Oct. 21, 1911.

The Edgar Allan Poe Society met Oct. 21, to decide upon the manner of initiating the new members. It was moved that each society have a formal initiation separately and then both societies assemble in the attic for a Hallowe'en Party.

A motion was made that the same Inter-Society Committee stand and for them to appoint sub-committees. It was decided that all the plans be kept secret.

It was moved that the debt incurred be paid by collecting the fees of the members.

Nov. 4, 1911.

The Edgar Allan Poe Society met Nov. 4, for the purpose of initiating the new members.

The old members assembled first and the unfinished business was called for. The following report was read by the chairman of the Inter-Society Committee:

The Inter-Society Committee of the Edgar Allan Poe Society and the Inter-Society Committee from the Lanier Society met Oct. 13, 1911 for the purpose of dividing the names of all girls who wished to join either of the Societies. These were divided into two lists as near as possible. These lists were supervised by three faculty members, Miss Davis, Miss Jenkins, and Miss Graham. After they had made the necessary changes, the chairman of each Society drew for these lists in the following manner: Miss Jenkins held the lists behind her, and we were to choose either hand. I
