

Budget Funds Advocated For Volunteer Greenville

UNC Reports No Discrimination Against 5 Schools

Thursday evening's public hearing on the 1976-77 city budget proposal attracted a better-than-usual crowd, and most of the gathering was concerned with one item: continued funding for Volunteer Greenville.

The large crowd at the City Council's required public session on the budget was apparently prompted by the discovery by Volunteer Greenville workers and supporters that no funding is proposed for the program for the coming year.

Mrs. Jack Wilkerson, chairman of the board of directors for Volunteer Greenville, observed that she was "shocked" when she discovered that no money was proposed in the new budget. She said she considered the no-funding proposal a "slap in the face."

Mrs. Wilkerson told Council members she was not sure that "we have gotten across what we've been doing" with the young volunteer program.

The board chairman discussed the background of Volunteer Greenville and noted that the organization has been successful in serving in a liaison capacity for the coordination of all volunteer groups in the city. She said that the concept has worked and is being encouraged in other cities.

According to Mrs. Wilkerson, the program's director, Susan Mescher, took the job without any job description to go by and immediately began polling all of the volunteer groups in the city. She commended Mrs. Mescher for the job she has done as director of the program.

The board of directors was only organized in January, it was pointed out, and the 24 members serving "took a clean slate and tried to shape the program."

The board has required Mrs. Mescher to account for all of her time spent in the Volunteer Greenville program. Mrs. Wilkerson reported, and duties of the director have included the coordination of all volunteer agencies, speaking assignments to various civic organizations, interviewing volunteers for the program, writing of a daily log of activities, and attendance at all subcommittee and board meetings.

"We have tried to make ours a realistic program," Mrs. Wilkerson continued, "noting that "part of the board's decision on the budget... was to turn in what it felt was needed."

She added that the Council has not provided any instruction on what to do with the program.

Volunteer Greenville, which was funded last year by a $4,000 federal Action Mini Grant and $3,000 from the city, requested $19,732 in the new budget to continue the volunteer effort. Mayor Percy Cox said he felt like the program was "more of a county function" because, he added, the program is restricted somewhat in the city.

Mrs. Wilkerson said that the emphasis has purposely been toward the city since Greenville money was being spent in the operation of the program. She said if the funding is stopped by the city, "then we are just another volunteer agency."

Councilman Clarence Gray offered his "stamp of approval" for the Volunteer Greenville effort.

Rhea Resnik, representing the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters, pointed out in a prepared statement, "We are particularly distressed that the proposed budget does not provide funding for Volunteer Greenville for the next fiscal year."

She continued, "While we are aware of the fact that there is little precedent for municipal funding of such an operation, we strongly urge that this service be provided for at least one year or until it can be assumed by another agency or organization."

Ms. Resnik said that the League proposed that the program be continued with a budget of $8,500 including $7,500 for salary and $1,000 for supplies, printing and travel.

She added that the funds for continuation of the volunteer service could be found in the budget by cutting proposed allocations for departmental dues and subscriptions, reductions in the areas of contracted services and laundry and dry cleaning, and by finding chairs for the chief of police's office that cost less than $368 and $110 as indicated in the budget.

Cox said that he understood the Volunteer Greenville program is budgeted to operate until October. It was noted, however, that the program was approved on a June to June basis but it was not begun until last October.

Janet Duffy, coordinator of the Pitt County Information Center, also endorsed the continued operation of the volunteer program and contended that Volunteer Greenville is just now becoming accepted as being a part of the city. She said that it would be difficult for the program to encompass the whole county since the work load for just the Greenville program is already very heavy.

She said that 90 percent of the calls to the Center are requests for the phone number of Volunteer Greenville and she asserted, "It is obvious that Volunteer Greenville is catching on."

DURHAM (AP) — The University of North Carolina administration reported today that there is no state discrimination against the five predominantly black campuses in the university system.

The administration in a long-awaited report to the Board of Governors, concluded that there is no need for massive expenditures of state funds to improve the black schools.

The report, however, did not include the best-funded white institutions in the system—UNC-Chapel Hill, N.C. State, and UNC—

Greensboro—in its comparisons.

Instead, it compared the black schools to others in their general category. North Carolina A&T and North Carolina Central were in a "comprehensive university category" that included Appalachian State, East Carolina, Western Carolina and UNC—Charlotte.

Fayetteville State, Winston-Salem State, and Elizabeth City State were lumped with Pembroke State, UNC—Asheville, and UNC—Wilmington. The School of the Arts was also not considered.

President William Friday said the groups were justified because each school within them performs roughly the same functions. The comprehensive university group awards master's degrees. The second group awards bachelor's degrees, although there are exceptions, such as East Carolina's medical school and NCCU's law school.

Within each group, the black schools and white schools received roughly comparable amounts of state aid. In several categories, such as per capita funding and library books, the blacks schools were better off by marginal amounts.

July 4 Plans

Plans for Greenville's Bicentennial Fourth of July Celebration sponsored by the Greenville Jaycees are underway, according to Cliff Barbee and David Duffus, project co-chairmen.

Barbee and Duffus reported that the location for all planned events will be either on the Town Common area along First Street, or on the East Carolina University property bordering Reade Street.

The Bicentennial Fourth of July activities are to commence Saturday, July 3, with a canoe race down the Tar River from Falkland to Greenville. Other activities scheduled for Saturday consist of a beauty contest, oddball olympics, military displays and a street dance. Also, a small fireworks display will be conducted Saturday night.

Sunday's activities will include a number of competitive events with prizes to be awarded for each event. In addition to the competitive events scheduled Sunday, a karate demonstration, gospel sing, fish fry and Sunday in the Park are scheduled.

The main attraction on the evening of the Fourth will be a fireworks display arranged by Ed Rawl which will take place at approximately 9:15 p.m.

"The Fourth of July this year will be the largest July 4th celebration ever in Greenville due to the Bicentennial year," Duffus said.

Supplemental Levy Urged On County

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A concerted effort is being made to get a broad base of citizen support to urge Pitt County Commissioners to reconsider appropriations and supplement levy action for the capital outlay budget for the Greenville City Schools.

Don McGlohon, terming himself "an interested and concerned citizen," and Dr. Badger Clark, until recently a member of the city school board, held a brief press conference mid-morning today to express what they term a pressing need for 11th hour action.

A petition to present to the county commissioners urging the reinstatement of the 20 cents supplemental capital outlay levy for the Greenville School District is the heart of the effort being made to secure immediate additional funds for needed renovations and improvements of city school buildings.

"For 20 years, from 1951 to 1971," McGlohon explained, "the 20 cents capital outlay supplement levy was in effect for the Greenville City School District. Since 1971 the levy has been removed from school funding, and the result has been, that it has not been possible to maintain the schools in the manner they should have been."

McGlohon said that a Chamber of Commerce Merchants Association committee was at work seeking a possible 5,000 or so signatures to the petition which is to be presented to the county commissioners at the earliest date possible. "We're hoping commissioners will not take final budget action until we've had an opportunity for them to consider our request."

Dr. Clark, citing a bond issue as one possible solution, said however, "that we have an 11th hour immediate need for money."

A bond issue is a long range means of financing, whereas the reinstatement of the 20 cents Greenville District supplemental levy would give funds to complete improvements in the coming year.

"Without these funds," Clark said, "some of the schools might not open. The ramifications of this would be split sessions or other arrangements."

In its proposed school budget, the Greenville City Schools requested a total of $268,000 in capital outlay funds. County Manager Reginald Gray has made a recommendation to county commissioners that a sum of $85,000 be appropriated for this item.

Clark and McGlohon pointed out the recommended $85,000 would fall far short of taking care of even the most pressing needs. At this time, there is an urgent requirement to renovate Third Street Elementary School in order to meet minimum code requirements for opening in August.

The estimate for minimum work at Third Street is $136,000. Another pressing need is the replacement of the roof at Aycock, which has an estimated cost of between $120,000 and $150,000. Full renovation at Third Street with internal structural changes and some needed additions would run over $300,000.

"One thing needs emphasizing," Clark said, "and that is the reinstatement of the 20 cents supplemental levy is the cheapest way to get funds. In a bond issue you have to repay the principal and the interest. With the levy, this is not the case."

McGlohon mentioned too that reinstatement of the levy would not entail a delay that would be involved in the case of a bond issue, and that this source of funding would not affect taxpayers outside the Greenville School District.

McGlohon said that for the benefit of interested Greenville citizens who may not be contacted by the petition committee members, a copy of the petition will be at each of the city schools on Saturday from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.

Stancill, Tequilla Manning, Patricia Moore, and Jeff Wagstaff stop for a minute to pose in front of their school.

Commencement exercises were held at the four Pitt County high schools Thursday night. Student speakers addressed the 1976 graduates at each school.

Ayden Grifton High School Janet Burney addressed Ayden Grifton seniors with the topic "The Future Is Ours." She compared the seniors' futures with the pilgrims' journey to American 356 years ago.

"Just as the pilgrims left much behind, so do this year's seniors. And like the pilgrims, the future for the seniors will be filled with new achievements and greater freedom," she said. She also compared the challenges faced by the pilgrims to those facing the 1976 graduating seniors.

Lou Anne Baldree and Betsy Gaskins presented speeches together on the topic "Reflections." They included a survey of the class of 1976's accomplishments during the past four years in sports academics, new courses, and special honors.

Vivien Bizzell welcomed the parents and guests to the commencement exercises. D.H. Conley

Donna Lambert opened the commencement ceremonies at D.H. Conley with the invocation. Thelma Moore spoke on the topic "We Prepared For The Challenge."

"We owe more of our gratitude to our teachers and leaders than words can express," she said. "Through their leadership we hope that our footprints will not be hard to follow by others. We go to meet the future gladly, carrying in our hearts thoughts of those who helped in getting us ready for what's to come. Those who prepared us for the challenge!"

Mike Nobles spoke about the spirit of the Class of '76 at Conley, and the anticipated futures of the graduates.

"We set our faces toward the future with a hope of success. In a democracy where dreams can be fulfilled and hopes can become a reality, we accept the responsibility to acquire our respective places in life," he said.

"May we go our separate ways and though time and space may divide us, we shall always be joined in heart and spirit, and the memories of our days at D. H. Conley."

Geneva Mobley presented the benediction.

Farmville Central Wendy Ellis spoke to the seniors about the challenges ahead.

"Tonight as we stand on the threshold of the future, we realize that life will present to us many challenges. It is our task to be prepared to meet those challenges with direct and positive attitudes, knowing that we can achieve ultimate success," she said.

"Right now, we are in the seed-planting time of life," Beth Turner said. "Placing in the soil of what we are, the promise of what we can be. That is, we choose our next world through what we have learned in this one," she added.

Brenda Miller explained that the key to a successful life partially depends on self confidence.

"Some of us never achieve things in life because we are afraid of failure. This fear is brought on mainly because we lack confidence in ourselves."

Hays Recovering From Pill-Coma

BARNESVILLE, Ohio. (AP) — Rep. Wayne Hays emerged today from a coma induced by an overdose of sleeping pills, his doctor said. Hays smiled at his wife and spoke short sentences that made sense, the doctor reported.

Dr. Richard Phillips said the overdose taken by Hays, central figure in the congressional payroll-sex scandal which broke May 23, was apparently accidental and that Hays should be fully recovered within 10 days.

The 65-year-old Democratic congressman was in satisfactory condition, Phillips said, but is still technically semicomatose despite periods when he makes rational statements.

Hays was unconscious when taken to the hospital Thursday morning. He awakened at 8:30 a.m. this morning and asked to see his wife, Pat, who kept a night-long vigil at the hospital. She returned to the room later and the congressman smiled at her, Phillips said.

"His recovery should be complete," Phillips told a mid-morning press briefing. After his release from the hospital he will have to rest for a week to 10 days before returning to his congressional duties, the doctor said.

Phillips said studies of the blood are being made now at the University of Pittsburgh to determine the amount of the sleeping-pill overdose. The pills had been prescribed for Hays because he was under stress, Phillips said.

Also at the briefing was Carol Clawson, Hays's Washington press secretary. Mrs. Clawson denied a report by columnist Jack Anderson that revelation of Hays' extramarital sex activities had alienated him from his wife of a few weeks and that she had left him Wednesday for a second time.

Mrs. Clawson also denied an Anderson report that Hays would shoot himself if he felt it would spare his wife any further pain over the congressional payroll-scandal in which Hays admitted he had a personal relationship with 33-year-old Elizabeth Ray.

But less than a week ago, when asked by an Associated Press reporter whether he had threatened suicide, Hays had responded, "No comment."

GLASS RECYCLING

I would like to find a place as near as possible that would buy glass for recycling. B. R.

Hotline has just learned of a fairly new recycling center in Williamston which buys glass for recycling. Prior to this, we have told inquirers that the nearest place we knew of is in Henderson.

The Williamston firm, called Tar Heel Recycling, pays 50 cents per 100 pounds for clear and green glass. It cannot accept brown glass nor glass, such as safety glass, which contains plastic, says Janice Squires, who answered our questions about what the company buys.

In addition to glass, the firm buys cardboard ($1.25 per 100 pounds); newspaper (75 cents per 100 pounds); magazines (50 cents per 100 pounds); and computer cards and printout sheets ($2.50 per hundred pounds). It also buys scrap metal and old clothes and other fabric, Ms. Squires said.

The firm is located on East Main Street in Williamston by the river bridge. The phone number, which is as yet unlisted, is 792-1908.

Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., chairman of Carter's nationwide steering committee, confirmed that the 14 were all discussed within the Carter organization several weeks ago, the Globe said.

The former Georgia governor won Ohio's big primary election Tuesday, and since then has won support from several other leading Democrats. He claims more than the 1,505 delegates needed to win the party's presidential bid.

There was no immediate comment from the candidate or his aides on the Globe report.

Blacks on the list are Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas, who gained nationwide attention as a member of the House Judiciary Committee during televised impeachment hearings two years ago, and Mayor Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles, the newspaper said.

Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, is also among those being considered, said the Globe, but only two of Carter's primary opponents — Sens. Frank Church of Idaho and Birch Bayh of Indiana — made the list.

Others included in the poll, the Globe said, are Sens. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Walter Mondale of Minnesota, Alan Cranston of California, John Glenn of Ohio and Edmund Muskie of Maine.

Kennedy has said repeatedly he would not accept the vice presidential nomination.

School Library Named For Former Librarian

UNVEIL PORTRAIT — Jay Holley and Rena Meteye unveil a portrait of the late Mrs. Mary E. Rose, former librarian at Eastern Elementary School at unveiling ceremonies Monday.

The late Mrs. Mary E. Rose, former librarian at Eastern Elementary School, who died in August 1975, was honored Monday afternoon when a ceremony was held naming the school's library the Mary E. Rose Library.

Highlight of the ceremony was the presentation of a plaque and the unveiling of a portrait of Mrs. Rose. Funds for the plaque and portrait were contributed by students at Eastern, their parents, and friends of Mrs. Rose. Remaining funds will be used to purchase books to be known as the Mary E. Rose Book Collection.

Earlier in the year, the Greenville Board of Education approved a request from the school to name the library in honor of Mrs. Rose.

Mrs. Rose was formerly a secretary to the late Mr. Junius H. Rose, for years superintendent of the Greenville City Schools. She married Mr. Rose after the death of his first wife.

Among friends and officials attending the ceremony were Mrs. Rose's three sisters — Mrs. Janie Council of Elon College, Mrs. Margaret Richardson and Miss Norma Eakes, both of Greenville; her aunt, Miss Mary Chanler of Sanford; Mrs. Junius H. Rose, Jr.; members of the school board; other librarians in Greenville; staff members of the school office; and friends of the late Mrs. Rose.

A sixth grade student, Jonathan McGee, was master of ceremonies. He gave a brief biographical sketch of Mrs. Rose, noting she had been a librarian at Lemon Springs and was the first librarian at Eastern Elementary School.

Fifth grade students sang "I Sing A Song of the Saints of God;" and John Barnes read a collection of brief remarks of children who recalled how Mrs.

LUANDA, Angola (AP) — Angola's new Marxist government today began a show trial of two Americans and 11 other captured mercenaries and demanded that they all face the firing squad.

The Americans, Gary Acker of Sacramento, Calif., and Daniel Gearhart, of Kensington, Md., were charged with "murder, pillage and the destruction of Angola's property and natural resources" under the 139-count blanket indictment read out by the prosecution and ending with the words "and should be punished by the death penalty."

Both have denied firing their weapons or killing anyone in Angola, but there were separate charges against Gearhart of "commanding a combat section," laying mine fields and helping direct the defense of Sao Salvador, headquarters of the losing pro-Western National Front — FNLA — faction in the bitter three-sided war that erupted after Angola became independent from Portugal.

Agriculture Tour Set For Next Wednesday

A full day Annual Agriculture Tour, sponsored jointly by the N.C. Agriculture Extension Service and the ten county eastern North Carolina Coastal Plain Development Association will take place on Wednesday, June 16.

Leroy James, Agricultural Extension Agent announcing plans for the day's schedule, informs that the Pitt County make-up for the tour will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the Pitt County Fairgrounds and will conclude

"Everybody, homeowners, business persons, farmers, homemakers, anyone interested in this tour is invited to attend," James said.

Travel to four separate locations will be by air-conditioned bus at a cost of $6.50 per person, which will include the price of lunch. (Checks are to be made payable to Pitt County Mutual Exchange, and mailed in advance to P. O. Box 1427, Greenville, N.C. 27834). Persons

James lists the four places to be visited as:

- Long Manufacturing Company, Tarboro. A company specializing in harvesting equipment, tobacco curing facilities, and grain handling equipment.
- Agricultural Research and Test Farm, Rocky Mount: To include a tour of the livestock facilities, research plots and other crop production demonstrations.
- Carson Barnes' Farm, Nash County: This farm constitutes one of the largest farm operations in the area, with several hundred acres of potatoes and about 150 acres of tobacco.
- Finch's Blueberry Farm and Nursery, Nash County: A family operation features pick-your-own blueberries, peaches, bunch and muscadine grapes.

The tour is planned to follow the order of the places listed above. Return time to the Pitt County Fairgrounds is expected to be in the vicinity of 5 p.m.

The students at the black schools tend to have lower scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Tests. The average combined score for the 1975 entering class at N.C. A&T was 720. At Appalachian State it was 884.

Friday said the problems have grown worse in recent years as the predominantly white schools have begun recruiting the best black students and faculty members.

One result, the study found, was that the predominantly black schools spend time and money on remedial programs in mathematics and English.

"Each of the traditionally black institutions is, to some extent, two institutions. It is a college or university ... coexisting with a special kind of pre-collegiate endeavor to teach basic academic skills," the report said.

It had few recommendations to make. One was for funds to equalize minor salary discrepancies at the schools within each category, both black and white. Another was a program to help existing faculty members take paid leaves to get their doctoral degrees.

The final recommendation was for yet another study, this one of the remedial program at the black schools. The study might result in a recommendation for more funds for them.

California Didn't Close Door

California voters last week defeated "Proposition 15" — which called for restricting of nuclear electric plants in that state.

California voters were far and away opposed to the restriction of nuclear power plants in their state, according to the last figures.

Proposition 15 was voted down despite a concerted campaign by the "Yes on 15 Committee" which strongly urged voters to approve the restriction proposition.

We think that California voters have been wise to defeat Proposition 15, and we trust that no one will interpret that vote as an indication that California voters aren't extremely interested in development of full safety measures for nuclear power plants.

The point is, though, that if laws governing nuclear energy plants are made so restrictive in our nation, then the plants simply aren't going to be built. Beyond that, the days of the construction of dams for hydroelectric plants seem to be about over. Thus all that is left is fossil fuel — oil, coal and gas. We all know that the cost of fossil fuel is soaring and electric energy generated with fossil fuel is soaring, too.

We need some other energy source for power generation and nuclear energy is the only thing in sight now.

We are convinced that nuclear plants can be made safe, and that they should be made safe, regardless of the cost. Outlawing nuclear energy is not the proper way to proceed, though, and the voters of California recognized this. Their decision should have an effect elsewhere in the country.

Action By Congress Is Real Necessity

We have to wonder why something isn't being done by Congress to act one way or the other on the revenue sharing program.

The state, city and now county governments have had to plan their 1976-77 fiscal year budgets based on the assumption that federal revenue sharing will run out. Yet the program could be extended by Congress.

While that might be an unexpected financial boom, it would be far more businesslike if the governmental units know what to expect as their budgets are made up.

Congress should act on revenue sharing.

Over One-Third Dropouts

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — It is graduation time across North Carolina. More than 70,000 students are hearing glowing speeches as parents and classmates beam.

But a shadow hangs over the stage. For every two graduates who get a diploma and handshake, there is one empty space.

Just four years ago, this graduating class was a third again as big: ninth grade enrollment was nearly 106,000 children. At graduation 35,669 are missing.

Some of those ninth graders celebrated their 16th birthdays, and for some it was a long-awaited day when they could legally quit school. About 4,600 dropped out.

More birthdays in the 10th grade and the biggest bunch of dropouts celebrated: 14,267 quit.

As the student body aimed for the 11th grade, other pressures developed—money, discontent with learning, lack of a goal. Another 11,770 dropped out.

30 Percent Gone
Finally, almost 75,000 made it to their senior year. But by graduation day, 5,000 more were gone.

That description of the 1976 non-graduating class of Tar Heels is based on estimates of the dropout problem in the state compiled by statisticians with the State Department of Public Education, division of management information systems.

The figures are estimates, but educated ones. "A precise count of dropouts in each local school system is currently unavailable," the state department reports in its 1976 Statistical Profile of North Carolina Public Schools.

Problems in detailing the dropout rate are many: a large number of students drop out during summer when school is not open; accurate information requires individual follow-up with each departing student, a procedure most schools can't follow.

To estimate the dropout rate, statisticians ran up total enrollments for grades nine through 12 from each local school system, then made adjustments to account for people moving in and out of districts, those who didn't get promoted, those who went to non-public schools, and student deaths.

The results are accurate, but should be handled with care as applied to specific school units because there may be unusual shifts in student population in some district which the researchers weren't aware of.

The Spread
Overall, the dropout rate came to 8.5 per cent each year over the past four years for "a cumulative loss slightly in excess of one-third of the total high school population."

The loss was spread thusly: 13 per cent in the ninth grade; 40 per cent in the 10th; 33 per cent in the 11th; and 14 per cent in the 12th.

Warned of the dangers of comparing one system to another, it still is of interest to note that some school systems had dropout rates running as high as half of the group.

Halifax County is highest, with the ninth grade enrollment of 903 depleted to 445 graduating for a loss rate of 53.2 per cent.

Others losing half or more include Pender, Perquimans, Fairmont, Rockingham, Monroe, and Wilson County (49.3 per cent).

Chapel Hill leads the low end of the table with 67 dropout during the four years; a 19.2 per cent loss. Other low rates include Greenville (19.6 per cent), Salisbury (20.8 per cent), Elm City (20.2 per cent), and Watauga, Mount Airy, Red Springs, Tryon, Guilford, Gates, Newton, and Burlington all in the low to mid 20 per cent range.

Whatever the reasons for the wide variations in dropout rates—economic, social, racial, or as some believe the failure of schools to meet student needs—school officials believe an accurate picture of the situation is essential "if positive steps are to be taken to encourage students to stay in school and to provide services to those who do not," as the dropout report notes.

"So I personally get this kid an appointment to West Point and then he gets kicked out for lying, cheating and stealing! What's happened t'kids?"

The Choice Dinner Guest

WASHINGTON — Everyone is doing something about the Bicentennial. The Diner's Club is running an informal survey amongst Americans asking them who in history they would like to celebrate the Fourth of July with and why. Where would they take them for dinner and, finally, what would they order in the way of food and drink?

The answers have included such varied people as Thomas Jefferson, Teddy Roosevelt, Al Capone and Richard Nixon — NECESSARILY in that order.

Although I hate questionnaires, the survey is rather intriguing and I've been mulling over my answer for days. I've finally decided the only person I want to have dinner with is "Deep Throat," the one of Watergate fame, not the lady from the X-rated film. (I have nothing against her, but on the 200th anniversary of our country I believe an American should abstain from sex in tribute to the founders of our country, because if it hadn't been for them there might not have been any sex in America as we know it today. Even after 200 years the British still don't know how to do it right or so I've been told.)

In any case I think "Deep Throat" would be fun to have dinner with. I would like to take him to the Sans Souci, but knowing his proclivity for wanting to stay out of the limelight I would select the C level of a garage somewhere on the outskirts of Washington.

First, I would stop off at a Kentucky Fried Chicken place and pick up a bucket of chicken and French fries and a six-pack of beer.

I'd find a nice quiet place in the garage where we wouldn't get run over, and I'd spread out The Washington Post on the floor so we wouldn't get our clothes and food dirty.

The first question I would ask him, which I've always been curious about, would be "What was Bob Woodward really like? Did he look anything like Robert Redford, or was Woodward much better looking?"

Once we got over the amenities I'd get down to business. I would question him about his role in the Nixon Administration. Did he blow the White House cover story about Watergate because he had been mistreated by Haldeman, Ehrlichman or Colson, or was he mad at Nixon personally because he had never been invited to Sunday morning church services at the White House?

Then I'd ask him about his personal life. Was he married? If so, how did he explain his absences at night to his wife? Did she believe he was really meeting with a reporter from The Washington Post, or did she accuse him, when he came home at those early hours in the morning, of being up to no-good with some secretary on Capitol Hill?

In the book and the movie, "All the President's Men," "Deep Throat" told Woodward to fly a red flag from the potted plant on his apartment balcony when the reporter wanted to see him, and then "Deep Throat" would mark the hour of appointment on page 20 of Woodward's New York Times. I would ask him if Woodward ever got mad at

Done In Closed Session

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated PressWriter
WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's primary victories may keep the Democratic presidential nomination out of smoke-filled rooms, but it looks like the Democratic platform will be drafted this week in secret.

The party's 15-member platform subcommittee plans to hammer out a platform draft during three days of closed meetings here, even though the party's charter appears to require that such meetings be public.

The meetings were scheduled to begin today with Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis presiding.

Once adopted by the subcommittee and then the full platform committee next week, a final proposal will be sent to delegates to the Democratic National Convention where a platform will be enacted to serve as party policy for the fall election campaign.

The platform is expected to concern itself to a large extent with economic issues, with special focus on ways of reducing unemployment.

The issue of whether the meetings should be public didn't come up at a procedural session last month when the subcommittee decided to keep them closed, said Michael Barnes, director of the platform committee. However, a new provision in the party's charter, approved at the party miniconvention in Kansas City on Dec. 7, 1974, leaves little doubt that such meetings are supposed to be open.

According to Section 12 of Article 11: "All meetings of the Democratic National Committee, the Executive Committee, and all other official party committees, commissions and bodies shall be open to the public, and votes shall not be taken by secret ballot."

Reporters at the 1974 convention recalled that the wording of liberal delegates against the wishes of some of the regular party leadership.

Barnes said he thinks the subcommittee decided their meetings could be closed because the platform draft "was not an official action." The meetings will be "a preliminary preparation of what con-

THE INSIDE REPORT

Bloodletting In The GOP

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
LOS ANGELES — Ronald Reagan's latest attack of foot-in-mouth disease over Rhodesia triggered a last-ditch blitz by the Ford campaign that may inflame bitter animosity within the California Republican party and end any chance of a unified party for the fall campaign against the Democrats.

Reagan's masochistic fondness for playing with lethal words and formulations that most politicians would instantly recognize as self-destructive probably will not affect his primary vote here Tuesday against President Ford. But the counterattack it triggered by the platoon of "advocates" Mr. Ford has on the scene here — led by Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson—is certain further to poison the party well.

Reagan's hypothetical response to a hypothetical question about whether he would send U.S. troops to keep peace during the transition of Rhodesia's government from minority-white to majority-black gave Ford managers an opening they could not afford to turn down.

The opening: to tie together his foolish formulation on troops-for-Rhodesia with other Reaganisms — his suggested possible sale of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) just before the Tennessee primary; his vocal tinkering with Social Security; his fuzzy early proposal for transferring $90 billion worth of federal programs to the states; his aggressive stand on the Panama Canal — and invite California Republicans to reject the man and all his works as not up to the job of President.

The campaign toward that end began before the ink was dry on overblown headlines here that erroneously suggested Reagan was ready to launch a Rhodesia-version of Vietnam. It came against a dreary background of long fratricide between the Reagan wing and the anti-Reagan wing of the party — a division not susceptible to pat ideological definitions — that the Ford-Reagan primary battle has swollen enormously.

Item: Republican state chairman Paul Haerle, a Reagan protege now backing Mr. Ford, when asked by Aldo Beckman of the Chicago Tribune May 1 whether he could work for presidential nominee Reagan, replied: "Are you kidding?" Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's California manager, has now mailed a copy of that interview to all 1,200 members of the Republican state committee, saying the party could not "afford a repeat of 1964" (when many moderates and liberals deserted Sen. Barry Goldwater).

Item: The aborted effort by Reagan-hating state Sen. Bob Stevens to switch Tuesday's primary from winner-take-all to proportional allocation of the 167 delegates infuriated Reaganites who still believe the proposal was dreamed up in Washington. In fact, the only connection was a telephone call from Stevens to a middle-level Ford operative who told him the White House would not "object" to the change. "The Reagan people were ringing the phones off the walls here on what they thought was a little beauty of a Ford deal," one neutral Republican state assemblyman told us in Sacramento.

Item: A Ford leader in the legislature predicts that if the President is nominated "the Reagan cult will exact terrible revenge" during the fall campaign on grounds that Reagan was discriminated against by the party's national hierarchy.

Item: Particularly infuriating to Reaganites was Mr. Ford's statement two

To the editor:

We understand that the North Carolina Drug Commission is planning on cutting the funds available to Real Crisis Intervention of Greenville and that only $96,000 of the $1,009,000 the Commission has from the federal government is being allotted to Eastern North Carolina.

We would like to alert our community to these facts:

1. that Real Crisis Intervention got high ratings in a. need for services; b. past performance; c. quality of proposed program; and d. continuation. The only low rating was in the area of community support.
2. that Greenville has the worst heroin problem in North Carolina, according to the Mental Health Center
3. that the entire eastern section of the state is getting only one-third as much as other sections for combatting drug abuse

We plan to complain to Ms. Jonnie McLeod, chairman of the N. C. Drug Commission Board, 1504 Biltmore Drive, Charlotte, N. C. 28202.

How about you, the rest of Greenville and the surrounding area, voicing your opinion before the final decision is made on this matter?

What Do Candidates Propose?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Amid the noise of electioneering, very few specifics have been heard on some of the very pressing financial problems, personal and public, that surveys suggest are high on the critical list.

Now that the primary races are over it is reasonable to assume that voters will seek to separate rhetoric from the research approach, the practical from the visionary, the meaningful from the superficial and irrelevant.

How does the candidate stand on jobs versus inflation? Is 7 per cent unemployment acceptable in order to keep inflation restrained? Is 7 per cent inflation acceptable in order to drive unemployment to only 5 per cent?

Few issues are more pivotal; the decision made on it affects many others, including the issue of governmental versus private enterprise. Should private enterprise produce the jobs? Or should government "create" them?

The issue of prices is one of direct conflict between two economic viewpoints, poles apart. Some candidates appear to believe prices are simply a product of economic conditions; others claim prices can be maintained by government.

Personal income is part of the same equation, as are corporate profits.

What measure does the candidate propose to keep both joblessness and prices in check? What is his plan to maintain an energetic economy, one that promotes stability and permits people to obtain financial security.

Despite the recovery and a tax cut in 1975, real spendable earnings, the measure of a worker's take home pay, are still 5 per cent below the level of spendable earnings in 1973.

Workers aren't the only one's hurt. Corporations observe that profits as a percentage of national income have fallen, from 15.6 per cent in 1950 to just 9.2 per cent last year, a year of record profits for some companies.

The National Association of Manufacturers currently is pointing out that employee compensation last year was more than eight times profit, and suggests the situation cannot continue. It takes profits to make jobs.

Where does the candidate stand on housing? Something is terribly wrong with the housing market, but that is nothing new; housing has had problems for years, but few proposals or efforts have been successful.

How does the candidate stand on big business? And big government? And big labor? There are faults with all three; it can be argued that they are often obstructionist, selfish, counter-productive.

At the same time is it argued that bigness is needed in a big, big world. Small business cannot as effectively compete in worldwide trade. Weak government cannot regulate effectively. Weak unions cannot effect reforms.

How does the candidate feel about these issues? Is he doctrinaire or reasonable? Does he offer practical suggestions? Does he favor one at the expense of the other? Does he have a plan in which all can cooperate?

It's your dollar, and your vote.

Strength For Today

DEMANDS ALL.

When the great composer, Johann Sebastian Bach, was a young man, he performed on the pipe organ before the crown prince of Prussia and so aroused the enthusiasm of the royal master that the prince took a precious ring set with diamonds and rubies off his finger and bestowed it upon the brilliant young musician.

There is always something inspiring about the attitude of anyone who, hearing or seeing something fine in life, straightway gives himself to it with abandon.

It is in such fashion that Christ would have men give their souls. When once they have caught a sense of his moral and spiritual grandeur, he would have them respond enthusiastically to it. He would have them take the thing they prize most and give it in perfect consecration. It is when we take the most precious things in life and press them into his hand that he knows that he has won not just the gift, but the giver.

weeks ago ruling Reagan out of the vice-presidential picture. Republican national committeeman Charles C. Reed, a Ford backer, warned the President in San Jose May 25 that resentment was building over this apparent rejection. Ever pliable politically, Mr. Ford switched one day later and now includes Reagan on his vice-presidential list. Nevertheless, the damage was done.

To this must now be added the last-ditch effort by the President's men to use the comparatively minor opening Reagan gave them on Rhodesia as final evidence that the two-term California governor is too erratic, too uninformed and too trigger-happy to be entrusted with the highest office.

In fact, this last-ditch effort was almost certainly too little, too late to turn Reagan's swelling California tide. When Reagan gave his hypothetical answer on how the U.S. and Great Britain might enforce "peaceful" transition to a black-majority government in Rhodesia, Nofziger ordered a one-day statewide telephone poll (with more than 500 respondents); it showed some, but very little, erosion.

Accordingly, the effort by Ford agents to blitz this state in the wake of Reagan's self-inflicted injury, while fully understandable, will have this unintended effect: a massive new dose of poison in the party's wellspring that, at least in California, points to a disabled party in November.

stitutes a tentative and unofficial party document," he added.

He said the document would become official only when the full platform committee takes it up at a three-day meeting here beginning in June 14. Those meetings will be open to the public.

But Barnes did not deny that the subcommittee was an official party body to which Section 12 of the Democratic charter would apply.

He said the decision on closed sessions was made unanimously by the 15 subcommittee members, who include representatives of candidates for the party nomination for president, including several representing Carter.

"Nobody mentioned Section 12 in that meeting," Barnes said.

him for messing up his New York Times before he had a chance to read it?

Finally, I would ask "Deep Throat" after we finished the six-pack of beer, if he ever thought about writing his own book about Watergate. I would point out that there were publishers in this country willing to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars for it and I would offer to collaborate with him on the project. He could keep half the royalties, which is 50 percent more than he got from Woodward and Bernstein. I would also guarantee him that if we sold it to the movies I would make sure Robert Redford played him, and Hal Holbrook would get the minor role of Bob Woodward.

The thought may have occurred to you, as it has to me, that "Deep Throat" could easily have been a woman — perhaps a disenchanted wife of one of the people involved in Watergate. For my sake I hope it isn't true, because I would have a helluva time explaining to my wife what I was doing in a garage eating fried chicken and drinking beer with another woman on the 200th anniversary of the United States at three o'clock in the morning.

God changes things

An empty spider web hangs suspended in a dry bush, a mere pattern of gray trembling in the breeze.

On a Sunday morning, people from many walks of life, carrying a myriad of joys and burdens, enter churches to worship.

Dew falls and the sun rises. God moves in the lives of His people.

Clothed now in dew, the once drab spider web becomes a chandelier of crystal rainbows — royal purples, velvet violets, fiery reds, some flecked with brightest gold.

People emerge from our churches, apparently unchanged, yet — different. What is the new meaning in their lives? What the deeper understanding? How has peace and confidence been renewed? A mystery? Perhaps! But not beyond experience.

Won't you join us in church this Sunday? Together, we will learn from the God who changes things.

GREENSBORO (AP) — Mrs. Madge L. Roberts pleaded guilty Thursday to three counts of federal income tax evasion, acknowledging she had income from trading in prostitution and abortion.

She earlier had pleaded innocent and was scheduled for a jury trial in U. S. District Court. Her sentencing was delayed until Sept. 1 to allow time for settling her tax liability.

The maximum penalty on each charge is five years in prison or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Mrs. Roberts' indictment earlier this year led to an investigation in Winston-Salem to determine why she had not been arrested by local officers on prostitution and abortion charges. The investigation is continuing.

A special agent of the intelligence division of the Internal Revenue Service said an investigation revealed some $61,000 she did not report on three tax returns. The report attributed the money to "the illegal trade in prostitution and abortion."

The statement was not challenged by Mrs. Roberts' attorney when he cross-examined the IRS agent.

Mrs. Roberts was charged with filing returns which failed to report all income in 1969, 1971 and 1972.

Through plea bargaining, the government agreed not to begin prosecution for any tax matters between 1969 and 1972.

at Rose High School during the past year, observed that over 50 students are actively involved in the volunteer program here. He said that if students are willing to take the time to work as volunteers, the program should be continued. He added his hope that funding would be continued.

Michael Tucker, who said that he went to Volunteer Greenville seeking a project as part of work towards earning a scouting badge, noted that he found that project in the Recreation Department through the volunteer program. Michael said that he thinks "a lot of people want to help but they don't know where to go."

Ma. Reenik said that the county has indicated it will not fund any new programs this year and she pointed out that the Commissioners will not approve funding for a recreational program or participate fully in the library program.

She added, "I think at this stage, it would be futile to approach them (county commissioners) for funding."

Cox said that he is "tired of being used by the county commissioners" and said he feels "they should carry their end of the load."

Charles R. Ross of the Greenville City Schools endorsed the coordinated volunteer effort here, saying that it has been a "big help" in the school's tutorial program. Ross said that the tutorial program can continue to use volunteer help as provided through Volunteer Greenville and he "would like to see it continue."

Mrs. Mescher explained that the agencies she works with serve more Greenville people than county residents and she offered figures to support the fact that most of the volunteers come from the city for the various local programs, tutors, Girl Scouts, recreation, Police Department, Boy Scouts and

Williamston Grabs Opening Game On Gardner's 6-0 Hurling Effort

HICKORY — Williamston High School drew first blood in the best-of-three series for the State 3-A Baseball title, taking a 6-0 victory over Fred T. Foard High School last night.

The victory left the Tigers just one game short of a second straight state championship and their third crown under coach Dink Mills.

Tommy Gardner hurled the shutout victory, scattering only five hits. He walked just two batters and struck out eight.

Williamston pounded out 12 hits off two Foard pitchers, chasing the Tigers ace after four innings.

Williamston grabbed the lead in the third inning, scoring a single run. Tim Hardison singled and with two away, Butch Davis cracked a triple, easily scoring Hardison.

In the fourth, the Tigers pushed over four more runs to virtually put it out of reach. Eric Godard walked and Greg Roberson reached on a fielder's choice. Herbie Rogers singled, and that brought in Godard. Mike Koesy doubled to drive in Roberson, and when the ball was misplaced, Rogers also scored. Koesy, on third, second on Ken Herman's sacrifice fly.

The final Williamston run came over in the sixth inning. Godard walked and Rogers moved him up with a hit. Koesy added another hit, scoring Godard.

Foard offered very few challenges to the Williamston defense. Their best chance came in the third inning when Foard put two runners on second and third and brought their leading hitter, Rick Weaver to the plate. But Gardner struck out the plus-.500 hitter to end the inning.

Williamston will now seek to

Bucs Sign Wrestler

East Carolina University wrestling coach John Welborn has announced the signing of a fourth wrestler to a grant-in-aid. He is Harry Martin of Marshall High School in Alexandria, Va.

Martin was a four-year letterman for Marshall High, placing third in the Virginia state finals his senior year and fourth his junior year. Martin was also district champ as a junior, third in the districts as a senior, second in the regionals as a junior and third as a senior. He wrestled in the 132 weight pound class.

While serving as captain of his senior team, Martin had a record of 24-5-1. His combined two-year record as a starter was 48-8-1. That includes two titles in the Metro Holiday Invitational Tournament.

"Harry just has tremendous potential," says East Carolina coach John Welborn. "Some people are going to question where Harry came from in a few years. He's going to surprise a lot of people as he's yet to realize his full potential. And when he does he's going to be a very fine college wrestler. He's both strong and aggressive."

Previously announced signees include: Steven Goode of Portsmouth, Va.; Mark Furst of Columbus, Ohio; and Frank Schaefer of Fairfax, Va.

Ronnie Johnson got away to a somewhat spectacular start.

The Elon left-hander walked the first four Pirates he faced last night in the North Carolina Summer League game with East Carolina at Harrington Field. He did it on 12 straight pitches.

But he settled down after that and went on to hold the Pirates hitless until the eighth inning, and got away with a one-hitter.

The three walks did lead to a run in the first inning, but it was the only one the Pirates were able to muster. Elon went on a rampage, scoring two runs in each of the last three innings to take a 6-1 victory.

That kept the Fighting Christians atop the league with a 3-1 record. East Carolina, in bowing for the third straight time, fell off to 2-3.

Johnson's fine game was spoiled somewhat by his walks, as he issued 11 free passes to the Pirates, and hit another batter. But he fanned 10 more to add some credit to the one-hit gem.

Despite not being able to get good wood on the ball, the Bucs did offer a number of threats. After the first inning, they put runners as far as third in the third, fifth and eighth innings.

and as far as second in the fourth and ninth.

But aside from the first, they couldn't get any one around.

In the first, Pete Paradossi, Robert Brinkley and Sonny Wooten each drew walks on four straight pitches. Macon Moye grounded to short, and that scored Paradossi with the lone run.

Elon threatened in the second, third and sixth, putting men on second in the first two, and on third in the latter. In that frame, Jerry Caraway made a leaping catch at short for the third out, robbing Gene Drumwright of a sure hit and a run batted in.

But in the seventh, the Christians got the runs they wanted. Larry Colson led off with a walk, and Tony Mullins singled. Kelly Miller also walked, loading the bases. With Donnie Davis at bat, Elon tried for a suicide squeeze, but Davis missed on the bunt attempt, and Colson was caught off base and put out. Davis then fanned, and it looked like the Bucs were out of the inning.

But Chuck Lindsey's grounder was dropped at first, and that allowed both Mullins and Miller to score, giving Elon a 2-1 lead.

They added two more in the eighth. Charlie Gamble and Frank Williams led off with singles, and Drumwright reached on an error on his attempted sacrifice bunt. Colson walked to force in courtesy runner Roy Parker, and a passed ball scored Williams.

The final two came in the ninth. Lindsey and Phil Baskerville both singled and a two-out single by Drumwright brought them over.

The lone Pirate hit came on a scratch single by Jeff Joyner in the eighth inning, but Johnson didn't give up another the rest of the way.

East Carolina returns to action tonight, playing host to Campbell at 7:30 p.m. at Harrington Field.

Lights Force Later Finish

College View and Home Builders came within one batter of an official game last night. Instead the lights went out, and their game, with Home Builders leading 12-11, will have to be completed at their next meeting.

College View was batting in the last of the sixth and had put together a rally pushing over five runs to cut the lead to one and had two men on with two out. One batter could have made the difference.

College View had gone ahead in the first scoring two runs on hits by Steve Hawkins and Patrick Wilson. Lindsey Winstead singled in the second driving in a third run.

In the fourth, Home Builders went on the boards with a six-run surge. Three walks loaded the bases and a hit by Terry Skinner drove in a run. Doug Nicol reached on an error scoring a run and a throwing error on the play scored two more. Reggie Selby reached on an error scoring Nicol and after stealing second, Selby scored on a hit by Jay Wood.

Tim Harris had a RBI single and Hawkins and Wilson RBI walks to push over three more College View runs in the bottom of the fourth as CV inched into a tie, 6-6.

Home Builders came up with another rally in the sixth moving out, 12-6. Wood and Stallings knocked in two each and a hit by Skinner got a sixth tally. Micky McGrath scored on a wild pitch for the six-run lead.

Winsteaded off the sixth with a double for College View and scored when Harris reached on an error. Two outs later, three batters walked forcing in Harris. Ricky West singled driving in two runs and H. L. Austin reached on an error scoring Jimmy Clemmons.

The lights went out at that point with Winstead coming to bat a second time in the frame.

Splittorff Is Ready For All

By DAN GEORGE
AP Sports Writer

Three years ago, Paul Splittorff would not have been too happy about facing Jim Palmer.

But now the bespectacled left-hander and the Kansas City Royals are ready for anyone. "It doesn't make any difference any more with this club," Splittorff said Thursday night after hurling a four-hit, 7-0 victory over Palmer and the Baltimore Orioles. "We can beat anyone."

"Three years ago, we'd go out there against a team's top pitcher and we're beat. We weren't capable of beating them unless they had an off night. But not now."

Splittorff, aided by a pair of two-run homers from Amos Otis and John Mayberry, propelled Kansas City to its eighth victory in 10 games, while Baltimore dropped its sixth straight. It was the first shut-out of the season for Splittorff, 5-6.

In the other American League games, the Chicago White Sox routed the Milwaukee Brewers 12-5; the California Angels blanked the New York Yankees 2-0 and the Oakland A's stopped the Boston Red Sox 8-5.

Kansas City held a slim 3-0 lead against Palmer, 6-7, until Otis and Mayberry struck in the seventh. Otis' 11th homer of the year gave him the American League lead, while Mayberry hammered his sixth of the season and third in two games.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver bemoaned the Orioles' misfortunes, but found no fault with Palmer, the 1975 Cy Young award winner. "They should have had just one run going into the seventh," said Weaver. "Then he (Palmer) just gave Otis a fast-ball and he hit it. But I'll take his pitching against this club in this park any time."

White Sox 12, Brewers 5
Buddy Bradford knocked in four runs with a homer and an infield out and Jim Spencer slammed a two-run homer and an RBI single, powering Chicago over Milwaukee. Rookie Francisco Barrios, 1-1, celebrated his 23rd birthday by checking the Brewers on seven hits in his first major league start as the White Sox won their 18th game in 24.

Angels 2, Yankees 0
Frank Tanana limited New York to six hits and struck out 10 as California beat the Yankees. The Yankees' Rudy May, 4-3, also allowed six hits but three of them came in the third inning when the Angels scored both their runs.

A's 8, Red Sox 5
Don Baylor, Sal Bando, Phil Garner and Tim Hosley contributed doubles in a six-run eighth inning as Oakland rallied to beat Boston. A two-out throwing error by rookie third baseman Steve Dillard enabled the A's to tie the score in the eighth. Then they unloaded on Tom Murphy, the third of four Boston pitchers.

1st Metric Race Time

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Rain shortened the opening practice session for Sunday's Riverside 400 NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National, but David Pearson had time to make a run and set a record of sorts.

Pearson paced the section Thursday at Riverside International Raceway by averaging 175.976 kilometers per hour (109.384 miles per hour) his first time on the track for the historic first metric distance American stock car race.

Pearson was driving the Wood Brothers Mercury in which he won the Daytona 500, Charlotte World 600 and two other major races already this season.

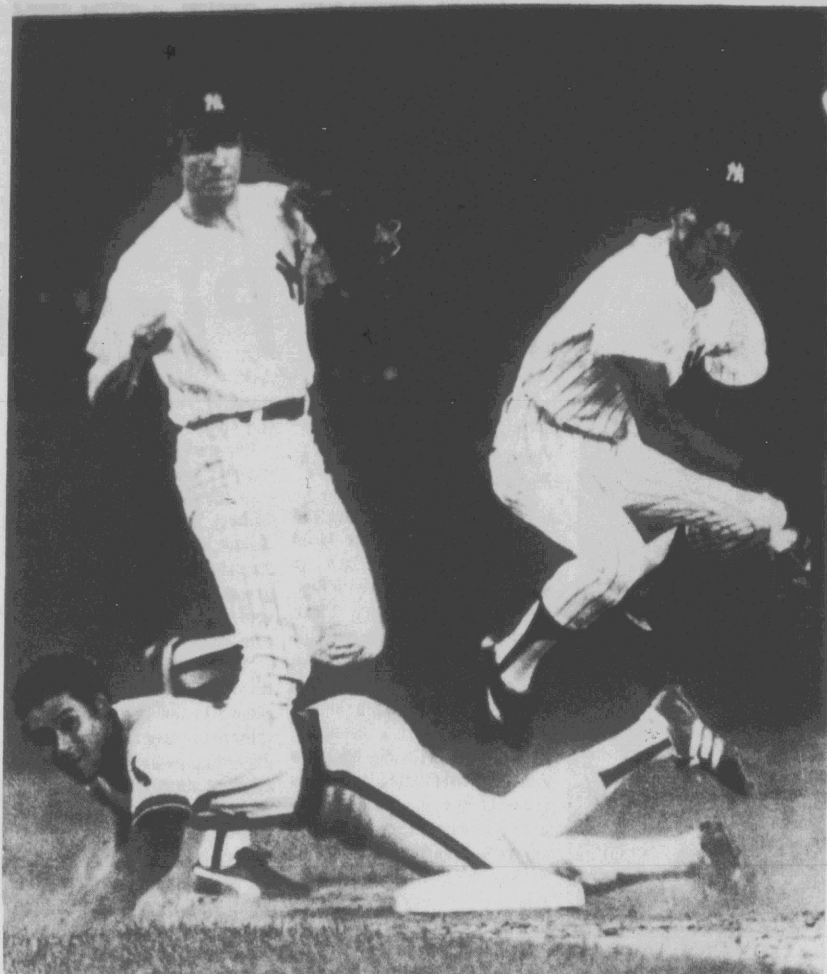

The effort was no threat, however, to the course record of Bobby Allison, whose 112.416 mph pole-winning speed last January for the Winston Western 500 converts metrically to 180.853 kph.

Only a portion of the field for the $124,925 race posted a practice time, since rain delayed the opening of the track until well past its scheduled closing.

Benny Parsons, Bobby Allison, Buddy Baker and Darrell Waltrip were the others posting fast times.

Practice runs were to resume today for the 400-kilometer race.

Reds Shake Dodgers, But Can't Shake Bees

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds are putting some ground between themselves and the Los Angeles Dodgers — but still can't shake a team of bees that seems to be chasing them around the National League.

"Are they following us?" Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson asked incredulously Thursday night.

It would seem that way, indeed. Earlier in the season, a Cincinnati game was held up for 30 minutes at Riverfront Stadium while an army of bees was gingerly removed from a dugout area.

Some Questions Were Answered

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino was back in his motel considering whether he'll be able to play in the U.S. Open and Mason Rudolph was stranded in the clubhouse, anxiously wondering if his 66 would be wiped out, when a violent thunderstorm swept the Quail Hollow Country Club course late Thursday afternoon.

Rudolph's question was answered. His six-under-par score stands, even though the round was postponed with almost half the field of 153 competitors in the $250,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament still to complete first-round play.

Trevino's question is unanswered. He doesn't yet know if he'll play in next week's national championship, a title he has won twice and for which he ranked as a leading contender this year.

"I don't know if I'll be able to play or not," Trevino said of the U.S. Open after a painful pinched nerve in his back forced him to withdraw before the start of this weather-plagued event.

"I'm gonna stay in Charlotte, rest, practice maybe if my back feels up to it. I'll beat some balls Sunday and then, depending on how my back feels, I'll make a decision on whether to play in Open."

The 42-year-old Rudolph, an easy-going, low-key, softly-drawling native of Tennessee, one-putted 10 times—including the last six holes he played—to pace the 78 men who completed play before the rain, wind and lightning struck the course.

Play was suspended for three hours before officials decided to postpone for the day and resume in the morning. Had they decided to cancel, all scores would have been wiped out. Since more than half the field

Perhaps not the same bees, but 20,000-odd relatives of the Cincinnati crowd invaded the Reds' bullpen at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium Thursday. These were hustled away by a beekeeper-dockworker. Accompanied by Guildoyle, Demko first sprayed the insects with a solution of sugar and water, then scooped the bees up by the fistful and poured them into a big box.

While the Pirate management was swatting bees, the Reds were swatting baseballs. George Foster, particularly, was hot, driving in his 51st and 52nd runs of the year to back Gullett's tough pitching. The victory boosted Cincinnati's lead over Los Angeles to four games in the National League West.

In the other National League games, the Chicago Cubs beat the Atlanta Braves 7-6; the Montreal Expos outscored the San Francisco Giants 6-5; the New York Mets blanked the San Diego Padres 6-0 and the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 10-6 in 12 innings.

Cubs 7, Braves 6
Two-run homers by Jose Cardenal and Rick Monday helped Chicago beat Atlanta and snap a six-game losing streak. The Braves managed three home runs as 25 mile-per-hour winds blew out, but saw their six-game winning streak come to an end.

Cardenal also contributed a double and a triple as Steve Renko, with late-inning help from Oscar Zamora, picked up his second victory since joining the club. Dick Ruthven, 6-6, took the loss.

Expos 6, Giants 5
Andre Thornton and Barry Foote each clouted two-run homers, the latter inside the park, carrying Montreal over San Francisco. Singles by Gary Matthews and Gary Thomasson and Chris Speier's sacrifice fly gave the Giants a 1-0 lead off winner Don Carrithers, 2-4, in the second before Montreal took the lead for good in the fourth.

Mets 6, Padres 0
Left-hander Jon Matlack hurled his third shutout of the season with a five-hitter to spark New York over San Diego. Matlack, who improved his record to 7-1 with his eighth complete game of the season, struck out eight and walked five while halting a five-game San Diego winning streak, longest in the club's history.

Phillies 10, Dodgers 6
Dick Allen slugged his fourth home run leading off the 12th inning and Bob Boone tripled for two more runs as Philadelphia scored four times to break a tie and defeat Los Angeles. Tug McGraw, who came into the game in the 10th inning and needed relief help from Ron Schuler in the 12th, earned his fourth victory in seven decisions as the Phillies won three out of four games from the Dodgers.

A Lot Of Scrambling Going On In Basketball

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Moses Malone and Rick Barry may switch, but Bill Fitch has elected to fight.

With the last dribble, give-and-go and two-handed stuff of the 1975-76 pro cage season completed, the New York Knicks engaged a fast-break on the signing front, the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce went into a full-court pressing defense concerning their Braves and the National Basketball Association went to their big man — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar — to lead the All-Star team.

These were just some of the developments Thursday, four days after the Boston Celtics claimed their 13th NBA championship.

The NBA New Orleans Jazz are talking to Malone, a 6-foot-10 center who signed with the Utah Stars of the American Basketball Association straight out of high school. Malone, now property of the ABA's Spirit of St. Louis, could become a free agent if a proposed merger of the two leagues is approved.

"We talked about what would happen in case of a merger, if there is no merger, if the ABA folds, if it doesn't fold, all the options we had," the Jazz' attorney, Sheldon Beychok, said of his discussions with Lee Fentress, Malone's agent.

"He wants a lot for Malone," Beychok said. "He's asking big figures, but we're going to do what we can to get him."

Beychok said the NBA's Board of Governors, who meet next week in Hyannis, Mass., will decide whether to accept four ABA teams into the league and all the ramifications involved in that expansion.

Meanwhile, the Knicks had no such problem with a former ABA player. They signed Luther "Ticky" Burden, their second round draft choice a year ago. Burden played last season for the now-defunct Virginia Squires, leading that ABA team in scoring with a 19.9 average.

Rick Barry, who has starred in both leagues, reportedly may quit the game to become a television sports announcer.

"Should CBS pay Rick Barry enough money — and there's no question that CBS can pay him enough — Barry will leave the Golden State Warriors and join CBS as a sports commentator this year," CBS sports announcer Brent Musburger told the Montana Broadcasters Association's annual convention Thursday.

"Golden State now pays Barry $250,000. We would have to come up with something close to that in order for him to sign. If we can, Barry will jump in a minute," Musburger said.

Bill Fitch, who has coached the NBA Cleveland Cavaliers from their inception six years ago to a berth in the playoffs this past season, says he wants out of his $75,000-a-year job.

Fitch, who was blasted publicly by Cavaliers President Nick Mileti while Cleveland was in the playoffs, has retained two attorneys to negotiate with Mileti on his release.

On May 10, Mileti called Fitch an ordinary coach and said Fitch asked to be released from his contract to take a similar job with the Los Angeles Lakers.

"First of all, I never talked to L.A. or any club," Fitch said Thursday. "I told him I would love to coach in Los Angeles. I also said I would like to coach in New York, but I didn't hear from anyone."

Ray Scott, former Detroit Pistons coach, said he has been contacted by the Chicago Bulls, but he denied he was offered the job. Scott is now head coach at Eastern Michigan while the Bulls are leaderless.

In Buffalo, the Area Chamber of Commerce said they haven't thrown in the towel in their attempt to keep the Braves in Buffalo. Braves' owner Paul Snyder, who has been talking to investors from Hollywood, Fla., who are interested in buying the NBA franchise, said the team will remain in Buffalo if 5,000 season tickets are sold by Saturday.

The Braves said that they had sold 2,304 season tickets as of Wednesday.

The NBA Washington Bullets signed one of their two first-round draft choices Thursday — 6-1 Larry Wright of Grambling. Wright, who renounced his college eligibility in order to be available for the draft, averaged 23.5 points a game in his three years at Grambling.

Abdul-Jabbar, the 7-3 center of the Los Angeles Lakers, was named to the NBA's All-Star team for the sixth time after winning his first league rebounding title. Others named to the first team were forwards George McGinnis of the Philadelphia 76ers and Rick Barry, and guards Nate Archibald of the Kansas City Kings and Pete Maravich of the New Orleans Jazz.

Selected to the second team were forwards Elvin Hayes of Washington and John Havlicek of Boston; center Dave Cowens of Boston and guards Phil Smith of Gold State and Randy Smith of Buffalo.

And in Philadelphia, a municipal court judge ruled that 76er Joe Bryant's rights had been violated by an illegal police search, thus acquitting the basketball player of drug possession and resisting arrest charges.

"You are an idol among Philadelphia youngsters," Judge Simmons told Bryant. "I would hope you continue to earn that idolatry."

Dog Symbol Of Energy Plan

BALTIMORE (AP) — After throwing out such suggestions as Bawlamer's Watts Dog, Count De Bucks, and Freddy Frugal, city officials have settled on Conservo as the name for the dog that will symbolize an energy conservation campaign.

The winning suggestion was one of 1,744 names submitted by city employees who will participate in the Waster Watchers Program.

The runnerup nickname was B.O.W.S.E.R. — an acronym for Baltimore Outlaws Waste and Saves Energy Regularly.

How's The Weather?

FORECAST Until Saturday

WEATHER FORECAST—Cool weather is expected today for the West and warm weather in the East. Scattered areas of showers are forecast across the country. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A weak high-pressure system over the southeastern section of the nation continues to dominate the North Carolina weather picture with little change expected tonight or Saturday. This weather system has brought warm temperatures and very hazy conditions, along with some widely-scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers to North Carolina.

Thundershowers developed Thursday across most sections of the state with heavy thundershowers occurring over the Piedmont sections. A heavy thunderstorm moved through the Charlotte area during the late afternoon, giving Douglas Airport .86 inches of rain in less than an hour. During the evening, thundershowers accompanied by heavy rains, high winds and hail were reported in Anson and Union counties, causing some creeks to rise out of their banks. A heavy thunderstorm also knocked power out in Greensboro and created a threat of flooding.

Temperatures across the state Thursday afternoon showed quite a range as most sections saw high readings in the 80s. Once again, Raleigh-Durham had the highest reading as the mercury crossed the 90-degree mark for the second straight day. Thursday's high was 91 at Raleigh-Durham.

Elsewhere across the state, highs ranged from 76 at Cape Hatteras to 86 at Charlotte. Around the state during the night, skies were partly cloudy with some fog forming during the early morning hours in mountain valleys and along the coast. Temperatures during the night dropped into the 60s in the mountains and were generally in the 60s east of the mountains.

Recreational weather outlook: Little change is anticipated across North Carolina through Saturday. It will be hot and hazy under partly cloudy skies and there will continue to be a chance of afternoon and evening thundershowers. Highs will be in the upper 80s to low 90s, except for normally cooler temperatures along the Outer Banks and in the mountains. Along the coast, winds will be southwesterly at 10-15 knots.

Dinah Offering Happy Variety

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—In case you missed the opening show, we suggest you take a look Saturday night at the second edition of Dinah Shore's eight-week summer variety series on CBS.

It guest-stars comic George Carlin, singer-comic Jim Stafford and has a six-member company of fresh young (that means little bread but lots of exposure) troops who do comedy and a bit of music here and there.

We observed the wares in advance and are of the opinion that while it won't bowl you over, it's good summer viewing, has a sprightly manner and even will make you laugh out loud now and then.

Miss Shore, star of a syndicated weekly show, hasn't a whole lot to do here, but she does it nicely, singing one song, introducing people and making no attempt to hog the spotlight or appear in every skit.

Which gives the participants a chance to stretch out, with comics Mike Neun and Michael Preminger scoring as best of the newcomers with funny monologues respectively involving the marriage of Neun's hippie brother and Preminger's discussion of life in the Air Force reserves.

The only new face failing to hack it is a chap named Avello Falana, identified as Lola's brother. His main contribution is to sing "Baby, You're No Good" with his shirt open to the sternum.

Carlin, of course, is as wild and funny as ever with a monologue that uses material those who've heard his comedy albums or seen him in concert will immediately recognize.

Stafford, whose ABC summer variety show last year didn't strike me as one of the world's best, is surprisingly effective on the Shore show, no doubt because the producers are wise enough to realize he's an excellent musician as well as a comedy singer.

Even when he's making funny faces, he plays a fine, slow blues on the banjo (you don't hear that sort of thing much anymore) before moving into a very original blues song.

He returns later on with sensitive solo guitar backing of Miss Shore as she sings her one song of the hour. Hope she brings him back for an encore this summer.

Prison Bribe Probe Slated

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A formal investigation is expected to begin shortly into alleged bribing of Robeson County prison unit personnel, according to Lin Harton, an area State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) director.

SBI Director Heywood Starling confirmed Thursday the SBI is conducting a preliminary probe.

The allegation that prison personnel took bribes from an inmate was first reported in The Fayetteville Times.

Harton said his office has been reviewing the case with Robeson County Dist. Atty. Joe Freeman's office to determine jurisdiction.

"It falls under our jurisdiction and I expect we'll begin a full investigation either Friday or Monday," Harton said.

The inmate, McKeithan Jones of Robeson County, is imprisoned now in Moore County. He bribed six prison officials with money and materials in exchange for favors, according to grievances he filed with the state Inmate Grievance Commission.
