The Programme for January was submitted to the Society by the Chairman of the Programme Committee.

As there was no further business to come before the Society the meeting adjourned.

There was a call-meeting of the two Literary Societies on Thursday Jan. 9th, 1913 for the purpose of deciding when the unveiling of Gov. Jarvis' Portrait should take place.

It was decided that it should be on January 18th, which is Gov. Jarvis' birthday. It was also decided that we invite our present Governor of North Carolina and the Legislature, down to the unveiling.
