Constitution.

Article I.

Section 1. Name.

The name of this organization shall be Edgar Allan Poe Literary Society.

Section 2. Motto.

The motto of this organization shall be "Ulalume", from Poe.

Section 3. Objects of Society.

The objects of this organization shall be to further the mental, moral and social development of its members and to create a greater love for the best in Literature, Music, and Art.

Article II. Membership.

Section 1. The membership of this Society shall be divided into classes, i.e., active and honorary. Both classes shall enjoy all the privileges of the Society, with the exception of voting and holding office, which privilege shall be restricted to the active membership.

Section 2. Active Membership.

The active membership of this Society shall be restricted to the young lady students of the East Carolina Teachers Training School.

Section 3. Method of Joining.

The Inter-Society Committee from the two Societies shall meet and divide the names of the girls into two equal lists, supervised by two faculty members. The Chairman of each Society shall then draw a list which she posts for the girls to see which Society they belong to.
