Growth has been synonymous with East Carolina College since its humble beginning in the fall of 1909. Opening its doors to 123 students and housing thirteen faculty members, East Carolina Teachers Training School has, in fifty-seven years, evolved into East Carolina College—a college now registering over 12,000 full and part-time students and having a faculty of 448. The reasons for this phenomenal growth are many. Perhaps the paramount reason is the one set forth by its first president, Robert H. Wright, in his first welcoming address, "East Carolina was built by the people, for the people, and may it ever remain with the people as a servant of the people."

East Carolina College has undergone vast changes and made impressive advancements; therefore, in the pages of this book the staff of the 1967 BUCCANEER has attempted to tell the story of the new East Carolina College.
Newness at East Carolina College is reflected in the young generation of students who occupy its campus. Influenced by tradition yet tantalized by change, the new collegian views himself in the image of saucy fashions, sleek sports cars, and the never-ending quest for the peculiar or impossible.

Constantly striving to better himself and his colleagues, the student allots his talents to many facets of the college community. Some find enjoyment in leisure, and others are satisfied to busy themselves with various campus activities. Regardless of the goals at which each individual student aims his ambitions, he may be characterized as ever inquisitive, eager, and optimistic about the future.

Educational and intellectual growth at East Carolina College is accompanied by physical growth. The frequency of new buildings rising on campus is astounding. Now in the midst of a $16\frac{1}{2}$ million dollar expansion program, East Carolina has accumulated 52 buildings which span an area of 300 acres. These new buildings house an assembly of educational facilities which are surpassed by very few other colleges or universities.

To meet the demands of the accelerated college enrollment and the challenge of thoroughness in higher education, East Carolina is growing upward and outward. Towering over the campus is the recently completed ten-story women's dormitory. Slightly north of this edifice stands Fletcher Hall, a seven-story coed complex. Male students have also acquired new living quarters in the 508-man Belk Dormitory. New classroom buildings include a modern Educational Psychology Building, a new School of Music, and a new School of Nursing.

Athletic facilities have also been enlarged with the construction of Ficklen Stadium, a new field house, and Minges Coliseum. This coliseum houses one of the few U.S. Olympic standard swimming pools in the nation.

INTELLECTUAL CONCEPTS...
AND ITS SERVICE TO NORTH CAROLINA.

In students, facilities, and concepts the new face of East Carolina College is not merely a mask. The improvements in both physical capacities and curriculum are directed toward one goal—university structure. Now divided into five distinct schools, one of which includes seventeen departments, the new East Carolina College is meeting the range of needs in North Carolina which its founders have previously foreseen.

Already in the stage of formulation are a School of Life Sciences and other professional schools. Additional schools, departments, and services are in a planning stage. Guided by administrative foresight and ingenuity, East Carolina College continues to grow in the pattern in which it was intended—a school "built by the people, for the people, and ever remaining with the people as a servant of the people."

A growing college requires careful planning and many hours of manual labor.

Composed of men and women of various skills and professions, East Carolina's Board of Trustees has the single goal of helping the college become a dominating influence on the people of North Carolina. By supporting its academic and physical expansion, the Board proves that it is the governing body of the new East Carolina College.

Appointed by the Governor of North Carolina for staggered eight-year terms, the Board of Trustees is responsible for appointing the President, who, in turn, puts into effect the policies and regulations of the Board.

Shaping policy is not all discussion but takes much thought and concentration.
DR. LEO W. JENKINS
PRESIDENT

Convinced that Eastern North Carolina has one of the greatest potentials in America for economic and cultural development, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins strives to make the influence of East Carolina College spread throughout the entire area. He feels that to be a good college, a school must be deeply involved in its community. He thinks it important to associate with not only the academic community but also with the political and religious communities. Dr. Jenkins, therefore, believes in staying close to the public and does so by speaking frequently to civic and social groups throughout the state.

Appointed by the Board of Trustees, President Jenkins is the chief administrative and executive officer of the College. He is charged with the responsibility of putting into effect the policies and regulations of the Board of Trustees. All personnel of the College are responsible either directly or indirectly to him.

Aside from his numerous duties as President of the College, Dr. Jenkins leads a full family life and is active in community affairs. To maintain his business contacts, he serves as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Wachovia Bank and member of the Board of Directors of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph. Dr. Jenkins sets a good example for East Carolina College and all of North Carolina when he says that people must continually reach over their heads if they want to have any feeling of attainment.
VICE-PRESIDENT AND DEAN

With a ready smile and a look of wisdom, Dr. Robert L. Holt assists the President in coordinating all curricular and extra-curricular activities on campus. In the absence of the President, he performs the official on-campus duties of the President. Dr. Holt supervises the academic departments, college development and auxiliary services, student life, and counseling. He also works with the Director of the Developmental Evaluation Clinic, the Director of Athletics, and the Director of Religious Activities in the supervision of their programs.

MR. F. D. DUNCAN
VICE-PRESIDENT AND BUSINESS MANAGER

Handling the business affairs of the college is the principal duty of Mr. F. D. Duncan. As business manager, he pays and receives all the funds of the college and purchases everything from library books to paper towels. Constantly concerned with the physical development of East Carolina College, Mr. Duncan oversees all planning and construction of new buildings and the operation of the auxiliary services. He is also responsible for collecting the annual budget which is submitted to the State Legislature.
Mr. Worth E. Baker is in charge of all registration and pre-registration for students who have been accepted by the college. These include all undergraduates, graduates, and transfer students. Mr. Baker interprets the catalog rules concerning credit hours, grades, and transfer of credits.

Evaluating applications from incoming freshmen and transfer students seeking admission is the responsibility of Dr. John H. Horne, director of admissions. He screens these students and interviews them if necessary. As Foreign Student Adviser, he appraises the Foreign Program regularly with the program of East Carolina as to similarity in courses required for credit. Dr. Horne serves as a counselor to all foreign students.
DR. JAMES H. TUCKER
DEAN OF STUDENT AFFAIRS

As Dean of Student Affairs advisor to the Student Government Association, and chairman of the Publications Board, Dr. James H. Tucker is actively engaged in the campus activities at East Carolina. He serves as a member of the Athletic and Homecoming Committees. Dr. Tucker serves his country by participating in the United States Naval Reserve.

MISS RUTH WHITE
DEAN OF WOMEN

Serving as advisor to the Panhellenic Council and the Women's Honor Council, Miss Ruth White is closely affiliated with the women students on East Carolina's campus. She belongs to the American Association of University Women and the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors. Dean White enjoys reading and handiwork.

MR. JAMES B. MALLORY
DEAN OF MEN

Mr. James B. Mallory serves as advisor to the Inter-Fraternity Council, the Men's Residence Council, and the Men's Judiciary. He is an active member of the Financial Aid Committee, the National Association of Deans and Administrators, and the American College Personnel Association. An avid sports fan, Dean Mallory is a former baseball coach.
Assignment of rooms in the men’s dormitories is the responsibility of Mr. Dan K. Wooten. He supervises off-campus housing for staff, married couples, and men and women students. The enforcement of traffic regulations, the collection of fines, and the registration of automobiles on the East Carolina campus are also his duties. Before coming to East Carolina, Mr. Wooten coached basketball and baseball in Pitt County.

As chairman of the Entertainment Series, the Foreign Films Committee, and the Central Ticket Office, Mr. Rudolph Alexander helps bring cultural and social enjoyment to the campus. He is also the Associate Advisor for the Student Government Association and chairman of the Associated Arts Board.

Publicity of student activities to the general public is the primary task of Mr. Henry Howard. He covers news stories which the state papers do not emphasize and sends campus news concerning students to their hometown newspapers. A member of the Homecoming Committee, Mr. Howard is in direct contact with every organization on campus.

Spring quarter finally arrived, and the end of the regular school year drew near. For seniors graduation climaxed four years of work, and for underclassmen college careers were a year closer to completion. Students on the campus of the new East Carolina experienced another year of growth, progress, and learning. This was the year that East Carolina College achieved unparalleled success and began an even more dynamic move forward.

Political parties made their first appearance on campus; and after a colorful and exciting campaign, the class officers and student government leaders were selected by the student body. Spring entertainment treated East Carolina students to concerts by such popular groups as Johnny Mathis, Roger Williams, The Brothers Four, and Jay and the Americans. Jeweled Cities of North Africa and Indonesia highlighted the foreign film series.

As the days grew warmer, thoughts turned to the beach and long awaited vacations. Final examinations and graduation terminated the quarter.

With spring comes rain, rain, and more rain.
Climaxing vigorous campaigning throughout the year, the SGA executive elections brought student interest and participation during spring quarter. The focal point of the election was the tooth and nail battle for SGA president between Steve Sniteman, Bill Moore, and Bill Deal. Vying for the vice-presidency, Frank Rice and Jay Barber carried on verbal warfare.

Campaigning, marked by posters, banners, and other publicity media, culminated in a special debate between the candidates. This debate was sponsored by WECC radio. Appearance of a student party for the first time on campus added extra enthusiasm to the race.
North Carolina's Governor Dan K. Moore delivered the principal address to East Carolina's 1,942 graduates and an audience of 5,000 at the spring commencement exercises in Ficklen Stadium. President Leo W. Jenkins followed the Governor's address with brief comments about the continuing growth of East Carolina College and the possibility of the school's attainment of university status.

For the graduates the years of hard work proved rewarding. Armed with the knowledge that they gained, they ventured forth to take their places in today's society.

CLIMAXES PERSONAL AMBITIONS.
Spring brought an abundance of outstanding entertainers to the campus of East Carolina College. Johnny Mathis gave an unforgettable performance before a delighted audience in Wright Auditorium. Displaying a wide range of talent on the piano, Roger Williams played both popular and classical selections. Jay and the Americans and the Brothers Four provided two enjoyable evenings of entertainment. East Carolina’s lecture series presented outstanding speakers. Craig Spence, a retired war correspondent, presented many thought-provoking ideas on various aspects of the war in Viet Nam. Sir Brenard Lovell, in his visit to the campus, expounded on radio astronomy in the present day.

Temperatures were high and the rain was almost constant, but these considerations did not deter the nearly four thousand students who returned to East Carolina College for either one or both sessions of summer school. The weekly watermelon feasts sponsored by the College Union helped break the routine of study and classes. Summer entertainment featured concerts by Josh White, Jr., Jerry Butler, and the Town Criers, and The Highwaymen. Patriotic speeches, music, and firework displays highlighted the traditional Fourth of July celebration in Ficklen Stadium. At the annual Summer School Dance, Miss Dianne Lewis was crowned Summer School Queen. As School came to a close, the students scattered to enjoy the few remaining weeks of vacation.

First in the series was the famous nightclub and recording artist, Josh White, Jr. On this his second visit to the campus, he was greeted with much, if not more, enthusiasm than ever before. The ever-popular Highwaymen entertained the students with a delightful array of folk songs. The last program in the summer entertainment series spotlighted an outstanding young singer, Jerry Butler, and four folk singers, The Town Criers.

Students begrudgingly left their summer activities to face fall quarter and the beginning of a new school year. As football season began, both new students and veterans united their voices and school spirit to cheer the home team onward.

Additions to the campus allowed East Carolina to fulfill its obligations to its ever-expanding enrollment. Belk Dormitory and the new Women’s Dormitory provided new and better quarters for many students. The first quarter of the college year was made more complete by lectures, films, and outstanding entertainment. Politicians enjoyed the controversial issues discussed by Senator Peter Dominick and Senator Albert Gore. Popular music fans were entertained by the Bitter End Singers and the Righteous Brothers. Homecoming brought the largest parade ever, an overwhelmingly victorious football game, and two nights of entertainment by the Four Seasons. Thanksgiving holidays signaled the completion of examinations and brought to a close another fall quarter.

HOMECOMING.

Campus organizations and the Student Government Association selected "The Emerging East" as the 1966 Homecoming theme. Heading the list of festivities for the weekend was the largest parade in East Carolina's history. Many fans turned out at Ficklen Stadium to support the Pirates in their attack on Davidson. Adding to the glory of an overwhelming victory, Cheryl Lee Murdock was crowned Homecoming Queen by United States Senator Sam J. Ervin. Later that evening, a concert by the Four Seasons provided the final touch to a most memorable Homecoming at East Carolina.

Fall entertainment featured a variety of popular performers. Beginning the new year, the Bitter End Singers returned to the East Carolina campus with special entertainment ending Orientation Week. Political interests of the student body were renewed by the lectures of two outstanding U.S. Senators, Senator Peter Dominick of Colorado and Senator Albert Gore of Tennessee. Homecoming Weekend was highlighted by one of the nation’s most popular recording groups, the Four Seasons. This entertainment feature was followed by the appearance of the Righteous Brothers on a triple bill with Gaylord and Holliday and Nino Tempo and April Stevens. The students also enjoyed the unique performance of Martin St. James, “The World’s most Hilarious Hypnotist.”

Thanksgiving holidays ended, and winter quarter began with high spirits as students anticipated gala Christmas festivities. Musical groups rehearsed untiringly for their individual concerts as well as the college’s annual Christmas assembly. Holiday atmosphere invaded the college as students rushed through their last hectic classes before heading home.

After the change of pace provided by the Christmas vacation, the new year arrived; and East Carolina resumed its busy schedule. The administration was grateful for the extra space provided by the expansion of the music department in its new building.

Winter quarter included events both informative and entertaining to students. Sports were taken indoors, where basketball and swimming took over as key centers of interests. The Playhouse presented the “most powerful play of the decade,” Marat Sade, and Dark of the Moon. Students enjoyed hearing the Dukes of Dixieland and Sabicias, king of the Spanish guitar.

Assuming the responsibility for all student activity expenditures and the sponsorship of campus organizations and publications, the Student Government Legislature functioned within a wide capacity. Composed of dormitory and day student representatives, the speaker, and the SGA vice-president, the legislature acted as spokesman for the students of the college. The legislature selected its own speaker of the house from within the group. The lawmaking body of the Student Government Association was vitally concerned with the promotion of the importance of the individual student.
IMPORTANCE OF INDIVIDUAL STUDENT.

Heated floor debate sparks legislative action.

Earle Beasley proves that the average college student finds it hard to pay for the extra expenses that college demands.
As an advisory body to the President, the Presidential Cabinet set policies for the Student Government Association and saw that these policies were enacted. The members of this body included the various secretaries appointed by the President.

JUDICIARIES HANDLE BREACH

Woody Huband, Public Defender; Tom Miller, Assistant Attorney General; Charles Denny, Attorney General.
Trying all cases of student misbehavior which did not involve breach of the Honor Code, the Men's and Women's Judiciary Councils functioned separately to serve their respective constituents. These courts were not concerned with dormitory violations, but with violations of college regulation. These Boards had the privilege to refer any case to their respective Honor Councils. Men's Judiciary was composed of seven members and one alternate. Women's Judiciary consisted of a chairman, vice-chairman, secretary-treasurer, two members-at-large, the president of each women's dormitory, and representatives of each sorority house.

OF COLLEGE REGULATIONS.

Two honor councils, one for men and one for women, had original and referred jurisdiction over all violations of the Honor Code. These honor councils were concerned with cases involving lying, cheating, stealing, or matters of possible suspension or expulsion of students. Each council was composed of seven members and one alternate.

In an effort to provide students with a comprehensive collection of memories of the school year, the staff of the yearbook, the Buccaneer, spent much time and energy to make this book a highly-rated publication. Beginning in the spring, under the direction of the editor-in-chief, the section editors and their staffs made preparations for the following year. Copy was written, reworked, and written again. In the same manner lay-outs were drawn and revised until a satisfactory design was reached. Everyone co-operated to meet deadlines set by the editor and the publishing company. A sense of satisfaction was felt by all when the brown line proofs were received in the early spring. These were corrected, approved, and returned to the company. The yearbooks were distributed in early May.

The East Carolinian continued as a bi-weekly newspaper this year with headlines on issues pertaining to the University status question, SGA elections, and the Vietnam War. Winter Quarter, the paper swerved idealistically toward Higher Education and Seminar Interaction.

The student newspaper incited comments that went from radical to conservative. Three streamer headlines were seldom used. The editorial pages created the most controversy. Whether liberal or conservative in the light of the reader, the staff of the East Carolinian prided itself as being liberal. The definition for liberal was based on weighing both sides of an issue as accurately as possible.

In its forty-first year as the "students' voice," the East Carolinian offered students an opportunity to write and to learn the internal workings of newspaper journalism. Dedicated to good standards of journalism, the official organ of the campus continued to strive for accurate presentation of news and kept in mind the following purposes: to inform, to educate, to stimulate student interest, and to voice the problems of the students.

As one of the few student-run college bi-weeklies in the nation, the East Carolinian enjoyed membership in the Associated Collegiate Press Association, the Intercollegiate Press, the United States Student Press Association, and the Carolinas Collegiate Press Association.

Athletics
East Carolina’s fighting Pirates took the Southern Conference championship in 1966 by posting a 12-3 conference record and a 17-10 record through all games. Paced by pitchers Jimmy Raynor and Raymond Burke, the Buccaneers went as far as the NCAA District 3 Tournament but there lost to the University of North Carolina and Florida State University.

Starting the season with a 5-3 victory over University of North Carolina, the Bucs reeled off two wins in the first three games before losing two straight to the Redkins from the University of Massachusetts. Conference losses were to George Washington University, The College of William and Mary, and West Virginia University. Highlights of the season included 7-4 and 7-6 wins over Duke University and the 6-0 championship clincher over The Citadel in the final games of the regular season.
The Pirates are congratulated after moving one step closer to the conference championship.

NETMEN CLINCH FOURTH SPOT IN TOURNAMENT.

Sparked by Frank Cooke and Ron Hignite, East Carolina's tennis team finished fourth in the 1966 Southern Conference tournament and compiled a season record of 6-12. A young squad, the majority will be returning in 1967 under the leadership of Coach Harold Bullard.

Number one man on the team, Frank Cooke, posted the best record. Ron Hignite filled in the second position and achieved the most consistent backcourt game. Chuck Taylor held position number three, and Chip Van Middlesworth claimed the fourth spot. Bob Diday and Tom Dean possessed the fifth and sixth positions.

Hignite and Cooke, who had a three year record of 31-8, composed the number one doubles team. Taylor and Van Middlesworth, the number three doubles team, posted the most outstanding record on the squad for the year.

COOKE, HIGNITE SPEARHEAD TENNIS SQUAD.
ROWING TEAM FACES FIRST COMPETITION

First in the state to have a crew program, East Carolina takes pride in its rowing team. In existence for only two years, the squad took on opponents for the first time in 1966.

Despite the odds, the team participated in a regatta in Washington, D.C. during the spring holidays. The East Carolina Pirates finished last in competition with teams from the University of Pennsylvania, Washington and Lee High School, and Hammond High School. George Washington University beat East Carolina by one length; Georgetown University beat the Pirates by two lengths.

Under Coach Andre Brousseau, the varsity squad participated on the water last year. Both freshmen and varsity teams participated this year in races with other colleges along the East Coast as the sport expanded with East Carolina College.

GOLFERS WIN 4, LOSE 6

Kneeling: P. Somers, M. Malinsky, J. Handlon, G. Mull.

Coached by Wendell Carr and Assistant Phil Somers, the 1966 East Carolina golf team played a full Southern Conference schedule. After an unsuccessful season of four wins and six losses, the Pirates, led by Captain Gary Mull, nailed down sixth place in the conference tournament.

In the 1967 games sophomore linksters will support returning letterman Carl Guthrie, Jim Handlon, Mike Malinsky, and Howard Fennar.

“Ball on right!” “Check sticks!” These were the sounds of East Carolina’s Lacrosse Club in its second year of play. Facing a tough schedule, the Buc stickmen posted a 1-5 record. The highlight of the season was East Carolina’s first Lacrosse victory. The hard fought game with Roanoke College resulted in an 11-9 decision for the Pirates. The victory was sparked by four goals by Tom Boyham and two quick goals and an assist in the fourth quarter by Kirk Voorhees. In a defensive battle, the Pirates led the University of North Carolina until Carolina managed two last minute goals to defeat the Bucs 5-4. The schedule also included Duke University, Amherst College, and the Catonsville Lacrosse Club of Baltimore, a team made up of ex-college standouts.

Co-captains Tom Boyham and Kirk Voorhees and faculty sponsor Mr. Ron Kandy coached the Pirates. The team worked hard to perfect the skills of Lacrosse which may be compared to ice hockey in roughness and objectives.

Midfielders Kirk Voorhees and Gary McCulloch and attackman Tom Boyham led the Pirate offense. Defenseman Rocky Aversa and goalie Marty Goldfarb did an outstanding job in limiting opponents’ scoring.
GRIDDERS COP SOUTHERN CONFERENCE TITLE

East Carolina finished the 1966 football season with an overall record of 4-5-1 and a Southern Conference total of 4-1-1. In their first year of eligibility for the Southern Conference Championship the Pirates split the crown with the College of William and Mary.

Playing as a major college in the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the first time, the Bucs posted their first losing record since 1958. The lone conference loss came at the hands of the George Washington University Colonials in a game played in Washington, D.C. East Carolina and the College of William and Mary tied in the season opener for the both teams. Northeast Louisiana State College, Southern Illinois University, the University of Southern Mississippi, and the University of Louisville each downed the Pirates. Buc victories were all over conference opponents Furman University, Davidson College, The Citadel, and the University of Richmond.

Leading the Buccaneers' offense was tailback Bill Bailey with 1152 yards in total offense. Tailback Dennis Young rolled for 482 yards for second place honors and fullback George Gay placed third on the squad with 465 yards. Kevin Moran, Pete Crane, and Wayne Lineberry were cited as outstanding defensive performers for the Pirates. Outstanding sophomores who will be returning to bolster next year's team are Jim Flowe, George Gay, Dennis Young, Wayne Lineberry, Bob Withrow, Dave Hamilton, Bill Livermore, and Myles Hunnicutt.

East Carolina and William and Mary, the two teams picked as pre-season favorites to win the Southern Conference title, battled to a 7-7 tie in Williamsburg, Virginia, in the first game of the 1966 season. The game proved to be a defensive contest with the only two touchdowns coming on punt returns by East Carolina's Robert Ellis and William and Mary's Chip Young.

Early in the second quarter, Chip Young received a punt by Mike Herring on the 5 yard line and returned it 95 yards for the Indian score. Donnie McGuire successfully booted the extra point.

In the third quarter, Robert Ellis equalized the Redskin touchdown by running a punt from the William and Mary 25 yard line for the score. Bob Faris kicked the extra point to make the score 7-7.

Offensively the Pirates made 268 yards compared to 145 for the Indians. Bill Bailey led both teams in individual rushing yardage by gaining 70 yards in 13 carries, and sophomore George Gay ran a close second with 61 yards in 10 carries. For William and Mary, Marty Fuller claimed top honors with 52 yards. Dan Darragh passed for 64 yards to lead both teams, and East Carolina's Bill Bailey finished with 61 aerial yards.
PIRATES SUFFER FIRST LOSS OF YEAR.

Handing East Carolina its second loss in two years, the Northeast Louisiana Indians halted the Pirates 21-14. Behind 7-0 early in the game, the Bucs established a 14-7 lead midway in the third period only to see Northeast’s Dalton LeBlanc score two touchdowns to tie the game and then claim the victory.

Northeast Louisiana scored first on a 40 yard touchdown jaunt by Steve Mansur. Blake’s successful kick after the touchdown moved the Indians ahead 7-0. Bill Bailey hit pay dirt for the Bucs on a 9 yard run, and Bob Faris tied the game at 7-7 with the point after. Jim Flowe pushed the Bucs ahead on a tally from the 3 yard line. With the next twelve plays, the Redskins tied the game 14-14 on LeBlanc’s carry from the 3. Northeast Louisiana’s winning touchdown came in the final period when LeBlanc broke loose for the remaining 63 yards.

Gaining 190 yards in net offense, East Carolina’s Bill Bailey claimed top honors for the game. Jim Flowe followed him with 63. For the Indians, Dalton LeBlanc ran for 135 yards; and Steve Mansur gathered a total of 89.
East Carolina held the Furman Paladins scoreless the entire game to win the first home contest of the season 17-0. Spearheaded by Jim Flowe and Bill Bailey, the Buccaneers scored with approximately two minutes gone in the first period as Flowe carried from the one.

The Pirates fostered a second drive late in the second quarter from their own 30 yard line. Penetrating as far as the Paladin 18 with time running short, a pass intended for Bob Withrow was intercepted on the goal line by Jimmy Jordan to end the quarter.

Starting the only serious scoring threat early in the third quarter, Furman reached the Pirate 20 yard line before Robert Ellis intercepted Bob Stillwell's pass on the two.

Bob Faris increased the East Carolina lead with 6:42 remaining in the game on a field goal when a Pirate drive fizzled on the six yard line. Not wasting any time, Leroy Cobb intercepted a Furman pass on the ten and returned it to the five yard line. On the fourth down a pass from George Gay to Neal Hughes gave East Carolina a 16 point margin with 36 seconds remaining. Bob Faris completed the scoring with his extra point to make the final score 17-0.

Participating in the third conference game of the season, East Carolina lost 20-7 to an inspired George Washington team. Steve Molnar sparked the Colonials' attack with two touchdowns and 101 net yards rushing.

East Carolina started off fast recovering a fumble by Molnar on the Colonial 29 yard line. Reaching the 1-1, the Pirates tried a field goal which fell short; thus, George Washington gained possession. During the first period the Colonials moved ahead 7-0. Taking the ball on the Buc 23 yard line by virtue of an East Carolina fumble, George Washington scored in four plays. The kick by Gross was successful to put the Colonials ahead.

With seven minutes remaining in the half, the Colonials increased their lead by 3. George Washington moved to the 19 before Gross booted a 36 yard field goal on fourth down to end the first half scoring.

Intercepting a pass from the Pirates on their own 36, George Washington moved farther ahead with another field goal after penetrating to the 21 yard line. Gross continued his kicking display with a 38 yard conversion. Approximately two minutes later George Washington insured the upset victory on a 29 yard touchdown run by Steve Molnar. Gross put the Colonials ahead 20-0 with his extra point kick.

Preventing the first shutout since 1962, the Pirates finally tallied on a 61 yard pass from Dennis Young to Jimmy Adkins. With one minute left in the game, Bob Faris ended the scoring at 20-7 with his extra point.
Playing one of their finest games, the East Carolina Pirates ripped the Davidson Wildcats in the first battle between the two schools since 1957. After a slow first quarter the Pirates came on strong to win 40-7 before an overflowing homecoming crowd in Ficklen Stadium.

Early in the second quarter, East Carolina began to roll by starting a scoring spree stopped only by the final gun. George Gay spearheaded the offense scoring three touchdowns and pitching out to tailbacks Billy Bailey and Dennis Young for two more. With two minutes gone in the second quarter, Gay plunged into the end zone from the one for the first Pirate score. Bob Faris’ point after touchdown split the uprights to give the Bucs a 7-0 advantage.

Davidson started a scoring spree of their own late in the second quarter and early in the third. With eight minutes gone Neal Hughes picked a Davidson pass from the air to give East Carolina possession on the 34. A bewildered Wildcat defense left Young in the open for a lateral from Gay, and Young easily scored. Faris added the extra point to end the scoring at East Carolina 40, Davidson 7.

Trailing at halftime 17-6, the East Carolina Pirates bounced back in the second half to spoil The Citadel's Homecoming hopes 27-17. Sophomore tailback Dennis Young led the Bucs to three touchdowns in the second half to capture the Pirates' third conference win.

Jim Gahagan put the Cadets ahead early in the game with a 25 yard field goal. Quarterback Bill Ogburn increased the lead to 9-0 with three minutes left in the first period, and Gahagan successfully booted the extra point to end the early scoring spree.

East Carolina broke the ice late in the second period, taking full advantage of a Bulldog fumble on the 19 yard line. In three plays, the Bucs scored on a 3 yard run by George Gay. The extra point attempt by Bob Faris failed, and the score remained 10-6. After receiving the kick off, the Cadets marched to the Buccaneer goal line in seven plays and moved ahead 16-6 on a pass from Ogburn to John Griest. Gahagan made the extra point attempt good to put the Pirates at an eleven point disadvantage.

Returning from the halftime break, the Bucs started a touchdown drive that began on the Citadel 48. With approximately 6 minutes elapsed in the third quarter, Jim Flowe tallied from the 1. Peter Moe brought East Carolina one point closer after the score to make it 17-13.

Still trailing, the Pirates moved once again from their own 47 to the Citadel goal in ten plays with Dennis Young carrying for the touchdown. A fumble by Bill Ogburn gave the Bucs the ball once again two minutes later on the Cadet 10. Flowe carried the ball once again on fourth down carrying the ball from the one yard line on fourth down culminating the final big drive of the day for either team. Moe added the last point to put the Pirates on the winning side of a 27-17 score.
Hampered by injuries, the East Carolina Pirates were able to contain Southern Illinois until midway through the third quarter. Illinois took the lead 11-13 on a three-yard plunge by Doug Mougey and ended the game supporting a 31-13 win.

After Southern Illinois established a 7-0 lead in the first quarter, Jim Flowe scored East Carolina's first touchdown of the game in the second quarter on a 3-yard dash. Peter Moe's attempt for the extra point was unsuccessful. With three minutes remaining in the quarter, Mike Bridges scrambled 35 yards for a touchdown. The kick was good and gave East Carolina a 13-7 lead at half-time.

The Salukis came back after half-time to score 24 points and to stop the Bucs completely. At the end of the third quarter the score was SIU 14 and EC 13. Illinois' first play in the fourth quarter ended in a touchdown. Four plays later Southern Illinois kicked in another three pointer with twelve minutes remaining. Ron Williams of Illinois ended the scoring after a 2-yard sprint. The game finished at 31-13.
RICHMOND SUCCUMBS TO PIRATES 28-16.

Playing their way to the number one conference position, the Pirates downed the University of Richmond in East Carolina's final conference game of the 1966 season. With a 28-16 score, East Carolina assured itself of at least a tie for the conference championship.

Scoring for both teams seemed difficult in the first quarter. Finally, Mike Bragg kicked a 42 yard field goal giving the Spiders a 3-0 lead at the end of the quarter. Coming alive in the second period, East Carolina scored two touchdowns—the first on a one yard run by Jim Flowe and the second on a pass from Bill Bailey to Nelson Gravatt for 22 yards. Bob Faris kicked both extra points successfully. With less than a minute remaining in the quarter, Jack Jones received a kickoff on the six and lateralled to Don Everett on the 14. Everett ran 86 yards for a Spider touchdown. The half ended favoring East Carolina 14-9.

Neither team scored in the third quarter despite several fumbles and recoveries. In the fourth period Flowe made another one yard sprint for a touchdown, and Faris' kick was good. Everett scored for the Spiders on a five yard pass from Buster O'Brien. Bragg's kick added another point. The Pirates' final touchdown came on a pass from Bailey to Tom Grant for 57 yards. Faris kicked for an additional point. Scoring ended with two minutes left in the game and gave East Carolina a 28-16 victory margin.

George Gay led East Carolina's ground offense by rushing for a total of 74 yards, and Larry Zunich spearheaded Richmond with 51 yards. O'Brien led all passers with 161 yards. Bailey, with a total of 100 yards, placed second.
Boasting the top defensive record in the country, Southern Mississippi University invaded the Pirates' home field to walk off with a 35-14 victory. East Carolina held a 7-6 halftime edge, but the Southerners proved too strong in the final half and chalked up 29 points.

East Carolina scored first when tailback Bill Bailey fumbled on the 35 and left end Bob Withrow recovered the ball and carried it the rest of the distance to the goal. Southern Mississippi put its first points on the scoreboard with 9:26 left in the quarter on a 19 yard pass from Mike McClellan to Clyde Dowd. The extra point attempt was no good and thus left the Pirates in the lead 7-6.

McClellan moved the Southerners ahead in the third period by passing to Jack McAlpin from the 20. The two point attempt after the touchdown failed and left the Bucs at a 5 point disadvantage. Southern Mississippi increased its lead early in the fourth quarter on a 16 yard field goal by George Sunrall.

With nine minutes left in the game, McClellan threw to Clyde Dowd once again to give Southern Mississippi a 22-7 advantage. East Carolina moved one touchdown closer on a 20 yard pass from Bill Bailey to Jimmy Adkins, but a 92 yard kickoff return by John Johnson moved the Southerners out in front 29-7, and the Bucs did not score again.

Bill Davis ended the scoring for Southern Mississippi by intercepting a pass on the East Carolina 36 and returning it for the touchdown. The extra point attempt was no good and left the score 35-14.

CARDINALS OVERRUN BUCCANEERS.

In the final game of the season for both teams, East Carolina and the University of Louisville collided in Louisville, Kentucky, as the Cardinals rolled over the Pirates 21-7. Paced by All-American candidate Benny Russell, Louisville pushed two touchdowns across the goal line in the last period to break a 7-7 tie and claim the victory.

Playing scoreless ball until late in the first half, the Cardinals finally broke the ice with a 46 yard touchdown pass from Russell to Mike Dennis. Pete Compise successfully booted the extra point to complete the first half scoring.

East Carolina came to life in the third quarter and tied the game 7-7 on a touchdown by sophomore Jim Flowe. The drive began on the Louisville 49 and was carried to the goal line in five plays. The big play came on the East Carolina 29. A lateral from Nelson Gravatt gave the ball to Bill Bailey, who passed to Bob Withrow. Withrow carried the ball to the three and the first down. A penalty against Louisville put the ball on the one, and Flowe carried it from there. Faris' extra point attempt was good.

Early in the fourth period the Cardinals forged ahead for good. Passing from the nine yard line, Russell successfully hit Jim Zamberlin for the score. Compise kicked the extra point once again. With 7:19 remaining, the Louisville Cardinals completed the scoring for the afternoon. In five plays the ball was moved from the Louisville 41 to the East Carolina 23. At this point Russell passed to Lonny Gilbert for the touchdown. Compise marked up his third conversion of the day to make the final score 21-7.

BABY BUCS ROLL TO PERFECT SEASON.

Posting one of the best records in East Carolina's history, the "Baby Bucs", led by Coach Henry Vansant, rolled to an undefeated 5-0-0 season. The team's outstanding performances were highlighted by the fine play of such leaders as Bryan McClure, offensive tailback, and Philip Bilodeau, defensive tackle. Both of these players were selected for the All-State football team.

The "Baby Bucs" began their season in fine fashion by shutting out Frederick Military Academy 13-0. A stout defense stunned the opponents as the East Carolina offensive units tallied the necessary victory margin in their first formal appearance.

In Charleston, South Carolina, the "Baby Bucs" had to overcome a 12-0 halftime score to down The Citadel Freshmen. A slow starting East Carolina offense was held to two first downs and 44 yards rushing in the first half. After intermission the "Baby Bucs" overtook the stubborn hosts to edge the Baby Bulldogs by a 21-19 count.

In the final game the freshmen team completed its undefeated season by romping over Chowan Junior College 69-0. Glenn Chambers scored three touchdowns and Butch Colson two. Tommy Bullock, Mike Bozman, Jim Gudger, John Anderson, and Danny Wilmer added one tally each. Gudger increased the lead by kicking nine extra points.

In the final statistics, the "Baby Bucs" marched for 1811 yards in total offense. McClure was the team leader in total offense with 727 yards, seven touchdown passes, and a 4.5 yards per carry average. The team scored 25 touchdowns for 160 points.

CROSS-COUNTRY

The varsity Cross-Country team compiled a dual meet record of eight wins and two losses in its third year of intercollegiate competition. In championship competition, the Pirate harriers finished second in the North Carolina State Meet.

During the 1966 season, the top five runners were Don Jayroe, Charles Hudson, Terry Taylor, Mike Smith, and John Osborne. Randy Martin and Dick Roth, two distance runners for the Bucs, will be back next season. Ken Voss, a former Marine, will be running for East Carolina in 1968 and will challenge Don Jayroe for the number one spot on the team.

2nd Place Southern Conference Championship

Coach Berryhill keeps a close time check on his charges.
Playing for the first time with a regular coach, the East Carolina soccer team had a record of two wins and six losses. The first victory over Wesleyan College was followed by losses to North Carolina State University, Pembroke State College, and Campbell College. At midseason the team defeated Wilmington College and lost the remaining three games to Pembroke State College, Saint Andrews College, and the University of North Carolina.

Leading scorers for the Pirates were Harry Harris, Co-Captain Gerald Horner, and Jeff McMillan. Outstanding defensive men were Ken Barbour, Co-Captain Charles Pressley, and Larry Price.

Fifteen spunky cheerleaders and a Pirate mascot formed the nucleus of East Carolina's school spirit. Chosen in the spring by a committee of Student Government Association members, coaches, and team members, the cheerleaders worked throughout football and basketball seasons to boost E.C.C.'s school spirit and support the mighty Pirates.

The cheerleaders worked closely this year with the Student Government Association and the Spirit Committee. Under the leadership of Head Cheerleader, Ed Walton, the squad devised new cheers and clever antics.

Actual cheering at the games was only half the cheerleaders' work. Pep rallies, posters, spirit banners, goal post decorations, and hours of practice were a regular part of the cheerleaders' activities. The squad was proud of its "Rebel Yell" cannon, "E.C.U." Great Dane, purple and gold post, "Burn the Spider" pep rally, and game antics that did much to promote East Carolina's school spirit.

With three starters missing from the previous year, new head coach Tom Quinn faced the task of rebuilding the 1966-67 basketball team. Returnees to the squad included guards Jimmy Cox, Bill Francis, Charles LaRue, and Fred Campbell. Gerald Smith and Danny Pasquariello returned to the front court, Vince Colbert, a transfer student from Eastern Utah College, alternated between the forward and center spots. Sophomores who saw a lot of action—Bob Lindfelt, Ken Sabo, and Richard Kier—could give the Pirates a solid foundation next year.

Southern Conference opponents this year were West Virginia University, Furman University, The Citadel, The College of William and Mary, Virginia Military Institute, University of Richmond, and George Washington University. Non-conference opponents included powerful Dayton, the University of Connecticut, and Old Dominion College.
Playing at home for the second time during the season, the East Carolina cagers overcame the Keydets from Virginia Military Institute 72-79 for the first Pirate Victory of the season. Danny Pasquariello topped all scorers with 30 points. Vince Colbert hit in double digits for the eighth straight game with 25 points. Pasquariello also grabbed 13 rebounds as the Bucs enjoyed a 42-24 edge in the rebounding department.

Both teams fought hard with the score tied 22 different times. The Keydets led 44-41 at the half and held a four point edge late in the first period. East Carolina went ahead with approximately ten minutes remaining in the second period and never relinquished the lead.

This victory gave the Bucs a 1-3 Southern Conference record and an overall total of 1-8. The win moved Virginia Military into the cellar of the conference with a record of 1-5 and an overall record of 2-7.

Playing their second home game in four days, the East Carolina Pirates built up a 36-27 halftime lead and went on to roll over the University of Richmond 97-80. Danny Pasquariello led all scorers with his second 30 point game of the season. Vince Colbert also continued his scoring pace racking up 21 points. Colbert pulled down 13 rebounds, top for both teams. Richmond’s Johnny Moates scored 23 in the final half and 26 overall to take top honors for the Spiders.

Richmond led early in the first half by as much as four points. With 15:08 still left on the clock, forward Terry Burgess tallyed on a center jump shot to put the Spiders ahead 10-6. East Carolina’s Danny Pasquariello tied the game 16-16 with approximately 11:30 remaining in the first period to push the Pirates ahead for good.

Pasquariello tossed in a center jump shot to make the score 70-50 to mark the biggest East Carolina margin of the night. The Spiders pulled to within eight points at 72-64 on a shooting spree by Moates before Colbert and Pasquariello found the range again to increase the lead to 17 points before the final buzzer.
With Gerald Smith scoring 34 points, the East Carolina Pirates battled to a 90-88 win over the Monarchs of Old Dominion College. Smith was also the leading rebounder pulling 13 off the boards. Not to be outdone, Vince Colbert got 11 rebounds and 17 points. The center spot was also burning the cords as Danny Pasquariello scored 27 points. Jimmy Cox balanced the Pirate scoring attack with 11 points. The game was tied 22 times before the final buzzer sounded. Down by six points at the half, the Pirates came on strong the last half to capture the fourth straight win. The Pirates were behind the entire first half and did not lead until Colbert hit on a driving lay-up with 18:11 remaining to make the score 55-54. Falling behind by five points, the Buccaneers tied the score at 62-62 with approximately 15:00 to go in the game. Bob Pritchett connected on a center jump shot with 12:32 to go in the game to put the Pirates down by five points once again at 68-63. Smith tied the game for the last time 71-71 on a lay-up. Pasquariello moved the Bucs ahead permanently with 7:40 left at 73-71.
Falling behind only three times in the game, the East Carolina Pirates rolled over the Bulldogs from The Citadel 80-72 in a Southern Conference contest. Vince Colbert led the Bucs with 20 points, followed by Gerald Smith who tossed in 16. Bulldog leader Pat Conroy took game honors with 25 points. The Pirates grabbed a seven point lead early in the opening period, but Conroy tied the game up within three minutes with his outside shooting. The Citadel jumped to a two point lead on a hook shot by Dan Mohr. Smith tied the game up on a driving layup, and Danny Pasquariello put East Carolina back in the driver's seat. Spreading their margin to 17 points on a Colbert layup with four minutes to play, the Pirates controlled the remainder of the game. The Bulldogs put forth a final effort and came within eight points before the game ended with East Carolina winning 80-72.
PIRATES OVERCOME GEORGE WASHINGTON 79-73.

East Carolina fought off a strong last minute effort by the George Washington Colonials to win the fifth game of the season and the fourth conference game in a row. The contest proved to be extremely close being tied seven times in the first half with a 39-39 halftime score and a final of 79-73.

George Washington's Joe Lalli hit for 23 points, and Pirate Gerald Smith finished second in the scoring column with 22. Foul shooting provided the winning margin with the Pirates connecting on 27 of 32 shots from the line. The Colonials hit on 19 of 26.

Grabbing a 2-0 lead immediately after the opening tap, George Washington built up as much as a nine point spread before the first five minutes had elapsed. The Bucs went ahead for the first time with 10:28 remaining in the half on a corner jump shot by forward Vince Colbert. The lead switched several times in the half before ending in a 39-39 tie.

Early in the second period East Carolina's Danny Pasquarello received a two-shot foul to send the Buccaneers ahead 41-39. The Colonials remained down for the rest of the game with the Pirates leading by as much as 14 points three times in the second half. Under the hot shooting of Colonial guards Dick Ellis and Joe Lalli, George Washington cut down the Pirate lead to four points with approximately 1:30 remaining in the game. Clutch foul shooting by Charles LaRue gave the Bucs four points in 30 seconds to provide the final Pirate momentum.
Playing on the Pirates' home court, the Panthers of High Point College lost a 71-70 basketball thriller in the last seven seconds of the game on a winning lay-up by forward Gerald Smith. The contest was the first between the two schools since East Carolina's head coach Tom Quinn left the High Point coaching position last year.

With the lead constantly changing hands in the first seven minutes, High Point went ahead with 12:54 remaining in the first half at 13-12 on a lay-up by center Jim Picka. The Panthers built up as much as a seven point lead before East Carolina caught up and edged in front 26-25 with approximately six minutes to play in the half. Guard Jimmy Cox put the Bucs ahead for the remainder of the half on a jump shot with 2:29 left. East Carolina had established a four point lead when the buzzer sounded.

High Point forged into the lead for the first time in the last period at 55-54 on a shot by Jim Colbert. With 5:37 the Panthers put pressure on the Buc offense going in front 64-63. At one point in the last few minutes High Point led 66-63 for their biggest margin in the half. With the clock showing 23 seconds and a 70-69 score in favor of High Point, Cox stole the ball from Panther guard Chris Lindsay and called a time out. Smith tallied on a lay up to give East Carolina a 71-70 lead and the game.
The College of William and Mary ended an East Carolina home court win streak at five by racing to an 84-72 win in the second meeting of the year between the two schools. East Carolina led briefly early in the game by scores of 4-3 and 6-5 before falling behind permanently. Ben Pomeroy put the Indians ahead 7-6 on a jump shot with 16:45 left in the first half. William and Mary built up as much as a ten point margin in the first period going ahead 24-14. Behind the shooting of Jimmy Cox and Vince Colbert, the Bucs battled back before intermission to make the halftime score 38-34.

In the second half East Carolina never came closer than six points to the Redskins. Pomeroy started the final period with a left corner jump shot making it 40-34. Ron Panneton gave William and Mary its biggest lead of the night on a fast break putting the Indians ahead 75-52. The Buccaneers put on a last minute surge and pulled to within eight points of tying the game. Four final free throws gave William and Mary the final winning margin at 84-72.
Led by guard Tom Miller and center Jim Modlin, the Baby Bucs represented East Carolina against such foes as The College of William and Mary Freshmen, the University of North Carolina Freshmen, and the University of Richmond Freshmen. Highlight of the season at the time of the BUC-CANEER printing was the 22 point victory margin over Chowan Junior College. In a 45 point scoring spree by Tom Miller, the Baby Bucs routed Chowan 86-64.

Under the spirited leadership of Coach Radovich, the starting five were Tom Miller, Jim Modlin, Jerry Cavanaugh, Ed Braford, and Bill Stokes. The Baby Bucs showed marked improvement during the year. The basic defense was a half court man-to-man press balanced with a 1-3-1 offense. Rebounding proved to be a major strength with Modlin and Stokes doing most of the work off the boards.

Reigning as the Southern Conference champions for the second straight year, the East Carolina swimming team included the University of North Carolina, North Carolina State University, Florida State University, University of Florida, and the University of South Carolina. Coached by Dr. Ray Martinez and assistant coach Chuck Norwood, East Carolina made a very respectable showing in the National Championships held in Commerceo, California.

Spearheading the squad were seniors Mike Hamilton and Layne Jorgenson and juniors Owen Paris, Mike Tomberlin, Les Gerber, and Dick Tolvin. First year varsity men included Bill Lafferty, Jim Manchester, Bob Moynihan, Eric Orrell, and John Sutton.

With one loss behind it, East Carolina's wrestling team had eight matches remaining on the schedule when the Buccaneer went to press. Relying heavily on Howard Metzgar, Coach Gantt looked forward to another winning season such as last year's 6-3 overall record. Included on the 1967 schedule were the College of William and Mary, Duke University, Old Dominion College, Davidson College, and The Citadel.

Academics
To prepare selected male students for an interesting, challenging career as an officer in the United States Air Force is the main goal of the Department of Aerospace Studies. The traditional four year Air Force ROTC program is being phased out; and with its departure, lengthy periods of drill and military ceremonies on the campus are disappearing. The new two year Air Force ROTC program now being offered stresses academic proficiency and practical leadership training. In addition to academics, the 140 man Cadet Corps is very active on the campus and in the local area. Major projects of the year have been Air Force ROTC Week, the Campus Blood Drive and the Annual Pitt County March of Dimes Marchathon. Nineteen senior cadets were enrolled in the Flight Instruction Program this year. Upon completion of the campus ground school and flying instruction, the students are eligible to receive the Federal Aviation Agency Private Pilot's License. Upon graduation the flying cadets enter the Air Force flying training.
Numerous hours of classroom study are required to become an Air Force officer.

Being a good artist takes many hours of practice.
Close cooperation and individual association between students and faculty were at a peak this year in the School of Art. As a result of this particular discipline, the excellence and production of the art students increased greatly; and these students considered the art school as their home.

Development and expansion of the Department were shown in many ways. Two courses in photography became part of the commercial art program, and new painting studios were installed in Old Austin. The graphic arts area grew to twice its previous size, and new service areas for ceramics and sculpture were built in the basement of the cafeteria complex. The first issue of Forum 1, a student-produced school brochure, appeared this year. It contained selected reproduced works of the students.
Composed of seventeen departments, the School of Arts and Sciences is the only school on campus divided into departments. Providing the general liberal arts education for all liberal arts majors, this school functions as a central unit between the administration and the individual departments. The school is the largest unit in the college in terms of programs, staff, and students. The progressive School of Arts and Sciences is constantly striving to better its academic standards.

DRAMA AND SPEECH DEPARTMENT OFFERS NEW PROGRAM IN THEATER MANAGEMENT.

Inmate of the French insane asylum, Charenton, pauses by a bucket of blood in Marat-Sade.
Introducing this year new programs in theatre management, stage management, and ornamentation and decor aided in expanding the Drama and Speech Department into a more diversified field of study. Through the addition of a workshop theatre and the regular five annual major productions students were able to pursue a more thorough and comprehensive study of drama. The department offered full complement of courses in public address and sponsored the East Carolina Debate team. During the summer, the department remained active by offering a limited amount of related class work and acting as the producer of a professional summer theatre, embracing the four basic arts affiliated with theatre and speech-drama: dance, radio and television broadcasting, and public speaking. The department offered students professional discipline within the liberal arts concept.
Under the aegis of a new director, Dr. Charles Wiley, the English department this year established a special Library committee with the primary purpose of evaluating the holdings of Joyner Library in various fields of English. The committee concentrated on building up the collections and maintaining them at a current level. The department sponsored the North Carolina Poetry Forum and the Reilly Institute for high school teachers. New graduate and undergraduate courses were added in 1967 to broaden the English discipline at East Carolina College. Administrative Divisions of the Department were the supervisor of the graduate studies, the chairman of Freshman English, the supervisor of student teaching, and special committees appointed by the departmental chairman. Records of English majors were filed this year in a new, streamlined, efficient system.

Perhaps the fastest growing group on campus was the Foreign Language Department. In addition to the four new faculty members, exchange students were engaged from France, Spain, and Latin America for the purpose of broadening the horizons of students by bringing them in contact with the ideas and the cultures of other countries. Language workshops for in-service French teachers were conducted periodically. Next year for the first time, two years of a foreign language will be a requirement for admission to the college.

Recent acquisition of an equipment grant in Aerial Photo Interpretation was one of the many signs of growth in the combined department of Geography and Geology. Geology met the general education science requirements, and students were able to obtain a minor in this area.

As part of the North Carolina Geographic Society, this department participated in the quarterly publishing of the North Carolina Geographer. Throughout the year, seminars for geography teachers as well as bi-weekly seminars for geography majors were conducted. During the past summer, a successful tour through Mexico gave students an opportunity for first-hand geographic study.

Continuing an expanded program of study which began in 1964, the Health and Physical Education Department offered a comprehensive major in physical education. This new program helped prepare majors to become better coaches and teachers. The Department sponsored clinics and workshops in various sports, and it presented on the Greenville Television station a program to acquaint the public with the functions of the Department.

Beginning in the fall of 1967, the men will be taught in the new Men's Gymnasium, and the women will remain in the present gymnasium. The Department offers the individual a complete involvement physically, mentally, and socially.

In conjunction with Phi Alpha Theta, an international honorary history society, the Department of History established the Lambda Eta chapter at East Carolina College to promote for superior students interest and academic achievement in history. The Department of History sponsored the East Carolina Manuscript Collection in an effort to understand America’s past through the preservation of family and personal records and through the collection of historic manuscripts. As a result of the increase in staff members, expanded work on the history of the Far East was undertaken. The Department of History made research its key interest in the belief that scholarly research leads to an active, alert, and interested teaching staff.

DEPARTMENT OF LIBRARY
Co-operating with all Departments, the service division of the library this year became separate from the department of library science. The library boasts twenty-two professional librarians and eleven clerical assistants.

Twenty-seven graduate hours are now offered in the library science major, and all of the courses have been revised to include both book and non-book materials. These courses are supplemented by a new collection of filmstrips, recordings, and transparencies. Last summer the department offered an NDEA Institute and Advanced Study for School Librarians. Another institute of the same nature was recently founded in connection with the United States Office of Education. In addition to the majors, many students take courses to meet certification for school librarians.

Fifty high school mathematics teachers benefited from a grant received by the Mathematics Department from the National Science Foundation. Proud of the academic record of its department at East Carolina, the Philosophy Department strives to develop within its students a profound sense of the problems of individuality, society, and civilization. This year, in an effort to broaden this development, the department incorporated into its regular program a Staff Colloquium Meeting. Twice a quarter, faculty personnel expounded on selected philosophical topics in an effort to share their views with faculty members, philosophy majors, and other interested individuals.

In order to implement its new program leading to the Master of Arts Degree in Political Science, additional courses were incorporated at the senior level, the senior-graduate level, and the graduate level of instruction. In its effort to reacquaint North Carolina social studies teachers with governmental problems, the Department of Political Science sponsored the Institute on Constitutional Democracy and Totalitarianism and a program on Asian Studies. Members of the department lectured in various high schools throughout the state. The department aimed to develop a reputation as a department in which standards of instruction and research were high yet reasonable, in which teaching methods were varied but democratic, and in which students and teachers found a challenge to develop their full potential as intelligent citizens.

In the Psychology Department an excellent group of resident students indicated a wholesome and thorough identification with the professional stance of psychology. The department greatly expanded its student body in both the under-graduate and graduate programs. Internships were in effect at various mental health institutions in the state, and the experimental facilities and the shop were used extensively by the graduate and undergraduate students.

Several new teaching aids were added to the department in conjunction with a National Science Foundation equipment grant given for the school year 1966-67. Installation of Psi Chi, the national honorary fraternity in psychology, was planned.
In the spring of 1966 the Department of Sociology was successful in affiliating with Alpha Kappa Delta, the National Sociological Society. A new course, Social Welfare as a Social Institution, was added to the curriculum; and the Department hoped to draft a proposal for a Master's Degree in Sociology. Each faculty member was encouraged to give comprehensive examinations and to require term or research projects.

Enlarged seminar programs for business executives and expansion of courses in data processing and computer operations emphasized the constant progression of the School of Business. For the first time the School of Business offered a new Master of Business Administration Degree. To develop the total education of business majors, the School of Business sponsored the Executive Development Seminar and the North Carolina Savings and Loan League Program. In this manner, new horizons and facets of the business world were presented to those students oriented in business. As a professional School of Business, it was easily distinguished from the other departments and schools on campus by its specialized subject matter and staff training.
NEW COURSES IN EDUCATION

Installation of audiometric and audiovisual centers increased the facilities of the School of Education. New courses were added to fulfill certification requirements in the areas of Special Education, (mental retardation), speech and hearing, and audiovisual education. The school sponsored on campus seminars for secondary and elementary school officials.

Each faculty member within the School of Education strived to help the student to grow in knowledge and understanding of himself and others and to become a fit person in all aspects of life, especially in the training of young children.

The department offered a combination of liberal and professional education with studies specializing in Home Economics. Synthesizing knowledge derived not only from its own research but also from the humanities and the arts and sciences, the profession of Home Economics applied this knowledge to problems of individuals, families, and the community at large. Home Economics functioned as an interdisciplinary and interrelated field in its contribution to the education of all students.

With a major in Industry, East Carolina College students can now earn a B.S. in Industrial and Technical Education. Seven new courses supporting this degree were added to give the students actual experience in some phase or phases of industry.

This year the Industrial Arts Department hosted the Administrators' Conference at which public school superintendents, principals, guidance counselors, and other school officials discuss problems pertinent to the instruction of Industrial Arts.

Instruction involving co-ordination of hand and mind and an understanding of industry constituted the goals of the department. Its aim was the preparation of the student for intelligent participation in an industrial environment.
Much emphasis is given to the use of electricity as industrial power in this basic electricity class.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

Happy gathering attends the ground breaking ceremonies for the Nursing Building.
EXPANDS FACILITIES.

With the completion of the new School of Nursing this year, the department of Nursing and Medical Technology greatly expanded its training facilities. Under a relatively new program of study, the school provided an opportunity for qualified enrollees to become professional nurses with a broad spectrum of experience in five fields: medical surgery, psychiatrics, obstetrics, pediatrics, and public health.

After four years of extensive training, the student nurses applied their knowledge in college-affiliated hospitals. These institutions included Pitt County Hospital in Greenville, Beaufort Hospital in Washington, Butner Hospital in Butner, and Oteen in Asheville.
Four separate departments of Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Science Education have replaced the old Division of Natural Science. The Biology and Physics Departments gave the Chemistry and Science Education Departments an opportunity to expand.

The Chemistry Department currently worked toward obtaining an American Chemical Society accreditation for its B.S. professional degree, and the Biology Department added a B.S. Degree to its curriculum. Much new equipment was purchased this year. The general physics laboratory has new laboratory equipment. A boat and motor and a departmental station wagon for biology field trips were purchased through National Science Foundation Funds. A forty acre reserve was released to the Biology Department for teaching and research.

A student majoring in a science must pursue one of the most rigorous academic programs and at the same time develop the laboratory techniques necessary to prepare him for his future career.

Completely different from any other department, the Extension Division of East Carolina College took the campus to the students. Registrations in a year's time were greater in number than those of the present campus student body. Credit course offering represented nineteen of the college's twenty-four departments with expansion of non-credit offerings in business, art, and mathematics. Civilian personnel were not the only persons who benefited from the Extension Division. Members of the Armed Forces stationed at Camp LeJeune, Cherry Point, and Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base were offered two-year programs to further their education. As well as carrying academics to those students who could not attend classes on the campus, the division was awarded a grant to establish an Employment and Job Training Information Center.

WRIGHT, CAROLYN A.  Portsmouth, Va.
Culminating a four-year struggle for the majority, seniors hailed the new era for East Carolina College. For a few, however, graduation symbolized the end of a carefree holiday. To each one, graduation was the beginning of a new way of life. Seniors recalled their underclassman days of college gaiety, campus dates, and comradeship. The past led them to realize that their years as undergraduates were ending, they had seen East Carolina College expand during their years of study here. Now they realized that they also, as the 1967 graduates, must move forward.

Sincere juniors reached the half-way mark. They were eager for the final lap of their college careers at the New East Carolina College. Life plans began to take shape. Feelings of inadequacy passed. Success brought both excitement and pangs of sorrow. For college life, much too short, passed quickly. Next year will be their last year to witness the growth of their alma mater.

Finding importance in their ability to help newcomers, carefree sophomores returned to a place which they already knew. They faced ever important decisions in settling down to concentrated study and plans for the future. Sophomores trudged forward, chalkling up fun-filled minutes at the college union, movies, and dances. Individuals took firm stands and began to make their personal contribution to the ever-developing college community.

Naïve Freshmen were awed with the fresh, new collegiate experience. They were unfamiliar, shy, and hesitant; for this was a year of firsts—new friends, registration, homecoming, college basketball games, and spring elections. As the year progressed, they felt that they were really a part of the college.

RELIGIOUS GROUPS
Looking forward to a new student center, the Baptist Student Union of East Carolina College sought to meet the spiritual needs of an increasing number of students. Members of the Union strove to practice their Christian concern and to relate their dedication to Christ through creative service. In cooperation with "Operation Santa Claus," they contributed gifts for mental patients in the area. Each summer the North Carolina Baptist Student Union sponsored a summer mission project, for which the local unit raised one thousand dollars. A midwinter retreat enabled members to relax and enjoy informal discussions. Easter was a very special time for the Union, and the student choir presented a program during that season.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP PARTICIPATES IN YOUTH WEEK.

Students of the Christian denomination affiliated with the Campus Christian Fellowship at East Carolina. The approximately twenty-five active members met weekly for dinner and worship. Several times throughout the year they entertained the foreign students on campus. In January, they participated in the Youth Week activities of the Christian Church in Greenville. With the coming of spring, many of the Fellowship's members ventured to a nearby beach for a retreat.

Steering Committee: Seated, Nancy Joyner, Mrs. Robert Cramer, and Janis Hardy Standing, Paul Allen, Francis Foster, and Sidney Walker.
CANTERBURY EMPHASIZES INDIVIDUALISM.

Informal organization — no officers, no dues, no initiation, no restrictive membership requirements — attracted students from all religious faiths to Canterbury, the Episcopal college student group. Its function was simply that of knowing one another as individuals so that a meaningful relationship might take place. Because of the Canterbury participants’ concern for the uniqueness of the individual as expressed by the life of Jesus Christ and because of their dismay at how one’s uniqueness could get lost in the holes of the IBM cards, they tried to establish at their gathering place at St. Paul’s Episcopal Church the atmosphere of honest concern for one another. They strove to make newcomers and old timers alike feel that they were important and that they had a legitimate contribution to make to East Carolina College. Supper meetings and discussion groups sponsored weekly helped to accomplish their goal to share with others a portion of the loving concern shown by Jesus the Christ.

Bulletin board announces the meeting times of Canterbury and other services at Saint Paul’s Episcopal Church.

HEBREW YOUTH FELLOWSHIP PROMOTES RELIGIOUS RELATIONSHIPS.

To afford the Jewish students on campus an opportunity to gather for Bible study and prayer was the purpose of the Hebrew Youth Fellowship. Since its organization in 1960, the membership more than tripled. Weekly meetings in the Y-Hut and participation in Religious Emphasis Week helped to promote better religious relationships. During special events on campus, such as Homecoming festivities, the Fellowship sponsored special activities for its membership.

Many students attend the Fellowship's weekly suppers at the Y-Hut.

KING YOUTH FELLOWSHIP SPONSORS BANQUET.

King Youth Fellowship served as the voice of the Pentecostal Holiness Church at East Carolina College. Striving to promote Christian fellowship among its members and the East Carolina student body, the organization invited all students to join weekly discussions and other activities. A Homecoming Banquet in October provided social entertainment at a time when the campus was in a festive spirit. An annual trip to a nearby attraction capped the year's activities. THE KING'S KHRONICLE, published monthly by the Fellowship, informed alumni, members, and friends of outstanding events.
LUTHERAN STUDENTS ATTEND ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE.

Officers: Reverend R. L. Dasher, chaplain; Margaret Davis, food chairman; Dianne Tonn, treasurer; Jo Ann Schafford, secretary; Harold Fogleman, president; and Mrs. J. O. Derrick, adviser.

Seeking to be an instrument of the church whereby students express and deepen their faith in Christ, the Lutheran Student Association on campus worked closely with the Lutheran Church in Greenville. It aimed to be a channel where students experienced fellowship, showed a concern for one another’s needs, discussed topics of interest, and worshiped together. Activities of the association included a retreat in the spring and a trip to the Ecumenical Conference in Greensboro, North Carolina, in April.

The Reverend Robert Dasher, chaplain to the Lutheran Association, and members enjoy a good meal and fellowship at the Lutheran Church.
Officers: seated, Mary Beth Mayville, treasurer; Mike Posey, president; and Carol Hallman, vice-president. Standing, Father Michael Shugrue, adviser; Daniel Saied, secretary; and Father Maurice Spillane, adviser.

NEWMAN CLUB INITIATES WEEKLY MASS.

Religious, intellectual, and social activities gave meaning to the spiritual and temporal lives of the members of the Newman Club, an organization of Catholic students on campus. Weekly mass and confession were appreciated new activities begun this school year. These and the availability of a priest on campus were vital to the spiritual enrichment of the members. A spaghetti supper in January and a beach trip in the spring enhanced the fellowship which the students enjoyed weekly.

Westminster Fellowship, the organization of Presbyterian students, became increasingly well-known on campus during the past year. Sponsorship of "The Itch," a modern coffeehouse with an informal atmosphere open on weekends to anyone on campus, made the Presbyterian Student Center a popular attraction for East Carolina students. "The Itch" featured a variety of unusual refreshments, and its sponsors encouraged anyone who had talent or who desired merely to express himself to entertain frequenters. This major project of the Fellowship was well received. Members of Westminster met several times weekly for supper at the student center. Discussions usually followed the meals, and the range of topics considered was almost unlimited. The Fellowship attempted to offer the individual student an opportunity for expression in a friendly atmosphere.

Visiting the Methodist Student Center, a coed writes her name in the student register.
Wesley Foundation, Methodist student organization, provided a ministry of Christian involvement and presence through its program and activities. Apart from the financial assistance provided a number of students through the Methodist Student Loan fund, the Foundation tried to serve each individual by offering an opportunity for a unique encounter with the fundamentals and possibilities of the Christian faith. Toward this end, experiments in worship and study, as well as play, were attempted. Several times weekly, the basement of the student center became a coffeehouse named the "Catacombs." Open for the first time this year, the coffeehouse met with moving success, as it provided what most students wanted—a cup of coffee and a place to talk. Toward future expansion, the Wesley Foundation purchased a house adjacent to the present center and rented it to college students.
Approximately twenty chemistry majors compose the membership of the American Chemical Society Student Affiliate.

CHEMISTRY ORGANIZATION SETS POLICIES FOR FUTURE.

Having recently received its national charter, the American Chemical Society Student Affiliate at East Carolina College continued to lay the foundation of policies and activities to guide the club in future years. It existed to stimulate and maintain an interest in modern developments in chemistry. Students seeking a degree in chemistry were eligible to join. Throughout the school year, the organization presented the chemistry department with handbooks for laboratory work. By sponsoring field trips through industries in eastern North Carolina and inviting lecturers to speak on modern chemistry developments, the club fulfilled its purposes. All members received a special publication featuring chemical and chemical engineering news.
PHYSICS INSTITUTE INVITES LECTURERS.

Students who wished to further their understanding of physics found membership in the East Carolina Student Section of the American Institute of Physics quite rewarding. Through the national organization, the student section brought lecturers and movies pertaining to physics to the campus with no expense. A student placement service was available for students seeking summer employment in their field and jobs upon graduation. During the year, the members took field trips which were pertinent to their interests. An annual spring picnic with the faculty of the physics department completed the year's activities.
Florist gives President Augusta Tetterton hints on making bows for the mums to be sold at Homecoming.

After a tiring day of classes, refreshments are a welcomed part of afternoons.

President Tetterton discusses with the members plans for a trip to the National Headquarters Building.

ASSOCIATION FOR CHILDHOOD
Members enjoy socializing with one another at a monthly meeting.

EDUCATION MAJORS AIDS UNDERPRIVILEGED CHILDREN.

Education majors who planned to teach children in kindergarten through grade six and who had a profound interest in children qualified for membership in the Association for Childhood Education. At Homecoming, the organization sponsored a mum sale in cooperation with a local florist. This was the major money-making project. At Christmas, the members showered a family of underprivileged children with food and gifts. They sent delegates to the state and national conventions in the spring and contributed to the National Headquarters Building Fund in Washington, D.C. An outstanding member of the local Association received the Mary Lois Staton Award for scholarship, leadership, and childhood understanding.

Swimmers practice their maneuvers in preparation for the water show.

Available to advanced women swimmers who passed the tryouts at the beginning of each quarter, the Aquanymphs met weekly to improve strokes and plan water acts. They practiced and enjoyed synchronized swimming and represented the school in extramural competitions. Highlights of the year included Christmas and Spring Water Shows, which featured several water numbers in rhythm to music. Competitions at Furman University and at Queens College rounded out the schedule for the school year.

Officers: Becky Bass, vice-president; Martha Jo Chambers, president; and Judy Bullock, secretary.
Development of leadership and service to the community and college were the purposes of the Circle K Club of East Carolina College. Membership was available only to invited men students who maintained a "C" average and possessed good character.

Of the more than six hundred Circle K Clubs on college campuses in the United States, the club on this campus became one of the most active. Club members served in a number of ways. They sponsored a Christmas party for needy children, ushered for the Student Government Association Entertainment Series, and donated to the Tidewater Blood Bank. In cooperation with the Greenville Kiwanis Club, they gave a scholarship of one hundred and fifty dollars to a deserving student.

Officers: Jim Southerland, treasurer; Noel Matherne, vice-president; Noel Morphis, president; and Brent Jones, secretary.

Promoting gymnastics in the area served by the college through an active gymnastics program for students was the aim of the East Carolina College Gymnastics Club. One group of members in the club participated in gymnastics merely for enjoyment. Others not only enjoyed gymnastics at the college but also performed throughout the area as members of the "Travellers." These performers went to Durham, Windsor, Beaufort, Ayden, Elkin, Camp LeJeune, North Carolina; and they gave a performance at Old Dominion College in Virginia. All these activities were directed toward increasing public interest in gymnastics.

HOCKEY, MODERN DANCE CLUBS ATTRACT COEDS.

Under the sponsorship of the Women's Recreation Association, the Hockey and the Modern Dance Clubs attracted coeds who possessed talent and interest in these activities.

Striving to promote the mastery of body movements, many students who had had at least one quarter or its equivalent in dance participated in the Modern Dance Club. Poise, grace, and agility resulted from their practices in body conditioning. Demonstrations of the modern dance techniques learned during the year were presented in a recital at the end of the school year.

Members of the Hockey Club formed a team which competed with other hockey teams in North Carolina. The efforts of the East Carolina team were seemingly worthwhile, for the girls won a majority of the games they played.
Encouraging professional development of college home economics students, the East Carolina Home Economics Chapter participated actively in activities of the state organization and sponsored numerous projects on campus. Among the membership of the local organization was the treasurer for the college chapter's section of the North Carolina Home Economics Association. The East Carolina Chapter participated with other chapters in an International Scholarship Fund. In September, a tea and picnic honored the beginning and transferring home economics majors. Spaghetti suppers to raise funds provided practical application of home-making talents. The December meeting was the highlight of the year as the members gathered at the Home Management House for a Christmas party and dramatic entertainment. In February, a High School Emphasis Weekend attracted to the campus high school girls aspiring to study home economics. At the Annual Awards Banquet in the spring, the outstanding senior and the outstanding freshman in the department were presented achievement awards; and new members were inducted into the chapter.

Students who majored or minored in Industrial and Technical Education or engineering were eligible for membership in the Industrial and Technical Education Club. The club promoted professional activities among industrial arts students, provided fellowship and interesting activities among the members, and emphasized the need for industrial arts in eastern North Carolina. In the fall, the members sponsored a party for incoming freshmen in the Industrial and Technical Education Department. They subsidized a loan fund which they made available to members. The club sent a delegation to the annual spring meeting of the North Carolina Industrial Arts Association.

KARATE ORGANIZATION COMPETES WITH

Competitive karate meetings with nearby military bases and with colleges kept the spirit and interest at a peak in the East Carolina Karate Organization. Members of the club gave several karate demonstrations during the school year. Progressive belt promotions upon qualification rewarded the members for their effort. The club met twice weekly to keep the members physically fit and to ready them for the competition. Their activities helped to promote the spirit of karate and to enhance competitive karate throughout North Carolina.

LAWS, POLITICS, CONTROVERSIES CONCERN LAW SOCIETY.

Students interested in the law profession found in the Law Society of East Carolina College an opportunity to learn about the responsibilities, skills, and nature of the profession through programs, activities, lectures, and other informational media. Speakers and discussion programs concerning laws, politics, and current national and international controversies led the members to a better understanding of the role of the law profession in society and helped to stimulate the students' intellectual curiosity concerning law and government. Membership in the Society was open to any East Carolina College student.

Library Club Prepares Display for Book Week.

Library science majors or minors, library assistants, and those interested in library work qualified for membership in the Library Club. The club encouraged an interest in the East Carolina College library, promoted fellowship among student assistants, and provided an opportunity for students to discuss library problems and interests. Projects undertaken by the club included distributing posters and doing other work for National Library Week and preparing displays for Children's Book Week.

Mathematics majors gained an insight into their future in their chosen field through membership in the Marie D. Graham Mathematics Club. In the fall, the club sponsored a weiner roast to get the year's activities underway. At the meetings, speakers from industry and the area of mathematics education came to share first-hand information on career opportunities. When speakers were not available, the members enjoyed playing mathematical games and solving brain teasers. The outstanding freshman in the mathematics department received the annual award presented by the club.
Fostering close relationships between the interior design profession and the student and representing the profession to the public and the trades were the overall purposes of the National Society of Interior Designers at East Carolina College. Members developed a better understanding of interior design as a profession through association with a group of people with common interests and goals. Monthly meetings, usually in a home, gave them opportunity to compare ideas and to discuss trends as well as to hear opinions of experts. Members helped to promote interest in interior design as a profession by awarding two scholarships for undergraduate and graduate students in North Carolina.
PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY VISITS MEDICAL SCHOOLS.

Offering membership to any East Carolina pre-medical major who possessed the moral fiber essential to the field of medicine, the Pre-Medical Society revolved on a four-fold program. The purposes of the organization were to stimulate interest in the field of medicine, to provide a ready source of useful information to pre-medical and pre-dental students, to foster a closer relationship between the members and the faculty advisers, and to reward scholastic achievement. Activities in which the members furthered their interest and knowledge of medicine included trips to the Medical School Open House at both the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and Bowman Gray at Winston Salem, sponsorship of guest speakers from medical schools and local hospitals, and reviews of films about medicine.
Stimulating and further developing the practice of good management and the dissemination of good management principles were the purposes of the Society for the Advancement of Management. This organization was the collegiate chapter of the national professional society bearing the same name. Members of the society at East Carolina took field trips to various industries and thereby gained an insight into actual managing situations. Speakers and films at the chapter meetings conveyed the different phases of management and enriched the members' overall view of the profession.
Boasting the second largest chapter in the state and two officers in the Northern District Student NEA, the Student National Education Association of East Carolina College provided valuable opportunities for students preparing for a teaching career. The organization strived to help its members to develop an understanding of the teaching profession through participation in work of local, state, and national education associations. Club activities helped students to develop an understanding of the history, ethics, organizations, policies, and programs of the education profession, and to gain practical experiences in working together on educational problems. Interesting capable young men and women in education as a career and encouraging selective standards for persons admitted to approved programs of teacher education were primary goals of the Student NEA.

Special interest in the mentally retarded and underprivileged children of the area was the basis for most projects on the local Student NEA. By selling fruitcakes at Christmas and candles made by the retarded children, the members collected funds for the Sheltered Workshop of Pitt County. Underprivileged children benefited from the tutoring program in which a club member helped one child for two hours each week during the entire year.

Sociology majors, faculty, and other interested students found in the Sociology Club an outlet for sharing their views of the social sciences. Interchanging ideas and promoting interest in sociology, anthropology, and social service on this campus and wherever its influence in society were the facets which the club emphasized. At the monthly meetings, speakers in the area of sociology came to offer expert knowledge. To crown the activities of the year, the members sponsored Sociology Day in May.

Initiation of the publication of a newsletter, BUCCANEER NURSE, headed the list of the year’s accomplishments of the East Carolina Student Nurses’ Association. A relatively young organization on campus, it grew rapidly in both membership and scope. It strove to promote professional and social unity among the student nurses. At Christmas the members made favors and sang carols for the patients at Pitt Memorial Hospital and Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home. In the spring, a banquet honored the seniors in the club. Looking forward to a new building to house the School of Nursing, the members planned a money-making project to purchase a gift for the building. All their activities aided in the development of student nurses as truly democratic citizens.
Political parties made their debut on the East Carolina College campus in January, 1966, with the organization of the Student Party. Operating for the purposes of initiating programs in the Student Government Association and urging administrative and student officers to enforce these programs, the Student Party was very active. To introduce its programs to the students, it sponsored candidates in the campus elections and supported a number of campus activities. Party members concentrated most of their activity during fall and spring elections. Two delegations participated in the Model United Nations. The Student Party initiated a Book Exchange Program to give students an outlet for disposing of and acquiring used textbooks. Through its School Spirit Program, the Party promoted enthusiasm at athletic events.

Officers: Lynette Lee, secretary-treasurer; Bill Deal, chairman; and Jim Young, vice-chairman.

"Repair the present; plan for the future, with something for all" was the open motto which spurred the development of the college's second political party, the University Party. Though the Party was still very young at the time of the fall elections, it won seats in the Student Legislature and filled other campus offices. Promoting a platform calling for traffic and parking changes, student discount cards, revision of women's probation rules, and East Carolina University status petitions, the members of the party worked with enthusiasm. In January, candidates for spring elections were nominated at the Party Convention.

Through tournament and intramural competition, the Women's Recreation Association encouraged sportsmanship, leadership, and interest in athletics for women students at East Carolina College. Sponsoring athletics throughout the year, the association's schedule included track meets, tennis, volleyball, and field hockey for fall quarter; swim meets and basketball for winter quarter; and softball, archery, badminton, dance programs, and water shows for spring quarter. Teams in volleyball, basketball, and field hockey played other colleges in varsity competition. Climaxing the year of activities was a spring banquet, when awards were presented to the winning dormitory and sorority intramural teams. Individual awards were presented to the dormitory and sorority representatives who had been outstanding in the performance of their duties.
"Striving Toward the Great Society," the current motto for the Young Democrats Club of East Carolina College, expressed the motive for all the activities of the club. Its purposes were to stimulate in young people an active interest in governmental affairs, to increase the efficiency of popular government, to foster and perpetuate the ideals and principles of the Democratic Party, and to help acquaint voters with the issues and candidates. Membership was open to any student who professed and demonstrated allegiance to the principles of the Democratic Party.

Sponsoring rallies, informing the voters on the issues, and providing transportation to polls on election day kept the members busy during the general election early in the school year. Delegates from the club attended a number of conventions, and the club made the initial plans for an Eastern North Carolina Regional College Young Democratic Convention. The club wrote The History of the Young Democratic Club at East Carolina College. An annual banquet in the spring marked the end of the year's activities and the beginning of plans for a new year.

ELECTIONS STIMULATE ACTIVITY AMONG YOUNG DEMOCRATS.
YOUNG REPUBLICANS SUPPORT CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT.

Avid campaigning for a local Republican candidate to Congress led the fall activities of the Young Republicans Club. A desire to work toward a revitalization of sound, conservative, free enterprise philosophy of government was the requirement for membership in the Young Republicans Club at East Carolina. The club strove in all its doings to help restore the two-party political system to North Carolina. Films and speakers at the meetings helped the Young Republicans to see their places in local, state, and national government.
Radio station WECC-AM, located in Joyner Library, served as the voice of East Carolina College. Approximately forty students worked to broadcast Sunday through Friday every week. During their UNICEF (United Nations International Children’s Emergency Fund) Marathon in October, the student announcers sported the motto, “We stay awake so that others might live.” Two disc jockeys stayed awake and broadcasted for fifty-four hours while other staff members collected donations for UNICEF from the students and faculty of the college. They reached their goal of $525. At Homecoming, the radio staff won first place for its float in the parade. Every Friday and Saturday night it sponsored remote dances in the College Union. At Christmas, it celebrated with a party and invited two orphans to share the festivities.

During spring quarter, the student broadcasters enjoyed their annual banquet, at which outstanding staff members received recognition awards.

Several academic courses at East Carolina College were delivered to the students through WECC-TV, the closed-circuit television station. Although the number of students who helped with the telecasting varied each quarter, there was an average of about twenty student workers. They operated cameras and audio equipment for the course instructors. Courses in government, geography, health, and music appreciation were taught on the closed-circuit television.

Outstanding student workers who qualified for "Best Cameraman," "Best Director," or "Most Valuable Member" received awards at the end of the year.
MILITARY ORGANIZATIONS
ANGELS ACT AS HOSTESSES FOR AFROTC.

Angel Flight was an honorary organization of dedicated college women who had at heart the interests of the United States Air Force, the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps, the Arnold Air Society, and their school. Approximately 3,000 interested and selected women from over 100 colleges and universities in the United States comprised this non-profit organization. The Angels had three main ideals. These were to maintain a high morale within the Air Force ROTC unit of East Carolina College by serving as official hostesses for the Corps, to further through service the recognition of the Air Force ROTC by the college; and to acquaint members of Angel Flight with the Air Force ROTC, the air age, and air education.

Membership in the General Chennault Flight of East Carolina was open to college women with a "C" average and with a genuine interest in serving the community and East Carolina College. No military obligation was associated with Angel Flight.

Local Angels helped with Air Force ROTC Week, the March of Dimes Drive for crippled children, the Military Ball, the Armed Forces Day Parade, the support of underprivileged children at Christmas, Drill Team Competitions, Parents' Day, Homecoming, and various other campus activities. Deserving members received a Best Pledge Award, a Leadership Award, and a Scholarship Award.

Interested coeds learn about Angel Flight at the winter rush party.
Arnold Air Society sought to advance air and space citizenship; to further the mission, tradition, and concepts of the United States Air Force; and above all, to build the men who would be future Air Force officers. The General Chennault Squadron of the Arnold Air Society at East Carolina College was a professional honorary service organization of selected Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets. To be eligible for brotherhood a cadet had at least a "B" average in his Aerospace Studies curriculum and maintained a "C" average in overall scholastic work. The Air Force Fraternity proudly boasted a roster of thirty-five members.

Under the leadership of the new adviser, Lieutenant Colonel Douglas F. Carty, the Chennault Squadron maintained its tradition of being the outstanding squadron in the area. Arnold Air Society sponsored Angel Flight, an auxiliary branch of this service organization, and the nationally recognized East Carolina Drill Team, a precision drill unit which toured the East Coast. The Society undertook an Area Blood Drive for the National Red Cross, the annual Marchathon for the March of Dimes, a high school visitation program, an annual Christmas Party for underprivileged children in the area, orphanages in Viet Nam, the Military Ball, a float for the Homecoming Parade, and many other projects on the local, national, and international scale.

Service was the primary objective, but there were other activities. Arnold Air Society sponsored many social activities during the academic year. These included ball games, picnics, beach trips, and parties. Many brothers attended the National Conclave in Miami Beach, Florida.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY UNDERTAKES BLOOD DRIVE.
In preparation for roles as Air Force officers, many male students participated in the Air Force Reserve Officers Training program offered at the college. These students who had excelled academically learned to become not only proficient future Air Force officers but also excellent speakers. This achievement was accomplished through an advanced speaking course offered the cadets by the ROTC program.

Although the Air Force ROTC program stressed academics, it also placed great importance on physical conditioning. The nationally known 5BX physical exercise program kept the cadets physically fit throughout the year.

With the installment of the new two-year program and the elimination of the previous four-year program, greater emphasis was placed on the individual cadet. He was enabled to excel in academic and military leadership—the type of leadership needed to protect this nation.

PRESIDENTIAL TEA HONORS CADET CORPS.

Tea at the home of President Leo W. Jenkins honors Air Force ROTC Cadet Corps.
Composed of sixteen performing members and their Commanding Officer, Cadet 1st Lt. Ronald O. Brock, the East Carolina Honorary Drill Team practiced precision marching. The Drill Team consisted of sophomores and juniors in the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps. Participation in the East Carolina Homecoming Parade marked the first performance of the year. Soon after the beginning of the winter quarter of study, the pace of the Team's performances quickened. The members marched in the Greenville, Edenton, Wake Forest, and Kenly Christmas Parades.

After Christmas, the serious matter of organizing drill competition began. Near the end of January, in the annual Marchathon, the Drill Team marched and performed in various parts of Greenville to collect money for the March of Dimes. Spring competitions included an invitational drill meet at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, N.C., and the Maryland Invitational Drill Meet in Washington, D.C.
November 14, after weeks of planning and many long hours of hard work, Air Force ROTC Week, 1966, became a reality. Air Force ROTC Week with its agenda of spectacular events was conceived, organized, and implemented by the corps of cadets. The major attraction of the week, drawing some 5,000 spectators, was a full-scale exhibit of the Titan II Intercontinental Missile—the same type that lifted the Gemini astronauts into space—and the X-15 experimental Rocket Plane.

Other events included city and college officials’ review of the ROTC Honor Guard, a survival display from Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base, a film shown in the College Union featuring Air Force highlights and Space Operations, an ROTC Drill exhibition, and a senior night at Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base. The purpose of Air Force ROTC Week was to create an interest in the new two-year Air Force program and to promote a better understanding of the United States Air Force and Air Force ROTC. The project received national publicity and met with moving success.

SEVENTEEN CADETS TAKE FLIGHT INSTRUCTION.

One of the most interesting and exciting facets of the many opportunities available through the Air Force ROTC was the Flight Instruction Program. Here at East Carolina College, seventeen cadets took advantage of this unparalleled opportunity to learn how to fly. A very important source of pilot candidates to the Air Force, the program provided a course of instruction that determined whether those who met the high mental and physical requirements had the aptitude necessary to enter Flight Training in the Air Force. The Flight Instruction Program provided the complete course of instruction necessary for the receipt of the F.A.A. private pilot's license. The student participant received thorough ground schooling, which covered instruction in basic principles of aero-dynamics, meteorology, and navigation.

Actual flight instruction was administered by the experienced civilian instructors at the Pitt-Greenville Airport, which was readily accessible to the college campus. These lessons prepared the student not only for competent operation of a Cessna 150 but also for a better chance of becoming a pilot in the United States Air Force.

DISTINGUISHED OFFICERS ATTEND DINING-IN.

To provide an opportunity for the growth of friendship and comradeship and to serve as an impetus to promote "esprit de corps" among the cadets, the Air Force ROTC met for its eighth annual formal Dining-In in November in the South Cafeteria. In all respects, the evening was an outstanding success. The Dining-In began with a short social period in which the cadets met and conversed with the guests and with one another. In addition to the dignitaries from the college and the city, three distinguished officers from Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base attended: Colonel Robert V. Spencer, Commander of the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing; Captain Robert V. Becker; and Lieutenant Elisha P. Weaver. Colonel Spencer gave the principal speech, discussing leadership and a career in the Air Force. Captain Becker shared the highlights of his recent tour in Viet Nam, and Lieutenant Weaver told the cadets about his experiences in the United States Air Force pilot training program. The 150 personnel in attendance also saw movies and slides of Southeast Asia.

Awards presentation for the outstanding work of selected cadets was a highlight of the evening. The entire Dining-In reflected the good planning and organization of the cadets.
Greeks
Fraternity and sororities have long been associated with lasting friendships formed during the college years. The word "Greek" is synonymous with friendship and brotherhood. The majority of fraternities and sororities also have service projects, often in cooperation with one another. In addition to their many social functions, all of the Greeks participate in campus activities.

Among their social functions, Homecoming is a time of much excitement and long hours of hard work for the social sororities and fraternities on campus. Each organization has an open house to welcome visiting alumni and parents. Winter quarter is highlighted by both formal and informal rush. During this period, each student has the opportunity to observe the different personalities of each group and choose the one that he prefers. As member of a Greek organization, a student finds satisfaction and fulfillment in his fraternity life.

This Greek tries her hand at kicking a football in the Lambda Chi Field Day events.

Governing and unifying the eight social sororities on campus were the tasks of the Panhellenic Council. Composed of a junior and a senior representative from each sorority and a president from one sorority, Panhellenic governed formal rush. Informal rush, however, was conducted by each individual sorority. Through Panhellenic, a scholarship was awarded the sorority maintaining the highest average. Local publication of The Wheel of Sisterhood acquainted rushees with all sororities at East Carolina.
INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL ACTS AS LEGISLATIVE BODY OF FRATERNITIES.

Serving as a unifying and governing body for the fraternities, the Inter-Fraternity Council was composed of the presidents and representatives from each fraternity on campus. The body acted in a legislative capacity by determining the rules each fraternity followed during informal and formal rush.

The council held judicial power in cases involving violation by fraternities of the Inter-Fraternity charter or of their own chapter’s charter.

In conjunction with the Inter-Fraternity Council, the Board of Trustees presented annual awards honoring the fraternity with the highest scholastic average and one award to the fraternity that had done some outstanding service. Mr. James Mallory, Dean of Men, presented a trophy to the pledge class maintaining the highest scholastic average.
111 Chapters. Founded at Wesleyan Female College, Macon, Georgia, 1851. Delta Omicron Chapter established 1960.

Alpha Delta Pi successfully publicized and collected money from prominent Greenville businessmen and citizens for “diddy bags” which were sent to servicemen in Viet Nam. Conducting a door-to-door preschool survey for the city schools and serving as pages for the Model United Nations at East Carolina during spring quarter rounded out the year’s service projects. Annual social activities included a Founder’s Day Banquet and a spring beach weekend. Enthusiastic participation of Alpha Delta Pi in service and social activities encouraged the sisters to uphold the highest ideals of Christian womanhood and to promote scholarship and campus leadership.

Fall rush party brings fun and excitement to this group of girls.
To raise money for their national philanthropy, the Social Work Division of the Frontier Nursing Service in Kentucky, the sisters of Alpha Omicron Pi sold doughnuts in the fall. In cooperation with the Salvation Army, the sorority give a Christmas party for underprivileged children in the Greenville area. With the coming of winter quarter, the AOPis directed their efforts toward formal rush and the annual Rose Ball given in honor of new pledges. For active participation in intramural sports, the sisters held the Women’s Recreation Association trophy for outstanding sorority participation in sports. The AOPis won first place for their float in the Homecoming parade.

“Outstanding Sorority Award” for the past two years was awarded the sisters of Alpha Phi. Pi Kappa Phi presents this award each year. To merit this award, the Alpha Phis participated in a wide range of campus and community activities from the annual Greek All-Sing and intramural sports to helping with the Arthritis Drive and the Cardiac Aid. As an additional and extremely rewarding project, the sisters and pledges acquired the sponsorship of a child in Viet Nam. Winning the Alpha Omicron Pi scholarship trophy last year proved the scholastic excellence of the sisters.

Highlighting fall quarter for Alpha Xi Delta was the sponsorship of the annual Greek All-Sing. This year's All-Sing entitled "Sounds of Success" featured many Broadway hits in the program. Homecoming brought a special delight to the Alpha Xi house in the form of first place in the sorority division of house decorations. Christmas festivities, formal rush, and fraternity socials kept the Alpha Xis busy during winter quarter. Plans were finished for the sponsorship of an orphan overseas as this year's philanthropy. The coming of spring quarter found the Alpha Xis planning their annual Pink Rose Ball formal dance.

Supporting community drives, the Chi Omega sorority participated in the drives for the United Fund, Viet Nam, and UNICEF. Helping the underprivileged, the sisters gave a Thanksgiving basket to a Greenville family and, in conjunction with Delta Sigma Pi, spread Christmas cheer to needy children. Working closely together on the All-Sing is culminated in a successful product.
Political excitement ran high at the Delta Zeta house on election night as the sisters kept the campus informed on the state election returns via a special hook-up with the local newspaper and television coverage. Interested students, faculty, and citizens attended a coffee hour as they awaited the final returns. Delta Zeta added a special touch on Halloween by surprising fellow Greeks with candy-filled pumpkins and by giving a masquerade party at the Greenville Nursing Home.

In conjunction with the Rebel, East Carolina’s literary magazine, sisters and pledges sponsored an art contest. Philanthropic endeavors included clothing a needy child at Christmas; participating in “Operation Santa Claus;” a local drive for the mentally retarded; and visiting each month a local convalescence home.

Carrying out plans made by several local members at the National Convention in the Grand Bahamas, sisters honored all sorority presidents and housemothers with an afternoon tea during a visit of their province president. Zeta Lambda in April participated in Delta Zeta State Day.

Kappa Delta entertained the Brothers Four after the concert last spring quarter. It was an event the KDs will long remember. Kappa Delta campus and community activities include the Arthritis Drive, Blood Mobile, United Fund, and Sorority Bowling League. The sorority annually hosts a cook-out for the East Carolina varsity football team and "coffees" for various fraternities. Each year Kappa Delta presents a trophy to the most outstanding senior woman on campus.

Alpha Epsilon Pi began fall quarter by hosting delegates from Virginia, West Virginia, and North Carolina in the First Regional AEPI Conclave. Brothers from these states participated in a football game and attended a dinner and dance at the Candlewick Inn. Other activities included a Halloween party and dedication of a Memorial Library in honor of Howard M. Rubin, one of the local founders. Although AEPI is the smallest fraternity on campus, the brothers worked closely in all their projects, such as redecorating their house.

To show their loyalty for the "Old South" the brothers of Kappa Alpha donned the uniforms of the Johnnie Rebs and brought to life the conflict between the Union and the South. Although the KAs upheld the traditions of the South at all times, they did not wear on campus the gray uniforms until the beginning of their beach weekend, appropriately named "Old South."

During the year the KAs staged a simulated train robbery and gave a Christmas party, both events for underprivileged children. Brothers sponsored a Field Day for the Greenville city schools and both a little league football and baseball team. In January, the brothers celebrated Robert E. Lee's birthday and the founding of Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Belles of the Old South are presented their invitations to the weekend festivities.

As the youngest national fraternity on campus, the brothers of Kappa Sigma were proud of their recently acquired charter. Kappa Sigma's enthusiasm in campus and fraternal activities was noted by their one hundred percent participation in the blood drive for Viet Nam and by the opening of their new house during fall quarter. Annual winter activities included the celebration of Founder's Day and the Kappa Sigma Sweetheart Dance. Spring marked the season for beach weekends and service projects which aided the brothers in fulfilling their purpose of fostering Christian brotherhood and promoting the university, community, and individual man. Looking to the future with confidence for more success, the Kappa Sigma fraternity continued to grow.

Scholarship played a large role in the activities of Lambda Chi Alpha as the brothers and pledges captured the Tursteer Scholarship Trophy for the highest overall fraternity average. One of the brothers was awarded the Phi Kappa Tau scholarship trophy for the highest individual academic average among fraternity men.

Beach weekends, Lambda Chi field day of sororities, and the Inter-fraternity "Tug-O-War" filled the spring calendar. Lambda Chi Alpha maintained an active program of philanthropic service such as collecting for the Heart Fund, giving Christmas and Easter parties for underprivileged children, supporting the Blood drive, and sponsoring a little league football team. This year the Lambda Chis boasted a new party room, which was painted by the pledges.

Celebrating their annual “Woman Hater Week,” the Phi Taus enjoyed heckling every girl who dared to approach their house during this week before Homecoming. The brothers who conversed with coeds were punished by being locked in a cage on the campus mall. A few of the sororities joined forces in hope of defeating the Phi Taus at their own game; however, the Phi Taus defended their honor with the capture of only a few brothers.

Phi Kappa Tau brothers and pledges were hosts to twenty underprivileged children at the East Carolina-Richmond football game. The brothers also participated in the Red Cross Drive.

One of the highlights of the year for the Phi Taus was homecoming weekend. They had as their guests at the football game the Four Seasons, who also performed at the Phi Tau homecoming party.

Activities and excitement of homecoming and formal rush opened the year for the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha. Brothers participated in various fraternity service projects such as the Blood Drive, March of Dimes, clean-up Greenville, and a Christmas party for underprivileged children. They sponsored an Easter egg hunt for children of the faculty, a traditional Dream Girl Ball, and Concert by the Sea. As the close of school and graduation approached, the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha presented two of their members with the pledge of the year award and the brother of the year award.

Beginning the year with a full calendar, the local Sigma Nu chapter concentrated on plans for homecoming and formal rush during fall quarter. As winter quarter approached, the chapter acquired its own lodge, located on the outskirts of Greenville. Winter marked the annual pledge pilgrimage to Sigma Nu Headquarters in Lexington, Virginia. Notable accomplishments for the year were the winning of first place in the fraternity division of Homecoming House Decorations, first place in the I.F.C. track meet, and first place in intermural softball. Tradition set the pace for fraternity events of winter quarter such as the Founder’s Day Ball, Thanksgiving Dinner, and a Christmas party. Awaiting the Theta Chis in the fall was a surprise summer pledge project. Pledges converted an unused storage room and furnished it with wall-to-wall carpet. Theta Chi ended a very successful rush fall quarter boasting 30 pledges and taking the lead among fraternities for the largest membership on campus. The brothers captured first place in the fraternity division of the Alpha Xi Delta All-Sing with a quartet singing popular folk songs. At Christmas the Theta Chis entertained with a party for the residents at the Nursing Home in Greenville. After the holidays the brothers planned the coming of their Dream Girl Dance in January, which spotlighted the crowning of the Theta Chi Dream Girl. Rated fourth among chapters in the United States by its national, the fraternity served the college by participating in the blood drive and the Student Government.

Alpha Phi Omega, the largest service fraternity in the United States, was dedicated to serving that campus of which it was a part. The brothers strived to provide the college with the best possible service and gave of time and talents to that end. Service to the campus was not their only objective. They strived to serve the community, the nation, and themselves as well. Although basically a service fraternity, it was not without entertainment. Homecoming and the White Ball provided the local brothers of Alpha Phi Omega with opportunities of fine entertainment. Proceeds from the Alpha Phi Omega White Ball went to the Crippled Children's Organization, and the brothers participated in drives for the Christmas Seal and tuberculosis funds.

DELTA SIGMA PI . . .

Delta Sigma Pi was the only professional fraternity on campus which served a twofold purpose, business and pleasure. It was the professional business fraternity dedicated to serving the commercial and cultural advancements of the college and the community. Although this was a professional fraternity, the members had a chapter room where they enjoyed dances and other social events. This year Delta Sigma Pi sponsored a dinner meeting for the Coastal Plains chapter of the North Carolina Association of Coastal Plains Association. They gave a Christmas party with Chi Omega for the under-privileged children. In conjunction with the School of Business, Delta Sigs sponsored a typing contest for the surrounding high schools.

Encouraging scholarship, service, and leadership, the Gamma Beta Phi Society was the college organization resembling the high school National Beta Club. A relative newcomer to the campus, it sponsored throughout the year regular rush periods to enable eligible students to seek membership. Most projects of the club were directed toward serving the college and its students. Each year the Gamma Beta Phi awarded a scholarship to a deserving high school senior Beta Club member planning to attend East Carolina. In the fall, the members gave a reception for former Beta members to acquaint them with the organization and to welcome them to the campus. Other services rendered by the Society included assisting with the faculty evaluation and working with the Student Government Association Spirit Committee.

Music of all varieties was the keynote for the brothers of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity of America. Scope of musical endeavors ran from classical to popular as Phi Mu Alpha brothers participated in a wide variety of campus productions. Fall and winter quarters found them vocalizing for the All-Sing and Wind Ensemble Concert and adding a touch of harmony to the holidays by Christmas caroling. Spring quarter brought the presentation of the Fraternal Spirit Award to the graduating brother who had exhibited outstanding leadership and fraternal spirit throughout his membership in Phi Mu Alpha.

Gamma Theta Upsilon was the only honorary geography fraternity on campus. Its purposes were to further professional interest in geography by affording a common organization, to advance the professional status of geography as a cultural and practical subject, and to create and administer a loan for further study in the field of geography. Gamma Theta Upsilon installed a map in front of Wright Building showing the entire campus in detail.
One of the newest honorary fraternities on campus, Phi Alpha Theta assisted schools and community organizations in historical research. Phi Alpha Theta International Honor Society in History promotes the study of history and the exchange of learning and thought among historians. Phi Alpha Thetas from East Carolina aided high school students in Washington, North Carolina, in furthering their special interests in history as the society's main project for the year. Other activities in which Phi Alpha Theta's enterprising young historians participated furthered the encouragement of research and publication by its members.

Students and faculty worked together to promote philosophical interest and inquiry as well as academic excellence in the honorary society of Phi Sigma Tau. At weekly meetings, philosophical and humanistic topics were informally discussed. Such an intermingling of ideas and opinions broadened the members' views of current ideologies. Phi Sigma Tau had quarterly induction dinners where new members read symposium-type papers that they had written on a given topic of interest.
Promoting scholarship, encouraging civic responsibility, fostering high ethical standards and service as the basis of all worthy enterprise were the purposes for which Pi Omega Pi, honorary fraternity for Business Education majors, was established. This year, the Pis sponsored a candy sale, helped a needy family at Christmas time, and sent delegates to the national convention in Chicago. Tennessee Williams' "Night of the Iguana" brought shocking reality to the East Carolina stage. Binding tensions were heightened by the bitter irony that allowed a priest bound in sin to free one of "God’s Creatures" from the torture he himself could not escape. Strangely beautiful lighting effects of George Schreiber combined with the run-down inn, roaring wind, and tropical rain of John Sneden to set the stage for the stirring drama. Hannah Jelkes, a woman artist traveling with an elderly poet, became emotionally involved with the Reverend T. Lawrence Shannon. Maxine Faulk came to despise Hannah in her jealous attempt to claim the defrocked priest for her own. Edgar Loessin, East Carolina’s noted playhouse director, merited the torrents of praise received for his moving production of "Night of the Iguana.

Delightfully entertaining, the play Life with Father was built around the Victorian belief that the father was the absolute ruler of the household. The belief became questionable, however, as the warm, human family was hopelessly involved in hilarious situations. Joan Sneden’s elaborate Victorian set was the ideal background for the tyrannical father, who displayed his stern but comical authority over his beautiful wife and his three lively red-haired sons. Albert Pertalion very skillfully directed the play to achieve a very excellent production of Life With Father.

Stop the World, I Want to Get Off," a symbolic satire on the "man who wants to get ahead," became a very moving tribute to the East Carolina Playhouse as the opening night audience rose in a standing ovation at the drop of the final curtain. Little Chap, the self-made, self-centered man, gained all he strove for but lost all he really needed in life. Stop the World was centered around this characterization of "every modern man" and concerned Little Chap’s sacrificing all for himself. The satire unfolded with undisputed excellence under the direction of Edgar Loessin with John Sneden as Little Chap performing before a spacious set of his own design. Book, music, and lyrics were by Leslie Bridusse and Anthony Newley with lighting by George Schreiber and music direction by Gene Namour. The musical maintained its superior quality through Little Chap’s final rendition of "What Kind of Fool Am I?"

HAUNTING SCREAMS ELECTRIFY "MARAT/SADE" PRODUCTION.

Screams, moans, and wild outbursts punctuated "Marat Sade," a play considered by many leading New York and London critics the most exciting and powerful play of the decade. East Carolina College was among the first, if not the first, colleges to produce this dynamic play.

Inmates of the Asylum of Clarenton were directed by the Marquis de Sade as they enacted a play written to entertain aristocratic visitors to the asylum. Revolving around the assassination of Jean-Paul Marat by Charlotte Corday, the play-within-a-play became complicated with Marat's plans of a revolution for France. "Marat Sade" unfolded with a unique perfection under the skilled direction of Edgar Loessin down to the last moment when the inmates of the asylum, madly screaming and clapping in response to the final ovation, rushed toward the audience.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA MAINTAINS HIGHEST STANDARDS.

Requiring excellence of style and performance on an orchestral instrument, the East Carolina College Symphony Orchestra maintained high standards as the only resident symphony orchestra in Eastern North Carolina. Directed by Mr. David Serrins, the orchestra was composed of eighty members carefully selected by audition. In November, a concert was presented featuring Mendelssohn's "Symphony No. 4 in A Major, Op. 90," Debussy's "Nocturnes," and the Bach-Schoenberg "Prelude and Fugue in E Flat Major" from the "Clavierubung, Part III." A February concert was followed by a performance in May at the Contemporary Music Festival.

SYMPHONIC BAND TOURS NORTH AND SOUTH CAROLINA.

Composed of selected personnel, East Carolina’s Symphonic Band appeared in winter and spring concerts, at commencement, at the Contemporary Music Festival, and at the annual Christmas program. This year the tour took the band through North Carolina and South Carolina. Directed by Herbert L. Carter, Symphonic Band membership through audition limited the enrollment and increased the quality of performance.
Excitement and school spirit reached a high peak as the East Carolina Marching Pirates stepped into action with colorful uniforms, exact formations, and a rousing rendition of "Dixie". The 160-member pirate band was an impressive background for East Carolina's six attractive majorettes who executed precision routines in perfect harmony with the music of the Marching Pirates. Under the direction of George W. Knight, the Marching Band appeared in halftime ceremonies at all home football games. This year the band traveled to Washington, D.C., to perform in the East Carolina College versus George Washington University game.
Wearing their showy pirate uniforms, the East Carolina majorettes are Billie Gail Normen, Sandra Haney, Marie Gerlach, Laurie Jones, and Linda Jones with Chief Frankie Lamm.

Excellence in performance comes only after hours of rehearsal.
Limited in membership, the Concert Choir was selected from among sophomores, juniors, and seniors with consideration of grades and private auditions. The Concert Choir, under the direction of Mr. Charles W. Moore, in April made its annual tour through North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia. The group also appeared at the Music Educator's National Conference in Atlanta. After many hours of rehearsal, the Concert Choir in conjunction with the College Chorale and the Symphony Orchestra presented Mendelssohn's "Elijah."
Musical experience became available for non-music majors through the East Carolina Varsity Band, conducted by Mr. George W. Knight. Open to every student with high-school musical experience and to all freshman music majors, the Varsity Band presented a spring concert and several lawn concerts. This group added additional excitement to East Carolina basketball games by providing lively pep bands that backed the East Carolina cheerleaders in urging the Pirates to victory.

New in the East Carolina Music Department this year was the College Chorale directed by Mr. Paul Aliapoulios. The Chorale, seventy members strong, performed a wide variety of music ranging from the a cappello and accompanied literature of the great choral masters to the lighter music of today. The College Chorale joined the Concert Choir in December to perform Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Following rehearsals through winter and spring quarters, a concert was presented in April.

WOMEN’S CHORUS EMPHASIZES TECHNIQUE AND INTERPRETATION.

Although not a performing group, the East Carolina Women’s Chorus played an important role in the music curriculum of the college. Directed by Mrs. Bobbie Matthews, the Women’s Chorus was composed of students from many major fields who desired to gain technique in ensemble work. The chorus studied many areas of music with some emphasis on the Negro spirituals such as “Sometimes I Feel Like a Motherless Child.” No audition was required for membership in the Women’s Chorus. It was possible for every girl who was interested to further her choral training.

Interpretation and expression are stressed in the Women’s Chorus.

Director, Mrs. Bobbie Matthews; Accompanist, Roberta White; Officers- Linda Wright, Breece Daniels, Betty Hobbs, Janice Mumford, Christina Midgett, Scarlett Mays, Judy Farel, Jan Harris, and Brenda Fimbro.
MEN'S GLEE CLUB PERFORMS
WITH ST. MARY'S GLEE CLUB

According to Director Clyde S. Hiss, the goal of Men's Glee Club was "to encourage an understanding of the best vocal literature for men's chorus." During their three practices every week, the men could be heard preparing for the two major concerts, one in conjunction with St. Mary's Glee Club in Raleigh. The Men's Glee Club presented several short programs before local civic groups. Membership was available through audition with the director at the beginning of each quarter.

WOMEN’S GLEE CLUB SINGS IN LOCAL HIGH SCHOOLS.

Forty members strong, the East Carolina Women’s Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Beatrice Chauncey, prepared for the numerous concerts performed at several high school and military clubs. An annual Spring Concert with the Men’s Glee Club culminated a year's work for the glee club. In order to gain a wide variety of experience, the Women’s Glee Club sang music from many areas of composition: sacred music, choral literature of Brahms and Schubert, and medleys from Broadway musicals as My Fair Lady and South Pacific. Attractive uniforms added appeal to the women as they sang with a perfection that came only from rehearsing many hours each week of the year. The Women’s Glee Club was open through audition to any student.
Informally organized, the East Carolina College Poetry Forum, composed of students and non-students, met to discuss seriously the reading and writing of poetry and other literary achievements of the forum members and contemporary authors. The forum conducted private discussions and several poetry readings of the work of members. The group encouraged the reading, writing, and criticizing of modern poetry and provided an environment for growth in creativity and in critical awareness and expression. Recently published by the forum was an anthology entitled Word-Gatherers, a collection of student-faculty poetry.
Providing an exchange of ideas between the East Carolina Art Department and other art schools, the College Artist's Association this year was an important contributor to the cultural advancement of the East Carolina student body. The organization strived to educate culturally the public through art shows. During the Christmas season, paintings and other art projects were displayed throughout Greenville in many stores as well as along the sidewalks. The organization promoted fellowship in the art school through extra-curricular activities such as the Christmas art show. A service organization, the College Artist's Association aided the East Carolina Art Department in building and planning many art shows.
WESTMINSTER CHOIR PRESENTS CONCERT AT

Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze

New York Brass Quintet
Presented by the East Carolina College Student Government Association, the Fine Arts Series drew hundreds of students, faculty, and local residents of Greenville to its superb concerts. In October, the New York Brass Quintet performed pre-Bach pieces as well as modern compositions. The quintet featured Robert Heinrich, trumpet; Paul Ingraham, French horn; Robert Nagel and Harry Phillips, tubas; and John Swallow, trombone. Highlighting December, the Orchestra Michelangelo di Firenze presented music of the Baroque and Classical periods as well as rarely heard works of the nineteenth century. The orchestra was created with the expressed purpose of bringing to the orchestra of classical proportions the perfection of ensemble to be found only in a great string quartet. In March, the Westminster Choir, one of the best known choral groups in the world, appeared on the East Carolina Campus. The program of the choir included choral masterpieces of the thirteenth century, Negro spirituals, folksongs, and works of contemporary composers.
