

Permanent Tax Cut Is Raised By Carter

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter, talking for the first time about possible early action on a permanent tax cut, is meeting with key congressional Democrats to see if they might favor a one-shot tax rebate to boost the economy.

Thirteen leaders of the Democratic majority were to meet here today with Carter and his economic team in an effort to hammer out a joint program to stimulate an economy that Carter and his advisers feel is far from robust.

The President-elect met with his economic aides Thursday and later said he hoped he could disclose at least the broad outlines of an economic program "if we can reach a compatible understanding" with the congressional delegation today.

Among those meeting with Carter today was House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who said Thursday that Carter's economic proposals will have top priority in the House, where tax legislation must originate.

Carter said options under discussion Thursday included "a permanent tax reduction, which would be compatible with long range reforms, plus the possibility of a temporary tax stimulus as well."

He did not elaborate on the nature of the temporary stimulus, beyond saying it "would only be for one year."

But it was learned that Carter had voiced a preference for a tax rebate that would quickly give taxpayers money to pump into the economy instead of a reduction in income tax withholding rates that would be felt slowly over the entire year.

Carter previously spoke of permanent tax cuts as part of an over-all tax reform that might take months to prepare, but Thursday he said:

"I think it would take at least until next fall to work out a perfect tax reform package, but if there are some small elements that are obviously going to be part of an over-all package, they might very well be included at this early stage."

Carter conceded that his own economic team was not in agreement after Thursday's three-hour meeting. He said no effort was made to resolve differences until the congressional leaders arrived. "We want to have their input on an equal basis with our own," he said.

He said a program to cut unemployment will remain the priority item in his economic package, adding, "whatever we can't do with the jobs program, we'll make up the differences with the tax program."

Professional Is Named By Hunt To Head N.C. Corrections Systems

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. elect Jim Hunt today found the professional he was looking for to head North Carolina's troubled prison system — Amos Reed of Florida.

Hunt announced the appointment of Reed, now the number two man in the Florida prison system and former head of the Oregon prison system, to be North Carolina's corrections secretary. His salary will be $34,932.

Hunt told a news conference he had looked across the country, talked to governors, law school deans, American Correction Association officials, and federal prison officials seeking the best available man.

"The reading I got on Amos Reed is that he is one of the most outstanding correctional administrators in the nation. He is a giant in his field," Hunt said.

"He is committed to a correctional program that is balanced between control and treatment," Hunt added. "He is committed to developing a thoroughly professional system. He has played a key role in developing a national standard for prisons, and he can help us meet those standards."

North Carolina's prison system is now crowding about 13,000 inmates into outmoded facilities built for 10,000. Observers have warned of the possibility the system may be placed under a federal court order similar to the one under which the Alabama prison system has operated.

Reed, 61, is a Karnak, Ill.,

native who is now deputy secretary of the Florida Department of Offender Rehabilitation, and formerly was Administrator of the Oregon Corrections Division from 1971 to 1976. He is a former president of the National Association of State Correction Administrators and of the National Association of Training Schools and Juvenile Agencies.

"He comes with a wide range of experience," Hunt said. "He has been school superintendent, a county welfare superintendent, a parole agent, a training school superintendent, and a correctional administrator."

Early Chance At Tax Forms

By EDMUND PINTO
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some taxpayers are getting an early chance to test their arithmetic skills on the new 1040 federal income tax forms that Congress hopes will be easier to comprehend than in previous years.

While the bulk of the forms are not expected to be in the mail until around Jan. 15, some taxpayers already have received the forms, in some cases as early as Christmas week.

The Internal Revenue Service had expected the forms would be delayed in reaching homes because of the late enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1976. It was signed into law Oct. 4.

The anticipated delay was the result of having to redesign many forms to meet new provisions of tax law. As a result printing schedules were pushed back.

Congress' simplification effort was aimed at having about 90 per cent of all taxpayers read their tax bill from tables, rather than having to use a formula that involved multiplication, subtraction and addition.

But the transition to the table also means that all taxpayers now are required to compute their taxable income. That is a new task for many.

It means totaling up all income, and then subtracting from that amount the standard deduction or itemized deduction, whichever was applicable, and then $750 for each personal exemption claimed.

The result was a more complex tax form for those taxpayers who in the past had only to find out how much they had earned in order to find out how much they owed Uncle Sam.

Debris Will Be Checked

BOSTON (AP) — The Coast Guard, searching for the missing tanker Grand Zenith or its remains, has spotted two planks in an oil slick, "the first sign of any debris we've had."

A Coast Guard plane sighted the planks late Thursday, 300 miles southeast of Cape Cod, and the search today will concentrate on that area.

"We don't know if it's from the Zenith or not, but we want to have a closer look at it," said spokesman Richard Griggs.

The Coast Guard now believes the 644-foot tanker probably sank with its 38 crewmen and 8 million gallons of heavy oil. It was last heard from Dec. 30, when it was reported to be 60 miles south of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

City Council OKs Move To Elect School Board

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A resolution has been adopted by the City Council "requesting the change of a majority of the terms of the...City Board of Education from appointed to elected terms."

The action Thursday night, with one Council member voting against the resolution, ended months of discussion and work aimed at providing a plan that will ensure fair representation on the school body.

According to the resolution, elected officials representing Pitt County in the North Carolina General Assembly will be requested to "introduce and have enacted a Local Bill authorizing the election of a majority of the...Board of Education."

The bill would stipulate that the board consist of nine members with six of the positions filled by election and the remaining three appointed by the Council. The nine members will serve for a term of four years except for the "initial new members" who would serve under a four and two-year arrangement until the second election.

The arrangement provides that, "At the first election hereunder during the year 1978, the three members receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected for a term of four years, and the three members elected with the next highest number of votes shall be elected for a term of two years. Thereafter, all elected candidates shall be elected for a term of four years."

The election for members of the school board will be held in 1978 and biennially in the future at the same time the primary elections in the state are held. Members elected will take office at the second regular board meeting following the election. The appointed members will follow the same procedure.

Persons residing within the boundaries of the Greenville School District will be eligible to vote for the elected members.

At the last Council meeting, Councilman Clarence Gray and School Board member Ed Stallings were asked to prepare a plan of electing members by wards or precincts. Both Gray and Stallings expressed a desire to implement a ward system rather than simple election as proposed.

Gray discussed a plan last night that would divide the school district into seven wards, with two of the wards ensuring black representation on the board.

The Councilman emphasized that he was trying to come up with a plan that would provide total representation for the city "across the board" and not just a system that would ensure black membership.

"I think this would give us equitable representation throughout the system," he added. Gray contended that the elected members would have an interest in the whole system and not just the wards they represented.

Stallings acknowledged that he and Gray met and tried to come up with a working ward system but he said he "talked with a lot of people" since then and has had a change of mind.

"I feel that if we go to wards, it would segregate the city" and lose some representation, Stallings asserted. He said he does not see any way that an election system by wards will work now. He said he still advocates having board members elected.

Mayor Percy Cox said that he had no qualms with the appointed board but "for years the citizens of Greenville have called for an elected board."

In other business, the Council conducted a public hearing on a proposed ordinance rescinding an ordinance amending the charter that implemented four-year staggered terms for members of the Council.

Councilman John Howard said that he still favored a staggered term system for the reason of providing continuity on the Council.

Cox also said that he still preferred the staggered terms for Council membership.

Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller, noting that it is apparent that some oppose the system because they feel black representation on the Council would be lost, said that he did not feel it would be lost.

Fuller said that when he first took office, the top four vote getters were elected to the Council and it appeared that the fifth person in the vote tabulations was usually a black. The number of Council seats was increased to six in order to help get more black representation, he observed.

The Council member said that he felt that after five elections the question of ensuring black representation on the board would not be a problem. Staggered terms would benefit the city, he said, in that there would not be a complete turnover possibility.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath said that if she put both systems of membership on a scale, they would balance. She cited "good points" in both systems.

Elbert Williams contended that "as a voter and a citizen, I believe that staggering the election will take away much from a voter." He said that, "We want to be able to vote our convictions, if it means cleaning house."

Howard said he did not consider "political upheaval" in his decision to support staggered terms. He said grants and important programs could be lost if a turnover results and novices on the board would not be familiar with current programs.

Former Council member John Taylor suggested, "It might be the case that only a black who indicates that he or she is a 'yes' person would be elected." He said that, "Many times black voters think this is the case."

Taylor added, "That opinion

Jobs Are Up To Pipelines

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The jobs of hundreds of industrial workers in North and South Carolina were reportedly in the hands of two gas pipeline companies as officials of the firms prepared to meet today in Houston.

In the meantime, there will be no emergency gas from Transcontinental Pipeline Co. (Transco), although the Federal Power Commission authorized continued emergency purchases by Transco from Houston Pipeline Co. pending a hearing next week.

Houston Pipeline, which sells gas within Texas at unregulated prices, was reportedly concerned additional emergency sales to Transco would endanger its status as an unregulated intrastate company with the FPC.

If Houston had to turn interstate, it would have to reduce prices to all its customers.

"They wouldn't do that for 10 times the price of this sale, and I don't blame them," said Forrest Collier, vice president of Piedmont Natural Gas in Charlotte.

Collier said an end to the current emergency gas sale, which the FPC authorized up to Jan. 11, raised the specter of curtailments for 170 industrial firms in the Carolinas with shutdowns and loss of jobs a possibility.

Collier said Transco had notified him of today's meeting.

"I assume Transco will try to work out some of the problems with Houston Pipeline," Collier said, adding that in the meantime Transco officials had told him not to "make any hard decisions."

The Carolinas' problems stem from an unusually cold winter, which has placed heavy heating demands on available interstate gas supplies from Transco.

The FPC authorized one 60-day purchase of emergency intrastate gas and observers said approval of another was likely.

But Houston Pipeline would not be required to make the sale without assurances from the FPC that it could continue to charge unregulated prices.

If the deal doesn't go through and there isn't enough gas, residential and commercial users who can't convert to other fuel supplies will get what they need and the industrial customers will get whatever is left, perhaps none at all.

SMOKE DETECTOR?

I am interested in getting a smoke detector installed in my home. I need information as to cost. Do I need any extra wiring? Who in Greenville does this? C.D.

Smoke detectors are sold by specialized fire prevention equipment dealers, electrical and light fixture dealers, hardware stores, and department stores throughout Greenville. Costs vary from just under $40 to about $60.

Greenville Assistant Fire Marshal Jimmy Smith said his office has a list of units approved by the N.C. Department of Insurance he will be glad to show or read to anyone who will call him at 752-4137, Ext. 239.

He reminded that any home or apartment built after Jan. 1, 1975 should have a unit installed by the contractor. Any mobile home sold after Sept. 1, 1975 should have one provided by the dealer, he said.

He said he personally believes the type wired directly into the home electrical system are the most fool-proof because there is less chance of human error—forgetting to replace batteries, unplugging accidentally, and the like. Any competent electrician can quickly install one, he said.

Smith also stressed the need for an ABC home fire extinguisher (ABC means that it puts out flaming solid materials, liquids, and electrical fires). Costs vary from $10 to $20, with the more expensive ones being the most easily repairable ones. He also stressed the need to know that the company or person from whom you purchase any fire-prevention equipment will stand behind what you buy. Get it in writing, he suggested.

When Inaugural festivities begin in Raleigh this weekend many Pitt County citizens will be in attendance.

Inaugural festivities begin Friday afternoon at 4 p.m. when a special Hunt staff party will be held. At 6 p.m. a party for special Hunt campaign supporters will be held. The Inaugural Ball will follow the parties at 8 p.m. at William Neal Reynolds Coliseum on the North Carolina State University campus.

Saturday, Inaugural festivities will begin with band concerts in the morning. The inauguration will take place at 12 noon at the Bicentennial Plaza. The Inauguration will be followed by a parade at 1 p.m., parties and the Democratic Gala which will be held Saturday night at Angus Barn.

Pitt County will be represented in the Inaugural Parade with a float carrying representatives of each of the high schools, Pitt Technical Institute, and ECU. The Pitt County Float Committee included the following members: Tom Willis, Jim Caldwell, Tom Taft, Betty Speir, Louis Singleton, Reese Hart, and Reginald Gray. Pitt County will also be represented in the parade by the Rose High School Marching Band.

The Greenville Teen Dems and ECU Young Democrats will be at the parade and a special reception following the parade.

About 50 citizens of Pitt County will be attending the Democratic Gala at the Angus Barn Saturday night. Tickets for the occasion sold for $100 per couple.

Suspect Bacteria Cause Of Legionnaire's Disease

Demo To Join Panama Parleys

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed U.S. and Latin American diplomats expect Sol M. Linowitz, a liberal Democrat, to join the U.S. team negotiating a new Panama Canal treaty.

President-elect Carter's appointment of Linowitz could touch off protests by hardliners in Congress who are against any wholesale revision of the controversial 1903 Canal Zone pact.

Linowitz headed a commission that recommended last month that the new administration "promptly negotiate" a new treaty and declared the canal "no longer vital for U.S. commerce or defense."

The 63-year-old Linowitz, a Washington lawyer who served as ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS) from 1966 to 1969, is out of the country and unavailable for comment.

Carter has rated the canal issue as one of the most urgent facing his new administration. Carter is expected to make clear that Ellsworth Bunker, a career diplomat who has led the slow-moving Panama talks for the past four years, is being asked to work with Linowitz as a means of providing continuity, at least temporarily.

By WILLIAM L. EBERLINE
Associated Press Writer
AMES, Iowa (AP) — Bacteria that cause disease in turkeys and parrots have been linked to Legionnaires' disease, the still unsolved ailment that killed 29 persons in Philadelphia last summer, government researchers said.

These talks were said to be for the purpose of clarifying various U.S. proposals on the future status of Americans living in the Canal Zone, on territorial and water facilities the American seem ready to give back to Panama and on some other undefined issues.

At the center of the stalled negotiations between the Americans and Panamanians is the question of how long a new treaty should endure. Panama has offered to permit the pact to run to the year 2000. But then Panama would want a total U.S. withdrawal and transfer of control. For its part, the United States wants to keep control for around 40 years with primary rights to defend the canal indefinitely.

Evidence Grows That Paralytic Syndrome Is Vaccine Reaction

By JACK STILLMAN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Evidence is mounting that the paralyzing Guillain-Barre syndrome is a reaction to the swine flu vaccine, says an official of the national Center for Disease Control.

The swine flu vaccination program was suspended last month because of a rising number of cases of paralysis. CDC officials said then there was merely "significant evidence of association of the syndrome with the swine flu program."

Dr. Philip Brachman, director of the bureau of epidemiology at the CDC, also said records of Salk vaccine used in polio epidemics in the 1950s and 1960s were being studied to determine if there were any relationship to Guillain-Barre.

He said nothing pointed directly to the Salk vaccine, and that this phase of the investigation was routine. Brachman said blood specimens from paralysis victims will be sent to laboratories throughout the nation for study.

Linowitz said in his report: "The Panama Canal is no longer vital for U.S. commerce or defense. Supertankers and aircraft carriers cannot transit it. Only 10 per cent of U.S. foreign commerce now passes through Panama."

Frank Sinatra's Mother Was On Missing Plane

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Frank Sinatra's 82-year-old mother was one of four persons aboard a twin-engine private jet that apparently crashed in rugged mountains on a flight from Palm Springs, Calif., to Las Vegas, authorities said.

Natalie "Dolly" Sinatra was en route to Las Vegas on Thursday to see the opening of her son's latest show at Caesars Palace, a casino-hotel on the Las Vegas Strip.

Officials today listed the plane as "overdue" and said they planned to send two helicopters aloft to search for it.

Powerless To Prevent Release Of Murderer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Psychiatrists have recommended the release of a woman who was committed to a mental hospital 17 months ago for killing a pregnant woman and cutting out her baby.

The district attorney's office says it is powerless to prevent the hospital from letting the woman go because she was acquitted — on grounds of insanity.

Winifred Ransom, 38, who admitted at her trial that she shot and bludgeoned the woman and removed the baby with a butcher knife, is no longer insane, doctors at Byberry State Hospital said.

Margaret Sweeney, 26, the woman Mrs. Ransom admitted killing, was eight months pregnant at the time of the incident in November 1974. Her infant, a girl, survived and is being raised by relatives. Mrs. Sweeney and her husband were estranged.

Mrs. Ransom was acquitted in July 1975. Psychiatrists testified at her trial that she was driven by a psychotic delusion caused by her inability to bear children.

Officials today listed the plane as "overdue" and said they planned to send two helicopters aloft to search for it. Lee Solters, Sinatra's press aide, said Sinatra was told of the apparent crash shortly before he went on stage Thursday night.

He reacted, how would you react to the news that your mother was missing under conditions like that?" said Solters. "Of course he reacted. But he went on anyway. Yeah, and he sounded great."

Three other persons, including a friend of Mrs. Sinatra and two crew members, were aboard the Lear jet when it left Palm Springs at 4:55 p.m. for the 30-minute flight. Visibility was eight miles and a light rain was falling.

No One Was Playing Joke

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Barbara Coyle, 20, a clerk at a late-night grocery store in suburban Amherst, thought someone was playing a joke on her the other night.

A man holding what looked like an automatic pistol entered the store Wednesday, his face covered with a black ski mask. "Put all the money in the bag or I'll shoot you," he commanded.

But when she looked out a window, she saw another man sitting in a car. He was smiling.

Joining what she thought was a game, she simply smiled at the gunman. He threatened her again. She smiled. The man finally turned and walked out.

Man Charged With Break-In

WINTERVILLE — A Winterville man has been charged with breaking, entering, and larceny and three juveniles are being investigated in connection with an incident which occurred at Shramrock Grocery in Winterville Saturday night, according to Winterville Police Chief, G. I. Jones.

Jerry Wayne Moore of Winterville was charged after police investigated and found that approximately $700 worth of cash and checks were taken, according to Chief Jones.

Police were looking for the man Thursday.

It wasn't until the man in the car walked into the store to see if anything was amiss that the would-be holdup victim realized the man with the gun had been serious.

Jerry Paul Is To Be Queried In Wilson Case

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Durham attorney Jerry Paul, who drew national attention as Joan Little's defense attorney, has been ordered to answer questions about his handling of another case.

The stand, worked out by a task force on Soviet Jewry, maintains that Jewish agencies have a duty to "encourage and facilitate the migration of Jews in the Soviet Union who seek to live in freedom," whether they are going to Israel or to other countries, such as the United States.

Police said the 25-year-old man was arrested for investigation of auto theft and was about to be photographed and fingerprinted when he escaped.

Jail Lt. J. W. Cunningham said a jail attendant took the suspect to the identification bureau and left him. The man grabbed a broom, started tidying up the place and then made his clean getaway.

When the crop failed to come in, Mrs. Miller wrote to Carter. "My friends all said I wouldn't dare to write to Carter, but I did anyway," she said.

MR. AND MRS. L. L. MOORE

Couple Honored On Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. (Roy) Moore were honored on their 50th anniversary Sunday at a reception held at the home of Mrs. Maggie Whitehurst.

The reception was given by the couple's children, Mrs. James Weston, Mrs. Hilbert Bowen, Mrs. Whitehurst and Andrew Moore. Mr. and Mrs. Moore have 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The refreshment table was covered with a gold damask cloth overlaid with white lace.

The centerpiece featured 25 long-stemmed yellow roses.

Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Cecil Boyd Jr. on a table decorated similar to the refreshment table.

Mrs. Moore was presented a corsage of yellow roses.

Approximately 150 guests called during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore, formerly of Pitt County, now reside in Hyde County with Mr. and Mrs. James Weston.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Weston, Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Whitehurst.

Stuffed Pork Roast Features Cornbread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: Some years ago there was a recipe for a crown roast of pork with a cornbread stuffing along with a photograph of it in our newspaper. I wanted to cut it out, but somehow I got fouled up. Result: no recipe. Can you help me? — INTERESTED COOK.

DEAR INTERESTED COOK: I can and will. The following recipe for the stuffed pork has the basic cornbread dressing you want. Pork, like other meats, is more expensive than it once was, so I gather from you nom de plume that you want to use the crown roast for a celebratory occasion. — C.B.

STUFFED ROAST PORK
14 to 16-rib crown roast of pork
Cornbread, see below
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
3/4 teaspoon dried sage
2 medium onions, finely chopped
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup chicken broth

Place the roast in a shallow pan; wrap each exposed rib end with foil to prevent scorching. Roast in a 325-degree oven for 2 hours. Meanwhile crumble the Cornbread and add the salt, pepper, thyme and sage. Cook the onion in the butter until it wilts; add to cornbread mixture with the egg and broth and toss lightly. After the pork has roasted for the 2 hours, remove it from the oven and stuff the center cavity with some of the dressing; cover the top of the dressing with foil. Return to the 325-degree oven until pork is cooked through — about 1 hour longer. Turn the remaining dressing into an ungreased 1-quart casserole and bake it along with the pork during the last hour of roasting to offer as an extra with the meat. Before serving the roast remove the foil from the rib ends and replace with paper frills. Count on 1 or 2 chops per portion, carving the chops and dressing like a pie.

CORNBREAD: Stir together 3/4 cup flour (stirred to aerate before measuring), 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar (if desired) and 1 1/4 cups yellow cornmeal. Add 1 egg (slightly beaten), 1 cup milk and 1/4 cup corn oil; beat just until smooth. Bake in an oiled 8-inch square cake pan in a preheated 425-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 25 to 30 minutes. Cool.

Yam Pone
Ambrosia
AUNT SUGAR'S YAM PONE
Latest version of our popular annual recipe.

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 pounds yams, pared and coarsely grated (6 cups packed down)
2-3rds cup butter, melted
2 large eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup molasses
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
Stir together the flour, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Turn the yams into a large bowl; with a spoon, beat in one at a time the butter, eggs, sugar, molasses, milk, vanilla and flour mixture. Bake, uncovered, in an ungreased 3 to 3 1/2 quart souffle dish (about 9 by 3 inches) or similar utensil for 1 hour, stirring several times. Continue baking without stirring until yams are tender and edges are caramelized — 1 to 1 1/2 hours longer. Loosen edges. Serve hot or warm. Makes 12 servings.

1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste

Prebake pie shell in a preheated 350-degree oven for 10 minutes; cool. In a 10-inch skillet cook bacon until crisp; drain on brown paper; crumble over bottom of pie shell. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the bacon drippings in the skillet; add onion to drippings and cook gently until softened; stir in the remaining ingredients. (We like to add a generous amount of pepper.) Turn squash mixture into pie shell. Bake on rack below center in a preheated 350-degree oven until pie shell is golden-brown, filling is firm and a knife inserted in the center comes out clean — about 1 hour. Serve hot.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Ellen B. Anderson of Greenville announces the engagement of her daughter, Loretta Mae, to Donald Ross Lewellyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewellyn of Rt. 1, Walnut Cove. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Mr. George Archer Anderson of Amelia, Va. The wedding will take place June 26.

Succulents Make Good Houseplants

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Cacti and other succulents are good choices for beginning houseplant hobbyists because they thrive with little effort on the owner's part.

Cacti, jade, snake, medicine and century plants need lots of light but only a little water and fertilizer. They do well in the low (10-30 per cent) humidity of most households, says Harold Wilkins, Extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota.

Either bright sun or artificial light is necessary, Wilkins said. During the low-light winter months, their soil should be allowed to dry out completely between waterings, and only enough water should be used to prevent the plants' shrinking and withering. Too much water or frequent, shallow sprinklings distort their growth, he said.

Succulents are also a good choice for beginners who want to propagate plants themselves. Wilkins said they can be started easily with stem cuttings. Many will form new plants from leaves that have broken off. The cut or broken edge should be allowed to air dry before being stuck into slightly damp, sterile sand.

Until roots form, watering should be light. Then transplanting calls for regular sand and potting soil mixture.

Talkative Woman Ties Her Tongue

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-H. T. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 73-year-old woman. I'm well-educated and have been active and gregarious all my life. Lately I've noticed that people have been avoiding me.

Yesterday my eldest son took me aside and said, "Mother, I don't want to hurt your feelings, but you talk too much."

Abby, I was so hurt, I wanted to die. It came as such a shock to me. I didn't realize that I had been talking more than usual, but apparently I had been. Now I am so self-conscious and inhibited, I hesitate to open my mouth in company. I was much happier when I talked too much and wasn't aware of it.

If there is a happy medium, how does one find it?

TALKS TOO MUCH

DEAR TALKS: Start by resolving to talk only when you have something of consequence to say. Then resolve never to interrupt anyone. And don't be hurt, dear. Your son did you a kindness.

DEAR ABBY: Who wrote: "Any woman who will accept attention from a married man—no matter how lonely, misunderstood, henpecked, mistreated, neglected or unhappy he claims to be—is stupid, cruel, cheap, dishonest and shortsighted?"

HELENE

DEAR HELENE: I did.

DEAR ABBY: My sister, who is divorced, recently took a full-time job. She has an 8-year-old daughter, Cissy. She refuses to get a babysitter for Cissy, saying the child is old enough to take care of herself for the three hours after school until my sister gets home.

I am really worried about my niece. She is a quiet child and I am concerned about the responsibility this thrusts on her right after losing her father (a year ago). My mother has threatened to report the situation to the child services department in our town.

Sis thinks we're being silly and says she can't afford a sitter even if she felt one was needed. Mother and I both work, so we can't volunteer our services.

I don't want a family fight, but I feel the welfare of the child is at stake. What should we do?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: I agree. An 8-year-old is too young to be "on her own" for three hours, five days a week. If your sister can't find a friendly neighbor to whom Cissy can report after school, a sitter seems the only alternative.

If your sister doesn't agree, and you report her to the child services department, don't prepare for a "family fight," but for a full-scale family war.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to you a few years back asking why a married man would pick up some tramp and treat her like a lady, then turn around and treat his wife (who was really a lady) like a tramp. Please try to locate it because your answer was one of the best things I've ever read, and I desperately need it now.

SAME BOAT IN ALLENTOWN

DEAR SAME: A sharp-eyed secretary with a mind like a steel trap found it, and here it is:

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

The Picture Isn't The Same

The Pitt County Commissioners Wednesday — in a secret ballot — couldn't agree to seek community college status for Pitt Technical Institute.

When the secret ballots were tallied the commissioners had voted three in favor and three against endorsement of community college status recommended by the institute's board of trustees.

Apparently the three dissenting commissioners favor a public referendum on the matter, rather than deciding it themselves as elected officials should.

Evidently the three are concerned about a referendum of years ago when voters turned down a special tax which would have supported the community college.

The thing is, the situation has changed radically since that referendum. No special local tax is now required for conversion of Pitt Tech to community college status. In fact, for a modest additional expenditure of about $15,000 the county would receive an additional $250,000 in state funds for operation of the community college.

Since the last referendum Pitt Tech's function has changed so that now it is performing as a community college; it only lacks the prestige that comes with full community college status.

Finally some of the most ardent opponents of community college status in the first referendum have come to recognize that changing times now make the status desirable.

We can't understand why the unknown three on the county board of commissioners want to make complicated something that should be fairly simple. It's a mystery to us why they would want to put the county to the expense of a referendum to decide something that they, themselves, were elected to decide.

The logical move would be for the county commissioners, in an open vote, to go on and endorse the community college proposal for Pitt Tech and save everyone a lot of time and trouble.

Consumers To Soon Feel OPEC Action

The decision made by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise oil prices by ten percent will soon be felt by American consumers.

Exxon announced that it would accept the price increase and it would increase the price of oil to East Coast customers. Exxon purchases some 850,000 gallons of oil daily from Venezuela.

Thus the OPEC decision spirals. Higher cost for oil means higher cost for products which require energy for their production.

And it won't be long before OPEC nations will be citing inflation as the reason for another price increase.

THIS AFTERNOON Licensing Costs Millions

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The cost of doing business with various people subject to state licensing laws and regulations runs into the millions.

Just how much, nobody can say for sure. But just one isolated example put together by attorneys in the North Carolina Attorney General's office gives a glimpse: eyeglasses in this state cannot be advertised. In states with competition prices are one-third lower.

Cost to Tar Heels, according to a study by state attorneys, is well over $10 million per year. Judging from that, the public cost is exceedingly high when you consider that there are 35 licensing boards to regulate various activities, and many work to limit competition, eliminate advertising, and bar entry to some who might wish to enter that particular field.

3 Pilots

The strictest entry law, by the way, is in the occupation of pilot for ships calling at Morehead City or Wilmington.

There are — by law — only three licensed pilots for Morehead; 15 authorized for the Cape Fear River and Bar.

John Silverstein, until recently chief of the anti-trust division of the Attorney General's staff, ramrodded an 18-month study of licensing in the state. That research leads him to conclude that the system is fraught with problems: restrictive entry rules, problems in practicing from one state to another, absence of competitive bidding in securing services, prohibition of advertising.

Silverstein now feels that what is needed is "the least regulation necessary to protect the public interest . . . as to entry, the minimum education necessary to prepare the individual to serve the public."

Particularly during hard economic times when people are hunting jobs, Silverstein found some who had completed all educational requirements and who had passed required examinations still barred because a period of apprenticeship is required, and they could not find an opening.

Alan Baughcum has written a survey of the licensing system in the state, and based on it, the attorney general is asking the General Assembly to declare a moratorium on setting up any new ones or changing methods for old ones. Meanwhile, a full-blown research program is needed in the legislature, Baughcum feels.

A Moratorium

That moratorium, Baughcum feels, will allow time for staff of the attorney general's office to work with the various boards to bring them in compliance with recent court rulings.

Baughcum, in his report, pointed out that the system tends to restrict competition: "A market in which a monopoly exists is the antithesis of the competitive market . . ." he wrote.

Further, he found that the membership on the various boards overly represents the particular profession or trade, indicating "a desire to have the occupation regulated only by those who are a part of (it) . . ."

Labeled monopolistic by the study are accountants, cosmeticians, dentists, electricians, landscape architects, lawyers, medical people, undertakers, nurses, pharmacists, plumbing and heating tradesmen, engineers and surveyors, real estate agents, and refrigeration technicians.

Most of those, with the addition of others — architects, foresters, opticians and optometrists, physical therapists, psychologists, and speech-language audiologists — prohibit advertising. "The constitutionality of such restrictions on advertising would seem to be dubious . . ." Baughcum reported.

Informal talks with legislators and investigators indicate a developing change in the law to allow advertising in the coming year or two — at least advertising to the extent of revealing the location and specialties of lawyers or physicians or dentists.

Probably no advertising in the foreseeable future will allow special price offerings (divorces at a cut rate; weeklong special on appendectomies) most believe.

THE INSIDE REPORT Sorenson Appointment

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Greg Schneiders, President-elect Carter's personal aide and prospective appointments secretary, was cut off in mid-sentence by Carter when he tried to argue against appointing Theodore C. Sorenson as CIA director — emphasizing the peculiarly personal nature of Carter's most puzzling nomination.

Even more than Griffin Bell for Attorney General, the Sorenson appointment was the President-elect's personal choice without consulting his huge transition staff. But whereas Bell derived from an understandable desire for a trusted friend at the Justice Department, Carter staffers have been asking: why Sorenson?

Lacking qualifications associated with the nation's intelligence chief, Sorenson is known as a distinct liberal domestically and an indistinct soft-liner internationally. So, it is widely assumed he was chosen to dismantle or at least downgrade the Central Intelligence Agency. In truth, however, insiders say Carter is far more worried about the agency's morale than its past excesses.

Thus, besides demonstrating Carter's accustomed independence from aides and unaccustomed loyalty to an early supporter, Sorenson's appointment reflects the new President's occasional trouble in matching action with goals. Assuming Carter truly wants to rehabilitate the CIA, his marriage of this with his determination to put Ted Sorenson in the cabinet flashed the wrong signals to the beleaguered agency and the outside world.

"I think Sorenson got CIA because he asked for it," one Carter insider told us. That explanation, though simplistic, contains a large element of truth. Carter not only appreciates Sorenson's early support for President back in 1975, but admires his incisive style. When Sorenson listed Attorney General and CIA director as his first two job preferences, Carter gave him his second choice.

Word that Sorenson was high on the CIA list produced an overwhelmingly unfavorable reaction, including grumbling from Carter's staff. Kenneth O'Donnell, Sorenson's White House colleague on the New Frontier, privately informed the Carter camp of his objections. Many Carter staffers questioned

WASHINGTON—Leroy Simpkin entered the psychiatrist's office and went directly to the couch.

"What seems to be the trouble?" Dr. Heinrich Applebaum asked.

"I just discovered I have a low Jimmy Carter Threshold," Simpkin said nervously.

"Could you explain exactly what you mean?"

"He isn't even in the White House yet and I can't stand reading about him any more. I don't know how I'm going to get through the next four years."

Dr. Applebaum started to take notes. "When did you discover you had a low Carter Threshold?"

"I saw him on the cover of Time last week as 'Man of the Year' and I decided not to buy the magazine." "I don't think that's too peculiar," Dr. Applebaum said. "There have been many weeks I haven't bought Time magazine."

"It isn't just Time magazine, Doctor. I can't stand reading about Carter in Newsweek either—or in the newspapers. I'm sick and tired of seeing him on television. I've never admitted this to anyone, Doctor, but I'd rather read about an oil spill in Delaware than Jimmy Carter in Sea Island, Ga."

"Why do you think you feel this way?"

Simpkin stared at the ceiling. "I believe I know everything I want to know about Jimmy Carter. I know about his family. I know about the public school his kid is going to. I know about his brother Billy. I know about his mother Lillian. I know what Rosalynn eats for breakfast and what Amy eats for lunch.

ART BUCHWALD

"I know what Carter thinks of God, and what God thinks of Carter. I know what's in his heart. I know about his finances. I know where he stands on the issues. I know everything about his peanut business. I can't take it any more. I've had it up to here."

"You seem overwrought with Carter stories," Dr. Applebaum said, "but this is quite normal. The press has nothing to write about until January 20th and they're giving everyone large doses of Carter. But it won't last forever. After the swearing-in you may find your Carter Threshold is higher than you thought and you'll start wanting to read about him again."

"I wish it was true, Doctor, but it's hard to believe. Do you know if I have the choice of reading about Carter or Richard Nixon, I read about Nixon?"

"That's very interesting."

"What's even worse is that I'll read a story about Mayor Beame before I'll read one about Carter."

Applebaum whistled. "Beame before Carter!"

"The other day I found myself choosing an article on Howard Hughes' will over one on Jimmy Carter's plans for a tax cut. Am I sick, Doctor?"

"No, you're not sick. You're the twelfth patient I've had today who said he can't take one more story about Jimmy Carter. You all seem to be suffering from what we doctors call a 'Carter syndrome' or, to put it in layman's terms, 'an overdose of Plains, Ga.'"

Other Editors Say Shows Courage

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Three cheers for East Carolina University English Professor Janice Faulkner.

She had the courage to stand up and insist that English is a specific language and that students should be taught it as such and required to use it.

The most prevalent alibi for using poor English today is that abuse and misuse of the language results from cultural and regional dialects and should be accepted.

Malarky!

Poor grammar and other misuse of the language are the products of either carelessness or ignorance.

They should not be tolerated in a classroom.

Professor Faulkner makes an excellent point:

"Standard English is the language of law, politics, commerce, industry, technology, literature and cultural arts. To deny English speaking citizens access to a mastery of standard English by failure to educate them in its use is itself a much worse form of repression than insisting that they learn it."

"When a person fails to learn standard English, he consigns himself to the outer darkness or ignorance that breeds failure in other endeavors. The truth is that there have to be some fixed rules, however tedious, if the codes of human communication are to remain decipherable," she declared.

Some in our educational system and in society itself have covered at the suggestion of "repression" in matters of education.

The resultant permissiveness has extended beyond the classroom. And it has gone to predictable lengths: In the hallways and on the grounds of many schools today, poor grammar is often interlarded with vulgarities.

Thus, the acceptance of obscene language is but one step from the classroom itself where poor grammar may already be in vogue.

We have spent too much time extolling excuses why students need not be made to learn and finding inoffensive labels for ignorance.

And then we lament that Junior can't read.

40 Years Ago Today

Germany and Italy, the fascist powers of Europe, answered French and British pleas that they stop sending volunteers to Spain in conciliatory, yet reserved, notes tonight.

Both replies were said to agree in principle that volunteers should not go from other countries to fight with the Spanish insurgents.

The Netherlands' royal maid, Crown Princess Juliana, became the bride of German Prince Bernhard Zu Lippe-Biesterfeld today amid the rejoicing of 2 million subjects in the land of tulips and windmills.

Radiant in an ivory satin dress sprinkled with orange blossoms, the Princess, the sole hope of perpetuating the ancient House of Orange, stood in the center of a brilliant circle of bridesmaids, their gowns forming a "bouquet" of lilac, orange and blue.

The quiet Bernhard, resplendent in full dress uniform of a captain of the Blue Hussars, became by royal decree "His Royal Highness, prince of the Netherlands."

Strength For Today

THE POWER OF DETERMINATION

A few determined people can usually do whatever they set out to do, if they are willing to devote themselves single-mindedly to their cause for as long as it takes for the cause to prevail.

We read in the Book Judges how Gideon's thirty men put to flight a strong and well-equipped army of the Midianites. John Wesley once said, "If I had 300 men who feared nothing but God, hated nothing but sin, and were prepared to know nothing among men but Jesus Christ and him crucified, I would set the world on fire."

Wesley did almost that very thing. His little band of Methodists became the most powerful voice for religious reform in England. He did not set the world on fire, but he started a great spiritual conflagration.

The need for heroes never grows less. The opportunity for spectacular display of courage is as great today as it ever was. The great changes for good in the world have come from a handful of men like Wesley.

Conspiracy Termed Imaginary

By ROBERT E. HOLDEN

AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The coffee boycott spreading to parts of the nation has caused little price change but has brewed much confusion over the cause of spiraling costs.

Some observers have blamed the high prices on a shortage of coffee beans. Others have blamed higher export taxes for forcing the price up.

And the announcement Wednesday that Brazil more than doubled its coffee export earnings in 1976 while exporting only about 7 per cent more coffee prompted speculation of conspiracy and market manipulation.

Some coffee industry spokesmen say a conspiracy is imaginary. But the prices are not. In the United States, they have risen from about $1.25 a pound to more than $3 in the last year. Prices in Austria doubled in 1976 in three installments. In Israel, where the Consumer Authority is urging a coffee boycott, the price is now about $4.50 a pound, up from $1.68 a year ago.

Here is a breakdown of the major areas now raised in the current debate on coffee prices:

Why are prices rising?

The 1975 killer frost that destroyed many of Brazil's coffee trees, which take five years to be replenished, is only one of the natural and political disasters being blamed for the current situation.

The frost coincided with civil war in Angola, cutting production there by two-thirds, an earthquake in Guatemala, disruption in Uganda and flooding in Colombia.

"We can't blame the coffee producers for what's been happening to prices," said

Joan Braden, consumer affairs adviser in the U.S. State Department.

Because of the worldwide supply situation, some producing nations have raised their export taxes to keep the coffee at home. Brazil, for instance, boosted its tax from $55 to $100 a bag since Dec. 20.

Is there a shortage?

A spokesman for the Folger Coffee Co. in Cincinnati, a major roaster of green coffee beans, said, "although the Brazilian frost did hurt the crop, there is no worldwide shortage. We can see no good reason why green coffee prices should be so high."

William Korbin, president of Acer & Korbin Coffee Importers of Norwalk, Conn., agreed there is no shortage. But he said neither is there a huge surplus of coffee to keep the price low.

Is there manipulation?

Charges of market manipulation to drive up the price of coffee tend to be discounted by coffee experts.

"The issue in the market is that you can charge what you want and I can pay what I want," said a coffee source in New York. "That seems more legitimate than looking for behind-the-scenes manipulation."

Will boycotts help?

Consumer boycotts organized in the United States and other countries have had little effect — prices in London on Tuesday dropped just one cent — and a coffee dealer said consumers would have to cut their coffee drinking in half for two months to affect prices.

Even if the boycott produced a 25 per cent drop in consumption, that's only 7 per cent of the world total, and officials said that would barely dent world prices.

Agenda Has No Illusions

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's farewell agenda is marked not for passage but for posterity, and he has no illusions about the fate of the proposals he is bequeathing to the government he soon will leave.

Still, in the last days of his presidency, Ford is making for the record a series of recommendations and messages on topics old and new.

There are more to come in the 13 days that remain before Democratic President-elect Carter takes office.

In large measure, a White House official said, Ford's final messages are intended to underscore matters of personal conviction.

One, his tax cut recommendation, redeems a campaign promise, even though it has no chance of enactment. Another, an energy message for release today, reviews his two-year series of conservation proposals, many of which foundered in Congress long ago.

In proposing statehood for Puerto Rico, Ford acted to meet a long-lapsed deadline for some kind of recommendation. His aides insist it was done with careful study and preparation, not as an afterthought. Still, that New Year's Eve proposal came as a surprise, and Ford's press secretary, Ron Nessen, acknowledged it was not well presented.

Those recommendations went to Congress, as will as a still-pending move to end price controls on gasoline and a possible measure to overhaul the government's energy agencies.

Ford will appear before a joint session of Congress on Jan. 12 to deliver his final State of the Union message, and his last budget will be submitted five days later.

But Congress is in a holding pattern, awaiting Carter, and White House officials acknowledge there is no chance the

Kidnapped Daughter From Sect

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — It's over now — the screaming, the crying, the lying and the violence.

But Greensboro engineer David Puryear, his two sons and another man had to kidnap his own full-grown daughter to end two months of anxiety.

Lianne Puryear, 21, met the smiling recruiter from the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's controversial Unification Church near Santa Barbara, Calif.,

where she had been going to school. She was hooked.

An indoctrination seminar followed.

"We had a series of seven lectures of over an hour each during the two days," she said in an interview with the Greensboro Record. "There was no privacy. We were constantly with these other church members who seemed genuinely glad we were there. It was like being at camp."

When it was over, "they had me convinced this was the way to go. I was theirs, body and soul. No use to deny it."

Her mother could tell something was wrong when she got Lianne's letter about what she had experienced. She phoned her husband, in Vancouver, Canada, on business.

Puryear flew to California and got in touch with his sons, Dan and David Jr., who lived there. They made contact with a group that specialized in "deprogramming" Moon followers and with one of its members, himself a former disciple, planned Lianne's "rescue."

They invited her to a birthday party in Crestline, a tiny village near Mozunder. She came with two senior Moon camp staffers.

"Dave and Dan...forcibly restrained the two men with her and I just grabbed up Lianne and away we went," Puryear recalls.

"There was a lot of screaming and crying," Lianne says. "I thought I had been tricked. I didn't want to go."

The four took her to a motel near Los Angeles, where the ex-Moonie talked to her for four hours. An exhausting cross-country drive followed. But by the time they reached Albuquerque and called her mother, "the desire to fight was no longer there...I thought at least I'd come home and think about it for a while."

Now she's done her thinking. She no longer believes Moon is the Messiah. She no longer needs the church to give purpose and structure to her life. But something remains.

"Their hold just doesn't disappear. I really think I was brainwashed in the broadest sense of the word. It's hard to get across the power they have to make you believe."

"They brought in people who didn't believe in God, atheists, and they'd turn them into the most rabid followers in a week. Unbelievable."

Buchwald...

"Is there a cure?" Simpkin asked plaintively.

"We haven't got one yet," Dr. Applebaum said. "Our only hope is that Congress will pass legislation that you can't get a story about Jimmy Carter or any member of his family without a prescription. The trouble now is that all the Jimmy Carter stories are sold over the counter, and many people like yourself with a low Carter Threshold have become allergic to them."

"Help me, Doctor," Simpkin begged. "If I see one more magazine cover with Jimmy Carter on it I'm going to do something drastic."

"Let me ask you something," Dr. Applebaum said. "Didn't you have the same feelings reading about Gerry Ford?"

Simpkin looked puzzled. "Ford? Who's Gerry Ford?"

deed, post-appointment remarks by Sorensen prompted a fellow Carter cabinet member to speculate whether a vital arm of U.S. national security might be crippled in a misguided effort to purify it.

But Sorensen vigorously denies this. He told us, "I would not say" the CIA is out of control, and speculated that the agency's excesses "are now behind us." Moreover, Carter is described by key assistants as totally rejecting the "rogue elephant" theory.

One confidant told us Carter's concern over CIA morale after years of unremitting attack against it was one reason he asked for post-election foreign policy briefings from the CIA rather than the State Department. When outgoing CIA director George Bush informed Carter this choice had cheered the agency's personnel, Carter was delighted he had boosted morale a little.

That makes the Sorensen choice all the more perplexing. The immediate reaction by career CIA officials was disbelief, followed by gloom. Hoping for an expert manager, they fear they now have an inquisitor-in-residence. High-ranking officials, preoccupied with cooperating with endless investigations of past abuses, see more of the same ahead.

Based on what Sorensen and Carter say, those fears seem unfounded. Nevertheless, by force of his intellect, Sorensen must perform a mission wholly foreign to his experience: manage and inspire this immense, troubled enterprise.

Ted Sorensen's early support could have been rewarded and his talents utilized in a more suitable position. His selection for the CIA without prior counsel or later explanation suggests arbitrariness and irrationality less consonant with President-elect Carter's public promises than with the dreary White House record of recent years.

last-minute Ford proposals will go anywhere.

Ford still is considering some measure of amnesty for Vietnam era draft evaders and deserters, as he promised the widow of Sen. Philip A. Hart. Nessen said there is no chance Ford will approve blanket amnesty, but that he may order some more limited action.

Any move in that area would get him in a step ahead of Carter, who has promised to pardon draft dodgers the first week he is in office. Ford could, and probably will, hand Carter a dilemma in another area simply by doing nothing. The issue is federal pay. Hefty increases have been recommended for top level officials, judges and members of Congress. Congressional pay would go from $44,600 to $57,500.

The increases would cost $129.5 million a year, and if Ford approves them, would take effect in 30 days unless Congress disapproved them.

But the issue is a tough one politically. A White House aide said the raises are needed, but the public isn't going to like them.

"It's a question of taking the political heat," the official said. "The Carter administration is going to get the benefits and the incumbent would take the blame."

SOUTH OF THE SAHARA

Does he long for the hot breezes and wide spaces south of the Sahara? Can he remember the feeling of free air rushing past, as he ran with his fellows?

Oh, it's a lovely zoo, wide and airy. The giraffe's home duplicates his native habitat. But, as he nibbles among the tree-tops, I wonder. Does he wish for a quiet stream?

I know what it's like to feel displaced. When first I came to this country, I was not at home with the language and unfamiliar with its customs. Often I felt confused and bewildered.

The one place that was no stranger to me was my church. Here, although the words were foreign, I recognized well-known melodies and litanies and the sure feeling of God's love.

If you feel disturbed and disoriented by events in your life, turn to the one place that knows no aliens. Your church has a welcome for everyone. God's love is universal.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today in another erratic session on Wall Street.

Congregation A Learning Source

NEW YORK (AP) — A religious congregation is a unique mix of the human equation — a variety of ages, races, social and economic levels, successes, failures, hurts, joys, winners, victims — all come together before the mystery of existence.

"An astonishing spectrum," says the Rev. Dr. James Wharton, long-time Bible scholar, adding that the congregational composite is a "grouping without parallel elsewhere in our society."

It is the place, he says, where theology, once called the queen of sciences but now fallen into patterns of detached, academic objectivity, must start anew if it is to serve its purpose and regain its stature.

Trading was moderate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off .50 at 979.39.

Losers opened up a 6-5 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

On Thursday the Dow struggled to a 1.83 gain amid some cautious bargain hunting following the three-day sell-off after New Year's.

But the upswing attracted little follow-through today. Analysts said the market still seemed to be trying to get over the jolt of the unexpected decline at the start of 1977.

Occidental Petroleum topped the active list, unchanged at 25 1/4.

National Semiconductor lost 3/4 to 25 in active trading after a 1 1/2-point drop Thursday, when the company reported sharply lower quarterly earnings.

The stock has fallen more than 50 per cent from last year's peak of 55 1/2.

Among other glamor issues, Texas Instruments dropped 1/4 to 96, IBM was down 1 at 273, and Xerox slipped 3/4 to 56 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index gave up .08 to 56.67 in the first hour.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .12 to 110.46.

Preparing Now For Olympics

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow's two busiest airports are being facilitated in preparation for the 1980 summer Olympic games here.

A complete new passenger and freight terminal will be built at Sheremetyevo, the main international airport. The complex is to include booking offices, airline offices, cafes, bars, a restaurant and, according to Tass news agency, an automatic telephone station "providing instant communication with any country of the world." A second landing strip already has been constructed at Sheremetyevo.

At Vnukovo, the main domestic airport, the existing terminal is being enlarged and additional baggage handling facilities installed.

GROUND BY RED TAPE — This burrowing owl was rescued from a snow storm in New York and was to be carried to Miami by Mike Cooper. U.S. Fish and Wildlife Agents stopped the trip because the bird had no permit to fly. The owl was carried on a later flight after the necessary permit was signed and was met at plane-side in Miami by Cooper, shown holding the owl. The owl will be freed at a suitable location. Lady Sarah Churchill Assaulted In Rampage KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Police are hunting four gunmen who broke into the home of Lady Sarah Spencer-Churchill, assaulted the 55-year-old Vanderbilt heiress and shot two people during a robbery rampage in a wealthy Montego Bay suburb.

The London Daily Mail said Lady Sarah, a distant cousin of the late Sir Winston Churchill and a sister of the present Duke of Marlborough, reported in a telephone interview that one of the gunmen "picked me up and slung me over his shoulder and took me down to the maid's room and assaulted me. There was nothing I could do. He held a knife to my throat, and if I had struggled he would have killed me."

Police said the woman managed to struggle free from her attacker, then fled the house in her nightgown and hid in the shrubbery until the police arrived.

A house guest shot by the intruders, Michael Zell, 33, an interior decorator born in Hungary, was reported in serious condition.

The attack occurred early Thursday morning in the Long Hill section of Reading, where about 1,000 wealthy foreigners have winter homes. Lady Sarah told the Daily Mail the gang demanded money and drugs and were "obviously out of their minds on ganja," Jamaican slang for marijuana. She said they left the house "a wreck."

The gunmen also shot their way into the home of a neighbor, Dr. Herbert Eldemire, a former government official who barricaded himself in a bedroom, police said. They terrorized him into throwing $70 out of a window to them but were unable to break into the bedroom.

The gang shot a man who saw them leave Eldemire's house, but he managed to alert authorities, the police said.

Lady Sarah inherited a sizable fortune from her American grandmother, the late Consuelo Vanderbilt Balsan, whose father was railroad tycoon William K. Vanderbilt. Mrs. Balsan's unhappy marriage to the ninth Duke of Marlborough in 1895 was one of the first headline alliances between European nobility and American money.

Britain's World War II prime minister, Sir Winston Churchill, was a second cousin of Lady Sarah's father, the 10th Duke of Marlborough, who died in 1972.

Hold Youth In Stabbing Death

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Police here were holding a youth Thursday after a 16-year-old boy was stabbed to death in a fight with another student at Terry Sanford High School.

The fight was reportedly over a basketball game. A black and a white boy were involved. The dead youth was white. Police planned to be on duty at the school when it opened today.

IRS Line For Deaf Installed

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has installed a toll-free phone number for the deaf.

The phone line links up with teletypewriter equipment in the homes of 25 residents here, who use it to communicate among themselves, call for police help or receive an inspirational message from a local Baptist church.

does harbor on the minds of black people and keeps them from being as active" in the election process.

"I think the general public feels better electing a Council every two years," asserted Councilman Joe Taft. "I think Council members are better for having to run every two years."

If the ordinance is rescinded, the previous terms of office for the Council as existed prior to the adoption of the ordinance providing staggered terms would be reinstated.

The Council will vote on the rescinding ordinance at the February meeting.

The Council scheduled another public hearing at the February session on the appropriation of approximately $349,600 in revenue sharing funds which represent the January and April 1977 quarter allocation payments of Entitlement Period Eight.

City Manager Jim Caldwell said it is recommended that the allocations be appropriated for the construction of a Joint Recreation-Library Center in East Greenville on property adjoining the Jaycee Park.

A public hearing was also scheduled for February on the construction of the library-recreation facility.

Resolutions were adopted by the board reappointing John Howard as a representative on the Mid-East Commission and Mrs. McGrath and Police Chief Glenn Cannon as representative and alternate, respectively, on the Mid-East Criminal Justice Policy Committee.

Approval was given to an application by Mrs. Carrie L. Brewington for four Taxicab Certificates of Convenience and Necessity. Mrs. Brewington was scheduled to pay the cost of advertising for the public hearing on the application and the Council approval was given with the stipulation that the costs be paid.

The Council voted to adopt an ordinance revising the city's Fire District. A map of the new district revealed that the CBD area and all shopping center zones are included. Some areas have been excluded from the district under the new alignment.

The ordinance provides that all shopping center property will be placed in the district and all rezoning to shopping center will immediately place the new zone in the fire district.

Cox noted that his personal business will be removed from the district under the new plan and he said that he did not have anything to do with the action.

The mayor said that his building meets the fire codes so it does not matter whether it stays in the district or not.

An ordinance amending the Metered Parking Ordinance was adopted that authorizes metered parking areas to be administered the same as on-street parking.

Council members also adopted an ordinance amending the 1976-77 city budget by increasing the Public Works Department, Sanitation Division, salary appropriation by $12,975.

An application for a taxicab operator's permit by Robert Lee Reddick Jr. was approved.

The Council denied requests by Eastern Tractor and Equipment Co. and Woodrow Haddock for refunds in the amounts of $2,476.49 and $2,605.12, respectively.

Approval was given to a request by the Greenville Jaycees

Bucs Seek 1st Road Win At Richmond

East Carolina University will try to make it two in a row on the basketball court Saturday night, as the Pirates invade Robbins Center on the campus of the University of Richmond.

The independent Spiders, who last year left the Southern Conference, have had their ups and downs during the year so far, just as have the Pirates.

And against two common foes, they have come up with different outcomes. Both teams bowed to both Maryland and Duke, but while the margin between East Carolina and Richmond against Maryland was only one point, an 11 point loss for the Pirates and a 12 point defeat for the Spiders, it was entirely different against Duke.

The Blue Devils, during the recent Holiday Doubleheader in Raleigh, pounded the Pirates by 23 points. Earlier in the year, the Spiders fell to Duke by only two points.

All five of last year's starters returned to this year's Richmond team, but Pirate Coach Dave Patton notes that two of them lost their jobs to newcomers.

Ken Slappy and Mike Morton both have been benched by new members of the Spider team. Slappy, reports say, has left the team during the last few weeks. Morton has played but little this year.

The Spiders have become virtually a five-man team. They go mostly with returning veterans Kevin Eastman, the leading scorer, John Butler and Craig Sullivan. Joining them are newcomers Pat Hill at the point, and 6-9 freshman Bob Boehling, a center.

"They play very slow and deliberate," Patton said. "They don't have a lot of depth, and they go with a controlled tempo on offense and a zone most of the time on defense. But overall, they are an experienced team. They are aggressive, good shooters and good rebounders. They are smart with the basketball."

In the game against Duke, Richmond had a four point lead late in the contest, and just missed on a shot that would have sent the contest into overtime.

"We would like to pressure them from one end of the court to the other," Patton said. "If we can get them to play the full 94 feet of the court, I think maybe we can wear them down and force them to go to their bench more, and I think that could help us."

Turning to the previous Pirate game, a 76-65 win over New Hampshire on Tuesday, Patton said the contest was typical of the Pirates. "At times, we played as well as we've played all year," he said. "But there were times when, we played poorly too."

"Our shooting percentage in the second half was related to the type of game we were playing. We used the pressure defense for a variety of reasons, too. We wanted to get more movement from the team, and that would naturally create more offensive opportunities for us. Also we felt that it would take our minds off the problems we've been having."

While Larry Hunt and Jim Ramsey led the scoring, Patton didn't feel that they played as well as they could have. "Don't get me wrong, they played well, but they could do better," he added. The coach was pleased with the play of Ty Edwards, however, and added that he hopes he will continue to improve.

"He was a bright spot when we needed it. He's coming and he only needs to be able to stay out there and get more game time."

There is one problem bothering Patton about Saturday's game, and that is health. Several of the Pirates have been down with the flu and he's not certain who'll be available at game time.

Hunt continued to lead the scoring with a 12.0 average, and an 11.5 rebound mark. Ramsey is next in scoring with an 11.7 mark, while Herb Gray has a 10.4 average.

Following the Richmond game, the Pirates travel to Davidson on Tuesday.

Larry Hunt Likes Role Of Big Brother

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

As the lone senior on the East Carolina basketball team, Larry Hunt carries a big load on his shoulders, but it is one he doesn't mind.

Since last year, Hunt has turned things around for himself, and he feels that things are going to get better for the Pirates before the season is over.

"Last year, the season didn't go right at the start, and we lost our confidence. We never got it back," he said.

But this year, there is a different attitude on the team. "We've got good personnel. Everyone does what's asked of him. And I think I'm doing better than last year too. The ankle injury I had got me off on the wrong foot and I never really played like I could have. And I couldn't offer any leadership because I was withdrawn because of the injury."

Healthy now, Hunt is leading the team in scoring and rebounding, as well as being the "Big Brother" to the team.

Being a "Big Brother" is nothing new to Hunt either. It's something he enjoys off the court. "I've been working with a little kid in town, who doesn't have a lot of advantages some others have. I guess you could call it a Big Brother type of thing and I really enjoy it. He got a basketball for Christmas, and we've been working some together."

Hunt also is working on his education, planning to graduate this spring. "I love to play chess, too, and I like writing poetry and short stories. I'm also into jazz now. I enjoy listening to Stevie Wonder and Bob James."

Hunt feels that the Pirates can be a winning team this year. And he's not about to let the big losses to State and Duke bother him.

"They're over. We can't worry about them the rest of the season. We have to treat them as a learning experience and get ready for the next game. I hope that we can learn from our mistakes. I'm also sure that the scores were not indicative of the way we can play."

Hunt doesn't believe that the fans have seen the Pirates at their best year. "We're a long way from our peak. We're still in an adjustment period. It's just a matter of putting it all together."

Hunt moved from his usual position of center out to forward against New Hampshire, as Ty Edwards took over the center spot. "It was no big thing," Hunt said. "Really, I like the forward position better. I have more freedom to do things outside or Whatever his future, Hunt does look like he will be remembered at East Carolina. He has an outside chance of breaking the school's career rebound record of 969, held by Bill Ott, and also has a chance of being a 1,000 point club member.

What he wants most of all, however, is to see his senior year be a winning one for the Pirates.

Biggest Challenge For East Carolina Matmen

A wrestling match with one of the nation's top teams highlights the upcoming week of sports activity at East Carolina University.

Coach John Welborn's Pirates will take to the mat Saturday at 8 p.m. to meet Lehigh in the biggest dual meet match ever held in Greenville.

A number of other activities are upcoming during the week. Welborn's wrestlers take on Wilkes College on Monday at 8 p.m. in Minges.

The indoor track team will be in Richmond Saturday to participate in the East Coast Invitational, while the East Carolina women's basketball team travels to North Carolina on Tuesday. East Carolina plays host to Maine in a swimming meet on Thursday.

East Carolina's basketball team also is in action twice, meeting Richmond on Saturday and Davidson on Tuesday, both on the road.

"I can't really say that this is our biggest meet ever. I consider each Southern Conference championship meet as our biggest," Welborn said. "That's because the meet is a national qualifier for the NCAA championships."

"But this has to be our biggest dual meet ever," he added. "The Athletics In Action have brought some good teams in here, but they weren't college teams."

Lehigh has a great wrestling tradition. They are generally among the top teams in the nation, and had one national championship last year, along with three others who placed. "They have some outstanding people,"

Welborn said.

Lehigh finished fifth in the nation last year in the NCAA and was ranked that high in pre-season listings. "I haven't seen any thing since the season began," Welborn said, "but I've heard that they are up as high as third now."

The two teams met last year, with Lehigh taking a 26-13 win.

"There is always a chance that we will win, but it will take a super night by our people. Lehigh has to be heavily favored."

"Still, if people want to see some really class wrestling, then this is their chance," Welborn said.

The members of the track team going to Richmond are by invitation only. Larry Austin, Carter Suggs, Otis Melvin and Donnie Mack will all compete in the 60-yard dash, while Marvin Rankins and Bobby Phillips will be in the 60-yard hurdles.

James Freeman and James McCullough will run in the 600-yard event, while Keith Urquhart and James Willett will be in the 1,000 meter run. George Jackson and Billy Etchison will compete in the long jump, with Jackson and Herman McIntyre in the triple jump. Tom Watson and Mike Harris will compete in the shot put.

East Carolina will also compete in the mile relay.

Rose Wrestlers Defeat Jaguars

FARMVILLE — Rose High won eight weight classes last night to take a 33-23 wrestling victory over Farmville Central.

The Rampants scored pins in the first two divisions, Cliff Hagan at 100 pounds and John Lawler at 108. The rest of the Rose wins were by decision.

Farmville also had two pins. Carl Davis at 141 and John Dupree in the heavyweight division.

Both teams are in action again next week. On Monday, Rose will host Northern Nash, while Farmville will entertain D. H. Conley on Wednesday.

Receiver Battles To Highlight Game

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Super Bowl XI will be as much a territorial battle in the secondary as it is in the face-to-face pit of the scrimmage line.

"When I'm out there, I feel that the field is mine," says Minnesota wide receiver Ahmad Rashad.

"My job is a positive one, to catch a football. The other guy's is a negative one, to keep me from catching it," says

Oakland wide receiver Cliff Branch.

"When someone catches a pass in my area, it is an embarrassment to me. And I do not like to be embarrassed," says Minnesota cornerback Nate Wright.

"If I can make the man I'm covering think about me for just an instant and break his concentration, half the battle is won," says Oakland safety George Atkinson.

It is, to understate the matter, going to be one heck of a battle out there on Sunday in the fly patterns, the crossing routes, the zone seams of Super Bowl XI.

When the quarterbacks — Fran Tarkenton of the Vikings and Ken Stabler of the Raiders — stop their "hut-hut" chatter at the line and the ball is snapped, the taunting begins in those far-away regions where receivers and defenders try to outguess, outpsyche and outrun each other.

"Oh, yeah, there's an awful lot of talk goin' on out there," says Branch, an All-Pro wide receiver rated as Oakland's big-play man. "The defensive backs are trying to intimidate you, to get inside your head."

"If they can do that, they can make you louse up your route or break stride or miss a step, or look his way or something. I can remember hearing guys shouting things like, 'You better not turn your back on me or you're gonna get hurt,' or 'Here I come, baby!'"

Fortunately for Branch, he has roomed for the past several years with Atkinson, the master of intimidation, and has learned the art of the counter-attack.

NFL Roundup

"The best thing you can do, except maybe for ignoring the guy altogether, is to give it back to him, to try to get inside his head and mess him up," Branch says.

"For example, if a guy's been giving it to me about how he's gonna get to me, I might yell back, 'Don't you blink, man, or I'm by you. I'm in the end zone. I'm gone.'"

Atkinson is nothing like the cutthroat, the intense, angry man he is pictured as being. He may seem to have that killer instinct on the field — "let's just say I'm very aggressive" — but off it he is extraordinarily easygoing. He has an infectious laugh and a perpetual twinkle in eyes sitting behind violet-colored glasses. "I'm a very compassionate fellow."

And what is it that Atkinson says to the enemy receivers which has them quaking in their sneakers and sneaking looks behind them as they charge onto his turf?

"Oh, I ask them about the best discos in town," he laughs.

He says he can look into a man's eyes at the start of the game, sometimes even before the start, and get an indication whether intimidation will work. "If I think it will, I start talkin' to him right away," Atkinson says. And if it doesn't seem to be working? "Then I'll keep talkin' to him — but up real close."

Rashad doesn't sound like the type to give ground just because the other guy's talking up a storm. "Atkinson is a good friend of mine," says the Vikings' pass catcher. "I know him off the field. He plays a rough style. But let's face it, Football is rough. You can't let it get to you. I look forward to a nice, rough, tough game."

Sammy White, the Vikings' other star wide receiver, looks forward to "a pretty good day if I'm able to go one-on-one with anybody. I'm not worried about any of their guys giving me a cheap shot. We can't worry about these things."

Oakland's No. 1 receiver this year was tight end Dave Casper. He doesn't seem to be part of the high-powered talking crew.

"Naw, I don't listen to them, I don't talk back to them. I just go out there and try to catch passes off them," he says. "The only other thing I might do out there, when they're chattering away, is maybe laugh at them...at what they're saying, that is."

Pirates Down West Chester

The East Carolina University wrestling team averted what appeared to be disaster in the early stages of its match last night against West Chester State, rebounding to take the final four matches and win, 24-15.

The Pirates upheld their perfect record to 4-0 while handing West Chester its first loss on four dual meets.

ECU lost four of the first six matches, getting wins only from Paul Osman at 134 and Paul Thorp at 150. The Bucs trailed 15-6 going into the final four bouts. Phil Mueller got a pin at 1:24 in the 167-pound class and Jay Dever picked up a decision for the Pirates to tie the match at 15.

Then, John Williams got another decision and heavyweight D. T. Joyner ended the match with a pin for East Carolina.

The win gave the Pirates a 5-0-1 record for the series with West Chester.

The biggest home match in the history of ECU wrestling is slated for Minges Coliseum Saturday night at 8. Nationally fifth-ranked Lehigh will meet the Bucs. Lehigh was also fifth in the NCAA Tournament last year.

Summary:
118: Bob Katz (WC) dec. John Koenigs, 14-0.
126: Jerge Leon (WC) dec. Wendell Hardy, 12-4.
134: Paul Osman (ECU) dec. Dave Miller, 11-6.
142: Nelson Stratton (WC) dec. Tim Gaghan, 10-8.
150: Paul Thorp (ECU) dec. Mike Sherer, 6-5.
158: Don Meyer (WC) dec. Steve Goode, 3-2.

Regalado Takes Phoenix Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PHOENIX (AP) — The new clubs didn't work so well. But the old putter did and more than offset the problems caused by a new driver and a new, stronger set of irons as Victor Regalado took a one-stroke lead after the first round of the $200,000 Phoenix Open, the kickoff tournament on the pro golf tour.

"It's going to take some time to get used to the new clubs," the 28-year-old bachelor from Tijuana, Mexico said Thursday after he'd one-putted 10 times on his way to a five-under-par 66 that staked him to the lead for only the third time in his four-year tour career.

"I hit it all over the place, just everywhere. But my putter saved me."

It did indeed. He took the lead with a 45-foot birdie putt on the 17th hole at the 6,726 yard Phoenix Country Club course. He dropped two, others of about 25 feet, one of them for par. He one-putted six of the first seven greens. And he made an eight-footer to save bogey on the 15th, after hitting it into the bleachers.

Just one stroke back at 67 were U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, his close friend George Burns and Danny Edwards, who said he's been taking lessons from his brother David, a member of the NCAA champion Oklahoma State team.

Larry Nelson had a 68 while Tom Weiskopf and PGA national champ Dave Stockton were in a large group at 69.

The scores were unusually high on this desert layout that often yields some of the lowest numbers on the tour. Unusual desert conditions — cold weather and pools of casual water left by some rare rains — were the chief problems.

Johnny Miller was one of the casualties. The pre-tourney favorite, winner of five of the last six PGA events in Arizona, twice a 61-shooter on this course, blew to an unhappy 74.

"The first round usually is the key to my tournament," Miller said. "All the iron shots were kind of mushy from the rain. But that's nobody's fault. I just played bad. And my putting was awful."

He must improve today if he is to survive the cut for the final two rounds. Sunday's final round is scheduled for an early finish to allow national television coverage (CBS-TV) to be completed before the start of the Super Bowl football game.

Purdue Hands Indiana Fifth Loss Of Year

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

After sitting on top of the basketball world last season, Bobby Knight seems to be carrying it on his shoulders this year.

"We just aren't getting the job done," said the troubled coach of Indiana University. "We have a lot of areas where we need considerable improvement."

With markedly less talent than last season's NCAA champions, the Hoosiers are losing as much as they are winning this season. Thursday night's 80-63 Big Ten loss to Purdue marked Indiana's fifth setback in 10 games this season — a dramatic turnaround from last year's 32-0 record.

"We are not a great team," says Knight, "and teams that aren't great are going to get hurt some time."

There has been internal strife on the defending national champions as well. Some players have walked off the squad and even All-American center Kent Benson has not been spared Knight's acid tongue.

Purdue Coach Fred Schaus, had a revenge motive Thursday night. He remembered a 104-71 beating from Indiana two seasons ago.

"What a difference in two years!" Schaus exclaimed. "It was a real juicy win for us, especially when we think of the way they rubbed it in two years ago."

Elsewhere in college basketball, top-ranked San Francisco blitzed Portland 95-73; No. 5 Michigan routed Northwestern 102-65; No. 11 Arizona edged San Diego State 80-77, and No. 20 Memphis State beat Oklahoma City 82-72.

A 16-point scoring burst in the first half, sparked by Walter Jordan and Bruce Parkinson, was the impetus Purdue needed to put away Indiana. The loss snapped a 37-game winning streak in Big Ten play for the Hoosiers.

Winford Boynes scored 20 points, leading San Francisco past Portland. The Dons, opening their West Coast Athletic Conference season, shot 55 percent from the field and had a 46-38 rebounding edge.

Rickey Green scored 20 points and John Robinson 18, leading Michigan over Northwestern. It was a onesided game throughout as the Wolverines won their 14th straight over Northwestern, dating back to 1969.

Herman Harris scored 22 points and Gary Harrison's basket in the last two minutes put Arizona ahead to stay in the Wildcats' victory over San Diego State.

Dexter Reed and James Bradley each scored 24 points, pacing Memphis State's triumph over Oklahoma City. Reed and Bradley combined for eight points in the first four minutes of the second half as the Tigers moved into a 56-46 lead and Oklahoma City could get no closer.

In other games, Audie Matthews scored 23 points as Illinois beat Ohio State 89-72; Greg Kelsor's 20 points led Michigan State over Wisconsin 84-61; Mike Schultz scored 21 points as Houston whipped Houston Baptist 111-79, and James Edwards scored 15 points in the first six minutes of the second half, leading Washington to an 85-75 victory over California.

North Pitt Tops A-G

BETHEL — North Pitt High School's wrestling team romped to a 50-15 victory over Ayden-Grifton last night in an Eastern Carolina Conference match.

The Panthers won all but three of the 13 weight classes, capturing one for forfeit and five by pins. Ayden-Grifton won two of their three by forfeits.

North Pitt travels to Conley today. Ayden-Grifton returns to action next Wednesday in a return match with the Panthers.

Conley In Victory

FARMVILLE — D. H. Conley's ninth graders took a 68-59 victory over Farmville Central yesterday in a basketball game.

Farmville inched out into a 13-10 lead after one period, but Conley came back and held a slim 24-23 edge at half time.

Conley edged that out to 44-41 at the end of the third period and outscored Farmville, 24-18, in the final quarter.

Victor Evans led Conley with 20 points, while Arnell Credle had 13, Cornell Burney had 11 and Ben Daniels had 10. For Farmville, Mike Horne had 22 and Eugene Joyner, 13.

The SCA met Tuesday to discuss money raising projects particularly designed to fund the paving of the school parking lot.

Due to leakage in the roof of the gymnasium, basketball games were postponed and rescheduled last week.

Conley athletes have an off-season conditioning program underway, supervised by Coach Charles Dunn. The program includes running, flexibility and agility drills, and weight lifting. All Conference football players for 1976 are the following: Jeff McDaniel and Kevin Adams. The following three players were selected for honorable mention: Tim McClanahan, Kenny Phillips, and Allen Meeks. All Area players include Charles Nobles and Allen Meeks with Kevin Adams receiving honorable mention.

Bob Scott Said Possible Choice

HAW RIVER, N.C. (AP) — The Greensboro Record has quoted an "informed source" as saying former Gov. Bob Scott was being considered for a high post in the Carter administration.

Scott said he is interested but hasn't heard any offers. And he said he's not sure he would want to promise to stay four years, a pledge Carter is asking of all his appointees.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day of minor annoyances which you can sidestep by having a cheerful and understanding attitude towards others. Try to relieve a good friend of a feeling of depression and anxiety.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Meet with congenials and engage in favorite hobby. Show kindness to one who is having a difficult time. Be poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Plan time to improve the condition of your home so that it will be more comfortable and easier to take care of in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Attend to shopping that has been difficult to do earlier in the week. A utility problem should be handled without delay.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take care of important financial affairs early in the day. A business expert can give you worthwhile suggestions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Improve your appearance in some way and others will be more attracted to you, and you accomplish more. Avoid a moocher.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good day to get caught up on little duties that have accumulated in the recent past. Consult an expert for advice you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use modern methods in going after personal aims and get excellent results. Be careful of one who is known to be tricky.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact a trusted friend who understands your ideas and can be of real help to you now. Be sure to improve your health.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find a more modern way of handling a new project that appeals to you. Be sure to exercise care in motion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to handle responsibilities that have been difficult to do in the past. Express happiness with loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Understand better what is expected of you by associates and try to cooperate more with them. Don't permit others to fool you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your surroundings and make plans for improvement. Make long-range plans for the future. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be a most creative person and will work diligently to achieve much success. Plan to give the finest education you can afford and then there can be much success in this chart. Sports are most here.

Pre-Super Bowl Shows A Game In Themselves

JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings and the Oakland Raiders won't be the only ones having at it this Super Bowl weekend.

NBC and CBS square off Saturday night in a battle of pregame comedy-variety specials.

This gets complicated, so maybe you'd better take notes. CBS aired the Super Bowl last year and the night before the game put on a show called "Super Night at the Super Bowl."

NBC has the game this year and decided it would also like the pregame variety show. NBC asked the producer, Pierre Cossette, to ask CBS if it could borrow the title and concept. Perhaps they could alternate it, as they do the Super Bowl game. CBS said nothing doing, it was their idea and they wanted to keep it, especially since they air the game next year from the Superdome in New Orleans.

So NBC called on Norman Rosemont to come up with a show. He did. It's called "The Mad Mad Mad World of the Super Bowl" — and it's up against the CBS show. I told you it was complicated.

"It tees me off a little because it was my idea to begin with," said Cossette, "but what're you going to do."

NBC's "Mad" show, at 9 p.m. EST, is all football-oriented comedy. The show was taped in a studio. CBS' "Super Night," at 9:30 p.m. EST, offers music, dancing and comedy live from outside the Rose Bowl.

"Most of the comics are really doing the attitude and style that made them famous," said Rosemont in a telephone interview from the NBC stage where he was taping the show.

"Take Pat Cooper. He always plays the angry Italian. He talks about his mother and how he visits her every Sunday. What we've done is make him a rabid football fan torn between seeing his mother or the game."

Norm Crosby, noted for his mixed-up words, tries to explain the game of football. Rodney Dangerfield is a coach who gets no respect from his players.

Cossette said his main concern with doing an outdoor live show is the weather. "I've subscribed to several forecast services, but they keep changing," he said. "We're going ahead regardless of the weather — just like the game."

Besides such stars as Andy

Williams, Angie Dickinson, John Wayne and Don Rickles, Cossette has a number of pro ball players.

"I think you're going to see more event programming like this," he said. "We're going to do 'Super Night at Forest Hills' for the tennis matches. I see a lot in the future for this kind of concept, tying sports in with entertainment. They're getting closer and closer all the time. "Sports stars are getting just like show business stars, with their own agents and deals," he said.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

Tony Friday's Bols Bridge Tip advised the defenders to camouflage their holdings. This hand is a fine example of how that can lead declarer astray.

We are not thrilled with North's bidding. While we might stretch a point to respond one no trump at our first turn, we would not dream of rebidding two no trump. Once partner has announced at least nine cards in the major suits, a rebid of two no trump suggests solid stoppers in the minors, and North was somewhat deficient in the diamond suit. Our choice would be a simple preference to three hearts, which would lead to the same final contract, but in a less revealing manner.

West attacked with the ace of diamonds and continued the suit in response to his partner's encouraging seven. From the bidding, East realized that declarer had to have eleven cards in the major suits. In that case, the defenders would need two spade tricks to defeat the hand. Left to his own devices, declarer might have guessed the spade position, although the percentage play is to finesse for the spade queen, which brings in the suit with one loser against a number of distributions. East, however, wanted to make sure that declarer misread the lie of the cards, and his next play tilted the odds decidedly in his favor.

At trick three East shifted to the king of clubs! Declarer ruffed high, crossed to dummy with the jack of trumps and led the ten of spades. East played low smoothly.

From declarer's point of view, East was "known" to have started with the king-jack of diamonds and ace-king of clubs. If he had the ace of spades as well, he would surely have entered the bidding. Therefore, declarer consigned the ace of spades to West and ran the ten as his only hope for the contract. West won the queen, and East, much to declarer's consternation, eventually scored the ace of spades for the setting trick.

Knows A Lot Of Love Is In His Toys

By AGNES T. HOOPER
Associated Press Writer
MEYERSVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Archie Stiles thinks just about everyone is interested in toys.

"There's an awful lot of love and affection involved with toys," said Stiles, 66, who runs a resale shop at his home here. "They intrigue people."

Stiles began building a big collection of old, valuable toys 20 years ago. Eventually, the toys overwhelmed the house and shop and about 6,000 pieces, including 300 to 400 dolls, were auctioned in New York.

"Basically, the real dolls were sold," he said. "Only the penny toys are left, but there's a lot of them."

Stiles, a grandfather, and his wife, Emma, started the resale shop — "it's not really an antique store" — 24 years ago.

He had been doing some reselling in the luncheonette he owned when he met his wife over the counter. She suggested he could make a living buying and reselling various items, including furniture and collectibles. The rest is history.

"The wife and I, we decided to work together and that's the way we accomplished an awful lot in life," he said.

Stiles said collecting toys became one of his major interests because "I didn't have them as a child."

"A lot of people were better off than us and I could always envy the toys some kids had," he said.

Stiles said he bought some of his collection from people whose children had lost interest in the toys.

"But sometimes a grandmother calls. She's lonely; her kids don't visit her much anymore but she's got their toys. Well, she's heard about Archie so I'll go over and talk to her," he said. "Sometimes she wants to sell the toys and sometimes she'll just want to talk."

Visitors stroll through the shop for hours just looking, Stiles said. He said it doesn't matter if a person wants to buy — browsing is permitted.

Stiles said adults will strike up a conversation after their children start asking about the playthings.

"You can get through to people through their children," he said, adding that a lot of adults are shy about expressing an interest in toys.

He said he has no favorite toy in the collection. "I loved all my toys. We'd play with them often, the wife and I."

Stiles said he feels a major accomplishment everytime he sees someone "laughing from ear to ear" over the toys.

"That squeal and holler is payment enough for me," he said.

Public Notice

NOTICE OF SALE
Pursuant to an Order of Sale signed by the Hon. J. Lewis, Jr., Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, December 28, 1976, in Special Proceeding No. 76 SP 313, the undersigned will offer for sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash before the Court at the Court House, Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on Monday, January 31, 1977 at 12:00 o'clock Noon.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Cold weather is due today for northern states from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. Snow flurries are expected across much of the area. Milder weather is forecast from the West into Texas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By the Associated Press

A fast moving winter storm spread snow over a wide area of western North Carolina during the night, leaving two to four inches over the mountains and the northern Piedmont and upper Coastal Plain areas.

A travelers advisory was in effect this morning for mountain roads and highways in the snow area, and the Highway Patrol urged that travel be limited to necessary trips. Schools were closed in a number of counties.

Highways were reported exremely hazardous in mountain areas.

Snow accumulations amounted to about three inches at Taylorsville north of Hickory, which reported about an inch. Asheville also reported an inch, while Greensboro reported two inches.

Gale warnings were in effect along the coast and over the sounds as the storm moved offshore on a northeastward course. The rapidly intensifying low pressure center of the storm was centered just before dawn in the vicinity of Wilmington.

A strong cold front was following the storm and was expected to bring clearing skies over the state during the day.

Temperatures were expected to remain in the 30s over the mountains and north portion of the state today while climbing to around 50 along the south coast.

The forecast was for fair and colder tonight with temperatures plunging to 10 to 20 degrees in the mountains and ranging in the 20s elsewhere.

Rate Hike On High-Risk Drivers Will Be Sought

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The auto insurance industry in separate but related developments Thursday said it planned to go to court for higher rates for high-risk drivers and disclosed it had understated 1975 profits on all drivers by nearly 33 per cent.

In its general rate hike request last July, officials now admit there were errors totaling $10.4 million.

The effect of the errors was to make the actual 7.2 per cent auto liability profit margin in the state come out 5 per cent instead.

"This is obviously not the kind of work I like to go out of my office," said Paul L. Mize, executive secretary of the N.C. Automobile Rate Administrative Office.

Correcting the errors reduced the rate office's proposed rate hike from 7.9 per cent to 5 per cent. Insurance Commissioner John R. Ingram has not ruled on the request and the increase has become effective.

In a related development, the auto insurance industry has decided to challenge Ingram's rejection of a proposed 74 per cent rate hike for drivers covered by the North Carolina Reinsurance Facility.

Ingram rejected the proposal, partly on grounds insurance companies might flood the facility with policies to collect the higher premiums.

But D.T. Zimmerman, chairman of the facility's board of governors, said companies would hang onto policies that looked safe so as not to have to share the profits.

He said raising rates for high-risk drivers would reduce rates by about 10 per cent for all others.

Selvia Church Services Set

Services have been announced for Selvia Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

On Saturday at 3 p.m. the No. 1 Ushers will meet. Sunday services are: Sunday School, 9:45 a.m., Morning worship, 11 a.m., and 4 p.m., a meeting of the Carnation Ushers and a meeting of the gospel chorus at the home of Ms. Effie Newton.

Services next week are: Monday, 7 p.m., junior choir rehearsal; Tuesday, 7 p.m., Gospel chorus rehearsal; and Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., prayer meeting.

Can Still Join Boating Course

Additional registrations are still being taken for the "Boating Skills and Seamanship" course at Pitt Technical Institute sponsored by the Greenville Flotilla of the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The next class will be held Wednesday, Jan. 12 from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 209. The 13 week course will continue each Wednesday through March 30.

Cost of the course is $10, which includes a $5 PTI registration fee and $5 for the text and workbook.

Media Personnel Organize, Hold First Meeting

The newly organized society of Pitt-Greenville Media Personnel held its first meeting Wednesday at dinner.

Bill O'Neal of A. G. Cox Grammar School presided. The purposes of the society are to promote library-media concerns and to increase professional growth.

Media coordinators and librarians within Pitt County, including those from city and county school systems, municipal libraries, East Carolina University, Pitt Technical Institute and industries were present.

Officers besides President O'Neal are Brenda Lewis, vice president; Carolyn Sutton, secretary-treasurer; and Beatrice Maye reporter.

Church To Hold Sunday Concert

St. James United Methodist Church will hold an "If My People" concert Sunday from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

The production is made up entirely of local people, with almost every church represented by its singers.

A nursery will be available, beginning at 6:45 p.m. The public is invited.

Believe Bullet Self-Inflicted

Chief Glenn Cannon said Alvis Gurkins of 1608 Sulgrave Rd. was found dead in a bedroom of the dwelling yesterday afternoon, apparently the victim of a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Cannon said police were called by members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department who went to the Sulgrave Road home to serve eviction papers on Gurkins, and found him dead.

The chief said Gurkins died from a .38 caliber bullet wound in his chest.

The incident was reported at 5:20 p.m.

Quota Guarantee Is Ruled Out

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Guarantees of representation for minorities in two University of North Carolina campus organizations violate the civil rights of other students, a federal appeals court said held.

The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that representation of minorities and women cannot be ordered for the Campus Government Council and Student Honor Court.

In so doing, the appellate court struck down a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Eugene A. Gordon. He had held that the requirement of minority representation was not an issue on which his decision was needed.

In an opinion authored by Judge Albert V. Bryan Sr., the appeals court said representation of minorities and women cannot be ordered — just as exclusion of any group cannot be ordered.

The University of North Carolina student constitution requires that if at least two minority, two male and two female councillors are not elected to the Student Governing Council, the student body president must appoint two to each group. Gordon said that because the student body president had never been called on to make such appointments, there was no interference with the rights of other students.

But Bryan said the decision could not stand because "without either reasonable basis or compelling interest, the composition of the council is formulated on the basis of race."

The appeals court applied the same reasoning in ruling against the student constitution's provision that any student brought before the Honor Court has a right to have four of that court's seven judges be either of the student's sex or race.

But the higher court agreed with Gordon's ruling that student activity fees, which all students are required to pay when registering for classes, may be used to help support the Black Students Movement on campus.

Lawrence A. Uzzell and Robert Lane Arrington, the students who brought the class action suit, had complained about appropriations to the movement. But the appeals court noted that the group was open to all students, regardless of race.

District Meet Here Sunday

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Ladies Auxiliary will host the District Two meeting here Sunday afternoon beginning at two o'clock.

Alease Gum will be the state representative.

The meeting will be held at the Post Home located on Mumford Road.

District Two is composed of Belhaven, Farmville, Grifton, Greenville, Kinston, Goldsboro, Mount Olive, Pink Hill and Washington.

A dutch dinner will be served at 1 p.m.

Drunks Have Gone, Burglars On Scene

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP)—There's never any doubt in the Nags Head Police Department about when summer ends. The drunk drivers leave and the burglars arrive.

"We're a very small town but we have big city headaches," said Police Lt. W.E. Jones of this center of Outer Banks summer sun worship.

Last year the seven-man police force arrested 701 for drunken driving, drunken fighting and general drunkenness, most of them in the summer months.

"Most people come to the beach to have a good time, but some of them have too much of a good time," Jones said.

But things don't ease up when the merrymakers leave. The population drops from between 50,000 and 75,000 at its peak to between 350 and 400 in the winter.

"We have over 200 hotels, motels and cottage courts...In the wintertime everything is pretty well closed down and susceptible to burglary," Jones said. "We're an easy target."

Most of the more than 100 burglaries a year could probably be prevented, he added, and the department is hiring an eighth man to try.

The new man will be in charge of helping property owners install stronger locks on doors and windows and working to cut business shoplifting losses.

The police have little choice between preventing crimes and trying to solve them.

"Our crime is transient," Jones said. "It's here one day and gone the next. It's hard to solve a crime because the criminals usually live somewhere else. They don't break into a house and then just go home in the same town."

Side-By-Side In Missions Study

ROME, Italy (AP)—For the first time in history, Protestant and Roman Catholic students are studying side-by-side at a center on missions to undeveloped regions at Rome's Pontifical University.

Under a grant from the Lilly Endowment of Indianapolis, Ind., 10 students from the School of Theology at Claremont, Calif., are taking courses on methods to help provide food in areas of hunger.

The study program, "Agricultural Missions," includes courses on food deficits, rural development, cooperatives, land reform, nutrition, health, crop and livestock production and tropical environmental management.

Say Attitudes Are Improving

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Attitudes are improving toward the increasing number of women ministers in the United Methodist Church, a survey of them indicates, but about half say they have encountered mixed responses or continuing obstacles.

The Rev. Theresa Scherf, who made the survey, says many women reported being asked "very impertinent questions not asked of male candidates" by male-dominated conference boards of ministry, such as:

"Wouldn't you really rather be a minister's wife?" "Do you like to cook?—What recipes?" "Do you practice birth control?" "How would you handle advances of a male parishioner?"
