A HOTLINE APPEAL

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS NEEDED
Sandra Stokes, who is planning activities for older adults as part of her job with the Pitt County Mental Health Clinic, has asked Hotline to appeal for the donation of musical instruments for a new musical therapy program being planned by the center.
"We will be glad to accept any kind of instrument from a grand piano to a kazoo and will try to put them all to good use," Ms. Stokes said. She may be reached at 752-7151.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

OVEREATERS ANONYMOUS
Some months ago Hotline was asked if there was a chapter of Overeaters Anonymous in the Greenville area. We said there did not seem to be one and gave the address of the national headquarters. A chapter is being formed now. An organizational meeting will be held next Thursday night, May 26, at Arlington Street Baptist Church. Everyone who eats to excess and wishes to change his or her habits is invited. The format is patterned after and is very similar to Alcoholics Anonymous, a spokesman for the organizing group said.

HAS ROOM

Debbie Westbrook, the wife of the young man critically injured in a Kinston automobile accident Monday a week ago, has a room in which to stay each night that she must continue to spend her days at Pitt Memorial Hospital where he is a neurosurgical patient. Hotline's appeal for her yesterday was answered by 15 different persons through us, and we understand that eight or nine called the hospital direct, also, to offer her a room. She is staying with the E. J. O'Donnell family at 336 Glenn Court, Greenville, if anyone wishes to send her cards of encouragement there.
Mrs. Westbrook expressed appreciation to every person who expressed a willingness to open his or her home to her.

promise formula has been referred to Moscow.
U.S. and Soviet negotiators indicated they should know today or Saturday whether the two superpowers are going to be able to agree on their second treaty — SALT II — to limit or reduce their arsenals of long-range nuclear weapons.
Informed sources said the compromise formula, reached in a five-hour meeting Thursday and subject to approval by President Carter and the Kremlin, was a blend of a Russian proposal and the U.S. package rejected by Soviet Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev last March.
The sources gave this outline of the compromise:
1. Each government would make a modest reduction in its nuclear arsenal and would agree to hold another round of talks on further weapons cuts.
2. Development of the U.S. cruise missile would be limited, and restrictions would be put on where the Soviets could base their Backfire bomber.
The Backfire and the cruise have been the chief obstacles to agreement in negotiations for the past two years to incorporate the 1974 Vladivostok agreement by President Ford and Brezhnev into a treaty. It provided for each nation to be limited to 2,400 long-range bombers and intercontinental missiles. But the two governments could not agree whether the new Soviet bomber and the new American missile should Incorporate?

Residents of the Eastern Pines area, N.C. 43 to N.C. 33, will meet Tuesday night at the Eastern Pines Fire Department to discuss the possibility of incorporation.
Interested parties have secured the services of Greenville attorney Frank M. Wooten, Jr. in consideration of the matter.
Spokesman Glenn Hardee said the idea was "in the thinking stage," but declined further comment.

From Mess Hall To The Culinary Olympics

CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — It's a long way from the mess hall and KP duty to the Culinary Olympics, but the U.S. Army has made it.
After preparing for six months at Fort Lee, Va., the Army's top chefs will compete this weekend against some 200 of the nation's greatest chefs from fancy restaurants and hotel-motel chains in the National Salon of Culinary Arts.
A refrigerated Army truck arrived this week in Chicago with 22 crates—700 pounds—of spectacular food creations, such as cocoa paintings on a white sugar background, and sculptured sugar and tallow pieces.
"It was an enormous logistical problem of traveling 900 miles to Chicago without damaging the contents. The driver, Sgt. Sydney Martin of Stevensville, Mich., had to be as careful as if he had a load of explosives," said Major N.S. "Tank" Nash, 37,

Consumer Prices Up To Worrisome Level

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Another big jump in the cost of food pushed consumer prices up eight-tenths of 1 per cent in April, the third big monthly rise in consumer prices this year, the government reported today.
Food prices rose 1.5 per cent during the month, more than twice the March increase of six-tenths of 1 per cent. A major cause of the food price rise was the 13.1 per cent increase in the price of ground coffee, the government said.
The April increase in consumer prices, equivalent to an annual rate of nearly 10 per cent, showed inflation will continue to be a major economic problem for the Carter administration in the months ahead.
However, administration economists remain confident that spiraling food costs will slow down later this year, easing the over-all pressure on consumers' pocketbooks.
The Labor Department said its consumer price index for April stood at 179.6 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 10 years ago cost $179.60 last month.
Consumer prices last month were 6.8 per cent higher than in April of 1976.
The April surge in consumer prices followed a six-tenths of 1 per cent gain in March, when food prices also increased by six-tenths of 1 per cent. The April increase put the price rises back at the worrisome levels of February when they rose 1 per cent and January when they rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent. For the year, consumer prices have increased 3.2 per cent.
But the Labor Department saw some good news in the report. It said that excluding food and energy items, prices rose six-tenths of 1 per cent in April, about the same as in February and March and less than in January.
In addition, commodities prices other than food increased four-tenths of 1 per cent, matching the March figures and considered by economists to be an acceptable increase.
Economists look to prices of nonfood commodities for evidence of the underlying rate of inflation in the economy, since food prices are volatile and subject to wide swings from month to month.

The Carter administration now is forecasting an over-all increase in consumer prices this year of 6.7 per cent, compared with a 4.8 per cent consumer price hike in 1976.
The effects of the severe winter showed up in the April price index in sharply higher prices for onions, cucumbers, green peppers and tomatoes. The Labor Department said supplies of these foods from Florida were limited due to the freezing weather earlier this year.
Besides higher prices for coffee and vegetables, costs also increased for pork, cereal, bakery products, sugar and sweets. Prices of eggs and fresh fruits declined.
There were also higher prices during the month for transportation services, up 1 per cent, and for medical care services, up nine-tenths of 1 per cent. The increase in transportation services was blamed on a large hike in auto insurance costs.
Prices of fuel oil and coal rose nine-tenths of 1 per cent and used-car prices advanced four-tenths of 1 per cent, which in both cases was less than in recent months.
The price index for new cars declined one-tenth of 1 per cent. The Labor Department also said the purchasing power of workers' paychecks declined one-tenth of 1 per cent in April, largely because of a rising tax bite on workers' salaries.
Courtney Slater, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said she's confident that at some point around the middle of the year the rise in consumer prices will begin easing off.

Snow Hill Jail Escape

SNOW HILL — A prisoner in the Greene County Jail escaped last night between 11 p. m. and midnight after he locked the dispatcher-jailer in his cell.
Greene County Sheriff P. L. Barrow said the jailer had let Raymond Cooper, 32, out of his cell to make a phone call and was letting him back in to his cell when the man overpowered him and pushed him into the cell, slamming the door, which automatically locked it. The deputy who was standing in for the dispatcher heard the scuffle, Barrow said and went to investigate. The prisoner had turned off the lights and when the deputy stepped off the elevator, he, too, was overpowered and his pistol was taken. The prisoner then escaped out the back door.
Search went on into the morning, but Cooper was not found. About 7:30 this morning, it was reported that the automobile of Lola Edwards of Washington, Ga., visiting her parents in Snow Hill, was stolen. It is believed that Cooper may have the car, a 1977 beige Pontiac.
Barrow said Cooper, whom he described as a black male 6 feet, two inches, 165 pounds, is armed. He is wanted for armed robbery in Greene, Craven, Harnett, and Robeson Counties, the Sheriff indicated.

Senate Votes Lt. Gov. To Head Bd.

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill that would make the lieutenant governor the permanent chairman of the state Board of Education was tentatively approved by the Senate today on a 42-1 vote.
The measure will be up for final Senate consideration Monday night and then will face House action where opposition is expected to be stronger.
Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green is now serving as interim board chairman because former chairman Dallas Herring stepped down after Gov. Jim Hunt decided not to appoint Herring to a third eight-year term on the panel.
Hunt has urged the board to elect one of his appointees — Dr. David Bruton — chairman when the vote is held next month. The governor is believed to have a slim majority on the 15-member board.
Green supporters have said the lieutenant governor wants the chairmanship, though he has not said so publicly. The bill to put into law that the lieutenant governor have the job was filed by Sen. I. Beverly Lake Jr., D-Wake, a Green supporter.
The measure was not expected to draw opposition in the Senate because the lieutenant governor presides over that chamber. But, opponents have said the issue will have a tough time in the House.
During discussion on the bill today, no one spoke against it. A number of senators said the lieutenant governor would be a good chairman because he is a full time state official and is elected statewide, therefore answerable to the people.
The only senator to vote against the bill was McNeill Smith, D-Guilford.

Cigarette Taxes Said Becoming Big Threat

The tax on cigarettes is becoming one of the biggest threats to the tobacco industry, according to John Cyrus of the Tobacco Tax Council Inc.
Cyrus told the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association here Thursday that North Carolina is the "Number One domino" in the cigarette tax structure and other states are watching our tax situation very closely. A two to 21 cent tax range exists across the states.
Saying that he hopes the state legislature will not consider any cigarette tax increase bills this year, Cyrus contended, "If the legislature pushes that - first domino over (North Carolina), it will start a chain reaction across the states."
The tobacco spokesman explained that when the cigarette tax goes up, consumption goes down and consequently less tobacco will be bought. If the demand drops, he reminded, the secretary of agriculture has no alternative but to reduce quotas.
"Quota reductions not only pinch your income, but the economy of the whole state," Cyrus continued, including the trucking industry, wholesalers and all segments of the economy.
He said that he is involved in organizing up a network of Friends for tobacco that will include a coordination of all tobacco organizations and agencies. Several potential tax increase bills in Raleigh have been discouraged through the knowledge of the organization, Cyrus added.
The tobacco official told the gathering that he was wearing a "different hat" yesterday as he is taking a leave of absence from his duties as chief of the field crop section of the N.C. Department of Agriculture to tackle the post with the Tax Council.
Also speaking to the warehousemen during the morning session were Lionel Edwards, regional director of the Tobacco Division of Agriculture Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, who discussed designation, grader assignments, new grades in effect this season, and warehouse inspections; and Jimmy Hill, managing director of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association, who mentioned plans for the 33rd annual convention set for June 13-15 in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

captain of the U.S. Army Culinary Arts Team. Nash and two other "food stylists," Warrant Officers Robert Smith and David Dodd, are British exchange soldiers.
Others on the team are John Prioleau of Raleigh, N.C.; Luther Jarrell, Biloxi, Miss.; James Morgan, Mauriceville, Tex.; Walter Rhea, Hampton, Va.; Ivan Beasley, East Orange, N.J., and Larry Waldron, Reidsville, Ga.
Each specializes in certain designs, sculpturing and exotic preparation and cooking.
Thursday they started working around the clock in a hotel kitchen preparing on-the-spot cold buffet work of fish-crustacean entrees; gallantine, pate, mousse entrees, and other displays of poultry, game, veal, lamb, pork and beef. Finishing touches also are being given to four four-tier wedding cakes five feet high.
The Army team last year won 42 awards, including six firsts, with 48 entries. It has 50 entries this time.

"Last year we had no basic theme," said Nash. "Now we are linked to a central theme. Because of competition, the theme must remain a secret. I want to take the wraps off and have the other chefs say: 'Why the hell didn't I do this.' I think we'll come away with a lot more firsts."
"But winning prizes is not the bottom line. We're out to improve the image of the Army food program," he added. "In a sense, we're competing with the labor market for the best young men and women to come into the business of improving Army food service. This show is not an end to itself, it's a means to an end."
Judging will continue all night Saturday at McCormick Place with awards being presented Sunday. The visible effect is judged. None of the food is eaten. It is thrown out after the show ends.

Carter Sets Rules To Curb U.S. Arms Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — To help reduce U.S. arms sales to other governments, President Carter is proposing a six-point program he said puts the burden of persuasion "on those who favor a particular arms sale rather than those who oppose it."

The new policy concentrates on conventional weapons, but may affect dealings in advanced weapons systems and discourage commercial sales as well.

Under the plan, the United States "will not be the first supplier to introduce into a region newly developed, advanced weapons systems which would create a new or significantly higher combat capability," Carter said in a statement Thursday.

The policy pledges to reduce by a substantial but unspecified amount the weaponry to be transferred to foreign governments in fiscal 1978, which begins Oct. 1.

Some $32 billion in negotiated but unfulfilled arms sales will not be affected by the new policy, Jessica Tuchman of the National Security Council staff said the economic impact of the Carter plan will be minimal because of the large orders still pending.

The plan would prohibit development of advanced systems solely for export, as well as many co-production agreements. Under it, the United States may bar retransfers of weapons to third countries.

It also calls for amending federal regulations "requiring policy level authorization by the Department of State for actions by agents of the United States or private manufacturers which might permit the sales of arms abroad."

The new controls would apply to all transfers except countries with which the United States has major defense treaties. Carter specifically cited NATO, Japan, Australia and New Zealand.

The President also said, "We will remain faithful to our treaty obligations and will honor our historic responsibilities to assure the security of the state of Israel."

Exceptions may be made in "extraordinary circumstances ... or where I determine that countries friendly to the United States must depend on advanced weaponry to offset quantitative and other disadvantages in order to maintain a regional balance."

U.S. foreign military sales for fiscal 1977 was estimated last December at $8.8 billion.

Carter said the United States was taking the first step, but he hoped to begin discussions with other nations on multilateral actions.

Cub Rallies To Be Next Week

Boys who have completed second grade are eligible to be Cub Scouts. They are invited to either of two Cub Rallies to be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at Cornerstone Baptist Church and Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at St. James' United Methodist Church.

Several of the Cubmasters of the Greenville area will meet with interested boys and their parents. The registration fee is $2 per year.

District Scout Executive Richard Kelly said the hope is that many boys who usually wait until the fall after the second grade to join Cub Scouts will avail themselves of a summer of fun in Cub Scouting.

Mondale, Vorster Failed Agree

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA, Austria (AP) — U.S. Vice President Walter F. Mondale and South African Prime Minister John Vorster said today they had failed to agree on U.S. efforts to change South Africa's race segregation policies.

Mondale told a news conference that Vorster agreed in two days of talks here to help achieve black rule in Namibia and Rhodesia, but had stubbornly defended his government's policy of apartheid.

"We hope the South Africans will not rely on any illusions that the U.S. will in the end intervene to save South Africa from the policies it is pursuing," Mondale said, "for we will not do so."

Vorster, in a news conference immediately following that of Mondale, said there was a "vital difference" in the U.S. and South African positions.

He claimed the United States wants to equate the position of the American Negro with that of the South African black man and said, "This is where the difference comes in."

Vorster said the black South Africans were never slaves and have never been deprived of their nationality. He claimed blacks in his country have their own government and the right to vote.

Critics of South Africa dispute that blacks enjoy rights and opportunities comparable to that of whites.

Mondale said, "I think the message is now clear to the South African government. They know that we believe that perpetuating an unjust system is the surest incentive to increase Soviet influence and even racial war, but quite apart from that, is unjustified on its own grounds."

He said he hoped South Africa would consider the American experience with civil rights and reassess its apartheid policy of racial segregation.

"But I cannot rule out the possibility," Mondale said, "that the South African government will not change, that our paths will diverge and our policies come into conflict should the South African government so decide."

"In that event we would take steps true to our beliefs and values."

Mondale said he had not threatened Vorster with a list of possible American reactions if apartheid remains intact.

The Vice President described the talks as "quite difficult at times" but they retained a "basic civility."

Vorster, Mondale said, agreed to support the U.S.-British initiative to bring about independence and peace for Namibia, or South-West Africa, and to achieve black majority rule in Rhodesia by 1978. Namibia is a former German colony administered by South Africa under a League of Nations mandate now held invalid by the United Nations.

"The policy which the President wished for me to convey was that there is need for progress on all three issues — majority rule for Rhodesia and Namibia and a progressive transformation of South African society to the same end," Mondale said.

The vice president said he had stressed his argument that the United States had successfully dealt with the problem of improving the lot of blacks through civil rights legislation.

"There has been a transformation in American society of which we are very proud," Mondale said. "It affects not only our domestic life, but our foreign policy as well."

"We cannot accept, let alone defend, the government that rejects the basic principle of full human rights, economic opportunity and political participation for all of its people, regardless of race."

Five But An Oath Away

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt's five nominees to the state Utilities Commission are only an oath away from office after gaining easy approval Thursday from the General Assembly.

Three of the nominees will fill unexpired terms, while the others will take office July 1.

Those filling terms of commissioners who have resigned are Robert Koger of Raleigh, who has been on the Utilities Commission staff for a decade and was head of the engineering section; Dr. Leigh Hammond, an economics professor at North Carolina State University; and Sarah Lindsay Tate, a Raleigh attorney.

State Sen. John Winters, D-Wake, and Dr. Robert Fischback, a Charlotte physicist, will take office July 1.

The only negative vote on confirming the five came from Rep. Fred Dorsey, R-Henderson, who did not explain his reason.

The five nominees underwent grillings by Senate and House utilities committees. The easy confirmation contrasted with actions two years ago, when some of Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser's nominees were rejected or withdrew under criticism because they had ties with utility companies or were judged to be unqualified. Hunt promised in his campaign last fall to appoint a group of well qualified persons with varied backgrounds.

Armed Robbery During Night

An armed robbery occurred at the Convenient Food Mart in the Red Oak Shopping Center here last night at 11:50 p. m., according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Tyson said night clerks, Sharon and Clarence Westbrook reported that two black men, armed, entered the store and demanded the cash in the register and under the counter. Less than $200 was taken. No injuries were reported. It is believed that the two left by automobile headed toward Highway 264, Sheriff Tyson said.

Tradesman A Plain Clothes Professional

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: After years of reading your column you finally pushed the "write" button.

To PUZZLED IN FLORIDA who can't find anyone to do her repairs or remodeling, here are some reasons for the shortage of good professional craftsmen.

Many people have the idea that people who wear work clothes should work for peanuts. I charge $12 per hour and do top-quality work. After I pay the expenses of my truck and tools, license fees, insurance, etc., I'm lucky to have $9 left. And considering the time I spend, without compensation, making up bids, talking to customers and material suppliers, and doing paper work, I might net $7 per hour before taxes for the 2,000 or so hours I spend working hard in a year's time.

People who ask for estimates on remodeling or repair jobs are sometimes slow to make up their minds. They think my time should be free, but they gladly pay $30 to $50 per hour to talk to a doctor, lawyer or accountant.

When people learn to treat professionals in work clothes with as much respect as they treat professionals in suits and ties, good craftsmen will be easier to find.

TIRED OF PEANUTS

DEAR TIRED: Hooray for your side. I couldn't agree more.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's widowed mother has made her home with us for the past 22 years. She was not a built-in babysitter for our children or a servant. (Fortunately we have always had help.)

Lately my mother-in-law has become difficult to live with, and even violent. Her health is failing fast, and she constantly accuses us of trying to do away with her for her "money." (She doesn't have any.)

She has made such a madhouse out of our home that our teenage children can no longer have their friends over. My wife and I have discussed putting her mother in a fine rest home, but my wife's only worry is, "What will people say if I send my own mother away to be cared for by strangers?"

If you have a comment on this, I would like to see it in print.

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR N.: Elderly people who pose such problems in the homes of their children should be cared for in a rest home, if possible, for their own sakes and those of their children. Of all the reasons for refusing to send her, "What will people say?" is by the far the poorest.

DEAR ABBY: I am tall, handsome, intelligent, sincere, divorced, 43 and broke.

I would like to remarry. The woman's age, shape or looks are of no consequence...as long as she's rich.

I hope you'll agree to play matchmaker. And you may publish my real name and address because I am on the level.

HONOLULU

DEAR HON: Sorry but you'll have to find another way to find a rich woman who would marry a man with your qualifications and desire to sell himself to the highest bidder.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

How Chinese Women Really Cook

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Since the mid-40s when a book on Chinese cooking for American homes was privately published and became extremely successful, cookbooks on Chinese cuisine have abounded. And they are still appearing.

One of the most recent, "Mrs. Chiang's Szechwan Cookbook" by Ellen Schrecker with John Schrecker (Harper & Row), is one of the most rewarding — authentic, delightful and down-to-earth. That's because it is an out-of-the-ordinary, three-way partnership. The Schreckers are husband and wife: she teaches expository writing at Harvard and he is associate professor of Chinese history at Brandeis. In 1969 they went to Taiwan to live for a while and there met the Mrs. Chiang of the book's title who had grown up in Szechwan.

As Ellen Schrecker writes: "She began as our cook and housekeeper; she soon became a friend and teacher and eventually co-author of the cookbook." When the Schreckers returned to this country Mrs. Chiang came with them. For several years she stayed with them here and as Mrs. Schrecker says, "She recreated the culinary delights of Szechwan in Princeton, N.J., where we were then living. When our friends began pestering us for recipes for the Chinese dishes they tasted at our house, Mrs. Chiang and I began to think about compiling a cookbook. The recipes are hers, the writing is mine. My husband acted as translator and collaborator."

When recently I talked to Mrs. Schrecker on the phone and complimented her on the book's clear directions she told me that before its publication she asked a group of friends who were not skilled cooks to try its recipes. "From their experiences," she said, "I was able to assess the success of my writing. Now that the book is out we enjoy having friends cook from it when they invite us to dinner. Now, too, I'm in a bind: whenever I ask people to our house, even though Mrs. Chiang is no longer with us, they expect me to reproduce her dishes — and I do!"

When we tested Mrs. Chiang's Flaky Turnip Cakes in our own kitchen they were so good our tasters asked for the recipe. But the cookbook has more than recipes: it offers marvelous glimpses of the delightful Mrs. Chiang, her mother (from whom she learned so much about cooking), her father and a farm family's life in China's Szechwan province. The talents of the Schreckers have brought all this, and more, alive.

FLAKY TURNIP CAKES

A LA MRS. CHIANG

2 cups flour

1 teaspoon salt

1-3rd cup boiling water

Peanut oil

Turnip Filling, see below

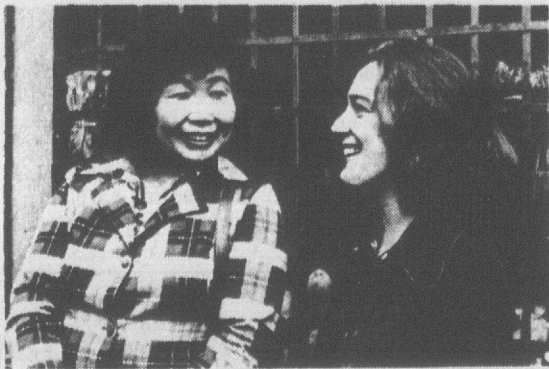

1 large egg, slightly beaten

½ cup sesame seeds

In a medium bowl stir together the flour and salt; add the water and 1-3rd cup oil. Stir vigorously to blend; the dough will be very short — if it does not hold together, add another tablespoon of water. Turn out on a large flat unfloured surface and knead for 2 minutes; let rest for several minutes; knead again for 2 minutes. Shape into a 16-inch long roll and cut into 10 equal portions; slightly flatten each with your palm; with a rolling pin, roll each into a rough circle about 4 inches in diameter.

Place 1 heaping tablespoon of the Turnip Filling in the center of each circle; bring up edges and pinch together on top; flatten with your palm. With the rolling pin, gently roll each into a circle about 3 inches in diameter. One at a time, dip the cakes into the egg, the into the sesame seeds, pressing in the seeds with your palm.

Fill a large heavy iron skillet with enough peanut oil to come up ¼ inch and heat over moderate heat; add the cakes to the hot oil and fry until bottom sides turn a light gold — about 4 minutes; turn and fry until other sides are golden — about 3 minutes. Place well apart on an unrolled cookie sheet and bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 250 degrees and continue baking for 15 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 10 cakes.

TURNIP FILLING

1½ cups loosely packed

coarsely grated pared

white turnip

¾ teaspoon salt

3 scallions, finely chopped

with green tops included

2 teaspoons soy sauce

2 teaspoons sesame oil

In a small bowl sprinkle the salt over the turnip; mix well and let stand for 15 minutes. Turn into a strainer to drain, then with a spoon or by squeezing with your hands, remove excess moisture. Mix well with the scallions, soy sauce and sesame oil; taste and add more salt if desired. Adapted from "Mrs. Chiang's Szechwan Cookbook" by Ellen Schrecker (Harper & Row).

Reading Project Gains Ground

Governor Jim Hunt's effort to emphasize reading skills in North Carolina schools is gaining ground. Last week a joint House-Senate subcommittee gave the program a "priority one" status, which virtually assures necessary funding will be kept in the budget.

We share with the Governor a conviction that reading ability is the common base for all other learning, and that skill (as well as a love for reading) must be acquired at an early age.

Gov. Hunt raised the primary reading program as a worthy goal during his campaign for office and has continued to stress the need with a laudatory single-mindedness ever since.

He picked a tough nut to crack; but hopefully the problem of reducing the ranks of our functionally illiterate will become more than a hope or a promise.

New Hospital Undergoes Early Review

The new Pitt Memorial Hospital is barely open when it faces a survey by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

The survey was conducted last week. It is important to any hospital because it determines whether or not the institution will be accredited.

It is doubly important to Pitt Memorial because of the myriad medical programs now underway in the new facilities.

No doubt it was difficult on the staff to provide for the survey so soon after moving. It is, however, essential since an outside appraisal is needed of the health care program which the hospital offers.

THIS AFTERNOON

Inventory Tax Questions

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A big push is on in the North Carolina General Assembly to rid the state's manufacturers of what Lt. Gov. James C. Green calls "the archaic inventory taxes" paid by those firms.

Inventory taxes are part of the local property tax structure and are paid to local county or municipal governments. The tax is levied upon materials on hand for manufacturing purposes at a given time.

Best estimates at present are that local governments realize about $40 million per year from that tax. Green's proposal would allow manufacturers to phase out the local payment by giving a state tax credit over a 10-year period starting with 10 per cent and increasing proportionately each year. The local governments would not lose the money. They would continue to collect the tax. The state would absorb the loss.

How Much?
How much would that loss to the state be at the end of 10 years? There is no way to pin that down conclusively, but it is obvious that at present local tax rates and inventories, the loss would be at least $40 million per year.

With increased local tax valuations, expanded manufacturing operations, and higher local tax rates in the future, the state loss would obviously be much higher somewhere down the road.

Green doesn't fret over that: "the impact of lost revenue will be greatly exceeded by the stimulus from new industry that is attracted to North Carolina as a direct result..."

Professionals in the field of industry hunting agree with that assessment, and are strongly behind the inventory tax phaseout. State experts are convinced that with industry revenue bonds now part of their portfolio and given the end of the inventory tax—they can be much more successful.

State industry hunters insist that over a four-year span this state lost more than $444 million in industrial investment due to the inventory tax.

Others, however, are not as certain of the long-term effect of the drive by the General Assembly to end that tax.

The Institute of Government at Chapel Hill in a study released last winter concluded that "the absence of property taxes on inventories in South Carolina does not always lead to a lower total property tax bill because of a relatively high effective property tax rate applied to real property."

No Impact
In sum, that survey showed that when you consider all local taxes and rates, all state taxes and fees, federal income taxes, and payroll taxes, "property taxes comprise a small percentage... and property taxes are counted as expenses on state and federal corporate income tax returns..."

The net result: "the total tax differential an industry faces in choosing among locations amounts to less than 0.5 per cent of its annual sales."

Local tax differences are not significant in business location decisions, and it is not desirable to use tax incentives, the Institute study reports, and further cites the consensus of nine local development leaders that "local taxes are not an important factor in most business location decisions."

By way of illustration, the study shows a Gaston County apparel plant with annual sales of $10 million paying a total tax bill of $686,376. The inventory tax is $3,833. A similar operation in York County, South Carolina, paid a total tax bill of $683,505, with no inventory tax. Significantly, in Gaston County the real and personal property tax bill was $5,229. In York County it was $10,658.

In summary, the Institute reported that key elements in a location decision are labor costs and unionization; transportation; livability; and any special requirements.

Where, then, the impetus for the inventory tax relief? State tax officials believe it comes from industries already in the state; and from retailers and wholesalers who will make a concerted push for relief in the next session of the General Assembly once the door is opened.

Someone sent us a scheflera for an anniversary, and friends who have a farm in the Shenandoah trucked in two spider plants which were put in the dining room. A future son-in-law presented us with three rubber plants, and on my birthday I was given a potted elephant's-ears all of my own. My daughter, who was going away to college, asked us if we would keep her weeping fig plants while she was away, and someone, I can't remember who, sent us a box of screw pines.

The house looked green and lovely for a short while. But then a strange thing happened. The plants kept getting larger and larger. First they took over the living room. We realized this when the man who came to fix the TV set got lost and was never heard from again. My wife wanted me to search for him, but I said to her, "Are you kidding? That living room's a jungle."

One Saturday I bought a machete and tried to chop a trail through the living room to my library. But after four hours I realized it was hopeless. The more I hacked away the faster the houseplants grew. We closed off the living room.

We were sitting in the dining room one evening when I noticed I couldn't see anyone at the table. It was an eerie feeling as I shouted through the palm leaves: "Is anybody there?" I thought I heard a voice coming from the end of the table saying, "You Tarzan, me Jane," but it could have been the wind. I looked up and saw one of my children sitting in a branch of the palm tree. "What are you doing up there? Sit down and eat your dinner."

"Where can I sit?" she wanted to know.

"In your chair," I said.

"I can't find my chair," she said. "Do you think they'll ever send a rescue ship to find us?"

That night I said to my wife, "We've got to move out of the dining room. It's not safe to eat there any more."

"They're only plants," she said.

"What about scorpions and snakes? You can't have that much foliage without scorpions." We put some defoliant down between the dining room and kitchen and started to eat all our meals in the kitchen. Occasionally, a kangaroo vine or the grape ivy tried to sneak in, but I kept an ax by my side and every once in a while I chopped off a length of it before it crawled to our food.

My doctor warned me to stay out of the library unless I wanted to take a gamble on catching malaria or yellow fever.

Despite our efforts to keep the plants from getting into the kitchen a yucca tree crushed the door down and in a matter of a week the kitchen was a forest.

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE

Cousin Hugh vs. USAF

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Air Force has won a battle against Hugh Carter Jr., the President's second cousin and chief economist. But it looks like the Air Force scored only a temporary triumph.

Shortly after he moved into the White House, Cousin Hugh decided that his twin goals of saving money and "depomping" the place would be best served by dispatching "advance teams" on commercial airline flights to distant cities being visited by Cousin Jimmy.

These teams, which make preliminary arrangements for presidential visits, always traveled in the past aboard Air Force transports. Made up of representatives of the Secret Service, White House Communications Agency, transportation office and others, the teams often visit a number of locations, sometimes in several widely scattered cities and towns, in preparation for a single Carter trip.

When plans were being made for the President's first big outing, to Massachusetts, West Virginia and New York two months ago, the advance team had to observe Hugh Carter's edict. And some of its members argue this resulted in wasting rather than saving money.

Item: There is no commercial air service to Clinton, Mass., where Carter held a "town meeting," so the team flew to Boston and ran up some hefty car rental bills.

Item: Since team members had to move in accord with commercial schedules, rather than flying from one stop to the next whenever they were ready, they found that it took two days to cover ground that some felt should only have taken one. So the government had to pay their hotel bills for one night and shell out for an extra day of travel allowances.

Said one of Hugh Carter's critics, who noted with asperity that the Air Force jet and crew that could have been used were already paid for:

"It was like renting a car to make a trip when you had a Cadillac in the garage and a salaried chauffeur standing by."

So how did the Air Force win a battle over Cousin Hugh?

Well, when it came time for an advance team to visit Europe last month to make preliminary arrangements for the President's visits to London, Newcastle and Geneva, Hugh Carter ruled that commercial airlines again would be patronized.

Fine, said the Air Force, but one of the big jets from the presidential fleet was going to make advance visits to all those cities anyway. This was in line with standard procedures for arranging appropriate on-the-ground security for Air Force One and familiarizing the cockpit crew, for safety's sake, with strange airports.

Faced with the prospect of an empty jet making a round trip to Europe, Hugh Carter decided the advance team could hitch a ride.

But Cousin Hugh did a bit of economizing anyway. He cut the advance contingent to fewer than 30 persons — about half the number that might have made the trip in other recent administrations.

Houseplants Take Over

WASHINGTON — What happened was that a few years ago people started giving us houseplants instead of cut flowers. The children gave their mother a palm tree for Mother's Day; they gave me a philodendron for Father's Day and three dieffenbachias for Christmas.

My wife put them in the living room. Then relatives brought a snake plant a few months later, and a friend presented us with a fuchsia plant which my wife put in the library to help "cheer" it up.

She dutifully watered them and talked to them and they started to grow... and grow... and grow. Then she decided the living room looked bare and bought some grape ivy which she wrapped around the fake balcony and some aspidistras which she placed in the corner near the television set.

Someone sent us a scheflera for an anniversary, and friends who have a farm in the Shenandoah trucked in two spider plants which were

Fine Print Points

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Every insurance policy has its fine print, to tell you what isn't covered. So does President Carter's promise of national health insurance, a policy he said will be in effect before he leaves the White House.

But it may take a while, given his cautionary notes on timing and on financing.

Those fine print points are likely to temper the rejoicing of Democrats who are pressing for swift creation of a system of mandatory health insurance to cover all Americans. But they aren't complaining now. They have what they think is a concession from the administration.

Carter left that impression without significantly changing anything. He has long been committed to national health insurance. And the administration has an advisory committee at work on specific proposals.

The President did say he will have a proposal ready for Congress early next year. But he didn't say what will be in it, nor did he say when it might take effect if passed.

Carter's record on the issue is one of commitment with caution. He has not said whether he wants national health insurance built around the existing system of private coverage, or run entirely by the government. And he tied his campaign promises to the availability of money to pay the insurance bill.

The White House catalogue of his campaign promises calls for national health insurance "phasing in as revenues permit," and beginning in the areas of greatest need, with the elderly and with maternal and infant care.

It calls for "eventual univer-

40 Years Ago Today

May 20, 1937

The German embassy has made informal representations to the State Department over criticism voiced by Cardinal Mundelein at Chicago against Chancellor Hitler and Germany's Nazi regime.

This was learned today by embassy officials Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff had not thus far received instructions from his government to make a formal protest.

Mundelein had referred to Hitler as "an Austrian paper hanger, and a poor one at that."

The Spanish-Valencia government appealed today for a new examination of the civil war situation by the League of Nations council under Article XI of the League Covenant.

The note said developments in foreign intervention had reached such proportions a council inquiry was justified.

Article XI declares "any war or threat of war" is a matter of concern to the whole League "and the League shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations."

Strength For Today

LIVING SERMONS
Justin Martyr, a leader in the early church who lived and worked about 150 A.D., was said to have been converted to Christianity by someone whose name he did not even know. Out of the shadows came some humble believer in Jesus Christ who said just the right word at the right time.

This apparently commonplace event illustrates the fact that we never know the extent of our influence. Some people believe that in order to witness to Jesus Christ they must buttonhole the first person they meet and preach him a sermon.

Sometimes this evangelical technique is effective. But usually we can help the Christian enterprise better by being a sermon rather than by preaching one. If we are living examples in whose purity, honesty, and good cheer men see written large the truths of the gospel, we can be sure we are doing something profound and significant in the service of God and Jesus Christ.

Why Is Productivity Lagging?

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Absenteeism and the social rites of work — coffee breaks, washup time, retirement parties — may be among the reasons why U.S. productivity isn't as high as it might be, suggests Arthur Burns.

Burns is a man of unquestioned integrity, which is one of the reasons he sits as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, which to some degree controls the money supply, and again to some extent the level of interest rates.

But there is very much more that might be added to the list of reasons why production isn't as efficient as we would like to see it, and some of those reasons relate directly to the chairman and his colleagues.

What is happening to the innovative spirit, to the inventiveness, the creativity of individuals? This is the well from which big improvements in productivity have always sprung, a well some people think is running low.

A little money would help, but the creative individual seeking a first loan is often told by a condescending banker that "while we agree your idea is excellent, we suggest you try to raise such a small amount from relatives."

Venture capitalists are hardly venturers; despite their name, they aren't very willing to take risks in order to obtain potentially large rewards. And the stock market today is hardly the place for new companies to raise cash.

The haven for the Edisons of today too frequently is the large concern rather than the type of small company that would generate ideas and products that would challenge the larger organizations and keep them alert and efficient.

Oligopoly contributes. Protected from competition because of the large share of the market they control, some large companies may be a lot less price-efficient than they could under more challenging circumstances.

There are other possibilities to consider.

Burns talks about the coffee break. But what should we say about the so-called management conference that is held thousands of miles away, where the weather is warm, the golf course is short and the liquor is smooth?

Would the management ripoff, as it's coming to be called, have something to do with lowered productivity? Most likely. Shareholders are growing more distressed at the manner in which some corporate officers enrich themselves at their expense.

Our concern for the health of our earth and the people who inhabit it contributes.

Enormous expenses have been added to the cost of products because of these two considerations.

Our concern for the unemployed and the elderly contributes.

So does big government. Bureaucracy often is non-productive, and thus the cost of supporting it must be borne by products and people that pay their way.

Our use of laws and lawyers contributes. Product liability insurance has become overwhelmingly costly for some companies.

Almost everyone contributes to the less than satisfactory level of productivity, and almost anyone can do something about it, albeit in a small way.

Arthur Burns' effort, for example, might be aimed at making it less costly for a young entrepreneur to borrow funds.

Nixon's Secret Pledge To Hanoi 'Not Binding'

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressman who disclosed Richard Nixon's secret agreement to give up to $5 billion in U.S. aid to North Vietnam says the promise is not binding on the current administration.

Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., said the agreement is "an historical document, null and void." His opinion is shared by Nixon, and more importantly by President Carter, who has said he does not feel bound by any of Nixon's commitments.

Details of the four-year-old agreement were revealed officially for the first time Thursday in a previously classified document released first by the State Department and then by Wolff, who also made public a recent letter from Nixon explaining his views on the subject.

While asserting that the documents proved Nixon and senior State Department officials "consistently misled" Congress and the public about the aid agreement, Wolff said the disclosure should not give the Vietnamese any "false hopes" that the aid is forthcoming.

"As has been firmly indicated by the Carter administration, by the Congress and by Mr. Nixon ... events of the past have no bearing on any future agreements which may be negotiated. The Paris peace accords have been breached and therefore voided by the actions of all signatories," Wolff said.

The declassified paper defining the agreement was a Feb. 1, 1973, letter from Nixon to North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong, declaring that under the peace pact signed three days earlier, the United States would contribute about $3.5 billion in postwar reconstruction aid to his regime "without any political conditions." It promised another $1 billion to $1.5 billion in other forms of aid.

Hanoi defeated the Saigon regime in 1975 and since then has demanded fulfillment of the Nixon pledge before restoring relations or giving further data on Americans missing in Indochina.

U.S. officials have always denied any secret aid promise was ever made. Wolff recalled that former secretaries of state Henry Kissinger and William P. Rogers did so in 1973, and Undersecretary of State Philip A. Habib repeated the denial in House testimony a year ago.

Wolff said he wanted to ask those individuals about their denials again, and also has some "unanswered questions" for Nixon.

In his letter from San Clemente dated last Saturday, Nixon did not confirm or deny any "secret" agreement for aid, but he said congressional leaders were thoroughly briefed on the peace pact, including aid proposals, at the time the agreement was signed.

And he recalled that his letter to Dong noted that all terms of the agreement would be carried out according to each country's "constitutional provisions," which in the case of the United States meant the approval of Congress.

Nixon added that inasmuch as the Vietnamese had broken the agreement by refusing to pull troops out of Cambodia and Laos and by invading South Vietnam in 1975, "there is no commitment of any kind, moral or legal, to provide aid to the Hanoi government."

By The Associated Press

A weak cold front moved into North Carolina Thursday, triggering scattered thundershowers across much of the state, some of them severe.

Early this morning, very heavy thunderstorms continued over the southeastern part of the state in an area ranging from Fayetteville to Wilmington. Other thunderstorms were reported this morning from Wilkesboro to an area south of Greensboro, and also in Stokes and Rockingham counties on the Virginia border.

Thunderstorms carrying marble-size hail and damaging winds raked portions of Wake County Thursday, knocking out power and felling trees in some sections. Several planes were delayed in landing at the Raleigh-Durham Airport at the height of the storm, according to a spokesman.

Temperatures were notably cooler this morning and readings this afternoon were not expected to be quite as hot as Thursday's temperatures. Highs today were expected to be in the 80s after reaching the 90s Thursday in many places.

For the second day in a row, New Bern was the hottest reporting point Thursday with 95 degrees. Fayetteville, Wilmington and Rocky Mount all reported 94 degrees. Other high readings included 93 at Goldsboro, 92 at Greensboro and 91 at Charlotte and Raleigh.

Temperatures are expected to be a little more comfortable Saturday, with highs again in the 80s.

Those guidelines have not been amended publicly, and they point to a more cautious beginning than some congressional Democrats are advocating. Addressing the United Auto Workers, which has championed national health insurance for a decade, Carter spoke of phasing a workable system.

"We are aiming to submit legislative proposals early next year," he said.

That timetable satisfied Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a leading sponsor of health insurance legislation, who had questioned Carter's commitment on the issue.

Kennedy said he was encouraged to have a clear indication of the administration's timetable.

"I want this program to be established during my time in office," Carter said. If re-elected, he would be there through 1984.

Kids and Calves

Little Moo should grow up into a fine milk cow. She has good blood lines. Her future reasonable human attention can assure.

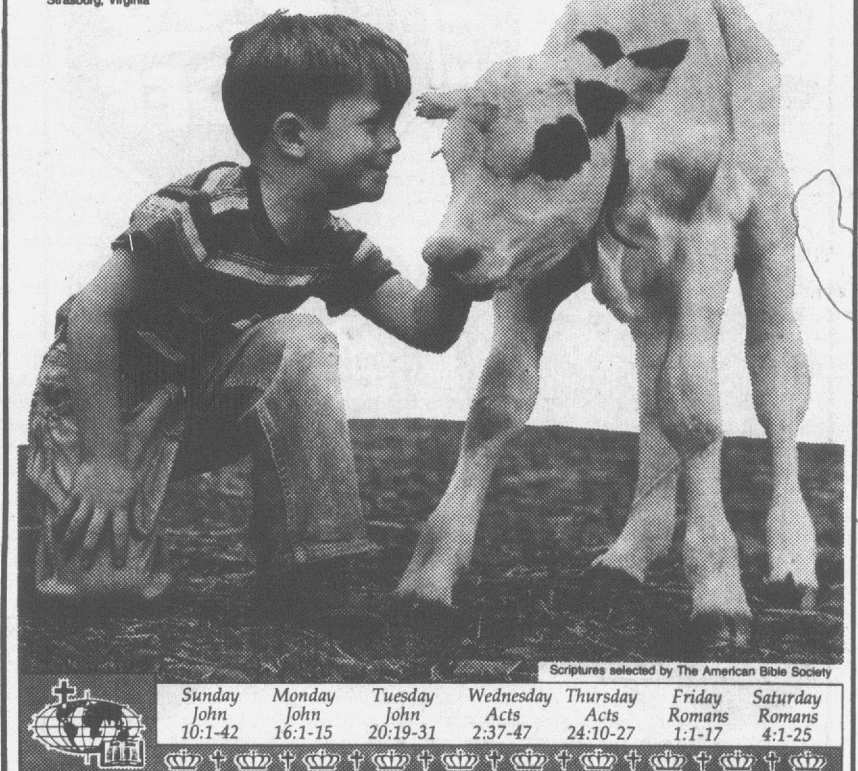

Bobby's tomorrow — that's another question. Excellent blood lines, of course. Attention will be more than reasonable. Bobby is loved!

But a kid's future isn't fashioned in the meadow or barn. Not even in the home and school.

Ideas and ideals will mold Bobby's tomorrow. Convictions and principles will shape his character. These can be exemplified at home and practiced at school. But they're taught best and developed most surely in the educational and youth programs of the Church.

Make next Sunday the threshold of a bright tomorrow for your son or daughter.

Nixon Said--

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are highlights of David Frost's interview with former President Richard M. Nixon, broadcast Thursday night.

THE PRESIDENT AND CRIME

Nixon said he approved the Huston plan, calling for wiretappings, burglaries, mail-openings and other covert activities for reasons of national security. He said these actions were not crimes because the President is above the law.

He said, "when the President does it, that means that it is not illegal."

VIETNAM WAR

Nixon thought Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson were "right in going in" to the war, but "they could have conducted it in a more effective way."

He said it would be popular to declare the whole venture a waste, but "I'm not going to say it because I don't believe it."

CAMBODIA

The two-month incursion into Cambodia in 1970, said Nixon, was "one of the most effective operations of the war" because of weapons and equipment confiscated. He acknowledged that it failed to uncover — as part of its originally stated purpose — the communist headquarters for the war, simply because no such place existed.

"As far as Cambodia is concerned," Nixon summed up, "I only regret that I didn't act stronger sooner."

USING THE IRS

Asked about the scheme to use Internal Revenue Service files against his enemies, Nixon said the IRS had been used for political purposes before and "we should stop it in the future." But "it is not an abuse of agencies; it is not illegal," he said.

PARANOIA AND HATE

"Am I paranoid about hating people and trying to do them in?" Nixon asked. "And the answer is: at times yes." He admitted to having paranoia about those who leaked secrets, saying: "Paranoia for peace isn't that bad."

ANTIWAR EFFORTS

"Had it not been for the division in America, the war would have been ended one to two years earlier, in my opinion," he said.

The actions he took domestically to maintain support for the war were "essential in order to get the enemy to negotiate," said Nixon. "It could be said that I was one of the casualties, or maybe the last casualty in Vietnam. If so, I'm glad I'm the last one."

DANIEL ELLSBERG

As for Daniel Ellsberg, the man who leaked the Pentagon Papers, "I didn't want to discredit the man as an individual, I couldn't care less about the punk."

Another Taped Conversation Is Offered In Wilmington 10 Case

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer BURGAW, N.C. (AP) — Still another taped telephone conversation with key witness Allen Hall was brought into the post conviction hearing for the Wilmington 10 Thursday as defense attorney sought to discredit two earlier tapes.

In the latest tape, recorded Monday night, a voice identified as that of Hall said he was telling the truth last week, when he said in the Pender County courthouse that he committed perjury against the 10 defendants five years ago.

And, in the conversation with defense attorney James Ferguson, Hall said he was coerced into making telephone calls to former Wilmington 10 prosecutor Jay Stroud last week. In those tapes, played in court Monday, a voice identified as Hall tells Stroud his 1972 testimony against the 10 was the truth, and that he was pressured into lying last week by supporters of the 10.

Superior Court Judge George M. Fountain laughed as defense attorneys said they wanted to introduce a tape recording, and when he heard Hall's voice again refute his own earlier statements.

On the tape, Hall said he received threats — though he did not say from whom — that the Rev. Ben. Chavis' mother and three children would be harmed if he did not change his recantation story.

"That statement, I swear to Allah, it was not given by my own free will," Hall said, referring to the conversations with Stroud. Chavis was leader of the group of nine black men and one white woman who were convicted of the burning of a white-owned grocery during racial violence in Wilmington in 1971.

The tapes came after 18 witnesses testified during the ninth day of the hearing. Most of them were state witnesses, who corroborated earlier testimony that Hall had given contradicting statements about the case at various times. They also said prosecutors had not offered inducements for witnesses to testify against the 10, as Ferguson has tried to show.

Among the defense witnesses was Onslow County jailer Earl

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices slumped in the stock market today, depressed by some adverse inflation news.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 6.70 to 929.78, after a 5.43-point drop on Thursday.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 7-4 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

First-hour volume on the Big Board was a moderate 4.88 million shares.

The Labor Department reported this morning that the consumer price index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.8 per cent in April—equivalent to a 9.6 per cent annual rate.

Food prices were the principal problem, as they have been for the past several months.

Brokers noted that the market also was faced with evidence that the Federal Reserve had decided to tighten credit a bit further.

Short term interest rates have been in a steady uptrend lately as the Fed has sought to restrain inflation with the economy picking up momentum.

International Business Machines, No. 1 in total market value among all NYSE issues, fell 2 1/4 to 250, establishing a new low for the year.

The stock has fallen some 30 points in less than two months, partly on disappointment over the company's first quarter earnings.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index was down .22 at 54.37.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gave up .14 to 114.78.

Ex-Premier Ky Blames Watergate For Defeat

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former South Vietnam Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky blames Watergate for his nation's fall, saying that a strong Richard Nixon would never have let South Vietnam collapse.

Ky, now operating a liquor store-delicatessen in suburban Norwalk, viewed former President Nixon's televised interview with David Frost Thursday night and said, "I don't want to blame Mr. Nixon."

"If Nixon had stayed in, and with the power of the United States President intact, he could have put a lot of pressure on the Communists to respect the treaty. What happened was Watergate, and the power of the American President was no more."

By the time Ford came to power, Ky said, "He had another situation on his mind. Ford had nothing to gain by sticking to the (South) Vietnamese."

Ky said that what Nixon claimed to be his "solution" to the war — the Vietnamization program — was in fact a policy that Ky himself thought of and Nixon implemented at his suggestion.

"I personally convinced them (Nixon and Pentagon staff leaders) to accept the Vietnamization plan, to pull out and let Vietnamese fight the war," Ky said.

Ky agreed with Nixon's assessment of the 1970 invasion of Cambodia as being necessary, but said Nixon was wrong in calling it "one of the most effective operations of the war."

"It was successful, but only halfway," said Ky, who claimed to have crossed the Cambodian border himself at the time. He said there were three divisions of North Vietnamese across the Cambodian border at the time, and while the U.S.-South Vietnamese offensive was successful in dispersing part of the sanctuary, it failed by stopping short of wiping out all three divisions.

Nixon, while saying Presidents Kennedy and Johnson were right in entering Vietnam, criticized their conduct of the war, and Ky agreed.

"I told President Johnson that the best way to fight the war is to have Vietnamese fight the war themselves, to defend themselves," Ky said. "They didn't listen to me."

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Late returns from the Israeli election gave Menahem Begin's conservative Likud bloc and its potential coalition partners enough votes for a small but effective majority in the 120-member Knesset, Israel's parliament, election committee sources said today.

The unofficial count of civilian ballots on Tuesday's election gave Likud 43 seats in the 120-member parliament while the religious and right-wing partners that are expected to support it had 19 seats. This would give the coalition a total of 62 and a majority of four.

The sources said Likud was expected to pick up another seat from the still incomplete military returns for a total of 63, or a majority of six.

Meanwhile, the Labor party, which dominated Israeli politics from the founding of the state in 1948 until the election, rejected Likud leader Begin's invitation to form an all-party unity coalition. The late returns gave Labor 32 seats, one fewer than earlier returns indicated it would win and 19 fewer than its count in the 1973 election.

Begin, first in line to become prime minister, emphasized his opposition to Israel's relinquishing any of the West Bank of the Jordan river with a visit on Thursday to an unauthorized Jewish settlement at Kaddum, near Nablus, the volatile Arab capital of the West Bank.

Begin proclaimed the West Bank the "liberated land of Israel" and promised more Jewish settlements to cement Israel's hold on the territory, which it captured in the 1967 war.

The leader of the Labor party, Acting Prime Minister Shimon Peres, cited this stand in rejecting Begin's invitation to join in a coalition.

"Likud offers no alternative for peace," he told his party's central committee. "The gulf between us is too wide."

The Laborites say they would release some of the territory but planned to ring it with military posts and paramilitary settlements.

The Arab states demand return of all territory captured by Israel in the 1967 war, and they want the West Bank for a Palestinian state.

Meanwhile, Presidents Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Hafez Assad of Syria met Thursday with King Khaled of Saudi Arabia in Riyadh, the Saudi capital, to discuss the results of the Israeli elections "and a common Arab stand should there be any changes in the Middle East situation," Cairo Radio reported.

Putting Money On Dragonflies

SCARBOROUGH, Maine (AP) — Scarborough Downs is putting its money on dragonflies to beat back pesky mosquitoes that torment railbirds at the harness racing track just south of Portland.

Five thousand immature dragonflies were released this week around the track and the nearby swampy lowlands.

The southern Maine towns of Ogunquit and Wells successfully used dragonflies, rather than pesticides, last year to fight mosquitoes.

Rampants Lose Final Game

Rose High School's baseball team, looking lethargic in its last outing of the season, dropped a 3-1 decision to Northeastern at Guy Smith Stadium yesterday afternoon.

The Rampant offense could generate only three hits and put only seven men on base all day. Defensively, Rose committed four errors with one of them accounting for the Eagles' second run.

Northeastern took an early lead by scoring a pair of runs in the top of the first. Leadoff batter Woody McDaniels started things rolling with a single to left and then stole second. After one out, Norman Watts walked and Kirt Twiford singled to left, scoring McDaniels.

Twiford's hit was erred and that allowed Watts to score on the play to give Northeastern a 2-0 lead. Twiford was left stranded at third, however, as the Rampants came up with two more outs.

Rose shortstop Greg Lee doubled with one away in the Rampant half of the first, but the next two batters were put out to leave him at second.

Mark Conway walked for the Rampants in the second and, after that, Eagle pitcher Chuck Cullen retired eight batters in a row. The next Rampant to get on was Conway, who doubled in the fifth. He went to third on a passed ball and scored when Danny Hester hit a single to left for Rose's only run of the game.

Just prior to that, Northeastern has increased its lead to 3-0 as McDaniels, leading off the top of the fifth, base hit to left and went to second on a catching error. He was batted in by Watts, who singled up the middle.

Rose never threatened again, getting only one more runner on base — on an Eagle error — and Cullen struck out all three batters in the bottom of the seventh to secure the win.

Cullen raised his season

Houston Rockets' Tom Nissalke Is Coach Of Year

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Tom Nissalke celebrated his wife's birthday Thursday, took his driving test to get a Texas driver's license and topped it off by being named National Basketball Association coach of the year.

Nissalke, 42, already had driven the surprising Houston Rockets to the NBA's Central Division championship and to the Eastern Conference finals with the fourth best record in the NBA.

After covering all that hazardous territory without an accident, the driver's test should have been a breeze.

"Coaches in general get too much credit when they win and too much flak when they lose," said Nissalke, who turned the Rockets from a 40-42 record to a 49-33 champion. "This is the biggest personal honor that has ever come to me and it's a reflection of the job the team did."

Nissalke beat out Los Angeles

Coach Jerry West by a first-place vote margin of 26-21 and became the second pro coach to win coach of the year honors in both the NBA and American Basketball Association.

Former Utah Stars and Los Angeles Lakers Coach Bill Sharman also was a dual winner. Nissalke won ABA coach of the year honors after the 1971-72 season at Dallas.

Nissalke took charge of the floundering Rockets prior to last season and immediately started wheeling and dealing. He traded Joe Meriweather and Gus Bailey to Atlanta in exchange for the No. 1 choice in the 1976 NBA draft.

That selection was used to take Maryland All-American John Lucas, who became an almost instant starter and quarterback of Houston's controlled-tempo offense.

Nissalke then gave the Rockets' No. 1 draft choices for 1977 and 1978 to Buffalo for 6-foot-11 Moses Malone, who blossomed into one of the most feared rebounders in the NBA.

Gossage Fires Smoke In Pittsburgh Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Few people saw it, but everybody praised it.

Rich Gossage's fastball, that is.

"It's hard to believe how hard Gossage throws that ball," said Pittsburgh teammate Rennie Stennett. "He's fast, fast, fast."

Nobody kept the precise time on Gossage's favorite pitch Thursday night — but nobody hit it, either, and the result was a 6-5, 10-inning victory for the Pirates over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"He can throw that ball — man, can he throw that ball!" said Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda after watching the Pirates' relief pitcher strike out eight batters in three overpowering innings.

That gave Gossage 24 strikeouts in the last 40 batters he has faced.

In other National League games, the Atlanta Braves blanked the Chicago Cubs 6-0, the Houston Astros edged the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2, the San Diego Padres beat the Montreal Expos 5-2 and the New York Mets nipped the San Francisco Giants 4-3.

While Gossage was throwing the ball by the batters, Stennett was hitting the ball through the fielders. He broke a tie with a 10th-inning, bases-loaded single for the winning run. Stennett's game-winning hit, a bouncer through the right side, came off reliever Charlie Hough.

The Pirates had loaded the bases with two out off Hough on walks to pinch-hitter Ed Kirkpatrick, Omar Moreno and Willie Stargell.

The victory was the 15th in 18 games for the National League East-leading Pirates, while the West Division-leading Dodgers sustained only their fifth loss in the last 16 games.

Braves 6, Cubs 0
Knuckleballer Phil Niekro fired a three-hitter, recording his first victory as a starter this season in pitching Atlanta over Chicago. The victory snapped a six-game Chicago winning streak and was only the Cubs' second setback in 14 games. Atlanta, which had a 17-game losing streak earlier this year, extended its winning streak to four.

Astros 3, Phillies 2
Willie Crawford's sacrifice fly capped a two-run uprising in the eighth, boosting Houston over Philadelphia. A walk to Cesar Cedeño, a single by Cliff Johnson and an error by losing pitcher Gene Garber on Joe Ferguson's sacrifice loaded the bases for Houston with none out.

After Bob Watson struck out, Ken Boswell beat out a slow roller to third base, scoring Cedeño. Crawford then lifted his sacrifice fly to right, scoring Johnson.

Winner Joaquin Andujar, 3-3, scattered 10 hits in eight innings before leaving for a pinch hitter.

Padres 5, Expos 2
Jerry Turner slammed a two-run homer and winner Randy Jones got four innings of sparkling relief help from Rollie Fingers as San Diego defeated Montreal and handed the reeling Expos their ninth straight loss.

Mets 4, Giants 3
Home runs by John Milner and Lenny Randle led New York and rookie pitcher Jackson Todd over San Francisco. Todd, a 25-year-old right-hander, was working on a shutout until the eighth inning when Terry Whitfield slugged a three-run homer for the Giants. That finished Todd and Skip Lockwood relieved.

on balls.

Rhodes scored on a passed ball and Messick and Roeser came in when Wilson doubled.

Union Carbide 412 44-15
Jayecees 003 14-8

Union Carbide jumped out to a 7-0 lead before the Jaycees finally scored in the third.

Jeff Wilson singled and Kenny Waters got on by an error in the first for UC. Wilson scored when Jon Catlett doubled and Catlett and Waters came in on Mike Livingston's two-bagger. Jody Forbes also scored for Union Carbide in the frame when he walked and came in on an error.

After scoring one run in the second and two more in the third, UC came up with four runs in the fourth to put the game away. Livingston started things off with a walk and he stole second. He came in on an error. William Rhodes got on on a fielder's choice, went to second on Billy Messick's walk and to third when Dwayne Roeser got a base

Cox Sweeps Bethel Teams

WINTERVILLE — A. G. Cox won a pair of games from Bethel yesterday with an 11-2 softball victory and 11-10 win in baseball.

The Cox softball team won the conference championship with its win, extending its league record to 9-0. Tammy Streeter was the winning pitcher, while Streeter, 4-4, and Vivian Barrett, 3-4, and Lisa Hardy, 3-4, were the leading hitters.

Doug McRoy was the winning pitcher in the baseball game. Bethel was led by Scott and Grimes with two hits each, while Sammy Tucker was 2-2 for Cox.

HE'S IN STITCHES

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Jonathan Moore, one of the top players as a freshman at Furman in the 1976-77 basketball season, has an unusual nickname: "Stitches."

In high school he frequently got cuts that required stitches. In one game early in 1977 he caught an elbow above the left eye and required three more stitches. One week later the stitches came out and he scored 30 points against Citadel.

Stone More Successful

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Steve Stone was a 1976 free agent who didn't have to change his address when he changed teams. He went from the Chicago Cubs to the Chicago White Sox.

The difference, however, has been like night and day — and it has nothing to do with the Cubs' Wrigley Field having no lights.

"The key to my success has been our offense," said Stone, who was supported by three White Sox homers in Chicago's 8-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals Thursday night. "It's been devastating."

Stone, 36 with a 4.08 earned run average in 17 games with the Cubs last season, is on a hot streak of his own right now. He has hurled five complete games, compiling a 4-3 record and a 2.34 ERA.

Jorge Orta, Oscar Gamble and Chet Lemon each slugged solo homers for the White Sox, who moved within one game of first-place Minnesota in the American League West.

Elsewhere in the AL, the Milwaukee Brewers downed the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3, the New York Yankees crushed the Baltimore Orioles 9-1, the Seattle Mariners blanked the Oakland A's 3-0, and the California Angels beat the Minnesota Twins 5-3.

The Royals, last year's AL West champions, slipped a game below .500 with the loss. Jim Colborn, making his first appearance since tossing a no-hitter against Texas last Saturday, hurled 2-3 innings and was charged with his fourth loss in nine decisions.

Mariners 3, A's 0

Dave Pagan made Seattle history, giving the expansion club its first shutout victory with a six-hitter against Oakland.

Pagan struck out eight and walked one in gaining his first major league shutout and only his third complete game in 15 career starts.

The Mariners scored twice in the second inning on a double by Dan Meyer, a run-scoring single by Bill Stein and a double by Bob Stinson.

Yankees 9, Orioles 1

Thurman Munson led the way for the Yankees, knocking in four runs with a single, triple and homer. Munson leads the Yankees with eight homers, seven of them in his last 15 games.

Willie Randolph scored four runs and contributed four of New York's 14 hits in support of Ed Figueroa, 5-2, who coasted to his fifth straight complete game triumph with a six-hitter while lowering his league-leading ERA to 1.22.

Brewers 5, Blue Jays 3
Milwaukee scored four runs in the third inning on six walks and a two-run single by Cecil Cooper.

Toronto starter Bill Singer, 2-6, was the victim of the big inning in which two runs scored on bases-loaded walks and another as Mike Hegan reached base on an error and came around on a balk, a passed ball and a wild pitch.

Angels 5, Twins 3

Nolan Ryan tied a strikeout record while fanning 12 Minnesota batters, snapping the Twins' five-game winning streak.

Ryan now has fanned 10 or more batters in 74 games, matching the American League mark set by Sam McDowell, who also struck out 10 or more batters 14 times in the National League.

First Federal claimed a 10-1 victory over the Exchange Club in a rain-shortened Little League game yesterday.

First Federal got all the runs it needed in the first inning as it jumped out to a 4-0 lead. Mont Carter started things off with a walk and Tyrone Barrett followed with a base on balls.

Horace Barrett got his first of two homers to bring those two around and Leon Moore scored the final run of the frame for First Federal.

Carter hit homers in the second and third for First Federal, while Barrett got his second round-tripper in the fourth.

The Exchange's only run came in the fourth inning when Curt Hendrix got on by a walk, went to second on Timmy Little's single and scored when Timmy Norris hit a double.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Don't allow yourself the luxury of feeling you are abused or being put upon or you can irritate or upset others, or even start to develop a martyr complex. Take time to attend to the little basic conditions of everyday life and you turn a potentially difficult day to your advantage.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some condition at home may require much tact or it could turn into a battle royal. Pay more attention to fundamental affairs, also.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Drive with utmost care and avoid costly trouble. Use a smile and turn away wrath in others. You can talk yourself out of difficulties.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Do not spend or invest more than it is possible for you to do and safeguard savings. Get the advice of those with financial know-how.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Ideal time to be objective and not let emotions get the better of you. Steer clear of social functions where arguments are apt to occur. Stay close to home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on the opportunities around you to advance and forget problems for the time being. Avoid arguing with a loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look for more ways to add to income. Don't approach a friend for cooperation since this person is under pressure of some kind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get involved with a civic project that means much to you. Ignore a bigwig who does not understand your views. Spend money wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Look on the bright side of an annoying situation. A new contact has ideas that are best disregarded now. Stand pat on money matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you meet the expectations of others who have power over your affairs and are right. Show you are most efficient. Don't argue with mate or loved one as it could lead to dire results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show friends you can be relied upon and gain their goodwill. Avoid an argument regarding a civic matter you disagree with.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find a new system that can make work more efficient and lucrative in the future. Do not overdo and mar your health.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although fun is on your mind, you may find that others are argumentative, so enjoy pleasures by yourself. Your timing improves.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful persons with a naturally sweet disposition. Be sure to teach art of self-defense early, and then slant education along lines of trouble shooting and solving difficult problems.

David Soul In London Hospital

LONDON (AP) — Actor and singer David Soul, co-star of the television series Starsky and Hutch, has been admitted to a London hospital suffering from pneumonia.

Work on the motion picture "Mud," in which the blond actor is starring, came to a halt when he was taken from the film's South Devon location to London on Thursday.

Soul had been feeling ill throughout the week but said he thought he had been suffering only from influenza. On Wednesday he flew to Glasgow to top the bill in the Scottish Jubilee royal variety show attended by Queen Elizabeth.

Road Bond Becomes A Possible Tax Increase

RALEIGH (AP) — The House turned a road bond bill into a possible tax increase while opponents dominated a committee hearing on a right to die bill Thursday.

In a public hearing by a House judiciary committee, opponents of the bill to allow a person to die a natural death said it would pave the way for mercy-killing.

The bill had passed the Senate with little debate. Supporters of the measure argued that it would allow death with dignity.

Also in the legislature: ROAD BONDS At the suggestion of Rep. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, the House amended a road bond bill so that voters would have an alternative. Normally, bond issues are presented to the public as yes or no votes. But, Watkins suggested that the people also be asked to vote on whether they would rather have a temporary tax increase instead of the bond issue.

The bill called for a $300 million road bond issue. It would be spent over a five-year period at $60 million a year. The interest, Watkins said, would have been $400 million. He suggested upping the gasoline tax by two cents a gallon to raise the $60 million a year and save the interest. The measure will be up for further debate Tuesday.

PORN The Senate approved and sent to the House two bills aimed at curbing availability of pornography. One would ban display of sexually explicit materials where they can be viewed by minors and non-consenting adults. The second would make it punishable by 10 years imprisonment to use a minor under 18 in a sexually explicit film.

LIQUOR Counties and cities that have ABC stores would be able to vote on having liquor by the drink under a bill introduced by Sen. William Smith, D-New Hanover. Smith said he is against liquor by the drink because he believes it will attract organized crime, but likes the local option idea because people can make their own decisions. He said that many of his constituents support the idea because it will promote tourism.

ABORTION— A House committee killed a measure to require informed consent by a woman before she had an abortion. A physician would have been required to tell a woman about her right to counseling, about the development of the fetus at the time of the abortion and of the dangers in the procedure.

PRISONS— Final Senate is scheduled Monday for a bill to raise the minimum term for imprisonment in the state prison system from 30 to 180 days. The bill is aimed at easing overcrowding in the state prisons.

Only misdemeanor prisoners would be in the county jails.

Gov. Jim Hunt's five nominees to the state Utilities Commission were confirmed in a joint meeting. Filling unexpired terms are Robert Koger of Raleigh, who has been on the Utilities Commission staff for a decade and was head of the engineering section; Dr. Leigh Hammond, an economics professor at North Carolina State University; and Sarah Lindsay Tate, a Raleigh attorney.

To take office on July 1 are Sen. John Winters, D-Wake, the first black to serve on the seven-member commission, and Dr. Robert Fishbach, a physicist from Charlotte who has been a researcher for a textile company.
