Carter Tax Plan Advocates Switch To Tax Credit

FERTILE DIRT — Mark Heath, with help from his mule "Red," spreads manure in a cornfield along U. S. 64 near Bethel recently. Perhaps he has an answer to the spring feriltizer shortage that producers are predicting because of the current energy crisis. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Single persons and couples with gross incomes above $20,000 a year might face an added tax burden under President Carter's plan to replace the personal income tax exemption with a tax credit.

The switch to a straight tax credit of $240 or $250 per person would aid lower-income taxpayers, who now draw less benefit from the $750 per person tax exemption than do wealthier taxpayers.

Congressional tax experts say the substitution by itself would mean a higher tax bill for about 30 million taxpayers, while up to 40 million would realize a saving.

However, the White House emphasized that the credit in lieu of exemption would be only one facet of the tax revision plan Carter will send to Congress later this year. No other facet of the plan has been revealed.

Experts on Capitol Hill predict the plan will include an across-the-board tax cut or other provisions to reduce the number of persons who would pay more taxes.

The tax credit concept picked up swift backing in Congress on Friday, as the chairmen of both congressional committees concerned with tax legislation said they favored the plan.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said a switch to a tax credit would mean a simpler federal tax return and more equitable treatment for low-income persons. Long said he assumed Carter would propose other steps such as an across-the-board rate cut.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said through an aide, "I think (a credit) is probably the way we'll go." Ullman noted that taxpayers already receive a $35 tax credit.

That credit, like the tax exemption, would be scrapped in favor of a larger credit.

Credits are subtracted directly from the bottom line of the tax bill, after all other tax computations are worked out. A $250 tax credit is worth precisely $250 in taxes saved for everyone, rich or poor.

In contrast, the tax exemption or deduction, used to reduce the amount of income subject to taxes, is worth more as income rises.

A low-income family of four, taxed at the lowest rate of 14 per cent, currently gets four $750 deductions totaling $3,000, but realizes a tax saving of only $420, which is 14 per cent of the $3,000.

A wealthy family of four in the 50 per cent tax bracket can use the same four $750 deductions to save $1,500 in taxes (50 per cent of $3,000).

But if the exemption were scrapped and a $250 per person credit instituted, each family would save $1,000 in taxes.

Congress has shown its preference for tax credits in the past two years by approving the $35-per-person credit (with the 2 per cent option); the earned-income credit, which benefits working families earning under $8,000, and conversion of the tax deduction for child-care expenses to a credit.

Tax Table

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a table illustrating the effect of converting the current $750 per person exemption and $35 tax credit to a straight $250 per person credit, assuming the rest of the tax law remains unchanged. Administration officials say the total tax package under consideration by President Carter would include other changes that could lessen the effect of the shift in tax burden to higher income individuals, but the table illustrates how a tax credit generally favors the poor over the rich.

For example, the chart shows that a married person with no other dependents making $10,000 a year in 1976 would pay $948 in taxes under the current system but only $856 if the tax credit is used.

| Income Level | Current Tax | Tax with Credit |
| Single | | |
| 5,000 | 363 | 302 |
| 10,000 | 1,331 | 1,409 |
| 20,000 | 3,667 | 3,844 |
| 50,000 | 14,735 | 15,240 |
| Married | | |
| 5,000 | 130 | none |
| 10,000 | 948 | 856 |
| 20,000 | 2,905 | 2,977 |
| 50,000 | 12,200 | 12,600 |
| Married, Two Dependents | | |
| 5,000 | -300 | -300 |
| 10,000 | 651 | 356 |
| 20,000 | 2,530 | 2,477 |
| 50,000 | 11,510 | 12,100 |

Note: The table assumes itemized deductions equal to 16 per cent of income where such deductions would be larger than the standard deduction. The minus sign represents a payment from the government under the earned income credit.

Not A Bad Idea

DANIA, Fla. (UPI) — A visitor to Florida is only half joking when he says everyone walking on the beaches ought to wear rear view mirrors.

John Donnely, vacationing in Florida from Holland, Mich., with his wife, was picking up a shell from the beach Friday afternoon when he was clipped in the head by a light plane making an emergency landing.

"If I had seen it, I would have ducked," he said.

Donnely's hat sustained a four-inch tear, but he only suffered a slight cut on his head, although he also complained of back pains. He was treated and released from a Dania hospital.

The single-engine plane, piloted by Walter Madden of Deerfield Beach, stalled suddenly as Madden was flying above Fort Lauderdale beach trailing an advertising banner.

Madden said he didn't see Donnely until the last second as he landed.

Donnely said he wasn't bitter about the incident and planned to continue his vacation.

Return Of Propane Expected

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A new order expected Monday from the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) would return to North Carolina about 90 per cent of the propane fuel diverted from the state Tuesday, according to Dick Bryan, an aide to Sen. Jesse Helms, R– N.C.

The FEA decided to end its propane diversion after learning its decision was based on incorrect figures, Bryan said.

The federal agency ordered Exxon to reroute propane to South Carolina and to cut off service to all its North Carolina industrial customers.

"They don't know if the bad figures were from Exxon or the FEA," Bryan said.

Helms was notified Friday by an FEA official that figures about South Carolina's residential needs were "grossly overestimated" when they were used as a basis for the diversion order.

Bill To End 'Ripoff'

RALEIGH (AP) -Senate action Monday night could enact a bill designed to end what some legislators have described as "ripoffs" on unemployment insurance benefits.

This development Friday when the House voted 99-9 to approve the measure and send it to the Senate. The bill would deny unemployment insurance payments to persons who (1) quit their jobs voluntarily, (2) were fired for misconduct, or (3) refused to accept suitable employment when offered.

Now such persons can receive unemployment insurance payments for from 12 to 22 weeks, Rep. Richard Wright, DColumbus, chairman of the House Employment Security Committee, told the House. Wright said such payments amounted to $7 million last year.

Six Food Chains Agree To Hours

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — The managers six food store chains have agreed to observe 54-hour workweeks to help conserve energy, Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. announced Saturday.

Hunt said the chains represent 200 stores across North Carolina.

"This kind of voluntary conservation is the best way of assuring that the energy crisis does not cause catastrophic economic losses in the state," Hunt said. "These food dealers deserve a great deal of credit from the people of North Carolina for the way they have decided to pull together and help all of us through this crisis."

Thousands Mourn Ahmed

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Thousands of Indians filed past the body of President Fakhruddin Ali Ahmed Saturday, paying final respects to the country's constitutional head of state.

The 71-year-old Ahmed, who died of a heart attack Friday morning, is to be buried with full honors today.

Today, his body lay in state in the red sandstone presidential palace, shrouded in the Indian flag. Indians waited hours for a last glimpse at their popular figurehead leader.

A host of foreign dignitaries was en route to the Indian capital for the state funeral, including a delegation from the United States headed by President Carter's 78-year-old mother Lillian, who served in the Peace Corps as a nurse in Bombay 10 years ago. The President's son Chip is accompanying his grandmother.

Carter's Comments

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Strolling down Main Street in blue jeans and sneakers, President Carter said Saturday he'll warn Moscow in advance if he calls any test military alerts of a major scale.

He also disclosed he has finished work on changes he wants Congress to make in the $113 billion fiscal 1978 Pentagon budget submitted by Gerald Ford. He said he will ask for some cuts but, overall, military spending will be much higher than in the current budget.

He gave no figures.

Carter made the statements during an impromptu, mobile news conference in which reporters fired questions at him as he walked through town

It was his first visit home to rural Georgia since he took office, and he said, "It feels good."

Carter also commented on these subjects:

—BUDGET: In reviewing the Ford budget, he said, he found there were only limited possibilites for making changes at this point. He said he wants to institute the concept of "zero-based budgeting"—under which every program must be rejustified every year—in the next federal budget to expand possibilities for spending cuts.

—CUBA: Asked about Premier Fidel Castro's recent call for renewed U.S.-Cuban trade relations, Carter said: "The main thing that concerns me about Cuba is the human rights question, political prisoners and so forth. I would hope his statement would be followed up by a mutual desire to reduce tension and alleviate animosity."

—INDIA: Carter complimented Prime Minister Indira Gandhi for easing restrictions on political activities, saying, "I think Mrs. Gandhi has made some very good moves in recent weeks toward the democratization of the Indian government. I think change has already started to take place."

—ENERGY: Carter disclosed former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger will chair the Alliance to Save Energy, a bipartisan, nonprofit group formed to preach energy conservation.

More Hearings

WASHNGTON (AP) — Despite a senator's warning about fair play, President Carter's choice to head the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency and to negotiate a new arms agreement with Russia faces questioning from a second Senate committee.

Paul C. Warnke, who spent two days in hearings earlier in the week before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, will also go before the Armed Services Committee.

The former assistant defense secretary agreed Friday to the new hearings at the Armed Services Committee's request.

ERA Fails

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment apparently is a dead issue in Nevada for the current legislative session.

The State Assembly on Friday rejected the amendment, three days after the Senate narrowly approved the measure. The Assembly vote was 24 to 15.

Deadline

The deadline for purchasing motor vehicle licenses is rapidly approaching — and Greenville police will be enforcing the deadline.

According to police chief Glenn Cannon, the deadline will be enforced beginning at midnight Tuesday, Feb. 15.

Both Mrs. Anna Garris, Greenville license agent, and Mrs. Ruby Johnson, Farmville license agent, will sell the licenses until Tuesday at closing time. Mrs. Garris is at Home and Auto Supply on Dickinson Avenue here and Mrs. Johnson is at Farmville Toyland on Main Street in Farmville.

Both reported sales of the licenses have picked up considerably since Thursday. Both reported they were not up to date on the numbers sold so far.

A Real Valentine Man

By ROBERT CRABBE

TOKYO (UPI) — Almost every day was Valentine's Day for Yukiteru Kubo.

Kubo's usual way of approaching a girl was to walk up to her and say, "I've fallen in love with you at first sight."

Now in jail facing theft and fraud charges, Kubo, 29, says the gambit worked so well that he became engaged to 118 different women in 19 months.

Police in Nagano City, 100 miles northeast of Tokyo, say Kubo also has confessed to bilking the women out of $36,582 in cash and property. Despite the 118 engagements, he is still single.

Kubo was arrested Dec. 21 following an accusation by a 29year-old Nagano woman that he stole her wrist watch.

Details of his 19 month spree of marriage proposals were not made public until Friday, following a nationwide interrogation of the victims by police.

"He had gentle, high class manners, and he certainly knew how to win a girl's confidence," one of the officers who interogated Kubo commented.

Officers said Kubo worked mountain resorts in the central part of Japan's main island of Honshu, favored as vacation spots as single office girls from big cities.

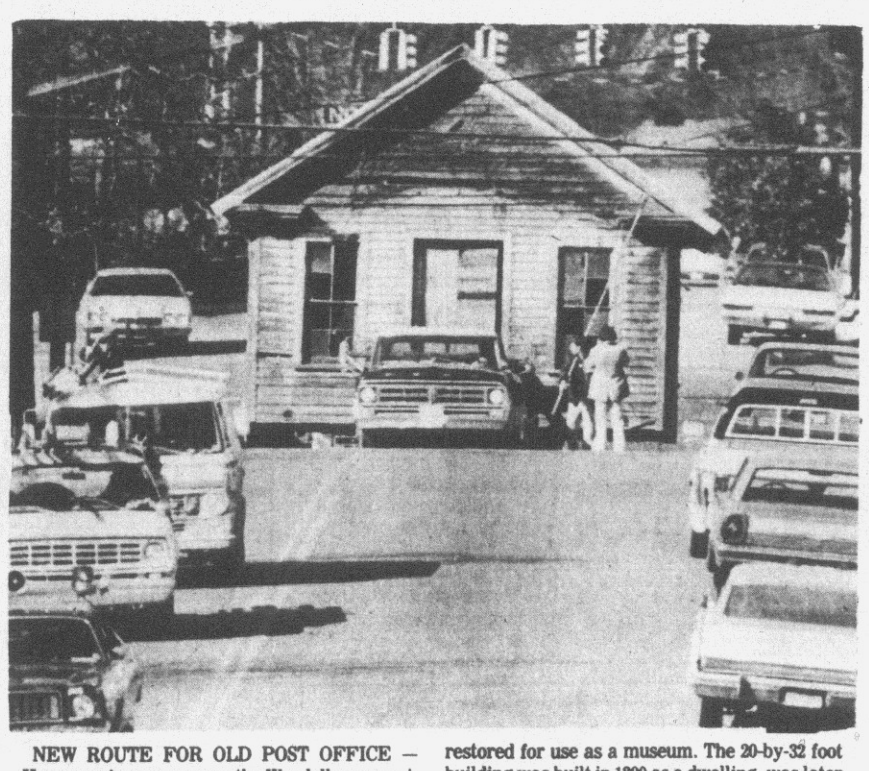

He concentrated on young women traveling alone. He sometimes represented himself as a doctor or university teacher from Japan's northern island of Hokkaido. On other occasions he was an airline pilot from either Pan American or Japan Airlines. Sometimes he was a TV newsman.

Police said Kubo always was well, though casually, dressed. He always wore an expensive wrist watch. If the girl responded to his overtures, he cemented the new friendship by taking her out to dinner and paying for it himself.

After that he asked to borrow money from her, saying he was on a vacation and had overspent. He promised to repay next day by registered mail, a common form of sending cash in Japan.

The borrowing plea often was accompanied by a proposal that the girl meet him two or three days later to visit the home of his parents.

Police said Kubo made love to many of the women, and that they were too embarrassed to report the thefts afterwards. After making love, he often decamped with their wrist watches.

NEW ROUTE FOR OLD POST OFFICE — Housemoving crews gave the Wendell community's 87-year old post office a ride this past week, moving it to a new location where it will be restored for use as a museum. The 20-by-32 foot building was built in 1890 as a dwelling, was later used as a store, and then became a post office in 1906. (AP Wirephoto).

Max R. Joyner Is Named Chairman Of Bank Board

Max R. Joyner has been named chairman of the Greenville board of managers of Planters National Bank, according to W. Douglas Starr, PNB vice president and city executive here.

Starr commented in making the announcement, "Mr. Joyner has served with distinction on our board of managers. His business and leadership abilities will be helpful to us as we plan for the continued growth of Planters National Bank in the Greenville area."

A Pitt County native, the new chairman received his B.A. degree in business administration from East Carolina University. Following graduation, he joined Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. and is presently regional agency manager in charge of 25 counties in Northeastern North Carolina.

He is a member and past president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club, a past member of the board of directors of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, and a past president of the Rose High School Athletic Association.

Joyner is currently on the board of directors of ECU and is president of the East Carolina Alumni Association. He is a member of the board of directors of Pitt Technical Institute and serves as a deacon at First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.

Other Energy Shortages Recalled

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

People across North Carolina and across the nation as well, have been called on in recent weeks to make sacrifices due to the extremely cold weather and the short supply of energy sources such as natural gas and heating oil.

Gov. Jim Hunt and Pres. Jimmy Carter have encouraged citizens to cut thermostats back, turn off unnecessary lighting and in other ways reduce the consumption of energy.

Many are unemployed because the factories in which they worked were forced to close due to the lack of adequate supplies of fuel. Many more are working and living in plants and offices and homes that are cool or cold in comparison to the temperature levels maintained in the past.

But the present energy crisis is not the first time that residents of the Greenville area, North Carolina or the nation have had to sacrifice and all indications point to the probability that it will not be the last.

Probably the most extended period of shortages and sacrifice came during World War II.

Sam Bridges, a member of the rationing board, remembered that practically everything — gasoline, coke, coal, meat, sugar, and even canned foods — was in short supply and rationed because of the war effort.

Ration books were issued to citizens and when a rationed item was purchased, a "ration coupon" was torn from the book and held by the seller.

Fuel oil, auto tires, even cars themselves were in short supply and many turned to riding bicycles just as local area residents turned to bicycles and motorcycles a few years ago when the gasoline shortage was evidenced by long lines of vehicles waiting to purchase limited amounts of gas as local service stations.

There were also efforts during World War II to reduce heat in homes and factories and to use less electricity by using less light.

It was also during this period that the controversial daylight savings time was put to wide use in efforts to conserve energy required to produce electric power.

William Taft Sr., a member of the gasoline rationing board in Pitt County during the Second World War said gas was allocated on the basis of need and involvment in the war effort.

He noted that "A", "B", and "C" stickers were placed on windshields of cars during that time and ration books were issued to their owners.

"A" drivers, he said, were "allotted very few gallons of gas," while "C" drivers he said — involved somewhat in the war effort— received extra amounts of fuel.

The "C" drivers, according to Taft — such people as doctors and others involved directly in the war effort — received "quite a bit of gas" although not an unlimited supply.

Gas allocations were "iron clad", Taft said. "You went

Man Being Sought In Death Of Wife, Children

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Police Saturday sought a man who said he was "going completely crazy" for lack of medication in the bloody knife slaying of his wife and three children in their home.

The victims, whose bodies were scattered in two bedrooms, were Susan Hill, 33, Fay Hill, 12, Robert Hill, 8, and Deborah Gilbert, 14, a daughter by a previous marriage. Another son, Ralph Hill, 14, was not home at the time.

"There was blood all over the house," said Sgt. Larry Dembovski.

The victims were found Friday evening a few hours after Mrs. Hill's estranged husband, Robert, 35, vanished from a county honor farm 30 miles away. The facility allows inmates to leave on work furloughs and has no locks.

Hill's father, Bert, saw his son earlier in the day, and said, "He told me, Dad, I am going completely crazy."

Hill's brother, Bert Jr., said Hill "went off his rocker because they took away his medication. That's where I put the blame."

The death scene was discovered by an unidentified relative who authorities contacted after Hill's disappearance and asked to visit the family home.

Hill was jailed last April when two women said he forced them at gunpoint to drive to a remote spot and threatened to rape them. They talked him into giving up his weapon.

He was given a one-year sentence for attempted rape and transferred to the honor farm after a 90-day study at the Vacaville psychiatric facility.

First Woman To Serve

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (UPI) — The first woman minister to serve an Episcopalian church in eastern North Carolina will work with 16 congregations in the northeastern corner of the state, it was announced Saturday.

The Rt. Rev. Hunley A. Elebash, Bishop of the East Carolina Diocese, said that the Rev. Wendy Raynor would serve as an ordained minister along with Rev. Charles Shulhafer and Archdeacon Webster Simons at the churches.

The announcement was made at the 94th annual convention of the diocese serving 27 counties with 72 congregations.

Rev. Raynor, from Edenton, has been ordained as a deacon in the church and will be ordained as a priest in April.

Elebash installed the three as ministers at Saturday's session.

At the second day of the three-day convention, the Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, issued a call for unity and not conformity.

Allin was questioned about the ordination of women to the priesthood, the revision of the Book of Common Prayer and other topics that have divided the church since its general convention in September of last year.

Calling the church "rich and diverse," Allin asked that the church not be so preoccupied with crisis that its members forget its strength and potential for renewal of the commitment to God.

"One of the grievous pains I suffer is when I hear of congregations reacting in fear rather than responding steadily in faith. Christians are called to respond to God and not to any heirarchy or organization," he said.

Elebash, in his address to the convention, described the concern he finds among those on both sides of church controversies.

"This is the phenomenon of Christianity," he said.

The convention ends Sunday after a business session at which a budget of $462,000 for the coming year is expected to be adopted.

Two Hearings For Ayden Town Board

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board will hold two public hearings at its monthly meeting Monday night. The first public hearing will concern street improvements for Power Street. The second public hearing will concern an amendment to subdivision regulations which would require all future developers to install underground electric services within the subdivision.

The board will consider a contract with the Department of Natural and Economic Resources. The contract is a 701 Planning Grant to request assistance in updating the Land Use Plan, Thoroughfare and Housing and Assistance Plan.

A committee report concerning the use of the Old Town Hall by the Health Department will be discussed.

An ordinance which would direct the Community Development Project Director to have condemned buildings torn down will be recommended.

A committee will be appointed by the board to meet with the Mid-East representative of the Nutrition Program to determine the feasibility of having such a program in Ayden.

Bids on electric supplies will be presented.

In other business the board will:

-Consider an amendment to the outdoor lighting policy.

-Consider an amendment to the relocation assistance policy.

-Receive reports concerning Christmas decorations.

SUING FOR $200 MILLION — Daredevil Evil Knievel, recouperating in a Chicago hospital from a motorcycle accident of Jan. 31, tells reporters on Friday that he is suing the Chicago Sun-Times for $200 million. According to Knievel, the Sun-Times published stories on Jan. 27 and 28 saying "among other things that Mr. Knievel was sick and tired of dealing with Jews." Knievel said the statements were malicious and untrue. The newspaper had no immediate comment on the suit. (AP Wirephoto).

Avers U.S. Unfair To Britain

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young said Saturday former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger had "put a burden on Britain's back then abandoned it" in arranging the Geneva Conference on Rhodesia.

Young, finishing up a 13-day African mission, said he thought the United States had been "unfair to Britain" through Kissinger's mission which led to the Geneva conference on black majority rule in Rhodesia.

"Dr. Kissinger put a burden on Britain's back then abandoned it," Young said. "This was not intended, but I think Dr. Kissinger thought they (the Ford administration) would win the election" and he would remain in a position to carry things further.

Young said his 13-day African mission, in which he met more than 20 African leaders in Tanzania and also visited Kenya and Nigeria, had been "very encouraging" and that there was an alternative to armed conflict in Rhodesia.

"After meeting with the black leadership, they all agree that a settlement in Rhodesia is absolutely necessary and possible," Young said.

"But after talks with the U.S. State department and the British foreign office it seems that things are not quite as set on the white side as they were a few weeks ago." Young did not elaborate.

Of his visits with African heads of state, he said: "I think they viewed me with a trace of scepticism and a lot of hope," Young said at London Airport.

"Skeptical that I am not really the voice of America and hopeful that the President and the secretary of state agree with what I say."

Young wound up his trip with a one-hour conversation with Anne Armstrong, the outgoing U.S. Ambassador to Britain, and with Ivor Richard, British chairman of the Rhodesia peace conference.

Seeks To Identify Dead Man

MOCKSVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — The State Bureau of Investigation Saturday asked for the public's cooperation in identifying the body of a young man found off U.S. 158 about five miles east of here.

Agents described the man as a white male in his mid 20s. He was 5-10, 155 pounds with a mustache, wearing blue jeans and a blue and white stripped shirt.

The body was found around 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Cedar Creek Bridge off U.S. 158 five miles east of the town. Anyone having information which could lead to the man's identification is asked to call the Davie County Sheriff's Department or the SBI.

Launches Nationwide Hunt

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Spanish police Saturday launched a nationwide campaign to mop up the remaining cells of left-wing guerrilla organizations after rescuing from their hands two kidnaped government leaders in surprise raids.

Hours after rescuing Lt. Gen. Emilio Villaescusa Quillis and Antonio Maria de Oriol y Urquijo, police announced they had arrested four left-wing terrorists who earlier Friday shot to death a police detective.

But despite their first dramatic break in months, police warned of new attacks because, they said some members of the "Antifascist Resistance Group Oct. 1" (GRAPO) still remain at large.

To Seek Clarification

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Attorneys return to court next week to seek clarification of a judge's ruling permitting the removal of life support systems from Della Dockery, a 41-year-old mother of six who has been in a comatose state for three months.

Chancery Court Judge Herschel Franks issued a memorandum Friday saying the respirator that has kept Mrs. Dockery breathing could be legally removed, but he left to Mrs. Dockery's physician, Dr. Yutaka Kato, the ultimate decision of whether to cut off the device.

USSR Gives Blunt Warning

MOSCOW (AP) — The official Communist party newspaper Pravda warned Western countries today to stay out of dissident affairs. It said that Soviet dissidents could face arrest and imprisonment for their actions.

"It certainly is a clear warning to (dissidents) if they needed one, a Western observer said. "It looks like they are setting up Western public opinion before a crackdown on the movement."

Pravda, which rarely mentions the human rights activists, dismissed Western concern over dissidents in the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia and Poland as a "slander campaign" designed to discredit socialism.

It also attacked the U.S. State Department's public concern over the treatment of dissidents as interference in Soviet internal affairs.

Gunman Surrenders

By RICK VAN SANT

CINCNNATI (UPI) — A marijuana-smoking gunman, searching for a son he abandoned 20 years ago, surrendered Saturday to a policeman impersonating his son after holding eight persons hostage in a home for unwed mothers.

The gunman was identified as Jessie L. Coulter, 39, Detroit, who had served time in a Michigan prison on charges stemming from a 1968 gun battle with police.

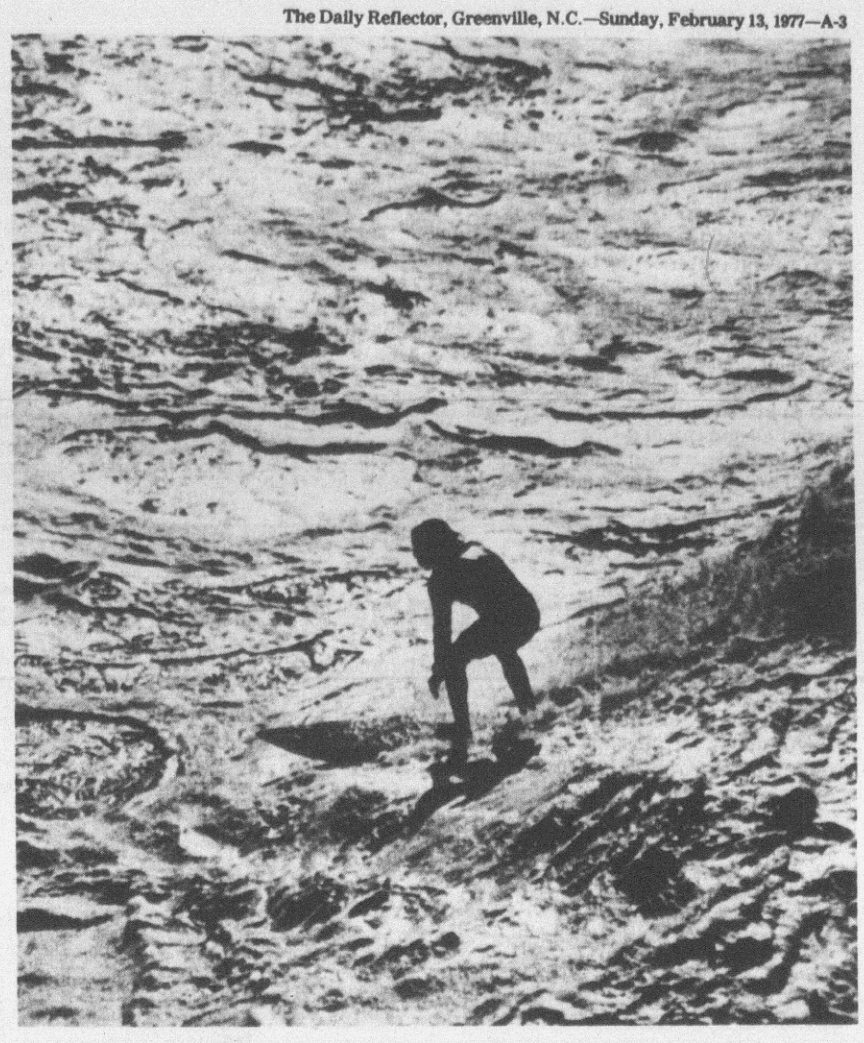

Coulter was accompanied by his former wife, Rita Gibion of Detroit, 37-year-old mother of his lost son. Police did not know whether she came voluntarily or was forced to accompany Coulter to the Catherine Booth Salvation Army home Friday night.

Coulter was talked into surrendering shortly after six of his hostages escaped by jumping him and taking away his sawed-off shotgun while he was rolling a marijuana cigarette. He was still armed with a knife and held a man and a woman.

"Believe me it could have been a real tragedy," said Police Lt. H.W. Mills.

"We tricked him into giving up by having a police officer imitate his son," said Police Capt. Robert Morgan, shortly after the 15-hour ordeal ended. "He stood outside the locked door and pretended to be his son and talked to him for about 20 minutes.

"When the gunman and his ex-wife came out, one of them, I don't know which one, said, 'Is that really my son?'" said Morgan.

Hunt Orders Cutback In Government Jobs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Some 900 middle management jobs in state government will be discontinued June 30, but the action will not result in a reduction of services, Gov. Jim Hunt's office announced Friday.

The action was announced in a three-page memorandum from Hunt to department heads, ordering a 2 per cent cutback in all areas except school teachers.

"Obviously, there are areas in which a reduction in the number of positions cannot be implemented without hurting essential services," Hunt said, citing public safety and health services as examples.

However, the mental health division in the state human resources department will lose 150 positions. Another 288 jobs are to be cut from other human resources areas, according to the state budget office.

Only maintenance and support positions will be cut in health fields.

"If these insitutions have to make cuts in areas like housekeeping and food services, it would indirectly affect patient care," said Dr. N.T. Zarzar, state commissioner of mental health.

Two Morganton facilities, Broughton Psychiatric Center and Western Carolina State Medical Center, will lose 22 and 13 positions, respectively.

Seventeen positions will be eliminated at Caswell Center in Kinston.

The Department of Corrections will lose 91 positions, but Piner said none would be security guards.

Hunt's order also touches state-supported hospitals, with Raleigh's Dorothea Dix Hospital losing 23 positions, Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro 18, and Umstead Hospital in Butner 17.

After Five Years, Offers Evidence

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — After five years of silence, a Morristown, N.J., minister and a Philadelphia, Pa., social worker have offered information contradicting testimony that helped send the Wilmington 10 to jail in 1972.

The Rev. Eugene Templeton and Patricia Rhodes told the Charlotte Observer that five of the defendants, including the Rev. Ben Chavis, were with them when a Wilmington grocery store was firebombed 1971 during the height of racial violence in that city.

In the trial of the nine black men and one white woman, prosecution witness Allen R. Hall testified all the men were at the scene of the grocery store bombing. Earlier this year, Hall said he was pressured by prosecutors and law officers to lie on the stand.

Templeton said the Rev. Ben Chavis, Marvin Patrick, Reginald Epps, Connie Tyndall and James McKoy were in his house when the firebombings occurred.

"After the store started burning, no one left the house until someone came in and said a lady's house next to the store was burning and asked if we would help move her furniture," Templeton told the Observer from his home in Morristown.

He said several persons, including some of the defendants, went out to help and came back later.

He said the five defendants stayed at his house throughout the night.

Templeton, 33, said he did not testify at the trial because he was "scared to death" he and his wife also would be prosecuted on a conspiracy charge.

However, he said they are considering testifying if a new trial is granted.

Ms. Rhodes, 26, said she will testify if a new trial is granted.

"I feel bad about leaving now because I feel that I ran out on the brothers," she told the Observer.

Jay Stroud, a Gaston County assistant district attorney who prosecuted the Wilmington 10, Friday said he doesn't doubt Chavis and the others were in Templeton's house, but believes they first threw the firebombs and then ran to the house.

Templeton said he gave the information to defense attorney James Ferguson five years ago, but Templeton and Rhodes never testified.

Ferguson said he couldn't subpoena them now because they live out of state.

He also said he learned of their refusal to testify too late for them to make a written statement to be used in court.

In a related development, Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. is expected to get a study of the Wilmington 10 case by Tuesday.

Hunt ordered the study last month shortly after the Congressional Black Caucus asked him to take executive action in the case.

$3 Million Dollar Suit Filed For Inmate

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — An attorney here says he is seeking $3 million for a client and an investigation of medical care in the state's prison system.

Reginald L. Frazier filed a complaint in U.S. District Court here last week seeking $2 million in compensatory damages and $1 in punitive damages for Alphus Hill, 36, an inmate at the Williamston Correctional Unit whose penis was amputated.

The suit names the state secretary of correction and Dr. John Rhodes of Raleigh as defendants.

The suit alleges that Hill was hit in the groin by an inmate July 31, 1976 and was taken to Williamston General Hospital for emergency treatment.

The suit contends the examining physician recommended immediate surgery, but corrections department officials "denied both the doctor and the plaintiff the right to medical treatment, which was then and there imminently necessary and available."

Hill was taken to Central Prison in Raleigh and examined by Rhodes, the suit contends, who allegedly failed to read Hill's medical records and prescribed "medicine suitable only for infection of unrelated medical problems."

Another doctor examined Hill eight days later and found that amputation was necessary because gangrene had set in, the complaint charges.

Frazier said Friday he had asked Gov. Jim Hunt and the U.S. Justice Department to investigate medical care in the prisons.

Other Shortages Recalled....

(traveled) according to the amount of gas you had. You had to use your own judgment. If you drove until you were out of gas, you were just out."

Other times when local area residents have had to sacrifice include storms in the late 1950s and 1960s.

Charles Horne, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission remembered when high winds from hurricanes in the late 1950s caused heavy damage to electric power distribution lines in the Greenville area, resulting in many people being without electric service for a period of days, until the lines could be rebuilt.

In 1968, Horne said, many area residents were without power for as much as a week when an ice storm played havoc with the electrical distribution system. People had to turn to oil lamps, space heaters and fire places when lights and central heating furnaces went out.

Again in 1970, an ice storm caused many people to be without the electric power they had become used to when distribution lines again were hard hit by heavy accumulations of ice.

Horne noted "high winds and ice" cause major interruptions in electric service because of the damage they do to the lines.

"We've spent millions to improve the distribution system in the rural and city areas," Horne said.

But he emphasized that the improved distribution system will do no good when there is no electricity to distribute.

"We can restore service when the dristribution system is damaged," he said, but noted that when there is no electricity to be distributed, there is nothing that can be done.

According to Horne, "the handwriting is on the wall" as far as energy is concerned' predicting the possible allocation of gas and electricity to customers in years to come, just as gasoline and other items were rationed during World War II, unless other sources of energy are developed.

Horne said gas usage and the consumption of electricity have dropped as local area residents attempt to conserve and as the weather has improved.

"We've seen a drop off in usage," he said, but emphasized there are no figures available as to how much of the reduction has been caused by the improving weather and how much by honest effort to conserve.

"People are going to have to sacrifice more in the years to come," Horne predicted.

School Boards Need To Meet

School capital improvements funding is still in an impasse stage with the county commissioners and the city board maintaining that a bond issue is needed and the county board saying it is not.

At least, though, a willingness to talk about it came out of a meeting between the county commissioners and the county school board last week.

School board chairman Mark Owens said he felt there should be a "formal request" from the city school board for a meeting but the "county board has never been closed to any question."

Board member Kenneth Dews said the board was not "closed-minded."

"I believe we can sit down and work this thing out . . . help them and help ourselves, too," Dews said.

The county board was warned by the county commissioners that the county couldn't continue to finance capital improvements out of the tax levy.

"Give us some release by seeking a bond levy," Commissioner Bob Martin told the county board of education. We need some relief on capital outlay in our budget."

We hope we detect some movement in solving the problem of how to finance needed capital improvements for the city and county school systems.

The next step, it seems, should be a meeting between the two school boards. They should make an effort to come up with a financing plan to take care of the needs of both system, and one which will be acceptable to the county commissioners.

Ten Years Changed Face Of Greenville

Elsewhere in today's edition readers will find two aerial photos of downtown Greenville taken ten years apart by our photographer Tommy Forrest.

Nothing illustrates any more how much has been done to improve the core of our city over that decade.

Much of the clearance and work was done with federal urban renewal funds and city contributions. But private enterprise has invested large amounts of money in new and improved buildings.

It took much determination on the part of a lot of people to get anything done about downtown improvements. As our photos illustrate, however, it is has been worth it.

"Of course you know, lowly serpent . . . that this is all just a very bad dream!"

THIS AFTERNOON

State Planning Job Cuts

RALEIGH — There have been some confusing reports from various sources in the governor's office about the proposal to trim the bureaucracy.

Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., early on pledged to cut spending in order to help finance proposals; perhaps even find enough money to put forth some new programs.

The governor sent a memo to all of his department heads telling them to prepare for a two per cent cut in personnel in non-critical jobs. That doesn't cover all of state government — a number of department heads (education, agriculture, treasury, insurance, auditor, labor are elected; others such as university president are named by board) don't answer directly to the governor.

Not All?

Some talk around the Capitol was that the Hunt cutback would only hit "his" agencies (prisons, human resources, transportation, natural resources, commerce, culture, and military).

That is not what he has in mind, the governor says, and his statements publicly and privately from several weeks ago back that up.

He says he wants a two per cent cut in personnel across the board. "But that doesn't mean classroom teachers or aides, law enforcement, prison guards, hospital people — staff doing critical public service jobs," Hunt says.

To achieve a two per cent cut overall, deeper cuts must be made in non-critical areas — up to six or eight per cent in some cases — and the focus is on "middle-management" bureaucrats both in Raleigh and in regional offices. People in jobs such as personnel, planning, office management, public information, and other routine office functions are the target.

And it is not a voluntary thing. Staff members in the budget office are already trimming the funding requests and Hunt plans to go to the General Assembly in mid-March to put forth revisions in the budget which is now in the hands of lawmakers.

Achieving a two per cent cut will not mean firing people at any rate. With 140,000 state employees on the payroll, that would be a cut of only 2,800. Personnel experts say that during a normal year the state has upwards of 6,000 vacancies to be filled.

No Firings

Cuts can be made by just not filling some of those jobs, and by letting some jobs remain open when normal turnover occurs.

Is two per cent significant? At the average state salary of $10,000 per year, that represents $28 million.

Green's Office

Lt. Gov. James C. Green, once miffed at being refused office space in the State Capitol where the governor took quarters, has pressed his point that as a public official, fulltime, elected statewide leader, he is entitled to offices "where the public can be served."

The small office complex he is given in the legislative building is not satisfactory, he argues, and besides his duties involve much more than simply presiding over the senate.

To meet his needs, a suite of offices in the Administration Building which once housed Gov. James E. Holshouser's two press aides and their secretaries has been assigned to Green.

There is a small toilet in that complex. Green recently swapped offices with State Senator John T. Henley, D-Cumberland, because Henley had the only private john in the State House.

Henley recently received a procelin chamber pottie to keep under his desk; bought with funds collected from a number of legislators who felt he should not be deprived of the perquisites of office.

Sunday Morning Notes

There was a time when Superior Court was a major event at the court house in North Carolina rural counties.

On cold winter days the janitors fired up the furnances so that the court rooms were piping hot for the visiting judges, who were dignitaries of a fashion.

It seems even in these days when court sessions are more common in most court houses, the custom of keeping court rooms exceptionally warm has continued.

It had continued, that is, until the recent energy crisis emergency was declared by Gov. Hunt for North Carolina.

Now prospective jurors are being advised to wear warm clothing when they report to the court room. The heat is down in the 60s in compliance with the governor's request.

District Attorney Eli Bloom laughed about it the other day.

"It used to be so hot you couldn't see straight," he commented. "Now it's so cold everybody's getting pneumonia."

At least the culprits suffer, too. Might be a deterrent to crime.

A guy was trying to impress a pretty girl and the conversation got around to the type man she admired.

"Well," she said sweetly. "I just love the bionic man."

The guy thought about that a moment and replied hopefully, "I'm myopic."

Truthfully it happened in Greenville.

A representative of one of the syndicates which handles cartoons, columns and other features for newspapers called the other day.

During the course of the conversation he noted that he had changed syndicates.

He reminded that he had had offices in Des Moines, Iowa. The new syndicate has offices in Miami.

"Made the change just in time," he laughed.

To avoid this cold winter the change was timely indeed, although it did snow once, even in Miami.

As this was written, there was a warming trend locally and it was expected that the outside temperature might reach the 65 degrees that Gov. Hunt requested.

With that much power, why does the governor need the veto?

Speed Driver Course

By WILLIAM SCHIFFMANN
Associated Press Writer

SONOMA, Calif. (AP) — The steering wheel moved a mere quarter of a turn, but the imported sedan skidded out of control and careened sideways down the oil-slick surface toward certain destruction.

Suddenly, a voice said quietly, "Hold the wheel straight ahead and stay calm..."

Not trusting, the driver gripped the rim tightly and sure enough, the car snapped around and began slowing to a halt — backwards.

It could have been a late-night Walter Mitty dream of high-speed chases and dramatic power fades, the kind of fantasy relished by car enthusiasts

40 Years Ago Today

February 13, 1937

Senator Glass (D-Va.) said today President Roosevelt's proposal to increase the Supreme Court justices was "frightful." He added he was ready to speak in the Senate against it.

The caustic Virginian in his first statement on the President's court program said:

"I am going to speak in the Senate to say that I am utterly opposed to it. I think it is a frightful proposal, unprecedented since the founding of the government.

"I don't mean to suggest it hasn't been suggested before, but this proposal is unprecedented."

A hard-driven legislature this week neared sine die adjournment as weary assemblymen apparently solved their biggest problems.

The House early this morning passed and sent to the Senate the huge revenue bill designed to raise approximately $75 million during the biennium.

Meanwhile, the Hanford liquor measure, allowing counties to vote for control, was set as a special order in the Senate for next Tuesday. Wets claim a majority there.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Mideast Test For Carter

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The first clue to President Carter's Middle East policy carried a surprising hint of flexibility on U.S. moves against the Arab boycott of Israel, a welcome but belated concession to Mideast experts fearful that without political progress this year, another war to free Israeli-held Arab territory is inevitable.

That first, unannounced clue was a delay arranged by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance in anti-boycott legislation planned for immediate consideration by both houses of the new Congress. In telephone calls to House and Senate leaders, Vance pleaded for a delay in the start of hearings designed to produce a new anti-boycott law that would predictably enrage Saudi Arabia at just the moment Vance was making his first diplomatic swing through the Middle East.

Almost as surprising as Vance's plea for time (approved by the Oval Office) was the prompt acquiescence of both Rep. Jonathan Bingham of New York, chairman of a House International Relations subcommittee, and Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, whose Senate Banking Committee controls the legislation in the Senate.

Considering the sometimes shrill content of Mr. Carter's campaign rhetoric against the Arabs' anti-Israel boycott, some congressional experts were astonished that the delay — even if planned only for a few weeks — was granted. One answer may lie in hard, quiet background work on the torrid boycott issue by some of this country's most influential big businessmen. They are now striving to find a boycott formula with leaders of the American-Jewish community that will not automatically hamstring U.S. peace efforts.

That search is proving to be difficult, but perhaps not impossible. A special legal panel secretly appointed by the Business Roundtable, a blue-ribbon assembly of 170 major American corporations headed by duPont's Irving S. Shapiro, is now working with legal experts named by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, the Jewish service organization with heavy political clout.

The common objective: an anti-boycott legislative formula that will neither wreck Vance's Mideast diplomacy nor so antagonize oil-rich Arab states that they will transfer billions of dollars of their American business to Japan and Western Europe.

If that secretive effort succeeds, the drive for a tough new law might stall. If not, Jimmy Carter's political posture in the emotionalized boycott struggle is reduced to this: delay Congress as long as possible in hopes that real progress toward a Middle East settlement will be made. In that case the new President could respectably argue that, important as the boycott issue is, peace in the Middle East dwarfs it and that peace, meaning withdrawal of Israel from Arab territories, will end the boycott.

But Proxmire, Bingham and other congressional leaders who say they are genuinely outraged by the secondary and tertiary aspects of the Arab boycott — boycott provisions not just against Israel but against U.S. companies which have independent commercial relations with Israel — aren't going to sit still for long.

Proxmire, for example, told us that under no circumstances would he delay anti-boycott hearings beyond the last week in February, when Vance will be back from his exploratory Mideast trip. In the House committee, the same timetable is being worked out: quick hearings designed to produce a hard-line anti-boycott bill similar to the bill passed by the House last fall (which died with the 94th Congress).

That forecasts a nasty reception for the princes, presidents and other Arab heads of state when they visit Washington this spring to confer with Mr. Carter. Anti-boycott legislation may then be moving through Congress, with Arab radicals demanding revenge against the U.S. in the form of an Arab oil boycott — or, at the very least, those higher oil prices that Saudi Arabia has rejected.

Yet, Mr. Carter may be boxed in for his first real

Other Editors Say Some Hot Tips

(Greensboro Daily News)

Before you throw another log on the fire, be warned: it increases your heating bill. A manufacturer of fireplaces recently confessed in The Wall Street Journal: "You've got to open your chimney flue before you start your fire, and when you do this, you get an immediate heat loss. Once the fire gets going, it radiates some heat into the room, but it also burns up air that must be replaced by cold air sucked in from outside. This can be a lot or a little, depending on how 'tight' a house is. As the fire burns down, its heating efficiency declines again, and heat loss through the chimney increases. Even so, we recommend that the flue be kept open until the fire is completely out." The manufacturer concluded, "you usually have some net heating loss when your fireplace is in use."

This is the sort of disillusion which a dozen experts on fuel use dispensed in the Journal article. 'It's hardly fit to print. For example, if you trust President Carter and follow the energy conservation advice from his recent "fireside chat" (tsk, tsk), you will set your home thermostats at 65 degrees during the day and 55 degrees at night. There will, of course, be an energy saving from the lower settings. But, if you reset the thermostat to 65 on the following morning, the energy loss from the process of an oil or gas furnace re-heating the house will more than cancel the night's energy saving.

If you leave the setting at 55 degrees for more than eight hours, your chances of saving some energy on the deal improve. But, be sure you follow the President's advice exactly. If you slip up and set the thermostat a couple of degrees lower than 55, you may succeed in freezing your water pipes at the house's extremities.

Don't forget to close off unused rooms. In a two-or three-story house, closing off rooms or even a whole floor on an upper story will probably not make the slightest difference in your heating bill because the insulation between floors is usually insufficient to keep the heat from rising into the closed rooms anyway. But the sense of virtue you get from this procedure will make you feel all warm inside.

Strength For Today

FIRST TURN TO THE RIGHT

There is a naturalness about the Christian life which many people miss. Religion is at the same time much greater and much more simple than the doctrines and creeds we repeat in church.

One of the great English preachers was once asked, "How does a person get to heaven?" His reply was, "Take the first turn to the right and keep on going." All religion begins with the situation right at hand. We don't have to go to the ends of the earth looking for it. There is enough opportunity in the circles of home, business, shop, and society to make our Christian service equal to that of the most distinguished minister or foreign missionary.

Neither is it necessary to hit the sawdust trail to become a Christian. We simple have to take that first turn to the right on any road we happen to be traveling and keep on going in a good, a kindly, and a helpful life.

Economists Turn To Scenarios

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Busines Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Economists have been talking in scenarios of late, the better to protect their reputations at a time when any of a dozen variables might skew a forecast.

Will the Carter program overstimulate the economy? Refer to scenario A. Will the deep freeze in the East and the drought in the West continue? Use scenario B. Will Arthur Burns pursue a tight money policy? See C.

Of the many scenarios, there is one that is decidedly more worthy of attention and quite capable of attracting it. It is an alarming one, arousing fears we had hoped were laid to rest.

What is it? It is the threatened return of the two-I monster from its brief hibernation, the potential resurgence of inflation and interest rates. It is the gloomiest of scenarios, but it also one of the most common.

It is now sending shivers through the stock market, even though the consensus seems to be that the economy will continue to expand and that corporate profits will be fairly attractive.

The market usually welcomes such news, but not when it is accompanied by the threat of a reignition of the infernos that inevitably bring expansions to an end.

And so, you have the rare situation of good news raising deep fears.

Citibank points out that manufacturing boomed in December, with shipments rising 3.6 per cent following a 3 per cent gain in November, "the best back-to-back gains in roughly nine years."

But Albert H. Cox, Jr., chief economist of Merrill Lynch & Co., took a somewhat different view of this good news in his testimony this week before the House Ways and Means Committee.

"Do you know what happened to industrial wholesale prices across the last half of last year?" he asked. He gave this ominous answer: "They rose at an annual rate of 9.3 per cent."

Added Cox, who was a staff member of the Council of Economic Advisers before joining the world's largest securities firm several years ago: "There is a deep-rooted fear in the business and financial communities that the highly inflationary conditions of 19731974 may return."

There is fear also of the other "I." Interest rates have moved up swiftly since the first of the year, especially for long-term borrowings. In January the increase was the sharpest onemonth rise in nearly two years.

Not everyone agrees that interest rates will continue to increase at that rate. But, as with price increases, analysts fear that once a certain momentum and direction has been established it might continue.

Recognizing that this might be so, cautious and responsible forecasters are hedging their estimates by publishing both optimistic and pessimistic scenarios.

The stock market, of course, retreats as the two-I monster advances. High interest rates add to the cost of doing business, while simultaneously siphoning off money from the stock market. Inflation too adds to business costs.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Prisoners Don't Deserve It

"I don't think we need all these $12 million high-rise (prisons) that house 350 people. You can build motels cheaper than that . . ."

Rep. William Watkins of Granville County made that observation recently in a story by the Associated Press.

The story was about the reluctance the General Assembly might have in allocating funds to meet a prisons building program advocated by Governor-elect Jim Hunt.

Frequently we dread where North Carolina has 13,000 prisoners in facilities designed for 10,000.

And as is always the case these days there is the constant spectre of the federal courts coming in to run the state's prisons — taking all control from state authorities, except, we presume, the obligation to put up the money.

If the General Assembly is reluctant to get overly enthusiastic about allocating funds for fancy new prisons, the public at large probably would be even more reluctant.

It must turn many people off to see references to "single cell" units and to "dormitories" in stories and public addresses on our prison needs. ("Single Cell" means private room.)

Prisons, after all, are supposed to be places of punishment. For certain the inmates should be provided quarters that are dry and warm and free of vermin and harmful insects.

There should be areas where they can exercise — preferably in some form of productive labor. They should be protected from abuse by prison officials or fellow prisoners.

But to insist upon providing prisoners with better facilities and more space per person than we used to provide members of our armed forces or students on our college campuses is repugnant.

The taxpayers of the state can't afford it and the prisoners don't deserve it. Goldsboro News-Argus

Public Drunks

Supporting proposed changes in state law regarding public drunkenness, Attorney General Edmisten has stated, "We don't throw people in jail for having a disease; why should we jail people for having the disease of alcoholism?"

Police sometimes ask a question that is more to the point: Why do some people get liquored up and go staggering off to public places, time after time, when they could stay home, or in seclusion, without being picked up? — The Robesonian (Lumberton)

To the editor:

Greenville is the seat of higher learning for the eastern area of the state and is fast becoming a well deserved center. East Carolina University, with the best in dynamic leadership, is becoming well known on a national scale. This great university began as a college to train female teachers and the present status and growth is too well known to elaborate. At the moment, there is an Equal Rights Amendment being fought in the General Assembly at Raleigh. The House of Representatives has favorably passed it by a 61-55 votes. It is now to go into the Senate and will be about one week before we know the results.

I believe East Carolina University should be one of the forward movers because they have shown the test of their strength in other great matters affecting the training and health of nation, state and local areas. Equal rights for women certainly should come from this university because it was in this area of development that gave roots to this present growth.

The only way man can equate with woman is to accept the fact he would not be here otherwise, he would not have developed to his present status and to prevent her equality is a sign of genuine insecurity, something the male does not relish.

Let the world know North Carolina is out of the dark ages. Help this amendment to a rightful success.

To the editor:

In Sunday's Daily Reflector, there was an article reminding citizens of City Ordinance 441, popularly known as the "leash law."

As a dog owner and responsible citizen, I fully support the fairness of the ordinance to non-animal fanciers. However, I must publicly protest the over-zealous implementation of this ordinance by the Greenville Inspections Department whose polite, but evidently not fully instructed agents know their responsibilities, but not their limitations by this ordinance.

Yesterday my 14-month-old dog was standing in our front yard, darted across the street and returned immediately to our property when the patrol wagon drove up. It was cold; I was watching him through a window. He is a house dog, he is not vicious, he was wearing inoculation tags good through April, 1977, but not a city tag. While both dog and I stood on our property, I was ordered by the G. I. D. employee to put my dog into the wagon or else he would immediately shoot him. I complied and did not protest the illegal seizure until visiting the shelter to reclaim him.

I should like to point out the ordinance specifically prohibits seizing dogs from their owner's property or coaxing them off the property and that this interpretation has already been established by court case.

The G. I. D. patrols have a thankless task as it is. They would receive fuller cooperation from Greenville citizens, I am sure, if their limitations were fully understood. We all appreciate what they are trying to accomplish. We do resent their present intimidating approach to the problem.

A Conservative View

Filled With Zeal For The Conservative Cause

By JAMES J. KILPATICK

WASHINGTON — Several hundred adherents to the conservative faith held their fourth annual revival meeting at the Hyatt Regency last week. They left town full of the hallelujah juices, ready to hit the sawdust trial anew. I wish them all the luck in the world.

This was the Conservative Political Action Conference, sponsored by Young Americans for Freedom and the American Conservative Union. Participants ranged in age from barely old enough to vote to just about old enough to quit, but they shared a common bond—a total dedication to the conservative point of view.

These are the evangelical members of the holy faith, full-time missionaries in the conservative cause. Their purpose is to elect conservatives to the House and Senate in 1978, and to reclaim the White House in 1980. Theirs is a noble crusade.

Ronald Reagan spoke to the closing banquet Saturday night. It was the eve of his 66th birthday, but you wouldn't have guessed it. The former California governor was sun-tanned, virile, as handsome as ever. He rang all the old bells: The American people really are conservative in their political thought; the polls show a resurgence of conservative attitudes; all that is necessary for victory is to weld this latent yearning into an effective political force.

Former Senator James L. Buckley of New York hit the same notes. So did such theorists as William Rusher, publisher of National Review. This is the way it is with revivals. Everybody gets born again. Warmed by apostolic fires, they all go forth rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

But how? That is the question many of my passionate brothers are unwilling to face realistically. Mr. Rusher, for example, still is wedded to the proposition that the Republican party is done for; it has known sin; it cannot be redeemed. Salvation, in his view, lies in a new unblemished Conservative party. Mr. Rusher's evidence admittedly is daming: The GOP holds barely one-third of the seats in the House and Senate; the party is down to 12 governors; it controls both houses in only 5 state legislatures. As a vehicle for political action, the Republican party is no more than an aging Edsel.

The facts may be undeniable, but they do not necessarily lead to a sound political conclusion. Mr. Rusher's schismatic views seemed to command less support at this conference than they have commanded in the past. Most of the participants would like to stick wit the Republican party, provided its candidates stand for true Republican principles.

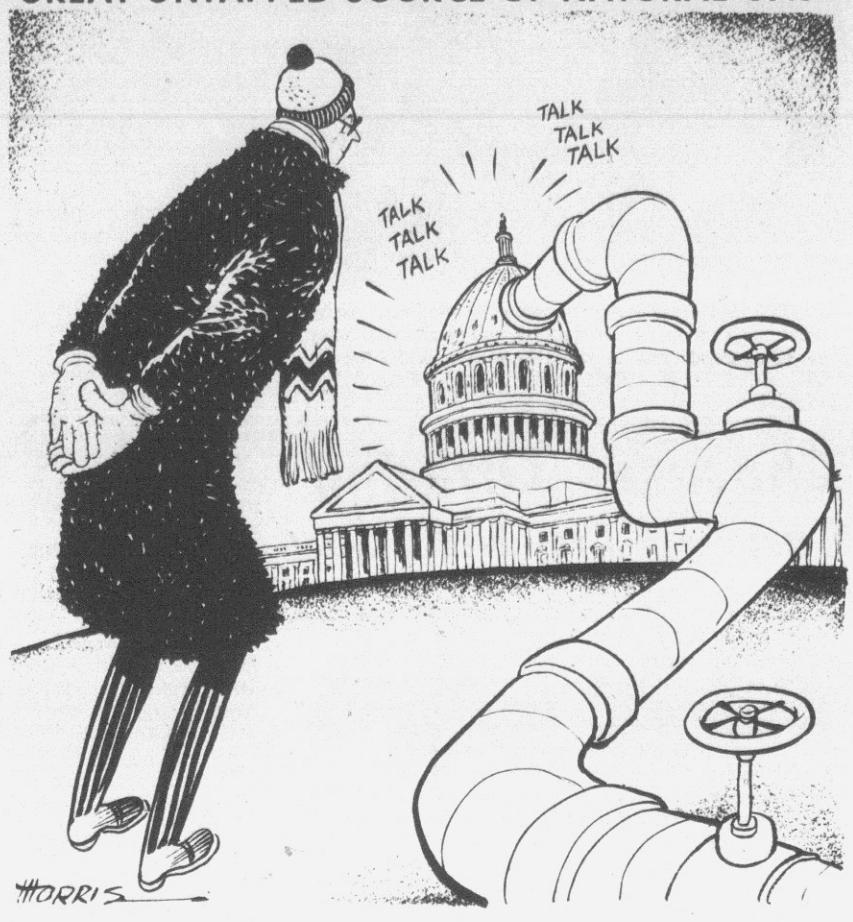

And this is where orthodoxy runs aground. The conservative activists have not quite got it through their heads that elections are not ideas; elections are people. It is not attitudes that vote; it is human beings, warm bodies, men and women. Faith alone is not enough. The conservatives, if they truly want to win at the polls, must motivate a majority of the voters in any given constituency to put ballots in a box.

The trouble, all along, is that conservatives tend to put purity first and victory second. Governor Reagan tried to overcome this celibate notion last summer: He named Senator Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania as his putative running mate. It was a fatally poor choice, but Mr. Reagan's principle was sound. He was trying to attract voters. Among some of my brother troglodytes, this was the most unheard of thing they ever heard of. They were outraged. Voters! Who needs them?

This is the conservatives' dilemma. They will not compromise with sin. If they had managed to nominate and to elect Mr. Reagan last year, by this time they would be snapping at his heels. You woner, sometimes, if the conservatives really want to win—want deeply to win, truly want to organize a government and govern. I don't know.

I do know this: Whether they work within the Republican party, or seek to establish their own party, the conservative activists will have to develop a tolerance for dissent, a willingness to reach out, an acceptance of political realities. Until they appeal to a broad range of fallible human beings, they will stay in exterior darkness. And speaking simply as one true believer, I am getting awfully tired of the cold.

No Future In Farming, They Open A Nursery

EMPORIA, Va. — You've got to put up all you own to make a crop, and if you have a bad year, you could be ruined for life." That's why Charles "Tuck" Woodruff and his wife, Sherry, decided to take themselves and their three children "out of the frying pan" and into the nursery.

"There's no future in farming if you don't own your own land," he says, "and with the rising cost of chemicals, seed and farm equipment, the larger farmers are eating the smaller ones up." The Woodruffs are opening the nursery on money from auctioned-off farm equipment. This new business will give them the extra advantage to being able to work together. It's a whole new start for Tuck who has worked as a farmer all his life and had only one other job, for a week, as a security guard.

Tuck was raised in a family of 11 children that supported itself on 29 acres of peanuts and five acres of tobacco. The Woodruffs' recent operation included 100 acres of peanuts, 80 acres of corn, 120 acres of soybeans, 85 head of beef cattle, three tractors, two peanut combines and six dryers.

"It gradually gets worse each year. The returns are on the increase, but not as much as the costs.

"It's all right if you own your own land, but if you rent farm land, you never know if you'll get the land again next year.

"We're tired of investing money in other people's land." The Woodruffs can see no way to afford their own land if they continue farming.

"If a farmer could buy a farm with what he earned on rented land, he wouldn't farm. He'd lease it out."

Out-of-towners own a lot of the farmland in Greensville County now, and that makes farming harder than it was for Woodruff's father. One man rented a farm to Woodruff's father for 20 years, rented the farm to Woodruff and sold him a piece of adjoining land on which the family built their home. Other landlords are not always so cooperative, and that is what makes the future shakier each year.

The family may now have to leave their home in the country and move into Emporia where the nursery is opening. The three children don't like the idea of moving to town very much, but since both Sherry and Tuck will hold down jobs in the town as well as run the nursery, there may not be any choice.

Sherry had already begun working as a ward secretary at Greensville Memorial Hospital. Although she enjoys working a regular job, she is not quite used to the uncertainty, the feeling that everything is up in the air. "In farming you know just what you're going to do from day to day," she says. "If the tobacco needs to be picked, you go out and pick it."

Sherry was fixing up the greenhouse at home one day when Tuck got the idea of a new business.

"If we had one of those out on Highway 301, we could really do well," he said.

The next week Sherry found a suitable location on 301 right next to the Emporia truck stop, and the decision was made.

Since the Woodruffs saw so many local farmers filing bankruptcy and knew that they might have to put out $1,000 to make one dollar, the decision was pretty clear. Four area farm sales in the past two months made it easy for the Woodruffs to realize that they were not alone in their sinking ship, and the time to get out was at hand.

Commercial spraying and landscaping are one part of Tuck's new future which will require a change of attitude. "In farming, I always did things the way I wanted them done," he says.

Being an expert mechanic and doer of practically anything gives Tuck more security as he faces the necessity of being a businessman.

He and Sherry have a lot to learn about business details, but they are still enthusiastic about opening a nursery.

They know how to grow things, and that is a solid place to start.

the world over. But it was real life, and the instructions, in an even voice of authority, were coming from a teacher at the Bob Bondurant School of High Performance Driving.

Bondurant is what every race driver should look like. Burly, muscular, graying, he gives an impression of strength and control which is born out in a racing record that dates back to the early 1950s, when jouncing sports cars were just beginning to dent the car-buying consciousness of the American public.

He moved into larger and more powerful cars, finally winning a share of the 1965 World Manufacturers Championship in one of Carroll Shelby's invincible Cobras. He also drove a factory Formula One racer for Enzo Ferrari and handled Grand Prix cars for private entrants.

Mideast test. During the campaign, he saw the Arab boycott as "not a matter of diplomacy or trade (but) a matter of morality." He called Jerry Ford's refusal to jump aboard the anti-boycott express last year "a disgrace" — cutting his own options now.

Moreover, Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps, questioned carefully by Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan of New York, a pro-Israeli leader, during her confirmation hearing, testified that she fully agreed with Mr. Carter's campaign rhetoric. Any new law would be under her department. Thus, facing Mideast realities instead of U.S. voters, Mr. Carter has little maneuverability — no matter how much he wants to derail the anti-boycott express.

There's Been No Peace Since ERA Came Up

There has been no peace in the kaffee klatch since the Equal Rights Amendment came up for reconsideration. Personally, I prefer not to talk about politics — I've avoided the subject ever since my best friend gave me a black eye because I said her candidate looked like he shaved every morning with a potato peeler. But now there's no way to get away from such talk.

"What do you think about ERA?" Doris asked me the other morning. ' "Oh, I think it's great," I said. "But I like Dynamo better."

Doris stared at me like I'd just wrapped a strand of spaghetti around my ear with my tongue. "I'm not talking about detergent. I'm talking about the Equal Rights Amendment. How do you stand on it?"

I looked around and saw storm clouds gathering over the coffee table. "Oh, a little bit of some, and half-way of the other," I said. Then, hoping to defuse the conversation with an innocuous topic, I added, "I wonder when the Girl Scouts start their cookie drive. I just love their butter cookies. Don't you?"

"I don't like anything about the Girl Scouts, not since they endorsed the ERA," Doris said. "I'm boycotting their cookies."

"That's ridiculous!" Edna shouted across the coffee table. "If you're going to do that, I'll buy three times as many cookies as I normally do!"

"I always knew you were a pervert!" Doris shouted back. "You want to destroy the family!"

Edna heaved her pregnant body to a standing position. "Just how do you figure that?!"

"More coffee, anyone?" I asked.

"Anyone who supports ERA is against the family!" Doris yelled. "You want to drive women out of their kitchens and into men's restrooms!"

"How about some fresh donuts?" I said.

"You're crazy!" Edna screamed. "All this talk about unisex restrooms is garbage, isn't it, Gail?"

"Well, the French have them," I ventured.

"You're disgusting," Edna said.

Doris sneered triumphantly. "Aha! You admit it. You think shared restrooms are disgusting! So how, tell me, HOW can you be for ERA! And you a mother, too!"

"Precisely because I AM a mother! Because ERA is going to make this country realize that mothers and housewives perform a valuable economic function'"

"I baked a cake this morning. Would you like some of that?" I said.

"I don't need the government to tell me I'm valuable," Doris said. "My husband tells me."

"Well, what he tells you doesn't much matter when it comes to inheritance tax and divorce."

"I'm not worried about that," Doris said. "All the property is in my name. Of course, I guess we'll have to change all that if the ERA passes and I get drafted."

"I just can't believe how selfish you anti-ERA people are!" Edna screeched. "As long as you can hold court in your own cozy little homes, you don't give a hoot about anybody else. And I'll tell you something else. YOU'RE the one who wants to hurt the family! You'd rather see young fathers go to war than single women, who could easily perform the non-combat jobs!" And another thing," Edna said, stamping her foot again and again. "You've waged your whole campaign on a base, emotional level."

"That's not true," Doris sniffed. "Our campaign against ERA has been based on facts and logical persuasion." She picked up her purse and started toward the door.

"Where are you going?" I said.

"Home," she answered. "I have to bake a pie for my legislator."

Proportion Of Female Imbibers Rose In Three-Year Period

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — The percentage of drinkers in the U.S. has reached a 38-year high point while the proportion of families where liquor is cited as a cause of trouble has increased dramatically in just three years.

The latest nationwide audit of drinking shows 71 per cent of adults, 18 and older, saying they use alcoholic beverages such as liquor, wine or beer. Only 29 per cent are total abstainers. The percentage of drinkers in 1974 was 68 per cent.

The rise in the percentage of drinkers over the last three years has come about almost entirely among women. While the proportion of male drinkers has remained at about the same level, the proportion of female imbibers is up 5 points. Men, however, continue to be more likely to drink than women.

1 IN 5 SAYS LIQUOR CAUSE OF TROUBLE

One American in five (18 per cent) says alcohol has been a cause of trouble in their families. In 1974 the comparable figure was 12 per cent — the same as recorded in a survey in 1966.

Social observers have expressed alarm at excessive drinking and alcoholism in American society, pointing to findings that show alcohol to be involved in about half of highway fatalities and in about half of all homicides.

A Gallup survey conducted for the Charles F. Kettering Foundation found 55 per cent saying they believed drinking to be a "serious" problem among youth in their communities. And an overwhelming 84 per cent favored a required course on the effects of drugs and alcohol.

1 IN 5 FAVORS RETURN TO PROHIBITION

The latest survey shows that one person in five (19 per cent) favors a return to prohibition, that is, a law forbidding the sale of all beer, wine and liquor throughout the nation.

The 44-year trend, while revealing an overall decline in prohibition sentiment, shows the current figure to closely parallel the percentage recorded a decade ago, as follows:

ECU Students Attended Event At State Capital

A group of nine international students from E.C.U. traveled to Raleigh on Thursday, February 10th to represent the University at the First Annual International Student Day at the State Capital.

The purpose of this one-day affair was to provide an experiential learning opportunity on our state government for foreign students in colleges and universities across the state, as well as to provide an opportunity for students to meet other foreign students studying in North Carolina.

Approximately 225 students representing 25 technical schools, community and junior colleges and universities from across the state were in attendance. The 225 students were from 52 different countries with African and Middle Eastern countries having the largest delegations.

Secretary of State, Thad Eure, offered the welcoming address to the students on behalf of Governor Hunt, who was unable to participate due to a last minute change in plans. Highlights of the day's activities included a panel discussion by Representative "Mickey" Michaux, and Senators Charles Vickery and McNeill Smith.

Representating East Carolina University at this event were Javier Blanco from Costa Rica, Mrs. Zulaiha Binti, Abdul Majid Rahim, and Miss Yasmin Hussain of Malaysia, Miss Mehrnaz Kaveh from Iran, Chyi Liang Lin from Taiwan, Sukhum Praisaranti from Thailand, Miss Melba Solidum from the Philippines, and Kehinde Tokuta from Nigeria. Joining the E.C.U. delegation were Charn Wutthisakadi from Thailand representating Pitt Technical Institute and Miss Nazneen Abdul Rahim from Malaysia, a student at Elmhurst Elementary School. Leading the delegation were Dr. Estrella Solidum, a visiting Fullbright Scholar attached to the Political Science Department at East Carolina University and Ron Scronce, International Student Affairs Coordinator who served as co-planner for the program. Transportation for the local group was provided by Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Ramblers At Roxy

Five musicians, The Red Clay Ramblers, will be in Greenville c in a one-performance only appearance at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 14 at the Roxy Theater on Albemarle Street.

This group, which includes two native Tar Heels, has been the object of praise wherever they have appeared. Clive Barnes, in "The New York Times," called their production of Diamond Studs "an unadulterated delight .... a hilarious, naive and 128 per cent American show. The evening is a gas." A critic for the Raleigh "News and Observer" worte "they are the most eclectic and innovative of all the contemporary ensembles ... their musicianship is faultless."

The musicians are Mike Craver (piano, guitar, autoharp, string bass); Jack Herrick (trumpet, harmonica, guitar, string bass); Bill Hicks (fiddle); Tommy Thompson (banjo, guitar, tenor guitar, string bass); and Jim Watson (mandolin, guitar, autoharp, tenor banjo, string bass).

Currently, The Red Clay Ramblers are making appearances through the "Portable Folk Festival" sponsored by the Southern Federation of State Arts Agencies with headquarters in Winston-Salem.

Tickets to the Roxy show will be available at the door prior to performance and are priced at $2 each ($1.50 for members of the Roxy organization).

Choruses Offering Concert On Monday

The East Carolina University Chorale and the ECU Women's Glee Club will present a St. Valentine's Day concert Monday, Feb. 14 at 8:15 p.m. in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall.

The program will include music chosen to highlight the Valentine theme, and is free and open to the public.

Both choruses will perform a group of songs by Johannes Brahms. The Glee Club will perform "Six Love Songs for Voices and Two Pianos" and the Chorale will sing Brahms "Six Folk Songs."

The final section of the program will consist of Chorale performances of five American folk songs: "Now I Walk in Beauty", based on words from a Navajo prayer; "Sweet Sunny" featuring pianist Janet Watson; "All the Pretty Horses," with oboist James Poteat; "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair" and "A Paper of Pins," with pianist Brenda Miles.

Laura Soles, senior music student and president of the University Chorale, will direct the Brahms folk songs.

Edward Glenn is director of the Women's Glee Club, and Dr. Charles W. Moore directs the University Chorale.

French Cookery Class Scheduled

An evening class in French cookery will be offered by East Carolina University this spring.

Instructor of the French cooking class is Mariette Davis-Givoiset, a graduate of Iowa in Dijon Universities. Ms. Davis-Givoiset is a native of France and represented France at the Williamsburg International Assembly.

Further information and registration materials are available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Countinuing Education, or telephone 757-6134/6148.

Few Openings Left In Artists Program

Third Century Artists, the federally funded artists-in-residence program that is putting artists to work in community service programs across North Carolina, is being extended for eight more months.

With additional funding recently granted, 127 artists at work in dozens of N.C. communities will be able to remain on the job through Sept. 30.

Since October 1975, the Third Century Artists program has served a dual function of hiring unemployed or under-employed artists to fill positions in arts organizations, children's theaters, little theater, small museums, festivals, art guilds, dramatic performances, workshop, lectures and other community arts activities.

Information about a few remaining openings can be obtained by writing immediately to: Third Century Artists, N.C. Arts Council, Dept. of Cultural Resources, Raleigh, N.C., 27611.

Bubbles Play

The Pocket Theater in Durham announces the premiere of a new play, Bubbles, to open at 8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 18 for six performances 18, 19 and 20 Feb. and again on Feb. 25, 26 and 27 Directed by Warren Johnston of the Ensemble Theater Company in Nashville, Tenn., Bubbles is a group developed work involving efforts of a writer, actors, musicians, filmmakers and technicians. Participants and audiences will be mixed in this random theater experiment which features "Bubbles" the stripper, inflatable bubbles and soap bubbles from a bubble machine.

Performances will be held at St. Jospeh's Performing Center, 804 Fayetteville Street in Durham.

Bobbie C. Austin Associate Registrar

Mrs. Bobbie C. Austin, who began working in the Registrar's office shortly after graduation in 1955, has been appointed Associate Registrar for East Carolina University.

The appointment was announced today by Gil Moore, Registrar.

Mrs. Austin, a native of Swan Quarter, received a BS degree in Business Education at East Carolina in 1955 and is working on a master's degree in Education Administration in addition to fulltime duties in the Registrar's office. Since 1973, she has been administrative assistant. Previously she worked as a secretary and as supervisor from 1956 until 1973.

The mother of two sons, Mrs. Austin is the wife of H.L. Austin Sr. of Greenville. Her mother is Mrs. W. G. Credle, also of Greenville.

She is president of the Greenville Tar Heel Little League Auxiliary, a member, Sunday School teacher and youth director of First Pentecostal Holiness Church in Greenville.

Not To Walk On

NEW YORK (AP) "This is not the kind of rug you would walk on," said a Sotheby Parke Bernet gallery spokesman after a Persian carpet was sold at auction for a record $200,000.

Rug dealers from Iran, England, South Africa and other nations sat in the Madison Avenue gallery Friday and gasped as bidding passed the old record for a Persian of $112,000. A European Sabonneire rug once went for $150,000.

The gallery said the price reflected the unusual mint condition of the 125-year-old rug, which was last used as a cover on a billiards table in a home in Wheeling, W. Va. It was auctioned as part of the estate of steel heiress Emily Stifel. The buyer was a London dealer, Emanouel Antiques.

The rug, measuring 12-by-9 feet, has a flowering vine border around light blue medallions in the center.

Educator Retires After 44 Years Service

MATTHEW LEWIS

Matthew T. Lewis, principal at Stokes ElementarySchool retired in January after 44 years of service with Pitt County Schools.

Lewis was honored at two ceremonies recently. The staff of Stokes Elementary honored Lewis at a dinner. A retiring ceremony was also held in the school gym at which time he was honored with a program entitled "This Is Your Life". Music was presented by Mrs. Nora Hawkins Gatlin and Mrs. Myriam C. Harris. Superintendent of Pitt County Schools, Ott Alford also made several remarks concerning Lewis' career with Pitt County Schools.

A native of Hertford County, Lewis came to Pitt County as a principal and teacher at Nichols School near Bell Arthur in 1932. He later served as principal and teacher at Clemons and Post Oak Schools, near Stokes. In 1952 he was named principal of the Stokes Elementary School, a position which he held until his retirement. During his career with Pitt County schools, Lewis was absent only one day.

He is a member of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church and teaches Sunday School classes there. He is married to the former Christine Keyes, who has also taught in the Pitt County Schools.

Before Taking A Stand, Be Sure You Know Facts

EDITORS: Dr. Salvatore Didato is a consulting psychologist in New York City. In question-and-answer format, he raises and then answers some interesting questions about the battle of the sexes.

By SALVATORE DIDATO

NEW YORK (AP) — It's as old as Adam and Eve — the perennial argument about which is the superior sex. Biology puts a person on one side of the argument or the other — there are no fence-straddlers in the battle of the sexes. But before you take a stand on the world's oldest issue, better be sure of your facts.

Here are some questions to test your knowledge of the subject. Some of the answers may surprise you.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Men have a greater capacity for feeling happy than women.
2. Women have more verbal fluency than men.
3. Women have more sex fantasies about men than men do about women.
4. There are no differences in dreams between men and women.
5. Wives understand their husbands better than husbands understand them.
6. Husbands tend to be more intelligent than their wives.
7. Men, more than women, are likely to keep their head in a crisis.
8. Men are more honest than women.

ANSWERS AND EXPLANATIONS:

1. False. Women have a wider range of emotion than men. They can feel greater happiness but, at the other extreme, they can feel more unhappiness, too.
2. True. Females develop language skills earlier than males and retain the edge in verbal fluency between the sexes.
3. False. Alfred Kinsey, the sex researcher, found men have many more sex fantasies about women than vice-versa.
4. False. Dream narratives collected from a wide number of men and women show that men dream more about men than they do about women, while women dream equally as often about men and women.
5. False. Studies done by the Veterans' Administration show that husbands have more insight about their wives personalities than wives have about them.
6. True. Many studies have verified that women tend to marry men they can admire intellectually. Men, on the other hand, tend to shun women who are above them intellectually.
7. False. Women generally are more easily upset by details or trivial mishaps than men are. But they usually retain their cool when big problems, like death, illness, and financial loss come up.
8. False. One study of over 5,000 men and women found that although women are just as evasive as men, the latter are much more capable of telling lies.

Song Contradicts Values Of Singer

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mary Magregor's enormously successful song of a woman's love for two men, "Torn Between Two Lovers," has become something of a pop anthem. A sweet-voiced young woman singing of her need for two lovers is unusual stuff, and the ballad became an overnight hit.

But the recording newcomer says the song stands in stark contrast to her own value system, and her identification with the song's theme — an extramarital affair — has her torn between two Mary Magregors.

There's the Mary Magregor who says she "was singing it in tears, this song was really hard for me to do." This is the sweet Mary Magregor of the publicity sheets, a "quiet mountain lady," happily married and content with her 40 acres and brood of dogs.

Then there's the more sophisticated Mary Magregor, a with-it lady who says the song was merely "telling people to be honest with each other." This Mary Magregor is the one who has come to relish her newfound success and has discovered that novelty ballads — especially those that shock — mean big bucks in the pop music business.

The source of Mrs. Magregor's conflict is a simple, catchy love song written by Peter Yarrow (formerly of Peter, Paul and Mary).

What makes the song novel is that it is not an apologetic "I Done My Man Wrong" song, but a young woman's unabashed admission that she has found satisfaction from two lovers, and wants things to stay that way.

"There's been another man that I've needed and I've loved," the song's heroine confesses to her husband, "there's this empty place inside of me that only he can fill."

"What the person in the song is actually saying is, 'I'm sleeping with another man, but I want to have both of you,'" Mary says, a bit nervous in her first interview. She gives her theory of the song's success:

"I think what people like about it is that a lot of people would like that sort of situation to be able to be. I'm sure a lot of people have found themselves in the situation that they're attracted to or have fallen in love with someone else while they're very happily married."

Ah, a touching bit of honesty in popular music, rewarded with lots of airplay and brisk sales. But a few moments of conversation with Mary Macgregor reveals there is at least as much irony and gimmicry as there is honesty behind "Torn Between Two Lovers."

Ran Away At 13, Became Caricaturist In Wood

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — When Gery Austin felt he was man enough, about age 13, he ran away from home. He aimed to put distance between himself and "that damned old starved-out ranch" in West Texas.

That was in the late 1930s. Now, with a skill nicely suited to a droll and mellow view of the human condition, he is trying to recapture what he remembers of the time and the place he fled.

Gery Austin is a carver of wood, a whittler, and what he captures in his carvings is a spirit he fears has vanished from the land, or at least is under siege.

His figures are caricatures. They are skinny, bowlegged, tattered, woebegone. They make you laugh.

"Those were hard times," Gery Austin said. "The people, the ranchers and the hands and their women, they knew they were hard times but it didn't worry them and they didn't whine.

"They were tough, gutty people but didn't think of themselves that way. Instead of whining, they laughed.

"So I make caricatures," he said. "Life is too damned serious to be treated seriously."

Gery Austin is himself somewhat of a caricature.

He is of average height, more than average girth, with a large round head and great mane of graying hair that flows straight back from a narrow forehead to the nape of a wide neck. A billowing white mustache, designed "to hide a mule-made hairlip," commands attention in front. And he smokes Bull Durham.

Is rolling his own cigarettes part of the effort to recapture the Old West?

"No, I've been smoking Bull Durham since I was 8 and there just is no substitute for it."

Eight? Years old?

"Yes. I kept my tobacco hidden in an old stump a mile from the house on a stagnant sump. I'd dog paddle in the scummy sump, then crawl out, sit on the stump smoking and singing.

"My father caught me smoking there one day, cut me across the shoulder with his quirt, yanked me up behind his saddle and trotted to the house. Then he stuck a sack of Durham in my pocket and said, 'Just don't never sneak around to do anything.'"

Whereupon Gery Austin set out to do — everything.

Gery Austin picked turkeys, hoed peas, clerked, swung an eight-pound hammer in a boiler factory, worked as a reporter for several papers, sold advertising, wrote freelance fiction, tended bar, edited a magazine, game wardened, and, finally and proudly, working as a bouncer tossed a senator's son out of a saloon.

Carving wood, obviously, is Gery Austin's ultimate calling since leaving that ranch near San Angelo, Tex. It weds his skill as an artist with his only abiding mistress, the West he once knew.

"These characters I carve are people I knew, many of them my relatives, or else people I heard the old-timers talk about.

"They represent a time and place in which the individual could be himself with the least restrictions. They weren't Good Old Days, don't think that. But they were days when people did what they did on their own. That appeals to me."

County School Lunch Menu

Paul Tardif In Recital Tuesday

A solo piano concert by artist-faculty member Paul Tardif of the School of Music, East Carolina University, will take place at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 15 in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall on campus.

Selections to be performed by Tardif are: Franz Schubert's Sonata in A Major; Variations on a Theme of Corelli, Opus 42 by Sergei Rachmaninoff; Aaron Copland's Piano Sonata; and Frederic Chopin's Polonaise in F Sharp Minor, Opus 44.

A faculty member of ECU since 1971, Tardif has performed extensively in North Carolina and nearby states. Last year he made several performances with the N.C. Symphony.

He has also presented solo recitals at UNC-Chapel Hill, UNC-Wilmington, Meredith College, the N.C. Museum of Art, Raleigh, and the Mint Museum of Art, Charlotte.

In June 1976, Tardif toured the Bahamas and Bermuda with Sydney Harth, current concertmaster and associate conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

There is no admission charge for the recital and the public is invited.

Varsity Band Plays Tonight

The East Carolina University Varsity Band will be in concert at 8 p.m. tonight in Wright Auditorium.

Two works are scheduled to be performed — Holst's Suite In E and Clifton Williams' Symphonic Suite.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Hospitality House

Kay Currie's Hospitality House, a half-hour show today from noon until 12:30 p.m. is featuring the subject of love to honor Valentine Day. The show airs over WITN-TV, Channel 7, Washington.

Taking part in the focus on love are Regis Serruzza and Rev. Odell Walker. Serruzza, artist-in-residence at Beaufort Technical Institute, plays romantic music for the classical guitar; and Walker gives Bibical definitions and meanings on the word love.

Also carrying out the topic is Verna Edwards with a Valentine Cake. She is cake decorator instructor at Beaufort Technical Institute. Today's honor dog is a red Irish setter, Roscoe.

PBS Special - 'The New Indians'

ROCK MUSICIAN — Stephen Tiger, one of four Indians featured in "The New Indians," a National Geographic Special airing Feb. 15' is a member of Florida's Miccosukee Indian tribe.

Indians of the Americas are experiencing a two-fold rennaissance — a revival of their past glories and a growing, coordinated fight for their future.

Amid the destruction and despair of his people a century ago, the great Oglala Sioux holy man, Black Elk, had a vision. The fifth generation, he prophesied, would bring back the strength and the pride of Indian people.

It is now the era of the fifth generation since Oglala — and in The New Indians — the third of a new season of National Geographic Specials .... an attorney, a rock musician, a tribal chief, and a young education counselor revive their ancient heritage and look forward to an exciting future.

The hour long documentary will be aired over PBS at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 15 (Channel 25, Greenville — Channel 2, Columbia) with a repeat airing at 9 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19.

The quartet of Indians on whom the documentary focues are James Sewid, a chief of the Kwakiutl Tribe living along the coastal waters off British Columbia in Canada; Claudeen Arthur, a woman Navajo lawyer; Stephen Tiger, artist and rock musician, a member of the Miccosukee Tribe in the Florida Everglades; and Susan Supernaw of Chicago, a Creek Indian and education counselor.

Written by Freida Lee Mock, Terry Sanders, and Arthur Bramble, the show is photographed by Eric Daarstad, with Dennis B. Kane and Thomas Skinner directing. Host is E. G. Marshall and narration is by actor Robert Redford.

The production is a joint effort of the National Geographic Society and PBS station WQED-Pittsburgh, a national production center. Gulf Oil Corporation provided a grant to fund the making of The New Indians.

New York Trip Slated

The N.C. Symphony, which will make its Carnegie Hall debut on March 9, is sponsoring a trip to New York in conjunction with the concert. The three-day trip is open to all North Carolinians.

The tour is priced at $209 with tickets available until Feb 18. For more information, contact Circle Tours, PO Box 12318, Research Triangle Park, N.C. 27709.

Art Entry Date

Entries for the Sixteenth Hunter Annual painting and drawing competition sponsored by the Hunter Museum of Art in Chattanooga, Tenn., are to be accepted Feb. 18 through 27..

Information and entry forms are available from Hunter Museum of Art, Bluff View, Chattanooga, Tenn. 37403.

Stitchery Art Show A Marvel Of Needlework

THE RICH POSSIBILITIES...of needleart are evident in this detail from a circular tapestry by Ruth Patterson of Greenville, one of many pieces now on view at the Greenville Art Center.

Anyone planning to take in "The Joy Of Stitchery" show currently on view at the Greenville Art Center (until March 1) should be warned in advanced to allot at least half an hour to devote to seeing all the good things there. This is not beginning hobby kit display.

Pieces in this crammed-in tight show range from the acceptably good to superb needleart of museum quality — from antique quilts dating back as far as 1840 to works finished just before the deadline for the show.

Techniques employed for the stitchery art include canvas embroidery (better known as needlepoint), crewel embroidery, pulled thread work, bargello (work done on canvas in a series of vertical stitches), counted cross stitch, lace work, crochet, and applique work.

Items in the show are even more diverse than the types of stitchery represented. Pillows, quilts, bedspreads (applique and crochet), wall samplers, footstools, chair bottoms, table covers, bell pulls, wall tapestries, napkins, are but some of the many things on view.

"The Joy of Stitchery" is presented by the North Carolina Chapter of The Embroiderer's Guild of America. The Greenville chapter was founded five years ago, with Louise Downing instrumental in its formation. Carole Bowman is the current president of the Greenville chapter.

Co-chairpersons for the show are Blanche Monroe, Pat Reep and Dixie Ray.

Contributors to the show are from Greenville, Farmville, Kinston and other places in North Carolina.

Joy is a good word to apply to this show. Though its appeal might be fundamentally to the homemaker, the quality of the needlework is so exceptional that men, art students, and children will all find something to give them a marked sense of viewing pleasure.

A Fabulous, Lusty History Book

Hyde County History. Sponsored by Bicentennial Committee, Hyde County Historical Society and Hyde County Board of Commissioners. Large format, hard covers, 499 pp., illustrated. $25.00.

(Also available in five separate sections, in soft covers at $7.00 each — Currituck, Fairfield, Lake Landing, Ocracoke, and Swan Quarter.

(Make checks payable to: Hyde County Historical Society, Publishing Fund. Order from: Mrs. R. L. Mann, Jr.' Rt. l, Box 84, Fairfield, N. C. 27816.)

It shouldn't have worked, but it did. Here is a literary Bicentennial literary effort that surely encompasses every fact, figure, statistic, tale and legend imaginable, a diverse potpourri assembled into a three and one-quarter pound publication complete with hundreds of old photographs of varying quality.

The end result, by any stretch of imagination, should have been a colossal failure.

Instead, Hyde County History is a splendid success, a book totally alive in every spectrum of history that has ever touched the land and lives of this rural, coastal county covering both mainland and Outer Banks areas.

Consider these brief excerpts from a few of the many vignettes on Hyde's personalities of the past — ones written in a vivid, colloquial style that adds considerably to the book's charm:

— Miss Hettie Spencer, wife of Negro minister Rev. Solmon Spencer. — "A neighbor, describing her actions about ten years ago, said 'Even though the years were in the 1960's' she was uniquely dressed in the latest fashions of the 1920's. Her lips were painted a rosy red, her hands were gloved, she wore a hat and a fur coat, and carried a cane....'"

— Or this — On June 25, 1794, an irate Thomas Blount (Philadelphia) wrote his brother John Gray Blount in arguing about the choice of a figurehead for a brigatine belonging to the family. Thomas wrote he was sorry that John Gray has such an "aversion to Women .... or the figurehead should have been of the Masculine gender." John Gray won, for the ship was christened The Tuley.

— One present-day Hyde citizen, writing about an unnamed ancestor, relates: "He worked hard and was usually a highly moral man. But every season as soon as he 'got his corn in' he would buy a barrel of whiskey and go on a binge that would put moderns to shame.." This ancestor, once being taken home over the shoulders of his faithful hired man, roused himself sufficiently to bite the hired man's ear off. "Folks shook their said and said 'He is a good boy. It's a pity he drinks.'"

— Then there was Mrs. Mirandy Neal, fortune teller and healer, who used an unorthodox, if forthright treatment to heal a man who reputedly had not walked for several years. The man was placed on her kitchen table. Mrs. Neal entered the room, brandishing a large butcher knife. "You big ——— I'm going to cut your throat!' she yelled. The cripple "jumped from the table and fled at full speed."

Not all Hyde county personalities were, of course, as flamboyant as those cited above.

And interesting as they are, people are merely one of literally dozens of facets covered in this fascinating book.

True stories of exciting adventures abound, such as that of Captain Horatio Williams, master of the schooner Paragon. Determined that the Yankees would never seize and use his vessel, he took his crew and slipped through the blockade at Charleston, sailed north and entered the Roanoke River. He sank his schooner at a point below Williamston and after the war recovered it and soon restored it to use.

Histories of churches reveal ones with names like Faithful Hannah Baptist Church, Lilly of the Valley Church' and Englehard Deliverance Center as well as more conventional church names.

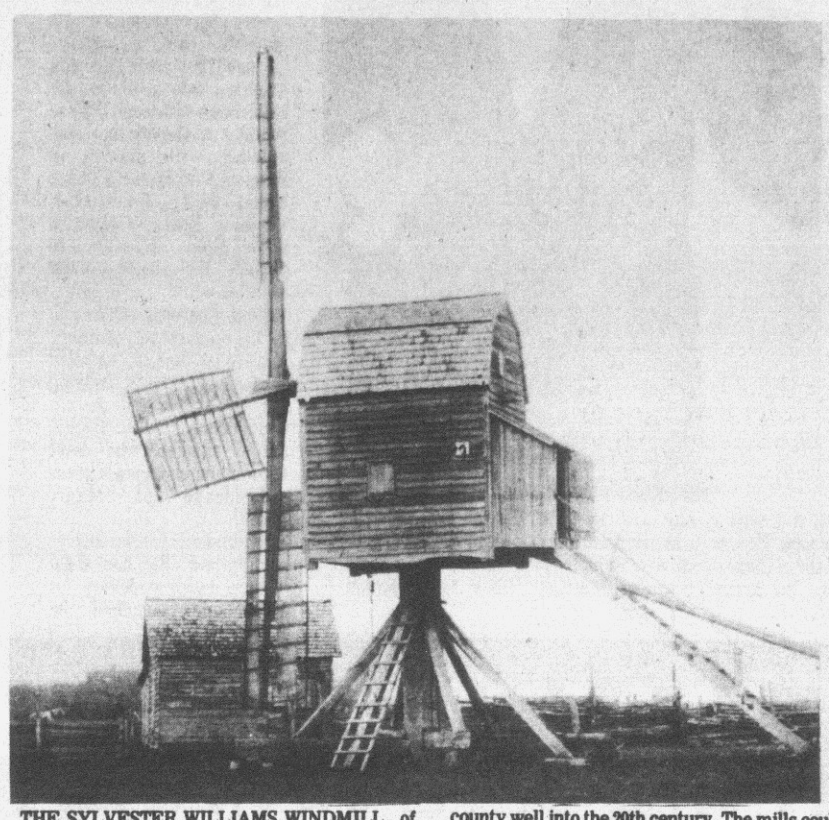

Articles on the rise and fall of businesses; fishing and fishermen; private and public schools; resumes of early vegetable crop farming and the emergence of the miracle bean, the soybean; the history of canal cutting; of communities that once flourished but no longer exist, including one that sank six inches following the Charleston earthquake; Indians of the area — The Mattamuskeets — their known leaders, customs and mounds; land deeds and histories of fine old homes — all these are part of the total mosaic of a richly and fully presented history.

Today's readers will be enchanted by names like Peleage Spencer, Bannister and America Midyett, Louisanna Boomer Jennette; and the numerous instances of unusual first names — Octavius, Israel, Calib, Enoch and Zachariah.

Rosters of men who fought in the Revolutionary War, the War of 1812, and the Civil War; stories of hurricanes and shipwrecks on Ocracoke; windmills and ponies; quiltings and hangings— they are all here, a few familiar, most not well known, each lovingly described in full, satisfying detail.

A person need have no ties to Hyde County to relish every page and picture in this big, lusty, sweeping history. It is a model of what a Bicentennial history book should be, a book to keep by the bedside, on the dining room table, in the car — anyplace as it's one you'll not want to put aside until every word has been read at least once and every map and photograph leisurely examined.

THE SYLVESTER WILLIAMS WINDMILL...of the "New Land" area of Hyde County was one of a number of wooden windmills in existence in the county well into the 20th century. The mills could grind 20 to 40 bushels of corn daily.

FROM SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

By LINDA M. STANCILL

Plan now for Spring with the variety of gardening books now available.

Whether you're planning a new garden, restoring a neglected one, looking for ways to easier gardening or just hoping to squeeze every ounce of pleasure out of your plot, DOWN TO EARTH GARDENING is your kind of book. Violet Stevenson presents good ideas for surrounding yourself with beauty the year round. She gives practical help too for putting ground cover plants to good use, making water garden and rock garden features, growing herbs and shrub roses, and fruits and vegetables of the most useful kinds. She also gives advice on simple plant propagation, pruning of both fruit trees, bushes and ornamental shrubs, compost making and pest, disease and week control.

The beginner as well as the experienced garderner will welcome Roger Grounds' GROW YOUR OWN VEGETABLES. Grounds tells you how to plan your vegetable garden, explains why you need to rotate your crops, and tells you about the tools you need. He discusses your soil, what it will grow and how you can improve it, and the limitations of climate and how to overcome them. GROW YOUR OWN VEGETABLES covers everything from selecting the plants and preparing the soil to harvesting and storing the crop.

In SUCCESSFUL GARDENING WITH PERENNIALS, Helen Van Pelt Wilson tells how to select and grow more than 500 kinds for today's yard and garden. A garden authority's complete and up-to-date guide,this invaluable book for the home gardener offers a multitude of ideas for using perennials alone or with other plants to achieve a year-round display of flowers and foliage.

BULBS FOR THE HOME GARDENER by Bebe Mills covers more than 300 bulbs that bloom in every season of the year. A successful bulb gardener for many years, Mills has condensed all the basics of successful bulb culture into this indispensable guide. All aspects of bulb gardening are considered: planting details, bulb diseases and pest control, propagation, mulching and plant sources. Colorfully illustrated, this authoritative guide depicts bulbs as the most rewarding group of plants available to the home gardener.

Composers' Symposium

The second North Carolina State Composers' Symposium will be held at the Salem College Library Feb. 18 through 20. The symposium is funded by grants from the N.C. Arts Council with the aid of the National Endowment for the Arts and the Mary Reynolds Babcock Foundation. Ms. Ann Listokin is the symposium director.

Initiated last year by Ms. Listokin and Ms. Margaret V. Sandresky, both of the Salem College music faculty, the program will offer a weekend of coneerts, workshops and music readings.

Composers scheduled to participate include Otto Henry, East Carolina University; Roger Hannay and Thomas Brosh, UNC-Chapel Hill; Ms. Donna Robertson, Mars Hill College; Ross Albert and Marvin Lamb, Atlantic Christian College; Thomas Turner, UNC-Charlotte; Art Hunkins, Eddie Bass, and Roman Lavore, UNC-Greensboro; Jay Williams, N.C. State University; Charles Fussell of the N.C. School of the Arts, WinstonSalem; Ms. Annette LeSiege, Wake Forest University; and Ms. Listokin and Ms. Sandresky of Salem College.

Two State Composers concerts are scheduled to be held in Shirley Recital Hall at the Salem Fine Arts Center. Both concerts, as well as other events during the two days, are open free of charge to the public. The two concerts are at 8 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 18 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19.

A Brief Encounter Rich In Compassion

Smithsburg. By Michael Brondoli. Drawings by Mary Heath. Philadelphia and Providence. Treacle Press. 48 pps. $1.50 paperback. $6.00 cloth (limited, signed edition of 50 copies).

In the years following World War I, American expatriates flocking to Paris, Rome and Berlin provided the presses of the world with spicy copy; and along the way a number of them — writers, artists and musicians, found foreign soil the catalyst needed to bring their talents to fruition.

Restless Americans in post-World War II and post Vietnam still seek whatever it is in far away places that might trigger a creative outflow. Only now instead of congregating to a few favorite places in Europe, they are likely to be found — in small groups or as loners — in places as far-flung as Kabul, Machupicchu, Rangoon, Shiraz or Istanbul.

It is Istanbul that is the setting of Mike Brondoli's brief book (really a short story in book form) about the encounter of the narrator, Russ, with a dying youth, Mehtin.

In Smithsburg the teeming Turkish city becomes an Oriental backyard where the ghost of the great American Negro blues singer Bessie Smith — in the form of old phonograph records overheard — leads Russ to discover Mehtin.

Brondoli's slender story is sensitively wrought in the compelling language of a young writer not chained to whatever "in" style of writing is popular and financially rewarding at the moment.

Describing Mehtin as Russ first sees him, Brondoli writes .... "He looked delicate, Persian, in his bone structure and eyes. He had straight black hair like fibers of plastic cut even around his head .... Of course he wasn't right. He was one hurting human being."

And when Mehtin has been temporarily restored by the demon needle .... "I could see deliverance crowding into his face and brain and body like millions of tiny angels flying all through him. His muscles unraveled."

This is not a story glorifying the youthful drug culture. Rather it is a powerful indictment speaking volumes in few words.

Only a writer with exceptional talent could make memorable a storyline as nebulous as the fleeting one-day encounter between an expatriate and a drug-ruined youth.

The action is simplified, low-keyed. Russ takes Mehtin on a rowing trip to hear Turkish music coming from cafes on islands, vibrating across stretches of water. They return. In parting Russ tells Mehtin: "You can watch me as I disappear into the shadows under that bridge. I'll be gone, you can trust me."

And so, the tale ends. But it's one that lingers, an experience in human compassion that will long stick to the memory.

Jerry Raynor

Editor's Note: Michael Brondoli is a graduate of Duke University. The 28 year old writer in 1975 lived for a time in Turkey. Currently he's wintering (for inspiration and because of the off-season savings) at Nags Head, and works as a bartender in a Manteo club. Brondoli is putting the finishing touches to a novel about eastern North Carolina, tentatively titled Dumb Supper.

Hope For Gifted Writers

The Treacle Press in Philadelphia is another encouraging experiment in the growing wave of efforts to open up new publishing sources for gifted writers who cannot break into the marketplaces of commercial publishers.

The best way to explain the purpose of this press, which is operating through the receipt of a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, is to quote from a recent letter from Bruce R. McPherson, editor and publisher of Treacle, which at this time specializes in short fiction published in book form as "The Treacle Story Series."

"The series grew from a story-reading series....in Providence," McPherson writes. "The idea of the Story Series is to present exemplary works of short fiction to demonstrate the variety and vitality of writing presently practiced, and to provide a place for the publication of as many writers — young and old, known and unknown — as possible (particularly since there are so few commercial magazines these days to fulfill this function). My concern is with quality, and this extends to the production of the books themselves. At the same time, Treacle is non-commercial; that is, I'm not looking to support myself from this activity, but at best to develop the Story Series to eventually become self-supporting."

To date, four books of short fiction have been published (as well as a few titles of poetry and a special three-art portolio Love Is Weal, Love Is Woe by Jaimy Gordon. Readers interested in purchasing a copy of Brondoli,s Smithsburg or any of the other available titles should order from: Treacle Press, 4625 Cedar Avenue, Philadelphia, Pa. 19143. On request, a catalog of titles available will be sent free of charge.

ECU Student Is An Occasional Evening Magician

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau

Most days he is Bill Robinson, a spectacled, sandy-haired freshman at East Carolina University. But on occasional evenings he dons a tuxedo and top hat and becomes "Daemeon Markos," professional magician, who can whip silk scarves from nowhere and pull ordinary coins from someone's ear.

PICK A CARD — any card, for ECU student magician Bill Robinson. Here he is shown performing a bit of conjuring with the Ace of Clubs. A native of Hampton, Va., Bill does magic acts under the name "Daemeon Markos." (ECU News Bureau Photo).

This transformation is the result of serious study and practice, and fulfills a lifelong dream for Bill Robinson.

Now 19 years old, Bill recalls his first interest in magic began in early childhood, when he avidly watched the Saturday morning TV show, Magic Land Of Alakazam, featuring magician Mark Wilson.

"Mark Wilson inspired me to try some magic of my own, and when I was 12 years old, I auditioned my magic act for a local talent show. Unfortunately, they thought my magic was 'too obvious' so I played the piano instead."

For the most part, Bill's ambition lay dormant until the summer of 1975 when it was rekindled by a fellow student, who demonstrated a few magic effects on campus.

"My real interest in magic dates from then," he said.

Since that time Bill has acquired quite a few magic skills himself through intense reading and study and consulting with practicing magicians in the area of his hometown, Hampton, Virginia. Hours of practice have been necessary to perfect his sleight-of-hand abilities.

He has become well known for his magic in his dormitory and around the ECU School of Music, where he is studying for degrees in music education and music theory; fellow students who don't know his name know him as "Mandrake" or "Magic Man."

In pursuit of competence as a magician, Bill has spent several hundred dollars for books and equipment, including stage magic props. This is only a beginning, he says.

"A recently-marketed levitation effect cost about $1,600," he said ruefully. "A simple head cabinet (through which knives are thrust, apparently into a person's head) costs $60."

Because of the high cost of equipment needed for working most stage magic, Bill has concentrated on "close-up" magic, which he performs at parties and other entertainments. Most close-up magic involves small objects — sponge balls, playing cards, matches, coins and short lengths of rope.

"Close-up magic is really the epitome of magic, because the magician has to create illusions right under his audience's noses," he said. "This is a real test of skill."

The elements of good magicianship all rest upon the creation of illusion, and a magician has to have style and personality besides the mere ability to create effects.

One of Bill's favorite magic processes involves "divination." He boasts to his audience, "I am expert in astrology," and invites up to 12 persons to write their zodiac signs on slips of paper to be shuffled in a hat. He then matches each written sign with the person it belongs to.

Though the audience doesn't realize it, a good deal of the effect of such magic as this depends upon how it is presented. Performing the actual operation is but part of it; divination is successful only if the magician is able to convince others that he is all-seeing and all-knowing.

Types of magic as categorized by author Henning Nelms in Magic and Showmanship are numerous, and Bill is proficient in most of them. These include "production" (pulling rabbits or other objects from a hat), "vanishes" (making anything disappear, from coins to live persons), "transportation" (making objects seem to move invisibly from one place to another) and "transformation" (causing an object to change in color or physical structure).

"Invulnerability" magic ranges from the the daring escapes made famous by the late Harry Houdini to sticking pins in ordinary balloons without making them pop.

Besides developing as a tuxedo-and-top-hat magician, Bill plans to work up a series of "fire magic" routines. For this type of magic he will probably dress as a medieval wizard or sorcerer.

The Middle Ages is Bill's favorite era of the past, and he has re-enacted the role of medieval wizard at meetings of the "Society for Creative Anachronisms," an association of persons who adopt medieval customs and dress and who are governed nationally and locally through "kingdoms," "baronies," "cantons," and other feudal systems.

As a wizard or warlock, Bill wears a long black robe and performs acts of legerdemain which were known to medieval magicians.

But whether he wears classic tuxedo or medieval robe, Bill Robinson foresees magic as a lifelong avocation to which his music studies can be applied. Most professional magicians rely on specially-timed musical arrangements or original compositions to intensify suspense and effect during their acts. Some even perform with live bands.

Meanwhile Bill is continuing to practice his magic during his free hours, and will soon become a member of two important magician's organizations: the International Brotherhood of Magicians and the Society of American Magicians.

Like most magicians, amateur and professional, Bill does not reveal how his illusions are created.

"A person who really wants to know should become a magician," he said.

"If an operation is explained in detail, you would see how simple it really is, and the 'magic' would be lost."

Mountie Free Throws Edge Pirates

BOONE — It was another cry of "foul" from the East Carolina Pirates last night as they again fell victim to a team they beat from the floor.

As has happened so many times this year, the Pirates beat Appalachian State University from the floor, 52-48. But when the free throws were added in, the Mountaineers had gained a 63-60 win.

Overall, Appalachian had a chance to score 36 free throws, but could make good on just 15 of those, and that kept it close. The Pirates had eight out of a total chance of 13.

Both teams were bothered by poor shooting, and turnovers didn't help any either. Neither team hit over 33 per cent in the first half, but both improved in the second half. The Pirates finished with a 44.0 percentage from the floor, and hit 72.7 per cent from the line. Appalachian State made 42.1 per cent of its field goals, and 48.3 per cent of its foul shots.

The wildest call of all however, came when Pirate Radio Network color man Lee Moore had a technical called against him. Moore gave umpire Leroy Pasco the "choke sign" following a controversial call, and Pasco, after finding out who Moore was, slapped the tech on East Carolina.

Overall, 31 personal fouls were recorded against the Pirates, while just 19 were whistled against Appalachian.

The Pirates held a slim rebound edge, 44-41, with Larry Hunt pulling off 11 and Herb Gray, 8.

"I guess it just ain't meant to me," Coach Dave Patton said. "We played well enough to win, but we missed a couple of shots and free throws right at the end, and that was the story."

"These guys deserve better, and it's a real shame that they don't get better. I feel sorry for them."

Patton added that it was the fourth loss in a row in which the Pirates have outhit or tied their opponent from the floor, but have been defeated at the foul line.

The loss insured Appalachian State of a home court berth in the tournament, and also insured the Bucs of not only an away trip for the tournament's first round, but also for a losing record during the regular season.

East Carolina gained an early five-point lead, moving out to a 10-5 margin as Jim Ramsey hit three straight shots. The Mountaineers were able to take the lead for the first time on a baseline jumper by Al Gentry with 11 minutes to go at 15-14. The Pirates got it back on a jumper by Louis Crosby, however, and although it was tied on several more occasions, the Bucs held it until Mark Campbell hit a basket with 2:45 remaining for a 26-24 lead. Kyle Powers made two free throws to tie it up, however, 26-26, and that held until the end of the half.

Herb Gray put the Bucs into a 28-26 lead early in the second half, and again, the Pirates were able to push out by five points, 40-35, on a jumper by Powers.

But Mel Hubbard scored from underneath, and Gentry scored on a three-point play to tie it at 42-42. Walter Anderson scored with 9:25 to play, putting the Mountaineers ahead again, 45-44, and they were able to build their own five-point lead, 49-44, before the Pirates struggled back, tieing it twice before gaining a 55-53 lead on a jumper by Gray.

Another three point play, this one by Bobby Pace tied it at 59-59 with 2:24 remaining. Herb Krusen made a free throw with 1:37 to go, but the Pirates did not score again.

Anderson hit a jumper with 45 seconds to go for a 61-60 edge, and with 21 seconds remaining, he added two free throws for the final three-point margin.

Anderson led the ASU scoring with 22 points, while Pace had 11 and Hubbard had 10.

Hunt led the Pirate scoring with 21 points, while Crosby added 10.

The Bucs play their final regular season road game of the year on Monday, traveling to Statesboro, Ga., to meet Georgia Southern, Patton's alma mater.

Massengale Moves Out To Six Stroke Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Rik Massengale, a front-runner all the way, built his round on an eagle-birdie burst, shot a 70 and established a commanding six-stroke lead Saturday in the fourth round of the five-day, 90-hole, $200,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

The soft-spoken Massengale played well out of the way of the happily shouting, shoving, milling mob of about 20,000 that followed former President Gerald Ford. Massengale compiled a 72-hole total of 270, a whopping 18 under par for one round over each of the four desert courses used for this, the longest tournament the touring pros play all season.

A deeply frustrated Bruce Lietzke, who has chased Massengale throughout the tournament, could do no better than a round of par 72 on the 6,911-yard La Quinta Country Club course and fell from four strokes back to six behind at 276.

Lietzke, suddenly one of the game's brightest stars with two victories to his credit this season and an unbroken string of 25 consecutive rounds at par or better, admitted he had "very little confidence going into the last round.

"Rik is playing awfully good golf," said the 25-year-old Lietzke, whose round required 36 putts from his cross-handed style. "All I can do is try to play my own game, throw some birdies at him and hope he makes a mistake. But he hasn't made any yet and the way he's playing it looks a little doubtful that he will."

Lietzke and Massengale, along with Ford and his partners, pro Billy Casper, host Bob Hope and Jackie Gleason, all played at La Quinta, which will be the site of Sunday's pros-only final round.

Massengale, however, played on the opposite nine from the incredible gallery that followed the presidential foursome through the bright, warm desert sun that sent temperatures near the 90 degree mark. Lietzke played will in front of the premier group.

"It was a very enjoyable round of golf," said Casper, who had a 74. "The president had four or five pars, helped his team on four of five holes."

Amateurs are required to pick up when they're out of a hole, so no individual scores are kept.

Australian rookie Bob Shearer came on with a five-under-par 67 at Indian Wells and tied Lietzke for second at 12 under par.

Veteran Gay Brewer had a 72 at Tamarisk and was next at 277. Hubert Green, with a 72 at La Quinta, and Charles Coody, 67 at Bermuda Dunes, followed at 278.

Five-time winner Arnold Palmer shot a 74 and was well back at 284. South African Gary Player, in his first appearance of the year in this country, was 70—279.

Johnny Miller, who won this event the last two years, rallied for a 71 that was too little, too late. He finished with a 292 total and, for the third time in his last three starts, failed to qualify for the final round. The cutoff figure was 291.

Massengale, who has enjoyed a lead of a minumum three strokes since his opening 64, was even with par for the day when he went to the tee on the fifth hole, his 14th hole of the day.

He hit his tee shot off a tree and it caromed into the rough near another tree. He broke his four wood on the tree with his follow through coming out, but rifled the shot to within 12-15 feet of the hole and dropped the putt for an eagle 3.

"It was 230 yards and I knew I could reach the green," said Massengale, who has won one tournament each of the last two seasons. "I just hope I can get the club fixed. It's one you need on this course."

He reached the next one, also a par five, in two big shots and two-putted for a birdie, then lost a stroke with a three-putt on his 16th hole.

Pirate Matmen Down Monarchs

NORFOLK, Va. — The East Carolina wrestling team, seeking to rebound from a tough loss to N. C. State, dominated the Old Dominion Monarchs in gaining an easy 37-4 victory.

John Welborn's team gained an early advantage, when John Koenigs took the 118-pound match by forfeit, giving the Pirates a 6-0 lead.

ODU managed to briefly close the gap, as Terry Kretz won a 16-5 decision from Charlie McGimsey. That cut the lead to 6-4, ECU.

Paul Osman then extended his unbeaten streak to 19, as he captured an 11-7 victory over James Davenport.

ECU's lead was increased as Tim Gaghan won a 5-0 decision over the Monarchs' Eric Webb. That gave the Pirates a 12-5 lead.

Frank Schaede then gave the Bucs their second straight shutout, as he took an 8-0 win over Joe Patykula.

Steve Goode, wrestling for ECU at 150, picked up the team's fourth straight decision, downing Tim Davidson, 10-0.

Phil Mueller clinched the win for East Carolina as his opponent, Hank O'Toole, defaulted. That gave the Bucs an insurmountable 25-4 lead.

To wrap up the match, Jay Dever, John Williams and D. T. Joyner captured superior decisions. That raised the final score to East Carolina 37, Old Dominion 4.

Welbourn was pleased with the win, saying, "I thought the guys came back off the loss to State very well. It is always tough to face another team on its own territory, but our guys came through." The win raised the Pirates" record to 7-3 on the year.

Summary:

118: John Koenigs (ECU) won by forfeit.
126: Terry Kratz (ODU) dec. Charlie McGimsey, 16-5.

Heavyweight: D. T. Joyner dec. Randy Payne, 11-1.

ODU In Win

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Wilson Washington and Jeff Fuhrmann scored six points each as Old Dominion's Monarchs jumped out to a 13-6 lead and posted their 17th consecutive victory Saturday night with a 71-63 basketball decision over Virginia's Cavaliers.

Washington, who was nine of 11 from the floor, finished with 19 points even though he picked up his fourth foul with 15 minutes left, and Fuhrmann had 14 points as Old Dominion ran its record to 20-2.

After the Monarchs' early burst, the closest Virginia got was 13-12. Old Dominion built its lead to 28-23 at intermission and had a 49-35 buldge midway the second half after a six-point spree.

Freshman Ronnie Valentine, who got his fourth foul with 11:42 left, had 13 points and 10 rebounds for the Monarchs, who hit 21 of 27 from the foul line to five of 13 for the Cavaliers.

Ford Paces Carolina Past Tulane, 106-94

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Twelfth-ranked North Carolina's Phil Ford scored 21 first half points and finished with 30 to spark the Tar Heel to a 106-94 basketball win over Tulane Saturday.

North Carolina, working without the services of injured Olympian Tommy LaGarde and top reserve Tom Krafcisin, received ample performances from Mike O'Koren and Walter Davis, who scored 16 points each and reserve Rich Yonakor, who scored 15 points.

The Tar Heels moved to 17-4 on the season.

Jeff Cummings led Tulane scoring with 26. Pierre Gaudin had 18, Carlos Zuniga 15 and Marc Fletcher 12. The Green Wave dropped to 9-12 on the season.

Tulane put the first score of the game on the board and never had the lead again. With 15:59 remaining in the first half and the score knotted at 9-9, North Carolina outscored the Green Wave 23-7 to take a commanding 32-15 with 10:19 remaining in the half.

Tulane, led by Cummings and Gaudin fought back to within seven points at 45-38 with 2:15 left before intermission.

Davis led the two fastbreaks in the closing seconds of the first half to extend the Tar Heel lead to 50-43 margin at the buzzer.

In the second half, the Tulane comeback effort was fruitless. The Greenwave got no closer than seven the entire half, trailing 62-55 with 16:11 to go. The Tar Heels quickly extended that margin to 15 at 76-61 with 12:59 remaining. At that point, Coach Dean Smith began subsituting liberally.

Tulane cut the margin back down to eight, 80-72, with 10:07 remaining. With the starters back on the floor, the Tar Heels stretched the margin to 16 points leading 102-86 with 2:48 remaining in the game. O'Koren led the second half scoring with 14 points.

North Carolina shot 55.6 per cent for the game, compared to Tulane's 45.9. But Tulane outrebounded the Tar Heels 43-40.

Ford connected on eight of 12 first half shots and in the second half he led the fastbreak and handed out six assists.

Deacons Ease Past Wolfpack

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Sixth-ranked Wake Forest, led by Skip Brown with 30 points, fought back from a 17-point second half deficit Saturday night to defeat North Carolina State 84-77 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

The Deacons trailed 59-42 with 17:27 remaining in the game, but at the 11:12 mark they put outscored the Wolfpack 28-7 down the stretch to claim the victory for an 8-2 conference mark and a 19-3 record overall. Brown scored 12 of his points in the final nine minutes.

Wake Forest went ahead for good 75-74 on an inside jump shot by Rod Griffin at the 5:19 mark. Griffin and Frank Johnson followed Brown in scoring with 14 points each.

Kenny Carr led the scoring charge for the Wolfpack with 21 points, followed by Charles "Hawkeye" Whitney with 19, and Clyde Austin with 18. The loss dropped the Wolfpack to a 4-4 mark in the conference and a 14-8 record overall.

North Carolina State led the rebounding slightly 39-36 in the fast-paced contest. Wake Forest held the shooting edge with a 52 per cent mark from the floor to 45 per cent for the Wolfpack.

'One Of My Biggest Wins,' Lefty Gloats

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland, a 93-71 loser to 15th-ranked Clemson on the road last month, upset the Tigers 84-78 Saturday in what Coach Lefty Driesell called "one of the biggest wins in my career."

The Terps were given a day off from practice Thursday, after being blown out by North Carolina Wednesday night 97-70, but the entire team worked out on its own.

"When you get beat badly by a team," Driesel said, "if you've got anything to you, you want to pay them back."

Clemson's Wayne "Tree" Rollins, who destroyed Maryland last time with 22 points and 23 rebounds, was held to 10 points and 12 rebounds Saturday while being guarded by the rugged Mike Davis.

Rollins did most of his damage in the first game against Larry Gibson, when Davis played as a substitute, but he was on the losing end of a physical battle this time.

"I guess whoever bumps the hardest wins," said Davis, who equaled his career high of 16 points and grabbed 10 rebounds before fouling out with 7:34 remaining.

Freshman guard Jo Jo Hunter scored a career-high 24 points as the Terps ended Clemson's seven-game winning streak, sealing the victory by converting six consecutive one-and-one free throw situat ons in the closing minutes.

The Terps, now 16-6 including 5-4 in the ACC, led by as much as 14 points in the first half and then had a 12-point advantage trimmed to 70-64 with 4:50 remaining.

Brad Davis made Maryland's only field goal while playing ball control the rest of the way, and also added six points while converting half of his team's bonus foul shot chances.

Davis finished with 14 points, the same number as Larry Gibson, who was blanked in the previous Clemson game. Center Mike Davis scored 16 before fouling out with 7:34 left.

Greg Coles scored 18 for Clemson, which is now 18-4 with a 6-3 ACC mark. Colin Abraham scored 16 but Wayne "Tree" Rollins, who had 22 points and 23 rebounds last time, was held to 10.

Bucs Capture Two Events

RALEIGH — East Carolina University's track team posted victories in two of five events run off Saturday afternoon in the Wolfpack Invitational Indoor Track Meet at Raleigh.

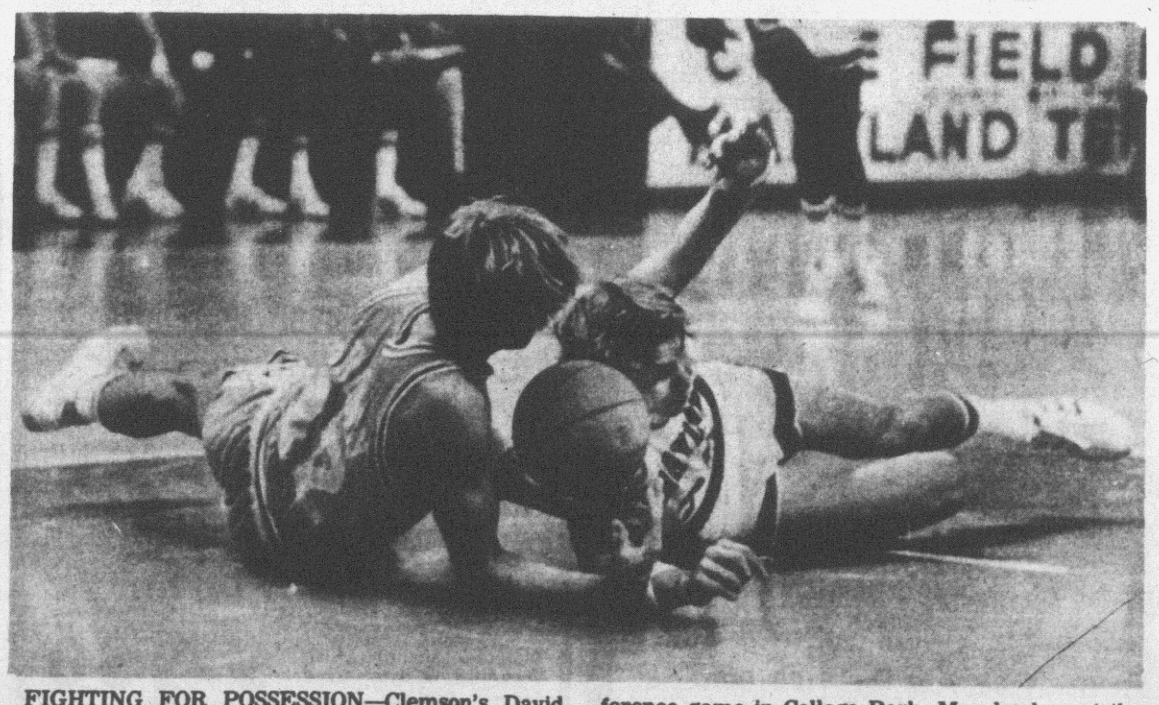

Mike Hodge won the long jump with a track record leap, while Herman McIntyre captured the triple jump.

Hodge captured his victory with a lead of 23 feet, 3¾ inches. The old record was held by teammate Billy Etchison with a lead of 23 feet, 2¾ inches, set back in December. Etchison finished second in the event Saturday with a jump of 23 feet, 2⅞ inches, while George Jackson took fourth for the Pirates at 22 feet, 8¼ inches.

Tom Watson took fifth place in the shot put with a heave of 49 feet, 10 inches for the Bucs.

McIntyre won the triple jump, soaring 50 feet, 2¾ inches. Jackson was fourth at 49-2¾, while Hodge finished fifth at 47-4¾.

More events were run off Saturday night.

Conference Tournaments Open In Three Area Leagues Monday

Tournament play opens on three fronts among area basketball teams Monday, involving three different conferences.

Both of the area 3-A leagues, the Eastern Carolina and the Northeastern, hold their tournament during the coming week, as does the 1-A Beaufort-Hyde-Martin league.

The Division I 4-A tournament is still a week away, played as a district tournament, while the 2-A Eastern Plains Conference is not having a tourney this year, but will automatically send its four top teams into the District event.

The Eastern Carolina play begins Monday at North Pitt. Three games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The finals, involving two games, will be played Friday night.

Top-seeded Farmville Central will open the girls tournament at 5:30 p.m. Monday, meeting Greene Central, while the North Lenoir girls take on Ayden-Grifton in the third game of the evening. The two winners meet Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

Also in the girls' bracket, Charles B. Aycock meets Conley in the second game Tuesday, with North Pitt taking on Southern Nash in the second Wednesday game. The two winners meet on Thursday in the third game of the night.

The finals will be Friday at 6:30 p.m.

In the boys' division, North Pitt, the top-seeded team meets Greene Central in Monday's second game. Farmville Central and Southern Nash meet in the first game on Tuesday. The winner of that meets the winner of the North Pitt-Greene Central game Wednesday in the third game.

Ayden-Grifton and C.B. Aycock meet in Tuesday's third game, while Conley and North Lenoir collide in the first Wednesday game. The two survivors play Thursday in the second game.

Friday's finals will be at 8 p.m.

The Northeastern Conference tournaments, involving Williamston, get underway Monday night. Top-seeded Washington gets a bye, and the rest of the league plays at the higher-seeded teams sites on Monday in the boys' bracket.

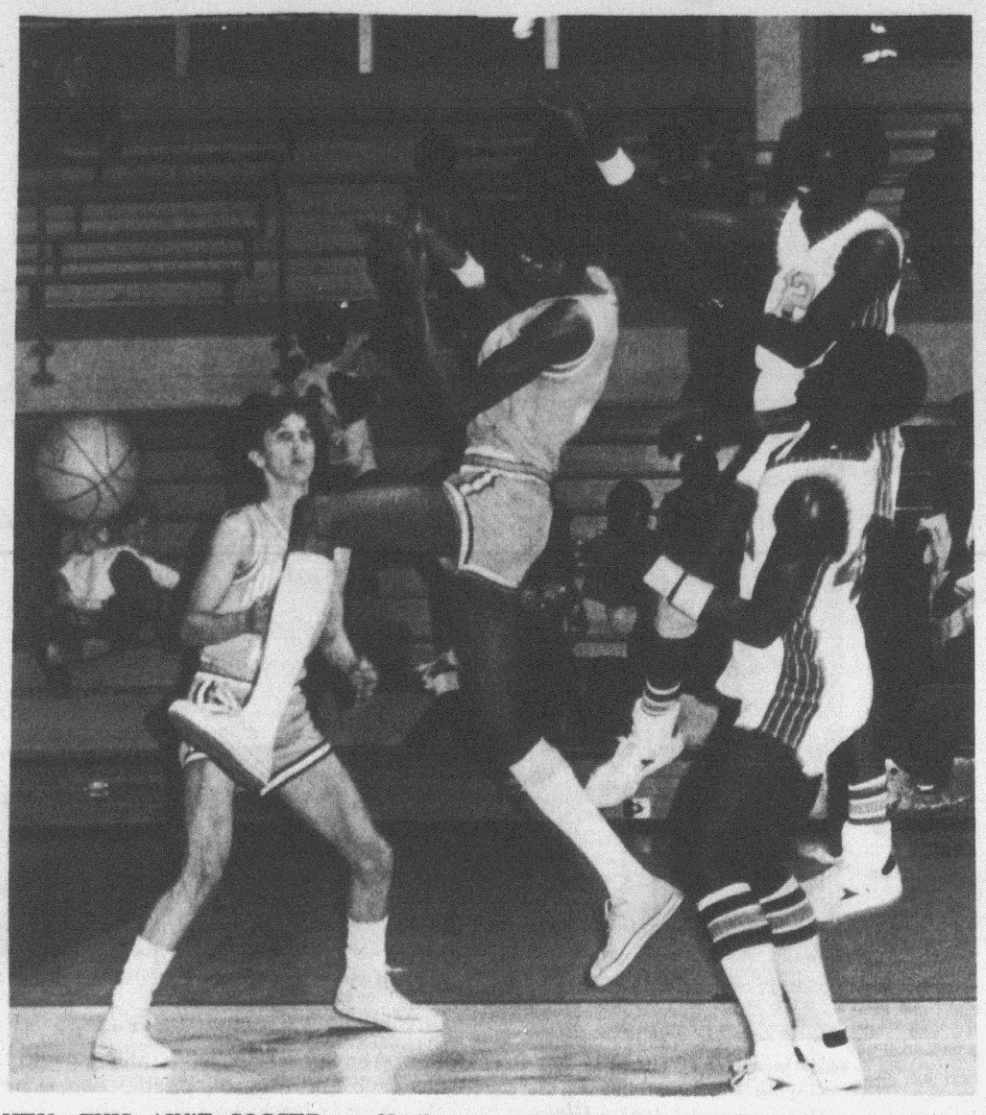

Roanoke Rapids hosts Edenton for the right to meet Washington, while Tarboro entertains Ahoskie, and Plymouth is at Williamston in the other bracket's first round. Second round games will be Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the home court of the higher ranked team. Finals will be held Friday at Bertie High School at 8:30 p.m.

Williamston's girls received the bye in their tourney. Washington hosts Tarboro for the right to play them in Tuesday's first round game, starting at 7 p.m. Plymouth entertains Tarboro and Roanoke Rapids is at Edenton in the other first round games. The second rounds will be played at the higher-seeded teams' home court, with the finals Friday at Bertie at 7 p.m.

The Beaufort-Hyde-Martin girls open play Monday night, at the home court of the higher-seeded teams. Belhaven entertains Mattamuskeet, and Chocowinity hosts Bath in one bracket, while Aurora is at Pantego and Bear Grass is at Jamesville in the other. Semifinals will be played Wednesday at Bath, with the finals Friday at Bath, starting at 7 p.m. each night.

The boys open play on Tuesday. Bath is at Pantego, and Jamesville at Aurora in the top bracket, while Bear Grass is at Mattamuskeet and Belhaven at Chocowinity in the other. Semifinal play will be Thursday, with the finals on Friday. Both of the last two rounds will be at Bath, with the championship game starting at 8:30 p.m. Other games will begin at 7 p.m.

Northern Nash Runs Past Rose, 82-63

HEY, THIS AIN'T SOCCER — Northern Nash's Donnie Earl appears to be giving the ball a kick, but actually he's just had a rebound escape and bounce out-of-bounds. Also trying for the recovery are Rose High players James Hawkins, top, and Anthony Bryant, bottom. At left is Northern Nash's Willie Lucas. The Knights downed Rose, 82-63. Rose High School let things get away from it during the last two minutes of each of the middle periods Friday night, and it cost the Rampants.

Northern Nash used the time to power its way out into a big lead in the third period, after it had staked itself to an eight point spread at intermission.

The loss just about insured Rose High School's position in the cellar of the Division I standings. Now 1-7 in league play and 3-15 overall, the Rampants would need a miracle to pull out of the basement now.

Northern Nash kept its title hopes alive with the win, climbing to 6-2 in the conference. The Knights are 15-6 overall.

Rose suffered mightly during those four minutes of play that could have meant a victory for them if they had managed to hang in there. Down by just two points with 1:40 left in the half, Rose missed on four shots the rest of the way, while Northern powered back out to an eight-point spread.

Then, in the third, down by just five with 2:35 showing, the Rampants only got off two shots the rest of the way, missing both. And Northern pushed through ten more, running out to a 15-point edge.

The game was sloppy most of the way. Rose was guilty of 33 losses of possession, while Northern lost the ball on 28 occasions without a shot.

But Northern was hot when it hit, scoring 35 field goals on 69 shots, 50.7 per cent. Rose hit just 23 of 68, a poor 33.8 per cent.

The Rampants did hold a rebounding edge, 52-44.

Rose led only once, at 1-0 on a free throw by Anthony Bryant. But Donnie Earl hit from underneath with 7:11 showing, and Northern took the lead, 2-1. David Battle and Richard Richardson both added baskets for a 6-1 lead.

Down 10-3, Rose struggled back and finally tied it at 10-10. While Northern slipped back out Rose was able to tie it at 12-12 and then at 14-all before Charles Pittman put back a missed shot for a 16-14 Knight lead. They never were caught again. At the end of the period, it was 18-16.

Rose did stick close throughout the major part of the second period, however, closing within one on several occasions. But finally, down by two, 29-27, with the ball, the Rampants couldn't put it in. Earl made two free throws, hit a rebounder, and Richardson added another shot from the corner right at the buzzer to give the Knights a 35-27 lead at halftime.

Three times in the third period, Rose cut the Knight lead down to as little as four points, but could come no closer. Then, trailing 45-40, the Rampants hit another dry spell with two minutes to go.

Pittman started it with a free throw, then Earl got a three-pointer on a dunk. Pittman added another basket, and after two free throws by Willie Lucas, Battle hit off a steal with two seconds left for a 55-40 lead.

In the final period, it got to be a runaway. Rose never came closer than 16 after it reached 59-40 as Northern hit the first two shots of the period. The widest margin was 21 at 72-51.

Battle led the Knight scoring with 19 points, while Pittman had 17, Earl had 13, Richardson had 11 and Lucas had 10.

Rose was led by William Barnes with 25, his high for the year. Bryant added 15. Leading scorer Greg Guthrie did not hit from the field until the final period and had only six points, his first game out of double figures.

In the junior varsity contest, Northern Nash led all the way to a 75-59 win. After one period, it was 18-11, and by halftime, the Baby Knight lead had climbed to 41-25.

The Knights stretched it to 58-37 in the third period, and allowed Rose a small rally in the final period, 22-17.

Rossie Arrington led Northern with 18 points, while Hosea Edmond had 16, Nathan Arrington had 14 and Joe Jones had 13. Rose was led by Ronnie Chapman with 19 and Durwin Clemons with 15.

The Rampants close out their home season on Tuesday, hosting Wilson.

Spanarkel Guides Duke To Win Over St. Joe

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — JXIM Spanarkel scored 23 points and sparked a second half Duke surge as the Blue Devils clinched their first winning season in five years with a 72-62 victory over St. Joseph's in a college basketball game Saturday night.

Duke trailed by as many as eight points in the first half but scored the first 12 points of the second half to turn a 31-28 halftime deficit into a 40-31 lead with 16 minutes left in the game.

The Hawks closed to within three, 48-45, with just over nine minutes remaining on a basket by Norman Black who was their high man with 19 points.

But Spanarkel scored two quick hoops at the other end to open the lead to seven points and St. Joseph's never got that close again. Mike Gminski chipped in 20 points and 15 rebounds for the Blue Deviks. Mark Crow added 17. Michael Thomas had 13 for Josepeh's.

Duke raised its record to 14-8 while St. Joseph's is 12-9.

Turnovers put Duke in the hole in the early going as the visitors took a quick eight-point lead 10-2 and maintained that margin for most of the opening period.

Furman Holds Off Citadel For Win

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)— Freshman forward Jonathan Moore poured in 30 points and grabbed 14 rebounds as the Furman Paladins rallied past The Citadel Bulldogs 91-88 Saturday in Southern Conference basketball action.

Spurred on by the red-hot shooting of guard Rick Swing, who also scored 30 points, The Citadel led 44-40 at halftime. But, Furman came back to pull even at 54-54 early in the second half when Moore canned a jumper. The Paladins then took the lead at 56-54 when guard Bruce Grimm swished a jumper off a fast break. Moore scored three straight buckets to push the Paladins into a 62-54 lead.

Furman eventually moved ahead 81-70 before The Citadel came roaring back in the final minutes against the Paladin reserves. But the Bulldogs, who suffered their 12th straight loss, were unable to catch up with Furman.

Grimm followed Moore in the Furman scoring with 23 points while Jim Strickland added 18 and led all rebounders with 15.

Robert Hoak contributed 18 points for the Bulldog.

The win raised Furman's record to 13-9 on the season and 5-2 in the conference. The Citadel fell to a 5-17 season mark and 1-9 in league play.

GCA Gets Victory

Greenville Christian fought an uphill battle for most of the night against Faith, finally pulling the game out in the final seconds for a 58-56 win.

Greenville trailed 15-9 at the end of the first quarter and was down by as many as 17 points in the second period, 26-9, before cutting the margin to 33-24 by halftime.

Greenville came back in the third quarter to cut further into Faith's edge. In the final period, Greenville was able to take the lead and it see-sawed for most of the quarter.

Greenville got the ball with a minute and a half left and the score tied and stalled for the last shot. Tim Sutton hit it, a 10-footer with six seconds left for the win.

Faith's Tony Massey led all scorers with 30 points. Steve Tyburski paced the Greenville attack with 16 while Melvin Wooten had 14 and Sutton 12. Tyburski also had 12 rebounds.

Faith won the junior varsity game, 64-43.

Michigan State Ends Loss Streak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Greg Kelser scored 27 points Saturday, helping Michigan State snap a six-game losing streak with a 71-57 regionally televised Big Ten basketball victory over Ohio State.

Kelser, a 6-foot-7 sophomore, led the Spartans to their seventh victory in 21 games. Michigan State is 3-9 in the league.

The Buckeyes' seventh straight loss was a costly one. Kelvin Ransey, a 6-1 freshman who is Ohio State's leading scorer, was carried from the floor with an ankle injury late in the game. Ransey apparently suffered an ankle sprain and was to undergo X-rays.

Ohio State went more than six minutes without scoring and in that time the Spartans reeled off 15 straight points for a 45-28 lead.

Ohio State, last in the Big Ten with a 2-9 record and 7-13 overall, resorted to a full court press late in the game. The Buckeyes, however, could get no closer than 60-50 with nearly four minutees to play.

Larry Bolden, the only senior in Ohio State's lineup, paced the Buckeyes with 13 points.

GULFSTREAM HAS 44 DATES

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP) — Gulfstream Park is expected to attract many of thoroughbred racing's affluent stables to its 44-day meeting at the Hallandale course. The meeting ends March 7 with the running of the $150,000 Florida Derby, a test of one mile and one-eighth in which a number of Kentucky Derby hopefuls are eligible.

The two other rich tests at the seaside track are the $125,000 Gulfstream Park Handicap Feb. 26 and the $125,000 Pan American Handicap on March 5. The latter race will be run over the mile-and-a-half route on the turf.

Irish Top S. Carolina

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Irish guard Don Williams scored 13 points in the second half and 19 overall Saturday as Notre Dame beat South Carolina 84-66 in a nonconference basketball contest.

The Gamecocks and Fighting Irish battled through the first half with the score tied seven times and the lead changing hands on seven occasions.

The Irish, winning their seventh straight game and rising to 15-5 for the season, had six players in double figures. Following Williams were Dave Batton and Rich Branning with 14 apiece and Toby Knight with 12.

South Carolina, now 11-10, was led by Karlton Hilton and Jim Graziano, each with 17.

The Irish's Bruce Flowers led the rebounding, grabbing 11. Notre Dame snagged 38 rebounds compared with 27 for South Carolina.

SOPH KICKING STARS

DALLAS (AP) — Texas has two sophomore kicking champions. They are Tony Franklin, a barefooted, soccer-style kicker from Fort Worth, and Russell Erxleben, a 220-pounder from Seguin, who played for the Texas Longhorns.

Franklin is the 1976 NCAA champion in field goals per game with 1.55 on 17 three-pointers in 11 games. Erxleben is the national punting champion with 46.6 yards per punt. Ten of Franklin's field goals were from 50 yards or more.

Appy In Gym Win

Appalachian State University gained a 96.8 to 67.35 victory over the East Carolina gymnastics team yesterday at Memorial Gymnasium.

Conley Romps By Greene Central, 58-26

IN FOR A LAYUP — Greene Central's Leonard Swinson (22) lays the ball up over Conley's Ricky Rountree as players position themselves under the basket for a rebound. Other players underneath are Tony Shackleford (15) and Russell Brann (12) of Greene Central and Shawn Little (24) of Conley. (Reflector photo by Jim Kyle)

HOLLYWOOD — Hapless Greene Central fell victim to D. H. Conley's Vikings Friday night in a low-scoring contest, 58-26.

Nothing seemed to go right for the Rams who hit only 23.4 per cent of their shots and were outrebounded by a 49-25 margin.

The Vikings, who made some changes in their lineup, hit 42 per cent from the field and were led by Ken Dawson with 14 and Johnny Streeter with 10.

Conley coach Shelly Marsh seemed to be trying to get his team ready for the playoffs set for next week as every man on the team logged at least a few minutes of playing time. The inexperience showed as the Vikings committed 17 turnovers, compared with 19 for Greene Central.

The Rams employed patience to an extreme in the first period, which ended 6-4 in favor of Conley.

Greene Central scored first on a layup by Leonard Swinson to take a 2-0 lead with 7:19 left. Swinson missed on an opportunity for a three-point play. The Rams didn't score again until Steve Jennette hit a jump shot with 2:57 left in the quarter.

By then, the Vikings had taken a 4-2 lead on a shot from the lane by Mike Cox and a baseline jumper by Randolph King.

Streeter hit from underneath with 12 seconds left in the quarter to give Conley the 6-4 edge.

Greene Central tied it up in the second quarter as a layup by Jennette made it 6-all.

After a tip-in by Streeter, the Rams again knotted the score at eight when Curtis Shirley hit a jump shot with 6:23 remaining in the half.

That was the last time the rams would be close as Conley scored eight straight points to go up 16-8 with 4:29 remaining. The Vikings got a basket from Bernard Hawkins and Streeter and two free throws each from Cox and Dawson.

Greene Central could manage but four foul shots for the rest of the half and Conley built up a 25-12 margin before intermission.

The Vikings got six points from Shawn Little in the third quarter as they stretched their lead to 22 at one point, 38-16. Greene Central scored the last four points of the quarter on baskets by Ernest Thompson and Jeffrey Warren to make the score 38-20 going into the final frame.

It took the Vikings half the period to build their lead back to 22. That came when Dawson hit a follow shot at the 3:51 mark to make it 46-24.

A few seconds later Leonard Swinson connected on a jumper which proved to be the Rams' last score of the game.

Conley then moved out to its final margin of 58-26 with Dawson hitting two baskets and Streeter adding one, along with two free throws each by Streeter, Hawkins and Randolph King.

The Conley girls also got a lopsided win as Alice Costin scored 19 points to pace the Valkyries to a 43-21 victory.

Conley stretched a 21-8 halftime lead to 21 points in the third quarter, going up 33-12 before a Greene Central free throw made it 33-13 at the end of the period.

In the final quarter, Costin scored six points to give the Valkyries their biggest lead, 43-15 before Greene Central scored the last six points of the game.

Conley also got 12 points from Annie Wooten during the contest.

The boys' win gives the Vikings a third-place finish in the conference with a 9-5 league record. Greene Central finishes the regular season at 1-13.

In girls' play Conley and Greene Central finish with identical 3-11 records.

All the teams will be playing in the conference tournaments next week at North Pitt.

Chargers Roll Past Falcons

PIKEVILLE — Ayden-Grifton romped to a 76-55 win over C.B. Aycock Friday night to wind up the regular season and take second place in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

C.B. Aycock's girls got at least a share of second with their 48-32 win over the Ayden-Grifton girls.

In the girls' game, Aycock took an 11-6 lead in the first period, and padded that to 24-14 by halftime. Aycock continued to pull away in the third period, 17-6, to lead by 41-20 as the final quarter opened. Ayden-Grifton outhit the Falconettes, 12-7, but it was too late.

Helen Jones led Aycock with 19 while Hales added 12. Vertha Dixon had 12 to pace Ayden-Grifton.

The Chargers eased out to a 16-12 lead in the first period of the boys' game. They outhit the Falcons again, 19-16, in the second quarter and ran the lead to 35-28 by halftime.

The Chargers continued to move away in the third period, upping the lead to 49-38. They outgunned the Falcons, 27-17, down the stretch.

Ogden Braxton led the Charger scoring with 17 points, while Willie Forbes had 14, and Frankie Dail and James Leggett each had 11. Forbes also had 15 assists.

Whitley led Aycock with 11, and Eddie Jones added 10.

Panthers Ease Past Southern Nash, 60-51

SPRING HOPE — North Pitt's regular season champs coasted to a 60-51 victory over Southern Nash Friday night, closing out the regular season. Southern Nash's girls, however, kept North Pitt's lassies from a share of second place, 39-35.

In the girls' game, Southern Nash fell behind in the first period, 14-10, and was down by 20-15 at halftime.

But in the third period, the Lady Firebirds came to life, outscoring the Pant-HERS, 14-7, to push into a 29-27 lead. They held off North Pitt, 10-8, in the final quarter to win it.

Shirley Hall led Southern Nash with 20 points, while Ellen Dixon had 12 to pace North Pitt.

Southern Nash's boys, aiming for a final game upset, inched into a 12-11 lead over the Panthers in the first quarter. But the Panthers quickly gained control, running out to a 27-22 halftime advantage.

The Panthers kept it up in the third period, 15-7, as they upped the lead to 42-29. They allowed a final period rally by the Firebirds, 22-18.

Donnie Perkins led North Pitt with 20 points, while Kenneth Roberson had 17 and James Hardy had 11. Southern was led by Ronnie Taybron with 13.

The Panthers and Firebirds continue action this week in the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament, at North Pitt.

Efforts by the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission to stock eastern North Carolina with ring-necked pheasants appear to be unsuccessful, the Commission reports.

The only place in the state where the transplanted birds have been able to live and reproduce is on the Outer Banks, particularly Hatteras Island. Commission game biologists started a program several years ago to take these birds, already accustomed to N. C.'s climate, and stock gamelands on the mainland.

At first there was much hope that the program would be successful with regular sightings of the wild pheasant being made, including sightings of young birds. However, in the past couple of years fewer and fewer birds have been seen.

The Commission blames the failure of the effort on the state's climate and habitat. A game division spokesman said, "We gave it a good try because we felt that there was a chance of establishing this fine game bird in parts of the east. Of course, in order for such a stocking to be successful, lots of conditions must be met; and it's apparent that the pheasant is simply not suitable for most of our state."

So, it appears that Tar Heels who desire to hunt this beautiful and tasty fowl will have to continue making trips to more western states where they flourish.

The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission has announced the dates and locations for its annual public hearings.

The hearings are held across the state each April to offer sportsmen an opportunity to offer suggestions and comments concerning any changes in regulations which may be proposed for the 1977 hunting and trapping seasons.

Prior to the meetings, the Commission will publicize proposed changes suggested by the Commission's biologists and others and sportsmen are urged to attend the hearings and comment on these proposals.

Meetings in this part of the state will be: April 4 at the courthouse in Edenton, April 5 at the courthouse in Jacksonville, April 6 at the courthouse in Nashville, April 8 at the courthouse in Elizabethtown.

All of the public hearings are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

The annual Cape Fear Marlin Tournament has been slated for May 22-28 with headquarters at the Wrightsville Beach Marina.

The tournament is one of the largest on the Atlantic coast and anglers will be competing for $5,000 in prize money and trophies in six classifications: blue marlin, white marlin, sailfish, wahoo, dolphin and king mackerel.

The registration fee for the tournament is $125 per boat, except for boats entered only in the king mackerel competition, which must pay a $25 registration fee. King mackerel registrants are eligible only for prizes in that division while are elibible for prizes in all divisions.

Those wanting additional information about the tournament should contact J. W. Johnson Jr., chariman, P. O. Box 753, Wilmington, N. C. 28401.

Madlock To Giants, Murcer To Cubs

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Madlock, the two-time National League batting champion whom the Chicago Cubs were unable to sign, has been traded for Bobby Murcer, the home-run hitter whom the San Francisco Giants were unable to sign.

Three other players were involved in the swap Friday, with utility infielder Rob Sperring going to San Francisco and infielder-outfielder Steve Ontiveros and pitcher Andy Muhlstock going to the Cubs.

The trade, featuring Madlock for Murcer with both seeking multi-year, big-money contracts, was somewhat ironical. The Cubs were willing to give Madlock a multi-year contract but couldn't agree on terms. The same situation applied to Murcer and the Giants.

"I wanted to stay in Chicago," Madlock said after the trade. "But I really expected I'd be traded this week. The Cubs let me know the last time we talked that they weren't going to try to negotiate with me on my contract any more.

"It'll be nice to live in California. But I really enjoyed playing in Wrigley Field."

Last season, Madlock reportedly earned $85,000 with the Cubs. Murcer's salary with the Giants reportedly was $175,000.

Madlock, 26, came to the Cubs after 1973 in a deal with the Texas Rangers for pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, a perennial 20-game winner. Madlock batted .313 in 1974 and then won successive batting titles with marks of .354 and .339.

Murcer, 31, batted .259 for the Giants last season but had 23 home runs and 90 runs batted.

"We'll overcome any problems in signing Madlock," said Bob Lurie, co-owner of the Giants. "We were in agreement with Murcer on a multi-year contract but couldn't agree on the amount."

Like a ditto machine, Bob Kennedy, vice president of the Chicago Cubs, insisted both the Cubs and Madlock were in agreement on a multi-year contract but Madlock insisted on more money than the Cubs wanted to pay. Madlock's demands were believed to be in the vicinity of $200,000 a year.

Since neither player is under contract, both Madlock and Murcer could play out their options and become free agents at the end of the 1977 season.

"I didn't figure the Giants would want to get stuck with a ballplayer they might not be able to keep," Murcer said. "So I'm not really surprised. I just didn't expect a trade quite this soon. I assumed they would trade me if they couldn't sign me. But we hadn't negotiated yet. Nobody had mentioned free agency."

Murcer started his major league career with the New York Yankees and was the man who was to replace Hall of Famer Mickey Mantle. He had 11 home runs, 91 runs batted in and a .298 average with the Giants in 1975 and last season he had 23 home runs, 90 RBIs and a .259 average.

Murcer said he is looking forward to playing with the Cubs in Wrigley Field next season. But as for the money he wants, "just because I'm changing teams doesn't mean I'm changing my demands."

Bobby Allison Puts It All On One Race

By JERRY GARRETT

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The past two years, Bobby Allison has been entered in every major event scheduled at Daytona International Speedway during Speed Weeks.

But no more.

The 39-year-old superstar from Hueytown, Ala., is putting everything into preparing his AMC Matador for the Feb. 20 Daytona 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car classic, the $400,000 climax to the three weeks of winter racing here.

In fact, Allison, one of the sport's most versatile and busy performers, has given up all his many outside interests to concentrate on the Grand National circuit this season.

"I've sold all my other cars, sold my race track in Birmingham, moved out of my big shop into a smaller one, cut out all personal appearances and other racing outside of Grand National, and put all of my time into running this team," Allison explained.

That is bad news for hundreds of small race tracks around the country where Allison would compete against the local boys, much to the delight of the fans. Allison has been voted NASCAR's Most Popular Driver several times.

Allison left the Roger Penske organization at the end of last season, and decided to field his own operation. The time he plans to devote to his new project necessitated giving the ax to his outside interests.

Penske fielded a Matador until switching to a Mercury last season. That ended AMC's participation in Grand National racing. Its competition division was trimmed in size, and production of high performance parts fell to almost nothing.

Allison is hopeful AMC will someday soon decide to get "officially" back into racing with him, as they once were with Penske. "AMC has never lost its interest in racing," Allison said.

In his preparations for Sunday's pole position qualifying for the Daytona 500, Allison was fairly optimistic.

"Right now, we're not quite quick enough," he said. "But we might just be all right by race day."

Jamesville In Loss To Pantego

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville's Bullets wound up on the short end of a 48-31 score against Pantego Friday night as the two teams closed out the regular season. Jamesville's girls finished up on a winning note, downing Pantego, 43-39.

Pantego eased into a 6-4 lead in the first period of the boys' game, then saw Jamesville come back to knot it at the half, 16-16.

In the third period, however, Pantego rushed away, dumping in 22 points to just eight for the Bullets. That put the Warriors into a 38-24 lead. Pantego again outhit the Bullets, 10-7, in the final quarter.

Donnie Carter led Pantego with 20 points, while John Harvey added 14. Tommy DiNardo had 12 and Eric Davis, 11, for the Bullets.

In the girls' game, Jamesville inched ahead, 15-14, after one period, then padded that lead to 27-23 at the half. The Lady Bullets added a point to that in the third period for a 37-32 lead. Pantego tried to rally in the final period, but cut only a point off the score.

Joyce Manning led Jamesville with 18 points, while Ingrid O'Neal had 16 and Vanessa Gray had 10 for Pantego.

Both teams enter Beaufort-Hyde-Martin tournament play this week.

Some Say Tax Strike Growing; IRS Says Not So

By DEBORAH FRAZIER

DENVER (UPI) — An organization of people who refuse to pay their income taxes claims at least some of its members are beginning to get away with it.

The National Tax Strike Association was started in the 1960s by a group who contend there is no constitutional basis for the massive power of the Internal Revenue Service. The group says it now numbers 200,000 active strikers.

"The IRS is the most blatently aggressive form of government," said Bruce McAllister, of the TSA's Colorado branch. "The real purpose of the movement is to restore a representative form of government and our constitutional rights."

For its part, the IRS disputes the tax strikers' claims as to their numbers and, as might be expected, the legality of their operation but concedes some strikers do get away with it.

"No, we can't catch all of them," said Wilson Fadely, an IRS spokesman here. "But we have convicted quite a few of the leaders."

Among active strikers, the methods vary. Some set up personal tax-exempt churches. Some plead the Fifth Amendment on each blank of the IRS 1040 form. Some who are self-employed are able to avoid filing at all.

The IRS, according to McAllister, has admitted an estimated 15 million Americans fail to file at all each year. He said those are referred to as passive resisters.

McAllister says strikers are beginning to win because those who have been jailed or harassed are only a handful compared to the number who have refused to pay their taxes.

"Every year we project a filing pattern. If the tax strike movement were as large as claimed, our estimates would reflect a significant drop off, but they don't," said Fadely, when asked about this statement. "I think the vocal members make it sounder larger than it is.

"This thing reached its height during the Vietnam war. There have been quite a number of notorious protesters jailed and some of the leaders were convicted. The courts have upheld us pretty consistently."

Thumbing a well-used, pocket-sized copy of the Constitution, McAllister, a former stock broker, listed a number of ways in which he says the IRS violates the Bill of Rights. He said the payment of taxes is basically unconstitutional and having to file documentation is a form of slavery.

In addition, 90 per cent of the information you are required to give violates your right to privacy, he said.

Fadely specifically disputed this. "The federal income tax law does not violate the constitutional right to privacy," he said. "The protesters who send in forms filled out with the fifth amendment get a form letter or a visit from an investigator."

McAllister said tax strikers range from airline hostesses to certified public accountants. He said many are successful businessmen and the majority could be termed middle class.

"Everyone in the movement is a good citizen, although the IRS wants to make them otherwise," he said. "There is a tremendous risk in standing up to the IRS and decrying their Gestapo tactics and no one is going to do that to save a couple thousand dollars."

The Colorado tax strikers have opened an office, the first of many planned in the country. In addition to advice on avoiding taxes, the center provides classes on constitutional law, court rulings and other relevant information.

McAllister said the centers would some day become as "numerous as McDonalds."

"The tax revolt is a pinprick to get things going," he said. "We are going to quit paying for our own enslavement. There has to be a limit on what they can do — now they can take up to 90 per cent. In feudal times, the serf only paid 25 per cent to the king."

Noting members resort to the use of the Fifth Amendment to avoid paying taxes, McAllister asked, "Criminals have been using it for years, why shouldn't law abiding citizens?"

Although one man was sentenced to two years in prison for writing the amendment across the front sheet of his 1040 form, a TSA booklet now explains how to fill out each blank.

"With this method, we are filing as required. We are not willfully evading. We want to comply. But we refuse to forfeit our constitutional right to privacy to do so," he said.

A recent U.S. Supreme Cout ruling upholding the right to object to questions on the form was applauded by the group.

McAllister said the ruling did not specify which part of the form, so the decision can apply to all questions.

The method has proven effective, he said, because thousands have used it for years without being prosecuted. He said the IRS also lacks the manpower to track down the number of persons involved.

"The IRS is 90 per cent bluff. They want to intimidate you if possible. They want to avoid court cases because if the jury rules against them, millions will quit paying taxes. If there is a chance they will lose, they can't take it."

Some court rulings have restricted the IRS's ability to confiscate property for sale for taxes, McAllister said. He said the agency has used the tactic less because of these rulings and because it tends to create martyrs.

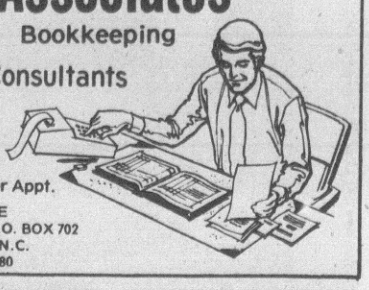

McAllister contends the tax system is slowly grinding to a halt. He says this is verified by lessening pressure on strikers. He maintains the effect will be that the government will eventually be forced to cut its massive spending.

"The government needs money only for defense and courts to settle disputes between citizens," he said. "Until 1913, the United States grew from a group of colonies to the most powerful nation without debts or taxes while still providing for citizens' needs."

Describing Americans as the most generous people in the world, McAllister said citizens would contribute more to charity because of lower taxes. He said they also would set up and pay for private schools.

If the needs of government are limited, McAllister said tariffs on imports and excise taxes will pay the tab. He said it will amount to $20 billion, compared to the current $400 billion budget.

Ed McMahon Gets Film Opportunity

CARSON'S SIDEKICK — Ed McMahon plays an aerospace corporation president who has a few belts in the morning so he can fire his trusted aide in Columbia's new film "Fun With Dick and Jane". (AP Wirephoto)

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He seems natural enough as a boozer, but this time he's president of an aerospace corporation, not end man on the Johnny Carson minstrel show.

Some of his cronies will claim he isn't acting, but Ed McMahon nevertheless gives a splendid performance in "Fun with Dick and Jane," the new Columbia movie. He plays the company chief who has a few belts in the morning so he can fire his trusted aide, George Segal.

Segal finds himself unemployable, and he and his wife, Jane Fonda, are unable to maintain their upper-middle class lifestyle. So they turn to crime to keep up their house payments. Their major victim: Segal's former boss.

"He's a two-fisted guy, a bit of a rogue and also a bit of a tippler," said McMahon of his role. "He has this love-hate relationship with his No. 1 man, Segal. It's hard for him to fire the guy. It would be like Johnny firing me."

McMahon is obviously enjoying the attention that the film has brought him, although he clearly doesn't need it. As announcer, sidekick and pitchman on the Carson show for 13 years, he is one of the most recognized persons in America. Everywhere he goes, his reputation as a tippler follows.

Does that bother him?

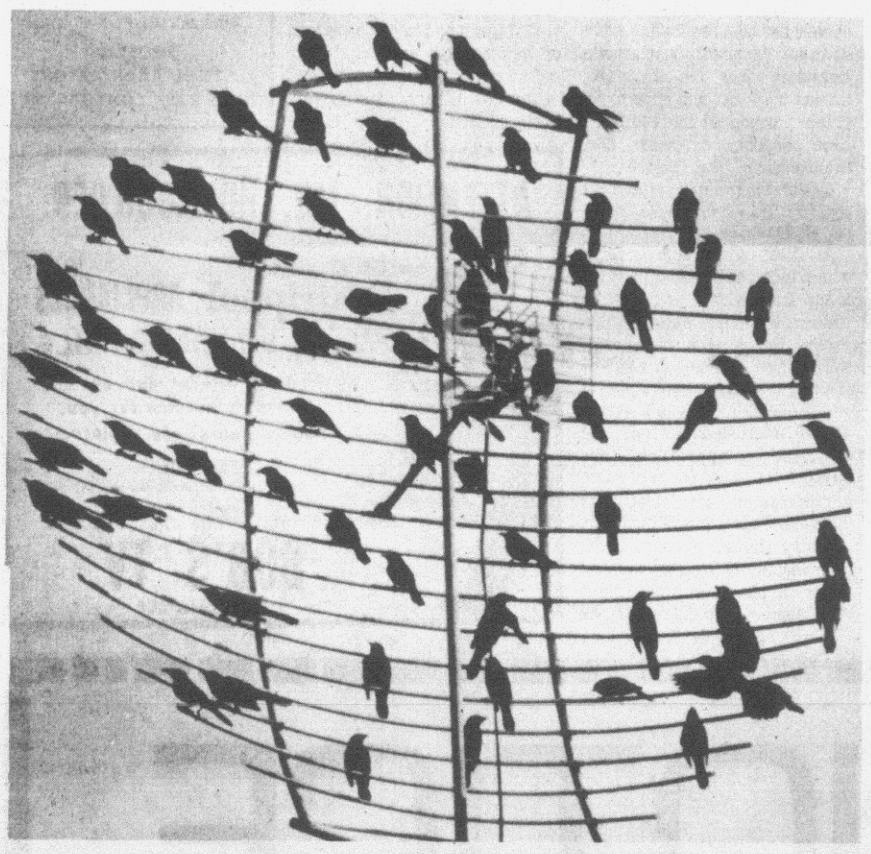

"Only if it affects my children," he said. "As a matter of fact, anybody who looked at my schedule would immediately recognize that I couldn't possibly drink as much as I am reputed to. I don't drink much heavy booze at all; wine and beer, maybe a martini."

It's a wonder McMahon has time for an occasional sip. Besides the "Tonight Show" and the commercials, he regularly plays his act in Las Vegas, appears at panel shows and benefits and engages in other enterprises, such as the opening of shopping malls in the Midwest.

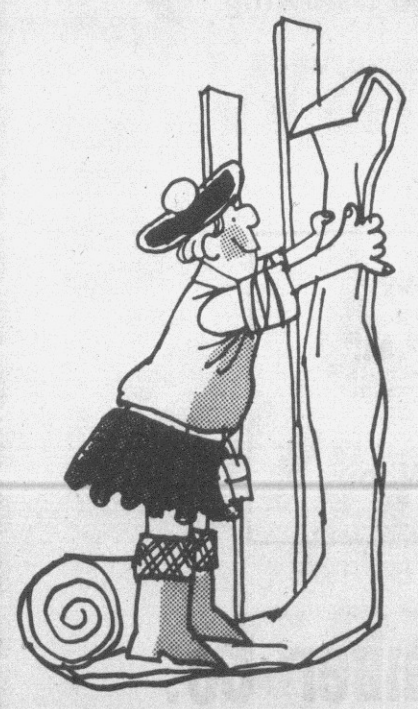

"But no matter what I'm invited in, 'Tonight' comes first," he insisted. "That is the well from which everything else stems. One of the problems about doing more films is that every afternoon at 4:30 I must report to NBC. With today's tight schedules, I hate to ask a film company to release me early. Fortunately with 'Dick and Jane,' much of the shooting took place at night."

Ed McMahon was born 53 years ago in Detroit, grew up in Lowell, Mass., and attended Boston College before his service as Marine pilot. After the war he enrolled at Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and he was exposed to acting in the school's distinguished drama department.

He appeared in "Guys and Dolls" and "Annie Get Your Gun" in Pennsylvania summer theater before moving into television in Philadelphia and New York.

TUNING IN — This oval-shaped antenna in Coral Gables, Florida, seemed like a good resting place for a flock of blackbirds who seem to be almost overloading it. Or, maybe they like the TV program it's receiving. (AP Wirephoto) how insulation can save you money . . .

Insulation is material that keeps a home warmer in winter and cooler in summer. In winter, the better the insulation, the harder it is for heat to be lost to the outside. Uninsulated homes lose up to twice as much heat as insulated ones.

The heating system in an insulated home operates less and requires less energy. In summer that same insulation keeps heat out, saving electricity and reducing the wear on the air conditioner. Also, the size and cost of equipment needed to heat or cool will be reduced. Another benefit is the reduction in maintenance and repair bills.

Insulation reduces energy waste . . . and saves your money.

PLAN YOUR HOME

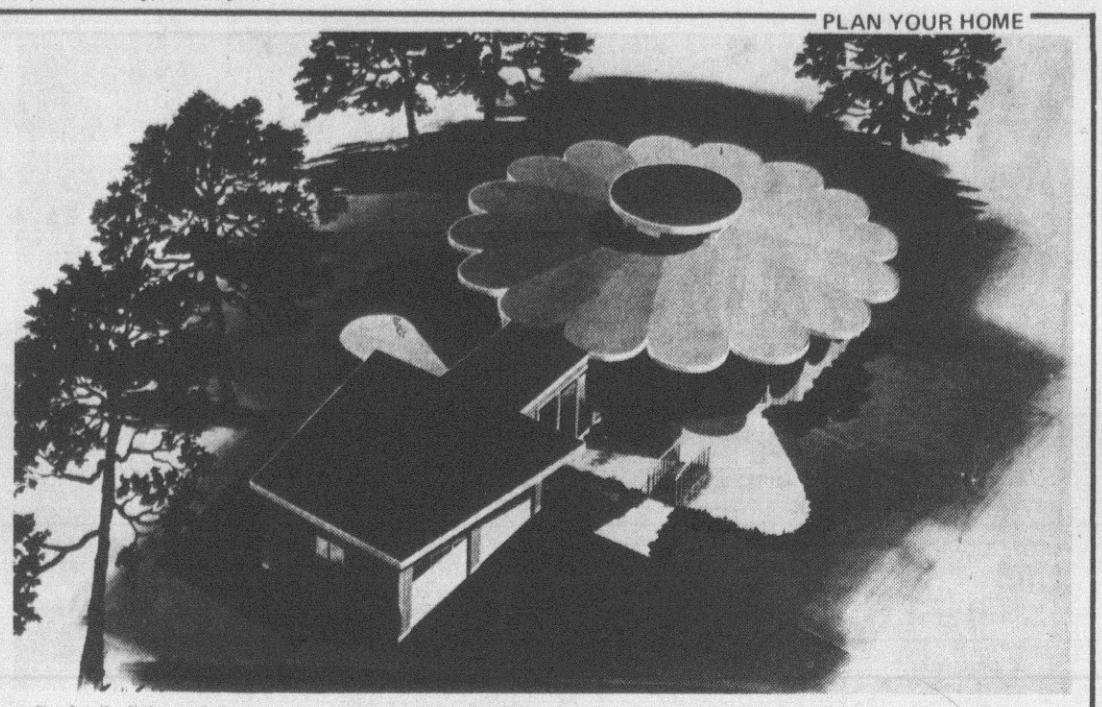

By Jerry Bishop

With a facade that is distinctively shaped to resemble a sunflower, this highly unusual home design offers an interior that finds living areas radiating from a central conversation pit.

The three bedroom plan, appropriately called Sunflower, combines interior elements that make for a livable home with exterior drama. Double garage connects to the home via breezeway, and large family room, kitchen, and dining area are featured.

On the exterior, the scalloped "petals" of the roof overhang the sides and have the practical result of shielding the home from sun and weather. Guests enter across the porch and into a closeted foyer. Ahead is the conversation pit, sunken to define the area and suggest a relaxed informality.

The adjoining family room extends 20 feet in length and is open to the kitchen. With compact efficiency, the kitchen uses a minimum of space and is well-placed, sandwiched between dining and family rooms. A handy snack bar cleaves kitchen and family room.

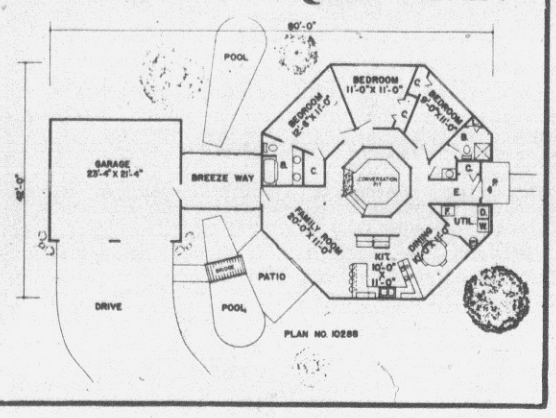

For family dining or informal parties, the 11-ft. dining room is open to the kitchen but separated by counter and cook center. The area is bordered by a utility/laundry room.

Three bedrooms and two full baths complete the floor plan and are carefully removed from living areas. All bedrooms are large and well-closeted, and the master bedroom is favored with private bath.

Framed with sliding glass doors, the breezeway functions in several ways. It is a walkway, welcome in bad weather, from garage to family room, and it offers additional living space as well. Among other possibilities, it can serve as an auxiliary dining room or a sunny playroom.

Plan Decor Before Building

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

In planning now for that new house come spring, make sure you've given enough thought to details. Do you really want that unusual, colored tile in your bathroom or kitchen? Will there be enough space in the fireplace area to make a cozy living room niche with your oversize sofa?

Taking the time to consider such problems while you can still alter a house plan may avoid a lot of grief. Often there are so many big decisions to make in connection with a new house that some details are overlooked.

Acquiring a good book on decorating can be very helpful while house planning is in progress. It can help circumvent problems because a lot of decorating later will revolve around the interior architecture, which cannot be manipulated at whim.

"Every part of the decorating process comes back to planning," points out William Hague in "The Complete Basic Book of Decorating." The book emphasizes many things that are done wrong, even as it suggests the right decorating tack. The suggestions can be helpful while the house is being planned.

The genial, former longtime editor of House and Garden Guides has designed or remodeled more than 15 houses and apartments in the last two decades. In putting his book together he tried to make it as timeless as possible with many illustrations, some in color. And many of the ideas may have instant appeal for people who need inspiration. His treatments of small rooms are particularly interesting.

"Be careful as you buy or build. Make sure you like the architectural style," he advises. "You can create an early American setting inside a contemporary structure, but it will be discordant."

In planning early, a potential home owner will be ready for queries from builders, masons, painters. It should avert top-of-the-head answers that aren't explicit. For example, what is yellow, what is blue? Colors are open to interpretation unless the exact color can be seen by the people discussing it.

Interior color planning may not receive much thought beyond a potential color scheme for each room. But how will the colors look from room to room? When handling a house plan, this point may be forgotten. Hague stresses the importance of color and he lists 50 of the most common color mistakes, which include:

—Using bizarre or offbeat colors in ceramic tile, laminate counters or other fixed architectural elements in kitchen or bathroom.

—Copying exact color schemes of model rooms in stores and houses. They usually don't come off.

—Using cold colors if a room faces north, hot ones if the room faces south.

—Having the idea that because a house is old it cannot be treated in a contemporary way. A Victorian house can respond brilliantly to a modern color scheme.

—Permitting one dominant element, such as an old-fashioned, red brick fireplace, to spoil a color scheme. There can be no sacred cows in decorating.

Other ideas that may affect architectural planning could include lighting — choices might include luminous ceiling panels, cove or cornice lighting, valances, soffits. Floors may be flagstone, marble, slate, brick, oak block, ceramic, vinyl, rubber, cork, asphalt.

Walls should be considered carefully. One may want mirrored walls, special shelf systems, wood paneling or whatever. It should all be planned from scratch because it may take time. It will be easier on the builder and your pocketbook. Then, too, there are builders who will tell you it is too late to do anything different once they've put the first nail in the house.

("The Complete Basic Book of Decorating" is published by Doubleday.)

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — In moving into our house recently, some furniture was dragged across the dining room floor and left scratches in the hardwood. They aren't very deep, but we would like to touch them up anyhow. How can this be done? There is no finish on the floor, except possibly a little wax.

A. — If there is wax on the floor where the scratches are, remove it. Using a tiny brush, like those sold to artists, dip the tips of the bristles in varnish. Run the bristles lightly over the scratches. Wipe off any excess, especially on the part of the floor which is not marred. Wait a couple of days. If the touched-up portions are too glossy, dull them with a fine grade of steel wool. If you are going to finish the entire floor, be sure all wax is removed first. When the new finish has hardened, rewax.

Q. — There is a tiny hole in the concrete wall in our basement. Water trickles from it every time there is a heavy rain. I intend to fix it shortly, but what I would like to know is whether such a hole can be filled while the water is coming out of it or must the area be entirely dry?

A. — It is better to make the repair when everything is dry, but if this is not practical, such a hole can be plugged with what is called hydraulic cement. It is a putty-like material that is used just as it comes out of the can. Follow the directions on the label. Usually, the instructions are to make a tiny ball of the material in your hands, then push it into the opening and hold it there for several minutes. The material has the capacity to set even when the leak is taking place. It is well to keep an eye on the wall the next time it rains, because sometimes when a hole of that is plugged, the water will seek out some other weak point in the concrete and force its way through. Not so incidentally, have you taken any steps to keep the water away from the house foundation, such as banking the soil away from the outside wall and seeing that water from the roof doesn't settle down next to the wall?

Q. — There is a banging noise every time the cold water faucet in our kitchen sink is turned off. I thought a washer might be loose, but I checked completely and found it to be in good shape. Is there anything I can do about this?

A. — Sounds as though an air chamber in the plumbing system may be filled with water instead of air, as it should be. Try shutting off the main water valve into the house and opening all faucets in all rooms. The idea is to replace the air in the air chambers. If, when everything is restored to normal, the banging still occurs, you will have to call a plumber.

(For a copy of either of Andy Lang's helpful booklets, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs" or "How to Insulate to Save Money," send 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743. Questions can not be answered individually.)

Offer Campers A Flying Home

SANFORD, Fla. (UPI) — There was a time when all a camper needed was a tent to keep the warmth in and the snakes out.

But man has a way of bringing the comforts of home to the wildest of places.

Trailers and motor homes enabled campers to live in the lap of luxury just about any place they could drive a car or truck.

And now Fred Clark has taken that a step further with the Helihome — a helicopter outfitted like a luxurious motor home, complete with generator, refrigerator, stove, television, AM-FM stereo, shower, toilet, bunks and bar.

"It's just like a motor home, except it flies," says Clark, president of Orlando Helicopter Airways, which is manufacturing Helihomes for Winnebago Industries, Inc. "You can get to places you can't get any other way."

A Helihome can be bought for a mere $98,500. But that's a demonstrator. The S 55 model will sell for $120,000. The S 58, with a larger living area, goes for $310,000. With twin turbine engines, the S 58 is priced at $840,000.

Clark's company has built three of the customized Helihomes so far. It has sold one to a large firm.

"Most of the interest has come from Canada," he said, adding that companies with mining interests in remote wilderness areas are looking at the Helihomes.

He says a Texas oil man, naturally, is interested in one to take to drilling sites.

"He wants something kind of flashy where he can have a bar," says Clark.

The S 55 model Helihome, which is 46 feet long, can sleep four in the cabin and has a pull-out awning with screen that converts to a sort of porch where two more can sleep outside the craft.

The Helihome must be flown by a licensed pilot with a helicopter rating.

"We'll teach them how to fly them, too," says Clark. "As helicopters go, they're relatively easy to fly and maintain."

Because he has only built three, Clark is not sure what the market for the Helihomes will be.

"We've had a lot of inquiries," he says. "We kind of look for the day when people might fly around and land at campgrounds and taxi up to the plug-ins right along with the motor homes."

What's new on the market?

THE PRODUCT — A sheet flooring with a special moisture barrier.

Manufacturer's claim — That the barrier coat is sandwiched between the asbestos backing and the foam layer of the flooring . .. that it prevents discoloration due to alkali and moisture-borne fungus ... that the field testing included installations in homes in Florida and California ... that it comes in 6-foot and 12-foot widths and is suited to do-it-yourself installation ... and that it meets federal requirements for residential and light commercial use.

THE PRODUCT — A garage door opener that operates from a car's cigarette lighter slot.

Manufacturer's claim — That the transmitter looks like a cigarette lighter and is pushed in to activate it ... that an individually coded radio message opens the garage door ... that it works with any door opener on the market or already installed on the garage ... that the transmitting unit weighs only one ounce and has no batteries that can go dead or deteriorate in summer heat ... and that the receiver can be easily connected to your present equipment.

THE PRODUCT — A series of decorator wall panels with a sculptured, cameo-like surface.

Manufacturer's claim — That the panels are made from Brazilian hardboard in the standard 4' by 8' size ... that they have a duo-coated melamine finish that wipes clean with a damp cloth .. . that the ⅛-inch panels can be installed over any solid backing with ordinary carpenter tools ... and that they can be used on accent walls, as wainscotting, alternated with mirrors, framed for effect in the kitchen or bathroom, or as a conversation piece in any room.

THE PRODUCT—An oil burner unit that is small enough to fit into an ordinary closet.

Manufacturer's claim — That the distinctive blue flame with which the unit operates enables the furnace to work quietly, efficiently and cleanly, producing no smoke ... that no masonry chimney is required, making it possible to replace any type of heating unit, even one using a simple flue ... that it is readily adaptable to air conditioning usage ... and that 1,000 units were tested in the field before national marketing was begun.

(Do-it-yourselfers will find much valuable information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1.50 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N. J. 07666.)

Gardening Questions

Q. Can you suggest any flowers for poor soil? (D. C., Yanceyville)

A. Try some of the hardy daylily varieties. They will tolerate both full sun and partial shade, but must have good drainage. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. Is there a "best variety" of muscadine grape? If so, what is it? (Mrs. F.S., Havelock)

A. I would be hard-pressed to choose the best muscadine since so many excellent varieties are available. For the backyard, Carlos (bronze) and Albemarle (black) would be hard to beat. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

Q. Can I get maple syrup from my red and silver maple trees? (G. B., Davidson)

A. Yes. All maple species which includes boxelder produce a sap from which syrup can be made. But the sugar maple yields the largest amount of syrup per gallon of sap. It usually takes 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of maple syrup. If still interested wait until the daytime temperatures are around 41 degrees and night temperatures are around 25 degrees. Bore a 7/16 of inch hole, slightly slanted upward, about four feet above ground level, and insert a plastic or metal tube. The depth of the hole should be about three inches. Mapel syrup is obtained by boiling down the sap in an evaporator at a temperature of seven degrees above the boiling point of water. (William M. Stanton, extension forest resources specialist)

Q. Last year we planted some Jersusalem artichoke tubers and thoroughly enjoyed them. Our problem is we don't have a source of tubers to plant this year. Where can I get some? (H. G., Hickory)

A. Unless you did an extremely good job of harvesting the tubers, all you have to do is wait. I imagine you will have lots of volunteers. Beyond that I do not know of a source of tubers. (George Huges, extension horticulturist)

INTEGON DIVIDEND

The Integon Corp. board of directors, meeting in Winston-Salem, declared a quarterly dividend of nine cents a share, payable March 10 to shareholders of record Feb. 25.

PERSONNEL MANAGER

Fieldcrest Mills Inc. announced that Sandra Ann Davis has joined the firm as personnel manager for the company's two plants in Greenville.

SANDRA DAVIS

Prior to joining Fieldcrest, she was employed as a teacher in the Richmond County Schools. She earlier had personnel experience as employment manager for Drayton Mills in Spartanburg, S.C. and as a management trainee with Gaffney Manufacturing Co. in Gaffney.

Ms. Davis received an A.B. degree in education from Limestone College in Gaffney.

TRADE SHOW

The eighth annual Southeastern Farm and Home Trade Show is scheduled for Feb. 16 and 17 at the Cooperative Warehouse in Lumberton. Show times will be 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. each day.

The purpose of the trade show is to provide composite displays of the newest in farm, home and transportation equipment and supplies which are designed to save labor and conserve fuel.

Highway and home safety will be featured in separate booths by the state Highway Patrol and the Robeson County Sheriff's Department.

JOINED STAFF

Edward Faircloth and Matt Willoughby have joined the WITN TV news team in Washington, according to an announcement by W. R. Roberson Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of North Carolina Television Inc.

Faircloth, who anchors the 11 p.m. newscast and handles field reporting assignments, is a Clinton native. He attended the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and Chapel Hill and served as a reporter for WRAL FM in Raleigh prior to joining WITN TV.

Willoughby, anchorman for the early morning newscasts and field reporter, attended Northern Virginia Community College, the National Academy of Broadcasting in Washington, D.C., and the Army Defense Information School. Before joining WITN, he was a newscaster for WAVA in Arlington, Va.

NAMED TO BUREAU

Three Greenville employees of Carolina Telephone have been selected as members of the company's newly-formed Speakers' Bureau, which is to become a company-wide volunteer organization.

Carolina Telephone said that the Greenville members are: Don Collier, district commercial manager; David Langley, PBX technician; and Bruce Greene, central office repairman.

Members of the bureau will represent the company in speaking before civic clubs and other community organizations.

INCREASES REPORTED

Increases of 11 per cent in sales and 26 per cent in net earnings were achieved by The Black and Decker Manufacturing Co. for the first fiscal quarter which ended Dec. 26, Francis P. Lucier, president and chief executive officer, reported.

Lucier said that sales for the first quarter of fiscal 1977 were $205.7 million compared to $184.9 million last year. Net earnings were $12.6 million, up from $9.9 million. Earnings per share were 30 cents versus 24 cents in the first quarter of fiscal 1976.

SEMINAR PLANNED

The Eastern North Carolina Chapter of the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters and the American Society's Department of Continuing Education will co-sponsor an all-day seminar in Raleigh on Feb. 15.

The meeting will be from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Jane S. McKimmon Extension Education Center, Meeting Room One, Western Boulevard, on the North Carolina State University campus.

Life underwriters, attorneys, accountants, trust officers and educators are invited to attend, seminar officials reported.

Davidson College Student Claims Art Forgeries Widespread

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP) — Art forgeries are so widespread that as much as half the work in the country's art galleries and museums may be fake, says a Davidson College student who has become skilled in art authentication.

John Parkerson, a sophomore from Charleston, S. C., learned his skills as a summer employe of Braddock Services of Silver Spring, Md.

He says the company is "the only private lab in the world whose primary purpose is to authenticate art objects for individuals and galleries."

Parkerson began working for the firm while a resident of Silver Spring, a Washington suburb. He has returned for summer work since his family moved to Charleston.

He bases his estimate of the widespread forgery of art on the experiences of Braddock Services. Nearly 80 per cent of the objects the firm tests are found to be other than represented, says Parkerson.

A thorough laboratory examination of an art work is a complex and sometimes expensive process, the student says.

"A painting, for example, must first be stylistically evaluated with regard to painter and school or period of painting," he explained in an interview.

"Then an expert will take the painting out of the frame and look at the weave of the canvas, the tacks that hold it to the frame, the wax, and how it was rolled," Parkerson said.

The wax sometimes is used to coat the canvas.

"A more scientific exam requires an X-ray to bring out fine points — for instance, was a carbon sketch made under the paint? There may also be another painting underneath," he said.

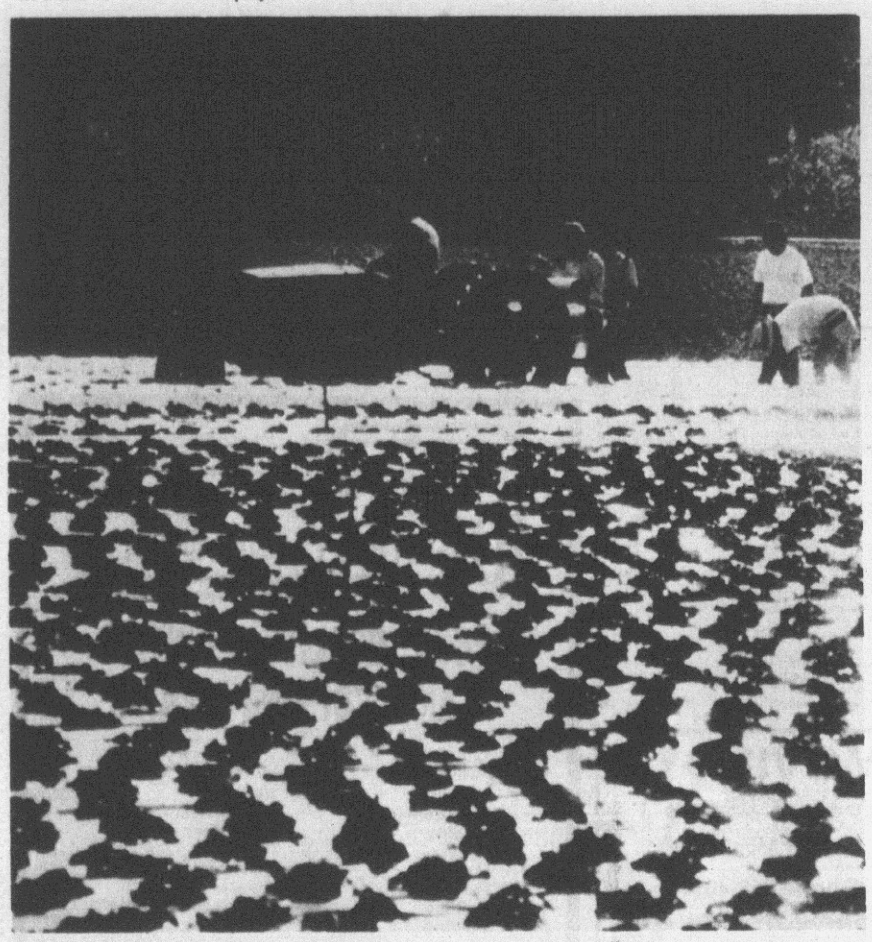

X-ray diffraction will determine if the white paints in the work have a lead base, which was common in paints before 1920.

The Carbon-14 dating method used by archeologists also can place an approximate date on material scraped from around the frame or linseed oil in the paint or canvas, Parkerson explained.

Infrared or ultraviolet tests will show up fine details, such as where a work might have been repaired or repainted.

At $25 to $50 an hour lab time, such tests may cost an art owner dearly. But the expenditure is justified, says Parkerson, "because if the object is valuable, proven authenticity will raise the value enormously."

At Davidson, he is working with the art department to identify and catalog paintings donated to the college through wills and bequests.

STRAWBBERY PATTERN — Workmen cover strawberry plants in this field near the city of Oxnard (Calif.) with strips of plastic. The plastic provides a three-fold purpose: reflecting the sun's rays, holding the water in the soil, and keeps the plant and berries off the ground preventing chemical damage to both. This area in Ventura county is the largest producer of strawberries in California. (AP Wirephoto)

Offer Classes To Area Adults

Non-credit classes for adults in basic guitar, banjo picking, advanced piano and jazz dance will be offered this spring at East Carolina University.

"Basic Guitar" (Wednesdays, March 9-May 18) and "Scruggs-Style Banjo Picking" (Thursdays, March March 10-May 5) will be instructed by Michael Thompson, ECU School of Music graduate student.

"Advanced Piano" (Tuesdays, March 8 - May 17) is open to adults who can read notes in both clefs and already play easy pieces.

Instructor for the course is Dr. Richard Lucht of the ECU keyboard faculty, a specialist in group piano instruction and piano pedagogy. The piano course will meet 7:30-9 p.m.

"Jazz Dance for Conditioning and Fun" will be taught to two class groups, one meeting Thursday evenings, March 17-May 12, and one on Friday mornings, March 11-May 6.

Instructor is Michele Mennett, member of the ECU dance faculty. She previously taught and performed ballet and jazz dance in Florida and New York.

Further information about these and other adult education offerings is available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education., or telephone 757-6143/6148.

Numbers of participants in each class must be limited, so interested persons should register as soon as possible.

Miss Debby Rowland Is Bride

CHAPEL HILL — The chapel of Cross Episcopal Church here was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Debby Ann Rowland of Durham and Ernest Cordell Avery of Greenville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Cook Saturday at 3:30 p.m. A program of wedding music was presented by Barry Robinson, organist, cousin of the bride. Special music included harpsichord and flute duets.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Rowland of Stanley. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E. Coy Avery of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight bridal crepe, designed and made by her mother. It featured a chapel length train and a sheer yoked empire bodice, edged with miniature alencon lace. The long fitted sleeves had lace inserts and were trimmed with satin buttons. The back of the dress had satin buttons from the high neck to the waist. The matching mantilla was fingertip length and was edged with the same lace used on the gown.

The bride carried a white Bible which was a gift of her brother. The Bible was centered with ivory sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath. The flowers were interlaced with lace which was used on her gown and veil.

The honor attendant was Martha K. Walston of Lumberton. She wore a formal length gown of red quiana which featured a gathered empire bodice, high neckline and long tapered sleeves. She carried a bouquet of ivory sweetheart roses and pom pons scattered with red dried flowers and ivory satin ribbon loops.

Bridesmaids were Cathy Wallace of Stanley, and Marsha Gruenbaum of Winston-Salem. They were dressed like the honor attendant.

The mother of the bride wore a dusty rose formal length gown and the mother of the bridegroom chose a powder blue full length gown. They both wore color coordinated corsages of sweetheart roses.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Bryan Evans and Jim Salisbury, both of Greenville. Honorary ushers were Wesley Long of Gastonia, nephew of the bride, and Mac McLeod of Chapel Hill, nephew of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip to Beech Mountain, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of UNC-CH and is a former teacher with Lenox Baker Cerebral Palsy Hospital, Durham. The bridegroom is a graduate of UNC-CH and the UNC Law School. He is now an attorney with James, Hite, Cavendish and Blount.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the parish house of the church given by the bride's parents.

Assisting in serving were the bride's nieces, Robin Rowland, Julie Rowland, Kim Rowland and Mrs. Diane Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. William Daniel of Cary presided at the guest register and good-byes were said to the bride's sister, Mrs. Phyllis R. Long of Gastonia, and to the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Malcolm McLeod of Chapel Hill.

The bridegroom's parents and his sister and brotherin-law, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McLeod entertained at a rehearsal dinner held at the Carolina Inn.

Couple Weds In Noon Ceremony

Carolyn Anne Wilson and William Taft Cannon Jr., both of Greenville, were united in marriage in a high noon ceremony Saturday.

The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Moore Jr. of Greenville. The Rev. Irby officiated at the single ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wilson of New Bern. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Cannon of Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The flower girl was Shannon Cannon of Greenville, daughter of the bridegroom.

The bride, her mother, the flower girl and the mother of the bridegroom each carried a yellow long-stemmed rose.

Following the ceremony, a brunch was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moore for members of the immediate families.

The couple will reside in Greenville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The bride attended Guilford College and graduated from ECU. She is now a teacher at Pamlico Community School, Washington. The bridegroom attended Appalachian State University and is associated with Cannon's Tobacco Warehouse and co-owner of Fields and Flowers Nursery and Garden Center, Washington.

Club Observes Birthday

The Lakewood Pines Garden Club celebrated its 23rd birthday with a covered-dish luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. J. C. Bateman.

Mrs. R. M. Hedges presided at a short business meeting. Mrs. H. R. Billica collected information from members for the state horticulture rating sheet.

The nominating committee reported the 1977-78 officers as follows: President, Mrs. Bdward Reep; First Vice President, Mrs. Joseph M. Laney Jr.; Second Vice President, Mrs. Herman Moeller; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Bateman; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. F. F. Hendrix; and Treasurer, Mrs. N. C. Pierce.

It was announced that the annual Spring Garden Fair set for April 7 may be postponed if the weather remains too cold.

Assisting hostesses for the day were Mrs. J. H. Calder, Mrs. Hedges and Mrs. C. G. Garrington. Potted African violets and begonias graced the luncheon tables. The plants were given to members as favors.

International Fair Planned By Girl Scouts

CAMP LEJEUNE — Three thousand Girl Scouts from 26 counties in eastern North Carolina will gather at the Goettge Field House here Saturday, March 12, for an International Fair.

The Girl Scout Council of Coastal Carolina is sponsoring the event in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

Displays and demonstrations will be provided by approximately 50 Girl Scout troops. There will be songs, dances, native dress and tasting tables representing many of the 94-member countries of the World Association of Girl Scouts and Girl Guides.

The Juliette Low World Friendship Fund was established in 1927 to honor the memory of Juliette Gordon Low, founder of Girl Scouting.

The fair will be held from 2-5 p.m.

The Council of Coastal Carolina serves Greene, Martin and Pitt Counties, which are included in the 26-county area of the council.

Donna Whitley Gives Program

The February meeting of the Welcome Wagon met Wednesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. The program was a demonstration and history of Arabic dancing given by Donna Whitley.

The club's annual fashion show luncheon will be held March 9. All members and guests are invited to attend. Tickets are $3.90 and checks must be received by Gail Gilbert by March 7.

The Gad-a-Bouts will tour the Greenville Art Center Feb. 16. For more information call Helen Turner, 758-5656.

There will be a newcomers coffee at 10 a.m. Feb. 14. All club members are invited to attend and meet the newcomers. Interest group chairmen will tell about their activities. Call Gail Gilbert, 756-2256, for information.

Share-A-Craft will meet Feb. 15 and make quick point pillows. Call Jean Busbee, 758-0886, for further information.

The next board meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Feb. 23.

Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. David Dare Lamm of Washington announce the marriage of their daughter, Ellen Elaine, to Laurens Powell Russell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurens Powell Russell Sr. of Panama City, Fla. The wedding took place Jan. 15 at the Peace Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. The couple are residing in Panama City, Fla. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Adell Holloman of Greenville, formerly of Farmville, and the late Mr. Oscar Holloman.

Gordon-Boswell Vows Solemnized Saturday Afternoon

GRAHAM — The marriage of Carol Marie Boswell and James Curtis Gordon Jr. took place Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in the Andrews Memorial Baptist Church here.

Daughter of Mr. Eugene E. Boswell of Graham, and the late Mrs. Irene Parks Boswell, the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a full length gown of ivory silesta and Venise lace which was designed with a V-neck outlined in Venise lace, full sleeves with wide fitted cuffs and lace appliques and empire waistline. The A-line skirt swept into a full chapel train.

Her chapel length mantilla of ivory silk illusion was encircled in a band of Venise lace and attached to a lace covered Camelot cap. She wore her grand grandmother's petticoat. She carried her Rainbow Bible with yellow sweetheart roses, staphanotis, baby's breath tied with satin streamers and lace.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Curtis Gordon of Charlotte.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Jesse Croom Jr. of Charlotte. A program of wedding music was presented by Susan Pyles, organist, and Denise Pyles, vocalist, both cousins of the bride.

The honor attendant was Ann Hall of Burlington. Other attendants were Mrs. Dennis Cotten of Cary, Mrs. William Bell of Durham, Sybil Foster of Burlington, and Wanda Trgold of Siler City, both cousins of the bride.

The attendants wore floor length gowns of rust quiana knit designed with V-neck in front, halter back and gathers in the center front of the skirt. They wore long sleeved bolero jackets over the dresses. They carried colonial nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums' peach chrysanthemums, miniature carnations with baby's breath and streamers.

The best man was Paul T. Nance of Burlington, and ushers were Randy Hawkins, head, of Charlotte, William Bell of Lynchburg, Va., Mike Smith of Haw River, and Barry Smith of Knoxville, Tenn., both stepbrothers of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall.

The refreshment table was covered with an ivory lace cloth and accented at the corners with yellow roses and streamers. The table was centered with a five brach silver candelabra with gladioli, chrysanthemums and eucalyptus.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Helen Foster, Mrs. Ann Pyles and Mrs. Ethel Oakley, all aunts of the bride.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was employed by Cobb and Brown, PA, Certified Public Accountants. She is now employed by McDonald's-Yashny, Ltd. The bride graduated from Appalachian State University, cum laude with a B.S. degree in business education. She was a member of Alpha Delta Pi at ASU and Kappa Delta Phi national honorary fraternity. The bridegroom is a graduate of Harding High School, Charlotte, and is assistant president of American Credit Co., Greenville.

FAMILY DINNER

Meat Loaf — Potatoes
Creole Celery — Bread Tray
Fig Pudding — Beverage

CREOLE CELERY

Excellent combination of flavors.

- 1 stalk Pascal celery
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 small onion, chopped medium-fine
- 1 small green pepper, chopped medium-fine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1-pound can tomatoes, broken up
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ½ teaspoon dried basil

Trim ends from celery; separate into ribs; cut into ¼-inch thick diagonal slices — there should be about 1½ quarts. In a 12-inch skillet heat the oil; add onion and stir over moderate heat for several minutes; add celery and the remaining ingredients except the basil. Bring to a boil; simmer, covered, until celery is cooked but still slightly crisp — about 20 minutes. Stir in the basil and cook another minute or so. Makes 6 generous servings.

Never has there been such a blatant admission that women's fashions do affect some home furnishings as there will be in the Southern Living Show, said Pat Plaxico, design consultant with The Alderman Co., High Point.

Ms. Plaxico and Robert Metz of Total Concept, Greensboro, are co-chairmen of the products area of the . ASID-sponsored "Decor '77 Pavilion" in the show, which opens Saturday at the Charlotte Merchandise Mart and continues through March 6.

"Women's fashions do influence the fabrics, colors and textures in bedspreads, drapes and furnishings," Ms. Plaxico said, "and we've put together a dramatic display emphasizing this fact for the show. We're calling it 'House-Wear, The Fashion Influence At Home."

Student chapters of ASID at East Carolina University, Randolph Technical Institute and UNC at Greensboro will each design and install a game room.

Furnishings, accessories and carpet samples will be displayed and in the background of each space, will be several cutouts of fashions models. Some of the fashions to be modeled are the gypsy look, the Chinese, the layered, the sporty, stripes and caftan styles. Some of the models will have clothing painted on, and some will be dressed in fabrics matching that of the furnishings or accessories.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays and from noon to 6 p.m. on Sundays.

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Saturday

St. James United Methodist Church was the scene of the Saturday wedding of Barbara Hardee Hale and John Allen Hammett. The double ring was performed by the Rev. F. Roderick Randolph at 5:00 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anne Lee Hardee of Greenville, and the late Mr. David W. Hardee Jr. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Esther S. Hammett of Concord, and the late Mr. H. L. Hammett.

The bride was escorted by her brother, David W. Hardee III of Charlotte. She wore a formal gown of quiana knit featuring long tapered sleeves and a Queen Anne neckline. Her original picture hat was trimmed with a flounce of quiana and appliques that matched the gown. She carried a bouquet of sonja roses, stephanotis and greenery. She wore pearl earrings and an add-a-pearl necklace.

A program of wedding music was presented by David Winstead of Greenville. Miss Patricia A. Brown sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Wedding Song."

The altar of the church was banked with an arrangement of mixed spring flowers, spiral candelabra and emerald greenery. At the altar was a prayer bench where the couple knelt for the closing prayer.

Mrs. William Harvey McMurray III of Lumberton, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal quiana gown of strawberry featuring chiffon sleeves and Queen Anne neck line. Her picture hat of pink was tied with matching illusion with appliques. She carried a long-stemmed sonja rose tied with ribbon.

The junior bridesmaid was Angela Leigh Hale of Jamestown, daughter of the bride. She wore a strawberry gown similar to that of the honor attendant and carried a long-stemmed sonja rose tied with strawberry ribbon.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown of pink floral print featuring long sleeves, high collar and matching sash. The mother of the bridegroom selected a full length jade green gown featuring a quiana flowing skirt. Both wore white orchid corsages.

The brother of the bridegroom, Lamar E. Hammett, of Concord was best man. Ushers were George H. Hammett of Atlanta, Ga., brother of the bridegroom, and William Harvey McMurray III of Lumberton, brother-in-law of the bride.

For a wedding trip to Nassau, the bride wore a three piece wool pants suit and navy accessories.

The couple will reside in Concord.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School, Greenville, and attended Methodist College and graduated from UHC as a dental assistant. She will graduate in May from Guilford Technical Institute with a degree in dental hygiene.

The bridegroom is a graduate of UNC-CH with a degree in business administration. He is vice president of Hammett Insurance Agency, Inc., Concord. He is currently serving as a county commissioner in Cabarrus County.

Following the wedding, the bride's mother entertained at her home honoring the couple.

The dining room table was covered with an imported white linen cloth embroidered with medallions and Italian lace. A silver epergne of mixed spring flowers and candles was used as the centerpiece.

Mixed greenery and candles were used through the house.

A cocktail and dinner party at the Candlewick Inn Friday evening honored the wedding party, family and outtown-guests, given by the mother of the bridegroom, assisted Mr. and Mrs. Lamar E. Hammett.

The wedding and after-rehearsal party were attended by only close family and friends.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. F. Roderick Randolph.

Miss Susan Gayle Warren Is Bride Of Phillip Ray Leggett

Susan Gayle Warren and Phillip Ray Leggett were united in marriage at the Grindle Creek Church of God Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. B. Morris.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Warren Jr. of Washington. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Leggett of Williamston.

The bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a high neck and sheer yoke edged with Venise lace. Sheer fitted sleeves cuffed at the wrist had appliques of Venise lace and ruffles. The A-line skirt and chapel length train were accented with appliques of lace and edged in Venise.

To complete her attire, the bride wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion edged in Venise lace attached to a Camelot cap of Venise lace. She carried a nosegay of white marguerite daisies and miniature red carnations interspersed with baby's breath and white satin ribbons.

The matron of honor was Joane Williams of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids were Betty Lou Carson of Greenville, and Pansy Gaskins of Grifton.

The attendants' dresses were of red polyester crepe. The empire bodice was designed with A V-neckline edged with ruffles, long fitted sleeves and a floor length skirt. They each carried a long-stemmed white mum with streamers of red and white.

Elmer Leggett, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Van Williams of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Ronnie Warren of Washington, brother of the bride.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Maggie Eatman of Williamston, pianist. "The Twelfth of Never," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer" were sung by Mrs. Dorcas Nicholson of Williamston.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Williamston.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School and is presently employed by Burroughs Wellcome. The bridegroom is presently employed by Coats and Clarks.

The mother of the bride selected a two-piece suit of royal blue polyester. The mother of the bridegroom selected a two-piece suit of pink polyester. Both mothers were remembered with corsages of a white carnation.

The director of the wedding was Mrs. Margaret Landen of Greenville. Presiding at the register was Mrs. Judy James of Vanceboro.

Following the rehearsal Friday, a rehearsal party was held in the church annex. After the bridal couple cut the traditional first slice of wedding cake, guests were served by Mrs. Alton Warren, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Kenneth Woolard, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch.

Mrs. Tucker Is Speaker

The King's Daughters meeting was held Wednesday afternoon in the church parlor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

The highlight of the meeting was a talk on The Lord's Prayer by Mrs. Ethel G. Tucker. She reviewed each section of the prayer.

It was decided to contribute $100 to the Salvation Army to be used in distributing fuel to the needy. A plea was made for used stamps from envelopes, Campbell Soup labels and for clothing to be sent to Indian schools.

Miss Mary Wells, president, conducted the meeting. She stated that a committee is working on a scholarship recipient to be sent to Chatauqua, N. Y., this coming summer.

Mrs. Cora Powell and Mrs. Roy Lokken, hostesses, served refreshments following the meeting.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Had there been an official death notice, my husband would have been among the mourners in the front row making a fool out of himself.

Just a simple obituary would have grabbed him, like, "Pockets in men's trousers died today on a table in the NY garment industry. Death was sudden, and no reason was given for the expiration.

"Pockets may best be remembered for jamming hands, holding keys, handkerchiefs, and billfolds, and hanging thumbs on to look cool. A spokesman for the industry said as yet no successor to the pocket has been named, but handbags for men are being considered."

"I don't believe this," said my husband, coming out of the fitting room. "I cannot possibly buy a pair of trousers like this."

"You said that the first time you tried on a pair of trousers without a little pocket for your railroad pocket watch and you didn't own a railroad pocket watch."

"This is different," he said. "Look at this. Where am I going to carry my billfold, my comb, my handkerchief and my 55 pounds of credit cards?"

"There's a rear pocket."

"If I put a piece of lint in that rear pocket I would never be able to sit down."

"It gives you a smoother line."

"Compared to what?"

"Compared to the Hans Brinker pants you've been wearing. Face it, Bunkie, knickers are out!"

"Has it been that long since I've bought a pair of trousers?"

"Obviously. You had to be shown how the zipper worked."

"Oh c'mon, you make me sound like a super clothes conservative. I like change as well as the next man, but I don't want to go through life with my hands folded in prayer because I have no place to put them."

He wore his new trousers the other evening. As we prepared to leave the house he cooed, "Could you carry my billfold this evening? And my comb? My glasses? My 55 pounds of credit cards? And my snapshots? And nail clip? And a few nose tissues? I hate carrying a bag. Besides, those puny things don't hold anything!"

"What about your compact?" I asked bitterly.

"I'll borrow Fred's," he grinned.

On The Young Side

By JANET GANTT

Rose High clubs have combined in a general effort to aid the Pitt County Heart Association in their Queen of Hearts Drive.

After being approached by representatives from the Heart Association, Rose High's Student Government Association referred the project to the newly formed Inter-Club Council in order to broaden student involvement.

The project will involve several fund-raising ideas from various school clubs. Each club who participates will nominate two girls for Rose High's Queen of Hearts. In future weeks, the nominees will be considered for Rose High's Queen of Hearts, who will represent our school in a banquet given by the Heart Association. Joining Rose High's representatives will be the queens from other participating schools in Pitt County.

A variety of projects for the drive will be undertaken by different students. Citizens from Greenville are asked to help the school's efforts to raise money for the Heart fund by getting involved in one of the activities.

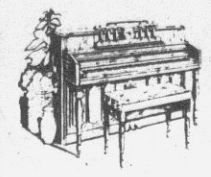

Math and Science-Ecology Clubs combined to hold a "Rock-a-thon" that lasted all night. Members rocked in a chair during the wee hours while raising money. Sponsors were solicited during the week and were asked to pledge donations by an hourly rate. The project proved a success due to the members vitality.

A "crazy legs" contest has been adopted by the Anchor and Health Careers Clubs for the near future. Featuring pictures of different "crazy" legs, kegs will be set up so students will be able to vote for the best set of legs through their donations.

Keywanettes decided to plan a card table-game session to collect funds. Although an exact date has not been set for the affair, the girls are diligently planning for the event.

In addition to the Heart Fund activities, the school's SGA went through a transition period for second semester representatives. The process was accomplished smoothly and plans for the last half of the year were layed out. Whether the plans will become realities might be seen in the coming weeks.

Report Given WOTM Chapter

Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, heard a report of a fund-raising project of the chapter's Hospital Committee at the chapter night meeting Thursday at the Moose Temple. Two new members were also enrolled.

Mrs. Susan Tatum, hospital committee chairman, told of the fashion tea sponsored by the committee in November. She described the planning and staging of the tea and reported it successful from a profit standpoint.

Mrs. Gertrude Littleton and Mrs. Patricia Haddock were named new members.

Following the program and enrollment, members had refreshments served by the Hospital Committee.

She Fights For Others From Wheelchair

By THOMAS FERRARO

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A car driven by a teen-ager who ran a red light slammed into one driven by Peggy Bendrick crippling her for life. But she's not bitter.

It happened in Reading, Pa., in 1964. The mother of six, Mrs. Bendrick was six months pregnant at the time. Paralyzed from the chest down, she still managed to give birth to her seventh child, a boy.

Today, the baby is a healthy 12-year-old. Mrs. Bendrick is a wheelchair crusader for the handicapped.

"I don't ask 'why me?' because I know," she says of the accident that made her a paraplegic. "It had the purpose of having me help other handicapped people and those who follow me. I don't mean to sound corny or to be waxing religion.

"I believe it."

A gifted speaker and tireless worker, Mrs. Bendrick, 52, wants equal rights and opportunities for the physically disabled. She has taken her fight to the state and federal governments, doctors and hospitals, architects and builders and the Catholic Church.

Her goals include bringing down architectural barriers to the handicapped and providing more medical facilities for patients with spinal cord injuries.

Mrs. Bendrick has been a regular fixture at the Virginia General Assembly the past few years, serving as an unpaid lobbyist for the disabled.

At her insistance, a ramp was installed at the State Capitol, a number of bathroom stall doors were replaced with curtains and street curbs cut so persons in wheelchairs could better get around downtown.

She helped prevent relocation of a veterans hospital, persuaded a movie theater to make room for wheelchairs, is urging a Catholic church to provide for handicapped parishioners.

"I am trying to show the General Assembly and the public that we are still people," she said. "In spite of our disabilities, we still have productivity. Our brains still work. We should be given a chance."

Mrs. Bendrick scored a major victory with passage in 1975 of a state code barring architectural barriers to the disabled in public buildings. She is back at the 1977 legislature attempting to get tougher enforcement of the new building code.

Mrs. Bendrick says one of the biggest barriers is not physical.

"It is one of attitude. People in wheelchairs scare the hell out of others. They think, 'There but for the grace of God go I.'"

After her accident, Mrs. Bendrick was hospitalized for months and divorced soon after returning home.

"I wallowed in self-pity for more than a year," she says.

After hearing of the spinal cord injury center at McGuire Hospital in Richmond, she used insurance money and alimony payments to move to Richmond in 1966. McGuire's was strictly for veterans, but she managed to get in by working as a volunteer.

In 1971, a young paraplegic she knew managed to learn to write, but was unable to go to college because architectural barriers prevented him from entering classroom buildings.

"That's when things began clicking," she says. "This kid paid taxes but couldn't get into college he helped build with his taxes. I figured if he learned to write, he deserved a chance to use his brain again."

Mrs. Bendrick went to the state legislature and federal government pressing for change in the way the handicapped were treated. Her efforts resulted in her becoming a member of city, state and national committees for the handicapped.

"Most of them are nothing but paper pussy-cats," she says. "But the White House Conference on the Handicapped meeting in Washington this spring will hopefully accomplish something."

Recently she completed a book, "Tools," containing a selection of her poems and short essays. One poem reads:

"I've managed to climb some mountains and I'm scarred from slipping; and falling hurting and crying; but determination defies defeat
To those faced with like ascent of ominous, threatening heights please, take my hand come roll with me."

PEGGY BENDRICK. . .sits outside the State Capitol in Richmond thumbing through a pile of bills pending before that body. Mrs. Bendrick, crippled in a 1964 auto accident, has become a wheelchair crusader for the handicapped, taking her battles for equal rights and opportunities for the physically disabled to state and federal governments, doctors, hospitals, architects, builders and even the Catholic church. # Winter Cookout Suffers 'Bite'

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

If anyone asks how to eat outdoors in freezing weather, the answer is, "quickly."

Preferably following Amy Greenberg's example: she can maneuver a knife and fork while wearing mittens. Miss Greenberg was a guest at a cookout lunch in January in a snowy city park in the New York City borough of Queens. Our host was an upstate food manufacturer extolling the virtues, if that's the right word, of year-round cookouts.

Even Eskimos have it better. At least they get to eat in their igloos instead of standing around on several inches of hard-packed snow or sitting on outdoor benches beneath bare trees from which melting snow is dripping.

Forest Park's regular individual grills were buried beneath two recent snowfalls, so our host had brought his own, a two-by-six-foot legless design that sank into the snowbank as the fire grew hotter and cooking progressed.

That was the least of our problems.

Ernst Fischer, an Austrian-born viticulturist and winemaker from Naples, N.Y., who had come along to make a hot, spiced red wine drink, had to set his kettle directly on the coals to get the beverage to drinking temperature in 32-degree weather.

The cook used the same technique to heat soup.

An appetizer of cocktail franks wrapped in bacon turned out to be a poor choice because the bacon burned before the franks heated up.

The main course of marinated, skewered beef cubes browned beautifully on the outside but remained cold and raw within, again a victim of the freezing air. Smaller pieces that did manage to get warm lost their heat in the couple of minutes it took to carry the plate of meat and rolls from the grill to a table about 12 feet away.

The relish course had rigor mortis. It was hard to tell if the crispness of celery and carrot sticks and green beans was due to brief cooking or frostbite.

Not surprisingly, the hit of the meal was toasted marshmallows. At least they stayed hot long enough to go from stick to mouth without any of the usual risk of burning your tongue.

Don't Bully Young Son

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is positively driving me up the wall. Our 7-year-old son still wets the bed—every night!

We've tried everything, including taking him to several doctors. They all say there is nothing physically wrong with him.

I am sick and tired of washing sheets and pajamas every day. Please tell me how to handle this.

READY TO GIVE UP

DEAR READY: You say you've tried "everything." If you haven't tried the "Wee Alert Buzzer" (Sears catalogue), please do. If that doesn't work, continue to wash the sheets and pajamas every day and say nothing.

Now I'll tell you what NOT to do: DON'T tell your son that he could quit if he really wanted to—that he's just too lazy to get up and go to the bathroom; that he's a "baby"; that you're ashamed of him, and he is driving you up the wall.

Resign yourself to the fact that you are only one of about 20 million American mothers with the same problem, and although it's not pleasant, there are worse fates.

If there were no bedwetters in your family, there probably were on your husband's side because bedwetting is usually hereditary. And be sure to tell your son that, too. It will make him feel less guilty.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a wonderful fellow. He is kind, considerate and polite. He is almost perfect. Ours is a long-distance romance, as he travels, but when we get together with other people, I find he has one fault that is very irritating.

He likes to do more than his share of the talking. With me alone, this is not true. I am a rather quiet person and seeing him dominate every conversation in public irritates me.

Should I mention this to him, or let it go? I am afraid that after we marry, this may be a sore spot with us.

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Yes, tell him in as kind a way as you can. Not in criticism, but in "love." If you let it go, the irritation will grow, and the first time he leaves the cap off the toothpaste you're apt to clout him with a skillet.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were both born in Germany. Our two children were born in the States. I think our children should be taught to speak the language of our native country, but my husband does not agree with me.

Last summer I took the children to Hamburg to visit their grandparents, and they learned to speak a little in my native tongue. When we returned home my husband was furious. He refused to speak to the children in anything except English. He says, "We are Americans and should speak only the language of our country, and I don't want to hear any other language spoken in this house!"

My husband's attitude puzzles me. Is he wrong, or am I?

MILWAUKEE MRS.

DEAR MRS.: I think your husband is wrong. The more languages a person knows, the better educated he is.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Cast And Scenario In Howard Hughes Will Contest

By JACK V. FOX

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Before the Howard Hughes estate is finally settled, if ever, a lot of people may almost wish that Melvin Dummar's "Mormon will" had turned out to be the real McCoy.

It had, at least, the virtue of simplicity.

It sliced up the Hughes' pie in neat and unambiguous wedges, the smallest of which was 1-32nd of the eccentric billionaire's fortune with the Utah gasoline station operator getting 1-16th.

A Nevada court has still to rule it formally a fake but Dummar's admission that his fingerpints are all over the document contrary to his earlier protestations that the windfall came as a complete surprise would seem to make that outcome a near certainty.

If that happens, everyone goes back to square one and a battle royal for what is probably the biggest private fortune ever left by an individual in the history of the United States.

Suits have already been filed in Nevada, California, Texas, Delaware and Florida may get a piece of the action.

The three vital questions to be answered are:

— What was Hughes' legal domicile when he died last April on a flight from Acapulco, Mexico, to Houston, Texas?

— Did he leave a will or did he die without any instructions on how his wealth should be divided?

— Was there a "lost will" and is there any way of determining its provisions?

Texas and California are eager to establish that Hughes' legal residence was in their state. They stand to take an estimated $300 million off the top in inheritance taxes no matter who the fortune goes to. Nevada has no inheritance tax.

If Hughes died "intestate" — without a will — the law provides the estate goes to his blood relatives. He had no children, brothers or sisters but there are a number of relatives on both the maternal and paternal sides.

There is evidence that Hughes did draw up at least one will in 1938 and put it in a safe deposit box in a Houston bank. It has not been found. There is also reason to believe it may have provided that the bulk of his fortune go to medical research.

Hughes' closest living relative is an aging maternal aunt, Annette Lummis of Houston. Her son and Hughes' nephew, William Rice Lummis, was named last summer as chairman of the board of Summa Corp.

The billionaire sold the Hughes Tool Co., the keystone of his fortune, for several hundred million dollars in 1972 and created Summa in which he privately held all the shares. It administered all his various enterprises except the Hughes Aircraft Co. of Culver City, Calif.

The aircraft company is owned by the Hughes Medical Institute of Miami, Fla., but its trustees include Summa officials William Gay, Chester Davis and Nadine Henley.

Summa has continued to direct operations and Lummis has been named temporary administrator of the estate in Nevada, Texas and Delaware where Summa is incorporated.

Another maternal first cousin, Richard C. Gano Jr., of Anaheim, Calif., was named by a court as special administrator in probate litigation in California. He is under orders from the court to report by March 18 on a search for the so-called 1938 "lost will."

There are a number of other relatives including three paternal cousins in the Los Angeles area.

The Hughes' relatives have got together and signed an agreement among themselves providing that the paternal relatives will inherit 25 per cent of the estate and the maternal relatives will split the remainder in varying proportions.

It is to their interest that a finding be made that no will existed which makes it ironic that Gano has been directed to try to find the "lost will."

Its existence is given substance by a typewritten letter dated March 3, 1938, addressed to a Houston bank saying that attached were two envelopes, one of which was a will, and directing they be put in a safety deposit box.

Recently there was also discovered a handwritten codicil, apparently to that will, directing that one of the beneficiaries be removed because he had left Hughes' employ.

If that will, as rumored, left most of the fortune to medical research the relatives would be out in the cold.

One oblique substantiation of that intent came in a telephone interview Hughes had from the Bahamas in 1972 with seven newsmen in Los Angeles discrediting the Clifford Irving book as a hoax. One of the newsmen asked about Hughes interest "in the medical profession and in furthering medical matters with some of your funds."

"Well, in that I'm most interested," Hughes replied.

"Eventually, that's where the bulk of my estate will go. In other words, there is nothing that interests me more than medical research and the question for better living facilities and better health and better medical standards, not only in the United States but throughout the world."

Hughes' legal domicile is hotly disputed.

The relatives and Summa Corp. contend that it was Las Vegas where he lived in seclusion in the penthouse of the Desert Inn from 1966 to 1970

On Thanksgiving Eve of 1970 he was whisked from the hotel to the airport and until his death he lived variously in Nassau, London, Nicaragua, Vancouver, B.C., again the Bahamas and finally Acapulco.

The Texas attorney general's office contends that Houston was his legal residence. The state argues that was his birthplace, the origin of his fortune and that he was planning to live there when he made that last flight from Mexico.

The state of California has not yet formally intervened but the ball is being carried by Gordon Treharne, a member of the Los Angeles County Counsel's office, who contends that Los Angeles was for all purposes Hughes' domicile.

Hughes lived in Los Angeles during the years he held majority control in TWA, owned a movie studio, built the "Spruce Goose," broke aviation speed records and married actress Jean Peters.

Treharne argues that even after he left Los Angeles and went into isolation, he ran his entire empire through an elaborate communications post on Romaine Street through which he issued telephonic commands to his aides from all over the world.

In this jet age and in view of Hughes' constant movement in his late years, Treharne contends, he could almost be considered a "man without a country" with "Romaine" as his one solid tie.

The value of Hughes' estate is as big a mystery as the other aspects of his life.

It has been valued from $1 billion to $4 billion with a sort of journalistic consensus setting it at $2.4 billion, largely on the basis of an investigation by a business magazine in the 1960s.

The brokerage house of Merrill, Lynch has been paid some $400,000 just to make an inventory of Hughes' assets and their value in the present market and perhaps to put a price on his stock.

Those operations known to be part of the Summa Corp. "umbrella" include seven hotel-casinos in Las Vegas; 1,200 mining claims and other land in Nevada; the airline Hughes Air West, a helicopter manufacturing company in Culver City, Calif., a golf course, a television station and a private airport in Las Vegas, an architectural company and large raw land holdings in Southern California including valuable beachfront property.

Hughes owned every single one of the 75,000 shares in Summa Corp.

The stock certificates are now held in a vault in the Bank of America main office in Los Angeles.

The question is: Who do they belong to?

Brazil's Illegal Aliens Live A Difficult Life

By OSCAR AZEVEDO

SANTOS, Brazil (AP) — They meet every night in the red light district of Santos to discuss the news, find out what ships have arrived in port, discuss plans to hoodwink immigration authorities or novel schemes to find a Brazilian woman who will help them survive in this foreign land.

They are Brazil's illegal aliens, a legion of men without a country who have slipped across a southern border or have been smuggled in aboard ships of a hundred nations.

They include Chileans, Argentines, Bolivians, Uruguaians, Chinese and Algerians, most of them now trying to get their Brazilian documents or to find work on a ship which will hire them without papers.

Santos, a city of about 350,000 persons, lies on the Atlantic coast in the southern Brazilian state of Sao Paulo. It is the major export point for Brazil's coffee crop and principal outlet for products of the city of Sao Paulo, Brazil's industrial heart.

Santos has a flourishing red light district, whose bars and clubs attest to the multinational character of the port.

A typical group of Brazil's illegal aliens can be found each night at 9 in front of the Love Story Bar, waiting to meet new girlfriends or waitresses with whom they've already struck up an acquaintance.

It's possible that some of these men may be political refugees, but politics is a forbidden subject among them.

Whatever brought these men to Santos, they share the same problem — conflict with the federal immigration law passed Oct. 13, 1969, which regulates residence in Brazil. To get permission to reside in Brazil on a permanent basis, these men must get documents, and a major complaint is that they must pay U.S. $500 or more to get their papers through despachantes — lawyer-like persons who are employed because they know the ins and outs of Brazil's massive and forbidding bureaucracy.

Aliens say the despachante's sometimes shady reputation is matched by the shady reputations of some of the maritime agents who contract these men to work on ships.

A source at Santos' immigration bureau said one problem they had was captains who took on aliens with only tourist passports and passed them off as members of the crew. The men sneak off the boat at the first port in which they arrive.

Money problems are endemic among the aliens. It is common talk that a number of them find their solution in the many women who work in one capacity or another around the Santos port.

The immigration bureau here has five squads of agents working steadily to round up the illegal aliens who arrive in Santos and live within a six-mile area along the coast.

Brazil willingly accepts immigrants with technical skills ranging from civil engineering to aeronautics, sheetmetal workers, high seas fishermen, and winemakers. Unskilled laborers are not so welcome and Fernando Paes de Barros of the immigration department said the country already had sailors in excess.

He said immigration officers, customs authorities and health officials watched boats closely to make sure no illegal aliens slipped ashore but people without proper documents managed to get ashore anyway.

If an alien is discovered on board, the captain of the boat is held responsible and is not allowed to let the person off, Barros said. If the boat is staying a while the alien is taken to a special cell at immigration, where he stays in custody until he can be repatriated at the expense of the maritime agent representing the boat on which he arrived.

Lot Of Truth In Old Saying

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — "He'll warm up when his blood thins out," the old saying goes, and there's probably a lot of truth to it.

According to Dan Deavers, a research scientist at the University of Missouri, when you're out in the cold the fat cells in your body become thinner and more fluid. This chemical change, due to enzymes, tiny protein molecules necessary for virtually all bodily processes, enables your body to continue functioning properly in cold weather.

Another phenomenon that occurs when you're out in the cold is that enzymes speed up specific chemical reactions which generate heat, allowing you to maintain a stable body temperature even in cold weather.

Drink to me only with thine eyes,
And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss within the cup,
And I'll not ask for wine.
The thirst that from the soul doth rise
Doth ask a drink divine;
But might I of Jove's nectar sup,
I would not change for thine.
I sent thee late a rosy wreath,
Not so much honouring thee
As giving it a hope, that there
It could not wither'd be.
But thou thereon didst only breathe,
And sent'st it back to me;
Since when it grows, and smells, I swear,
Not of itself, but thee.

Adventurer Enjoys Reliving Grand Old Irish Tale

By FRED T. FERGUSON

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who discovered North America?

Columbus. But:

The Norwegians say the Vikings did it. There's talk it was Phoenicians. Some say Libyans. The Portugese claim it. A Harvard professor is convinced it was the Celts.

So why not the Irish?

"You bet your life," says Timothy Severin, an Englishman, who's pretty much betting his on an Irish monk name Brendan, since canonized.

Severin has been sporting an Irish brogue ever since he started floating around in the North Atlantic in an oxhide boat shaped like a banana.

Tim and crew of four actually sailed — floated — that 36-foot thing as far as Iceland last summer. They called a halt with the onset of hurricane season but plan to push off from Reykjavik again in May, or whenever the wind is blowing their way.

Destination: Boston by way of Greenland, Labrador, Newfoundland.

"I'm not saying that the Irish necessarily were the first to come to America. There could have been a couple of people beforehand," said Tim at a reception amid the nautical splendor of the New York Yacht Club. "And I'm not saying that our crossing will prove they did come. But it will show that they could have and how.

"They knew the world was round. They had access to Greek and Latin. The Greeks had worked this out, that the world was round. It was the Dark Ages. Men of learning had fled to Ireland, which was the farthest you could flee."

Preserved from the Middle Ages is a manuscript, the Navigatio, describing St. Brendan's voyage.

"The Irish monks preserved the learning of Europe," said Tim, a dark-eyed terrier of a tweed-clad man. You have the feeling there is a ready bark behind the quick grin.

"Maybe Columbus even got the whole idea from reading it. We don't know."

There is much in the tale that is far fetched, fanciful. He admits it.

"Like the time Brendan says they built a fire and cooked on the back of a whale. There's a bit of the grand Irish tale there.

"But I tried to think of what it was like 1,000 years ago. The whales came right up to our boat last summer although they would dive from motor vessels. But back then, these animals would never have seen a boat. They would have no sense of fear. They would hover around. The monks would be afraid. But afterwards, they would be human. They would embellish the telling of it."

Severin, 36, describes himself as an author-historian. Add in adventurer. He traced Marco Polo's route by motorcycle, canoed down 2,300 miles of Mississippi River. It's all grist for his books.

This Brendan venture was his Texas-born wife's idea.

Ten years ago, Tim, born in India, son of a tea plantation manager, an Oxford graduate, married Dorothy from Dallas, a medievalist he met when she was at Radcliffe and he between adventures and a researcher at Harvard. They have a daughter, Ida, 5.

Both knew of the Navigatio. It was the medievalequivalant of a best seller. Translated into English, French, German, Italian, Norwegian, even Catalan, 88 manuscripts of it have survived.

Mrs. Severin's studies — she now teaches at the University of London — led Tim back to the Navigatio. He became enthralled with the theory, first expounded 30 years ago, that it was really an account of a voyage to America.

The Navigatio tells how Brendan and 17 other hardy monks set out in a curragh — some Irishmen still use these strange craft — on a lengthy voyage with stops along the way. Descriptions of these stops seem to depict specific islands in the Hebrides and the Faeroes as well as Iceland's volcanic coast and the barren shore of Greenland. Tim felt the possibility of coincidence was remote.

Finally, after many adventures Brendan and his monks reached what the Navigatio calls a pleasant land of autumn sunshine, far to the west, with tall trees at the mouth of a great river. The St. Lawrence, Tim believes.

All this was in the ninth century.

How did the monks subsist? The Navigatio says they took provisions for only 40 days.

"Oh that would be no problem," Tim said. "We had supplies. Dehydrated. Trouble was the waves. Instant mashed salt water potatoes.

"But there was plenty to be had to eat. There were the gulls. We found you could eat them. You could knock them down with your hand. I did. And the monks cooked, we know. The gulls we ate required a lot of boiling. Edible. Not very tasty. A bit strong, you know.

"And there was plenty of rain water. Near land, we were able to fish."

Much went into the building of the boat in which Tim and crew set out last summer. The effort was to build a replica of Brendan's curragh but include modern survival equipment — a rubber liferaft, solar-powered radio, floatation chambers.

Ox hides could be found. Someone who knew how to stitch them was not as easy. The royal warrant saddle makers in London said harness maker John O'Connell was the man for it. Noone knew where O'Connell was. A four-month hunt led Tim to County Cork and a street where he knocked on a door and told the woman of the house, "I'm looking for a fellow called O'Connell."

"She said, 'there are three O'Connells,' but I told her he would be built like a barrell and have the strongest arms she'd ever seen.

"'That'll be John,' she said right off. 'Number 17.'

"O'Connell taught us how. He had the tools. Practically museum pieces. After we built the frame — we got Paddy Lake, who built Chichester's Gypsy Moth, for that — we stitched seven days a week, 14 hours a day from October through January."

The wait for a fair wind delayed the start of the voyage. Once underway, they found the quarters cramped, the living difficult. Several crew members were changed.

"You have to realize," said Tim. "The monks were much smaller people than we are. They lived a very hard monastic life based on abstinance. There's this island we visited. We know they had a monastery there for hundreds of years. The building is there. It's on no more than a rock standing up out of the sea. Half the year, the only way you can get there is by helicopter.

"That's one reason they could have done this. My Lord! What men they were!"

Tim recalls sailing near the Faeroes when "a trawler returning from the cod war passed at night.

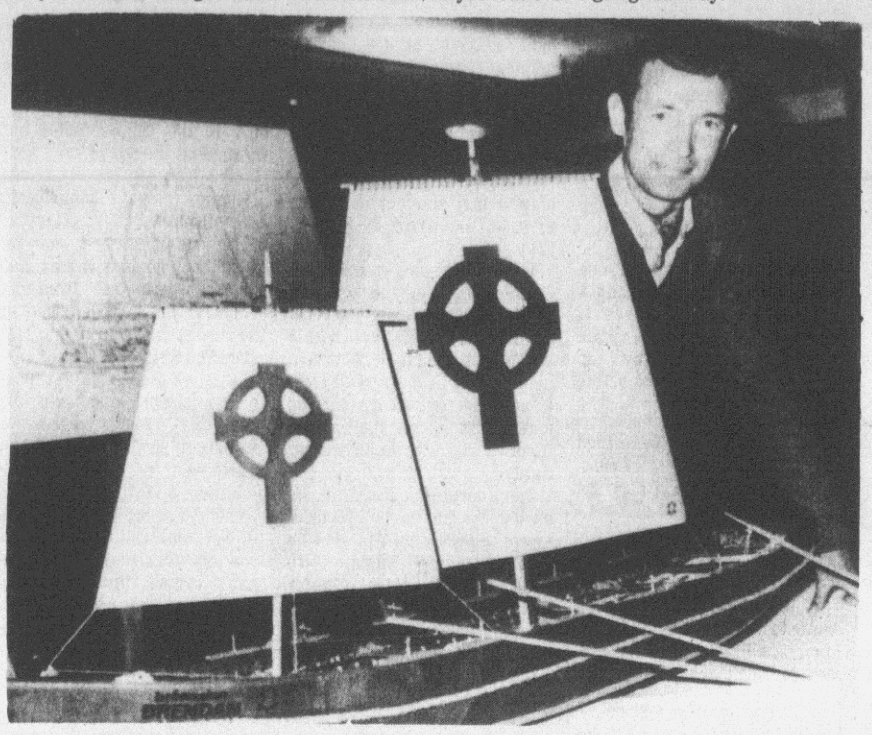

"You know, I think they'd had a bit to drink; had switched on the autopilot.

"We called them on our radio and told them, 'if you look over the side, you'll see us.'

"Later, we heard the skipper calling their shore station. He said he wanted to settle an argument. 'One of my crew says there's this boat with a bunch of mad Irish monks out here.'"

Now Tim, ready to set out again on "The Brendan," concedes "She wiggles a lot.

"We have to go where the wind blows us. Setting a course is not hard. Just head west. The thing is to try to keep going that way."

TIMOTHY SEVERIN displays model of the "Brendan", an oxhide boat in which he and four others plan to sale from Reykjavic to Boston in May. (UPI Photo)

Solar Habitat 1 Takes Winter Cold In Easy Style

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Mike Edds says he's hardly noticed the cold during this coldest winter in years, and he's used only one-fourth the fuel it normally would take to heat a house the size of his.

But then the normal house doesn't have triple-glazed windows, three inches of insulation inside the doors and copper plates absorbing sunlight on the roof.

Edds is resident engineer of Solar Habitat 1, an experiment in alternate-energy housing at the University of Massachusetts here. As part of the deal, he and his wife Peggy get to live rent-free in the home.

The "habitat" isn't finished yet, and neither the 200 square feet of copper plate nor the 60-foot-high windmill that runs a "wind furnace" are fully operational.

Even so, Edds said, the features did their job.

"I didn't really notice the cold," he said. "It hasn't been that bad.... I took readings and the preliminary results showed that we used one-fourth the amount of heat a normal house this size would use during the first two weeks of January. That was primarily because of the specially designed insulation."

Walls and floors are insulated with six inches of fiberglass, the roof panels have eight inches of fiberglass. There's one inch of polystyrene insulation on the outside of the wood walls, and over that is a fiberglass mesh and a compound of cement and plastic.

The doors are high-density plywood with three inches of insulation, the windows have three layers of glass, each fitted with a filter, and incoming cold air "is preheated by the sunlight through the windows," said Edds.

The two-bedroom house is designed so that it can be taken down, moved and put together again. It's about 1,500 square feet, the size of an average New England home.

Electricity generated by the windmill and the sun's warmth from the copper-plated solar collectors are designed to heat water in a 2,000-gallon storage tank in the basement. The design is now being tested. The water is supposed to heat the house through a conventional circulating hot water system.

Habitat 1 has an auxiliary propane gas heating system which engineers believe will be required to provide no more than 20 per cent of the home's heating.

Duane E. Cromack, the project engineer, said the total cost of the system for one home would be about $21,000, beyond the reach of low and middle income families. But if it were being mass produced, he says, it likely would be economically competitive with electric heat.

NO MONKEY BUSINESS

NEW YORK (AP) — "King Kong," the Dino De Laurentiis remake of the 1933 classic, has achieved the highest gross in motion picture history for a Christmas holiday release. In its first 17 days, "Kong" grossed $30,092,157 at 984 theaters in the United States and Canada.

Used Machinery Mart Rebounds

NEW YORK (UPI) — The used machinery market rebounded sharply in 1976 and should be strong much of this year, says Peter Flesch, chairman of the New York-New Jersey Chapter of Machinery Dealers National Association. Sales of used machines last year hit an index figure of 160.4, up from 139.5 in 1975, and second only to the record level of 165.6 in 1974.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Early morning is best time to make whatever plans or decisions are important to you. Also a good time to start a trip or consider who is best able to help you gain the progress that interests you. The rest of the day and evening are fine for thinking over plans already in your mind, making necessary changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have an inspiration in the morning that you can work on later in the day with good results following. Plan how to turn a worthwhile new acquaintance into a good friend. Do not waste time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Decide early what is best for you to do and schedule your activities wisely. Try to meet the expectations of mate and have more harmony. Avoid one who is trying to take advantage of you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning is a good time to come to a better agreement with a partner, but then be sure to do whatever you have promised. Plan how to make some public work very successful. Take time for pleasure with friends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Spend some time planning how to finish work that is ahead of you. Then proceed to do so tomorrow. Take time for health treatments also.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are inspired how best to enjoy yourself and can do so and gain the uplift of spirit you need. Get some work done on a hobby that means much to you. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Listen to what a close tie has to suggest that could be most helpful. Put your principles on a more practical basis. Avoid the temptation to lambast another.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend a group affair where you get fine philosophical precepts on which to base your life in the future. Then visit with friends, relatives you feel can be helpful to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put that theory to work now that can lead to greater success for you and be sure you are practical. Contact those persons who can be of assistance to you. Drive carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make decisions early regarding important matters and then handle the practical work connected with it. Plan how to entertain others and gain their favor. Take no chances where reputation is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try to please your mate more and get personal matters handled in a nice way. Go out socially and make new acquaintances of worth, good character. Take time for helpful meditation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to please friends more and gain their favor so that you can all be happier in the future. Join some group affair that will bring you more friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look to a good friend with plenty of experience to help you in some important civic matter. Attend some social affair where you meet influential persons who can be helpful to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be most ambitious and will want to do more than is humanly possible, but upon reaching maturity will understand better how to organize the life and get the benefits of what has been worked for so hard. Teach early to be more orderly. Give the right kind of spiritual training.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, FEB. 14, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day finds you with poor judgment in deciding the practical means by which you can forge ahead. You will be able to make the right decision later in the day.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A civic matter is not to your liking but it's best to keep mum for now. A new project needs more study to be successful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Something that may be appealing to you early in the day may not be good for you, so bide your time and be sure. Be logical.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't neglect your responsibilities in the morning. Come to a better understanding with mate. Be wise to the ways of others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Show patience in trying to get your allies to go along with your ideas. Think along more constructive lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Do not pay any attention to a co-worker who is depressive. Simply smile and dispel the gloom. Strive for happiness.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Your creativity is high now and you can easily add to present succss. Avoid a troublemaker who could cause you harm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use tact in handling any problems that you may have at home and avoid further trouble. Evening is fine for entertaining.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be sure to keep promises you have made to associates. Do research work that brings you the information you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your assets properly and figure a way to add to your income. Don't neglect needed repairs to property.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't make any radical changes that you may later regret. Forget social affairs during day and avoid possible trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Morning could be a difficult time but patience is necessary and later all improves. Make this a most productive day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Steer clear of opponents who could cause trouble but remain steadfast to your true friends. Be careful in motion today.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will do very well in practical matters and should have the education directed along such lines. Any troubleshooting professions are good here. Take time for religious teaching and permit to participate in healthful sports.

Gardens Can Beat Freeze

DE KALB, Ill. (UPI) — Gardeners worrying about the effect of the winter deep freeze on next spring's vegetables and flowers can relax.

"I do not expect the cold weather to have much effect at all. I think a warm south wind will make us forget all about it, and there will be few if any reminders around," said Paul Sorenson, botanist at the University of Northern Illinois.

Splitt Stossoer, professor of horticulture at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana, said the cold temperatures may force people to plant later but "that will make very little difference. Peppers, tomatoes, lettuce and cucumbers are grown first, then transplanted into the gardens. They will simply be bigger when put into the ground. It also makes very little difference if seeds are planted a week or two later."

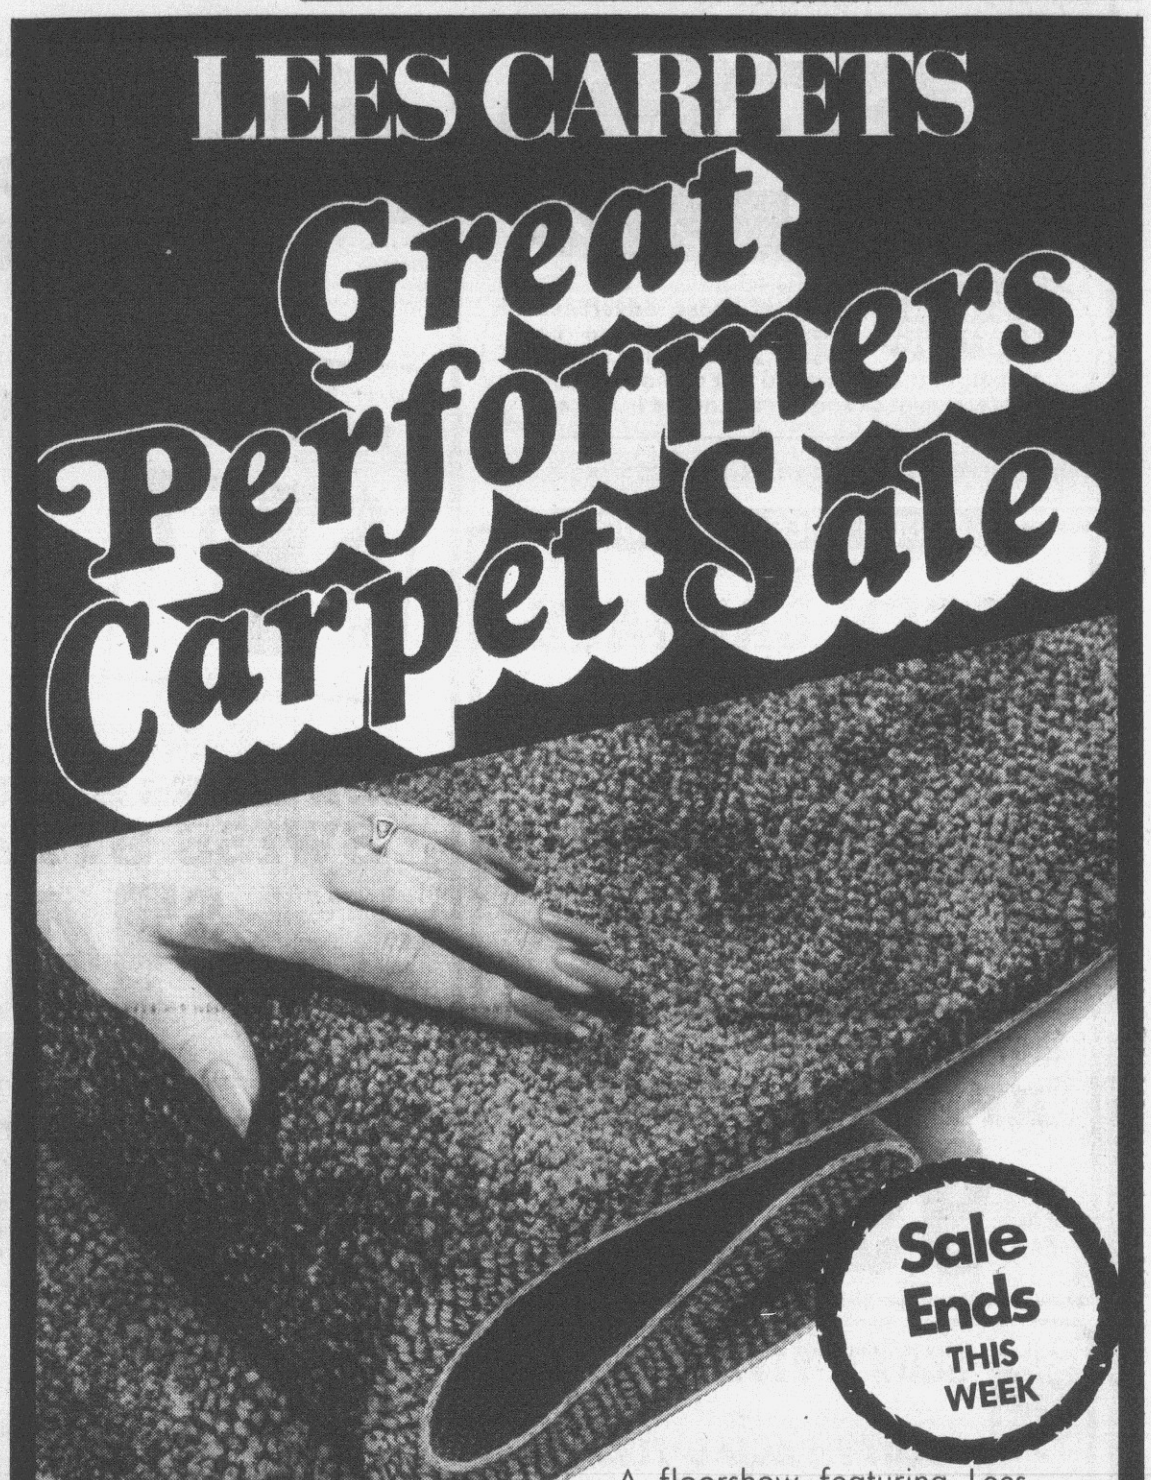

The optimistic forecast depends upon heavy spring rains and the retention of the snow cover.

Sossoer said, "We went into the winter short of water. When everything freezes, new moisture runs off. We will have to depend on spring rains. However, this is more of a problem for farmers than gardeners.

100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS NEW CAR WARRANTY

For 100,000 miles or 3 years we guarantee the motor, transmission, and rear end of every new Toyota we sell. This warranty is in the form of a legal document and supplements the new car warranty of Toyota Motor Sales, USA. Commercial vehicles are excluded. Copy of warranty is on display in our showroom.

"THE ANSWER"

The new Toyota Corolla "The Answer" is Toyota's lowest-priced car with the great gas mileage you'd expect from Toyota. In 1977 the EPA estimates "The Answer" at 49 MPG highway, 36 city. Your actual mileage will vary depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment; but, the answer to more miles per gallon is definitely "The Answer." "The Answer". It's here today. You asked for it. You got it. Toyota.

Standard Features: Welded unitized body construction, MacPherson strut front suspension, transistorized ignition, power front disc brakes, styled steel wheels and more.

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

Leave town. But stay in touch.

A lot of folks who live in Greenville live at Lake Ellsworth. That's because we're the kind of place most folks want. There's the feeling of being away from the hassles of city congestion. Yet you're only minutes away from everything you need... good schools, shopping centers, the hospital, etc.

You'll find a wide range of homes already built or under construction. All with affordable price tags in a wide price range. Or you can pick your builder and pick out your lot if you want.

But Lake Ellsworth is more than homes. It's a way of life. There's a clubhouse next to the swimming pool and tennis courts. And there are already a lot of families who make for a great bunch of neighbors and a great neighborhood.

Come see for yourself. Ask a realtor to show you how to leave town but stay in touch.

Andy Williams Hosts Grammy Awards For The Seventh Straight Year

ANDY — For the seventh consecutive year, Andy Williams, himself a six-time Grammy Award nominee, will host the "Grammy Awards Show." The 19th annual presentation of the prestigious Grammys, will be broadcast live from the Hollywood Palladium, Saturday, Feb. 19 (9:30-11:30 p.m.) on CBS Channels 3N-9-11.

"I'm becoming known as the Bob Hope of the Grammy Awards," jested Andy Williams, who, for the seventh straight year, will host the "Grammy Awards Show," the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences 18th annual presentation of honors for outstanding artistic and technical achievement in the recording field, Saturday, Feb. 19, 9:30 to 11:30 p.m., on CBS Ch. 3N-9-11.

In fact, Williams has been the only host of the Grammy Awards since it was first broadcast live and is obviously pleased with the association.

"Music is, of course, a big part of my life. It's something I've always enjoyed and the response to my work has been most gratifying. If I couldn't sing, I don't know what I'd do."

Williams doesn't have to worry about being a one-hit singer, and he consistently has a hit somewhere on the record charts. Over the years, Williams, who refers to himself as a "singer for the masses," has proven the point with a score of million-selling singles and albums, as well as six Grammy award nominations.

Commenting on the upcoming Grammy Awards, Williams said: "Looking over this year's nominations, I feel that music today is in a very healthy state. In both the Record and Album-of-the-Year categories, a wide range of music has been nominated — from the more mellow songs such as 'I Write the Songs' to the stronger music of Peter Frampton and Elton John. That proves, to me at least, that a wide range of music is appealing to a broad range of people. It's not all rock or pop, and that's healthy."

The prestigious awards show will be presented live from the Hollywood Paladium in a new format. It will feature a special film salute to Atlanta, Ga., the burgeoning recording center of the Southeast, and that city's contributions to the music industry.

Along with the presentation of the awards, which are voted by the membership of NARAS, there is also be performances by a number of award nominees.

'Hasty Pudding' Honors Carson

NBC-TV star Johnny Carson has been named 1977 Man of the Year by the Hasty Pudding Theatricals of Harvard University.

Carson will personally accept the award in Cambridge, Mass., Friday, Feb. 25, opening night of "Cardinal Knowledge," the Theatricals' 129th original production.

Carson has been host of the Emmy Award-winning "Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" since 1962. It is the most popular late-night entertainment series in the history of network television. The Hasty Pudding Theatricals notes that: "In the 90 minutes, he can deliver a witty monologue, confound the audience as Carnac, the Magnificent, and discuss anything from opera to sports with humor and ease."

The Pudding Award is given "to a distinguished performer who has made a lasting and impressive contribution to the world of entertainment." According to Theatricals producer Richard Palmer, Carson's "extended career and sustained excellence make him preeminent among contemporary entertainers." Barry Sloane, the show's co-producer, adds: "He is America's favorite bedroom companion."

Carson is the Pudding's 11th Man of the Year, joining such former recipients as Jack Lemmon, Bob Hope, Robert Redford and Paul Newman.

At Harvard, Carson will receive an authentic Hasty Pudding Pot, the emblem of the Theatricals, and, following his speech, will join the black-tie gala opening night audience of "Cardinal Knowledge."

The Theatricals is the oldest dramatic organization in the United States. Since 1845, Harvard undergraduates have written and produced original musical satires in the historic clubhouse building. In accordance with tradition, all parts are played by men.

Circus Is Held In A Romantic Setting

The sun brilliantly reflected off the blue Mediterranean as, high above the white-capped waves, a flourish of trumpets signaled the beginning of a five-day feast for circus lovers in the jewel-like principality of Monaco.

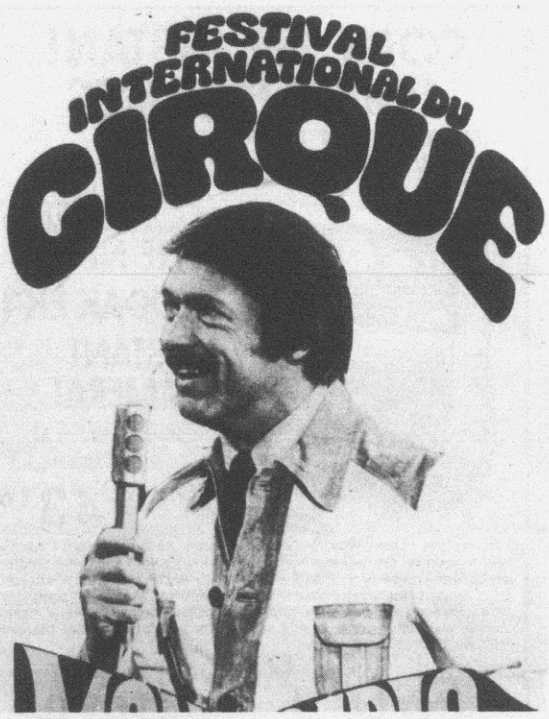

The "Monte Carlo Circus Festival," to be broadcast Wednesday, Feb. 16, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS Ch. 11, was taped on the final evening of the gala event, from among 45 acts who performed for a panel of judges and a throng of circus aficionados; dazzling the crowd with their artistry.

"The animal acts are sensational," claims Chad Everett, host of the program. "Tibor, from a circus in Germany, goes into a cage with six tigers and one lion. He gets two of the tigers to jump through flaming hoops. It's the first time I've seen different breeds of cat in one cage.

"Prince Rainier, who initiated the Festival three years ago, prizes the animal acts most highly. In fact, when these circus people gather here, a lot of mutual problems are discussed. The more humane treatment of circus animals was an important topic this year."

As the Cannes Film Festival in France is important to the film world, so the "Monte Carlo Circus Festival" gives international circus people to observe other acts, to exchange information, and look at what's available in the market-place.

"In addition to animal acts," continues Everett, "there are aerialists and clowns. Judy Merton from Rhodesia, a 28-year-old college graduate, does the most breathtaking trapeze manuevers; the Flying Michaels from Las Vegas do a triple somersault on the trapeze; a balancing act from South America performs without the aid of a net; and a knife-thrower from Switzerland aims his weapons at his assistant, strapped to a moving target.

CIRCUS — Chad Everett is host, during taping in Monaco, to a variety of circus performers, representing some of the greatest acts in the world of circus, in the "Monte Carlo Circus Festival," to be broadcast Wednesday, Feb. 16 (8-9 p.m.) on CBS Channels 7.

Kelly Has No Room For Puns

He's 36, but looks around 26, what with alert blue eyes and a smooth-shaven face that's pure County Sligo. Soft-spoken and mild-mannered, he'd probably never be taken for one of the editors who put together a biting satirical magazine, but that's what he does for a living.

He is Sean Kelly, senior editor of National Lampoon magazine. And he's just turned out a television script. It's called "Making Pictures With Music," a New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert, to be broadcast on "The CBS Festival of Lively Arts for Young People" series, Sunday, Feb. 13, 5 to 6 p.m.

Television's not alien to Kelly, who wrote for the medium in Canada, where he's from. But this is his first States-side effort.

The idea of writing a Young People's Concert struck him as being challenging. "I have three children," he says, " 'television' children. They don't think of television as being 'like' something. To my generation, it was like going to the movies, or a play, or reading a novel. But kids today don't think that. Television's real to them. It's not 'like' anything else."

"Consequently," he continues, "to reproduce the experience of being at a television concert for 'television' children is a fairly pointless exercise. They don't live vicariously through television. Since the child at home doesn't identify with the audience in the hall, it was necessary to make a television show, rather than a televised concert."

Kelly came up with the idea of using "visual effects" during the concert, something to get the kids "involved." "If Michael," he says of Michael Tilson Thomas, the series' conductor-narrator, "is conducting a piece about a storm, he'll be in a storm. If it's a piece about an iron foundry, he'll be in that foundry."

Indeed, at one point, Kelly has the maestro done up as a "hard hat." "We want the audience to think of him as a nice, funny man, as opposed to an authority figure. And I believe we're playing into one of Michael's strengths as a personality. He is a funny, sweet sort of guy. We want the kids to like him, to feel he's on their side."

It's all calculated. The visual effects and Thomas' "acting" are aimed at conjuring up visual images in the works being performed. The hope is that some of the home audience will become hooked on serious music.

Pelicans Explored

Hal Linden, star of ABC News' young people's magazine series, "Animals Animals Animals," explores the world of the pelican in art, history, literature and legend, on the program airing Sunday, Feb. 13, 11:30 to 11:55 a.m.

The show takes viewers to Tampa Bay, Florida, one of the most important remaining nesting sites of the endangered pelican, where ornithologist Ralph Schreiber observes: "Pelicans provide us with a sensitive indication of the marine environment." In discussing the ecological imbalance created by man, Dr. Schreiber describes the defective, soft, scrambled-like eggs produced by birds which have been exposed to DDT and other pesticides.

In Venice, Fla., Rosemary and George Collett maintain a clinic for injured birds such as a red-shouldered hawk that was attacked by a large red-tailed hawk; a screech owl and pelicans, the most numerous of their patients. On call at all hours, the Colletts rescue pelicans and other water birds which have become ensnared in fishing lines or otherwise injured by man.

Edward Lear's classic nonsense fable, "The Pelican Chorus," comes to life in colorful animation. A segment, titled "The Pelican Can," which features film and animation, depicts the life habits of the songless pelican.

Singer-actress Lynn Kellogg performs an original song, "If Only I Had a Pelican's Pouch," and Roger Caras, noted environmentalist and animal expert, provides a commentary about man's careless use of chemicals which has nearly killed off the pelican. Lynn Kellogg and Roger Caras appear each week on the show.

Scenes Present Challenges

OSCAR'S BEST — Distinguished actors Gregory Peck (l) and Walter Matthau will be co-hosts, along with Julie Andrews and Katharine Ross, for "Oscar's Best Movies," a special presentation featuring clips from all of the motion pictures ever to be named Best Picture by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The program airs Sunday, Feb. 13 (9-11:15 p.m.) on ABC Channels 3W-5-12.

When Howard W. Koch accpeted the assignment of producing and directing "Oscar's Best Movies," a star-filled special featuring scenes from the movies that have been named Best Picture of the Year by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, he and his editorial staff were faced with the challenge of presenting the films in a manner that would be unique.

It was no simple job, since the program, which airs Sunday, Feb. 13 (9 to 11:15 p.m., on ABC-TV), features clips from "Wings," the first Best Picture winner, through "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," the winner for 1975.

Julie Andrews, Walter Matthau, Gregory Peck and Katharine Ross will host the program, and stars who will be seen in the film segments include Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Humphrey Bogart, Marlon Brando, Audrey Hepburn, Paul Newman, Robert Redford, Jack Lemmon, Julie Andrews, Bing Crosby and Jack Nicholson.

"Logically, we could have just run them in chronological order, but we found that many of the films fell into certain categories," said Koch. "For example, war in all of its aspects has been covered remarkably in the Oscar winning films. 'All Quiet on the Western Front' and 'Patton' showed the agony of battle scenes, whereas 'Mrs. Miniver' showed what it was like to live in the middle of wartime. 'The Best Years of Our Lives' was a look at the difficulties that faced the returning soldiers of World War II."

While the majority of the films could be placed in thematic categories, Koch said there were some which seemed at first to defy classification. However, when reviewed, they were found to share a most important common denominator.

"We looked at those films," declared Koch, "and found that it was individual acting performances that made them great. Paul Muni in 'The Life of Emile Zola,' Gable and Laughton in 'Mutiny on the Bounty' and Jack Nicholson just last year in 'One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest' are all examples."

However, observed Koch, the best films are yet to be made. "The advances in techhology and the maturity of the subject matter today allow for a remarkable chance to produce films of major importance. The past has been wonderful," he said, "but it's the future that we all look to most eagerly. 'Oscar's Best Movies' will continue for many years to come."

Donald Duck Honored

Why has Donald Duck never married?

This question, along with many others that have preyed upon countless minds, will be answered on "This Is Your Life, Donald Duck." A host of Disney cartoon characters including Mickey Mouse, Pluto, Chip 'n' Dale and Jimmy Cricket pay tribute to everyone's favorite feathered friend when this animated hour show airs on "The Wonderful World of Disney," Sunday, Feb. 13, at 7 p.m., on NBC Channel 6-7.

It's not that Donald hasn't entertained thoughts about getting married. The fact of the matter is, Donald actually dreamed himself out of marriage!

To fully appreciate Donald's dilemma, one must race his romantic career. In the 1937 cartoon "Don Donald," our hero met his heart-throb, a temptuous senorita. His girl friend was first given the name Donna Duck. When Donald's car broke down, so too did his romance.

Donna next appeared in 1940 in "Mr. Duck Steps Out" as long-lashed, vivacious Daisy, the Lana Turner of the Disney lot. In this production, Daisy and Donald protray two top-notch jitterbugs, rug-cutting their way through hot music and plenty of laughs. Since then, Daisy's success as a screen star has been assured.

But her success has, at times, been Donald's failure. In "Donald's Double Trouble," Donald meets his double and schemes to use him to win back Daisy's love. But Daisy falls for the "new duck," something Donald hadn't counted on. A fight in the "tunnel of love" leaves Daisy soaked and both Donalds running away to escape her wrath.

When a falling flower pot lands on Donald's head in "Donald's Dilemma," it causes the duck to believe he's a great singer. Just when he's ready to perform at Radio City Music Hall, Daisy drops another pot on Donald's head, and what was once a deep beautiful voice turns to the oh-too-familiar quack. Thus, a promising radio career literally goes to pot.

In "This Is Your Life, Donald Duck," Daisy finally tells how she is almost successful in snaring her duck in marriage - until he has a dream. During his slumber, Donald imagines what married life would be like. The joys of wedded bliss take a sharp turn for the worse when he sees himself chained in fornt of the kitchen sink surrounded by stacks of dirty dishes. It's thoughts like this that cause Donald to awake, run out of Daisy's house and "duck out" on the whole idea.

HE MUST BE GOOD

Billy Dee Williams must be a smash hit as "Scott Joplin: King of Ragtime." Executives at Universal Studios are now considering releasing the film as a theatrical movie rather than a movie-for-TV as originally planned.

Bergman Introduces Series

Ingrid Bergman, lithe and lovely in a grey knit pants suit, stood by the door of her New York hotel room and waved a welcoming hand. "Right this way," she called, smiling, blonde hair casually short, her only makeup, lipstick, her beauty still dazzling.

"I've very happy to talk about the 'Childhood' series," Miss Bergman said, seating herself on a couch, "because I think these programs are excellent, both for grown-ups and children. I was asked to do a little introduction to them now that they're coming to America, and since the plays are so beautifully done, I agreed — and I only hope my participation will help draw parents and children to enjoy an evening of television together."

Miss Bergman is making a rare television appearance by providing a frame of reference for each of the five one-hour dramas which make up "Childhood."

HEADS FOR COURTS

Geoff Edwards, host of the new daytime game series "Shoot for the Stars," is a tennis enthusiast and enters celebrity tournaments whenever his busy schedule permits.

NEW "NANCY DREW"

Pamela Sue Martin has been signed for the title role of the "Nancy Drew" series which will air on ABC-TV. The new series is now being filmed on location in Oregon.

Lack Of Heart Makes Him Blue

Adults' memories of their primary school Saint Valentine's Days are often a pleasant blur of unevenly cut out paper hearts, cards signed with question marks, and fistfuls of thin heart-shaped pink candies with a sugary red scroll that melted in small hands.

Usually more faded from such recollections of childhood is the occasional bit of bitter that went with all that sweetness, the fleeting hurt that could leave a small person feeling a little droopy-hearted, as Charlie Brown feels in "Be My Valentine, Charlie Brown," animated Peanuts special to be rebroadcast Monday, Feb. 14, 8 to 8:30 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11.

"The world of kids is a rough one," says artist-writer Charles M. Schulz, creator and childhood prototype of Charlie Brown.

"A lot of what poor Charlie suffers, we've all suffered," continues Schulz, who remembers the bittersweet excitement of one particular Saint Valentine's Day celebration in grammar school when the class valentine box was opened and the cards were distributed.

"It was like mail call in the Army," Schulz recalls. "Everyone gathered in a group while the names of the lucky recipients were called out. The non-receivers kind of slunk away pretending not to care."

Valentine's Day, with its potential happiness and disappointment, seems made to order for Charlie Brown. He is no stranger to disappointment, and each year he approaches his mailbox with renewed hope, only to find it empty of valentine cards. He also waits in vain for his name to be called when valentines are distributed at school.

"With each of the holiday specials in the series, we try to remind people what the occasion was originally all about and to entertain and have a little fun in the process," notes Schulz.

"We're all inclined to lose sight of the simple pleasantness that a special day is supposed to bring. We're sorry that poor Charlie has to go through such trials and tribulations to prove our point, but he does have a habit of doing things the hard way."

Although he goes home empty-handed from school only to find his mailbox bare, Charlie Brown's Valentine's Day has a good size lump of sugar to sweeten up to bit of bitter.

VALENTINES — Hanging onto his heart, Linus shows Violet what St. Valentine's Day is all about, in the animated Peanuts special, "Be My Valentine, Charlie Brown," to be reboradcast Monday, Feb. 14 (8-8:30 p.m.) on CBS Channels 3N-9-11.

'Seventh Avenue' Continues

Jay Blackman plunges ambitiously into his first venture as a retailer of women's garments, but his success provokes a serious backlash from his threatened competitors and contributes to two agonizing setbacks in his personal life, in the second installment of "NBC's Best Seller: Seventh Avenue," Thursday, Feb. 17, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 6-7. Steven Keats stars with Dori Brenner, Jane Seymour, Anne Archer and Kristoffer Tabori.

Ray Milland, Alan King, Richard Dimitri, John Pleshette, William Windom and Herschel Bernardi, guest-star.

Jay tells his bride, Rhoda, that he is postponing their honeymoon in order to close a deal on a 14th Street bargain dress shop. In weeks, the business is successful but Jay is pressured by Harry Lee, a major Seventh Avenue supplier, to close down. When Jay refuses and sends a message back via his friend, Joe Vitelli, it soon becomes apparent that Lee has his own plans to put the shop out of business.

Trust Producers

Two of the youngest producers in television, Mark Rothman and Lowell Ganz, bring a relationship going back to grammar school to their new comedy creation, "Busting Loose," half-hour series starring Adam Arkin, Jack Kruschen, Barbara Rhoades and Pat Carroll, broadcast Mondays, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11.

The muscular, 29-year-old Rothman and the slender, 28-year-old Ganz were but 12 and 11, respectively, when they became basketball-playing buddies in New York City.

Their friendship continued through Martin Van Buren High School, but no evidence of latent comedic creativity surfaced until they entered Queens College, Rothman as a theater arts major and Ganz as a political science major.

There, as members of a quasi-fraternal organization called "Power House," they teamed up to write a number of campus variety shows. Their well-received efforts led them to believe their future lay in variety, not the situation comedies ("The Odd Couple," "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley") which later would make them one of television's hottest producer-writer teams.

For Rothman and Ganz, too, there was a "crossroads time," which essentially is what "Busting Loose" is about, with Arkin playing a struggling college graduate.

In the case of Rothman and Ganz, frustrations lasted briefly. After enduring a potpourri of "terrible jobs," they wrote an unsolicited script for "The Odd Couple."

Rothman's father, Abe, who owned a limousine business, was a party to the team's plan to sell the script. To the senior Rothman's surprise, series stars Tony Randall and Jack Klugman, on separate occasions, used his limousine. Each read the script and expressed interest.

That fortuitous circumstance led the team first to staff and, ultimately, to head writers' positions with "The Odd Couple" show.

Much of their backgrounds is reflected in "Busting Loose," which Ganz describes as "struggling reality." Like Lenny (Arkin) and his pals, Rothman and Ganz are inveterate poker players, for example.

"If they're in the show, they probably are people we have known," says Ganz.

Ford Appears On NBC

Gerald R. Ford and the National Broadcasting Company have entered into a long-term agreement under which the former Chief Executive will appear in a number of NBC News television programs relating to the Presidency.

In making the announcement, Herbert S. Schlosser, President of the network, said the telecasts would include major NBC News documentaries as well as other programs which would involve commentary by President Ford.

"The opportunity for television to present living history through the eyes of a man who has been President of the United States during soem of the most challenging days our nation has experienced is indeed a rare one," Schlosser said. "We are honored that President Ford has given us this unique opportunity. We look forward to working closely with him in developing a group of programsthat we velieve will be valuable to the American public."

The first major special is tentatively scheduled for 1978. Further details on all the NBC News programs involving President Ford will be announced later.

"COLETTE" TO AIR ON NBC

"Colette," a two-hour NBC "World Premiere Movie" starring Susan Clark in the title role, will be filmed in Paris next summer. The film covers a critical period in the life of the famous French novelist.

RONA JAFFE TO PEN SEGMENT

Rona Jaffe will write one segment of the six-part CBS-TV series based on her novel, "The Last Chance."

The novel is about four women who are unhappy because their dreams did come true.

Series Attracts Big Stars

Why do so many film stars and big name performers, who seldom, if ever, appear on weekly television except to star in their own series or in movies-for-TV, make an exception in the case of "Police Story," seen Tuesdays, 10 to 11 p.m. on NBC Channel 6-7.

"Quality," "prestige," "meaningful," "dramatic," "realistic," "special," are just a few of the adjectives used by actors and actresses to explain why they will give up vacations or squeeze in a performance between motion picture assignments to star on the Emmy-winning series.

The signing of Gabriel Kaplan to star as a narcotics officer in the "One of Our Cops is Crazy" segent caps the fourth season of the series that has seen an unusual number of stars lending their talents to the anthology series.

Kaplan's performance, incidentally, is the first dramatic role he has ever played in a career which has been devoted to comedy.

"I have had an opportunity to work in other dramatic shows," says Kaplan, "but with my 'Welcome Back, Kotter' series, there just wasn't time to do them. But when the 'Police Story' offer came along, I made the time, It's a quality show."

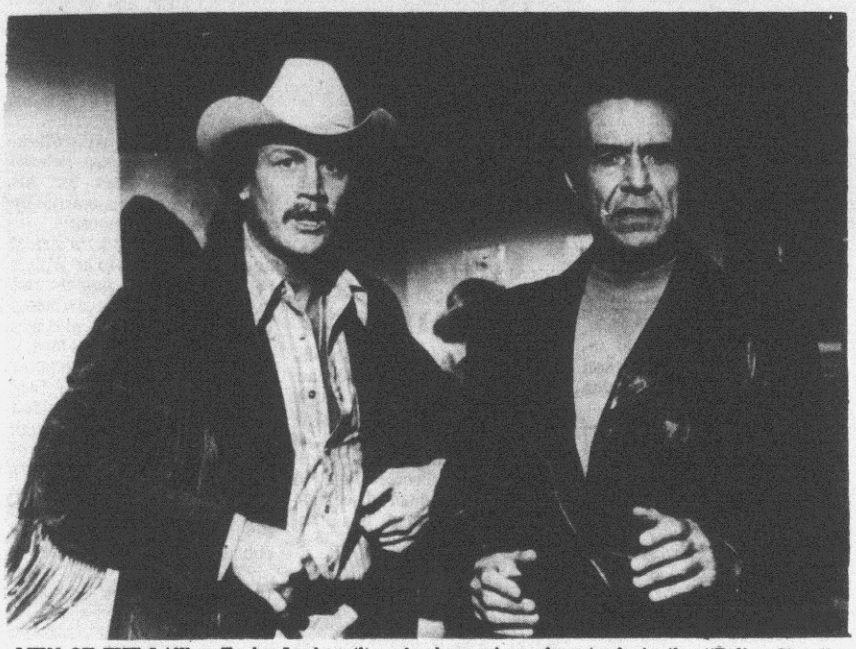

Former pro football great Jim Brown just completed an episode, "End of the Line," which marked his first acting role in a television show since the early sixties when he worked in an "I Spy" segment.

Brown has just compelted producing and starring in his own movies in the Philippines, "Do They Still Laugh in America?" when he received a call from his agent suggesting he accept this role in "Police Story." Brown immediately left for America on the first available plane, arriving at midnight in L.A., was handed the script and the next morning was on the set.

"It's a prestigious show," explained Brown, "And it's good to be a part of something like that."

Donald O'Connor grabbed at the chance to play a reformed junkie who reverts to his old habit again in the "Payment Deferred" episode.

"It was the heaviest dramatic role I have ever played in my career," said the actor, generally noted as a song and dance man. "Opportunities like that don't come along too often and I think it will open a whole new facet of the business for me."

MEN OF THE LAW — Taylor Lacher (l) and Ricardo Montalban portray narcotics investigators who try to nail the dealer and the buyer in a drug trade in the "Police Story" drama "Hard Rock Brown" Tuesday, Feb. 15 (10-11 p.m.) on NBC Channels 6-7.

'Columbo' Is A Favorite

Since its beginning six years ago, NBC's "Columbo" series has proven to be a favorite of TV audiences as well as with people in the industry.

"Columbo," which stars three-time Emmy-winner Peter Falk, has been honored with six Emmy nominations. In addition, in its premiere season, "Columbo" received a "Best New Series" nomination. It also won an Emmy for its 1973-74 season.

For the TV audience, perhaps the most intriguing aspect of the series is the cat and mouse game that Falk plays with the guest villain. At the outset the audience learns who has done what to whom. Then the game begins with the seemingly bumbling Lt. Columbo astutely nudging the villain into mistakes in a game of carefully calculated moves. According to Falk, the jey to the success of the series is the fact that the slow-moving detective stumbles through the world of the rich and famous who regard him as a slow-witted nuisance, and aproves that an underdog servant can outwit his affluent and suave opponent.

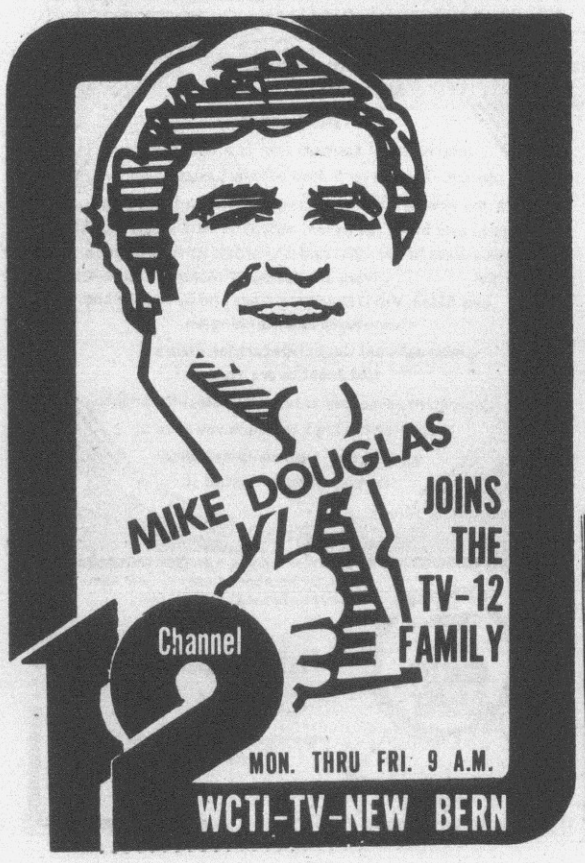

Now viewers can enjoy the best of the "Columbo" segments on the "CBS Late Movies." This week's episode is "Trouble Waters," airing Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 3N-9-11. Patric Macnee guest stars in the role of a captain of a cruise ship which is troubled by crime.

Virus Is A Killer

After a deadly virus kills most of the earth's population, Steven Anders (Peter Graves) and his family wage a grim fight for survival in "Where Have All the People Gone?," the "Tuesday Movie of the Week" Feb. 15, at 11:30 p.m. on ABC Channel 3N-5-12.

Anders and his two children, David (George O'Hanlon Jr.) and Deborah (Kathleen Quinlan), are in a cave during an archeology trip in the high Sierras when a blinding flash of light followed by a low rumble sweeps the earth.

Later they discover evidence that a mysterious virus caused by a radiation explosion has killed virtually everyone on earth.

'Space Odyssey' Presented

"'2001: A Space Odyssey,' a fantastic movie about man's future. A flight of unearthly beauty...fanciful leap across the ages-Life Magazine

"Awesome, often startlingly beautiful...one helluva movie, unlike any other." -Richard L. Coe, The Washington Post

"A stunning trip into the future..a gorgeous, exhilirating and mind-stretching spectacle. Much of what happens is indescribable..." -Emerson Beauchamp, The Washington Evening News

"The physical attributes of the picture continue to dazzle you with the feelings and sensations of one who is truly out there in space" -Archer Winsten, The New York Post

"The special effects in the movie. .are the best I have ever seen..." Renata Adler, The New York Times

Keir Dullea and Gary Lockwood star as two space travelers who venture into uncharted stretches of the universe during the 21st century in producer-director Stanley Kubrick's Academy Award-winning (Best Special Visual Effects) fantasy adventure, "2001: A Space Odyssey," to be colorcast on "The Big Event" Sunday, Feb. 13, 8 to 11 p.m., on NBC Ch. 6-7.

Kubrick, an Academy Award nominee for "Dr. Strangelove, Or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb," received accolades from 85 leading publications and critics, who cited '2001' as the best picture of the year in 1968, when it was initially released.

Opening with a sequence entitled "The Dawn of Man," the epic adventure continues a segment in which moon explorers discover a mysterious monolith that emits a strange sound. As a result of the discovery, scientists and astronauts set out on an 18-month journey to Jupiter in search of the life-source of the Universe.

During the trip, the spaceship's computer-pilot, Hal, begins to behave in a curious way.

Couple Swings

A car carrying fugitives from the law jumps airily over an open swing bridge, two huge vans snap together creating a tunnel too tight for comfort, a relentless lawman pursues his prey in a helicopter and a giggling girl gradually discovers that life "on the road" is a little more dangerous and a lot less satisfying then she had hoped in 'Dirty Mary Crazy Larry," making its television premiere on "The ABC Friday Night Movie," Feb. 18, 9 to 11 p.m., on Channel 3W-5-12.

Peter Fonda stars as a speed-mad racing driver who robs a supermarket to finance his career, with Susan George as a rootless girl who insists on tagging along with him because "I don't have anything else to do." Adam Roarke is Fonda's mechanic and sometime friend, and Vic Morrow is the police officer who refuses to be outraced or outsmarted.

Larry and Deke (Fonda and Roarke) extort $150,000 from a supermarket manager (Roddy McDowall) by threatening his wife and daughter and take off with the money and a bit of baggage they hadn't bargained on — Mary Coombs (Susan George), who refuses to get out of their car.

Capt. Franklin (Vic Morrow) is even harder to get rid of; when the theives elude his roadblocks, he goes after them in a helicopter, trying all available tricks to cut them off before they can cross the state line to freedom.

The elaborate chase-sequence in the film takes more than half the film's running time and involves no less than 18 ingeniously demolished cars and a variety of well-played stunts.

'Sunshine Boys' Airs

"A couple of shining hours. Walter Matthau and George Burns give the performances of their lives . . ." Kathleen Carroll, New York Daily News

". . . filled with the living humor that links all people, all ages, all seasons." Rex Reed

"A classic screen comedy." Judith Crist, Saturday Review

". . . the casting of Burns with Matthau was a brilliant move." Vincent Canby, The New York Times

Oscar winner Walter Matthau ("The Fortune Cookie," 1966) and George Burns, in his Academy Award-winning perforamnce, star as a vaudeville team coaxed out of retirement for one final performance, in "The Sunshine Boys," the comedy based on Neil Simon's Broadway hit, to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Feb. 14, on Channel 6-7.

Matthau portrays Willy Clark, an irascible comic whose professional respect for his partner, Al Lewis, is marred by mutual personal animosity.

When Ben Clark, a theatrical agent who happens to be Willy's nephew, decides to pair the two in a reunion, he finds producers wary and the two partners adamently opposed to the idea.

Matthau and Burns, the latter making his return to the screen after a 36-year absence, couldn't be funnier as they go through paces. Depsite a difference of almost 25 years in age, the stars work extremely well together in a tour de farce, with Richard Benjamin equally important and equally good as the third star.

"The Sunshine Boys" was filmed in New York City, New Jersey and in the MGM Studios, using familiar places and, for the first time, the famed Friar's Club.

Lee Meredith repeats her stage role as the buxom nurse, and Phyllis Diller and Steve Allen make guest-star appearances.

SHOW BIZ TEAM — George Burns (l) and Walter Matthau star as vaudeville comedians who, having once been partners, are coaxed back together for a reunion in "The Sunshine Boys," a comedy presentation on "NBC Monday Night Movie," Feb. 14 (9-11:15 p.m.) on NBC Channels 6-7.

He's Been There

You name the place and chances are Richard Roundtree has been there. The handsome actor at one time worked for the Ebony Fashion Fair, an annual fashion tour that took him to 79 American cities in 90 days. He went to Africa and Paris to make the feature film, "Shaft in Africa," to Beirut, Lebanon, for "Embassy" and to Spain for "Charley One-Eye."

Now he comes to the small screen as the tough, flamboyant street detective in the title role of "Shaft," a role he's done so well. "Shaft" will be rebroadcast as the "CBS Late Movie" Monday, Feb. 14, from 12:30 to 2 a.m. on Channel 3N-9-11.

In the film, Shaft undertakes to free the kidnapped daughter of a drug trafficker and finds himself deeply involved in a plot to shake New York's Harlem crime syndicate to its roots. He is forced to deal with both sides of the law - threatened by the mobsters to keep his nose out of their business, and harrassed by the police, who are afraid of a racial gangland war.

Using his crooked but loyal contacts, Shaft discovers the whereabouts of the hide-out and attempts to blast his way into ti, planning to do his job and leave the law to clean up the resulting casualties.

Roundtree credits Bill Cosby with giving him the advice the sent his career in the right direction.

HORSE — Richard Harris stars as an English aristocrat captured by Sioux Indians, and Corinna Tsopei co-stars as the Indian he takes for his bride, in "A Man Called Horse," which has its world television premiere on "The CBS Wednesday Night Movie," Feb. 16 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS Channels 11.

Modern Circus Is Old Tradition

The circus has come a long way since the Christians went out to meet the lions in the Colosseum in ancient Rome.

The inhuman qualities have changed, but the spectacle remains, 2,000 years later. Viewers will witness some of the best of the ancient art when selected circus acts from all over the world appear in the "Monte Carlo Circus Festival," Wednesday, Feb. 16, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS Channel 11.

Modern circuses have developed from four different types of amusements: the Roman races and athletic contests; the itinerant players and jugglers of the Middle Ages; the Italian comedy; and the country fairs and festivals of the European and English countryside.

The modern circus was born in England in 1768, when Philip Astley, known as "The Father of the Circus," gave the first ring performance in Half Penny Hatch, Lambeth, London.

As an ex-sergeant major, and a trick rider, he found that if he galloped in a circle, while standing on his horse, the centrifugal force helped him to keep his balance. It also looked good. Thus, the first circus ring was devised.

The first circus building in America was erected in Philadelphia, in 1785, in Center Square. Shortly thereafter, John B. Ricketts, a famous equstrain from Scotland, brought his royal circus there. General Washington attended the Ricketts Circus in 1793 and gave "the benefit of his presence as a guarantee of respectability."

Prince Rainier III, a circus devotee who initiated the "Monte Carlo Circus Festival," and his wife, Princess Grace, lend more than a touch of dignity to the festivities in their tiny Principality when circus performers, carrying on an ancient tradition, come to display their talents on tightropes and in the ring.

'Man Called Horse' Presented On TV

Richard Harris, in the most demanding role of his career, stars in "A Man Called Horse," the extraordinary story of an English aristocrat who endures captivity, humiliation ad pain in the process of becoming a Sioux warrior.

The film, which portrays the Sioux culture and ceremonies of the 1800's with unparelleled authenticity, will be presented for the first time on television on "The CBS Wednesday Night Movies," Feb. 16, 9 to 11:15 p.m., on Channel 11.

Lord John Morgan, on a hunting expedition in the American Dakotas, is captured by a band of Sioux and forced to become a beast of burden - a 'horse' belonging to the mother of Chief Yellow Hand. Degraded and dehumanized, Morgan suffers a winter of torture, unable to convince the Sioux that he is a man, not a beast.

In the spring, during a surprise raid by Shoshone Indians, Morgan shows his mettle by killing two of the enemy warriors. He offers their horses as a dowry for marriage to the chief's sister. But before Morgan can be accepted as a tribesman, he is forced to undergo the excruciating torture of the scared Sun Vow rite. In a thrilling climax, Morgan, the fair-skinned Sioux warrior, leads his adopted tribe in a savage battle with a Shoshone war party.

Unbelievable Robbery

"Old Creepy" — Alvin Karpis, who earned the nickname from his dazzling ability to use his large frightening eyes as dangerous threats to many bank tellers — led a haywire career of crime.

His flight from the law sped him into the Number One Public Enemy spot and transformed him into the personal quarry of the late J. Edgar Hoover, the head G-man whom Karpis threatened to "get."

Both men, the hardened criminal Karpis and the powerful director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, had their slip-ups, ironic moments and ludicrous turns of fate during the lengthy chase that would finally bring Karpis to justice.

"The FBI Versus Alvin Karpis, Public Enemy Number One" will be rebroadcast as "The CBS Late Movie" Wednesday, Feb. 16, 11:30 p.m. on Ch. 3N-9-11.

For Karpis, his debut came in the form of a bank robbery that no one took seriously. Planned with typical precision and care, the robbery failed to have its expected terrifying impact.

DAUGHTER — Devon Scott plays Roberta Franklin, daughter of Judge Walter Franklin (series star Tony Randall) in "The Tony Randall Show," the ABC comedy series is telecast Thursdays (9:30-10 p.m.) on Channels 3W-5-12. Miss Scott is the daughter of actor George C. Scott.

Scott In New Series

Devon Scott, daughter of noted actor George C. Scott and former actress-singer Pat Scott, is a member of the cast of the new half-hour comedy series, "The Tony Randall Show," seen Thursdays, 9:30 p.m., on ABC Ch. 3W-5-12.

Randall stars as Judge Walter Franklin, a contemporary courtroom judge in Philadelphia who has as many trials and vexations off the bench as on. Devon plays his daughter Roberta (Bobby), and Oliver Wendell Franklin is his young son. A widower, Franklin lives with his children and their housekeeper, Mrs. McClellan, played by Rachel Roberts.

Devon's name was inspired by the southwestern part of England, and was selected because her parents thought it fresh and individual.

She has attended the United Nations International School in Manhattan, the American School in Madrid and, most recently, was graduated from Concord Academy in Concord, Mass., where she directed the senior play.

Until she was signed for the role of Andrea Platt in the series, "We'll Get By," Devon had never acted professionally. Her theatrical experience had been confined to school performances in such plays as "The Tempest," "Picnic" and "The Devil and Daniel Webster."

Miss Scott has traveled extensively, many times to locations where her father was filming motion pictures. She visited him on movie sets in Rome, Madrid and the Bahamas. While a student at the U.N. School, she attended a Russian summer camp on the Black Sea, and the following summer lived with a French family in Tours and took a class at the Institut d'Touraine (part of the University of Poitiers).

Devon enjoys singing, playing guitar, skiing, horseback riding and creative writing. When not in Hollywood, she lives with her mother in New York City.

MOST POPULAR

Robert Redford and Sophia Loren were the most popular film stars in 1976, according to a worldwide survey conducted by the Reuter News Agency for the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's "World Film Favorites."

The Reuter survey covered 56 countries from all areas of the world except Canada and the United States.

Redford was also a "World Film Favorite" in 1974.

Pike's Peeks

By CHARLIE PIKE,
TV Showtime staff writer

HOLLYWOOD — The emptiness of stardom was never more evident than in the untimely death of Freddie Prinze. His passing has stunned his family, his close friends and business associates as well as his fans, and left them all with the unanswered question, "Why?"

Why would a 22-year-old guy with fame and riches reach the point where he did not want to live? Why would a guy who was gifted with the talent to make others laugh react so despondently to a broken marriage that he'd write in a note something to the effect, "I can't go on?" Why did he joke so often about shooting himself, to the point that he even included some comments about it in his nightclub act?

There are perhaps any number of answers. As many maybe as there are rumors about the circumstances surrounding his death. There's no need to dignify those rumors, but if there is a lesson to be learned by those would-be comedians, actors or singers, those young people who are ambitious for a theatrical career of some part, it is a simple one. Fame and fortune does not necessarily breed contentment or happiness.

Many of Hollywood's famous have been quoted as saying that such recognition is superficial, for it often leaves a person vulnerable to the pain of disappointments and failures. So many times these disappointments and failures are nothing more than facts of life, but when you've been on top it's very difficult to accept them.

Freddie had had few setbacks, but the combination of just a couple caused him to decide that he had no reason to continue living. His family has said that his self-inflicted shooting was an accident; the Los Angeles police suggest it was a simple case of suicide. Regardless, the unfortunate aspect is that a man like Freddie even pointed a gun to his temple at all!

Freddie often delivered unsaid messages in his comedy. He poked fun at facets of life that weren't humorous at all. His death illustrates that there's not a whole lot of merit in being famous, that retaining one's basic values is important if not a necessity. That's the best monologue Freddie Prinze could have ever delivered.

McDowall Joins Series

Roddy McDowall has been signed to play the starring role of Jonathan Willoway in the new science-fantasy series, "The Fantastic Journey" seen Thursdays, 8 to 9 p.m., on NBC Channel 6-7.

He will portray a scientist, rejected by his peers in the 1960s, who fled the United States, only to disappear over the Sea of Japan. He will be discovered in a time zone peopled by alien beings and their android slaves in the episode, "Beyond the Mountain," which will be telecast this week (Feb. 17).

Separated from the others by a crimson storm, Liana (played by Katie Saylor) finds herself in a village of beautiful men and women led by their "father," Willoway.

One of the young men, Cyrus (John David Carson), begins to develop special feelings for Liana, but it is Willoway who proposes marriage to her.

Meanwhile, Varian, Fred and Scott (Jared Martin, Carl Franklin and Ike Eisenmann) are lost in a swamp inhabited by green-skinned extraterrestrials who claim to be the rightful owners of the androids that Willoway has subjugated.

'Hunter' Premieres On CBS

James Franciscus and Linda Evans co-star in "Hunter," a new series about the undercover world of espionage, depicting the exploits of members of a small, elite, government intelligence unit dedicated to protecting the nation against adverse forces. The hour-long weekly series will premiere Friday, Feb. 18, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS Channel 3N-9-11.

Ralph Bellamy will have a continuing guest-star role in the series.

Franciscus and Miss Evans portray American secret agents James Hunter and Marty Shaw. Bellamy plays the role of top Federal operative General Baker.

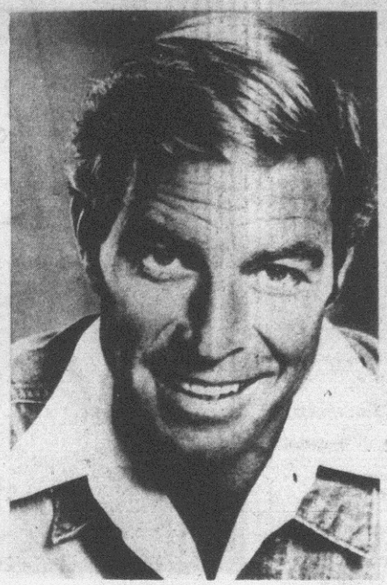

Franciscus acquired a taste for acting at an early age and started studying drama when he was 12. A few years later, the lead in a musical version of "Treasure Island" 'hooked' him and he's been active in drama ever since.

He has many television credits, among them "Mr. Novak" and "Doc Elliott," series in which he starred. His feature film credits include starring roles in "Beneath the Planet of the Apes," "Youngblood Hawke," and "Marooned."

Linda Evans' beautiful face, blonde hair and stunning figure are not necessarily the requisites for a successful actress — but they help. She also has an abundance of charm and, most important, talent.

Her career actually began when she filmed a soft drink commercial. This led to roles in several TV series including "Bachelor Father" ("It was my first big part and I was terribly nervous"), "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet," "The Untouchables" and "Eleventh Hour." She was then signed as a regular in the "Big Valley" (as Audra Barkley) series and has since guest-starred on "The Rockford Files," "McCloud," and "Harry O," among other series.

During Bellamy's long and distinguished career, which began on the stage in 1921, he has appeared in nearly 100 feature film roles, among them starring parts in "Rosemary's Baby," "The Professionals," and "Sunrise at Campobello," the movie version of the play of the same title, in which he starred on Broadway and on tour in the role of Franklin D. Roosevelt. On television, he starred in the early "Man Against Crime" series and in "The Deadly Game" series.

HUNTER — James Franciscus co-stars with Linda Evans in "Hunter," a new series about the undercover world of espionage, premiering Friday, Feb. 18 (10-11 p.m.) on CBS Channels 3N-9-11.

Two Cover The Case

Clues to the occupation of the 110-pound, 5'4½", black-eyed, brunette beauty on the set of "Kiss Me, Kill Me," could be found in her specially made handbag. In Diane Egan's handbag are a .38 caliber Smith and Wesson gun, a clip of ammunition and a pair of handcuffs.

Ms. Egan is an investigator for the Los Angeles District Attorney's office who served as the technical advisor on "Kiss Me, Kill Me," a film starring Stella Stevens, as quite appropriately, an investigator for the District Attorney's office. The thriller will be rebroadcast as a "CBS Late Movie" Friday, Feb. 18, at 11:30 p.m. on Channel 9.

Diane was on the set a good deal of the time during the filming of "Kiss Me, Kill Me," but conspicuously absent whenever there was a still photographer present.

"My job requires that I work undercover on occasion," says Diane. "Stills would blow my cover."

Diane has been with the D.A.'s office for six years, loves her work and refuses to think about the danger. She spent a great deal of time with Stella Stevens before and during production, coaching her "in attitudes of a peace officer rather than in specifics."

Diane also was responsible for some changes in the script to add authenticity, and even helped the set designer in making certain the squadroom sets were accurate to the last detail.

One of Diane's assignments before taking on "Kiss Me, Kill Me" was investigating the much publicized heist of Los Angeles City warrants, $902,000 worth of which ended up in a Swiss bank. One person prosecuted in the case got a sentence of 8 to 94 years.

Academically, a D.A.'s investigator has to have a two-year degree in police science and at least three years of law enforcement experience. That entitles one to take the Civil Service exam and from there on, it's the survival of the fittest.

Diane, still single, assumes that "it's probably because of my line of work. Even boyfriends don't understand, like a wife probably doesn't really understand her doctor-husband unless she's a nurse."

Carrying a gun in her purse probably doesn't help, either.

Sinatra In Film

Frank Sinatra will make his television movie debut in an NBC-TV police film, "Contact on Cherry Street." The three-hour show will be filmed this summer in New York City for airing next fall.

Sinatra will portray a police detective who goes undercover to break up criminal syndicate activity in the drama which is based on a novel written by Philip Rosenberg.

Although this will be Sinatra's first TV movie, it is not his first acting role on TV. He has appeared in episodes of several series and also did some drama skits on the "Frank Sinatra Show" series which aired on ABC-TV in the 1950s.

Suffer Loss

The following statement was issued Saturday, Jan. 29, by NBC President Herbert S. Schlosser upon learning of the death of Freddie Prinze:

All of us at NBC are stunned and saddened by the death of Freddie Prinze. He was one of the brightest stars in the world of entertainment, and yet, at 22, he had only begun. We shall never know how far he could have gone, how much laughter and pleasure he could have given us all in the years ahead. We mourn his passing as we realize that this fine young man is no longer with us.

Responds To Complaints

Ben J. Wattenberg is tired of everybody bad-mouthing America. Now he has a TV series to say so.

Wattenburg, author of "The Real America" and co-author of "The Real Majority," is host of the new six-part monthly public affairs series for PBS, "In Search of the Real America," premiering Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 9 p.m. on PBS.

Wattenburg challenges the past decade's "chorus of failure and guilt." He asks, "How can a nation that believes it hasn't done anything right or bold or creative in the recent past do anything right or bold or creative in the immediate future?"

In the first program, "There's No Business Like Big Business," Wattenburg argues that "the American corporation provides more people with more necessities and luxuries than any system the world has ever seen." Guests like Irving Kristol editor, "The Public Interest"; James Michaels, editor, "Forbes"; and Colman Mockler, president of the Gillette Company, agree. "Pig of the World," the second program, disputes the charge that America's hunger for world resources exploits third world nations. "Worker's Lib," program three, challenges the assumption that work in this country is boring, servile and meaningless.

Crow Is Praised

"So close and really not very far," said Bill Foster as the Duke Blue Devils ended the 1975-76 season with a 13-14 record. Foster's quote accurately portrayed a season of many frustgating losses, yet also a season when big strides were made on the road back to the top.

The team played an exciting game of basketball that brought the corwds pouring back into Cameron Indoor Stadium - once the palace of Southern basketball. The Blue Devil running offense yielded the second highest scoring average in school history, 88.3, and a new school record in field goal accuracy for the second consecutive year, 52.2 percent. Both figures ranked Duke among the TOP TEN schools in the nation.

More of the same is expected this season for the Blue Devils return three starters and two Olympians from that team.

On Saturday, Feb. 19, at 2 p.m. on Ch. 3N-6-9-11 the Blue Devils have a date with the University of Maryland in what should prove to be another hot ACC contest.

Joining returning starters Tate Armstrong and Jim Spanarkel is senior cocaptain Mark Crow. Crow has steadily improved each year since coming to Duke from Benedictine High School in Richmond, Va.

In his freshman year Mark played 10 games on the varsity squad, hit 9 of 14 field goal attempts, and was the leading JV scorer. A part-time starter in his sophomore season, he provided good offensive firepower from the bench. As a junior he scored in double figures in 17 contests, and advanced as the team's leading free throw percentage shooter.

Although last season was one of frustration for Coach Foster and the Blue Devils, Mark had a career high of 29 points and nine rebounds against North Carolina, connecting on an incredible 13 of 17 attempts. He scored 20 points in the Duke win over St. Joseph's and had another 19 points and nine rebounds and nine rebounds in the upset over Maryland - evidence that Duke rarely loses on nights when Crow is shooting well.

Mark lifted weights last summer to improve his rebounding ability, and he's added 15 pounds to a somewhat lanky 6-8 frame. Add to this his uncanny long-range shooting ability and the Blue Devils are set at one forward spot.

Armstrong, Spanarkel, and the always-improving Crow form the nucleus of this year's Blue Devils. With the addition of some outstanding newcomers they may just jump over that final barrier to the greatness that made Cameron Indoor Stadium the palace of Southern basketball.

Annual Golf Tourney Airs This Weekend

Glen Campbell is not only one of Hollywood's most popular entertainers, he is also the sponsor of an annual charity golf tournament.

The annual Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open is played at the Riviera Country Club in Pacific Palisades, Calif. ABC Sports will provide live and exclusive coverage of the final two rounds of the tournament on Saturday, Feb. 19, at 6 p.m., and Sunday, Feb. 20, at 5:30 p.m.

Last year's winner, Hale Irwin, will be back to defend his title. Irwin was the third leading money winner on the PGA Tour in 1976, and competition should be extremely keen in this event.

Last year's 73 participants vied for a purse of $185,000, with $37,000 to the winner.

Gets Olympic Rights

NBC has reached agreement with the Organizing Committee and Soviet Television Sunday, Jan. 30, for exclusive United States rights to the 1980 Moscow Olympic Games. The formal contracts will be signed shortly.

NBC said: "We have been very pleased with the spirit, cooperation and friendly atmosphere which have marked our negotiation. Particularly, we wish to express our appreciation to Mr. Ignati Novikov, President of the Delegation of the Organizing Committee of the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow, for his direction in coordinating these arrangements."

'Big Mac' Joins All-Stars

The NBA All-Star Game, East Division vs. West Division, is a sell-out. Those not in the Milwaukee Arena may watch from the comfort of their homes as the game will be broadcast on CBS-TV, Sunday Feb. 13, at 1:45 p.m.

One of this year's Eastern Division participants is Philadelphia's amazing George McGinnis.

McGinnis enjoyed a stellar four-year career with the Indiana Pacers of the now-defunct ABA. Averaging 24.8 points a game and tallying 7,919 points in 319 contests, George led the ABA in scoring before the 76ers acquired him from the Pacers for a mere $3.2 million, six-year deal.

The $3.2 million was a bargain — not in any way a rip-off. The 6-8, 235-pound McGinnis was Philadelphia's sole savior last year, leading the 76ers to their first playoff berth for the first time in five years — touching off an avalanche of ticket sales.

Although George played in the ABA-Star Game his four years in that league, last year was his first opportunity to play in the NBA All-Star Game. That, of course, was his first year as a member of the senior league. There was other talent present for the East, and McGinnis bowed to the likes of John Havlicek and Elvin Hayes. He didn't start, but he was the first forward off the bench and scored 10 points in 19 minutes of play.

When asked what the All-Star Game means to him, McGinnis is quite candid: "I don't think guys realize until they're actually in the league how much the All-Star Game means . . . But when you're in the league you think, hey, I better make this here All-Star Game or people'll think I'm not as good as I think I am, or as good as a lot of guys have told me I am. Man, I wouldn't like to hink what it'd be like if I weren't good enough to make the All-Star Game. I mean, the fans vote and everything, and the fans are pretty smart. They know the game, they know what's going on. I'd like them to think I'm one of the top forwards around and they should vote for me . . ."

That's what the All-Star Game means to George McGinnis — Philadelphia's "Big Mac."

McGINNIS — Big, strong George McGinnis will represent the East, as East meets West in the NBA All-Star Game. CBS-TV will provide coverage of the event from Milwaukee on Sunday, Feb. 13 at 1:45 p.m.

Top-Ranked Compete

A 16-player variety package of emerging stars, established veterans and international competitors make up the field for one of the richest tennis tournaments over, "The CBS Invitational Tennis Championship."

CBS Sports will cover the two events that constitute "The CBS Invitational Tennis Championship," with a total purse of $300,000, on Saturday, Feb. 19, 3:30 to 5 p.m., at Ocean City, Md., and Saturday, April 23, at Virginia Beach, Va.

The same players will compete in each event. Each has a purse of $100,000, with $32,000 to the winner, and there is $100,000 in bonus money based on a point standing of the two tournaments, with $50,000 to the leader. The points are 100 for the winner of each event, 90 for the runner-ups, 75 to the semi-finalists, and 60 to the quarter-finalists.

Heading the list of top stars is Ilie Nastase of Romania, former U.S. Open champion and leading money-winner for 1976 when he captured the National Indoor Open, the Masters Challenge Cup, the Grand Slam of Tennis, World Invitational and Independent Players Association titles.

He'll be facing the likes of Fuillermo Vilas of Argentina, who won three WCT titles last year, took the Canadian championships, defeated John Newcombe in the challenge match, and was a finalist in the Italian Open; Adriano Panatta of Italy, seventh ranked in the world and winner of the French and Italian Opens last year; and Vitas Gerulaitas of the United States, currently among the top ten players in this country, who upset Arthur Ashe to reach the Wimbledon quarter-finals.

The quartet of emerging stars includes Bill Scanlon, who defeated Harold Solomon, Ion Tiriac and Panatta after turning professional in June on the heels of winning the NCAA championship, and Butch Walts, a member of the Phoenix Racquets, who hit the spotlight last year with a victory over Cliff Richey in the Boca Raton Classic.

Benson Is A Gentle Giant

Many an opposing player should be surprised — even relieved to hear that Kent Benson is a gentle giant.

Indiana's 6-11, 245-pound center is as strong as he is big, with the added attributes of quickness and skill that have earned him the title of All-American.

The NCAA champion Hoosiers battle Michigan on Sunday, Feb. 13, at 1:30 p.m. on NBC-TV.

Last winter an enemy center came off with a rebound and floored Benson, opening a three-stitch cut in his mouth.

"I was upset inside: I was mad," Benson admitted later, But the gentle giant didn't come up swinging. "I asked God to control my temper and everything was all right," Benson said.

Kent is the lone regular returning from last season's unbeaten NCAA Champion Hoosiers. He has completely recovered from spring surgery that repaired ligament and tendon damage to his left wrist. That injury cost him a spot on the Olympic team. However, Benson was named to every All-America team after an outstanding junior season.

Averaging 17.3 points and 8.8 rebounds-per-game, Benson had a .587 field goal percentage, the second best mark in Indiana history. Indiana's "Mr. Basketball" of 1973 is also an Academic All-America in business and recreation.

Benson is perhaps the best player in collegiate servitude this season, yet he has a redeeming sense of humility. Remarkably, this young man is no braggadocio. Everything Benson is or does is tied to his dealings with God. Whether at home or on the road, he sits quietly in his room before games reading the Bible. "I like to concentrate, get my mind geared, change the tracks a little," he says. "I do some praying and some studying from the Bible."

The gentle giant goes onto the floor with this thought uppermost in his mind . . . "to play for the glory of God most of all. The better I play, the more recognition I get . . . and I want to set an example for people and let them know that any success I have had comes from God. I know God wants me to play my potential every game."

TOTIE'S BACK IN ACTION

Totie Field, the comedienne who had a leg amputated last Spring, has slimmed down and is now learning to walk without the aid of a cane. She insists that when she opens her new show in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. the first week in March, there will be no sign of a limp.

NBA 'Greats' On CBS-TV

National Basketball Association stars at their jamming-the-basket best highlight CBS Sports' half-time coverage of the NBA on upcoming broadcasts on CBS-TV.

The "CBS Slam Dunk" competition, in which such standouts as Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers, David Thompson of the Denver Nuggets, and Elvin Hayes of the Washington Bullets battle for almost $50,000 in prize money, sends players from five pre-determined places on the court in an unguarded charge to the basket where the contestant slams the ball through the hoop in any fashion he favors.

A panel of three judges rates the player's performance on style points, similar to the procedure followed in judging diving. Additionally, the player is awarded two points for each dunk successfully made.

The judges include Sam Jones, former Boston Celtic great; Mendy Rudolph, retired NBA referee and now a commentator for CBS Sports' and Larry Bortstein, writer for Basketball Special and The Christian Science Monitor.

'Rio Lobo' Presented Saturday

John Wayne, who won an Oscar as Best Actor for "True Grit" in 1970, stars as a brawling cowboy who battles a gang of Texas carpetbaggers and encounters a Civil War informer during the action in "Rio Lobo," a western adventure to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Feb. 19, 9 to 11:15 p.m., on Ch. 6-7. Jennifer O'Neill, Jorge Rivero and Jack Elam co-star.

Wayne, in one of several collaborations with director Howard Hawks, portrays Cord McNally, an ex-colonel in the Union forces who travels to Texas after the war seeking the traitors who had been informing the enemy of Union gold shipments.

In one town, McNally locates Pierre Cordona (Rivero), a former Confederate guerilla leader who had actually led the robbery of a train in which McNally's close friend was slain. The two decide to make their peace since the war has ended.

They meet a stagecoach passenger, Shasta Delaney (O'Neill), who has miraculously survived a shootout with several gunmen who had previously slain her medicine show partner, and Cordona tells McNally that one of the villains was Ketchum (Victor French), and that his partner may be in Rio Lobo.

Ketchum is now a land baron who controls the law and is victimizing locals who resist his attempts to buy them out, notably the fiery old-timer Phillips (Elam).

When McNally, Cordona and Tuscarora (Chris Mitchem) reach Rio Lobo, they find it terrorized by carpetbaggers. Tuscarora is put in jail on a trumped-up charge and McNally and Cordona, along with Phillips, seize Ketchum, terrorizing him into signing over all the properties he has stolen to the original owners.

At the end of the film, Cordona and Tuscarora go off with their respective girlfriends. McNally, left alone, turns to Amelita (Sherry Lansing) whose face was disfigured earlier by the villains.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS, psychologist

Are older people romantic about Valentine's Day?—M.M., Biloxi, Miss.

● Yes, and much more so than their children. They go for cards that just drip with expressions of love. Young people tend to ignore the romance aspect, preferring to dwell on inner qualities instead. A real change from when I was growing up. In those days, it was the other way around. From the parents' point of view, it's hard to accept that their daughter in boyish jeans and hair, left to her own devices, could be a love object.

FOR BILL HUDSON of The Hudson Brothers

Can you remember the first gift you gave to your mother on Valentine's Day?—M.V., Seattle, Wash.

● On Valentine's Day, when my brothers and I were small, Mom gave us each a gift as we were drawing on sketch pads. I realized—with a shock—that we didn't have anything for her. Then I had a brainstorm; I asked Mark and Brett to give me the gum they were chewing. I stuck theirs and mine on the cardboard backing from the pad and wrote underneath the three blobs, "To Our Mom, We Love You Very Much."

FOR DON STEWART, star of TV's The Guiding Light

When did you first become aware of Valentine's Day?—B.B., Easton, Pa.

● At nine, when I got a card—with a slushy message on it—from a little girl at school. I didn't know what it was all about, so I took it home to my mom for an explanation. She told me that Feb. 14 was the day for people to tell those who mean a lot to them just how much they love them. And she ended with a thought that I'll never forget: "How much better this world would be if everyone did that every day of the year, not just one."

FOR ROBERTA PETERS, Metropolitan Opera star

How do you feel about Valentine's Day parties?—K.R., Racine, Wis.

● Oh, brother! A few years ago I decided to have a get-together with people I hadn't seen in ages. I thought it would be fun to fix it on Valentine's Day. A hundred accepted, but on the day only a handful showed up. Why? There was a raging blizzard, and the only ones who could get through were my neighbors. There's nothing more depressing and wasteful than a dozen people surrounded by food for a hundred!

FOR LESLIE UGGAMS, singer

Does your husband ever forget Valentine's Day?—N.S., Hollywood, Fla.

● Never. Every year he tries to outdo what he did the previous year, and he always does fantastic and outrageous things that just happen to tie in with my career. Last year he paid for a big billboard sign on Los Angeles' Sunset Strip that read: "Love from Grahame. Hope to see you at the Thunderbird in Las Vegas."

FOR JIMMY COCO, star of Broadway's Monsters

Have you ever had a sad Valentine's Day?—M.N., La Verne, Calif.

● Yes. At 15, I fell madly in love, and to make our first date more romantic, we set it for Valentine's Day. I had a three-part evening planned—movies, ice-cream parlor and then to her house. We never got beyond part one. The movie was The Great Lie, with Bette Davis and Mary Astor. It was the most moving film we'd ever seen. We both cried our eyes out. Afterwards neither of us had any desire for ice cream, much less romance.

FOR JACQUES BELLINI, couturier

● A couple of years ago I stopped taking them. This is the story: I designed a special outfit for the wife of a famous star, which was intended as a surprise. It was a surprise, all right. When the actor presented the suit to his wife, it didn't fit because, by mistake, he'd given me the measurements of his girl friend. I took the blame, and I lost not only the couple as clients but the girl friend, too.

Should Women, In All Fields, Compete Equally With Men?

Fred Stein/Chicago Daily News

PRO Helen Van Slyke, best-selling author of The Rich and The Righteous; The Heart Listens and The Best People

Yes, certainly, if that's what they want. All competition is based on an individual's capabilities, and if a woman has those capabilities, there is no reason why she shouldn't go after the job she wants. In my own career, I never wanted to be anything but a professional, and that's a title that doesn't have a sex attached to it. In a career—and in your life—you are basically "competing" for recognition as a person, and who is to say a woman should be any less interested in gaining respect and a sense of achievement for herself than a man? A woman should be able to do what she is capable of doing.

CON Phyllis Schlafly, opponent of the Equal Rights Amendment, radio personality, author of seven books

No. Women should have the right to compete equally with men in business, intellectual, academic and professional pursuits. However, it is grievously unfair to require women to compete equally with men in family matters because women have babies and men do not. It is also unfair to require women to compete equally in physical labor (such as the military draft, combat duty, police-patrol duty, fire-fighting, mining and strenuous factory jobs) because women do not have the same physical strength as men. The majority of women do not want to be treated like men.

HEY KIDS, LET'S BRING BACK ROMANCE

For in our secret hearts, who does not yearn for love? It makes a drab existence bearable and a decent one fantastic. Believe in it, at least one day a year.

By Harriet Van Horne

Pictorial Parade / Bettmann Archive

"All for love—and the world well lost."

Foolish notion? Maybe. But it was the sentiment that sustained our forebears for centuries. One dreamed of love, played at love and fell in and out of love. It was like slipping in and out of heaven, said playwright James Barrie.

Until recently, romance was the unbought grace of life, the sweet excitement that made a drab existence bearable and a decent one fantastic.

In song and story, in dance and drama, the focus was always on "A lover and his lass/With a hey and a ho, and a hey nonino." At times, love was a sickness and a woe, hearts were laden with rue and sonnets were written to a mistress's eyebrow—bad sonnets sometimes. But romance—the theory, practice and dream—mattered. To be in love, in Shakespeare's words, was "to be all made of faith and service . . . all made of fantasy . . . all adoration, duty and observance."

Romantic tosh? Precisely. And we're all the poorer if we do not cherish such tosh. We've a hedge against sorrow if we carry in our minds the words of old songs and old poems to enhance the memories of romance.

To enter into romantic love, one must have lived for some time in a romantic environment. The eyes behold, the mind creates the vision. Involved are years of memories and associations, including novels, films, fantasies and the adults who were tender with us when we were small.

Nobody reared in a drab, loveless environment, denied the stimulus of books, pictures and entertainment, can possibly become a romantic, as we understand the term today. Emotionally speaking, the motive and the cue are missing.

Over the past decade, romance has taken a severe drubbing. It has been mocked and lampooned by many young people. We have seen it dismissed as silly, sentimental, unrealistic, old-fashioned, a waste of time, a source of unnecessary pain. Some young women even have come to view romance as another male chauvinist device to lure deluded girls into a life of kitchen servitude.

Such a pity.

Since the mid-60's, it has become fashionable to be skeptical of romance. The old idea of courtship, of acquaintance ripening slowly and shyly, of gifts and letters exchanged in trembling hope . . . all are, it seems, nearly obsolete.

Of course, romance isn't dead everywhere. Boys and girls as well as men and women will always meet, touch, divine special qualities in one another and weave fantasies. But so much of the ritual is gone—the courtesies, the profound respect for the body and mind of another human being—that one feels a vital piece of civilization has left us.

Putting down romance may be as serious a blunder as putting aside the basic ABC's in children's education. Children do not grasp whole words without first mastering the phonics. And we do not arrive at lasting love without an appreciation of its rites and fantasies.

Is romance in conflict with a clear-eyed view of reality? Perhaps. But the eyes of too many have grown cold. For in our secret hearts—which we too often deny—who does not yearn for romantic love? All of us who have lived long enough to love and be loved recognize the enduring truths in classic love poetry. Love does add a precious seeing to the eye. Love does soften brutes and heal old wounds. And come what may, love does help us bear it all—"even to the edge of doom."

The romantic tradition in love has given us the best of one another. Far from making women sex objects, romance heightens and underscores the delights of intimacy. In a romantic relationship, the differences between male and female are dramatized, not blurred, as happens so often today.

When I asked a man in his 20's how he felt about the romantic tradition—the old codes of courtesy and protection—he replied, "My girl doesn't even like me to open doors for her." If only our young could—in John Donne's phrase—"talk with some old lover's ghost"! So many of the great figures, whose names belong to the ages, loved with mind, heart, body and soul. And they were never embarrassed by their sense of romance.

Jonathan Swift, who has been called "the hangman of humanity," used to put aside his bitter pen and write to his beloved Stella in baby talk. Found among Swift's personal effects after his death was a lock of hair, wrapped in a scrap of paper, on which he had scribbled, "Only a woman's hair."

Dr. Samuel Johnson was so devoted to his wife Tetty (an unattractive woman many years his senior) that he kept her wedding ring near him long after her death.

John Keats, dying of tuberculosis, desperately lonely for his loved one, Fanny, wrote as his life was ebbing away, "I am certain of nothing but the holiness of the heart's affection, and the truth of the imagination."

James Thurber understood romantic love as "the strange bewilderment which overtakes one person on account of another person." Were it not for romance, said poet Edwin Arlington Robinson, "Poor life would be a ship not worth the launching."

Finally, experience suggests that one must have an abiding faith in romance in order to fall romantically in love. Nan Fairbrother, an English writer, put it this way: "The promise is not in other people but in ourselves. Encounters are only intensified to love affairs by the force of our own vitality and that is not inexhaustible. . . . Falling in love is an act of creation by the lover . . . and to fall out of love is to die a little."

We need romance in our lives as much as we need good food, warm beds, books and music. Romance is the divine elixir that keeps us from despair. FW

THE BITTERSWEET LIFE OF GREGORY PECK

In spite of personal sorrows that have haunted his life, he still believes that "the great art is not acting but living."

Peck, with wife Veronique, says, "I'm swayed by my emotions many times more than I think a man should be." At right, Peck as Gen. MacArthur.

By Patricia Baum

Most of Hollywood's handsome leading men of the past few decades have been channeled into TV reruns. A striking exception is Gregory Peck, one of America's true screen immortals. His legendary career now spans more than 30 years and has been distinguished by an Oscar for his portrayal of the idealistic lawyer in To Kill a Mockingbird. Recently he had leading roles in the hit horror film The Omen and in MacArthur, the soon-to-be-released biography of the famous general.

Peck recently turned—yes, it's hard to believe!—60. Fortunately, the years have been kind to him. Even with his hair streaked silver-gray and the well-known hairline shaved from playing MacArthur, he remains an impressively attractive man.

Yet it's not the good looks that account for his screen longevity. Nor is it a generous acting talent. Rather, according to Peck, it's a forceful personality which, in turn, comes from "living fully and deeply." One might, however, doubt his capacity for intense experience. For his screen image—stern-jawed, impassive, unemotional—suggests a man who gingerly samples life from the sidelines rather than actively engages in the center arena.

"That's wrong, totally wrong," counters Peck, the familiar deep voice taking on a slight edge. "On screen I can't be very demonstrative because of my physique. Smaller men, like James Cagney, must come on strong to get things done. But aggressive, highly emotional acting doesn't go with a fellow like me who's 6'3" and weighs 190 pounds! So I must be more subtle and maintain a certain demeanor and dignity that go with my size. But in real life I'm not like that at all. I'm subject to euphoria on the one hand and deep depression on the other. In fact, I'm swayed and moved by my emotions many times more than I think a man should be."

Some of these feelings surfaced during the three-month MacArthur filming. Peck admits that for the whole period he lived at "an intense pitch out of fear and a desire for self-preservation." As a result, he suffered an acute loss of appetite, tolerating only coffee, yogurt, grapefruit and, now and then, a lean steak. He slept no more than three hours a night, and each morning at five he was pacing the house, eager to get onto the set.

He is also still recovering from the excruciating grief of a personal crisis. In the summer of 1975 his oldest son, 30-year-old Jonathan (one of three boys from his first marriage to Greta Konen), a cameraman and reporter with a California TV station, killed himself. As Peck slowly describes the circumstances leading to the suicide—the pressures of a demanding job, loss of a girl friend, bad health—his face clouds in pain.

Peck, at his vacation villa in southern France at the time, was shattered. "After the services I didn't see anybody. Mostly I just walked and worked in my garden. I wept a great deal and never knew when a crying spell would come over me." Peck still lives with the tragedy every day. "I often have these terrible feelings that it didn't have to happen," he laments. "If only I hadn't been in France, if I had been in our California home, instead, closer at hand, I think he might have called me, and I could have helped him."

Of all the sympathetic words offered him in letters and calls from the famous and not-so-famous, he feels the most helpful came from an old friend, dancer Martha Graham. "Gregory," she said, "you must now live doubly. You must step back into life and live for your son as well as for yourself."

"I've thought of that advice many times since," Peck says reflectively. "I've been trying to enjoy each moment. And in my work I've attempted to delve further into the characters and to tell through them what the important values are."

By now, Peck hopes he has matured enough to have determined those values. But it's taken years of tedious searching. For being a movie star, as Peck explains, has made it hard for him to observe life at a close range or to get involved with ordinary people: "I've been cut off a bit from life and have had to pick some of it up vicariously—through reading, watching television and talking with average people I meet through my work."

Gregory Peck's early life wasn't easy, either. He grew up mainly in La Jolla, Calif., a small town similar to the setting of To Kill a Mockingbird. His parents divorced when he was three, and he bounced from one relative to another, sorely missing a warm family life. "We never sat down at a family table or had a house full of people," he recalls. "Feelings of rejection and loneliness crept into my makeup." During the lonely hours, he fantasized about being a fireman, policeman, aviator, cowboy—every conceivable hero. Later, through acting—first in college plays, then on the New York stage and finally in Hollywood films—he found the acceptance he craved.

Craving for approval so strongly, however, involved "running and racing way past the point that I had to. I just couldn't accept the fact that I had truly arrived as a professional and could stand back a little." And he candidly says that this uncontrollable drive made him "rather impatient and selfish" in his first marriage.

During this period Peck nearly disintegrated, undergoing "moments that others might describe as nervous breakdowns." His first marriage irrevocably terminated after Peck finished making Roman Holiday in Europe. Sending his family home to California, while he remained in France, was "not one of the great days" of his life: "I knew the marriage had to end, but it practically destroyed me to be separated from my three boys." For two weeks he hibernated in his Paris hotel room during the day, wandered the streets at night and drank too much cognac. Then he made a date with an attractive young French journalist, Veronique Passani, who had recently interviewed him. And, in due time, she became the second Mrs. Gregory Peck.

That was 20 years ago. Today he still describes his wife in glowing superlatives and says they have carried on "the longest interview on record. We seem to have a continual conversation about trivial things as well as our dreams and aspirations." Thanks to their close and enduring relationship and to Peck's own maturing, he has gradually switched his priorities, giving top billing to his family (which includes Anthony, now 20, an Amherst student, and Cecilia, 18, a Princeton student).

Peck believes that his growth and experiences have added dimensions to his screen roles. Stressing again that "the great art is not acting but living," and that "an actor brings to a role what he is," he admits to feeling disappointed when he sees his earlier films. "In my first real success, Keys of the Kingdom," he says, "I was so green that all I could give the role was deep sincerity and conviction. I just served it up straight without any 'gravy'—any humor or insight. With MacArthur, hopefully, I've added some gravy. I've tried to make a very august and pompous character human, with touches of humor and vulnerability, so that people can identify with him."

Peck especially seems to savor the enjoyable moments of family togetherness. Only the night before this interview, for instance, his children joined him and Veronique at a Manhattan nightclub. As Peck warmly relates, "I can hardly dance, but when Cecilia put her hands out to me and said, 'Dad, you're coming up here with me,' I just couldn't resist. I don't know what in heavens name I did, just sort of shuffled along to the music with my arms swinging free, but I loved it all!"

Peck's eagerly anticipating his children's arrival at the hotel for yet another evening on the town. In his cheerful mood he recalls the time years ago that a Hungarian producer friend warned him not to expect any surprises once he reached 50. "By now, I've come to realize that advice was all goulash! Even though I'm 60, I still find life stimulating. I'm brimming with curiosity, and I'm looking forward to many more surprises!"

CRISPY BAKED CHEESE 'N' TURKEY SANDWICHES

Spicy brown mustard
8 slices Swiss cheese
1 cup chopped leftover cooked turkey, chicken or ham
2 eggs
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups crisp, ready-to-eat rice cereal
2 tablespoons margarine, melted
Lettuce leaves, cherry tomatoes and pickles for garnish

1. Spread bread with mustard. Place a Swiss cheese slice on each bread slice. Spoon ¼ cup turkey on 4 slices prepared bread. Top with remaining bread slices, cheese side down.
2. In pie plate or shallow dish, beat eggs with milk and salt. In another pie plate, lightly crush rice cereal.
3. Dip sandwiches first in egg batter, coating both sides. Then dip in crushed rice cereal, coating both sides.
4. Place on well-greased foil-lined baking sheet. Drizzle with melted margarine. Bake in preheated 450° F. oven 10 to 12 minutes or until cheese melts and sandwiches are golden brown. Place on serving plates and garnish with lettuce leaf and cherry tomato or pickle.

TURKEY WITH MUSHROOM-BRAN STUFFING

1 cup chopped onion
3 cups chopped celery
¼ cup chopped celery leaves
½ lb. mushrooms, sliced
2½ cups water
1 pkg. (8 ozs.) wheat pilaf or rice and vermicelli mix
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
2 teaspoons dried leaf thyme
2 cups shredded all-bran cereal
1 (10-lb.) turkey
2 tablespoons vegetable oil

1. Preheat oven to 325° F.
2. In large saucepan, melt margarine. Add onion, celery and celery leaves and cook 8 minutes, stirring until tender. Add mushrooms; cook 5 minutes.
3. Stir in water, wheat pilaf mix, lemon juice, 2 teaspoons salt, pepper and thyme. Heat to boiling; reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Stir in all-bran cereal.
4. Loosely stuff neck and body cavities of rinsed dried turkey. (Turn remaining stuffing into greased casserole; heat, covered in oven during last 30 minutes of roasting time.)
5. Finish trussing turkey: fasten neck skin to back, hook wing tips behind back, close body cavity with skewers and cord and tie legs together.
6. Place turkey on rack in roasting pan. Rub with 2 tablespoons oil and sprinkle with remaining salt.
7. Roast, uncovered, for 4 hours or until meat thermometer inserted in largest part of thigh registers 185° F. If turkey gets too brown, cover loosely with foil. Save turkey drippings for gravy.

If your child is a poor reader

—see how phonics can help him

Try it at our risk— for two weeks!

See how your child can learn to read better and spell better in just a few weeks with records that teach him by phonics, at home! Mail Free Trial Coupon below.

Would you like to see your child gain as much as a full year's grade in reading in as little as six weeks' time? These are results parents have seen again and again with this simple home-tutoring course in reading.

Mrs. J. J. Webb, Napa, Cal. writes: "After sending my 10 year old son to Special Reading School at $12.50 per hour, spending $700 on this tutoring, I saw your ad and sent for The Sound Way to Easy Reading. In only 8 weeks he learned more from your course than from his Special Reading School. I am thrilled to see how well he reads."

Mrs. J. J. Webb is only one of over 200,000 parents who have turned to The Sound Way of Easy Reading for help in the frustrating problem of a child who can't read. And more than 26,000 schools use it.

Teaches with records

Don't think it's all your child's fault if he hasn't learned to read. Many of our brightest children are not able to grasp the "look-and-say" method taught in most schools today. Yet, many educators insist that at least 40% of our children must have formal training in phonics—that they will never master reading without it!

That is why so many poor readers show remarkable progress with The Sound Way to Easy Reading. It teaches reading by the phonics method (the method by which most parents learned to read years ago). Its phonograph records and charts show your child exactly what to do, so he can teach himself without any help from you.

The records drill him in the sounds of the 26 letters in the alphabet and their blends. Once he learns the 123 basic phonics sounds in this course he can read up to 85% of the words in the English language. It works for children of all ages—in the earliest grades, and even in high school.

Tested and proved

In a pilot study by university psychologists, children gained up to a full year's grade in oral reading skill after only 30 lessons with The Sound Way to Easy Reading.

A semester-long study involving 214 pupils in 4 Chicago schools proved that the classes given The Sound Way to Easy Reading showed marked improvement in reading and spelling over the control groups.

Help your child now

By starting your child on The Sound Way to Easy Reading now, you can change his entire attitude toward school—turn his sense of failure into the joy of sucess. Try it free for two weeks. You send no money—just mail this coupon now!

These records and self-quizzing cards can help your child gain up to a full year's grade in reading in just a few weeks.

USED BY 200,000 PARENTS who send many letters like these:

Advanced two years—"Your course has made my son want to read. No more frustration with words he doesn't know, he just concentrates and sounds them out. In 7 months, Steve's reading level advanced two years."
Mrs. R. Collins, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Better report cards—"If I had known about your course before, Gregory would not have had to repeat 3rd grade. In only 7 weeks, he reads and spells much better, and is bringing home better report cards."
Mrs. R. Quinn, Cheektowaga, N.Y.

IN 26,000 SCHOOLS
teachers are highly enthusiastic

Second grade—"Your course is the best teaching aid a teacher could have. I have been using it for the past 2 years for my basic second grade reading course. My class looks forward to the record quizzes. Their improvement in reading and spelling has been outstanding."
Mrs. Diane Williamson, Chickasaw, Ala.

Remarkable improvement—"I have seen my remedial groups advance 1½ to 2½ levels in reading in 6 months and show 85% to 90% improvement in spelling. A low achievement 6th grade group showed remarkable improvement. I have convinced many teachers in our school to use your course."

Tuna Helper helps more than just tuna!

Try it with chicken, turkey and ham, too!

Don't let the name fool you. Besides making terrific tuna dishes, those rich cream or cheese sauces with noodles do delightful things with other meats as well.

On every Tuna Helper® box, you'll find easy, inexpensive recipes that help you turn leftovers into delicious things like Ham and Cheese Soufflé or Turkey Tetrazzini.

And just to show you how really quick and easy those recipes are, here's one for Chicken-Green Bean Casserole. Go ahead. Let Tuna Helper help you with more than just tuna.

Chicken-Green Bean Casserole

1 package Tuna Helper® main dish mix for noodles, cheese sauce 'n tuna.
3½ cups boiling water
2 cups cut-up cooked chicken or turkey
1 package (10 ounces) frozen French-style green beans, thawed and drained
Buttered Crumbs (below)

Heat oven to 400° Mix Noodles, Sauce Mix, water, chicken and beans in ungreased 2-quart casserole. Bake uncovered 25 minutes. Sprinkle with Buttered Crumbs, bake 5 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. 5 servings.

Buttered Crumbs: Heat 1 tablespoon butter or margarine in 8-inch skillet until melted. Stir in ¼ cup dry bread crumbs. Heat over medium heat, stirring constantly, until bread crumbs are slightly toasted.

Don't let high prices make a vegetarian out of you.

Dinty Moore Beef Stew has meat. It even has little pieces of meat all through the gravy that give it an undeniably rich, meaty taste. If you love meat, but haven't been having much of it lately, buy a case of Dinty Moore. Then you can have your share of meat, plus a good amount of fresh potatoes and carrots, at a price you can swallow.

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON PIE

Coconut Cereal Crust:

3 cups crisp, ready-to-eat rice cereal
½ cup margarine, melted
¼ cup sugar
1 cup flaked coconut

Strawberry Filling:

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed and puréed
2 egg whites
¼ cup sliced fresh strawberries or flaked coconut for garnish

1. Make cereal crust: In large bowl lightly crush rice cereal to make 1½ cups. Stir in melted margarine, sugar and coconut.

2. Press mixture evenly over bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven for 15 minutes, or until coconut is golden. Remove from oven and cool. Set aside.

3. Make filling: In medium saucepan, sprinkle gelatin over water. Place over low heat and stir until gelatin dissolves, about 3 minutes. Add sugar and salt and stir until sugar dissolves. Remove from heat.

4. Stir in lemon rind, lemon juice and strawberries. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon.

5. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form; beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar and beat until stiff peaks form. Fold into gelatin mixture. Turn into prepared coconut crust. Chill until set, about 3 hours.

6. To serve, garnish with sliced fresh strawberries or a little flaked coconut.

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Line a 7⅜ x 3⅝ x 2¼-inch loaf pan with foil.
2. In large bowl mix all ingredients except Pimiento Parsley Sauce. Turn loaf mixture into prepared pan.
3. Bake for 55 to 60 minutes or until the tip of a knife inserted in center comes out clean.
4. Remove from pan; cool for 5 minutes, then peel away foil. Serve with Pimiento Parsley Sauce.

Makes 4 servings

Good source of: phosphorus, potassium, food fiber, calcium, protein

MAKE-IT-IN-A-PAN CAKE

1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup wheat germ
1 cup sugar
¾ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon pure vanilla extract
1 can (8¾ ozs.) fruit cocktail, undrained
½ cup chopped walnuts, almonds or pecans

Frosting

2 tablespoons margarine, softened
1 pkg. (3 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
½ cup confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons honey
Dash salt

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Mix flour, wheat germ, sugar, soda, vanilla, fruit cocktail and walnuts altogether in an 8 x 8 x 2-inch ungreased cake pan.
2. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes. Frost immediately.
3. To make frosting: in small bowl with electric mixer at medium speed, blend margarine, cream cheese, confectioners' sugar, honey and salt smoothly.

Makes 9 servings

Good source of: potassium, vitamin A

ORANGE-BANANA SAUCE

1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups orange juice
2 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
2 bananas

1. In medium saucepan, mix cornstarch and salt with a small amount of orange juice.
2. Gradually stir in remaining orange juice and honey.
3. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil.
4. Remove from heat; stir in lemon juice, margarine and orange rind.
5. Peel bananas; slice and add to sauce.

Makes about 2 cups

Good source of: vitamin C, potassium

CRUNCH TOP BROCCOLI BAKE

2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon grated onion
1 cup sour cream
3 cups fresh broccoli flowerets or 2 pkgs. (10-oz. size), frozen
1½ cups rice and wheat ready-to-eat cereal
1½ cups grated process Swiss cheese

1. Heat margarine in small saucepan until melted. Stir in flour, salt, sugar, pepper and onion. Add sour cream; stir until smooth.
2. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes just to the boiling point.
3. Fold in broccoli. Pour into greased 1½-qt. baking dish.
4. Toss together cereal and cheese; sprinkle over broccoli.
5. Bake in preheated 350° F. oven about 20 minutes or until bubbly.

Makes 6 servings

Good source of: vitamin A, calcium, phosphorus, potassium, B vitamins

- Never Needs Replacement!
- Thrives in "problem" spots—Slopes and Bare Areas!
- Resists Insects & Disease!
- Chokes Out Crabgrass, Weeds!
- Needs Less Mowing, Less Watering than ordinary grass.
- Plug it in Without Ripping Out Present Grass!

GUARANTEED-TO-GROW ZOYSIA PLUGS SAVE TIME, WORK, MONEY! (Our Plugs Are the Lowest-Priced . . . the Finest Quality Famous Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass!)

by Horace Guthrie
Horticulturist, Lakeland Nurseries

YOU INVEST IN A SURE THING with Zoysia Plugs! You're not spending money and time on a lawn only to see the seeds washed away by rain . . . or have the newly-established grass burned by the sun just when you're ready to enjoy it!

NEEDS LITTLE OR NO CARE! Best of all, you're not a "lawn slave." Zoysia stays a lush, rich green through droughts . . . chokes out crabgrass, needs less watering, about ⅔ less mowing! In other words, you're liberated — free to go on vacation, play golf . . . Summertime becomes funtime, not lawntime!

A TRUE PERENNIAL—PRACTICALLY INDESTRUCTIBLE! Now you can own a thick green hardy lawn, as luxurious as a deep-pile carpet. Merely place the living precut Zoysia Grass Plugs in the ground, and they'll flourish thicker and wider until they spread over your entire lawn. Yes, there's no need to rip out your existing grass! And once established, the Zoysia "lawn carpet" becomes so tough, so resilient that it withstands cookouts, lawn parties, children's play! Zoysia thrives even on sandy or clay soil. Only following sharp frost will its colors burn out, but it renews itself as ever in the spring! A true carefree perennial for every climate! Plant the plugs 1-ft. apart. All instructions included.

NO-BEND STEP-ON PLUGGER FOR FAST, EASY DIGGING . . . Light but rugged 2-way Plugger operates from standing position, saves bending. Cuts away present growth as it digs hole for each plug. Fast, easy, efficient . . . anyone can use it.

LAKELAND'S DOUBLE GUARANTEE
1) All plants must arrive in perfect condition and 2) thrive after planting or you may return for replacement or refund of purchase price any time within 3 months.

Observations™

Dubious distinction. Americans consumed more motor fuel in 1976 than ever before—118.8 billion gallons, according to the Federal Highway Administration. That's a 5.5 percent increase over 1975, and 3.7 percent more than the previous record year of 1973. Meaning that, as a nation, America seems to have forgotten the lessons of the energy crisis. But don't you forget them. Take it easy on the gas pedal, avoid any unnecessary trips, and share the driving with neighbors. Americans must prove we can conserve our energy resources.

One way to save. What do Delaware, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, and South Dakota have in common? They're among the many states that have recently passed legislation allowing motorists to turn right when traffic signals are red. As a result, autos spend less time stopped at red lights, and less gasoline is wasted. In fact, the Federal Highway Administration has estimated that a nationwide right-turn-on-red policy could save up to 187 million gallons of gasoline a year. So we're making progress.

I THINK FENWICK HAS MADE A MAJOR BREAKTHROUGH

Exploration down under. The mysterious "dead heart" of Australia—the parched outback—was first crossed by Robert Burke and William Wills in 1860. The story of what happened to them is the sixth episode of Ten Who Dared, the "Mobil Showcase" presentation on great adventurers. Anthony Quinn, who narrates the series, calls their trouble-plagued journey perhaps "the most disastrous success" in exploration history. Check your local TV listings for time and station.

You'll never forget the exploits of Burke and Wills, or the others whose tales are told on the series. To further your knowledge, and for a lasting addition to your library, you may want the 336-page book, Ten Who Dared, with a preface by Quinn. Illustrated with color pictures of some of history's greatest adventures, the book will carry you through time from the 15th to the 20th centuries. You can obtain a copy by sending a check or money order for $14.95, plus applicable state and local taxes, to: Ten Who Dared, P.O. Box 1934, Kansas City, Missouri 64140.

PEOPLE QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

YOUR VALENTINE I.Q.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. There are two seemingly conflicting sayings about love and romance. One is that like attracts like; the other is that opposites tend to be drawn to each other. Both are valid.

2. Love—or the lack of it—in a marriage can change each partner's personality.

3. Women experience love in its various phases and dimensions much more fully than men do.

4. Men aren't as romantically interested in the opposite sex as they used to be.

5. When the feeling of love-at-first-sight is accompanied by the overwhelming conviction that life would be empty and meaningless without the other person, the odds are better than even that this is a love that will last.

6. Love can't really be defined; one has to feel it to understand it.

ANSWERS

1. True. And for both sayings, as evidenced by psychological studies sponsored by the National Science Foundation, which show that men and women with high self-esteem tend to be attracted to those with similar attitudes and outlook. On the other hand, it was found that "persons with negative self-concepts did not show a preference for similar others."

2. True. A study evaluating research on marriage indicates that in a happy marriage "the wife's personality tends to become more like her husband's, whereas in an unhappy or loveless marriage the husband's personality becomes less like his wife's than when he married her."

3. True. A Boston University study of the dynamics of love cites findings showing that women tend very definitely to have "a more extensive romantic experience than men." They respond more completely to the emotional high afforded by a love relationship, more fully to the dictates of the heart and express their emotions more freely and uninhibitedly. It's pointed out that in our culture there are traditional restrictions operating upon the behavior of the male. For example, he is expected to be less emotional, and he tends to live up to this expectation.

4. True. A study of changing trends of romantic attitudes, conducted by University of Southern California's professor of psychiatry, Martin Grotjahn, found that a current trend toward romantic indifference was reinforced by a cultural phenomenon, the late television show. It has been termed one of the most effective deterrents to the full expression of the love relationship.

5. False. The odds are just as good that this could be infatuation. As one authority aptly observes, it is unfortunate that many people must make one of their most important decisions on the basis of such a delusive emotion. And it's further noted that "persons who have the power to excite this madness in others are by no means always the person with whom it is possible to live happily." The best way to differentiate between real love and infatuation is through the "time test": studies show infatuations rarely last more than a few weeks.

6. True. However, a team of behavior specialists whose concern has been to explore the feelings associated with "the experiencing of love and the sharing of this feeling with another," cites a pair of definitions which comes closer than most to hitting the mark: "To love is to have pleasure in seeing and feeling through all the senses." And "To love another person is to feel [at] one with that person, to feel close . . . and this feeling of oneness is one of the most exhilarating, most exciting experiences in life."

Woman with arthritis increases grip strength with Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub

PHILADELPHIA—"My grip strength improved," said Sara Kait. A spritely 75 year old nursing home resident, Miss Kait had taken part in tests conducted by Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub and Extra Strength Lotion. First an instrument was used to measure grip strength. Then Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub was applied for temporary relief of minor pain and to improve mobility. Later, when tested again, the grip strength of most of those tested had significantly improved. "It certainly works," said Miss Kait. Use as directed.

I look at budding teen-age girls
And also at their mothers.
And should my wife look when I look,
I have a ready out.
"Just looking, dear," I calmly say,
I do not need to shout.
"Just looking" she well understands,
Along, perhaps, with sighing.
It's what she says herself when she
Is shopping but not buying.

A young gentleman, a sailor, wrote 700 letters to his girl friend. She has just announced her engagement to the postman.

This Chair Sells for $349.00 in a well-known Department Store

This Old Chair Cost $5.00 at a Thrift Store . . . We used about $40 worth of materials . . . invested some enjoyable hours restyling and reupholstering it — with the result you see below. Compare it with the $349.00 chair! We never imagined the huge profits to be made in restyling and restoring old discarded furniture. But, M.U.I. showed us how!

Mr. & Mrs. W. Morrow, Calif.

UPHOLSTERING JUST ONE CHAIR...

can pay you as much as your present week's paycheck!

It's easy to do, the M.U.I. way... No need to quit your present job—start now...in your spare time!

AT HOME OR IN THE GARAGE — no outside classes to attend.

If you can tie a knot and drive a tack you can get into this fascinating business/hobby, quickly, easily. You start on the basics right away in the proven, practical M.U.I. Upholstery Program. And before you're barely into it you can start doing the simple upholstering jobs that are all around you, waiting to be done . . . chairs, cushions, seats, footstools. Probably, you too will find that long before completing the program people will start bringing you their upholstery jobs. And remember . . .

. . . THE WORLD IS FULL OF FURNITURE THAT NEEDS FIXING — AND MORE IS WEARING OUT ALL THE TIME!

OUR 15th Year OF SUCCESS!

FROM THE START, YOU JUST SLIP INTO THE IMMENSE FLOW OF UPHOLSTERY WORK! Think of all there is . . . SOFAS, CHAIRS, BREAKFAST NOOKS, BOATS, VANS, PLANES, hotels, motels, theaters, libraries, the list is endless!

When we finish showing you, you'll have one of the most fantastic money-making skills in America built into your head and hands! No one can ever take this skill away from you . . . and no one can ever fire you—because you're the boss of a business you can take with you, anyplace. And from then on, you can make money, any time.

YOU DON'T EVEN HAVE TO LEAVE HOME!!

WHAT STARTED AS A PART TIME HOBBY NOW PAYS ME BETTER THAN $10 AN HOUR

Yes, many M.U.I. upholsterers make better than $10 an hour turning old worn out furniture into beautiful, bright new decorator pieces. Are you making $150 a week? $200? $300? Do you put in long hours of dull work with small raises? Is that the way you want it? Or would you prefer real independence and security? Imagine, you can make $150 to $300 upholstering just one chair or sofa these days. And you can finish jobs like this in a day, or day and a half. That's REAL pay! The Key Ingredient Discovered By A Medical Doctor

THE BRAN DIET

You can lose 14 to 24 pounds or more without eating less food! We've just published a new, detailed guidebook that guarantees safe results fast or it's free! It reveals that you can protect your health and lose as much weight as you want without hunger. The secret is a discovery by Medical Doctors that shrinks fat out of your body.

I'm Ann Adkins. Here I am before I went on THE BRAN DIET and lost 110 pounds. Then, people would say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat." Read my full story.

GUIDEBOOK REVEALS THE SECRET

A scientific study described in our guidebook reveals why fewer calories are absorbed by your body from food that contains the proper amount of bran, while more calories are absorbed from the bran-free food that most of us eat.

SEE HOW MUCH YOU CAN LOSE FAST

| If On Typical American Diet You Now Weigh | PLAN NO. 1 Without Eating Less You Can Soon Weigh | PLAN NO. 2 You Can Soon Weigh This Much Or Less |
|---|---|---|
| 130 | 116 | 93 |
| 140 | 125 | 100 |
| 150 | 133 | 106 |
| 160 | 142 | 114 |

| 180 | 160 | 128 |
| 200 | 178 | 142 |

YOU'LL FEEL FULL WITH A LITTLE BRAN IN YOUR DIET

The Bran Diet reduces the urge to overeat by requiring more chewing, slowing down the intake of food and stimulating secretions that induce a feeling of fullness. You'll enjoy savoring your food longer since bran-containing foods are delicious.

HUNGER BANISHED!

Scientific studies show that volunteers with the right amount of bran in their diet stayed full while those on a bran-free diet soon became hungry and ate again. Do you ever feel this way on your present diet? If so, the reason's simple: it may lack fiber like bran, the outer fiber coat of grain that's usually discarded in milling. You just need a little bit of bran, or other fiber, if it's present in the food you eat. Fill out and mail the coupon to get dozens of tasty menus and recipes that contain bran and other fiber that helps you lose weight.

IT'S A HEALING DIET TOO

The Bran Diet wasn't even designed for taking off fat. It was created as a healing diet after the brilliant detective work of a famous cancer researcher. He observed that people in certain countries enjoy virtual immunity from certain diseases, because they have the right amount of bran in their diet. You'll read the full story in our guidebook.

Two doctors recently praised bran in their newspaper columns. One says, "We now have evidence incriminating bland foods in the development of appendicitis, polyps, diverticuli, and cancer of the large intestine." The other says that our typical bran-free diets produce the cramping pain of diverticular disease, and that 90% of the symptoms are relieved on the bran diet. Few people are constipated either, since no blockages form. High blood cholesterol levels which go with heart, lung, kidney and artery disease are lowered astonishingly on the bran diet. Phlebitis and hemorrhoids are controlled too. Even ulcers and gallstones are related to the amount of fiber in your diet.

HERE'S PROOF YOU CAN SHED WEIGHT

You may not lose as much as Ann Adkins did, but her true story shows how easy it can be.

Here I am now. Order THE BRAN DIET, and see how easy it will be for you to lose weight.

"I LOST 110 POUNDS"

— Mrs. Ann Adkins, Westfield, N. C.

"I'd been fat all my life. I had tried all kinds of diet aids, pills and fad diets. I'd lose 20 or 30 pounds and gain it back — plus more. Then, at 31 when I weighed 224 pounds, I put myself on the bran diet. I know it sounds unbelievable, but I stuck with it until I lost 110 pounds. I didn't go hungry at all. It's the kind of food, not the amount, that matters. It's wonderful to be slim. People that I work with are fascinated with what I've done. They used to say, "She has such a pretty face — if only she weren't so fat!" Now, I get lots of compliments.

P.S.—My husband has lost 40 pounds too, and we are able to get out and do things we've never done before. It's been over 1½ years since I reached 114 pounds, and I have no trouble keeping weight off. I would like to share my newly found joy in life with others and encourage those who have problems losing weight."

"I WENT FROM 250 TO 178 IN 15 WEEKS." — Mr. J. C.

The secret: heavy emphasis on one of the choices of The Bran Diet. "My blood pressure is back to normal and I've lost 12 inches around my waist. Now I have will power because this is the diet I enjoy."

"SIMPLE TO FOLLOW" — Mrs. I. C.

"You made your program quite simple to follow and I do like your recipes. I have already baked the muffins and distributed them among some friends, and they were delectable."

"RECOMMENDED BY MY DR." — Mrs. F.C.

"Your Bran Diet Program has been recommended by my doctor from England, and he says it has cured many people."

NO "EMPTY FEELING"

"My daughter and I have been on Plan No. 1 for awhile. It's easy to stay on because you don't have that empty feeling."

— Mrs. J. S.

"BEST I EVER ATE"

"The macaroni and the meatloaf are the best I ever ate."

— Mrs. F. B.

6 WAYS IT HELPS YOU LOSE

1. It keeps you off the "Yo Yo Syndrome." (This is what happens when you lose a few pounds and then gain it all back.)
2. Your body absorbs fewer calories than with the same amount of regular food.
3. The food is delicious and easy to fix — so you aren't tempted to go back to your old diet. Imagine losing weight with these delicious dishes: Macaroni and Cheese, Pancakes, Brownies, Meatloaf, Dinner Rolls, Beef Stew, Rice Pudding, French Toast, Bran Cookies.
4. It works fast. You can see results in a few days. You'll soon feel like jumping up and doing things.
5. It mobilizes the fat — not the muscle out of your body. Your skin stays smooth, your body firm. Your complexion will become clearer. You will feel mentally alert.
6. Hunger disappears because it fills you up. You don't feel weak.

WITH EVERY BEAT OF YOUR HEART

The mysteries of this marvelous organ have been studied for centuries by men who stood in awe of the heart's mighty power.

From time immemorial man has admired the magnificent mechanism that is the heart. It's a pump and a generator, beating approximately 70 times a minute—or, as someone whose wife gave him a calculator for his birthday once figured, 2½ billion times in a 70-year lifetime, pumping 600,000 tons of blood. Moreover, each minute, the heart muscle performs work equivalent to hoisting a 70-pound load one foot off the ground, and you might try your calculator on the awe-inspiring load your heart will carry if you live to be 100. Consider, too, the wisdom of the arrangement—the heart rests between each beat and, if not overly abused, will even heal itself after a heart attack.

But still, it doesn't do everything. Aristotle, for one, was wrong when he speculated that the heart was the seat of the soul and the emotions. Cold as it may sound, love begins in your brain. But your heart certainly can be affected by love. You, for instance, can be "heartsick" when a love affair goes sour—depression sets in, your heart rate slows down, and you feel "heartbroken." On the other hand, the onset of love (signaled, please remember, by the brain) can make your heart race, surge and abruptly change its rate by causing it to leap with an extra beat.

People have always found the heart an awesome organ. Leonardo da Vinci not only made beautiful and accurate anatomical drawings of the heart in his notebooks, he also wrote: "The heart moves of itself and does not stop unless forever." And William Harvey commented about his efforts to discover the innermost secrets of the heart and blood circulation in the 17th century: "I was almost tempted to think . . . that the motion of the heart was only to be comprehended by God." Today we're more prosaic, with routine heart transplants and open-heart surgery, but only a few centuries ago the secrets of the heart went beyond medicine's wildest dreams.

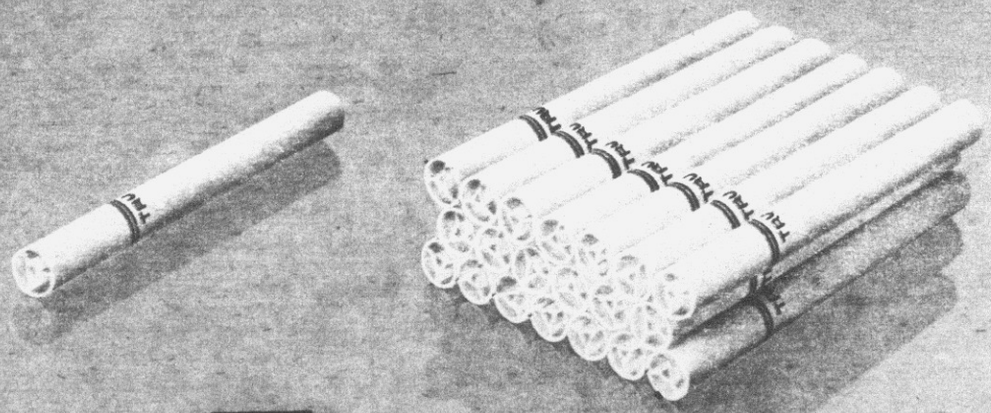

Modesty was the mother of invention for French physician René Laënnec, whose vital contribution to understanding of heart function was the stethoscope. In the early 19th century, physicians checked heartbeat by simply leaning down and placing the ear against the patient's chest. When one modest young woman recoiled in horror and shame at the thought of a male ear being placed against her chaste breast, Laënnec came up with the idea of a hollow tube that, in fact, magnified the heartbeat and thereby revolutionized diagnosis of heart problems.

Not everyone has his heart in the right place. Something under one percent of the population have their hearts not beneath the left breast, but beneath the right. These people usually have reversal of all internal organs, however. Where the idea that the heart is heart-shaped came from I'm not prepared to say. I am prepared to say that the notion is wrong—pear-shaped would be a more accurate description. One possible exception is the frog, which has two atria on top and only one ventricle below. Possibly an early vivisectionist, whose only experience was with dissecting frogs, was responsible for the tradition. On the whole, though, the heart isn't a bad symbol; it does seem hard to imagine sending your girl a crate of pears for Valentine's Day. —Irwin J. Polk, M.D.

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Is Red Really The Color Of Passion?

If your favorite color is Valentine's Day red, what does that say about you? According to psychologist Deborah Sharpe, author of The Psychology of Color and Design, "red" people are catalytic—they're constantly starting things, going off on tangents, taking chances. They're creative, have strong likes and dislikes, but sometimes they're very immature. They're not great achievers unless they have a balancing influence. They should work for a person who loves blue or green and marry a blue-or green-favoring man or woman. Two reds together would drive each other crazy. Women tend to pick red more often as a favorite color than men do. But, cautions Sharpe, you can't tell what color a man really likes. She says: "Men love pink—yet they're afraid to wear it, thinking that they'll look effeminate."

Give Yourself Flowers All Through February

You shouldn't have flowers in your home just on February 14. They can brighten your windows all during the dreariest February days if you only follow a few simple rules. Dr. Dennis Wolnick, professor of floriculture at Pennsylvania State University, suggests coleus as a plant that is very successful indoors. Wax begonia and impatiens also thrive with only a little sunlight, while colorful plants like the geranium generally won't survive. Don't overfertilize indoor plants, but do water them enough so that 10 to 20 percent of the water drains from the bottom of the pot. With the arrival of spring, many of the plants can go outdoors.

What's In A Name? Plenty Says One Study

Research by Tulane University psychologist Dr. Garry Garwood suggests academic achievement may hinge in part on students' names. "A name is one of the things most frequently and intimately connected with a person," he says. "From the minute a child has a name, people make associations and assumptions about him on the basis of it." He asked teachers in schools throughout Georgia and Florida to classify boys' names as desirable or undesirable. Bearing in mind that preferences are always changing, and differ from region to region, he found John, James, Jonathan, Craig, Jeffrey, Patrick, Thomas and Richard among the most desirable names. Unfortunately, subsequent tests suggested those with names low on the list often received poorer grades and expressed less ambitious career expectations than those with desirable names.

Get A Break On Your Taxes: Get Married

Valentine's Day may or may not make you think about a wedding, but we think it's in your best interest to point out the plight of the single taxpayer. No doubt about it, single people are hurt by current Federal tax laws. For example, take two taxpayers, one single and one married, both with a taxable income of $15,000. If the single had earned an additional $1,000, perhaps through investments, he'd get to keep only $690 of it. But the married taxpayer who earns an extra $1,000 would get to keep $750 of it. The facts speak for themselves. Why should this be? Because married people make the tax laws, and they're jealous of singles, so they tax them heavily? Only Congress and the IRS know for sure.

Quick Takes

Academy Award-winning songwriter James Griffin, a member of Bread, a rock group, says he cannot turn out lyrics since his prized Afghan hound, Gershwin, left home. "I know it sounds silly, but that's just the way I am—I get very attached to the things I love." Griffin has bought hundreds of dollars worth of newspaper ads and has hired a detective agency to track his missing pet . . . Bank officials cleaning out an old vault in London have found a treasure trove of early 19th-century manuscripts, including love poems and letters by Lord Byron and Percy Bysshe Shelley. Literary experts called it a major find and valued at close to a million dollars . . . Some kids have all the ideas: young actress Tatum O'Neal is buying her mother a home in Palm Springs, complete with tennis court and swimming pool . . . A prestigious medical journal has announced that regular consumption of onion and garlic in the diet has a protective effect on some important factors that are linked to heart disease and hardening of the arteries. What might this mean for mouthwash manufacturers?

Girls Say Boys Should Use More Contact (Lenses)

While we can't say for certain that bespectacled boys receive fewer Valentines, there does seem to be a new twist these days to the notion that "boys never make passes at girls who wear glasses": Most teen-age girls believe boys who wear glasses should switch to contact lenses. A survey by a major manufacturer of optical aids of 1,300 girls ranging from 13 to 19 years of age, represented a balanced cross section of girls from all parts of the country. When the researchers asked the girls who wore contact lenses why they had switched from eyeglasses, boys were the answer. The young women voted the following reasons for wearing contacts: social events with boys, 86 percent; school, 85 percent; movies, concerts and plays, 63 percent; outdoor sports, 57 percent.

How To Take A Good Picture Of A Kid You Love

If you want to take a good picture of those special sweethearts—your kids—here are some suggestions from professional photographers. First of all, capturing two kids in the same photo more than doubles the trouble; more than two makes for disaster. Secondly, you create the proper mood. Unfortunately, the most photogenic moments spring from spur-of-the-moment opportunities. But by the time you produce the camera, find the film and load it, the scene will be gone. Relax—don't try to become Cecil B. deMille. Don't elect a time when the child is irritable or tired. Morning is generally best for small children. As for getting the "right angle": normally, one never photographs a grown person from above unless deliberate distortion is desired. Children are little people and should be treated in like manner. Shoot from an angle at their level. This requires stooping, kneeling or even lying on the ground but provides good-looking pictures. Other points: despite the old admonition that the sun must be over your shoulder, the kids need not be photographed squinting unhappily into the light. Move to a shaded area. Shoot indoors with natural light. Kids hate the harsh glare of flashbulbs. If light level is too low, try moving next to the window. Try for a neutral, pleasant background. While composing the picture in the finder, reexamine the background to be sure it's right.

Can you imagine a sight more lovely than dwarf masses of glowing color appearing in early spring? Creeping Phlox makes a sight this lovely. Perfectly rounded balls of color growing only 4 inches tall. And Creeping Phlox have three wonderful advantages. First, they stay green the year round. Secondly, they are masses of color in the early spring when few other things are in bloom. Third, they are wonderful for ground covers and borders. Grow in part shade or full sun. Rich color assortment of our choice: Rosy red, steel blue, pure white, pearl pink. You receive strong northern grown field divisions. Order today and take advantage of our 1/2 price sale.

GROWS DURING WINTER! THIS THICK BLUE-GREEN SPREADING EVERGREEN

Spreads like mad to cover bare areas, steep banks and other tough spots!

SPREADING EVERGREEN

$2.00 each
( 3 for $ 4.00)
( 6 for $ 7.00)
(12 for $13.00)

Now, with this Evergreen Carpet (Juniperus horizontalis procumben), see one plant grow over ugly bare spots, even in poor soil, to cover 4 to 6' with a lovely, thick carpet of green that lasts 365 DAYS OF THE YEAR. NEVER GETS MORE THAN 5 TO 10" TALL! Instead, this hardy, drought-resistant plant uses its energy to grow horizontally. Does just fine in well-drained areas — even where sand and rocks prevail, in sun or partial shade! BEAUTIFUL WAY TO COVER "EYESORES." And it stays fresh and green year 'round, without getting that dull "winter look." Start it on trouble spots now. Plant about 4' apart — six plants will cover 24 to 36'. You get hardy plants already 6" to 10".

•STAYS GREEN ALL YEAR • BLUE FLOWERS IN SPRING
• NEEDS NO SPECIAL CARE

PERIWINKLE

10 for $1.00
( 25 for $ 1.98)
( 50 for $ 2.98)
(100 for $ 4.98)

Now, for shady areas beneath shrubs and in other dim places, even where grass won't grow, you can have a 12-month carpet of thick abundant, evergreen Periwinkle (Vinca minor). And every spring in May, shade-happy Periwinkle gives you a wide profusion of beautiful lavender-blue flowers that make the dullest part of the yard look like a showcase! And, it grows so vigorously, you can put Periwinkle in poor, stony soil, on steep banks, in rock gardens — practically anywhere. Does better in shade than grass — but likes sun, too. Spreads: one plant grows to fill two square feet, (for quicker, denser effect plant one foot apart): gets 4-6" tall — all without special care. You get healthy, nicely rooted plants ready for easy transplanting.

Our Story: "I MUST HIDE MY MEN FROM THE WRATH OF KING LAZARE, BUT YOU FOLLOW THAT ROAD TO THE CHATEAU OF SIR RAYMOND," ADVISES LLANDULF.

THEY HOPE TO FIND A PLACE TO STAY AWAY FROM THE UNWASHED MOB OF LAZARE'S FOLLOWERS, BUT IT IS NOT TO BE.

A PARTY OF ENTERTAINERS SIT IDLE IN THE SUN AND MAKE RUDE REMARKS AS THEY PASS.

THEY ARE WELCOMED BY SIR RAYMOND, HIS ELDEST DAUGHTER, ELEANOR, A FAMED BEAUTY, AND THE YOUNGEST, JOAN, WHO SEEMS TO BE BURIED UNDER A LITTER OF HOUND PUPS.

ELEANOR'S EYES SPARKLE AS THE OLD KNIGHT TELLS OF THE REIGN OF BERTRAM AS THE ELECTED 'KING OF MINSTRELS.' "OH, HE BROUGHT QUALITY TO THE PROFESSION AND THE ARTISTS PROSPERED... BUT NOW ANYONE CAN CALL HIMSELF MINSTREL PROVIDED HE GIVES LAZARE A SHARE OF HIS WAGE."

"EVERY THREE YEARS A 'KING OF MINSTRELS' IS CHOSEN FOR THE QUALITY OF HIS VOICE AND POETRY. LAZARE BRIBED A SLAVE TO PUT ACID IN BERTRAM'S GOBLET. IT RUINED HIS VOICE AND LAZARE WON THE CROWN."

"I WOULD THAT BERTRAM RETURN, EVEN IF HIS VOICE IS RUINED HE COULD LEAD A REVOLT AGAINST TYRANNY."

MOM'S GONE SHOPPING, SHE'S REDECORATING SOME OF THE ROOMS!

MY MOM'S GOT HER OWN WAY OF BRIGHTENING UP OUR HOUSE! — OH... WHAT'S THAT?

SHE SENDS ME OVER HERE!

WELL, WHAT DO YOU WANT TO DO TODAY, JUG? — I'M DOING IT RIGHT NOW!

I FEEL LIKE DOING SOMETHING USEFUL AND CONSTRUCTIVE! — THEN YOU CAN MAKE ME ANOTHER SAND-WICH!

I KNOW! LET'S PAPER THE LIVING ROOM FOR MOM! THE NEW WALLPAPER WAS DELIVERED YESTERDAY! — LOOKS LIKE I'M STUCK WITH IT! — OKAY WITH YOU?

PASS THE PASTE, JUG! — SURE... IT'S RIGHT HERE!

HEY!!

WELL, WHAT HAVE YOU GOT TO SAY ABOUT THIS? — PINK AND CHARTREUSE STRIPES ARE DEFINITELY NOT YOU, ARCHIE!

WELL, WE FINALLY FINISHED. IS MOM GOING TO BE SURPRISED! MAYBE THAT'S HER NOW... BACK FROM SHOPPING!

DING DONG!

I'M HERE TO PICK UP THE WRONG WALLPAPER THAT WAS DELIVERED YESTERDAY!

DITTO! WHY ARE YOU READING AT THE TABLE? — IT'S FOR SCHOOL... THE TEACHER WANTS ME TO GIVE A REPORT ON THE STATE OF THE WORLD

BUT THAT'S THE SPORTS PAGE! — THAT'S MY WORLD...

WOW! DON MULVANEY GOT HIMSELF TRADED TO THE YANKEES FOR A MILLION DOLLARS!

HURRY UP AND FINISH, DITTO, SO I CAN CLEAN UP THE KITCHEN! — CAN'T I JUST FINISH THIS?

AND ANDY HOWSOME AUCTIONED HIMSELF FOR $500,000! — AND THEN MAKE YOUR BED.

DON'T RUN OFF TO PLAY WITHOUT DOING YOUR PART OF THE LAWN, DITTO! — AND NO ALLOWANCE UNTIL YOU'VE SWEPT THE GARAGE.

AND GET ALL YOUR JUNK OUT OF MY ROOM!

I WONDER HOW YOU GET TO BE A FREE AGENT.

SHAKY BLOPP AND STALKY TESTIFY THAT LEIGHTON OLSON IS NOT THE CAMPUS MUGGER —BUT OLEY IS HUMILIATED AND DEVASTATED BY LOSING HIS GIRL TO ANOTHER MAN...

COACH BLOPP, THE NIGHT PATROLMAN SAID OLSON TOOK A SWING AT YOU!

WE WERE KIDDIN' AROUND... AND OLEY SLIPPED ON THE ICE—JUST AS THE OFFICER CAME BY...

THERE'S BAD BLOOD BETWEEN THOSE LADS—OVER THE TALL GIRL!

THIS IS THE WOMEN'S TEAM'S BIG GAME!

....IF OLSON SHOWS UP— DON'T LET HIM IN...

...IF HE'S BEEN BOOZIN' IT UP!

STUDENT BOOKS

I FEEL LIKE A FOOL—JUDGING A MAUMEE FOOTBALL HERO!

FORMER HERO!—AND THERE HE IS NOW!... HE SEEMS SOBER!

THE MAUMEE WOMEN PLAY THE FIRST GAME...AND THEY ARE WINNING...

WHILE THE MEN'S TEAM WAITS IN THE LOCKER ROOM...

I FEEL LIKE THE ACT THAT FOLLOWED THE CHRISTIANS AND LIONS IN THE ROMAN COLISEUM!

I FEEL LIKE THE CHRISTIANS!

DON'T WORRY —NO ONE WILL STAY TO SEE US PLAY!

LOOK AT STALKY —GETTING THE SVENGALI EYE FROM COACH BLOPP!

SVEN GALI.. —DIDN'T HE PLAY FOR NOTRE DAME?

THE WOMEN PLAY HARD AND FAST... AND JUST BEFORE HALF-TIME, STALKY SCHWEISENBERGER SLAMS IN TWO POINTS —TO PUT MAUMEE AHEAD...

WHEN THE GUN SOUNDS, SHAKY BLOPP RUNS ON THE FLOOR AND KISSES HIS PROTÉGÉ... THE CROWD SCREAMS APPROVAL... AS LEIGHTON OLSON DIES A THOUSAND DEATHS...
