley Country Club in Greenville. A fundraiser for the seven-time CAA Champion ECU golf team, the event is sanctioned by the Carolina section of the PGA and will provide two flights. For entry forms and information, call Athletic Special Events at 757-4514.

November 20

Sign up for the Second Annual Pirate Chase and get the opportunity to have a great time, compete for great prizes and help the ECU women's track team. The race, to be held Nov. 20 adjacent to Ficklen Stadium, will start at 11 a.m. and end with a post-race party that includes listening to the ECU vs. Cincinnati football game. The race results, which include ECU Faculty / staff, student and Alumni divisions, will be announced during the football broadcast. For the second year, proceeds from the races will benefit the ECU women's track team. For registration information, the ECU women's track office at (919) 757-4611.

Tilghman Plays Role of Pirate Miracle Man

By Warren Sumner

Miracles don't happen very often. They are the rarest occurrences and give birth to both disbelief and celebration. Miracles are the stuff that legends are made of, passed down through years of tall tales and nursery rhymes. Miracles can't be controlled or predicted, they are just accepted with grace.

That is what the Pirate football program did over this summer, when they witnessed the extraordinary recovery of senior offensive tackle Terry Tilghman. Tilghman fell, during the second week of spring drills, to a debilitating knee injury that doctors thought would sideline him for this season. Defying all odds, Tilghman worked through excruciating pain and the doubts of medical personnel to return to the playing field after only four months of rehabilitation. After the eight-month to a year absence predicted by team doctors, ECU head coach Steve Logan called the recovery "nothing short of a miracle."

But what is even more miraculous about Tilghman's recovery is that it has happened before.

During his senior year in high school, Tilghman suffered a similar injury previous to his taking trips to colleges. Doubters told him that he would never receive a scholarship to enter a Division I college program, but Tilghman, through hard work similar to that done this summer, rehabilitated his knee and received a scholarship admission to East Carolina.

Tilghman said that when people tell him he is unable to do something, it serves as great motivation for him to prove them wrong.

"People told me 'You can't do it,' you can't come back to play with your knee injury," Tilghman said. "So I told them I was going to do it just because they said I couldn't."

Tilghman, when discussing the pain he felt during his rehabilitation, speaks nonchalantly as if to say, 'hey, no big deal.' The Mesquite, Tx. native said that his high threshold for pain served him well during his recovery.

"It was very painful," Tilghman said. "But I think of myself as having a very high tolerance for pain. If something hurts it doesn't bother me, and if it is excruciating then it just kinda bothers me. It was just getting back on the leg press machine and actually forcing my leg to bend in the spot it didn't want to, and every time you bend it, feeling that tearing sensation and the pain going up your leg ... and then running and jumping and the pain associated with it, but hey, it wasn't a big deal to me, I didn't care."

Anyone who spends time with Terry Tilghman can immediately tell that there is plenty that separates him from most other football players. Perhaps partly because he has already married and has a two-year-old son, Terry Jr. (affectionately known as "T2"), Tilghman has something in his eyes that sets him apart. It is easy to discover, when speaking with him, that he possesses a settled maturity found only in those who distinguish themselves as leaders. And on a Pirate football team rocked by injury and inexperience, that leadership will prove invaluable.

To watch Tilghman play and compare it to having a conversation with him provides insight into the "Jeckyl and Hyde" personality held by some football players. On the field, Tilghman is all aggressive while off of it, gentle and unintimidating. Tilghman merely accepts the change as part of what he does.

"People describe it as a switch," he said. "When you come out of a locker room and you hear the fans screaming and the band cranking up, you know it's time to go, it's time to play. But while you're out there your mental processes revert to practice, with all the situations that come up. Coach Jags (Jagodzinski) and the other offensive linemen have called me the 'Dirtbag' ... 'cause if I come into a situation where I can hit a guy or block his legs, I will block his legs because that is a more effective block ... that's just more aggressive. The Terry Tilghman you see talking to you is a lot different than the one you see on the field, because he's more aggressive, more direct and a lot more intense."

Editor's Note: Tilghman injured his left shoulder against Washington and is doubtful for today's game. Further evaluations of his injury are pending.
