The Day Christ Died

It Began With The Feast Of Passover

By JIM BISHOP

6 p.m., April 6, A.D. 30

They came through the pass slowly, like men reluctant to finish a journey. There were eleven of them, robed in white, their sandals powdery from the chalky stones of the road, the hems of their garments dark with dust, their faces molded with concern. These men were part of the final trickle of humans pouring into the walled city of Jerusalem for the Passover observance.

At the mouth of the pass, the leader of the little group paused. He looked across the small valley and His brown eyes caught the beauty of Jerusalem.

Jesus stared at it with love. He had wooed Jerusalem with compassion but it had mocked Him and had questioned the honesty of His suit, and now the city — at least the small part of it that mattered—feared Him and plotted against His life.

Jesus was a religious celebrity. Many said that He healed the sick, raised the dead, gave sight to the blind and preached a kingdom of love. There were three million Jews in Palestine. The majority of them would never see Him. And yet these people had been awaiting the Messiah for centuries with a fervor beyond comprehension. To those of them who had seen and heard Jesus, He was prophet, or fraud, or Messiah, or magician, or prince of Satan, or religious crank. Perhaps eight thousand citizens believed that Jesus was God and the Son of God — the Messiah.

He crossed the Brook Cedron on a stone bridge and entered Jerusalem through the Fountain Gate.

Within Jerusalem, there was a small valley running from north to south, and the eleven men crossed this valley and climbed a short hill toward the west wall.

The Apostles (the word Apostle refers here to one of "the Twelve." Disciple is used to describe anyone who believed that Jesus was the Messiah) following Jesus on the last part of the journey, heard the threefold blast of the temple's silver trumpets announcing a new day, and they knew that the Feast of the Passover was about to begin. Even though Judea was at present in bondage to Rome, the Jews were free to worship Yahweh as they pleased and they were also free to follow their own laws so long as those laws did not conflict with the interests of the Roman Empire.

Jesus wanted to have the feast with those who would carry His word to the world when He was gone. That morning Jesus had told Peter and John to go into Jerusalem to prepare for the feast. He had told them to look for a man carrying water.

The assignment was simple. They identified their man easily because in Judea men seldom carried water. It was women's work. Jesus had not mentioned the name of the man, but both Apostles recognized him at once as the rich father of the young Disciple Mark.

He had led them to his home, through the courtyard and up a flight of outside stairs to a room which occupied all the second floor. A roasting oven was already there, and so was the equipment necessary to prepare and serve a dinner for thirteen men.

After buying a lamb, herbs and spices and making their sacrifice at the temple, Peter and John started back to the upstairs room from the western gate of the temple, the most direct route.

This week, the city was heavy with Roman soldiers. Pontius Pilate, the Procurator, always

Tornados Hit Midwest

By The Associated Press

Tornados were reported in several areas of the Midwest on Saturday, causing heavy property damage and at least a dozen injuries.

Police in Elkton, Ky., said an apparent tornado touched down in that Todd County community, destroying six homes, including three house trailers. At least two vehicles were also destroyed, but no injuries were reported, according to Asst. Police Chief Earl Funk.

A possible tornado was reported in Lawrence County in southeastern Illinois. Two mobile homes were destroyed near the town of Sumner, but no twister was sighted.

Authorities in Augusta, Mich., said a tornado touched down in Kalamazoo County. "Most houses are a shambles and some are upside down," said a sheriff's deputy.

Authorities in nearby Galesburg said at least eight houses were damaged or demolished by the twister, which cut a northeasterly path on the ground for at least five miles through Kalamazoo County.

The number of houses damaged in Augusta was put at several dozen.

Four doctors and four nurses were dispatched from Kalamazoo to staff an emergency center set up at the Augusta fire station to treat the injured. An ambulance dispatcher in Kalamzoo said at least a dozen persons were taken to Bronson and Borgess hospitals in Kalamazoo.

The tornado was preceded by golf-ball-size hail, authorities said.

Portions of rooftops were ripped from houses in the Milwaukee suburb of Brookfield by storms described by local authorities as tornados. A number of vehicles were damaged and trees were uprooted, but no injuries were reported.

A Brookfield police spokesman said damage included "roofs torn off, second stories off, trees through houses, campers off of trucks, things like that."

He said tornados apparently touched down in three spots and three-quarter-inch diameter hailstones fell in the area before the storms hit.

Tornado watches were issued Saturday for portions of Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio.

Included in the western Kentucky area covered by the tornado watch was Brandenburg, a tiny Ohio River community that was virtually destroyed by

Four Resolutions Adopted By NCAE

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Delegates to the annual North Carolina Association of Educators convention here adopted four resolutions in Saturday's final session.

Each resolution, adopted by nearly unanimous voice votes, concerned proposed legislation now before the General Assembly dealing with standardized testing of public school pupils.

The first resolution called for the NCAE to "actively pursue and propose amendments" to bills before the House and Senate, insuring that test results would not be used to compare school systems; that school funding would not be based on the test results; and that scores would not be used in evaluating teachers.

The resolution also supported testing by sample groups, rather than testing every pupil.

The delegates also favored a three-year trial period before competency-base testing of high school juniors is made mandatory for high school graduation.

Statewide assessment tests "would serve no educational purpose," the third resolution stated. Instead, the legislature should provide funds for local systems to establish their own testing programs, it said.

The final resolution emphasized the individual needs of pupils and asked that the 50,000-member association take the position that "no exact level of achievement should be required of all students in order to receive a diploma, but ability levels should be considered."

How Layeth The Hens?

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — The eggs of chickens who standup while laying are more likely to be cracked and rejected by egg graders.

Scientists at the government's Poultry Research Center spent nearly a decade investigating whether modern eggs are more fragile than their predecessors.

Their study began after farmers complained they were losing $13.6 million annually in cracked eggs.

The scientists tried dozens of experiments to determine whether higher laying power, diet shortcomings or the stress of battery production resulted in more fragile eggshells.

The results were negative.

Then the scientists discovered some hens stood up to lay their eggs while others sat. The varying egg-drop height accounted for many of the cracks.

"Each hen has its own drop height. Some stand too tall off the ground and that is how the eggs are cracked," the annual report said.

Sadat Seeks Weapons

By JIM ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat arrives in Washington today to seek progress toward a Middle East peace agreement, but also in search of "large numbers" of American weapons.

Sadat, the first Arab leader to visit Washington since President Carter took office, was scheduled to arrive this afternoon and will be formally welcomed at the White House Monday.

He will talk with Carter and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance both Monday and Tuesday.

As was the case when Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin visited town, the emphasis during Sadat's stay will be on work-with a "working dinner" planned at the White House Monday night instead of a more gala state banquet.

Sadat stopped in Paris Saturday en route to Washington and told reporters he was pleased with Carter's recent statements on the Middle East.

"There have been really very encouraging signs from the side of President Carter," he said. "What he said about the concussion bombs declining to sell them to Israel, about his declaring for the first time a homeland for the Palestinians, were very, very, very encouraging signs."

Whether Sadat will leave Washington with such a positive view could depend in part on whether Carter agrees to sell Egypt the weapons it seeks.

In a recent television interview, Sadat said he intends to ask the Carter administration for arms, including "large number" of F5E fighter-bombers, TOW, anti-tank missiles and unspecified electronic equipment.

But the principal reason for his trip is to continue the talks in which the United States is acting as mediator between Israel and the Arab states. Sadat said Saturday, without U.S. pressure, "Israel will never head anything at all."

'Dangerous Precedent,' Rep. Rountree Avows

By BARBARA MARTHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer

Gov. Jim Hunt's plan to restructure the state Utilities Commission could set a "dangerous precedent" by usurping the power of the attorney general's office to represent the people, according to Rep. H. Horton Rountree of Pitt County, House majority leader.

"It's the wrong approach," said Rountree.

"The governor is just setting up another bureaucracy. He's proposed setting up an executive director for the Commission, to be paid the same salary as a commissioner.

"The director would be appointed by the governor but could be removed by a majority vote of the Utilities Commission.

"And the bill would take 94 of the nearly 150 people on the com-

April 4-9 Is National Guard Awareness Week

"Our purposes in having a National Guard Awareness Week is twofold," Sgt. Don Haley remarked. "One is to let the people of the community know what we are here for. The other is to get men and women with previous military service to check on Try-One, a new National Guard program."

Haley, spokesman for the 514th Military Police Company of the North Carolina National Guard, which is headquartered at the National Guard Armory Building adjacent to the Greenville Airport, said the week of Monday, April 4 through Saturday, April 9, "has been set aside for public awareness."

In anticipation of public interest, Haley, Platoon Sergeant (PSG) George Pleasant, Staff Sergeant (SSG) Joe Braxton, and SSG Walter Ezzell, assisted by other members of the unit, have been getting displays and materials in readiness for public viewing.

In the main training area, two bulletin boards display photographs of previous activities and brochures showing the advantages of being a National Guardsman. Also in this area are several typical vehicles of the type used by the 514th in their week-end training and during the two weeks field exercises.

Another room contains displays of communications equipment — most of it portable, self-contained units suitable for lightweight maneuverability.

Beginning on Monday, the public will be able to visit the displays and see demonstrations of equipment from 9 a.m. until. 9 p.m. each day.

Fears Proposed N.C. Obscenity Bills Would Open Doors To Would-Be Censors

By BARBARA MATHEWS
Reflector Staff Writer

Two bills now before the N.C. General Assembly could substantially affect the current state obscenity statute, according to Emily S. Boyce of the ECU library science department.

Ms. Boyce, who is a member of the intellectual freedom committee of the North Carolina Library Association and a charter member of the Freedom to Read Foundation, said the Barnes and Combs bills could harm the safeguards in the adversary hearing provision of the current statute.

"As the law is now, it provides for an adversary hearing to determine if the material in question is obscene," she said.

"This means that before a person or firm could be criminally prosecuted the hearing judge would have to declare the material obscene.

"We are one of six states with this provision. It acts as a safeguard.

"The hearing puts the burden of responsibility on the alleged disseminator of this obscenity. He would have to show why the material is not obscene.

"If the judge does rule it obscene, a law enforcement official could then arrest the disseminator only if he continued to sell that title."

The Barnes bill's effect would be to subject a person to criminal liability for an act committed before the adversary hearing is held, according to Ms. Boyce.

"The Barnes bill removes the safeguard of a prior definition of what is obscene before criminal prosecution," she said.

"The adversary hearing law is preferred because we have no clear definition of obscenity. And without a definition, too many people could become censors.

"All of us feel the adversary hearing is an important provision because everyone has different opinions of what is pornographic, obscene or acceptable."

The Combs bill would make it illegal to display sexually explicit material in any location where persons under 18 may view them. Because "sexually explicit" is defined in the terms of the bill, no adversary hearing is provided for.

"These bills open the door to would-be censors," said Ms. Boyce.

"We want to protect an individual's rights as we see them. And we don't want anything which will open the door to raids on educational instructional materials."

According to Emily Boyce, librarians are concerned because the North Carolina statute contains no exemption from obscenity prosecution for libraries.

"Librarians are liable," she said.

"We are disseminators, and materials in libraries are no different from materials anywhere else.

"We feel nothing in library collections could be defined as obscene under the state statute.

"We're not too concerned with prosecution, but we are one of the largest groups interested in the protection of the right of an adult to read or view whatever the adult wants to."

Ms. Boyce said the intellectual freedom committee of the library association is opposed to censorship "in any form—governmental or individual."

"We have no desire to fill kids' minds with hard-core pornography," she said.

"But when we have a law with no safeguards you're opening the way for someone to attempt censorship.

"The government really shouldn't dictate to an adult — that is true censorship.

"Attempts at regulating what an adult can read, when they are based on someone else's definition of what is obscene, are not in keeping with the freedom guaranteed by our Constitution."

EMILY BOYCE. . . is a member of the intellectual freedom committee of the North Carolina Library Association, a group which serves as a clearinghouse for information relative to censorship. She said two bills now before the state legislature may harm safeguards built into the current state obscenity law. (Reflector photo by Barbara Mathews)

Botulism Blamed On Canned Hot Peppers

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Health authorities investigating one of the worst botulism outbreaks in U.S. history said Saturday the hot peppers blamed for food poisoning at a Mexican restaurant were canned exclusively for the establishment.

Spokesmen at three area hospitals reported 21 confirmed botulism cases, with about a dozen more showing symptoms. One victim was an unidentified Toledo, Ohio, man admitted Saturday to the Medical College of Ohio there. He also had eaten at the restaurant.

Trini and Carmen's Mexican restaurant was closed Friday after officials discovered that all victims had eaten there within the past week. Peppers in a hot sauce were the suspected source, although the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta was seeking confirmation.

"It was a home canned variety of peppers that was not available to any other establishments," said Ralph Miller, a spokesman for St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, where 13 victims were being treated.

Three in critical but stable condition were identified as Michael Penrod, 35, Detroit; John Slater, 26, Bloomfield Hills, and Diane Sprenger, 30, Union Lake. 7

Of five more at Crittendon Hospital in nearby Rochester, one unidentified patient also was in critical condition. The other two victims were at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak.

The restaurant is next door to the St. Joseph hospital and many of its regular customers were hospital employes. Among those stricken were six nurses and an orderly.

Botulism is caused by a toxin created when food is improperly canned or preserved. The illness sometimes doesn't develop for days, and scientists said more victims might emerge before the crisis subsides. Symptoms include nausea, vomiting, blurred or double vision, cramps, and difficulty swallowing.

No Trace Of Masked Armed Bank Robbers

OAK CITY — No trace of three masked gunmen who robbed Edgecombe Bank & Trust Co. Friday morning has yet been discovered, despite intensive air and ground searches.

"We have no more leads now than we did Friday," said Martin County Sheriff Raymond Rawls.

"We have bird-dogged the whole area with helicopters and cars, and had some CB help.

"We feel the stolen car they escaped in has been abandoned, and we'll go back to look for it daylight today."

Rawls said area sheriff's departments, the N.C. Highway Patrol, the FBI and the SBI are involved in the search. They are looking for three, "possibly more," men who robbed the bank of an undisclosed amount of money.

"We have very good pictures of them from the bank films," said Rawls, "but the men were masked so they do us little good."

Plan Two-Day Observance Of King's Death

The Pitt County chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference plans a two-day demonstration commemorating the ninth anniversary of the April 4 assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

On Sunday at 4 p.m. the group will sponsor a gospel program at the Roxy Theater. A play will be presented by the Ebonettes.

A day-long workshop about Dr. King will begin at 10 a.m. Monday at SCLC headquarters. At 4 p.m. a mass march, led by Golden Frinks, national field representative, will be held.

The marchers will go from the Roxy Theater to the Pitt County courthouse and back. A fish fry will follow at SCLC headquarters.

All interested persons are invited to participate.

Foggy Day

TEXAS, Pflugerville (AP) — It was foggy in this Central Texas city when the four military helicopters bearing strange insignias landed behind Charilie's Steak House near Interstate 35.

County Sheriff's Department began to ring and citizens reported they "thought we were being invaded," said deputies.

The choppers, which were on their way from Fort Worth to South America, were forced by the heavy fog to make emergency landings, a sheriff's department spokesman said.

The "invading" helicopters marked for the army of Colombia, and their crews, were still parked behind the steak house late Friday

In Memory of Margaret Riddick

Greenville BPW Club
September 9, 1976.
(By Annie Turner)

Tonight we are lighting a green candle in memory of a fellow BPWian, Margaret Riddick. The color green is quiet; so was Margaret. The color green is restful, pleasant in any surrounding; so was Margaret. Her sweet, welcoming smile was a joy to all who knew her. She is missed in a special way by her family and friends. Her life of gentle kindness was an inspiration to all whose life it touched — her family, her pupils at school, and her friends.

I believe, if Margaret could speak, I would hear her quote from Helen Steiner Rice:

"When I must leave you for a little while,
Please do not grieve and shed wild tears
And hug your sorrow to you through the years,
But start out bravely with a gallant smile;
And for my sake and in my name
Live on and do all things the same.
Feed not your loneliness on empty days,
But fill each waking hour in useful ways.
Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer,
And I in turn will comfort you and hold you near,
And never, never be afraid to die;
For I am waiting for you in the sky!"

The 1976-77 BPW Yearbook is lovingly dedicated to Margaret Riddick; and our president will present the first copy to her sister, Mrs. Mavis Wright.

(Since the September meeting, a Brunson-Riddick Scholarship has been founded.)

Two Injuries Reported In Three Accidents

Three weekend traffic accidents resulted in two injuries and an estimated $800 in property damages, according to Greenville police reports.

Steven Hugh Simonds of 318 E. Tenth St. was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital Friday night after his motorcycle overturned at the corner of Cotanche and Tenth Streets. Police estimated damages to his vehicle at $150.

Ann Marie Brittle was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon for treatment of injuries received in an accident at the intersection of E. Tenth and Charles Streets. Police estimated damages at $150 to a car driven by Kathy Diane Stilley of New Bern and $175 to a vehicle operated by John Bert Brown of Route 4, Greenville. No charges were made.

No charges were made in connection with an accident Saturday morning in the parking lot of Garris Evans Lumber Co. Police estimated damages at $175 to a car driven by William Steven Hill of Route 1, Winterville, an $150 to a car driven by Barbar Ross Skinner of 119 W. Twelft St.

mission's staff and put them under the executive director, leaving the rest for the Utilities Commission itself."

Rountree said the proposed executive director's task would be to represent the people before the Utilities Commission, a duty already delegated to the attorney general's office.

"The attorney general's office is the protector of the people," he said.

"It represents the people of the state.

"This bill is trying to confine the attorney general to only representing state agencies before the Utilities Commission.

"If we're going to transfer this power, we ought to transfer it over to the attorney general so he can better protect the people."

He added he believes a compromise can be worked out.

"The Utilities Commission is under the General Assembly, not under the governor's office," said Rountree.

"I think a compromise can be worked out between the two.

"But it should be done within the system. To do otherwise could set a dangerous precedent."

Brazilian Congress Is Closed

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Brazil's military regime, which ordered congress closed, prepared Saturday to revamp the country's political system amid reports that some opposition politicians may be banned from public life for 10 years.

President Ernesto Geisel, who closed congress Friday because the opposition party blocked—for the first time in almost a decade—a government measure, asked the leaders of both political parties to stay in Brasilia to help plan the changes he promised would be made during the congressional "recess."

Geisel's message was delivered to the party leaders Saturday by deputy Jose Bonifacio, the pro-government majority leader in the lower house.

Among the measures Bonifacio said would be discussed would be the substitution of an indirect ballot for the popular vote planned for next year's gubernatorial elections. The opposition Brazilian Democratic Movement was expected to make gains in the popular vote.

Also under consideration was a constitutional amendment calling for simple majority votes on further amendments, thus decreasing the possibility that the opposition could again block a government-sponsored amendment, as it did a judicial reform bill last Wednesday.

Bonifacio said that the creation of a powerful "council of state" was also being studied.

Political sources said hardliners in the military government wanted Geisel to use his special powers to unseat a large number of opposition congressmen and banish them from public life for 10 years.

But civilian cabinet members argued vehemently against the idea, saying that with the current concern for human rights now was not the time to use the powers.

Bonifacio denied repeated reports that a letter written by President Carter to Geisel on March 30 swayed the Brazilian president's thinking on the matter. The contents of the letter were not publicly divulged thus far.

Dynamite Found Under Bridge

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Four sticks of dynamite, which officers said could have been triggered by a signal from a Citizen's Band radio, were found under a bridge near a busy shopping center Saturday.

State Bureau of Investigation agents defused the dynamite, found by two boys under the Crabtree Valley bridge.

The dynamite was found under the same bridge where authorities reported finding blasting caps Wednesday night. Officers had searched the area at the time for dynamite, but found none. Authorities said the dynamite had to have been placed under the bridge since Thursday.

Succession Bills Filed

RALEIGH (AP) — With bills filed in each house of the legislature with sufficient cosponsors to win approval, it now appears certain that North Carolina voters will have a chance to decide whether governors and lieutenant governors should be allowed to seek second consecutive terms.

The succession bill was filed in the House Friday with 74 signatures, two more than needed for passage. A similar bill in the Senate has 37 signers, seven more than needed.

Losing Doctors By Suicide

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — The nation is losing the equivalent of an "averaged-sized medical school class" of physicians a year to suicide, according to a Duke University psychiatrist.

Dr. Bernard Bressler says other emotionally disturbed doctors are turning to drugs to help keep up with excessive workloads.

In an article in a recent issue of "Suicide and Life-Threatening Behavior," Bressler said he believes the desire of the medical profession to maintain the patients' trust is too much for some physicians.

Has Total Confidence

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The head of Duke Power Co. says he has such confidence in the safety of nuclear power plants it intends to keep its plant in operation in the face of a court ruling that could expose the company to unlimited liability in the event of a plant catastrophe.

Carl Horn Jr., Duke board chairman, asserted the company would proceed with its nuclear plant construction plans on the assumption higher courts will overturn the decision of U.S. District Judge James McMillan.

NC Gay President Pleased

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) The president of the North Carolina Gay Association Saturday said recognition by the Carter Administration and more national publicity is helping change the public's attitude about homosexuality.

Howard Fradkin, a student at the University of North Carolina-Charlotte, addressed a gathering of about 600 people at the second annual Southeastern Gay Conference. The three-day conference began Friday on the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill campus.

Fires 1,000 Striking Workers

ATLANTA (AP) — Mayor Maynard Jackson has fired more than 1,000 striking bluecollar workers and told Atlantans they'll have to haul their garbage themselves until replacements can be hired.

Jackson said at a news conference Friday that he had not wanted to fire the workers, but "We have turned the other cheek so many times that we have no more cheeks to turn."

He said it was impossible to meet the 50-cent-an-hour wage increase demanded by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes, which struck the city last Monday. About 1,300 workers had struck, but 300 returned to work after Jackson warned they would be fired, city officials said.

Jewish-Nazi Clashes In SF

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Apparent pro-Nazis Saturday smashed the windows of a synagogue across the street from a Nazi bookstore demolished Friday night by Jews swinging tire irons and axes.

Two persons were arrested — Morris Weiss, 55, a survivor of Auschwitz who lost his entire family in the death camp, and his son, Allen, 24.

About 50 persons bashed down the store's door Friday night, five days after its opening and the night before Passover, turned over the shelves, set fire to literature, and shredded tracts and banners. Three Nazis in storm trooper uniforms fled out the back door.

d'Estaing Warns U.S. Of Repercussions

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF

PARIS (UPI) — President Valery Giscard d'Estaing warned Secretary of State Cyrus Vance Saturday there will be political repercussions between France and the United States if the supersonic Concorde is not allowed to land in New York.

Vance, who flew back to Washington after briefing Western European leaders on his unsuccessful strategic arms reduction talks in Moscow, said he assured Giscard he would discuss the issue of the Anglo-French jetliner with President Carter.

French spokesman Jean-Philippe Lecat said Giscard told Vance "this is not a technical problem, but a political problem with inevitable consequences."

"The president (Giscard) recalled the political importance of this affair and that it would be extremely grave to underestimate the political importance of this," Lecat said.

"The French and British governments and public opinion attach very great importance to the authorization of Concorde flights to New York and a technical refusal would not be taken as such—it would be taken as a political refusal."

Carter has told Giscard that the decision on the Concorde rests with the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which controls Kennedy airport. The Port Authority was scheduled to announce its decision Feb. 10 but postponed its ruling indefinitely.

Vance said he briefed Giscard on his talks in Moscow, during which Soviet leaders rejected Carter's proposal to lower the ceilings on nuclear weaponry allowed both sides under the original 1974 Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) accord.

Eight Dead In Air Force Crash

MARQUETTE, Mich. (UPI) — An unarmed B52H StratoFortress on its way home from a routine training mission crashed and exploded during a landing approach, killing all eight men aboard, the Air Force said Saturday.

The plane carried no weapons when air controllers lost it from their radar screens late Friday. The aircraft hit about five miles north of K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base

The victims were not immediately identified.

"Six were regular crewmen," a spokesman said. "The other two were either getting additional training or were taking a check flight to supervise the others."

After the eight bodies were found by rescuers, an Air Force investigating team studied wreckage scattered over a half mile area for clues to the disaster. A steady snowfall hampered the investigation.

Other officers at K. I. Sawyer reviewed flight records to learn if there were any indication of trouble from the crew before the crash.

But residents in the area said they heard the plane approaching just before the explosion, and they sensed something was wrong.

"We have been out here about a year now and you get used to the sound of the planes," said Colleen Womch, 21. "But this one didn't sound right. It seemed like it was too low and pretty noisy.

"Then all of a sudden there was a big red light and we knew what had happened. It just lit up like day. It had a real reddish tinge for 30 seconds just like broad daylight."

The Strategic Air Command bomber was attached to the 410th Bombardment Wing of the Eighth Air Force.

Search Over

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — The search for a legendary treasure deep within remote Victorio Peak has ended as it began — with no gold in hand and doubts that it ever existed.

Norman Scott, leader of an expedition seeking the rumored horde, said Friday he couldn't say whether the legend of stacks of gold bullion, coins and artifacts hidden in a cavern inside the mountain is true or not.

"At the precise location represented to us by a group of claimants there is no gold," Scott said at a news conference. He said the existence of a large cavern — where the treasure is rumored to be stored — has been documented.

No Coffee For Prisoners

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — With prices soaring, the Alabama state prisons have decided that coffee is a luxury. Instead of serving it at every meal, inmates henceforth will be given coffee only on Sundays and holidays.

"We hope tea will replace the coffee habit," prison spokesman John Hale said in announcing the change Saturday. He said the prisons can no longer afford the 2,000 pounds of coffee inmates had been drinking every month.

The prisons paid $1.27 a pound for coffee during the last three months of 1976, but the lowest bid for coffee for the second quarter of this year was $2.65.

a twister three years ago. Thirty-one persons died and more than 150 were injured in the April 3, 1974, tornado. Much of the town was reduced to rubble.

Locally heavy rains accompanied thunderstorms in many areas, with widespread reports of more than an inch of rainfall. Flash flood watches covered southeastern Illinois, southern Indiana, eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Rain was widespread in the lower Great Lakes region and the northern half of the Atlantic Coast states.

Another large area of showers and thundershowers stretched from Alabama into central Georgia. There was rain in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region, with snow in northern portions.

Marine Dies From Apparent Freak Accident

HAVELOCK, N.C. (AP) — A Cherry Point Marine, whose body was found near here Thursday, apparently was killed in a freak accident, officials said.

S.Sgt. Steve Borisch, 26, bled to death from a .44 magnum bullet wound, but the round apparently was never fired from a gun, officials said.

Borisch's body was found Thursday morning in woods near a site where he had been target practicing with a .22 caliber pistol.

Important Search Soon Begins

In just a few weeks a search will begin which will have an immense effect on East Carolina University, the Greenville area and North Carolina as a whole.

A committee will be formed to recommend a successor to Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU's chancellor, in 1978.

The person chosen to become the new chancellor will head up a multi-purpose university, including a degree-granting medical school, which should be in full operation by that time.

The new chancellor will possibly be primarily responsible for charting the directions ECU will take for the remainder of this century.

He or she will follow the dynamic leadership of Dr. Jenkins, who has virtually wrung a modern university in the east out of the political leadership of North Carolina.

There will be much expected of whoever is chosen for this important position, simply because so much has been accomplished in the past 20 years. And that person will probably face a time when it is more difficult to compete for state funds than it has been in the past.

Choosing the new leader for East Carolina is not something that should be taken lightly—and Troy W. Pate, Jr., chairman of the ECU board of trustees has made it clear that a thorough search will be made. There will be a committee composed of five faculty members, five trustees, the Student Government president, the president of the Alumni Association and an at-large member from the alumni.

This committee will make recommendations to the full board of trustees and, upon its approval, two candidates will be submitted to UNC President William Friday.

He, in turn, will make his recommendation to the board of governors which will give its final approval for a new chancellor at ECU.

It will end an exciting era at East Carolina University; and hopefully it will begin an equally exciting era.

The foundations for many fine programs have been laid at the university. Now these programs must be improved and revised to meet the higher education needs of a rapidly changing state.

No committee has ever been called upon to do anything more important than the task which will face the cnancellor search committee. The search should be nationwide, for we must find the most qualified person in the nation to lead this important university into the final quarter of the 20th century.

The person chosen must have the training, the energy, the devotion to service needed to lead this institution forward. He or she must have, or develop, a passionate love for North Carolina which will culminate in a burning desire to see the quality of life improved for all our citizens.

It's a lot to expect of any one person, but somewhere in the United States is the individual who can perform to these standards. This nominating committee will be charged with finding the person who is totally qualified for this unique position. We have no doubt that it will succeed.

"Pleased t'meet y'all . . . and I hope I don't come as too much of a . . ."

Running Smoother Course

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Local government officials are hoping that the signals mean the real thing: top state officials really intend to work at building a warm, working relationship.

Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. sounded the theme in his pre-election statements, and echoed them after election—the state's efforts will be toward smoothing the way for local officials to get things done; not toward building stumbling blocks.

Howard Lee, secretary of Natural and Economic Resources, has been given that charge in carrying out one of the central jobs of the soon-to-be reorganized agency which will bear the name Natural Resources and Community Development.

The "economic" part will be moved to the Department of Commerce in a restructured economic development setup.

State Tour

Lee recently toured the state, visiting regional offices and calling on local officials to reaffirm his commitment to cooperation. This week, municipal officials from across the state gathered in Raleigh for "Mayor's Day" talks with Hunt, Lee, other state officals, and a briefing on what is happening in the General Assembly affecting towns and cities.

A sign that things may be working toward more cordial relations can be seen in the state's regional Councils of Government—17 of these multi-county agencies which are supposed to be directed by local governments to provide a system for cooperative planning and problem-solving.

In recent years, critcism of these organizations has become strong, generally on the theme that they were becoming state dominated, creating a "third level of government" standing between state and local, and were functioning in some cases to thwart local ideas rather than help implement them.

There was a move to provide some state funds to pay costs of the regional agencies; but local officials protested that to do this would make the program even more closely identified with the state government.

Local control comes from local participation and funding, so the agencies are moving more strongly into a tilt toward local involvement rather than less.

The basis guidelines for the Land Policy measure to be considered later in this session of the General Assembly also has built into it firm rules on participation of local city and county officials in the policy and supervisory boards to be established.

Restructured

And last week when the Governor's Law and Order Commission was disbanded and replaced by the state's Crime Commission, it was clear that state agencies and regional planners no longer hold the upper hand in approving local plans and funding for those. That body is the funnel for federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act funds, and over past years has been one of the sorest friction points between local and state officials.

The new agency includes three mayors, three county commissioners, three county sheriffs, three local police officers, three citizens, and court officials from both state and local levels.

State agency heads, a senator, and a representative round out the membership.

Significantly, the makeup takes away from the state agencies and planners control over decisions, which has frequently been a sore point in the past.

Insiders are watching closely, however, to see just how much control now shifts to the court system. Among state agency people, both Bert M. Montague, administrative officer of courts, and Thomas Danek, juvenile services administrator in the courts, are members, along with four judges, a defense attorney, and a district attorney—only eight among the 34 members, but the largest bloc.

Sunday Morning Notes

As folks who toured the new Pitt Memorial Hospital last weekend discovered, the complex is a big place — so large in fact that there were sore feet for many people who made the complete tour.

The hospital is built in segments which attach to a wide corridor that runs the entire length of the building.

Gov. Jim Hunt toured the facility prior to speaking at the dedication last week. He noted that he was told the corridor is a quarter of a mile long.

He said he told the builder who was giving the governor the tour, "You're going to have to put in one of those telescopes that you put a dime in, so you can see from one end to the other."

That would bring in additional revenue.

Following the recent disastrous earthquake in Turkey, Daily Reflector photographer Tommy Forrest expressed concern about a former member of our staff, Donna Dixon Hammond, who he recalled was in Turkey.

Someone called her family to check.

She was in Turkey, all right — Turkey, North Carolina.

A nurse stood at one location for the tour of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital last weekend. It turned out that she was manning the first aid station.

"If you get injured I'll take care of you," she joked with the visitors.

"You may perform the first medical procedure for this entire hospital," one visitor pointed out.

So far as we know no medical problems arose.

A Daily Reflector editorial sympathetic with those who want to smoke, prompted a whole series of critical letters to the editor.

"Would you say that writing editorials about smoking might be injurious to your health?" someone asked.

Could be.

And a lady called to complain about all the letters putting down tobacco.

"Don't they know what this area would be like without tobacco?" she asked.

We allowed that we knew.

"The Lord put tobacco here for a purpose," she concluded.

Everybody has definite ideas on tobacco, either pro or con. We haven't had so much response since the dog leash controversy.

Mayan Ruins Eyed

40 Years Ago Today

April 3, 1937

Two of the bitterest, bloodiest and most important battles of the Spanish Civil War raged on widely separated fronts today.

In the northern sector near Bilbao, the Spanish government rushed mobilization of all available fighting men to repel a big insurgent advance and sent its militiamen up a 4,800-foot mountain peak to block one segment of the assault.

Far to the south, in Cordoba province, opposing armies still were locked in a serious struggle for the possession of a rich mining country. But there the insurgents were on the defensive.

The success or failure of the insurgent drive in northern Spain was construed in many quarters as likely to have a decisive effect on the future of insurgent General Francisco Franco, particularly in view of recent losses in the Guadalajara sector northeast of Madrid.

Should he capture Bilbao, more than 200 miles north of Madrid on the Bay of Bilbao, Franco would be in position to control all ports along the Spanish coast and cut off ready accessibility of supplies for government troops there.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Bert Lance Sets Pattern

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The root cause of organized labor's deepening displeasure with the Carter administration is the continuing dominance of budget director Bert Lance and his strategy of breaking the capital investment slump by reassuring business.

Big labor was unprepared for Lance's victory in convincing President Carter to ask a minimum hourly wage increase of only 20 cents instead of the 74 cents pushed by the AFL-CIO. More of the same is on the way. Lance agrees with businessmen that the best way to stimulate investment is to lower corporate income tax rates — a proposal certain to send labor leaders climbing the walls of the AFL-CIO's Philip Murray Building across Lafayette Park from the White House.

What is happening is temporary precedence of economic factors over political factors. The President's political aides fully recognize his debt to the AFL-CIO for carrying vital industrial states last November and would prefer to back labor's program. But Lance, the conservative banker-politician from Georgia who is barely known to labor, quite sincerely believes that wholesale adoption of labor's proposals would spell economic disaster, and has so convinced Mr. Carter.

Lance's strategy recognizes the intense hostility to union power that pervades American business, big and little. The expectation that both Mr. Carter and Congress will repay labor's political backing with blanket support of labor's legislative program is the core of business non-confidence.

Hence, the surprising defeat of the situs picketing bill in the House was welcomed privately by some key Carter officials (though not the political aides) precisely because it showed that neither the President nor Congress is in George Meany's pocket. While the official view at the Philip Murray Building is that labor has only its own lassitude to blame for the situs picketing defeat, dissenters there grumble about lack of support from the Carter administration — and particularly Bert Lance.

Certainly, in conversations with Congressmen, Lance did not hide his own opposition to situs picketing. That may have contributed to votes against the bill from all 10 Georgia Democratic House members.

More noxious to organized labor and more cheering to business than Lance's non-support of situs picketing was his active opposition to labor's minimum wage proposal. Lance has advertised his belief that pushing up the minimum wage would not only boost unemployment among minority youths but would also contribute to business unease.

Lance has been asked by businessmen how they can accept his and the President's pledges about championing a non-inflationary policy while the administration backs labor's minimum wage proposals. Candid in reply, Lance has conceded they have a point.

Nevertheless, AFL-CIO leaders were no more prepared for the administration rejecting their proposal that they were for the House

(New Bern Sun-Journal)

The banner is now being run up the pole for a state-financed sports arena. The thinking is that since North Carolina had two teams in the NCAA basketball finals, it is time to think about the state building a sports arena. The area of Research Triangle has been mentioned.

Among those jumping on the band wagon for a taxpayer-built stadium are our colleagues at the Anson Record.

To the proposal we offer these observations: If basketball is worth a lot of "hoopla" in this state—which it is — why does that automatically mean the state should build an arena? If the alumni groups from the big universities have their heart set on one, fine, let them pool their chips and raise the funds. But let's leave taxpayer money out of it.

In fairness, it should be noted that there are a lot of people in North Carolina whose main interest is racing or fishing; and many taxpayers who would not willingly invest their money in such an enterprise. We don't think those taxpayers who couldn't care less about basketball should be forced to pay the tab.

Also, if such an arena were placed in the Research Triangle, it might be handy to all those in the Raleigh - Durham - Chapel Hill area but what about those down around Wilmington, in Dare County, or in the far western hinterlands around Asheville. These folks would seldom get there, yet they would be coerced to pay an equal share of the construction.

We think N.C. basketball is a great sport, but we don't think it's great enough to foist further costs upon the taxpayer. Let those who favor an arena come forward with their dollars, and then see what's built.

Strength For Today

SALVATION AND SANCTIFICATION

There are people who look back on a day in their lives and say, "On that day I was saved."

Only God can make us Christians, but it takes both God and ourselves to keep us Christians. All we can do to bring about our salvation is to accept God's offer, but after that God says to the saved person, "Now see what you can do, and I will be standing right beside you to help you." What the saved person does, with the help of God, is known in theology as "sanctification." The word really means "to make holy." It is the Christian's attempt to grow up to the ideal he embraced when he became a Christian.

Of course, as the philosopher William James once noted, there are a great variety of religious experiences in the world. Many people work slowly and effectively toward sanctification without the direct experience of being saved—which serves to remind us again that we should be unfailingly tolerant to each other's religious life.

Bidding Up Cost Of Originals

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans who used to decorate their walls with inexpensive mirrors and mass-produced lithographs are now steadily bidding up the prices of original, hand-signed fine art prints.

A print by Cuca Romley, a native of Spain, was offered in January 1975, professionally framed, by Original Print Collectors Group Ltd., a mail order seller that searches out quality, medium-price prints.

Four months later five of its customers unsuccessfully sought the print for $220. Ten months later fthe price went to $240, and two months after that to $245. By June of 1976 bidding had risen to $265.

There is no way of foretelling how high the price might go, but a 36 per cent gain in just 18 months, and great reluctance to sell by the 125 owners of the limited edition, suggest a bullish future.

The use of a Wall Street term to describe a print isn't altogether inappropriate because, no denying it, a good many collectors are philistines, more interested in prices than art.

But there seems little doubt either that true appreciation is involved. "Fine arts has attracted the attention of the ordinary American." says Bruce Whyte, founder of Original Print Collectors.

Nevertheless, many people still think of a print as the equivalent of a magazine illustration, when in fact it is one of a limited edition on which the artist has personally worked, and on which he has applied his signature.

Prints are not reproductions of oil paints either. They are conceived as prints, the image being created on a lithographic stone, etching plate, silk screen, wood block or some other transfer medium.

The individual prints are then "pulled" from the medium by the artist or by a master print-maker working under his or her supervision. If approved, the artist then signs the print and numbers it. And destroys the master.

Four years ago Whyte sold $320,000 worth of such prints by mail. His volume now, entirely by mail order, is $1.5 million, even though the nature of the business — fine arts are necessarily limited — imposes restraints on growth.

For the entire industry, sales of prints at retail are estimated by sellers at about $150 million, compared with only $75 million four years ago, and probably $12 million to $18 million a decade ago.

Whyte estimates that based on present trends the retail business will grow to one-half billion dollars five years from now, a consequence of spreading interest and rising prices.

The mail order segment seems to be growing especially fast. Of the 150 million sales currently — not counting auctions — Whyte estimates that $11.2 million worth are mail order. Four years ago, he says, sales were only $3.4 million.

Book of the Month Club and Time Inc. offer prints by mail. Reader's Digest and American Express have tested the market. The Franklin Mint is now testing it. But there are limitations.

Want Speed Limits Kept

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — President Carter's forthcoming energy proposals will come at a time when a large majority of Americans continues to favor retaining the present 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, imposed in 1973 because of fuel shortages.

Three persons in four (76 per cent) in the latest survey want the law kept on the books. In a previous survey, taken in June 1974 virtually the same proportion, 73 per cent, favored retention. A still earlier survey — conducted in June 1973 prior to the imposition of the new speed law — showed opinion among those aware of an energy crisis to be 2-to-1 in favor of reducing speed limits on the nation's highways by 10 miles per hour.

Those in the latest survey who favor keeping the 55 mph speed limit cite the decrease in the highway death rate or point to the saving of petroleum.

4 In 10 Say Could Cut Down Driving By Fourth

While Carter's specific energy proposals are not yet known, of interest to those helping to prepare these proposals is the finding that fully four people in 10 (41 per cent), as reported earlier, say they would not find it difficult to reduce their driving by one fourth. This is significant in view of the fact that cars and trucks account for about a third of the nation's oil bill.

Support For Highest In East

A solid majority of citizens in each major region of the nation would like to see the current speed limit stay on the books. Easterners are most likely to favor retention of the law.

While older persons are slightly more inclined than are younger adults to favor keeping the 55 mph limit, as many as seven in 10 young adults (18 to 29 years old) favor the law.

How About Trucks?

The same survey shows only a minority of Americans (23 per cent) in favor of a higher speed limit for trucks. The large majority either favor the same 55 mph limit (58 per cent) or a lower limit. (14 per cent).

Spokesmen for the trucking industry have argued that truck engines work more efficiently at higher speeds and that consumers are saved money because trucks can reach markets quicker. A key argument on the other side is that trucks on certain highways are already involved in a disproportionate number of fatal highway accidents.

These survey findings closely parallel those recorded in the June 1974 survey when 57 percent favored the same speed for trucks, 27 per cent wanted a higher limit, and 11 per cent a lower limit.

Persons living in the South and West are slightly more in favor of a higher speed for trucks than are persons living in the Midwest and East.

Following is the first question asked:

"Do you favor or oppose keeping the present 55-mile-per-hour speed limit on the highways of the nation?"

Here are the results by groups:

Chairperson Bella Handed A $5 Million Kitty

President Carter on Monday reconstituted the National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year, and named Bella Abzug as its chairperson. Speaking simply as one taxpayer, I am minded to ask what in the world goes on.

The commission is to include 42 public members plus two from the Senate and two from the House. One of the Senators is Birch Bayh of Indiana, whose modest claim is to have written more of the U.S. Constitution than any man since Madison. He is the constitutional expert. But if there is any constitutional authority for this exercise in public expenditures, it eludes ready identification.

The gentlewoman from New York, as chairperson of this outfit, has been handed a $5 million kitty to stroke. It is immaterial that in a budget of $460 billion, an item of five million dollars is not even pocket change. The five million has been taken from the people under the compulsions of taxation. For what purpose?

The ostensible purpose, spelled out in the authorizing legislation in 1975, is to assess the progress toward "equality between men and women in all aspects of life in the United States," and to identify the barriers that prevent women from participating fully in all aspects of national life. Jim-dandy. The commission also is charged with setting up a series of State meetings to be followed by a national whoop-te-doo in Houston in November.

The ulterior purpose, unless I am vastly mistaken, is something else. This commission will be spending our money in a desperate, last-ditch lobbying effort for the pending Equal Rights Amendment. Any such diversion of public funds is unpardonable—and probably unlawful as well.

Perhaps my speculations are unjust. Back in December of 1975, as a member of the House, Mrs. Abzug reassured her doubtful colleagues. The Commission's conferences, she said, would afford an opportunity "for every kind of woman, representing every view-point," to make her concerns known. Mrs. Abzug promised that "some who are opposed to the ERA" would be represented.

It will be interesting to see what develops. In the normal pattern of such ventures, study commissions follow a classic outline. First is the lofty statement of purpose—in this case, an executive order by former President Ford. This is followed by ennabling legislation, approved by a Congress that finds it politically inexpedient to challenge so noble an undertaking.

The study commission then is appointed, according to demographic rules as immutable as the laws of physics —so many blacks, so many members with Spanish-American surnames, so many from the South, the West, and the East, a smattering of Republicans, a celebrity or two. Most of the commission members will attend only three or four meetings; some will attend none at all. The work will be done by a carefully rigged staff under the supervision of a chairperson whose views are as predictable as the vernal equinox. The final report could be composed, for all practical purposes, before the first organizational meeting is held. The ultimate report at last languishes, unread, in a thousand library files. And five million dollars goes down the drain.

It will be phenomenal if Bella's boondoggle follows any other course. Nothing will be learned from this expenditure of public funds that could not be gleaned from the women's magazines or from the consistories of the League of Women Voters. The same speakers will make the same ritual points they have been making for months. The Commission's 38 employees will draw their pay and will process travel vouchers. We will have press releases, agendas, programs, statements. The only excitement will come, as it came in Mexico City in the summer of 1975, when some of the participants get to howling and pulling hair.

Persons who oppose the Equal Rights Amendment would be well advised to mount a counter-offensive. With vigorous effort on their part, stacked conferences can be unstacked, and rigged schedules of witnesses can be unrigged. Bella tends to overwhelm opposition, but the gentlewoman is not invincible. As head of a public body, spending public funds, she is in a position of public trust. Deliberate lobbying can't be tolerated. As these conferences proceed, perhaps the local press will seek to keep the lady in line.

Joe Saylor's House Of Wonders Slowly Dying

CARNESVILLE, Ga. — It is an emaciated countenance that is the face of Joe Saylers — bony with leather skin withered by rain and sun and life itself, and when he smiles, as he is smiling now, his teeth are yellow with tobacco stains and his breath is a fog of smoke from a filterless Pall Mall. "Come on over here," he is saying, "Come on over here," he is saying, "Come on, I wanta show you something special." Then he giggles, and his face is very frail.

This is Sayler's House of Wonders, Yesterday and Today. A hand painted, metal sign gazing down from a wooden shack that sits between the rusted fuselages of two school buses says so. Rising out of a piney knoll just off of Georgia Highway 59 only a mile north of Carnesville, the tiny seat of Franklin County, and only a mile east of the umbilical cord of Interstate 85 which strands through the hills of north Georgia. Sayler's House of Wonders is dying as surely as Joe Saylers is getting old.

"And that's a shame," Joe Saylers says. "It's a shame because this isn't an ordinary jockey lot. This is something that is family, something my daddy did all of his life and I did all of mine until Interstate road came through and the cars stopped coming and I just began to sit here days smoking, talking to my old mama who lives just over beyond my store here."

It is a winter's afternoon, damp and gray. It is a day for irony, one of which is that Joe Saylers, a man who collects junk and trades it, a man who finds value in the curios that society has tossed away, is a curio himself, immersed in the secret life of his House of Wonders and the shards of metal and mirror that glitter within it. On this same plot of land, the Saylers family has traded in junk for two generations — traded in junk in the same way that some families trade in cattle and others in new automobiles, and Joe Saylers says that at age 45, he is the last one who will.

In the spring of 1934, Lester Saylers moved south to Franklin County from the nearby town of Hartwell, Georgia. He bought a parcel of land where roads from Athens, Atlanta, Greenville, S. C. and Anderson, S. C. meet, and for 29 years he prospered, selling things other people had traded or thrown away. When he died in 1963, plans for Interstate 85 were already drawn. His son Joe, then 31, came home from a life as a carny to take care of his mother and run the family business.

"When I was a boy, it kept us in food when others hadn't any. Now it's slow. Every once in awhile, ladies from Atlanta looking for antiques stop in. I make enough money to get by, to take care of my mama. But sometimes, I just get so attached to the junk I've got that I hate to sell it. You get a feeling for your stuff, and you may never find anything else like it again, and when you sell it to some rich lady, you feel like you're losing a person."

Inside, Sayler's House of Wonders is dark and cobwebby, lit by a lone naked bulb casting shadows on plank walls and the framed photos of Herman Talmadge and Lester Maddox and glinting off the things that are most precious to Joe Saylers: Small items that shine in the dim light, snuff boxes and hand mirrors from the 1890s and Coca Cola bottles dated from near the time when an Atlanta druggist made the first batch of the stuff. Dusty shafts of light illuminate tiny perfume sampler tins and ancient post cards and cast iron children's dolls and soldiers.

Some of these prizes were given to Joe Saylers by his father. Others he picks up at Saturday sales at the jockey lots that dot the small towns of the South. His travels allow him to pursue his one real passion, the collecting of bottles. Joe Saylers owns soft drink bottles that come from who knows where: Blue Ridge Fine Flavored Beverage, Cantrell and Cochrane Cola, Kickapoo Joy Juice ("the original dog patch recipe"), Sewanee Cola, Club Poland Soda, Sunny Isles Pineapple Cola, Caravan Dry Cola.

"But now, no one else cares," says Joe Saylers. "My son, he grew up and got away from here and says he's not coming back. So me and Mama, and Lord she's in good health to be as old as she is, just live here and sell a little item every once in awhile."

Along With Adam And Eve Came The Birthday

Recently, the newspapers reported that a professor of religion at the University of Padua had run across in the Apocrypha another account of original sin. After much research the professor came to the conclusion that this version should not be read in place of the biblical account of original sin and the expulsion from the Garden but rather it should be read in conjunction with the biblical account:

In the beginning God created birthdays.

He formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and decreed, "Every year on this day, thou shalt rejoice and give thanks for thine creation."

Then He fashioned woman from the man's rib and left the two He had created to enjoy the fruits of the Garden, with the exception of the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

For the next year Adam and Eve reigned peacefully over the Garden, but on the first anniversary of their creation, Eve was walking through the Garden rejoicing when she chanced to meet a serpent.

"Psst," the serpent hissed. "What have you got Adam for his birthday?"

And Eve said, "Lo, a bouquet of flowers might be nice."

And the serpent said unto the woman, "Oh, cometh off it. He can geteth those any time. You have got to giveth him something special, something really unique."

"Verily?" Eve asked. "Like what?"

And the serpent said unto the woman, "Behold. What say ye to that big shiny apple on that tree over there?"

Eve resisted mightily, but in the end she yielded to temptation.

Now when God learned that Adam and Eve had eaten of the apple, He was greatly saddened, and He cast them out of the Garden.

Unto Adam He said, "In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread."

But unto Eve He gaveth a far worse curse. Unto her He said, "In a tizzy shalt thou labor to prepare for thy husband's birthday each year, and no practical hints of what he wants shalt ever be forthcoming."

And so it came to pass that when Adam's second birthday came upon her, Eve badgered and cajoled but to no avail.

"You can giveth me a lifetime pass back into the Garden," Adam said.

That year she bronzed his plowshare.

When Adam's third birthday came upon her, Eve again pleaded with Adam to tell her what he wanted.

He beheld his two young sons in the corner playing 'Toss the Machete,' and he said, "I pray thee. Something more effective than the rhythm system."

That year she gaveth him quintuplets.

When Adam's fourth birthday came upon her, she begged him to giveth her just a tiny hint.

But he demurred, saying, "Verily, verily, anything will do."

That year she monogramed his fig leaf.

"Behold, that is nice," Adam said. "I boughteth one just like it yesterday."

And so it passed that from year to year Eve persevered under her curse exceedingly well. She gaveth Adam everything from disposable gym socks to sterling silver toenail clippers. For one one-hundred-year stretch she gaveth him nothing but ties. And although he often feigned appreciation, no birthday present ever seemed really to thrill him.

In the nine hundredth and twenty eighth year of Adam, after he reluctantly left the room to tryeth on his yellow ultra-suede breechclout — his twenty-fifth — Eve threweth up her hands and proclaimed, "Verily, I've had it up to here."

In the nine hundredth and twenty nineth year of Adam, he was sitting at the table gumming his birthday cake when Eve brought in his present and laid it before him.

"What is it?" he asked querulously.

To the editor:

In your Mar. 24 edition, I read of the Joint City County Planning and Zoning Commission's decision to turn down the requirement that parking lots be planted with vegetation islands and trees. I am indeed distressed with their decision, as I am sure many others are.

There no doubt are problems in establishing such a requirement, but there must be some way to set guidelines and insure that, in the increasing amount of concrete and asphalt we live with, that our eyes and souls might be refreshed with a tree or two.

Greenville is a lovely town, but, in my opinion, is blighted at this time with large discount stores and other establishments that are surrounded by seas of asphalt. We surely don't need any more like them.

I feel those who planned the new Greenville Square Shopping Center are to be commended for their foresight in planting trees.

I would urge that the City Council on their coming meeting on Apr. 7 make it obligatory for all new businesses to plant a minimum number of trees, scaled to their particular lot sizes. If this is not done, much of the charm of Greenville will be lost to the ever encroaching threat of man-made materials.

rejecting situs picketing. Rep. John Dent of Pennsylvania, House sponsor of the AFL-CIO's minimum wage bill, informed big labor last week — after conferring with the President — that Mr. Carter was with them.

In fact, inside the administration, only Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall was with them. Treasure Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, chairman of the administration's policy group, backed up Lance. The panel vote against the Dent bill was 5 to 1, with Marshall alone in dissent. Businessmen were pleasantly surprised, though not entirely pleased, with the administration's more modest proposal— a position fairly reflecting Lance's own feelings.

Far from displaying White House arrogance, the minimum wage position is one part of Lance's overall economic strategy that is sure to collide time and again with the AFL-CIO. In the belief that economic recovery can come only from the private sector, Lance's top priority is to establish business confidence in an administration whose economic philosophy appears still in flux. Accordingly, he is talking about reducing the corporate income tax rate in the tax reform package this fall.

Moreover, Lance believes today's principal inflationary engine is neither corporate price boosts nor union wage demands but escalating government deficit spending. This invites another confrontation with labor leaders habituated to high federal spending.

At a White House luncheon between presidential aides and AFL-CIO staffers this week, labor was expected to urge active support for a bill making it easier to organize unorganized workers, a measure mainly important in the South. But even if the White House agreed, that would not affect broad economic policy — as set by Lance — on a collision course with big labor.

gists believed was a deified priestly-king.

It took them more than three years to reach the tomb.

According to Mexican archeologist Alberto Ruz, the find underscored the brilliance of the Mayas, who developed the most impressive pre-Columbian civilization known to modern man.

Accomplished astronomers and mathematicians, the deeply religious Mayas' territory extended over 125,000 square miles from Mexico's Yacatan Peninsula to Honduras. Their declining culture finally collapsed under the onslaught of the 16th century Spanish invasion.

Archeologists investigating the hieroglyphics-covered temple standing on top of the pyramid uncovered a stairway leading into the pyramid in 1949. The stairway had been filled with rubble. By digging for more than a year, the explorers reached the foot of the stairs and found a passage sealed by a huge stone.

A Random Sampling Of Wayward Legislatures

EDITOR'S NOTE — From Maine to California, state legislators have been busily tending to the public weal this season, and the debate went on no matter what. Here's a random sampling, from AP bureau reports, of less than earth-shaking events.

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For three years, the kids from a grade school at Paul, Idaho, lobbied the legislature in Boise for the leaf-cutter bee. Three busloads came down this year. All with memorized speeches. The House bowed and voted the leaf-cutter bee as the state insect.

But the celebration among Paul's small fry was premature. The Senate ignored their argument that the leafcutter was distinctive to Idaho. Instead, it listened to the plea of a member who formerly was a large honey producer and voted for plain bee. The House demurred, the bill went to a conference committee and was buzzed to death.

The Massachusetts legislature had less argument over a state poem that began, "Chicka-dee, chick-a-dee, chick-a-deedee.. ." and chirped downhill from there. Sixty-four lawmakers said Nay. The news was that six liked it.

Here's a look at some other legislative froth and whimsey during the annual lawmaking session:

In Ohio, a bill was considered to allow a little jai alai gambling in a state where the census bureau would have trouble finding a Basque — the people who dominate the sport. The bill was designated No. 123 — "for win, place and show," as a sponsor carefully explained.

Also introduced, if not considered, was a bill to abolish January and February and transfer the days to June, July and August.

The Wisconsin legislature reduced the crime of adultery from a felony to a misdemeanor, while the California legislature was asked to consider whether contiguous nudity would prove contagious.

John Stull, a Republican from Escondido in San Diego County, introduced a bill to outlaw nudity now permitted at Torrey Pines Beach in San Diego. As the signs there say, "bathing suits optional."

"The immediate problem is San Diego," argued Stull, "but with 1,072 miles of coastline, our many state parks with contiguous public beaches ... you can bet your bottom dollar they'll be asking for the whole beach."

In Massachusetts, an unsuccessful Senate candidate got a bill introduced to study the feasibility of putting juvenile offenders in stocks on the Boston Common. The fact that the practice was dropped 200 years ago didn't bother author R. Duff Ramsey.

Rep. Michael F. Flaherty, a Boston Democrat, would have none of it. "Most of the kids I know would be selling tickets or picking pockets while everyone was looking at the guy in the stocks."

The Maine legislature was wrangling about a proposal to raise the legal drinking age from 18 to 19 or 20 and heard Sen. Peter Dalton of Saco underscore his argument that it was impossible to fix a "correct" age: "If I were to ask my mother, who is 84, she might say 50 because I am 48 years of age."

In New Mexico, the problem wasn't always what was in a bill. It was in who signed it. Eight of the 70 House members and six of the 42 senators have signatures resembling 8.6 in the Richter scale. The clerks had to work out a system. Especially when the signatures might be those of Tom Brown Jr., Deddy-Chaves, and Rep. Brad Cates, R-Bernalillo.

Said House reading clerk Marty Buchsbaum: "Brown is a blurb that levels off, then goes up and down. Cates looks like an oscilloscope gone mad."

THE THUNDERBIRD'S — distinctive decoration, painted on the bottom of the Thunderbird T-38 in a design of red, white, and blue, helps spectators follow the intricate maneuvers performed by pilots. The Air Force Aerial Demonstration Team of Thunderbird pilots will be putting on a show at the Open House of Seymour Johnson Air Force Base Sunday afternoon, April 10, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Durwood Little Heads Pitt County Beautification

Durwood Little of Farmville has been named Pitt County Beautification Chairman for 1977.

Ed Yancey, County Extension Service chairman, said, "The responsibility of the county beautification coordinator is to provide leadership for an action program to help 'Keep Pitt County Beautiful.' Durwood has demonstrated his ability to be a leader through his business, civic and governmental activities. Pitt County if fortunate to have a person of his caliber to serve in this position."

Little was co-chairman of the Farmville Cleanup campaign several years ago, doing virtually the same job on a local basis. He is a Farmville Commissioner and manager of the Farmville branch of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. He is a deacon of the Farmville Presbyterian Church. His wife, the former Jane Hobgood, and he have a daughter, Fran, nine.

May has been declared beautification month, but Little has already attended a meeting of the county beautification chairmen in Wilson and has plans underway for naming area chairmen and beginning work. He will be contacting community, civic and social leaders to meet and discuss plans for this year's program. He said he is asking for the support of individuals, clubs, businesses, schools, manufacturing firms, and religious groups. Anyone who has plans for beautification or cleanup projects or who wishes to volunteer should contact either Little or the County Extension Service, 758-1196.

Guard Week...

Young men and women between the ages of 18 and 35, if they so desire, Haley said, "will be given information on becoming a National Guard member.

"All the training is on weekends," Haley added, "and being a member involves receiving a number of benefits." Benefits he cited include training as technicians — cooks, mechanics, communications specialists, military policemen. Other benefits are good pay for hours spent in training; tuition assistance in college training programs; retirement benefits; life insurance; and membership in the State Employees Credit Union.

Persons older than 35 in certain instances are eligible to become a member of the guard — however, no retired military persons or ones with disability pay are eligible to join.

Getting back to the new "Try-One" program, Haley said "this program is designed to let prior service people enter the guard with only a one-year obligation. This gives them the chance to decide whether they want to remain with the National Guard."

The 514th MP Company has an authorized strength of four officers and 159 enlisted persons. The current commander is Captain Leon D. Wright of Bethel.

Later this spring, tentatively from April 30 to May 14, active duty members of the 514th will be heading out for their annual field training.

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

"I love America and I love Americans," Mrs. Kathleen Brooks, an official guide of Canterbury Cathedral in England, said during a recent visit to Greenville.

Mrs. Brooks, an experienced lecturer, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Greenville Branch of the English-Speaking Union of the United States Thursday night and visited in the Greenville area Friday.

Mrs. Brooks said that she loves visiting the states because of the hospitality of Americans.

"Americans seem to have a certain warmth and are generally hospitable and generous and this is striking to me. I guess that my love for Americans goes back to the days of World War II when the U.S. issued martial aid to Great Britain. I thought at that time what generous compassionate people these are," Mrs. Brooks said.

"Americans seem to have so much vitality. They put so much into a day and manage with so little sleep. We seem to much value our leisure in England. In England we are not so money conscious, nor are we so good at making it. There is a much higher standard of living in America. The only thing I don't like about it is that while visiting here, I do not get to walk very much; everyone drives."

Mrs. Brooks

As an educator, Mrs. Brooks was a principal of an elementary school. She traveled 2,100 miles along the east coast of the United States in 1976 studying the educational systems of America and spoke about the educational systems in England.

Asked about the differences in the educational systems of the countries, Mrs. Brooks said that the American schools are much more systematized.

"It seems that the schools in America are much more systematized. My work was primarily with students ages 5-11. I think that education is much freer in England. I found that there seems to be excellent staff relationships in the American schools and the staffs seem to be very open."

During her visits to the United States, Mrs. Brooks has also lectured about Canterbury Cathedral. Her address to the Greenville Branch of the English-Speaking Union of the United States was about the history of the cathedral. She also presented a slide presentation about the cathedral.

"The cathedral dates back to 597 and is the most visited building in the British Isles. It is a wonderful example of an architectural structure that has not been altered in 500 years. During World War II the city of Canterbury was bombed but the cathedral survived. The dean of the cathedral at that time was also an engineer and he directed the removal of the glass from the building. The library was destroyed but the valuable manuscripts had already been removed. In 1939 I remember visiting the cathedral and it had railroad lines going through the nave shipping the materials and the glass out."

"I enjoy taking parties through the cathedral. I have made many pleasant contacts that way. I plan to stay with a family in Ohio later this month who I took through the cathedral last year. They wrote me and extended the invitation and I accepted since I will be in the area."

Mrs. Brooks plans to speak at Duke University Monday and will travel northward along the east coast speaking to different groups about the cathedral.

'Right To Read' Seminar Held At ECU Friday

By SUSAN QUINN
Reflector Staff Writer

Reading skills can be developed by providing interesting information as reading material, according to Dr. Lawrence Hafner, reading specialist of Florida State University.

Dr. Hafner, author of Developmental Reading in Middle and Secondary Schools: Foundations, Strategies and Skills for Teachers was a consultant for ECU's "Right To Read" seminar program held in Greenville Friday.

Dr. Hafner explained that many reading problems can be solved by offering interesting reading materials to the students.

"In the past I have found that a student has a reading development problem and I have tried to find out what the student's interests are to correlate his reading materials. By offering interesting reading materials, many basic developmental problems are solved, because the student is interested and he works harder to read and understand. I have tried this with material about horses or athletics and it has proven to be helpful to the students," Dr. Hafner said.

Asked whether television viewing has been detrimental to the development of students' reading abilities Dr. Hafner said that television has had varied effects on students.

"Television can offer the realistic approach that reading can not offer sometimes. Television viewing can play a different role for different children. It can help some by showing the realistic experience and others prefer to watch than to read. People who read well have to watch out for the kinds of programs that their children do watch on television to determine their effects on reading," he continued.

Dr. Hafner said that censorship of reading materials in the middle schools and secondary schools should be given much consideration by both parents and school officials.

"As far as censorship is concerned, criteria should be set as to what the society thinks is useful materials. We should give a broad range of culture and materials. Sometimes the elimination of some materials as objectionable, gives them more notoriety. Many of the materials value depends on the context in which they are presented. Many things that may be considered objectionable may be taught in the context of moral values," Dr. Hafner said.

Dr. Hafner was the keynote speaker at the seminar's first session Friday morning. The seminar was sponsored by the ECU Department of Elementary Education in cooperation with the N.C. Department of Public Instruction.

Severed Arms Sewn Back On Young Miner

By BILL HENDRICK
Associated Press Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A young miner, his arms sewn back on after they were severed in an industrial accident, is in satisfactory condition at a hospital here. Doctors say chances are good he'll eventually regain use of the limbs.

David Lynn Jackson, 19, lost both arms just below the elbow Thursday as he pushed a fellow worker away from a sheet of falling metal at a Gordonsville, Tenn., zinc mine.

Jackson was taken to a Nashville hospital, where doctors decided to fly him to Jewish Hospital here, a center for "microsurgery" that has become famous in recent years for its reimplantation unit.

A team of eight physicians, headed by Drs. Harold Kleinert and Joseph Kutz, immediately began the reimplantation operation that ended early Friday morning.

Kutz said he was optimistic about the results of the operation and that it was a success because it was a "clean amputation ...and easy to put these back on.

"He has a good prognosis for recovery as far as retaining the arms," the surgeon said. "At this point we feel it is very good. But functional recovery will take a year or a year and a half."

Functional recovery, meaning use of the arms, takes longer because nerves have to "regenerate," Kutz said. He said he expects Jackson to regain 60 per cent functional use of his arms.

But, he added, that Jackson already can move his hands, although he has no feeling in them.

"He's able to move his hands and fingers but not able to feel for quite some time," Kutz said. "He can move his hands because of the fact that the muscles are hooked up."

Used Hearing Aids Needed For Needy

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Sunday Editor

"We still need good, dependable used hearing aids for needy persons with hearing impairment," Mrs. Caryl Graham, of the staff of the East Carolina University Speech and Hearing Clinic said in making an appeal for public assistance.

"We will be most appreciative of any donations, as there is still a waiting list of persons who have need for assistance so that they can hear better."

Speaking of the results of an earlier drive, conducted a little more than a year ago, Mrs. Graham noted the public response had been heartening. "Because of donations, we were able to furnish seven persons with good hearing aids," she said.

But the fact that at this time there are yet "10 or 12 persons on the waiting list to get a hearing aid and the training we provide" has prompted three agencies to again make a public pitch for assistance.

As before, the ECU Speech and Hearing Clinic, the Pitt County Department of Social Services, and the independent Ear, Nose and Throat (EN&T) Clinic, have joined forces to solicit hearing aids from the public.

"Any type of good, workable hearing aid is desired," Mrs. Graham said. "As long as it's in working order, we can use it."

This long range program of helping those with impaired hearing extends to all residents of Greenville and Pitt County. The individual cost of providing a serviced donated hearing aid plus training sessions comes to $38. Of this amount, $10 goes to the EN&T Clinic, $10 to the ECU Speech and Hearing Clinic, and $18 is earmarked to the specialist who does the fitting of the ear mold and provides batteries for operation of the aid.

The fee is inclusive of all the training given to users of a hearing aid. "Before, we set up a scheduled time for these classes," Mrs. Graham said. "Now, we're handling the training sessions on an individual basis."

In addition to Mrs. Graham, others involved closely with the Hearing Aid Loan Bank (HALB) are Kitty Grady, who works with the Pitt County Department of Social Services, and Mike Ernest, until recently with the Vocational Rehabilitation Services. On April 1, Ernest was appointed Director of Program for Hearing Impaired students, a program designed basically to formulate policy and program potential for the admission of deaf and dumb students to East Carolina University next fall.

Ernest said, "The problems of persons with hearing difficulties has long been and will continue to be of interest to me, and I plan to do everything I can to help the efforts being made for the local loan bank."

Another worker whom Ernest said was instrumental in seeking support for the program is Rev. Howard James. James is pastor of the Gold Point Christian Church in Martin County.

Anyone who has a hearing aid and would like to donate it is asked to call Ms. Grady at 757-6215.

Edmisten To Speak

GRIFTON — North Carolina Attorney General Rufus L. Edmisten will be the keynote speaker at the Grifton Shad Festival prior to the parade Saturday, April 23.

Edmisten, Tuscarora Indian Chief Arnold Hewitt, and other speakers will be introduced at 10 a.m. Saturday at the reviewing stand on the town lot on Queen Street. Edmisten and Hewitt will deliver brief addresses and the parade will follow at 10:30 a.m.

Edmisten served as Chief Counsel and Staff Director of Senator Sam Ervin Jr.'s subcommittee on separation of powers, specializing in the rights of American Indians, separation of church and state and civil rights legislation. He also served as Deputy Counsel to the Watergate Committee.

Four Trains Derailed Within 24 Hour Period

By The Associated Press

Two more trains derailed late Thursday and early Friday, bringing the number in North Carolina to four within 24 hours.

The latest accidents involved Seaboard Coast Line freight trains in Hertford and Northampton counties, officials said.

Four persons were injured when the engine and six cars of a train derailed near Cofield in Hertford County Thursday night after striking a trailer truck at a crossing.

Ammonia nitrate fertilizer was spilled along the tracks and damage was estimated in excess of $500,000 by Highway Patrol officials.

Three cars of a freight train hauling wood chips jumped the tracks while switching to enter the Georgia-Pacific hardboard plant in Conway in Northampton County, officials said.

The tracks were blocked until Friday afternoon, but there were no injuries, official said.

A Southern Railway train earlier derailed near Brickhaven in Lee County, sending 11 cars off the track, and 29 cars of a Seaboard Coast Line Freight derailed near Rockingham in Richmond County.

Property damage in the accident near Cofield "was the most extensive of any I have investigated in my 10 years in Hertford County," said state trooper H.S. Banks.

Named Outstanding ECU Sorority Alumna

Inez Fridley, a counselor at Fletcher Dorm at ECU, was named outstanding sorority alumna at the ECU Panhellenic Scholarship Banquet Thursday. She is an alumna of the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority.

Ms. Fridley is a member of the Alumnae Advisory Board for Gamma Beta chapter. She has also served as faculty advisor and membership advisor for the advisory board.

She was delegate for the county and regional Democratic conventions, a member of the Committee on the Status of Women at ECU, a member of the Real Crisis Center Executive Board, a member and treasurer of the North Carolina Association of Women Deans and Counselors and a member of the Southern College Personnel Associations.

Ms. Fridley was speaker for the banquet.

Creeper's Last Run

WEST JEFFERSON, N.C. (AP) — Despite the best efforts of Gov. Jim Hunt and Ashe County Manager Rex Daugherty, the Virginia Creeper has made its last trip to this mountain community, the result of an Interstate Commerce Commission order.

The Creeper, a Norfolk and Western Railway freight train, had made its weekly trip as long as residents could remember, carrying away the town's principal exports — lumber and furniture.

Hunt and Daugherty failed in a last-minute effort to stop the 1972 ICC order and the Creeper whistled into West Jefferson a final time Friday.

The journey was sentimental in some respects, but it will have an unsentimental effect on the town's economy.

Navy Learned A New Trick From Businessmen

By CLARENCE ZAITZ

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Navy has taken a tip from business: keep the wives happy, and the husband may stay in the service.

Navy programs try to increase wives' satisfaction with military life. Many are in effect in this area, where 27 per cent of the Navy fleet is stationed with an estimated 298,000 dependents.

No one can estimate the number of re-enlistments the service has lost because a wife with family didn't receive her allotment check in time;

Because her husband was on the other side of the world when their latest child was born;

Or because she couldn't find a place to live near her husband's new assignment.

The problems' common denominator: lack of communication.

"My wife is convinced whenever I leave (on an overseas assignment) everything breaks down — the plumbing, the car ..." said one Navy veteran, Cmdr. William Collins.

"It's terribly depressing to a wife when everything is going wrong, and all she sees is mounting bills."

Wives who need help often don't know it, says Capt. Paul Hine, human resources director for Naval Air, Pacific, based at North Island Naval Air Station.

Navy help is available from wives school, which some husbands also attend; from relief programs, special legal advice, an ombudsman program, family sponsors, Navy motels and a housing office, among others.

The relief program helps when the allotment check is late. It provides financial aid for transportation when a relative is seriously ill or dies.

Career guidance and counseling help dependents find jobs and schools. Counseling also helps youngsters in trouble.

The Navy Wives School here has served as a model everywhere. Ware said it covers matters such as pay and allowances, housing, legal assistance, survivors' benefits, rape clinics and fire prevention.

Most students have been Navy wives for an average of six years.

"Thank goodness for this school," is a typical reaction. "It is nice to know that women can be informed on the complications of service life."

Only professionals in various fields are invited to present the classes, said Ware.

He said the only negative complaints he has received in the school's three years are "the cookies are stale," or "the coffee's cold."

Thirty days before a Navy man is scheduled to ship out, the legal assistance program tells him about wills and powers of attorney.

Hine said the program is aggressive to prevent repetition of cases in which a wife is unable to occupy a newly bought home because her husband failed to sign papers.

The men are cautioned on limiting power of attorney to their wives or girl friends, Hine said, because some have returned home to find their wives have sold their cars or fallen prey to a slick-talking salesman who sold them things they can't afford.

Each command appoints a dependent wife as an "ombudsman" with a channel of communication directly to the commander. Marilyn Shaeffer, coordinator of women's activities at North Island, said the program has been highly successful.

The ombudsman can head off problems before they arise, for example, by telling other wives not to expect letters for a few days when their husbands are on intensive combat maneuvers.

Collins said the Navy has learned fewer problems occur when ships keep in touch with families.

Newsgrams are sent regularly to dependents, "... and they are effective in helping stop rumors."

County School Lunch Menu

Lunchroom menus for the coming week have been announced for Pitt County schools as follow:

Monday — pizza, french fries, tossed salad, chocolate cake, milk;

Tuesday — (managers choice) Sloppy Joe on bun or lasagna, buttered corn, green beans, fruit cup (rolls with the lasagna) and milk;

Wednesday — fried chicken, mashed potatoes, peas and carrots, Jello with fruit and topping, hot rolls, milk;

Friday — Easter holiday.

Can Control Blood Pressure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most people who know they have high blood pressure fail to control it, according to the National High Blood Pressure Education Program.

One of the reasons, says program director Graham Ward, is that people confuse high blood pressure, also known as hypertension, with nervous tension and think a tranquilizer or vacation will cure it.

"They're wrong," says Ward. gh blood pressure usually requires daily medication to bring it down and keep it down."

Pianist Simon To Perform April 6

Abbey Simon, an internationally known pianist, will be performing in the Mendenhall Student Center Theater at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 6. The concert is sponsored by the East Carolina University Student Union Artists Series Committee.

A native of New York City, Simon at 19 won the coveted Walter W. Naumburg Foundation Award, with his New York debut given at Town Hall under the foundation's sponsorship.

After living in Europe for ten years, Simon returned to the U.S. in 1960. His initial return concert prompted a critic in The New York Times to note: "He left this country a skillful pianist. He has returned a master. He begins where most pianists leave off."

Since then, Simon has played extensively in this country and abroad....in Bombay, Paris, Africa and South America. Admission to the concert is $4, or by season tickets. For ticket reservations, call 757-6611, extension 266.

ABBEY SIMON — Noted pianist, will be in concert here at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 6 in Mendenhall Student Center Theater. Tickets are priced at $4.

'College Bowl' To Be Broadcast On UNC-TV

A team of four East Carolina University English majors are competing against similar teams from N. C. State University, UNC-Chapel Hill, and Davidson College in a televised "Carolina Bowl" competition.

"Carolina Bowl," which was taped Friday, April 1, will be broadcast on Tuesday, April 26 at 10 p.m. over UNC-TV (Channel 25, Greenville). Since participants are all students of English, questions will be limited to British and American literature.

The ECU team meets Davidson in the first round, with the second round matching UNC-Chapel Hill and NCSU. The winners of the two preliminary rounds will compete in a final round for the championship. The winning team will receive a silver trophy.

Marie T. Farr of the ECU Department of English is faculty advisor and coach for the ECU team.

'Yugoslavia' Next Travel Series Film

Thayer Soule's film, Yugoslavia, is the next in the Travel-Adventure Film Series sponsored by the East Carolina University Student Union Travel Committee.

The film will be shown at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 5 in the Mendenhall Student Center Theater.

Before its formation as a country in 1918, Yugoslavia was a jumble of kingdoms and principalities continually exposed to conflicts, and oppressed by occupying powers. In a review of its history, the film shows how the reign over the region was divided very early between Rome and Constantinople.

Blessed with sun and warm, clear water, the Dalmation coast attracts millions of tourists each year — mostly Europeans, but with Americans coming in increased numbers. Other scenes show the original farm of Lipizanner horses of Vienna, a hydrofoil trip on the Danube, and the Plitvice Lakes.

Film maker Soule is recognized as a leader in his field. He holds a record of 26 years making appearances for the National Geographic Society.

Tickets for Yugoslavia are priced at $1 and may be purchased at the door prior to the showing hour of the film or from the ECU Central Ticket Office.

The Baroque Chamber Group, six musicians from the N.C. Symphony, will perform in a concert at the N.C. Museum of Art at 4 p.m. today. Admission is free.

Four compositions are to be performed: Concerto in G Minor by Vivaldi; Quantz's Trio Sonata in C Major; Telemann's Quartet In E Minor; and Bach's Trio Sonata in C Minor.

Larry White Is Runner-Up

Larry White of Greenville, a senior in the School of Music, East Carolina University, won first runner-up honors this week in national collegiate percussion competition sponsored by the Music Teachers National Association at the annual convention in Atlanta.

Rose High Presenting 'Fantastiks'

Performances will be at 8 p.m. on three evenings, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 14, 15, and 16.

Tickets are now on sale at $1 from Rose High or from the Record Bar, Pitt Plaza. Tickets will also be available prior to performance time at the door for $1.50.

Mrs. Morgan Heads Drive

Mrs. Robert (Katie) Morgan, wife of U.S. Senator Robert Morgan of Lillington, will lead the 1977 membership drive of the Roanoke Island Historical Association (RIHA), producers of the outdoor drama, The Lost Colony.

She succeeds Mrs. Dan K. Moore, according to RIHA chairman of the board, Thomas J. Pearsall of Rocky Mount.

A graduate of East Carolina University, Mrs. Morgan has been a teacher and supervisor in N.C. public schools for 23 years.

Hospitality House

In addition to members of the Greenville Boys Choir appearing on "Hospitality House " today (see separate article this page), others on Kay Currie's noon to 1 p.m. TV show over WITN-TV, Channel 7 are:

— Lanny Norris, assistant football coach at East Carolina University. Norris explains the work of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA), both at collegiate and high school level, and gives details on the FCA day scheduled for May 7.

— Pat Johnson and Virginia Credle, both Home Economics Extension Agents of Beaufort County, exhibit "Scarf Wizardry" with ladies scarves. A fashion film will deal with gloves in fashions.

Added Performance For 'Hedda Gabler'

An added matinee performance of the Ibsen play, Hedda Gabler has been announced by the East Carolina Playhouse.

The additional performance will be at 1:15 p.m. on Thursday, April 7 in McGinnis Auditorium. This is in addition to regular performances scheduled nightly at 8:15 p.m. April 5-8.

Ken Neely, Playhouse General Manager, notes the matinee was added to the original schedule for two primary reasons. One, he said, is that "there are several high school and college student groups studying drama who want to attend Hedda Gabler as an aid to their classroom study.

"And," he added, "many people in the community find it easier to attend a play in the afternoon rather than in the evening."

Neely observed "the matinee performance may not be a regular part of future Playhouse schedules, but, whenever possible, afternoon shows will be offered."

Tickets for Hedda Gabler are $2.50 and may be reserved by calling 757-6390 or purchased at the McGinnis Box Office from 10 to 4 on weekdays.

Student Rectials

Lucy Leah Wiggins, a senior piano student in the East Carolina Universtiy School of Music, will be in recital on Tuesday, April 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall.

For her program, she will play two Scarlatti sonatas, Schumann's Novellette; Brahms' Intermezzo; Scriabin's Poeme; and three Poulenc Improvisations.

The senior recital of Maureen Elizabeth Boyd of Cornwall, N. Y., a student in the School of Music, East Carolina University, will take place at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5 in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall.

Selections on her program are: Bach's Capriccio in B Major; Polonaise in C Minor by Chopin; Brahms' Cappricio in C Minor; and compositions by Rachmaninoff and Debussy.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Adventure, Search For Identity In 'Joe Panther'

Family entertainment, especially in films and stage shows, is a pretty hard commodity to come by today, with a generally arid gap between kiddie cartoons and x-rated adult fare.

One influential organization, the National Parents Teachers Association (PTA), concerned about the dearth of appealing and intelligent entertainment for the family, decided to do something concrete. In May 1976, at a national convention in Louisville, Ky., the National PTA adopted a resolution to actively support and endorse such films, as well as to encourage the production and release of more family oriented films.

Encouraged by the PTA resolution, Artists Creation and Associates, Inc. (ACA), a distributor of independent films, made a decision to produce a family film of their own.

The result is Joe Panther, which will be showing soon at the Pitt Theater. Endorsed by both the North Carolina State PTA and the Pitt County PTA, Joe Panther recently had a preview screening for local teachers and counselors.

My initial fears that a movie made under these auspices might be little more than a sugar-coated concoction were soon dispelled.

Joe Panther is a tough, tender, realistic film with a good (if uneven) story, some fine acting, and superb photography.

Filmed in the Everglades of Florida, using local Seminoles in supporting and minor roles, Joe Panther impressively underscores the play of natural forces between a people's environment and their outlook on life. This is true both of the colorful village life of the Seminoles and of the white man's world of pleasure boats and water. Life here is an outdoor venture. People are close to nature, and the camera lovingly records the semi-tropical beauty of swamps, birds, clouds and water.

Navajo Indian actor Ray Tracey, in the title role of Joe Panther, sensitively portrays the bewildering emotions of a youth caught between longings to be part of two worlds — his own and that of the white man.

Actor A. Martinez, who plays Billy Tiger, Joe's close friend, is equally adept in projecting the vascillating moods of exuberance and quiet reflectiveness that is a universal part of entering adulthood.

As the leathery, philosophic uncle of Joe Panther, Turtle George, Ricardo Montalban is effective, if a trifle stereotyped in a wooden-jawed stance. The only actor in the movie who seems out of kilter is veteran Brian Keith, who unfortunately registers his kindly, Joe Panther mentor role with a constant grin.

(Incidentally, the two boys are the stars of this movie despite the star billing accorded to Keith and Montalban).

Outdoor adventure coupled with the search by youth for their identity are the keys to the enjoyment provided by Joe Panther. The scene where Joe Panther and Billy Tiger penetrate a lush swamp to stalk and capture a large alligator is splendid, a rare cinematic example of avoiding the usual temptation to overplay a dramatic situation.

Less fortunate are the concluding portions of Joe Panther. It is as if having come this far successfully relying on naturalism and credibility, the director became fearful the tenor of the film was too tame. Thus, in quick order, the two villains, who until this point, have been low-keyed, suddenly become totally villainous, and as a consequence of this, Billy Tiger dies. This situation gives Joe Panther a contrived turn in direction that seriously mars the film.

This, however, does not totally negate the power and beauty of a movie that hopefully will be a pioneer film for others of this genre.

Greenville Boys Choir On TV

Members of the Greenville Boys Choir will be making a television appearance today on "Hospitality House," the Kay Currie show that airs each Sunday over WITN-TV, Channel 7. The show today begins at noon and runs until 1 p.m. with several groups and individuals making appearances.

Steve Barnes directs the choir in a performance of a medley of songs from the The Sound of Music. The program will also include three sacred songs by contemporary composer Buryl Red.

Bob Hause, conductor of the ECU Symphony and president of the Greenville Boys Choir, will talk about future plans for the singing group.

The National Endowment for the Humanities has awarded a $104,088 Education grant to Simmons College, Boston, to establish a Center for the Study of Children's Literature. The grant is the first large-scale one awarded in the field of children's literature.

Ouida Canady, artist, teacher and lecturer, will conduct a two week oil and acrylic painting workshop in the St. Gabriel School Cafeteria, 3028 Providence Rd., Charlotte, from June 20 to July 1.

Cost is $60 for the first week and $100 for both weeks. Interested persons are to call 704-364-0303 or 3364-3398 by May 15 to register.

NCMA Purchases Major Marine Painting

The purchase of a major American marine painting, filling what N.C. Museum of Art Director Moussa Domit has said is "a serious gap in North Carolina's art collection," has been announced.

The painting is Cove Scene: Rocks Off Nahant, painted about 1836 by Robert Salmon, a British-born American artist. The large (over four feet wide and six feet high) painting shows fishermen examining their catch on a beach, a wrecked ship on some nearby rocks, and a rocky landscape in the background.

Until recently a relatively obscure artist, Salmon has come to be considered one of the most important marine artists this country has produced.

Also authorized for purchase at the same time was: a drawing by Paul Klee; and the acceptance of four works — a minimal sculpture by contemporary American sculptor Robert Morris and three gifts to add to the museum's collection of Judaic art.

Lenoir County History A Well Written Volume

200 Years of Progress. A Report of the History and Achievements of the People of Lenoir County. Written and designed by Mike Kohler, Bicentennial Commission Director Kinston, N.C. 160 pps, large format. Paperback, $5.50. Limited edition, 1,000 hardback copies numbered, $10.75. Postage included. (Available from: Kinston Lenoir County Bicentennial Commission, 111 East King St., P.O. Box 1776, Kinston, N.C., 28501).

The Kinston-Lenoir County Bicentennial book has the faults and strengths of most local histories. A typical fault is the rigid categorical divisions making for choppy presentation, but that approach does have the advantage of making it easier to immediately locate specific subjects.

One of the best things (and lacking in most Bicentennial efforts I've encountered) is that one person had charge of selecting and excerpting old material and writing new texts.

Since that person, Mike Kohler, is a concise, imaginative writer, there's a welcome consistency to the volume.

Interest (for other than local people) of a regional history depends to a great extent on the diversity and color of that particular area. Lenoir County's past has an exciting abundance of both.

Touching briefly on examples of fascinating local color, there are, for example:

— An account of efforts by Ross and John Bailey, in the year 1911, to fly a home-made plane down the middle of Kinston's Queen Street — with predictable futile consequences.

— A rousing good bit of mystery in the case of Rev. William Miller, The area's first rector (1767), Miller was unpopular and was charged with "immorality and ill behavior." Though an examining commission found the charges unprovable, the good minister simply disappeared, leaving behind family and parish.

— A fashionably dressed flim-flam lady claiming to be the queen's illegimate sister, taking the impressionable locals for a sizeable shakedown of pre-revolutionary currency.

These more colorful incidents are, of course, only the icing on the more solid framework of Lenoir history. This volume contains valuable information on early settlements; the Tuscarora and Neusiok Indians; the land, forests, rivers and their influences on social and economic developments; noted personalities; schools and cemeteries; and "The War" (the Civil War, that is.)

Photographs, most of good quality, of early and late years, add materially to the enjoyment and value of this history.

200 Years of Progress is a well organized, professionally written local history. It is a volume that should be added to the library of anyone with more than a passing interest in the history of eastern North Carolina.

Rare No Masks, Robes Shown

TOKYO (AP) — A collection of Japanese No robes and masks rarely displayed even in museums will be shown for the first time in the United States from April to September 1977. The 145 objects will be displayed at the National Gallery of Art, Washington, D.C., Japan House Gallery, New York and the Kimbell Art Museum, Ft. Worth, Tex.

"The Tokugawa Collection: No Robes and Masks" is part of the collection of the Tokugawa Museum, opened in 1935 by the 19th lord of Owari, Yochichika Tokugawa, a direct descendant of the first shogun, Ieyasu Tokugawa. The museum houses the largest private collection of Japanese art in the world.

Art Notes

Senior Art Students Shows

Three senior art students of the School of Art, East Carolina University, are scheduled to exhibit their work in two art shows during the coming week.

At Joyner Library, Janet Lee Warren will have a show of her work. Two students, Martica Griffin and Krista Brickey will be showing in the Kate Lewis Gallery.

Both shows are open to the public and there is no admission charged.

Four ECU Artists In Show

Six North Carolina artists — four of them from the School of Art, East Carolina University — are being featured in an exhibit of prints and drawings at McNeal Gallery, 1626 East Blvd., Charlotte, during the month of April.

The four ECU artists are: Louis Cherry, BFA graduate; Michael Ehlbeck, instructor of art; Ray Elmore, assistant professor of art; and Matt Smartt, a teaching fellow working in his MFA program.

In addition, Dallas Watkins, a student of UNC-Charlotte and Richard Stenhouse, a North Carolina artist, will be displaying works in the show.

Viewing hours are 9:30 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday.

Two Dozen 'Starving Artists'

A total of about two dozen artists took part in the first annual "Starving Artists Show" held on Saturday, March 26 on the Downtown Mall.

Those accepted by the jurors for the show were: Kathy Myers, patchwork; Elaine and Sue, assorted crafts; Joe Dudasik, painting and drawing; Jim Whalen, potter; Anga Pickford, Carole Semione, and Ed Weinbtraub, pottery; Jeanette Fiori, cartoons and fashion illustrations; Steve Reynolds and Riggs, potters; Grion Solomon, batiks and fabrics; Les Smith and Don Vick, silversmiths; Toby Cobb, potter; Pam Vinson, feather earrings; Max and Kathy Whitley, leathercraft and pottery; Walter Buffington, drawings; Eddie Smith, pottery and batiks; B. J. Ryan and David Ryan, textiles; and David Gradis, jewelry.

Poetry Forum Meets Tuesday

The first meeting for the month of April of the ECU Poetry Forum will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 5.

The meeting will take place in the Conference Room of Joyner Library on campus, East Carolina University.

The public is invited to attend.

The former Burke County Jail in Morganton has opened its doors again — this time to art lovers instead of to prisoners. The renovated jail is now operating as the "Jailhouse Gallery."

Indian Seminar

MURFREESBORO — A collection of Indian artifacts, including nearly 300 arrowheads, will be on display during the third session of Chowan College's Antiquities Seminar being held tomorrow, Monday, April 4.

Dr. David Phelps of East Carolina University will be the featured speaker for the 7:30 p.m. program in Marks Hall Auditorium. The public is invited and there is no admission charge.

Phelps, director of the Archeological Research Laboratory, will speak on the topic, "The Native Cultures of Carolina-Algonkian, Tuscorara and Beyond."

The collection being shown has been assembled by the John Woodard family of Conway. Woodard, his wife and two sons have been collecting Indian artifacts for about six years. Their collection includes arrowheads, pestles, fragments of pottery, and pipes, among other artifacts.

Ceramic Workshops At ECU Announced

The Ceramics Guild of the East Carolina University School of Art will sponsor a workshop April 4-5 featuring Steven and Susan Kemenyffy of Edinboro, Pennsylvania State College.

Widely known in ceramics circles, the Kemenyffys have have exhibited widely and have been recognized in several recent ceramics books and crafts periodicals.

A second workshop will be sponsored by the guild on April 6-7, featuring David Keator, artist-in-residence at the Penland School of Crafts. Keater is noted for his work in porcelain.

Two evening lectures, both open to the public without charge have been scheduled. Both are to take place at 7 p.m on the dates indicated, and will be held in the auditorium of the Leo Jenkins Fine Arts Building.

The Kemenyffy's lecture will be on Monday., April 4; and Keator will lecture on Wednesday, April 6. In both instances, the craftsmen will be giving slide lectures.

Further information about the two workshops is available from Charles Chamberlain of the ECU School of Art.

FROM SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

By LINDA M. STANCILL

A variety of people and subjects appear in the books recently added to the library's collection.

In A CAST OF THOUSANDS Anita Loos presents a pictorial memoir of the most glittering stars of Hollywood and the most dazzling of the world's literary and social lights. She shares her collection of memories, photos, and anecdotes of a life spanning over 80 years, roaming from New York to Hollywood to Berlin to Rome. If features encounters with Carol Channing, Helen Hayes, Greta Garbo, Clark Gable, Audrey Hepburn, William Faulkner, Cole Porter, Sigmund Freud, and a host of other great characters. Loos' sparkling stories and intimate behind-the-scenes glimpses of the stars are counterpointed by striking, sometimes surprising, candid photos of the great and famous on and off their guard. She also gives a firsthand glimpse of the early days of movie-making as she depicts her career filled with glamour and excitement, a life that has truly starred a CAST OF THOUSANDS.

Sixteen of the greatest moments in sports history are examined in "instant reply" by Bud Greenspan in WE WUZ ROBBED! These fascinating stories have quite a few unexpected and surprising twists. By using old films and interviewing participating athletes and spectators, Greenspan has reconstructed some of the greatest sports controversies of all time. His technique was slowing down the film of an event for a frame-by-frame viewing, then blowing up the portion of that frame that revealed details long since forgotten or never seen. This enabled him to recreate events as they occurred to find out what really happened. Questions are answered, controversies are cleared, victories and defeats are explained, and glories and tragedies are probed in WE WUZ ROBBED.

CRUMPLER ON THE MOVE — Former East Carolina University running back Carlester Crumpler brought back thoughts of yesterday with some of his runs against the Varsity during last night's game in Ficklen Stadium. Crump "32" makes his move against the Varsity defenders. He gained 35 yards, including one 18 yarder, on eight carries. However, the Varsity rolled to a 36-0 victory. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

It was a game played for fun, and in many instances it looked like it. It was the Varsity-Alumni game, played as the "climax" of East Carolina University's spring football drills.

The Varsity won it handily, 36-0, as the veteran team seldom offered any threats.

Drills will actually come to an end during the coming week, but the game was offered as the showpiece of the Pirate spring, and Coach Pat Dye is just as glad he is not playing a Purple-Gold game as is usual.

"We were awfully crippled on entering the game. We couldn't have a Purple-Gold game right now if we wanted to."

While the game did not appear to be taken with full seriousness, there was obviously some good hitting going on. "Captain Cruch" Danny Kepley sparked the Alumni defense, but they were never fully able to contain the first unit, which played only sparingly.

The Alumni offense was not able to get on track against the Varsity defense, which held the veterans to just 29 yards on the ground. But through the air, the Alumni picked up 93 yards.

"We had not worked against their defensive alignment before and it did give us some problems," Dye said. "I thought there was some very good hitting on both sides, even though the game was just a lot of fun. And, after all, hitting is where it all starts.

"I thought the first offense did well, with Leander (Green) at quarterback, and the running backs of (Eddie) Hicks, (Sam) Harrell and (Vince) Kolanko. The line must have done some good things, but we'll have to wait and judge that on the films.

"We obviously need some help in the secondary. This should help us some with the alumni passing as much as it did.

"You know," Dye added, "I wish we still had some of those alumni players. (Mike) Weaver looked pretty good in the wishbone, didn't he? And Kepley can still play."

The varsity scored early, getting a 37-yard field goal in the opening minutes by Bill Lamm. Then, later in the first period, Kolanko scored on a one-yard plunge, followed by a Lamm PAT.

The second period saw two scores, as Harrell scored from the one, then Gerald Hall raced back 80 yards with a punt for another touchdown. "He just had a great effort on that," Dye said.

Green added a nine-yard run in the third period, while Joe Powell passed to Eric Walker for six yards in the final period. Junior Creech added the PAT after each of the final scores.

The Varsity used a lot of players, getting looks at many people. Eleven backs carried the ball, with Harrell leading the way with 73 yards. He got 43 of that on one lug, setting up his own score.

Kolanko had 47 yards, while Hicks added 46. Green carried but twice, picking up 24 yards. Valla Olliver also added 22 in three lugs.

Green hit two of his three passes for 15 yards.

Carlester Crumpler led the Alumni rushing with 35 yards, including one 18 yard run. No other back got over 16 yards.

John Casazza led the Alumni passing, hitting seven of 13 for 44 yards.

The varsity scored the first two times it had the ball, then scored on only one possession in the second quarter. Hall's 80-yard punt return came in the final two minutes of the half.

The Alumni did threaten, moving to the 18 behind Weaver early in the second period, but that was started by a fumble recovery at the Varsity 37. Another drive went to the 30.

The Varsity's third period score was set up by a fumbled punt, recovered at the Alumni 32. The other score also came after a fumble, this one at the Alumni 12.

The Pirates open the fall season by traveling to N.C. State on September 3.

ECU Track Team Sets New Marks

COLUMBIA, S. C. — East Carolina's track team broke and tied a number of varsity records yesterday in competition at the State Record Invitational at the University of South Carolina.

Although no team scores were kept at the competition, Pirate Herman McIntyre, who won the triple jump, finished second in the balloting for the Most Valuable Player. McIntyre's jump was 52-6½, a new meet record. He finished second to Georgia high jumper James Barrineau, who high jumped 7-5, also a meet record.

McIntyre's jump was also a varsity record. The ECU mile relay team also set a record with a time of 3:13.1, in a secondplace finish. Ben Duckenfield set a new ECU record for the 400 meter hurdles with a time of 53.9 seconds. He finished sixth in the event.

Three other records were tied in the meet. The ECU 400 meter relay team finished in a time of

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Danny Edwards, riding a four-stroke lead and a string of 68s, was exhibiting the confidence of a tour-tested veteran in looking ahead to Sunday's final round of the $235,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"My game is obviously good," said the slender, 25-year-old Edwards, who has yet to win in his three years of tour activity and has yet to escape the ranks of the Monday qualifiers.

"I'm confident of what I can do. I think I can do tomorrow what I've done the last three days."

He's shot four-under-par 68 on each of those days and holds a commanding lead in his quest for a trip to Augusta, Ga., and the Masters, along with the Tournament of Champions the following week. He has to win to get either of them.

"Today was a good warm-up for the final round," he said after breaking a three-way tie in Saturday's wind-blown third round.

"Sunday won't be that much different. I tried to be aggressive today, make as many birdies as I could. I tried not to back off, shoot as low as I could.

"I'll do the same thing tomorrow. I'll try to make as many birdies as I can, stay aggressive. I have enough confidence in my game to go for the flag on almost every shot. I'll do that tomorrow."

Edwards, who played in the Far East for a year before gaining his American playing rights three years ago, pulled away from challenging Hale Irwin and Larry Nelson with a 204 total, 12 under par for three trips over the 6,984-yard Forest Oaks Country Club course.

Edwards, another in the long line of previously-obscure young men who have dominated the tour this year, credited tips from his younger brother Dave, a junior at Oklahoma State, with drastic improvement in his game this year.

"He's helped me a lot," said Edwards, who has finished 20th or better in eight of nine starts this season. "I'm better in every phase of the game from tee to green. I'm hitting the ball more solid, driving longer, hitting my irons better. The only thing that's keeping me from putting four good rounds together is my short game."

That problem wasn't in evidence as he left Nelson and the dangerous Irwin who had shared the lead at the start of the cool, windy, drizzly day—well behind.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Defending Champion Judy Rankin stepped back from a near-disastrous second round to shoot a 4-under-par 68 Saturday and move into a three-way tie for the lead in the $305,000 Dinah Shore Winners Circle Tournament.

Mrs. Rankin, who struggled to a 77 Friday, was tied at 217, one-over-par, with Betty Burfeindt and Pat Bradley after three days of the ladies' richest tournament.

Miss Burfeindt began the third round a stroke ahead of the field but bogied the final two holes Saturday and wound up with a 74 over the 6,370-yard Mission Hills layout.

Miss Bradley, a first-round co-leader who has never been far off the pace, shot a third-round 71.

Staying within close range of the leaders were Kathy Whitworth, Carol Mann, JoAnne Carner and Susie McAllister, all a stroke back at two-over-par 218.

Third-round scores in the 72-hole tournament were generally lower, as the weather turned warmer and gusting winds that had buffeted the golfers the previous two days calmed Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Rankin's 68 was the tournament's low round. Miss McAllister had a third-round 69.

Although Saturday was sunny and warm, Mrs. Rankin said she and the other golfers were still suffering from the two earlier rounds that were played in chilling wind.

"My body is so physically beat up, I feel like I've played a golf marathon," said Mrs. Rankin. "I feel like somebody's thrown me up against a wall.

"I don't think it's just me, it's everybody who's physically tired."

She began the day with two birdies, dropped to even for the round with two bogeys before the turn, but bounced back with four birdies and five pars on the back side to move even with the struggling Miss Burfeindt.

Greenville Girls Place

RALEIGH — The two Greenville entrants in the state high school gymnastics meet here Friday and yesterday both won places, although one of them was an unofficial winner.

Susan McKnight, a senior at Rose High School, finished first all-around in Friday's compulsory exercises competition, taking first place in the balance beam.

Saturday, Miss McKnight was second in the floor exercises and placed eighth all-around for the optional events.

Another Greenville entrant, ninth-grader Kerri Logue, was entered unofficially since she is not in high school. She was third in the vault on Saturday.

WHOA, THERE — A unidentified Varsity player puts the halt on former East Carolina player Carlester Crumpler, who played for the alumni and led their rushing with 35 yards. Pirates Build League Record In Doubleheader

By JIM KYLE

East Carolina's baseball team ran its conference record to 4-0 on the year with a pair of wins in a doubleheader against Furman yesterday.

The Pirates banged out 11 hits for a 9-3 win over the Paladins in the first game, while Pete Conaty pitched a three-hitter and the Bucs took a 3-2 decision in the second contest.

East Carolina right fielder Eddie Gates tied a school record in the first game, picking up his 14th stolen base of the year. The feat came on Gates' third steal of the game and tied a record set in 1959 by Albert Vaughn.

The first game also marked the comeback of Pirate pitcher Mickey Britt. The freshman hurler, who has been out with an ankle injury, started for the Bucs and picked up his fourth win of the year against no losses.

It was a day of frustration for Furman as the Paladins' single run in the first inning of the first game gave them their only lead of the day. ECU came back with two in the bottom of the first and never trailed again in either contest.

Furman, the defending Southern Conference champion, has gotten off to a poor start this year. The two losses drop the Paladins records to 6-17 overall and 1-5 in the league. The Pirates, undefeated in SC play, are now 14-6 in all games.

In yesterday's first game, Ronnie Smith led off with a base hit for Furman in the first inning and went to second when Bill Butler was hit by a pitch. Ronnie Smith moved to third when Everette Smith's infield grounder was fielded by Pirate second baseman Pete Paradossi and played at second to force out Butler.

Later in the inning, with Everette Smith on first and Ronnie Smith on third, a steal at second was attempted and ECU catcher Raymie Styons' throw was wild, allowing Ronnie Smith to score.

Paradossi quickly tied things up in the bottom of the inning, however, leading off with a home run to left center field, about 380 feet.

The next batter, Billy Best, tripled to center and came home when Gates was safe on an error. Gates then stole his first base of the day and Sonny Wooten walked, but the next three Pirate batters made outs to end the inning.

In the second, Charlie Stevens got the Bucs' second triple of the day, another shot to center field. Paradossi came back up and picked up a second RBI with a single to center that brought Stevens home.

Furman got two hits in the third, both singles up the middle, but both batters, Butler and Everette Smith, were thrown out by Styons while trying to steal second base.

The Paladins picked up their second run in the fourth inning. Randy Howell led off with an infield hit, stole second and went to third on a fielders choice. Steve Grant then singled to center to score Howell. That cut the ECU lead to 3-2.

The Pirates quickly moved way ahead, however, scoring four runs in the bottom of the frame.

Stevens, showing some of his best hitting of the season, started things off with a base hit to the opposite field and then,went to second on a fielders choice.

The Pirates then came up with three consecutive base hits. Paradossi got his third hit of the game and moved Stevens to third. Stevens scored on designated hitter Best's single to right, his third straight hit.

Gates followed that with a single and Paradossi scored from second. Gates then got his second stolen base as he and Best pulled a double steal on the Paladins and both made it safely.

Sonny Wooten's walk loaded the bases and Bobby Supel then walked to score Best. Gates came home when Styons hit a fielders choice to third base.

In the sixth inning, Everette Smith led off with a double for Furman and Howell followed with a single. Smith was able to score on designated hitter Tommy Rea's infield out, and the next two batters were also put out.

The Pirates added two more in the bottom of the sixth. Best walked and went to third on Gates' single to right field. Gates then stole second to tie the school record and Best scored when Wooten's fly ball dropped in behind the shortstop. A throwing error by the pitcher allowed Gates to score.

Best was the leading hitter for East Carolina in the first game, going 3-3, while Paradossi was 3-4 and Gates 2-3. Everette Smith and Howell were both 2-3 for Furman.

In the second game, East Carolina took a 3-0 lead in the third inning, but allowed Furman to pull to within one in the sixth when throwing errors scored two runs.

Pirate hurler Conaty scattered three Furman hits, but made two consecutive wild throws on pick-off attempts at first that allowed one runner to score; and an error on catcher Scott Layden let another run to come in.

But the Bucs held after that and grabbed a 3-2 win.

Stevens' hit sent Brinkley to third where he came home on an error by Paladin right fielder Howell.

The Bucs added another tally in the third. Best doubled with one out, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch.

Things almost fell apart for East Carolina in the sixth, however. Ronnie Smith walked for Furman with one out and went to third when Conaty's pick-off throw went by Pirate first baseman Wooten.

Everette Smith then walked and Conaty was again wild with a pick-off attempt, allowing Ronnie Smith to score and Everette Smith to go to second. Howell followed with an infield hit and Everette Smith went to third. Then, on a double steal attempt, Layden faked a throw to second and caught Everette Smith trying to come home. Third baseman Bobby Supel put him out in a rundown.

A few pitches later, Howell started towards third and Layden overthrew Supel, allowing him to score, making it 3-2.

The Pirates finally got the third out, however, and, after allowing a leadoff hit in the seventh, put the Paladins down with three straight outs to take the win.

BASEBALL:

A Lifetime Condensed Into Six-Month Seasons

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the time of year that the Great American Dream is put on the line. Thousands of miles of travel, tens of thousands of pitches, unbounded elation, untold frustration. When it's over, careers will be made and broken. There will be winners and losers. It's a lifetime of ambition condensed into six months. It's baseball.

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Newsfeature Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — All over the country this week a battalion of some 900 men, the elite of an army of thousands, gird to do battle with cylindrical wooden wands and small hard spheres.

It is baseball time again, and before the 162 games of summer are over, heroes will be born, careers will end, fortunes will be made and lost, philosophies and tactics will fail or succeed, and the frailty of the human body, mind and spirit will be tested over and over again.

All life is a contest, but in baseball it is compressed into barely 15 seasons of a man's life. He comes in as a boy yearning to be a man and goes out a man yearning to be a boy.

In that brief arena, from April to October, he faces the forces of living and growing up — the desire to be a star and the need to be part of a team, the desire to be father and husband and the need to be one's self, the need to understand the boss and the desire to have the boss understand him.

It is seen on the face of a rookie gambling a boyhood on a career, and it is heard in the words of a veteran facing the fact that one life is ending and another must begin.

But come October, there will be only a handful of winners, the champions of the world, and the rest will retire to winter and dream of what might have been.

For Gene Autry, the singing cowboy who became a millionaire businessman, there have been 16 winters like that.

In his 70s now, Autry is the owner of radio and television stations, hotels and motels, and the California Angels, a team that has never finished higher than third in its division.

He leans back in his chair in the lounge of the Gene Autry Hotel here and says, "One of my last dreams is to win a pennant and carry it into the World Series."

To do it this year, he has invested millions, bought three star players to bolster a young batting order, brought in new management. And now all he can do is sit back and watch the drama played out, a drama that involves 25 other major league owners and millions of stalwart fans whose hopes are born again each spring.

It makes the Angels a theater in miniature of what goes into playing the national sport that is both a business and game, an entertainment and enterprise.

"You put together a ball club by putting together people just the way you put raw elements together to make a chemical compound," says Harry Dalton, whom Autry imported from Baltimore to head the player end of things.

The object, he says, is to get 25 people of compatible character to make a team, and talent is not the only measure. Dalton looks for what he calls intangibles — attitude, courage, determination, tolerance of pain.

"A trade doesn't hinge on whether a fella can stand pain," he says. "His benefit to the club is based on how often he can play. Some fellas get out with hangnails. Some play with broken bones."

The man who inherits the raw talent is the manager, Norm Sherry, a former pitcher. He must be parent, psychiatrist, priest and tactician.

Sherry, 48, became manager last season, and the Angels won 21 of their last 33 games.

"I really try to get them to believe that this game of baseball is a game of fun," he says. "When you were a little kid that's all you wanted to do, play for the fun of it. And now they're giving you money. That's terrific."

On the playing field, early on Sunday morning, Sherry is swinging a bat, hitting sharp ground balls to Jerry Remy at second. Don Baylor, one of three free agents signed to five-year contracts at a price of more than $5 million, is in the batting cage blasting balls out to the infield and making life dull for Andy Etchebarren, catcher and playing coach. Nolan Ryan, the strikeout king who has pitched four no-hitters since 1969, is working out with the pitchers on a nearby field.

Gene Autry is a few miles away, having breakfast in his hotel's restaurant with his wife, Ina, and fielding telephone calls from sports writers from New York to Seattle.

"I was born in Tioga, Texas," he tells a New York caller, "and I learned to play the guitar that my mother bought for me when I was 11. I was working on the telegraph in Oklahoma in a little town when Will Rogers — he visited his family near there — came in to file his column and heard me sing, and he said, "You know, you could be on radio.'"

That was in the 1930s, deep in the depression, but it led Gene Autry to New York where he pounded the pavement in cowboy boots and white ten gallon hat, his guitar over his shoulder, looking for a job. His first hit "Silver Haired Daddy of Mine," sold five million copies and started his career that made all of this possible.

Fans Watch Yankees Hit Against Tar Heels

By JAMES B. POMERANZ

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — As expected, the New York Yankees defeated North Carolina in an exhibition baseball game Saturday.

But the 6,500 fans got what they came to see — the Yankees hitting the ball all over and out of the Cary Boshamer Stadium.

Most viewers showed up at least two hours before the game to watch batting practice, sometimes much more exciting than the game itself.

The whole affair was a glamor event in tribute to North Carolina Coach Walter Rabb, who retires at the end of the current season after 31 years as head coach.

Rabb was presented a plaque before the game for his service. North Carolina Lt. Gov. James C. Green even got into the act by "throwing out the first ball."

North Carolina wasn't given a chance prior to the game, but through two innings the Tar Heels held a 1-0 edge and it was not until the top of the fifth that the Yankees went ahead.

Tar Heel centerfielder P.J. Gay, North Carolina's lead off hitter, said before the game he was not expecting instant success at the plate.

"I can come back to the dugout and tell the rest of the team how to hit against them," he smiled.

Gay, in the bottom of the first inning, sent the fourth pitch of rookie right-hander Gil Patterson sailing into right field for a hit. A wild throw to first by Patterson and fielder-choices moved Gay around for the run.

But his score came when he ran into Yankee catcher Thurman Munson's glove and knocked the ball loose. Gay said he wasn't even thinking about shaking the ball loose.

"I just saw a bat in front of the plate and was afraid to slide," he said. "I would have gotten hurt if I slid. Usually I dive and that's what I really wanted to do, but the bat was there."

As for all the Tar Heels, just playing against the American League champion New York Yankees was an experience never to forget. But the hit and run for Gay was more.

"When I was out in the field in the second inning I was kind of spacey," he said. "I was just staring and not paying attention. It hadn't come to me yet that I had gotten a hit off the New York Yankees."

Gay wasn't the only Tar Heel who received a "special" thrill. In the top of the ninth inning, North Carolina pitcher Tom Frazier was called in on relief.

Frazier started the inning pitching to Yankee Jimmy Wynn, who grounded to shortstop for an out. Catcher Mike Heath then homered over the right-field fence and Dave Bergman hit a double to centerfield.

As the game ended, the 6,500 fans gave both clubs a standing ovation.

Cale Will Try To End His 'Darlington Luck'

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Writer

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)— Cale Yarborough, the 1976 Winston Cup point champion and off to a successful start in 1977, returned home Sunday to square off against one of his toughest opponents, the Rebel 500 Grand National stock car race.

The 38-year-old veteran Timmonsville, S.C., only "a dozen miles down the road" from Darlington, has had nothing but "Darlington luck—all bad," he says of the track, which holds 21st edition of the Rebel 500 beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Yarborough, who has won three of six Grand National races on the NASCAR circuit this season, qualified in the second spot with a clocking of 150.390 miles per hour in his Chevrolet.

David Pearson, who has virtually taken charge of this race, winning four of the last five events and six times since 1968, took the pole position in his Mercury. He ripped off a 151.269 m.p.h. in the first day of qualifying Thursday over the 1.366-mile oval track.

Richard Petty, who has won twice this season, qualified seventh in his Dodge. He has not won at this track since 1967.

"You've got to have some racing luck on this track," said Yarborough, who is also a Florence County councilman in his spare time. "Here lately, I haven't been having any luck other than what I call my Darlington luck. And that is all bad."

He has never won the Rebel 500, running second in 1969 for his best finish.

"Darlington is home for me. It is the track I want to win on because I'm racing in front of my hometown peopte. Another reason I'd like to win is that I hate to think this old track and I can't tangle in the spring and me not come out on top," Yarborough said.

He has won three Southern 500s, which are run at Darlington later in the summer.

Petty indicated Pearson, Yarborough and himself should be among the leaders but also issued a warning to all drivers.

Rams Squeeze Past Farmville

SNOW HILL — Greene Central's baseball team squeezed across a run in the bottom of the seventh inning to edge Farmville Central 2-1 yesterday afternoon.

The Jaguars had taken the lead with a run in the fourth inning, but the Rams tied things up in the bottom of the frame. Farmville Central was able to load the bases in the seventh, but couldn't get a run in. Then Greene Central squeezed across Mike Chase in the bottom of the inning to win it.

In the fourth, Neil Gordon walked for the Jaguars and moved to second on David Winborn's single. Phillip Gordon came up with a base hit to score Neil Gordon and put the Jags ahead.

The Rams knotted the score quickly, however, as Jerry Speight walked in the bottom of the frame, went to second on an error on a pick-off attempt, made third on a long fly and scored on a base hit by Donald Holloman.

In the seventh inning, Mike Chase doubled for the Rams and went to third on Davenport's base hit and scored on Dal Blizzard's bunt.

The win ups the Ram record to 8-1, while Farmville falls to 3-5. Greene Central will host D. H. Conley Tuesday and the Jaguars will entertain Southern Nash.

Freeman Leads Lady Pirates

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. — Debbie Freeman won three places to lead the East Carolina women's track team to a tie for fifth place in the University of Virginia's Women's Invitational track meet Friday.

Freeman finished second in both the shot and the javelin, throwing the shot 38-1½ and the javelin 117-6. She also took third place in the discus with a toss of 11-4½.

Linda McClellan finished third in the discus with a 113-11 throw while Addison was sixth in the 1500 meters with a time of 5:07.7 and Mason was fifth in the 400 meter hurdles in 1:09.2.

Maryland won the event with 155 points, followed by Eastern Kentucky 121, Delaware State 66, Madison 43, Virginia Tech 35 and East Carolina 35.

ECU Track....

40.6 seconds, a second place finish, and Calvin Alston, who was second in the 200 meters, tied the Buc record for that event with a 21.0 second time.

In addition, Robert Bailey tied the school's discus record, although he did not place. Bailey's throw was 161-6½.

Summary of ECU finishes:

400 meters: Tyrone Perry, 6th, 48.8.

Late Conley Rally Is Short

PINETOPS — A sixth-inning D. H. Conley rally fell short yesterday afternoon as the Vikings were defeated by South Edgecombe. 10-7, in high school baseball.

Conley scored a run in the top of the first inning, but was tied by the Dragons in the bottom of the frame. The Vikings scored another in the fourth, but South Edgecombe came up with four in the inning to take a 5-2 lead.

The Dragons added five more in the fifth to go ahead 10-2. The Vikings were able to cut it to 10-7 in the sixth, but that was as close as they could come.

In the fifth inning, the Conley pitchers walked six batters, scoring three Dragon runs, while Tommy Tolson doubled with the bases loaded to bring in two more.

Tolson was the leading hitter of the game with a 3-4 performance at the plate. Devin Adams and Nuggie Worthington each went 2-3 for Conley.

Bucs Rally, Rally, Rally By Braves

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

If Pembroke and East Carolina forgot anything in their game Friday afternoon, it was a sure thing that nobody missed it.

By the time the Pirates had rallied for three runs in the bottom of the tenth inning to take a 12-11 victory, just about everything that could have happened had.

Just a look at the box score will show that there were no triples, no balks and no saves. But there was everything else.

And the only reason that there were no triples was that a bad bounce of the ball cost Pete Paradossi one in the eighth inning. His long fly to center bounced over the fence about the time he was getting to second, just about insuring him of a triple had the ball stayed on the field.

East Carolina led only twice in the game, in the third, when it took a 2-1 edge, and at the end. The rest of the time, Pembroke was ahead, leading by 1-0, 5-2, 7-5, 9-5, 9-7, and 11-9 scores. It was tied at 2-2, 5-5, and 9-9.

Each team used four pitchers with East Carolina's Bill Sword getting the win without officially facing a single batter. While pitching to Robbie Bennett, the first man he faced, Pembroke pulled a two-out double steal, and the Pirates cut down the runner. They then rallied for the victory in the bottom of the tenth.

Pembroke started all the action in the second. John Goetke singled and moved up to second on an error on the play. After Jerry Bullard walked, Kevin Callahan singled to score Goetke.

East Carolina tied it up in the bottom of the frame. Sonny Wooten led off with a walk and Raymie Styons singled. Robert Brinkley also got a hit, loading the bases. Jerry Carraway reached on an error, with Wooten scoring on the play.

The Pirates took the lead for the first time with another run in the third. Billy Best opened with a single and stole second. He moved to third on an out and Bobby Supel walked. The two pulled the double steal, with Best scoring.

Pembroke came up with four fourth inning runs for a 5-2 lead. Goetke led off with an infield hit and Bullard walked. Callahan also walked, loading the bases. Tommy Lowry reached on a bunt single, scoring Goetke. A passed ball let Bullard in and Ronnie Hobbs was hit by a pitch. Burlie Locklear singled in both Callahan and Lowry.

East Carolina quickly tied it up with three in the bottom of the inning. Brinkley and Charlie Stevens both walked and Carraway beat out a bunt for a base loading single. Paradossi singled in Brinkley and Best singled to score Stevens and Carraway.

In the sixth, Pembroke added two more. Allen Canady walked and Hobbs singled. Both were sacrificed up, and Maxie Such hit a sacrifice fly to score Canady. Ted Craig singled to deep short, scoring Hobbs.

The Braves raised it to 9-5 with two more in the seventh. Robbie Bennett reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. Lowry also was safe on a fielder's choice, and a double by Canady brought in both runners.

The Pirates started another comeback with two in the bottom of the seventh. Wooten doubled and Supel followed that up with a two-run homer.

The Bucs then added two more in the eighth to tie it at 9-9. Paradossi got his ground-ruled double and after a wild pitch moved him to third, he scored on Best's infield out. Eddie Gates walked and scored on a double by Wooten.

Then, it appeared that the bubble had burst on the Pirates, as Pembroke pushed over two in the top of the tenth for an 11-9 lead. Hobbs opened with a single and after two were out, Craig smacked a home run to left. Two hits followed to put another runner on third, but an attempted double steal backfired on the Braves, cutting down Bullard at home.

Then, the Pirates put on their own show, coming up with three runs to win it. Best opened with a bunt single and Gates walked. After two men were retired on fly balls, Styons singled to center, scoring Best. Tommy Cobb then ran for Styons.

Brinkley followed with a single to center, tieing it as Gates scored. Stevens walked, loading them up, and Carraway hit a line drive just past the outstretched glove of the Brave third-baseman, scoring Cobb with the game-winning run.

The victory boosted the East Carolina record to 12-6 on the year, while Pembroke fell to a 7-7 mark.

Following a Southern Conference doubleheader Saturday against Furman University, the Pirates were to entertain Campbell in a 1:30 p.m. Monday twinbill.

BUNTING FOR A HIT — East Carolina shortstop Jerry Carraway lays down a bunt in the fourth inning Friday against Pembroke, igniting a three-run rally which tied the game at that point at 5-5. At left, Carraway, who was trying to sacrifice two runners up, lays down the bunt, then, at right, beats out the throw for the hit. East Carolina tied the game after that at 5-5, and eventually won in the tenth inning, 12-11, as Carraway slapped a bases-loaded single into left to drive in the winning run. Roanoke Wins Game

BEAR GRASS — Roanoke's softball team came up with 10 runs in the sixth inning to gain a 19-7 come-from-behind win over Bear Grass Friday.

The Squaws went ahead in the top the first with one run, but Bear Grass scored four in the bottom of the inning and added two in the second for a 6-1 lead.

Roanoke cut into the margin with a pair of runs in the fourth, but the Lady Bears made it 7-3 with another tally in the fifth.

Then came the sixth when, behind Phyllis Roberson's grand slam homer, the Squaws scored 10 runs to put the game away.

Beverly Spruill was the leading hitter for Roanoke, going 4-5 with a homer, but Roberson was 2-4 with two home runs and seven runs batted in. Colette Albritton was also 2-4 while Shiela Hoskins and Carolyn Duggins were both 2-5. Duggins also had a home run.

Debra Jo Peaks was 2-3 for the Lady Bears while Darlene Rogerson and Lydia Hoell were both 2-4.

Mirian Jones was the winning pitcher.

Bear Grass will play again Monday at Jamesville while Roanoke will travel to North Edgecombe on Thursday.

Aycock In First Win

E.B. Aycock Junior High won its opening game of the year Friday, taking a 7-6 decision over Washington.

Aycock scored once in the first, then added four more in the second for a 5-0 lead. Washington picked up three, and Aycock one in the third to make it 6-3.

Washington then closed it to 6-5 with two in the fifth. Aycock got what proved to be the winning run in the sixth, while Washington added one in the seventh.

N. Prater and D. Payne each had two hits for Washington, with Payne having a double.

Mark Shank led the Jaguar hitting with three, while Marshall Heath added two, including a triple.

Greene Central Rallies To Nip North Pitt With Wild 7th Frame

BETHEL — Greene Central rallied for nine runs in the top of the seventh inning to take a 14-8 victory over North Pitt Friday.

The Panthers were in firm command of the game through the first six innings of the game, and had held the Rams scoreless through the first four.

Greene Central didn't get a hit off starter Jay Bedsworth until the fifth, and still trailed, 8-5, going into the seventh.

North Pitt took the lead with two runs in the third inning. Roy Briley doubled and scored on Lee Andrews' single. Jeff Hines then tripled to drive in Andrews.

The Panthers added four more in the fourth. Ken Perry singled and Bentley Jones got a hit. Both advanced on an error on the play. Eddie Hemingway reached on an error that let both baserunners score. Briley was also safe on an error and Aubrey Wynne singled to score Hemingway. Briley scored on a hit by Hines.

Both teams scored two runs in the fifth inning, and the Rams added three more in the sixth to cut the lead to 8-5.

But the Panther bubble burst after that. A fine fielding play took the Rams out of a jam in the bottom of the sixth, saving two more runs, and in the seventh, the ball started to fall in for the Greene Central team.

Jay Carraway opened the inning with a single and he scored on Russell Brann's triple. Don Holloman reached on an error and Curtis Shirley doubled in Brann. Mike Chase also doubled, scoring both Holloman and Shirley. Scott Davenport reached on an error and a single by Colin Beaman brought in Chase. Jeffrey Warren grounded out, but scored Davenport. Jerry Speight then reached on an error on his sacrifice bunt, scoring Beaman, and Carraway ended it with a two-run homer.

Carraway led the Greene Central hitting with three, while Beaman had two. Overall, the Rams had four triples, a homer, and two doubles.

Following a game with Farmville Central on Saturday, the Rams were to play Conley on Tuesday. North Pitt, after meeting Roanoke Saturday, faced C. B. Aycock on Tuesday.

Chargers Top Jaguars, 8-3

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's baseball team outhit Ayden-Grifton Friday afternoon, but committed six errors which helped the Chargers take an 8-3 win over the Jaguars.

Farmville got nine hits during the game to Ayden-Grifton's seven and led 3-2 in the second inning. But the Charger came up with four runs in the third and added one each in the sixth and seventh.

Both pitchers went the distance with Tim Shadle getting the win for the Chargers and Carroll Griffin being charged with the loss.

In the first inning, Al Butts doubled to start things off for Ayden-Grifton. Sam Whitehurst's base hit scored Butts and Jeo Hardy doubled to send Whitehurst home.

The Jaguars got a run in the bottom of the first and added two in the second when David Cochran singled and went to third on sacrifices by Emerson Hobgood and Griffin. Cochran scored on Phillip Gordon's single and Gordon went to third when Ted Dunn was safe on an error. Mike Jenkins then came up with a base hit to score Gordon.

The Farmville lead was short-lived, however, as the Chargers came up with four runs in the third. Whitehurst led off with a single and went to second on Hardy's base hit. Butch Davis then walked to load the sacks and Harold Edwards was safe on a fielders choice which scored Whitehurst. Hardy then scored from third on an error by the third baseman and a sacrifice fly by Tim Shadle allowed Davis to come home. Edwards got the final tally, scoring on David Riley's fielders choice.

Whitehurst and Hardy were the leading hitters for the Chargers, each going 2-4. Mike Jenkins paced the Farmville Central hitting with a 3-4 performance while Phillip Gordon was 2-3 and Emerson Hobgood 2-4.

Williamston Takes Wins In Two Games

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston's baseball team won two games Friday, but the Tigers weren't playing a double header. They defeated Roanoke Rapids 3-1 in a home game and then travelled to Windsor to down Bertie, 9-8.

The Bertie game was originally scheduled for yesterday, but changed to give Williamston a chance to see the New York Yankees take on the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill yesterday afternoon.

Roanoke Rapids got a run in the first inning to lead for most of the game, but the Tigers came back with two in the fifth and another in the sixth to get the win.

In the fifth inning, Allen Peaks led off with a single for Williamston and went to second on Jerry Howell's base hit. Mike Koesy hit a fielders choice which moved Howell to second, but Peaks was put out at third. Tim Hardison then doubled to score Howell and Koesy.

Hammack was the leading hitter of the game, going 3-3 for Roanoke Rapids. RR also had David Butts, 2-3, and Carsey and Collier, both 2-4. Lee Pearson and Ray Robertson were each 2-3 for the Tigers.

In the second game, Williamston's four runs in the fifth inning helped the Tigers to a 9-8. win over Bertie.

Ahead 3-2 in the top of the fourth with two out, Koesy walked and stole second and, after Hardison was intentionally walked, Grady Winstead made it on an error to score Koesy and Hardison.

Winstead then stole second and, after Lee Pearson walked, Ray Robertson got a base hit to score. Winstead and send Pearson to third. Pearson made it home on a double steal to seal the win.

Hardison was the game's leading hitter, going 2-2 and getting a home run. Stewart White led Bertie, hitting 2-4 and also getting a homer.

The two wins raise Williamston's record to 3-1 for the season. The Tigers will travel to Washington for a night game on Tuesday.

Rampettes See Improvement

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School's softball team hasn't opened its season yet, but Coach Diana Piatt is hopeful that the young Rampettes will be able to improve on last year's poor record.

The Rampettes finished last season with only a 2-9 record, and Miss Piatt is looking for improvement in that.

"We have only one letter winner back from last year," she said. "So inexperience is going to be our biggest problem. And we're young too. There are only three seniors on the team."

Actually the team is short in numbers. There are just 12 people to fill the ten fielding positions.

"I've been pleased with the way things have gone so far. We had a practice game with Washington, and we got into trouble with some early first game jitters, but after that we did a pretty good job," Miss Piatt said.

As far as hitting goes, the Rose girls have a couple of solid hitters in Shirley Johnson and Debbie Tripp. "We have some other girls who also are hitting the ball well, but not with the same power as these two."

Defense appears to be pretty good in the infield, but the outfield is still somewhat of a question mark. Another problem could be that Shirley Johnson may miss some of the games. She's also running on the girls' track team, and there could be a couple of conflicts if there are any changes in the schedule.

"I think our pitching is going to be very good," Miss Piatt said. 'Currently, Debbie Tripp is handling the pitching duties, with Johnson and Fran Gray as possible backups.

Susan Knott is currently the catcher, with either Shirley Johnson or Ellen Pollack at first. Maria Baro is at second, with Gray at shortstop. Dianne Littlefield is at third.

The outfield has Cheryl Smith in shortfield, Pollack is left, Robin Edwards in center and Kathy Stone or Jane Welborn in right.

Lisa Harris will also see some duty in the outfield.

"I'm really not sure what to expect in the conference race, since I didn't coach last year," Miss Piatt said. "From the way things went last year, I would have to guess that Rocky Mount will be the team to beat."

The coach is hopeful of improvement for Rose this year. "I feel we can finish in the top division of the conference. The girls are anxious to get started."

Asked if playing only a conference schedule might be a handicap since most of the other teams had some games, Miss Piatt said she was trying to schedule some scrimmages before the first league game.

That contest is on April 19, when the Rampettes take on Rocky Mount.

Bulls Use Bullets' Advice

By The Associated Press

Say, isn't that the Washington Bullets in Chicago Bulls' clothing?

Actually, it's the Bulls stealing a page from the Bullets' playbook.

Former Bullet Jack Marin has added a special Washington baseline play to the Bulls' offense. Friday night it helped Chicago beat the Denver Nuggets, 107-97. Marin scored 14 points as the Bulls got their 17th National Basketball Association victory in 20 games. When Marin wasn't scoring, Artis Gilmore was. The seven-footer had 21 points.

In other NBA games, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Kansas City Kings 111-105 in overtime; the Phoenix Suns crushed the Detroit Pistons 133-116; the New York Knicks beat the Milwaukee Bucks 116-109; the Cleveland Cavaliers outscored the New Orleans Jazz 115-106; the Houston Rockets whipped Washington 91-85; the Indiana Pacers nipped the New York Nets 89-88; the Los Angeles Lakers beat the San Antonio Spurs 107-102 and the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Golden State Warriors 109-98.

76ers 111, Kings 105

Doug Collins scored six of his 26 points in overtime to lead Philadelphia past Kansas City. The 76ers' Julius Erving was the game's high scorer with 32 points

Suns 133, Pistons 116

Paul Westphal scored a career-high 40 points as Phoenix crushed Detroit. Westphal's total included 16 in a big 40-point fourth quarter for the Suns.

Knicks 116, Bucks 109

Earl Monroe scored 28 points and Walt Frazier got 20 as the New York Knicks kept their slim playoff hopes by beating Milwaukee. Lonnie Shelton added 19 points for the Knick's sixth win in nine starts

Cavaliers 115, Jazz 106

Austin Carr and Elmore Smith combined for 25 points in the fourth quarter to lift Cleveland over New Orleans. The game was tied at 98 with 4:37 left when Carr tossed in five straight points, fed Smith for a layup and then scored a layup himself

Rockets 91, Bullets 85

Mike Newlin came off the bench to score all 15 of his points in the fourth quarter, leading Houston over Washington. The victory snapped the Rockets' three-game losing streak and strengthened their Central Division lead to 2½ games over the Bullets with just four to play.

Pacers 89, Nets 88

John Williamson and Dave Robisch teamed for 13 points in the final quarter to lead Indiana over New York, extend-

Charlie Finley May Have The Last Laugh

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Charlie Finley may yet have the last laugh on the rest of the American League West.

The controversial and volatile Oakland owner built the A's from an also-ran in Philadelphia and Kansas City to a three-time world champion on the West Coast. And he saw some of his recent acquisitions come through with flying colors Friday in a 16-4 exhibition baseball rout of the San Francisco Giants.

Earl Williams, playing his second game for the A's after the Montreal Expos turned him loose, hammered out four hits and drove in seven runs. Two of his hits were homers.

Doc Medich, acquired by the A's in a trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates last month, yielded six hits and two runs in seven innings and earned his second victory in an Oakland uniform.

Manny Sanguillen, the catcher Finley pried away from Pittsburgh last winter in an unusual exchange for Manager Chuck Tanner, added three singles. And Rob Picciolo, the rookie shortstop on whom the A's are counting to replace departed free agent Bert Campaneris, had two singles and a double.

Meanwhile, the world champion Cincinnati Reds ended a four-game losing streak by beating the Chicago White Sox 5-2 as Jack Billingham allowed three hits and both runs in six innings and Ray Knight and Bill Plummer homered.

George Scott drove in four runs with a homer and single, leading the Boston Red Sox past the Detroit Tigers 10-5. Reggie Jackson drove in two runs, Jim Wynn homered and Catfish Hunter allowed one run in six innings of the New York Yankees' 5-3 win over the Baltimore Orioles.

Doug Rau allowed one hit over the first six innings and Dusty Baker and Steve Garvey slugged two-run homers to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-0 victory over the California Angels.

Joe Zdeb's three-run homer in the eighth inning gave the Kansas City Royals a 12-9 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Jerry Martin, who doubled to set up the tying run in the ninth inning, singled home the winner in the 11th as the Philadelphia Phillies edged the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1.

Joe Wallis had three hits and scored three times to help the Chicago Cubs turn back the Cleveland Indians, 10-4. Craig Kusick's two-run homer enabled the Minnesota Twins to hold off the Montreal Expos 6-4.

Sixto Lezcano belted a three-run homer and Robin Yount added a two-run shot as the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Seattle Mariners, 7-6. Joaquin Andujar and Doug Konienczy teamed up on a four-hitter and the Houston Astros nipped the Texas Rangers, 1-0.

Brian Asselstine's three RBI helped the Atlanta Braves beat their Richmond, Va., farm club 8-3 and Bob Davis' tie-breaking two-run double in the seventh gave the San Diego Padres a 5-4 win over the University of San Diego.

S. Ayden Sets Games

The South Ayden Community Service Center is sponsoring the first annual Ayden Invitational Basketball Tournament April 4, 5 and 7.

The tournament will be held at the Ayden Grammar School gym on South Lee Street. Six teams from Greenville, Snow Hill, Walstonburg and Ayden will compete.

On Monday, April 4, Eaton will play the Snow Hill Rangers at 7:30 and the South Ayden Community Center All-Stars will meet Harper Serve Well at 8:45. The two Monday winners will play each other on Tuesday at 7:30, followed by a game between the Walstonburg Cobras and Kill's Elites at 8:45.

The championship game will begin at 8 on Thursday.

A donation of 50 cents will be collected at the door each night.

L. League Tryouts

Tryouts for the Greenville Little League's 1977 season will be conducted this week from Monday through Friday between 4 and 6 p.m. each day.

Boys and girls will be allowed to register Monday, April 4, and Tuesday, April 5, at 4 p.m. at the Greenville Recreation Department.

To be eligible, candidates must reside in the Greenville City School district and be between the ages of 9 and 12. Nine-year-olds must have been born after August 1, 1967 and 12-year-olds whose 13th birthday is before July 31 are not eligible.

A birth certificate will be required at registration time and candidates must be accompanied by at least one parent. Candidates accepted must furnish their own gloves and shoes and will have to attend 50 per cent of the tryout days to be eligible.

Spencer Posts Top Friday Rebel Time

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP)—J. C. Spencer, who has been racing for 32 years, ran the fastest time Friday to qualify for Sunday's Rebel 500 at Darlington Raceway, fittingly called the "Grandaddy of Stock Car Racing."

Spencer, 51, a four-time grandfather and the oldest regular driver on the NASCAR circuit, was clocked at 148.78 miles per hour in his brown Dodge during the second day of qualifying.

Defending champion David Pearson took the pole position Thursday with a clocking of 151.269 mph in his Mercury. Spencer, of Bluff City, Tenn., will start in the 13th position in Sunday's $156,000 event over the 1.366-mile oval.

The final 12 spots in the 36-car field will be filled today in qualifying runs.

Spencer, an independent driver who rebuilds engines for others to make ends meet, admits he cannot run with the "money boys."

"I try to finish the races, but if the car is running good, I like to run," said Spencer, who has raced more than 400 events, never winning on the big tracks.

"When I run, I go all out, but with those money guys, I just try to stay out of their way," said Spencer. "I could race with them, but it's too tough on my equipment and I just can't afford to burn out parts on my car. They can go out and get new parts, but all mine are rebuilt. I just can't afford it."

In 20 years of NASCAR racing, Spencer has finished second a couple of times. His best effort in the Rebel 500 was a third-place in 1967 behind Richard Petty.

"I'll try for a spot in the top 10," he said. "I'll consider that a good day."

Spencer had—for him—a good day Friday, picking up $525 in prize money, including a set of tires, $125 for being the top qualifier and four steak dinners at a local restaurant.

Why does he continue racing?

"I've been doing it for 32 years, build my own engines and do all the work on my car. This is all I really want to do. I'm not satisfied doing anything else. I could stay at home and do nothing. But I make ends meet and that's all you really need to live on," Spencer said.

Cale Yarborough, who has won three of six NASCAR events this season, will run from the No. 2 position Sunday, after a 150.390 mph clocking Thursday while Richard Petty will be in the seventh position after a 148.604 mph qualifying speed.

Baby Vikes Claim Win

D. H. Conley's junior varsity baseball team scored four runs in the first inning and went on to take a 7-3 win over West Craven.

The leading hitters for the Baby Vikings were Mike Edens, 3-5, and Mike Dixon and Mike Clemmons, both 3-4.

Martin Academy Tops Chowan

EVERETTES — Martin Academy came up with a run in the eighth inning to pull out a 9-8 victory over Chowan Academy Friday.

The victory was the seventh in eight games for Martin.

Martin grabbed an early lead, and took an 8-2 lead into the seventh inning, but Chowan rallied for six runs during the frame to tie it up and force extra frames.

Martin had grabbed the lead in the second inning with two runs. Johnny James opened it with a home run. James Corey reached on a fielder's choice and Jeffrey James singled. Norman Williamson reached on an error, scoring Corey.

Martin then added one in the third, two in the fourth, one more in the fifth and two in the sixth, while allowing Chowan single runs in the fourth and sixth.

But after Chowan rallied for six to tie it up in the seventh, Martin got the winning run in the eighth.

Game Is Scheduled

A basketball game, sponsored by the Future Business Leaders of America, will be held at Ayden-Grifton High School Monday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The game will be between the Ayden-Grifton faculty and the faculty of D. H. Conley. Both women's and men's games will be played.

Proceeds will benefit the March of Dimes. Tickets are $1 in advance and $1.50 at the door.

Winners At Meet

Four young people representing the John Ivy Smith Council (Greenville) of the Knights of Columbus, won honors in the state basketball free-throw tournament in Raleigh.

Local winners were Barry Smith, first place in the 12-year-old boys event; Vivian Wilson, first place in the 13-year-old girls event; Chip Cayton, second place in the 11-year-old boys event; and Jeff Parnell, second place in the 14-year-old boys event. Jim Hernan, of Greenville, was chairman for the tournament.

Replay Experiment Proves No Good

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

PHOENIX (AP) — "Perhaps," someone suggested as Art McNally turned off the videotape machine, "the solution is not to televise any games."

McNally the National Football League's supervisor of officials, smiled at the drastic suggestion—but he did admit that it would solve a most thorny problem.

The problem, if it can be called that, is that referees, linesmen, field judges and the rest of the officials are only human. They may not be prone to mistakes, but they're not immune from them, either. When they throw a flag—or don't throw it—someone's almost always bound to disagree.

Use instant replays, some people suggested. The cameras don't lie, they said.

The NFL decided to give the idea a look. Nothing official, mind you. Just a glance at what might happen.

And McNally showed that cameras can lie. He proved it as these NFL meetings were drawing to a close. With a short series of video tapes he probably put to rest forever the idea of using electronic gear to assist the guys in the striped shirts.

"There are so may drawbacks," McNally said. "For one thing, there's the time factor. It takes anywhere from 27 seconds to two minutes just to find one play on one videotape machine. And how many machines do you use?"

The NFL, in one experiment last season, used four—each system costing about $10,000—and all of that equipment served only to show that volume doesn't prove a thing.

So the NFL does not appear likely to employ the instant replay.

The NFL did make plenty of changes during its week here, though. The owners voted to expand the regular season from 14 to 16 games and reduce the preseason from six to four games, and to expand the playoff field by two teams with the addition of a second wild-card entry in each conference, both those changes effective with the 1978 season.

And the teams agreed, starting this season, to allow a limited number of their starting times to be changed in order to provide more attractive games for national television.

Further, starting in 1978, each team's schedule will be determined by the previous year's standings and that schedule will get away from the random opponents of previous years and provide more balanced competition.

All of this could come close to doubling the cash flow from the three television networks.

The owners placed Tampa Bay permanently in the National Conference Central Division and Seattle in the American Conference West. In 1977 each expansion team will play 13 games against other conference teams plus one game against the other expansion club. In 1978 each will begin regularly scheduled play, with home-and-home games against divisional rivals.

A fish-stocking project carried out around 10 days ago on the Tar River should improve according to North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission assistant fisheries biologist, Al Little.

The Commission released some 5,000 year-old striped bass in the Tar River near Falkland over a three-day period, Little said. The fish came from the Commission's hatchery in Fayetteville and were the excess of a group being raised for brood stock.

Little said the fish, eight to nine inches long now, will grow to the legal catching limit of 12 inches in about a year. It is hoped that they will remain in the Tar River system. Experience has shown that many will probably move down toward the Washington area.

The released fish are larger than the fingerlings usually used in stockings, according to Little. A large group of striped bass were raised for a year at the Fayetteville hatchery and the choicest were kept at the hatchery as breeding stock to raise more fish. The rest were sent here to be relased.

Nearly a quarter of a million fish have been stocked in the Tar River in the past few years and the bass through a tagging operation.

Although none of the fish recently released were tagged, a number of tagged fish have been released in the river to determine the number of striped bass which return upstream for spawning.

The return of the tags has been fairly successful on the Tar River, although not as well on the Neuse, another river being studied. Fishermen who catch tagged fish are urged to return the tag, along with all requested information, to aid in the study of striped bass. It is through such programs that the Commission is able to improve the population and chances of survival against more pressure of such fish.

Team To Vanish

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The World Hockey Association's Phoenix Roadrunners have become the latest victims of a struggling economy, high player prices and light fan support.

"We simply can no longer afford the tremendous cash drain to keep the Roadrunners in business," said principal owner Karl Eller Friday in announcing the team would cease operation next week at the close of the WHA's regular season.

Eller added that the club has lost $6 million in the past three years despite drastic cutbacks in player salaries and operating areas.

Missouri's Famous Mules Still In Great Demand

By DONALD BERNS

To Richard Kohl, who has been breeding them for 58 years, "Missouri is the place for mules. We've kinda got noted for them."

For the past 30 years Kohl, 73, has been a partner with Gene Chipman, 68, in the business of breeding and trading Missouri mules.

"We growed up in the business," said Kohl. "Our fathers and grandfathers traded mules."

History books have George Washington as the first man in the United States to breed mules.

The process is not difficult and later was picked up by enterprising farmers in the Midwest. Missouri had the best mares at the time and became the center for breeding mules.

It still is No. 1 in that business with a number of places such as the Chipman-Kohl Farm.

A mule is the offspring of a jackass and a mare. Both male and female mules are sterile. The males are castrated to keep them from getting mean.

"Most mules are of a good disposition," Kohl said. "They get wild only when they been loose for three or four years. Our mules are handled from the time they're still with their mother; when it comes time to work, all you have to do is hitch 'em up."

The work done by mules long has been diminishing as mechanization changes agriculture. But the Chipman-Kohl Farm and other mule breeders still keep busy by filling orders for a variety of buyers.

The tobacco farmers and coal mines still use mules, and settlements in Amish country order them regularly.

Knott's Berry Farm ordered a pair of mules for one of its tourist attractions, and the owner of a hunting resort in the Rocky Mountains wants pack mules to haul deer carcasses down the slopes.

"We just took a jack down to Texas," Chipman said. "Some fellow wants to breed him with thoroughbred horses and come up with some racing mules. Who knows? It may work."

"A mule is a lot more sure-footed than a horse," said Kohl. "When a horse comes up to a ditch, he'll probably lunge into it. When a mule comes to a ditch, he'll ease through it."

"Also, at the end of the work day," added Chipman, "a mule will eat and drink just what he needs, while a horse will overeat 'til he's sick."

But Chipman long ago despaired of ever teaching a mule anything beyond its innate horse sense.

"A mule," he said, "will forget more at night than you can teach it during the day."

America's work mules have cousins of the same breed who are groomed and shod as show mules. Although work mules and show mules are genetically the same, a mule generally does not combine both careers.

"When they work 10 or 12 hours in the field," said Chipman, "they don't look ready to go to the fair."

Chipman and Kohl have their own show mules and plenty of trophies. But as Kohl said, "The trophies don't feed the mules; when the fair's over, they're just in the way."

Also show mules require a lot of care.

"After all, you could take the prettiest girl and not win a beauty contest unless she was fixed up a bit," Chipman said.

Last summer a team of their mules took part in a parade in Washington, D.C., and Chipman proudly displays a picture of his mule team and wagon with the Capitol in the background. Chipman's son, John, was the muleskinner aboard.

The younger Chipman and a crew of helpers handle much of the work on the farm as the two elder traders ease their work loads. As they look back, each remembers only one occasion on which he was kicked by a mule.

"One of them kicked me in the chest and knocked me out," said Kohl. "I ran up to scare him and got too close."

"I got kicked once in the barn," said Chipman, "but not enough to amount to anything."

Offer Tableau Thursday Night

Members of the First Christian Church, through dramatization of "The Last Supper," will present a tableau of the famous painting by Leonardo daVinci, in a special Maundy Thursday communion service.

The service will be held in the church sanctuary Thursday, April 7, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Will R. Wallace, minister, will be the narrator for the tableau.

The cast includes the following: Jesus, portrayed by Bill Woolard; Judas, Kurt Fickling; Bartholomew, Frank Dail; James, Bill Brewer; Andrew, Dr. Kenneth Quiggins; Peter, Billy West;

John, John Adams; Thomas, Tom Rowlett; James, Mose Stocks; Philip, Lawrence Perkins; Matthew, Al Averette; Thadeaus, Mac Whitehurst; and Simon, Johnny Pinner.

Mrs. W. D. McArthur, having seen the tableau presented in Texas, is overall chairman for the service which will also include special music under the direction of Tom Hawley.

Mrs. W. M. Scales Jr. is chairman of props and the Lord's Table. Mrs. Reid Perkins and Mrs. Walter Perkins, co-chairmen of casting and costuming, have done extensive research to make the costuming as authentic as possible.

Maundy Thursday is the night on which Jesus Christ shared the Feast of the Passover with His disciples. This feast has been called the Last Supper.

Leonardo daVinci was one of the greatest artists of the Italian Renaissance. "The Last Supper" is recognized as the masterpiece of daVinci and it is one of the 12 paintings called "world pictures" by art critics. The original picture was painted on the plaster walls of a convent dining room in Milan, Italy. The table, linen cloth and dishes are said to be copies from those used by the monks.

Few Pay For Water; But Change Seen

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Few Americans pay for water, whether they're in the city or the country.

The farmer pays to dig a well and for the chemicals to treat the water he takes for free. He also pays for the chemicals to return it to the land as sewage.

That's about all the city dweller pays for, too. The municipal water bill averages $6 to $8 a month per household. And that's for treatment and delivery. A somewhat equal amount is charged for treating wastes that return to water resources.

"Over the past 10 years, the average increase in water bills has been 50 per cent," says George Craft of the American Water Works Association. "That may sound like a lot, but you forget that you pay 50 cents for 1,000 gallons of water, compared with more than 50 cents for just one gallon of gasoline.

But that may change. If there is no public cooperation on conservation, legislation may be the answer.

The National Water Commission, empowered by Congress to study the nation's water problems, issued several recommendations after completing a four-year study in 1973:

—Increase rates during high-use times, such as summer, to cut down on lawn-sprinkling.

—Tax irrigation water so it would be used more efficiently or sold for other uses.

—End low-cost federal loans to develop community water systems, forcing more efficient water management on the local level.

—Tax water recreation equipment, and force the water transportation industry to maintain inland waterways and pay for future navigational projects.

Receives His Commission

ENSIGN J.D. LITTLE

NEWPORT, R.I. — J. D. Little, a 1976 graduate of East Carolina University and a native of Chocowinity, was commissioned an ensign in the U.S. Coast Guard in ceremonies held Friday, April 1 at the Naval Officer Candidate School in Newport, Rhode Island.

Ensign Little was commissioned in the Supply Corps of the Coast Guard. His first duty station assignment will be in the Navy Supply Corps School in Athens, Ga.

During the summer of 1976, Little worked as a field technician for the North Carolina Wildlife Commission on the Chicod Creek Project in Pitt County.

He has had prior military service with the Army Security Agency, serving in Okinawa.

Bankers Review Crime Problems

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bankers rate bad checks, holdups and credit card misdeeds in that order as their top crime problems, but feel they hold the master key to improve safeguards against these and other offenses.

More than anything else, they want to see their institutions step up staff training on security matters.

This is one of the major findings in a 42-page report released by Burns Security Institute, which surveyed 847 commercial and savings banks, with total assets exceeding $114 billion, on their physical defenses and protection programs.

The institute, with headquarters in Braircliff Manor, N.Y., is a private research unit that studies and reports on crime and how to better cope with it in the private and institutional areas.

The new business, located next to North Carolina National Bank in the Colonial Heights area, will feature jewelry, silver, gifts, leather goods, housewares, sporting goods, and toys, along with a Jean Shop.

J. D. Dawson Co. operates a wholesale catalog business in Belhaven. The Belhaven store was started in 1916 as a wholesale grocery facility and reorganized for wholesale catalog sales some 15 years ago.

Melba G. Smith, president, maintains an office and residence in Belhaven while Axson Smith serves as a buyer-consultant and is active in the Electronics Division of the company.

Other principals include Mark Smith who serves as jewelry consultant and buyer, as well as gemologist for both the Belhaven and Greenville stores; Melanie Johnson, assistant jewelry consultant and buyer (graduate gemologist);

Dwight Boyd, photography and electronics buyer (advertising and promotions director); and Elizabeth Keech, housewares and gifts buyer (catalog manager).

Melvin Keech, Greenville store manager, was formerly associated with Brown and Williamson Tobacco Co. He is a charter member of the Pungo Basin Jaycees.

Keech is married to the former Carol J. Waters of Washington and they have two sons. The family now resides in Greenville.

Rare Birds Destroyed

ALPINE, Calif. (AP) — For 27 years, Al Hinkle longed for a rare Formosan breeding pheasant to add to his extensive game bird collection.

In January, he finally obtained one of the birds, a swinehoe, from another private collector in nearby San Bernardino. Less than 36 hours later the bird was dead.

Hinkle, who sells exotic birds to pet stores, said that after first unsuccessfully treating the birds for E. coli, a common bacterial infection, "we began to suspect we got a wrong diagnosis."

The dead birds were sent to a U.S. Department of Agriculture laboratory in February. Tests revealed they died of the highly contagious Newcastle's disease, responsible for the destruction of 12 million chickens in southern California in an epidemic from 1971 to 1974.

Less than a month after the diagnosis was confirmed, a federal-state task force had asphyxiated Hinkle's entire collection of 1,100 exotic game birds, representing 163 different species.

The 297 aviaries dotting Hinkle's preserve in this San Diego County mountain community were destroyed along with nearby trees. Other trees and the entire grounds were sprayed to kill the Newcastle organisms.

A nearby wholesale bird farm where Hinkle's swinehoe was held for one day before he picked it up also was found to be infested with Newcastle's disease. The birds there were destroyed.

So were nearly 2,200 birds at the farm where Hinkle bought the bird, as well as more than 5,000 other birds at pet shops throughout San Diego, San Juan Capistrano and Tucson, Ariz.

No Wine Cocktails For Tar Heels

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It wasn't quite liquor by the drink, but it was close enough for the state's three-member Board of Alcoholic Control.

The wine industry went before the board Friday, seeking permission for restaurants to serve wine cocktails.

The wine would be mixed with fruit juices or soft drinks and the industry representatives brought with them a state attorney general's ruling that wine cocktails would not violate the state law forbidding liquor by the drink.

"This would just be opening the door to mixed drinks," said board chairman Marvin Speight. "I just say, don't let them mix it behind the counter. That's when you don't have any control."

The board then voted unanimously against the wine cocktails.

Business Notes

generating unit was placed into commercial operation this spring, and in 1977 approximately 40 per cent of its energy will be from nuclear fuel and 57 per cent from coal.

Earnings on common stock increased from $2.47 per share in 1975 to $2.74 per share last year, it was pointed out.

JOINS FIRM

Fred T. Mattox, president of Coastal Leasing Corp., announced that J. Carlton Taylor is now associated with the firm as vice president for marketing and finance and will manage general operations.

Taylor was employed for over 20 years by Burroughs Corp. serving most recently as sales manager for computers and other products manufactured by the company.

A Pitt County native, he is a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, the Greenville Kiwanis Club, and a former member and president of the Greenville Jaycees. He is married to the former Jean Mills and they have a son and daughter.

Coastal Leasing Corp. has been engaged in finance type leasing of equipment to commercial and governmental organizations since 1970. The firm's office will be relocated to 3205 S. Memorial Drive here, it was announced.

CARLTON TAYLOR

TESTIMONY OFFERED

United Telecommunications Inc. chairman Paul Henson said in testimony before a U.S. Senate subcommittee that competition in the telecommunications industry should neither be prohibited where it is feasible, nor forced where it leads to wasteful duplication and inefficient uses of resources.

Henson observed, "Policy alternatives have too often been posed as a choice between competition and monopoly."

He added that the failure to distinguish between the provision of telecommunications services and the provision of telecommunications facilities is at the heart of the polarization of views over the appropriate role of competition in the telecommunications industry.

United Telecommunications owns and operates the United Telephone System, the nation's third largest telephone system, of which Carolina Telephone is a part.

BUSINESS FORMED

J. Carlton Taylor and John Taylor announced the formation of a new firm, Energy Conservation Associates of East Carolina Inc. for the sale and lease of Power Master electrical energy conservation devices.

The firm, according to the partners, will analyze the electrical system of a building and design a system of Power Master units to remove voltage transients and surges from the power supplied to equipment. They said the system results in more efficient equipment operation and a reduction in electric power consumption and demand.

The business is located at 3205 S. Memorial Drive and will market equipment in eastern North Carolina. Power Master products are produced by W. M. Phillips Co. of Lake City, Mich.

The Taylors are father and son and reside in Brook Valley.

CREDIT DROPPED

According to figures released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, bank credit at 27 of the large commercial banks dropped $37,396,000 in the week ended March 23, lowering bank credit outstanding to a level of $21,546,888,000.

Net loans adjusted, or total loans exclusive of loans to other banks and loan valuation reserves, declined $26,271,000, while total investments declined $11,125,000.

PARTNERSHIP FORMED

Richard Miller and William Davis announced the formation of a new partnership under the trade name of Miller & Davis Associates with principal offices in the new architects and accountants building at the corner of First and Cotanche Streets.

Miller & Davis Associates offer contracting services and construction management for the commercial and industrial market as well as a residential division specializing in custom decorating, wallcovering and painting.

Both conventional construction systems and pre-engineered building systems are offered, it was noted, as the firm serves as the eastern North Carolina dealer for Armco Building Systems.

Prior to the formation of the new firm, Miller was vice president of J. H. Hudson Inc. for the past nine years, while Davis served as vice president of A. B. Whitley Inc. of Greenville for the past 12 years.

Denies Pressure

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Despite management's denials, a local union president says Carolina Springs Corp. is under pressure from competitors to cut wages and break up the Upholsterers International Union local.

The union has been the official bargaining agent at the Carolina plant here since 1963.

"This is the first time they have ever used a lawyer (in negotiations)," said Willie Phillips. "We've always had good relations and treated each other with respect until this lawyer came along. In all the time we've had our union, there has only been one grievance that had to go to arbitration."

Phillips said the company's competitors are applying pressure because they're afraid their own employes will agitate for higher wages.

Phillips said the company hired a lawyer from the same firm that has been helping J.P. Stevens in its legal battle against unions.

Plant manager Clarence Lambeth denied Phillips' charge, saying, "There is going to continue to be a union."

The pay cuts — up to 30 per cent for some employes — are needed because the company is being undersold by competitors, he said.

Phillips counters that company officials admit no profit has been lost.

Ninety of the company's 139 workers walked off the job Monday when the pay cuts went into effect. Negotiations in the pay dispute have been underway since January.

It Began With Observance Of The Passover Feast

called additional troops up from the coast during the high holy days. If the Jews plotted revolt, or even a demonstration against their conquerors, it would be likely to occur on a big feast day, and it would start on the temple grounds in the court of the Gentiles.

The Procurator was in Jerusalem. His official residence was in Caesarea, on the Mediterranean, but his presence was always required in Jerusalem at times like this. When he came to Jerusalem this Passover, Pilate's choice of residence was the formidable Fortress Antonia, which lay like a big stone against the heart of the temple. There, in an ornate chest, the Procurator held the vestments of the high priest and, under Roman dicta, unlocked them on the morning before high holy days and gave them to the high priest, Caiphas, who was bound to return them to the chest within eight days.

Peter and John threaded their way through the late-afternoon crowds. When the two men again reached the upper room, the afternoon sun was already low and they hurried to build the fire and roast the lamb. Peter set the lamb in the brick and tile oven while John fashioned the round, thin unleavened bread into little cakes. This was the matzoth, ritually prepared bread.

Their work was not finished when Jesus and the others walked upstairs and into the room. The greetings were subdued. Jesus studied the room carefully. This was, to Him, an important room, an important night.

The servants set the table in the middle of the room. It was shaped like a U about twelve inches from the floor. The couches from which Jesus and the Twelve ate were called triclinia. Among the Jews, the bottom part of the U was considered the side of special favor, and three places were set on that side. As host, Jesus would be in the middle. The place of honor was to His left, and Peter would recline there.

The place of second honor was to the right of Jesus, and this normally was the place of Judas, the treasurer, though on this night it would be taken by young John.

7 p.m., April 6, A.D. 30

The men in that room with Jesus called themselves "the Twelve." They were pious men in an age when piety was common. For the most part, they were not men of exceptional intellect or training; some may not have even been able to read or write, but all had studied the oral law at the knees of their mothers and fathers.

Like all men of that time in Palestine, they averaged about five feet six inches in height, although some, like Peter, were taller. All wore full beards and uncut hair, because the Law of God warned against all forms of vanity.

Most of the men with Jesus that evening had two names, the second of which was given to each one by Jesus.

The Apostle Andrew was from Capharnaum and he was the first of the Twelve to have followed Jesus. His older brother was Peter. Among the fishermen in Galilee he was known to be valorous in storms. No man knows when Andrew died, but long after this night he would be crucified on an X-shaped cross.

Bartholomew was born in Cana, and his father called him Nathanael. He had been a vinedresser. His best friend was Philip. In later years, Bartholomew preached in Persia and the eastern countries and the time would come when the people would flay him alive.

Philip was the merry one. He lived in Bethsaida, in Galilee, and there he had a wife and some said three daughters and a sister Marianne. James of Alphaeus (not to be confused with the brother of John) someday would be called other things, like James the Lesser and James the Just. His father was Alphaeus; his mother was reputed to be a sister to the Mother of Jesus. James of Alphaeus was always addressed by Jesus as "My Brother." And this James loved Him dearly but had difficulty believing that Jesus was the Messiah. He was older than Jesus and had known Him from infancy.

Jude was another cousin to Jesus. He was not a prominent figure among the Apostles, and little is known of him. In the years ahead, Jude would preach the testament of Jesus with a violent passion in Arabia, Mesopotamia, Persia and Syria, where, in time, he would be murdered.

The least-known face among these men belongs to Simon Zelotes. Sometimes he is called Simon the Cananaean. It is believed that he preached in Persia and Egypt, and it is known that he enjoyed travel. In age, the Apostles averaged a few years younger than Jesus, Who was about thirty, and, if Simon Zelotes was thirty, then he had a long life ahead because it is recorded that he was killed while preaching in Egypt in A.D. 107.

Thomas was the least shocked of the Apostles when Jesus announced that His kingdom was not of this earth and that these men should not expect to sit with Him in judgment of the twelve tribes of Judea; rather, He would die and leave them to carry on His word as best they could. Thomas was a twin, and had been called by the Greek name for twin, "Didymus." He had worked in Galilee as a carpenter.

Matthew had been a publican, a tax gatherer, and the people of his race regarded him as a sinner and, because he had worked for Caesar, unclean. Originally, his name had been Levi. The Messiah changed his name to Mattija — "Gift of Yahweh." Matthew could speak Hebrew and write it, and had attended the finest rabbinical schools.

The busiest man of the company was Judas Iscariot. Eleven were from the province of Galilee; Judas was from Judea. His name was not Iscariot; it was Judas ish Kerioth — Judas from Kerioth. His father was Simon ish Kerioth. Under his outer garment of white, Judas wore a leather apron with two huge pockets, and in these he maintained the treasury.

Among the many women of means who contributed to the ministry of Jesus was Salome of Bethsaida. So firmly did she believe in the Messiah that she gave two of her sons to the Apostolate — James and his younger brother, John. Of the two young men, John was the one who was beloved of Jesus. Of all the Apostles, these two brothers, together with Peter, were the closest to Jesus.

James, the elder brother, was destined to die first, and he would be the only one who would die in the city where his Messiah died — Jerusalem.

Peter, chief of all the Apostles, was a fisherman. He was given to speaking first without thinking, and too often the words came from his heart and not his head. He had been called Simon, Simon Peter, Cephas and Symeon. He was probably called Cephas in Aramaic by Jesus and this, in Greek, is rendered Peter — the stone, the rock. Originally, he was Simon bar Jona, the son of Jonas. Peter was married and lived in a substantial house in Capharnaum with his wife, his brother Andrew (who fished with him) and his mother-in-law.

When Jesus recruited Peter at the lakeside in Galilee, He promised to make him "a fisher of men." (Andrew had been "recruited" very shortly before his brother Peter, for, as a disciple of John the Baptist, he had witnessed Jesus' baptism and had followed Him immediately.) Later Jesus pointed at Peter and said "Upon this rock I will build My church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

They understood it to refer to themselves; that they, the servants of the Lord, could not be greater than the Lord, Who was not above washing feet. The part referring to the one who is sent not being greater than the one who sent him could, they understood, refer to Jesus and His relationship to God the Father. In sum, He was not greater than the One Who sent Him here — His Father.

"If you know these things, you will be blessed if you do them." Relieved, they now ate happily and without restraint.

"I do not speak of you all," Jesus was saying, as though He understood that His men were still puzzled by the remark about uncleanliness. "I know whom I have chosen." This was an endorsement of them. "But, so that the Scriptures may be fulfilled" — and now His voice rose a little as Jesus quoted the old words of the Scripture: "He who eats bread with Me has lifted up his heel against Me."

All dining stopped at once. He was telling them that one of their company was plotting against the Lord. They had, from time to time, been asked to believe things which were not easy to believe, but, because their Lord had asked them to believe, they had learned to accept His words and to lock them in their hearts as truths.

But this — who?

In the years ahead, Peter would be arrested three times; he would preach the testament of Jesus far and wide; he would grow old and feeble and, according to some authorities, he would die crucified, asking that he be turned head down.

The dinner was ready and the Apostles moved toward the tables. They looked to Jesus and He looked around the room at them and said: "I have greatly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer; for I say to you that I will eat of it no more, until it has been fulfilled in the kingdom of God."

The Twelve looked at each other, as they so often did, for a greater understanding of His words. They took it to mean that He loved them and wanted ardently to eat this important feast with them, and that He would not eat it again until Judea, which had rejected Him, had recognized Him as God.

A servant brought a large basin and jug and paused behind Jesus. According to ritual, each diner would hold his hands above the basin while the servant poured water over them. The hands would be wiped dry and parsley dipped in vinegar passed around the table. But Jesus was not to follow the ritual. He got to His feet and took the basin, the water and the towel from the startled servant. He walked around the table to the Disciple at the lowliest position on the right side, and knelt to wash, not his hands, but his feet.

Then in silence He dried the feet of His amazed and protesting follower, and moved on to the next man. Peter tried to tuck his feet under his loins on the couch.

"If I do not wash you," Jesus said softly, "you will have no part of Me."

This was an ultimatum. Jesus washed the feet of Peter and went on to the others on the left side of the table. As He neared the end of the table, He said: "He who has bathed needs only to wash and he is clean all over." They looked at each other and nodded approval. "And you are clean"' Jesus said as He stood, "but not all." The Apostles waited for a further exposition of these last mystifying words. But for the moment Jesus did not explain.

Instead, He asked the Apostles a question:

"Do you know what I have done to you?

"You call Me Master and Lord," He said' "and you are correct, for I am. If, therefore, I, the Lord and Master, have washed your feet, you ought also to wash the feet of one another.

"For I have given you an example," the Lord said, emphasizing the word example, "that as I have done to you, so you too should do. Amen, amen I say to you, no servant is greater than his master, nor is one who is sent greater than he who sent him."

Miss Connie Lou Bowen Is Bride

ORMONDSVILLE — Miss Connie Lou Bowen became the bride of Jerry Earl McLawhorn in a candlelight ceremony Saturday at 5:00 p.m. in the Saints Delight Free Will Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. M. Pollard of Greenville.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee Bowen of Winterville, and Mr. and Mrs. Sothey McLawhorn of Ayden.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Otis McLawhorn, pianist, and Mrs. Debbie Beddard, soloist, who sang "Portrait of My Love" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The chancel of the church was centered with a 15 branched candelabra. Two nine branched tree candelabra were used on each side filled with blue, white and yellow spring flowers. Honor pews were marked with white satin bows. The couple knelt for the benediction on a white prie-dieu.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a silk organza gown designed with a high lace neckline with a lace bib front bodice and long lace sleeves. The bodice and sleeves were accented with seed pearls and matching lace ruffle cuffs. The full skirt was finished with a matching lace edge.

She wore a Juliet cap attached to a three tier illusion veil bordered with lace and flowing into a chapel length train. She carried a bridal cascade of miniature white carnations, baby's breath and springerii foliage with satin streamers.

Mrs. Jackie Bowen, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a long formal light blue floral interlock polyester dress. It featured a V-neckline, empire waist with cape sleeves extending into a flowing cape. She carried a spring nosegay of yellow daisies blue miniature carnations and white baby's breath with matching streamers.

Robert Dunn of Ayden served as best man. Ushers were Otis McLawhorn, cousin of the bridegroom, and Ronnie Bowen, brother of the bride, both of Ayden.

Mrs. Diane McKeel, aunt of the bride, presided at the register and Mrs. Bernice Cannon directed the wedding.

The mother of the bride chose a floor length dress of blue polyester with an empire waistline. The V-neckline and short bishop sleeves were accented with lace. The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink and white polyester floor length dress with a scoop neckline and bishop sleeves trimmed in lace. Both mothers wore corsages of white miniature carnations. The grandmothers were remembered with carnation corsages.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Ayden-Grifton High School. She is employed by Dr. Stephen Sudor, optometrist, Ayden. The bridegroom is employed by Cox Armature Works, Greenville.

The couple will reside at Rt. 2, Ayden.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a rose jumpsuit with a matching jacket and wore her mother's corsage.

After the rehearsal Friday night, a cake cutting was held in the fellowship hall of the church for members of the wedding party and guests.

The refreshment table was covered with a bridal bell cloth and centered of an arrangement of artifical red roses accented by two white love birds. After the couple cut the first traditional slice from the three-tiered cake, Mrs. Mavis Hall of Ayden, served cake and Mrs. Danny McLawhorn poured punch.

Home Gardening Savings To Rise

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

A new study estimates the average American home gardener can save about $282 this year by growing his own vegetables. The average yield is expected to be 500 pounds per plot.

These latest estimates from Gardens for All, a non-profit home gardening association in Shelburne, Vt., reflect increases over the organization's earlier forecast. It was made soon after bad winter weather devastated commercial crops in Florida, and western farmers expressed pessimism about water availability for the 1977 growing season.

Association spokesman John O. Davies III says the new figures are based on a regional study projected nationally and on information compiled by the Gallup Poll and the U.S. Department of Agriculture on home gardening last year. He estimates the total retail value of this year's home grown vegetables at $10 million.

The association now expects a total of 32 million home gardens this year, with individual investments of less than $20 per gardener, an average garden size of about 600 square feet, typical growing methods, average supermarket-grocery prices and planting of the vegetables most often grown at home. They are tomatoes, green beans, onions, cucumbers, peppers, radishes, lettuce, carrots, squash, beets, cabbage and greens.

Davies said his yield and savings figures are based on the assumption gardeners will use standard or beginning methods. People who practice intensive yield methods such as wide-row or succession planting will reap larger crops and larger savings.

In compiling the data, he took into account individual variations in types of vegetables planted and planting methods, and retail prices that fluctuate regionally and seasonally.

The USDA has projected 1977 vegetable costs for commercial crops at 20 per cent above last year. If they do rise that much, Davies expects per family savings from the beginner's garden to top $350, and the retail value to be more than $12 million. He said the latter figure could go even higher if the estimated 32 million home garden estimate proves low.

A cross framed paper needlepoint saying "What Is Home Without A Wife" was recently purchased by Mrs. John Shannonhouse of Greenville.

She purchased the frame at an auction sale and the saying was covered by another picture that had been pasted to the glass. Mrs. Shannonhouse now plans to return the saying to the frame and "keep it for a while."

Mrs. Shannonhouse said that she had no idea how old the picture was, but because of its brown color and brittle condition, quite old. It was a "find that you don't think about," she added.

Mrs. Ilona Vigliotti, who was raised in Hungary, said that needlework was compulsory from the second grade on in the Luthern Elementary Schools.

"Children correlated needlework with arithmetic and spelling in learning from hole to hole, line to line, to form straight lines. Script writing started in the second grade and printing later in the sixth grade.

The paper needlepoint craft is now being taught at the Elm Street Recreation Center by Mrs. Lucille Sumrell.

"If you've ever searched through the family's old trunks that have been tucked away in the attic, there's a good chance you found a few sentimental momentoes of thread worked on perforated paper.

"Often called paper needlework, or simply perforated paper, the thin strips of needlework were often mounted on ribbon so they made ideal bookmarks for the family Bible," said Mrs. Sumrell.

Embroidery on perforated paper is probably older than the United States. A perforated design, reputedly worked by Nellie Custis, hangs in Woodlawn Plantation House at Mount Vernon. It was the favorite handiwork of the 19th century and Victorian women, who enjoyed doing ornate fancy work. The works were either framed or mounted on ribbon, depending on their use.

The paper itself, which is cream in color and about the thickness of a manila folder, has rows of punched holes, about 15 holes to an inch. It was originally manufactured in Europe and later in the United States, but was not available in this country until after World War II.

In addition to making mottoes and bookmarks, perforated paper can be used to make embroidered pictures and greeting cards. While the cross-stitch is generally used, other free style stitches such as the French knot, lazy daisy, double running or back stitch can be used.

Spring Project Discussed

The Westhaven Home and Garden Club held its monthly meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Kaye Stott assisted by Mrs. Vertie McFall.

Mrs. Nancy Moldin, yearbook chairman, led a discussion on the by-laws and entries for the upcoming yearbook and announced that it should be ready by the April meeting.

Mrs. Hazel Lovett, project chairman, headed up a discussion for the spring project and it was decided that a community yard and bake sale will be held in May.

Newcomer, Mrs. Virginia Lashmit, was welcomed to the club. An Easter party for the children in Westhaven, sponsored by the club, was announced.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It's an important story and I bet a lot of people missed it.

It's the one about how President Carter recently ordered that people who write government regulations are going to have to start writing "plain English for a change."

Do you have any idea the impact this would have if it spread to other means of communication?

Why, for the first time in years we'd be able to understand what our teachers are talking about. Think of it. There'd be no more educators summoning you to their office saying, "Mrs. Spellbinder, we have no choice but to use behavior modification on Dwayne. I'm sure you're familiar with the technique of using Skinner's principles of operant conditioning to produce the desired changes in his behavior without reference to the cause."

She would simply say, "Mrs. Spellbinder, we've had it with Dwayne. Here's the game plan. Either he quits sitting there day after day staring at his navel during Math or we're not going to let him go out and stamp on cans for the ecology drive."

Imagine what this would do for appliance manuals. Instead of, "If the motor stalls during food grinding, unplug grinding unit from outlet. Detach the food grinder head and disassemble by unscrewing the retaining ring, sliding the grinding disk off by removing the notched edges on the grinding body and removing the four-fingered cutting blade from the feed screw by lifting it away from the square center hole on either side toward the feed screw."

Translation: "Pull the plug or you're going to have 10 fingers on each hand."

Doctors would no longer warn, "You have obviously had an exposure to ivy dermatitis which has created a blister-like eruption on an inflamed base. Spreading it to other parts of the body occurs by direct transfer of the oily substance. It is recommended that extreme caution be exercised to restrain from distribution of the oily substance to the unaffected areas. In two words: "Don't scratch!"

Weather forecasters, auto mechanics, ministers and columnists would all have to get a new act together, aimed at being understood by people who read English.

At the workshop for these federal regulations writers, it was pointed out that any communication could really get out of hand. Example: "We respectfully petition, request and entreat that due and adequate provision be made, this day and the date hereinafter subscribed for the satisfying of this petitioner's nutritional requirements and for the organizing of such methods as may be deemed necessary and proper to assure the reception by and for said petitioner of such quantities of baked cereal products as shall, in the judgement of the aforesaid petitioners constitute a sufficient supply thereof."

Mrs. Smith Reports On Social Concerns

Mrs. Mamie Smith reported on the Social Concerns of the women in Pitt County at the meeting of the Pitt County Council on the Status of Women held Wednesday in the conference room of the Agricultural Extension Office.

Her reported included data she had obtained from various agencies in the county with regard to welfare needs, day care needs and child support.

Mrs. Rena Manning, president, presided and introduced the guests, Mrs. Judy Donnalley, president of the Pitt County Women's Political Caucus, and Mrs. Margaret Wirth, incoming president of the League of Women Voters. They made suggestions on behalf of their organizations and pledged their cooperation to the council.

Mrs. Jean Darden was appointed to serve on a Steering Committee sponsored by the Human Relations Council for the City of Greenville to sponsor a mini workshop to find out what concerns Tar Heel women.

The Council on the Status of Women was appointed by the Pitt County Commissioners in September, 1976, for the purpose of making an appraisal on the status of women in Pitt County and to make recommendations to the commissioners concerning their needs.

Those on the council are: Rena Manning, chairman; Jean Darden, vice chairman; Mamie Smith, secretary; Catherine Condon; Polly Dail; Willie Mae Hawkins; Janet Manning; Ilmar Nobles; and Josephine Reeves.

Mrs. Sue May, Pitt County Extension home economics agent, and Miss Dorothy Bolton, director, Department of Social Services, serve as advisors.

Creamy Cabbage Carrott Slaw
Banana-Pineapple Compote

CREAMY CABBAGE

The fastest way we know to make this good old standby.

- 1½ cups milk
- 1 quart shredded green cabbage, slighly packed
- 1½ tablespoons butter or margarine, at room temperature
- 1½ tablespoons flour
- ½ teaspoon (or more) salt
- ⅛ teaspoon white pepper
- Paprika

In a medium saucpean heat the milk until bubbles appear around the edge; add the cabbage and simmer for 10 minutes. Blend the butter and flour; add to milk and cabbage and over moderate heat, stirring constantly, cook until thickened. Stir in salt and pepper. If thicker than you like, stir in a little milk; if thinner, simmer to reduce. Before serving, sprinkle with paprika. Makes 4 servings.

Engagement Announced

MISS NANCY JANE HOOKER . . . is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hooker Sr. of Aurora, who announce her engagement to Belvin Maynard Tucker Jr., son of Mrs. Beatrice Curry of Cleveland, Ohio, and the late Mr. Belvin Maynard Tucker Sr. The wedding will take place May 28.

Miss Atkins, Mr. Duffus Exchange Wedding Vows

NORFOLK, Va. — The Chapel in the Woods, Naval Air Station here was the scene of the 6:30 p.m. Saturday wedding ceremony of Miss Nancy Ellen Atkins and Kevin Paul Duffus.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Atkins of Norfolk, Va., are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Col. (Ret.) John David Duffus of Greenville, and the late Mrs. Nancy O'Keeffe Duffus.

The Rev. Reid W. Digges Jr. performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Sally Bowen, organist, and Ed O'Donnell, vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an ivory wedding gown accented with Belgian lace and inlaid pearls down the front of the dress. The skirt extended into a chapel train.

Her floor length veil was designed with Belgian lace and she carried a nosegay of ivory and peach colored roses with baby's breath.

The honor attendant was Sandra Lee Atkins of Norfolk, Va. She was dressed in a peach halter dress with a matching coverlet. Peach colored miniature carnations were worn in her hair and she carried a nosegay of ivory and peach colored roses with baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mary Jeanne Duffus and Sandy Stott, both of Greenville, Linda Wagner of Newport News, Va., and Jeannette Lee of Norfolk, Va. They were attired in apricot halter dress with matching coverlets. They wore apricot miniature carnations in their hair and carried nosegays of apricot and ivory carnations with baby's breath.

The flower girl was Lea Nielsen of Daytona Beach, Fla. She was dressed in a peach colored long dress and wore miniature peach carnations in her hair. She carried a basket of peach and ivory flower petals. The ring bearer was John David Duffus III of Greenville.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were John David Duffus Jr., Liles Stott, and Christopher Duffus, all of Greenville, and Walter Ronald Atkins of Norfolk, Va.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Captain's Room at the Naval Air Station Officer's Club, Norfolk, Va.

Miss Manning Receives Honor

Miss Jennie Manning of Bethel, recently retired as a social worker with the N. C. Division of Services for the Blind, was named "Pitt County Professional Woman of the Year" by the Pilot Club of Greenville at its March meeting.

Miss Manning received an engraved plaque, which was presented to her on behalf of the club by Lenore Morton, Projects Division coordinator.

Guest speaker for the evening was Betsy Warren, Title One reading coordinator for the Greenville City Schools. Ms. Warren explained the funding, the selection of students, some of the concepts and procedures and the purposes of the program. Pilot Club member Frances Johnson is a reading resource teacher in the city schools' reading program.

At the business meeting, members voted on their choices for the annual "Pilot of the Year" and first and second runners-up. Winners will be announced at the April meeting.

Recording Secretary Ouida Debter reported a gift to the Pilot Club Scholarship Fund in memory of Ann DeLeMater, former member and recipient of the "Pilot of the Year" award. Mrs. Debter also reported a donation to the Doris Hall Phelps Memorial Scholarship Fund at Pitt Technical Institute, honoring the mother of Lois Phelps, vice president of the Pilot Club sponsored Anchor Club of Rose High.

The Nominating Committee presented the following slate of new officers: Kay Whitehurst, president; Irene Prewett, first vice president; Mavis Brown, second vice president; Junaita McCarthy, corresponding secretary; Ouida Debter, recording secretary; Nancy Warren, treasurer; Louise Downing, Addie Jenkins and Margaret Nelson, directors.

A note from the Greenville Rescue Squad was read thanking the club for the donation of a Resusci-Anne to be used in teaching proper resusitation techniques.

Division coordinators reported on activities for the month.

Delegates named to represent Greenville at the state convention for District Six Pilot Clubs were Kay Whitehurst, Irene Prewett and Margaret Nelson. Alternates are Mavis Brown and Addie Jenkins.

Spoke of the Month for March was Gloria Butler, who was presented a gift from the club by Emily Johnston of the Outreach Division.

CHICKEN DINNER PINEAPPLE

Chicken — Rice
Green Beans — Salad
Cheese — Crackers

THE KROCHMALS' PINEAPPLE CHICKEN

This combination of chicken, pineapple and tomato crops up in French as well as Caribbean cooking.

- One 3 to 4 pound frying chicken, cut into serving pieces
- 2 tablespoons lime juice
- ½ cup flour
- 4 tablespoons (½ stick) margarine
- 1 cup tomato sauce
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- ¼ cup raisins
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 13-ounce can pineapple chunks, drained, or fresh pineapple
- 2 tablespoons rum

Sprinkle the chicken with the lime juice. Dust with the flour and brown in the margarine. Add the tomato sauce, brown sugar, raisins and onion. Cover and cook over low heat for 40 minutes, or until tender. Stir in the pineapple and rum. Heat thoroughly and serve. 6 servings. From "Caribbean Cooking" by Connie and Arnold Krochmal (Quadrangle).

Food Editor's Note: We used a 15¼-ounce can of pineapple chunks and added salt and pepper when we tested this recipe. — C.B.

On The Young Side

By JANET GANTT

The last week in March brought forth a flurry of excitement for students at J. H. Rose High School. Cast members for this years musical are approaching the end of their preparations for the play, "Fantastiks."

Director Melody Cannon and the cast are working diligently to perfect minute details for the April showing. Aiding in the advertising and promotion of "Fantastiks" are Mrs. Wende Allen and her research and independent study classes.

Other students were busy packing for one of three school-sponsored trips to be taken this week. Those interested in their English heritages will be traveling to London and the surrounding area. Tours were outlined that will allow them to visit several English landmarks during the trip. Sid Ashby, Jann Calhoun, Bobby Cole, Mike Dixon, Amy Gilbert, Diane Goodson, Lee Hardee, Beth Heath, and Carol Hill will be making the trip to England.

Also participating in the tours will be Vickie Howard, Denna Howell, David Huguelet, Beth Lancaster, Allen Norfolk, Lois Phelps, John Richards, Mark Smith, Llewelyn Tucker, and Gwen Tyson. Mrs. Eve Williamson and Mrs. Lou Hudson will accompany the group.

Some Rose High students who have been taking French will be able to practice their acquired language as they journey to France next week. Mrs. Bernadette Morris, a native of France and member of the Rose High foreign language department, will lead the group.

Departing for France this weekend will be Tim McMillan, Charlie Hayek, Lisa White, Debbie Girdharry, Candace Martin, Grady Roberson, Marie-Catherine Hannifer, Sally Roll, and Gina Whichard.

Wade Stokes, Yun Hong, Ann Trotta, Karen Gordon, Lee Moore, Libby Frye, Rick Capwell, Teresa Simonowich, and Jamie Johnson will also travel to France.

Mexico will also be another foreign destination for several Rose students. As an activity of the Spanish Club, the Mexican trip will enable people studying Spanish to practice their communication skills. Tour members are Cindy Browning, Mark Daughterey, Diane Davis, Lee Ann Huber, Margaret McGlohon, Lisa Murad, and Judy Little.

Ruth Berbert, Henry Wooten, Jane Welborn, Harriet Budacz, Dawn Hixson, Beth Mann, Tommy Chenier, and Dan Nelson are also going. Mrs. Betty Beacham, a Spanish teacher at Rose High, will direct the students in their travels.

Congratulations to Cindy Browning on being named the 1977 Community Ambassador. A Rose High junior, Cindy is president of the Spanish Club, a Keywanette, and is active in the Student Government Association.

Death Not Goodbye, But 'See You Later'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to submit a thought in response to your writer, HAVING DOUBTS, who felt that God was punishing her by "taking" both her parents on days that called for celebrations. (Her birthday and wedding anniversary.)

My brother-in-law died on his wife's birthday. At the funeral service, the minister suggested that we think of it as the husband's birthday, too; the birth of a new spiritual awakening of a loved one who was continuing his journey, and returning home to his Father's house.

He said, "Bodies wear out, but the soul lives on, and as we go through the cycle of birth, growth, death and rebirth, human 'life' continues. We miss the physical contact of those dear to us, yet who would hinder progress and perhaps more expansive experiences for them?"

It is possible that the spiritual environment that awaits each of us when our purpose here has been achieved surpasses anything that human senses could discern, including the most devout loving relationships.

Faith assures us of love's eternity. Not "Goodby"—just a gentle, "See you later."

RUTH

DEAR RUTH: Thank you for a beautiful letter. It brings to mind this eloquent poem by Judith Mattison:

LIFE

To Live
Is comprehending death;
To see the majesty of snow
Is to know
That it will disappear,
And love it.

DEAR ABBY: May I respond to the woman who signed herself HAVING DOUBTS?

On my birthday, God took my 4-year-old twin daughters. They were playing hide-and-go-seek with a little friend, and both of them "hid" in an abandoned ice box that had been stored in a neighbor's garage. We searched frantically for seven hours, but by the time we found them they had both suffocated.

On Christmas Eve, my beloved mother died.

On our 25th wedding anniversary, my husband and I received the news that our only remaining daughter had been killed in an automobile accident—on her honeymoon!

Somehow my husband and I continued to believe in the wisdom and goodness of the Lord. And we still do.

NEVER A DOUBT

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who gave up cigarettes because his doctor said he had to. Now this friend smokes a pipe! I think he's just kidding himself and told him so. He insists that he doesn't inhale when smoking his pipe, so it's perfectly harmless. Meanwhile he's got a pipe stuck in his face all the time, and he's busy lighting it every two minutes, creating huge clouds of smelly smoke.

IS a pipe harmless?

SKEPTICAL

DEAR SKEPTICAL: Only if you don't light it.

Marrons Have Varied Usage

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: My husband is very fond of chestnuts and so I'd like to try them in a few dishes. I've noticed that my supermarket has some cans of them from France and I'm wondering whether to start with these. — INTERESTED.

DEAR INTERESTED: Those ready-to-use chestnuts are in my markets, too. They come in various forms. Some are unsweetened, some sweetened; it's important to use them accordingly. Here's a rundown.

Whole cooked chestnuts in brine (marrons au naturel) may be used in stuffings for poultry and meat and in some salads and casseroles. They make a delicious partner for such creamed vegetables as brussels sprouts, onions and celery.

Then there's unsweetened chestnut puree (puree de marrons). This may be heated "as is" with butter or combined with other pureed vegetables or it may be used in a sauce or soup. It's also used in some desserts.

Now we come to the chestnut puree that is sweetened and flavored with vanilla (creme de marrons). It is lovely for a cake filling and in parfaits.

Fourth, there are jars of chestnut pieces in syrup (marrons au sirop). During the Bicentennial Year I attended a luncheon to mark the 200 years of friendship between France and the United States. For dessert Coupe Jefferson was served — so named because Thomas Jefferson loved French food and introduced it at Monticello. If you would enjoy duplicating Coupe Jefferson, top meringue shells (homemade or bought) with vanilla ice cream and the chesnut pieces in syrup.

New York's Chinatown Is Today Looking Help

EDITOR'S NOTE — Women in traditional black trousers and blouses carry wicker baskets of foodstuffs bought at the open air markets. Girls in pigtails hawk fruit. Tea houses abound. So do youth gangs — and they are threatening New York's Chinatown, which used to be one of the safest, if most overcrowded, places in the city.

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — They work long hours, live in crowded conditions, walk filthy streets, tolerate shop protection rackets and illegal gambling.

From the Mainland, Hong Kong and Taiwan, they came in search of a better life. They were close-knit, finding strength in each other. A strength that allowed them to discipline their own, within the family or within the community.

But after a century of passively enduring life on the Lower East Side, New York's Chinatown is reaching outside for help.

Without help, N.B. Lee, restaurateur and a past president of the influential Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association, says the area is in danger of becoming a commercial ghost town.

Without help, Frank D'Amico, born in Chinatown and now principal of Junior High School 65, warns that the community, a major tourist and market center in New York, could become a "yellow Harlem" of shuttered stores and mean streets.

Betty Lee Sung, Chinese historian and university professor, says, "Chinatown can no longer handle its own problems. People here are looking for an opportunity for escape. The only thing holding them back is language and fear of the outside."

San Francisco, which has the nation's largest Chinese community, has youth gangs, too. Police there say some 30 murders have been pinned to the gangs in the last seven or eight years — about four a year. In a recent upheaval of violence in New York's Chinatown, a 15-year-old immigrant became what police believe to be the third gangland victim in three weeks.

Although the fights are internal, they spill into the streets where tourists flock. As a result, more "for sale" signs are going up on Chinatown businesses in an area where just a year ago a burned out lot on the Bowery sold for $1 million.

The gang phenomenon is not new to Manhattan's teeming Lower East Side, where generations of immigrants made their first homes in America. Irish and Italian communities were plagued with similar criminal activity earlier this century on these same streets.

"But that history is of little consolation to us," says Prof. Sung, producing statistics that show nearly half of America's 550,000 Chinese have arrived in the past 15 years under more relaxed laws, making them the fourth largest racial group coming into the U.S. today.

Many of these immigrants are settling in New York, swelling the city's Chinese population to nearly 100,000 and bursting the boundaries of Chinatown well beyond its original eight blocks into Italian and Jewish neighborhoods.

Police and social scientists say the Chinese youth gangs erupted in the mid-1960s when the children from the big new migrant waves banded together for protection from other neighborhood youths.

"Tension was eased by the sudden popularity of Kung Fu movies and the belief of every other New York kid that all Chinese were masters of the martial arts," says Emile Bocian, assistant to the editor of the China Post. The gangs would have been easily contained, experts say, but for one thing — recruitment of the gangs by older criminal elements.

The teen-agers found themselves in the world of easy money as they helped to protect the estimated 40 illegal gambling dens said to flourish at any one time in Chinatown. The daily cash flow from these games is estimated at about $3 million.

They soon went a step beyond the gambling halls, muscling in on protection rackets aimed at Chinatown shopkeepers.

By 1975, five gangs with some 200 hardcore members and scores of hangers-on controlled the main streets of Chinatown, extorting monthly fees of upwards of $100 apiece from an estimated 300 businesses.

"There was no gratuitous violence against people, no macho stuff," says public school attendance officer Harry Woo. "And they never broke their primary rule, hitting outsiders. They preyed strictly on their own kind."

Chinatown probably could have lived with the gangs, according to Johnny Kai, a retired Chinese police officer who worked with the youths several years ago. But the gangs got too greedy.

Police arrested 135 gang members in 1976 "for everything from 'murder one' on down," says Capt. Lawrence Hill, 5th Police Precinct commander. But the reluctance of witnesses to testify and the ease with which juvenile offenders return to the streets have barely dented the gangs.

Today, the "Ghost Shadows" gang is king of the Chinatown turf, while the others nurse their wounds in Brooklyn and plot for the return to power.

Many of the parents of gang members are hardworking first generation immigrants, employed in the restaurants or the 60 garment factories in Chinatown.

"They work 18 hours a day to get ahead, while their kids roam the streets. We try to tell the parents 'don't spend all your time earning money. Look after your families,'" says restaurateur N.B. Lee.

But as the population expands, so does the recruiting base for the gangs, and says Lee, "We can't handle this locally anymore."

Police report that more businessmen are cooperating with extortion evidence. Federally funded social programs are being implemented. But the Ghost Shadows still strut Mott Street, sometimes poking their heads into Lee's restaurant.

"For over 100 years the poor people have built up Chinatown with their bare hands," Lee says. "Now it is all being ruined by a gang of kids."

St. Louis Is Revitalized

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Downtown St. Louis — once considered near death — is coming dramatically back to life with the biggest building boom in the city's history, says James E. Brown, president of Downtown St. Louis, Inc.

He said more than $170-million-worth of new redevelopment projects have been completed, or started, since 1975. New construction, renovation and public improvements are expected to total at least $112 million in 1977, he reported, and could equal the total for the past two years.

Brown said that since 1960, more than $800 million has been invested in capital improvement projects in the heart of the city.

"There's simply no doubt," he said, "that St. Louis is alive, well and getting better."

The city's downtown construction splurge of the past two years has been highlighted by a new $35-million convention center to be opened this June; a $30-million, 35-story office tower — the first building in the massive $150-million Mercantile Center; the $28-million Boatmen's Bank Tower; the 18-story, $20-million Sheraton-St. Louis Hotel next to the convention center; a $16-million renovation of the former Spanish Pavilion at the New York 1964-65 World's Fair, connecting it with a 22-story hotel tower built over it; and the world headquarters of General American Life Insurance Company designed by well-known architect Philip Johnson.

St. Louis is also making progress in restoring its river-front birthplace, where French fur traders Pierre Laclede and August Chouteau first landed in 1763. More than $7 million in public and private funds have already been committed to restore Laclede's landing, a nine-square-block area in the shadow of the Gateway Arch.

Downtown St. Louis businessmen are predicting that the new convention center will produce $28 million annually in increased retail sales and will add another $1 million in tax revenues generated by new business.

Taiwan Relieved That Sec. Kissinger Is Off Stage

EDITOR'S NOTE — Taiwan heaved a sigh of relief when Henry Kissinger left Washington. They feared he would secretly open diplomatic relations with Peking and close U.S. military bases and diplomatic channels with the island. Now there is growing confidence that President Carter will keep his promise that foreign policy will be based on morality and human rights.

By PHIL BROWN
Associated Press Writer

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Bamboo curtains many stories high symbolize Taiwan's confidence in its future despite threats from Mainland China and the prospect of losing its defense treaty with the United States.

The curtains mask dozens of sites where high-rise office and apartment buildings are adding to the modern appearance of this capital of Nationalist China.

"The people are putting their money into real estate instead of liquid assets," says a U.S. Embassy economist.

Since the government, favoring sophisticated industries, limits loans in the construction field, money for big buildings comes from the builders and advance payments from prospective tenants, says K.T. Li, a Nationalist cabinet minister.

The Communist government in Peking, which drove the Nationalists from China's mainland in 1949, repeatedly says it plans to "liberate" Taiwan. But living on an island 120 miles off the coast, the Taiwanese express little concern.

Tracing her finger in a circle to indicate a map of the island, a waitress commented, "We have troops all around here."

The Nationalists have an estimated half million troops on this island of 16 million people, and Quemoy and Matsu, small islands just off the Mainland. By comparison, the Mainland has some 2.5 million troops.

These people didn't mention Taiwan's defense treaty with the United States, which does not include Quemoy and Matsu in its promise of aid against aggression, but the press gives prominent treatment to any developments concerning the stated U.S. goal of normalizing relations with Peking.

As a condition for normalization, Peking demands that the United States end diplomatic relations with Taipei and scrap the defense treaty.

The Taiwanese do not relish the prospect of losing this diplomatic battle in their war with Peking and, according to Henry Mao, a political science professor, they breathed a sigh of relief with the departure of Henry Kissinger. There always was the fear, he said, of waking up one day to find Kissinger had made another secret visit to Peking and scrapped all U.S. relations with Taipei.

President Carter has promised open diplomacy and merits front page headlines whenever he says U.S. foreign policy will be based on morality and concern for human rights.

"He attaches importance to moral principles and human dignity, principles to which we also attach great importance," says Ding Mou-Shih, director general of the government information office. "With the new administration, we look forward not only to continuing relations, but also to strengthening relations and cooperation."

A commentary by Tu Heng-Chih in the major independent newspaper United Daily News, however, notes that Carter has done little to set aside the U.S.-Peking normalization policy.

Since Taiwan is affected by U.S. decisions, Tu wrote, the United States should consult with Taipei, just as it has promised to consult with Seoul and Tokyo over proposals to withdraw U.S. troops from South Korea.

Commentators on Taiwan also say that if the U.S. scraps its defense treaty with Taipei, it will force other non-communist governments in Asia to rethink their ties with Washington and go elsewhere to seek assurances of their security.

U.S. military strength on Taiwan has dropped to fewer than 2,000 noncombat troops, compared with about 2,900 in the fall of 1975 and nearly 10,000 five years ago when U.S. troops were here in a support role in the Vietnam war, U.S. officers say.

U.S. military sales here, involving American credits, ran about $80 million a year in the two fiscal years that ended in June 1976, a U.S. spokesman says. In the changed fiscal year, started Oct. 1, 1976, he says, such sales are projected at $35 million.

Meanwhile, American businesses have more than $476 million invested in Taiwan, according to the local American Chamber of Commerce in a recent statement on U.S.-China relations.

The statement said that at least for the next 50 years, Mainland China has only a limited potential as a market for U.S. products. Taiwan is America's 13th largest trading partner.

Durability In Popularity Field

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Tastes may change in other areas, but the types of flowers Americans like to grow has remained the same since 1946, says landscape horticulturist William C. Welch of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Welch said seed packet sales indicate that petunias, zinnias and marigolds are the three most popular varieties. However, their ranking within the top three has fluctuated during those 29 years.

'Hard' Water Adds To Cost

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — If water is hard, rather than soft, it may add 10 cents to the cost of every load of home wash, according to the Water Quality Association.

A study of laundering at the Washington County Hospital in Hagerstown, Md., revealed that when the hospital switched from hard to soft water, it reduced the cost of washing supplies by about half and linen replacement costs by 40 per cent. The association said that total savings were estimated at 1 cent for each pound of laundry processed.

Translated into home terms, this could mean 10 cents a load, the association reports.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, APRIL 4, 1977

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Clarify your relationships with important associates as there is doubt about a particular arrangement that concerns you and them. Look for ways to do special favors for others and thus enhance relationships.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Forget the excuses about why you can't keep promises. Get to them right away. Listen to what others have to say and understand them better. Avoid a known troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your social life is dragging. Look for new ways to spice up entertainment program for the future. Pay bills on time and improve credit.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show more consideration for those who live with you and improve harmony there. Considering a new venture could prove interesting and lucrative.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Give some serious thought about ways to add to present security. Find out what is keeping you from progressing and correct the situation. Show you've a good head on your shoulders.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study associates well and be sure to retain the most helpful and efficient. Be more careful than usual on the road.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Sit down with a financial expert and get your money affairs in better order. Add articles to your home that will make it more functional and comfortable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are not quite sure what to do regarding personal matters, but if you follow accepted methods, all works out fine. Keep out of trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't jump into any new undertaking. Take time to investigate and get right answers. Show more kindness to loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good friend needs your help now so be sure to give. If you get an invitation to a group affair, be sure to go along with their ideas or else forget it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek the advice of a professional about a civic matter bothering you lately. Use more care in dealing with money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are wasting precious time in your present system of performing routine chores. Set up a more efficient system. Some new association may not be as good as you think, so be careful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study obligations and be more exact in discharging them. Be careful of persons who are not your type and who could get you into trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will like to cooperate with others, but you must teach early to find out just what the other person has in mind before doing so, or your progeny could get into something unsavory without realizing it, or could be hooked into doing a good deal of work for nothing.

Consumer Pays For Bad Debts

CHICAGO (UPI) — The U.S. consumer is paying a hidden cost in his purchases that he hardly is aware of, according to the American Collectors Association.

The association says the average consumer pays an extra $50 a year because of price markups that business resorts to in order to make up for its losses through uncollectable debts.

The association estimates these losses at between $10 billion and $15 billion a year, which averages out to about $50 per person. "Good paying consumers are not aware of the magnitude of the bill they are paying for the debts of others," the association notes.

U.S. Could Find Not Enough Water To Go Around

EDITOR'S NOTE — Abundant water is something that most Americans have taken for granted. But then so was oil. While the United States won't run out of water, experts see serious problems ahead. Here's an informative report on the longer-range prospects.

By ROXINNE ERVASTI
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — This drought year, with its welter of contrasts, has fixed attention on America's most vital resource — water. And if the nation continues on its profligate way, the future will find us without enough to go around.

That's the view of experts who look ahead a decade or two, beyond the current vagaries of climate and the conflicts that may presage tougher struggles to come.

For the moment, what's happening is accented by the drought.

Montana and Idaho have threatened to sue the state of Washington if it seeds Pacific Ocean clouds and steals water from the winds that might have carried it inland.

In Southern California, golf courses in the desert sprinkle their lush greens, and some desert communities plan to sell excess water to less fortunate cities.

In Marin County, Calif., there is water rationing, and housewives use dishwater to flush their toilets. But 800 miles to the south, fountains throw plumes of water into the air in balmy Beverly Hills.

California farmers who normally get five to six cuttings of hay to feed their cattle will be lucky to get two this year, yet artesian wells bubble with water in the Rio Grande Valley.

In Colorado, in the shadow of the snow-poor Rockies, ranchers kill off their precious breeding stock because the water-poor land cannot sustain them. But in the eastern United States, an early spring after a snowy winter brings the prospect of flood.

Twelve hundred billion gallons of water a day course through America's rivers and streams. By 1970 the nation was drawing off a third of that to fill its bathtubs, water its crops, cool its machines.

That was up 20 per cent from 1965. By 2000, it is estimated that the nation will drain off three-fourths of the water flow.

By that time, one researcher estimates that only three of the 19 water regions in the United States — New England, the Ohio basin and the South Atlantic-Eastern Gulf area — will be able to live comfortably with its water supply.

There already are plans to pump water from the Snake River in Idaho and the Columbia River in eastern Washington to the thirsty Southwest. And engineers are casting covetous eyes on Alaskan and Canadian waters for the Midwest and Southwest.

The drought that grips the West this year is a graphic example of what can happen when the line between supply and demand is drawn thin.

"Our water problems are significant and substantial and they will continue to be," says Gary Cobb, acting director of the U.S. Water Resources Council, an arm of the executive branch of government.

"There won't be a crisis that will affect all the people of this country the way the energy crisis did, but we will have severe water problems in local areas, sometimes because of quantity, sometimes because of quality."

An enormous amount of waste is built into the American way of life. Why, for instance, does it require five to seven gallons of drinking quality water to flush a toilet?

Almost three-quarters of the 326,000 gallons of water a family of five uses in a year is used in the bathroom. Another 22 per cent is used for laundry and dishwashing. But like the big American-built cars that guzzle gas, household conveniences and the American home were not built with conservation in mind.

California passed a law last year that beginning in 1978 no new building may install toilets that use more than 3.5 gallons per flush.

Most showers and faucets spout water at the rate of up to 12 gallons a minute when a flow of three gallons a minute normally is sufficient.

Few state governments have gone so far as to legislate residential conservation, although that may be the only way to control water resources over the long haul.

Almost no area in the country is without trouble in its future, or its present.

The Pacific Northwest, which already supplies water for areas to the south, is prepared to fight to keep its supplies when a congressionally imposed moratorium on diversion planning expires next year.

"Eastern Oregon is a boom area now because of irrigation," says Jack Johnson of the Pacific Northwest Regional Basin Commission. "But there's evidence that ground water supplies are being depleted and they are looking at the Columbia River water for irrigation."

Boston is looking to divert water from the Connecticut River, before the river gets to Connecticut, to satisfy its needs projected for 1990. Connecticut doesn't want to give up rights to water it may need in the future.

Further, if too much water is withdrawn from the Connecticut, brackish water from the sea could intrude, threatening natural aquatic life in the river.

Water performs so many functions in modern life that it is no longer just the farmer's and resident's property. It produces power, for example. So when releasing water from Rocky Mountain reservoirs, the Bureau of Reclamation must make certain that it is done at a rate that will keep downstream generators running.

In drought situations, the agricultural and power requirements for water may come into conflict. A farmer may need the water before the dam engineer does.

In the long term, most experts say, the water resources of the nation will have to be better managed.

Russell Peterson, one-time chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality, says, "Our watery lifeline is a rather slender one.

"And it's worth pondering how much larger a population, and how much more industrialization, our water supply can support... It seems to me our underpricing of other resources for human life may place us in biological jeopardy, if we do not expand our economic concept of 'cost' to include earth costs."

At one time in the Rockies, reservoirs built to store water in the high country seemed to be the answer to periodic water shortages.

"About 75 per cent of our water occurs during two or three months of the year, during snow melt," says Duane Hilton of the Colorado Water Conservation Board. "So when that period is over, the rivers are pretty short of water, and there's a lot of competition for what water there is."

Reservoirs were built to stretch the water supply.

"But reservoir water costs," Hilton says. "The most economical projects are already built. The projects yet to be built will be less economical."

That's surface water. Underground water that can be pumped up for residential and agricultural use also is a limited resource. The water table is falling in northern California after two years of drought and increased use. Planners are looking ahead to the day when wells will be drilled so deep that the mineral content of the water will make it too salty to use.

Bill Alliwelt of Tri Valley Growers in San Francisco represents farmers and growers who live off of water. He says flatly, "We are overtaking the water supply.

"If we'd face up to reality, we'd find that water conservation in all uses — residential, industrial, agricultural and urban — is a reality we have to face up to in the long term as well as the short term."

Home Role For Former Church

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer

NORTH MADISON, Conn. (AP) — Kenneth S. Chase is leaving his church.

He's sorry to leave, but, as he says, "it never really made it as a church."

Indeed, for Chase the sturdy white frame structure that hugs Route 79 north of here was not a church at all — it was his home. And, since his firm has transferred Chase to Pittsburgh, he's sold the former Madison Methodist Church, which closed its doors nearly 100 years ago for want of Methodists.

There is a legend old-timers in southern Connecticut remember about this church: that on the morning construction began in 1816, the sky suddenly darkened and remained ominously black into the afternoon.

Perhaps it is not so surprising, then, that by 1837 there were only 18 Methodists remaining in Madison. Soon the dwindling congregation gave up.

Madison's Episcopalians took over the meeting hall, but they, too, failed. In 1897, the doors were closed.

Folks in the county tell Chase they remember coming to Saturday night dances in the church, but mostly the building was ignored until after World War II when a British couple bought it and renovated it as a home.

They divided the big hollow meeting hall in two: a grand main room with a soaring 25-foot ceiling and a big fieldstone fireplace and, in back, a smaller, more intimate section with a den, kitchen, bath and, up a narrow staircase, two small bedrooms.

When Chase saw a newspaper advertisement for the place nearly two years ago, he went to take a look. It was winter. A pot-bellied stove provided heat; there was no insulation.

He was charmed.

Chase bought the church and the British couple, John and Edna Iverson, went south to retire. He installed heat and insulation, polished the wooden floors, renovated the plumbing and wiring and settled in.

Today the exterior is indisputably that of a church, missing only the bell tower (which disappeared sometime between the Episcopalians and the Iversons), but the interior has been a warm bachelor's haven for Chase.

Chase believes the hex in the church's past waned with the passing years, for he was able to find buyers — a young couple — relatively quickly, and he says, "I've had a lot of good luck since I moved in. I've been promoted twice since I've lived here."

Checkups In Grimesland

The Pitt County Community Health Department is offering free glaucoma screening to persons 35 or older in the Grimesland Satellite Clinic tomorrow from 9:30 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 2:30 p. m.

The clinic is located on the corner of Washington and Rivers Streets.

This simple glaucoma test can lead to an appointment with a medical eye specialist for further evaluation and diagnosis of this second leading cause of blindness in adults, if need be. If detected and treated early, the progressive destruction of eyesight caused by glaucoma can be stopped. No appointment is necessary for a visit to the clinic.

Also, screening for glaucoma is offered every Wednesday from 8 a. m. to noon at the main Greenville Clinic located next to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

One may call the main Health Department, 752-4141, for other schedules of glaucoma screening clinics in Pitt County.

Finding Nowhere, Before The Town Disappears

By GREGORY JENSEN

NOWHERE, England (UPI) — Nowhere is disappearing fast. There are few to mourn its passing.

"It is a name that all the older inhabitants of this neighborhood would know, and all the younger ones wouldn't," said Maj. D.J.W. Sayer, the 70-year-old lord of the manor.

"I must confess I've never heard of it, and I've lived here 24 years," said Frank Woodhouse, a telephone official and enthusiast for local lore.

Yet by some fluke, Nowhere has its own entry in the official telephone index of British localities.

It is an entry as big as London or Liverpool, despite the fact that Nowhere is nothing much, and never was.

It is simply a narrow strip of land. The crumbled ruin of a brick cottage stands on it, with two wrecked cars mouldering in the only part of the cottage still standing. Broken bricks litter its overgrown field.

A gurgling stream called Nowhere Beck forms Nowhere's southern boundary. A drainage ditch cuts it off on two other sides from the rich Norfolk farm land all around.

"Nowhere is a name I have known all my life," said Sayer, the white-haired squire whose estates border Nowhere on the south.

"But I have no idea how it got the name. It just always had it. I suppose it was because it was a long way from anywhere."

Nowhere's days may be numbered, even as a name. All over England ancient names like it slowly are being obliterated from the countryside.

Political reorganizations eliminate many. The county of Rutland officially has disappeared. Shropshire is "Salop" now. Smaller localities are swallowed by mushrooming cities or engulfed by new political boundaries.

For 15 years a modernization program by the state-owned telephone system has been wiping out place names wholesale.

"It happens over and over," Woodhouse said in his Norwich office. "We have a great problem when it does. People don't like losing their separate identity."

Curiosity over Nowhere's telephone index entry touched off a search which moved swiftly into an almost mythical England, the old-fashioned rural world of Jane Austen's novels or Agatha Christie's Miss Marple books.

It soon involved an upright country squire of the old school, a village postmistress reluctant to reveal her name, localities like Great Witchingham and Melton Constable, two unknown stately homes, a lady novelist whose "Diary of a Country Housewife" graces the local newspaper.

Sayer, who grew up in the stately home just across Nowhere Beck, proved the most knowledgeable.

"Nowhere was always lived in when I was young," he said. "It was always almost a joke, because when a new child from the cottage went to school and was asked where he came from, he would say 'Nowhere' and he used to get into trouble."

Sayer guessed that Nowhere got its separate identity centuries ago, probably because it was an independent strip surrounded by big estates.

It still is independently owned. Sayer, whose family has been in this area of Norfolk for 500 years, owns the adjoining countryside, but Nowhere is the possesssion of an elderly lady living in one of the villages Sayer owns.

Nowhere itself, about 130 miles north-northeast of London, is no more than the ruined cottage and its field. A wide farm field separates it from the old Foldgate pub, thatched and whitewashed, now a private house. Two red brick cottages are nearby, and further on is an abandoned tannery now used as farm buildings.

There is nothing else.

The search for Nowhere may spell its end, even as a name.

Sayer mused that he might buy Nowhere and blend it into his estate. Woodhouse said "our enquiries seem to have set the cat among the pigeons," and Nowhere may be taken out of the next edition of the index.

When that happens, he said, Nowhere will be nowhere indeed.

CLIP, SNIP — Peter Rondon, 4, of San Diego, engages in a valiant effort to fight back tears during his first visit to the barber. Afterward, he looked at himself in the mirror, beamed at his grandmother who accompanied him on the trip, and said he never really was scared. (AP Wirephoto)

Corn Might Fool X-Ray

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you love corn — on the cob or off — and have no teeth, don't eat it before an X-ray examination of the colon, radiologists advise.

Why? Because undigested corn kernels pass into the colon and look like polyps on the X-ray study, say Drs. Harry C. Press and T. Wilkins Davis, radiologists at Howard University here.

In recent years they came across six patients in whom undigested corn kernels could be seen on the X-ray studies and confused with polyps. All had been referred because of rectal bleeding, all were at least 50 years old, had no teeth and all had eaten corn five to seven days before.

The radiologists point out that intact corn kernels have a thin outer coat of cellulose that cannot be digested in the human gastrointestinal tract. Normally, these coverings are broken up sufficiently during chewing to allow mixture with a chemical in the saliva (ptyalin), which breaks down the kernel and starts digestion. Toothless patients can't masticate the kernels, which are swallowed whole.

"The body was unable to break down the outer covering (in our patients), and the kernels appeared intact in the colon, simulating polyps," the radiologists say.

RANCH PLAN ACCOMMODATING, ACCESSIBLE

By Jerry Bishop

To achieve a free flow of space without chaotic cross-traffic requires careful design considerations, and this three bedroom ranch plan uses foyer, hallway, and well-located living areas to that end.

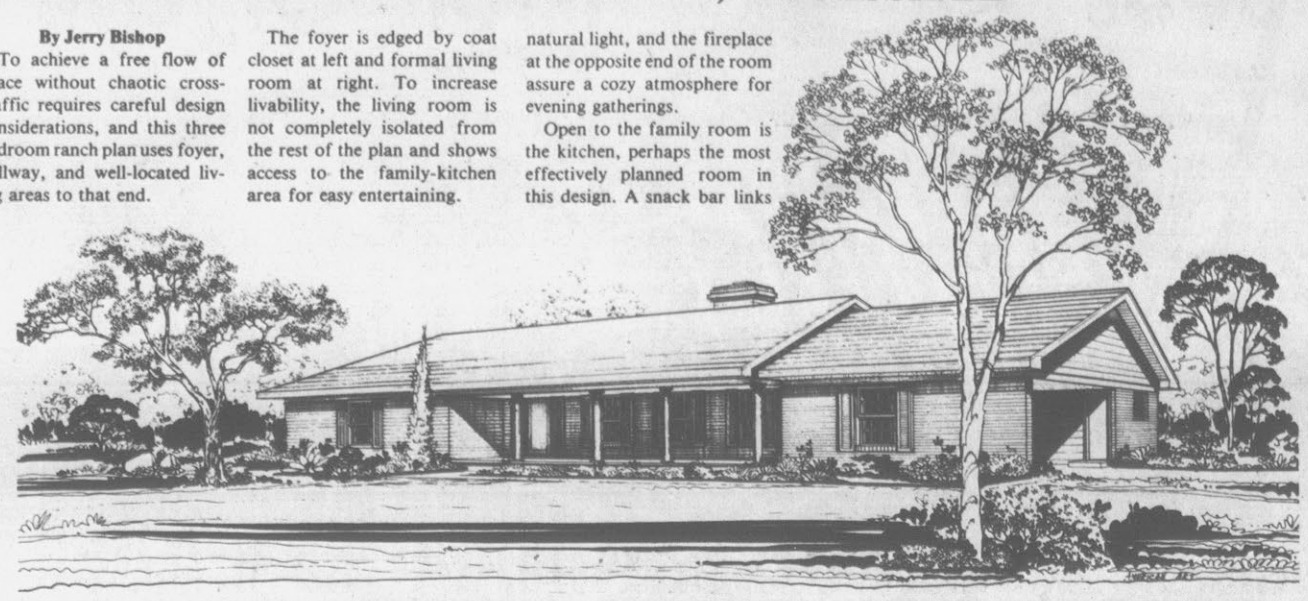
Open to the family room is the kitchen, perhaps the most effectively planned room in this design. A snack bar links



The Mardale maximizes efficiency to tuck three comfortable bedrooms, two baths, family room, and copious closet space into its moderate area of 1510 square feet. At the same time, it succeeds as a cost-cutting design and opts for carport and storage area instead of garage and basement.

On the exterior, the plan chooses low-maintenance materials and a traditional motif. Brick siding, shuttered windows and a columned porch merge with gable roof for an inviting effect. Inside, the no-nonsense floor plan shows little wasted space and an arrangement that caters to the comfort of family and guests.

WELL-PLACED KITCHEN FEATURES SNACK BAR

At the end of the entry hall is the spacious family room. Sliding glass doors join family room and patio and guarantee kitchen and family room, and a doorway leads directly to the carport for easy access to car and groceries. In addition, the kitchen is equally convenient to patio and living room. Bordering the kitchen is a large storage area that can be entered from rear yard or carport.

The design refuses to save space by shaving bedroom dimensions, and as a result, none of the three bedrooms

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Thoughts of a homeowner as a real estate broker shows prospective purchasers around the house:

"They look like a nice couple. Well dressed, too. Shouldn't be any question about price with them. There they go into the kitchen. They probably won't notice the faucet leaking. It's just a tiny drip. Wonder what he's whispering to her? Could he have said something to her about that wall plaque that says there's no place like home? The nerve of her...she's looking into the garbage container. What's that got to do with buying a house? Now she's opened the dishwasher. I suppose I should tell her it hasn't been working for months. I'd better not. Might spoil the deal. If they decide to buy, we'll get it fixed before they move in. That is, if we get our price.

"The living room seems to satisfy them. They're both nodding their heads as though they're impressed. They should be after what we paid for that furniture. Wonder why they're spending so much time looking at that painting? It's just a landscape. He's asking the agent about the taxes. Guess they don't own a house now or they wouldn't be so surprised at the answer. Good thing I remembered to put a throw rug on that worn part of the carpet. There they go whispering again. Hope they didn't notice that the ceiling needs a painting. I don't think so. Neither one seemed to look up.

"Not much reaction to the dining room. I told Joe it really isn't that small. They didn't even glance at that beautiful fruit bowl my mother brought back from Mexico. Why isn't the agent showing them the nice view from the window? I'd better not say anything. He warned me not to butt in. Not in those words. Said it was better to have only one person do the explaining. Maybe he's right, but I wish he'd explain a little more.

"They should like the bedrooms. Everything has been polished. Just finished making the beds when the bell rang. Didn't think anyone would come this early in the day. Guess he took the day off...or maybe he's on vacation...can't be he's out of work or they wouldn't be buying a house. That is, if they really are buying a house. Could be they're just looking. Some people are funny that way. Don't care how they take up your time. They're looking in the closets. Some job cleaning them out last weekend. She's giving a second look at that dress I bought for Alice's party. Bet she'd be surprised to find out I only paid $17 for it. Not as surprised as Joe, though. He sounded as though he didn't believe me.

"What's that? They think a lot of work has to be done on the outside of the house? What work? We had it painted a couple of years ago. Or was it three or four years?

"Now they want to know how much we'll come down on the price. He's telling them to make an offer and he'll discuss it with us. WHAT? Why, that's $5,000 less than we want. Ridiculous. We spent more than that on remodeling the kitchen and finishing the attic. Guess they're not as nice as I thought they were. Well, we're sure not going to come down that much. Better speak to Joe, though. He says we'd better do something soon or we'll have a problem with that other house we've signed up to buy. I'd better keep still or he'll remind me he wanted to sell this house first. Well, they're going. I hope it wasn't a waste of time."

Cars Use More Fiber Glass

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Detroit's 1977 cars are using fiber glass reinforced plastics (FRP) in over 150 different applications, reports a fiber glass industry executive.

"The uses range from front-end to rear-end panels and include instrument consoles, brake pistons, bobbins, valves, ducts and brackets," said Bert E. Elliott, vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Equipment and Transportation Reinforcements Division.

"One reason for the increased use is because a single FRP component may replace a metal structure composed of many units. Often a manufacturer can cut out several assembly steps when designing with fiber glass plastics," he added.

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — The Interstate Highway System of the United States will contain approximately 42,500 miles of expressways throughout the country when it is completed in 1980, according to the Rand McNally Road Atlas for 1977.

New Bath Unit 'Self-Installed'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Even if his venture were to stay at the prototype stage for a long time, Herbert Kohler Jr. has livened up the bathroom fixture scene with a design he calls Environment. It can be installed by a do-it-yourselfer.

It is a kind of enclosed hideaway where you can stretch out on a deck or cushion and be windblown, gently pelted with "tropical rain," suntanned, warmed in ambience or even steamed, jungle-style.

To trigger any of these nature-inspired palliatives, you choose your mood on a control panel that is outside where it measures 6 feet 10 inches by 3 feet 2 inches. The fascia panel requires another three feet.

The teak and cypress prototype shown recently in New York would sell for about $9,900 with options including AM-FM stereo, tape cassette, fiber glass fascia and 14 colors. The sliding door is acrylic and a lucite window is back-lighted. It will be available early in summer.

But budget shoppers need not despair of owning something similar, Kohler says.

"Future ones should be within the reach of incomes of many Americans. I believe we could make a small unit, six feet by two-and-a-half feet. We start at the top to express the concept so it will have the same integrity as our other products," explained Kohler, president of the 103-year-old Kohler Co. in Sheboygan, Wis., founded by his great-grandfather.

He doesn't see it as a modular unit although he believes architects should have free rein.

"When you start building a bathroom the imagination of architects can be boundless. It shouldn't be restricted," he maintains.

The concept for Environment began with him, and a large team of engineers and marketing people helped complete the idea. In fact, four years ago, his son David, now 10, made a big contribution. He had suggested his father take a whiff of air inside the Environment. He did. "The effect of steam on the wood that was first used didn't enhance the atmosphere. And the ultra violet light created a noxious odor from decaying and burning foam," he said. Cypress is now used and other changes were made.

"It is mainly standard components, off-the-shelf items with extensive life cycles. The control panel has breadbox circuitry so a new box can be slipped in when needed."

It will be delivered assembled or in multipiece configuration so it can be moved in doorways and around corners. A mechanically and electronically oriented do-it-yourselfer should have no difficulty installing it with a half-inch pipe connection, he said.

"I needed something like it myself," says Kohler, who attended Yale University where he was graduated with a B.S. in Industrial Administration.

He still doesn't own one, but architects are redesigning a portion of his home to accommodate one. Meanwhile, he has been using Environment models in the company laboratory and "after 20 minutes I can go home and act like a father," he said. Before that he would go home stiff, tense and ready to stretch out on the couch for 45 minutes.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — I intend to buy some sandpaper soon for a project I have coming up. The last time I looked at some in the hardware department of a lumberyard, I was completely confused by the numbers on them. Some had low numbers under 6 and some had very high numbers over 500. How do I get what kind I want?

A. — More and more manufacturers are getting around to grading sandpapers by such terms as coarse, medium, fine and very fine, but some are still using numbers. The trouble is that the numbering systems are not all alike. Your best bet is to tell the dealer what you intend to use the paper for and to follow his suggestions. After you have used sandpaper a few times, you'll soon be able to tell by sight which kind you need for specific jobs.

Q. — Can you give me your opinion of "long-life" electric bulbs? They cost more than regular bulbs and I wondered whether their longer life would make the extra price worth it?

A. — The so-called long-life bulbs will last longer, it is true, but they use more electricity and therefore should not be bought for the purpose of saving money. A long-life bulb should be considered if it is to be located in a place where it is very difficult to reach when a change has to be made.

Gardening Questions

Q. What is a naked pumpkin seed and where can I get them? (J. W., Greensboro)

A. Naked pumpkin seed have no seed coat or shell, thus they are easy to eat. The most common variety is named Lady Godiva, and it can be obtained from several seed companies. Naked or not, pumpkin seed are a good source of food. They contain about 40 per cent protein and 40 per cent fat. (Douglas Sanders, extension horticulturist)

Q. Our spirea hedge has grown much too large. Is it safe to prune it back now? (M.R., Whitakers)

A. Just as soon as the spirea completes flowering, cut it back severely. New growth will appear soon, and the hedge should be in fine shape by mid-summer. All spring-flowering shrubs should have their pruning done in the spring as they complete flowering. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. We feed our daffodils well after blooming each year. We allow the leaves to remain untouched until after they have died down completely. But, all we get is healthy leaves and no flowers. What could be wrong? (Mrs. W. R., Belmont)

A. It is possible that you have been overfeeding your daffodils, and they are now badly over crowded. If that is the case, dig them up, replace or build-up the soil and replant the largest bulbs. Smaller bulbs can be planted elsewhere to grow to flowering size. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. When is the best time of day to water a lawn? (S.B., Thomasville)

A. Either in the morning or early afternoon. This will allow the foliage to dry and thus reduce the potential for disease invasion. Insects also do best with good moisture but are not influenced as much by high humidity as diseases. (Carl Blake, extension agronomist)

Cryonics Developer Sees An 'Extension Of Life'

By WILLIAM SILBERG

DETROIT (UPI) — Robert Ettinger plans to outlive us all.

So do those for whom Ettinger outlined a seemingly limitless tomorrow more than a decade ago — like the 15 or so corpses who lie in the isolation of a capsule bathed in 320-degree below zero cold.

The key to their hoped-for future is cryonics — preservation of the dead by freezing.

Ettinger, 58, a physics professor from suburban Oak Park, first developed the cryonics concept in 1964. His book, "The Prospect of Immortality," brought him notoriety and sparked the formation of a number of Cryonics societies across the nation.

Those who have chosen to outrun death in their liquid nitrogen baths are awaiting a future technology advanced enough to thaw them out and cure whatever killed them.

Immortality? He would prefer the word not be used at all.

"Immortality means different things to different people. I wouldn't be so presumptuous to talk about millions of years. We're talking about the indefinite extension of life or the conquest of so-called natural death."

Is cryonics still so strange, even 13 years later in a world where space flight and fantastic medical technology are taken for granted?

"If you talk about immortality and reviving the dead, then it sounds radical," he said. "But if you consider it as an extension of the same thing medical technology has been trying to do for years, then it's no more radical than the iron lung or perhaps penicillin was at one time."

More than a decade after proposing the idea, his followers still are a small and select group. He said most are in their mid-30s, middle-class and have some sort of extended academic backgrounds.

Nearly 30 persons had their bodies frozen at one point. But relatives of about half now have opted for traditional burials. Yet to Ettinger, the movement is not on the wane.

"Our numbers have continued to grow, though slowly. There's been a reduction in the novelty of it. But the numbers of people in the organization began very small and remains very small, but increasing."

The freezing process has been improved but still can take up to several days. It begins shortly after death with the body gradually cooled in ice and the blood replaced with a special chemical solution.

Ice is used to cool the body further and a second solution replaces the first. The body temperature then is lowered slowly to minus 320 degrees Fahrenheit by use of liquid nitrogen vapor. Storage is in a capsule bathed in liquid nitrogen.

All equipment needed to complete the freezing process is available in a van owned and operated by Ettinger's cryonics group.

The mobile freezing unit has never been used, Ettinger said, but it has been on "stand-by" for several cases, including Ettinger's own wife.

Being preserved for some brighter tomorrow is no cheap undertaking.

Ettinger said the average bill for the process and indefinite storage period, as far as can be figured, is about $50,000. He hopes to cut the cost in half.

There are legal implications. One must be legally dead before freezing can begin. An assortment of documents must be signed well in advance.

There are several cryonics societies in the United States, profit as well as non-profit. Ettinger said his group, Cryonics Association, is the largest with about 200 members.

The only existing storage facilities are on the east and west coasts, Ettinger said. His society plans to build a new $30,000 cryotorium this summer on five acres of donated land in the northwest part of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

To answer for those who, 13 years later, continue to attack cryonics as outlandish, immoral, unnatural or just plain crazy, he says:

"We can't promise anybody that he can be revived and we can't promise anybody that if he is revived he'll like it. But we can guarantee that if you're not frozen you definitely will not survive."

Special Olympics Slated Wednesday

On Wednesday, April 6, the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department in conjunction with the Pitt County Association for Retarded Citizens, will hold the annual Special Olympics at Bunting Field, on the East Carolina University track.

Registration for the athletes will begin at 8:30 a.m., with opening ceremonies to begin at 9:30.

Over 275 handicapped athletes in Greenville and the county have for weeks been preparing for this annual local track and field gathering, which will include individual events like the 50-yard dash, the 220-yard dash, the 440-yard dash, softball throw, broad jump, and the running long jump.

The Special Olympics is open to all mentally handicapped citizens from eight years of age to adulthood. Competitions are divided into categories according to sex, age, and individual ability.

Persons who may have time to volunteer their services to help during the event are asked to contact Troy Robertson, or Alice Keene, both at 752-4137, extension 251. A meeting will be held at 4 p.m. at the E.C.U. track for volunteers. In the event of rain, the meeting will be held at the Elm St. Recreation Center.

LOAN APPLICANTS

CHICAGO (UPI) — One of every 16 applicants for a mortgage loan last year was an unmarried woman, the National Association of Realtors notes. The association says that it expects the ratio to be one in 10 by the end of this decade.

Open Friday Nights Til 9.

Looking Back, Carol Wonders

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carol Burnett says she wonders how her comedy-variety show ever got renewed in the beginning.

After looking at tapes of the early performances, she said, "I look back at some of those and say, 'How did we stay on?' All I did was cross my eyes and mug and talk loud. I realized about three years ago I didn't need all that silliness."

She must have done something right. "The Carol Burnett Show" will celebrate its 10th anniversary with a 90-minute review of past highlights at 9:30 p.m. EST Saturday on CBS.

"It's been a monumental project to put it all together because there's so much to choose from," she said.

"We wanted to get a cross section of the sketches and show how they've evolved through the years. And to show how brilliantly Vicki Lawrence has come along and to show what an insane genius Tim Conway is and how Harvey Korman just got better and better."

It is also an opportunity for a last look at the way things were. The show will undergo a landmark change next year. Korman is leaving for his own comedy series and Carol will star in the new season with Dick Van Dyke. As a warmup, she and Van Dyke will work at the Huntington Hartford Theater this spring in "Same Time Next Year."

Carol and her husband-producer, Joe Hamilton, originated the idea for the anniversary show, but all of the performers suggested their favorite comedy sketches and musical numbers. They also went through a summary of 10 years of fan mail to see which were the most popular.

"One of my favorite movie spoofs is 'Love Story,'" said Carol. "We will probably show the death scene. We'll have Tim doing his dentist sketch and show how the Southern family developed.

"It's going to show how we've changed physically. With Vicki and me, our hair fashions and our weight have fluctuated drastically."

Carol said that when the show came on in 1967 she thought it would run for only a year. "It was written off by the network," she said.

"You see I had it in my contract that I could do a variety show if I wanted and they had to put it on the air. So I called them and they weren't too thrilled. They wanted me to do a situation comedy because a woman had never starred in a comedy-variety show before. But I wanted to do variety because I didn't want to be the same person every week."

PRE-EASTER EVENT: This Palm Sunday NBC will begin "Jesus of Nazareth," a new six-hour biblical epic with an all-star cast. Italian filmmaker Franco Zeffirelli, who made "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Taming of the Shrew," directed the movie, filmed primarily in Morocco and Tunisia. It will be presented in two three-hour parts, with the first at 8 p.m. EST Sunday. The conclusion will be aired at the same time on Easter Sunday.

British actor Robert Powell portrays Christ and Olivia Hussey is the Virgin Mary. The cast includes such stars as Anne Bancroft, Ernest Borgnine, Laurence Olivier, James Mason, Peter Ustinov, Rod Steiger, Michael York — the list just goes on and on.

The screenplay is by Anthony Burgess, who also wrote "A Clockwork Orange." The film was not available for review.

NEW DETECTIVE SERIES: Scratch "Sonny and Cher" and write in "Nashville 99" at 9 p.m. EST Friday on CBS. This spring tryout series stars Claude Akins as a detective out to clean up crime in the country music capital. His partner is played by country music star Jerry Reed.

The show, like Akins' previous series, "Movin' On," was filmed entirely on location. The series, which will run for four weeks, was not available for review.

SHORT TAKES: "Police Woman," starring Angie Dickinson, takes over for "Quincy" for two weeks at 10 p.m. EST Friday on NBC, with Anne Francis as a member of the child abuse unit ... "Cold Pizza," a Canadian film for young people, tells of two enterprising Greek boys in Montreal who raise money to visit their father in Greece, on CBS at 1 p.m. EST Saturday. "Weekend" takes a look at the booming sales of original paintings, on NBC at 11:30 p.m. EST Saturday.

City School Lunch Menu

DOG VACCINATION CLINICS SCHEDULE

The Pitt County Community Health Department is again offering county wide dog vaccination clinics to the citizens of Pitt County as a convenience to them and in its effort to keep Pitt County free of rabies.

All dogs four (4) months old and over are to be vaccinated. Dogs receiving their first vaccination this year will need to be vaccinated again in 1978. For dogs that have been previously vaccinated, the vaccination is good for three (3) years.

The vaccine will be administered by licensed Doctors of Veterinary Medicine, using the latest advancement in vaccine development.

The General Statutes of North Carolina require that all dogs be vaccinated and that they display the vaccination tag at all times. This tag can also be used to identify your dog if lost or strayed. Please take your dog to the clinic nearest your home for this vaccination. Again this year, all of the clinics will be held in the evening as an additional convenience.

100,000 MILES OR 3 YEARS NEW CAR WARRANTY

For 100,000 miles or 3 years we guarantee the motor, transmission, and rear end of every new Toyota we sell. This warranty is in the form of a legal document and supplements the new car warranty of Toyota Motor Sales, USA. Commercial vehicles are excluded. Copy of warranty is on display in our showroom.

Corolla 2-Door Sedan "The Answer"

Celica Liftback GT

Half-ton Standard Bed

12 MONTHS OR 12,000 MILES USED CAR WARRANTY

This guarantee applies to cars selling for $1000.00 and up. On a 50-50 basis. All work must be done in our shop. This warranty does not apply to any sport cars, high performance or air cooled engines or 4 speed transmissions (except economy cars). Most good used cars (even if they look like new) are only guaranteed for a month. Or for a thousand miles. No more. And some are not guaranteed at all. But at Tarheel when we say a used car is in excellent condition, we're willing to stand behind it. We're willing to do something a little extra for it. So we guarantee its motor, its rear end and its transmission for twelve months or twelve thousand miles. If you're in the market for a better used car, come out to Tarheel and look at ours. We'll show you some as good as new. Guaranteed. Asterisk denotes warranted car.

Nelson-Wallace Inc Real Estate Since 1950

JACK WALLACE
PRESIDENT

From Bank Buildings To Back Houses!

If it's real estate — we've done it!

Since 1950 we have built, sold, appraised, and/or arranged financing for almost every conceivable kind of real estate in Eastern North Carolina.

The members of our staff have much more to qualify them as brokers than just a state license!

All are university graduates and have attended numerous real estate schools and seminars. Four are REALTORS — and two have served as President of the local Board of REALTORS for a total of six years! Two have G.R.I. designation and one is a Certified Real Estate Appraiser. One is a former Mayor of Grifton. One served eight years on the local planning board. Experience! Service? We've got it!

Each of our staff is a full-time real estate broker!

Each has immediate access to over fifty years experience!

Each is a PROFESSIONAL in real estate!

But — more importantly — each of us is almost fanatically dedicated to seeing that each client — buyer or seller — receives very best PROFESSIONAL real estate service available anywhere!

We firmly believe that you — the client — are entitled to this kind of professionalism in real estate, and that anything less is totally unacceptable.

Proudly Presents
These Fine Homes
$78,500 to $119,900

Mother, Dad, and Children, something for everyone can be found in this 2-story yellow colonial. You'll be the envy of the neighborhood and friends because this beautiful home would belong to you. No city taxes, utilities are low for this size home (low $70's). Screened porch for spring and summertime enjoyment. 4 large bedrooms, den with fireplace and exposed beams. Gameroom, sewing room, 2½ baths, formal living and dining, plenty of closets.

Large wooded lot nicely landscaped and a tree house for the children. The only reason this custom built home for the owners is available is because of a transfer out of the state. So why not make your dream come true and I'm sure it will once you've been inside. There's nothing left to be desired inside or out. Shown by appointment.

Enter the circular stairway and step into our large inviting foyer with such detail work as raised molding which can be found throughout. Leave our foyer and go into the large living room with its marble fireplace. The dining room is large enough to accommodate 12 comfortably. The study with its old brick fireplace and grass cloth and paneling make it so inviting to friends and family.

The owner has spent a lot of time redecorating and it's truly beautiful throughout. 2 sun porches, one enclosed and one is not, both have broken quarry tile. Basement area for workshop or game room. The grounds which encompass 2 acres is beautifully landscaped. You'll agree it is truly a home of dreams. Utilities are running low on this and we'll be glad to share them with you. Shown by appointment. Assumable loan.

Country Living
On several acres of relaxation and enjoyment. This custom built home has over 3300 sq. ft. of magnificently arranged floor space, 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, oversized living-family room with magnificent old brick fireplace.

Exposed beams, walnut paneling, large country kitchen with floating island and all appliances, study, game room, stables and riding area. Why not move the family out and spread out in this home and area only a few minutes drive away from the hustle and bustle of the city.

Whoever thought a barn could be beautiful? Close your eyes and imagine a brown 3-story barn with wine shutters setting in the middle of Tall Pines on a lot 275 x 150. Now let's go inside to the over 3500 sq. ft. of living enjoyment we'll find in this 5-bedroom home 2 full baths and 2½ baths and you'll find these done in ceramic. Gigantic family room with fireplace and exposed beams in ceiling. Recreation room, private study off master bedroom, dining room, living room, tremendous amount of closet space, his and her garages. Shown by appointment.

BROOK VALLEY
Sprawling 2-story ideally suited for the large executive family. All formal rooms, four bedrooms upstairs, 1 down, large den with fireplace, 3 baths.

Well equipped kitchen with double self-cleaning ovens, lots of storage space, double garage, screened porch, extra large lot. Many extras throughout. 78,500.

TV SHOWTIME

For The Week Of April 3-9, 1977

'The Big Event' Presents A Biblical Epic Sunday Night

IN 'JESUS OF NAZARETH'—A roster of internationally popular stars appear in "Jesus of Nazareth," which will be "The Big Event" presentation on NBC-TV Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday — April 3 and 10 (8-11 p.m. each night). Robert Powell (center) stars as Jesus Christ; Anne Bancroft (bottom) is Mary Magdalene and, clockwise, Rod Steiger is Pontius Pilate; Ernest Borgnine, The Centurion; Anthony Quinn, Caiaphas; Laurence Olivier, Nicodemus; Peter Ustinov, Herod the Great; James Farentino, Simon Peter; Ralph Richardson, Simeon.

Authorities on the Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, Moslem and Mormon faiths have highly commended "Jesus of Nazareth," the six-hour Biblical epic featuring an international cast which will be "The Big Event" presentation April 3 (Palm Sunday and the first day of Passover) and April 10 (Easter Sunday and the eighth day of Passover), 8 to 11 p.m. each night, on NBC-TV.

It has taken nearly three years to produce "Jesus of Nazareth," and pre-production began in June, 1974. Filming started September, 1975, and ended in May, 1976. The epic was filmed on location in Morocco and Tunisia, with additional filming in Rome. Final post-production work has just been completed.

Jesus Christ is portrayed by British actor Robert Powell, with Olivia Hussey as the Virgin Mary and Greek actor Yorgo Voyagis as Joseph. The internationally known cast includes Laurence Olivier, Anthony Quinn, Anne Bancroft, Ernest Borgnine, Claudia Cardinale, James Farentino, James Mason, Sir Ralph Richardson, James Earl Jones, Rod Steiger, Peter Ustinov, Michael York, Stacy Keach, Christopher Plummer and Valentina Cortese.

"What I really tried to achieve was an almost documentary accuracy," said director Franco Zeffirelli about the film.

The worlds of the Bible dictated all of his moves during the preparation of the production, he said. "The best and most convincing material is the Gospels themselves. We stuck very closely to the text, sometimes editing material in such a way that it would lead to certain percise interpretations.

"In many cases, we switched from the Gospel according to John to that of Luke or Matthew. John's Gospel, I feel, stands out. At some moments, his accounts are extraordinary, even from a purely dramatic point of view. Certain passages by John are perfect screenplays, down to the dialogue. Because of this, I would say that John's Gospel was the primary source for our production."

A big problem, Zeffirelli said, was making decisions on which material to omit from the story of Jesus. "I assure you it was an agonizing choice and a very difficult one. The Gospels provide enough material not only for a six-hour film but for one lasting 56 hours."

Brothers' Relationship Portrayed In Movie

"Something for Joey," the memorable and touching true-life story of the close and loving relationship between Heisman Trophy-winner John Cappelletti, now a star running back for the Los Angeles Rams, and Joey, his younger brother stricken with leukemia, will be dramatized in a major two-hour special, on Wednesday, April 6, 9 to 11 p.m. on CBS-TV.

John Cappellietti won the prestigious Heisman Trophy in 1973, awarded to the best college football player as selected by the nation's sports writers, while attending Penn State University. At the awards banquet, he astounded the audience with his poignant acceptance speech, during which he presented his coveted award to his chronically ill brother, Joey.

"They say I've shown courage on the football field. But for me, it's only in the fall. Joey lives with pain all the time. His courage is around the clock. I want him to have this trophy. It's more his than mine because he's been such an inspiration to me. If I could dedicate this trophy to him, if I could give him one day of happiness, it would all be worthwhile."

Marc Singer stars as football hero John Cappelletti, a Heisman Trophy winner, with Jeff Lynas as his younger brother, stricken with leukemia, in the true-life dramatic special, "Something for Joey," Wednesday, April 6 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Howard Stars In PBS Play

Ron Howard, familiar to audiences as Richie Cunningham on "Happy Days," stars in Sherwood Anderson's "I'm a Fool" on the premiere of "The American Short Story," Tuesday April 5 at 8 p.m. on PBS.

The six-part series dramatizes the short stories of nine American writers, and included along with the Anderson story is F. Scott Fitzgerald's "Bernice Bobs Her Hair," starring Shelley Duvall.

Ron Howard portrays Andy, a "swipe" doing manual work on the Ohio racetrack circuit in the early 1900s. In the story Andy exaggerates his position in life to impress a beautiful, young woman at the racetrack — and comes to regret having done so.

Afterschool Special Deals With Death

Coping with the death of someone you love is difficult at any age, but in "Very Good Friends," a presentation of "ABC Afterschool Specials," a 13-year-old girl is faced with the sudden and tragic death of her 11-year-old sister.

The program will air Wednesday April 6, from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Based on the novel, "Beat the Turtle Drum," by Constance Greene, Arthur Heinemann's teleplay is the story of the warm, loving relationship between 13-year-old Kate and 11-year-old Joss, and how that relationship is shattered when Joss meets with a fatal accident during one of the happiest weeks of her life.

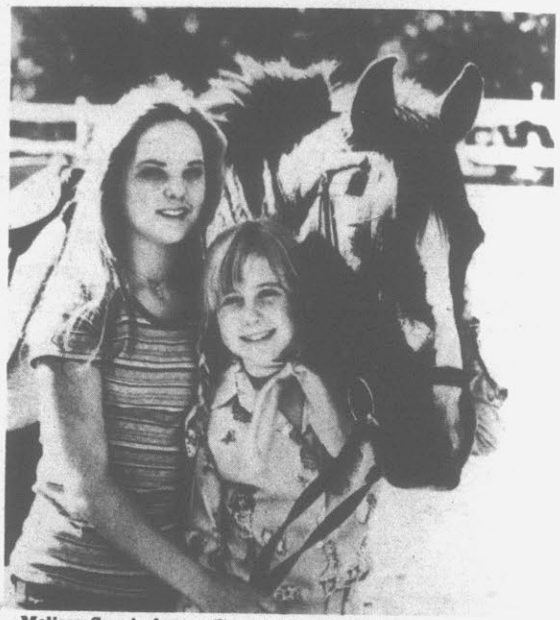
Melissa Sue Anderson, of the television series, "Little House on the Prairie," stars as Kate and Katy Kurtzman stars as her younger sister, Joss.

An avid horsewoman, Joss has just realized one of her lifelong dreams — to have a horse of her own — by using money she has received for her birthday to rent one for a week.

It is during that week that the accident occurs. However, the warm and tender family environment which Kate and Joss had shared, helps Kate to understand what has happend and to put it into perspective.

Others in the cast include Sparky Marcus, Pamela Nelson and William Bassett.

"Very Good Friends" culminates a two-year search for an appropriate property to handle the sensitive subject of death from a child's point of view," said Squire D. Rushnell, ABC's Vice President, Children's Programs. "This novel on which the script is based provides an extraordinary insight into the reactions of children when faced with the loss of someone they love."



Melissa Sue Anderson (l), as 13-year-old Kate, must learn to cope with the sensitive subject of death at an early age when her sister, 11-year-old Joss, played by Katy Kurtzman, meets with a sudden, fatal accident in "Very Good Friends," a poignant story to air Wednesday, April 6 (4:30-5:30 p.m.) on ABC-TV's "Afterschool Specials."

Studies Hounds

Hal Linden, star of ABC News' award-winning young people's magazine series, "Animals Animals Animals," explores the fantasy and fact-filled world of the hound in legend, mythology, history, art and literature, on the program airing Sunday, April 3, 11:30 to 11:55 a.m.

"Animals Animals Animals" also digs into the misty realm of the legendary unicorn, focusing on 12th century tapestries at The Cloisters in New York City. The tapestries depict a royal hunt for the unicorn involving a number of hounds. The unicorn, according to legend, purifies water for all living species by dipping its single horn into streams and natural fountains.

An animated feature depicting a dog's long search for a brave, loving friend — involving a hare, wolf, bear and finally man — comes to life in colorful animation. Viewers also will witness a training session conducted by Sgt. James Zarifis of the National Police Bloodhound Association.

Various breeds of hounds will be featured on the program, including the Saluki, Rhodesian ridgeback, Afghan, basset, bloodhound, greyhound, borzoi and Irish wolfhound.

Roger Caras, animal expert and naturalist, notes that hounds date back perhaps 10,000 years, during which time they have "helped man look for food" and Singer-actress Lynn Kellogg performs an original song about the hound. Roger and Lynn appear each week on the program.

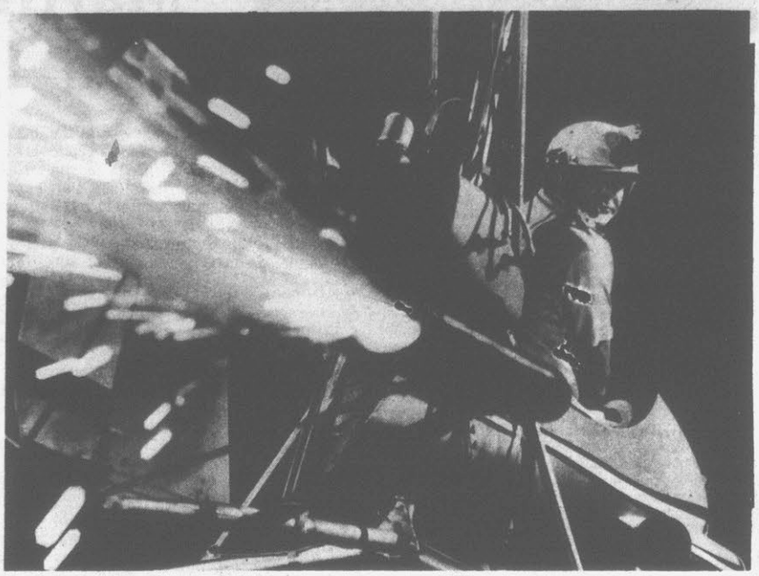
Bond Presents Another Thriller



A little jet-propulsion and a lot of 007 propel Sean Connery through "You Only Live Twice," the James Bond enthraller airing as the ABC Sunday Night Movie, April 3 (9-11:25 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

Russian and American space capsules that simply disappear, a volcano ready to blow with only a little encouragement, an undisciplined school of piranha fish and the arch-villain Blofeld all await Sean Connery when he stars as James Bond in "You Only Live Twice," to be rebroadcast as "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," April 3, 9 to 11 p.m. on ABC-TV.

In this, Bond's fifth fearless adventure, 007 is 'murdered' and buried at sea — or so they'd like people to believe — before he reappears in Tokyo, only to be captured, treated most unpleasantly, and left literally in the air in an airplane without a pilot.

Not so easily undone, Bond manages to land the plane himself and continue his search for the missing American space capsule. When a Russian capsule also vanishes, each side blames the other, and nuclear war seems only a button-push away.

Unwilling to accept universal annihilation as a solution, Bond tracks the missing vessels — and their astronaut passengers — to a volcano which is serving as temporary headquarters for SPECTRE, the international crime syndicate led by the diabolically devious domination. This plan is also unacceptable to Bond.

Out With A "Bang"

"Rich Man, Poor Man — Book II" went out with a flash recently, and Peter Strauss elected to have his character die in the climax.

"I feel as tho I've lost an old friend," said Strauss. "But in ending my involvement with the series, I've left the role with dignity. The story for Book III has Rudy Jordache placed on trial for the killing of Falconetti, found guilty, sent to prison and then after a few segments in prison, exonerated of the crime. He then was to become a CIA agent, a sort of Deep Throat. That's what I just couldn't take."

Meanwhile, the telephone lines to ABC-TV have been flooded with calls from irate viewers who are voicing their unhappiness over the series' abrupt ending.

Producer Grabs For Gusto

"It seemed like we were hopping after the rhino, the jeep was riding like a pogo-stick through the rugged jungle terrain," says producer Roy E. Disney. "As we follow the animal through a narrow opening of thorn bushes, we got the surprise of our lives — a herd of African elephants coming right for us. Thank goodness for reverse gear."

Disney has travelled around the world, from Alaska to Arabia, from Africa to Australia, to film shows for "The Wonderful World of Disney." Not only has he spanned the globe, he's also participated in some "gusto-grabbing" adventures while at it.

In his latest escapade, the producer took part in an exciting and dangerous rhinoceros chase while on location in the lush bamboo forests and mountains of Kenya for the filming of "The Track of the African Bongo." After more than five years in production, this fascinating two-part tale comes to "the Wonderful World of Disney," Sunday evenings, April 3 and 10 at 7 p.m. on NBC-TV.

"To get a better feel for what I was working with," continues Disney, "I participated in an actual chase. What may sound like an easy operation was anything but that.

"The animal was first tracked by helicopter and shot with a tranquilizer. Then we pursued the sleepy animal in a land-roving jeep in order to capture it. Finally, the rhino was 'translocated' to the Kenya National Park.

"Chasing the 6000-pound animal is only part of the process," explained Disney. "Once examined and transported, the rhino is administered an instantaneous antidote." The producer then went on to tell about the reviving of the rhino.

"All of us had our escape routes planned in advance because the animal comes around just like that," said Disney with a snap of his fingers. "When the time came to run, you didn't have to be told twice.

"As Alexander, a member of the party, was scrambling up the wall of the pen, he lost his footing. Before he knew it, the rhino came charging right at him.

"The rhino would raise his horn, and Alexander would barely climb out of the way. When the animal lowered his head for another charge, the man, in his anxiety to get over the wall, would lose his footing again. Up and down, up and down.

"Looking back, it seems like the funniest thing, but for a second we almost had an Alexander-ka-bob."

Likeness To Be Carved In Stone

During her many years as executive producer of NBC-TV's religious Programs Unit, Doris Ann has received many honors. But the latest, without question, is the most unusual.

Her likeness is to be carved in stone as a grotesque on the west facade of Washington Cathedral in the nation's capital. She will be depicted as an angel with a turret camera.

A grotesque differs from a gargoyle in that the latter spouts water. Grotesques carry rainwater away from the exterior of Washington Cathedral, the water pouring over their heads.

Both Doris Ann and Richard Cox, her Washington director, were honored at a special service in Washington Cathedral March 13 for "their long years of honorable service in presenting the cathedral's Christmas telecast." Cox, director of WRC-TV, the NBC station in Washington, also will be carved in stone as a grotesque. He will be portrayed as a crowing rooster.

The Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Dean of Washington Cathedral, who officiated at the special service spoke from his pulpit of the many years of originations from the cathedral of the network's religious TV programs. The first Christmas telecast from the cathedral was in 1950, the year before Doris Ann became producer of religious programming. She has been in charge of cathedral Christmas telecasts since them. Cox has directed the live program for 21 years.

Doris Ann has been cited over the years for exemplifying the creative talents of women who work in TV production.

Show Broke Records

Martin's 'Red Hot Scandals' To Be Presented Monday

A nostalgic look at the music and humor of the Twenties is the theme of "Dean Martin's Red Hot Scandals of 1926, Part Two," Monday, April 4, 10 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV.

Appearing with Dean on his second entertainment special of the season are Jonathan Winters. Dom DeLuise, Abe Vigoda, Hermione Baddeley, Georgia Engel, Charlene Ryan and the Golddiggers.

Musical numbers include "Collegiate" (Engel and the Golddiggers); "Chicago" and "Doing The Raccon" (the cast); "All I Do Is Dream of You," "Ain't We Got Fun" and "Now's the Time to Fall in Love" (Martin and the Golddiggers); "I Want to be Bad" (Engel and Ryan); "Three Little Queens of the Silver Screen" (Baddeley, Engel and Ryan); "I Can't Give You Anything But Love" and "The Best Things in Life are Free" (Martin); "Diga Diga Doo" (Ryan and the dancers); "Nagasaki" (DeLuise and Vigoda); "Jada" (Baddeley and Engel); and "California Here I Come" and "Happy Days Are Here Again" (the cast).

Subject of sketches are roommates (Dean, Dom, Georgia, Abe and Charlene); jingle commercials (Georgia and Charlene) Elliott Ness (Dean, Hermione, Abe and Georgia); silent movies.(Dean, Dom and Charlene); and knife-throwing (Dean and Dom).

Look of the Twenties—Joining host Dean Martin (r., foreground) in the music and merriment keyed to the 1920s are Abe Vigoda (l., foreground), Hermione Baddeley (r) and the Golddiggers, who will all appear in "Dean Martin's Red Hot Scandals of 1926 — Part II," Monday, April 4, (10-11 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Little Linus Has Great Faith

The image of Santa Claus emerged from the legends surrounding Saint Nicholas, a 4th century Asia Minor bishop later popularized by the Dutch. The American Thanksgiving turkey originated with the four wild turkeys served in the Plymouth Colony on the first Thanksgiving, in 1621. Then there was the Great Pumpkin, that elusive Halloween spector who arose from the imagination of a "Peanut" named Linus.

Now the philosophical little resident of that nameless everywhere, where Charles M. Schulz's Peanuts cartoon characters dwell, has come up with another hero, the title star of "It's the Easter Beagle, Charlie Brown," animated special to be rebroadcast Monday, April 4, 8 to 8:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

In analyzing Linus, Peanuts creator Schulz notes: "He's a pretty bright little kid. He's kind of naive now and then about some things. But, he's like all of us in that he needs something that he can cling to."

To Linus, celebrating Easter without an Easter Beagle, or Halloween without a Great Pumpkin, is like eating a cone without ice-cream, or sucking your thumb without a blanket.

Of course, cones and ice-cream and thumbs and blankets have long been accepted symbols of childhood. But Pumpkin and Beagle sit-ins are comparatively new.

"Linus is a youngster to whom everything must have significance and nothing is unimportant," says Schulz. "Christmas is a special day, and it has Santa Claus as one of its symbols. Easter is also a special time; and, according to Linus, it ought to have some sort of a Santa Claus, too. So between us, we came up with the Easter Beagle, just as we did with the Great Pumpkin."

Is there an Easter Beagle? Only Linus — and very possibly Snoopy — know for sure.

Mongoose Movie Rebroadcast

Looking back across the long downward slant of his work, it seems odd that, at his death in 1936, Rudyard Kipling, the great poet of English patriotism and writer of English tales, was heralded as "The Voice of the Empire."

In the 1890's, Kipling dazzled critics and children alike. Familiar quotations from his works are legion, often tripping off the tongue without realization by their users of their origin. Here are a few of them:

"East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet..."

"Without benefit of clergy."

"You're a better man that I am, Gunga Din"

"I've taken my fun where I've found it..."

13 More For "Name That Tune"

Ralph Edwards Productions has been notified by NBC-TV that its "Name That Tune" daytime version has been picked up by the network for an additional 13 weeks.

Edwards also has been notified by NBC that its nighttime version, "The $100,000 Name That Tune" has been given the 'go-ahead' for a fourth season through the summer of 1978.

Comedy-Drama Underway

Production has begun on "The Adventures of Freddie," a 90-minute comedy-drama and a program development project for NBC-TV.

Michael Burns plays the role of Freddie Griffith, a young scientist who invents a disk which can solve the world's energy problems, but ends up causing problems for him.

Gröh, Goulet Star In Series

David Groh and Robert Goulet co-star in "Prime Rib," the segment airing on "Police Story" Tuesday, April 5, 10 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV. They will portray narcotics officers in the exciting drama.

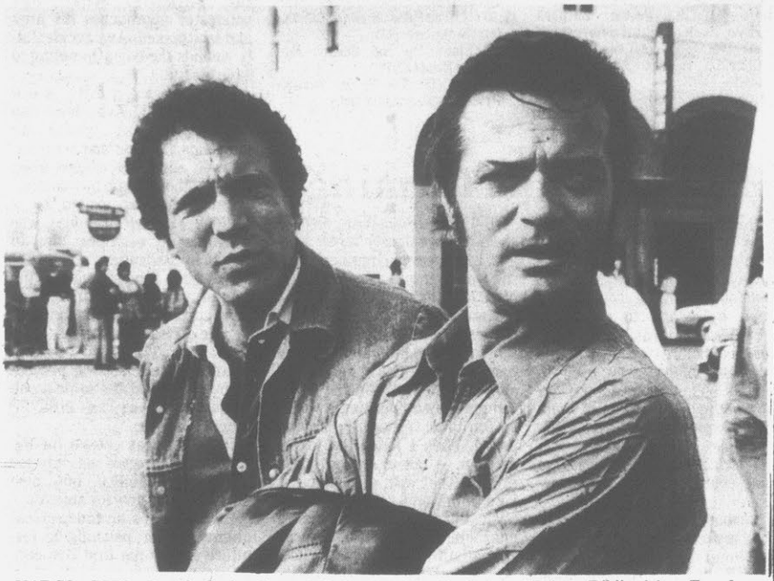
Groh, perhaps better known as Rhoda's husband because of his splendid performance in the "Rhoda" series, also had regular roles in a number of daytime series including "The Edge of Night" and "Love Is a Many Slendored Thing," and his film credits include "Change in the Wind," "Red Hot" and "The Ringer."

When not in front of the cameras, Groh pursues his favorite past time — deep sea fishing. He has fished off the coasts of New York, Jamaica and the Bahamas, and has been a winner of the Metropolitan Miami Fishing Tournament. A photographer, he most enjoys photographing children and — since he's a bachelor — beautiful women.

Robert Goulet was a total unknown to the American public until his role of Sir Lancelot in the Broadway hit musical "Camelot." Since then, this handsome, velvet-voiced singing sensation has gone on to become a well-known luminary in the recording field, television, supper clubs and motion pictures.

While a schoolboy in Edmonton, Canada, Bob started singing in choirs, at community social functions and made numerous appearances with the orchestra there in local shows. He even had a brief stint as a disco jockey on a station in his home town. Soon afterward, he was awarded a scholarship for singing to the Royal Conservatory of Music and moved to Toronto.

Bob's successes have included a country-wide concert tour, becoming one of the supper club's most outstanding personalities, as well as starring in TV series and motion pictures and hosting his own television specials.



NARCO COPS—David Groh (l) and Robert Goulet star as narcotics officers in the "Police Story" drama "Prime Rib" airing Tuesday, April 5 (10-11 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Hospital Corridors Are Familiar

On April 1, after 3,580 episodes spanning 14 years, ABC-TV's "General Hospital" began its 15th year in the world of a large metropolitan hospital, dramatically exploring the lives of its doctors, nurses and patients each weekday.

The years since "General Hospital" became the first daytime dramatic series to originate in Hollywood have thrown the show's characters into numerous delicate situations, ranging from medical malpractice suits to miscarriages to murder. The most popular and baffling event involved the slaying of Dr. Phil Brewer (Martin West), which was as puzzling to cast members as it was to the audience. There were five possible suspects, each with a strong motive to slay the doctor — but only the writers and the producer knew which one it was.

The identity of the murderer became ABC's most closely guarded secret, and scenes with each of the five suspects committing the murder were written and taped to further baffle the actors and maintain the mystery. As the story unfolded over a six-month period, Nurse Jessie Brewer (Emily McLaughlin) was arrested and tried for the crime, but found not guilty of her husband's murder. Later, Nurse Diana Taylor (Valerie Starrett) confessed to protect her husband, Dr. Peter Taylor (Craig Huebing). Finally the real killer, Augusta McLeo (Judith McConnell) was brought to justice.

During the past 14 years, "General Hospital" has dealt with leukemia, geriatrics, obesity, alcoholism, cancer and mental disorders. These and other serious illnesses have provided focal points in the continuing drama and allowed the show to remind the audience of the very real dangers involved and to help guide the viewers to seek competent medical advice when faced with a serious illness.

"Many famous personalities are among the 'General Hospital' fans," says series star John Beradino, "including Ladybird Johnson and Ida Lupino. Kay Gable (the widow of Clark Gable) rarely misses an episode and she once hosted a party for the entire cast."

As the show enters its 15th year stars John Beradino and Emily McLaughlin are still prominent as Dr. Steve Hardy and Nurse Jessie Brewer.

Stars Also Directors

Two NBC-TV stars, Raymond Burr (of "Kingston: Confidential") and Stuart Margolin (of "The Rockford Files") have directed episodes of their series. Burr directed "The Anonymous Hero," an upcoming segment, and Margolin directed the "Rockford" episode, "Dirty Money, Black Light."

Ponders Performing

Barbara Eden is an actress who believes in working. She also believes that you can't always be a winner.

"You can drive yourself insane by trying to pin down whether a role is absolutely right for you before you do it," the beautiful blonde who used to delight audiences by coming out of a bottle on "I Dream of Jeannie," explained recently. "You can also waste a lot of time pondering these decisions, time that could be better spent acting."

Barbara's method is to decide that a proffered role has merit and jump right in and do her best with it. "I could spend a lot of time at home thinking about game plans and deciding just where my career is going and how a role fits in with my career, but I don't.

"Take this character, Francine," she said, referring to her starring role in "Guess Who's Sleeping In My Bed?," airing as the "Tuesday Movie of the Week," April 5, at 11:30 p.m. on ABC-TV. "All I can say is that she's a marvelously kooky lady and I had fun playing her. How she would fit into a career game plan, I couldn't say."

Miss Eden, at first, was going to turn down the role. "I thought it involved too little action on my part and too much reacting," she explained. "Francine is the fall guy. Then I decided it would be fun to do, especially playing broad. Then I made the major decision — not to second guess myself. That way, you can clear your mind and get down to the basics of how to approach a character."

That still left a problem. How do you portray a girl who allows her ex-husband, played by Dean Jones, to move back into her house along with his new wife, their baby and their dog?

"As a victim, of course, Francine is a beautiful victim," Barbara explained. "She's goodhearted and lets people, especially her ex-husband, take advantage of her. It's a fun role and I think I've won one."

War Drama Is Late Movie

Christopher George stars as the hard-nosed commander of a bombardment group who masterminds a daring and dangerous assault behind enemy lines, in "The Thousand Plane Raid," World War II drama to be rebroadcast as "The CBS Late Night Movie, Wednesday, April 6, at 11:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Col. Brandon has been pushing his own plans for an enormous attack behind German lines. Although the foolhardy plan is frequently rejected by his superiors, the need for such an attack becomes pressing. Brandon is assigned a thousand bombers to destroy Germany's main essential airplane factory. For the first time since the idea for the mission developed, Brandon begins to suffer doubts. He is assigned to train a number of men who dislike him and distrust his abilities.

The mission gets under way and Brandon's own plane fails him. His men are now sure the commander is trying to escape the certain suicide of penetrating behind enemy lines.

Rawls Special To Air

Lou Rawls will be featured in his first special, tentatively set to air in late April on ABC-TV. Dick Clark has been signed to produce the show.

Wilderness Movie Presented

Dan Haggerty and Henry Brandon star in "When the North Wind Blows," an action adventure on "NBC Movie of the Week" Tuesday, April 5, 8 to 10 p.m., on NBC-TV.

After two rare Siberian tigers attack near the outskirts of a small Alaskan town in the 1900s, — a group of youths, accompanied by an old trapper, Ava (Haggerty) sets out to hunt the animals. When one youngster approaches his prey and is attacked, Ava accidentally wounds the boy attempting to save his life.

Threatened and misunderstood, Ava flees into the wilderness where he befriends a tigress and her cubs, later to adopt the whelps when their mother is slain by hunters.

Later, Ava is visited by a villager, Boris (Brandon) who attempts to convince him to return to civilization.

Haggerty is no stranger to the role of a 'wilderness man,' and he is currently starring in the title role of NBC-TV's series, "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams." The series was preceded by the film of the same name which aired as an NBC-TV movie last May.

Haggerty was chosen for the film and TV series not only for his acting ability but also because of his love for animals.

He started as an independent animal trainer, pawning his furniture to buy his first lion cub. He supervised animals for "Tarzan" productions, which him to Brazil for a year, and also for "When the North Wind Blows."

"Nature has been good to me," he said. "Animals put me where I am today. I love animals. Because of them, I've traveled all over the world (as an animal trainer)."

Haggerty also appeared in the "Tarzan" TV series. His film credits include "Snow Tigers," "Grasslands," "Wild Country," "Tender Warrior" and "Easy Rider."

WILDERNESS ADVENTURE—Dan Haggerty stars as an old mountain trapper who develops a strong friendship with a family of Siberian tigers in "When the North Wind Blows," an adventure drama set in the Alaskan territories of the early 1900s, to be colorcast as the NBC Movie of the Week, Tuesday, April 5 (8-10 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Travels Alone

Lynda Day George, starring as one of two American girls visiting England together, is told that she has been traveling alone and that the companion she insists is missing does not exist, in "Come Out, Come Out, Wherever You Are," the "Mystery of the Week" on ABC-TV Wednesday, April 6, 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Cathy Moore (Miss George) is unable to locate her cousin, Jane (Kathleen Mallory), who had checked into a country inn with her. The owners of the establishment, Alice and Arthur Lewis (Collette O'Neil and John Carson), maintain Cathy checked in alone, a claim substantiated by the register. The room Cathy claims was occupied by Jane proves to be empty and without luggage.

Detective Dexter (Peter Jeffrey), summoned by a frantic Cathy, finds facts to support her and when Jane's body is found, Arthur Lewis is incriminated. But Dexter discovers there is more than one version of the killing and a seemingly foolproof plot to inherit Jane's wealth.

'Easter Bunny Is Coming' Airs

Sunny, the Easter Bunny, (foreground) waves goodbye to his Kidville friends as he sets out to spread the word of the wondrous eggs laid only in his town in "The Easter Bunny is Comin' to Town," an animagic special program airing Wednesday, April 6 (8-9 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

"The Easter Bunny Is Comin' to Town," an all-new animagic holiday special, featuring the voice of Fred Astaire as the narrator, will air Wednesday, April 6, 8 to 9 p.m., on ABC-TV.

"The Easter Bunny Is Comin' to Town" is set in the town of Kidville on Big Rock Mountain, populated by children. A baby bunny, Sunny, decides to spread the word of the beautiful eggs laid by the singing Hendrews Sisters, who are three wacky hens.

However, the joyous journey is marred by a sad note when Sunny discovers the town of Town, where seven-year-old King Bruce lives as the only child (children were outlawed) under the domination of his aunt, Lilly Longtooth.

But with the help of his friends and much persistence, Sunny brings the holiday spirit and great happiness to the people of Town.

Interviews Warners

Barbara Walters' next prime time special features at home interviews with Elizabeth Taylor and her husband, John Warner, from their farm in Virginia; the Shah and Empress of Iran, along with the 16-year-old Crown Prince, in the palatial surroundings of the Royal Residence in Teheran, Iran: and from her Washington, D.C. apartment, Representative Barbara Jordan (D-Texas).

"The Barbara Walters Special" will be telecast on Wednesday, April 6, 10 to 11 p.m., on ABC-TV.

The interview with the Warners provides in-depth insights into the internationally famous movie actress' life as the wife of a country gentleman with political aspirations, and honest admissions about her highly publicized past.

During the open and candid conversation with Miss Walters, Miss Taylor discusses her former marriages, particularly the two to actor Richard Burton, and the security she now feels with John Warner.

The interview takes place on the 2,700-acre northern Virginia estate where the Warners were recently married.

The interview with the Shah, Empress and Crown Prince includes first-time television pictures of the Empress' private library, displaying an Andy Warhol painting of Mick Jagger, and the separate residence of the teen-aged Crown Prince, whom the Shah describes as "doing exactly what I was not doing at his age — enjoying much more liberty."

The Shah, one of the most powerful leaders in the Middle East, whose political views have been widely reported, reveals the most personal aspects of his life.

Football Outdistanced

Canadian actor Jeff Lynas, who is 11-years-old, journeyed to Hollywood for the title role in "Something for Joey," to be broadcast Wednesday, April 6, 9 to 11 p.m. on CBS-TV. It is the story of football player John Cappelletti and the close relationship he had with his brother, Joey, stricken with leukemia.

For 11-year-olds growing up in Canada, football (as it is played in this country) is outdistanced by the more popular sports, there, of hockey. So, first, Jeff had to learn about football, U.S.A. style. Then, the script called for Joey to play Little-League baseball. And, "That isn't cricket," Jeff points out.

Fortunately for young Jeff Lynas' orientation, "Something for Joey" was filmed during the football season and he was able to assimilate the talking points of football by watching the games on television and discussing them later with Marc Singer, who portrays his older brother, John. Conversely, Jeff made a hockey fan out of Singer.

Jeff, who is in the sixth grade, has an extraordinary memory, according to his mother, one which serves him well as an actor. He was only six, when he starred in his first feature film, "Lies My Father Told Me." Too young to be able to study his script, he had to remember his lines, which were read to him each morning by the director.

Prior to "Something for Joey," Jeff's amibition was to become a cinematographer. Now, he's not so sure. Football looks like a lot of fun, he thinks.

Ernest Borgnine (r) as Cleaver, and John Amos (l) as Bundy, are veteran cops and partners, who are joined by a third partner, Officer Haven, (Michael Shannon), who looks like any other rookies, but is actually a computerized android, in the comedy-drama series "Future Cop," which will be telecast Thursday, April 7 (8-9 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

'Future Cop' Airs

Oscar-winner Ernest Borgnine and John Amos star as a pair of tough street cops, now teamed with a third man, to all appearances a young, by-the-book rookie, played by Michael Shannon. This rookie, in reality, is a carefully programmed biosynthetic android prototype — to "cop of the future." While veteran patrolmen Cleaver (Borgnine) and Bundy (Amos) pull from their past experiences and hunches, rookie Haven possesses a vast amount of know-how and almost unbelievable reasoning ability to work wonders under fire. They all 'come together' in ABC-TV's new series, "Future Cop," seen Thursdays from 8 to 9 p.m.

Borgnine, a real-life U.S. Navy veteran, was last seen in government service as Lt. Cmdr. McHale in the long-running comedy series, "McHale's Navy."

One of Ernie's first experiences in the world of drama was at the famous Barter Theatre in Abingdon, Va. When he told Bob Porterfield that he wanted to act, Porterfield promptly put him to work scrubbing flats, painting scenery, handling lights and manning the box office. He also played everything from bits to leads and was with the theatre group from 1946 to 1950.

From Virginia he headed for New York for a brief stint in radio and on Broadway, then on to Europe to play in "Hamlet" at Elsinore in Denmark.

Back in the U.S., he played a variety of TV roles and won an Academy Award as the gentle, lonely Bronx butcher in "Marty."

Amos comes to 'Future Cop' fresh from his powerful portrayal of Kunta Kinte in "Roots," a far cry from his original ambition he had as a youth — to become a professional football player. So serious was he about football that he tried out for 13 pro teams following college, but was ultimately cut from every squad.

Failure's not his 'bag,' however, and he then turned to acting.

"Stedman" Ready

Filming has been completed on "Stedman," a 90-minute program development project about a former Olympic downhill racer who becomes sheriff of a resort town.

The drama stars Dale Robinette as Bill Stedman and Taylor Lacher as his senior deputy, Archie Stykes. The two investigate the shooting of a skier who was training for the Olympics. Diana Muldaur and Robert Lansing guest-star.

HOLLYWOOD — Look for daytime matinee idol David Hasselhoff, he's Snapper on "The Young and the Restless," to leave that show for a time to star in a major motion picture. Ever since producers discovered David, thanks to his singing appearance on Merv Griffin's show, the tall and handsome actor has been beseiged with TV and film offers. However, he insists he won't leave the soap, saying the serial is too important to his career.

Susan Dey stars in the CBS mini-series, "Loves Me, Loves Me Not," but is actually more involved in a movie role in a film called, "First Love." Susan stars with William Katt, a highly successful stage actor, and a considerable amount of their time together in the movie is spent in love scenes. Needless to say, it's a far departure from Susan's first TV role in "The Partridge Family."

Barbara Parkins has moved back to Hollywood to stay after a six-year residency in England. Though a decade has passed since her "Peyton Place" days, Barbara is just as pretty as ever. The biggest difference in her, she insists, is that now her career isn't all consuming. She'd be very happy married and the mother of children living in New England, but she'll continue with her career until Mr. Right comes along to help her make her wish come true.

Another note on another "Young and the Restless" performer, Tom Hallick. Tom's starred in a pilot for NBC with Dan Rowan of "Laugh-In" fame and as much as he'd like to do both, if the pilot sells he'll have no choice but to leave his Brad Eliot role on the soap.

Madge West, the personal mother-in-law of McLean Stevenson on his short-lived series, is returning to her New York home after a nine-month stay in Hollywood. Though in her seventh decade of life, Madge is constantly active and will return to doing commercials and traveling now that the series has been axed.

Has New Concept

Outstanding performers from all facets of the show-business world, as selected by the public in a nationwide survey, will display their winning talents in a glittering two-hour entertainment special, "People's Command Performance: 1977," to be rebroadcast Thursday, April 7, 9 to 11 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Academy Award-winner George Burns and Bernadette Peters, star of "All's Fair, will host the gala presentation.

"People's Command Performance: 1977" is the implementation of a new concept. Viewers were given the opportunity to actually select both the personalities and material they would like to see on a television program. The results were obtained in a nationwide survey conducted by Chilton Research Service, an independent research firm.

On the broadcast, a roster of stars will demonstrate their particular performing gifts in song, dance, and comedy, as well as production numbers from hit Broadway shows.

In discussing the concept for the special, executive producer Bob Stivers said: "The stars appearing on the show are the ones chosen by the viewers. We will go anywhere necessary to fulfill these requests whether it be Las Vegas, Nashville or Europe."

Peter Cottontail's Back

"Here Comes Peter Cottontail," a lighthearted animated special told and sung by Danny Kaye, and featuring the character Mr. Sassafrass (in basket) and his time machine, will be rebroadcast Friday, April 8 (8-9 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

"Here Comes Peter Cottontail," a lighthearted animated special, told and sung by Danny Kaye, will be rebroadcast Friday, April 8, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Based on the book "The Easter Bunny That Overslept" by Priscilla and Otto Friedrich, the story relates how Peter fails to deliver more Easter eggs than the evil Irontail, but is saved from disgrace by Mr. Sassafrass and his time machine. With the aid of this invention, Peter attempts to go back a day in time to make amends, and manages to land in every important holiday except Easter before he sets things right again.

Kaye, a longtime Pied Piper through his worldwide contact with children as UNICEF's ambassador of goodwill, feels that the best avenue to a child's mind is through the funnybone.

"Kids will laugh at anyone willing to act like a child," says Kaye, "and I am a good child."

Danny has always used his extraordinary talents for mime and singing as well as comedy and rapid-fire diction to apply humor to serious, fund-raising events.

He once whipped out a fly swatter as guest conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic in raising $105,000 for its pension fund. He was described by one critic as "one who conducts the audience and the orchestra with equal bravura."

Kaye and his wife, Sylvia Fine, grew up on the same block in the East New York section of Brooklyn; he the son of a garment worker, she the daughter of a dentist. Oddly, although they lived on the same block, the pair never met. The two crossed paths in 1939, when Danny, a budding comedian, and Sylvia, an unknown songwriter, worked together in an off-Broadway show.

The show was a turkey, but it unwittingly fostered a new success: Mr. and Mrs. Kaye. Married in 1940, theirs is one of the most lasting and remarkable marriages in the annals of show business.

'Let's Switch' Is Comic Movie

Start with an attractive, bubbly and bored housewife-mother — throw her together with her best friend, a hip, funky and fed-up magazine editor — slowly a plot souffles into the delightful premise of the hilarious comedy, "Let's Switch," the "CBS Late Movie" airing Friday, April 8, at 11:30 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Starring two of the most accomplished comedic talents in the business — Barbara Eden and Barbara Feldon — "Let's Switch" details some of the hilarious things that happen when two women of totally different views, values and tastes exchange roles and families for one incredible week.

Women will identify with the two females. What housewife hasn't spent some time dreaming of what it would be like to be a woman in business? Which one wouldn't gladly trade places to get out of the house, away from the kids, cleaning, cooking, paying bills, etc.? And, on the other hand, are there any career women who, swamped with work, hassled by employers, beseiged by deadlines, wouldn't be thrilled to get away from it all by staying home for awhile? Each may find problems in the new roles, but at least the problems would be different ones.

Occasionally during the year, the two girls meet and discuss their lives; naturally, the grass looks greener...Even though Lefcourt's sister is happily married, she admits that she now and then wonders what it would feel like to be single. And his sister-in-law, with all her freedom, independence and houses, spends a great deal of her life frantically looking for the right guy to marry.

It has become a standing joke at family gatherings, each girl coveting the other's life. Though they've never actually switched roles, Lefcourt thought the idea would be great for a movie.

'Bang The Drum Slowly' Presented

"Bang the Drum Slowly," the "Brian's Song" of baseball, airs on Friday, April 8, at 9 p.m. on ABC-TV. This tender but unsentimentalized story of a backwoods catcher in the Major Leagues who discovers he has a blood disease, stars Michael Moriarty, Robert De Niro, Vincent Gardenia, Phil Foster and Ann Wedgeworth. Perhaps the most touching aspect of the film is the efforts of his teammates to help him through the rest of the season.

There probably isn't a harder commandment to follow in the annals of morality than to give a helping hand. Which is likely to be why so few people write about friendship and caring for others.

But the commandment remains. And so does its importance, and both of these qualities shine brightly at the center of "Bang the Drum Slowly," a movie that honestly, without sentiment and with a good deal of perception presents the efforts one man makes on behalf of another when he learns that the other is dying. It is not about the approach and preparation for death as much as it is about the maintenance of life, the one last attempt to present a little dignity and a little humanity to the world on the way out.

The result of the combination of a superb story, excellent casting and outstand directing is truly uplifting and moving.

Reed Is Versatile

Singer, musician and songwriter Jerry Reed, one of country music's most versatile and respected artists, has recently displayed a real flair for yet another art — acting.

After appearing in three motion pictures ("W.W. and the Dixie Dance Kings," "Gator" and "Smokey and the Bandit") Reed now co-stars as a Nashville police detective in the action drama series, "Nashville 99," starring Claude Akins, telecast Fridays, 9 to 10 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Reed, who has made music his life since he was 16, finds acting in front of a camera different from his work as a studio recording artist.

"I've always been able to perform on cue," he says, "but I just never had to worry about how I looked doing it."

Atlanta-born and reared, Reed has made Nashville his home for 15 years, and claims that he, his wife and two daughters wouldn't live anywhere else.

In light of his accomplishments, Reed may be uniquely qualified to explain the great attraction of "The Nashville Sound."

Bugs Has Special

Bugs Bunny, with the aid of such other famous cartoon characters as Daffy Duck, Sylvester The Cat, Pepe Le Pew, Foghorn Leghorn and Yosemite Sam, tries to help a desperate Granny find a substitute for the Easter Bunny, who is bedridden with a cold, on "The Bugs Bunny Easter Special," one-hour animated special to be broadcast Thursday, April 7, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Tied up with production as he stars in Hollywood movies, Bugs is unable to be the Easter Bunny, as Granny had hoped. Sympathetic, the rabbit auditions other famed animated stars for the role in attempts to help the distressed Granny, who fears the Easter eggs will not be delivered this year.

The emotional Daffy Duck, who continuously has tried to out-con Bugs Bunny, makes numerous unsuccessful attempts to win the role of the Easter Bunny, but doesn't win Granny's approval. The high-strung duck's competition gets pretty stiff when Bugs auditions a host of other brush-and-ink stars, exhibited through segments from 10 classic cartoons seen in the special, courtesy of Warner Bros. Cartoons.

Production Scheduled On Sinatra Film

Production of "Contract on Cherry Street," an NBC World Premiere movie starring Frank Sinatra, will begin in June in New York City; the drama will be colorcast this fall.

Sinatra will portray a veteran New York City detective whose squad is assigned to track down a hijacking ring.

Veteran TV and film director William A. Graham has been signed to direct, and two-time Oscar winner Edward Anhalt is writing the screenplay based on the Philip Rosenberg novel.

This is Sinatra's first TV film.

Billy Martin, manager of the New York Yankees will be at the helm as the Yankees take on the Milwaukee Brewers on Saturday, April 9 at 1:15 p.m. on NBC-TV.

Yankees To Meet The Brewers

On Saturday, April 9, the New York Yankees meet the Milwaukee Brewers in the first of a doubleheader, televised by NBC-TV, beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Yankees' manager Billy Martin thought from the start of last season that he and his team would be right in the thick of the American league pennant race. "We excited a lot of people last year, by becoming the American League Champions, and this year we hope to continue to excite baseball fans everywhere, by going one step further and taking it all.

"The experience of winning the pennant, and World Series competition, has got to go a long way in making our club stronger," he said.

Offensively, the addition of Reggie Jackson, and on the pitching staff the addition of Don Gullett, are two tremendous plusses to the club.

"I feel that our club is basically set except for one position," Martin continued. "One question I will have to decide in spring training is how many pitchers we will carry, but regardless, our pitching will be stronger than we ever had before. It will be a pleasant problem deciding between five starters like; Catfish Hunter, Ed Figueroa, Don Gullett, Ken Holtzman and Dock Ellis."

He also feels that the team will have strong hitting from the left side, with speed. "Our defense will be improved due to the experience of winning the pennant and competing in the World Series."

Some mistakes were made last year, because of execution, he says, and Martin feels strongly that these will be cut down by working hard this spring training.

"I am putting a lot of emphasis, during the training camp, on bunting, hit and run, and on defense, hitting the relay man. Because this, I feel, is the winning way. This year will probably be toughter than any year I've ever managed. To repeat as a winner we must push harder."

Winning again is not easy, the team's manager states emphatically. "We were the champs last year and you have to figure everyone will be gunning for us. The other teams in our division all got stronger, so it will be up to us to work twice as hard to repeat, and you can believe me we will work hard," Martin concluded.

NBC Signs Betty Ford

NBC News has now signed Betty Ford to an exclusive agreement which calls for the ex-President's wife to host two special news shows over the next two years. These specials may include such subjects as dance, child care and cancer research.

In addition, she will make several appearances on the "Today" show.

TO R. WALDRON, BURGAW, N.C.: Your memory's excellent. Laraine Stephens (Mrs. Charles Estep in "Rich Man, Poor Man — Book II,") did play the part of Diane Waring in "Bracken's World" (1969-1971).

TO J. ROWLAND, DANVILLE, VA.: Gene Kelly starred in the TV series "Going My Way," which aired in 1962. He was cast as Father Charles O'Mally.

TO E.M.B., MYRTLE BEACH, S.C.: NBC-TV never gave a specific reason for pulling the series "Snip" — patterned after the movie "Shampoo" — from their fall schedule.

TO D. PARHAM, E. LAURINBURG, N.C.: Ellen Corby (Gradma Walton) suffered a severe stroke a few months ago, and the latest medical reports are that she is steadily improving. However, there's no definite word yet about whether or not she will return to the series. Here's hoping she will.

TO R. WILLIS, FLORENCE, S.C.: Abe Vigoda, the sad faced actor, plays the title role in "Fish," which is a spin-off of "Barney Miller," a series he is still in. Abe was a stage actor for more than 25 years before his major motion picture break came in "The Godfather." He portrayed the crime syndicate leader, Tessio. Mischief Is A Horse

"Mischief," the story of a young horse-lover from a circus family and his adventures with a spirited pony trained to dance, will be presented on "The CBS Children's Film Festival," Saturday, April 9, 1 to 2 p.m.

After David Brewer persuades a stable owner to give him a job handling the cantankerous pony, Mischief, the youngester discovers, upon noticing the animal prance around to flute music, that his charge must have been a circus pony trained to dance.

David's ability to handle the gifted little animal causes resentment among the other young stable boys, who launch a campaign to cause trouble for David and make him look incapable in his employer's eyes.

After a series of vicissitudes and a few dangerous adventures, boy and pony reach the finishing line unscathed.

Bible Stories Featured

"It's a Brand New World," an animated musical based on the Biblical stories of Noah and Samson, will be the "Special Treat" presentation Saturday, April 9, 12-noon to 1 p.m., on NBC-TV.

Telling Bible stories in song and animation is producer Al Elias's idea of how to bring the Good Book closer to children, and this is the culmination of his efforts. The special features original songs about Noah and his ark and Samson and his feats of strength.

"We are telling these stories through the device of having four typical, fun-loving kids, who are attending St. Gabriel's Celestial Academy, study these stories in their class," says Elias. "These four children are enrolled at the academy in hope of becoming angels. So far they are flunk-outs, and have to attend a remedial Bible history class.

The script is contemporary, and the children wear jeans, sweaters, loafers and travel via clouds and other heavenly 'vehicles.' Music is of the semi-rock type.

Grand Prix Is Televised

On Sunday, April 3 at 4 p.m., CBS-TV will provide live coverage of the Grand Prix West, Formula One Car Race from Long Beach, Calif. The race will feature the best of the international road-racing drivers..

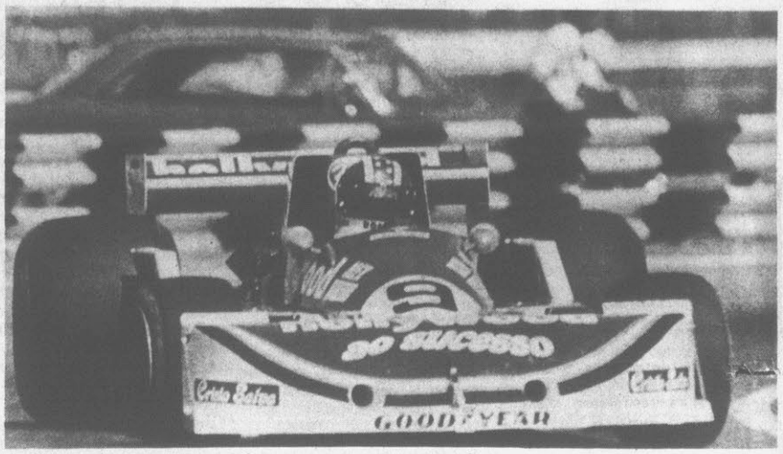
During the early 1900's, crowds were able to view races on actual city streets throughout the U.S.A. With the advent of oval tracks and artificial road courses, racing took on a new face and a select group of fans. Now, the annual running of the Grand Prix West brings back to the United States as touch of nostalgic in major motorsports competition — street racing.

Long Beach is a 2.02 mile course that is a delight to drivers and spectators. It is similar to Monaco in that it is the only Grand Prix race that runs through actual city streets. That's where the similarity ends. This California race has an American flavor all its own that has nothing to do with the glitter of Monaco.

The engineering principle behind the course, designed by Dan Gurney and approved by the Committee Sportive International, ia based on "containing" the race cars inside to protect drivers and spectators. Lined on both sides with nearly five miles of precast concrete barriers, the course cost more than $561,000 to prepare.

At turns and in escape areas, the barriers will be faced with 25,000 tires, lashed together in rows up to four deep and eight to 10 tires high. These are called "spherical elastic attenuators" by Dr. Peter Talbot, Chief Safety Officer.

As the Formula One racers zoom across Shoreline Drive and Ocean Boulevard, it seems incredible that twelve hours earlier these streets were part of the main business thoroughfare. But then, that's the secret of excitement behind street-racing and the Long Beach Grand Prix.



Despite their disappointing results overall, the March was one of the best all-round chassis, especially on fast tracks. Above, Ian Schecter, a former member of the Tyrrell-Ford team now hopes to win with March in the Long Beach Grand Prix on Sunday, April 3 at 4 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Chris Evert Plays For Four In A Row

Chris Evert, a winner in 1974, 1975 and 1976, will be out to make it four in a row when a selected field of the world's leading female tennis players compete for a total purse of $110,000 in the Family Circle Magazine Cup tournament, to be colorcast Saturday, April 2, 3 to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday, April 3, 2 to 3:30 p.m. on NBC-TV.

The competition numbers top pros from the United States, Australia, Czechoslovakia, Great Britain, France, the Netherlands, Romanis, South Africa and Yugoslavia. NBC will colorcast the action, live, from Sea Pines Plantation in South Carolina.

The Family Cup tournament has been pretty much a Chris Evert production since its inception in 1973 when Rosemary Casals won the top prize. Since then, Evert has toppled, in successive finals, Kerry Reid, Martina Navratilova and Kerry Reid again.

Along with Evert, whose recent tournament conquests have been impressive, Rosie Casals's comeback spots her as a popular favorite to battle her way into the championship final. Ranked No. 10 in 1975 to No. 2 behind Evert in 1976, Casals is just about at the top of the game.

Evert and Casals, the United States' top threats, will compete against a foreign contingent including Virginia Wade and Sue Barker (Great Britain), Betty Stove, (Holland), Francoise Durr (France), Kerry Reid and Diane Fronholts (Australia) Virginia Ruzici (Romania), Mimi Jausavec (Yugoslavia) and Renata (Czechoslovakia).

Could Have Been For Ustinov

In one scene for "Jesus of Nazareth," Peter Ustinov, as Herod the Great, learns of the birth of a possible Messiah and screams that all males up to the age of two must be killed. In the middle of his tirade, a rope fell from the rafters and landed directly in front of him. Without missing a beat, Ustinov said: "I suppose this is for me."

Masters Is Nicklaus' Favorite

"Augusta National is my favorite course, and the Masters is my favorite golf tournament," said Jack Nicklaus several years ago. Millions agree with this: nothing equals the peculiar chemistry of television and the Masters.

Marking its 22nd consecutive year of providing exclusive live coverage, CBS Sports will broadcast the two closing rounds of the prestigious Tournament at the world famed Augusta National Golf Club in Augusta, Ga., Saturday, April 9 (4 to 6 p.m.) on Sunday, April 10 (4 to 6 p.m.).

On Friday, April 8 (11:30 to 11:40 p.m.), CBS Sports will broadcast highlights of early-round action in the 72-hole tournament.

With a select field of international professional and amateur golfers, including defending champion Ray Floyd, the broadcasts will include play on the par 3, 155-yard 12th hole; the par 5, 485-yard 13th; the par 4, 420-yard 14th; the par 5, 520-yard 15th the par 3, 190-yard 16th; the par 4, 400-yard 17th; and the spectacular par 4, 420-yard 18th hole.

If two or more golfers are tied for first place after 72 holes of play on Sunday, they will immediately proceed to the No. 1 tee for a sudden-death playoff, which will also be televised, continuing on to successive holes until a Masters champion is determined.

Floyd, in his twelfth Masters last year, recorded a record-tying score of 271, matching the score of Jack Nicklaus, the tournament's only five-time champion, in his second Masters victory in 1965.

With a finely honed performance that began with an opening round of 65, the best start of any champion, Floyd, at the finish of the second day of play, was at 131, setting a new record for the first 36 holes. Then, on Saturday, when play was completed, his score of 201 was also a new record for the first 54 holes. A final round of 70 bested Ben Crenshaw by eight strokes.

Floyd's performance on the par 5 holes (14 under par) was the best by four strokes of any champion. In addition, he established a new Masters record of sub-par scores with one eagle and 22 birdies; the best previous record being one eagle and 20 birdies by Sam Snead in 1957.

Other past champions of the Masters who will comprise the select field include Gary Player, the first and only foreign contestant to don the green jacket, 1961 and 1974; Tommy Aaron, 1973; Charles Coody, 1971; Billy Casper Jr., 1970; George Archer, 1969; and Arnold Palmer, 1958, 1960, 1962 and 1964 title-holder. Nicklaus recorded his victories in 1963, 1965, 1966 (the only player to successfully defend the title), and in 1972 and 1975.

GGO To Be On NBC

Defending champion Al Geiberger heads the field of outstanding golfers who will compete for the $46,000 first prize in the Greater Greensboro Open, which will be colorcast Saturday, April 2 (4:30 to 6 p.m.), and Sunday, April 3 (3:30 to 5:30 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Among the other leading professionals set to challenge the demanding par 72, 6,968-yard Forest Oaks Country Club course are South African great Gary Player, who won at Greensboro in 1970, and Tom Weiskopf, who took the GGO title in 1975. Also in the field are 1976 Masters winner Ray Floyd, who will be tuning up to defend that title, and young Bruce Lietzke, the early sensation of the 1977 PGA tour.

Providing the commentary during NBC's coverage of the GGO will be the network's roving "foot soldiers" — Bruce Devlin, Fran Tarkenton, John Brodie and Jay Randolph. They will follow the leading golfers from tee to green throughout the final two rounds.

Fish Plays Parent

A piece of fish isn't a piece of cake as Detective Phil Fish (Abe Vigoda) learns each week on the new comedy series, "Fish" (Saturday, 8:30 to 9 p.m., on ABC-TV.)

Detective Fish has taken on new responsibilities as a foster parent for five 'problem' youngsters in a New York City Group Home.

Loomis (Todd Bridges) — "Come on, Mister Fish. I wanna skateboard down the banister like my friend Henry. Pleeeeze."

Victor (John Cassisi) — "All I need's a coupla dolluhs, Mistuh Fish. I got a big deal woikin'."

Mike (Lenny Bari) — "I only want to borrow the car to drive a few blocks. What's the big deal if the blocks are over in New Jersey?"

Jilly (Denise Miller) — "Can I sleep in front of Madison Square Garden for a few days? I want to be first in line for the Bay City Rollers concert tickets."

Diane (Sarah Natoli) — "Can't I say up for the Late, Late Movie? It's about a giant frog that tramples Yokahama and it'll be over by 4 a.m."

How many pieces of one grouchy Fish are there?

No-one really knows and to add to Fish's woes, he also has to contend with the well-intentioned advice of psychologist Charlie Harrison (Barry Gordon) whose primary language is jargon ("We need new inputs, more interaction, a matrix of mutual and congruent appreciation") and the ministrations of his long-suffering wife, Bernice (Florence Stanley) whose homey encouragements are the chicken soup of his existence.

After 38 years of dealing with "muggers, rapists and perverts — people you can talk to," can Fish survive five shrewd and spirited youngsters— Viewers find out each Saturday as the lawman with the long face sorts out and tries to solve the frequent and sometime-off-the-wall problems on ABC.

NBC Has Multi-Special Night

"King of the Beasts" and "The First Easter Rabbit" comprise NBC-TV's Multi-Special Night Saturday, April 9, on NBC-TV.

"King of the Beasts" (8 to 8:30 p.m.) is an animated musical special which tells how the lion became leader of all animals. Events take place — some lighthearted, some serious to the participants — which help transform the lion, accident prone and bumbling while on Noah's Ark, to the strong cat who provides leadership for all other wildlife.

The show features 10 original songs, with music by Michael Colicchio and lyrics by Wiley Gregor. Among the performers providing voices for the characters are Paul Soles, Judy Sinclair, Bonnie Brooks, Jay Nelson and Don Mason.

"The First Easter Rabbit" is narrated by Burl Ives (who also sings) and will air from 8:30 to 9 p.m.

Robert Morse is heard as Stuffy, a key figure in the story, and Stan Fredberg speaks for Flops, a rabbit who spouts poetry and malaprops. Paul Frees provides the voice for Zero a frustrated would-be villain who lives at the North Pole. Ives talks for the Great Easter Bunny, teller of the tale.

"There's That Rabbit," sung by Ives, is an original tune composed by Maury Laws with lyrics by Bass. Also featured in the program is Irving Berlin's "Easter Parade," sung by Ives and Morse with Christine Winter and the chorus.

In the story, Stuffy enters the scene as a stuffed toy belonging to a girl named Glinda. When she becomes ill, a fairy appears and turns the stuffed rabbit into a real one who has a special assignment — to remind everyone about the true meaning of Easter.

Perils Observed

The perils of the wilderness and a decision to make the ultimate sacrifice are factors in the tragic relationship between a young boy and his two redbone hunting hounds, in "Where the Red Fern Grows," an adventure drama on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" April 9, 9 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV. James Whitmore, Beverly Garland, Jack Ging and Stewart Petersen star.

More than anything else in life, 13-year-old Billy Coleman wanted a dog, not just any dog, but two redbone hunting hounds. Even though it is depression time, Billy resolves to earn the $50 purchase price of two hounds advertised in a magazine.

Vacation in Europe. $8.

Welcome to England, France and Germany. On this side of the Atlantic.

Your first stop: Elizabethan England.

Stroll through cobbled streets to the music of a wandering troubadour. Say hello to a knight in shining armor. Browse for treasures in chimney-topped shops.

Then hop the Aeronaut Skyride for an impressive overview of what's to come. You'll soar 90 feet above the ground as you travel between England, France and Germany.

At Tweedside Station, climb aboard a live-steam train powered by a replica of Queen Victoria's favorite locomotive, the Balmoral Castle. You'll get a close-up look at exotic animals as you snake through twisting curves, bound over a 60-foot-high bridge and whistle-stop through the rest of Europe.

Just down the hill from Scotland, you'll cross a weathered bridge into the medieval world of Hastings.

Here you can challenge the ghosts of Camelot as you whirl through the darkness of the Catapult Ride. Brave the catacombs of our eerie fun house. And try your luck at the Battlements shooting gallery and the game-filled arcade.

For still more entertainment, step inside our legendary puppet theatre where Bil Baird's lifelike marionettes will capture your imagination, and your heart. Then recap all your new-found adventures over a meal at the Tournament Table.

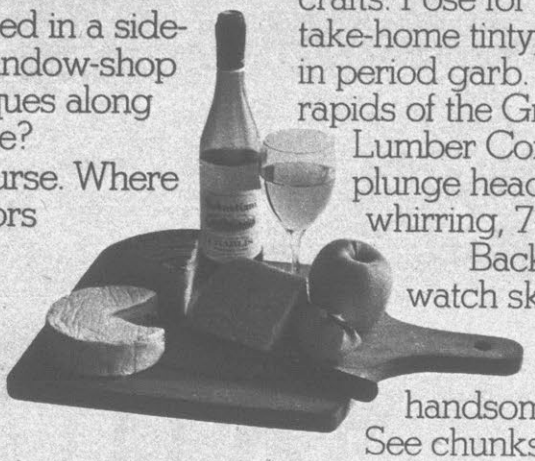
FUN HOUSE
PEANUT

Where can you race a compatriot down the homestretch behind the wheel of a Le Mans-replica motorcar? And have your portrait painted in a sidewalk café? And window-shop fashionable boutiques along Le Petit Monmartre?

France, of course. Where fresh-flower vendors greet you with a warm "bon jour." And strolling violinists serenade you with Parisian love songs.



Stop by the Café de Josephine or Le Coq d' Or for a taste of provincial cuisine. Toast the occasion with a select vintage from the wineshop. Then top it all off with a visit to our ice cream shop par excellence, La Grand Glace.

For entertainment, the ooh-la-la's of the French Follies await you at the Three Musketeers Theatre. And at La Jolie Plume outdoor theatre, enjoy the colorful antics of Anheuser-Busch's world-famous Bird Circus.

Move on to a land packed with the raw excitement and rugged pioneer spirit of frontier Canada.

The place: New France.

Explore the St. Lawrence Shipping Agency Trading Post for leather goods and Indian crafts. Pose for an authentic, take-home tintype photograph in period garb. Shoot the rapids of the Great Northern Lumber Comp'ny as you plunge headlong towards a whirring, 7-foot buzz saw.

Back in the village, watch skilled artisans forge steaming metal into handsome collectibles. See chunks of wax carved into intricate candles you can dip yourself.

Then settle in at the Canadian Folk Palladium for some backwoods pickin' and strummin'. And clap your hands as the St. Lawrence Cloggers take their turns in a Northern-style hoedown.

If hunger strikes, order up the Rib House Special—beer-basted beef ribs, fresh off the fire. Then loosen your belt for an oven-fresh apple turnover or two at the Mackinak Café.

Oompah bands. Foaming beer steins. The legendary Rhine. It's Germany, without a doubt.

Then treat yourself to a continental specialty or two at the 19th-century-style Willkommenhaus. Or nibble direct-from-Deutschland sausage and cheese at the Wurst Haus.

Around the bend, meet shopkeepers at work. Chat with candymakers. Browse for an antique clock, and select your own imported beer stein.

Then step across a spectacular wrought-iron bridge into a world you'll have to see to believe.

It's called Oktoberfest. And it's one German festival that never stops!

Challenge Die Schwarze Spinne—a monster of a ride. Spin like a top on Der Blitzschneller trabant. And let the German wave swinger sweep you off your feet.

Take your pick of two soul-shaking roller coasters and speed down slopes at 65 m.p.h. Then battle autobahn traffic in the bumper-car arena.

Try your luck in Der Budenplatz Arcade. Next pick up a lasting momento of your trip at our colorful German emporium. Then head for Das Festhaus—the biggest festival hall this side of Munich.

Sing along with 2,000 other revelers as dancers spin, tubas blare, and everyone has the time of their life.

$1,000 a MONTH
$33.33 a DAY

BEGINNING ON THE VERY FIRST DAY AND FOR AS LONG AS YOU ARE HOSPITALIZED FROM ANY COVERED SICKNESS OR ACCIDENT EVEN IF YOU'RE SO CONFINED FOR LIFE

From the very first day you are hospitalized from any covered sickness or accident, this direct enrollment plan will give you a policy that pays $1,000 a month — $33.33 a day. Pays on or off the job — 24 hours a day — anywhere in the world. This Policy pays the full amount no matter what other coverage you have — group, personal, Workmen's Compensation, or Medicare, and no matter what you may receive from any other source.

1. BENEFITS ARE PAID DIRECT TO YOU UNLESS THEY ARE ASSIGNED BY YOU. Everyone is worried about the way the cost of hospitalization is going up. Couldn't you use $1,000 a month — $33.33 a day to help you every day when you are hospitalized from any covered sickness or accident. There is no red tape, and you are covered on or off the job, 24 hours a day, world-wide coverage.
2. YOUR BENEFITS WILL NOT BE TERMINATED NO MATTER HOW LONG YOU ARE HOSPITALIZED FROM ANY COVERED SICKNESS OR ACCIDENT. Remember your benefits begin the very first day and there's no "stop" to the benefits paid — even if you are confined in a hospital for life. Here is a modestly priced plan with benefits of $1,000 a month — $33.33 a day. And there is no limit to the total amount of benefits that will be paid by this policy.
3. FULL BENEFITS WILL BE PAID NO MATTER WHAT YOU RECEIVE FROM WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION — MEDICARE, GROUP INSURANCE, OR ANY OTHER COVERAGE YOU MAY HAVE. The full benefits of $1,000 a month — $33.33 a day are paid directly to you, unless you assign them. What better way for you to have peace of mind!
4. HERE'S WHAT'S NOT COVERED. This plan excludes: acts of declared or undeclared war, suicide or attempted suicide, mental or nervous disorders, and pregnancy. Confinement in a Veterans or Federal hospital is covered if you must pay any charge for room and board. A disease or physical condition for which you have had medical advice or treatment in the past year will not be covered until your policy has been in force for one year, but these conditions will be covered thereafter.
5. COMPARE THIS WITH OTHERS. WE WELCOME COMPARISON. THERE ARE IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES. Remember your benefits are: $1,000 a month — $33.33 a day for as long as you are hospitalized from any covered sickness or accident even if you are confined in a hospital for life. Most others limit the length of time you can receive your benefits. Most others cut you off after you collect "Maximum" amount. In our plan there is no maximum or limit to the total amount of benefits paid under this policy.
6. THE MODEST MONTHLY COST IS:
   Ages 1-44 . . . $9.25 Ages 45-59 . . . $11.75 Ages 60-64 . . . $16.25
   Your rate can be increased only if we increase rates by class on everyone holding this policy in this State. This means you can never be singled out for a rate increase no matter how many times you are hospitalized and no matter what amounts have been paid under your policy. However, once you enroll at your rate for your age, your cost will not increase because you grow older and your benefits will not be reduced no matter what age you live to, just as long as you keep your policy in force.
7. GUARANTEED RENEWABLE FOR LIFE AGREEMENT. This means that the company guarantees and agrees never to cancel or change your policy in any way, for as long as you live and pay the premium in effect at the time of renewal.
8. WHEN YOU ENROLL, SEND NO MONEY. We will send you your policy with a premium due notice for the first month's premium. When you receive your policy, it will be in force and you will be insured. Read your policy carefully. You'll see it does everything we say.

NO RECOVERY FOR PRE-EXISTING CONDITIONS IN THE FIRST YEAR OF THE POLICY—READ CAREFULLY
No benefits will be provided during the first year of the policy for any disease or physical condition for which you received medical advice or treatment within one year prior to the effective date of your coverage under the policy.

A Report On How It Affects The Way We Think And Feel

How To Help Children Overcome Their Fears

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR HERBERT S. SCHLOSSER, President, NBC

How did you beat out the other networks for rights to the Moscow Olympics, and why was the price so high?—T.M., Aurora, Ill.

● Give and take on both sides was responsible, plus hard work—and heavy phone bills. The event will be a major one in Russia, and they want it to go over well, so they bargained hard, but in good faith. As to the $83 million, roughly three times the cost of TV rights to the Montreal Olympics, the price has nothing to do with the locale. Inflation is the reason.

FOR KAREN CARPENTER of The Carpenters

● Liberace, Burt Bacharach, the Beatles and the Beach Boys—plus classical piano at the Yale School of Music—got Richard interested. As for me, I got into music by getting out of gym. Can you think of anything worse than diving into a cold pool at the crack of dawn? In 1964 I joined my high-school marching band, playing the glockenspiel, which led to my getting on the drum line. That led to other things, including our first big record in 1969.

FOR ESTEE LAUDER, cosmetics manufacturer

I'm just starting to use makeup and am told I'm doing it all wrong. Got any advice for me?—Jean Straley, Flint, Mich.

● All cosmetics should be applied as if they were washed on, just the way sunlight washes color across a field. You'll look more natural—and prettier—if you wear makeup all over. There should be color on your cheeks, of course; but also on your nose, forehead, the tip of your chin and your temples, worked into the hairline.

FOR SEN. LAWTON CHILES (D.-Fla.)

I'm intrigued by the many references to the "Senate Cloakroom." Could you please describe it?—Mrs. C. A. Lavis, Gainesville, Fla.

● There are actually two rooms, one for Democrats and one for Republicans. Both are long, narrow and L-shaped, with easy chairs, sofas, desks and phones. The room is handy for phoning during lulls in Senate business, and since Senate rules discourage private conversations between Senators during debates, the cloakroom is often where Senators meet to discuss pending legislation.

FOR HAL LINDEN, star of Barney Miller

Have you ever regretted becoming an actor?—W.M., Las Vegas, Nev.

● Only when I read the papers When I see all the important things that need doing in the world, I feel I've copped out by going into show business. Next to medicine, research and teaching, acting seems insignificant. But then I realized the truth—people go to the theater or watch TV just to escape from what they read in the papers.

FOR BARBARA HOWAR, TV interviewer and author

More than a year ago you said you preferred writing to TV interviewing. Why have you changed your mind?—Jane Keany, Saddle River, N.J.

● I haven't changed my mind—it's just that I have a chance to do both, and I'm not one to turn down chances. That's like asking me if I prefer white-meat chicken to the dark. I'd rather have white—but I also eat the dark and enjoy it.

FOR CHER, TV personality

Would you like your daughter Chastity to be an entertainer?—Joan Robinson, Sacramento, Calif.

● If Chastity wants to be an entertainer when she grows up, that will be just fine with me. On the other hand,it will be fine with me, too, if she doesn't want to go into show business. The most important thing, as far as I'm concerned, is that she be happy.

FOR ANDREA MARCOVICCI, movie actress

Did you do any acting before "The Front"?—M.P., Cocoa Beach, Fla.

● It's my first movie—until then I ran the gamut from TV soap opera to Hamlet. But films are my passion. I fell in love with them at 15 while watching Garbo in Camille. I'm wild about John Wayne, Katharine Hepburn, Liv Ullmann and Liza Minnelli.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

How does the fashion industry feel about President Carter's cardigan?—M.C. Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● Lew Prince (right), a manufacturer of sportswear, including cardigans, says: "I don't like it one bit. The glamor of the Presidency is stripped bare when our Chief Executive wears casual clothes. He's much more attractive when more formally dressed." Designer Jacques Bellini, on the other hand, is all for it: "Makes a change from the stodginess and pomp we've been used to. Stops the President from being a museum piece.

FOR JAMES A. CONLON,
Dir., U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing

How much of our currency is counterfeit?—J.R., Port Arthur, Texas

● Because of intricate design and other distinctive security characteristics, U.S. currency is perhaps the least successfully counterfeited in the world. Domestically, counterfeiting is a small activity, accounting for only .005 percent of all currency in circulation. A primary factor in counterfeit deterrence is high public recognition of the genuine.

PRO AND CON

Should Our Dogs And Cats Be Sterilized?

PRO Roger Caras, ABC-TV, first full-time network animal commentator.

Yes. Any animal, any companion animal such as a dog or cat, whose genetic potential is not essential or at least extremely important to the preservation and improvement of a breed, should categorically be spayed or altered. That means dogs, cats, male and female, and all land-bred animals. Not to spay or alter an animal is to insure unwanted litters in a high percentage of the cases. We have a tragic surplus of unwanted litters in this country now.

CON Dennis White, field consultant, Animal Resources, American Humane Association

No. Sterilization is expensive, and many people don't understand it or accept it. Most humane groups can't afford a sterilization program. The cheapest way to avoid the problem of too many unwanted animals is for owners to take responsibility for their pets—see they are fenced in, kept on a leash and watched carefully. We should encourage cities to enforce strong leash-law ordinances and to make certain that schools get the word to our kids.

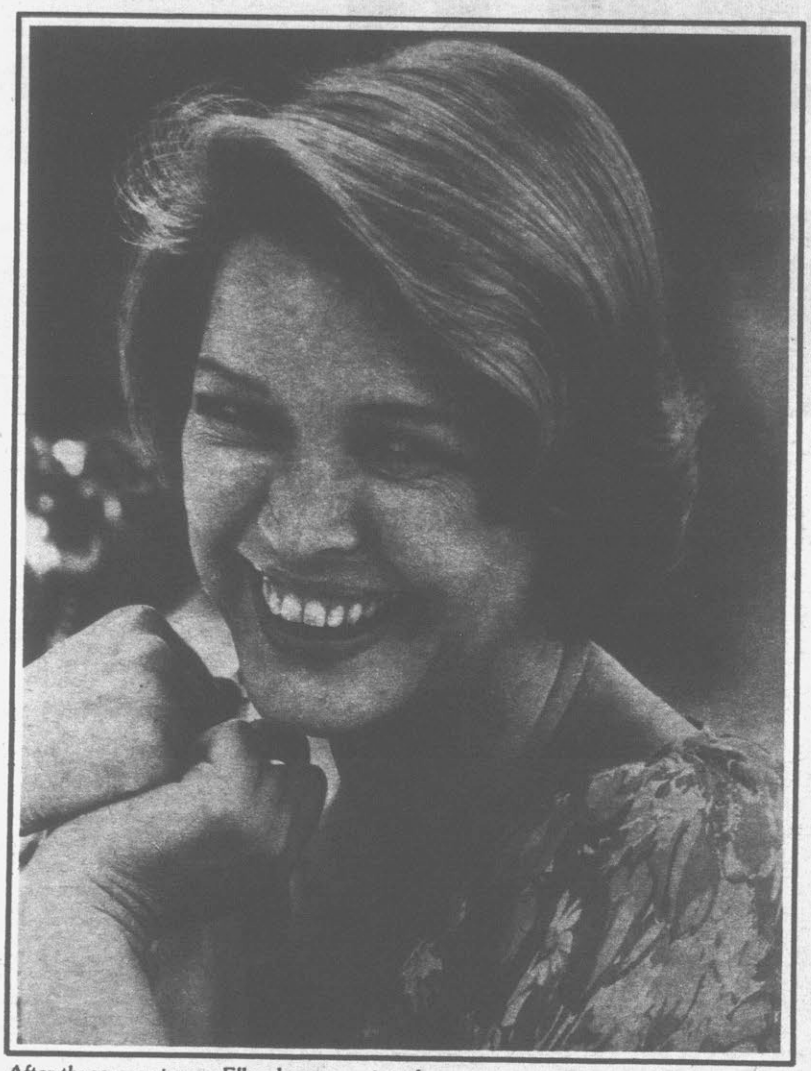
ELLEN BURSTYN ENTERS HER PRIME

The letters she receives from fans saying that she has changed their lives are more important to her than her Oscar.



After three marriages, Ellen has come into her own as a woman and as an actress.

Martha Swope

Ellen with son Jefferson, who had a bit part in Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore.

By Patricia Baum

At 44, when many actresses are past their prime, Ellen Burstyn is one of the biggest stars in Hollywood. It all began a few years ago when she played the mother in The Exorcist, her first major role. Then she found Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore, the story of a widow's journey to self-discovery, and persuaded Warner Brothers to finance it. That simple, yet powerful, film brought Ellen an Oscar, celebrity and the opportunity to turn down more scripts per month than most actresses read in a year. Those she did choose—the Broadway comedy Same Time, Next Year and the newly released film Providence—brought her still more acclaim and have made her one of America's most esteemed female stars.

"This couldn't have happened to me a decade ago when we were into the Beatles and a youth craze that made anyone over 35 unmentionable," says Ellen of her late-blooming success. And although she was movie-addicted as a youngster and wrote an Oscar acceptance speech at age seven, she's truly grateful now that such recognition did not come earlier in life. "I wasn't mature enough to have handled it," she explains. "I would have enjoyed it for the wrong reasons—for the fame and trappings."

These have little place in Ellen's life today. She's a serious actress rather than a glamor queen and lives in New York because she thrives on "adversity and wouldn't appreciate the spring if there were no winter" and because the Broadway theater fuels her creativity.

With her wide smile, schoolgirl complexion and absence of makeup, Ellen projects a wholesome prettiness. She speaks with conviction and self-assurance, giving the impression that she's deeply in touch with herself. "I feel blessed," she says, "to have this life. I believe that fame carries certain moral responsibilities, that one cannot squander it but must use it to help others."

To that end, she has dedicated herself in her acting to "removing the masks on reality" and to expressing the truths of life. And the mounds of letters she receives from women claiming to have changed their lives through some spark of enlightenment from her are obviously more treasured than any Oscar.

Not surprisingly, Ellen selects roles that offer a large platform for speaking her mind. She often plays a mother, as in Alice and The Exorcist, because she holds strong opinions about child-raising. "I think it's important," she stresses, "for parents to yield their positions of power more and to listen to their children. We can learn a lot from their fresh viewpoints. In my films, I've tried to put the mother-child relationship on an honest one-to-one basis."

The grace and poise with which Ellen copes with life were painfully slow in arriving. On the long search for her identity, she assumed a schizoid array of some 25 names—Ellen McRae, Kerri Flynn, Erica Dean, for example. She was born Edna Rae Gillooly in Detroit to middle-class Irish Catholic parents who divorced when she was six. Ellen ruefully recalls feeling like a misfit, "as if the stork left me in the wrong house at the wrong time."

At 17, she began to come to terms with herself. With $50 in her pocket, she left home on a quest for an acting career. She sidetracked briefly into fashion-coordinating, modeling and nightclub dancing before winning a part in the Broadway show Fair Game.

At the start of her movie career, she diligently applied herself, but her parts hardly matched the effort. She played vacuous stereotypes—the perfect wife, blonde floozy, tough dame and elegant lush—until she landed the role of a flesh-and-blood woman, Lois Farrow, the sensual wife of a wealthy Texas oilman, in The Last Picture Show in 1971. Grateful for the challenge, she thoroughly lived that character for the entire filming. Ellen laughs at the memory of the long nights spent "crying and carrying on to Cloris Leachman [also in the film] about my marriage problems with Neil Burstyn—with a Texas accent!"

At this time Ellen was headed for her third divorce. Although devastating at first, the divorce helped her develop into her own person. Ellen had made so many trips on the marriage-go-round because she "couldn't stand being alone." Viewing her earlier self with incredulity, she explains, "I had never considered the possibility of happiness except as a servant. I thought I couldn't get up unless I had to make someone breakfast. For years I went around on my knees trying to be shorter than I am so that I wouldn't threaten any of my husbands. It took me three divorces to realize that I could survive on my own, that the kind of life I want is possible only if I'm single and that I work best that way."

Despite her success, Ellen is still struggling for perfection. "I've been studying to play Joan of Arc, the most heroic woman ever on our planet, since I was 23, and I'm not ready yet," she declares. The same goes for her personal growth, which she continues to cultivate through a meditation technique she learned at a camp in the Alps and by the crossword puzzles she has been compulsively doing for years to educate herself and to "activate" her mind. She believes her acting also is helping her mature: "It enables me to discover the many selves locked inside me." This spring, when she makes a film with Melina Mercouri in which she plays a woman who has killed her children, she says, "I'll be forced to look into an unknown dark side of me, which will be unpleasant, but necessary for my growth."

How to Achieve Total Financial Freedom In 1977

Mark O. Haroldsen
Millionaire in 48 Months

We've never met and probably never will, but I think we share a common interest. That interest is in achieving complete and total financial freedom.

Because of this common interest, I think we can be of great help to each other. You see, a little over twelve months ago my net worth reached the magic million dollar mark, and it only took me 48 months to achieve that.

That might not impress you, but if you had seen me four years ago, you might wonder how I did it. I lived in Denver then, in a cramped, tumbled down house as 2545 South High Street. My wife was expecting our second child and we were so broke we had to borrow $150.00 from a relative just to buy food and pay the rent.

By the way, I know I didn't make a million dollars because of my superior intellect — I barely got through Ames High School (Ames, Iowa) with a C average and I think that if you'll stop and think, you'll realize and agree, there is not a single millionaire that is 10, 20, or 50 times smarter than you, or that works 10, 20, or 50 times harder or longer than you.

Now, how can we help each other? I am willing to share everything I have learned and know that would help and guide you to achieve your own financial freedom and independence. But the only way I would ever give you my secrets, methods and formulas is if I benefit also. Because as you will find when you reach your ultimate financial goals, you really don't want to stop there but you are motivated to go and make more. It seems that most people who are charging for financial advice have studied how to "do it" but have never actually "done it" themselves. You will find as you read my formulas, that since I have actually achieved total financial freedom myself, that you will receive from me more than just the motivation to achieve your own financial independence, but a workable step by step plan to actually do it.

You may have seen part of my formulas described in various publications, such as the November edition of Nations Business, page 69. This work is entitled How To Wake Up The Financial Genius Inside You. The various formulas contained in the volume will show you exactly how you can do each of the following:

- buy income properties for as little as $100 down.
- begin without any cash.
- put $10,000 cash and more in your pocket each time you buy (without selling property)
- compound your assets at 100% yearly.
- legally avoid paying federal or state income taxes.
- buy bargains at one-half the market value.

If you apply these formulas and methods you will find in a very short time, you will be able to spend three weeks out of every month doing anything you care to do, and I think, at that time, you will find as I have, that spending several weeks on the beaches of Hawaii, or on the ski slopes of Colorado, or just sightseeing in Europe, or any other place in the world, you begin to understand what real freedom is all about.

Most people think that it would be impossible to do some of the things listed above. For example, to buy a property, and at the same time put $10,000 (or more) cash in your pocket without selling the property, or to buy a property with little or no cash down.

Believe me, it is possible and fairly simple. This is exactly how most wealthy people actually do make 10, 20, or 50 times more money than you do.

These formulas of mine do not have to be used with income properties only. They actually can be applied to virtually any asset.

While I was struggling on making my first million, I often thought how nice it would be to have the personal advice and counsel from someone like Howard Hughes or J. Paul Getty.

What would I have been willing to pay for this service? I can tell you one thing for sure, it would have been a lot more than the $10.00 that I'm going to ask you to invest in your financial future.

What will this $10.00 actually do for you? It will give you a complete step by step plan that you can follow to become totally and completely financially independent.

Please try to understand my dilema. I'm not a New York advertising agency, with all their professional skill and manpower to write a powerful and persuasive ad to convince you that I can make you financially independent. I am just somebody who has actually 'done it', and can really show you how to 'do it'.

What would you do, if you were in my shoes. You have in excess of $1,000,000 net worth, you have a desire to share your formula with others, because you not only have a simple, honest and workable method whereby others too can enjoy the riches of this land, but you also want to benefit and make money from sharing this information, so you can continue to grow financially.

I think you might do what I'm doing — that is to write a simple open letter to the type of people who share similiar goals as mine asking them to try the formulas for themselves, to see if they work as well as the claims described. Because, I know, as you would know if you were in my shoes, that if I can just convince you to test my formulas and methods, you will see for yourself that they will work as easily for you as they did for me.

It's really quite frustrating to have something so valuable as I know I have, but lack the skill to convince people to try it for themselves. I hope by my simple, direct approach, I can convince you to try my formulas.

It seems the majority of the people in our rich country lose, not because they lack intelligence, or even willpower, but because of procrastination, or lack of action — please don't be like the masses. Make a decision while you have this paper in your hands. Make a decision now to either act now and send for my material or immediately round file this paper. If your decision is to subscribe, do it now, not later. Otherwise, you may lose, just by default.

To order, simply take any size paper, write the words "Financial Freedom Package", and send it along with a check for $10.00 to Mark O. Haroldsen, Inc., Dept. E-714, Tudor Mansion Bldg., 4751 South Holladay Blvd., Salt Lake City, Utah 84117.

If you send for my material before the end of May, 1977, I will also send you documents that will show you precisely how you can easily borrow from $20,000 to $200,000 at 2% above the prime rate using just your signature as collateral.

Mark O. Haroldsen

P.S. If you are still somewhat skeptical, and believe me, when I started out I certainly was, (because of the many people in the world trying to deceive others) I would encourage you to postdate your check by 30 days, and I promise and guarantee that it will not be deposited for at least those 30 days, and if for any reason you do not think that what I have sent you lives up, in every aspect to what I told you in this letter, send the material back, and I will quickly, without question, refund your money and send back your own uncashed check or money order. Also, if you would like to check a few of my references, I have listed some below.

HELPING YOUR CHILD OVERCOME FEARS

Almost every child has a fear — of the dark or of water, for instance— but if parents know how to cope, they can solve the problem.

By Sally Wendkos Olds

H. Armstrong Roberts

People of every age are afraid of all sorts of things, but parents become disturbed when their children develop fears that seem unreasonable and keep the youngsters from enjoying life. (Children are especially likely to become fearful between the ages of two and six.)

The best ways to help children overcome their fears, according to New York child psychiatrist Stephen L. Zaslow, who is especially interested in the subject, are to respect their feelings and to help them gradually experience the frightening situations. Keeping these points in mind, the parents of four-year-old Rachel helped her overcome her fear of water.

They already had tried coaxing her: "Come on, it won't hurt you." And they had tried making fun of her: "Don't be a scaredy-cat." Nothing worked. Finally, they decided to remove the pressure. Next time, they sat at some distance from the water. No one mentioned going into the water to Rachel, who played happily in the sand.

Then Rachel's father asked her, "What don't you like about the water?"

"It's too big," she answered.

"What do you think would happen to you in it?" he asked.

"I might get lost," she said.

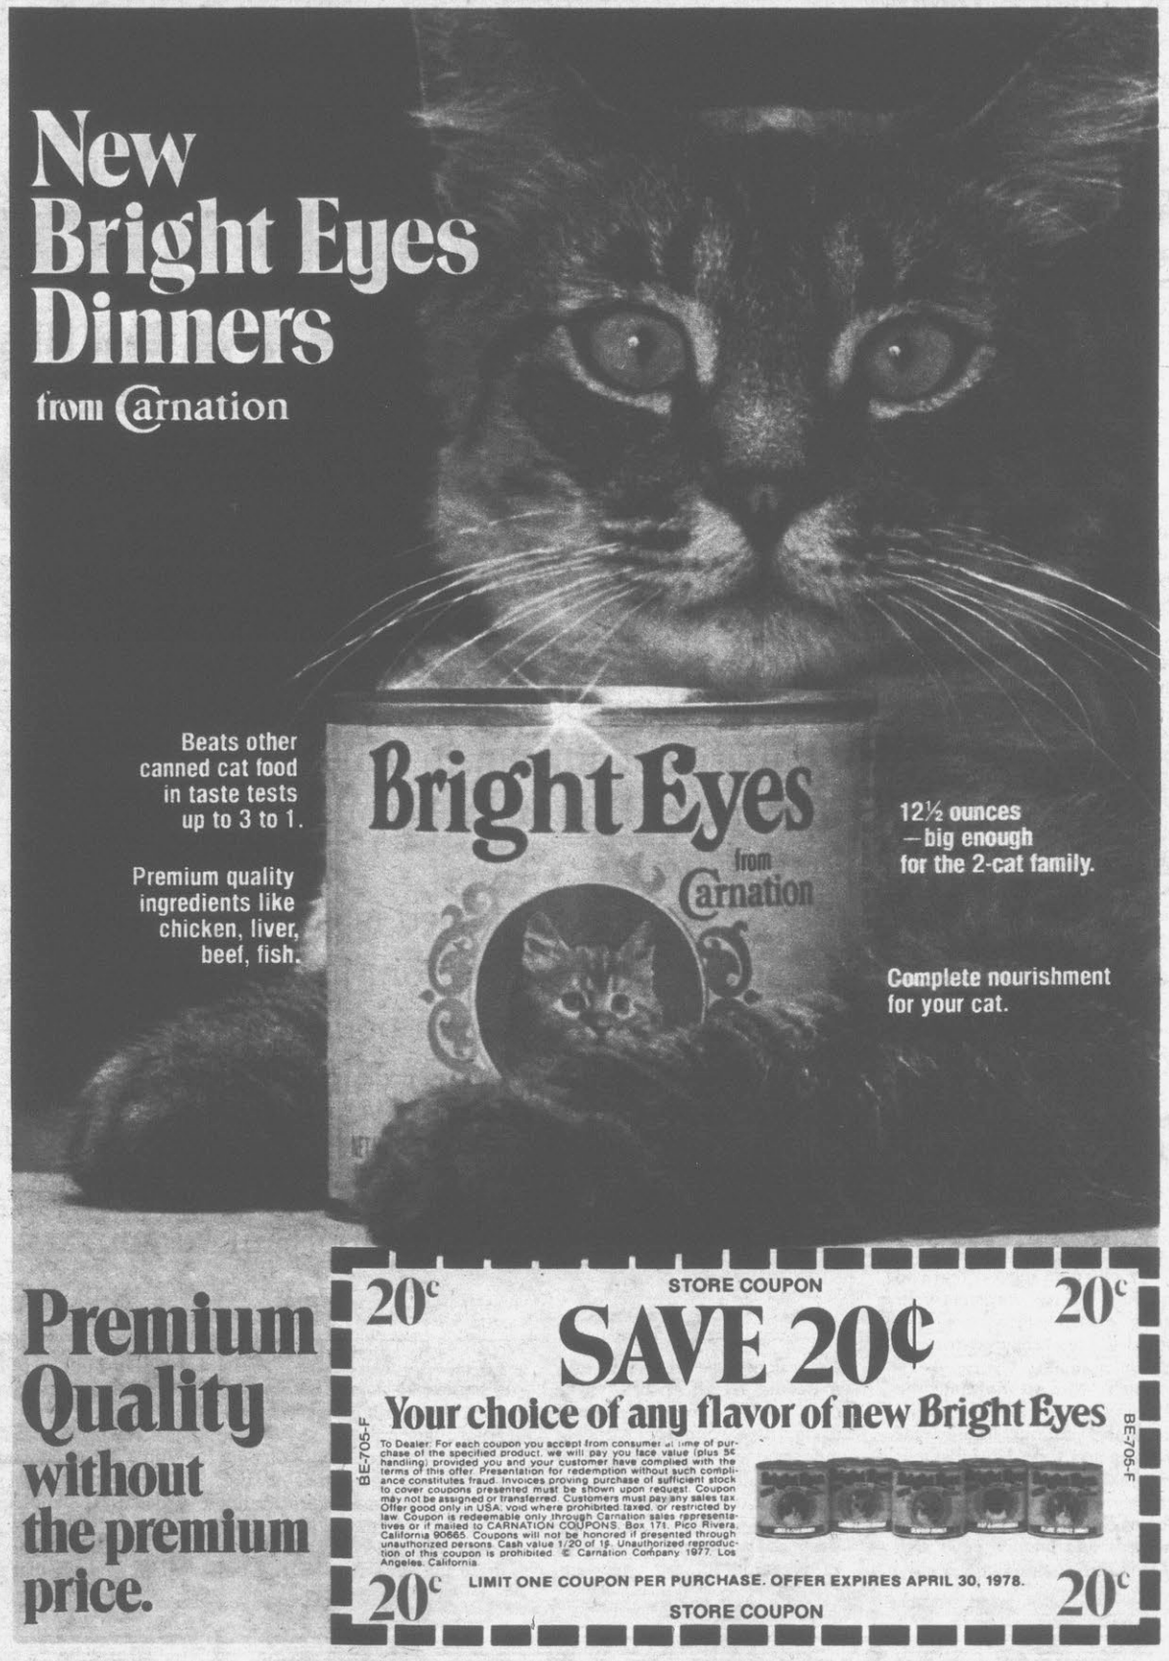
"Well, maybe one day we can go into the water together — and I can hold your hand so you can't get lost," her father said.

A couple of weeks later Rachel turned to her father and asked, "Will you go into the water with me? Just a little bit." Once she felt safe in the water holding her father's hand, she was gradually able to move away from him. Rachel soon was playing happily in the water by herself.

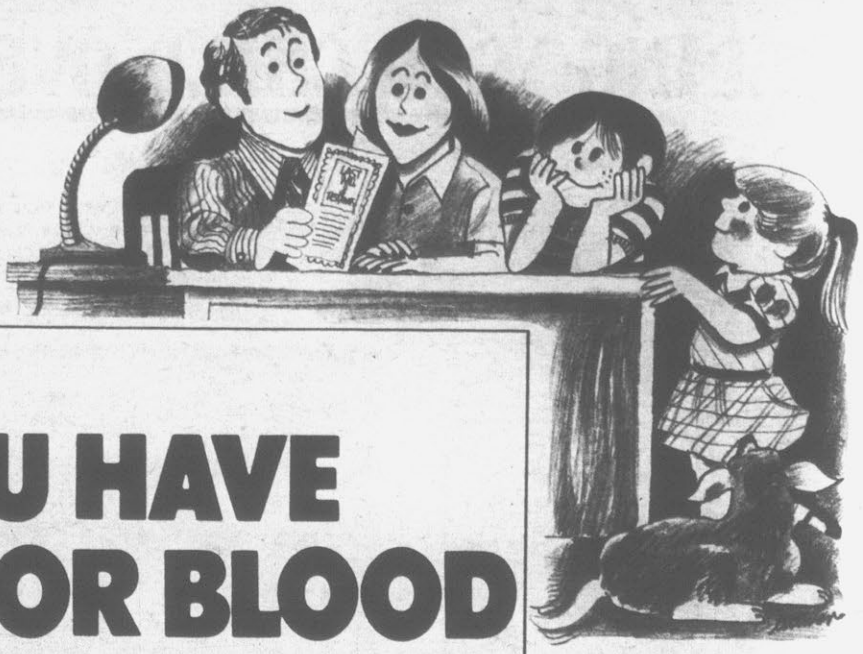
The same type of approach can help children deal with other fears. Adam, five, suddenly became afraid of the dark. His mother set aside a certain amount of time every day for the two of them to play ball. Occasionally, the ball would roll into the dark utility room, just off the playroom. The first few times, Mother retrieved the ball, saying cheerfully, "I'll be right back."

One day she said to Adam, "I bet I know just which corner that ball rolled into. Come in with me, and I'll show you." They went in, found the ball and came right out again. This became the regular method of retrieving the ball.

Then Mother said one day, "Oh, I forgot something. You get the ball. When I come back, we'll be ready to play again." That night at dinner, Adam told his father, "I'm not afraid of the dark. I don't need a night light anymore."



WHY EVERYONE SHOULD HAVE A WILL



Wills are not only for the rich, and if you don't have one, the complications could be disastrous for your family.

By Robert E. Dallos

Many people do not have a will, and yet a will may be the most important document you can sign in your life because it insures that your survivors are properly protected. The Research Institute of America lists these sound reasons for having a will:

- To dispose of your belongings to those whom you wish in the proportions you choose.
- To provide for your loved ones in the best possible way.
- To let all interested relatives or friends know your wishes.
- To make it easier for the recipients of your bounty to obtain and use what you left and to avoid fights and irritations.
- To reveal aspects of your financial affairs that may be unknown to anybody else. (The very act of working up a will helps disclose loose ends that need to be tied up.)
- To ease the task of whoever is going to take care of minor children and influence the choice of a guardian.
- To save many types of expense. As just one illustration, if there are children under 21 and both parents die leaving no will, the law may require the appointment of a guardian to protect these children. The guardian must be paid a fee, and that fee must come from the family's assets. A will could save that expense.

A word of caution: just because you have a will, don't think that you've tied up all the loose ends in planning your estate. Although a will is a vital tool, it doesn't do the whole job. Assets not covered by a will include, for example, retirement and profit-sharing benefits, life insurance with a named beneficiary, joint bank or savings-and-loan accounts, savings bonds or other securities in co-ownership or with a beneficiary and Social Security. Estate planners suggest that you use your will to coordinate your other assets with those that would automatically go to your spouse or other survivors.

And a word to the men: the planning of your estate and the preparation of your will are areas in which you should include your wife in every step. The American Council on Life Insurance estimates that 70 percent of all wives outlive their husbands. In many cases where women have trouble managing money after their husbands' death, there had been no prior discussions of family financial affairs with their husbands. "It's just plain common sense to be prepared for the unexpected," the Council advises. "And a discussion of family financial affairs between husband and wife need not be grim."

After the discussion, you both should visit the family lawyer. This is one area where it's not wise to go the do-it-yourself route. The services of a lawyer to draw up a will usually run between $100 and $250, more if a complicated estate plan is involved.

The lawyer brought in to draw up a will is certainly worth his fee in preventing legal problems after death. He knows the rules. A lawyer will know the form in which the will should be drawn. He knows that the testator should initial each page of the will so that none can be substituted or removed. "If one were to balance the cost of drawing a will with the savings in taxes that might be realized," says Howard Black, a specialist on wills for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., "the cost would be nominal."

It is equally important, your lawyer will tell you, to have wills drawn up by both husband and wife. While her husband is alive, a wife's estate usually isn't very large. But after her husband's death, her estate balloons. Therefore, her will becomes important in disposing eventually of her husband's property according to his wishes.

If you're adamant that you don't want legal help, don't discount the fact that holographic, that is handwritten wills, are legal in fewer than half the states, and even in those it's not always easy to establish their authenticity. Verbal wills are generally valid only if made in military combat, though some states recognize them when made during a final illness. The required number of witnesses also varies between two and five.

Notwithstanding those screen comedies about the big search after the will, there is nothing funny about adding to the burden of a personal loss by having to hunt in desk drawers, boxes of old papers and dusty attics for that important document.

Once the will is completed, a copy should be in a safe-deposit box, another copy in the lawyer's office, and a third copy should be kept at home.

Finally, if you already have a will, you may want to check the date on it. Remember that people and estates change, and a will should stay in tune with the current circumstances of its testator, his family, his property, the statutes and the economy.

IF YOU HAVE IRON POOR BLOOD ALL THE VITAMINS IN THE WORLD WON'T HELP

Iron poor blood is the most widespread nutritional ailment in America today. And taking vitamins can't help, because vitamins don't contain iron.

What you need is Geritol, every day. Geritol is so rich in iron, just one tablet contains more iron than even a pound of calf's liver. Plus vitamins important to your health.

Geritol's iron can actually build your blood day by day. That's what makes it different from vitamin pills—and so important to you.

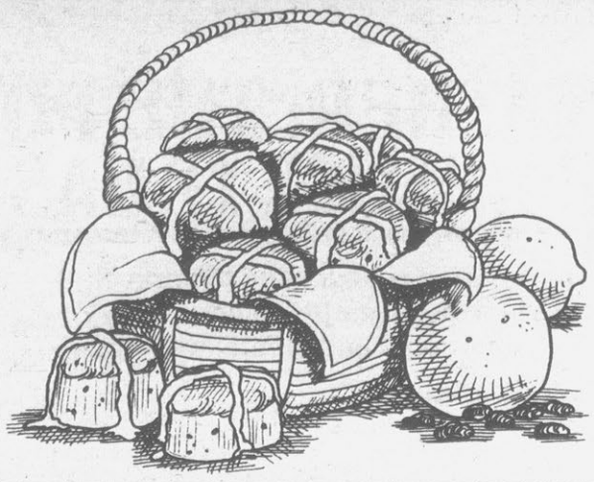
SMART COOKING / By Marilyn Hansen

TRADITIONAL FOODS FOR EASTER AND PASSOVER

Easter and Passover are always celebrated about the same time. To help you celebrate these major religious holidays, we thought you'd enjoy popular recipes from both traditions.



"Hot Cross Buns! Hot Cross Buns! One-a- penny, two-a-penny, Hot Cross Buns!" The cries of street sellers on Good Friday began in 18th-century England. Today hot cross buns are still traditional before, during and after Holy Week. Most bakeries had them for sale by Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent. You can make them at home by following our recipe.

HOT CROSS BUNS

1 cup milk
¼ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup plus one teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ cup very warm (110°-115°F.) water
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
2 eggs, beaten
3 to 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
½ cup raisins or currants
1 egg, lightly beaten
¾ cup confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon milk

1. Heat milk until bubbles form on edge of pan. Add butter, ¼ cup sugar and salt. Let cool to lukewarm.

2. Dissolve yeast and sugar in water. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Then add cinnamon, orange rind and 2 eggs.

3. Add 3 cups of the flour, a cup at a time, mixing well. Mix in raisins. Add enough additional flour to make a soft dough.

4. Place dough on a flour board and knead until satiny and elastic, about 8 minutes. Keep dough soft.

5. Place dough on greased bowl. Turn the dough to grease the top. Cover and set aside to rise until doubled. This will take 1 to 2 hours.

6. Punch dough down and knead lightly. Pat dough to ¾-inch thick. Cut with 2½-inch round biscuit cutter into 21 to 24 rounds. Place rounds in greased baking pans, about ½-inch apart. Let rise until doubled — 45 minutes to one hour — and buns are touching.

7. Just before rising time is up, preheat oven to 350°F. Bake buns 12 to 15 minutes until the tops start to brown. Brush quickly with slightly beaten eggs and bake another 10 to 15 minutes. If tops brown too quickly, cover with foil.

WEATHER: THE POWERFUL INFLUENCE IT HAS ON ALL OF US

Current research is beginning to unravel the ways in which weather affects our physical, emotional and mental well-being.

By Richard Wolkomir

H. Armstrong Roberts

• In Gainesville, Fla., on a recent morning, a high-school senior taking the college-entrance examinations was astonished at how easily he solved the math problems; math usually stymied him. That morning a tropical storm was battering the school.

• That same day, in Sacramento, a suburban housewife was exasperated with her two preschoolers; they had thrown their toys and clothes around the room, refused breakfast and cried irritably. Their mother felt irritable and moody, too. Sacramento was cloudy and foggy

• Later that day, in Joliet, Ill., a retired railroad engineer relaxing on a bench felt arthritic twinges in his legs. Joliet was humid, and the barometer was falling.

• In New England the day was beautiful, with dazzling sunshine. Nevertheless, a Boston metermaid suddenly felt one of her migraine headaches coming on.

What do all these people have in common? According to a new science, biometeorology, their physical and mental responses were affected by the weather.

But because biometeorology is still a new science, researchers don't yet have many answers as to why weather affects us, although they are beginning to pinpoint how it does.

Usually medical doctors or meteorologists, biometeorologists correlate hospital records with weather reports and note how patients fare in different weather conditions. They also perform experiments.

At the University of Pennsylvania, for instance, a group of arthritis patients recently volunteered for a biometeorological test. Under the direction of Dr. J. L. Hollander, the patients entered a climatron, a special chamber where scientists can control such weather conditions as air pressure, humidity and wind. Whenever Dr. Hollander set the climatron controls to simulate a looming thunderstorm — falling air pressure and rising humidity — Dr. Hollander's patients said, "Ouch!" Some even could feel their arthritis act up before the simulated storm began.

Other researchers work with records. An example is Dr. George E. Burch of the Tulane University Medical School who, after analyzing four years' admission records at Charity Hospital in Atlanta, discovered a pattern: Southerners have the most heart attacks during August, their hottest, dampest month.

Other biometeorologists, using related methods, have discovered similar patterns. Acute respiratory diseases, such as pneumonia, are four-and-a-half times more frequent in January than in July. Ulcers are most likely to hemorrhage in February. In regions where seasonal changes are profound, such as the Northeast and the Midwest, February and March are the worst months for circulatory diseases and heart attacks. Leukemia strikes most frequently in winter, while April is the worst month for rheumatic fever.

But weather's effects aren't all negative say the biometeorologists. For instance, we may be smarter in hurricanes. In the autumn of 1938, a terrific hurricane struck New England. While the winds roared, entering freshmen at Massachusetts State College (now Univ. of Mass.) in Amherst were taking IQ tests. The results were startling. Just before the storm hit, the students' scores were slightly above average. At the height of the storm, their scores soared (they are still the highest in the school's history). After the hurricane, scores dropped to 10 percent lower than average.

On the other hand, if you're feeling well — or bad — maybe you should blame ions, electrically charged molecules that float in the air. University of Pennsylvania researchers have discovered that negatively charged ions promote healing, relieve asthma and hay fever and make you feel "up." On the other hand, positively charged ions bring on fatigue, headaches and dizziness. When the barometric pressure sinks, the atmosphere generates positive ions. Many researchers theorize that positive ions are behind the emotional and physical woes associated with dropping air pressure.

Heat and cold are important as well. Biometeorologists have found that humans are most fertile, and their offspring will be strongest, when it's about 65° F. outdoors. Children grow the fastest during summer, especially in late August and early September. Yet children conceived during cool months average slightly better on IQ tests than those conceived during warm months. And when one researcher studied the birthdays in Who's Who In America, he found that most of these high achievers were conceived in winter or spring.

• Low barometer readings (29.90 or less) correspond with increased sexual activity, perhaps because the reduced air pressure relaxes people.

• Extremely hot weather dulls the intellect. For instance, more people flunk civil-service exams in July and August than any other time of year.

• Sudden summer storms often trigger asthma attacks.

• Colds are more frequent in erratic stormy weather, when the temperature is fluctuating.

• Heart attacks are most frequent on extremely hot or extremely cold days.

• Certain medicines, such as morphine and digitalis, are more potent during storms. Some sleeping pills are less effective when it's hot. The colder the weather, the more slowly diabetics respond to insulin.

• Many researchers say that, in general, we think best on cool, dry days but that bright weather extended too long reduces productivity. After a long, clear spell, a cloudy or rainy day boosts workers' output.

• Sharp changes in atmospheric pressure, especially downward, trigger increases in aggressive acts, self-destructive behavior, traffic and industrial accidents.

• A Canadian study found that most car accidents occur while the barometer is falling. The researchers theorize that falling pressure swells tissues, slowing blood flow and increasing brain pressure, which makes many of us feel irritable, apathetic or fatigued.

Researchers say there is "perfect" weather for work and health: an average of 64° F. with 65-percent humidity.

So the next time you feel irritable or forgetful or just plain tired, look outside for the reasons. FW

There isn't any such thing, skeptics will say. Whereas the superstitious are apt to regard any stroke of extraordinary good fortune as miraculous.

In between these two viewpoints lies the basic truth of these supernatural events which everyone should strive to understand. Because miracles do happen. To deny their existence is to contradict the testimony of Holy Scripture, for it was by performing miracles that Jesus led men to recognize His divine mission.

A miracle is, in its simplest terms, a manifestation of supernatural power... a sign of divine presence... an event through which God strengthens our faith and moves us to improve our conduct.

If you'd like to know more about miracles, their purpose and how to recognize them, write today for our pamphlet entitled "Miracles—Signs of God's Favor." It will be sent free and nobody will call on you.

8. Make decorating frosting: mix confectioners' sugar, vanilla and enough milk to make a thick decorating icing. Decorate tops of cool buns with cross. Makes 21 to 24 buns

The egg has long been considered the symbol of the rebirth of the earth out of the bleakness of winter into the bright promise of spring. Then, as Christianity became more widely accepted, the egg assumed even greater importance: it was adopted as the symbol of the new life Christians found in their Savior. Many Christians, especially those of the Eastern Orthodox faith, began the practice of giving gifts of eggs on the morning commemorating the Resurrection. The gift expressed a renewal of life and, for many, also a renewal of faith and love.

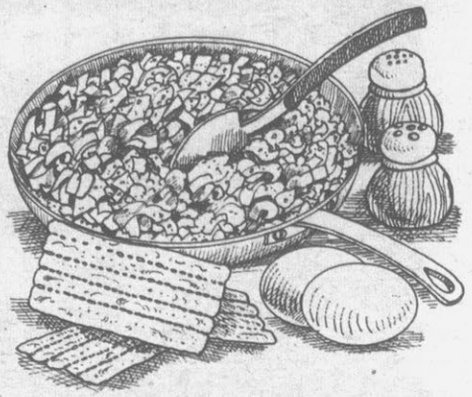
PICKLED EGGS

1 dozen eggs
1½ cups white vinegar
½ cup water
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
6 whole cloves
1 bay leaf
1 onion, sliced

1. Cover eggs with cold water, bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer 15 to 18 minutes.
2. Drain and immediately run cold water over eggs in pan for several minutes.
3. Peel eggs and place in narrow, deep jar.
4. In medium saucepan combine vinegar, water, sugar, salt, cloves and bay leaf. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes.
5. Pour hot vinegar solution over eggs, making sure eggs are completely covered with the liquid.
6. Place onion slices on top of eggs. Cover tightly, place in refrigerator and let stand several days.
7. Eggs may be served whole, halved or sliced, plain or in sandwiches or salads.
Makes 12 pickled eggs

Editor's note: A good use for leftover colored Easter eggs.

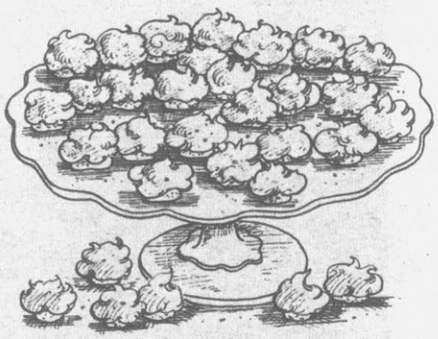
Passover is the Festival of Deliverance from Egypt and is a time of celebration. Traditionally, special sets of dishes, pots and pans are used for the days of Passover, and even cutlery is brought out of storage, marked and purified. Then, after Passover, they are stored again until the next year. Bread is forbidden, as are yeast and baking soda, to symbolize the hasty flight from Egypt when there was no time to let the bread rise. Hence the tradition of matzos — unleavened bread.



MATZO BRIE

4 large squares of matzos
1 cup water
½ cup finely chopped onions
4 eggs
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. Soak matzos in water until soft. Squeeze out excess water and crumble into small pieces.
2. In medium skillet, heat butter until melted. Fry onion in it until soft, about 5 minutes. Scoop out onions and drain on paper towel.
3. Beat eggs with milk, salt and pepper. Add matzos and fried onion. Pour into same skillet and cook, stirring until eggs are done as you like.
Makes 4 servings



WALNUT MERINGUE COOKIES

½ cup matzo meal
¼ cup potato starch
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 pkg. (3 ozs.) cream cheese
¼ cup peanut oil
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 egg whites
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup finely chopped walnuts

1. Combine matzo meal, potato starch, sugar and salt.
2. Cut in cream cheese with pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Stir in oil and egg yolks; mix well.
3. Shape mixture into balls using ½ teaspoon of dough for each ball. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Flatten slightly with fingers.
4. Beat egg whites until frothy. Mix in sugar and cinnamon. Gradually add to egg whites, beating until stiff. Fold in walnuts. Drop mixture by teaspoonfuls on top of cookies.
5. Bake in preheated 400°F. oven 12 to 15 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheets and place on wire racks to cool. Makes 36 cookies

CHECKING THE QUALITY OF YOUR CHILD'S VISION

Good sight is essential to a child's development. But do you know the warning signs of trouble?

By John Boeschen

Authorities say good vision is a major factor in a child's development. "Not only school achievement, but personality, posture and adjustment to life are closely involved with visual development," emphasized the late Dr. Arnold Gesell, pioneer in child development and former Director of the Yale Clinic of Child Development. "A child who is too nearsighted may have no interest in games with other children or in sports later. If too farsighted, he or she may avoid near activity and have trouble with schoolwork. It is easy to see how the frustration of not seeing well can have a significant effect on your children's development as well as on their personality."

Unfortunately, four out of 10 grade-school children in the United States are visually handicapped. "Neglected vision problems are frequently found, for example, in children who are labeled underachievers in reading," says Dr. Charles McQuarrie, President-elect of the American Optometric Association. "If children perceive their world with confusion, bewilderment and distortion, learning will be difficult — no matter what the child's measured level of intelligence is."

Frederic Lewis

How best can you protect your children's vision? Dr. McQuarrie recommends that you give them a space of their own for schoolwork — a place that's evenly lighted, without glare or large, dark areas. Light pastel wall colors that reflect rather than absorb light are best. Be sure that small children have reading matter with large type — the smaller the child, the larger the type. He also recommends that children less than eight years of age not concentrate for more than 15 or 20 minutes on close work without looking up to relax both eye muscles and the rest of their body.

"You can find out what vision-screening program your district offers by talking to school health officials," adds Dr. David Grisham, Director of the University of California's Orthoptics and Vision Training Clinic. "The Snellen Chart Test (a chart with letters and numbers of various sizes to test visual acuity), most commonly used in the United States, is, by itself, inadequate. Including tests which measure other aspects of vision will provide a more complete analysis. But just as important as the screening program are the observant parents who watch for symptoms of vision problems in their children."

Common signs and symptoms of possible trouble parents should be aware of are:

- Tilting head noticeably to one side
- Excessive squinting
- Rubbing or covering one eye
- Complaints of intermittent blurring while reading
- Frequent headaches or dizzy spells
- Avoiding close work
- Easily distracted from work
- Inability to keep place while reading
- Poor hand-eye coordination

"One or more of these symptoms warrants a comprehensive vision examination," states Dr. Grisham. "Generally speaking, the earlier the detection of a visual or perceptual dysfunction, the simpler and less expensive the corrective procedure. But the consequences of late detection and treatment go far beyond money and convenience. Children past age eight with perceptual deficiencies already have had three years of underachievement in school. Bringing such children up to their expected learning levels is a monumental task. A few minutes using your eyes to watch out for theirs can make the difference."

HOW TO START YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Here is good, sound advice on what you should know if you would like to start your own business.

By Roberta Roesch

All over the country people are still pursuing the American dream of starting their own business. But this option involves risks—two-thirds of all new firms fail within five years. So how can you increase your chances for turning an idea into a successful business? Here are some suggestions.

Research The Market

One absolute essential is a thorough survey of the area in which you plan to work. Only in this way can you be sure that there are people who need your business and that the product or service you contemplate does not already exist in abundance. "You have to talk to people other than your family and friends," advises the owner of a North Carolina kennel who was unable to find employment when his industrial-design job disappeared in a company merger. "As you do this, ascertain their tastes, needs, ages, children, incomes and spending habits," he advised.

"I found that it's also wise," he continued, "to analyze the existing competition by checking area newspapers, magazines, advertising and window displays to see what's already being done. Over and above that, drop in at similar businesses whenever and wherever you can. Then try to overcome your competition by offering a unique product or service that's newer and better than what's available. For instance, I discovered that no kennels within a 15-mile radius of me stayed open on Sundays and holidays or offered pick-up-and-delivery service and a veterinarian on call—even though the area had a large pet population. I've provided that service from the start, and it's bringing business my way."

Since a good location is all-important, the Census of Population and Housing reports for site location, furnished by the U.S. Census Bureau, can help you minimize the risk of starting a business. These state reports vary in price and can be ordered from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. (Allow four to six weeks for delivery.) In addition, site-selection help is available on a state level from the Economic Development Agencies that come under the Department of Labor and Industry in each state's capital.

Get Professional Help And Advice

Since lack of experience is one of the greatest risks, seek professional assistance from all possible sources from the start. This means seeing a lawyer, accountant, insurance broker and—when everything else is in order—a banker.

Other sources of advice are your local chamber of commerce and the Small Business Administration. The SBA and its regional offices offer management-assistance conferences, workshops, clinics, seminars and individual free counseling. You also can receive free guidance from the Service Corps of Retired Executives and the Active Corps of Executives. Both can be reached at 1441 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20416

Draw Up A Plan And Obtain Sufficient Financing

You'll need a well-put-together blueprint to get a loan or financing, so make good use of the foregoing sources for help in doing this. On this blueprint you must show such things as current financial status, profit-and-loss projections covering three years, collateral you can offer and a month-by-month projection of your business for the first year. Now you're ready to raise capital.

Unfortunately, you're likely to find many doors closed when it comes to raising money, but raise it you must. To determine the amount of capital you'll need, Michael Moylan, a management assistant officer of the SBA, suggests that a good rule of thumb is to estimate all of your expenses for the first year and then multiply that total by two. The usual fixed expenses are rent, utilities, licenses, insurance and taxes. Variable costs include supplies, equipment, furnishings, inventory, labor, advertising, attorney and accountant fees and sufficient capital to tide you over the slumps.

If you want a bank loan, the bank will be interested in how much money you need, how much of your own time and money you're going to invest, how you plan to use the money, what type of business you want to establish, what your credit rating is, what previous business experience you have, whether your business stands a good chance of making money and how you plan to repay the loan.

To obtain an SBA loan for equipment, materials and working capital, you first must seek private financing from a bank or other lending institution.

Observations™

Want to save money? Millions of Americans are saving an estimated half-billion dollars a year by using "cents-off" coupons for groceries and other goods. Who makes most use of coupons? Better-educated families, with higher incomes, are most likely to redeem them. Incidentally, each edition of the Mobil Travel Guide contains coupons worth up to $121 per family at museums, aquatic shows, and other points of interest. The 1977 Guide goes on sale this month. Inquire at your local Mobil service station or write to Mobil Travel Guide, Box MT, at the address below.

Taxing self-improvement. Here's an example of two government groups working against each other. The Internal Revenue Service treats reimbursements of employees' educational expenses as taxable income—and requires companies like Mobil to withhold taxes—if the courses involved prepare the employees for a better job, but not if they improve skills needed in the present one. This conflicts with Equal Employment Opportunity regulations which require companies to develop affirmative action plans to encourage the growth and advancement of people—specifically, women and minorities. Women and minorities are those hurt the most by this tax treatment as they try to climb the business ladder.

"HE SPENT MOST OF HIS TIME AT THE OFFICE, FILLING OUT GOVERNMENT FORMS. THEN, ONE DAY, HE JUST JUMPED ON HIS HONDA, AND DISAPPEARED."

Bottom of the barrel. Government agencies print about 10 billion sheets of paper a year to be filled out by U.S. businesses, according to the Commission on Federal Paperwork. That's enough to fill more than 4 million cubic feet of space. All told, government produces about 10 forms for every man, woman, and child in America.

A quote we like. "The best way to get a bad law repealed is to enforce it strictly." Abraham Lincoln.

PEOPLE QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

Cross your fingers and read on about what superstitions can mean and which people are most affected by them.

HOW SUPERSTITIOUS ARE YOU?

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who live in small towns and rural areas are more superstitious than city dwellers about such things as spilling salt, knocking on wood or having a black cat cross their path.

2. Women are much more superstitious about an "itching palm" than are men.

3. If you're superstitious about having bad luck on Friday the 13th or because you broke a mirror, your chances of something ill befalling you are increased.

4. Superstitious people tend to be suspicious of others and are difficult to persuade or influence.

5. Many people have a fear of being attacked by a "wicked old witch" who appears to them as a grotesque mental image as they're falling asleep.

6. When a person is deciding whether to walk under a ladder or to go around it, a lot depends on whether he sees someone else walking under it.

ANSWERS

1. False. A City University of New York study tested random samples of men and women of various ages and walks of life from both urban and rural areas as to their beliefs in each of the 12 most common superstitions (walking under a ladder, the number 13, knocking on wood, "itching palm," four-leaf clover, etc.). Findings: "The level of general superstitious belief appeared to be approximately equivalent" for both groups. There were, however, differences in the superstitions to which city and country people subscribed. For example, New Yorkers were significantly more influenced by the superstitions of "Three on a match" and "Keeping a found penny," while the small-town and country dwellers were more strongly influenced by belief in "Four-leaf clovers."

2. True. Although investigations have shown that women are more inclined to go along with all superstitious beliefs and practices than are men, the City University of New York study has shown that the "itching palm" superstition is particularly prevalent among women. (If the palm of the right hand "itches," money is coming to you; if it's the left hand, it will have to be paid out by you.)

3. True. Dr. Gustav Jahoda observes in his treatise on the Psychology of Superstition that if you firmly hold, for example, that Friday the 13th is unlucky, the belief is quite likely to affect your behavior on that day, make you uncertain and anxious and heighten your chances of accident or misadventure.

4. False. University of Nebraska studies show that people who are most inclined toward superstitious beliefs tend to be subject to external influences, are easily persuaded by the ideas and attitudes of others and are inclined to consider themselves a pawn of circumstance.

5. True. This phenomenon is experienced by so many people that the Univeristy of California's Dr. Donald Ward has made a special study of it. The archetypal figure of the "wicked old witch" has long symbolized vague and free-floating fears that are frequently present but often suppressed. And it's pointed out that "We all have the ability to fantasize. We all have a vision-making apparatus in our minds, and this apparatus is most active during certain mental states — for instance, when the mind is half asleep and half awake. The mind is programed for the dream state, but because the eyes are still open, you have the illusion that the dream is real." Dream visions, Dr. Ward finds, are far more common than we realize. And to illustrate, he reports that when he asked his university seminar students how many of them had had some similar "visitation," nearly half the students raised their hands.

6. True. University of Maryland studies show that a person is more likely to walk under a ladder if he sees someone else doing so. If nobody is observed walking under the ladder, the odds that the superstition will be respected sharply rise. In a British study of common superstitions, behavior of pedestrians was noted as they approached a ladder leaning against a building on a narrow, traffic-congested street. More than 90 percent "stepped into the street, risking the heavy motor traffic rather than pass under the ladder. And those who were questioned after walking under the ladder said that they simply hadn't noticed it, that their minds were on something else."

HOB KNOB

A doorknob does a great deal more
Than help you open, close a door.
At least in our house I have found
A doorknob good to have around
To serve as rack for hanging hose
(My wife's, and drying I suppose),
As well as towels, ties, and such —
Amazing it will hold so much.

The only trick one needs to know
Is how to turn the knob just so
And open thus, or close, a door
While dropping nothing on the floor.

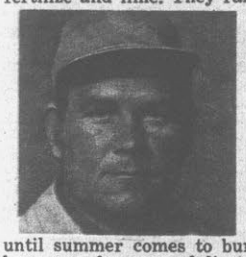
Every year I see people pour more and more money into their lawns. They dig, fertilize and lime. They rake it all in. They scatter their seed and roll and water it.



Birds love it! Seeds which aren't washed away by rain give them a feast. But some seed grows, and soon it's time to weed, water and mow, mow . . . until summer comes to burn the lawn into hay, or crabgrass and diseases infest it.

That's what happens to ordinary grass, but not to Amazoy Zoysia.

"MOWED IT 2 TIMES," WRITES WOMAN

For example, Mrs. M. R. Mitter writes me how her lawn ". . . is the envy of all who see it. When everybody's lawns around here are brown from drought ours just stays as green as ever. I've never watered it, only when I put the plugs in . . . Last summer we had it mowed (2) times. Another thing, we never have to pull any weeds — it's just wonderful!"

And from Iowa came word that the state's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn — nearly perfect" in its area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August!

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazoy lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement . . . ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazoy grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring — a true perennial!

For Slopes, Play Areas, Bare Spots

Your Own Supply of Plug Transplants

Established Amazoy gives you Zoysia plugs to plant in other areas as desired!

NO SEED, NO SOD!

There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass brings with it the problems of seed, like weeds, diseases, burning out, other ills.

Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass Was Perfected by U.S. Govt.; Released In Cooperation With U.S. Golf Assoc. as a superior grass.

Order guaranteed Amazoy now, get your bonus plugs FREE. Your order will be delivered at earliest correct time for planting in your area.

We ship all orders the same day grass is taken from the soil, shipping charge collect via most economical means.

DROUGHT AND WEAR RESISTANT

Amazoy lawns take cookouts and parties — children playing on it won't hurt it, or themselves! Stays green right thru scorching heat and drought!

NO NEED TO RIP OUT PRESENT GRASS PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

Just set Amazoy plugs into holes in ground like a cork in a bottle. Plant 1 foot apart, checkerboard style. Every plug 3 sq. inches.

When planted in existing lawn areas plugs will spread to drive out old, unwanted growth, including weeds. Easy planting instructions with order.

PATENTED STEP-ON PLUGGER IS ..... FREE WITH ORDERS OF 600 PLUGS OR MORE

Amazoy exclusive! No one else can offer you this patented 2-way plugger. Saves bending, time, work. Light, rugged, invaluable for transplanting. Cuts away competing growth as it digs plug holes

Every Plug Guaranteed to Grow In Your Area • In Your Soil

- AMAZOY WON'T WINTER KILL—has survived temperatures 30° below zero!
- AMAZOY WON'T HEAT KILL—when other grasses burn out, Amazoy remains green and lovely!

Plug Amazoy into an entire lawn or problem areas. Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil," clay or even salty, sandy beach areas. I guarantee every plug to grow . . . from part shade to full sun! Any plug failing to grow in 45 days replaced FREE. Since we're hardly in business for the fun of it, you know we're 100% sure of our product.

If it isn't Amazoy, you're not getting the plugs that made Zoysia famous.

Booklets For You And Your Family

Confused about what drugs are best for what illness? Worried about mixing medicines incorrectly? Here are some Government booklets that should answer any questions you might have. To order any of them write to: Official Business, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Indicate booklet title and number. Allow four to six weeks for delivery. Antacids (643E. Free): Shows effectiveness of antacid ingredients and explains their proper use. Brand vs. Generic Drugs (568E. Free): Discusses Federal standards to assure quality and purity in generic and brand-name drugs. Mixing Medicines? Have a Care (569E. Free): Explains drug interaction in your body and stresses the hazards of combining certain drugs. Patients as Partners in Health Care (571E. Free): How to learn about and properly use any medicine prescribed by a doctor; has a special section on antibiotics. A Primer on Medicine (572E. Free): How to buy, use safely and store over-the-counter and prescription drugs. Women and Estrogen (574E. Free): Questions and answers on the use of estrogens as replacement therapy in menopause. Women and the Pill (575E. Free): Benefits, risks and possible side effects.

Regular Food Is "Healthy," Too

Health food is no better, decomposes faster and costs three-times as much as regular food, say researchers at the University of Florida. Dr. Howard Appledorf, of the university's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, says his comparative analysis of 24 health foods and 24 regular foods showed no difference in the amount of nutrition. But the health food, lacking artificial preservatives, showed more spoilage organisms. "Some consumers believe items purchased in health-food stores will guarantee good health," Appledorf says. "While our well-being certainly depends on what we eat, there is no evidence that processed foods are less healthful than natural or organic foods."

A New Way To Teach Economics

As a course, economics never made the grade in most American high schools. But the subject now is being integrated into classes in physical education, health, political science and history. In phys. ed., for example, the idea is to teach about the business side of big sports. In health classes, the economics involved in running a hospital or in financing a health-insurance plan might be integrated into various lectures.

New York Zoological Society

News From Our Zoos

A new animal-dating service has been organized — condors are going from the West Coast to the Bronx, Bronx elephants are on their way to Knoxville and hairy-nose wombats from Phoenix are heading for Chicago. It's all part of a service designed to put more romance into the lives of the animals in America's zoos. The success of a four-year-old computer service that advises 110 zoos in the U.S. has excited zoological park people. Shipping costs are shared, along with the offspring which result. The major purpose of the project: to keep endangered species going. "When there are unpaired animals, loan agreements are the only means of getting species together," says Allegra Hamer, assistant zoologist at the Bronx Zoo. "We're sitting here now with five male ducks waiting for the ladies to fly in."

How To Keep Your Watch Running

Some timely advice from the American Gem Society on how to take care of your watch: resist the temptation to open the back of your watch; cosmetics, dust or moisture can injure the delicate mechanism. If the crystal cracks, it's a more serious matter than you might think — glass or even dust that gets inside can do a lot of damage. If you drop a nonwaterproof watch in water — whether it's in the sink or the Gulf of Mexico — place the watch in a container of identical water and take it to a jeweler as soon as possible. Leave the watch in the container of water so it won't dry out. Following this procedure — strange as it may sound — will prevent rust due to oxidation.

Survey Sees High-School Grade "Inflation"

Freshmen are entering college with higher grades than ever, says a survey conducted by the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) and the American Council on Education. The survey found that the number of college freshmen entering with an "A" average is now equal to the number with "C" averages. In the late 1960's, "C" students outnumbered "A" students by more than two to one. "When you consider these grade increases in light of declining college-admission test scores, it is hard to escape the conclusion that grading standards in high schools have been declining steadily since the late 1960's," says Alexander W. Astin, a professor at UCLA and director of the survey.

Small Claim: For A Problem Too Small To Hire A Lawyer

If you have a problem concerning home, property damage or similar complaints, remember that Small Claims Courts exist everywhere, so anyone with a grievance can sue (in most states for up to $1,000) without the expense of hiring a lawyer. You have to put in some effort — and, of course, there's a chance you'll lose — but if your claim is legit, it's probably worth it. (One caution: it's probably not worth the trouble if your claim is for a small amount. At some point, time is money, and the temptation to "teach 'em a lesson" should be resisted.)

Drive-In Mourning

It's the very last word in a whirlwind society. A 7-x 5-foot window in the side of the gold and white Point Coupee Funeral Home (New Roads, La.) allows mourners to pay their last respects without leaving their cars. Through the window the motorist views the deceased in an open casket backed by a small cross fringed in a thin band of blue neon light. By leaning slightly from the car window, the driver can sign an outside guest register. Funeral-home president Alvin Verrette admits the idea takes some getting used to. "We wanted something for working people who didn't have time to dress but wanted to show their condolences and sympathy. It's so nice to know someone cares."

Quick Takes

High-school girls scrawl three-and-a-half-times as much graffiti on the walls of restrooms as high-school boys do, says a recent survey made at the University of Cincinnati.... Supermarket cents-off coupons — which save shoppers an average of 14 cents each — are used mostly by families who seemingly need them the least. More than three-fourths of families with incomes above $15,000 a year regularly used the money savers, while only 31 percent of families earning under $5,000 took advantage of them, says Richard Aycrigg, director of market research for the nation's largest coupon processor.... A Scottish company has made export history by selling 60 tons of snowballs to Eskimos. The firm manufactures confectionary and the "snowballs" — shaved ice under flavored syrup — are the best-selling line. Managing Director Andrew Sims says, "We had been dispatching consignments to our agents in Nova Scotia for nearly four years before we realized that Eskimos, like everybody else, have a sweet tooth."... Instead of sending the patients at Le Bonheur Children's Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., coloring books and dolls, Elvis Presley sends them his annual collection of birthday fan mail — 20 cases of it. And they love it. "It's a great source of entertainment. It picks everybody up," says hospital employee Sally Harrison.... The bagel, that chewy American Jewish soul food, has finally arrived in Israel — to great customer resistance. "Even if shoppers ask the clerks, the clerks don't know what a bagel is," says Mordechai Kreiner, food buyer for an Israeli supermarket. "The only people here who want bagels are the Americans."

BIRTHDAYS (all Aries): Sunday — Doris Day 53; Marlon Brando 53; George Jessel 79; Wayne Newton 35. Monday — Arthur Murray 82; Anthony Perkins 45. Tuesday — Gregory Peck 61; Melvyn Douglas 76; Bette Davis 69; Mary Hemingway 69; Arthur Hailey 57; Michael Moriarty 36; Herbert VonKarajan 69. Wednesday — Andre Previn 48; Lowell Thomas 85; Roy Thinnes 39; Merle Haggard 40. Thursday — James Garner 49; David Frost 38; Ravi Shankar 57; Percy Faith 69. Friday — Mary Pickford 83; Jim "Catfish" Hunter 31. Saturday — Hugh Hefner 51; J.
