New Building Dedicated At Sheltered Workshop

Approximately 250 persons attended the dedication of new facilities at the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop Sunday. The Workshop which was established in 1965 has just recently added 12,000 square feet to its facilities in the Greenville industrial area.

Rep. Sam Bundy said that the job of expanding the workshop is not complete and that there is much more to be done. He explained that citizens in the counties which the Workshop serves should work together to improve the facilities.

"We then dedicate this additional building. Let us dedicate ourselves to the philosophy behind it," Bundy said.

Claude Myer, director of Vocational Rehabilitation in North Carolina explained that the unity of Vocational Rehabilitation and the Workshop is necessary.

"The Workshop has come a long way in nine short years. It is presently serving more clients daily than any other sheltered workshop in North Carolina," Myer said.

According to Myer the Workshop has received over $500,000 in grants in the past nine years. Many of the grants were largely funded by Vocational Rehabilitation and matched by local funds.

"According to my staff, the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop is one of the most comprehensive quality programs in North Carolina and Eastern United States," Myer said.

Senator Vernon White spoke briefly on the history of the workshop, commended Howard Dawkins, director of the Workshop and explained that the Workshop is a utilization of local taxes for local projects.

Melvin Moore, vice president of Fieldcrest Mills expressed appreciation for the Workshop's relationship with local industry.

Other speakers at the ceremonies included, Robert Andrews, a member of the Workshop's board of directors, Dr. James Carter, Rev. Clarence Gray, Burney Tucker, Percy Cox and Dawkins master of ceremonies and director of the Workshop.

Following the dedication ceremonies the guests were served refreshments and participated in a tour of the Workshop's facilities.

Tanzanian Says War For Rhodesia Begun

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)—Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today and later told newsmen "the war has started" for black majority rule in Rhodesia.

"It can't be avoided," Nyerere said.

"The United States might not support the war. We will not quarrel with that," Nyerere added. "I did not get the impression that Dr. Kissinger will support us in prosecuting the war."

Kissinger came to Tanzania after opening a two-week African tour in Nairobi, Kenya, over the weekend where he promised the United States would use its political and economic weapons to bring about black majority rule in southern Africa.

Nyerere said he would like to see the United States and all other countries fully support the black liberationists who are fighting to topple the white-minority government of Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith.

But when asked if he would like to see American arms introduced into the conflict, Nyerere sidestepped a direct answer and said he understands there "are limitations" to what Washington can do.

Kissinger has said the U.S. government "does not plan to give military aid in any form to the nationalist movements in Africa."

Nyerere said the United States has an obligation to support the U.N. economic embargo against the Smith government, which represents about 273,000 whites among a nation of 5.7 million blacks.

Nyerere spoke to reporters as Kissinger ended a 23-hour visit to Tanzania, his second stop on his seven-nation tour. During his stay, Kissinger shared a front-row box with Nyerere for a military parade marking the 12th anniversary of the formation of Tanzania through the union of Tanganyika and Zanzibar.

The next stop on his agenda was Lusaka, Zambia, where he was to meet President Kenneth Kaunda who was expected to press for military aid for Rhodesian nationalist groups. During the weekend, Kaunda said 10 years of negotiations had failed to find a peaceful solution in Rhodesia and it was now too late for negotiating.

Black Rhodesian leader Joshua Nkomo was due in Lusaka to meet Kissinger. The leader of the domestic wing of the African National Council (ANC) is one of the few black Rhodesian nationalists to agree to see Kissinger.

Kissinger met Sunday in Nairobi with President Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya before flying to Dar es Salaam.

Get In Last Licks For Pa. Primary

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter says Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is being "absolutely ridiculous" when he blames unemployment in the North on lower wages paid workers in the South.

"I don't think it's fair to say that we have unemployment in Pennsylvania because the South has cheap labor or right-to-work laws," Carter said Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program.

"To blame the unemployment in Pennsylvania on right-to-work laws that have been there ever since Harry Truman's day I think is absolutely ridiculous," Carter said.

The program featured Carter, Jackson and three other contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination — Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho. All but Church are on the ballot for Tuesday's primary election in Pennsylvania.

As the Democrats focused their attention on Pennsylvania, President Ford and former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, battling for the Republican nomination, prepared for more work in Texas, where voting is May 1.

Ford is scheduled to campaign in Texas Tuesday through Thursday, and Reagan is due there Thursday.

Reagan picked up support over the weekend from Republicans in four states, including South Carolina, where he was assured of 26 of the state's 36 GOP national convention delegates.

South Carolina's state Republican convention gave four delegates to Ford, and six were not committed to any candidate.

The challenger also won backing in Oklahoma, Missouri and Arizona, while Minnesota's Republicans favored the President in partial returns from GOP district meetings.

Jackson, with strong backing from Pennsylvania's labor leaders, has argued in campaigning for the state's primary that Northern jobs have been lost to Southern states with right-to-work laws, among them Georgia.

The so-called "right-to-work" laws prohibit union shops, and Jackson maintained that this encourages lower pay and thus flight by industry to the South. He didn't cite specific differences in pay.

Udall, Jackson and Carter anguished, meanwhile, over the halt in distribution of federal matching money that has left their campaigns short of funds.

Jackson and Udall blamed President Ford, while Carter, admitting he, too, would like to hang the problem on Ford, faulted Congress for not swiftly reviving the federal campaign law knocked down by the Supreme Court.

The high court said the Federal Election Commission, which handled distribution of the matching money, was unconstitutionally comprised. Congress did not reconstitute the commission by a deadline set by the Supreme Court, and distribution of the matching money was stopped.

Hunt Recommending Teacher Pay Increase Of $95 Million A Year

RALEIGH (AP)—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt today recommended a 6.5 per cent pay increase to teachers and state employees that would cost about $95 million a year.

In a statement read to the legislature's Joint Appropriations Committee as it met to make preparations for next week's convening of the General Assembly, Hunt suggested two sources for raising the money for next fiscal year.

The lieutenant governor said part would come from increased revenue collections from the state's existing taxes as the economy continues to improve and part from a one-time windfall. The windfall would come from changing from quarterly to monthly the payment by large corporations of the state income taxes they withhold from their workers.

Hunt said that continued funding of the pay raise would depend on continued growth in the tax collections by the general fund and the remainder from a 3 per cent cut in state jobs during the next biennium.

The pay raise proposed by Hunt is not expected to satisfy the state's school teachers or state employees. The teachers have scheduled a rally in Raleigh Saturday to dramatize their call for a cost-of-living pay hike of 16 to 19 per cent. Spokesmen for state workers also have called for a larger pay raise than Hunt proposed.

Hunt, the highest ranking Democrat in state government, also called for the state to pay for increased hospitalization and retirement costs for teachers and state workers. He said this would amount to a raise of about half of one per cent.

Hunt urged the chairmen of the legislature's finance committees to make the change in the withholding payments by large corporations the number one priority of the finance committees in the coming session of the General Assembly.

Seek Plant Sites

The Pitt County Development Commission is looking for potential industrial sites and buildings.

Commission chairman Jack Lewis Jr. said there is a need for industrial building space in Pitt County. "Our offices are continuing to receive requests for space from 15,000 to 50,000 square feet. If we had such space, well located and with nominal arrangements for utilities, we could attract many more prospects to our area," he said.

Lewis said Development Commission executive director Reese Hart has catalogued about 50 to 60 prime industrial sites in the county. "This is far short of the number we actually need. We need in excess of 100 good sites if we are going to continue doing the job we must do for our county."

According to Lewis, "good sites with highway frontage, access to rail, to utilities, and with adequate drainage, would increase our potential for contacts with industrial prospects. In particular, property close to the Tar River has been of great interest to prospects lately."

Lewis asked that anyone having property or possibly an existing structure that could be used as an industrial site contact Hart at Post Office Box 755, Greenville or call 758-1989.

Handicapped Tar Heel Wins National Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is to present the "President's Trophy" to a 48-year-old Winston-Salem, N.C., man who despite nearly total disability has become an author and businessman and still wants to get married.

The award will be presented Thursday to Forest W. "Bill" Kiser at the annual meeting of the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped.

Kiser was afflicted with cerebral palsy when he was a week old. He is confined to a wheelchair with limited spastic motion in one hand and one leg. A serious speech impediment prevents his communicating with most people.

Despite his handicap, Kiser wrote his autobiography, "New Light of Hope," at the agonizing rate of 100 words an hour, runs his own business, the Bill Kiser News Service Inc., and writes radio scripts, news stories and feature articles. He lives alone and cares for himself in a specially designed apartment.

Now, he says, he's ready for marriage. He has broken the barriers and shown his independence. He says he believes he has something meaningful to offer and hopes he will find someone to share his life.

His life has been difficult. While in his mid 20s, experimental surgery failed, making his condition worse. Both his parents had died several years earlier and he was alone and helpless after the surgery.

In his book he describes his feelings then: "So a little less than a year after leaving home for the brain surgery that I had pictured in my mind as making me well, or at least giving me a fighting chance at my vision of a good life, I found myself completely helpless physically, and classed as emotionally sick, if not mentally ill."

"I hated and mistrusted everyone who was trying to help me, and my lifelong religious background seemed to be of no value to me, for I could not believe in a loving God who would let such a thing happen. The doctors could not help me, but their ethics forced them to keep me alive, which I did not understand or appreciate. Now I was to be put in a nursing home, where I might exist in some form of human decay for an indefinite number of years."

Because he saw no hope, he attempted suicide several times while in the nursing home. But, then he had a religious experience he calls a "new light of hope." He wrote: "I cannot deny that an inexplicable force entered my life and body, defying all medical predictions...which helped me regain emotional control and the desire to live. As naive as it may sound to others, and even to me at times, I will always call this force God..."

HOUSE BURNED

My daughter's house burned last Tuesday a week ago. She has four children and really needs clothes for them all and some household goods. She and the children are living now part of the time with me and partly with her mother-in-law. Her name is Hilda Williams. The house was in Ayden, H.C.

Hotline learned from Mrs. Helen Collins, who called in this item that her daughter would wear a size 18 or 20. The children's names and sizes are as follows: Melvin, size 10; Tonya (a girl), size six; Paul and Tyrone, both size 5. Anyone who has any appropriate clothing or household items to give Mrs. Williams and her children may contact Mrs. Collins at 746-3452 during the days or at 746-4573 in the evenings. Her street address is 216 E. First Street, Ayden, N. C. 28513.

Ford Lambasts Humphrey Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, who has been predicting the Democrats will nominate Sen. Hubert Humphrey for president this year, today lambasted a key Humphrey jobs bill as "dangerously deceptive" and an "election-year boondoggle."

Ford, in a speech prepared for the 64th annual convention of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, also vowed to check the increase in government spending "if it takes all summer and more and more vetoes."

He singled out a bill co-sponsored by Humphrey and Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., which would set a national target of 3 per cent unemployment within four years and guarantee jobs — government jobs if necessary — to all adults willing to work.

The bill has been embraced by many leading Democrats. Ford said it is one that "I am against."

Humphrey, from Minnesota, is willing to run as the Democrat's presidential candidate, but has declined to campaign for the nomination.

In his speech, Ford called the Humphrey-Hawkins bill a "vast election-year boondoggle" and said the measure would "get the federal government deeper and deeper into social and economic planning on a national scale unprecedented in all our history."

Citing recent encouraging economic statistics, Ford told the audience that in the past year, his administration had turned around the worst recession in 40 years. "We are assembled this spring in the full surge of recovery."

Now, Ford said "we face a tougher test"—that of sustaining the economic recovery and insuring stable growth without starting another cycle of inflationary boom that could lead to another recession.

Hobbies Have Become A $1.5 Billion Industry In America

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Mark Blair of Alexandria, Va. makes dulcimers in his spare time at home. In his fulltime job he is a photographer with the architect's office of the United States Capital Building.

Former hospital dietitian Elinore Bly of Ithaca, N.Y. is a knitter and needlepointer. She also is a charter member of the New York State Craftsman, Inc. which sponsored the recent 4th International Craft Show and Fair in New York City.

In Shawnee Mission, Kan., modelmaker David L. Osment's sideline is crafting landscaping for hobbies, especially model railroading. In his regular job, he makes models for architectural, industrial and engineering firms.

The three are typical of the millions of Americans who have made hobbies a $1.5 billion industry.

The hobby industry has almost doubled in dollar volume the past 10 years, says Walter Caddell, executive director of the Hobby Industry Association of America, Inc., in New York City. He estimates last year's retail sales at $1.35 billion, compared with $1.215 in 1974. Projected sales volume for 1976 is $1.5 billion.

Caddell and others in the industry say it is impossible to identify the most popular hobbies. It's difficult for researchers to count how many persons are involved in a particular hobby since many don't join clubs or buy manufactured materials or supplies at a store.

And how do you do count the hobbyist who has, say, three or four hobbies instead of one?

What Blair, the Blys and Osment have in common is commitment to the leading money-earner in the hobby industry — crafts.

The soft-spoken Blair said he first learned about dulcimers when the choir director of his church asked him to help the children's choir build some of these unusual wire-stringed instruments.

Soon he was making them himself from native American woods such as wormy chestnut, walnut and cherry. His wife learned to play the dulcimer and now teaches private students.

Many hobbyists also are manufacturers of materials or kits or collectibles. Only 16 manufacturers are publicly-owned corporations whose stock is traded on exchanges and by the over-the-counter market. Small to medium size companies make up about 60 per cent of the industry.

Some were founded by people who turned their hobbies into profitable multimillion dollar operations.

In the Los Angeles suburb of Rosemead, Mrs. Williams, a former schoolteacher, and her husband, Jack, make kits, materials and instruction booklets to sell through wholesalers.

Mrs. Williams, 62, said she wanted to give up teaching when her family came along about 30 years ago, "but there was such a demand for instruction sheets, I started printing some up and putting them in local stores. The first thing I knew, I was in a local business."

"I've watched (the business) grow from nothing to $100 a month to $1,000 a month, to now, when we're doing several million a year."

The company bears her maiden name, Hazel Pearson Handicrafts, but Mrs. Williams said no bank would take her seriously when she first tried to borrow money. Only when her husband gave up his interior decorating job to join her did money become easier to obtain, she said.

A wholesale arts and crafts business in the Philadelphia suburb of Glen Riddle was founded by a woman whose hobby was decoupage, decorating with applied paper cutouts. Her husband gave up a successful career in engineering to work with her.

In Cambridge, Mass., a fine arts major and freelance animation artist teamed up with her boy friend, an anthropology teacher, to found and operate a wholesale and retail bead business.

Often hobby industry companies are founded by crafts teachers such as Barbara Maddox and Hazel Pearson Williams.

Mrs. Maddox's Quill Art company is in a suburban St. Louis shopping center.

"I was teaching some other things in a craft store when I happened on quilling," she said. "Someone had left a paper inside a book with instructions, but the people who put out the instructions had gone out of business. I had to make up my own designs."

She also taught quilling at a craft store and wrote a book about it.

"While trying to market the book I found a demand for materials and instructions, so one thing led to another, and I opened a store (in 1972)."

Quilling, or filigree work done with paper, was popular in colonial America, and in English churches and religious houses from the 15th century until the Reformation.

Officers Named By Chapter At Thursday Meet

The Alpha Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha held its April meeting Thursday evening at the home of Nellie Taylor. President Barbara Woods presided over the business meeting.

The slate of officers for the 1976-77 year was presented and approved. New officers are: Louise Spain, president; Barbara Zicherman, vice president; Hazel Lovett, secretary; and Shirley Westbrook, treasurer.

The chapter by-laws were also discussed and approved at its meeting.

Items to be voted on at ESA State Convention at Winston-Salem in May were read and discussed by the chapter. President Woods and Shirley Westbrook will represent the chapter at the convention. It was also approved during the meeting, that the chapter support the State Finance Project.

The chapter held an Easter party April 15 for the special adult group which meets at the Adapt Center. Easter favors were distributed and refreshments were served. The chapter also contributed groceries to a needy family during Easter. The chapter will contribute $20 in groceries to a needy person in Greenville and also $25 to Operation Sunshine to be used to help send a child to camp this summer.

Social Chairman Louise Spain announced plans for a cookout to be held for members and their husbands on May 7 at the home of Hubert and Shirley Westbrook.

The meeting adjourned with a report by Educational Director Hazel Lovett on the life of Amelia Earhart.

Club Members Hear Speaker

Gordon Edwards was keynote speaker at the dinner meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Club held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Curtis Howell.

Edwards is crime prevention officer and deputy sheriff with the Pitt County Sheriff's Department. He spoke on the National Neighbor Watch program and urged club members to get involved to aid in better law enforcement.

Edwards concluded his program by showing a film entitled "A Special Kind of Guy."

Mrs. Howell, president, conducted the meeting which included reports on Operation Sunshine and the recent Optimist Club sponsored Boat Show.

Woman Irked By Beau's Nosy Habits

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me, and I would like your opinion and the opinion of others who have dealt with this problem.

Is it considered proper to smell food that is served to you before eating it?

I am seriously considering marrying a man who does this, and I find it extremely irritating and embarrassing. He smells the food in the finest restaurants, at the homes of friends and even at my home. It's not just a quick sniff—he puts his nose right down near the food and smells it thoroughly!

We are both in our late 50s and have been married before. Outside of this one fault, he is intelligent, charming and delightful company. But I'm not sure I could sit down for three meals a day with a man who has this disgusting habit. Or am I too picky?

PICKY ME

DEAR PICKY: Diplomatically tell the gentleman that his habit bothers you and suggest that he be less obvious about it. Don't insist that he drop the habit unless you want to drop HIM. Old habits die hard.

DEAR ABBY: Dad and us kids want to get Mom a "mother's bracelet" for Mother's Day. It will have a charm with each of her children's name and birth date engraved on it.

Last year my oldest brother died, and I wonder if we should include his name and birth date. He was a very important part of our family, even though he was mentally retarded.

Do you think it would make Mom sad to have his charm on her bracelet? We don't want to make her unhappy, but we don't want her to think we have forgotten him. Thank you.

MOM'S KIDS

DEAR KIDS: Include a charm for your oldest brother. I think your mom would appreciate it. You are very loving and thoughtful children to consider it.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I disagree on something and hope you can settle it.

Is it all right to tell a hostess to please put the dogs and cats out of sight during dinner?

The situation is as follows: My wife's mother has two dogs and three cats who have the run of the house. I don't mind pets if they are clean-looking and don't stay under my feet all the time. My mother-in-law's pets are always on her lap. She feeds them while she eats and serves others, which spoils my appetite.

Also, one dog is part St. Bernard, and he drools and slobbers all the time, which also isn't very appetizing. Plus the cats seem to have chronic eczema, and their visible sores turn my stomach.

My wife says Mom's pets are like her "children," and as guests, we should look the other way and not say anything. I say, I should politely ask Mom to please put the pets in another room while we're eating.

What do you say?

WEAK STOMACH

DEAR WEAK: If your description of the pets is accurate, I'm with you all the way!

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a baby who is learning to feed himself. I am almost positive that Terry is left-handed because when I put the spoon in his right hand, he transfers it to his left and proceeds eating that way.

My husband says I should train Terry to be right-handed because everything is geared for right-handed people and the boy will be handicapped if he's left-handed. Now my husband is forcing Terry to eat with his right hand.

What do your experts say?

YOUNG MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: My experts say to let the child eat with whichever hand he wants to. To force Terry to use his right hand when he is naturally left-handed could create many more problems that it solves.

Besides, what's the difference which hand he eats with? His mouth is in the middle.

Fresh Corn Pudding Is Southern Favorite

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

In springtime, when fresh corn from Florida is in markets all over the country, a cook's fancy may turn to that Southern favorite — fresh corn pudding.

But what recipe to use? I had to try a good many before I worked out one I could love. My dream of perfection: juicy corn kernels snuggling in custard that doesn't weep, each portion of the pudding intact when cut and served. The formula I finally settled on includes a binder: I chose cornstarch because of its kinship to corn. I tried the same recipe with and without the binder and compared results. Take it from me, the binder greatly helps the texture of the pudding.

In the following recipe the addition of onion and green pepper cooked gently in butter makes for unusually good flavor. The directions for baking in a water bath are precise because this, as well as the binder, is important in producing a fresh corn pudding that is first-rate. Using a shallow rectangular baking dish rather than a deep casserole allows the pudding to be cut easily and offered in neat, attractive portions.

If you want to have this corn pudding as the main course for a company lunch, you'll find it tastes delicious and looks colorful accompanied by broiled or baked tomatoes and a green vegetable such as asparagus or broccoli. If the pudding itself is to be an accompaniment, it complements chicken or turkey, ham or fresh pork, beef or lamb, fish.

By the way, in our test kitchen there were a few portions of the pudding leftover; we found they reheated beautifully in several minutes in our portable microwave oven.

FRESH CORN PUDDING
4 to 5 ears fresh corn, husked
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup finely diced onion
1/4 cup finely diced green pepper
1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch

2 teaspoons sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1-16th teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
3 eggs, slightly beaten
Cut corn kernels from cobs; with the back of a knife, scrape cobs to release any pulp; measure 2 and 2-3rds cups without packing down.

In a small skillet over low heat melt the butter; add the onion and green pepper; cook gently, stirring often, until wilted.

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the cornstarch, sugar, salt and pepper; stir in a few tablespoons of the milk until smooth. Stir in the remaining milk and then the eggs until combined. Stir in the corn and onion mixture.

Turn into a buttered 1 1/2-quart oblong glass baking dish (10 by 6 by 1 1/4 inches). Place in a 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan. Pour enough hot water into the pan to come up as high as the corn mixture. Bake in a preheated 300-degree oven until a knife inserted in center comes out clean — about 1 hour. Remove from oven and let stand 10 minutes before cutting and serving. Makes 6 servings.

Bloody Trail Is Left By Ex-Con

FORECAST

Until Tuesday

WEATHER FORECAST—A band of rain is forecast today to span the Rockies to the Gulf coast with rain also in northern New England.

Showers are due in southern Florida and in the southwest with snow flurries in the northwestern Rockies. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
North Carolina has had week-end rain, but not enough to ease the threat of forest fires.

It also was windy, and rangers didn't like that.

Highs today ranged from the 50s in the mountains to the 70s in coastal areas. Scattered frost is indicated in the mountains tonight.

Winds on the coast were west to southwest 15 to 25 miles an hour today. They were 20 to 30 miles an hour on the Outer Banks. Small-craft advisories were in effect for the sounds and coastal waters.

A cold front trailing out of low pressure in the Great Lakes moved through the state Sunday afternoon and early today. But only widely scattered showers and thundershowers fell from it.

Jacksonville had one-tenth of an inch of rain and Elizabeth City two-thirds of an inch.

High temperatures Sunday were in the 70s to low 80s, about 10 degrees cooler than Saturday. The highest reading was 85 at Wilmington.

Lows tonight will drop into the 20s in the mountains and the 30s and 40s over the rest of the state.

It will be sunny Tuesday, but high temperatures will only be in the 50s and 60s.

LWV Plans Dinner Meet

The Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters (LWV) will hold its seventh annual dinner meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church Parish Hall.

Dan E. McDonald, assistant director, Division of Resource Planning and Evaluation of the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources, will be the speaker. He will discuss the N. C. water resources planning program, including the plans being formulated for the Neuse River Basin.

McDonald, an N. C. State University School of Civil Engineering graduate and a 20-year veteran of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, has been a member of the N. C. Department of Water Resources staff since 1966.

The business meeting following McDonald's presentation will include the election a 1976-'78 Board of Directors and the probable approval of the 1976-77 budget.

Alyce Heath On Neuse Staff

Alyce Reed Heath, a Greenville native, has joined the staff of Neuse River Council of Governments in New Bern as manpower evaluator.

Ms. Heath will have the responsibility of monitoring and evaluating a $2.5 million regional manpower program involving an eight county area.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Reed of Greenville, she attended North Carolina Central University in Durham and Southern Connecticut State College.

Prior to joining the staff at Neuse River, she was employed by the N. C. Employment Security Commission and the Connecticut Labor Dept.

March Against Bond Revocation

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP)—A march and rally in support of a white minister's wife accused of murder in the slaying of a black was staged by about 650 whites Sunday.

The marchers protested the revocation of bond for Mrs. Sandra Dupree, 34, who is accused of slaying Harry Lee Dickens. Dickens was shot at his home March 11 and died four days later of a bullet wound in the head.

After being arrested for the incident, Mrs. Dupree was released on $10,000 bond. Her release angered many blacks who claimed favoritism was being shown because she is white. Blacks have paraded weekly protesting. Last week, her bond was revoked and she was jailed. A hearing is scheduled in Nashville Tuesday to determine whether a new bond may be set.

The white march Sunday started at the Free Will Baptist Church where Mrs. Dupree's husband, the Rev. Harvey Dupree, is pastor. The march attracted members of Free Will congregations elsewhere who arrived in four buses and many cars. The marchers paraded up and down Main Street, before gathering at the post office parking lot for a rally.

During the march about 150 blacks, standing near where the whites turned around, chanted slogans and heckled the marchers. Some chanted, "She ain't going nowhere, hey." No confrontation occurred.

The marchers sang hymns and carried placards, some from the scriptures, and some saying, "Joan Little got bond, why not Sandra?" The reference was to the celebrated murder case last summer in which the black defendant was released on $115,000 bond.

Represent ECU At Math Meet

East Carolina University's Department of Mathematics was represented by two faculty members at the recent 73rd annual meeting of the N.C. Academy of Science in Wilmington.

Attending the meeting were mathematics faculty members Mildred Derrick and Dr. Lokenath Debnath. Dr. Debnath presented a report of his research concerning the flow of ocean currents.

Mrs. Derrick's daughter, Dr. Elizabeth Derrick, also reported on her research to the Academy's chemistry section. Now chairperson of the Davidson County Community College Department of Chemistry, Dr. Derrick is an ECU alumna. Her father is ECU Professor emeritus J.O. Derrick of Greenville.

Two Wrecks On Sunday

Two Sunday collisions resulted in an estimated $1,400 property damage according to Greenville Police investigators.

Officer reported the heaviest damage resulted from a 1:54 a.m. mishap on Elm Street involving a car driven by Paula Frances Alsap of 212 North Elm St. and a parked car owned by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Police, who made no charges, estimated damage at $500 to each of the two vehicles.

An estimated $200 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 3 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Greene Streets.

Drivers of the vehicles involved were identified by investigators as Fred George Mansell of 406 East Gun Rd. and Homer Alonzo Strickland of Route 6, Greenville.

Strickland was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of the collision.

St. Gabriel's PTA Meeting

St. Gabriel's School will have its final PTA meeting of the school year tonight at 8 o'clock.

All parents and patrons are urged to attend, says President Roosevelt Roberson.

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — As he forged a bloody trail through Georgia and Florida, an ex-convict snorted cocaine and bragged about his shooting and kidnap rampage that left three dead and 13 wounded. He ended the saga by killing himself, authorities say.

"When he talked about all those people being dead, he would laugh about it," said Susie Critton, a hostage who escaped unharmed. "He was smiling about it like he was glad. He had no regrets. He just kept talking and sniffing the cocaine."

Moses Pearson Jr., 31, apparently was angry at being cheated in a cocaine deal when he started the crime spree in his hometown of Jacksonville, Fla., on Saturday night, authorities said. He left two men dead there and six wounded.

Then he fled north into Georgia, killing a third man and wounding seven others. Along the way, he abducted six women who escaped unharmed — three who drove him into Georgia and a Bay Village, Ohio, woman and her two teenage daughters, abducted on a Georgia highway.

Pearson began his rampage with three shootings within a 30-minute span in north Jacksonville, police spokesman Mike Gould said. At all three locations he demanded money.

"Robbery was at least a partial motive, but we feel there's a strong possibility of a drug tie-in in all those cases. Either he was ripped off or had been ripped off in the past," Gould said. "We know he had an argument with some of these people."

Gould said Pearson shot and killed Horace Fallen, the manager of a used car lot, in Fallen's office. Two others there were wounded. Gould said investigators believe a cocaine deal was the source of "bad blood" between Pearson and Fallen.

As authorities reconstructed Pearson's wild odyssey, he then went to a roadside wig shop where he shot and killed the manager, George Quarles, 52, who had sworn out warrants for Pearson after a robbery at the shop last week.

After wounding three persons at the nearby home of a woman who worked in the wig shop, authorities said, Pearson abandoned his car at a drive-in liquor store and abducted Mrs. Critton and Anita Cockfield, 22, and her sister Sharon, 18.

Pearson forced the women to drive him to a wooded area where he picked up a suitcase filled with money, two other guns and a change of clothes. Then they drove north to Georgia.

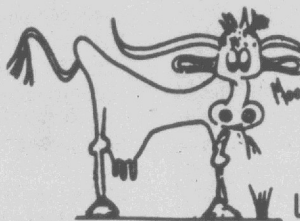

At a truck stop in Cordele, Ga., 170 miles north of Jacksonville, the four went inside for coffee, Mrs. Critton said. When Pearson allowed Sharon Cockfield to go to the bathroom, she managed to tell a waitress about the abduction.

When police arrived, Pearson wounded two deputies and two bystanders. The sisters escaped, but Pearson kept Mrs. Critton as he sped away.

Approve Med School Planning

Liaison Committee on Medical Education staff consultants have documented much progress in the ECU Medical School development in their written report following a March 1-2 visit.

The consultants found that the over-all administrative structure "seems adequately planned."

They found that planning and construction of physical facilities "is progressing in good order. So, too is the planning of the definitive construction, which will accommodate a class of 100."

"The new Pitt County Memorial Hospital seems well designed and a good affiliation agreement has been concluded," the consultants said, although it was deemed imperative that full support of the physician staff be obtained.

The consultants also called for affiliation agreements with other hospitals in the area, saying that the number of beds in the Pitt Memorial might be marginal even for the initial entering class.

They urged approval for establishment of a small number of graduate programs in basic sciences in connection with the Medical School program.

Concerning residency programs, they said, "The steps that have been taken for the establishment of a residency in family practice are commendable. These should be followed in short order by the development of additional residencies, especially in medicine and pediatrics.

The consultants saw as imperative the recruiting of chairmen in family practice, medicine and surgery and basic science faculty.

The taxpayers of North Carolina can be pleased by the report which resulted from this advisory in early March. It gives we laymen a measurement done by professionals of the progress which has been made by those charged with developing the school of medicine at ECU. And it is obvious from the report that considerable progress had been made at the time of the visit.

Since the visit 11 new faculty members have accepted positions with the medical school and the UNC board of governors had included in its planning the graduate programs which the consultants recommend.

Negotiations are also continuing for affiliation agreements with area hospitals.

The documented progress that had been made at the time of the visit and the further developments since that time is impressive. Certainly there is every reason to be pleased with the strong administrative leadership that is developing the ECU School of Medicine.

Only Wish They'd Get The Name Right

The Buncombe County Medical Society has gone on record by resolution as calling for "reallocation by State Government of funds set aside" for the ECU medical school.

We aren't really concerned about the Buncombe County Medical Society's opposition to the medical school. There is, after all, nothing new in that.

We do, however, wish they'd get the name right.

ECU is identified five times in the Buncombe resolution as "Eastern Carolina University."

Student Loan Plan Talked

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Should North Carolina taxpayers continue to pay a large part of the rising cost of a college degree at a time when money is tight—and large numbers of students don't seem to appreciate the investment?

At least one member of the General Assembly thinks not, and is studying the idea of a student loan plan.

The nut of the proposition as described by State Rep. Mary C. Nesbitt, D-Buncombe, is this:

State-owned colleges and universities would sharply increase tuition and fee charges, for in-state students. The General Assembly would slash the direct General Fund appropriation of tax dollars to the colleges and universities, proportionately.

Must Repay

Students who wish to go to college would have available to them a state fund from which a long-term loan at little or no interest would be available, to be repaid after graduation when income is produced.

Students could draw on that loan fund whether they go to a public or private college or university. Mrs. Nesbitt thinks, thereby helping to more fully use available space and facilities.

There are presently some 170,000 students in higher education in the state. The average cost of tuition and fees to students at state schools is $500 per year, for in-state students. The average cost at a senior private institution is $1,874; and at a private junior college, $1,346.

The taxpayer, effectively, makes up the big difference between public and private, with each student, on average, subsidized by about $2,000 in state funds yearly. Some state subsidy flows even into private colleges, with highest being some $5,000 yearly for medical students at the private Bowman Gray or Duke facilities.

The loan fund would be handled either through a branch of the Treasurer's office, or a state bank which could be established to handle that and other state funds, Mrs. Nesbitt believes.

"Our educational system has grown to the point that now we are attempting to educate everybody, even adults. Our first responsibility is to our children in elementary and secondary schools," says the former president of the state's Classroom Teachers Association. She feels dollars are being spent on higher education which ought to be spent in the public schools.

No Hardship

The plan, Mrs. Nesbitt says, would work no hardship on the colleges which would still be funded at the same level and with the same dollar flow and stability. The difference would be the source—from students rather than taxpayers.

An additional benefit which is almost as important as the money to Mrs. Nesbitt would be the expected change in attitudes on college campuses.

The recent student demonstration at North Carolina State University, for example, against faculty efforts to keep the students in class once enrolled, and to take enough courses to graduate would be largely eliminated, Mrs. Nesbitt feels.

"By putting more responsibility on the student, he or she will more fully appreciate the opportunity, and take better advantage of it—and become engaged more seriously in pursuing an education," she thinks.

Further, state college campuses where rules are law, student conduct is questionable, and the atmosphere is one less than that of a learning institution would be prompted to shape up. "In my opinion, nothing would do more to improve the learning environment . . . Only those people who truly want an education to the extent they are willing to pay for it would be there . . . and only the institutions committed to being an institution for learning would survive. We shouldn't continue funding institutions which have no purpose."

Mrs. Nesbitt thinks the increased earning capacity offered by a college degree make the loan worthwhile and repayment a privilege, and that since every child over 18 is an adult, they should assume adult responsibility for their education.

The Taped Announcement

WASHINGTON—It's surprising how much you can learn from the Japanese. A recent item in the Wall Street Journal reveals that the secretary general of Japan's ruling party, Yasuhiro Nakasone, tape-recorded a denial of his involvement with the Lockheed scandal. By calling a number, the dialer would hear Nakasone's cheerful voice saying, "Hello, everybody. This is Yasuhiro Nakasone. I'm sticking to my job, in good spirits managing to hold out despite the enormous amount of work I have to do every day. I should like to repeat I am totally uninvolved in the Lockheed scandal, and I have never received any hush money. I swear this in the name of heaven and earth."

Other Editors Say Bilingual Dispute

(Greensboro Daily News)

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is known, among other things, for its unfortunate tendency to march through policy mine fields where even experts fear to tread. A recent example was HEW's ruling last summer requiring school districts to provide bilingual education for children whose primary language is not English. To many in and out of education, the ruling seemed both excessive and potentially counter-productive for the children's schooling.

Now, in a memo quietly issued earlier this month, HEW has sought to "clarify" any "misunderstandings" the earlier ruling may have created. Those misunderstandings were apparently shared not only by responsible school district officials but by HEW's own commissars. The latest memo asserts that the directive of last summer was meant to provide "guidelines" only and should not be accepted as gospel.

What, precisely, did HEW originally have in mind? Local school officials deciphered the earlier ruling to mean that schools were required to provide non-English speaking children not only special remedial instruction in English—to which no one objects—but also instruction in history, math and other subjects in the students' mother tongue, at least until the students became proficient in English.

The HEW directive was based on a 1974 U.S. Supreme Court decision in a suit brought by Chinese-speaking students in San Francisco. Although the court acknowledged that bilingual instruction was one of the choices available to the local schools, it explicitly shied away from ordering such instruction in San Francisco.

There is ample justification for the court's reluctance. In a similar case recently, a Denver judge wryly noted that education experts disagree so violently over bilingual education that it makes perpetually quarreling psychiatrists seem "almost of a single mind" by comparison. Aside from that, it is logical to question whether providing bilingual instruction helps the students, or whether it merely postpones the day when they must learn English simply to make their way in American society.

That is the principal issue. And HEW, in typical fashion, has applied the bludgeon when just a scalpel will do.

This is certainly an idea whose time has come, and we think American politicians and political figures should take it up. Here are some suggestions.

"Hi, I'm Bo Callaway, and I want you all to know what a raw deal I got from the Republican National Committee because of the unfair allegations concerning my ski resort, Crested Butte, in the most beautiful part of Colorado. When I was secretary of the Army, I made the mistake of having a meeting in my office with the deputy secretary of agriculture, but I swear the ski resort was hardly mentioned in the conversation. I want to say that I have never mixed my public life with my interest in my ski resort which, thanks to the wisdom of the park department, will soon have the finest skiing facilities in the United States. For reservations call this toll-free number . . ."

"Hello, everybody. This is Henry Kissinger. I am in good spirits, managing to hold out despite enormous amounts of work.

Texas Tories Like Jimmy

By ROWLANE EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

AUSTIN, Texas — A telephone call last week pointed up the overriding new political fact of life in Texas: Jimmy Carter is the one candidate who could be the party's first presidential nominee fully backed by this state's Democratic establishment since Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

The call was placed by an influential Texas Tory Democrat to state land commissioner Bob Landis Armstrong, Carter's key man here, and issued this warning: don't let Jimmy get too rough in his May 1 primary battle for delegates with Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, whose once-serious bid for the presidency has degenerated to favorite status. If Carter minds his manners, Armstrong was advised, he will get most of Bentsen's delegates at Madison Square Garden anyway.

Moreover, establishment Democrats here, who earlier this year were gloomily looking to Sen. Hubert Humphrey as the least of many evils, now see Carter as the only Democrat who could carry Texas against President Ford. This suggests Carter as nominee would have full party support in this critical state, in contrast to the abandonment of George McGovern in 1972 and spotty backing for Humphrey in 1968.

Carter arrived in Texas this week for limited campaigning with not the slightest intention of goading Bentsen. He had cut his visit short and eliminated a stop in Dallas, partly to get more time in crucial Pennsylvania and partly because a proposed Dallas fundraiser was flopping. But the widespread misimpression that the schedule was reduced in deference to Bentsen does not hurt Carter's standing with the establishment.

He will do well enough without much campaigning. Bentsen insiders confide that if Carter finishes first in Pennsylvania April 27, he will win more delegates in Texas than Bentsen. Despite Bentsen's pronounced lack of enthusiasm for him, Carter has such support elsewhere within the Texas establishment—including Gov. Dolph Briscoe—he may end up with most of Bentsen's delegates.

This hardly seemed possible at the beginning of 1976 when Bentsen had cornered the state's politicians and labor leaders for a shoot-out with Gov. George C. Wallace in the new, Bentsen-designed Texas primary. Carter's campaign was run by a 21-year-old neophyte and his delegation dominated by white middle-class political nonentities—remnants of the 1972

Strength For Today

TRUE WORTH LIES DEEP

We are told (Matt. 9:9) that as Jesus one day passed the revenue office in Capernaum, "he saw a man, called Matthew, sitting at the place of toll: and he said unto him, 'Follow me.' And he arose, and followed him."

No one was so hated by the Jews as the publican, or tax collector. As people passed Matthew, they saw not a man, but a monster. But Jesus saw the true heart of the man within and rescued him for himself. Matthew was later to become one of the twelve apostles.

It is easy to be deceived by externals, especially in our judgment of people. We see the wickedness, pettiness, passion, greed, and unloveliness in the hearts of those with whom we come in contact. Our lips curl as we prepare to spit out words of criticism and scorn. But very often there is a substratum of true goodness and purity in the people we most despise. It takes the true spirit of Jesus to see through the mask and discern within the heart of a child of God.

Stock Market Action Stalled

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—For at least two months the stock market has moved within only narrow boundaries—between roughly 960 and 1,010 points on the Dow Jones industrial average—and many an investor is getting a bit fidgety.

Investors always feel better when the market is headed in one direction or another, because then the momentum of the market supplies its own forecast of the future. It's the turns that are tough to call.

At the moment you can take your pick of direction, as you always can; and equally so, you can take your pick of forecasts too, as you often can. There seems to be no clear-cut consensus, no conviction, no direction offered.

The nearest thing to a typical forecast is this: over the longterm the market will continue to advance, reaching new highs on the industrial average by the year's end, but in the meantime there will be a correction.

That correction, which is a euphemism for decline, is variously forecast to range from 10 per cent to 20 per cent and to occur in almost any month, probably in May or June.

Note the neatly trimmed hedge: The market will fall, but it will rise.

In the meantime, the market is very much like an ambitious middle-level management man whose career has been stalled. He's convinced he has the goods, but he fears there is too much in life he cannot control.

A person or a market so stalled tends to become neurotic—to look for reasons, to invent them. There must be logical explanation, both manager and investor say. But maybe there isn't.

At the moment you have scores of analysts trying to figure out what the Federal Reserve is up to. Like witch doctors studying a pile of bones, they examine and dissect monetary figures seeking a pattern, a signal, an omen.

It does no good to attempt calming the analysts. It does no good to point out that maybe even the Fed doesn't know what it's going to do. The market needs information, no matter how thin or distorted.

Another big worry is about what the insiders are up to. Studies have shown that a good many corporate executives have been sellers of late. Do they know

Utility Issue Raised

By DAVID R. NELSEN

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—Last week's resignation of Marvin R. Wooten and George T. Clark Jr. from the state Utilities Commission could make utilities a more immediate issue in the gubernatorial race.

In addition, it is likely that a third seat on the seven-member commission will come open. Pending before the Senate is President Ford's nomination of Barbara Simpson to the Federal Power Commission.

If, as predicted by a spokesman, Gov. Jim Holshouser delays naming replacements to save money, whoever is elected governor on Nov. 2 could have the chance to name three commissioners, a large enough piece of the commission to make a dramatic difference.

Under a law passed last year, the commission was authorized to hear cases in panels of three. For example, if a telephone company is seeking higher rates, three members of the commission would hear the evidence then give their recommendations to the full commission which would hand down a decision.

Since the three members who heard all the evidence and had the opportunity to ask questions would have strong influence on the decision, the new appointees are important because they could be the majority on such a panel.

Imagine the next governor being strong on consumer issues and appointing three persons of the Hugh Wells ilk. Wells, who resigned from the panel last year, was lauded by consumer groups as the only commissioner who took the consumer's side.

While on the panel, Wells frequently wrote dissenting opinions. For instance, more than two years ago the commission approved the fuel adjustment clause allowing electric companies to recover excessive fuel costs from customers. The panel let the firms recover 100 per cent of the cost, but Wells disagreed, saying the companies should recover less than 100 per cent so they would have an incentive to be frugal.

While nearly everyone agrees that electricity costs must go up, Wells disagreed on how much. Last spring the commission was concerned because Carolina Power and Light Co.'s rating in the bond market had dropped, meaning the company would pay higher interest on money it borrows.

The bond rating had fallen because CP&L's profits were slightly down. So, the commission reasoned, raise the profits and the ratings will follow. That meant higher prices for CP&L customers.

Wells, again the maverick, took a different view. It was time, he said, for the commission to look for new ways to finance utility expansion. One solution, he said, might be a government program similar to the FHA and VA housing programs that would guarantee repayment of loans to utilities for expansion.

That, Wells said, would keep the interest rate down because the lenders would have lower risks.

Such talk does not sit well with people who run utilities. A government program may McGovern operation, combined with born-again Baptists drawn to politics by co-religionist Carter.

Carter's primary victories were followed March 25 by a Texas breakthrough: endorsement from commissioner Armstrong, a liberal who maintains good relations with the establishment. Armstrong promptly gave Carter a small, select list of Texans to telephone.

The call that paid off was one to former House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., who soon after also endorsed Carter. It is widely thought he would not have without concurrence of his father—State Supreme Court Justice Price Daniel Sr., former governor of Texas and U.S. Senator—who was also on Carter's call list.

The Daniels are not Carter's only link to the Democratic establishment. Gov. Briscoe, who voted for Wallace at the 1972 Miami Beach convention, says a Democrat cannot be elected President without carrying Texas and Carter is the one Democrat who can do it. Significantly, Carter unsuccessfully backed Briscoe for 1974 chairman of the Southern Governors Conference against Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida. Lt. Gov. William Hobby has been a Carter admirer ever since visiting Atlanta in 1971 to observe his administrative reforms as governor of Georgia.

Clearly, the establishment sees a winner in Carter, a view buttressed by private Texas polls showing him 2-to-1 against Bentsen (with a huge undecided vote). Politicians agree that hard-core support for Carter, who on his last Texas visit a year ago preached a sermon in a Baptist church, comes from the evangelical movement. "I don't really know what a born-again Christian is," one old-line politician told us, "but I do know for the first time they have political clout."

Carter's leftward movement and full employment does not worry Tory Democrats. They believe Carter will avoid the left-wing stigma—which demolished McGovern and nearly defeated Humphrey here in past presidential elections—by his opposition to breaking up giant oil conglomerates, his religiosity and, mostly, his Southern accent. How can Texans be made to think a good old country boy like Jimmy is some dangerous radical? To make sure, he is keeping arm's length from super-liberal Billie Carr, who leads an uncommitted delegate slate but is making pro-Carter noises.

State agriculture commissioner John White, who has manfully labored for such lost causes in Texas as Adlai E. Stevenson and George McGovern, is still pushing the Bentsen slate. White argues that the Charter slate, deficient in blacks and labor leaders, would insure Republican victory in Texas—a proposition of dubious logic. Logical or not, White is having trouble selling it to voters.

However many Bentsen delegates are elected May 1, White will try to deliver them to Humphrey but recognizes Carter's deepening inroads among his colleagues. In what seemed one of his weakest states as the year began, Carter today is bidding for his most prestigious establishment support anywhere.

as secretary of state as long as I want to, and Rogers Morton can go fly a kite. I would also like to say that I never said to anyone that we're No. 2 to the Soviets. I categorically deny anything that I have been quoted as saying in the past five years. Everything is going very well in our foreign relations, and I'm happy to say that if I go down in history as the best secretary of state the United States ever had, it's only because I planned it that way. Thank you for calling. If you have anything to say my secretary is listening on the other line."

I have a lot of friends, and I don't ask them what they do for a living. All I'm trying to do is make people happy. The (blips) in the press and the (blips) in the Justice Department are out to get me because I say what is on my mind. My only answer to them is (blip) 'em."

"Hi, I'm David Eisenhower, and I'd just like to say I never said my father-in-law was bonkers as purported in the Woodward-Bernstein book. He also never talked to paintings in the White House. Some of the pictures may have talked to him, but not once, as far as I know, did he answer back. Dad was in control to the very end, and the only time I saw him depressed was when, during the House impeachment hearings, Gen. Al Haig told him he couldn't go to China.

"Hello, I'm Mayor Beame. The following people will be laid off this morning. Two thousand policemen, 2,000 firemen, 2,000 garbage men, 3,000 teachers and all hospital employees except for two surgeons and one parking attendant. Now for the bad news. Because of further reductions in the budget, the telephone company is cutting off this recorded announcement and... CUT"

"My fellow Americans, this is the first time I have been able to address you from San Clemente. I would like to play for you at this time the tape that proves that I was innocent of any wrongdoing. Although it might sound a little garbled, I am sure if you listen closely you will see that I had nothing to do with the Watergate coverup. When you hear a dial tone, you will know the tape has started. It will play for 18½ minutes. When you hear the second dial tone, you will know the tape has reached the end. Do not hang up if you hear nothing. I assure you the tape will be running."

Service Station Break-In Probed

Greenville police are investigating a break-in reported at 12:42 a.m. today at Curtis McCormick's Exxon Station at the intersection of U.S. 264 and N.C. 11.

Chief Glenn Cannon said entrance to the service station was gained through a rear window. Eight tires and a quantity of tools were reported taken from the building.

mean lower rates, but it may also mean more government involvement in utilities, which the companies want to avoid.

There are some important issues the commission must face in the near future. If the panel takes a Hugh Wells turn, it could make a difference, though consumers can't expect any price cuts.

Peak load pricing and time of day metering are almost certain to be in effect eventually. How such programs are instituted and run will be important.

Demands that the poor and the elderly begin a break on utility costs are increasing. The commission has taken no action but the issue will not go away if it is ignored.

Sometime next year, the commission will review the policy of exempting the blind from the new director assistance telephone charge. The present commission allowed the exemption only under great pressure but the new appointees could change that philosophy.

Of course, there will still be requests for higher rates, special charges, new charges and so on. Like before, the requests will come in. But what comes out will eventually be determined by who is elected governor because by the time he leaves office in 1981, the commission will be dominated by his appointees.

With the resignation of Wooten, the only commissioner who wasn't named by Holshouser is Ben Roney and his term is nearing an end.

Expect Record Broiler Output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broiler chicken production may be headed for a new record this year if the current recent pace is maintained, according to the Agriculture Department.

In March, hatcheries turned out 309.1 million broiler-type chicks, up 11 per cent from 278.1 million hatched in March of last year. Last month's hatch also was the largest on record, up from 303 million produced in May 1972, according to a USDA spokesman.

Broiler production totaled about 2.9 billion birds in 1975, down 2 per cent from 1974. The record was nearly 3.27 billion broilers in 1972.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina hog market was steady today. Wilson 47.00-48.00; High Falls 46.00-47.00; Rocky Mount 48.00-48.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden, Laurinburg, Benson, 48.50; Kinston 47.50-48.50; Tarboro and Bethel unreported; Salisbury 47.00.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—The trend on the North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady today, with supplies adequate, demand moderate, weights desirable. The North Carolina dock weighted average price is 40.38 cents per pound this week for small purchases of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,153,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined further today, reflecting fears of a tighter money supply and higher interest rates.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 4.41 to 996.30, about a point better than its opening levels. Losers topped gainers by nearly a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers reported a spillover of concern evident late last week that the Federal Reserve bank may have tightened its credit policies a notch in response to a recent rapid rise in the nation's money supply.

Some stock traders apparently are drawing the conclusion that such a move could result in a new rise in key interest rates, a development that often spells declining stock prices.

More technically-minded analysts say the market is undergoing a simple pullback from the Dow 1,000 level, which they point out has proved a difficult plateau to exceed this year.

Among blue chip losers, General Electric fell a point to 54, and Eastman Kodak was up 1/4 at 111, both in heavy trading. Kodak over the weekend reported a 23 per cent gain in first quarter profits.

The NYSE's composite stock index declined 0.20 to 54.27, while the American Exchange's market value index added 0.06 at 103.15.

Will Build Prototype

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—A prototype power plant for production of electric power by the clean consumption of high-sulfur coal will be built here.

Construction is scheduled to begin in June with completion expected by July, 1977, according to the Energy Research and Development Administration. The Department of Housing and Urban Development is joining ERDA in sponsorship of the pilot program.

The plant will use the fluidized method of combustion which has been used about 20 years for oil processing and industrial waste incineration, officials said.

But Oak Ridge National Laboratory engineers, who have conducted preliminary research for the pilot plant, said it will be the first know application of the fluidized bed with a closed-cycle gas turbine to produce power.

The ORNL engineers say they hope to show the new coal-burning system will make it both environmentally acceptable and economical to produce power by burning high-sulfur coal.

About two-thirds of the nation's coal reserves contain a high sulfur percentage which require costly processing to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions.

ERDA said information obtained from operation of the prototype will be shared with commercial manufacturers.

Climber Falls, Breaks Back

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — Rocky Matthews, 20, of Gastonia, suffered a broken back when he fell 90 feet down Crowder's Mountain Sunday while mountain climbing.

He was descending with a rope when the rope slipped. He landed on his back, with his feet propped up in a tree.

"He was going along good, getting the feel of the cliff, taking real small steps," said his friend, Tommy Elmore, 22. "Next thing I knew, I saw him falling. He was looking right up at me. I saw his eyes. He seemed to be saying, 'Help me.'"

Matthews, who works for a dye company, was hospitalized in Gastonia after rescuers got him into a wire, basket-type stretcher.

Crowder's Mountain, the highest point in Gaston County, is nearly 900 feet above the ground, and about 1,700 feet above sea level.

Scholars Are Initiated By ECU Honor Society

The East Carolina University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi honor society initiated 227 outstanding junior, senior and graduate students in ceremonies held Thursday, April 15.

They were invited to join the chapter on the basis of superior academic achievement. Junior-level students must have at least a 3.8 academic grade point average; seniors, a 3.5; and graduate students are selected on the basis of recommendation by the faculty.

Some of the newly initiated senior members qualified for membership since the chapter's initiation last spring, and have since graduated from ECU.

Also initiated were faculty member Herman G. Moeller of the ECU Department of Social Work and Correctional Services, and Troy Pate of Goldsboro, ECU alumnus and current chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees.

A reception for new members and their families was given by ECU Chancellor and Mrs. Leo Jenkins at their home following the ceremony.

Phi Kappa Phi's primary objective is to recognize and encourage superior scholarship in all academic fields. Among its nationwide programs are the sponsorship of special scholarships and fellowships, and publication of the quarterly Phi Kappa Phi Journal.

Founded at the University of Maine in 1897, Phi Kappa Phi now has 173 chapters in the U.S. and Puerto Rico.

ECU's new student members include residents of 44 North Carolina counties and 17 other states.

Those from the area initiated include:

GREENE COUNTY: Hookerton—Deborah Cheryl Davis; Snow Hill—Norma Ann Beaman, senior; and George H. Moore, graduate student.

MARTIN COUNTY: Robertsonville—Ellen Manning Heath, senior;

Williamston—Linda Kay Robinson and Debra Leigh Wynn seniors.

PITT COUNTY: Ayden—Robert R. Twilley, graduate student; and Dana L. Webster, Sue Gaskins Edwards and Betty G. Jones, seniors;

Bethel—Charlotte M. Pierce, graduate student;

Farmville—Connie Moore Nanney, senior;

Greenville—Frances Doyle, Thelma Lynne Dadds and Terry Lynn Sinclair, juniors;

Katherine D. Williams, Barbara M. Thurber, Margaret Lewis Stevens, Carl Allan Robin, Brenda Kaye Murray, Susan Tucker Holmes, Mary E. Gidley, Colene E.K. Graham, Robert Levi Carraway and Tony Cates, seniors; and Carol B. Collins, graduate student;

Grifton—Elizabeth Harris Sparrow, senior;

Winterville—Brenda J. Naylor, senior.

Grechko Lost By Politburo

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko died suddenly today, the official Russian news agency Tass announced.

Marshal Grechko was 72 and a member of the ruling, 16-man Politburo of the Soviet Communist party.

The cause of death was not announced, but informed sources said he suffered a heart attack.

Grechko, a tall, barrel-chested veteran of World War II, was the second leading member of the Soviet defense establishment to die within a week. Four days ago, the chief of the Warsaw Pact's armed forces, Soviet Gen. Sergei M. Shtemenko, died in Moscow of cancer.

There was no immediate indication of who would be named defense minister.

Grechko had been head of the giant Soviet military establishment since 1967 and supervised one of the biggest peace-time arsenal buildups in history. He was said to have been the prime organizer of the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 to crush the liberal Communist movement there.

Stole The Show

BIGGEST OVATION OF THE GAME—Outfielder Rick Monday of the Cubs dashes past two men in the Los Angeles Dodger Stadium outfield Sunday, snatching an American flag they appeared ready to burn. The incident happened as the fourth inning of the Cubs-Dodger game was starting. The crowd of 25,167 roared a standing ovation. (AP Wirephoto)

Early Play Was Larry Ziegler's Winning Touch

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A nasty, testing little three-foot putt on the final hole nailed down the victory for Larry Ziegler.

But the happy-go-lucky guy actually won the New Orleans Open with four strokes of the wedge earlier in the week.

"I chipped in four times for the week — twice on Thursday and twice on Saturday," Ziegler said after he'd holed that last tough putt Sunday for a 70 and a one-stroke decision over Victor Regalado.

"That's a difference of maybe eight strokes. That's what won the golf tournament. You can go for two months without chipping in, and then I do it four times in a week. Those four strokes were really the difference."

But those four strokes didn't ease the pressure of the last one.

Ziegler, who'd started the final round with a two-stroke lead, held the advantage throughout the warm, sunny day but saw it cut to a single shot by Regalado's six-foot birdie putt on the 16th hole.

He still led by one when he stood in the middle of the 18th green. Regalado had just finished his regulation, two-putt par and had his 13 under par total safely recorded.

Now Ziegler, a 10-year journeyman, needed to get down in two from 25 feet to score only his third victory.

He lagged up his first putt, and it stopped some three feet short.

"The crowd went, 'ohhhh, ahhhh.' They were telling me something. They were telling me I'd left it short and I was in trouble, but, hell, I knew that," he said.

As he surveyed that tough one "my heart was in overtime," he said. "I just told myself, 'Go ahead and hit it — the worst you can do is miss it.'"

But Ziegler made it, finishing off a 274 total, 14 under par on the 7,080-yard Lakewood Country Club course. Regalado's closing 69 left him one stroke back at 275. British Open champion Tom Watson matched the course record with a 64 that lifted him into third place at 276. Watson, however, started the final round eight shots back and never really got in the title hunt.

Jack Nicklaus shot himself out of it early in the day. He flailed away to a double bogey seven — his third double bogey in nine holes, going back to Saturday's third round — was six shots back and never really recovered.

He finished with a 69 and 278 along with defending champion Billy Casper, Jim Colbert, Lee Elder, Gene Littler and Gibby Gilbert. Gilbert and Littler had closing 68s, Colbert, Casper and Elder 70s.

Finish Almost A 4-Way Tie

TIJUANA, Mex. (AP) — The wire at Agua Caliente race track looked like a merry-go-round with four horses across in the 11th race Sunday.

After the race, practically every better in the crowd thought he had a winner, as four horses crossed the finish line virtually nose-to-nose.

The photo, however, showed that Lelaw and Dramatic Award finished first in a dead heat, with Bibotbob and Ban-chory John also finishing in a dead heat and sharing the show money a nose back.

Ivory Crockett Is Outrun By Upstart Harvey Glance

By GORDON HANSON
AP Sports Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Auburn freshman Harvey Glance wasn't intimidated. World recordholder Ivory Crockett wasn't impressed.

"There wasn't any psyching going on at the start," said Glance, a 19-year-old sprint sensation.

"Crockett came up to me and said, 'Let's go at it, baby.' And I said, 'Okay with me.'"

The brief banter on the rainswept track preceded the Special 100-meter dash at the Drake Relays here Saturday.

Crockett, former Southern Illinois standout now with the Philadelphia Pioneer Track Club, was the first to ever run 100 yards in nine seconds flat.

He's been among America's leading sprinters for seven years. Now comes upstart Glance, perhaps one of America's great finds in this Olympic Games year.

When Glance hit the tape, Crockett was a full stride behind. "I'm not impressed," sniffed Crockett afterward. "I'm still watching Steve Williams and Reggie Jones."

Williams shares the 8world 100-meter record of 9.9. Jones claimed double victories against Russia in 1974, taking the 100 in 10.2 and the 200 at 20.8.

But Crockett might also keep an eye on yet another worldclass sprinter, Florida schoolboy Houston McTear who has a pending 9.0 clocking at 100 yards. If approved, it would tie the veteran's mark.

Glance, who attended Phoenix City, Ala., Central High, was clocked at 10.01 seconds here, breaking the 10.10 mark of 1967 by Charlie Green of Nebraska. Green also has a share of the 9.9 world mark.

Mike Goodrich of East St. Louis, Ill., was second behind Glance (10.27) and Crockett finished third (10.30).

Two weeks ago at the Carolina State Relays, Glance shot to an unofficial 9.9. He says he's also been clocked at 20.1 at 200 meters, where the record is 19.8.

At the recent Florida Relays, Glance ran 100 meters in 10.0, 200 meters at 20.3, and long jumped 24 feet, 5/4 inches. He is also on Auburn's crack 440 and 880 relay teams.

The Olympic trials will be in Eugene, Ore., in June. "They will be tough," Glance conceded. "Nobody knows how they will feel on that day."

Because of the summer Olympics in Montreal, the 67th Drake Relays attracted a record 4,570 entries — many working toward Olympic berths.

Candelaria Blanks Giants 3-0; Don Gullett In Mid-Season Form

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

John Candelaria was in mid-season form. He went a solid nine innings.

Don Gullett was in midseason form, too. He went a solid six, then got the hook.

Candelaria, Pittsburgh's rangy young left-hander, stifled San Francisco on a measly two hits Sunday and — surprising even himself — shut out the Giants 3-0.

Gullett, Cincinnati's strong young left-hander, shut out Montreal for six innings on just five hits, then Manager Sparky Anderson, alias Cap'n Hook, came along and gave the ball to Pat Darcy ... who gave up two more hits in the final three innings of the Reds' 7-0 victory over the Expos.

In Sunday's other National League games, New York beat Houston 4-2, St. Louis stifled San Diego 3-1, Atlanta edged Philadelphia 4-3 and Los Angeles defeated Chicago 5-4 in 10 innings.

Candelaria gave up only one legitimate hit, Willie Montanez' double in the fifth inning. The other was a first-inning fluke, when shortstop Frank Taveras lost Bobby Murcer's pop-up in the sun.

"Montanez hit a good pitch, a fastball inside," Candelaria conceded. And he admitted he didn't expect to be around at the end of the game. "I was surprised I could go nine. The cool weather at Candlestick helped."

The Pirates gave him all the help he needed with six hits and three runs in the fifth inning, starting with Willie Stargell's third homer of the year.

Reds 7, Expos 0
Gullett, in his first start of the year, got the bulk of his support from Johnny Bench and Dave Concepcion, each of whom hit his second homer of the year.

"I wasn't really consistent with my fastball the way I wanted to be," Gullett said. "I had some good pitches, with the exception of a real good fastball. I didn't break a sweat the whole game. I had good location on my pitches. That's what I was happy about, that and some good off-speed stuff."

Mets 4, Astros 2
Houston's Joe Niekro wild-pitched home New York's tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and Ron Hodges singled for another one, then Ken Sanders' who had replaced Mets' starter Jon Matlack in the seventh, made the runs stand up.

Cards 3, Padres 1
Willie Crawford drove in two runs for the Cardinals with a homer and a sacrifice fly, and John Curtis struggled through nine innings by scattering 10 San Diego hits for his first victory of the season.

St. Louis scored in the second when left fielder Johnny Grubb dropped Reggie Smith's fly ball for a three-base error and Crawford hit his fly ball. In the fifth, Crawford homered, Ron Fairly walked Don Kessinger doubled. Mike Ivie homered in the ninth for the Padres.

Braves 3, Phillies 2

Qualifying Round Is Slated At Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — An 18-hole qualifying round was scheduled here today to begin the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

Defending champion Cindy Hill of Colorado Springs, Colo.,

Winner Crossed Line In Sixth

CLEVELAND, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi College's James Trimble crossed the finish line in sixth place in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles, but officials listed him as the winner of the event.

Trimble had a five-yard lead as he cleared the last hurdle in the Gulf South Conference Track and Field Championship event Sunday, but a hairy competitor knocked him down, and nearly out of the race.

Officials said Trimble's competitor, a large black shaggy dog, was disqualified. The dog apparently slipped past the gate-keeper and was dashing across the track when he collided with Trimble.

Trimble struggled to his feet to cross the finish line. Officials credited him with the victory because of the lead he held before the unscheduled interruption.

Pats Announce Exhibitions

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — A six-game exhibition schedule opening Aug. 1 and closing Sept. 5, has been announced for the New England Patriots of the National Football League.

The Patriots will meet the New York Giants at Schaefer Stadium in the preseason opener.

Other home games will be against the Green Bay Packers Aug. 15 and the Philadelphia Eagles Sept. 5. Road games will be Aug. 6 against the San Diego Chargers at a site to be announced, Aug. 21 against the Atlanta Falcons and Aug. 30 against the Cleveland Browns.

Southern Conference Race Near 2-Team Scrap

Oakland A's Talk Retaliation

By MIKE HARRIS
AP Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — Frank Robinson was adamant, Chuck Tanner was innocent and Bert Campaneris was reticent.

The three were talking about a bench-clearing brawl and the incident that incited it in the sixth inning of Oakland's 9-1 victory over Cleveland Sunday.

In the only other American League game Sunday, Minnesota got a three-run homer from Larry Hise and defeated Baltimore 7-2. The Texas-Detroit, Kansas City-New York, Boston-Chicago and California-Milwaukee games were rained out.

Cleveland Manager Robinson referred to Campaneris, the A's' veteran shortstop, when he said, "They can't hide him from us all year."

The incident that sparked that threat of retaliation came with Oakland holding a seven-run lead and just after Cleveland scored its run with no outs in the sixth.

Cleveland third baseman Buddy Bell singled up the middle and Boog Powell followed with a grounder to second baseman Phil Garner. Campaneris took the toss, made his pivot on the base and his throw struck the sliding Bell in the right temple.

The two came up fighting and both benches cleared.

The trouble apparently began brewing the previous inning when Cleveland pitcher Jim Kern hit both Don Baylor and Campaneris with pitches, although Oakland Manager Tanner said, "I don't think they threw at Baylor when he got hit, or at Campy when he got it."

"I know Campy was trying to make the double play when Bell got hit," Tanner added. "He just didn't get down in time."

"I was just trying to make the double play, that's all," Campaneris said quietly. "But I know Robinson ordered him (Kern) to throw at me."

Robinson steamed when told about the statements by Campaneris and Tanner.

"On that play, he threw right down at Buddy," Robinson said. "He had no intention of throwing to first base. Then, to really show what a coward he is, he kicks the guy when he's down."

As for the charge he ordered Kern to throw at Campaneris, Robinson said, "The next time he plays us, he'll know he's been thrown at. If we're gonna intentionally hit someone, we'd hit (Joe) Rudi. He's the guy who's been hurting us."

Mike Torrez, 2-3, scattered five hits in eight innings and Glenn Abbott gave up just one hit in the ninth. Rudi supplied the muscle, hitting his second two-run homer against the Indians in two days.

Twins 7, Orioles 2
Tom Burgemeir, 1-0, relieved

Twins starter Joe Decker in the first after he had walked four Orioles. He shut the door the rest of the way, with the exception of a fourth-inning homer by Doug Decinces that briefly tied the game at 2-2.

"I've never pitched that long ever in the major leagues," Burgemeir said. "But the weather was cool and I didn't throw a whole lot of pitches."

The loser was Baltimore ace Jim Palmer, 3-2, who said, "I just didn't make very good pitches."

By The Associated Press
By the time The Citadel gets around to playing a home game tonight with Davidson's Wildcats, the Southern Conference baseball race could be down to a two-way scrap between the defending champion Bulldogs and Furman's league-leading Paladins.

The Citadel upped its runner-up record to 6-3 Saturday with 4-3 and 6-1 victories over Appalachian State's Mountaineers while Furman, 9-2 in the conference, was going outside for a 5-3 triumph over Mercer.

The Paladins were scheduled to play this afternoon at Appalachian in one of two conference scraps—East Carolina's Pirates were at Richmond to meet the Spiders in the other—and a Furman victory would eliminate the six other teams from contention.

Richmond and East Carolina kept their hopes barely alive Saturday, the Spiders beating William and Mary's Indians 6-3 and the Pirates routing Virginia Military's Keydets twice, 11-1 and 11-0.

That left Richmond at 8-5, East Carolina at 7-5 and William and Mary at 4-5, all three with no better than a chance to tie Furman even if the Paladins lost their last three league encounters.

Out of the running are Davidson, 5-7, a 13-0 winner over Guilford in a nonleague scrap Saturday; Appalachian, 4-7; and VMI, 2-11.

Both VMI and William and Mary were nonleague losers Sunday.

Paul Adams drove in five runs with a homer and double and ran his season RBI total to a school-record 39 and Wayne Shelton sent home four runs as Virginia Tech, 24-5, mauled VMI 17-4.

College Division Madison, 26-8, slammed out 13 hits, including homers by Mike LaCasse and Todd Winterfeldt, and scored six runs in the second inning in whipping William and Mary 12-7.

Richard Wieters not only was the winning pitcher but had three hits and scored a run as The Citadel broke a 2-2 tie in the top of the seventh inning to take its opener at Appalachian. Paul Martin had two hits and drove in two runs in the nightcap for the Bulldogs.

East Carolina got two-hit pitching jobs from Terry Durham and Dean Reavis in its double victory over VMI.

Charlie Stevens, Geoff Beaton and Sonny Wooten homered for ECU in the opener, in which Beaton and Wooten drove in three runs each and Howard McCullough sent home four with three hits. Bobby Supel had two homers and a double and drove in four runs in the nightcap.

Richmond bunched four hits, three walks and two wild pitches for five runs in the fourth inning and held off William and Mary as Renie Martin and David Brooks combined to pitch a six-hitter.

Dressing Room Tirade By Phillies Danny Ozark

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—"Out. The whole bunch of you out. Write the commissioner if you want to. Out."

That was only part of the tirade Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies launched against reporters Sunday after the Phillies lost 3-2 to the Atlanta Braves.

It all started with a seemingly legitimate question. A reporter wanted to know why Dick Allen wasn't used as a ninth inning pinch hitter instead of Jerry Martin.

"You didn't see him (Allen) go up there did you," snapped the manager, obviously riled by the question.

"Allen was unable to play," Ozark said after a moment of silence. "And if I had a reason other than that that you should know I'd tell you."

Ozark then noticed Bus Saidt of the Trenton Times muttering something to Bill Conlin of the Philadelphia Daily News.

"If you have a controversial question, ask it, Bus," Ozark shouted.

hind him.

Second later, the news corps of some 25 filed out of the manager's office into the clubhouse where some players were still dressing. A few headed toward Allen, who was sitting in front of his locker.

Ozark was storming around the clubhouse, kicking the wall, destroying a waste paper basket. When he saw the writers the manager screamed, "All of you, out," and his order was punctuated by words not printable in a family newspaper.

One writer challenged Ozark's right to eject the newsmen from the clubhouse, and the manager shouted the order again. He hurled an invective at the writer, charged him and threatened to punch him.

"Go ahead punch me!" the writer said, standing his ground.

Clubhouse manager Kenny Bush stepped between the shouting antagonists, restraining Ozark from getting at the writer. At that point the writers left the fuming manager.

Bill Giles, the Phillies' executive vice president, appeared surprised when he was asked if there was something wrong with Allen that had Ozark so upset.

"No, Allen hurt his shoulder Friday night sliding," Giles said. "He was unable to lift his right arm very high. Didn't they announce that before the game?"

Yes, they did announce it, but only to the radio and television announcers. It never reached the press box.

Later, newsmen complained to Phillies' owner Ruly Carpenter about Ozark's unseemly conduct.

Carpenter complained that Ozark was being second guessed after every game the club lost.

"Danny is sick and tired of this . . . second guessing and I am too."

With that, Carpenter entered an elevator and as it closed he was heard describing the writers with definitely unflattering words.

Paul Owens, Phillies' personnel director, declined to comment until he had a chance to talk to Ozark.

Meanwhile, back at the game, the Braves posted a 1-0 lead in the first inning off loser Larry Christenson (1-1) with a triple by Rowland Office and Jim Wynn's double.

In the sixth, with Wynn on via a single, Dave May unloaded a home run over the right field fence to make it 3-0. It was May's first hit of the season in 13 at bats.

"It was a high fastball," said May, who the Phillies tried to obtain last winter as a utility outfielder and pinchhitter. "That's my weakness, but you can't get away with it forever."

Rightthander Phil Niekro held the Phillies to one hit through seven innings—a double by Jay Johnstone in the fourth.

But the Phillies caught up with him in the eighth. Garry Maddox started with a single and took second when Wynn fumbled the ball in left field for an error.

Niekro struck out pinchhitter Bobby Tolan, but Tim McCarver, batting for Christenson, lined a triple to right. May fell down or he might have caught the ball that drove in Maddox. Dave Cash's sacrifice fly scored McCarver.

After Larry Bowa beat out a bunt single, Niekro was replaced by reliever Roger Moret. Ollie Brown batted for Johnstone, but Bowa was caught stealing to end the inning.

The Phillies got a leadoff single from Brown in the ninth, but Elias Sosa relieved and retired the side.

Waltrip Takes Virginia 500

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip says his third career Grand National stock car victory—in the 21st annual Virginia 500—"is the kind of show we thought we were gonna put on at Darlington two weeks ago."

But, by contrast to the Rebel 500 at Darlington, S.C., in which he and his Chevrolet lasted only 80 laps, Waltrip was in front for 241 laps Sunday as he coasted to a one-lap triumph over Chevrolet driver Cale Yarborough.

Waltrip, who was in front most of the last half of the race, went ahead for good on the 52nd lap after relinquishing the lead briefly to Yarborough for a pit stop and was pulling away at the finish.

Recalling that he ran into trouble in the last 70 laps of last fall's Old Dominion 500 at the .525-mile Martinsville Speedway, Waltrip said he never thought of easing up even though Yarborough's car was battered from an early-race wreck.

"If you're gonna go out, go out in style, and that's just what I was gonna do," said Waltrip, who averaged 71.759 miles per hour in a $22,500 pay day.

It was a surprise to the crowd of 32,000 that Yarborough even finished, for the rear end of his car was mashed in severely when he was involved in a wreck early in the race.

Yet, at the end, he was the only challenger to Waltrip. Richard Petty, 14-time Martinsville Speedway winner and defending Virginia 500 champion, faded badly after leading for 19 laps.

David Pearson, a Mercury driver who had won four of the five previous events he'd entered but who hadn't competed on a short track this year, overhauled Petty for third place. Ford driver Richard Brooks was fifth.

Transmission troubles knocked pole winner Dave Marcis and his Dodge out of the race, and Grand National point leader Benny Parsons had engine troubles with his Chevrolet and lasted only 255 laps.

Falcon Rally Tops N. Pitt

PIKEVILLE — Four extra base hits keyed a fourth inning rally that picked up seven runs for the C. B. Aycock Falcons and they went on to beat North Pitt, 17-0, in an Eastern Carolina Conference game, Saturday night.

The Panthers were held to just one bloop single and never posed a threat. The Falcons, however, banged out 16 with over half going for extra bases.

The Falcons started in the first with a single run. Jackie Dunn tripled and was sacrificed in.

Jones and Chuck Dunn led off the second with singles for Aycock and both came around on Ed Finch's homer.

The Falcons also had four extra base hits in the six-run fifth.

Dunn led the Falcon hitting with five hits in five at-bats. He is now 10-for-10 against the Panthers.

North Pitt, 5-7 over all and 4-4 in the ECC, faces Ayden-Grifton Tuesday at North Pitt.

Chargers In Seventh Win

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton struck for three runs in the first inning and Chris Riggs struck out 11 North Lenoir batters as the Chargers picked up their seventh Eastern Carolina Conference win beating the Hawks, 3-1, last night.

Riggs got the win giving up seven hits and walking three but had to get relief help from Dennis Cristiano in the seventh. Cristiano pitched to one batter, striking him out, and got the savers.

Jed Hardee opened the first with a single for the Chargers and Paul Ricciarelli walked. Cristiano singled loading the bases and Ned Craft's ground out scored Hardee. Ricciarelli scored on Eddie Taylor's single and an error on the hit scored Cristiano.

A-G put two men on in the sixth but failed to score.

North Lenoir's Darrell Rouse singled with one out in the seventh and moved up on another hit. Kinwood Thorbe was walked and a walk to John Winstead forced in Rouse for the only Hawk run.

Hardy collected two hits to run his string to six in three games.

The Chargers are now 7-1 in the ECC, a game in front of C. B. Aycock which is 6-2.

Tourney Is Won By Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — After three years of frustration, Williamston High School finally won its own Gaylord Perry Invitational Baseball Tournament for the first time Saturday night.

The Tigers nipped South View of Fayetteville, 7-6, for the title. The best the Williamston nine had done previously was a second place finish in 1974.

Butch Davis of Williamston was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. During the three days of competition, Davis went five for 11 at the plate and had two triples and a double. He scored four runs and drove in another.

Williamston grabbed the early lead in the game in the third inning with a run. Ken Herman doubled and scored when Tim Hardison reached on an error.

South View came back to take a 4-1 lead in the fourth. David McAllister singled and Mike Lucas got a hit. Bill Alston's single drove in the first run. Bill McAllister doubled in two more, and the fourth scored on Butch Gillis' hit.

Williamston came back with two in the fifth. Hardison reached on a fielder's choice and Davis doubled. Lee Pearson walked to load them up and Tommy Gardner's double brought in Hardison and Davis.

South View added another run in the bottom of the fifth, however, for a 5-3 edge. Doug West walked, stole up and scored on a double by Lucas.

Williamston came back with four runs in the top of the seventh. Davis reached on an error and Pearson singled. Gardner reached on a fielder's choice and a passed ball let Davis score. Eric Godard doubled in Pearson, and the other two scored when Herbie Rogers reached on an error.

Trailing 7-5, South View attempted to put together a rally, but fell a run short. Lucas singled and moved up on an error and took third on a passed ball. He scored on Gillis' single.

Earlier Saturday evening, Plymouth won the battle for fifth place in the eight-team field with a 13-2 win over South Granville. Will'ston 001 020 4-7 9 2

Defends Title In Hill Climb

CHIMNEY ROCK, N.C. (AP) — Gary Davis of Tampa, Fla., successfully defended his title Sunday in the 31st annual Chimney Rock automobile hill climb.

The 13-turn course, normally 1.8 miles, was shortened by 475 yards and the climb was delayed over an hour by a rainstorm which slowed speeds. Davis covered the distance in one minute, 54 seconds on the second of his two runs in a modified Volkswagen. He won $500 of the $3,000 purse.

Frank Harmstead of Aiken, S.C., was second in 1:59 in a Porsche.

Four-time winner John Finger of Greenville, S.C., was third in 2:01 in a Can-Am Ford.

Truly, TV Pay Scale Academic

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Barbara Walters' acceptance of a contract reportedly paying her $1 million a year for five years to leave NBC and co-anchor the "ABC Evening News" and do other ABC projects is now overshadowed by a more interesting story.

Scott Mott, a 6-year-old, was offered $300,000 a year for 10 years to anchor the evening "Action News" program of WWWW-TV in Burnfudgeon, Fla.

If he takes the job, he'll not only be the first 6-year-old to anchor an evening news program in a minor market, he'll also be the highest-paid 6-year-old in the history of television news.

"Variety," the show-biz bible, summed it all up in a headline: "Mott Tot Hot."

Welby Tidball, the new general manager of WWWW-TV, declined to comment on what money was offered the Mott tot. "All I can say is that it's a substantial offer," he said.

The lad, who gained overnight stardom with an exclusive interview of Mason Reese, wasn't available for interviews. His secretary said he was out playing marbles and wouldn't be back this week.

The youth is being represented in talks with WWWW by two agents from the Monster Child Agency, a talent firm that represents top child stars as well as news personalities below the legal age.

Jack "Swiftly" Sprat, one of the agents, said he couldn't comment on the reported offer of WWWW to his client.

"I don't think it'd be appropriate or fair to Scott," he also declined to say if the Calvin Coolidge Elementary School, where Mott is finishing his first year, had offered to match WWWW's offer.

But a school spokesman said it's unlikely that would happen. "All we have to offer is peanut butter, books and recess," he quipped.

"All this talk about money is academic," grumbled WWWW's Tidball. "Scott Mott is a proven name, an anchorman you can trust. We feel people will believe what he says."

"And," he chuckled, "he might even boost our ratings. Don't forget also that anchor salaries right now are only a small percentage of our total operating overhead for news."

Tidball was asked why the station didn't reduce Mott's salary to, say $100,000 and use the remaining $200,000 to hire more reporters and cameramen to actually go out and cover the news.

"That's also academic," he said. "If Scotty accepts our offer, we'll have to let go all our reporters and cameramen to pay him."

That doesn't make sense, he was told.

"Yes, but blame it on the market place," he said. "Sure, salaries are high, but you have to pay to get the best talent."

A footnote: Shortly after this was written, young Scott Mott accepted the $300,000-a-year offer and made his debut as anchorman of WWWW's evening "Action News" program.

He seemed unusually poised for a 6-year-old. The only sign of nervousness came midway in

Mass Arrests At Cockfights

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — About 250 persons were arrested Sunday when state and local authorities raided a cockfight in an old building in eastern Wilkes County.

"We just waked in and said 'everybody sit still; this is the law,'" Sheriff Bill Anderson said.

Anderson said officers herded the group, which included a few women, onto a prison bus and a van and took them to the Wilkes County Jail where two magistrates waited to process the arrests.

The raid netted officers four dead chickens, several pairs of sharpened cockfighting spurs and a three-foot trophy topped by a rooster figure.

Anderson said about 20 officers, including State Bureau of Investigation agents and deputies, sneaked into the woods near the site of the cockfight before dawn Sunday.

He said officers watched spectators enter and leave the wooden building for several hours before beginning the raid about noon.

The raid was the result of a three-week investigation, Anderson said. The investigation stemmed from complaints by residents of heavy traffic in the rural area.

Anderson said the spectators, including about 40 persons from outside North Carolina, were charged under a state law that prohibits watching or staging a cockfight. Most of those arrested were released after paying a $10 fine and $25 court costs.

Those who pleaded not guilty to the charges were ordered to appear in court.

the show, when he broke down, started crying and began a story on Angola by shouting, "I want my Mommy!"

Anderson described the inside of the building, about 15 miles from North Wilkesboro, as "a regular arena with bleachers set up."

A cockfight raid Saturday night in neighboring Alexander County resulted in 44 arrests, but Anderson said the raids were not connected.

Winners In Recitation

Top winners in the poetry recitation competition conducted as part of a Bicentennial program at South Greenville Elementary School have been announced.

In the kindergarten through grade three division, the school-wide winners were Maria Kelly, Melissa Reaves and Lisa Watson. The winners in grades four through six division were Laura Williams, Pauline Bearden and Lesley McPherson.

Grade winners for the six grades were: Kindergarten, Kevin Frost and Shannon Langdale; first grade, Lara Perry and Melissa Pruden; second grade, Kelly Jones, Julia Frost and Lisa Watson; third grade; Melissa Reaves and Maria Kelly; fourth grade, Alana Tinkham and Lisa Parrott; fifth grade, Maria Howard and Lesley McPherson.

A total of 32 pupils were named as class winners in the competition, for which students learned by heart patriotic poems by poets such as Longfellow, Henry Bennett, Emerson, Van Dyke and Benet.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Mildred Indorf, Mrs. Christine Louis, Alan Murrell, Dr. Veronica Wang and Dr. Alfred Wang.

Mrs. Vandell Alston and Ann Davis were coordinators for the event, and Mrs. Carolyn Adcock officiated on the two day recitation period.

Therapists' Workshop

Physical Therapists from eastern counties in North Carolina have recently completed a series of three workshops held by the Eastern Area Health Education Center on New Techniques in Orthopedic Physical Therapy.

Speakers for the final workshop held on April 24th at the School of Allied Health were George Hamilton and Mr. Dennis Davis from East Carolina School of Physical Therapy.

Ran Over Head, But Survives

RALEIGH (AP) — A tractor-trailer truck's rear wheels ran over Fred Raelford Johnson's head, but he survived, apparently because of his motorcycle helmet.

A witness to the accident Friday said Johnson's helmet was badly cracked. "The left rear wheels of the truck ran over the motorcycle operator's helmet, the motorcycle and the driver," said Arthur E. Hoch, the witness.

Johnson, 25, suffered mostly bruises and was listed in fair condition at Wake Medical Center.

UNUSUAL TREE

LEBANON, Mo. (UPI) — Harry Moran, a farm forester with the Missouri Department of Conservation, found a white oak tree several years ago on a farm near Lebanon with a trunk growth pattern resembling the face of a hippopotamus. Photographs of the unusual tree trunk have appeared in magazines worldwide.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 27, 1976

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

The morning finds you likely to become involved in disputes which you would be wise to avoid since you will be under unusually good aspects later in the day. You can easily prosper, especially if you let others know you support them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get out of that belligerent mood and keep out of trouble. In the evening make new contacts who can develop into fine friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may want to renege on certain promises, but it is best you follow through scrupulously. Express happiness tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't spend lavishly for recreation, but enjoy the simple pleasures. You are thinking very clearly now and can accomplish a great deal.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Sidestep temptations and go after your most cherished aims. Wait until evening before handling personal affairs.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't fret over secret worries, but try to do something constructive about them. Use your good judgment at this time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Steer clear of double talking friends and make new acquaintances who are more to your liking. Engage in favorite hobby tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take no risks with your reputation early in the day. Much happiness is possible if you try to make the evening a most romantic one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure to carry through with duties to which you have committed yourself early in the day. Later study new plans with associates. Relax at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do not take your ire out on an associate in the morning. You can easily improve your surroundings at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be sarcastic with a sensitive person who means much to you. Handle some creative work in a most wise way.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid dull work early and engage in more important activities. Do what you have long wanted to do in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have every opportunity in the afternoon to make plans for a more productive future. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be full of energy and could try to run the family roost by adopting a martyr complex. Be sure to give the right amount of discipline so that your progeny will be on the right path and great success is possible in this chart. A person who is good at sports here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Detroit Rivals New York City In Money Problems

By LEE MITGANG
AP Business Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Detroit, the nation's fifth largest city, is second only to New York City in the financial problems it is facing, but it is unlikely that the Motor City will find itself in as much money trouble as the Big Apple.

City officials and civic leaders are quick to point out that the problems are different. The Detroit situation suggests that while America's urban centers face complex fiscal problems, it is unlikely that any other city will go the route of New York in the near future.

Tough Michigan laws make it practically impossible for Detroit to borrow its way into trouble the way New York did. Also, default on bonds and notes is nearly impossible.

"Whatever happens, we will not go the route of New York," said Detroit's Mayor Coleman A. Young as he surveyed this city's struggle against fiscal disaster.

Nonetheless, he and other city officials describe the city's problems as critical.

Detroit became one of America's most financially-plagued cities because:

—Its unemployment rate is 17.5 per cent, the highest of any major U.S. city. Its jobless rate has been the worst in the country throughout the 1970s.

—As in New York, and other older cities, businesses and skilled workers have fled Detroit's center city in the past decade. Left behind are half of Michigan's elderly — 200,000 persons over 65. About 15 per cent of the city's families live under the poverty line.

—Detroit's population has declined by 20 per cent in 20 years, from about 1.85 million to 1.5 million.

—The city's mainstay, the auto industry, has perked up in recent months after its deep slump, but many of those jobs have left the inner city for the suburbs. Many auto related businesses have gone bankrupt. There are no firm figures on the relationship between the auto industry and the city, but some city experts estimate the automobile accounts for half the city's total employment.

—The city's budget has grown from $322.2 million in 1958-59 to a current $808.7 million, a far smaller percentage increase than New York City, where the budget grew in the same period from $2.2 billion to a present $12.7 billion.

All this has left Detroit with a rapidly dwindling tax base unable to fund services for residents badly in need of them.

"I will not try to kid you," Young told the Detroit Economic Club recently. "Detroit is not feeling the (economic) upswing being felt in other parts of the nation."

In the past four years, city tax revenues increased by only 16 per cent, while the city's expense budget grew by nearly one-third, from $622 million in 1972 to the current $808.7 million.

The city has found itself unable to balance its $808.7 million budget this fiscal year without massive layoffs and service cuts.

Detroit's workforce, which a panel of the city's top businessmen, bankers, union and civic leaders found to be lean in the first place, has been cut 18.5 per cent from about 24,000 in July 1974 to a present 19,500.

Another 1,600 are scheduled to be laid off in July. In the most recent round of layoffs, the city eliminated 1,200 workers, 825 of them police. This will leave Detroit, with one of the nation's highest crime rates, with a police force of about 4,300 patrolmen, about one-sixth the number in New York City.

Even before the cuts, Detroit stood 16th among the top 24 cities in terms of city employees per 10,000 citizens, according to the task force study, known as the Pelham-Fraser Report.

The cuts are part of a current effort to erase a $103-million budget deficit in the fiscal year beginning July 1. Under tough Michigan laws, Detroit's mayor soon will have to present a gimmick-free, balanced budget to the city council, and later the state legislature.

Thus, Detroit, with one-fifth the population of New York City, will be left with well under one-tenth the 253,000 municipal employees the eastern city has, even after massive cuts.

New York provides such services as higher education not supplied by Detroit.

Despite the current crisis, Detroit's city administration, in office for 27 months, has gotten high marks for management ability and candor from citizens, bankers, businessmen and unions alike.

"We have been impressed by ... the accuracy of these deficit estimates and we have developed confidence in the validity of the figures," concluded the Pelham-Fraser study.

By comparison, a team of auditors, and the U.S. Congress can't figure out the extent of New York City's troubles because of the mess its financial books are in.

Detroit, unlike New York, has not and cannot under state law run up huge operating deficits year after year or borrow to cover everyday expenses.

Detroit has outstanding bonds and notes equal to $390.2 million, about $265 for each citizen. New York has built up a debt of about $12 billion, about $1,500 per citizen.

Still, in the past year Detroit has had trouble borrowing money. Its interest rates reached as high as 9.9 per cent on one bond borrowed last August, and were still over 9 per cent in its latest borrowing.

And the bond rating agency, Standard & Poor's, recently lowered the city's credit rating to a medium-grade triple-B from a stronger single-A. S&P suspended New York City's credit rating a year ago.

Late in March, Detroit's top banks refused for the first time in memory to purchase the full value of a $40-million note, picking up only $27 million. In an accompanying statement, the banks said they had no intention of financing a growing city deficit as did New York's banks.

State law makes it practically impossible for Detroit to default on bonds or notes because the city must set aside a separate fund out of property tax revenues to cover debt service.

Detroit did, in the depths of the Great Depression in April 1932, default on its payrolls. Ironically, several New York City banks agreed to extend about $7.5 million in credit to Detroit in 1932, on condition that they be repaid first. In February 1933, Detroit had no choice but to default on a note when Michigan declared a bank holiday and the city could not get to its deposited money on time.

City and state officials recently agreed to ask the legislature to approve an eight point package providing about $35 million in direct state aid for the city in fiscal 1976-77.

Officials still are struggling to gain new revenues for the city, including either a one per cent increase in the city's resident and nonresident income tax, or an increase in state taxes on liquor and cigarettes. Legalization of casino gambling or greyhound racing have also been suggested by Young.

Gov. William G. Milliken opposes all those measures, and they are given no chance of passing the Republican legislature this year.

In the last 16 years, according to the Pelham-Fraser report, the city's property tax rate has climbed 20 per cent and the school tax has nearly doubled. A utility user tax also was enacted, and the city introduced a resident and non-resident income tax.

Despite these sharp increases, revenues rose 129 per cent in dollar terms in the past 16 years. But counting inflation, the government's purchasing power grew only 7 per cent over the period, the report said.

"How Detroit faces the growing disparity between its needs and its resources will be the most important determinant of its future as a place to live and to work," the report concluded.

The $35 million in state aid Young and Milliken are seeking, plus the $46 million Young estimates will be saved with the current round of layoffs, would still leave the budget $20 million out of balance, meaning more layoffs after July 1.

But city officials say Detroit has already cut down to the bone, and that worker layoffs don't save much money anyway. The Pelham-Fraser report reached an identical finding.

"What have we really accomplished if we eliminate the jobs and services of a $200 a week employee, only to turn around and pay that same employee $136 a week not to work for the city?" Young says.

Detroit pays up to $136 a week for 39 weeks out of its own treasury to laid-off city workers, the same maximum rate other Michigan residents get from the state in unemployment benefits.
