TYPE AND PRESS.

WHO WANTS IT?

SPEAK QUICK.

THE REFLECTOR recently purchased two printing office outfits and has a quantity of surplus material that will be sold cheap. There is a cylinder press large enough to print a nine column paper, in splendid condition, and a quantity of Small Pica, Long Primer, Brevier and Nonpariel body type. We can furnish a complete outfit large enough for a six or seven column paper.

Specimens of the body type are shown in this advertisement, the type being taken from the case just as it runs, so it shows for itself how well it prints. This is the Small Pica size of which there is 1 pair of cases.

Then here is a paragraph set from the Long Primer size. We have 4 pairs of these cases. In buying this type you do not get something that is worn out and cast aside, but a good serviceable type capable of much wear.

Here is something a little smaller, Brevier size. There are 2 pairs of these and it is a large and handsome size of type for job printing. It is as much or more job work in a medium than an opportunity is given for buying type as long as we have this Brevier.

Accompanying 1 pair of cases of the Nonpariel size, very useful type in any printing office. We have 2 pairs of these cases of this size. Any printer who can use any of all of these cases of type, at any time, will find it to his profit to order from us, for a whole outfit, or any more in number, as he may find it advisable to add to his present outfit.

We can furnish a complete outfit in type, rules, leads and slides, for a small office, at a very low figure.

Of Interest to Inventors.

C. A. SNOW & CO., one of the oldest and most successful firms of patent lawyers, whose offices are opposite the United States Patent office in Washington, D. C., and who have procured patents for more than 17,000 inventors, say that, owing to the improved conditions in the United States Patent Office, patents may now be more promptly procured than at any previous time in their experience of twenty five years.

A Farmer Up-to-date.

Mr. W. L. Sanders, who lives near here, is an all round up-to-date farmer, and at present, has one of the best crops in Nash county. He informed us Tuesday that he had finished picking out his old crop of cotton on June 5th, and that on June 6th he finished chopping out his new crop, and on the 11th he finished ginning the old crop.—Spring Hope Messenger.

The most novel branch of the city government of Manchester, England, is a corps of housecleaners, who can be employed by the occupants of stores, dathouses, office rooms and residences to overhaul and clean their establishments as often as desired. A Manchester woman who desires her house cleaned can telephone to police headquarters, and a gang of scrubbers, sweepers, window washers, etc., will be sent at once to take up the carpets and relay them and do her spring housecleaning in short order and first-class style while she goes to London or visits friends in the country.

Here's The Difference.

The Wilmington Messenger tells of a young girl at Burgaw who placed a note in a basket of berries requesting the purchaser to inform her of the price paid for the same. A reply was duly received stating that 35 cents a basket was paid for the fruit. Commission house returns showed that the grower received only 8 cents per quart.

An enterprising London publisher announced his intention of printing a compilation of Ambassador Choate's witticisms and anecdotes, under the title of "Choate's Jest Book," but the American diplomat expostulated so energetically that the bookman abandoned the scheme. Doubtless in the opinion of the Ambassador the publication of his merry sayings would have been a practical instance of carrying a joke too far.

Rheumacide is a thorough, permanent, constitutional cure for rheumatism. The acids in the blood which cause the disease are thoroughly eradicated. Is also the best blood purifier, laxative and tonic.

The bean king of Ventura county, Cal., looms up larger every year. His name is Dixie Thompson. He raised and harvested last year 1,300 carloads of beans. He says the bean is the true American crop that is to take the place of corn. It makes bigger returns, is surer, more hardy, more nutritious and less perishable. It will feed man and beast and is not easily destroyed by drought or insects. Mr. Thompson thinks that if California will only take kindly to the bean she will in time drive all famine from the face of the earth.

SUGAR OF MILK.

A Special Large Industry Controlled by Swiss Cities.

Of the great variety of drugs and chemicals which play so important part in the industrial life of the civilized world, little is known by the general public. The importation into the United States of bichromate of potash, chlorate, dioxin, gums, opium and balsams amounts to a good part of the duties paid up in value annually to nearly $50,000,000, while the exports of similar products from this country have never reached a total of about $10,000,000. Many of the hundreds of different names on the list with which the importer and wholesale drug dealer are familiar there are many which are almost perfect strangers to the lay mind. Along with such household staples as castor oil, epsom salts, and other well known drugs will be found cantharides, corrosive sublimate, crystallose, hyoscyamus, sodium, catch, barbin, chloke and others of equally substantial character.

In this latter class might almost be mentioned sugar of milk, which occupies one of the most important positions in the drug transactions of the present day. The title of this drug would imply common knowledge, though, as a matter of fact, few understand its importance. Time was when every ounce of this drug was imported from Europe. Today, thanks to American enterprise, it is manufactured in the United States on such an extensive scale that not only is the enormous domestic demand supplied by the homemade product, but large quantities are annually exported. When it was imported, the wholesale price was 50 cents a pound. Now it has declined 75 cents.

History says that sugar of milk was first prepared in 1619, although not introduced into medicine until 1698. It is used almost entirely by pill manufacturers on account of its neutral, filling properties. It is absolutely odorless and within a slightly sweet taste. As a vehicle for all manner of pulverized medicines it is perfect. Acids and drugs of all kinds with which it may be mixed do not have any effect upon it nor it upon them, and in the human stomach it is most easily disposed of.

It is manufactured from the whey of cow's milk, and is really a byproduct of milk. The process is one of evaporation and recrystallization. Switzerland once had a monopoly of its manufacture. Now Illinois leads the world, with a large factory has been started in New York state, which gives promise of producing as much as its western predecessor. Such has been the success of the American industry that the product is shipped even to Switzerland, where it is able to compete satisfactorily with the European makers.

In crystal form it resembles rock candy, being white in color. The growing demand for it has been caused by the development of patent medicines in pill and tablet form, where bulk is desired. It is said to be exported in the form of powdered sugar for the reason that low freight rates are thus secured. Otherwise as a drug the cost of ocean transportation would be largely increased.—New York Tribune.

An Unprogressive Settlement.

"Bill writes home," said the old citizen, "that he's only been in New York six weeks, an he's had appendicitis twice. An you most live a lifetime in this here durned ole settlement an bout all you could hope to have would be plain mumps or measles or slow fever."—Atlanta Constitution.

Encourage the Farm Boy.

This writer was reared on the farm and he knows what a farmer's life is. Especially does he appreciate the lot of the farmer's boy and sympathize with him in his life and labors. His environments are not always what they should be, often not what they might be, with little effort and expenditure.

There are hardships not a few and struggles necessarily in a life on the farm, and so the boy's lot should be made as easy as possible and he should be encouraged and rewarded beyond what is usually his portion. Teach him to love the farm rather than to despise it, learn him to know there is no vocation or profession more honorable and independent than that of the intelligent, successful farmer.

There are many ways in which this may be done—ways that readily suggest themselves to the thoughtful considerate parent. Along this line we commend the following from the Elizabeth City Fisherman and Farmer as worthy of acting upon:

The boy on the farm is not always to be envied. He is often obliged to work early and late, do the work of any other hand, and not receive any recompense whatever. This is plainly not right, and it is not surprising that so many leave the farm at the first opportunity in spite of father's or mother's entreaties.

The boy who is old enough to do more than the chores, is old enough to receive some remuneration in a money sense; is old enough to be allowed some independence of thought and action, and should have a chance.

If you conscientiously feel that you cannot pay him in money, give him an opportunity to earn something some other way.

Let him have a small plot or ground to work for himself outside of the work he does for you, or let him raise poultry, and not only let him do these things but encourage him to earn a little money, which will be his own, which will tend to show him the value of money, and will raise in him ambitions and love of work.

Encourage him and help him all you can. Do not grind him down to a mere existence of servitude. Remember that he has his rights, even if he is your son, you owe him a good chance even if you don't feel inclined to pay him. It is a debt which you owe him as a parent, and for which there will be an accounting.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

NO RIGHT TO UGLINESS.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blothes, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good-looking, charming, woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at Jno. L. Wooten's Drug store.

The address of President Ragsdale was one of the finest addresses of its kind delivered in the history of the Assembly. It was full of healthy optimism, pointing out sixteen reasons for encouragement to those interested in the progress of education. It was delivered with fine effect and produced a marked impression. At its conclusion, Prof. Ragsdale was the recipient of warm congratulations from all sources. Nothing marred its excellence in matter or in delivery.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Cancer The Only Increasing Disease.

While medical scientists the world over have been following the debates of the Tuberculosis Congress at Berlin, a new society of notable import has been formed in Great Britain for the study and prevention of the disease of cancer. The increase of the mortality from carcinoma is so alarming that it is predicted that, unless something shall be done to check the disease, there will be more deaths from cancer in 1900 than from consumption, smallpox and typhoid fever combined. In Great Britain the ratio of mortality from cancer has risen from 385 to 787 deaths per million. In New York its death-rate has also doubled during the past decade. One expert declares in The Medical News that "there is every reason to infer that this increase will undoubtedly continue until its minute causes are positively determined." And he adds that "so far as we know we have to learn, cancer is now the only disease which is steadily upon the increase. This increase in cancer mortality is certainly not due to improvements in methods of diagnosis, but rather the reverse is the case, since many cases which were formerly diagnosed as cancer are now properly classified where they belong in other lists."

That cancer is the only disease which shows a progressive and steady increase by months and by years is a powerful argument in favor of extra endeavor on the part of the medical specialists to investigate its mysterious causes.—Philadelphia Record.

Hits the Nail Square.

Under the caption "standing together" the Charlottesville Progress hits the nail on the head when it says buying away from home "cripples the home merchant and prevents him from becoming a larger consumer of the labor and produce in which you are either directly or indirectly interested. It withdraws from local circulation money needed to pay the local mechanic or professional man and which would probably find its way back into your own pockets. It is a home dollar and multiplies itself by near by circulation, in which you are most interested."

It also states the truth when it says as to buying at home comes the importance of patronizing those merchants who advertise in the local papers. There are merchants who do not feel sufficient interest in the success of the home paper to advertise in it, and who, directly or indirectly, encourage the foreign newspaper and then wonders why so many people patronize foreign business concerns. When a merchant advertises he thereby dicates a desire for your trade, and shows his willingness to seek and hold it, and when he does not advertise a great many buyers think he is not particular about telling what he has for sale or going to much trouble for his customers.

The Opportunity of the Southern Newspaper.

Not long ago, says The Columbia State, a newspaper correspondent sent out from Greenville a dispatch to The Atlanta Constitution telling of the success and prosperity of the cotton mills around that town. The figures were attractively presented and the article was well written. That dispatch has been reprinted and commented upon far and wide by all kinds of papers as an evidence of the condition of cotton manufacturing in the South and as an omen for future development. There is no telling what may be the results of that advertisement.

This recalls a similar incident. About six weeks ago, a paragraph was sent to The Manufacturers' Record, of Baltimore, from Charlotte, telling what Charlotte's condition was in 1880, and showing what has since been accomplished in the growth and prosperity of the city by the building of factories, and this single paragraph has given Charlotte more advertising than it had received from any other source. It was copied in all the leading papers of the country, and in many of them it was made the subject of editorial comment. Even yet the article turns up in an occasional exchange.

The Observer is in full accord with The State when it says that correspondents can learn something from these incidents, and so can editors. The State expresses the correct idea when it says that instead of devoting so much space and energy to accounts of crimes and descriptions of criminals, why not write up the resources, advantages and developments of your town, county or section? There can be no excuse for suppressing the truth about crimes which are deplorably frequent, but there is such a thing as overdoing the matter. The publication of the details of lynchings and murders does not seem to have a deterrent effect, though it may sometimes aids the ends of justice. But there is one thing certain—a great deal of good is accomplished by the presentation of the agricultural and industrial advantages of our section and the consequent encouragement of investment.—Charlotte Observer.

Anti-Trust Laws of Texas.

Following is an epitome of the anti-trust laws of Texas, just enacted:

Every combination of capital or its equivalent for the restraint of trade, whether organized under the laws of Texas or any other State, doing business within the State, is deemed a trust or monopoly.

The giving away of any article or selling it for less than cost for the purpose of preventing free competition in manufacture or distribution is prohibited.

Refusal to buy or sell to any person because he is not a member of the combination is prohibited.

Violators of the act are subject to a loss of their charters or prohibited from doing business within the State and are subject to a fine of $200 to $5,000 for each offense. Each day's business is a separate offense.

Prosecutors are given one fourth of the penalties. All court business may be set aside for the trial of a case under the act.

Purchasers of articles manufactured by violators of the law cannot be obliged to pay for them.

A hall has been erected in Cincinnati with a seating capacity of 14,530, and a stage for a chorus of 4,000, for the celebration of the golden jubilee of the North American Sengerbund, which begins June 28.

Woman.

Whether sister, friend, sweetheart, wife or mother, a woman is the noblest work of God. If she be high minded and pure-hearted, she stands near the sun. When, from any cause she falls, the descent is so swift, the distance so great, that restoration is well nigh impossible. Every man deserves to look upon his sister as a queen of all the virtue, his sweetheart as a paragon of purity, upon his wife as a spotless priestess of love, and upon his mother as an angel. They are what he lives for, and for them he would brave all dangers and glory, also. They are the pride of life, their smiles illuminate his rugged thorny stream path from the cradle to the grave. Their is the balm of Gilead to his bruised and bleeding heart when others forsake, disappointments are sore, and the world is dark. Cheered by a sister's affection, sustained by a wife's devotion, and upheld by a mother's deathless love, it is strange a man should fall by the wayside a victim of lust and lust. Knowing, and loving his own so well, it is almost incredible that he could turn to the hell of ruin the sister, daughter, wife or mother of other men. The fall of womanhood is a sad and awful commentary upon the depravity of man. Did all men but keep the golden rule, there would not be a wrecked home, a blasted life, a broken heart, or fallen woman in the wide world.—Durham Sun.

Strange Things Happen.

During the Confederate reunion at Charleston Miss Janie Meares, daughter of Captain Thomas D. Meares, of our city, visited the South Carolina city, and there lost a handsome and valuable pearl brooch, with a diamond setting. There were from 30,000 to 40,000 visitors in Charleston at that time, and as a matter of course Miss Meares never expected to hear of her brooch again. The old adage of "the unexpected always happens," comes up here, however, for, strange to relate, the young lady yesterday received her lost jewel.

Its recovery was brought about in a most singular manner. A young lady of Charleston is now visiting Wilmington, and Miss Meares mentioned to her that she had lost her brooch when she visited Charleston. The Charleston young lady said that a friend of hers picked up a jewel of the description, and it turned out that it was the one lost by Miss Meares. The jewel was returned to her, and she is happy over its recovery. It was picked up on the streets, and was lost while Miss Meares was getting on or off a street car.—Wilmington Messenger.

How it Was in New York.

The New York Mail and Express raises a howl because a movement is on foot in Georgia to substitute white for negro labor. The esteemed should read the story told by Gen. J. S. Carr, of the negro man who approached him in New York city soliciting alms because of inability to get work sufficient to keep himself from starving, and all because he was a negro.—Asheville Citizen.

An Austrian inventor has devised a scheme for making artificial cotton out of the shavings of the fir tree. The fibre of the wood is subjected to chemical treatment which makes it pliable enough to be spun into thread and woven. The inventor says he can make it very cheap, while the abundance of fir trees in that country will furnish an inexhaustible supply of material. But we will continue to grow cotton in the South all the same.

The Best Sort of Advertising.

It is true that all the many methods of advertising now in vogue have some value. The use of posters, circulars and cards is not entirely unproductive of expected results; but for prompt, direct and profitable returns newspaper advertising is pre-eminently above all other mediums at the command of the busy and wide-awake tradesman. There are two features of a newspaper by which the advertiser may estimate the value of its advertising space—its circulation and its prestige. A newspaper which is extensively circulated and which exercises an influence upon its readers must, therefore, be the most desirable agency through which a merchant may exploit his wares.—Philadelphia Record.

Sharp Negro.

A colored man named, Joe Brown who lives near Warrenton, has been playing quite a smart trick on Mr. W. N. Ellis, the shuttle block saw mill man. He sold a small load of wood to Mr. Ellis recently every day, so Mr. Ellis suspected something wrong and set a watch Friday night in his yard, which has a good deal of timber on it. He was caught in his trick of getting wood from the yard at night and then driving back in the morning and selling to Mr. Ellis the wood he had stolen. He is now in jail awaiting the criminal court.—Warrenton Record.

Better Known Than You Think.

In studying the map of the United States the other day we discovered a fact which was unknown to us and we venture to say, had never been thought of by many geographical students. The discovery is, that it is farther from the eastern limit of North Carolina to the western limit, than it is from the northern limit of North Carolina to the Dominion of Canada. If you don't believe this statement take your map and rule and go to measuring.—Burlington News.

The lynching of the negro Lewis Patrick by a mob in Carteret county, one night last week, adds another disgraceful blot upon the history of our State. From what can be learned of the lynching there were only a few people connected with it, and the bulk of the citizens of that county condemn the affair as severely as do the people of the State generally. The perpetrators of this lynching are equally as guilty of murder as was the man who took the life of the merchant Weeks. Patrick seems to have been implicated in that crime, and the mob that took his life have not only steeped their hands as deep in crime but have also intercepted the law in taking its course in dealing with a criminal and prevented justice being done. Doubtless there were others beside Patrick connected with the murder of Weeks which would have developed in a full investigation before court, but this hasty action of the mob blots out the possibility of bringing them to justice. The lynching is greatly deplored.

When the Morganton bank collapsed the State had $6,000 deposited there for the use of the asylum at Morganton. Now an argument is on between the State Treasurer and the trustees of the asylum as to whether the State or the asylum should lose the money.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., June 19, '99

At last, War Department officials admit the truth as to the situation in the Philippines; that more fighting and lots of it is ahead of our troops; that the alleged Peace Commissioners of Aguinaldo, who were feted and entertained in Manila by our Civil Commissioners, pulled the wool over our men's eyes and not only got the time they wished to prepare for more fighting, but gathered valuable information as to the number and condition of American soldiers, which they have been able to put to good use in the aggressive fighting of Aguinaldo, during the past week. There is no more talk of volunteer surrender on the part of Aguinaldo. It is now admitted that he has got to be whipped into submission, and that it will not be an easy job, by any means, unless a much larger army is sent than the thirty-five thousand now being provided for is placed under the command of Gen. Otis.

There is a rumor afloat that Mr. John R. McLean, of Ohio, who at so has a home in Washington, intends to establish a daily paper at the National Capital, which will support Col. Bryan for President and advocate free silver; also that Mr. McLean would like to run on the ticket with Col. Bryan.

It is not surprising that the administration should have quietly overlooked the break made by Prof. Haupt, a member of the present and of the last Canal Commission, in confirming the general impression that influences strong enough to thwart the almost unanimous wish of the people of this country, had been successfully used to prevent the building of the Nicaragua canal, and even to prevent the publishing of the report made by the last Commission, which is said to contain a scathing exposure of some of those influences. The subject is now a full vs political decisive of the number of men knocked out of places by recently forged trusts, and read a list showing the absurdity of the claim that the general tendency of trusts was to lower prices. This list, which was obtained from drummers recently in the trades named, showed the following increases in price directly traceable to trust control; Iron Pipe, 100 per cent, Tin and Enameled Ware, 33 per cent, Brass Goods 50 per cent, Chairs 50 per cent, Rubber 11 per cent, Tin Plate 30 per cent, News Paper 10 cent a pound, Book paper 5 to 10 per cent, Common Soap 25 to 50 cents a box, Flint Glass Bottles 10 per cent, Clocks 60 per cent, Metal Goods 25 per cent, Brushes 12½ per cent, Combs 7½ per cent and Ribbons 10 per cent. In the few cases in which trusts have reduced prices, it has been done, not to benefit the consumer, but to drive out competition.

Opportunity not Lacking.

Merchants in small towns are constantly complaining of a lack of opportunity, says Profitable Advertising. Yet it is just such localities that the greatest opportunities in the world to make hits are found. Take a town of 5,000 inhabitants, where a little daily newspaper regularly serves the population with the latest news, and then suppose some enterprising grocer, dry goods dealer, clothier or other business man should suddenly commence to advertise in metropolitan style—why, it would create a mild sensation. His store would be visited by hundreds who never before had patronized him.—Press and Printer.

State Guard Squabble.

No bitter have become the quarrels between the old and new companies at some places that it is now beginning to look as if the entire State Guard will be disbanded and reorganized. The feeling at Waynesville, Asheville, Raleigh and Charlotte is very strong. One day this week the Adjutant General received no less than ten letters from Waynesville taking sides in the controversy and advising that one or the other of the companies be ignored and the other recognized. All hope of adjusting these differences has been abandoned.

Some course of action in the matter will be decided upon by the Adjutant General this week.—News and Observer.

The conscious uses of power comes from conquering obstacles. Hindrances are after all, our opportunities. God must regard our struggle. And that he has a purpose in it all we are forced to believe from the way he treats us and gives us all, at some time, a battle to fight.—Roderick Stebbins.

If any one should take this brooding over himself for self-knowledge, he would be very much mistaken. He is simply making discouragements for himself by looking for them, and so conjuring them up. Self knowledge is not to be found in our own darkness, but in God's light.—Ullathorne.

If at the last judgment God should avenge me of being too stern and pitiless, I should have nothing to answer Him; but it He should charge me with too great leniency and pity, I can always say, "I have learnt mercy of Him whose mercies are infinite."—Bernard of Asti.

A brother of Ensign Worth Bagley failed to pass the examination for admission to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The Benbow House at Greensboro was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon. The loss was about $100,000 without a cent insurance. The Benbow was one of the best hotels in the State. It will be rebuilt at once.

J. P. Marshall, of Asheville, thought to take a dose of paregoric, but through mistake took carbolic acid instead. He instantly discovered his mistake and tried to reach a physician, but fell on the way and died in a few minutes.

The Observer says that since January first 2,500 carloads of lumber were received in Charlotte, and in the meantime work had to temporarily suspend for lack of material on 100 buildings that were going up. This looks like Charlotte is doing some growing.

About 2 o'clock on Monday morning a freight train of the Southern Railway stopped at the station at Newton to get water and discovered the depot on fire. The fire had gained such headway that it could not be checked, and the depot with all contents was soon destroyed.

On Friday the Teachers' Assembly at Morehead elected the following officers for the next year; President, D. Matt Thompson, of Statesville; first Vice President, J. Allen Holt, of Oak Ridge; other Vice Presidents, F. P. Hobgood, G. H. Joyner, Miss Mary Arring ton, T. P. Harrison, J. R. Bridgers, J. C. Horner, W. D. Weeks, J. B. Carlyle.

The Jewish Pupils Always Go Head.

A phase of the Semitic question now under discussion by our correspondents appears in the list of the 833 pupils of the public schools who passed successfully the examination for admission to the young men's Free College of this city. The great majority of the names are Jewish, and very much the same result appears in the examinations of girls for admission to the Normal College.

The Jewish children generally are the best pupils in the public schools. Even where they have come here with a foreign speech from the most wretched social condition they learn English speedily in order to get advantages of the free schools, and, once there, it is not long before they are among the brightest of the pupils, and their diligence is great. Accordingly when candidates go out from the grammar schools, seeking admission to the free colleges, Jewish pupils are now always in the majority. In Columbia College, also the Jewish students form a large part of the whole number.

The race is determined to get ahead and it spares no effort, no sacrifice, to accomplish its purpose. —New York Sun.

The almighty dollar resembles some men; it talks without saying anything.—Atlanta Constitution.

It has perhaps escaped the notice of the general public that in a recent interview with President McKinley, Senator Stewart, of Nevada, who is said to have had close communication with the best sources of information in the Philippines, declared that he was satisfied that General Otis, in the Philippines, had been as brutal as Weyler in Cuba. This is the most terrible arraignment of the conduct of the war that has proceeded from any source, Democratic or Republican. We have access to no information that would warrant an endorsement of so grave a charge, but it is certain that General Otis' conduct of the war has been a national disappointment. To whatever cause this may be due, the fact exists.—Charlotte Observer.

The latest idea in the interest of public health is the disinfection of telephones. From microscopic examinations of transmitters and receivers in Boston it has been found that infectious diseases, particularly tuberculosis and diphtheria can be communicated to those who use the instruments and it is recommended that some kind of a disinfectant be used to wash the telephones occasionally. In New York an effort is being made to have the cleansing and disinfection of telephones made obligatory.

We see from the Washington Post, that Mr. Surry Parker, of Pinetown, N. C., and Miss Mary Shepherd Odom, a member of the faculty, of Suffolk College, Suffolk, Va., were quietly married at 4 o'clock P. M., June 14, 1899. Mr. Parker is engaged in the lumber industry and is well and favorably known all over Eastern Carolina.

Mathew Pratt and Joseph Rains, two farmers near Pulaski, Va., quarrelled over a sheep. Both had pistols, both used their weapons, and both are dead.

The University.

The growth and expansion of the University should be a matter of pride to every North Carolinian. In efficiency, patronage and public favor it is now second to none in the South. Its requirements are exact, its standard rigid, its tone of life high and manly. Its academic roll is the largest in the South, and in all its history it has never been so close to the people, Four sometime we have noticed that the Washington papers reach here very irregularly, coming two or three at once and often not getting here at all. On Monday evening we received six copies of the Washington Messenger at one time, all of them different dates and every one of them plainly addressed.

Slander Case.

Tuesday afternoon Justice of the Peace W. H. Long had a slander case to hear, the parties to the trial all being white. Mrs. Ed. Notice—Confederate Veterans.

The Confederate Veteran Association, of Washington, N. C., will have a reunion on June 29, next, at 12 M. in the town of Washington, N. C. The object being the reception of the regimental flag of the 10th N. C. Regiment lost at the battle of Bentonsville, March 20, 1865. The flag was captured by G. H. Swayze, of Michigan, and he will in person return the flag to us at that time. All Veterans, especially those belonging to the 10th N. C. Regiment, are earnestly requested to be present on that occasion.

MAYOR'S COURT.

Busy Session This Morning.

Mayor Ola Forbes had quite a busy term of his court Tuesday morning with several cases to dispose of.

Bill Hanrahan and John Daniel were up charged with a disturbance. Daniel appeared not guilty and was promptly dismissed. Hanrahan did not get off so lightly, his mouth getting him into trouble. He used too much profane language at the Mayor and was given a fine of $25 and a sentence of 30 days in jail for contempt. He has been committed and given time to meditate upon his conduct.

W. G. Morse, a traveling salesman, was arraigned for cursing and kicking one of the hack drivers. It seems that the driver, not knowing the drummer's name, had addressed him as "Cap'n" in asking for his fare. The drummer took offense at this. The Mayor gave him an opportunity of contributing $7.25 for the use of the town.

Bart Thomas, for using profane language on the streets, was assessed $5 and costs as a warning not to do so any more.

Jim Barbanks was up for fight ing, and as his manner before the court was very insolent he was given a fine of $25 and 30 days in prison.

Will Randolph and Rhoda Cotten were up for an affray. Will had used a beer bottle on Rhoda's head, and the woman retaliated by jabbing him in the eye with a knife. Both were bound over to Superior court.

J. L. Starkey & Bro. were called for selling after midnight Saturday night, but there was nothing against them and the case was promptly dismissed.

S. J. Nobles, barber, was up for being at work in his shop after midnight Saturday night and was fined a penny and costs.

Six in a Lump.

There must be something very slack about the mail service between Washington and Greenville. Four sometime we have noticed that the Washington papers reach here very irregularly, coming two or three at once and often not getting here at all. On Monday evening we received six copies of the Washington Messenger at one time, all of them different dates and every one of them plainly addressed.

Both Lost Their Mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pollard, of this town, have just sustained a double bereavement. Mrs. Allen Hardee, mother of Mrs. Pollard, died Saturday night at her home in Contentnea township, and Mrs. Fannie Pollard, mother of Mr. Pollard, died Sunday night at her home in Farmville.

FLEMING--WHITE.

Beautiful Morning Marriage in Church.

"Such a beautiful marriage." "Prettiest I ever saw." These and kindred expressions were heard falling from the lips of people as they were departing from the Memorial Baptist church this morning, where they had assembled to witness the ceremony that made Mr. James L. Fleming and Miss Loula White man and wife. It was indeed a most beautiful and impressive marriage.

The interior of the magnificent auditorium had been made all the more attractive by the exquisite decorations. The aisles, postrum and organ gallery were covered in pure white. Over head and around the sides of the alcove were festoons of evergreen with a superb wedding bell suspended from the centre. Around the organ and on the sides of the postrum were pyramids of greenhouse plants alternating with candelabras and girandoles. The windows of the church were darkened, the chandeliers and sconces burning tapers filling the edifice with a dool of mellow light. An arched gateway closed each aisle at the end nearest the postrum.

The audience was large and had been carefully seated by the ushers, Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, Dr. W. H. Ragwell, J. C. Gary and T. M. Hooker.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the bridal party reached the church and were preceded by the pages, Richard White and Bennie Higgs, who unrolled the carpet through the aisles.

Mrs. Ollie E. Warren presided at the organ and charmingly rendered the wedding march as the party entered, and "O, Promise Me," during the ceremony, closing with an exquisite march as they passed out.

First came the gate attendants, little Misses Ethel Skinner and Mattie Moye King, who swung the portals for the others to pass through. Then came the flower girls, Misses Bennie Ragsdale and Mary Higgs. The bride's maids entered singly up each aisle followed by the groom's men. In couples they were:

Miss Ada Wooten with B. F. Tyson.
Miss Mary Hadley, of Wilson, with Dr. R. L. Carr.
Miss Bessie Jarvis with W. F. Harding.
Miss Lizzie Jones with C. S. Carr.
Miss Julia Castex, of Goldsboro, with Dr. Josh Taylor, of Washington.
Miss Blanche Flanagan with C. F. White.
Miss Lillian Cherry with Frank Wilson.
Miss Sallie Lipscomb with H. W. Holcombe.
Miss Bettie Tyson with C. S. Forbes.
Miss Rosa Hooker with J. W. Wiggins, of Tarboro.

The bride who came leaning upon the arm of her father, Capt. C. A. White, was immediately preceded by the maid of honor, Miss Rosalind Ramtree, and as they advanced up the aisle the groom with his best man and brother, Major I. Fleming, entered through the rear door and met them at the altar.

The ceremony, beautifully worded and impressive, was performed by Rev. A. W. Setzer, pastor of the Memorial church.

As the party left the church the bell rang out merrily on the balmy morning air.

The couple left on the morning train for a bridal tour to Blowing Rock, Asheville and Hot Springs, and after their stay in these mountain resorts will go to Morehead for some days and return to Greenville about the middle of July. Upon their return a public reception will be held at Hotel Macon.

A rehearsal tea was given to the bridal party Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents on Dickinson avenue. The bride and groom received many valuable presents in testimony of the high esteem in which they are held. One of the presents to the bride was a large solid silver ladle, elegantly carved, given by the members of the Baptist church in appreciation of her having so faithfully served as organist since she was but a mere girl. The bride has always been a favorite with Greenville people, and her host of friends were truly gratified at her appearance as she stood at the altar and to see her wedded life begin amid such beautiful surroundings.—Daily Reflector, 21st.

Marriageable Ages.

In Germany a man must be at least 18 years of age before he can marry.

In Portugal a boy of 14 is considered marriageable and a woman at 12.

In Greece the man must have seen at least fourteen summers and the woman twelve.

In France he must be 18 and the woman 16. In Belgium the same age.

In Spain the intended husband must have passed his fourteenth year and the woman her twelfth.

In Switzerland men from the age of 14 and women from the age of 12 are allowed to marry.

In Austria a "man" and a "woman" are supposed to be capable of conducting a house of their own from the age of 14.

In Turkey any youth and maiden who can walk properly and can understand the necessary religious service are allowed to marry.

In Hungary the man must be 18 years and the woman 15.

In Russia and Saxony they are a little more sensible, and a youth must refrain from entering into matrimony till he can count 18 years and a woman till she can count 16.

Constable Bryan Dead.

Constable Elisha Bryan, of Bethel, who, on the first Saturday night in May was murderously assaulted by four colored men, in which he was seriously cut and his skull broken, died Tuesday night from his injuries. While the Constable's condition has been serious all the time since he was attacked, there was once such improvement as to give hopes of his ultimate recovery, but a few days ago he relapsed and grew worse until he died. Coroner C. O'H. Laughinghouse went over to hold an inquest. Three of Mr. Bryan's assailants were captured and are in jail, but one of them is still at large.

Married.

At 8 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mr. Jerry Weathington, in Winterville, Miss Mary Jane Weathington and Mr. James Fulford, of Farmville, were married by Rev. C. L. Little.

At 9 o'clock this morning at the home of Mr. Fernando Ward, seven miles from Greenville, Miss Jennie Ward and Mr. J. J. Satterthwaite were married by Rev. J. F. Goss. The couple left on the morning train for Washington City.—Daily Reflector, 21st.

[illegible] Conquer[illegible]d.

[illegible] Barbanks, colored, who was in chains on the street Tuesday under sentence for contempt to the Mayor's court, has his liberty to-day. This morning Jim made a full apology to Mayor Forbes and expressed penitence for his conduct. The apology was satisfactory to the Mayor and he agreed to divide the sentence against Jim, let him serve either the 30 days in jail or pay the $25 fine. Jim agreed to take the fine rather than imprisonment, and this being provided for he was discharged from custody.—Daily Reflector 21st.

We Need All These.

If public spirit in Greenville would join in the race and keep pace with private enterprise there would be some permanent improvements that the town would be proud of. Electric lights, water works and better streets all ought to be close followers to the many building improvements. And it should not be overlooked that factories and a modern hotel are among the town's greatest needs.

Changing the Wires.

Manager W. S. Atkins is having new and larger telephone poles placed along Evans street near the business houses. While the wires are being changed to these new poles during the next few days they will be more or less crossed and mixed up, which will inter fere with communication to some extent. He requests subscribers to be patient for a few days and the wires will all be straight and in good working order again.

The deaths in Havana from June 1 to June 15 were 318. During the corresponding time last year the number of deaths was 2160. This decrease in the death rate is the one overtopping advantage resulting from Yankee administration.

The San Jose Scale.

Mr. G. S. Boren, the secretary and treasurer of the J. Van Lindley Nursery Company, of Pomona, called on me today to correct the numerous misstatements in the press about the San Jose Scale, which has recently made its appearance in many orchards in North Carolina. In the first place, Mr. Boren said that the nursery here is entirely unaffected by the scale, though the insect had ruined $25,000 orchard for the Van Lindley Company at Southern Pines.

"As is generally known," said Mr. Boren, "the first appearance of the scale in the United States was in California, about 25 years ago, but it was spread in this State and other Southern States by William Parry, a nurseryman in New Jersey. In North Carolina it first appeared in the orchard of Mr. Whipple, of Southern Pines. There is none of the scale in Guilford county, but we have received letters from all over the State asking for a formula for its destruction.

"In an orchard the scale will be first on peach trees, if any are there, though it may attack all kinds of fruit or other trees. A great many people have sent us cricketts' eggs, thinking they were the San Jose scale, but a crickett's eggs are half as large as a grain of wheat, whereas the scale is a minute gray speck, resembling ashes; and the fact that it is an insect can only be determined by microscopic inspection. It multiplies very rapidly, and will kill any tree inside of a year. No tree is good for fruiting after the scale makes its appearance, and it will take diligent work to save it. When it is found that a tree has lost all vitality from the insect it should be cut down at once.

"The most usual way of carrying the scale from one place to another is by birds. It is somewhat gummy, and sticks to the feet of the birds. As soon as the scale is seen in an orchard it is imperative to act at once, and the following formula, which was adopted by the committee for the control of crop pests, appointed in 1895, makes the best spray that I know of: Dissolve in two quarts of water one quart of soft soap, or one-quarter pound of hard soap, by heating to the boiling point. Then add one pint of kerosene oil and stir violently for from three to five minutes. This may be done by using a common force pump and putting the end of the hose back into the mixture again. This mixes the oil permanently, so that it will never separate and may be diluted easily at pleasure. This mixture should be diluted to twice its bulk with water, or about fourteen times as much as water as kerosene. The kerosene emulsion is successful in destroying cattle lice and sheep ticks, as well as all varities of plant lice, scale, etc."—Greensboro Record.

The Right Sort of Advertising.

The immense and relentless competition in sales in the mercantile world has aroused a corresponding competition in the methods of advertising. As a result advertisers are making it a point to endeavor to be extremely original; but this is a mistaken and profitless striving. There is no endless power of originality in the mind of man. A uniformity of thought and action dominates mankind, who are in reality imitators; their doings are merely repetitions of what has been done before. So the persistent advertiser who is eager for satisfactory results will gain them soonest by giving solid, cheery and instructive information to his patrons through the medium of a newspaper which the public reads, and in which it has the utmost confidence.

Lightning seems to be unusually destructive this summer. In nearly every paper is published one or more instances of its fatal work. Persons are suddenly killed—literally in the twinkling of an eye—and valuable property destroyed nearly every day, and it is no wonder that so many persons are greatly frightened when a storm approaches. And the worst of it is that lightning seems to be a deadly danger that no human precaution can certainly provide against.—Chatham Record.

Standard Advertising.

An enterprising merchant who wants to know things asks: "What is standard advertising?" There can be but one suitable and sensible answer to this query—namely, that standard advertising is the best advertising. There is no one criterion for publicity. The merchant must be governed in his method of making business announcements by the character of his wares, his environment and the class of people with which he expects to deal. Having selected as his advertising medium a first-class and trustworthy newspaper, he must use his own judgment and ideas—or those of other people—and by experience find out what sort of advertising brings the quickest and best returns. Then he will have reached the standard sought for. But as to the standard advertising medium, there can be no question that it is a popular newspaper.—Philadelphia Record.

Profitable Trucking.

While the present truck season has been an unprofitable one in many sections of the south, the New Bern section has been favored, and good substantial financial returns have rewarded the efforts of truckers in this section.

Pamlico county truck growers have had a good season, their cabbages and potatoes bringing in good returns.

Two instances out of many such successes are worthy of note.

On three quarters of an acre, a Pamlico truck grower, raised cabbages which netted him $250, and another trucker has dug 79 barrels of potatoes on an acre, these potatoes selling at $3.50 per barrel in the northern market.—New Bern Journal.

Of Interest to Inventors.

C. A. Snow & Co., one of the oldest and most successful firms of patent lawyers, whose offices are opposite the United States Patent office in Washington, D. C., and who have procured patents for more than 17,000 inventors, say that, owing to the improved conditions in the United States Patent Office, patents may now be more promptly procured than at any previous time in their experience of twenty-five years.

Every evidence of competition in this life, in this day of business methods versus philanthropic enterprise, comes to us as a sweet balm to a weary soul. No less than four distinct and separate concerns, corporations or organizations, are after the North Pole and determined to get it. With so many as four companies dealing in the North Pole, we the people may hope to get some of the benefits without paying extra and extortionate tribute to a monopoly.—Raleigh Post.

No good action, no good example ever dies. It lives forever in our face. While the frame moulders and disappears, the deed leaves an indelible stamp and moulds the thought and will of future generations. Time is not the measure of noble works; the coming ages will share of their joy. A single virtuous action has elevated a whole village, a whole city, a whole nation. It is from small seeds dropped into the ground that the finest productions grow, and it is from the inborn dictates of conscience and the inspired principle of duty that the finest growths of character have arisen.—Goldsboro Argus.

WHO WANTS IT? SPEAK QUICK.

THE REFLECTOR recently purchased two printing office outfits and has a quantity of surplus material that will be sold cheap. There is a cylinder press large enough to print a nine column paper, in splendid condition, and a quantity of Small Pica, Long Primer, Brevier and Nonpariel body type. We can furnish a complete outfit large enough for a six or seven column paper.

Specimens of the body type are shown in this advertisement, the type being taken from the case just as it runs, so it shows for itself how well it prints. This is the Small Pica size of which there is 1 pair of cases.

Then here is a paragraph set from the Long Primer size. We have 4 pairs of these cases. In buying this type you do not get something that is worn out and cast aside, but a good serviceable type, capable of much wear.

Here is something a little smaller, Brevier size. There are 2 pairs of these and it is a bargain for somebody interested in printing. It may not come but once in a lifetime that an opportunity is given for buying type at cheap as we will sell these lots.

Again we have 1 pair of cases of this Nonpariel size, a very useful type in any printing office. Cases will be sold with the type of any size or any number of cases desired. Any printer who can use such type at the prices we make can spot a good bargain. While we prefer a customer for a whole outfit, press and type, some one of type will be sold if no more is wanted.

ELECTION CASE.

Testimony For the Defense.

It was a little more than a month ago that several citizens of Greenville were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. P. Ormond on the charge of having interfered with the election at Parker's X Roads, or precinct No. 4 in Greenville township. At that time the testimony for the Government was heard and the case postponed until June 22nd. Upon resuming the case the hearing of testimony for the defense began. THE REFLECTOR has before told that the people thus arraigned went to that precinct to prevent, and did prevent, a threatened riot, and that the public may see that this is true we publish the testimony of the defense.

W. J. BRILEY.

I was pollholder at precinct No. 4 in last election, got there a little before sun up. Left polls after the votes were counted and returns signed. House in which election was held was 15x26, the room we were in was 15x12 and was in back end of house, two doors to room, one in partition and the other in end from road. Partition door was not opened during day. Think there was a window on each side of voting room. Ballots were received at window on South side. I sat at window and received votes from voters. We got to work at 7 o'clock and everything went on all right until about 10 o'clock when a colored man named Henry Cory came to vote. We could not find the name and told him he could not vote. Not much was said about it and we passed on.

About 11 o'clock a negro came and called out his name as Robert Staton after I called out Robert Bell. Bill Barnhill caught hold of him and shook him and told him Robert Bell, but he said Robert Staton. Manning Moore said to Mr. Brown we can't find Robert Staton on the book but we find Robert Bell. I asked him what name he registered under and he said Robert Staton. Mr. Brown asked him what name he went under in the community. Leonidas Fleming said he went under the name of Robert Bell. His brother, Warren, said his name was Staton. I told him he had no right to vote then as his name was not on the book. Bill Barnhill called me Staton, some Bell and some Red. Jesse Moye said his firm run an account with him as Robert Staton. Some one said hold on until we can 'phone and see how his name is on the tax books. We stopped and he and Bill Barnhill walked off. Don't think I saw him again that day. He never offered or asked to vote as Robert Bell.

During this controversy many white and colored men gathered around the window, some contending that he ought to vote, others that he ought not. More than twice as many negroes present as whites. I, Joe Atkinson and Manning Moore told them to stand back. White people were towards W. S. Fleming's dwelling, negroes on opposite side. I stuck vote he handed me in my vest pocket after he left. Brown told me give him the vote and he would put it in box. I refused, stating he had no right to vote as his name was not on books. No action taken by Board as to his right to vote.

Voting commenced again and after a while I saw some folks with guns. Brown asked me what that meant, told him I did not know, but that the first man I saw with gun was a negro. He said he was great mind to take down name of every man he caught out there with gun. In short while people went toward Ruffin House store, both white and black. Don't know what they were up to. Brown asked if they were not about to have row, told him I did not know. He said yonder they go driving a negro.

We staid there and people came on voting until in the evening. Everything went quietly until about 3 o'clock when another negro came up and called himself Joe Bryant. Moore looked on book and couldn't find that name but found Joe Brown. Brown who had been keeping the book was out. Moore called him. He came in, looked at the negro and said I know him, his name is Joe Brown. I asked what name he registered under and he said Joe Bryant. I told him he could not vote. Some contended that he had right to vote under name of Brown. He never asked to vote as Brown, in fact never insisted on voting. No vote taken by Board as to whether he should vote. I don't know if he handed his vote in.

Voting continued until near night when Ficklen came to back door and he and Brown had some words about the election. Ficklen said we have carried the election and we are here to have a fair count, and said he had a gallon of blood to spill to see a fair count. Brown said he had a gallon in him and any one that wanted it had to get it. If he had a gun or other weapon I did not see it.

Went on until close of polls. There was no intimidation there that day and nobody prevented from voting except those whose names were not on books. No objection to any one voting except the three mentioned. Entire colored vote registered was 193 and white vote 147—178 colored votes were cast and 131 white votes. Fifteen colored and sixteen white did not vote. Of the colored who failed to vote three are dead and some were gone, none of the fifteen came and offered to vote.

After supper we went to counting votes. Brown took them out of box. In first box were two votes folded up, they were thrown out. Brown insisted they should be counted. When we finished Brown made out report and handed to me. I signed one, Dudley also signed and handed it to Brown who made protest on it regarding two votes. I and Dudley took pencil and marked out our names, told him I would sign no such returns. He then made out more which we all signed. He gave me one for Register of Deeds and kept the other. Never heard any one say if the person carried the returns with protest to Greenville they wouldn't get there alive. Room was smallest if such remark had been made think I would heard it.

Cross examination—My politics since, at and previous to election was Democratic. Was not a member of White Government Union. Knew Robert Bell, had worked with me one year. Didn't know that he had right to vote unless his name was on book. He repeated his name as Robert Staton. There was no understanding that Jesse would come from town if needed. I did not send, consent or direct any telephone message to be sent to Greenville and did not know one had been sent. Saw a dozen or more armed men there, among them were J. L. Sugg, Paul Metrick, R. W. Brown, L. C. Arthur, Jim Hyman.

I never knew Joe Bryant before that day. His name on tax list and where he traded was Bryant.

ASHLEY WHICHARD.

I vote at precinct No. 4, live five miles north of there. On morning of election saw five negroes with guns going in direction of election. They were going down railroad. Railroad is 100 or 150 yards from voting place. They were Oscar Carney, Henry Edwards, George, Outlaw, Femuch Andrews, Mack Jenkins. Saw them at Staton's mill where they met, they had double-barrel shot guns. I went to election about 2 or 3 o'clock and remained until sunset. No trouble while I was there, everything passed off quietly, no intimidation. It was generally rumored that negroes were going there that day armed, that they had been advised to do so.

H. B. JORDAN.

Morning of election I saw five negroes going towards election, the five Whichard refers to. They were one fourth mile from election when I saw them. They fired off four or five times after passing me. I went to election about 12 o'clock, saw one negro sitting about 100 yards from election place.

G. N. BAKER.

Live in precinct No. 4, went there about 10 o'clock election day and left about 3. Heard them arguing about Bell's voting, crowd gathered by window, more blacks than whites. I went towards House store. Heard some one say "I'll bed—if I don't kill or be killed." Looked around and saw Earnest Carney coming toward House store from polling place. He went to a buggy and got a double-barrel breach loading gun, dropped it across his arm and broke it, then went back towards polls. He went within 10 steps of house, crowd of colored people got around him and told him to stop. I went up in crowd and told J. L. Little what I had seen. It was about half hour before Greenville crowd came.

PETER BROWN.

I vote at Parker X Roads, got there about 9 o'clock, left between 4 and 5. Was near window when Bell or Staten came up to vote. While controversy was going on there was crowd around window, mostly colored, some had sticks about to fight. Brown said don't have fight. A yellow fellow said he "bed—if he wasn't going to vote anyway," and walked off down road, presently came back with double barrel gun, broke it, put in two cartridges and said he "was going to vote this fellow or kill or be killed." I told Rose Johnston what I saw and he went to the 'phone office and sent over to town after help. After this right many men came from town, all went on quiet and election was all right as far as I know. In the evening there was some controversy about another vote, after that everything went on all right. That morning when I came saw a colored man with gun leaning against tree.

E. B. FICKLEN.

About 11 o'clock election day I started fr m Court House polls down to Five Points. In consequence of what I heard I went to cross roads to prevent trouble and not make any. J. B. Lightfoot and W. J. Corbett went with me. I carried shot gun because there was disturbance, for my own protection and protection of all. Got there between 11 and 12 o'clock, stayed an hour or so, came back to Greenville and returned there in evening about 4 o'clock. There was disenssion among both white and black standing off in groups. One darkey who had great deal to say seemed to be ring leader among darkeys. Kept my eye on him. He made remark that he didn't see what these d— white men came out there for. After short while he came near where we were and either addressed a remark to Mr. Sugg or Mr. Sugg to him, I don't remember remark. Some one said to him they had had enough of him there that day and he better leave. After some hesitation he left. Don't know his name. I went part of way down road, about 50 or 75 yards. I never got nearer to window with gun than 30 to 40 yards. Did not see any men from Greenville go near window with gun. Did not interfere with any one voting. Did not have consultation with any colored man about voting there or here. Was working about 50 in factory and did not say anything to them about voting.

After going back in evening I stayed until votes were counted. Had conversation with Brown. Did not say or do anything to any election officer to deter him in discharge of duty. Conversation with Brown was in evening after going back. I went to door after voting had about ceased and was telling Brown the news from different parts of county heard from. Told him that Harrington had given up as defeated and that we had the election beyond shades of doubt. Brown asked what we were doing on there. My reply was we were not there to keep any one from voting, but to have a fair election and see that we had a fair count. May have said remarked about spilling blood, but did so in defense of the election as we did not propose to be swindled out of it. Brown and myself discussed the rights of the race that had not been allowed to vote. He contended that they had right, and I that they did not. I went in at night to see the county vote counted and came back to Greenville.

LEONIDAS FLEMING.

My voting precinct Parker's X Roads. Went there between 8 and 9 o'clock, left just before sunset. When I got there everything was going on quietly and continued so until about half past ten or eleven. Robert Bell came up to vote. I was about 75 feet from window and did not move until sent for. Was asked to go and say what his name is in neighborhood. Went up to within 20 feet of door and saw Sam Dudley standing in door, and I said his name is Robert Bell. Don't know what he is registered by. Large crowd there, mostly negroes. I could not go nearer than 20 feet of door. Crowd was some where else. It was about 11 o'clock when I left. Large crowd from Greenville came. I saw nearly all who had guns, only remember Arthur, Sugg, Metrick, Ficklen, Brown and Fleming. Metrick was doing everything that a fool could act to make people laugh, was going through the manual of arms. I had heard of law protecting polls against carrying guns there, and when I saw Robert Brown going towards polls I told him not go nearer than the hitch post. It was 50 feet from post to polls as I have measured it. I stood there all day to watch and did not let anybody go any nearer than the post to polls.

There was no one except Robert Bell and another negro kept from voting, they were prevented by poll holders. With this exception it was the quietest election I ever saw. The presence of the armed men had the effect of preserving order there. They were requested to remain there for the purpose of keeping order. I don't know but what there would have been an attack on us had not night. I was one of the men that made the request. It was 120 to 125 feet from polls to well in front of Fleming's store. The old well near window is 12 feet, from Fleming's porch 100 feet.

G. B. HUGHES.

Went to cross roads about 5 o'clock, remained about 15 minutes, carried no weapon.

CHAS. SKINNER.

Saw Hughes on day of election. He was in my back yard with several young ladies dressing a float from morning to about 4 o'clock.

J. L. LITTLE.

I was at precinct No 4 on election day, left there about 11 o'clock. Arthur and Dennis went with me. I went on account of hearing they were about to have trouble there, carried no weapon for fear a gun might cause trouble and announced the fact when got off my buggy, and not to interfere with anybody. Everything excited when I got there, presently soon it became quiet. In my opinion if we had not gone there would have been trouble and our presence prevented it. We had not been there to exceed 1½ hours when Willie Williams came up through a crowd of white men 116 feet from the polls. He was pointed out to me by a gentleman as the negro who created the trouble that morning, helping the disturbing element. I called him and told him what I had heard, and said if he had made the trouble the best thing for him and all parties was to leave the ground and leave quick. He left pretty quick, probably 8 or 10 following him. I felt satisfied we were getting rid of the disturbing element and there would be no further trouble. Heard one report of gun behind store from me. When I told him to leave it was with desire to protect him and preserve peace, thinks if he had remained there would have been trouble. Don't think I went nearer the polls there 50 feet, and never saw any one else with gun nearer than that. Did not enter re with any one in their right to vote. Left there after county box was counted about 9 o'clock. Remarks made during while vote was being counted, Leonidas Fleming suggested not to say there. A gentleman in that precinct and owner of the best farm in the neighborhood told me that if we did not remain there would be trouble.

How The Tramp Worked it.

A tramp recently played a smooth trick, on some of the conductors of the Southern railway and is probably working the same game in other parts of the country. He got possession of a pair of telegraph lineman's spurs and a coil of telegraph wire. Thus equipped he boarded the train at Bristol, Tenn., and rode by easy stages to Chattanooga, the conductors thinking him an employed of the railroad or of the Western Union Telegraph Company.—Asheville Citizen.

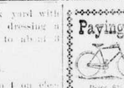
Paying Double Prices



Taken in By Peddlers.

Too many folks, speaking generally, select superior wisdom over their fellow men, and when the country people are taken in, as they often are, by the sharpers who infest the land like unto the flies in Egypt in times of the plague, the town folks smile in a superior way and pity them.

But they don't need to. The town folks are just as easily duped; in fact, considering the circumstances, they are more easily taken in than their country cousins.

Some weeks ago a smart young man made the rounds in State so like taking orders for glazed earthenware—pots, pans, etc., which he said could be used for cooking on the stove or inside it. He called in residences only and the ladies were ready and liberal purchasers, some individual dollars' worth of the stuff right here in Town and last Friday and Saturday the goods were delivered by the wagon load and the money collected. We have heard of two instances in which the ware, which excited the admiration of the ladies, was set on the stove and burst open as soon as it got hot—and all the returns are not in.

But even if the ware is as good as represented, it was of course sold at least 50 per cent. higher than a regular dealer would have charged for it, and some immense profit went into the hands of the agents, who are kinds of passage and take in the towns as they come and go.

We do not want to be understood however, as intimating that the ladies—God bless 'em—are more easily duped than the men. They are not. Let a patent medicine fakir come along and propose to give a prize with each bottle of medicine, and the men will fall over each other to buy, or they will go to the circus and bet on the fakir's own game. The ladies get fooled, of course, but they are better and wiser than the men.—Statesville Landmark.
