China Quake Area Awaits More Tremors

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Chinese officials ordered millions of people in northeast China into the streets before dawn today in anticipation of massive new earthquakes.
The Australian Broadcasting Commission's Peking correspondent reported that the Foreign Ministry telephoned all foreign diplomatic missions before dawn to warn that another serious quake was expected.
"We were awakened at 4 a.m. and told to get into the open," David Dean, deputy chief of the U.S. Liaison Office in Peking, reported by telephone.
"Most of the population of Peking is camped outside. But another big quake hasn't happened yet, and we hope it doesn't."
The Australia correspondent, Warren Duncan, said officials toured the capital blowing whistles and shouting warnings, urging people to leave their beds and move outdoors. He said more tents and makeshift shelters were thrown up in open spaces, but there was "a mood of absolute calm."
Reports from various sources indicated that Tangshan, a coal-mining and industrial city of a million people about 80 miles east-southeast of Peking, was hit hardest by the first great quake early Wednesday.

Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said Tangshan "suffered extremely serious damage and losses." A Japanese technician who was in the city reported that "most buildings that we could see collapsed." There was speculation that some of the Kailun coal mines there had caved in, entombing miners on the overnight shift.
Reports in Japanese newspapers from a French delegation in Tangshan gave the impression the city had been totally destroyed and that tens of thousands might be dead.
The Chinese customarily withhold details of loss of life following natural catastrophes on the assumption that such bad news gives comfort to their enemies.
The quake also did extensive damage to Tientsin, China's third largest city 40 miles southwest of Tangshan, and caused some damage and casualties in Peking.
Dean said Thomas Gates, chief of the U.S. Liaison Office, personally offered American aid to the Chinese government and the same offer had been

Record Profits For Big 3 Of Auto-Making

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry profits rose to a record $1.5 billion in the second quarter as the Big Three car makers parlayed a robust market recovery into record-shattering financial performances.
Ford Motors Co. on Thursday reported that its net profits in the April-June period hit an all-time high of $442 million, more than four times its depressed earnings of a year ago. General Motors and Chrysler reported new profit marks earlier in the week.
The industry's return to prosperity following a two-year slump provoked demands by the United Auto Workers for a fair share of the profits "which are bulging the companies' pockets."
Financial analysts also said the makers' high profits will make it difficult for consumers to accept expected price hikes on new cars this fall.
"The industry can justify these high earnings in terms of future investment needs and point to cost increases for materials and labor," said an analyst in Detroit. "But the public will have great difficulty in understanding the reasons for higher car prices."
The analyst added that price increases would not have much impact on the current sales boom, which is expected to grow stronger next year.
The companies do not announce new-model prices until next month, but they have hinted prices may go up as much as 6 per cent, or about $300 to $350 a car.
The UAW, which opened talks with the industry last week on new three-year contracts, said the companies' profits "leave no doubt" they can meet union demands for improved wages, fringe benefits and job security.

"Our members are in large measure responsible for the tremendous profits," said UAW Vice President Ken Bannon, who heads the union's bargaining team at Ford.
Ford's latest earnings, up from $107 million a year ago, topped the previous quarterly record of $394 million set in the second quarter of 1975. Worldwide dollar sales of $8 billion also set a record, rising 27 per cent over $6.3 billion a year ago.
GM reported second-quarter earnings of $909 million, the most ever made in a three-month period by an industrial firm. Chrysler posted record profits of $155 million.
American Motors, the only maker not sharing in the industry's strong sales rebound, reported a $3.9 million loss for the quarter.

All Three Sought In Kidnap Case Jailed

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Three young men sought in the kidnaping of 26 school children and their bus driver are in jail. But authorities say they are pressing their investigation for unidentified suspects who may have been involved in the bizarre mass abduction.

The case broke wide open Thursday with the arrests of Frederick N. Woods in Vancouver, Canada, and his former schoolmate, James Schoenfeld, near Schoenfeld's San Francisco Peninsula home.
The arrests, just five hours apart after a week-long search for the pair, came as Richard only persons sought on arrest warrants in the case, authorities are pursuing various leads that may bring about more arrests.

Thursday's developments tumbled out rapidly, beginning with the arrest of James Schoenfeld, 24, shortly before 7 a.m. in Menlo Park, Calif. FBI agents said Schoenfeld was spotted Wednesday night driving a green van with Idaho license plates by "a person who knew him well." Police spotted the van again Thursday morning and made the arrest without incident.
His arrest so close to home was something of a surprise since authorities had said earlier that Schoenfeld had tried twice to cross the Canadian border nearly two weeks ago and had been linked to incidents in Reno, Nev., Spokane, Wash., and Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Schoenfeld pleaded innocent to 43 felony counts at an arraignment in this small farming community where the kidnaping took place July 15. All three are held on bail of $1 million each.
Although Woods and the Schoenfeld brothers were the than five days ago on a commercial airliner from Reno. He was immediately returned to this country. He appeared before a federal magistrate in Bellingham, Wash., and waived extradition to California.

Woods is to be returned here today or Saturday.
Meanwhile, Schoenfeld's brother, Richard, who surrendered last Friday, was arraigned in the small Chowchilla courthouse while some 350 reporters and curious residents gathered outside, and armed policemen kept watch from nearby rooftops.
Schoenfeld was charged with 27 counts of kidnaping and 16 counts of armed robbery. The robbery charges stem from the taking of clothes and other items from the kidnap victims.

War Rages In Lebanon

BY FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (ap) — Lebanon's civil war raged on today despite an agreement between Syria and the Palestinians on a peace plan.
Damascus Radio announced Thursday night that the Lebanese Christians' Syrian protectors and the Lebanese Moslems' Palestinian allies agreed on procedures for a cease-fire and political negotiations. The Christians' radio indicated they might accept the plan.
The agreement calls for a nationwide cease-fire supervised by a committee of Syrians, Palestinians and Lebanese Moslems, an Arab League peace-keeping force, a roundtable conference of the right-wing Christians and left-wing Moslems to work out a new political system in which they would share power equally, and a national unity government.
However, the peace talk had no effect on the fighting. Right-wing Christians and leftist Moslems hammered each other with mortars, rockets and tank guns on all fronts, and there was a new wave of abductions and executions.
Security sources and spokesmen for both sides reported heavy fighting all night in Beirut and the neighboring mountain resorts. Syrian forces were reported to have clashed with the Palestinians in southern and eastern Lebanon.
Hospitals and security sources reported that 124 persons were killed and 165 wounded in the past 36 hours.
Among those kidnaped was a

Attorney Edward Merrill said Schoenfeld had returned to California to surrender that morning to Merrill's law partner, William Gagen. "He was supposed to be in our office this morning at 8 a.m. to make arrangements to surrender," said Merrill.
Gagen said Schoenfeld had been in the area for several days, "perhaps camping on a beach." He said both brothers were "very naive" as to the seriousness of the charges against them.
About noon, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, acting on a tip from San Francisco FBI agents, arrested Woods, 24, at a Vancouver post office. Woods' father owns the quarry in Livermore, Calif., where the school children and their bus driver were held captive in a buried moving van for 18 hours before they managed to dig free.
Officials said Woods, using an alias, entered Canada more

A 27-year-old Rt. 1, Greenville man was arrested and some 41 pounds of marijuana confiscated in a raid conducted near here Thursday afternoon.
Police Chief Glenn Cannon said that local police, Pitt Deputies and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation arrested James William Sumrell and charged him with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute.
Cannon said that the arrest took place on Rt. 1, Greenville at a mobile home around 5:40 p.m. Bond for Sumrell was set at $5,000, he added.
Officers confiscated 18 and one-half bricks of marijuana, according to the chief, packaged in brown paper bags. Street value of the marijuana is some $13,120, Cannon said.
He noted that the marijuana was found in a middle bedroom of the mobile home.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMS
The Post Office has informed me that they are no longer related to the Civil Service Exam system. I would like to know what procedure I should follow to take the Civil Service test. Who should I contact to find out the procedure? R. M.

We called the Greenville Post Office and were told that, as you said, the Post Office is no longer responsible for administering any type of Civil Service examination. They said that Civil Service tests are given in a room at the Post Office and that arrangements should be made by calling a toll-free number at the Civil Service Commission in Raleigh, 1-800-662-7720.
HOTLINE called that number to inquire about the procedures in getting a Civil Service exam in Greenville. Maggie Anderson, job information clerk, said that many types of exams exist, depending on the kind of job for which a person wants to be tested and on the experience level of the individual. She offered to send you a list of the various types which are available, so we gave her your name and address. You should contact her at this toll-free number to set up a time for your exam to be administered, or to get any additional information you might need.

Duo Rob Bank In Greensboro

GREENSBORO (AP) — Two masked gunmen men escaped with an undisclosed amount from the Friendship branch of the First Citizens Bank & Trust Co. Thursday in North Carolina's 28th bank robbery of the year.
The FBI said they escaped in a 1962 Chevrolet driven by a third person.
The car was recovered in an industrial parking lot a mile away. The robbers dropped or threw away $307.10 in coins in the parking lot, the FBI said.

Storm Building?

MIAMI (AP) — A system of heavy thunderstorms and strong winds has developed in the mid-Atlantic Ocean and might strengthen later today into the first tropical storm of the 1976 season, forecasters said.
Paul Hebert of the National Hurricane Center said reports from ships in the area, about 1,200 miles east-southeast of Bermuda, report the system's highest sustained winds at about 30 miles an hour.
If its winds exceed 39 m.p.h., the system will be called a tropical storm and named Anna, he said.
He said the system will move toward the east-northeast at about 25 m.p.h. and does not pose a threat to any land area today.
The Atlantic hurricane season begins June 1 and runs through Nov. 30. Last week, forecasters expressed some surprise that there had been no tropical storm activity so far.

Riders taking advantage of the Greenville Area Transit (GREAT) free introductory service yesterday enjoyed the convenience, the smoothness of the ride . . . and the comfort of air conditioning.
Don Barnes of 109 Avon Lane said he would definitely be using the GREAT system in the future.
"I won't be riding the bus every day, but I'll definitely use it," he said.

"It's a nice little bus. It reminds me of the jitneys in Atlantic City."
"I think something like this is a good idea, instead of one of those monster-sized buses other towns use."
Edna Speller of 1800-A W. Third St. will take the bus to Pitt Plaza.
"The bus is really nice," she said.
"So far, I love it! The air conditioning feels good." She found that the cost of a bus ride compared quite favorably with that of a taxi ride.

"The bus fare is really worth it," she said.
"It's a whole lot better than taking a cab and paying more to go the same distance."
Linda Lee of 509 W. Fifth St. said college students will appreciate the service.
"I know I will use the bus," she said.
"I don't have a car, and as a college student it will help me out a lot."

Ms. Lee also liked the appearance of the bus.
"It's like the size of the windows. The bus looks airy and I can see where I'm going."
"Riding the bus is cheaper than driving, and it's a lot easier to sit there and let somebody else do the driving for you."
Tony Taylor of 403-B Dudley St. will use the bus "to go to places I can't walk to."
"It's nice and cool inside with the air conditioning," he said.
"The seats are comfortable. It's really easy for me to catch the bus, since it stops right in front of my house."
"They're really all right."
Mark Jones of 106 Heritage St. liked the smooth ride.
"It's comfortable in here," he said.
"I'll use the bus to go places where I can shop. And it'll be easy to catch the bus."
Mark's sister Phyllis Jones found the buses "very comfortable and very safe."
"The windows are large enough to handle emergencies."
"I'll use the bus to go shopping, to go uptown and other places when my parents can't take me or don't have the car."
"And I like the air-conditioning. People like that instead of having to ride in steam-up hot buses."
"There's a stop just down the street and around the corner, so I can catch the bus easily."

Privette Proposes Plan For Reducing School Class-Size

The Associated Press
Republican gubernatorial candidate Coy Privette proposed today a plan for reducing class size in the elementary grades of the public schools without additional costs.
In a position paper on education, Privette said he would do this over a five-year period by increasing class size in the high schools.
Saying that test results show that "something is wrong" in the schools, Privette said that smaller classes would enable teachers to give young pupils more individual attention.
"If the student has more individual attention, he will be more likely to become better motivated to learn, to develop good study habits, and to have a positive attitude toward education," Privette said.
The GOP candidates also proposed:
—Repeal of the tenure law which, he said, virtually guarantees a teacher his or her job "regardless of how mediocre the performance."
—A return to basics by "giving the highest priority to teaching the skills of literate speech and writing."
—Giving local school boards more authority with "more latitude to plan the curriculum, instructional methods, textbook selection, etc., within the framework of general guidelines."
Waverly Akins, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, has strongly criticized Gov. Jim Holshouser for refusing to call a special session of the legislature to rewrite North Carolina's death penalty laws.

The state's death penalty statute was recently ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court at the same time it upheld capital punishment laws of three other states.
Akins said waiting until the new legislative session convenes in January to enact a new death penalty law creates an unfair situation. Some capital offenders will be given sentences of life imprisonment, while offenders convicted after a new law is passed might get death.
Akins also proposed that a state agency be established to oversee juvenile detention programs in the state. He said only eight of the state's counties have detention homes. In the other 92 counties, juvenile offenders are detained for short periods in adult jails.
Insurance Commissioner John Ingram criticized his opponent's proposal to create a North Carolina Insurance Rate Commission.
"People are fed up with commissions not elected by the people deciding rate matters which affect their everyday lives," Ingram said Thursday.
Joseph Johnson, Ingram's Democratic primary opponent, proposed Wednesday that the commission be established to rule on insurance rates. The insurance commissioner would be a voting member and ex officio chairman.
Johnson replied to Ingram's criticism of his rate commission proposal by saying that Ingram, who alone approves insurance rates in the state "apparently prefers one man rule which has proven in a long series of court cases to be arbitrary and capricious."

"When a single elected official can for three years not find time to hold hearings on rate reduction requests and thereby cost the consumers of North Carolina $15 million dollars, it's time for a change," Johnson declared.
Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ed O'Herron called for restitution to victims of violent crimes for medical expenses, wage loss and other direct out-of-pocket expenses.
"I recognize that this could not apply in every case," O'Herron told a Raleigh news conference. "Yet, offenders should be encouraged to pay restitution to the crime victim, whenever possible. This would not alter the traditional concept of punishment."
O'Herron said restitution should be part of parole or probation or could be included in work release programs.
In still another press conference, Democratic candidate for governor Tom Strickland pledged to begin an affirmative action program to help small businesses and contractors win state contracts.
Strickland said he would set up a governor's committee to ensure that state contracts go to North Carolina businesses whenever possible and to help smaller businesses bid on contracts.

He suggested that licensing procedures be changed so that the cost of a state contractor's license is added into the amount of a bid. Small businesses could then afford to bid on state jobs, he said.
Walter E. Fuller, candidate for state auditor, told a group of law enforcement officials at Wrightsville Beach that if elected, he would initiate policy allowing law enforcement officers to retire at age 55 with 25 years of service with no deduction from retirement pay.
Two Hurt In Car Collision
Two persons were injured and one of two drivers involved in a Thursday afternoon wreck was charged following investigation by Greenville Police.
Officers reported that Ingrid Renee Jones of 1613 Lincoln Drive, and a passenger in the car she was operating, were injured in the 5:15 p.m. wreck at the intersection of W. Third Street and Pitt Street.
The injured were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment.
Officers, who charged Renee Jones with failing to yield right of way, said the second vehicle involved in the wreck was operated by Ella Braswell Jenkins of 1805 W. Conley Street.
Damage to the Jones car was set at $650 and $850 to the Jenkins vehicle.
Jeffrey Lawrence Campbell of 208 West Haven Drive was charged with driving left of the center line by police who investigated a 9:30 p.m. collision Thursday on E. Wright Road east from S. Wright Road toward Garrett Drive.
Police, who reported no injuries, said the wreck involved vehicles driven by Campbell and James Frederick Bowman of 1013 E. Wright Road.
Damage was set at $1,000 to the Campbell vehicle and $70 to the Bowman car.

AYDEN—Ayden is one of 34 local governments that will receive state grants amounting to $3 million for water supply improvements, according to Phillip Kirk, Jr., Human Resources Secretary.
Ayden will receive $4,884. Official distribution of the clean water bonds was approved by the voters in a 1972 referendum.
The new grants, the eighth such group to be disbursed, brings the number of the state grants approved to 345 and totals $59 million committed for water supply system improvement projects in North Carolina.

Hospital's Settlement Was Made Too Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the jury prepared to give its verdict in a $3.5-million malpractice suit, attorneys for Holy Cross Hospital agreed at the last minute to pay a $500,000 settlement.
The 12 jurors then were dismissed before they had the chance to announce their verdict — in favor of the hospital.
The last-minute agreement came Thursday at the end of an eight-day trial after the foreman of the circuit court jury knocked on the jury room door to indicate that 10 hours of deliberation had yielded a verdict.
The lawyers for both sides huddled and agreed on the $500,000 settlement. The judge then announced the settlement and dismissed the jurors.
As attorneys for both sides were shaking hands outside the courtroom, the jurors filed past them and mentioned that if they had been allowed to return the verdict, it would have been in favor of the hospital.
Edward and Myra Farrell had sued the hospital, claiming that their son, Jimmy, now 6, was blinded shortly after his birth at the suburban Silver Spring, Md., hospital as the result of negligence by the hospital and two doctors.
The suit argued that an excessive amount of oxygen was administered to the infant after he was born two weeks prematurely on Oct. 12, 1969, and that the oxygen apparently led to the development of a rare disease that destroyed the boy's sight.
During the trial, attorney David Goldberg had argued for the Farrells that the hospital and doctors in charge of the delivery room were negligent in failing to ensure that the oxygen pumped into the infant's incubator turned off before its concentration became dangerously high.

Hospital lawyers argued that the child was having difficulty breathing. Without oxygen, they said, Jimmy may have suffered brain damage.
The Farrells, accompanied by Jimmy, a talkative and energetic boy who during jury deliberation asked his father if he could become a lawyer, had little comment afterwards.
An airport security guard, Farrell said he felt the settlement vindicated his beliefs about the case.
About a third of the settlement will go to Goldberg and his co-attorney, David Humphreys. The Farrells said they will put the remainder into a trust fund for Jimmy's education.

Yugoslavia Is Land Of Tomorrow

By RICHARD C. GROSS
BELGRADE (UPI) — The first words learned by a newcomer to Yugoslavia are "there is none" and "tomorrow." They accurately describe living conditions in this land of yesterday.

Marketing and shopping, for a Westerner, is an experience in frustration in this Communist nation. What is visible in a store one day is gone the next because it was the only one of its kind.

More often than not, shirts and skirts and slacks and jackets come only in a few sizes.

When asked for something, the matter-of-fact salesperson usually replies, "There is none."

Shortages of a wide variety of goods are common. But there is more than an ample supply in the supermarkets of certain canned goods such as sardines, packaged instant soups and the basic commodities of cooking oil, sugar, salt and flour.

Comparably, trying to achieve something swiftly, particularly a repair, inevitably meets with the response, "Wait until tomorrow."

Tomorrow can be forever in Yugoslavia.

These examples reflect a way of life and an attitude towards it that put Yugoslavia at least 30 years behind Western times, a slow-as-you-go atmosphere which exhibits as its best attribute the warmth and friendliness of a people who seem to have time for everything.

Bridesmaids Luncheon Held

A bridesmaid's luncheon honoring Miss Laura Lee Turnage was held Friday at the home of Mrs. George W. Davis and was hosted by Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Harold Allred, Mrs. A. B. Tyson, Mrs. Ben Lewis, and Mrs. Frank Crews Jr.

The home was decorated throughout the bouquets of summer flowers in yellow and white and featured of daisies. Yellow tapers and greenery completed the decor.

The dining room table was covered with a hand-embroidered grass linen cloth from china and the place of honor was marked by a nosegay of daisies, yellow roses, and baby's breath. The other guests found their places designated by place cards accented with yellow satin ribbons and a single daisy.

Pilot Members View Film

The July meeting of the Pilot Club of Greenville was held Monday night. Kay Whitehurst introduced the program which featured a film "How to Say No to a Rapist and Survive."

The film of a lecture by Frederick Storaska offers suggestions for self-protection to possible victims of assaults.

President Addie Jenkins presided at the meeting. Guests included Doris Phelps, Faye Barber, Helen Worthington and Melva Howard.

Treasurer Juanita McCarthy presented several official club reports and division reports were also given. One of the activities being planned is the sale of listings for the Community Birthday Calendar.

Delegates Addie Jenkins and Sue Smith reported on the Pilot International Convention held in Toronto, Canada.

The next meeting will be held Aug. 23 and 6:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn. Ruby Fields, leadership area leader, will present the program.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gray, Rt. 8, Greenville, a son, Ryan Thomas, on July 28, 1976, in Pitt Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Gray is the former Katherine Whitaker of Robersonville.

In fact, the main traffic in the town of Sabac, only 35 miles (60 km) west of Belgrade, is the horse and wagon. Picturesque, yes.

But this life style carries with it frustration, not only for the Westerner but also for the Yugoslav businessman who complains about low productivity in the factories. Industrial productivity is up only 0.5 per cent so far this year, according to statistics.

An American executive of a U.S. construction firm that is building a chemical plant near Belgrade recently was forced to postpone his departure for another assignment because the project ran into repeated delays. The plant has been five years in the building.

"It's impossible and I'm thoroughly frustrated," he said. "The Yugoslavs want these modern things like chemical plants, but when it gets down to doing it, they fall apart. They come to work early but then they break off for coffee after two hours and that's it for the day. 'Tomorrow,' they say. It's always 'tomorrow.'"

Going to work early means 6 a.m., the start of the rush hour in this drab capital. It is a holdover from peasant days and most Yugoslavs — particularly in Serbia — have come to the cities from the farm.

That today's city dwellers brought the farm ways with them is evident in their life styles extending beyond the early-to-bed, early-to-rise syndrome.

Chickens peck in the front yards of homes not five minutes by car from central Belgrade.

Insurance Women Hear Guest Speaker

The Pitt County Insurance Women held their dinner meeting at the Ramada Inn Wednesday night. Tommy Sasser was speaker for the evening.

With Crum and Foster, Sasser spoke on Worker's Compensation Insurance. Phil Dixon, attorney with the firm of Gaylord, Singleton and McNally, helped with the question and answer session that followed the program.

Other guests were Linda Askew, who works with the compensation claims for Pitt County, and Barbara Sasser.

Club members will be participating in a "mark-a-thon" which will be held at Pair Electronics Aug. 5 and at the polls during the state primary election Aug. 17. "Operation Lace," a public speaking course which has been in session for five months will be completed in August. Members were urged to attend the Stanley party on Aug. 10 to raise money for various charity projects.

The meeting was conducted by President Joyce Mills and Georgia Hall gave the club collect.

Marriage Announced

Mrs. Alfred Harper of Hookerton announces the marriage of her daughter, Shelby Jean Harper Johnson, to Harold Humbles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Humbles of Greenville, in a private ceremony at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church on July 23. The couple will reside near Greenville.

Personal

Ritchie Puryear of Greenville is now a patient in Forsyth Memorial Hospital, Whitaker Rehab. room C-405, Winston-Salem.

Vegetable gardens are in every backyard, with the set piece of all of them the Yugoslav dietary favorite, Onions.

A tree in a yard is not a real tree unless it bears fruit. Cherry, apricot, plum, peach and walnut trees are most common and the old peasant women in some of those homes sell their surplus on the open markets set off from the streets, like parking lots.

That Yugoslavs go to sleep early is evident by the television hours they keep. Broadcasting ends at 10:30 p.m. on weeknights, stretching to midnight Friday and Saturday.

The Western community, of which there are more than 100 Americans, considers Yugoslavia a hardship post though by far the living conditions are better than in Moscow or anywhere in the Soviet bloc.

The British government recently cut the tour of duty for embassy personnel from two years to 18 months. The wives were complaining too much.

The U.S. government, in efforts to make life as comfortable as possible for its embassy staff, ships in everything from aluminum foil for the housewives to bubblegum for the kids. It subsidizes the international school, attended by English-speaking foreign children.

"After this, no more hardship posts, believe me," said the wife of an embassy official who shortly will return to the United States.

Friends Urge Lady To Fill Tooth Gap

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1976 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Suppose you had a friend who had a tooth missing right in the front of her mouth, and she kept saying she plans on getting it fixed, but it costs too much money.

This friend is always buying presents for others, but she keeps putting off getting a new tooth. Everyone keeps urging her to get that missing tooth replaced, but it's been years and she still hasn't done it.

Abby, how do you tell a person that even though she may be used to going without a tooth in front, those who have to look at her can't get used to it, and they wish she'd get it fixed?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: If the sight of a missing tooth bothers you, that's YOUR problem and it's up to you to handle it. (P.S. Perhaps if enough friends can't stand to look at it, they'll take up a collection for the dental work. Since you seem so concerned, I nominate you to head the project.)

DEAR ABBY: A ring is not positive proof of anything. I am a single woman who wears a wedding ring to work. Why? To keep the married swingers from bothering me. Pass the idea along. It works.

PROTECTED

DEAR PROTECTED: There's only one drawback to your idea. It keeps the SINGLE men from bothering you, too. But if you don't want to be bothered by anybody, it's a good idea.

DEAR ABBY: One of the girls who works where I work is getting married next Saturday. Everyone else who works here received a printed invitation to the wedding and reception three weeks ago. They all gave her gifts.

She gave me an "invitation" this morning by mouth, and I can't make it. Must I give her a gift?

SLIGHTED

DEAR SLIGHTED: Give her a gift "by mouth." Say, "Best wishes."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were kidding around, and we agreed to tell each other our fantasies.

First I told him about mine, and he got so mad he started to yell and call me all sorts of names.

After he calmed down, I asked him to keep his part of the bargain and tell me his, and he said all his fantasies were about me. (Do you believe that?)

I don't really have a problem, Abby. The real reason I write is this: If a married woman ever writes and asks you if she should tell her fantasies to her husband, tell her not to. It's the dumbest thing I ever did.

Progressive Record For Board

William A. Johnson, who was elected chairman of the UNC Board of Governors recently replacing William Dees of Goldsboro, sees the medical school development at ECU as "moving along at a very good pace now."

Johnson discussed the medical school's development in an interview with The Daily Reflector.

"Hopefully we'll be ready to admit the first class in September, 1977," he said.

"I have no doubt in my own mind... and it's going to take time... it will be a first class institution. We can't afford to let it be anything else."

"I don't think many people realize the magnitude of the undertaking initially," he continued. "The people at East Carolina have done a good job in preparing for the admission of the first class."

Johnson cited the resolving of the medical school issue "and the development of the first class institution there" as one of the accomplishments of the UNC system since it was created in 1972.

He also pointed to the development of the university's five year plan and the study of the five historically black institutions as progressive steps taken by the board.

The UNC board of governors faced an immense task when it took over the job of setting policy for all the state's institutions of higher learning back in 1972. Much progress has been made since then. Certainly one of the most difficult tasks was resolving the ECU medical school issue and then proceeding to develop which we feel will be an outstanding medical school at East Carolina University.

Strategy Would Be A Breach Of Faith

There are reports that supporters of Ronald Reagan might consider not voting on the first ballot at the Republican convention, hoping to obtain a victory on the second ballot for Reagan.

That despite the fact that state law requires that first ballot votes be cast according to the outcome of the presidential primary, in this case 28 votes for Reagan and 25 for Ford.

It would be too bad if that strategy were followed, since not only would state law be circumvented but the delegates would be breaking faith with the voters of their party.

The presidential primary means nothing if its results are to be ignored. If we are to continue to have the primaries we must make certain that its results are binding for the first ballot.

Dirt Roads Fact Of Life

By BELL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Talk about sophisticated mass transit systems and urban expressways to the contrary, dirt roads are a fact of life for thousands of North Carolinians, and will likely remain so for a good many years.

It would cost more than one billion dollars to blacktop the 21,025 miles of rural unpaved roads which are the target of the state's Secondary Roads Council operating within the Department of Transportation.

Those farm-to-market roads which are the backbone of the state's transportation system for many citizens total more than 59,213 miles. Compare that to the state's primary system (11,920 miles) and the state-maintained urban system (4,006 miles).

And even though 38,187.73 miles of rural secondary roads are now paved, progress is agonizingly slow: at an average cost of more than $48,000 per mile for construction, this year's $30 million will not go far. Only about 625 miles of those 21,025 will be paved. At that rate, it will be the year 2009 before all are paved—provided no new ones are cut.

Thirteen of the state's 100 counties have more miles paved than unpaved: Yancey, Wilkes, Watauga, Transylvania, Swain, Mitchell, Madison, Macon, Jackson, Henderson, and Haywood—all in the mountains.

Five counties have more than 400 miles of unpaved road: Guilford, Iredell, and Randolph in the Piedmont; Surry and Wilkes in the west.

Wilkes County is the state's country road king, with 594.5 miles unpaved; 493.43 paved.

Randolph County in the dead-center of the state is second with 501.7 miles unpaved; 766.5 paved.

Guilford County, with urban Greensboro located there, nonetheless remains rural with 443.3 miles of unpaved road; 799 paved.

Surry County has 426.7 miles unpaved; 469 paved.

Iredell County has 410 miles unpaved; 712 paved.

Robeson County has the most miles of secondary road in the state, with 1,361; unpaved miles total 305.6.

The $30 million allocated this fiscal year for secondary road work is getting a long look from a legislative study commission which has been told by staff research people that the statutory formula is being manipulated to the advantage of some Republican counties.

Iredell County, for example, is receiving $444,000 from the Secondary Roads Council. That, the study shows, is $141,000 less (24 per cent) than the county was due under the formula set up by state law. Highway officials, however, use a per-mile construction cost which is variable from county to county to arrive at final figures.

Piedmont counties generally are receiving up to 30 per cent less than the

THE INSIDE REPORT

Strange System For Ford

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Cabinet hostility against Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi for lone-wolf decisions leading President Ford into dangerous curbs on the intelligence community peaked last month when Treasury Secretary William Simon accused him of impairing the President's protection in Puerto Rico.

That accusation is merely the most dramatic evidence of anti-Levi anger in the National Security Agency, CIA, FBI, Secret Service, Pentagon and Treasury. In the eyes of critics, Levi's most grievous sin was putting Mr. Ford on record in favor of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's bill to require approval from a federal judge to wiretap a foreign embassy. "He has crippled our intelligence effort," one high-ranking official told us.

Dr. Levi, former University of Chicago president and a distinguished legal scholar, obviously is moved more by constitutional safeguards than demands of national security. But instead of his concerns being tempered by opposing views of other officials directly concerned with national security, Levi's undiluted opinions have become administration policy.

That is in keeping with the strange system which has evolved during Gerald R. Ford's two-year presidency. While dismantling the dangerous centralization of the Nixon system (which ignored the cabinet), Mr. Ford nevertheless has not transformed the cabinet into a functioning body for policymaking. Rather, policy is made helter-skelter by individual cabinet members, leading to the wishy-washy tone of the administration.

Backstage squabbling over Mr. Ford's visit to Puerto Rico June 27-28 stems directly from the Attorney General's personal policymaking. Secret Service plans for surveillance of extremist Puerto Rican nationalists were vetoed by Levi on grounds that U.S. citizens cannot be shadowed under the President's intelligence reorganization plan of last February. Surveillance was cancelled.

Simon, who as Secretary of the Treasury has responsibility for the Secret Service, immediately sent off this tough letter to the President: the restrictions imposed by the Attorney General have impaired your protection by the Secret Service. Translated, that clearly meant: if the President gets shot, don't blame the Secret Service.

Actually, Levi gives Simon, Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld, CIA Director George Bush and other high officials headaches that transcend Secret Service protection. The President's February intelligence plan, drafted by Levi, imposed tight restrictions on the in-

KEEPING THE SABBATH

A little girl, in preparing her Sunday School lesson, was required to write out the Ten Commandments. She wrote the Fourth Commandment as follows: "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it wholly."

There is a great deal of truth wrapped up in this childish mistake in spelling. Almost everyone makes some use of Sunday, but few people make full use of it. They keep the Sabbath, or some portion of it, but they do not keep it "wholly."

For many people the Sabbath has become mainly a sports day, with a little extra sleep rolled in. A portion of the day may be given, somewhat grudgingly, to worship. It was not so intended by God. He intended it to be a day of rest, of worship, of good works, and of joy.

We dishonor God when we allow the Seventh Day to become purely secular. We are to keep the day "holily" and "wholly."

Uncommitted Delegates

WASHINGTON — A fellow went in to see the President last week and said he was an uncommitted delegate from Suffolk County, N.Y. The President said he was glad to see him. The fellow said he was glad to see the President, too. The reason was that Suffolk County had a sewer problem and the only one who might be able to solve it was the President of the United States. The President said he was very good at solving sewer problems and if any place got a new sewer next year it would be Suffolk County. The fellow walked out of the President's office and told reporters he was now a committed delegate for President Ford.

As the race for the Republican presidential nomination gets hotter, more and more uncommitted delegates are being asked to visit the White House and spend time with Gerald Ford.

The White House has angrily denied the President is bribing anyone to vote for him.

But can we be sure? By early August the visits may go something like this.

"Mr. President, this is Mr. Gladstone, an uncommitted delegate from Minotree, Me."

"How do you do, Mr. Gladstone. Welcome to the White House. Can I make you some scrambled eggs?"

"No thank you. I'm not hungry, Mr. President."

"I understand you're an uncommitted delegate. Can I ask you why you're uncommitted?"

"Because the train don't stop at Minotree anymore."

"What's that you say?"

"The five-o-five used to stop in Minotree on the way to Boston. But they took it off last year."

"No one told me about this! Get me Secretary of Transportation Coleman on the phone... Mr. Secretary. This is the President. Why wasn't I informed that you took the train service off Minotree, Me., last year? ... I don't care if it was an Amtrak decision. I told you to wake me day or night when you decided on any change in this nation's train schedules. Now I want the five-o-five to Boston to stop at Minotree even if it means rerouting the 'Broadway Limited' from Chicago. This is a matter of national security. Thank you. ... Goodbye. ... There, Mr. Gladstone, that should do it. Is there anything else I can help you with?"

"That will be enough, Mr. President. I want you to know I will be proud to vote for you in Kansas City."

"Thank you, Mr. Gladstone. You should have told me about your train problems sooner."

"Mr. President, this is Mr. Ronald Felder of Sawtooth, Mont. He's an uncommitted delegate."

"You're darn tootin' I am. We was promised a ski lift two years ago and danged if we got so much as a piece of rope."

"That's odd, I specifically remember signing a bill for a ski lift for Sawtooth, Morton, what happened to that bill?"

"You didn't sign it, Mr. President. You vetoed it."

"Then I'll unveto it. Morton, find the bill and I'll sign it this afternoon. Mr. Felder, I hope I can come to Sawtooth next February and be the first one to ride your ski lift. That is if I'm the President, of course."

"Sarah Lockenbocker of Racine, Wis."

"How do you do, Mrs. Lockenbocker. What is your profession?"

"I'm a chambermaid in a Holiday Inn."

"That must be interesting work."

"I hate it."

"What would you like to do?"

"I thought I'd like to be a federal judge."

"Well, I'll speak to Ed Levi, the Attorney General, about that. If you can't be a federal judge, what would be your second preference?"

Island Argues Future

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer
SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — Puerto Rico begins its 25th year as a commonwealth under the American flag this week with the question of its future status a subject of more debate than ever before.

In its unique position as a free associated state of the United States, Puerto Rico has become the richest island in the Caribbean in less than a quarter of a century. But with the fading in recent years of Operation Bootstrap, the local government's successful economic program, questions about the island's future have multiplied.

Puerto Rico will be facing the status question on two fronts in the coming months, at the United Nations in New York and at local polls in November's general election.

Among the island's 3 million people, the more critical confrontation will be the contest for governor. For the first

Other Editors Say Congress Should Look

(Henderson Dispatch)

While the postal service goes from bad to worse, Congress, whose ultimate obligation it is, shows little concern. Patrons know little as to where responsibility rests, but they know they are paying higher rates for mails which do not move as speedily as in former times.

One of the principal activities of management seems to be devising methods and dates for what they hope will be still heavier charges for service. Perhaps they overlook the possibility that they may be gradually pricing the department out of at least a part of the business as more and more users of the mails turn to other means of communication where alternate outlets can be found.

This is noticeable in the parcel division, while some concerns are experimenting with hand delivery of such items as monthly statements to customers. Certainly that is not practical in many instances, and impossible in others, where mailers have no alternative but to absorb the increasing costs and at times delays, and pass them along to customers where they can.

Higher rates are imposed upon second class mail, including newspapers, magazines and others. Increases appear and have to be paid.

If the mail system has gotten out of hand, and if there is inefficiency and no escape, then the service should be turned back to the government to underwrite deficits, which continue and give rise to probably further increases. After all, the postal business is a service the same as all others, none of which is expected nor required to be self-supporting.

Congress is not even about to turn the department over to private operation, though there have been suggestions to that end.

If the railroads would accept it, movement of the mails probably could be speeded to the level of the former era when that was the method of transportation. Rail passenger service began to disappear when the carriers lost the mails; and the public suffered in both instances.

Congress holds the key to the postal problem, and the time has come for it to assume again the responsibility.

40 Years Ago Today

July 30, 1936

The weather bureau predicted in its 10 a.m. advisory bulletin that a tropical storm moving across the Gulf of Mexico would strike the northwest Florida coast during the middle of latter part of the day, with winds of probably hurricane intensity.

The center of the disturbance at 8 a.m. was reported about 80 miles south of Apalachicola. The storm then was moving at a speed of from 12 to 15 miles an hour.

Persons in low places were cautioned against rising tides which already were advancing this morning.

Three players share second place in the American League's half of the "Big Six" this morning. Earl Averill of Cleveland is tied with Rip Radcliff and Luke Appling of the White Sox, each with a .377 average.

Lou Gehrig, in first place, tops the deadlocked trio by three points.

Service Price Surge Abating

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Keep your fingers crossed, but the surge in prices for services that had plunged some forecasters into despair about controlling inflation seems to have abated.

One quarter doesn't make a trend, but the news about service prices in the second quarter is at least good news. After sharp increases in the first half of 1975 and early 1976, service inflation abated this spring.

The rise of 5.3 per cent in the April-May-June quarter compares with 9.8 per cent in the previous two quarters, and a frightening rate of 14.2 per cent during the bad days of mid-1974.

From that period on through the second quarter of 1975, service inflation rate declined steadily to 6.3 per cent, but then it took off again through the first three months of 1976, and consumer pessimism grew.

Now it looks as if we're getting at least a breather, and maybe a good rest.

The debate among economists now is whether the slowdown will persist. The Morgan Guaranty Survey believes it will; it finds evidence that the surge was due to special rather than general factors.

It cites, for example, the 40 per cent increase in New York's subway fare late last summer that helped push up the public transportation category of the Consumer Price Index by 46.4 per cent. The figure is now down to 3.1.

Another special factor that contributed to the big rise in service prices late in 1975 and early this year was automobile insurance. Rising costs of replacement parts and ever-rising hospital bills pushed rates up 50 per cent.

A third factor that played a special role in the inflationary surge was an increase in postal charges during the first quarter of 1976 amounting to 140.7 per cent. The most recent rate was 3 per cent.

But even with these special influences partially out of the way, at least for the foreseeable future, that indefinite term to which forecasters cling, there remains upward pressure on prices in general.

Some prices, in fact, have been rising against the falling trend.

The rate of increase in housing repair costs, which make up 10 per cent of the service component of the price index, jumped from 5.8 per cent in the first quarter to 9.8 per cent in the second.

Recreational services also are on an ascending track. Although the inflation rate for this category was only 5.9 per cent in the second quarter, it has been rising steadily for a year.

Property insurance costs also are high. Late last year the inflation rate in this category was only 1.5 per cent. In the first two quarters of 1976 it averaged 13.3 per cent.

Upward pressure also can be expected in charges for hospital care, doctors' fees and gas bills.

But when you add up the long list of services for which we regularly pay, it does seem that inflation may be slowing.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm to hot temperatures with fair skies are due today for most of the nation. Showers are expected for the Great Lakes and Midwest and rain for northern New England. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press
It's been so dry in central North Carolina that a fellow tried to make rain by heating water in a huge vat and sending steam skyward on a Forsyth County farm. It's supposed to make the air heavy and wet. Showers fell shortly after he gave up his effort on the third day Wednesday. But they were too light to ease the drought.

The university town of Chapel Hill, and adjoining Carrboro, have water shortage and sewerage problems. The overloaded treatment plant has failed to meet water-quality standards. The University of North Carolina, which owns the water system used jointly by the two communities, has asked Durham for supplemental water.

Scattered thundershowers fell today, as they have for the last few days, but were too weak to do much good. Conditions are ripe for more hit-and-miss showers, but no general rain is in sight for the next five days at least.

High temperatures today were in the 80s in the mountains and the Outer Banks, and the upper 80s to mid 90s elsewhere. That also will be the range Saturday.

A weak disturbance from the mid-Mississippi River Valley eased through the Carolinas today. It will push a weak cool front along the Virginia and North Carolina border by this evening. This front will combine with ample moisture and heating, and the already unstable air. The combination will make thunderstorms more likely.

Showers stayed mostly in the west and on the coast and Outer Banks Thursday. Henderson had eight-tenths of an inch of rain, but Asheville had only a light amount.

It continued hot, mostly in the 90s. New Bern reached 97. It got to 96 at Fayetteville, the Raleigh Durham Airport, Rocky Mount, Wilson and Wilmington. Even the Outer Banks and the mountains were uncomfortable, with the upper 80s to low 90s scattered about. On top of mile-high Grandfather Mountain the maximum was 74 degrees.

government to keep its secrets.

Since Mr. Ford during 25 years in Congress was considered a hard-nosed champion of national security not at all obsessed by civil liberties, a question arises. Has he undergone metamorphosis at age 63? More likely, he probably has not focused on the intelligence problem posed by Levi.

Blame for that attaches not only to Mr. Ford but to his White House staff. Well-liked Philip Buchen, the President's avuncular legal counsel, is no counterweight to the Attorney General. "Whatever Levi says is okay with Phil Buchen," one subcabinet member told us. More to the point, there simply is no systematic way for the views of other cabinet members — pro or, as in this case, con — to make an impression on the Oval Office.

The result is a freelance system of solitary policymaking, by this or that cabinet member. At the Treasury, Simon sets rigorous conditions for New York City fiscal reform. At the State Department, Kissinger devises a liberalized policy for southern Africa. At the Pentagon, Rumsfeld gets tough on negotiations with the Russians. And at the Justice Department, Levi writes rules for intelligence that might be more in keeping with Teddy Kennedy's administration than Jerry Ford's.

NEW YORK (AP) — If a killer epidemic of swine flu strikes this fall or winter, it might make its hit-run attack just before the advent of drugs which, for the first time, could cure flu.

Two such drugs are ready for human testing, and most likely will be tried out as soon as some natural outbreak of flu of any strain occurs.

But if swine flu should come this year, there wouldn't be time for the exhaustive testing routinely required to prove effectiveness and safety of a new drug.

The huge program to vaccinate most Americans so they won't get swine flu might for one reason or another falter or fail, leaving millions of people unprotected.

This would present the Food and Drug Administration with a difficult problem, says Dr. Jose Canchola of the FDA, because there is no immunization substitute for the flu vaccine. Canchola is medical officer for the division of anti-infective drug products.

Antiviral drugs might be approved for use if they had shown benefit in limited trials, even if there had not been time to assess any possible undesirable long-term effects.

The flu threat comes at a time that some experts see as a new era in medicine — the development of drugs that can hit viruses.

Antibiotics have no effect because viruses enter living target cells to reproduce themselves there and kill or damage the cells. Bacteria cause their damage outside the cells. In a flu epidemic, doctors may well use antibiotics, not as a weapon against the viruses, but against a complication like bacterial pneumonia that is a big cause of death.

Now there is a handful of new drugs that show antiviral activity in test-tubes and animals, and in some human trials, against flu and other diseases, such as hepatitis affecting the liver, and herpes virus causing potentially blinding eye infections, infections of the genitals, and cold sores or fever blisters.

Antiviral drugs may act by blocking penetration of the virus into the cell or by blocking multiplication inside the cell.

One such newcomer is ribavirin — trade name Virazole — developed by ICN Pharmaceuticals, Inc., in Irvine, Calif. It is active in animals against at least 20 different viruses, including flu. It was effective against swine flu respiratory infections in mice and rhesus monkeys. In humans, it has shown mixed results and limited trials against influenza Type A and Type B, mostly when volunteers were intentionally infected with the viruses.

In one trial in a Mexico City school, ribavirin produced a marked decrease in the symptoms and severity of naturally acquired influenza Type A-2, compared with patients not given the drug, said scientists of the National Institute of Virology. Only three of 21 girls given the drug showed any detectable virus, compared with 22 out of 24 girls given placebos of inert pills. This was a sign the drug kept the virus from multiplying.

Results of that trial have not yet been officially reported to the FDA, so it cannot use that data in evaluating the drug, says Canchola.

He says he expects applications to be made for clinical trials of ribavirin here against influenza Type A, the family to which swine flu belongs. If the drug works against Type A viruses, he believes it would also act against swine flu virus.

"There's no flu around right now," Canchola says. The trial should test whether ribavirin protects people who may become ill during natural outbreaks of flu. Some victims would receive ribavirin, others a dummy pill, to compare results.

Such a trial would take about 1½ months, to measure effects on overcoming illness, and also whether the drug prevents multiplication of the flu virus in infected people. Then another few weeks would be needed to determine whether drug-treated people had developed protective antibodies against the flu virus.

Longer experience would be needed to tell whether the drug had some unforeseen harmful effects, such as on the liver or other organs, that may appear later.

In animal studies, ribavirin at high doses has been shown to cause birth defects in pregnant animals. This means it should not be given to women who are or might be pregnant.

"To date we have no completed studies to confirm the therapeutic efficacy of ribavirin in man for eradicating swine A influenza," says Victor Mattia of ICN. The drug is being marketed in Brazil and Mexico, and has been registered or approved for use in 16 countries around the world for treatment of viral respiratory infections, hepatitis and herpes virus.

An older drug, amantadine hydrochloride — trade name Symmetrel — was approved in 1966 for prophylaxis or prevention of Asian flu, but not for treatment of flu. Now an application for expanded clinical use is under review, says Canchola.

The duPont Co., maker of amantadine, had tried to get approval to use it against Hong Kong flu when that epidemic struck in 1968, but the FDA objected there had not been clinical trials.

Some U.S. virus specialists say they believe that use of amantadine might have saved the lives of many of the 40,000 Americans who died from flu-related deaths during the Hong Kong epidemic. Soviet physicians used it then, crediting it with reducing disease and death.

Still other antiviral drugs are coming along "and we need them," says Canchola.

An epidemic of swine flu or other highly virulent strain is a worrisome possibility. Vaccines are usually 70 to 90 per cent effective, and some people cannot take them because of allergy to eggs, in which virus is grown or for other reasons.

A bad flu epidemic may not come this year, providing more time to test antiviral drugs. But if it does hit, the newcomer drugs may be called on for help now.

Dive Club Will Meet Aug. 23

KINSTON — The Eastern Carolina Dive Club will hold its next meeting August 23, rather than on its regular meeting date of August 2.

According to Tom Morrow, secretary of the SCUBA diving organization, the meeting is being postponed due to a club dive scheduled for August 1.

The August 23 meeting will take the place of both the regular August meeting and the September meeting.

time, all four local political parties will be on the ballot.

At this point, the gubernatorial race is considered a toss-up between incumbent Gov. Rafael Herpandez Colon of the Popular Democratic party, which supports a more independent version of commonwealth status, and Carlos Romero Barcelo, the mayor of San Juan, whose New Progressive party backs full statehood.

There will also be candidates from two parties advocating independence: the Puerto Rico Independence party, which favors a West European-type socialism, and the radical Puerto Rican Socialist party, which is inspired by Cuban Communism. But advocates of independence are a small minority.

As important as the elections are locally, political observers say much more attention will be directed on the island when Cuba again raises the Puerto Rican status issue in the United Nations Decolonization Committee, probably during the General Assembly session starting in September.

Cuba maintains that Puerto Rico is an Hispanic nation occupied militarily by the United States and wants the United Nations to declare it a U.S. colony.

The United States has termed the Cuban campaign a "flagrant interference into U.S. internal affairs and an unfriendly act." Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other top U.S. officials have said that Cuban interference in Puerto Rican affairs and in Angola are two major blocks to normalization of relations between the United States and Cuba.

Under the present commonwealth arrangement, Puerto Ricans are citizens of the United States but do not vote in federal elections or pay federal income taxes. Puerto Rican men were subject to the draft until it was replaced by the present all-volunteer army.

A bill that would grant Puerto Rico more freedom in its commonwealth arrangement with the United States is being considered by the House subcommittee on insular affairs in Washington.

However, the proposed new compact, which is supported by Gov. Hernandez Colon and the Popular Democrats, is given little chance of passage before the November election.

Hunts Leakage In Microwave Ovens

CHARLOTTE (AP) — William Dentler waves a "magic wand" when he inspects microwave ovens for radiation leaks. Dentler, an industrial hygienist for Mecklenburg County, says federal regulations for construction of the ovens are strict, and most leaks are the result of misuse by owners.

He says the ovens are safe, and "as soon as my wife figures out where to put one, I'll get one."

Dentler inspects residential and commercial ovens when asked to do so.

Microwave ovens have been on the market since the 1950s. But it wasn't until recently that the price dropped from around $2,000 to between $200 and $300. "When they come down in price more, I think they'll become even more popular," Dentler says.

A microwave oven generates high-frequency energy waves similar to radio waves. The waves, produced by a magnetron tube in the oven top, bounce back and forth across the oven walls. Food placed in the oven absorbs the waves, making the food molecules vibrate and heat up.

"You can't see, feel, hear or taste microwaves," Dentler said. "And anything you can't see, feel, hear or taste, people get worried about. I've heard a lot of people panic."

"There's been the fuss about how dangerous they are, but have you ever heard of anybody being hurt by one? It's a very safe appliance."

Status Adds To Funding

KALEIGH (AP) — Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson has designated the University of North Carolina system as a "Sea Grant College." Gov. Jim Holshouser announced Thursday

The governor said that under the Sea Grant Program the federal government puts up two-thirds of the cost of research and other projects affecting the coastal area and the state contributes one third.

Holshouser said sea grant college status brings an institution more stable and more generous funding from Congress. He pointed out that over the past six years the UNC program has received a total of $5.11 million in federal and state funds.

Holshouser noted that the University of North Carolina system is only the 11th institution in the nation to receive the designation.

"In the North Carolina Sea Grant Program's six years of existence," Richardson said, "its constituent projects have made considerable strides in the fields of aquaculture, coastal zone studies and education and advisory services."

Holshouser said the UNC Sea Grant Program "has helped coastal residents to, among other things, stabilize dunes, estuarine shorelines and dredge spoil with grass plantings; control pesky biting insects with safer, cheaper and more effective equipment; make use of under-utilized fish; and set up a fishermen's cooperative to market fish."

Big Religious Gathering To Open In Philadelphia

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —

What may be the largest religious gathering in U.S. history, the 41st International Eucharistic Congress, takes place starting Sunday in Philadelphia, flooding the city with people and pageantry.

It's the first such affair in this country in 50 years.

A global Roman Catholic course of church leaders and laity, it is expected to draw more than a million people for an eight-day round of liturgies, performances, exhibits, parades and seminars.

A "spiritual Olympics," it has been called.

With events going on simultaneously at halls and arenas across the city, the program has a pattern something like a 10-ring circus.

But it's a festival of faith, focused on the bread and wine of the Christian eucharist, the reenactment of Christ's Last Supper, in which He is considered present, uniting God with humanity.

The word eucharist itself means "thanksgiving" — gratitude for the Divine presence.

With that as the central motif the Congress branches out into a lavish and varied fare of drama, music dance, discussions, art shows, processions, diverse national heritage liturgies, receptions and ceremonies.

"The congress will offer a complete representation of the universality and diversity of the church, of every group who makes up the people of God," says the Rev. Walter J. Conway, the congress executive secretary.

It also has its ecumenical dimensions, with participation scheduled by representatives of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches.

"The eucharist, however we celebrate it, is a real commitment to one another, and to the shared mission of the church in the world," says the Rev. Charles V. Devlin, secretary of a committee for interdenominational participation.

An estimated third of those attending are coming from overseas.

Pope Paul VI initially was expected to be among them, but word came recently that arthritis, making it hard for him to walk, prevented the trip. He'll be represented by his papal legate, Cardinal James Knox, formerly of Australia, now of the Vatican.

The series of world eucharistic congresses started 93 years ago in 1881 in Lille, France, intended to counterbalance society's rising secular tide of world political and scientific interests and conferences.

Only about 800 people — and two bishops — attended that first congress, but the numbers and eminent figures taking part have swelled with the years, with about 450 bishops and 50 cardinals, many from abroad, involved in the Philadelphia assembly.

The last such congress in this country was in Chicago in 1926.

Will Sing, Speak On Monday Night

Marvis Eugene (Gene) Tyson, a Methodist minister in the Grimesland Charge, and his wife, Joan (Joanne), will sing and speak at the Greenville Chapter meeting of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International Monday night.

Their singing and testimonies will follow a dinner at 7 p.m. in the American Legion Building located on St. Andrews Drive. The program is scheduled at 7:45 p.m. There is no charge. All interested persons in the area are invited to attend.

The Tysons are making their third visit this year in Greenville. They were here in May when they sang and gave the program to the United Methodist Women of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. Their program Monday night comes under sponsorship of a group of laymen, members of the local Chapter Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship.

Tyson is in his second year preaching in the Grimesland Charge which includes the Grimesland United Methodist Church, the Chocowinity United Methodist Church and Warren's Chapel. He is a third year student at Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, and plans to enter the seminary upon completion of his work there. He is the son of the Rev. Dewey Tyson, a Methodist minister.

Suit Is Filed In Prisoner's Death

RALEIGH (AP) — A suit charging state prison officials with negligence and inadequate medical care in the death of a 29-year-old Scotland County prison inmate was filed in federal court Thursday by civil rights attorney Jerry Paul.

State Department of Correction officials have denied that William McLaughlin received substandard medical care.

Doctors were at first mystified by McLaughlin's sudden death in the X-ray room at Central Prison Hospital June 18. Dr. R. Page Hudson, chief state medical examiner, issued a ruling 32 days later saying that death was caused by a rare muscle disease, rhabdomyolytic myoglobinuria.

Other prison inmates and McLaughlin's mother, Ethel McLaughlin, have said the victim complained of severe stomach pains for about two weeks before receiving an examination by the unit's parttime physician, Dr. E.C. Womble.

"The fact that he died of a rare muscle disease is no excuse for negligence," said Paul at a news conference. "I don't know whether they could have saved his life, but they could have tried to save his life."

Damages totaling $250,000 were asked in the suit which was filed on behalf of McLaughlin's mother against prison officials including J.E. Osborne, Scotland County unit superintendent; David L. Jones, corrections secretary, Ralph Edwards, director of prisons and Gov. Jim Holshouser.

The suit contends prison conditions have "steadily worsened" since Holshouser appointed Jones, who was called "a man with no skills and with little education or intelligence," to oversee the Corrections Department.

All The Way

When Pat was younger, he used to think I was a superman. He's older now, and he knows that I'm not. But he still has that special kind of confidence kids have in their parents . . . and more than anything else, I want to merit that trust.

There was a time when I seldom went to church. Then, one day I realized that if I were going to be the kind of father Pat needed, I had to have help — God's help. I went to church, and I prayed. At first, it wasn't easy to pray. But gradually the words came stronger and clearer.

Maybe I'll never be able to give Pat everything I'd like to give him. But he can always depend upon me for the most important thing of all: truth. I found truth in the Church.

Arrest Man On Murder Count

KING (AP)—A young man who had been leasing a combination grocery store and filling station was shot to death outside the place Thursday night after an argument with the owner, authorities report.

The Stokes County Sheriff's department said the owner, Fount L. King, was arrested and charged with murder.

Nineteen-year-old Glenn David Moore died of a wound from a .32 caliber pistol. Deputies said they believed Moore and King had argued over the lease of Hilltop Amoco in the town of King. They said the establishment had been closed for the last three weeks.

Peak-Pricing 'Phony': Hunt

RALEIGH (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt today termed as 'phony' the peak pricing plans submitted last month by the three big electric power companies serving North Carolina.

Hunt told a news conference the plans "appear to be nothing more than an attempt to get a rate increase through the back door."

Hunt, Democratic candidate for governor, said the three companies "are not peak-pricing at all."

"It's clear," he added, "that a 12-hour peak will not give us a realistic opportunity to save energy. Instead, it will force us to either completely change our lifestyles or drastically increase our already-skyrocketing electric bills."

Hunt noted that Carolina Power & Light Co., Duke Power Co. and Virginia Electric & Power Co. filed plans that generally propose a single 10 or 12-hour peak lasting throughout most of the day and into the night, instead of several peaks lasting just a few hours.

Under the peak-pricing theory, consumers who use power during periods of low demand get a cheaper rate.

"What the companies have done," Hunt said in a prepared statement, "is merged the peaks for residential, commercial and industrial users. That results in the 12-hour peak they have proposed. What they should have done is establish separate peaks lasting just a few hours for each class of user, reflecting the actual demands each puts on the system." "My idea of peak-pricing," he added, "is to discourage energy use during the heavy-demand periods of the day."

Hunt said that under CP&L's plan, the energy-conscious consumer would be forced to do the cooking, dishwashing and laundry between 10 p.m. and 9 a.m.

Has Space At County Farm

GREENSBORO (AP) — North Carolina prisons are overcrowded. But there is space at the Guilford County Prison Farm, and the superintendent, Capt. Al Norwood, says he could use extra workers.

A state official says the farm is designed for minimum security prisoners, and the overcrowding is in units for felons.

There were 32 prisoners when county officials visited the 800-acre farm for breakfast last week. Norwood said there was space for twice that number, and he goes begging for prisoners sometimes.

Judges just don't sentence many prisoners to the county unit, often because they don't think of it, he said. They send them to the state prison system instead.

"I don't know why the judges won't send them out here," Norwood said. "We got the room. We got plenty of food that we grow ourselves, so it doesn't cost nobody much. And we sure got plenty of work here to be done, so they'd stay busy."

CHEMISTS' SALARIES
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Salaries of chemists have doubled in the past 15 years, but in terms of constant dollars are about at the 1969 level, according to Chemical and Engineering News. The magazine says that by the "constant dollar" standard, salaries for the group peaked in 1973 and began sliding thereafter.

Officials say the North Carolina prison system has more than 13,000 inmates jammed into space designed for 10,000.

W.L. Kautzke, assistant director of state prisons, said there are empty spaces in minimum security units, but the overcrowding is among felons requiring maximum security. He said it would be possible to work out an arrangement with the Guilford unit, but there have been no discussions along those lines.

The majority of prisoners on Norwood's farm are convicted of drunkenness and sentenced to 30 days or less. Many are repeaters, Norwood said, and are familiar with the routine. They grow wheat and corn for bread and feed for the animals, and enough vegetables to feed the prisoners.

The farm has 18 dairy cows, 170 beef cattle, 700 hogs and 1,700 chickens.

STEEL OUTLOOK
CLEVELAND (AP) — The steel service center industry, which handles 20 per cent of the industrial steel mill products sold in America, will experience continued growth over the next five years, according to Robert G. Welch, president of the Steel Service Center Institute. According to Welch, the volume of industrial steel mill products handled by service centers will rise to 25 per cent of the total sold in the United States.

Ford Picks Up More Delegates

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, continuing to pick up delegate support as he nears the magic 1,130 mark, is traveling to Mississippi to make a personal pitch to the state's GOP convention delegation, an uncommitted group large enough to clinch the Republican nomination for him.

The President was flying to Jackson, Miss., today for five hours of campaigning. Challenger Ronald Reagan plans a similar trip next week.

Ford gained seven delegates Thursday — four from Pennsylvania and three from Louisiana — to bring his total in The Associated Press convention preference tally to 1,104. The survey shows Reagan remained with 1,023 delegates, and 132 delegates still are uncommitted.

If Ford wins Mississippi's 30-vote delegation, he would have four more votes than the 1,130 needed for the nomination when the roll is called at the national convention in Kansas City on August 18.

In Mississippi, Ford hopes to exploit a major defection from the Reagan camp, state GOP chairman Clarke Reed, who declared that Reagan's vice presidential choice caused him to endorse the President.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, a Pennsylvania liberal, was picked by Reagan with the hope of gaining support among delegates from populous Northeast states. The move cost Reagan the support of Reed and has failed to trigger a stampede for Reagan in Schweiker's home state.

Both Ford and Schweiker addressed Pennsylvania delegates here Thursday, and three delegates who had said they were uncommitted now say they are for Ford.

That done, Ford's attention turned to Mississippi.

Until recently, Reagan was thought to have a lock on the delegation. But Ford backers gradually eroded his support, and they now believe the Schweiker appointment could turn the majority to Ford.

The Mississippians are holding to the unit rule, under which either Ford or Reagan will likely claim all of the delegation's 30 votes. It is possible the delegation will choose to remain uncommitted until the convention.

Schweiker flew to South Carolina Thursday night to confer with Gov. James Edwards, who also has criticized Reagan's selection of a liberal running mate. Edwards already has announced he would honor his commitment to Reagan.

In Plains, Ga., Jimmy Carter said Thursday that U.S. industrial and banking firms which do business in South Africa could join the U.S. government as a force in favor of black majority rule.

He also said that if he were elected president he would push for a multinational agreement to reduce worldwide arms sales. If that proved impossible, "I would not hesitate as president to assess unilateral reductions of arms sales," he said.

The Democratic presidential nominee commented after he and his running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale, concluded a briefing with foreign policy experts.

Carter said the foreign policy briefing concentrated on U.S. relations with developing nations, which he said "have been most sadly neglected under Presidents Ford and Nixon, and Kissinger."

Witchweed Drive Slated

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Department of Agriculture has announced a program to wipe out the plant parasite witchweed which infests corn and other grassy crops in several eastern North Carolina counties.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham announced Thursday that the nine year program will be launched next year. Graham said techniques have been developed that can completely eradicate witchweed.

Howard Singletary of the state Department of Agriculture pest control division said that control programs have kept witchweed from causing significant economic loss in the state but that "if it had been left uncontrolled and unquarantined it could threaten the entire nation's corn crop."

The only known areas of infestation of witchweed in the United States are in North and South Carolina. It is an African plant parasite.

U.S. Attorney Quitting Post

RALEIGH (AP) — U.S. Atty. Thomas P. McNamara says he will resign Aug. 27 to return to private law practice in Raleigh. McNamara, a 37-year-old Republican, has been U.S. attorney for federal eastern district courts since October 1973.

He told newsmen he was quitting the federal post because a good opportunity came along at the right time. He will become a partner in the law firm of Purrington, Hatch and Purrington.

Carl Tilghman, senior assistant federal prosecutor, will take over McNamara's job until a successor is nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, probably after the November election.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market remained stalemated today despite the spread of a prime rate reduction in the banking industry.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up .09 at 979.38, and losers and gainers were evenly balanced in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was slow. New York's Citybank, second largest in the nation, and several other banks around the country cut their prime lending rates from 7 1/4 to 7 per cent during the morning.

The moves matched reductions posted earlier in the week by a handful of Chicago and New York banks.

But analysts said Citybank's move had been expected. And investors seemed doubtful that any sustained decline in the prime or other interest rates was beginning.

National Semiconductor, down 7 1/4 points in the last two sessions, fell another 2 1/4 to 34 today.

The selloff in the stock began when the company reported manufacturing problems with its semiconductor components for digital watches. Today it said the problems would reduce its fiscal first quarter earnings by a "significant amount."

The NYSE's composite index slipped .02 to 55 even in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .08 at 103.48.

Italy's Communists Get Veto On Govm't Policies

ROME (AP) — Italy's first woman cabinet member held the spotlight and the Communists held new leverage today as the Christian Democrats' second minority government this year was sworn in.

The 22-member cabinet took the oath of loyalty to the nation and the republican constitution before President Giovanni Leone.

For the first time in Italian history, a woman attained cabinet rank when Premier-designate Giulio Andreotti named Tina Anselmi, a 49-year-old former schoolteacher, to the tough post of labor minister. She told the press she would hold a national conference on the problems of women's employment.

And for the first time the Italian Communist party got a veto over government policy when Andreotti decided he could depend on its members to abstain on key parliamentary votes. This would leave the Christian Democrats in the majority although they won only 43 per cent of the seats in the Senate and 41 per cent of those in the Chamber of Deputies.

"The Communists are in an enviable position," said one Italian political analyst. "They don't have the responsibility of ruling and therefore can't be blamed for any failure. They can always take credit for success because the government exists at their mercy."

The Communist influence on Italy's 36th postwar government was already apparent. The 57-year-old Andreotti put seven new faces in the 20-member cabinet he announced Wednesday night and left out two veteran Christian Democrats under fire from the Communists: Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo and Foreign Minister Mariano Rumor.

The Communists hold Colombo responsible for Italy's economic plight and demanded Rumor be dropped because he is implicated in the Lockheed payoff scandal.

Also, the program Andreotti will submit to parliament next week was formulated after consultation with the Communists. Although it has not been made public in detail, it contains planks long advocated by the Communists and the powerful labor unions they dominate.

Among them are more influence for unions in employment policy, higher taxes, particularly for the rich, and a crackdown on widespread tax evasion.

Meanwhile, Soviet Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev attacked the United States and West Germany for threatening to cut off financial aid to Italy if the Christian Democrats admitted Communists to the cabinet.

Brezhnev, in an interview with Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, accused Italy's major allies of being "ready to take Italy by the throat just to keep the Communists out of its government."

Avers Reprimand To Be A Sikes Election Issue

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The reprimand of Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes by the House is certain to be raised when he runs for reelection to his chairmanship of a House subcommittee, says House Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass.

"There's no question it'll be an issue when he (Sikes) comes up for re-election" to his chairmanship of the House military construction appropriations subcommittee, O'Neill said Thursday while speaking in Atlanta to the Association of Trial Lawyers of America.

Sikes called the reprimand given him Thursday for financial misconduct "one step short of exoneration."

The House voted 361 to 3 to reprimand Sikes — the mildest punishment it could give him and one that carries no penalty. Common Cause, a lobbying organization, issued a statement praising the action against Sikes for "misuse of his public office for personal gain" and urging the House Democratic Caucus to strip away his subcommittee chairmanship.

Punishing a member for the first time since Harlem Democrat Adao Clayton Powell was fined in 1969, the House reprimanded Sikes for:

—Buying 2,500 shares in the First Navy Bank which he used his office to help establish at the Pensacola Naval Air Station. Sikes made $8,200 profit on the shares.

—Failing to report to the House the bank stock and 1,000 shares of Fairchild Industries Inc., stock on which he lost $4,173.19. Fairchild is a defense contractor.

Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., chairman of the ethics committee that recommended the reprimand, told the House the punishment was a matter of judgment but that Sikes' misconduct was a matter of fact.

But Sikes accused the Ethics Committee of denying him the constitutional right to rebut the charges.

He said it is true he bought the bank stock after helping to establish the bank, but he said the Ethics Committee did not point out that bank organizers initiated the stock sale to him.

As for failing to report stock holdings to the House, as required, Sikes said that "was an oversight, nothing more."

Sikes gave his defense in two lengthy statements inserted in the Congressional Record.

Feels Jump An Impulse

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Authorities say an 18-year-old girl who plunged nine stories to her death from a high-rise dormitory apparently acted on an impulse after receiving a letter "of a highly personal nature."

"Too bad she didn't live on the first or second floor," said Chapel Hill Police Chief S. W. Hilliard. "Maybe she wouldn't have jumped."

Laura Allison Melton of Raleigh, a University of North Carolina student, died instantly Wednesday after plunging from the top floor of the all-girl Granville Towers East.

Police officers found Miss Melton's room door locked when they investigated. Inside, in a waste basket were found tiny pieces of a letter which officers are in the process of piecing together.

Hilliard said, however, the puzzle has been put together enough to indicate that the letter was personal. He declined to specify the contents and said he does not plan to make public the name of the letter writer.

Leonard Leads Americans Into Boxing Finals

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — People "shouldn't be surprised, the United States is No. 1," says light welterweight Ray Leonard. But Leonard and five teammates still have to prove it to the Cubans Saturday night in the Olympic boxing finals. The hard-hitting Cubans, led by heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson, also placed six men in the finals and three of them will have direct confrontations with Americans. But while the Americans and Cubans each hit 6-for-8 in Thursday's semifinals, the Soviet Union was able to qualify only one man—world 165-pound champion Rufat Riskiev, who eked out a 3-2 decision over Luis Martinez of Cuba. The United States opened the semis in a walk Thursday afternoon, ran into a wall in the form of Stevenson and then at night finished faster than some of the American runners. Mike Spinks of St. Louis will be making only his second fight of the tournament when he meets Riskiev for the gold. Spinks drew a first-round bye, got a walkover because of the African pullout, won a one-sided decision and then got another walkover Thursday when Alec Nagy of Romania was not allowed to compete because of a cut suffered in the quarter-finals.

In the only other U.S. fighter in the afternoon, John Tate, the 21-year-old Knoxville, Tenn., truck driver who took up fighting just 19 months ago, lasted only 1 minute, 31 seconds against Stevenson. Stevenson threw a harmless left and Tate replied with his own left. Then inexperience showed—Tate didn't pull his left back high enough or far enough. "I saw the punch coming," he said, "and I knew the left was out there too long." Stevenson's right flashed over the left and crashed against Tate's jaw. Tate staggered a few steps, reeled into a corner and grabbed the ropes. He then sank to the canvas and was counted out. From then on everything was up for the Americans. Leo Randolph, an 18-year-old Tacoma, Wash., high school senior gained the 112-pound final at night by using sharp punching for a 4-1 decision over Leszek Blazynski. He was followed into the finals by bantamweight Charles Mooney of Ft. Bragg, N.C.; lightweight Howard Davis of Glen Cove, N.Y.; Leonard, of Palmer Park, Md.; and Leon Spinks, Mike's older brother, of Camp Lejeune, N.C. Randolph will fight Cuban Roman Duvalon while Leonard and Leon Spinks will also fight Cubans. Leonard, who boxed beautifully in outpointing Kazimierz Szczerba of Poland, will fight Andres Aldama, a left-handed knockout puncher for the gold in the 140-pound class. Leon Spinks, an aggressor who punches from all angles, easily outpointed Janusz Gortat of Poland and will go after the 178-pound title against Sixto Soria, who in three fights has a third-round knockout and two first-round kayoes. Davis drew Simion Cutov of Romania in the 132-pound final after looking in top form in ripping left-handed Ace Rusevski of Yugoslavia with right hands for a unanimous decision. Cutov put on a demonstration of non-stop punching in upsetting world champion Vasily Solomin of the Soviet Union.

Schlee Takes Early Pleasant Valley Lead

By DAVE O'HARA

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — John Schlee, a former Army paratrooper and civilian sky diver, is keeping his feet on the ground these days, back on the pro golf tour and hopeful his physical problems are behind him. Tall and wiry, Schlee is bouncing back from major surgery for the second time in two years, determined to add to his career prize money of more than $400,000. Schlee equalled a course record with a six-under-par 65 Thursday but had to settle for a share of the lead as Lanny Wadkins did the same in the opening round of the $200,000 Pleasant Valley Classic. "I'm very fortunate, the 37-year-old Schlee said. "This is a funny thing. I underwent an operation for a ruptured disc a year ago last Jan. 5 and I returned five weeks later to the day, shooting a 65 in the Bob Hope Desert Classic. "Now I shoot another 65, six weeks to the day after an operation for torn ligaments in my left knee. I hope I don't have to have another operation before I shoot a 65."

and the pair shared a one-stroke advantage headed into the second round of the 72-hole test worth $40,000 to the winner. Al Geiberger and 126-pound Mike Wynn just missed catching the co-leaders. Geiberger started his afternoon round with five consecutive birdies. He took a bogey on the sixth hole and, except for a birdie on the ninth, had to settle for regulation the rest of the way.

There was a five-way tie at 67, two strokes off the pace. Deadlocked were Mac McLendon, Lee Elder, Rex Caldwell, Len Thompson and Dave Stockton. Bunched at 68 were Dwight Nevil, John Lister, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Bruce Lietzke, Gay Brewer and rookie Stan Altgelt, who used a three-iron for a hole-in-one on the 230-yard 14th hole.

Dove Season To See Saturday Opening

RALEIGH — Saturday, September 4, will mark the opening of the annual split season on mourning doves. The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission selected that date as the opener this fall during its regular monthly meeting here Monday.

S. Pitt Takes Win, 9-1

JAMESVILLE — Kevin Battle and Bernard Ricciarelli combined to pitch the Southern Pitt Little League All-Stars to a 9-1 victory over Jamesville in the Little Tar Heel League District 7 Baseball tournament last night. Battle and Dixon Page had two homers each for South Pitt while Ricciarelli, Roy Lassiter had three each and Maurice Thorbs had two. The second game in the tournament is scheduled for tonight in Grifton at 7:00. If needed a second game will be played immediately following the first game. The winner will go to the state tournament in Washington, next week. The challenges fell short, But the challenges fell short,

As in the past, there will be a split season on mourning doves with the first half opening at noon on September 4 and closing October 16. The second half will open at noon on December 20 and close January 15. The shooting hours — noon to sunset each legal day — and the bag limits will remain the same as last year. The daily bag limit is 12 doves. The dates for the 1976-77 dove season were chosen by the Wildlife Commission from a framework offered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The Federal agency controls the length of the seasons and bag limits for migratory gamebirds, but offers states an option on the actual dates. Season dates were also set for woodcock (November 20 to January 22) and Wilson's snipe (October 2 to January 15). The snipe season will be longer this year. The season on rails and gallinules will be September 1 to November 9. Dates for seasons on all waterfowl will be chosen later after the Federal framework is made available. The N. C. Wildlife Commission adopted a change in the either-sex deer hunting seasons this fall following a public hearing in Swanquarter. The either-sex deer season will be November 29 - December 11 in Hyde County, except on the Pungo National Wildlife Refuge. The change added a week to the either-sex season.

Moscow Games Could Be Even Tougher For US

By BOB GREEN
AP Sports Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — The United States, looking at an embarrassing third place finish in the XXI Olympic Games, can anticipate even greater difficulties four years from now. "In 1980 in Moscow we will really be killed unless our government supports the athletes," said Arnie Robinson, who claimed an American gold medal — a rare occurrence this week — in the men's long jump. "A lot of us are amateurs. There's no way to beat the rest of the world if they are professional. When we get to Moscow, it's going to awaken the world that we are way behind."

And the United States, which adheres strictly to the Olympics' amateur code, fell further behind Russia and East Germany, whose athletes are subsidized by the state, in Thursday's competition, enlivened by a dispute between the two Communist powers. With only two full days of competition left in these quadriennial celebrations of sport, Russia had a practically insurmountable lead in medals with 94 over-all, built on a total of 34 gold, 33 silver and 27 bronze. East Germany, whose state-supported sports enclaves have produced some phenomenal women athletes, has gained a 32-20-22 count, 74 total, and the United States is at 24-26-23, 73 over-all. West Germany is fourth at 10-8-12.

The Americans will gain more — but it doesn't figure to be enough to catch up. Six U.S. boxers last night fought their way into Saturday's finals. All are assured of a gold or a silver. The United States also has six men unbeaten through three rounds of the freestyle wrestling competition, and Darrell Pace, Reading, Ohio, and Luann Ryon, Riverside, Calif., lead the men's and women's divisions in archery. The Americans also have solid medal possibilities in three of today's four track and field finals.

Bruce Jenner, San Jose, Calif., was in third place after the first day of the demanding decathlon but usually has his best performances on the second day. He is rated an excellent chance at a gold. Guido Krastcmer of West Germany led after five events with 4,333 points, followed by Russia Nikolay Avilov with 4,315 and Jenner with 4,298 — his highest first-day score ever. Jan Merrill, Waterford, Conn., set an American record of 4 minutes, 2.61 seconds in qualifying for today's final of the women's 1,500 meters. All three American entrants — Army Lt. Tommy Haynes, James Butts, Los Angeles, and Rayfield Dupree, Lynwood, Calif. — made it to the triple jump finals this afternoon.

The United States does not expect a medal in the other final, the 5,000 meters, where a skinny Finnish policeman, Lasse Viren, will seek to become the first man ever to win both the distance races in consecutive Olympics. Alberto Juantorena of Cuba and Irene Szewinska of Poland made Olympic history: the East Germans won a protest against Russia, and Robinson of San Diego and Randy Williams of Fresno, Calif., gave the United States a 1-2 finish in the men's long jump, highlighting Thursday's track and field.

The Americans boasted they would shut the powerful Juantorena out of the medals in the 400 meters, but he wouldn't be held off. Juantorena won it in 44.26 and became the first man ever to win both the 800 and 400. Fred Newhouse, Baton Rouge, La., was second and Herman Frazier, from Arizona State, was third. Mrs. Szewinska, one of the greatest performers in the Games' history, won the women's 400 in world record time of 49.29. It was the seventh Olympic medal, going back to 1964, for the 30-year-old mother, the only woman to win, at one time or another, the Olympic 100, 200 and 400. But this was the big one—and maybe the last.

"This was the most important race for me because it was all together — a world record and an Olympic gold medal," she said. "I think this was the last Olympics for me." Robinson got his winning 27 feet, 4 1/4 inches on his third jump and said, "Getting a good jump that early shuts out about half of them." It was only the United States' second gold medal since Sunday. Williams jumped 26-7 1/4. Johanna Schalker of East Germany won the women's 100, followed by Russians Tatiyana Anisimova and Natalia Lebedeva. The protest came in the women's discus and cost the Russians a silver medal. Evelyn Schlaak of East Germany won with a 226-4 throw and Saina Melnik of Russia, the defending champion and world record holder, was listed second. But the East Germans protested Ms. Melnik had interrupted twice—which is prohibited—on her fifth and best throw. Hours later the judges agreed. Ms. Melnik was dropped to fourth, Maria Vergova of Bulgaria moved up from third to second and an East German, Gabrielle Hinzmann, got the bronze medal. The United States got a bronze medal in the equestrian dressage team competition, following West Germany and Switzerland. Vladimir Nevzorov of Russia won the welterweight judo contest and Sweden took the epee team fencing event, the only other gold medal events.

It took Cuba's defending champion Teofilo Stevenson just one punch, a thundering right hand, to dispose of ambitious John Tate, a Knoxville, Tenn., truck driver, in their heavyweight semifinal bout. Stevenson knocked him out at 1:29 of the first round. All other Americans in action advanced and were assured of silver medals — and all have gold medal possibilities. They were flyweight Leo Randolph, Tacoma, Wash.; bantamweight Charles Mooney, Ft. Bragg, N.C.; lightweight Howard Davis, Glen Cove, N.Y.; welterweight Sugar Ray Leonard, Palmer Park, Md., and the Spinks brothers, middleweight Mike from St. Louis and light-heavy Leon, a Marine stationed at Camp Lejeune, N.C. The Cubans put six men in the finals while Russian managed only one. The Russians also lost a swimmer, 17-year-old Sergei Nemtsanov. He became the second defector of the Games, appearing in a Canadian immigration office and asking for refugee status.

Greenville Stars Take 8-1 Win

SWANSBORO — Roger Williams' home run in the bottom of the first got all the runs Greenville needed but just to make sure the North State Little League stars added four in the third en route to an 8-1 win over Fort Bragg, yesterday. The game was the first in the first round of the district tournament. Brunswick Co. won the second game of the day beating Warsaw, 5-2, was to meet Greenville today at 5:00 p.m. for the district title. Mike Pollard pitched the win for Greenville striking out nine, walking six and giving up two hits. Pollard led off the bottom of the first with a single and scored on Williams' homer. Scott Galloway opened the third with a single and he took second on an error on the play.

Williams singled him over and Billy Brannigan reached on an error. Jeff Porter singled in Williams and an error on the play scored Brannigan. Porter scored on a double by Sammy Hodges. Two walks, a hit batter and a catcher's interference led to Fort Bragg American's only run in the fourth. Greenville picked up two more in the fifth. Williams had three hits and Hodges two for Greenville. Williams was scheduled to pitch today against Brunswick. FB Amer 000 100-1 2 5

Paschal Leads East To Rout

GREENSBORO (AP) — Full-back Doug Paschal of Greenville Rose scored four touchdowns and Sanford's Mitchell Strickland scored twice Thursday night as the East beat the West by a record 42-14 in the 28th annual All-Star football game. The lopsided victory wiped out a scoring record that had stood since 1954. The East also won last year. Paschal carried over on runs of two, four, five and two yards, while Strickland broke loose for a record 71-yard touchdown, going off tackle, and followed with another 34-yard touchdown run. Jeff Arnold of Wilmington's Hoggard added to the record book, kicking six conversions for the East — soccer style. Quarterback Tony Tripp of Havelock guided the East to five of its six touchdowns. West quarterback Jim Streater of Sylva-Webster, who participated in only two losing games during his high school career, kept his forces in contention through much of the first two periods. Streater scored from 12 yards out in the first period and full-back Perry Allred of High Point Central scored from the one yard line in the second period. Streater carried over for a two point conversion with 7:43 remaining in the half.

The East held a 21-14 half-time lead but the game became a rout in the second half. The East's Paschal and Strickland had capable running help from Willie Holley of Edenton and James McDougald of Maxton. Strickland ripped off 145 yards rushing, followed by McDougald with 101. Paschal picked up 62 yards and Holley had 81 as the East amassed 416 yards for another series record.

Redskins Meeting Falcons In Preseason Opener

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta will be aiming to win while Washington Coach George Allen says he will "evaluate our young talent" when the Falcons and Redskins meet Saturday night in a National Football League preseason opener.

"We want to look good," said Atlanta Coach Marion Campbell as the Falcons prepared for their 1976 debut before the home folks at Atlanta Stadium.

Campbell, whose club was 4-10 a year ago, will start a veteran team with three exceptions:

Fulton Kuykendall, a second-year linebacker, will start in place of the departed Don Hansen. Rookie David Scott, a No. 3 draft choice out of Kansas, or rookie Phil McKinnely, a No. 9 selection from UCLA, will start at offensive tackle in place of injured Len Gotschalk. Sam Williams will be in the lineup at cornerback, replacing Tom Hayes, traded to San Diego in the deal that brought Williams to Atlanta.

A crowd of 30,000 is expected for the 8 p.m. EDT kickoff featuring quarterbacks Steve Bartkowski for Atlanta and Billy Kilmer of Washington.

Campbell, whose Falcons defeated Washington 16-14 in a preseason contest last year but lost 30-27 in the regular season to the Skins, is wary of his opponents.

"They've been around. They're a veteran team, and you've got to respect them for that," he said.

Allen, entering his sixth year at the helm of the Redskins, failed to guide his club into the playoffs for the first time a year ago, finishing with an 8-6 mark. He plans to take a good look at his youngsters.

"I'm looking to evaluate our young talent," said Allen. "We'll stay basic. We want to get our execution down."

Allen will especially be looking at his defensive secondary, which will be without Mike Bass and Pat Fischer. Bass retired earlier this week after an injury and Fischer has been bothered with an ailing knee.

Running backs John Riggins and Calvin Hill, a pair of free agents acquired by the Redskins over the winter, are questionable. Both have seen limited action in workouts. Riggins, the former New York Jet, is bothered by a stretched hamstring muscle. Hill, the former Dallas Cowboy, has a sore knee.

Wide receiver Alfred Jenkins is questionable for Atlanta due to a sore ankle and Claude Humphrey, the defensive end who missed last season with knee surgery, will see limited action, Campbell said.

He said his top rookie draft choices, Bubba Bean and Sonny Collins, would play, but Dave Hampton and Haskele Stanback will start along with wide receiver John Gilliam, who played out his option with the Minnesota Vikings before signing with Atlanta recently.

Play Is Hot As The Heat

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Competition in the 62nd Carolinas Golf Association Amateur championship this week has been as hot as the 90-degree weather that has turned the 6,957-yard South course of the Carmel Country Club into an outdoor oven.

A look at the performances of the eight survivors of Thursday's two rounds shows how slender the victory margin has been in many instances.

Five of the eight have won an extra hole match. The other three have had testers, also.

Jim Holmes of Aiken, S. C., the defending champion, has won two of his three matches by 2 and 1; medalist Chip Beck of Fayetteville has scored three times by 2 and 1; and Ed Trimble of Charlotte has survived twice by one up.

Today's quarterfinals sent Holmes, an LSU senior, against Doug Owens, 22-year-old former East Carolina University player from Albemarle; Trimble, 44-year-old weekend golfing grain broker, against Parker Moore of Laurens, S. C., winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference title before graduating from Clemson this year; Beck, a University of Georgia junior, against Chris Newman, his former Fayetteville High School teammate who enters Duke in September; and Tim Saylor of East Bend, who finished his Wake Forest golf career this year, against Todd Smith of Charlotte, who is bound for North Carolina State.

Unheralded Owens, who ousted Vance Heafner of N. C. State, a former Carolinas Open champion, in the major first round surprise, turned in another Thursday in third round play.

He staggered under three consecutive closing bogies that enabled three time champion Bill Harvey of Jamestown to win two of the holes and square the match.

Owens hooked his tee shot on the extra hole into the left rough, but then delivered his shot of the tournament, a nine iron to within three feet of the pin for a winning birdie three.

Owens, who qualified with a four over par 76, six shots off the medal pace, says his first sports love was baseball. He explained, "I was a high school shortstop. When I went to college I wasn't good enough to make the team, so I turned to golf. I made that team and found I liked golf."

In his brief tournament career, he has a fourth place finish to his credit in last year's North Carolina Open and finished fifth in the recent state Amateur.

He was a first round loser in last year's Carolinas Amateur to Ken Wiland, the eventual runnerup.

'The Bird' Drops Third Game, Losing To Birds

by HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Mark "The Bird" Fidrych felt pretty good Thursday night and that was bad ... for the Detroit Tigers.

Unfortunately, Fidrych pitched for the Tigers and the 21-year-old rookie sensation not only landscaped the mound and talks to the baseball but also has this theory that it's not how well you pitch but how well you feel.

"My arm felt good, but that's just what it's like," he said after losing to Rudy May and the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 on an unearned run. "When you feel good, you lose; when you feel bad, you win. That's the way it is."

In other American League action, the Minnesota Twins edged the Texas Rangers 2-1 and the Boston Red Sox downed the Cleveland Indians 6-4. In the only National League games, the Cincinnati Reds trounced the San Diego Padres 9-3, the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 11 innings and the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the New York Mets 2-1 in 10.

The Orioles scored in the fourth. Bobby Grich and Lee May singled with one out. Grich was out trying to score on Ken Singleton's grounder but Tony Muser drew Fidrych's only walk to load the bases.

Mark Belanger then hit a grounder to second baseman Pedro Garcia, who bobbled it.

Meanwhile, Rudy May fired a six-hitter for his second shutout of the season — both against Detroit. That's the only way to beat Fidrych, whose three losses have all been by shutouts — 2-0 to Boston and 1-0 to Kansas City.

Twins 2, Rangers 1
Eddie Bane and Bill Campbell combined on an eight-inning and handed the reeling Rangers their 19th setback in 22 games on Glenn Borgmann's fourth-inning single. The loser was Jim Umberger, a former teammate of Bane's at Arizona State University.

Red Sox 6, Indians 4
Carl Yastrzemski drove in two runs and the Red Sox banded out four doubles. Winner Rick Wise yielded 11 of Cleveland's 14 hits before being relieved in the seventh as the defending AL champs averted a plunge into last place in the AL East. Bill Lee blanked the Indians over the final 21-3 innings to pick up his first save.

Reds 9, Padres 3
George Foster crashed a three-run homer in the first inning — his 21st — while Joe Morgan scored four times and drilled his 18th homer. Foster boosted his major league-leading RBI total to 86.

New Faces Among Corps

By MIKE RECHT
AP Sports Writer
New teams, new coaches and new quarterbacks bring added interest to this weekend's first full schedule of pre-season games in the National Football League.

Six head coaches will be making their NFL debut and a seventh, Hank Stram at New Orleans, will be returning after sitting out one season following his ouster at Kansas City.

Of the newcomers, much of the interest will focus on two most successful Los Angeles coaches — John McKay of the new Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Dick Vermeil of the Philadelphia Eagles.

McKay enters the pros after an extremely successful career at Southern California while Vermeil shocked UCLA by leaving after the Bruins won the Rose Bowl last January.

A third man to leave college coaching for the pros is Lou Holtz, who comes to the New York Jets from North Carolina State.

The other three new head coaches all were former NFL assistants, and the one certainly most on the spot is Bill Johnson at Cincinnati, who replaces the legendary Paul Brown. Brown, still the general manager with the Bengals, retired after last season and named Johnson to replace him.

Jack Patera takes over the other expansion team, the Seattle Seahawks, and Monte Clark is the new leader of the San Francisco 49ers.

Adding interest to McKay's pro debut is the fact that his team plays in Los Angeles against the Rams in one of nine games Saturday night. Vermeil also will be on the West Coast again, directing his Eagles against the Chargers in San Diego one hour later.

Stram's Saints host Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh, which will be playing its second game after crushing the College All Stars 24-0. Holtz and the Jets play at St. Louis and Johnson's Bengals oppose the Packers at Green Bay.

In other Saturday night games, Washington plays at Atlanta, Minnesota is at Miami, Dallas plays at Oakland and Chicago travels to Denver, which beat Detroit 10-7 in its opener last week.

In the afternoon, Buffalo without holdout O.J. Simpson is at Detroit and Cleveland plays Baltimore at Lincoln, Neb.

Seattle and Patera open on Sunday afternoon against Clark and the 49ers and the New York Giants with Larry Csonka play at New England that night.

The first Monday night game pits Houston against the Chiefs at Kansas City.

Quarterbacks also will share the spotlight much of the weekend as injuries, trades and expansion caused a great deal of shuffling during the winter.

Coach Don Shula at Miami will be keeping a close eye on Bob Griese, who is returning after toe surgery in 1975; Greg Landry will make his first 1976 appearance for Detroit after being plagued by injury last season, and James Harris of the Rams will try to shake off the shoulder miseries that hampered him in 1975.

With Roman Gabriel out indefinitely with an injury, second-year signal caller Mike Boryla, so impressive late last season, has an open field with the Eagles.

Two other veteran quarterbacks — Archie Manning of New Orleans and Craig Morton of the Giants — will be on the sidelines for the opener.

Bobby Douglass gets the call for the Saints with Manning still recuperating from arm surgery and Carl Summerell will start for the Giants after Morton pulled a leg muscle in practice this week.

Green Bay is pinning its hopes on Lynn Dickey, acquired from Houston for John Hadl, who will make his debut for the Oilers as a backup to Dan Pastorini. Jim Plunkett is the new quarterback with the 49ers after a big off-season trade with New England, which left Steve Grogan and Tom Owen fighting it out for the Pats job.

Bob Avellini has the inside track with the Bears with Virgil Carter and Gary Huff standing by while Steve Ramsey inherited the Denver top spot when Charley Johnson retired.

Expansion has given new life to several veteran quarterbacks with Steve Spurrier, drafted from San Francisco, opening for Tampa Bay and Neil Graff, Gary Keithley and Jim Zorn battling for the Seattle job.

Another quarterback who will, of course, bear watching is Joe Namath, who will start in the Jets' first pre-season game for a change.

Getting Back Is Not A Part Of Any Game

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's one of baseball's oldest so-called rules. Not "take two and hit to right," or "take the 3-0 pitch." It's "get even!"

Minnesota's Dan Ford steals a base against Texas and infuriates the Rangers. He gets hit by a pitch the next day — and clears the benches by heading toward the pitching mound, bat in hand.

Baltimore's Reggie Jackson takes a pitch in the face from New York's Dock Ellis. One inning later, Mickey Rivers of the Yanks is plunked by Jim Palmer, who all but admits he did it to get even — and gets a reprimand and fine for doing it.

Dei Unser, then of the New York Mets, hits a home run off St. Louis' Lynn McGlothen. McGlothen hits Unser the next time up, and admits he did it intentionally. Then the Mets' Jon Matlack throws at McGlothen — and McGlothen later hits Matlack.

The "purpose pitch?" Fine. Brush a guy back when he's digging in. That's a pitcher's job. But his primary job is to try to get the batter out. The batter's job is to get a hit.

Getting a run or a victory is part of the game. Getting even isn't, even if a lot of managers seem to think it is.

You do your job. If you don't do it right, well, that's your fault, pal.

When a manager tells his pitcher "we don't have to take that from anybody" and orders a bit of revenge, child's play (which is what baseball really is) vanishes and childishness — or worse — takes over.

Can't do your job? Then do a job on the guy who can.

Just imagine: Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton has just thrown his third touchdown of the game against Chicago. One of the Bears' linemen, unable to stop him with blind-side tackles (call it football's version of the brush-back pitch), fractures Tarkenton's right arm and left leg with a tackle as he steps to the line to call the signals.

Julius Erving of the New York Nets puts in his third straight twisting slam-dunk, then suffers torn ligaments and cracked ribs when one of the Portland Trail Blazers' forwards clears him out of the lane and into the second row of court-side seats.

Montreal's Guy Lafleur scores his third goal of the game, then suffers a broken jaw and a variety of cuts and bruises when one of the Philadelphia players checks him into the boards just before the ensuing faceoff. (Well, with the Flyers, maybe that's not so improbable.)

In the Olympics, the gold medalist in archery winds up looking like Custer's Last Stand, compliments of the losers; the javelin champion also becomes the Games' first unsuccessful javelin catcher on a throw by the silver medalist; the loser in welterweight boxing scores a TKO over the winner in an alley at 3 a.m., a loser in a repechage heat suddenly finds himself in the rowing finals when a large hole appears in the bottom of the winner's boat ...

The possibilities are endless.

One Punch Ends Tate's Quest For Gold Medal

By JOHN VINOCUR
Associated Press Writer
MONTREAL (AP) — For Big Johnny Tate, it's back to his garbage truck. For Teofilo Stevenson, it's probably another gold medal, another I-did-it-for-Fidel, and another time around saying no amount of Yankee money can drag him into pro boxing.

The big Cuban has only one more fight left Saturday to become the first heavyweight to win at two consecutive Olympics, and the odds of anyone beating Stevenson here are about the same as an announcement that he will turn pro.

Besides knocking out Tate with a short right hand that left the garbage truck driver pawing at the ropes like a toddler in a playpen, Stevenson went through his usual routine about having absolutely no interest in becoming a professional.

"I don't like professional boxing. I want to be an athlete. If you're a professional you're not an athlete anymore. I am sure Premier Castro will never ask me to become a professional. The premier knows what's going on in professional boxing."

George Foreman said he saw no reason why Stevenson couldn't become a champion as a pro, but Stevenson ruled out any kind of fighting except with the approval of the International Olympic Committee.

This seemed to cover the possibility of an exhibition — heads spin here — with Muhammad Ali. "I would do it," Stevenson said of a fight with an IOC okay, "but Fidel would never ask me."

This left Tate saying he wants to become a pro, but without any promoters beating down his door. The 21-year-old had to insist after the fight, "I ain't finished, I ain't gone."

Tate dodged a post-fight news conference, but when a reporter found him in his room in the Olympic village later, he was in a relaxed mood, a comb stuck in his hair like a plastic tiara. He put away his protective cup covered with decals of comic strip characters and said, "I'm not so disappointed. I think I did pretty good for somebody's been fightin' only 19 months."

Tate's left eye, cut in his first fight, was swollen as if stung by a bee, but he wouldn't make any excuses about it.

Tate called Stevenson the best, but he had been knocked down before, even if he insisted "only the top ranked dudes done it. Stevenson got a lot on it when he throws. So before I got to fight he nailed me."

Despite the defeat and the lack of enthusiasm about his chances, Tate said, "I'm gonna be a pro fighter. It won't stop me. It didn't stop Bobick, losing to Stevenson. My chances are better than anybody around."

Meanwhile, till he gets the call, back to the Knoxville truck.

It is not always game and slam hands which produce sparkling play. We have written before of the brilliance of Gabriel Chagas of Brazil, which contributed greatly to his country's win in the recent World Team Olympiad. Here is an example of his defense, which earned him an honorable mention in the Bols Brillancy Prize competition at the event.

The contract seemed like a routine one no trump, but Chagas, as West, had other ideas. He led the king of spades on which his partner played the ten, suggesting four cards in the suit while denying the jack. With the queen of diamonds trapped in front of dummy's long suit, Chagas realized immediately that every effort should be made to keep South off play. The first step in the plan was to continue with a low spade, allowing dummy's queen to win the second trick.

Declarer elected to attack clubs and led the jack. Chagas dropped the ten! Declarer now had visions of collecting four club tricks, so he ran the nine of clubs, and again Chagas allowed declarer to win the trick. Flushed with success, declarer continued with a club to the queen, and was greatly surprised when West won this trick with the king!

West cashed the ace and continued a spade to East's nine. Declarer had to make two discards from dummy. Had he discarded two diamonds, he would have been forced to guess the location of the ten of hearts for his contract, so he sluffed a card from each red suit—but that proved to be fatal. East laid down the ace of hearts and continued the suit. Since declarer could not afford to unblock the queen under the ace, Chagas took advantage of this by following with the ten of hearts, allowing the queen to win.

Declarer was now locked in dummy with nothing to lead but diamonds, and Chagas won the queen and took the king of hearts for the setting trick.

Alan Young Quit TV In 1966, Is Easing Back

BY JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Alan Young quit TV in late 1966. That was when he did the last episode of "Mr. Ed," the hay-powered CBS comedy series where he played straight man to a talking horse for six years. Then he did a Broadway play, "The Girl in the Freudian Slip." Two days after the critics boomed, the play slipped out of sight. So did Young. He eased into work with the Christian Science Church.

Now in his fifties, a few pounds heavier, his dark hair now silver, Alan Young is easing back into television, starting with a small role as a small-town druggist in NBC's new "Gibbsville" series.

We risked making a pestle of ourselves by asking if it weren't a bit odd for a practicing Christian Scientist to play a druggist.

"It is a little odd, and I won't hedge," he said. "A Christian Scientist, if he's going to practice his faith, he doesn't feel he needs to take medicine ... but an actor is an actor."

"If I had to play a drunk, I would hope I played a drunk with such great ability that nobody would like to be that."

Young, maybe the sole Hollywood star to hail from the hamlet of Tynemouth in England, grew up near Vancouver, Canada. He said he began in show biz there as a teen-ager by writing a comedy series for a local radio station.

When he took his first script there, he said, "they said, 'Veddy amusing, Young, but there's no one to perform it.' So Young did that, too." When the show clicked, he made mention of a pay raise. And was told, "For what you're asking, I can get a cowboy singer."

Time passed and he eventually found fame and fortune in the states.

The actor, who now lives with his wife in suburban Encino, said around the time "Mr. Ed" was big, he began planning to leave show biz — "the Broadway play was my swan song" — to do church work full-time.

"Oh, there are certain things you feel you've got to do," shrugged Young, who joined the Christian Science Church while in his teens. "I'd had good fortune and I figured I should sow a little back."

He said he spent two years at the church's Boston headquarters, helped set up its radio, TV and film arm, then spent two years traveling and lecturing for the church.

About 2½ years ago, he added, he started feeling the itch to perform again and gave up the work he'd been doing: "I think I had done all I could for them by then, anyway."

He said he began doing voices for taped Bible stories — rewritten in a humorous style — put on cassettes for use at children's Bible classes.

But it wasn't until last spring that he took the plunge into more worldly performing, the plunge induced by old show business pals here.

SETTLEMENT

DOBSON, N.C. (AP) — Two factions have reached an out-of-court settlement after 11 years of litigation over who will control the Little Mountain Baptist Church. The dispute will be settled by majority vote of the congregation on Sunday, Aug. 29.

Rainmaker Encouraged

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Ray Williams thinks an old rainmaking technique he learned in the Blue Ridge Mountains helped cause a shower Wednesday.

It wasn't enough to end the area drought which Williams had tried to ease by two days of rainmaking.

He spent $75 for a 6-by-8-foot vat. He used an electric pump to fill it with water from a creek. He lit a fire under it to send steam skyward. He kept the fire going in a parched field in Forsyth County until Wednesday, when he "plumb wore out," shortly before the shower started.

"I try to make the air get heavy and wet enough to storm," says Williams, a retired furniture worker. He doesn't own a farm, but he tried to make rain "to help some people around here. 'Up in the mountains they do this all the time. And it works there because it's cooler and there's a lot of moisture in the air."

"The steam is not a guaranteed thing. It's really up to the Man over us."

SRA On The Brink, Says Its Director

By BARBARA WASHINGTON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Still dreaming yet eyeing reality, Dr. Randolph Blackwell continues to operate Southern Rural Action Inc. as though it will be around forever.

"If we can make it from July 27 to Sept. 27, we will be into the best year of our history," said Blackwell of the always debt-ridden nonprofit agency which fosters rural development through the creation of local industries.

Something else the crusty, heavyset former college professor believes could give SRA new life would be the election of fellow Georgian Jimmy Carter, who lives at Plains, Ga., where SRA built 18 homes, a community center and a brick factory three years ago.

"I could not imagine SRA not getting the support it should have had all the time if Carter were elected," said Blackwell. "At least, if he gets in the White House, we'll have someone closely aware of the operations of SRA. SRA is an anti-welfare program."

It is also a program in danger of dying a decade after its birth.

"Our debts have caught up with us in such a manner that we could conceivably be out of business in 60 days," partially because of $40,000 owed the Internal Revenue Service, Blackwell said.

However, the agency continues setting up light industries, such as factories for producing bricks, roof trusses, paper hospital gowns, cabinets and doughnuts.

The industries go into small communities such as Johns Island, S.C., where SRA moved a brick plant last month, and Warren, N.C., where there are plans for another brick plant.

Many of the operations at SRA, where most employees have missed two paychecks, hinge on a contract with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to train soon-to-be-released convicts and another with the Farmers Home Administration to build 100 houses.

The HEW program involves taking prisoners who have eight to 10 months left to serve in prison and training them to set up either a printing company or a "handyman" agency.

"No matter how modern and a new house is, there will be 50 to 75 minor repairs right away, so we postulate a new profession we will call handyman," he said.

Each company, consisting of six to eight men, would be supervised by SRA workers until the men were released from prison and could operate it themselves. The firms would be located both in rural and urban areas.

The low-income FHA homes, which would sell for about $14,000, would bring $300,000 in fees to SRA over a two-year period.

The pioneer rural development agency which has headquarters in an abandoned, red-brick school in an industrial section of Atlanta exists on funds—Blackwell is able to squeeze from the federal government, supporters, friendly community groups and speaking engagements.

It has waged revitalization efforts in about 110 poverty-stricken Southern communities in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi by getting residents economically and politically involved.

In Plains, the brick plant is no longer in operation, but Blackwell said the effort has not necessarily failed.

"It is certainly not what it needs to be but what we needed to accomplish could not be done in the two years we were there," he said. "But we demonstrated what was possible, and there are some things that speak for themselves."

SRA has set up more than 19 community-owned businesses and created jobs for more than 2,000 persons. It also has directed construction of more than 600 houses, 11 churches and five office buildings, Blackwell said.

"We have found there are 182 counties in the South where the average income is under $800 a year," Blackwell said. "That's our audience."

People who used to make $15 a week as farm hands and domestics now make at least $120, he said.

Blackwell feels the revitalization of already-established Southern towns will keep the rural poor from fleeing to larger cities and will encourage them to get into the political mainstream of their hometowns.

"In Perry County, Ala., the mayor of Uniontown is a black man," he said. "We started there with a bakery. People will do politically if they get sufficiently off the ground economically."

Blackwell, born 49 years ago in Greensboro, N.C., into a family of nine, was the son of a black fireman for the Southern Railroad who earned $3,500 a year.

He worked and, by his own admission, schemed his way through college and law school, and then taught college for 11 years and wrote two textbooks on economics and law.

He has challenged his alma mater, North Carolina A&T University, and other land grant institutions to create a program to train students in technical fields of community development which would require that they work to rebuild small towns, as SRA has, to earn a degree.

But North Carolina has been lukewarm to his suggestions.

"They were talking about workshops and theoretical things, and I wanted to do something practical," said Blackwell. "The more we talked, the more they wanted to talk, but I wanted to get started."

Rural development, once an obscure idea, now is getting widespread attention from foundations, a factor which Blackwell feels necessitates proper college training in practical community development.

"I would like to see a person getting a degree in industrial relations have some opportunity to understand the sociological nature of developing a factory in a community that doesn't have resources," he said. "Our uniqueness (at SRA) lies in the fact that not only can we run a factory, but we can put one together."

THE TYPE THAT SETS RECORDS — This is the U.S. Air Force's SR-71 strategic reconnaissance jet, the type of which set two world speed records and a world altitude mark for horizontal flight at about three times the speed of sound. The two SR-71 jets used in the record flights this week also set speed and altitude marks for aircraft of their class — twin-jet and land-based — as they covered sparsely populated areas of four western states. (AP Wirephoto)

New Challenges As Migration Is Ended

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The migration of Americans from the countryside to cities has stopped, creating a new challenge — finding ways to accommodate those who are returning to rural areas, the Agriculture Department says.

Walter A. Guntharp, administrator of the department's Rural Development Service, says "the new trend of rural population and growth" has lessened earlier worries of migration to cities in most areas.

"Instead, rural leaders are asking how they can best develop their communities to accommodate the growing number of young as well as older people who are choosing to remain in rural areas or move to them," he said.

Comments by Guntharp and other Agriculture Department officials were included in a new report by the rural development agency. Guntharp said there has been a net migration of about 350,000 people a year from urban centers to rural areas — those counties that have no city with a population as large as 50,000.

"This is a complete reversal of the urbanward trend of population migration that prevailed from 1940 to the late 1960s," he said.

Calvin Beale, a demographer in the Agriculture Department's Economics Research Service, said improved job opportunities, the growth of trade and services and other economic advantages have helped stem the city-bound tide.

"But changing attitudes about rural life versus big-city life may be equally important in halting the migration, particularly among the young," Beale said. "Their attitudes about what is important to them are changing, and they are increasingly favoring smaller-scale communities as places to live."

Funds Applications Are Being Accepted

Applications for federal funds totaling $107,492 for multipurpose senior citizens centers will be taken by the State Office for Aging and area agencies on aging through August 13.

These funds are available through Title V of the Older Americans Act. They are intended for acquisition, alteration, and renovation of buildings to be used as multipurpose senior centers geared to the delivery of health, social educational and recreational service to the elderly.

According to Robert Q. Beard, director of the Office for Aging, his agency will rank applications from North Carolina in priority order for the consideration of the U.S. Administration on Aging. Funds will be obligated by September 30.

Groups, agencies and organizations interested in making applications for the funds should contact their area agency on aging or the Office for Aging, N. C. Department of Human Resources, Raleigh, N. C., telephone 829-3963.

Groups in Pitt County who wish to submit applications for the funds should contact the Aging Program Administrator Mid-East Economic Development Commission P.O. Box 1218, Washington, N. C. 27809.

Rituals Added To Publication

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rituals for footwashing, naming a new baby, dying and divorcing are included in a new 128-page book, "Ritual in a New Day," being issued this fall by the United Methodist Board of Discipleship.

New rituals also are included for blessing a new home, shifting of a family to a different congregation and disbanding a church school class, among other events. The Rev. Jeau Audrey Powers, head of a task force that produced the book says:

"Rituals shape our being and are a way of declaring who we are and what we are about."

Agreement With Insurance Firm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The American Jewish Committee hails what it terms a "landmark agreement" between the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission and the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co. to broaden involvement of Jews in company management. The agreement stemmed from a committee complaint of executive-level discrimination.
