Jimmy Green Calls For Runoff In Lt. Gov. Race; Others Wait

RALEIGH (AP) — House Speaker Jimmy Green, as had been anticipated, called for a runoff today in the Democratic race for lieutenant governor.

Green will face ex-Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee, on Sept. 14. Lee led Green by a few thousand votes in Tuesday's crowded primary, but neither got a majority. Green was not able to show off endorsements from any of the six losing candidates when he met with reporters today. Lee has not picked up any either.

The Bladen County tobacco warehouseman said he was hitting the road for the next two weeks and expected to win the runoff.

Green said he "saw no reason" to debate Lee. Lee said Wednesday he would welcome a face-to-face confrontation.

Green said he did not think race would be an issue in the runoff campaign. Lee is seeking to become the first black North Carolinian ever elected to a statewide office.

Green said he did know whether it was possible for a black to win a statewide race. "The only time I've heard the issue of race mentioned, it's been by you in the news media."

Green finished with 26.79 per cent of the vote to Lee's 27.61 per cent.

Lillian Woo, No. 2 in the Democratic race for state auditor, also conferred with supporters trying to decide if a runoff would be worth it against Auditor Henry Bridges. Mrs. Woo polled 41.87 per cent of the vote while Bridges had 45.87 per cent.

Another candidate facing that choice is John Brooks who finished with 33.89 per cent of the Democratic labor commission vote while Jessie Rae Scott took the No. 1 spot with 36.94 per cent.

Several of the six defeated candidates in the lieutenant governor race said they had been called by Greep or Lee or both, but none has reached a decision on whether to endorse one of the runoff candidates.

Third place finisher John Jordan, who lamented that he had been outspent and might have won with another month or more money, said he was not ready to endorse either candidate. He promised to make a choice after studying the candidates' views, particularly about limiting the size of state government.

Waverly Akins, who finished fourth, deferred an endorsement until he could rest a few days and reflect on it. But, he said, "with the political situation the way it is right now, I don't know if an endorsement would do any good."

Herbert Tyde, who was fifth, had no comment but promised a statement next week. "I'm trying to put it all together here. A little tired," he said dejectedly.

C.A. Brown who was seventh said he had been called by Green and Lee and would talk to each of them before choosing someone to endorse.

Lee, 41, made history in 1969 when he was the first black to be elected mayor of a predominantly white southern town.

The son of a Georgia sharecropper, Lee has a masters from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is on leave of absence from his job as human relations director at Duke University.

Lee prides himself on his diverse followers and says he has pulled together the most integrated campaign in the state's history. He says he is able to reach the better elements of a person.

Green, 55, served 16 years in the legislature, the last term as speaker of the House. From Bladen County, Green is conservative, wealthy and part of the eastern North Carolina establishment.

He is a farmer and tobacco warehouse owner and holds considerable real estate. A slightly diminutive man, Green prides himself on being a scrapper who loves a tough battle because the victory is sweeter when it was harder to achieve and more was at risk.

Lee has tried to keep race from being an issue. He says he's not running as a black man but as a candidate who just happens to be black.

Mrs. Woo's challenge is the toughest Bridges, 69, has faced in a primary since 1948, the year after he was appointed auditor. Mrs. Woo advertised and used her numerous consumer group contacts as a political base. She had been involved in the consumer movement since coming to the state with her IBM executive husband in 1970.

Mrs. Scott had an advantage in the race with the political savvy of her husband, former Gov. Bob Scott, to tap. She spent more than $50,000 and toured the state speaking.

Brooks, a Raleigh attorney, had an advantage in having been up the road before. He was defeated by the late "Bill" Creel who died in office almost a year ago and was replaced by GOP appointee T. Avery Nye who is that party's nominee for the Nov. 2 election.

Organized labor supported Brooks but that it little help in the state that has the nation's lowest rate of unionization.

METEOR SHOWERS

I read recently about August's being a good month to see meteors in the sky. I wish a certain date or few dates that might be best could be pinpointed as I'd like to plan certain times to stay up and watch. R. T.

Jim Manning, an administrative intern at the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill, said the peak of Perseids, a meteor shower seen each August is past. It was Aug. 12. However, all of August is a good time to view meteors, he said, the best hours being from midnight till dawn.

There are several times during the year when meteor showers are most likely to be seen, but the Perseids are the most dependable. They are so named because meteors usually seem to come from the constellation Perseus which rises in the northeastern sky, but "moves" upward so it's nearly straight up shortly after midnight.

Astronomers believe that meteor showers are from particles in orbit around comets and we see them when the earth intersects comets' paths, Manning said. He emphasized that the extraordinary visiblens of the Perseids is an annual occurrence, so you may want to mark next Aug. 12 on your calendar.

ON RECORD

An out-of-state friend of mine went fishing on the Tar River July 31 and was charged by a wildlife protector with fishing without a license. He went to the magistrate's office and paid a $27 fine plus court costs, but he says he saw the magistrate on duty put the money in his pocket and his receipt did not specify what the charge was. I'd feel better if I knew whether this money was ever turned in. L. C.

Hotline learned from the Magistrate's office that records of the Magistrates are on file in the Pitt County Clerk of Court's office. We gave the clerk your friend's name and she promptly told us all the details including the charge, the amount charged him, and the date. Yes, the charge was filed and the money turned in.

Triumphant Ford Picks Dole As Running Mate

BULLETIN

Senator Robert Dole of Kansas was picked by President Ford to be the vice-presidential running mate on the Republican Ticket.

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford, losing no time after his triumph over Ronald Reagan at the Republican National Convention, won the support of his defeated challenger today, and prepared to reveal the name of the man he hopes can help him win election in November.

The President said he would name his selection for the vice presidential nomination today at a news conference. The convention will ratify his choice tonight.

Speculation on whom Ford would name as his running mate centered on four men, including Reagan. The others were Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, Treasury Secretary William Simon and William D. Ruckelshaus, former deputy attorney general.

But with Ford by his side at a joint news conference hours after the convention voted, Reagan repeated his declaration that he did not want the job. The vanquished Californian, however, refused to rule out accepting a convention draft, which his supporters had discussed on the convention floor.

"I'll answer that if and when it comes," the former California governor said.

Within an hour after he had received the GOP presidential nomination, Ford sped across Kansas City for a postmidnight meeting with Reagan. After their discussion in Reagan's hotel suite, the two men met reporters, and the defeated challenger vowed to campaign for Ford in the fall.

"As we both agreed from the beginning, once the fight was over we would be together," Reagan said.

The unity meeting came after Ford captured the nomination with 1,187 votes to 1,070 for Reagan. One delegate abstained and another voted for Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson.

Two years ago, Ford, the nation's first appointed vice president, became President after the resignation of Richard M. Nixon. Ford had never run in a national election, and when he decided to seek the presidency in his own right he faced a strong conservative challenge from Reagan. Not until he defeated Reagan in a crucial test vote Tuesday night did it become clear that Ford would win the nomination.

By Wednesday night everyone knew the contest was over. The Reagan people demonstrated the loudest and longest when the candidates' names were placed in nomination. About two hours, most of it taken up by marching, chanting, banner-waving, horn-blowing delegates, was needed for the process of putting Reagan's name before the convention.

After his meeting with Reagan, the President returned to his hotel and told a waiting crowd:

"I complimented him on a real good campaign. I indicated that we certainly wanted him to be standing shoulder to shoulder with us in the months ahead."

"I am glad to report he will be there fighting just as hard as I am. So, I think we can leave the arena tomorrow (Thursday) night unified."

During the news conference with Reagan, Ford said Reagan supporters he had talked to "said they are supporting President Ford. I think that's true across the spectrum so far as the convention was concerned."

But an indication of the problems Ford faces in his campaign against Carter were evident in the 167-delegate California delegation. The Californians were pledged to Reagan, who won the state's primary June 8.

After the roll call, Reagan telephoned chairman Robert Nesen on the convention floor. He asked the delegation to move to make the vote unanimous. But more than half the delegation opposed the move, and when another state made the motion, the Californians booed.

Whether that attitude reflects widespread sentiment among Reagan backers around the country is a question that nags Ford campaign manager.

Ford was receiving many pledges of support from Reagan backers. But, obviously, he felt he needed a strong commitment from the former governor to move from those pledges to grass roots backing around the country from the people who made the Reagan campaign come as close as it did to victory.

U.S., North Korean Troops Put On Alert In Wake Of Killings

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The United States and North Korea today put their combat forces on alert in Korea in the wake of Wednesday's slaying of two American officers in the truce village of Panmunjom.

"We have taken the precautionary move of increasing the readiness status of the forces in the area," a Pentagon spokesman said in Washington.

North Korea announced it had ordered its armed forces into a state of combat readiness because of the U.S. reaction to what American officials called the "brutal murder" of the two officers.

All American military personnel on leave in Korea were ordered to return at once to their units and the United States warned North Korea that the club-and-axe killing of the two Americans "jeopardized the entire framework" of the 23-year Korean armistice. But Pentagon officials in Washington discounted the possibility of American military retaliation.

A broadcast by North Korea's official Central News Agency said the United States "took a combat posture by issuing an emergency order of alert to the units of the U.S. forces occupying South Korea."

"This is the prelude to the war adventure that the U.S. imperialist aggressors may perpetrate," it declared, announcing that North Korean President and Communist party leader Kim Il-sung has ordered all North Korean army and paramilitary Red Guard units into combat readiness.

In a series of escalating warnings, the two sides issued conflicting versions of the bloody fight Wednesday over an allied attempt to trim a tree at Panmunjom, each accusing the other of starting it and each side saying its men were outnumbered.

Making no mention of any fatalities, North Korean broadcasts called the clash "a free-for-all," that injured personnel of both sides. It said five of its guards suffered wounds ranging from light to heavy.

Allied military sources had said three North Koreans were believed fatally injured.

One Communist broadcast said the allies were falsely accusing the North Koreans of carrying axes but in fact the North Koreans now hold as evidence "the axe used by the enemy," which was an Austrian type used by the U.S. Army. "Never before since the cease-fire was formally signed has there been the outright and brutal murder of joint security area security force personnel," said a letter to Kim Il-sung from Gen. Richard Stilwell, the American head of the United Nations Command.

"This was not the eruption of an unplanned argument. It was the deliberate murder of UNC personnel who, while engaged in routine maintenance functions of a type your personnel often perform, were attacked unmercifully by a numerically superior force wielding axes and clubs."

Stilwell's letter was read at an emergency meeting of the Military Armistice Commission in the truce village about 300 yards from the spot at which the United States charged that North Korean guards "brutally murdered" Capt. Arthur G. Bonifas, 33, of Newburgh, N.Y., and 1st Lt. Mark T. Barrett, 25, of Columbia, S.C.

The United Nations Command said about 30 North Korean guards armed with axes and metal pikes attacked a working party of Americans and South Koreans who were trimming trees in the security zone around the truce buildings. The U.N. Command said four American enlisted men and five South Koreans were injured, and military sources said three (Continued on page 10)

Canning Experts Warn Against Unsafe Methods

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many first-time home canners may get off to a bad start if they are using methods found in grandma's recipe book, caution food experts in several books. Grandma may have been a whiz at measurements, a pinch of this and a lump of that, but the leeway she took in home canning may not necessarily be safe.

For that matter, even methods to be found in older cookbooks and some printed in the '70s may be in error. So say food and nutrition specialists Louise W. Hamilton, Gerald D. Kuhn and Karen Rugh in a book, "Home Canning, The Last Word," they put together with editors of the Farm Journal.

That trio emphasizes that open kettle canning by dishwasher — people do it — and canning with aspirin to change the acidity of food are unsafe practices. Then, too, some new jar lids that recently came on the market when lids were scarce do not "consistently seal or maintain a seal."

After considerable investigation, too, of the new tomato varieties and their relationship to a possible outbreak of botulism, it has been decided that home canned tomatoes spoil because heat sterilization time was too short, they say.

Open kettle canning, a method that is particularly popular with jelly makers — the food is cooked in open kettles and packed boiling hot in sterilized jars and quickly sealed — is no longer recommended, not even for jams and preserves, they point out, explaining "the unsafe practice has resulted in food spoilage and even botulism." It has been established that heating food in open kettles will not destroy spoilage organisms.

This knowledgeable group also does not encourage sealing jams and jellies with paraffin. The natural acidity of the fruit plus sugar helps preserve these foods, but it doesn't prevent molds from developing and "we are just beginning to recognize hazards to humans and animals from eating mycotoxins produced by molds," they emphasize.

They also caution "never can anything in any kind of oven, conventional or microwave." Heat distribution is uneven so the center of some jars may never reach the sterilization point. Then, too, glass jars may not tolerate unbalanced high internal pressure in a dry oven and an explosion might result. Lids may not seal properly and metal (in jar lids) should not be used in microwave ovens.

Unlike acid foods — most fruits, tomatoes, sauerkraut and pickle — which may be safely canned in a boiling water canner, the low acid foods that support the growth of clostridium botulinum and other heat-resistant bacteria must be heat sterilized at temperatures higher than boiling water and only in a pressure canner, they maintain.

Couple Speaks Vows Recently

GRIFTON — In a ceremony attended by family and close friends, Miss Gwendolyn Troutman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin L. Troutman of Grifton, and Franklin Gerry Ward, son of Mrs. Norine

Richter of Bridgeton and Mr. Roland J. Ward of Charleston, S.C., were united in marriage Sunday, Aug. 8, at 1:00 p.m. at the Grifton United Methodist Church. The Rev. Don Lee Harris officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Tony Carraway, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street length dress of white lace with a rounded neckline, elbow length sleeves, empire bodice outlined with accent of baby blue ribbons. The A-skirt, neck and sleeves were edged in Venice lace.

Her shoulder length veil of illusion fell from a lace bandeau. She carried a white Testament, given her when a child by her grandfather, topped with a white orchid.

Miss Terri Godfrey of Swansboro served as maid of honor.

The best man was Allen Lewis of Bridgeton.

The bride graduated from White Oak High School, Jacksonville. The bridegroom is employed with Holbrook Co., Brandonville, Va. After a wedding trip, they will make their home in Virginia.

The parents of the bride entertained at a family buffet dinner at their home for the wedding party, family and friends.

The three tiered wedding cake was cut and served following dinner for the family and friends present.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It's only been in the last couple of years that designers of fashions have chosen to sign their work on the outside.

I know a lot of women (two) who walk around looking like billboards. Their bags carry the Gucci signature, their scarfs spell out Yves St. Laurent, and their blouses have the name of Wayne Rogers incorporated in the design.

I never know who makes my clothes. Whoever they are, they're too ashamed to sign 'em. The closest I ever came to finding out was when I shook a pair of slacks out one day and a little piece of paper fell out, "INSPECTED BY 56." I have no idea who No. 56 is or where she came from, but by wearing the slacks, I got a mental picture of inspector 56. She was a former designer for an awning company until her vision started to go. When she could no longer see to attach a zipper to a tent flap, she was put in slacks. She regards slacks like a tent — one size fits all.

I tried to track her down, but I heard she changed her name to inspector 94. Like I say, it doesn't bother me a bit that kids walk around in Hang Ten sweat socks with the two little feet emblem, or flaunt Levi labels coming out of their seams, but Mayva . . . she's a real status seeker.

"Did you see that?" she gasped at a luncheon last week. "Violet is wearing a LANVIN blouse."

"How can you tell?" "If you just read her chest, you can tell," she said.

"That's shabby. If people can't look at my clothes and by their style and cut know who designed them, I'm certainly not going to advertise."

"Don't give me that," she snapped. "If your dresses had a perma-press label in them, you'd wear them wrong-side out."

"The trouble with you, Mayva, is you're a snob. Don't you think I know you sit up nights drawing penguins on your husband's golf shirts?"

"Who told you that?" "It would serve you right if you got stuck with one of those $50 handbags that came out about a year ago. It seems a couple of designers subtly included an eight-letter noun with an obscene word woven into the pattern."

As Mayva counted the letters out on her fingers, she exclaimed, "Just nod your head if I'm right. It's J.C. Penny, isn't it?"

Party Given Bridal Couple

GRIFTON — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gaddy entertained at an informal outdoor party honoring Miss Sandra Stancill and Lin Thomas, whose marriage will take place this month.

The patio was decorated with hanging baskets and lighted torches.

The honorees were remembered with a gift from the host and hostess.

Political Mate Turns Talk Into Debate

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I'm married to a very intelligent, informed and well-read man. The problem is that whenever we are out socially, he gets on politics and always manages to get into a shouting match with somebody.

We are practically without friends at this point because most of the people we know don't share our political views. I have asked my husband to please stay off politics when we're socializing, but it's in one ear and out the other. He has very strong feelings about the way our country is being run, and he's very outspoken.

How can I get him to keep his mouth shut when he knows he's confronting someone who is just as loyal to his political party as he is?

LEVITTOWN, PA.

DEAR LEV: You probably can't. A lively political debate can be stimulating, informative and fun, but when it becomes a shouting match, it's a waste of energy for the combatants and an embarrassment for the witnesses.

DEAR ABBY: My son-in-law thinks it's great fun to trip his little 3-year-old son when the child walks past him. Then he laughs loudly when the boy falls flat on his face.

Meanwhile, the child ends up crying, not so much from the physical hurt as from humiliation and the feeling of betrayal.

When they were visiting us last Christmas, my husband asked our son-in-law to please desist from this practice as long as they were in our home. Angry words followed and they left immediately, not even bothering to stay for the Christmas Eve festivities.

We haven't heard from them since, and they haven't answered our letters. They feel that we were trying to tell them how to raise their child, but we felt it was our right to reject unacceptable conduct within the confines of our home.

In other words, isn't a man's home still his "castle," or has that, too, been scrapped?

CHILDLESS GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: You haven't asked for any advice, so I won't offer any. But if you want to know whose side I'm on, it's yours.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are going to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary soon, and we're planning a dinner dance for about 200 guests.

Would it be proper for me to wear my original wedding gown and veil for the first dance, and then change into something else?

We've been to other silver wedding parties, but the bride wasn't able to get into her wedding gown, so someone else modeled it for her. Some have said it wouldn't be proper for me to wear my own wedding gown. What do you say?

R.I. READER

DEAR READER: Wear the gown and veil for the first dance, then remove the veil and wear the gown for the rest of the evening! Why change?

Miss Adams Entertained

GRIFTON — Miss Cindy Carson and Miss Becky Bennett entertained at the Carson home here at a floating bridal shower honoring Miss Wanda Adams, bride-elect of Dennis Hudson.

Mrs. J. O. Carson and Mrs. C. W. Bennett assisted their daughters in receiving and entertaining.

A color scheme of blue, yellow and pink was carried out in decorations. The refreshment table was covered with a pale green cloth and overlaid with ivory lace. The centerpiece was pink, blue, and yellow flowers. The hostesses assisted in serving.

On arrival, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Ed Casey, and Mrs. Horace Hudson, mother of the bridegroom-elect, were remembered with corsages. The bride-elect was presented a basket of kitchen gadgets from the hostesses.

Tropical storm Candice moved north-northeast over the Atlantic at 15 to 20 miles an hour today, and was no threat to North Carolina. At 6 a.m. her center was 350 miles north of Bermuda.

A drought has depleted the Chapel Hill water supply. The University of North Carolina is considering temporary suspension of classes if the drought does not break.

Chapel Hill and adjacent Carboro have forbidden the washing of cars or watering of lawns.

Restaurant patrons are not automatically given a glass of water. They must ask for one.

It was mostly sunny in North Carolina today. Highs were in the low and mid 80s. There were some 70s in the mountains. It will be about the same Friday.

It was variably sunny and cloudy Thursday. Winds were brisk out of the northeast at about 10 to 15 miles an hour. High temperatures were in the low and mid 80s. Some places in the mountains and the Outer Banks only reached in the 70s. The range was from 73 at Boone to 86 at Fayetteville and Wilmington.

No rain fell Thursday. Skies were clear during the night. Toward morning, temperatures were generally in the 50s or near 60 over inland sections. They were in the 60s to near 70 along the coast. The 57 at the Greensboro Regional Airport at 4:30 this morning was a record low for Aug. 19.

A small-craft advisory is in effect from Virginia Beach to Cape Fear. It is for north-easterly winds at 15 to 25 knots, and waves four to six feet today.

One Storm Dying As Another Building Up

By LARRY HOBBS
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Candice weakened early today as it moved north into colder waters of the Atlantic, but a tropical depression bringing heavy rains to South Florida and western Cuba strengthened as it lingered near Key West.

At 6 a.m. EDT, Candice, the third tropical storm of the 1976 Atlantic season, was centered near latitude 37.3 north and longitude 65.2 west or about 350 miles north of Bermuda.

Its highest sustained winds were estimated at 50 to 60 miles an hour, and forecasters said it was weakening as it moved north-northeast through the open Atlantic.

No land masses were threatened, but small craft in Bermuda were advised to remain in port until winds and seas subsided.

Meanwhile, South Floridians, spared any experience with tropical weather for the past several years, were enduring heavy rains caused by the strengthening tropical depression centered near Key West.

Forecaster Gil Clark of the National Hurricane Center said the depression's highest winds were estimated at 30 m.p.h., except for higher gusts in local squalls. He said the depression's intensity increased somewhat overnight, but the system still was not well organized.

"Conditions do not favor rapid strengthening, but winds could increase further today," Clark said. "The primary concern is the continuation of locally heavy rains over South Florida and western Cuba."

Several inches of rain have fallen on Miami and other South Florida cities since early

Wednesday and the rain continued today.

If the depression's winds reach 39 m.p.h. it will be designated tropical storm Dottie.

Clark said the main problem was that the depression was remaining almost stationary.

"Steering currents remain weak and consequently any movement will be slow and erratic, however the trend is a northward drift," he said. A northerly course would move the storm along Florida's west coast.

"Small craft in the Keys and along the southwest Florida coast should remain in protected waters," Clark said.

The American College of Neurosurgeons says 33,000 persons died of head injuries suffered in traffic accidents in the United States in 1973.

Made The Raid, Lost The Brew

DILLON, S.C. (AP)—Two officers of the South Carolina Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) Commission have confiscated $946 worth of beer at a South of the Border establishment, but they let an additional $9,000 worth of the beverage slip away.

Supervisor J. Emerson Coates and D. M. Green saw the additional beer disappear from the tourist complex store while Coates sought advice from his superiors on whether the beer should be confiscated. Coates and Green had been brought in from other areas of the state to make a purchase of the illegally sold beer after the ABC Commission received complaints of Sunday sales.

After making the purchase and confiscating the beer "out front," the agents cited Barnard D. Moore, manager of the store, for illegally selling beer on Sunday.

A cash bond was posted for the $946 worth of beer in the front of the establishment. Agents were told the beer in the back room "was supposed to be beer for other places."

Lively Campaign Is Expected

In Tuesday's primary election Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. won a smashing victory in Democratic race for gubernatorial nomination, and David T. Flaherty led in the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

The Hunt victory was all the more impressive when taking into account that he was opposed by several capable and experienced-in-government candidates.

There were not many observers who would have thought a few weeks ago that any one of the Democratic candidates would be able to muster a majority in the first primary. Hunt obtained that majority, however, and as a result will have to make no promises in order to pick up support for a second primary.

On the Republican side Flaherty, former secretary of human resources in the Holshouser administration, led Rev. Coy C. Privette, former Secretary of Transportation J. F. Alexander and the Rev. Wallace McCall.

The Hunt victory capped off years of preparation for seeking the Democratic nomination. There had been predictions that Hunt had been in the public eye too long and a new comer might cost him support. That didn't happen, however, and the young lieutenant governor will be his party's gubernatorial candidate in November.

But before Hunt enters the governor's mansion he still has to wage a campaign. There could be a tendency on the part of the Democrats to take victory for granted this year, but that would be a major mistake.

We would expect a lively campaign for the governorship between now and the November General election. Now that the field has been narrowed down to the two candidates who represent the two major parties the issues should be more clearly drawn. We would hope that the positions of both candidates will be obvious to the voters by the time of the general election.

Democrat Nominee Is Biding His Time

Jimmy Carter, the Democratic presidential nominee, is biding his time as the Republican National Convention progresses.

Since Carter has already been nominated he is an obvious target for GOP criticism at the convention.

Carter said he would "rather assimilate the entire impression and then give my remarks."

There obviously will be plenty of time to conduct the campaign after the GOP convention has ended. Then the two candidates can face each other in public debate.

Facts Spell Dilemma

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Two factors presently beyond control of either governmental officials or administrators of the state's private contract for Medicaid payments are causing a dilemma which the 1977 General Assembly must tackle.

Behind the wildly escalating cost of the program of medical assistance funds for the indigent are two conditions:

1. There is no way to control numbers of people becoming eligible. If they meet the requirements, they must be paid, and numbers eligible have gone up sharply.

2. There is no control over what health care providers (hospitals, physicians, nursing homes, etc.) charge, except a flexible "usual and reasonable" rule.

Big Jump

Those factors are responsible for the state's total expenditure increase from $94.5 million in 1970-71 when the program started to the $218.9 million cost for fiscal 1975-76; just six years later.

That represents an increase of 131.6 per cent in six years.

When Health Applications Systems, the state's private contractor, took over administration of the program last year, they pledged to cover the costs for a set fee. The result — and failure — of that approach is history.

Company officials blamed those costs rising behind even the most liberal expectations for the trouble encountered. A revised contract allows increasing state funds rather than putting an arbitrary ceiling on expenditures.

Medicaid funds come from federal, state, and county sources: the federal pays 68.03 per cent; state funds provide 27.17 per cent; and counties put up 4.8 per cent.

Eligibility requirements are liberal in North Carolina (which has one of the most comprehensive Medicaid programs in the nation in terms of services provided and people eligible. Any resident who is on welfare, as well as special classes of the aged, blind, and disabled may qualify; local social services departments determine eligibility.

Even states with more stringent eligibility rules are running into financial difficulty, and Human Resources Secretary Phillip J. Kirk says his agency will submit to the 1977 General Assembly proposed changes which would bring some of the spending under control.

Six years ago, health care providers received a total of $93.9 million; this amount escalated to $196.5 million in fiscal 1975-76. Add on administrative costs and other incidentals, and the total last year was $218.9 million.

Hospitals Lead

Hospitals received the largest share — $55.1 million, or 29 cents of every dollar.

Nursing homes received $25 million for regular spaces, plus another $23.3 million for intermediate care facilities; a total of 27 cents of each dollar.

Physicians collected $22.2 million last year, and dentists were paid $8 million. Those figures represent 10 cents of each dollar for physicians; four cents for dentists.

Prescription drugs cost $25.4 million for a 12-cent share.

Administrative costs of the program escalated more rapidly over the past six years than did actual medical care payments to the needy. While health care providers were actually paid $196.5 million last year compared to $93.9 million six years ago — an increase of 109 per cent; total spending went from $94.5 million to $218.9 million; a 131.6 per cent hike.

Coming Sales Campaign

KANSAS CITY — Gerald Ford had his first sweet moment of national political triumph late Wednesday night. It may also be his last.

The uphill task that confronts his party is to sell Ford to the people as a better prospective president than Jimmy Carter. It won't be easy, but it won't be impossible, either.

In any sales campaign, the sensible approach is to play up the good points and to play down the bad ones. Americans of different political persuasions naturally will disagree. But in my own view, the Ford record, compiled over his first two years in office, contains much more good than ill.

Ford came to the White House, in one sense, the easy way. No politician ever had it so good. At the time he was named to succeed the disgraced Spiro Agnew, Ford had been spared the hard, grinding, often degrading rigors of the national campaign trail. He wasn't mad at anybody, and nobody was mad at him. When he replaced Richard Nixon in August, 1974, he was still untouched by hostile hand.

In another sense, Ford got there the hardest possible way. Precisely because he had not won the office, but had rather inherited it, Ford found his status uncertain. Constitutionally he was legitimate; politically he was not. He did not hold his title in fee, but in trust. And his inheritance, moreover, was tainted.

In this light, how does his stewardship appear? He came on like a breath of fresh air in a fetid room. Suddenly the dark draperies parted; the sunshine poured in. Whatever may be said to Ford's discredit, even his political foes must concede the simple decency of the man. There is no venom in him.

To be sure, that is the very least — the absolute minimum — to be expected of a president. One ought to take decency for granted. The Ford record shows much more. It reflects, in a single word, maturity — the maturity of a man who has been around long enough to understand not merely what power can do, but what power cannot do. These are lessons the overconfident Jimmy Carter has not even begun to study.

In his approach to the economy, Ford functioned as wisely, and as patiently, as an old family doctor. He was no whiz-bang, happy hot dog, fresh from medical school; he did not rush about, the old-fashioned remedies: bed rest, light exercise, a bland diet. The fever of inflation was 12.2 when he took office. It's under 5 percent now.

The objection is heard that Ford is a compromiser, but this is the objection of the immature critic. One hears voices complaining that Ford, a conservative, has brought liberals into his administration, but these are the voices of political infants. Ford has kept the peace, he has eased the national tensions, he has contributed to a national condition of relative contentment. The Constitution declares a national purpose to insure domestic tranquility. Given the circumstances of his elevation the Oval Office, Ford has done all that any man might have done.

The success of a sales campaign depends first of all on the product. A campaign to sell Jerry Ford will have to work with the candidate himself. The product is not exciting. The product is not glamorous. The product dazzles not. Nothing here is new, new, new!

The success of a sales campaign also depends in part upon the competition — in this case, the ineffable Jimmy. On paper he looks super-duper. He sparkles, he gleams, he shines in the sun, and his motor goes vroom-vroom-vroom. If the American people are crazy for a brand-new model, the sexy Georgia convertible may be the car they take home in November. But the American people have a collective maturity of their own, and the Old Reliable, in the end, may prove to have great appeal.

His Name Absent

By WALTER R. MEARS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)

A convention ago his was the only name that counted, but Republicans in Kansas City do not speak of Richard M. Nixon.

Nonetheless, the shadow of the resigned President and the Watergate scandals that drove him from office hang like an overcast at the Republican National Convention.

Not for them the conventioners' traditional litany of GOP administrations past, for the last one is a campaign milestone they still seek to cut loose.

In the platform the convention adopted Tuesday night, there is no mention of Richard Nixon.

Convention officials say that as a former nominee, Nixon was entitled to credentials at Kansas City. To their relief, he didn't ask.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Ford Reigns Triumphant

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

KANSAS CITY — President Ford's coldly realistic convention strategy reached its climax around 2:15 a.m. Wednesday when his managers, overriding Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's protests, finally accepted a Reagan platform amendment implicitly disavowing Ford-Kissinger foreign policy.

That calculated surrender throttled what scant hope remained of rallying Reagan's defeated legions on the ideological issues that triggered their original challenge to the President. Dovetailed with Reagan campaign manager John Sears' own strategy of fighting on procedural issues, this bottled up Reaganite passion and prevented an ideological outpouring at Kemper Arena.

Lacking that passion, Reagan delegates were outmuscled by Ford delegates who, surprisingly, maintained far superior discipline. Whereas Republican machines of the Northeast kept tightly leashed Ford delegates ready to vote for anything, unbossed Reaganites needed a holy cause. That they were denied that cause in Tuesday night's test balloting was a triumph for Ford convention manager William Timmons and a miscalculation by Sears.

Some test vote, on which delegates were not legally bound by primary election results, was Reagan's only chance of erasing Mr. Ford's slim delegate lead. With Sears committed to a non-ideological test, the foreign policy amendment was a sop to bolster morale of Reagan delegates. The major effort was rule 16(c), requiring Mr. Ford to name his running mate in advance.

On Tuesday afternoon, just hours before the balloting, Sears informed his regional whips they had 1,160 votes—30 more than needed—for 16(c), without even counting unfathomable Mississippi. More nervous than he let on, Ford delegate counter James Baker tallied a bare majority of 1,130, also without Mississippi. The discrepancy: Sears was counting Trojan Horse Reagan delegates in Northeast delegations.

Thus, neither side was prepared for Mr. Ford's 1,180 votes on 16(c). When Sen. Clifford Case announced 62 of 67 New Jersey delegates against the rule, Sears was astounded; he demanded a poll of the delegation (which confirmed Case's count). Five Georgia delegates, bound by state convention to support Reagan on all matters, defected. Some 10 Ford delegates from Pennsylvania supposedly backing Reagan on 16(c) vanished in thin air.

Little Delaware was the Reagan disaster in microcosm. Sears expected that the 14-to-2 support there for Mr. Ford would be trimmed to 12 to 4 on 16(c); in fact, it was 15 to 1. Sears expected support and even a podium speech backing 16(c) from Thomas Evans, who, as former Republican national co-chairman, would have been the most prestigious Ford delegate to back the rule. But Evans, now running for Congress, informed Sears early Tuesday that he had personal assurances from President Ford of vice-presidential selection reform for 1980 and, so, would oppose 16(c) this time.

This hemorrhage of support may have been caused when Mississippi's afternoon caucus delivered, by a three-vote margin, all 30 votes against 16(c) under the unit rule. But this reason, publicly advanced by Sears, reveals how shaky was his support on the procedural question in the first place.

Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, and North Carolina delegation chairman Tom Ellis, their ardor for Reagan dimmed by Sears' non-ideological strategy, stormed after the vote that Reagan delegates needed an ideological rallying point. At least, Crane and Ellis added, they would have a chance to vote against the Ford—

Other Editors Say Only Decision

(Rocky Mount
Evening Telegram)

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, has made the only decision possible in announcing that he has withdrawn as a candidate for re-election.

He should have done so sooner. And no credit is due to House Democrats who refused to relieve him as chairman of the powerful House Administration Committee.

His troubles began when Elizabeth Ray blew the whistle on him as the congressman who put her on his committee's payroll for sex purposes.

Fortunately, the Justice Department has said Hays' withdrawal will have no effect on their investigations of alleged payroll improprieties involving Miss Ray's employment on the House Administration Committee.

The Justice Department, meanwhile, must decide by Aug. 21 whether to intervene in a private citizen's lawsuit to recover money from Hays under the False Claims Act.

The investigation is proceeding. "We are not looking for any kind of plea bargaining," said a Justice Department spokesman. That's good news.

But it is not immediately clear whether a House Ethics Committee investigation of Hays will continue since that probe would be aimed at disciplining him as a member. Based on its track record to date, and its known reluctance to punish those who remain members, it is doubtful if the House will press any further action.

Until last May Hays was one of the most powerful men in Congress. He was chairman of the committee that dispensed perquisites and favors to congressmen and their staffs, and he did not hesitate to use his position to enforce his will. His withdrawal, hopefully, will enable a man with more moral fiber to take the seat Ohioans had entrusted to him.

Financial Forecasters Fill Void

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The anguish of the financial analyst here in these pre-election days is as acute and obvious as that of the political convention commentator who has nothing to report and a lot of time or space to fill.

In this financial capital there is no vacation for forecasts, since investors live in the future and must be provided with the insights analysts claim to be able to perceive.

And so, while the analysts cannot say for sure who the next president of the United States will be, they nevertheless have to make their projections, which of course must assume that one candidate or another reaches the White House.

The assumption must be made because a president has a direct influence on the course of prices, wages and investments. No financial forecast worth reading can be made without a political assumption.

To announce this, however, would seem to many subscribers to overstep the bounds of financial analysis, and moreover to introduce a subject about which the analyst can claim little expertise.

Therefore, the agony of the financial strategist is extreme, and he develops hedging to a high art. He avoids coming right out and speaking his mind, but he cannot resist throwing off some enticing clues.

The highlights of the Goldman, Sachs & Co. investment strategy issued earlier this summer, begins: "Since Mr. Carter increasingly is becoming a strong candidate in our view, investor uncertainty with regard to the 1977 outlook will increase."

Which, you observe, leaves the investor exactly where he was — uncertain.

Citibank, second largest commercial bank in the nation, manages to avoid picking a candidate by telling readers of its August "Monthly Economic Letter," that no matter who wins, economic policy won't shift suddenly.

"Myths always play an important role in politics," it states at the very beginning,

"and one that surfaces quadrennially is the belief that a new federal administration will swiftly and radically alter the shape of economic policy."

"Such faith, by enlivening rhetoric, animates presidential campaigns. But in fact new men in the White House are rarely able to make quick and substantive changes."

A new administration, it advises, "is not going to play a great role in shaping the budget before fiscal year 1979."

Various forecasters of the stock market, who sometimes have a bias toward rising markets, have advised their clients that there is little to fear from a change of administrations.

Carter: Advisors Can Bridge Gap

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter says his opponents are correct when they claim there is much he does not know about the workings of government.

"I am trying as best as I can to compensate for that inadequacy by gathering around me people who can supplement my own knowledge and experience," Carter said Wednesday.

That, he said, was the reason for the series of briefings on domestic and international issues to which he has invited experts from around the country.

His third and last briefing this week focused Wednesday on international economics. Domestic social programs and energy were discussed earlier in the week.

The Democratic presidential nominee takes a break from serious matters today when he attends a picnic in Macon, Ga., staged by Capricorn Records, the company which records the Allman Brothers and other popular groups. Phil Walden, resident of the company, is a strong Carter supporter.

After his briefings Wednesday, Carter told reporters that his running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, was politicking and filling speaking engagements to which Carter had been invited, while he stayed at home to thoroughly examine the nation's problems.

Evans-Novak....

Kissinger foreign policy, even if it came too late to help Reagan.

But in a sky suite overlooking Kemper Arena, key Ford supporters were debating whether to accept the foreign policy amendment implicitly denouncing Mr. Ford's Helsinki treaty and his snub to Alexander Solzhenitsyn. Rank-and-file Reaganites would never accept, even if Reagan staffers would, a White House "compromise" deleting mention of Helsinki and Solzhenitsyn. So, the Ford choices fighter or surrender.

Dr. Kissinger, confined to Washington until Mr. Ford was safely nominated, wanted to fight. That position was backed in the sky suite only by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. Sen. Robert Griffin of Michigan, Sen. John Tower of Texas and delegate hunter Baker asked: why fight over a document nobody reads anyway? But when told over the telephone the amendment did not matter, Mr. Ford—backing Rockefeller and Kissinger—shot back: "The hell it doesn't."

On the floor, Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina was overheard telling Ford operative Tom Korologos he would leave the Republican party and back an independent conservative ticket if the White House beat the amendment. But with anti 16(c) delegates from Mississippi, Georgia, Delaware and elsewhere opposing Mr. Ford on this one, Reagan could scarcely lose. The President reluctantly agreed to surrender.

That raised a tantalizing question: had Sears not set off the Schweiker rocket with its 16(c) second stage, and had the convention repudiated the Ford-Kissinger foreign policy in a roll call, would the Reagan tide have started? Perhaps not, but at least this would have been a far different convention.

"I don't particularly want to be highly visible traveling in the nation on a full-time basis," Carter said. "I need to be here learning and putting together a campaign structure."

Carter did not mention the obvious contrast this week between the statementsman-like image he is trying to project by studying the issues and the political battles of the Republicans at their convention.

As the economic advisors gathered around him, Carter said they had urged him, if elected president, to take a strong stand against bribery by multinational corporations and against boycotts of U.S. corporations which have Jewish executives. He called such boycotts, sponsored by Arab interests, "morally obnoxious."

Carter said he would favor punitive action against U.S. business executives who admit or are caught bribing foreign officials, and added he was inclined to disclose the name of foreign officials who received bribes.

"I believe it would be a serious mistake to condone, as our government presently does, through quiescence or reticence the concepts of legitimate bribery," Cartersaid.

The nominee also charged that current foreign aid policies are uncoordinated and "in a state of confusion."

Foreign aid ought to be "designed to reach the people who need it, not to buy another Cadillac for a tin-horn dictator," he added.

Carter declined to give specific examples of such a "Cadillac" policy, but he said the advisors generally had agreed that programs which ended up benefiting the wealthy elite of underdeveloped countries had existed in recent administrations.

Despite recent domestic and international economic turmoil, the economic strength of the U.S. is "substantially unshaken," Carter said. He added that the rest of the world looks to the U.S. for economic leadership but that such leadership hasn't always been given by the Ford-Nixon administrations.

During the international economics briefing, as well as the five other briefings he has held in the past month, Carter acknowledged that he has studied the experts who have participated as possible officials in a Carter administration.

"As I meet with these leaders I am certainly forming opinions about their compatibility with me personally and on philosophical matters," he said.

One of Wednesday's briefers was Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, who has been touted as a possible Secretary of Labor in a Carter administration.

Also attending the sessions was Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, who met with Carter before and after the briefing and spent the night at the Carter home.

ered, briefly, a plank that would have deplored misbehavior by public officials, naming three congressional Democrats along with "those individuals associated with the so-called Watergate scandals."

"Such actions by persons in positions of public trust are unpardonable," the proposed plank said.

Harold R. Sterling, a delegate from Memphis, Tenn., who supports Ronald Reagan for the presidential nomination, proposed the amendment to the platform committee last Friday, saying Republicans should raise the issue "because Democrats are going to hammer us on the head with it."

They already have, stirring Watergate memories and criticizing the unconditional pardon President Ford granted Nixon. Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter said he wouldn't try to make the pardon a campaign issue. But it appears certain other Democrats will.

And Reagan said Tuesday that he's sure Carter has a copy of the book "The Man Who Pardoned Nixon" to use against Ford.

"But if I am the nominee, we're just going to be standing there as two ex-governors comparing our records, and I'll like that a lot," said Reagan, who had suggested during primary election campaigns that he could do a better job than Ford in countering the Watergate issue.

In that situation, the Republican plan is to counter-attack, turning the GOP sights on more recent disclosure of misbehavior, notably the congressional sex scandals.

Three Republican representatives launched a campaign to "clean-up Congress" by electing GOP candidates in 1976. One of them, Rep. Barber Conable of New York, said they were for wholesale reform of congressional payrolls and expense accounts, noting that "All these things may make life more comfortable for the members, but so did Elizabeth Ray."

STREETS RESURFACED—City street department crews work paving streets in downtown Greenville. Streets paved include Cotanche, Third, Fourth, and Greene. Other streets are planned for the future resurfacing. According to C. A. Holliday, city engineer, approximately 1,565 tons of asphalt were used for the job, costing about $30,000. According to public works director Mayo Allen, this will be a great improvement for the downtown area. He stated that street cleaning crews could properly clean streets where as before the cleaning machines would not clean some areas. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Reagan Will Remain In Public Eye; Won't Rule Out VP Draft

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ronald Reagan, his long campaign for president over, plans to remain in the public eye, speaking out for conservative causes and Republican unity, but not as President Ford's running mate.

Reagan said early today he will stand by earlier statements that he would never accept an offer of the vice presidential nomination.

But he refused to rule out accepting a convention draft, which his supporters had discussed on the convention floor. "I'll answer that if and when it comes," Reagan said. "I'll be happy to go back to the ranch," the former California governor the movie actor running mate.

Reagan said in a joint news conference with Ford, two and a half hours after the President defeated him by a 1,187-1,070 margin for the Republican presidential nomination.

Ford came to Reagan after turning back the strongest intra-party challenge to an incumbent president since the Theodore Roosevelt-William Howard Taft battle in 1912. The President said he went to Reagan "for the purpose of congratulating you on a very fine campaign. You really got us in shape. I thank you." Reagan responded: "I'll do all I can" to elect the Ford ticket.

"It was a good fight, Mom, and he won," Reagan said with a smile. "But once the fight is over, we're all on the same side and go forward together."

In response to a question, he added: "But not as a running mate."

Ford said he discussed the vice presidency with Reagan in a 30-minute private meeting, but he did not say whether he offered it to the challenger.

Reagan, however, reiterated that he wants only to resume his newspaper column, his radio commentaries and his public speaking tours. They were a lucrative profession before Reagan announced his candidacy.

A former radio announcer, sportscaster and motion picture actor before entering politics 10 years ago, Reagan grossed an estimated $500,000. For 1975, he reported a net personal income, after a paying a staff of seven, of $282,253.

That public commentator job also gives Reagan a chance to become, in effect, the conservative conscience of a Ford campaign and administration, a role which Reagan indicated he wants to play.

Although pledging his full support to the Ford campaign, Reagan also said repeatedly during the past week that one reason he would not accept the vice presidential nomination is that he wants the right to criticize.

Whether Reagan will also play an active role in the Ford campaign is unknown. Reagan has offered his services and it is up to Ford, Reagan aides say.

There is another side of Reagan's varied career that will also come back into public view.

The Federal Communications Commission ban on the telecast of Reagan's old movies was lifted with the end of his candidacy. Some 51 old films — ranging from "King's Row" to "Bedtime for Bonzo," are now back in the pool of late late show features.

Two Wrecks Wednesday

Two city traffic accidents yesterday caused $795 in damages to the cars involved, according to Greenville Police Dept. records.

A collision last night at W. 14th and Fleming streets did $300 damage to the car driven by James Henry Tyson, 600A W. 14th St., and $220 to the auto driven by Henry Brown, 1909 Norcott Circle.

Vehicles operated by Christopher James Porter, 113 E. 12th St., and Prince Augustus Mills, Rt. 3, Greenville, collided yesterday afternoon in the Pitt Plaza parking lot, 400 feet east of Arlington Blvd. Damages were $75 to the Porter car and $200 to the Mills car.

Outing Is Cancelled

The Parents Without Partners' family weekend at Nags Head scheduled for Saturday and Sunday has been canceled because of the death of Charlotte Phelps' nephew. The group was to have stayed at Mrs. Phelps' cottage.

Friday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. there will be family bowling at Hillcrest Lane, with special rates for PWP members and prospective members during the specified hour and a half.

Wednesday at 8 p.m. an informal discussion will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church led by Dr. Mel Markowski, ECU professor and member of the PWP professional advisory committee. "Family Relations" will be the topic.

Membership in Parents Without Partners is open to all single, divorced, separated, or widowed parents. Prospective members may attend three functions or activities without obligation to join. For more information one may call 756-7763 or 758-4952.

Talent Program

Bishop Phillips Traveling Choir of Rock Spring Church will have a talent program Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the church. The public is invited to attend.

Volcano's Threat May Not Be As Great Now; No Rush Of Returnees

By NAT CARNES
Associated Press Writer
POINTE-A-PITRE, Guadeloupe (AP) — Light ash spewed from the Soufriere volcano today, and seismographs indicated a subsidence of the internal turbulence that has poured out deadly gases, steam and ash for more than a month. But French officials on Guadeloupe's twin islands in the Caribbean said the 73,500 people evacuated from the danger zone around the 4,813-foot peak would not be allowed to return home for at least two weeks.

All government records were to be removed today from Basse Terre, the deserted colonial capital, which was evacuated Sunday.

There was another exodus Wednesday. Authorities let some of the displaced farmers return to their fields, and between 2,000 and 4,000 cattle were trucked to safety.

Since last Thursday, Dr. Robert Brousse of the University of Paris and other French volcanologists monitoring La Soufriere have been predicting that a catastrophic eruption was imminent and could come at any time.

But French Overseas Minister Olivier Stirn arrived from Paris and said news accounts of the danger had been "too strong." The government for the first time brought forward the English head of the seismic unit at the University of the West Indies in Trinidad, Dr.

John Tumbolin, who told a news conference: "We simply cannot predict what is happening two kilometers (x.2 miles) below the earth. This is not like a hurricane. You can't fly a plane into the eye."

Tumbolin said it was possible the volcano was a "dud," but "there are indications of a very large amount of magma (molten rock) below the volcano."

Brousse and Tumbolin in separate interviews asserted that there was no difference of opinion between them, and a high-ranking government official agreed.

North Koreans were believed killed.

Stilwell's letter, read to the joint armistice commission by its senior U.N. member, U.S. Rear Adm. Mark P. Frudde, said the North Korean attack was "an unprovoked act of severe brutality" and "an open and flagrant act of belligerency."

North Korea said its men acted in self-defense after "U.S. aggression troops" beat them with lethal weapons.

President Ford said North Korea must accept "The total responsibility and consequences," and the State Department refused to rule out U.S. military action. But Pentagon officials said this was not likely.

Bonifas, mother said her son wrote continuously of the dangers in and around the demilitarized zone. Although he assured her that "I can take care of myself," she said his letters contained such phrases as, "You never know... anything can happen."

Mrs. Bonifas said she received the last letter, a note on a birthday card, on Monday, her birthday.

"Things are pretty quiet here now with the KPA Korean People's Army," he wrote.

"Hopefully they'll stay that way for some time to come."

Prices Stronger

FARMVILLE — Prices on several grades were stronger yesterday on the Farmville Tobacco Market, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"A few sheets of quality leaf grades brought $1.26 per pound. Top practical price was $1.20 per pound," Williams said.

"The volume of primings showed a large increase compared with the volume of the past several days. Offerings of leaf grades accounted for more volume than any day this season and Stabilization receipts accounted for only 2.12 per cent of the gross sales," Williams added.

The Farmville Tobacco Market sold 359,209 pounds Wednesday for $423,133 with an average of $1.17.80 per 100 pounds. To date, the Farmville Market has sold 9,568,157 pounds for $9,976,267 pounds for an average of $1.04.27 per 100 pounds.

the convention, Ford told reporters he didn't think the campaign had been a bitter one.

"It's been a very hotly contested campaign," Ford said. Later, he added that "I happen to think that the campaign was beneficial. The net result was good for the Republican party."

Reagan congratulated Ford and said, "It was a good fight, Mom, and he won."

When Ford was asked how Reagan could do so well in a campaign aimed at denying an incumbent president his party's nomination, he replied, "Gov. Reagan is probably the most effective campaigner in the United States today."

As for his strategy against the Democrats, Ford said, "We are going to go out and campaign against them as candidates, against their platform suite.

Reagan's name was placed in nomination first.

Sen. Paul Laxalt of Nevada, cochairman of the Reagan campaign, delivered the nominating speech and called Reagan "the finest candidate to come before a Republican convention in recent years."

Laxalt also told the delegates that "regardless of how these cards fall... Ronald Reagan and Paul Laxalt will work firmly behind the Republican ticket."

Gloltz Pitches 5-1 Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

Eight days earlier, Baltimore's Jim Palmer had pitched a one-hitter to beat Dave Goltz and the Minnesota Twins 2-0 but Goltz was more concerned with the Orioles' batters when the two hooked up again Wednesday night.

"I'm not throwing against pitchers, I'm throwing against the hitters," Goltz said after turning back 16-game winner Palmer and the Orioles 5-1.

In other American League action, the New York Yankees downed Texas 8-6 as switch-hitting Roy White drove in five runs with a homer from each side of the plate plus a double, Cleveland stopped Kansas City 4-1, Milwaukee shaded Oakland 3-1, California edged Detroit 5-4 in 11 innings as Nolan Ryan struck out 17 batters and the Chicago White Sox defeated Boston 4-2.

In ending Baltimore's five-game winning streak and dropping them 10½ games behind the Yankees in the AL East, Goltz held the Orioles to six hits before giving way to Bill Campbell with two out in the eighth.

Palmer allowed eight hits and four runs in 6 2-3 innings, but three of the runs were unearned because of errors by shortstop Mark Belanger and right fielder Reggie Jackson.

Yankees 8, Rangers 6
Batting right-handed, White drove in the Yankees' first run with a third-inning homer off Jim Umberger after Texas kayeed Ken Holtzman in the second inning and piled up a 5-0 lead. White added a two-run double off Umberger as the Yankees scored five times in the fifth inning and won the game with a two-run shot off right-hander Steve Hargan in the ninth, the fourth time in his career White has homered from both sides of the plate.

Indians 4, Royals 1
Dennis Eckersley and Jim Kern combined for a six-hitter. Cleveland scored all their runs off Al Fitzmorris in the seventh inning. Eckersley held the hard-hitting Royals to two hits until the eighth. The Indians broke a scoreless game open on Rico Carty's two-out double, an intentional walk to Boog Powell and a single by Larvell Blanks.

Brewers 3, A's 1
Jim Slaton fired a four-hitter with last-out help from Ray Sadecki and Jack Heidemann delivered a decisive two-run single off Vida Blue in the eighth inning following a two-out intentional walk to Gary Sutherland. Slaton lost his shut-out with two out in the ninth on Bert Campaneris' infield hit, two wild pitches and on Don Baylor's single.

Angels 5, Tigers 4
California scored the winning run on Dave Collins' single, a stolen base, passed ball and Detroit relief ace John Hiller's wild pitch. Ryan allowed nine hits before giving way to John Verhoeven in the 11th and his 17 strikeouts were a season high in the majors. The fireballing right-hander had a 3-1 lead until pinch hitter Dan Meyer's two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning.

White Sox 4, Red Sox 2
Bucky Dent hit a two-run homer, Jim Spencer a solo blast and Rich Gossage pitched out of three bases-loaded situations with only slight damage. The homers were the 19th and 20th off Ferguson Jenkins this season.

Richards Doesn't Expect To Play At Forest Hills

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Renee Richards, who was Dr. Richard Raskind before undergoing a sex change operation, doesn't think she has a chance of playing tennis at Forest Hills.

She's refused to take the chromosome test that the United States Open championships have ordered this year for all the women entries. Although the 41-year-old ophthalmologist says there will be an appeal, she termed her chances of success "zero."

As Richard Raskind, she fathered a youngster, practiced medicine and played outstanding tennis in the East. Last year the sex change operation was performed.

Now Dr. Richards wears tennis dresses and when she held a news conference Wednesday, she also wore a pink sweater.

A left-hander standing six feet tall, she showed power in her serves and forehand smashes while on the court. Although many believe that she would be a strong factor at Forest Hills, she said the younger women must be favored.

The transsexual Dr. Richards will play in the Tennis Week Open this weekend at South Orange, N.J., but she says the only reason she has come into the spotlight is that someone revealed her identity.

"I moved 3,000 miles and went into practice here," she said. "I played in tournaments in Orange County, Calif., without incident. When I played in La Jolla a television newsmen revealed my identity.

"If that hadn't happened, I don't think I would have even tried to play at Forest Hills."

She said, "Although I never intended for my life to become public knowledge and, in fact, I went to tremendous lengths to keep it private, my playing in the tournament in La Jolla exposed my privacy and opened up a very important social issue."

She added that she welcomed the opportunity of becoming an example "and invested myself in the task of doing something about it."

However, she would not discuss her former wife and child. She did say that she could not have continued her life as a male and for 12 years before the operation in 1975 she had been preparing for it.

Dr. Richards said her medical license to practice ophthalmology — the function and diseases of the eye — still carries the dual names of Renee Richards and Richard Raskind. She hopes to have the latter removed shortly.

She wears her hair in a page boy cut, talks with a husky tone and appears distinctly feminine.

She says that although she doesn't expect to be permitted into the Forest Hills tournament, she will continue trying and perhaps go to the courts to seek a legal entry into major women's events.

"Anatomically, functionally, socially, emotionally and legally, I am female," she declared in a news release she read to reporters. "I play competitive tennis in women's events because I am a female."

Paterno, Kush Lead 'Top 20'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Joe Paterno of Penn State and Frank Kush of Arizona State are the winningest active college football coaches among those with at least five seasons as a head coach at a major college.

They headed the list in the annual list of "Top Twenty Coaches" released today by Elmore "Scoop" Hudgins, public relations director of the Southeastern Conference, who originated the rankings in 1958. Hudgins compiles the records of all NCAA Division I coaches, to find out who have won the most games. Only service at four-year schools counts and at least five years must be at the major college level. The 20 are then listed in order of percentage.

To qualify for the 1976 honor roll, 69 or more victories were necessary. Alabama's Paul Bryant is the runaway leader in victories with 253 in a 31-year career but only ranks fourth in percentage with 253-72-16-765.

In 10 years at Penn State, Paterno has compiled a record of 94-18-1 for a percentage of .836, well ahead of anyone else on the list. Arizona State's 12-0 record last year enabled Kush to move into second place past Michigan's Bo Schembechler with a record of 151-39-1-793. Schembechler is third with 106-26-6-790.

Behind Bryant is Ohio State's Woody Hayes with 203-68-6-764.

Rounding out the top 10 list are Darrell Royal of Texas, 179-55-4-761; Dan Devine of Notre Dame, 127-44-8-732; Frank Broyles of Arkansas, 144-57-5-711; Carmen Cozza of Yale, 69-29-1-702, and Charlie McClendon of Louisiana State, 106-44-6-699.

The second 10 consists of Florida State's Bobby Bowden, Georgia's Vince Dooley, Temple's Wayne Hardin, Florida's Doug Dickey, Illinois' Bob Blackman, South Carolina's Jim Carlen, Maryland's Jerry Claiborne, Houston's Bill Yeaman, Ohio University's Bill Hess and Clemson's Red Park-er.

Jones Having St. Louis Blues

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Randy Jones is having a great season — everywhere, that is, except at Busch Stadium in St. Louis.

The winningest pitcher in baseball is reduced to frustration and failure in the Cardinals' park because of an "awkward" mound.

"It's one thing to have a high mound with a slope but that thing has a 45-degree drop," said the San Diego left-hander after a 5-4 defeat by St. Louis Wednesday night. "It just goes down. There's no way that any pitcher can adjust. I did everything that I could with no success."

Jones, who earlier this season tied a National League walkless record, gave up five bases on balls while losing for the second time at Busch Stadium this season and the third time overall to the Redbirds.

"I just couldn't keep the ball down and when I did get it down, it was too low," said Jones, 19-8, after failing to become the major leagues' first 20-game winner this season. "I was overstriding a good six inches and I was opening up on my delivery without anything working."

In other National League games, Cincinnati beat Atlanta 4-1; Philadelphia stopped Montreal 5-4; Los Angeles nipped the New York Mets 3-2 and Pittsburgh routed San Francisco 12-1 in a game halted by rain after 6½ innings.

Ted Simmons and Mike Anderson drove in two runs apiece as St. Louis shaded San Diego with the aid of a three-run first inning. The RBI by Simmons and Anderson keyed a 10-hit Cardinal attack.

Reds 4, Braves 1
Jack Billingham, relegated to bullpen duty last month, won his fourth straight game as a starter, pitching a five-hitter to help Cincinnati snap a four-game losing streak. Billingham, who has credited his resurgence to a special diet, allowed only two hits through the first six innings in boosting his record to 11-8. He struck out four and walked two for his fifth complete game.

Phillies 5, Expos 4
Mike Schmidt's two-run triple triggered a five-run third that carried Philadelphia over Montreal. Winner Jim Lonborg, 13-8, started the Phillies' third with a walk. Dave Cash, who had three hits and extended his on-base streak to nine, doubled Lonborg to third.

Montreal's Don Stanhouse, 8-7, then gave up Schmidt's triple as the Philadelphia third baseman boosted his RBI total to 82 for the season. Greg Luzinski walked and Jay Johnstone doubled home Schmidt, Luzinski reaching third.

Gary Maddox was intentionally walked and Tommy Hutton drove in the fourth run with a sacrifice fly. Johnny Oates walked and Lonborg, up for the second time in the inning, singled home the winning run.

Pirates 12, Giants 1
Dave Parker cracked four hits, including a pair of run-scoring singles, and Pittsburgh collected 17 hits to crush San Francisco. Jim Rooker, 10-6, scattered four hits and aided his cause with a two-run triple in a three-run second off loser John Montefusco, 13-10.

Dodgers 3, Mets 2
Pinch-hitter Manny Mota doubled home Bill Russell from second with two out in the ninth inning to give Los Angeles its victory over New York.

Ali Doesn't Have Time To Hustle Tickets

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali's voice was loud and clear and confident, just as if he was speaking at a packed Manhattan news conference or before 25,000 idolators at the airport in Kuala Lumpur.

But it came over a telephone line from Show Low, Ariz. "What are you doing in Show Low?" the questioner asked, his voice betraying the doubt he felt.

"I wanted to get away from people so I could concentrate on training. I can't turn them down," said the heavyweight champion of the world who fled late last week to this dot on the map from his well publicized — too well — farm at Berrien Springs, Mich.

Ali is scheduled to defend the title Sept. 28 in Yankee Stadium against tough Ken Norton.

So, because of what will be a stern test for his abilities, the 34-year-old champion said he has had to forsake people, leeching people and pretty people — "The prettiest women in the world are among my people" — and seek refuge at a training camp at the Show Low Airport.

To get to the camp, and Show Low, you fly from Phoenix on Cochise Airlines.

The self-proclaimed "most famous man in the world" — a legitimate argument — said he discovered Show Low when he went west to join Dick Gregory, the activist who was making a cross-country walk to underscore the plight of the nation's poor people.

The advice of his manager also sent the champion into what for him is virtual hermitage. "Herbert Muhammad is the smartest man ever to hit boxing," Ali said.

Actually the attendance at the workouts in Show Low is not much different than in Berrien Springs, said Ali. But there is one major difference: "These are Indians and old people and they don't beg for money."

Norton is scheduled to show up in New York and train in New York's Catskills two weeks before the fight. But Ali claims he won't be in New York until three days before the bout, that this time he doesn't have to "hustle" tickets.

Pirates Begin Drills Monday

GREENVILLE, N.C. — Some 140 prospective football players are expected to report for pre-season drills this Friday at East Carolina University. The Pirates will begin actual workouts on Monday morning.

Head coach Pat Dye will greet his third term at East Carolina with an air of optimism. The Pirates boast being the 18th winningest team in the country over the last five years. That fact, plus seasons of 7-4 and 8-3 under Dye, and with the return of 17 starters, there's reason for that optimism.

"I'm eager to get the players in here and get to work," says Dye. "We could have a real fine football team if a few problems are solved and we have no major injuries."

"However, we could have a better team than last year but not have as good a record. Our schedule for 1976 is by far the toughest we've faced since I've been at East Carolina."

The Pirates open their season on Saturday night, Sept. 11, against the University of Southern Mississippi. The Golden Eagles were 7-4 last year while playing no home games. They return 12 starters, six on offense and six on defense.

Following the Southern Mississippi clash, the Pirates travel to Raleigh for the annual battle with rival N. C. State University.

The Pirates are expected to have an explosive offense this year, led by two-year starter at quarterback Mike Weaver from Williamston. He's joined in the backfield by star runners Willie Hawkins and Eddie Hicks.

The front line is boosted by tackle Ricky Bennett, guard Wayne Bolt and center Tim Hightower. Split end Terry Gallaher and tight end Clay Burnett return as seasoned veterans.

Defensively, the Pirates are led by All-America Jim Bolding at free safety and honorable mention All-America Cary Godette at defensive end. Other top defensive returnees include Reggie Pinkney and Ernest Madison in the secondary, Zack Valentine at end, all-conference linebacker Harold Randolph and Harold Fort at linebacker, and Jake Dove at tackle.

West Moves Up

Former Rose High School athlete Joe West has taken another step up the ladder to the big leagues.

West, an umpire in professional baseball, was under contract to the American Association, a 3-A league, at the start of the year, but no vacancies came available.

So West, in his third year of umpiring, remained in the Southern League, a 2-A group.

Last night, however, he was notified to report to Oklahoma City to begin duties with the American Association.

That league is one of several 3-A organizations just a step below the major leagues.

West, who attended an umpiring school in Florida after completing a four-year career at Elon College as a quarterback, graduated from the umpire school with top honors.

Hayes, Buckeyes After Third

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A younger Woody Hayes treated nonconference football games as mere exhibitions preparatory for Big Ten Conference championship bids.

The stormy Ohio State coach, now silver-haired and 62 years old, has altered that philosophy. "You have to play for keeps right away now," he says. "Teams are so much better."

Perhaps the Big Ten power's schedule is the reason. The Buckeyes start with Michigan State, Penn State, Missouri and UCLA, the toughest in Hayes' 36 Ohio State seasons.

Hayes' burning desire to win a third Associated Press national championship before he retires could be behind his theory to treat all opponents alike.

He has taken teams to five of the last six Rose Bowls, losing all but one. In most cases, the defeats cost Hayes that coveted national title. The most upsetting was last January when unheralded UCLA torpedeod the Buckeyes 23-10, dropping the Big Ten champions from first to fourth in the final poll.

"I haven't discussed the Rose Bowl and I won't," said the disciplinarian who has turned out a 213-63-8 record in 30 college seasons.

The Buckeyes, 11-1-0 last season, lost eight of 11 offensive starters and 12 of 22 over-all.

The biggest departees were tailback Archie Griffin, the only two-time Heisman Trophy winner; quarterback Cornelius Greene; wingback Brian Baschnagel; offensive tackle Scott Donnelly, and safety Tim Fox.

Still, Hayes refuses to discuss any team weaknesses, preparing for a controversial home opener with Michigan State Sept. 4. The Michigan State campus newspaper, in a series of preseason stories, charged the Buckeyes with recruiting violations.

"It's going to be a dandy," Hayes will only say of the Big Ten opener against the Spartans.

It's no secret the Buckeyes' strengths will be Pete Johnson, a 247-pound fullback who led the nation in scoring last fall, and a veteran-studded defense.

Hayes believes he has a capable quarterback replacement in sophomore Rod Gerald. Griffin's old position will fall to 184-pound junior Jeff Logan or Ron Springs, a heralded junior college transfer.

Best of the defenders are tackles Nick Buonamici and Eddie Beamon, middle guard Aaron Brown, linebacker Ken Thompson and deep backs Bruce Ruhl and Ray Griffin, Archie's brother.

Griffin was offered a chance to go for his older brother's tailback job, but chose to remain on defense.

A STEAL FOR TAVERAS — Short-stop Frank Taveras of the Pittsburgh Pirates is safe at second on a fifth inning steal at Candlestick Park on Wednesday as second baseman Marty

Perez of the San Francisco Giants reaches for a wide throw from Dave Rader. Ump is Harry Wendelstedt. (AP Wirephoto)

Sixth Course To Be Built

PINEHURST, N. C. — A sixth championship 18 hole golf course at the Pinehurst Hotel & Country Club has been designed and will be built by internationally renowned golf course architects George Fazio and Tom Fazio of Tequesta, Fla., it was announced by William B. Bru, president of Diamondhead Corporation, owners of the world-famous Pinehurst Resort.

Groundbreaking on the Pinehurst Number Six course, which will be located approximately three and a half miles from the Pinehurst Country Club, will begin on September 15, 1976. It is expected this new layout will be ready for play by February 1, 1978.

"We have selected George and Tom Fazio for this prestigious undertaking," notes Bru, "because of the unique style and design of golf courses they have produced in the past and are capable of producing now and in the future. Their experience and background in golf course architecture has placed them among the most sought after golf course builders in the world."

Course Number Six will be developed from virgin pineland over rolling, sandhill terrain. According to Tom Fazio: "If you could pick any type of land on which to build a golf course, this spot in Pinehurst would be the ideal type of setting you would select. This area is one of the top three sites we've ever built a course on. We will try to retain as much of the natural terrain of the land as is possible."

There are three natural lakes on the property, and the Fazio's have designed the course to have four full water holes as well as 60 other holes in which creeks come into play. There will be 65 sand bunkers plus many other built-in and natural hazards.

"We plan to make Pinehurst Number Six a fun, family-type of course," Fazio comments. "It will basically be a 'membership' rather than a 'tournament' course. But, depending upon where the tees are set up and where the pins are placed on the greens, the course will be able to be made more and more challenging."

According to Fazio, the new course will measure 6,800 yards from the championship "back" tees, 6,450 from the men's tees, and 5,900 from the women's tees. The greens will be "typical Pinehurst greens"—small and undulating. The fairways of all holes will be "framed" by the natural trees, shrubs and vegetation found in the area allowing golfers a feeling of solitude as they tour the course.

Tom and his uncle, George, do not have a slogan or logo for their company, but, says Tom: "We strive for our courses to be of such caliber that when the architect of any quality course is not known, it might possibly be assumed that since it is an outstanding course it must have been 'Designed by Fazio'."

The Designed by Fazio team began in the early 1950's, when George decided to drop off the pro circuit and go into golf course architecture as a profession. As a traveling golfer, George won the Canadian Open, the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and the Philadelphia Open (five times), plus he finished in a tie with Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum for the U.S. Open title in 1950.

Tom Fazio joined his uncle's staff when the work load grew too intense from demand in the early 1960's. Through constant exposure to George's work and his own on-the-job problem-solving experience, Tom has become a golf course architect of equal stature with George.

Among the courses the Fazio team has built that are rated among the top 100 layouts in America are: Butler National Golf Club in Oakbrook, Ill.; Champions Golf Club in Houston; Palmetto Dunes Resort on Hilton Head Island, S.C.; and Jupiter Hills Club, Jupiter, Fla.

Commenting specifically on the Fazio's newest "job," Bru says: "The quality of Pinehurst's Number Six course will be equal to the high standards of our other five championship courses, which all start and end at our new Country Club."

Pinehurst is the only resort in the country to feature five, 18-hole championship golf courses. The famed Number Two course, rated among the 10 most challenging layouts in the country, is the site of the annual $200,000 World Open Championship—which will be held this year from September 9-12.

WCU Hoping To Have Overcome Problems

By WOODY PEELE

(One of a series)

Two years ago, Western Carolina went to the NCAA playoffs and took a 9-1 record into that play. Because of that, Coach Bob Waters eagerly awaited the opening of the 1975 season.

But between the final gun and the opening whistle, something happened. By the time the final gun had sounded again, the Catamounts had their worst record in a dozen years, 3-7.

What happened? Waters isn't sure. "It's painful to mention last year," he said. "We did a poor job coaching and the players did a poor job responding."

One of the big things was the opening game, against Mid-American Conference strongboy Toledo. By halftime, Western had powered its way to a 24-0 lead, and it looked like it was going to be a banner season. But by the time the game ended, Toledo had come back to take a 32-31 win.

It took the wind out of the Cat sails, and the players never got their feet back on the ground again. But then, a 20-11 final game win over Appalachian State may have revived them again.

"That got us through a long winter, spring and summer," Waters said. "We hope we've overcome our problems; we had a good spring. We may not be that much improved talentwise, but we definitely have a better attitude."

Some 30 lettermen return, and there is experience at quarterback and linebacker, the places where trouble started last year. After a battle during the spring, Kent Briggs, a 6-3 red-shirted freshman, ended up with the job.

"We've got to complete passes," Waters said of his prototype offense. "We depend on our passing game to make our running game go."

When the running game goes, it's usually with fleet-footed Darrell Lipford handling the ball. He's rushed for over 1,700 yards in two seasons. Joining him in the backfield is sophomore Andy Jordan at fullback.

The offensive line has experience at every position. Tackles Gary Henderson and Gary Nelson, and guard Joe D'Alessandris are the anchor men in the line, all being seniors.

George Plott, a starter at guard last year has moved to tight end, while a pair of sophomores, Steve Dunn and Robbie Vannoy will handle the center and guard position, respectively.

Jeff Ciccone, who caught 35 passes for 502 yards, is the leading wide receiver. He'll get help from Wayne Tolleson, Fred Meadows and Wayne Smith. All but Smith are veterans.

The linebacking situation may be the most improved on the team, following spring drills. Mike Wade, an academic All-America, moved into one position from defensive end. Frank Wilson, a transfer from Lees-McRae, probably will get the other spot, although Georgia Tech transfer Tommy Bowen was also impressive.

Bob Jabloski may be the best ever to handle the end position, with either James Blanton or Doug Piercy at the other end slot.

The defensive line and the secondary may be the critical areas. Only Jim Calaverne, Ty Smith and Tim Williams have experience as down linemen. The secondary has Harvey Walker, Jack Bowen and Mutt DeGraffenreid as the lone experienced players.

"We're going to have to depend on several green recruits to play key reserve roles — and freshmen make me nervous."

Western, the newest member of the Southern Conference, is slated to move from the Division II to the Division I ranks after this season, but plays just two conference schools — Appalachian and East Carolina. Neither game counts in the standings. But they will definitely be games that will bear watching.

Youth Gymnastics Classes To Begin

East Carolina University's Children and Youth Gymnastics Program for young people ages 6-18 will be held during the fall quarter, Sept. 13—Nov. 11.

The program, sponsored by the ECU Department of Health and Physical Education, will provide instruction for both sexes in trampoline, tumbling, balance beam, parallel bars, vaulting, floor exercises and the mini-trampoline.

Participants will be divided into four age groups. Each group will meet one night per week from 6-7 p.m. Enrollment will be limited to 40 applicants per group.

Registration will be held September 7-10 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in room 171, Minges Coliseum. Fee for the quarter is $17.

Further information about the program is available from Dr. Richard Lauffer, ECU Department of Health and Physical Education, telephone 757-6441.

New Brand Of Football On West Coast This Year

By DAN BERGER
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ricky Bell and Joe Roth are back to shoot for the Heisman Trophy bat, otherwise, football in the Pacific-8 Conference this year won't resemble last year's version very much.

Four new head coaches, three of them under 35 years of age, may change the offensive appearance of the league. The new-look conference gets national television exposure early when UCLA plays Arizona State on Sept. 9.

That game, between 1975's No. 2-ranked Sun Devils, the Fiesta Bowl winners, and No. 5-rated Bruins, winners of the Rose Bowl, could be an old-fashioned shoot-'em-up in Tempe, Ariz. It's ASU's veteran Frank Kush against UCLA's first-year, 32-year-old Terry Donahue, who replaced Dick Vermeil, now with the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles.

The other coaching changes: Jackie Sherrill, 32, at Washington State, replacing Jim Sweeney; John Robinson, 41, at Southern California, taking over for John McKay; former McKay aide Craig Fertig, 34, at Oregon State, replacing Dee Andros, now athletic director. Bell, Southern Cal's 214-pound tailback who rushed for 1,875 yards last year, will run behind a veteran line which includes big Marvin Powell and Donnie Hickman.

Two fullbacks and excellent blockers also return — Mosi Tatupu and Dave Farmer. They mowed down the opposition so well for the 8-4 Trojans last year that Bell came within six yards of Ed Marinaro's NCAA single-season rushing record.

UCLA was 9-2-1 last year using ground-eating offense and a cat-cupping young defense. And most of it returns this year, including running back Wendell Tyler, safeties Oscar Edwards and Pat Schmidt, linebacker Raymond Burks and tackle Manu Tuiasosopo. Gone is first-team All-America quarterback John Sciarra.

Roth, California's passing wizard, an honorable mention All-American last year, was overshadowed by Sciarra. Roth, who hit 126 of 236 passes for 1,880 yards last year, lost top receiver Steve Rivera to graduation and the San Francisco 49ers, but he still has Wesley Walker. Fullback Tom Newton will do most of the running.

At Stanford, the quarterback battle resumes where it left off last year. Coach Jack Christiansen still hasn't decided whether he'll use Guy Benjamin or Mike Cordova — a decision he failed to reach all last year when the two were alternated.

Cordova was No. 1 most of the time but Benjamin played the last three games. The statistics:

—Cordova: 106 completions, 231 attempts, 1,311 yards, 11 touchdowns.

—Benjamin: 79 completions, 135 attempts, 1,046 yards, 10 touchdowns.

Oregon State's ebullient Fertig, out of the McKay mold, has quarterback problems. His choice will either be sophomore Jeff Kynaston, impressive in spring drills, or last year's No. 1 man, Kyle Grossart, who missed spring drills with a broken ankle.

Whoever it is, he'll be throwing to fleet Lee Overton. And whoever it is, he'll probably call more than his share of surprise plays. Fertig is an imaginative coach.

Washington Coach Don James calls 1976 a rebuilding year, but the rebuilding will be a lot easier with people like Robin Earl, Robert Gaines, Scott Phillips and Charles Jackson.

Earl, a 250-pound fullback, averaged 4.7 yards a carry last year. Gaines played sparingly but the track star turned his only two pass receptions into two long touchdowns. Phillips, a senior, caught 33 passes last year and has 85 in his three seasons. Jackson is an impressive middle guard.

Oregon's Don Read has 34 lettermen back, including one of the top passers in the conference, Jack Henderson. His No. 1 target will be split end Greg Bauer. But it'll take more than passing for the Ducks to improve on their 3-8 record.

Sherill, in his first year at WSU, inherits a 3-8 over-all and 0-7 conference team. His quarterback experienced John Hopkins. Tailback Dan Doornink is also back.

The Pacific-8 title chase — with the Rose Bowl berth as the top prize — again appears to be a case of Southern Cal vs. the rest of the conference.

Robinson says he'll have his quarterbacks throwing the ball to his backs a lot more than did McKay. And Bell, who averaged 32 carries per game, may wind up carrying the ball more than the four times he did last season.

UCLA, even without Sciarra, will resume using its Veer-T offense with Jeff Dankworth throwing to Flanker Wally Henry and tight ends Don Pederson and Rick Walker. It'll be an explosive offense, similar to the one which rolled up 414 yards last year against Southern Cal, the Pac-8's top defensive team.

The Bruins' main running force will be Tyler, the shifty tailback who was third in the Pac-8 last year behind Bell and Cal's Chuck Muncie.

The Pacific Coast Athletic Association race is expected to be a battle between Long Beach State and San Jose State, both teams coming off 9-2 seasons.

San Jose State, with new Coach Lynn Stiles, might have the edge because of a proven defense headed by Wilson Faumina, a 6-foot-5, 242-pound tackle rated as one of the best in the country.

Stiles was UCLA's defensive coordinator last year, so he's perfect to take over a team which blessed with talent like middle guard Fred Ford and linemen John Blain, Tim Towes and John Blake.

Long Beach State Coach Wayne Howard leans heavily on his offense to do the damage. Quarterback Joe Paopao, who passed for 1,652 yards last year, is back, along with fullback Mark Bailey and receiver Mike Willis.

Fresno State hopes to be a spoiler under new head Coach Jim Sweeney, formerly at Washington State. And Sweeney hopes junior college transfer Dean Jones has the quarter-back tools to lift the Bulldogs into title contention. He threw for 1,296 yards at Compton last year. Sweeney relied heavily on junior college people when he recruited. With such newcomers, their impact is hard to predict.

University of Pacific used banner recruiting to rebuild. If the new faces of 1976 are as talented as their press clippings say they are, the Tigers will be tough.

Lee Joins ECU Cage Staff

Former New Bern High School basketball coach, Billy Lee, has joined the basketball staff at East Carolina University as an assistant coach.

Lee, 28, from Mt. Olive, coached the New Bern Bears over the last three years, compiling a record of 42-18, the best three-year record in New Bern history. He also guided New Bern to two conference championships, those being the first 4-A titles ever for the school. In 1973-74, the team recorded a mark of 17-3, best ever for a New Bern High team.

Prior to coaching at New Bern, Lee was head coach at East Montgomery High for one season, and an assistant coach and JV coach at Wake Forest for one year. While at Wake Forest, the team won the state 2-A championship.

In five years on the high school level, Lee has produced a 71-29 mark, one of the finest in North Carolina. Also, in the last three years, ten players from Lee's teams have joined a college basketball team.

Lee attended Southern Wayne High School ('67) and Atlantic Christian College ('71), as well as two years at Mt. Olive. While at Southern Wayne, Lee was all-East, all-conference for three years, played in the East-West All-Star game and set school scoring records for one season, and for an individual game. At Mt. Olive, he set school scoring records and was all-conference for two years.

Lee is married to the former Shirley Scarborough and they have one child, Patrick. Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lee of Mt. Olive.

Tar Heels Unhappy With The Outcome

By DAVE BARTEL
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The North Carolina delegation sat in stony silence as the Republican National Convention chose President Ford over Ronald Reagan for its presidential nomination.

The 54-member delegation, which had at least 51 Reagan supporters, sat in momentary disbelief Wednesday night, Reagan campaign posters lowered for the first time of the night, as the big New York delegation behind them cheered and whistled.

"President Ford is the choice of the party," Tom Ellis, delegation chairman, said later as the arena emptied. "As we've said before, we can support Mr. Ford, but we would have liked the outcome to have been different."

Ellis, his voice hoarse from three days of talking, cast the North Carolina vote 29 for Reagan and 25 for Ford after the convention parliamentarian ruled the state's one "no preference" vote from primary election results could go to the former California governor.

Ellis and Robert Shaw, the state party chairman, had disagreed over the single "no preference" vote, with Shaw arguing he was neutral and would not vote for either Ford or Reagan, but the issue made little difference as Ford won the nomination 1,187 to 1,070.

"It doesn't really matter now," Shaw said. "I'm not going to argue about it, even though I think he cast the vote wrong. The nomination has been decided."

With Ford in command of the nomination, attention shifted to selection of a vice presidential candidate and North Carolina leaders said they wanted to know who would take second spot on the party's ticket before jumping on the Ford bandwagon.

"I can support Ford but his choice for vice president is a very important question to me," Ellis said. "I wouldn't be surprised if it's Reagan, despite his statements that he would not take nomination. I still think he'll accept."

However, Sen. Jesse Helms, who made a seconding speech for Reagan's presidential nomination, said he didn't think the governor could accept the second spot after months of ruling it out.

"I have to take Mr. Reagan at his word," Helms said. "He has said publicly and privately many times that he would not take the vice presidential nomination and I think if he did so now his credibility would be hurt somewhat."

Helms and John East of Greenville, who is the state's national committeeman, were naming Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas and former Texas Gov. John Connally as the best prospects for vice president.

"Ford faces a problem not so much of a third party movement or of people defecting from the party as of people not enthusiastically supporting the Republican ticket," East said. "The important thing to us is that he (Ford) not pick a liberal candidate, because he's going to lose a lot of support if that happens."

Speculation about a third-party movement by conservatives continued at the national convention, but Helms, who has been a leader of conservative efforts to toughen party platform language on foreign policy, said he would have no part in a defection.

"I'm not going to participate in any third party movement," the senator said. "I have never been interested in anything but a two-party system. I have worked hard for the nomination of Ronald Reagan and, having participated in the system, it would smack of immorality if I were to pick up my marbles now and go home."

Members of the North Carolina delegation were contacting other states Wednesday to mount support for a vice presidential nomination of Helms, but Ellis said no final decision on the idea had been made.

"We've had a lot of delegates express support for it, but we haven't made a decision yet," he added.

Helms said he had consented to "testing the waters" but he added he was not considering a serious effort to be placed on the party's national ticket. "I don't take it or myself seriously," Helms said. "But I boy from North Carolina to president. It's more than I guess it's all right for a country have his name put in for vice thought would happen."

YEARLY GROWTH

MANILA, The Philippines (UPI) — The Philippines has chalked up some $755 million in earnings from tourism during the past 10 years, according to a central bank report. This represents an average yearly growth rate of 21.7 per cent.

The earnings from tourism accounted for 3.2 per cent of total foreign exchange earnings of the country, the report said.

Bitter Ending For Reaganites

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The end was a bitter end for Ronald Reagan's most zealous acolytes.

"Do any states want to change their votes?" the convention chairman asked after West Virginia's vote put President Ford over the top.

"No! No way! Hell no!" chorused angry alternate delegates in the California seats. Others responded with curses. They shook their fists in the air and made thumbs-down gestures and, gradually, a few at a time, got up and left.

Nearly all the alternate delegates were gone when the closing gavel fell.

During that critical third night of the convention they had blown their plastic trumpets the loudest and tossed the most confetti and stomped and whistled and cheered but in the end it was no more than a raucous requiem.

Some said their demonstration, one of the longest in Republican party history, was designed to delay the President's inevitable nomination until after TV prime time in the East.

But in the California alternate section overlooking the floor, and in the adjacent Colorado and Arizona sections it seemed genuine, all right, and if for any secret purpose merely that of prolonging the dream.

A handful of the 167 alternate California delegates took the loss resignedly and with good humor.

"Well, dammit, you can't do much better than that," said alternate Bob Lindsay of San Jose. "So let's go out and beat Jimmy Carter."

"Nuts," a voice replied. "Well, we don't want him to win, do we?"

Silence. Indeed, the silence in that noisiest of convention hall sections was almost funeral when the tally began.

They shoved their horns and posters under the seats, put down their plastic cups, took out their pocket calculators and tally sheets and hoped the figures would add up to a miracle.

"Get on with it," one called out during an overlong state puff by a delegation chairman. As the tally progressed, tension deepened.

The poll of the Virginia delegation gave the Californians time to compare figures, check additions, and as they did, heads nodded dourly, voices spoke softly, like people who gather outside a hospital after some terrible calamity.

"It looks like West Virginia or Wisconsin will do it to us," said William Saracino of Los Angeles, getting up to leave. John Feliz, also of Los Angeles, rose with him.

"Will you support the ticket?" Saracino was asked.

"Never," he replied.

"Make that two of us," Feliz said.

"I'll say 85 per cent of the California delegation will refuse to work for Ford," said Saracino. Some might vote for him but they won't work for him. I won't do either."

"I won't say I'll work for Ford as hard as I would for Reagan," said Dorothy Kranshold of San Bernardino, "but I won't vote for Carter."

None of the alternate delegates could know that within hours their hero would pledge his support to President Ford. For some, that would make the difference. Charles Thomas, of Los Angeles, was one.

"Ronald Reagan is more astute than I am about politics," Thomas said. "If he says to support the ticket I'll support it. If he doesn't, I won't."

At 12:26 a.m., the moment of defeat for Ronald Reagan, the end of the long campaign for his workers, an alternate delegate in a red dress dissolved in tears at the announcement of the West Virginia vote and buried her head in the shoulder next to her.

Another Californian held her sign aloft, held it still, not wildly waving as before but like a silent protester. It said: "Pick Ford — Nixon did."

From the seats above, a Ford poster careened down and struck a Californian.

He stamped it underfoot and gestured obscenely.

"You California turkeys!" a voice called from above.

He gestured again. Over in the Arizona section — almost as solidly for Reagan — the atmosphere was as solemn but neither as angry nor as bitter.

"I couldn't be more disappointed," said Tom Vickery of Tempe. "The people back home won't be happy either. It will take some hard work to get them to work for Ford."

"But Arizona is a good solid Republican state. When the time comes, they'll go to work."

There was even a touch of optimism.

"I'm the youngest alternate here," said 18-year-old Richard Wohl of Phoenix.

"This was a good, vigorous fight. We lost, but I think it's the sort of excitement that will revitalize the party, not split it."

Overhearing, a middle-aged California alternate muttered one word.

It was not printable. The word defeat was unutterable among the Reagan supporters. When it happened, for some it was unbearable.

More Deaths In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Random shelling killed scores of noncombatants Wednesday night and today as Christian and Moslem gunners duelled across the confrontation line in Beirut.

Hundreds of shells hit apartment buildings in the Christian residential quarter of Ashrafieh. Many residents spent the night in shelters.

Shells from Christian east Beirut fell at random in the Moslem quarters of west Beirut.

Hospitals estimated that more than 110 persons were killed during the night.

However, some leftist sources reported that fighting had slowed in anticipation of an initiative by Arab heads of state to end the 16-month civil war. But leftist Moslem leader Kamal Jumblatt told 5,000 members of his Druze sect that "the battle for the mountains is forthcoming. Let us brace ourselves for the battle of decision."

The Christians are threatening to drive the Moslems and their Palestinian allies from Christian mountain towns and villages they occupied east of Beirut. The Moslems have vowed to hold on unless Syrian invasion troops supporting the Christians withdraw.

LITTLE SUPPORT

BOSTON, Mass. (UPI) — All but five per cent of the 100,000 visitors to "The Revolution" exhibit here say they would have been on the colonial side in the War for Independence. But when their sentiments on major issues of the struggle for independence were analyzed by Honeywell computer, the majority turned out to be loyal to England or undecided. Only 47 per cent sided with the patriots' cause.

MATHEWS, Va. (AP) — Two huge cranes were to try to right a capsized barge and its cargo of 250,000 gallons of toxic acid in the Chesapeake Bay today.
The 125-foot barge was enroute to the Allied Chemical Corp. plant in Hopewell when it overturned early Wednesday four miles offshore from rural Mathews County on Virginia's mainland.
It contains a mixture of 80 per cent sulfuric acid and 20 per cent oleum, a more highly concentrated form of sulfuric acid used in making nylon, an Allied spokesman said.
The barge was being held in check in about 30 feet of water, and county officials and shore residents were concerned the 25 knot winds from the northeast that were forecast Wednesday night might push it into shallow water where it could not be righted.
Potential danger from deadly acid fumes or explosion prompted Mathews County Administrator Charles Richardson to order 3,000 county residents evacuated from a five-mile-long, mile-wide corridor near the capsized barge Wednesday.
State police said there were fears that the chemicals, when mixed with water, might emit deadly fumes, or that the barge might explode if it struck metal or rock while drifting.
When the Coast Guard got tow lines attached to the barge late Wednesday and was able to check its drift the evacuation was canceled and most of the residents were allowed to return to their homes.

The only people not permitted to return were 77 patients at Horn Harbor Nursing Home in New Point, the nearest beach settlement to the barge.
The patients spent Wednesday night at the Mathews fire station.
The administrator said the people were asked to "return to their homes with the understanding that if the barge drifts closer and poses any threat they will be evacuated again. It really depends on the Coast Guard's efforts, the wind and the tide. We won't take any chances at all."
A 5th District Coast Guard spokesman in nearby Portsmouth said a patrol boat got a line on the barge late Wednesday afternoon.
The two floating cranes were anchored near the capsized barge through the night, awaiting daybreak to try to turn the barge over.
The spokesman said there was "absolutely no chance" the barge would drift much closer to shore.
The barge capsized when the tug "Big Mama," pulling it from Allied's industrial chemical division in Claymont, Del., made a sharp turn about four miles southeast of Gwynns Island, off the Mathews County shore on the western side of the bay, the Coast Guard said.
An Allied spokesman said the giant chemical company has assumed full financial responsibility for the recovery operation.
There has been some leakage from the barge, according to the Coast Guard, who surveyed the scene by helicopter.
"Right now we don't know how much has spilled," a Coast Guard spokesman said. "We do know there are dead fish on the surface. From that we assume some acid has gotten into the water. We have no idea how much."

Ayden Man Is Held In Death

AYDEN — An Ayden man has been arrested with three charges in the connection of the July 29 death of Alton Earl Huggins of Ayden, according to Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney.
Milton Adams of Rt. 2, Ayden was charged with misdemeanor distribution of a prescriptive drug (Darvon), felonious distribution of Valium, and involuntary manslaughter by the Ayden Police Department.
According to Chief Burney, the charges were made after an investigation was made into the cause of the death of Huggins who was found behind A & B Grocery in Ayden.
An autopsy was called for by the Pitt County Medical Examiner, Dr. Jack Wilkerson. The autopsy determined that Huggins died as a result of an overdose of drugs.
"After the autopsy six witnesses were subpoenaed before Magistrate J. Russell Wooten for a probable cause hearing to issue warrants for the alleged violations and the warrants were issued," Burney said.
Adams has been released on a $3,500 bond pending a hearing in Ayden District Court September 9, 1976.

Barn Fires On Increase

Following the usual summer pattern, tobacco barn fires sharply upped the number of county fires occurring during the month of July.
Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal, reports that 38 tobacco barn fires took place in July, out of a total number of 59 fires county-wide.
In addition to the tobacco barn fires, there were five other building fires, nine auto fires, one grass or woods fire, and six fires in the miscellaneous category.
An estimated property total of $132,175 was lost in the fires, which directly involved property estimated at $401,000.
The Winterville Fire Department had the most active month, responding to 11 fires in the 31 day period.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is not the day to force any issues. Expect a return on an investment that was made in the past. Look to unusual persons and new conditions as the best means by which you can express yourself.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Expect some broken promises in the morning, but don't let this bother you since they will work out better later on. Be more broad-minded and get a new set of conditions operating in your behalf.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Arguing over money in the morning with others could have dire results. Calm down; something comes up so that all is better for you. Talk over joint projects with allies and improve them.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep calm and don't lose your temper this morning and later you accomplish a great deal where the practical is concerned. Plan how to gain your personal aims more readily now. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have difficulty making important decisions in the morning, so wait until later in the day. Then you make up for lost time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of a pal who is after you for some personal favor you are unable to extend. Seek advice from an expert to help solve an important matter.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use tact in handling a civic matter in the morning. Later, join friends for a good time. Concentrate on personal aims in the afternoon. Make the evening a time for solving intimate problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) This morning is not the time to make those changes you have in mind, but later all works out well for you. Listen carefully to the experts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care of responsibilities in the morning so you have time for unexpected changes which occur later in the day. Avoid arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you have a misunderstanding with a partner in the morning, do something of a conciliatory nature later. Some condition annoys you, but do something constructive about it quickly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You don't feel like tackling tasks in the morning, but keep at it and you free time for enjoying a good friend later. Do some civic chore.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Complete the work at hand before you go off on some new interest. Avoid one who wants to come between you and a loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use tact at home and avoid possible arguments that could become serious. Later, you get a visit from a good friend. Not a good day to commit yourself to anything.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will need to be taught early to think before speaking to avoid trouble. Then the life becomes a successful one with many interesting situations and conditions. There could be a fine artist in this chart, and the education should be slanted along such lines.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Often, the secret of winning defense is simply making sure that you get all the tricks which are due you. Here is a perfect example from the 5th World Team Olympiad.

East-West were using an artificial club system, so East's two club opening merely showed a hand of openen bid strength with a long club suit. South's jump overcall was intermediate, describing a hand of at least opening bid strength with a six-card or longer suit.

West led his singleton club, and if the defenders get greedy declarer can make his contract. Assume East wins the king of clubs and cashes the ace. If he now tries to maneuver a two-trick set by immediately playing a third club, hoping to get in later with the ace of hearts and push through a fourth round of clubs, declarer will coast home. Instead of ruffing the third club declarer discards his heart. West can ruff, but that will be defenders' last trick. Declarer can win any return, draw trumps and make his contract by picking up the queen of diamonds.

Unfortunately for declarer, the East cards

Conrad Has Changed Lifestyle

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Robert Conrad, who still is seen in reruns of the old "Wild, Wild West" show, shifts gears this new television season to star in "Baa Baa Black Sheep," a series based on the exploits of World War II flying ace Pappy Boyington.

Conrad has changed his personal life style along with his video image.

During his years in the "Wild, Wild West" series — and making a dozen movies — Conrad played the macho hero off-screen, attempting to match his make-believe adventures on screen.

He took great pride in doing his own stunts. He worked out in the boxing ring almost every day and entertained thoughts of turning professional.

The actor was ringside at all the fights. There were physical confrontations in nightclubs and bars.

His garage was full of high-priced, souped up imported cars.

He was a party guy, a swinger, a ladies man of no small repute. He had a retinue of hangers-on and lived it up as he thought stars were supposed to do.

In 1972 he moved to Bear

Valley, a ski resort in Northern California, to escape the pressures of living in Hollywood. He also spent a year and a half in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where he filmed "Murf the Surf."

Another six months was spent in the Philippine Islands starring in "Sudden Death," a violent movie that has yet to be seen in this country.

For his own reasons Conrad's private life is secretive. His biography at NBC makes no reference to his marital status. He refuses to discuss whether he is married, divorced or in between.

But Robert Conrad is happy to say that he's turned his life around.

"The old macho days are over," he says. "I've sold all the expensive cars and drive a 1972 Volkswagen. There's no more entourage."

"I'm avoiding the trouble spots now. I'm leaving the fast life to younger actors who want to be men about town."

"And believe it or not I've taken to reading the Bible."

Conrad lives in an apartment in the San Fernando Valley. Only close friends are invited in. He shuns parties now and hasn't been to a prizefight in months.

When he must attend a function promoted by the network he is accompanied by one of his three daughters, Christy, 8, Nancy, 22, or Joan, 23. The girls live with their mother. They visit their father frequently.

Curiously, Conrad credits his change of life style to his appearance this spring in the stage musical "1776."

"I'm 41 years old now," Conrad says, "and for some reason working in that musical changed my mind about a lot of things. Now I'm getting interested in the theater."

Conrad is taking vocal and dance lessons. He's studying music and reading books on the theater.

He's up every morning a 6 o'clock and is seldom in bed before midnight. "Baa Baa Black Sheep" requires him to report to Camp Pendleton Marine Base by 8 a.m. two or three times a week. Most of the show's exterior scenes are shot

He's NBC's Man In The Hot Seat

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — When the GOP convention's second night began in bright lit Kemper Arena, Joe Angotti was in a small, dimly lit booth a quarter-mile away. He faced 27 TV sets and long night's work in television's hot seat.

He's NBC's "inside producer," a key man primarily responsible for the sights and sounds millions of viewers saw on the convention floor Tuesday night, from the long, noisy demonstrations to major and minor interviews by NBC's four floor reporters.

Angotti's task, running the critical floor operation, was akin to that of an air traffic controller in a busy city — make decisions, make them fast and make them in an atmosphere of seeming chaos.

His bailiwick didn't include the podium — another producer had that — but it's just as well. What Angotti, 37, had to do included:

— Talking with and giving instructions and information to reporters Tom Brokaw, Catherine Mackin, Tom Pettit and John Hart, all this occurring over a closed-circuit radio system built into the headsets each reporter wore.

— Giving instructions to and hearing from three men sitting in front of him — the assistant director who set up future shots, the director who called the shots and the technical director who actually put them on television.

— Conferring about stories, sequence of floor reports and reports from outside the arena with NBC's "on-air" producer, Les Crystal, who was in overall charge of everything broadcast by NBC during Tuesday night's session.

When we arrived, Angotti was addressing his four floor troops simultaneously, asking them to find Ronald Reagan delegates or officials who'd discuss on the air President Ford's achieving a majority in news media delegate polls.

Alas, none would talk to the reporters, who were watched by eight balcony cameras they could see overhead or by one of two small portable cameras NBC was allowed on the floor.

During a broadcast discussion of coming events between Hart and co-anchor David Brinkley, the latter high above the convention floor in a glass booth, Miss Mackin notified Angotti on the closed-circuit system she had found a Reagan official who'd talk.

"Where are you?" Angotti asked.

"Down by South Carolina," she said, meaning the delegation. An overhead camera searched her area, and found her. She identified the man by name and they waited.

But the Mackin interview was held up by another matter. Then Brokaw checked in with a story idea we couldn't hear over the noise in the control booth. Angotti could hear it, listening bent over the small speaker in front of him.

"Brokaw, in answer to your question, yes, I like the Pennsylvania idea," he said. Later, Miss Mackin and her subject got in a quick interview before a commercial.

We had to relinquish our control booth seat before the real floor action began late Tuesday night. But we didn't leave until after President Ford's wife entered Kemper Arena to heavy cheering and applause.

Usually, when demonstrations occurred or speeches were being televised live by NBC — the "on-air" producer decided on the length of coverage — Angotti used the time to discuss coming floor stories with his reporters. Not this time.

He listened five minutes to the roar of the crowd on the overhead booth speaker, then signed and told his troops: "Floor reporters, it is virtually impossible to hear you while any of this is going on. Unless it's very, very important, don't even try."

A Prize Winner

RIDGEWAY, Va. (AP) — Although he's never seen the real thing, 17-year-old Jeff Thompson has built a replica of Monticello, Thomas Jefferson's home in Charlottesville, Va.

The project, which used some 2,500 tiny bricks and took 95 hours over a six-month period, won $50 first prize in a high school bicentennial contest. It has been displayed in area schools and in the lobby of a local bank.

"I wanted to do some sort of historical project," the youth says. "I had always been interested in Monticello and Thomas Jefferson, so I decided to recreate the house. And I thought it would be a good way to learn a little more about how homes are built."

Before starting the 3-by-5-foot replica, he studied plans and pictures of the famous house. He then made a cardboard frame and glued it to a plywood base. For the bricks he rolled out Play-Doh modeling compound "very thin, just like dough for a pie shell," and then sliced out individual bricks with a knife. He painted them with orange-red enamel and added a light coat of "antique" finish "for an old look." Some 10 pounds of the modeling compound were used for the bricks.

To make the windows, Jeff cut out construction paper for the frames and used waxed paper for the window panes. The front columns, which support the portico, were made of construction paper, as was the roof.

During the lunch break Conrad does isometrics, situps and pushups to stay in shape.

On weekends he dons jeans and sweat shirt to study his scripts. He plans to begin flying lessons in order to lend more credibility to his role as hotshot pilot in the new show.

Conrad refuses to discuss his romantic life and his matrimonial plans, if any, for the future.

All he will say is, "I'm happier than I've ever been before."
