

Sanford Aide Says He Is Withdrawing

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Terry Sanford scheduled a news conference today and an aide said the former North Carolina governor would announce his withdrawal from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Meanwhile in Washington, the national coordinator for Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said Jackson would enter the North Carolina primary March 23 as a result of Sanford's decision.

"We'll be trying to get as many delegates as we can," said Bill Broley, Alabama Gov. George Wallace and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter announced plans to run in North Carolina well before the Sanford withdrawal.

Sanford's aide said the former North Carolina governor, during a dinner party at his home here Thursday night for close associates, seemed resigned to the announcement.

"He feels like he's doing the right thing and so did everyone else," the aide said.

Sanford, on leave as president of Duke University, has been last in the public opinion polls among the 11 announced Democratic candidates.

Sanford's news conference was scheduled for 1 p.m. EST.

Despite his decision, Sanford's name will remain on the ballot for New Hampshire's Feb. 24 primary because it is too late to remove it, an assistant to the New Hampshire secretary of state said.

Before the dinner, Sam Poole, a Southern Pines attorney and longtime Sanford associate, said, "The options are to get out of New England, out of North Carolina or out totally."

None of those who attended the closed session have indicated a strong desire to see him remain in the race, and several acknowledged they had advised Sanford the situation does not justify his continuing in the race.

Another spokesman prior to the Thursday night meeting was J. Allen Adams, a Sanford law partner and chairman of his Wake County campaign.

"My understanding is that the serious consideration is that he's pulling out, but that's what the meeting is about," said Adams.

Those meeting with Sanford included former Vermont Gov. Phillip Hoff and Jean Westwood, former Democratic national chairman.

TERRY SANFORD

Another spokesman said chances were very strong that Sanford would bow out of the New England primaries, in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The spokesman said chances were 50-50 that Sanford might even step out of the March 23 North Carolina primary, where he faced Alabama Gov. George Wallace and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

Sanford has said all along that he would have to win in North Carolina to remain a viable candidate. Wallace won handily over Sanford in North Carolina's 1972 primary.

Published reports have pictured Sanford as one of the weakest of the Democratic presidential contenders. His campaign in New England was disrupted just recently when he was hospitalized in Salem, Mass.

Seminole Sell Florida

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The Seminole Indians, forced off their tribal lands by U.S. troops more than 100 years ago and pressing their claims ever since, have agreed to sell Florida.

About 300 members of the tribe voted overwhelmingly Thursday to accept $16 million from the federal government as compensation to the 4,000 to 12,000 modern-day Seminoles for 32 million acres of land covering nearly the entire peninsula.

The Seminoles originally sought $47 million for about 40 million acres, and Chief Howard Tommie said the final offer was "nowhere near what the land is worth."

"But if we try to press it and the mood of the government changes, we could be left without a dime. Our lawyers say this is the best we can do. Who has another 25 years to fight?"

The offer, accepted after myriad legal battles since 1949, amounts to about 50 cents an acre for land that includes Miami Beach, Disney World and Cape Canaveral.

The land was seized by Gen. Andrew Jackson during the Seminole Wars of 1823 and 1832 and under the Indian Removal Act of 1840. Appraisers said the land was then worth three cents to $2.50 an acre.

The federal government earlier rejected Seminole claims to land above the Old Spanish Road between St. Augustine and Pensacola and other areas covered by old Spanish land grants.

Only eight votes were cast against the final settlement at the packed meeting Thursday night conducted in three languages — Miccosukee, the Seminole language; Creek, a related language some Seminoles speak; and English.

Tommie warned that it could be years before tribal members get their money.

The settlement must be reviewed by the U.S. Indian Claims Commission, the money must be appropriated by Congress and the payment must be divided among Seminoles in Florida and in Oklahoma.

Robert Donald Parrott, popular young CPA who says his work with the youth of Pitt County has been one of his greatest joys, was named recipient of the Jaycees' Distinguished Service Award for 1975 Thursday night.

The selection of Parrott as the outstanding young man of the community during the past year was announced during the Jaycees' 30th annual DSA and Bosses Night banquet.

During the dinner meeting, the Greenville chapter also presented its second annual Boss of the Year Award to Don Leggett, director of Alumni Affairs and Foundations at East Carolina University.

Guest speaker David T. Flaherty, Secretary of the N. C. Department of Human Resources, announced the DSA recipient, calling the annual honoree a person who represents the "epitome of our American heritage."

Flaherty told the large Jaycee gathering at the Candlewick Inn that Parrott has made contributions in many areas of the community but his enthusiasm has been particularly evident in the areas of church work, Boys' Club, Jaycees, Kiwanis, recreation and youth in general.

As a member of Oakmont Baptist Church, Parrott has served in various church capacities, including class president, church treasurer for three years, as a member of the Board of Deacons, finance chairman, as a member of the pulpit committee and on the recreation committee.

Because of his active involvement and work with the church, he was honored in 1973 as recipient of the Jaycees' Outstanding Young Layman Award.

His involvement in youth activities in the area is well known, it was pointed out, and his interest in the Pitt County Boys' Club has paralleled the growth of the organization in recent years. He has served in several capacities, including director in 1973, vice president in 1974, president in 1975 and he currently holds the treasurer's post for 1976.

Compromises Seen For Nuclear Pact

By BARRY SCHWEID

Associated Press Writer

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) —

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended talks with Soviet leaders today and flew here to tell North Atlantic leaders that the Soviets have put forward "some significant and constructive new ideas" for a nuclear weapons treaty.

The package deal taking shape would reduce by about 10 per cent the strategic bombers and missiles allowed to either side. It would also provide a compromise on the two principal difficulties — Soviet Backfire bombers and American cruise missiles.

U.S. officials said that, while "a hell of a lot of work remains to be done," if all goes smoothly Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev could be in Washington as early as May to sign the new treaty with President Ford.

Kissinger evidently was much less successful in his Kremlin talks on Angola. He reminded Brezhnev that Soviet support for a Marxist faction in the African civil war was undercutting detente in the eyes of the American people. But Kissinger made no apparent headway.

The secretary of state said that a report by newsman John Scali, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, that Kissinger might resign because he couldn't persuade the Soviets to end their support of the Popular Movement (MPLA) in Angola was "ridiculous."

Despite the absence of a breakthrough in nuclear weapons negotiations, Kissinger and his top aides laid claim to "significant progress." Reporters were told at least two issues were essentially resolved — the definition of light and heavy missiles and how to deal with American cruise missiles launched from the air.

In Moscow, Gromyko also

At the airport before leaving Moscow, Kissinger said, "We settled some important issues which will be passed on to (the nuclear treaty negotiators at Geneva). We made good progress on other issues."

Specific measurements of both the size and the force of missiles will be established by agreement in order to avoid charges of treaty violations. U.S. officials acknowledged that a unilateral American definition under the 1972 interim agreement was ambiguous.

County Fire Marshal Estimates $25,000 Nursery Fire Damage

HEAVY DAMAGE resulted to Little's Nursery on Highway 264 yesterday when a fire destroyed a major portion of the building. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Six Pitt County Fire Units were called to a fire at Little's Nursery on the Farmville Highway Thursday at noon, according to Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal.

"Fire damages at the nursery have been estimated at $25,000," Joyner said.

The fire began in a small storage building beside the nursery according to Clarence Little, owner of the nursery. "We stored some old boxes and containers in the building," said Little.

High winds aided in spreading the fire rapidly to other parts of nursery. The fire did not reach a house which is located beside the nursery. Five hundred pounds of Caesoron, a chemical which was consumed in the fire was found to be unharmed, according to Joyner.

Volunteer firemen with two units from Winterville, two units from Red Oak, one unit from Farmville and one unit from Pactolus fought the fire for about two and one half hours.

First Federal Assets Increased During '75

Members of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Pitt County were reminded of their "progressive past and . . . goals for the future" Wednesday at their annual meeting.

Judge Dink James, chairman of the board, presided during the 39th annual session.

Clarence Tugwell, First Federal president, pointed out that the association has been in business only 39 years and has already grown to $57,620,451.72 in assets. Tugwell said this was an increase of $9,668,368.78 over 1974.

The president credited the growth to the "excellent direction of the management, board of directors, support of the staff, and the patronage of all customers of First Federal."

During 1975, it was reported, First Federal made over 458 loans amounting to over $14,500,000. Savings increased over $7,190,000 during the same period.

"Historically, First Federal has grown consistently and this year was no exception in the profit department," Tugwell said. He explained that the firm had a profit of over $323,000 for the 1975 year.

He observed, "It appears that the year of 1976 will be a good year also, because as of the 21st day of January, First Federal has received savings deposits in excess of $1,100,000."

Tugwell termed the outlook for the coming year "very encouraging" and noted that "indications are for an increase in the home buying market and an increase in savings deposits."

Judge James noted that in the 39 years of First Federal's operation, there have never been any "real estate owned" on the books because of foreclosure. He commended the Loan Committee for its record.

Directors reelected for another one-year term on Wednesday were: Alton R. Barrett, George Coffman, C. Frank Dail, Kenneth G. Hite, Dink James, Walter B. Jones, Roscoe L. King, John B. Lewis Sr., Dr. M. B. Massey, John F. Minges, Thomas S. Ryon and Clarence B. Tugwell.

FLAG REPLACED

I am calling about the flag at the VFW building on Mumford Road. It's ragged. My husband and I would be glad to donate money to buy a new one if that's the problem. G. C.

Leon Evans, Commander of VFW Post 7032, said the flag was replaced this past Saturday. "The last flag we had was a rayon one and it just didn't hold up to the weather. This is an outdoor one, though, and shouldn't be as easily frayed."

"Bad weather and some other circumstances kept us from replacing it as soon as we had hoped. We've had to go to a method of putting them up with a crane, because when we're able to hoist them with a rope, they're so easily stolen."

The VFW flag is lighted at night and flies all the time, in accordance with fairly recently revised international flag etiquette, as a reminder that being a good American citizen is a full-time job, Evans said. He asked that anyone who sees anyone attempting to steal the flag there contact the Pitt County Sheriff Department immediately.

Potato Chip Institute Ponders New Strategy

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Crunch!

Another shot is about to be fired in the continuing war between Pringle's and the potato chip industry.

Pringle's, Procter & Gamble's "newfangled" product that features regularly shaped, evenly stacked chips in a can, won the last battle.

Victory came late last year when the Food and Drug Administration ruled that Pringle's and similar products can use the term "potato chip" as long as they also use the qualifying phrase "made from dried potatoes" on the package.

The Potato Chip Institute International of Cleveland is mapping strategy to strike back. An institute spokesman said Thursday that institute representatives will decide at an Atlanta trade show next month whether to take any action against the FDA ruling. He did not say what sort of moves were being considered.

Pringle's reportedly is pondering a counterattack, although company spokesmen refused to confirm or deny any new moves. Among the rumored possibilities are ridged Pringle's and a new, improved flavor.

The Potato Chip Institute has been fighting Pringle's ever since the product was test-marketed in the late 1960s. In May 1975, Pringle's achieved national distribution and the war escalated. The institute claims Pringle's aren't "real potato chips" since they are made from dried potatoes and have additives not found in the natural products.

A potato chip, says the institute, is a "slice of fresh, raw potato, deep fried in vegetable oil, salted and packaged." No more.

Procter & Gamble spokesmen never denied that their product comes from dehydrated potatoes. They simply argue that a potato is a potato is a potato — even if dried — and, therefore, a potato chip is a potato chip, etc.

The potato chip industry is a $1.5 billion-a-year business. Per capita annual consumption of potato chips, according to the Potato Chip Institute, is 4½ pounds.

The institute spokesman said Pringle's has captured about 16 per cent of the market, "which isn't too bad" from the so-called natural chip makers point of view. Several manufacturers of the naturals have countered Pringle's massive marketing campaign with advertising programs stressing the "real" ingredients in their products, and industry sources say the projects have been generally successful in staving off the challenge.

Millionaire Dies Amidst Litter And Cockroaches

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An 87-year-old man refused to bathe or change clothes and died surrounded by old newspapers and covered with cockroaches. But he left an estate worth at least $1.5 million, police say.

"It's a tragedy. The man could have lived so well," said Detective Sgt. Emery Zerick. "He could have had the nicest place in Miami Beach on just the interest."

Police found David Gelgor dead Wednesday in his retirement hotel in a room containing no money, television or radio. There were stacks of old papers, the lingering smell of urine and excrement, stocks, bonds and bank statements.

"I added some of them up to $1 million myself," Zerick said. Some of Gelgor's old friends told police he once owned a lavish estate in New York 25 years ago and sold it.

Included among Gelgor's papers was a 1965 will leaving bequests of $50 and $100 to cousins, nieces and nephews and $300 to a friend in New York. The rest of the fortune was left to organizations and schools in Israel. A New York accountant was named administrator of the estate.

One of the documents in the rubble was a diploma indicating Gelgor held a doctorate in engineering. But there was no immediate explanation as to how Gelgor made his fortune.

Alma Siegel, who managed the Miami Beach retirement home where Gelgor lived for eight years, said no one had ever come to the home to ask about Gelgor or his health.

She said she was embarrassed and upset when police discovered the condition of his room.

One day recently, Gelgor fell

Slow Start On Sewerage Plan

The total construction of the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewerage District Plan has been slow, according to Secretary Donald E. Russell. Because of the slow construction the board did not hold its meeting scheduled for Thursday night.

Work on the project was scheduled to begin in October, 1975. However, the general plant contractor, Peabody Southeast, Inc. of Orlando, Fla. has not begun actual plant site construction. According to Russell, the only thing that has been done on the plant site is topography and layouts with no actual work being done at the site located just southeast of Grifton on the Contentnea Creek.

Personnel changes in the company explains some of the delays Russell said, but work

was anticipated to be underway the first week in January.

Winston Construction Company, the pipe contractor, has begun work on the force mains and outfall lines from Winterville to the Grifton plant site. Work has also begun on a pumping station located just north of Ayden-Grifton Highway School. The site has been cleared and some foundation work is in progress.

The total project was bidded in August with six phases. They included plant, pumping stations, plumbing, heating, ventilation and air conditioning, electrical and force main lines. The total cost of the project, according to Russell is $6.2 million. Peabody Southeast was awarded the plant contract with a bid of $1,866,000.

Clinic Adds To Services

"The much improved and expanded facilities at the Health Department's new clinic in Bethel have now made it possible to offer to the public additional services," according to Health Director Roger J. Barnaby.

Family planning services will be offered at the Bethel Clinic located in the back of Dr. Garrenton's office, beginning Feb. 16th and will continue to be offered every third Monday of each month — except for April, when the clinic will be held April 5. Women interested in both control can receive their six-week or yearly family planning examination by the family planning nurse practitioner, Ms. Sylvia Kruger. "Ms. Kruger has been trained to give routine gynecological examinations, pap smears, breast cancer checks, and to prescribe various methods of contraception. We are grateful to the Mid-East Commission for providing us with Ms. Kruger's service," Barnaby said.

Because the clinic will only be able to accommodate a limited number of patients each week, it will be necessary to call the Pitt County Health Department at 752-4141 for an appointment to receive services.

Timber Cutting Curbs Opposed

RALEIGH (AP)—A state official has warned that restrictions on cutting timber in North Carolina national forests might touch off an adverse economic chain reaction in western North Carolina.

Director Ralph Winkworth of the Forest Resources Division told the state Board of Natural and Economic Resources Thursday that the restrictions will result in removal from the market of almost one third of the supply of hardwood saw timber in western North Carolina.

The cutting restrictions became effective last October following the decision of a federal circuit court to restrict timber cutting in a West Virginia national forest to dead, dying and over mature timber. The chief of the Forest Service then applied the restrictions to all national forests in that district, which also includes Virginia, South Carolina and North Carolina.

There's A Technique To Blow Drying Hair

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

One popular beauty tool to be found in dormitories and home "beauty salons," the blow hair dryer, is often improperly used and may be initiating hair problems that are attributed to other causes.

Few people know how to use the dryers properly, claims Raymond Testa, director of the Caprice Academy of Jersey City, a training center in natural-motion hair styling for beauty operators.

"Hair can be ruined unless a blow dryer is used properly. If long hair is blown dry on a hot setting from the time it is wet until it is dry, it will simply get too much heat. Then, too, a brush is being drawn through the hair as the blower is directed on the hair and that combination can cause breakage and split ends, leaving the hair dried out and removing its natural oils and moisture."

The hair stylists he trains are told that there are two ways to blow-dry hair. The blower can be used on a low-heat setting or it can be used on a hot setting while the hair is wet if the heat is then decreased as the hair becomes almost dry.

While hair is wet, only brushes which can go through it easily should be used, he advises. A nylon twill brush with properly spaced bristles may be used. A wire wig brush is good while hair is wet, but when it is almost dry, a switch should be made to a natural bristle brush. The natural bristle brush should not be used while the hair is wet.

Professional people know those facts, he says, one reason certain beauty tools are labeled "for professional use only."

Testa and the school's artistic director, Anthony De Sando, are consultants to Conair, a hair products line, and the two have designed many tools used in the trade.

"If tools are not understood, they can damage the hair. For example, the flow of air from a HAIRCUT for heavy-textured hair with a slight wave, left, was blown dry and a round, natural-bristle brush was used to place flaired hair. At right, the hair has been permanent waved and blown dry back off the face and upward. As an option, the front area could be iron curled for more control. (Hair styles by Anthony De Sando) dryer must be in the same direction as the brush being used. Then, too, hair should not be blown dry every day as you are likely to do at home. Occasionally it should be dried naturally and shaped with the dryer in a few places.

"Most women use a curling iron after they blow their hair dry or possibly to retouch a style, but a curling iron should never be used on wet hair. For home use, a teflon-coated iron can prevent hair sticking and it will provide insulation so it does not get quite so hot as the professional iron. Other alternatives might be the mist or steam-type curling irons which can help put moisture back in the hair as you curl it," he advises.

Hair can be protected by frequent professional haircuts to snip the ends of the hair which receive the most damage. Low-alkaline protein, acid-balanced shampoos can help condition hair, but the hairdresser should be consulted, he contends.

"Remember, hairdressers want customers to look good all the time, not just when they leave the salon. The hairdresser is happy to recommend products that will keep her a walking advertisement looking good between salon visits."

It is a mistake to force hair into a style different from the one that was especially shaped to be dried with a blower. If other styles are wanted, the hair should be cut in layers or in graduated lengths from front to back, he suggests.

"Shorter hair styles are very much in," Testa maintains, predicting they will be for a long time. He sees the maximum fashionable length as "a little above shoulders," but it could go from chin to shoulders.

His natural-motion styles are action hairdos that can be accomplished a number of ways. A good haircut set with rollers, pins, curling irons or whatever can accomplish the motion which has swing in its style whether it is short and above the ears or longer.

Abby Helps Readers Return Stolen Money

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable, married, God-fearing person. Something has been weighing heavily on my conscience for nearly 20 years, and I hear that you can help me to make things right with the Lord.

When I was between 12 and 13 years old, my mother was the church Ladies Aid treasurer. I used to take a dollar or two out of her "church purse" every now and then. I don't think she ever knew that money was missing. I figure that over the years I must have taken $25 or $30.

I want to give that money back to the church, but I don't want them to know where it came from. I heard that if I sent you a check for that amount, you would send the church your own check for the same amount without any mention of my name.

That way, they'd be paid back, and my conscience would be clear. Will you do it? God bless you.

GUILTY CONSCIENCE

DEAR GUILTY: Yes, I will. I have been the go-between for many who have stolen from their employers, friends, and even from their families. Make the check payable to me, and I will send my personal check to whomever you designate.

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional woman. I married five years ago and the marriage was going badly, so I adopted a child to hold the marriage together. That was a big mistake as I later learned.

We were divorced, and now I have met another man. He said he would marry me in a minute but he doesn't want a 4-year-old daughter. He is 50, I am 40.

The child is adorable and she deserves to be in a home where she is wanted. Please don't think I am a terrible mother, but I honestly don't have the time for her and I wasn't cut out to be a mother.

I love this man and want to marry him. What should I do about my daughter? I will be the first to admit that I am —

A POOR EXCUSE FOR A MOTHER

DEAR POOR: At least you're honest, which is to your credit.

It's not too late for the child to find adoptive parents who want her. Discuss this with your lawyer.

DEAR ABBY: This has been bugging me for a long time, so I finally decided to write to you.

Maybe I should tell you that I am a 13-year-old girl. Sometimes after dinner, our family talks over the events of the day. My mother will say to me, "Go out of the room for a minute. Your father and I want to talk about something."

Abby, if they want to talk about something in private, don't you think THEY should go out of the room?

I have told them this but they won't listen.

PUSHED-OUT DAUGHTER

DEAR PUSHED: Your parents' privacy kick seems overdone to me. I agree with you, but do as you're told, and no lip, Honey!

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (26¢) envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who likes to keep house, embroider, knit and do all the things ladies like to do. There is nothing wrong with me, but I do take a bit of kidding about it.

What is a good answer to these wisecracks?

SAM IN CAMDEN

DEAR SAM: Don't say anything when you're kidded. He who EXCUSES himself, ACCUSES himself.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

One More Potential Threat

There is nothing new in the idea of a synthetic tobacco.

Israeli scientists, however, claim they have developed a lettuce cigarette. It will be nicotine-free and low-tar and will taste like any tobacco, they say.

The lettuce cigarettes will be no more costly than ordinary cigarettes and can be manufactured with existing cigarette machinery.

It remains to be seen, of course, how well such a lettuce-made cigarette will be accepted by the smoking public. It is possible that it won't have the proper taste to satisfy cigarette smokers. Even though it is said to be nicotine-free and low-tar, the lettuce cigarettes might have adverse effects on the smokers which only their use will show up.

For Eastern North Carolina tobacco farmers the lettuce cigarette represents another product which could possibly cut into sales of our big flue-cured tobacco crop.

With all the assaults which have taken place on tobacco in recent years we doubt if Eastern N.C. tobacco growers will go into a panic over this latest development.

We expect tobacco to be grown here for some time yet. Still our farmers and the extension service should be looking all along at alternative crops for the future.

Let Their Relocation Be Uncomplicated

The West Meadowbrook redevelopment plan was approved by the Redevelopment Commission following a public hearing last week.

The prevailing feeling which seemed to be expressed by residents of the area was that they not be tied up in red tape as they attempt to relocate in other areas.

We would hope that residents of the area will be allowed to move to better housing as rapidly as possible without losing the benefits they are entitled to because of the redevelopment work.

THIS AFTERNOON

New Look At Crime In N.C.

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — While certain groups with special interests have zeroed in on particular phases of the crime problem in North Carolina, the Governor's Law and Order Commission has just produced the first comprehensive look at the complexities of the subject.

The 281-page book is crammed full of ideas and suggestions on every aspect of the growing crime rate: community crime prevention to police pay and training.

Donald R. Nichols, administrator of the state's Law and Order Section, said publication of "Goals and Standards for the Criminal Justice System in North Carolina" provides the framework for future state and federal grants to various agencies in the criminal justice system.

Public Hearings

Three public hearings were held (Asheville, Winston-Salem, and Kinston), and advisory committees made up of professionals in their fields worked on the various sections of the massive report.

The book is not filled with bureaucratic jargon or lengthy explanations of social ramifications of proposals. Rather, it bluntly and briefly—often in one sentence—suggests major reform.

Many of the suggested reforms are given implementation deadlines two to four years in the future, and many would require action and funding by the General Assembly. There is no estimate of cost given with the goals and standards.

Here, without detailed explanation, are some of the highlights:

POLICE—should be licensed by state, trained in law enforcement when possible, work as generalists rather than specialists, with particular emphasis on team-policing and beat-patrolling, should work harder at community and press relations, provide more crime prevention services, work together regionally and with state officials, invest more in long-range planning, have uniform communication equipment statewide, and have volunteer reserve units equally well trained and equipped.

COURTS—Should operate from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., judges should be merit selected, appeals panel should automatically review every case, citations and summonses rather than arrest should be used as widely as possible, court should participate in plea bargaining, 60-day deadline for trial to get underway, judges need special training, traffic violations (minor) should be disposed of administratively instead of criminal, all courthouses need information booth to help citizens, courts need community and press relations attention.

PRISONS—Planning needed on location and types, community facilities emphasized, paroles and probations should be under independent commission, religious emphasis and rehabilitation for those who desire.

JUVENILE—Schools need to stress law and moral training, schools should be used for community activities, recreation activities pushed, community treatment is key, job opportunities should be provided with government involved.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE INFORMATION SYSTEM—Law enforcement, courts, and corrections all need information system, strict rules for state control and protection of rights of individuals outlined.

COMMUNITY CRIME PREVENTION—Building codes requiring security measures outlined, communities urged to light streets, increased citizen involvement and communication between police, public employment programs for ex-offenders and those facing criminal potential, law education in school, crime prevention focus for local police, steps toward creating "climate of trust" between community-police-courts.

A final section on integrity in government points to loss of faith as one cause of growing crime rate. Suggested reforms include ethics legislation covering all state and local public officials—divulging financial interests and professional relations, establishing an independent (citizen-staffed) ethics board, and aggressive prosecution for public office abuses among them.

Some of the reforms are already under study by various legislative bodies; others are put forth for the first time. If nothing else, the sheer volume of the report pinpoints the complexities of dealing with the crime situation.

OF COURSE, TECHNICALLY HE'S NOT RUNNING!

Washington's Eyebrows

WASHINGTON — The appointment of Marion Javits to the job of promoting Iran National Airlines has raised some eyebrows in Washington, where eyebrow-raising is the national sport.

The problem is that in order to work for a foreign government Ms. Javits had to register as a lobbyist. Her husband, Sen. Jack Javits, is on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which occasionally discusses the subject of Iran. The eyebrow-raisers in Washington believe that there could be a conflict of interest in the two jobs. Ms. Javits insists there isn't, and she would never discuss Iran with her husband.

But it could be a sticky situation.

Sen. Javits comes home to New York for a weekend with his wife.

"Hi, dear. What's for dinner?" he asks.

"I have a surprise for you," Ms. Javits says. "Caspian caviar just flown in from Iran on its new super 747 Boeing Jet, which now flies to 60 countries in every part of the world."

"What else?"

"Flaming shish kebab on a sword, and a new recipe for Persian rice which the Shah's chef gave me."

"It sounds great," the senator says.

"It is one of the many dishes featured on one of the world's best and safest airlines. When it comes to food, Iran National Airlines treats you like a Shah."

"That's a lovely dress you're wearing, Marion."

"It comes from Tehran. You can't believe the shopping bargains you can find in this beautiful historical city. It's a tourist's dream. This dress cost me $45, and it's hand-woven. If I bought it in New York, it would have been $200. You actually can make up the cost of your air fare on Iran National Airlines by just visiting one of the many exciting bazaars throughout the city."

"Well, it's very becoming. What have you been doing all week?" "Oh, I've been keeping busy. I went to the Persian art exhibit at the Met, and I saw the Iranian Ballet at Lincoln Center, and I entertained a group of travel agents from Detroit."

"That's nice."

"Jack, do you know that you can fly from New York to Tehran and stop over in London and Paris for as long as you want to at no extra charge by taking advantage of Iran National Airlines' special winter rates?"

"I must admit I didn't."

"The sad thing is that Iran National Airlines does not have landing rights in St. Louis and Houston. It seems so unfair that people have to change planes at Kennedy Airport in order to go to Tehran."

"I imagine it does. Say, aren't these new dishes?"

"Yes. Each one has a picture of the Shah and his wife on it. I got them wholesale from the people who cater Iran National Airlines."

"They're very attractive," the senator says.

"Have as much caviar as you want. I have oodles of it in the icebox," Ms. Javits says.

"Isn't it expensive, Marion?"

"Not for us. I'm working now. I make $67,500 a year."

"No kidding. What are you doing?"

"I can't tell you, Jack, as it would be a conflict of interest. I promised I would never discuss my job with you as it would only cause raised eyebrows in Washington."

To the editor:

The League of Women Voters of North Carolina, North Carolinians for Tax Reform and concerned citizens and organizations believe that the issue of tax reform, particularly eliminating the sales tax on food, must be kept alive in the public mind. Here are some facts that North Carolina taxpayers should know:

- 1) The sales tax on food is the most unfair of North Carolina's taxes. The burden of the food tax is FIFTY TIMES HEAVIER on the poor than on the more affluent.*
- 2) Revenue lost to the State and counties by the repeal of the food tax can be made up by: revising individual income tax rates so everyone will be taxed according to ability to pay; increasing taxes on alcoholic beverages; eliminating the $80 and $120 sales tax maximums on luxury automobiles, yachts and private planes.
- 3) The cost of food is increasing faster than the average family's income. Thus, a greater percent of income is being spent on food—and on the food tax.
- 4) The net effect of this program (Senate Bill 535 and House Bill 712 in the 1975 General Assembly session) will be to reduce taxes on those with taxable incomes under $25,000. Only 1½ percent of all North Carolinians would pay more.

Many legislators are saying that the time is not ripe for repeal of the food tax even though it is a desirable goal. On the contrary, the time is now! When members of the lower and middle economic classes are suffering from the effects of both inflation and recession, it is time to redistribute the tax burdens of our citizens in a more equitable and humane manner.

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters urges you to contact your representatives in the North Carolina General Assembly and make your views known on this important subject.

The GALLUP POLL

Humphrey Still Top Choice

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J.—Sen. Hubert Humphrey continues to hold a clear lead as the top choice of Democratic voters for the 1976 nomination.

Humphrey wins the support of 29 per cent of Democrats (asked to choose from a list of 14), followed by Gov. George Wallace with 20 per cent. In the previous test in November, Humphrey held a similar lead receiving 30 per cent of the vote of Democrats compared to 20 per cent for Wallace.

Prior to the November survey, Humphrey and Wallace had been in close contention for the lead among Democrats throughout 1975.

Next in order in the current survey after Humphrey and Wallace are Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota (10 per cent) and Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington (9 per cent). Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine is next with 6 per cent, followed by Sargent Shriver and Sen. Birch Bayh, each with 5 per cent.

Following is the question asked to determine current Democratic choices:

"Here is a list of people who have been mentioned as possible presidential candidates for the Democratic party in 1976. (Respondents were handed a card with 14 names.) Which one would you like to see nominated as the Democratic candidate for President in 1976? And who would be your second choice?"

Because Sen. Edward Kennedy has ruled himself out of the '76 race, his vote was distributed to the other men on the list, on the basis of the second choices.

Following are the latest results, with Kennedy's vote distributed to other candidates, compared with those from the November and October surveys:

To the editor:

I think that I really have got something to squawk about. Just like hundreds of other CB. radio operators in Greenville, I have had my required license on order now for several months to the Federal Communications Commission which you also must send a four-dollar fee with your application.

I know of some people who have had to wait four and five months to receive theirs, and the ones who are waiting for their license are getting tickets and paying stiff fines for using their radios by the FCC agents who are sent down here just for that purpose. My question is this: If the FCC is so busy that they can't send an applicant's license (which is already paid for) in a reasonable amount of time, then why in the dickens do they have time to send FCC agents down to Greenville every other weekend to bust half the radio operators in town who await their license? If the Commission would get off their fannies for a change and send us our license in which we are entitled, there wouldn't be anymore bootleg operators in town. We do our share, and it's about time they do theirs.

Strength For Today

INNER HEALTH ALONE COUNTS

A woman once wrote—a minister asking where she could find a school for her son which was free from evil influences. The minister replied that just as the mother could find no place on earth where her son would be absolutely free from all danger of physical disease, so she could find no place where the boy would be entirely free from moral contagion.

To send the boy into a malarial swamp or a village with a contaminated water supply would, of course, greatly increase his danger of physical illness. On the other hand, to send him to a healthful mountain camp would decrease the chance of sickness. In the same way, to send the boy among corrupt people would increase his chances of dereliction; to send him among godly people would in all likelihood strengthen his moral character.

But in the last analysis the outcome of a testing period for this boy would be determined by his inner resources. If he had real strength of character he could withstand a great deal of temptation.

Best Year Yet For Rolls-Royce

By JAMES R. PEIPERT

Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Soaring fuel costs have made the big prestige car an extravagance few can afford. But Rolls-Royce, the most prestigious of them all, has just had one of the best years in its seven-decade history.

Stressing handcrafted quality and catering to an expanding export market, especially in the United States and Middle East, the makers of Rolls-Royce cars survived bankruptcy in 1971 and have become the envy of the British auto industry.

With the possible exception of the British subsidiary of Ford Motor Co., which reported a small profit for 1974 and may do the same for 1975, Rolls-Royce is the only auto manufacturer making any money here.

While such carmakers as British Leyland and Chrysler U.K. expected record losses and struggled to stay afloat in a time of slack demand for autos, Rolls-Royce Motor Holdings, Ltd., indicated that last year's earnings, when reported in April, could be above 1974's net profit of almost $4.5 million.

One reason was an increase of exports to the oil-rich Middle East, where the company's car sales rose to more than 100 last year, up from 72 in 1974 and just 27 in 1973. But the company made clear the United States will continue to be its major single export market.

"There just aren't that many princes and sheikhs in the Middle East," one company official said. "But

"A hand-made pair of shoes may cost three times as much to buy as a mass-produced pair but will last four times as long," says Chairman Ian J. Fraser, who was a foreign correspondent in the 1940s and 1950s for the British News Agency Reuters.

Last year, Rolls-Royce produced and sold 3,134 cars, about the number that British Leyland could turn out in a day. That was Rolls-Royce's most productive year to date, topping the 1974 total of 2,902 cars, and nearly 60 per cent of last year's production was exported.

The company's car exports rose in value to the equivalent of $44.8 million in 1975, up 51 per cent from the $29.6 million of car exports recorded a year earlier.

you can go to the San Diego Yacht Club and find 500 people with $200,000 boats. All of them can afford our car."

Rolls-Royce sold a record 860 cars in the United States last year, 21 per cent more than in 1974.

Another reason for Rolls-Royce's success is its worldwide reputation for excellence, carefully nurtured since Frederick Henry Royce, an engineer, teamed up in 1904 with the Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls, a aristocrat and pioneering racing driver, to build the first Rolls-Royce.

Since then Rolls-Royce has turned out more than 70,000 cars and claims more than half of them are still in running order. A new one currently costs the equivalent of between $30,000 and

Cubans Sent Abroad

By GEORGE GEDDA

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 2,000 Cubans are working in about a dozen poor countries far from Cuba's borders as part of a plan to expand Cuban influence in the Third World, U.S. officials report.

The Cubans are scattered across three continents, building schools and hospitals and offering technical assistance and political advice.

In contrast to well-publicized Cuban military involvement in Angola, these Cubans work almost unnoticed by the rest of the world in such countries as Guinea, the Congo, Somalia, Tanzania, Guinea-Bissau, Sierra Leone, Equatorial Guinea, Algeria, South Yemen and Vietnam.

Officials here have no estimate on how many of these Cubans are military personnel, but Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger recently suggested the figure is high. Discussing Cuban armed forces at a news conference, he said, "They seem to be everywhere but Cuba."

Prime Minister Fidel Castro last month acknowledged that Cuban military involvement has not been limited to Angola. He told the Cuban Communist Party Congress that the Cuban army had "shed blood more than once in other countries threatened by imperialist aggression."

Until a little over a year ago, a Cuban tank battalion was based in Syria. But officials say most foreign-based Cubans operating outside Angola, including servicemen, are on peaceful missions. They say these Cubans could be put to good use at home but, as one official said, Castro has never been content to concentrate on Cuba alone.

He said Castro wants to build up Cuba as the country the Third World looks to for leadership. Another factor, he said, is that Castro finds these far-flung ventures nourishing to his ego.

For years, Castro focused his attention on Latin America, aiding guerrilla groups throughout the region. In the recent past, however, Castro has abandoned the tactic and U.S. officials say there is no evidence of any Cuban meddling in Latin America at present.

The view in Washington is that the Soviet Union prevailed

The basketball quint of Greenville High School will clash with the team from Tarboro High tomorrow night in the local high school gymnasium.

Coach Reynolds May said today that he had put the boys through some strenuous training tactics so far this season and feels that the game with Tarboro will be won with no trouble at all.

The locals have lost only two games this season, and have combatted with some very efficient material since the season began. Those composing the varsity squad this year are all lettermen from last year.

The most outstanding game of the season will be that with the boys from Duke University, whom the locals are scheduled to face next Wednesday night.

Speculation continues as to whether Kennedy would accept a draft if the Democratic convention were to become deadlocked. When Kennedy's name is kept in the list, he continues to emerge as the top choice of Democrats. He receives 32 per cent of the vote compared to 20 per cent for Humphrey and 15 per cent for Wallace.

Angola Rivals Have Church Ties

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — All three leaders of the three factions fighting for governing power in Angola have strong religious backgrounds and continuing ties to Christianity.

Their parallel upbringing and somewhat similar socialistic goals are among the oddly concordant — yet confusing — aspects of the Angola war cited by veteran mission workers familiar with the situation there.

It resulted in church humani- tarian aid going to all three independence groups until stopped last year when war among them broke out.

"All of the three rival leaders grew up in very devoted Christian families and are very knowledgeable about the Chris- tian faith," says the Rev. Law- rence Henderson, a mission worker in Angola for 22 years. "They'd be able to out-preach most preachers in New York."

Angola itself is about 60 per cent Christian, the rest mostly followers of traditional African religions. Of its six million people, about three million are Roman Catholics, about one million Protestants.

The three opposing leaders, who for more than a decade were jointly involved in the struggle against Portugal until independence was granted last summer, are all Protestants, educated in Protestant mission schools.

"Protestants over the years have put more effort into educational work than Catho- lics, so there is more leadership influence in Protestant-ism," says the Rev. Mr. Hen- derson, now a missions execu- tive of the United Church of Christ.

Catholicism also had ties with the Portuguese colonial regime and was officially favored be- fore independence.

The Rev. Mr. Henderson, in an interview, and other sources provided this background about the three independence leaders:

Holden Roberto, 53, head of the National Front for the Lib- eration of Angola — FNLA — backed by Zaire, South Africa' China and the United States, is a Baptist, a regular church participant and once taught in a Baptist school.

The grandson of an Angolan Baptist minister and reared in a devout Baptist family, he was baptized in youth, and attended schools run by British Baptists, the oldest Protestant mission group in Angola, there in 1878.

Roberto for a time served as an instructor in a Baptist school in Salvador, Angola, and still finds time between mili- tary engagements for frequent participation in worship serv- ices.

Agostinho Neto, 52, head of the Popular Movement for Lib- eration of Angola — MPLA — backed by the Soviet Union and Cuba, is a Methodist son of a Methodist minister, a product of Methodist mission schools.

He studied medicine on a Methodist scholarship in Portu- gal, and later served as secre- tary to Angola's Methodist bish- op. The present Angolan Meth- odist bishop, Emilio de Car- valho, reportedly supports him firmly.

However, the Rev. Mr. Hen- derson said while Neto ex- presses appreciation for the church's "contributions in val- ues and support for the people," his attitude toward the church "seems mainly senti- mental, a carry-over from youth, rather than active partic- ipation." Also, his orga- nization's literature is openly Marxist, disparaging religion.

Jonas M. Savimbi, 41, head of the National Union for Total Independence of Angola— UNITA—backed by South Africa, China and the United States, is a member of the United Church of Christ, trained in mission schools, still an active churchman.

On church scholarships, he studied medicine in Lisbon and earned a doctorate in political science in Lausanne, Switzer- land. His father, a railway worker and church lay leader with an evangelical zeal, helped found scores of churches and schools in Angola.

Savimbi "has been very close to church work," said the Rev. Mr. Henderson, adding: "All three men had a very complete immersion in the Christian community, because of its in- tensive, inclusive nature there, involving whole families and the whole of life — schools, health, agriculture."

"But church work will have to change fundamentally, no matter who comes out on top."

Noting that the social aims of all three groups anticipate tak- ing over schools and health fa- cilities, he added: "Churches will have to readjust drastical- ly."

on Castro to leave responsi- bility for the revolutionary struggle in Latin America to lo- cal leftist groups.

Sources say some of Cuba's activities in Third World coun- tries are done at Moscow's sug- gestion and others at Havana's own initiative.

Most of the Cubans sent on foreign missions come from a peasant background and the groups they deal with in poor countries find the Cubans high- ly congenial, officials say.

ECU RECEIVES GRANT —

An educational grant-in-aid of $5,000 has been given the East Carolina University School of Business by the DuPont Com- pany.

The funds were formally presented Wednesday by Henry Groseclose, personnel superintendent at DuPont's Kinston plant, to ECU Chan- cellor Leo Jenkins and ECU School of Business Dean James Bearden.

The award will be used to enrich ECU's graduate program in business administration. Similar amounts have been awarded by DuPont during the past three years, and have been used to establish graduate fellowships and support faculty research.

"We are delighted to be able to continue these grants," said Groseclose. "They are primarily given in recognition of the contributions of ECU and its graduates to business in the eastern North Carolina area."

Accepting the gift, Bearden noted that it would most probably be used to award fellowships to students enrolled in ECU's Master of Business Administration degree program.

"We appreciate very much the support of the DuPont Company in our efforts to provide graduate level instruction in business administration," he said.

Noel Neill Is Still Believer In 'Superman'

LOIS LANE . . . or Noel Neill, appeared at East Carolina University Thursday at a lecture program about the Superman series.

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

Girls, How many times have you wanted to be swept away by a superman? Noel Neill is one woman whose simple wish for a superman has come true many times. Mrs. Neill is Lois Lane, Superman's girl, the star reporter of the Metropolis Daily Planet, and the idol of many news women for more than 24 years.

Mrs. Neill was in Greenville Thursday appearing at a lecture program at East Carolina University. In a press interview she told reporters about Lois Lane's adventures and Noel Neill's life since Superman.

Where ever the Superman show is recognized, Noel Neill is recognized as Lois Lane. Mrs. Neill explained that the Superman series which was last filmed in 1957 has been playing on American television networks continuously since 1952. The series with only 60 reruns is presently playing in some parts of America twice daily, she said.

Since the 1957 filming, and after Superman's, George Reeves', suicide in 1959, Mrs. Neill has been occupied as a housewife and as a real estate associate in California. Her cast partners, Jack Larson, who played Jimmy Olson, Lois' partner reporter, has become a writer and John Hamilton, Editor of the Metropolis Daily Planet, has died.

For the past two years Mrs. Neill has been travelling across the country on a college lecture circuit in which she describes her experiences and the highlights of Superman on and off the set.

"I really enjoy the lecture series on the college campuses," Mrs. Neill said.

"So many of the kids remember watching the series on television and they even chant the faster than a speeding bullet chant before the films I show," she said. "During the question and answer period of the lecture, I have found that many of the kids come because of curiosity. They remember me as the young star woman reporter who was always getting into trouble with the heavies along with my reporter partner, Jimmy Olson, and Superman always coming to our rescue, so they just want to see how I have changed," she added.

"The best part of the lecture program is when I ask Volunteers from the audience to come up on stage and read and reenact the parts of the Superman cast in a short skit clipping," she continued. "The kids love it and they really ham it up. The college trips are a lot of fun and they are a great ego trip".

Asked about her favorite Superman show, Mrs. Neill replied.

"I liked the one called 'The Wedding of Superman'. I was of course dreaming, that Superman and I were getting married. The heavies had put a bomb in the wedding cake and it was about to go off when my alarm rang out and I awoke. I really liked the dress and the arrangements for that show," she explained.

"I believe in Superman," said Mrs. Neill. "If I didn't I'd be out of a job."

Unlike the television contracts of today, Mrs. Neill and other cast members of the Superman television series have not received any residuals from the series since 1967. Mrs. Neill however, is benefiting from the series as she travels on the lecture circuit as Lois Lane. Warner Communications owns the film series that she used during her lectures.

Although the red-haired Noel Neill no longer wears the prim and proper Lois Lane suit, she is still in the hearts of many Americans, Superman's girl.

Merit Club Status Awarded Local Unit

Larry Stox, junior director of Modern Woodmen of American Junior Service Club 13885, Greenville, has led the group to merit club status for the past year.

Modern Woodmen of America is a fraternal insurance society with home offices in Rock Island, Ill.

Junior Service Clubs are Modern Woodmen's youth groups, which stress civic and social training through service projects, educational activities, and planned recreation.

Of the society's more than 300 Junior Service Clubs throughout the United States, 121 attained merit status last year.

The local club determined its own merit rating through its performance and home office evaluation of monthly activity reports.

Club members' efforts in monthly meetings and programs, community service events and membership increases were also rated.

Myrtle Stox serves as assistant junior director for the local club.

UP, UP AND AWAY
LOCK HAVEN, Pa. (AP) — Almost a million and one half Americans will learn to fly in the next 10 years, predicts Piper Aircraft Corp. Private pilot licensing has more than doubled in the last 10 years and, despite a slump in student-flying enrollment last year due to the energy crisis, the figure has increased to more than 325,000.

Eye-Screening Program In 7th Year

The Pitt County Health Department is entering into its seventh year of conducting a special eye screening program for adults over 35 years of age to discover undetected cases of glaucoma, the second leading cause of blindness in adults.

Health Director Roger J. Barnaby, M.P.H. announced today. "Since the program was initiated in January 1970," Barnaby said, "our part-time nurse, Cleo Wiley, has screened 6,000 Pitt County residents and referred those with an elevated eye pressure to an eye physician of their choice for a complete eye examination, evaluation and diagnosis. Of those referred, 76 have been diagnosed as positive or borderline glaucoma."

The Glaucoma Screening Program is under the guidance and support of state and local ophthalmologists, Barnaby indicated, and is funded by the North Carolina and Pitt County Associations For the Blind and the Lions Club.

The Glaucoma screening nurse, Mrs. Wiley, explained that one out of every seven blind persons in the U.S. has lost his sight because of the eye disease glaucoma. "Today it is estimated that two out of every 100 persons over the age of 35 have glaucoma but do not realize it. Usually there are no symp-ptoms in the early stages. If the disease is found early and treatment started immediately, 85 percent can expect useful vision. This is why we urge everyone to start having their eyes screened for glaucoma at least every two years starting at age 35," she concluded.

Glaucoma screening is available at the Health Department in Greenville every Monday from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. It is also available on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month from 8:30 a.m. to noon. Clinics are held for two days in the Department of Social Services during the first week of every month.

Charles Gaskins, Chairman of the Board of Health, announced that additional special clinics for glaucoma will be held from time to time in various areas of the county. The first series in Bethel began last week and will continue on January 22, February 12, and February 26 from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3:30 p.m. These will be held in the recently acquired new quarters for the Health Department in Bethel located in the back of Dr. Garrenton's office. There will be another clinic conducted at the Winterville Town Hall February 20, from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.

role in getting the Boys's Club on sound financial footing. Parrott has helped the club to reach more than 500 boys in the Greenville club alone and more are being reached through branches established in Ayden, Farmville and Bethel.

Parrott is now actively involved in working towards a $350,000 goal for a new Boys' Club building and personally acquired the donation of land to help get the program underway. He has worked with club director Chet Emerson and other local citizens in making the youth organization one of the most active and effective in the state.

As a Jaycee, Parrott also assumed a leadership role, serving as a member of the chapter's board of directors and as internal vice president. He has also chaired various club projects, including the Boys Home All-Star Football Game and July 4th celebration.

A member of the University City Kiwanis Club here, Parrott was recognized in 1974 by the Kiwanis for his outstanding work in the club as recipient of the Distinguished Service Award. He has chaired a variety of projects as a Kiwanis with many related to youth involvement.

Parrott has also played a key role in the organization of Church League basketball and softball in Greenville and has served as coach-player for Oakmont in both sports.

In 1975, he was named one of the "Outstanding Young Men of America." He also served as Business Division chairman for the 1975 Pitt United Fund drive.

A graduate of East Carolina University in 1965 with a degree in business administration, Parrott was employed upon graduation by the John C. Proctor Co., local Certified Public Accountant firm. He passed the state CPA exam in November of 1966 and was made a full partner of the firm in 1971.

Parrott and his wife, Helen, have three daughters and reside at 303 Glasgow Lane.

Leggett, nominated by Jaycee T. R. Pierce, assistant director for Alumni Affairs at ECU, earned his B.S. degree in physical education and social studies at East Carolina and later completed requirements for the Master's degree in secondary education and principalship at ECU.

He accepted the position as Alumni Affairs Director in January of 1970 and since his appointment has guided the alumni family to a growth of over 30,000 members. Alumni gifts and contributions have increased over 300 per cent during the past five years, it was noted.

Under his direction, the association has added an assistant director, upgraded the secretarial positions, and increased the number of part-time employees.

Leggett was given the additional duties of Foundation director in the fall of 1973 with the objective of presenting a total alumni program while securing funds from corporations, ECU alumni and friends of the university.

In 1970, he was chosen as an Outstanding Young Man of America and has been nominated to appear in the 1976 edition of Personalities of the South. In 1975 he was presented the Distinguished Service Award for exemplary leadership by the University-City Kiwanis Club. Leggett and his wife, La Bette, reside at 211 Cherrywood Drive.

Flaherty, introduced by 1975 DSA chairman Mike Peters, asked the Jaycees' support and active endorsement of several programs that he termed much needed for the state.

The secretary said that a large number of young people who are in state institutions for the mentally ill could be returned to the community on a limited basis following rehabilitation but the general public is reluctant to accept them. He said that people like the Jaycees can help to change the opinion of the public about the mentally ill.

Flaherty also asked the chapter to help in promoting group homes where individuals could be placed rather than remaining in institutions. Money is available for the group homes, which would offer surroundings more familiar than an institution, but no one wants them in their neighborhoods, he asserted.

Flaherty discussed the effectiveness of screening programs that would help to spot early problems in children regarding hearing, speaking and learning disabilities. He said that 50 per cent of the children who have disabilities could have been helped if their problems had been spotted early.

The speaker asked the Jaycees to promote foster homes and to encourage an attitude whereby families would be willing to take in children who were not able to live with their parents. Many youth end up in jail because foster homes were not available for them, he contended.

He said that many of the needs of society can be met on the local level and he urged the Jaycees not to look to government to meet all of those needs.

Flaherty cited the role the Jaycees play in shaping the community and contended, "If you don't do it, who is going to? And if you don't do it now, when will it get done?"

Mayor Percy Cox attended the banquet as a guest and asked the Jaycees' help in getting a project started to build a convention center in Greenville. Cox cited the growing need for such a facility and noted that the city is limited in the amount it can participate in funding.

He challenged the chapter to help in any way it can to get the ball rolling for a convention facility.

Gene Prescott, 1966 DSA recipient and 1968 president of the Jaycees, inducted 13 new members into the club. Taking their oaths last night were Allen Jones, Gary Davis, Lindsay Griffin, Calvin Shearin, Tracy Warren, Bill Morris, John Mahoney, Wayne Sullivan, Wayne Winslow, Sterling Hight, David Duffus, Mike McCall and Richard Jones.

Movie Audience Is Attuned To Pure G

MURRAY, Iowa (AP) — Larry and Kay Davis, new owners of the only moviehouse in town, have learned a thing or two about show business. Sin isn't box office in Murray, pop. 600.

Their first R-rated movie premiered to a Saturday night crowd of 10 — and four teenagers walked out during a nude rape scene.

"Larry was mad to think they would make such cruddy stuff and I was sick," Mrs. Davis said.

The couple refunded all 10 of the $1.50 tickets, canceled the movie and resolved never again to show anything racier than family films.

Mrs. Davis, 34, said she and her husband bought the 186-seat Murray Theater because the only other recreation in town was the tavern next door.

"The first films I ordered weren't too good," Mrs. Davis said. "I bought films for myself and then the kids didn't like them."

Another early flop was "Murder on the Orient Express," an Agatha Christie mystery classic. "Most of our customers are kids and that was over their heads," Mrs. Davis recalled.

The biggest hit at the Murray Theater so far has been "Tower of Inferno," which played to 86 customers during a three-night run.

"Movies like that are exciting," Mrs. Davis said. "The kids don't get rowdy and run up and down the aisles."

To make ends meet, Davis drives a fuel truck during the day and farms with his father. He mans the theater projector at night. A niece, Melanie Davis, 12, sells popcorn and candy.

"It buys the groceries and that's all we intended it to do," Mrs. Davis said of the family venture into show business.

"We know we're never going to get rich off it."

If business picks up, the Davises will install the theater's first restroom next summer. "Bambi," a coming attraction, may help.

"If I could run Walt Disney every week, I'd be tickled to death," Mrs. Davis said.

Louis Armstrong Deserved Better

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Ben Vereen, one of the most gifted performers to come down the pike in recent years, is portraying one of the greats of jazz Sunday in an ABC movie called "Louis Armstrong — Chicago Style."

The film, set in 1931 in Chicago, dramatizes an incident early in Armstrong's life when a mob boss tried to muscle in on his career and hire him for one of his clubs; the mob got rough when Pops said no.

The 90-minute show has an excellent music sound track and Vereen does a marvellous job of depicting Armstrong, catching not only his unique vocal style but also his fabled good nature and warmth.

Unfortunately, Vereen and the rest of the cast are saddled with a script by James Lee that seems oddly limp, lacks focus and at times is maudlin. Which is a shame, considering the subject.

The proceedings commence in a small, scrummy night club on the outskirts of Los Angeles, where the young trumpeter is working while his manager (Red Buttons) plots ways of getting him to the big time.

Problem is, Louis isn't that interested, preferring to settle in Los Angeles than go back on the road. His manager, speaking of his meal ticket's current audience, sneers: "Buncha rubes. Chicago's where the action is."

It seems the manager is none too ethical. He gets Armstrong framed on a marijuana rap — having planted the weed in the trumpeter's coat and Armstrong is forced to leave with him for the Windy City.

After a powerful en route scene in which Armstrong is threatened by rednecks at a rural gas station, they arrive in Chicago.

A job the manager promised doesn't materialize. Times are lean until an old friend (effectively portrayed by Lee De

Here's an opportunity for you to test your declarer play. Cover up the East and West hands with your thumbs and see how you would go about playing six hearts.

North and South conducted an intelligent auction to reach their best spot. Once his partner made a positive response, South realized that the hands might produce a grand slam, but that Blackwood would not provide him with the information he needed. The key to the hand was North's club holding. Therefore, he started his investigation with a bid of four clubs and when North showed the ace of diamonds in response, he then repeated the club cue-bid.

Observe that if North's queen of diamonds has been the queen of clubs, or even if North held a doubleton club, the grand slam would be an excellent proposition. Since neither of these conditions prevailed, North could do no more than sign off in five heart and South disappointedly settled for a small slam.

If you thought that the contract was easy, you probably won the opening lead, drew trumps in three rounds and then cashed the ace and king of clubs, intending to concede a club, or cashed only one high club and then crossed to dummy in order to take the club finesse. In either case, you went down. East shows out on the second club lead, and since the king of diamonds is offside, there is no way to avoid losing two tricks in the minor suits.

You should realize that the contract is safe unless clubs break badly, so your efforts should be directed toward overcoming that possibility. The sure-fire line is to win the spade opening and draw trumps in three rounds. Now cash the remaining high spades and ace of diamonds, and complete the stripping of the hands by ruffing the queen of diamonds.

You are now down to a trump and four clubs in each hand. All you have to do is cash the ace of clubs and continue with a low club! If both defenders follow, the king of clubs will draw the last club and you can claim the contract. If either defender has four or five clubs, he can win the second club, but will then be faced with the alternative of giving you a ruff and sluff or leading a club into the king-jack. Regardless of what he does, you cannot lose another trick.

Broux), a white man, offers Armstrong the chance to work in the small night club he owns.

Word of mouth about this amazing musician soon has the joint packed each night. Then comes a mob boss who unsuccessfully tries to hire Armstrong, at a much higher salary. It's about here that the show starts losing steam, veering from scenes of music, romance, and mob machinations without much cohesion. None of it is very believable and parts of it are just boring.

I hate to see this happen. The producers had a chance to do justice to the memory of one of America's finest jazzmen and somehow blew it.

Charged In Embezzling

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — A former assistant director of the University of North Carolina student union has been charged with embezzling a reported $40,000 in funds from the university.

Jon Thomas, 31, was arrested in Indianapolis, Ind., on Tuesday on a fugitive warrant and was released Wednesday after posting $1,000 bond.

He resigned from his position at UNC-Chapel Hill in October to take a job with a sports arena in Indianapolis.

"There was an irregularity in an account and Thomas has been under investigation since December," said Howard Henry, director of the Carolina Union. "I can't make a statement on the case because it is in the hands of the state Department of Justice."

University Chancellor Ferebee Taylor said Thursday he is aware of Thomas' arrest. When asked about the embezzlement charge, he told a newsman, "I have heard essentially what you have said. All I know is the matter has been under investigation for several months."

Dist. Atty. Herb Pierce said "Thomas has several charges of embezzlement and the state is proceeding with extradition." He declined further comment. Sources in Indianapolis said Thomas' case was linked to as many as 50 individual sellers of tickets to university events.

Foster's Talks Helping Clemson

By The Associated Press
Clemson's Bill Foster says he doesn't try to be a low key coach. But "in our talks before a game we don't try to get too high, and try not to feel too low when we lose."

The talks must have helped, for the Tigers are 13-3, their best record in 41 years nearing the midpoint of the basketball season. "Winning on the road has got to help us," added Foster, whose Tigers have beaten nationally ranked Wake Forest and Maryland on the road in their last two starts.

Foster said he believes the club will not be overconfident in its next game, at home against Virginia Saturday night. "The team knows that if it feels that way, Virginia can come down here and clean us out," he said.

Virginia, 10-5, beat Delaware 78-65 at home Thursday night in the only game involving an Atlantic Coast Conference team. Wally Walker scored 22 points for the Cavaliers.

Foster thinks that from now until March, when the ACC tournament begins, he will hold only two practice sessions weekly. "That's enough, especially when you play twice a week anyway. You want the kids to realize there are other things besides basketball."

Foster liked Clemson's confidence and poise in the 82-77 victory against second-ranked Maryland Wednesday, especially for a young team on the road. He also liked its defense, singling out the play of David Brown, 6-8 junior forward. He praised Greg Coles, 6-3 freshman forward, for one of the big plays of the game, a five-point play he called it.

It seemed that Maryland was a cinch to make two points, but instead Clemson made three. Three Maryland players bore down on Coles, who was all alone. He stole the ball, ran downcourt, and made a circus basket, shooting behind his back. He also drew a foul and made it.

ACC teams are idle tonight. On Saturday, Duke will be at North Carolina State in a regionally televised game beginning 2 p.m. That night, Virginia will be at Clemson and Wake Forest will be home to Illinois State.

On Sunday, North Carolina will be home to Maryland in a game which will be nationally televised, beginning 1 p.m.

Pitchers Voted Into Fame Hall

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It would be nice to report that Bob Lemon had lived out a boyhood dream when he was elected along with Robin Roberts to the baseball Hall of Fame.

But it's just not so. The truth of the matter is that baseball occupied a back seat with Lemon when he was growing up in San Bernardino, Calif.

"I wanted to run a gas station," said Lemon, who instead won 207 games in a 13 seasons with the Cleveland Indians. "What's wrong with a gas station?" he asked. "Where do you go every day? It beats a bar. After I'm through with baseball, I think I'll go back to pumping gas."

Baseball, however, isn't quite through with Lemon and Roberts. The two pitchers have an Aug. 9 date in Cooperstown, N.Y. where they will be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Both were elected easily in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. With 388 ballots returned, 75 per cent or 291 votes were required for election. Roberts received 337 and Lemon 305. The late Gil Hodges was third with 233 votes, 58 short of election.

Between them, Roberts and Lemon won nearly 500 major league games and enjoyed 13 seasons in which they won 20 or more games. Roberts, pitching for the Philadelphia Phillies, Baltimore Orioles, Houston Astros and Chicago Cubs won 286 games in 19 seasons and had six straight 20-victory seasons. Lemon had 207 victories including a stretch of seven 20-win seasons in nine years, all with the Cleveland Indians.

Both pitchers nearly made it last year. Roberts fell nine votes short and Lemon was 39 away when the writers elected slugger Ralph Kiner to Cooperstown. Roberts was bitter at coming so close but still missing. "This makes up for that disappointment," he said.

While Lemon came to the majors out of gasoline alley, Roberts was signed by the Phillies off the campus of Michigan State University.

"My mother loved baseball, but my father didn't care much for it," Roberts said. "I remember in 1951, they came to St. Louis to watch me try for my 20th victory. I beat Joe Presko on a home run by Tommy Brown. We were driving home and my dad asked if I'd mind if he didn't come to any more games. He couldn't take the excitement."

Roberts left baseball in 1967, going into the security investment business. Lemon is still in the game and recently signed as pitching coach for the New York Yankees.

Boycott Would Hit Wrong Folks

By AUSTIN WILSON
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A boycott of the Pro Bowl would have stung the wrong people, so about 50 National Football League stars decided not to take a strike vote, said players' union representatives.

The threat of a player boycott of Monday night's game hung over pregame preparations all week, and the uncertain status of the game was blamed for sagging ticket sales.

"It boiled down to a question of who would be hurt if the game were cancelled, and a question of whether a cancellation would have had enough impact on the owners," said NFL Players Association Executive Director Ed Garvey.

In a 90-minute closed meeting, the players decided management would not have been hurt by a boycott, but football fans would have been, Garvey said. About 30 members of the all-star squads did not attend the meeting.

"After a prolonged discussion of the situation, we decided it was in our best interests not even to vote on whether there would be a strike," said union President Kermit Alexander.

He denied that the decision to avoid a strike vote could be considered a setback for the association.

"For it to have become a defeat, we would have had to have come into the meeting planning to strike," he said.

Both Alexander and Garvey said all week long that they would not recommend any course of action to the players.

The NFL owners' refusal to pay anything into the players' pension fund for the past two years prompted the boycott talk, Garvey said. But he said several other issues were discussed.

Elvin Bethea, Houston Oilers defensive end, said he felt that the lack of a contract could permit owners to cancel hospitalization and other benefits if they should decide to do so.

Garvey said that although the players' pension plan is adequately funded to cover those who were enrolled when the union's contract with the league expired Jan. 31, 1974, there are 220 players not covered by the plan.

Fresh from their victory over Richmond Wednesday night, the Pirates of East Carolina will play host to Virginia Military Institute in another key Southern Conference game on Saturday. Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

The game will be the windup of a triple-header in the coliseum. The East Carolina women's junior varsity opens play at 3 p.m., with the women's varsity taking over at 5 p.m. Both women's teams will be playing teams from Madison. The Bucette varsity goes into the game with a 1-3 record.

The men's varsity is now 7-9, while holding down fourth place in the Southern with a 5-4 mark.

Virginia Military upset first place William & Mary on Wednesday, and owns an earlier 17-point victory over the Pirates. The Keydets are currently third in the league standings with a 4-2 record. They are 10-6 overall.

The win over Richmond came after three straight losses the week before by the Bucs. And Coach Dave Patton was more than happy afterwards.

"I was pleased in that we gave a great effort. When we get that kind of effort we can play basketball. I still maintain that our problems stem from our early schule and our losing confidence because of it."

Patton said, "I think it is a tribute to the players the way they came back after such a bad half-season. And we appreciate the people who came out Wednesday night. They helped us to win, and their presence meant a lot to us."

Patton was pleased with the defense the Bucs played. "Again, it was all due to effort. We got after them from the start. If we had let up on them, they would have really put on a comeback."

Patton also had special words to Earl Garner, who hit a career high of 29 points. "While everyone is talking about his scoring, I'm very pleased with his defensive play. And he and Larry Hunt and Wade Henkel really got on the boards. Larry just played out of his mind in going to the boards."

The coach felt that there was some bad ball-handing and some bad passes, but attributed them to the lack of confidence. "This will get better."

Patton felt that Billy Dineen is coming on as a team leader and the point man. "He made some mistakes, but he's going to learn not to get himself into the positions he got in Wednesday night. Louis Crosby did a good job and Larry Slappy, and Reggie Lee played well."

The coach feels that the Pirates are back in the race now. "I'm not really worried about finishing first. I just want one of those top four spots to get a home court advantage for the first round of the tournament."

Patton looks for VMI to play their typical game. "They will shoot the eyes out of it. They are patient when they have to be and they'll run if they get any chance. They have no one person they depend on and are extremely well-balanced."

But this time, the Keydets won't have the corps of cadets yelling in the Pirate ears. "And we have more confidence now, too."

Patton said he wasn't worried about another Pirate letdown. "I think they (the team) have seen the light. At least I hope they have."

GUCo Still In The Race

Greenville Utilities remained within striking distance of the leaders in the Adult Basketball League's Class 2-A with a victory last night.

In the lone game played at Elm Street, Carolina Telephone downed St. Paul's, 41-43, overcoming a 25-20 halftime deficit to do it. Dallas Station led Carolina Telephone with 33 points while Leonard Monteth had 10. Jack Wall led St. Paul's with 18, and Greg Troupe hit 15.

In the opener at South Greenville Allen Dean gained a 59-53 win over Wachovia. They, too, had to overcome a halftime deficit, with Wachovia holding a 28-23 edge at intermission. Donald White led Allen Dean with 22, while Terry Heire had 12. Leon Johnson had 17 and Carlos Ebron, 12, for Wachovia.

The final game saw Greenville Utilities down the Moose, 69-60. Again, the loser led at the half, 32-29. Thomas Mullins led GUCo with 27 points, while James Clemmons had 15. Bobby Parker paced the Moose with 20, while James Parker had 16 and Ricky Eason hit 10.

Mobley, Moye Still Lead Area Scoring

Rick Mobley and Julia Moye continue to pace the individual scoring the Pitt-Martin-Greene area as the season nears the mid-point.

Mobley currently is blistering the nets with a 25.6 point per game average, well ahead of his nearest competition. That is, Donnie Perkins of North Pitt, who is hitting at an 18.0 clip.

Eric Davis of Jamesville is third at 16.1, followed by Barry Wallace of Williamston at 15.8 and Paul Jones of Roanoke at 15.7.

Roanoke leads the team offense with 65.3 points a game, while Rose is second with a 63.6 mark.

North Pitt heads the defense with a 48.8 mark, with Farmville Central second at 50.0.

Only four teams are outscoring their opponents. North Pitt has the best margin average, outscoring its foes by 12.5 points a game. Ayden-Grifton, Williamston and Conley are the only others with a plus margin.

Only three teams, however, have a winning record among the 10 in the area. Ayden-Grifton and North Pitt are deadlocked on top with a 9-1 mark each. Conley is third at 5-4.

Miss Moye's lead in the girls' standings is not as comfortable as it once was. She is currently averaging 17.9 per game. Patricia Taylor of Bear Grass is second at 13.7, with Sissy Taylor of Williamston next at 13.6. Audrey McCarter of Ayden-Grifton is fourth at 13.3, and Paula Bennett of Williamston is fifth at 11.2.

Williamston leads the offense, defense and margin with averages of 55.8, 26.1, and 29.7 respectively. Only three teams, Williamston, Farmville Central and Ayden-Grifton are out-hitting their opponents.

And only Williamston and Farmville post winning records. Three others, Ayden-Grifton, Bear Grass and North Pitt are at 500.

Following are the leaders in each category. Individuals must have played in two-thirds of their schools games to qualify.

Russell Booted After Statement

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

It was a simple question Bill Russell asked National Basketball Association referee Darrell Garretson.

"All I said to him was 'Are you going to be a homer all night?'"

The remark got the Seattle coach thrown out of the game, a game which saw the Cleveland Cavaliers defeat the Seattle SuperSonics 109-99. Russell, the former Boston Celtics star player and coach, wasn't surprised as the referee's reaction.

"Nothing surprises me anymore," Russell said. "I just wish I could have cussed a little more and really got my money's worth."

While Russell made his remark to Garretson, he wasn't sure which referee threw him out of the game. "They all look alike to me," Russell said.

In other NBA games Thursday night, Washington crushed New Orleans 109-86 and Golden State defeated Los Angeles 129-106.

In the only American Basketball Association game on tap, Virginia stopped St. Louis 128-117.

Jim Chones and Bingo Smith paced Cleveland's victory by scoring 22 points each. The Sonics, converting three straight turnovers, pulled to 104-97 with 1:27 left, but Smith's 25-foot jumper and Jim Brewer's slam dunk sealed the Cavaliers' victory.

Bullets 109, Jazz 86
Len Robinson made the most of his chance. Subbing for the injured Elvin Hayes, Robinson scored 14 points and blocked a club-record eight shots to lead Washington over New Orleans. The Bullets, paced by Phil Chenier's 20 points, hit 70 per cent of their field goal attempts in the second period to take a 49-37 lead, then blew the game early with a 9-2 streak to open the third period. Six Washington players finished in double figures while rookie Rich Kelley scored 20 to lead New Orleans.

Warriors 129, Lakers 105
A third-quarter rally, ignited by center George Johnson and forward Rick Barry, pushed Golden State past Los Angeles. Down 78-67, the Warriors ran off 16 straight points in the third period, then outscored the Lakers 18-4 in the opening four minutes of the fourth quarter. Barry finished with 31 points, high for the game, while Gail Goodrich led the Lakers with 29.

Squires 128, Spirits 117
Mack Calvin's eight straight points late in the game clinched Virginia's victory over St. Louis. Calvin, who missed the first three months of the season with an injury, paced the Squires with 24 points, while Ticky Burden added 21 and Mike Green 20. St. Louis was led by Marvin Barnes with 37 points.

Leroy Selmon Wins Lombardi

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — There's a small, 40-acre farm near Eufaula, Okla., that has been growing a very special kind of crop in recent years.
In 1973, the farm produced University of Oklahoma All-American Lucious Selmon and in 1975 two more All-Americans, Leroy and Dewey Selmon, sprouted from the fertile soil of Lucious and Jesse Selmon.
And Thursday night it yielded still another honor when Leroy Selmon was named winner of the 1975 Vince Lombardi Award, symbolic of the nation's outstanding college football lineman.
"What Mom put into us at home has been the backbone of our careers," Leroy said shortly before accepting the 45-pound granite trophy named in honor of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died in 1970 of cancer.
Leroy Selmon, an All-American defensive tackle who led the Sooners in tackles and earlier won the Outland Trophy, beat out his brother Dewey, Texas A&M linebacker Ed Simonini and Notre Dame defensive tackle Steve Niehaus for the honor.

Leroy, 6-2, 256, explained to the 800 persons attending the $100 per plate dinner the secret formula Mrs. Selmon used to grow such hybrid college football talent.
"After my first day of football practice in the eighth grade, I got up the next morning and went to my mom and told her I didn't think football was for me," Leroy recalled. "I told her it was too tough."
"She got kind of a funny look in her eye and I knew that attitude wasn't the kind she thought she had instilled in me.
When I saw this look in her eyes, I got up the nerve to go back the next day and I've never got that feeling again."
Proceeds from the annual dinner go to the American Cancer Society for research. More than $150,000 has been donated from five previous dinners.

New Blocking Rules Accepted

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—
While rejecting a tie-breaker and a return to dropkicked field goals, the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has adopted new blocking regulations and stricter rules against roughing quarterbacks.
The committee ordered a 15-yard penalty for roughing quarterbacks, even if the play is completed, with the penalty to take effect at the point at which the play ends, said Cliff Speegle, chairman of the committee and commissioner of the Southwest Athletic Conference.
Speegle, Dallas, Tex., told a news conference Thursday if the play results in a touchdown, the penalty will be imposed against the offending team on the subsequent kickoff.
Blocking rules were extensively rewritten during the four-day conference in the hope player safety would be improved, Speegle said.
"No opportunity would be given to grasp, which would be a normal defense if an opponent is shouldering off a block," he said.
The definition of spearing was also broadened to include any deliberate use of the helmet in an attempt to stop an opponent.
"No player shall use his helmet, or butt or ram an opponent," Speegle said. "Furthermore, no player shall intentionally strike a runner with the crown or top of his helmet."
The committee was following medical research evidence which shows that a football player whose head is in a lower position is more subject to injury than a player with his face up.
The committee made hip and thigh pads mandatory equipment for college football players.

The committee endorsed resolutions of the American Football Coaches' Association calling for coaches not to teach that the head is the primary point of contact for blocking and tackling; for the elimination of the use of self-propelled, mechanized apparatus in teaching blocking and tackling; and for greater emphasis in the elimination of spearing.
The committee wrote the following rules for teammates of a runner, or passer, who use their hands and arms in blocking or to supplement a shoulder block:
—The hands shall be in advance of the elbows.
—The hands shall be inside the frame of the blocker's body and below the shoulder of the blocker and his opponent.
—The hands and arms shall be parallel to the ground.
—The arms shall not be extended more than one-half of a full expansion.
—The hands shall be cupped or closed with the palms not facing the opponent.
—The hands and arms shall not be used to deliver a blow.
—The hands and arms shall not be used to grasp, pull, encircle or lift and opponent.
—The hands or arms shall not be used to lock or clamp an opponent.
—In no block shall the hands be locked.
"The most important thing in rewriting these rules is the safety aspect," Speegle said.
"Not as much has been done in 19 years to make the game safer."
He said the last major blocking rule change was in 1958.

Foreman Misses Championship

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing king George Foreman opens his soul when he declares, "I hate not being the champion, I hate it."
"I'm not jealous, not of Muhammad Ali, but of not being the heavyweight champion."
Knocked out by Ali at Zaire, Africa, in the eighth round of their title match on Oct. 30, 1974, Foreman makes his first comeback fight in battling Ron Lyle at Caesars Palace in a 12-rounder Saturday starting at 2 p.m. PST.
Foreman, the ex-Olympic gold medal winner and professional champion, is favored at 5-2 odds. Yet Lyle could act as the spoiler to his ambitions of regaining the heavyweight crown.
"I'm more relaxed than ever before," Foreman says, and he has been showing the effects of the coaching from veteran boxing pilot Gil Clancy, who has urged Foreman to cut down on the length of his punches.
"If I go back to my old style, it only means he is going to get knocked out quicker," says Foreman, whose statements failed to bear out the fact he has been acting out the sequences that Clancy has set for him.
In Las Vegas, fights are scored by three judges under the five-point-per-round rule and the referee does not have a ballot.

Few in this betting city think the Forman-Lyle battle will go the route. If it ends early, the favorite is Foreman, but if it goes the route, Lyle is expected to be the stronger.
"I know this is my chance to get back into the picture," says Lyle, who lost to Ali by a knockout in a title bout at this desert city when he was stopped in 11 rounds.
"I did not go down and I think it was unfair to stop that fight," said Lyle, who has a 31-3-1 record compared with 41-1-0 for Foreman.

UCLA Has To Fight To Win

By The Associated Press
UCLA Coach Gene Bartow was perplexed, concerned, and perhaps a little angry after his sixth-ranked UCLA Bruins had unexpected trouble with lightly regarded UC Santa Barbara.
"If our starters don't show considerable improvement, you can look for a lot of freshmen to be starting future UCLA basketball games," Bartow said after the Bruins posted a hard-fought 64-50 victory over the Gauchos Thursday night.
"I can't understand what's happening to us," Bartow said of his Bruins, who trailed Santa Barbara 26-24 at the intermission. "We should be playing much better."
While he was not at all pleased with the Bruins' play, Bartow said he had something to be thankful for. "Thank heaven we didn't play USC
tonight," he said.
Bartow was reminded that

Pacific-8 foe Southern Cal has lost its last five games. "But they will be most difficult for us when we play them here," he said, referring to a Jan. 31 matchup, "particularly if we play like we did tonight."
The Bruins, who face 15th-ranked Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, got 27 points from junior forward Richard Washington, 19 of them in the second half, in the victory over the Gauchos.
Washington scored eight points early in the second half to help the Bruins move out to a 38-29 advantage, but Santa Barbara charged back to pull within three, 38-35, with 12 minutes left in the game before the Bruins finally began to pad their lead.
UCLA's biggest spread was the final score, as Washington hit a 15-foot jumper in the closing seconds to make the Bruin lead 14.

Cox Takes Third Win

Cox Realty captured its third straight victory in the Women's Basketball League last night.
In the opening game, Krispy Kreme took a 43-22 win over the Little Mint, and held a 21-12 edge at the half. Vangie Jones led Krispy Kreme with 23 points, while Brenda Adams and Margaret Johnson led Little Mint with six each.
Cox romped to a 49-26 win over Book Barn in the second game.
Cox held a 32-17 edge at the intermission. Jolly Jones led Cox with 35 points, while Sandra Spivey led Book Barn with eight.

Rampant Girls Opening First Basketball Year

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
A scene from a recent basketball practice in the Rose High Gym:
Coach: "Okay, let's work on our man-to-man defense."
First Player: "Hey coach, what's a man-to-man defense?" Coach: "That's where you pick a man on the other team and guard him all the time." Second player: "But coach, you're the only man out here."
Sound strange? If you want to find out more about a man-toman defense in basketball, ask Jim Brewington. But he will not tell you about a man-to-man; he'll tell you about a woman-to-woman defense.
This winter, Brewington is filling the role of a "first-ever."
He is the first girls basketball coach Rose High has ever had and he has been teaching the "woman-to-woman" defense to the first girls basketball team Rose has ever had. The team will play its first game ever, tomorrow night, at 6:00 p.m. in the Rose gym.
"They tease me about calling it a man-to-man," Brewington said. The girls quickly straightened him out about that.
Brewington said he had little trouble getting girls to turn out for basketball. "We had about 50 come out," he said. He had to trim the group down to 17 and will dress 15 for Saturday's opener.
Girls basketball has been in the works for a long time and now it is becoming a reality. But Brewington is not predicting a powerhouse at the beginning.

"Everything was new," he said. "Football ran so late; the other teams have been playing since October. They have to play the same rules as the boys. We hope we will have a little fun and hope we will learn."
Brewington said he had to start at the bottom and work up.
"They didn't know and were eager to learn," he said. "Not like boys who know everything and don't want to learn."
The Rampant girls are not going to go with any particular offense but they will move the ball a lot and try to hit the open man (uh... girl). "Funny thing, we're not trying to play pattern basketball," the coach said.
"We're trying to freelance and hit the open man. It will be wide open."
Brewington said the leading candidates for starting roles tomorrow night include Karen Jefferys at guard, Barbara Payton at center, and the two forwards will probably be Pam Taylor and Shirly Taylor. The other guard spot is a toss up between Rosie Cox and Peggy Leggett.
Miss Jefferys is the best ballhandler on the team, says Brewington and will be at the point. Behind them will be Patricia Jenkins, Jackie Scott, Jill Carney and Evelyn Wooten.
Jenkins is the biggest girl on the team and could move into the starting line up when she learns the game more. Wooten could also move into the first five when she gets more used to what the team will be doing.

Brewington noted that the team will play a lot of their games prior to wrestling matches. They will travel with the wrestlers to New Bern Monday and play before the match with the Bears.
They are opening their season tomorrow against Northeastern at the dinner hour so that people can come see the Rose girls play then take in the East Carolina-VMI game, later.
Brewington said the biggest thing the girls will have to do is learn. "It might take eight or ten games to get used to (playing basketball)."
Girls basketball has been enthusiastically accepted at Rose also. "We're getting a lot of enthusiasm and we're hoping to get a good crowd. We will charge 50 cents and a dollar admission."
The Lady Rampants will play the other teams in Division I as well as Kinston, schools which have girls teams. No matter what happens this year, the girls will gain a lot of experience.
Brewington has a lot of sophomores who will be around a while.
Coach: Let's go guys, we have to get off the court so the other team can practice!"
First player: "GIRLS, coach, girls."

Rozelle: No Expansion Until Problems Ended

By TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The city of Memphis is a prime candidate for a National Football League franchise but it won't be considered, and neither will any other city, until the NFL's legal squabbles are resolved, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle has told southern senators.
Rozelle met on Capitol Hill
Thursday with Tennessee Sens.
Howard H. Baker J.R. and William E. Brock III and aides of other mid-South Senators to outline the league's expansion and legal problems.
After the hour-long, closed meeting, Rozelle said Memphis was considered for an expansion franchise in 1974 but the league was threatened with antitrust litigation by the now-defunct World Football league, so Tampa Bay and Seattle were selected for 1976 instead.
Now, he said, an owners meeting on expansion scheduled for New Orleans this weekend has been canceled because of litigation by Tampa Bay and Seattle over possible action by the NFL Players Association against the stocking of the two new franchises.

"Memphis will have the strongest possible consideration for a National Football League franchise as soon as the National Football League is able to resolve some of its current problems," said Rozelle.
"There is nothing against Memphis. It is not an issue of Memphis. It is an issue of expansion."
Baker said his threat of introducing legislation to study the NFL's antitrust exemption did not come up during the meeting because that is a separate issue from the awarding of a franchise to Memphis.
"The two ought not be related," said Baker. "The whole question of the legal status of the NFL is bound to be reviewed by the Congress, the whole question of antitrust exemption, the authority to negotiate as a unit on television, the impact of the decision on players rights, the question of free bidding for players.
"This meeting today almost certainly will have no effect on that," he continued. "Clearly, it is important to know that Memphis was not turned down out-of-hand this time arbitrarily, which would have been illegal.

I'm personally convinced that that part is disposed of."
Baker said the meeting was held to get a first hand report on a Memphis franchise from Rozelle, whom he had not discussed the issue with previously. "I came away convinced that we are going to get a fair shake. I was convinced of that before. I am now."
He said he was impressed that professional football had legal problems that he to be solved before Memphis could receive a franchise.
"I have to say there are complex factors involved that they have to deal with before they can deal with our aspirations of being an expansion team," said Baker. "I hope, and it's only a hope, that some sort of action can be taken in 1976."
Brock said Rozelle tried to be as positive as he could and that he believed Memphis was an obvious choice for expansion.
"He said he would not be able to get a majority of the owners to agree until the court process was resolved favorably and the league knew where it stood," said Brock. "He said he did not have 20 votes for expansion under the present circumstances."

Crosby Weather Among Missing

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif.
(AP) — The Crosby weather got 'em, right?
Sure, Jack Nicklaus got away with a 67, but just look at the other scores: Johnny Miller 74 with a lost ball. Billy Casper 75. Defending champion Gene Littler 76. Tom Weiskopf 76.
Hale Irwin 77. Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer 79. Tony Jacklin 81. Former Crosby champion Tom Shaw 86.
The weather got 'em, okay.
Sure enough.
But it wasn't Crosby weather.
The rain, wind, cold, sleet, mud, ocean spray, fog and occasional snow that usually plagues the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament was among the missing.
Instead, the spectacular beauty of the Monterey Peninsula was resplendent in brilliant sunshine and warm temperatures. The fairways were dry and the greens fast.
Playing conditions were near perfect — and, therefore, very unfamiliar.
And it put the scores out of sight — among the highest on the tour in years — in Thursday's first round of this unique, $185,000 event that is played over three golf courses. There were 29 scores of 80 or higher.
Nicklaus and a handful of others were exceptions.

Nicklaus, using a new set of clubs in competition for the first time, shot a five-under-par 67 that tied him for the lead with journeyman Mike Morley, still looking for his first title in seven years of tour competition.
"These courses are much tougher under these conditions than when they are wet and soft," said Nicklaus, the 1975 Player of the Year. "You put a little wind with conditions like this and it'd really be tough."
"They're playing golf courses that are new to them," explained Jack Tuthill, the veteran head of the tour's field staff.
"Usually, the fairways are soft and wet and there's no run on the ball. Now they're hard and dry and the ball is running.
And it's running into places they've never seen, places they didn't know existed."
But Nicklaus, who opened his season with only the third set of clubs he's used as a pro, and Morley had little difficulty.
George Johnson was one stroke back of them with a 68. Bruce Summerhays and Australian David Grahao had 69s. Bob Wynn, Gary Groh and Jim Colbert were at 70.
Nicklaus, Morley, Johnson and Summerhays played Cypress Point. Graham, Wynn and Colbert were at Pebble Beach. Groh played at Spyglass Hill.

Student's Weekends At Rodeo

MARTIN, Tenn. (AP)—Weekends mean extra time for studying or a respite from the books for most college students, but for Tony Coleman a weekend is another chance to get dumped off an angry horse.

The 25-year-old animal science student at the University of Tennessee at Martin spends his weekends and summer vacations bouncing from the back of one furious equine to the ground and back again. Sometimes, if he's lucky, he might stay aboard the horse long enough to win $425 after paying a $50 entry fee and paying his travel expenses and medical bills.

"It's not that lucrative," the Goodlettsville, Tenn., rodeo cowboy said. "But it kind of eats on you and you got to keep going."

Coleman is taking time off from his UT-Martin classes this week to compete in the international finals of the International Rodeo Association at Tulsa, Okla.

Although he was able to coope only in about 50 rodeos on the IRA circuit last year, Coleman was ranked 15th in money winnings among saddle bronc riders. That was just enough to qualify him for the IRA finals.

He failed to qualify for the finals in his other specialty, bareback riding.

Coleman got started in the rodeo business seven years ago when he went to a rodeo sponsored by country music star Loretta Lynn in Goodlettsville.

"I went to one Loretta Lynn rodeo and I wanted to be good enough to ride in that one particular rodeo," he recalled this week. "Then it got to where I couldn't quit."

Coleman has visited 42 states in his seven years on the rodeo circuit, some of them as an IRA professional and some as a representative of UT-Martin in National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association events.

The school's rodeo team, of which Coleman is a member, was first in NIRA regional standings last year.

Coleman admits he has been lucky in the injury department.

"I've had a lot of minor injuries—a few broken ribs and I broke a bone in my foot—but nothing that would keep me down for long," he said.

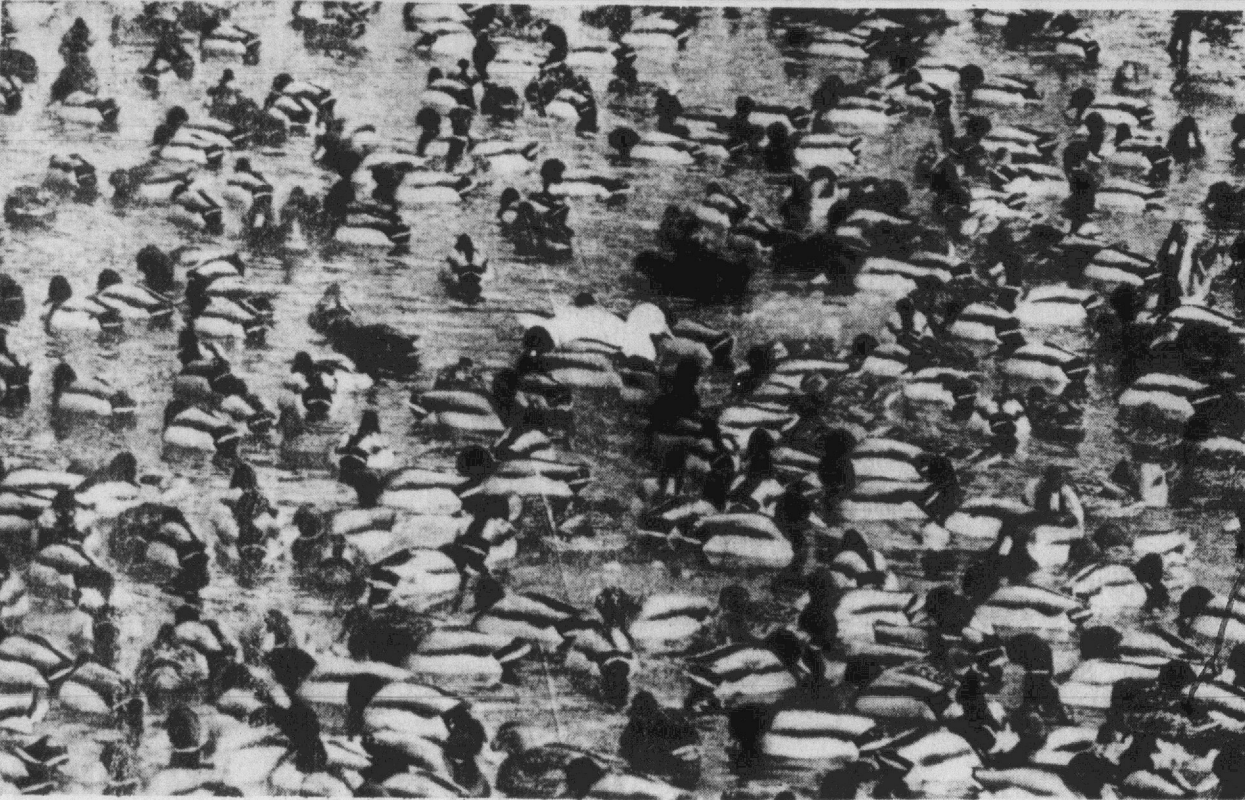

Coleman is hoping to graduate in June and then he will join his 23 year-old brother, Alan, on the rodeo circuit full-time.

"We just get in the pickup and down the road we go," he said.

Eventually he hopes to join rodeoing's big league, the Rodeo Cowboys of America.

"I guess I've got to do it until I get it out of my system," he said.

DOES IT OR DOESN'T IT?—One white duck swims with the mallard, teal and wood ducks at the Brookfield (Ill.) Zoo, west of Chicago. The zoo usually has 500 wild ducks in its pond, but migrating ducks, and pet ducks abandoned by owners, have raised the duck population to over 3,000. The zoo is capturing many of the excess ducks and releasing them in migratory paths away from the zoo. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market pushed ahead today, rebounding from two days of profit taking despite disappointment over a major bank's decision not to cut its prime lending rate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 3.47 at 946.95, and gainers opened up a 2-1 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading remained active. At the opening, New York's First National City Bank announced it was holding its prime rate at 6 1/2 per cent for the coming week.

Wall Streeters generally had been expecting it to go to 6 1/2. But analysts said investors remained encouraged over the interest rate outlook because of continued slackness in the nation's money supply, as shown in weekly figures from the Federal Reserve.

The conclusion some analysts drew was that the Fed would be prompted to take still more steps to ease credit because of the sluggish money supply trend.

Brokers also noted that traders seemed impressed with the market's showing Wednesday and Thursday. On both days it bounced back from some early profit taking to finish with only mild losses.

Feders was the most active issue on the Big Board, up 1/4 at 5 1/2. A 150,000-share block traded at 5 1/2.

United Nuclear, which reported sharply higher quarterly earnings Thursday, gained 1 1/2 to 2 1/4 in active trading.

The NYSE's composite index rose 16 to 52.13 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .30 at 93.19.

Archaeological Site Destroyed

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C. (AP)—An archaeologist says one of four primitive Indian fishing camps on Money Island near here was destroyed by sand dumped by a government dredging project last week.

But Dr. David S. Phelps of East Carolina University who inspected the site, said the loss was "not highly significant" because the site was similar to three others that were not harmed.

However, a spokesman for the U.S. Corps of Engineers said the campsites were not harmed.

Phelps said the other sites may have archaeological value and should be excavated. However, state officials said they can do little to save the sites unless they are actually threatened because the island is privately owned.

No Lay-Offs By Phone Co.

Don A. Collier district commercial manager for Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. said today that no operators have been laid off due to a decrease in the number of directory assistance calls brought about by a 20-cent per call charge which began January 15.

"We have laid off none at this time, and have no plans to lay off any," he said. Collier emphasized that Carolina Telephone company-wide, "no plans to lay off any operators" because of a reduction in information calls.

He explained, "with normal attrition, we expect to realize some savings", noted again that the company has no plans to lay off any operators.

Collier compared director assistance calls for the weekend of January 17-18, 1976—the first weekend after directory assistance charges began—with the weekend of January 18-19, 1975.

He said there was a reduction of some 6,000 calls during the 1976 weekend — a 68 per cent reduction — as compared with 1975 for the Greenville district for local Greenville numbers alone. These figures, Collier pointed out, do not include directory assistance calls from other areas to the Greenville exchange.
