The founders and builders of this institution throughout its first quarter of a century never lost sight of its purpose: to train teachers for the public schools of the state. And those who, during the second quarter, are building a larger institution are holding to this same purpose.

"To Serve," the motto of the school, has always been interpreted as serving the state by giving to the children trained teachers.

The story of the founding and building of the institution, first, East Carolina Teachers Training School changed, in 1921, to East Carolina Teachers College, may be seen through the work of six men—three who may be called founders and three, builders.

The idea of a teachers training school took shape in the mind of one, a superintendent, W. H. Ragsdale. A statesman who caught the idea, T. J. Jarvis, knew how to present it to the people. It came into the hands of a legislator, J. L. Fleming, who was capable of steering it through the legislature until it became a bill.
The master builder who wrought with more lasting materials than the brick and mortar was Robert H. Wright. He wisely chose as two of his fellow-workmen C. W. Wilson and H. E. Austin. The former was a native of the state who knew her people well. The latter, because of his experience in a teacher-training institution in another state, seemed peculiarly fitted for a place in this one.

These men are gone, but their work is being carried on. Some idea of the contributions they made and the building of this institution can be seen at intervals throughout the book; its growth is magnified in the pages between. Thus, we could not find a more fitting theme than "Founders and Builders of East Carolina Teachers College."
DEDICATION

To the Charter Members of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College who, as co-workers with the president, helped lay the foundation of this institution, we, the student body of East Carolina Teachers College gratefully dedicate the 1938 TECOAN.

Much of the influence radiating from this institution to the schools of North Carolina is the result of their love, their sacrifices, and their wise guidance of the many generations of students whom they have inspired.
This institution was the realization of the vision of the young man and the culmination of the life-work of Thomas J. Jarvis. He was the first really "Educational Governor" in the South and, for six years, served as governor of North Carolina. He was, for a generation, her "Grand Old Man".

In his inaugural address he appealed to all men of all faiths and creeds and parties to work for the education of all the children of the state. "This, I regard as of the very first importance, for without it, all our efforts in other directions will be in vain." He followed this appeal by one for better and wider facilities for the training of teachers which he considered an essential factor in the work of public education. In the years that followed much progress was made, but it remained for Governor Jarvis' last years to see the establishment of the first institution in the state for the sole purpose of training teachers.

The bill establishing the school was passed by the General Assembly in the winter of 1907. In Greenville the location of it was definitely settled. In the shaping of the bill and in the location of the school, Governor Jarvis' influence was outstanding.

He was made chairman of the Building Committee and it was he who turned the first shovel of soil in the laying of the cornerstone, July 2, 1908. It was due largely to his personal supervision that the buildings were ready for the opening of the school, October 5, 1909. He was a member of the Board of Trustees from the first and, as Chairman of the Executive Committee, he served the school until his death.

This institution was the object of his love and labor. In it he was permitted to see the accomplishment of the object which became the dominant purpose of his life—better educational facilities for the children of North Carolina.

"He was a wise statesman as well as a shrewd politician of seasoned experience."

Appreciation of the poetic both in literature and life; calm analytic acceptance of daily events as they occur; a cheery smile; a cordial greeting; a wholesome fellowship with one and all; strong faith in the value of teacher-training—these are distinctive characteristics of Leon Renfrew Meadows as a man, a teacher, and an administrator. Louisiana claims him as a native son and North Carolina welcomed him as an adopted son at the time she established East Carolina Teachers College with which he has been connected since 1909 as teacher of English, head of the English department, director of the summer school, and president. The influence of his instruction and his personality has helped ennoble the lives of thousands of alumni of "The College". His life and work grow more and more firmly into the fiber of E. C. T. C. year by year, and, like Tennyson's Brook, will go on forever.
ANNIE L. MORTON
Dean of Women

More than Dean of Women, Miss Morton is a friend to the students on the campus. She lives in the life of each one. Their happiness is her happiness; their success, her success; their sorrow, her sorrow; their problems, her problems.

Not only does Miss Morton keep track of "her girls" while they are here, but knows where they are and what they are doing after they leave. She so lives the life of each student that one is not surprised to return to the campus after months, and even years, and have Miss Morton greet her by name. There is something gained from her friendship not to be found in books.

HERBERT ReBARKER
Dean of Men

Coming to East Carolina Teachers College in 1928 as Director of Instruction in Mathematics, Dr. ReBarker is well qualified for the position. As Dean of Men he is thoroughly democratic and inspires the confidence of all those with whom he deals. He is always willing and ready to offer advice and is deliberate in his criticism.

To the students, particularly the men students, he is an ideal. In him they find a true friend who is kindly, learned, austere, possessed of the dignified reserve of a scholar and the sympathetic geniality of a gentleman; he has achieved the highest of rewards, the love and admiration of both student body and faculty.

In the mind of Professor William H. Ragsdale was conceived the idea of a school to be devoted solely to the purpose of fitting teachers for the public schools in the eastern section of North Carolina. As a county superintendent, he knew well how great was the need for better schools, and he steadfastly held to the belief that the trained teacher was the surest way to make the schools better. The idea may have been in other minds, but he did not stop until he had planted the idea in the minds of others and enlisted in the cause those who could give shape and form to it, carrying it through its stages until it was a plant ready for young people who were eager to become good teachers.

His happiest years were those after the realization of his dream, that of a school sending out trained teachers into the rural schools of Eastern North Carolina, had come true.

Professor Ragsdale worked untiringly for its establishment and lived to see the school a force in the educational work of the state and ranking high among the normal schools of the whole country.

It was fitting that his co-workers made Professor Ragsdale a member of the first faculty. To the students, who were prospective teachers, he was an inspiration. He kept them in touch with the actual conditions and problems as he met them daily in the schools of Pitt County. His colleagues were in turn an inspiration to him; he was quick to catch new ideas of worth and put them to work in the country schools.

His practical knowledge of educational affairs, coupled with his years of experience, his sane judgment, optimistic nature, and never-failing tact, made him of inestimable value to the college.

"To him a little child was of greater value than anything of material nature."
The CLASSES
SENIORS

The class that entered with so much enthusiasm and vigor in '34 has maintained consistently the high ideals and traditions that belong to our college. Always different—yet always excelling—the program of the class has been outstanding. The Freshman trip, the Sophomore theater party, the Sophomore-Senior dance, the Junior-Senior Proms, and the Senior Play have been the high lights of our college life. And as we leave, we take with us our class motto—"Be different, yet excel."

IN MEMORIAM

MABLE SPRUILL

Born August 26, 1917

Died August 22, 1937

"To know her was to love her
And love but her forever;
For nature made her what she was
And never made another."

—Burns.
Climbing higher on the ladder of our college career, we entered in the fall of '37 determined to make this our most successful year. Each member did his part with zeal and enthusiasm; and, as a result, both the Junior-Freshman and the Junior-Senior Prom, the high spots of the year, were a success. As a progressive class, outstanding for its co-operative spirit, we are confident that we shall achieve our goal.

Well pleased with the leadership of their first president, the Class chose him to guide them through another year. Strong determination and co-operation have enabled the class to emerge victoriously in everything in which they had a part. Proof of this was seen in the success of the best and most colorful Sophomore-Senior dance in the history of the college. Not only were they “tops” here, but in a Y.W.C.A. drive for members in which all classes participated, they again forged ahead.

THE TECOAN
FRESHMEN

October greeted a class of three hundred and fifty freshmen striving, with the aid of the upper-classmen, to accomplish their goal. The many entertainments during the first week were greatly enjoyed and helped each member become better acquainted with college life. The leading social event of the year, the Freshman-Junior dance, given in April, met with complete success. This class of enthusiastic members is confident that attainments in the future will reflect credit upon their Alma Mater as has the past.

The Tecoan
Campus force at work. . . . God's gift to the women (some of them). . . . Going some place or just travelin'? . . . Why the wicked eyes? . . . Oh, Hail to Our Dear College!

OPPOSITE PAGE

Behind the bars, but with the money. . . . Wonder if they're all reading or are the parlors full? . . . Pencils, paper, ink, or what have ye? . . . That's where my money goes. . . . Oh Gee, Oh Gosh, Gee Whiz! Is I in Love I is. . . . Knowledge at college, curls, too!
It happens to the best o' them. . . . Gone native. Swing it, Dot. . . . Poor Freshmen! . . . Kill it, Harvey! . . . Long and short of the publications. . . . Let's pitch a little woo. . . . It ain't what it used ta' be. . . . Two heads are better than one.

OPPOSITE PAGE

Just a campus course. . . . Studious or just posin'? . . . Photographer takes time out. . . . Let's go scatin'. . . . Who charmed the cameraman? . . . Someone is due for a fall! . . . I think ya' got sumthin' there! . . . Mail and more male. . . . Come on, cough up that nickel! . . . Sh-h-h, Scandal!
More than ten years and still happy!

... The pride of the Wright family.

The name of James L. Fleming will ever be associated with those who founded this institution because it was he who sponsored and introduced the bill that led to the establishment of the school.

Having been brought up in the country schools, Mr. Fleming was conscious of the advantages and disadvantages of a rural school and was interested in anything that could be done for their improvement. Upon his election to represent Pitt County in the Senate, he agreed to introduce the bill to establish a teachers training school. This was not an easy task, but under Senator Fleming's wise guidance and through tireless efforts the bill was so successfully presented that those who had fought it before became its friends, and those disinterested became interested. The bill was passed and ratified March 8, 1907, and the institution became a reality.

Senator Fleming was not only interested in getting the bill passed but also in bringing the school to his native town, Greenville, and in carrying out the plans for the opening. Just one month after the school was opened, November 5, 1909, he was killed in an automobile accident. Thus, as his dreams were just beginning to come true, he slipped into the Great Beyond leaving to others the building up of an institution which he had helped found and whose influence was to radiate throughout the state. One week later he was to have taken part in the inauguration of the first president.

Women’s Student Government

The Women’s Student Government Association was inaugurated in November, 1920. The Association unites the students as no other organization does, and through this unity it endeavors to help each student adjust herself to the responsibilities of a good citizen. Indeed, its chief purpose is to develop student honor and self-control and to instill in each member a clear understanding of the functions of the Association and a spirit of loyalty and understanding.

Contacts with other campuses have been made through delegates who went to the National Student Federation Congress in Albuquerque, New Mexico; to the Southern Intercollegiate Association in Williamsburg, Virginia, and to the meeting of the North Carolina Federation of Students in Raleigh.

The Men's Student Government Association of East Carolina Teachers College in 1937-38 has endeavored to be a positive influence for the highest and finest ideals of manhood rather than simply a disciplinary body. With the enrollment of male students the largest in the history of the institution, the Association has had as its primary objective the close correlation of the men's activities with those of the campus as a whole.

Especially outstanding in the accomplishments of the Men's Student Government Association for this year are the following: A "get-together" party for the Freshmen; the securing of additional lights, bulletin boards, and other improvements for the men's dormitory; the sending of a representative to the National Student Federation of America held at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and the routine matters of campus discipline.

The cooperation of the Men's Student body with the Association and its President, Thornton Stovall, has been effectively and willingly given in all matters.

The Y. W. C. A. has continued its fine work in promoting Christian Fellowship on the campus this year. Among the outstanding speakers have been Dr. Claude Nelson, Southern Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and Mr. Kirby Page, world renowned author and lecturer. Following their visits, a peace council was organized, which has done effective work in promoting the cause.

A visit was exchanged with the N. C. State College Deputation Team. Students from other schools have also conducted Vesper programs.

Several Candle-lighting services have been given and the members of the Association have enjoyed numerous social events in the “Y” Hut.
The Junior "Y" Cabinet, which is chosen from the Freshman Class in a very impressive candle-light service, has held the candle of service high during this school year. By participating in the Friday night and Sunday night vesper services, by conducting morning watch on various occasions, and by cooperating in the planning and carrying out of "Y" socials, the Junior Cabinet has proved a very helpful "little sister" to the Senior "Y" Cabinet. Monthly meetings of the Cabinet have been held at which very interesting programs have been given, such as the reading of Dicken's Christmas Carol at the Christmas meeting. The excellent cooperation of all members is expected to continue in the future as they continue to serve.
The Science Club—taking for the theme of its programs the three phases of Science; Chemistry, Physics, and Biology—has had many outstanding programs this year. The main events were the liquid air demonstration, to which the entire public was invited, the annual Science Club trip to Durham, and the Initiation Party.

The Club, under the leadership of the new sponsors, Dr. Stull, Dr. Brown and Dr. Spangler, has maintained its high place among the active and outstanding clubs on the campus.
Under the direction of Miss Gussie Kuykendall, the Woman's Glee Club of East Carolina Teachers College made outstanding achievement in their choral organization. The striking rendition of a cappella numbers by the chorus received much favorable criticism. Foremost among the presentations of the year were the Christmas Program, sung a cappella, and the Easter Cantata. Both were enthusiastically received.

For the final performance of the year, the Club is planning to work with the Boys' Glee Club in giving a joint performance for Commencement exercises.

Not only does this organization afford much pleasure at various programs, but it develops an appreciation of wholesome, worthwhile entertainment.
The Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Professor Dean C. Tabor, has this year increased its membership to approximately twice the number at the time of its organization in the fall of 1937.

By constant endeavor the members have presented several good performances during the year which have been a credit to them and their leader. The material studied has included old familiar songs and several folk songs, sacred and secular, among which were those with German and Latin texts.

The Club plans to do everything possible in the future to realize the goal which it has set, namely, to be an active organization worthy of representing this school in public performance.

ENGLISH CLUB

The English Club, subdivided into groups of Drama, Oral Reading, Creative Writing, Modern Reading and Literary North Carolina, has had a very successful year. The Club has brought several outstanding speakers including Edward Harris, Broadway writer, and Rev. T. M. Patrick to the college; it has organized a choric choir; and has had several displays in the club room to which the entire college has been invited. In addition there have been various social events of the year.
The Mathematics Club, under the leadership of Marguerite Averette, increased its membership for the year 1937-38 about twenty-five per cent over the previous year's enrollment.

With interesting and valuable programs—three making use of recreational and historical material, three presenting speakers from the mathematics faculty, and three bringing the group together for a social hour—the Club has met regularly each month.

The purpose of the Club is to make it possible for all mathematics majors and teachers to know each other socially, to share their appreciation of the greatness of mathematics, and to enjoy the recreational side of the subject.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club is affiliated with the State and National Home Economics Association. The Club meets monthly. The programs are of various types related to Home Economics work, such as fashion shows, parties, and studies of social customs of different countries.

"As our girlhood is now so shall our womanhood be" is the motto of the Club.

The officers of the Club are: Marguerite Vause, President; Minnie Morton, Vice-President; Helen Lee, Secretary; Iberia Roach, Treasurer, and Dorothy Lassiter, Reporter.

The Club sent two delegates to the North Carolina Student Club meeting held at Catawba College, Salisbury, in February.
ASSOCIATION FOR

CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

The members of the Student Branch of the Association for Childhood Education have participated in many activities during the year.

They have read interesting books aloud, dressed dolls for children at Christmas time, sewed for children, told stories to children at the city library, designed place cards and invitations for dinner meetings, and have had interesting music experiences.

Helpful talks have been heard at the general meetings. Mrs. Frances McClelland Mayfarth from Washington, D. C., Associate Editor of the magazine, "Childhood Education," was guest speaker at an informal tea February 1.

COMMERCE CLUB

In 1937 the students of the recently created Commerce Department organized a Commerce Club. From a very small beginning membership it has, in one year, increased to a present membership of seventy-five.

At the regular monthly meetings programs of varied nature are presented. One project being worked out is that of giving Commerce majors an insight into business conditions of today and acquainting them with what the business world will expect of them, by having people from various business organizations speak at the meetings.

The purpose of the Club is to help build up enthusiasm and interest among the students in their work. Mr. E. R. Browning, Miss Lena G. Ellis, and Miss Velma Lowe are the Club Advisers.
This year the Phi Sigma has accomplished its aims: to encourage the study of French, to foster and develop a spirit of friendship among its members, to help give the French Department a high standard of scholarship and ethics, and to uphold the Administration of the College.

Interesting and helpful programs of various types have been given at each of the monthly meetings to an enthusiastic group.

From the beginning of the new year with the regular Freshman Initiation, the Emerson Society has been active. For the first time in several years triangular debates were held. Debating against the Lanier Society in the first of these, the Emersons were victorious.

Following the usual custom of sponsoring one of the three college dances, the Emerson Society carried out the spring dance with gaiety and originality. The society is expecting to sponsor many more successful activities in future years.

During the year 1937-38 the Poe Society has done much to revive the old Poe spirit. The year began with a successful marshmallow and weiner roast for the Freshman Class, out of which 119 became loyal Poes.

At the first meeting, Mr. Deal, the sponsor, gave a brief history of the Poe Society, bringing to a realization the goal to be reached in order to uphold the standard of past years. Other meetings consisted of dramatics, tap dancing, music, and socials.

The mid-winter dance, sponsored by the Poe Society, was a typical college dance, the decorations representing the flying colors of various colleges.
The Lanier Society has carried on its work well during this year. Ranking second again in number of new members, it lays claim to quality, if not quantity.

The freshmen were entertained at a party in the Wright Building. Those freshmen who joined were, after initiation week, entertained at a hallowe’en party in the “V” Hut.

The programs this year included two musical programs by members of the faculty; some readings by Miss Greene, advisor; a Christmas party; and one student impromptu program.

Taking part in a debate in which the Emerson Society was victorious, the Laniers are confident of future victory.
The man who was the master builder of the institution, the one who erected the building upon the foundation laid by its founders, was Robert H. Wright, president for its first quarter of a century.

He was a leader in educational affairs in North Carolina throughout the twenty-five years and his far-reaching influence can never be measured. He devoted his life to the training of teachers and was strong in his conviction that the trained teacher was the cornerstone of the public school system. The highest service possible this school could render to the state, he believed, was to serve worthily the childhood of the state.

The wisdom of the founders in choosing Robert H. Wright to head the new teacher-training school has been clearly seen throughout the years. He was a native North Carolinian who had achieved success in another state in the field of Education. As he was a product of the schools of the state and had served his apprenticeship as teacher in them, he understood their needs. When he heeded the call to return to his state, he perhaps had a vision of the great edifice he was to leave behind him.

From a small local two-year normal school it grew until it became a standard teachers college with a national reputation, drawing students from other states as well as from every section of this state. Year by year it enlarged its field of service until its graduates were found in the best schools in the state, in classrooms from the first grade through the high school. The school kept pace with advancing educational thought and the expanding public school system, adapting itself constantly to changing conditions.

"He possessed constructive wisdom and the courage to lead in the face of adversity."

"He made up his mind in the calm of his own soul and with courage achieved mightily for God and man."
ATHLETICS
During the year 1937-1938 the Varsity Club has attempted to carry out to the fullest extent the purpose of the organization—that is, the emphasizing and promotion of athletics on the campus of East Carolina Teachers College.

The club the past year has concerned itself chiefly with the awarding of certifications, letters, and sweaters to those men participating in intercollegiate sports. Awards were given to men taking part in baseball, football, basketball, and boxing.

The Varsity Club dance, a social event sponsored by the organization during the Spring quarter, was successfully planned and carried out.

FOOTBALL

Coming to E. C. T. C. as new Coach and Athletic Director, Coach Alexander seems well qualified for the position, having had fifteen years of coaching experience and a brilliant record as a player. With him came many men who were to prove themselves valuable members of the 1937 football squad.

After much practice during hot, sweltering weather the 1937 season was formally opened in a game with the Guilford Quakers which was the initial game of the season for both teams. The only touchdown of the game was made by the Quakers in the first quarter. The Teachers, however, pushed their heavier and more experienced opponents all over the field and showed superiority in punting ability. Coach Alexander was not disappointed in the initial tilt and was especially pleased with the all-round play of the line and the fighting spirit exhibited by the entire squad.
The Camel Caravan from Campbell College executed a surprise rally in the last quarter of the game when they made a touchdown to tie the score and then kicked a goal to score the winning point.

The worst defeat of the season was handed the Pirates by Belmont Abbey. This was followed by another from W. C. T. C. A fourth defeat was suffered in the game with William and Mary. It seemed that due to injuries and tough breaks, E. C. T. C. had received no scoring rewards for her splendid sportsmanship, perseverance, and gamecock spunk that marked the season thus far.

The tide turned, however, and the Pirates entered the promised land of victory in a thrilling defeat of High Point College to the tune of 19 to 7.

The offensive power of the E. C. T. C. Pirates proved too much for a game team of Louisburg Trojans as the Teachers rolled up four touchdowns to their opponents' two on a rain soaked field. This ended the gridiron contest for the Pirates who, had the season lasted longer, were confident that their winning streak in the last games would have continued.

The Pirates entered their 1937 campaign with a team greatly improved over those of previous seasons. Of the fifteen games played, the Pirates claimed eleven victories and two losses, the other two games ending in draws.

In the first game of the season, April 1, Farley's Pirates beat High Point College 5-4 as Bill Holland limited the Panthers to one hit. On the following Saturday Tharrington, Pirate hurler, went the route against the Louisburg Trojans to win 3-1.

On April 7 Kelly Martin and Ed Wells limited the A. C. C. Bulldogs to four hits while their teammates were collecting nine. The Pirates emerged with an easily won game, 7-3. In a return game with the Bulldogs, the Pirates collected their fourth win of the season, 8-6. The following game, with the Duke "B" team, was a 6-6 draw.

The first loss of the season was suffered in the game with Oak Ridge, 6-3. Holland hurled well, but received poor support.

Timely hitting interspersed by Panther errors gave the E. C. T. C. Pirates an 8-7 victory over High Point College in the first game of a series. In the second the Pirates fell at the hands of the Panthers, dropping a 9-6 score.

The Pirates defeated the Guilford Quakers 8-3 behind the steady pitching of southpaw Holland who scattered eight Quaker hits well while the Pirates were making 10 safeties count. Ayers, Pirate catcher, led both teams in hitting, gathering a double and two singles in five times at bat.

Playing a second game with Oak Ridge, the Pirates again won, 14-5. Floyd Hinton, Pirate first baseman, poled out two homers for his team's only tallies as E. C. T. C. and P. J. C. baseball nine battled to a 2-all deadlock at Maxton in a game called at the end of the sixth inning because of rain.

The Campbell Camels held the E. C. T. C. nine in a close game until the seventh inning when the Pirates tallied twice more. In the ninth inning they added four more runs to register another victory, 10-5.

In the game of only 6 innings with the Greenville "Greenies", of whom Farley is also manager, the Pirates gained a 4-2 decision. A second game with the Campbell Camels was another victory for the Pirates, 7 to 1.

The E. C. T. C. baseball team formally closed the 1937 season by dropping a close and extremely hard fought game to William and Mary College. The final outcome was 7-6.

Eight players finished the season with a hitting average above .300; the average of the team was .297. Floyd Hinton, classed as one of the best first basemen in North Carolina collegiate baseball, took top honor in the Pirates' batting attack with an average of .386. He also led the home-run column, getting two for the season. Durward Stowe, centerfielder, was a close second with an average of .373. Third, was "Hoot" Gibson with an average of .365. Other players hitting above .300 were "Lex" Ridenhour, regular second baseman, with .333; Earle Smith, .315; Baxter Ridenhour, with .307; and "Jew" Ayers, with .303.

In cooperation with the Physical Education Department the Woman's Athletic Association sponsored various sports and activities, including an intramural program of basketball, softball, croquet, archery, tennis, horseshoe, and hiking. Points were awarded for participation in these activities. Awards consisted of the college monogram and bronze intramural medals. To those participating in intercollegiate basketball, certificates and letters were awarded.

Other features of the program for the year were the monthly meetings. In these sometimes serious discussions of athletic plans and problems arose. "Play nights", to which each member might invite a friend to join in the indoor games of ping-pong, volley ball, and shuffle-board, and others, were enjoyed. Here one could sense the jolly nature of the members of the association. One, too, recognized fair play was dominant.

The annual Field Day and Association Trip were other main events meeting with the enthusiastic approval of all.

The woman’s basketball team had a very successful season. Under the guidance of Miss Norton, the girls’ coach who was back with them after a year’s absence, the team soon became capable of competing against any team. "Mickey" Blanton as Captain, and Myrtle Hopkins, as Manager of the sextet performed their duties well. The team did more work and played more games than ever before. Of the nine games played, only two were lost—one of them, the game with Appalachian State Teachers College and the most exciting game of the season, by a one point margin.

Stars of last year's team, "Mickey" Blanton and "Tee" Martin from the first led in the number of points scored this season. But to the fine cooperation of all players we give credit for the most successful season in the history of women's athletics.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

The intramural program for the year 1937-38 consisted of basketball, softball, tennis, hiking, archery, horseshoe, and croquet. In these greater interest was shown and there was more participation than ever before.

A Round-Robin basketball tournament was played in which more than fifty students engaged. From this tournament an all-star team was chosen to play the last year's varsity. From those teams the 1937-38 varsity team was chosen.
Softball is a relatively new sport and the Athletic Association has tried to make it a leading one on the campus. More practice periods and more games were scheduled.

Hiking, recognized as one of the best and simplest forms of exercise, was highly favored by a large and enthusiastic group which took long hikes to various places each Saturday afternoon. Horseshoe and croquet are popular with both boys and girls and many were actively engaged in the annual tournament.

For the first time in the history of the college classes in archery were taught, contests were held, and an intramural archery tournament was sponsored.

As the TEOAN goes to press, plans are being made for an intramural elimination tennis tournament the last two weeks of April. There will be singles, doubles, and mixed doubles tournaments. Following these there will be try-outs for the girls' tennis teams. Nancy Albright, Melrose Gardner, and Marjorie Weathers are outstanding candidates. This will be the first year the college has had a tennis team and the college letter will be awarded to members. Matches have been scheduled with several colleges and there is much confidence that all plans will be carried out successfully.
Claude W. Wilson, who was a native of the state, a graduate of one of its colleges, one who had been a superintendent of schools and never lost touch with the public schools, was a charter member of the faculty. He was a member of the first Board of Trustees and served as its secretary throughout his life. He acted at first in the dual capacity as bursar and teacher of Education. When a full time treasurer relieved him of some of his duties, he devoted his time to his teaching, but he continued to add other duties.

Under his leadership the Department of Education expanded rapidly and a Model School was built for practice-teaching and demonstration. When the president gave up the directorship of the summer school, Professor Wilson became the director. He was chairman of many important committees, two that have been in existence since the beginning of the school, the Library and the Appointment Committees. Throughout the building of the course of study, he rendered valuable service and was a member of that committee from the time the institution was only a two-year normal until its beginning as a teachers college.

"If true teaching is living in the lives of students, then Professor Wilson was among the greatest of all these." To the students and young teachers he was like a father. He had the knack of fitting the right girl in the right community. He then kept up with her as she continued to teach—rejoicing in her success and grieving over her failure. He had sympathy and understanding, was strength and courage to all who knew him.

Coming to the institution from Massachusetts by way of Baltimore and Maryland Normal School, Herbert E. Austin possessed the qualities that are best in the New Englander and these were softened by the influences of the South. He was well versed in the best educational practices of the day and was a good judge as to whether or not new ideas were workable.

Serving as chairman of the Appointment Committee his last eight years, Mr. Austin became well known throughout the state, especially to superintendents, who had great confidence in his judgment in selecting young teachers who could fit into definite situations. It became the supreme concern of his life to place the graduates where they could do their best and reflect credit upon their Alma Mater. He knew not only the scholastic record of each student but had notes on her attitude and personality.

The students admired him ardently and knew that under his dignified exterior he had a sympathetic, kind heart. "His clear presentation of problems and his guidance in the logical solution, step by step, made them realize he was a great teacher." As an adviser of student activities, he was much sought after, and his rich baritone voice added greatly to many a college program.

He was a valuable one to have as a charter member of the staff whose purpose was to send its students into communities as teachers.
