School Bd. Told 'Stable' Redistricting Plan Goal

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A desire for a redistricting plan that will offer the greatest degree of stability emerged as the most expressed attitude at a public hearing held at Wahl-Coates Monday night by the Greenville Board of Education.

Redistricting of attendance zones within Greenville for students in grades kindergarten through the sixth grade, shelved last year due to the closure of Third Street School, is an issue the board has committed itself to for school year 1977-78. The board will meet Thursday night, June 30, to make a final choice from three proposed redistricting proposals prepared by the city school staff.

About 200 people attended the hearing held in Wahl-Coates School to provide public input into discussions on the redistricting proposals. Two of the proposals, Plans A and B, are based on having six elementary schools each comprising kindergarten through grade six. Plan C offers the concept of three grades with kindergarten through grades three, and three schools with grades four through six.

Based on public expressions, the big majority of Greenville parents strongly favor the adoption of either Plan A or B. Only a few comments were offered favoring the division of schools into three primary and three intermediate structured schools provided for in Plan C.

On the matter of out-of-district students, Superintendent Glenn Cox revealed that about 110 students in grades kindergarten through the sixth grade, until now attending Pitt County Schools, will be brought back into the city schools. "These are the students living in the Greenville School District who have been attending county schools," Cox explained. He said that students in grades seven through 12 are not affected by this ruling for the coming school year.

In addition to the desire for adopting the most stable redistricting plan, other factors discussed include:

— Transportation — Cox explained that funds for transportation would not be significantly increased under either Plans A or B. He also answered questions about sources for transportation funds, saying all transportation funds are provided from state sources.

— Mobile units — By redistricting, the need for mobile units as classroom facilities can be reduced. During the school year just ended, a total of 14 mobile units were used for basic classroom spaces. With redistricting, this number can be reduced to about six units being used for that purpose.

— Concept of plans — Cox and board members reiterated that proposed redistricting plans do have a built-in flexibility based on criteria established, and that the board has a priority to keep a close watch on shifts in population patterns to preclude the build up of a racially imbalanced attendance structure in the future. In response to requests for assurances that redistricting would not be a frequent occurrence, board members pointed out that all efforts would be made to preclude this, but that sudden shifts in population patterns could conceivably necessitate redistricting changes from time to time.

White House Tapes And Documents Not Nixon Property

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that former President Richard M. Nixon is not entitled to control the White House tapes and 42 million pages of documents left behind when he resigned from office.

The justices, voting 7-2, decided that Congress acted within its authority when in 1974 it passed the Presidential Recordings and Materials Preservation Act, seizing all of the documents and tapes generated by Nixon's presidency.

The act calls for regulations to be drawn up by the General Services Administration to allow the public access to the papers and tapes.

The court rejected all arguments by Nixon's attorneys that the law was unconstitutional.

The decision is a victory for the government, which has fought for the last three years to hold on to the nearly 5,000 hours of tape recordings and the millions of pages of documents.

Specifically, the court's majority ruled that the law passed by Congress to prevent Nixon from taking the tapes and documents with him to San Clemente after his resignation on Aug. 9, 1974 did not violate the doctrine of separation of powers between the branches of government, did not violate Nixon's privilege of confidentiality or his right to privacy.

The court also said the law was not a "bill of attainder" — an individualized penalty imposed by a legislature rather than a court.

Justice William J. Brennan wrote the court's majority opinion, joined by Justices Potter Stewart, Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens.

Justices Byron R. White, Lewis F. Powell and Harry A. Blackmun joined most parts of the decision.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist dissented.

Among the almost 900 reels of tape covered by the court's decision are the now-famous 30 tapes which helped force Nixon from office in disgrace in the wake of the Watergate scandals. The 30 tapes were used at the Watergate cover-up trial of Nixon's closest aides.

Nixon estimates that of the 42 million pages of documents held by the government — at the White House and the National Records Center in Suitland, Md. — he personally wrote or reviewed some 200,000 pages.

The tapes now will remain with the government until archivists sift through them to determine which can be released to the public and which may be returned to Nixon. The tapes include conversations in the White House Oval Office, the Cabinet Room, the Lincoln Sitting Room and Nixon's offices at the Executive Office Building and Camp David in Maryland.

Congress passed the 1974 law after determining that Nixon was not a reliable custodian for the documents and tapes.

Brennan alluded to the passions of 1974 in his opinion.

"We, of course, are not blind to (Nixon's) plea that we recognize the social and political realities of 1974," the court's decision said. "It was a period of political turbulence unprecedented in our history."

"But this court is not free to invalidate acts of Congress based upon inferences that we may be asked to draw from our personalized reading of the contemporary scene or recent history," Brennan said in the 56 page decision.

Windfall Tax Spending Prepared By Legislators

RALEIGH (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee overwhelmingly approved today a bill that would bring the state a $91 million windfall and would use the money mostly for construction projects throughout the state.

The windfall would result from requiring all corporations whose state income tax is $3,000 or more to pay in quarterly installments during the tax year instead of in the following year.

Before approving the bill, which now goes to the House floor, the committee adopted an amendment by Rep. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell, to delete $18 million to the Department of Correction for prison construction, and reallocate it as follows:

—$6.675 million to the Department of Public Education to be used to replace school buses 12 years old or older.

—$4 million to the Department of Community Colleges to replace federal vocational education funds which had been diverted to the colleges' operating budget.

—$5.1 to the University of North Carolina, to supplement $2 million already placed in a reserve fund for construction of a veterinary school at North Carolina State University.

The bill also carries appropriations totaling $11.1 million for construction of mental health facilities and more than $61 million for construction at various campuses of the University of North Carolina.

The mental health appropriations include $3.8 million for construction of community facilities for the mentally retarded, $5.1 million to construction of an evaluation and acute treatment facility at Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh.

University of North Carolina projects include:

—$5.7 million for a music and drama building at Appalachian State University.

—$2.7 million for a drama building at East Carolina University.

—$570,000 for an early child education building at Elizabeth City State University.

—$1.1 million for an administrative building annex at Fayetteville State University.

—$925,000 for a preschool laboratory facility at North Carolina A&T State University.

—$2.5 million for a health science building at North Carolina Central University.

—$450,000 to the North Carolina School of the Arts for an addition to the administration building.

—$5 million to North Carolina State University for phase one of a general academic building.

—$2.25 million to UNC at Asheville for a dormitory and $1.9 million for a student activities center, less $600,000 self liquidating.

—$7.5 million for a vocational rehabilitation center at North Carolina Memorial Hospital and $5.5 million for an Art Department building at UNC, Chapel Hill.

—$6 million for phase one of a classroom and office building at UNC-Greensboro.

—$2.8 million for a classroom building at UNC in Wilmington.

—$5.245 million for a library addition at Western Carolina University.

—$2.4 million for a nursing education building at Winston-Salem State University.

—$2.1 million to UNC general administration to add three transmitters to the UNC education TV network.

—$6.877 million to UNC at Charlotte for phase two of a classroom-office building.

—$500,000 to UNC for a radio network.

Principal

Frank Davenport, currently principal of Parkwood High School in Union County, was approved on Monday night by members of the Greenville Board of Education as the new principal of Rose High School.

Davenport will assume the position of principal effective July 1. He succeeds Robert Allgood, who resigned to accept superintendency of the Washington County School system.

Davenport taught high school for four and one-half years, and has been principal at Parkwood for the past six years.

Board member Ed Carter abstained from voting on the candidate.

PTI Referendum

A bill before the North Carolina General Assembly which would allow Pitt County Commissioners to hold a referendum on the question of whether or not Pitt Technical Institute should become a community college, without having to put the question of funding the change to the voters, has been enacted into law.

The question of community college status for PTI has been discussed for several years. Earlier this year, commissioners were asked by the Board of Trustees for PTI to hold a referendum on the question.

However, a ruling by the North Carolina Attorney General said the county board had no authority to call for a vote on the question of whether the institution should become a community college. The ruling said a vote could be held only on the question of funding the proposed change.

Pitt Legislators were then asked to introduce a bill giving commissioners the authority to call for a referendum on the question of whether or not PTI should become a community college without putting the question of funding the school to the voters.

PTI officials say the change in status would cost the county little additional money.

HOTLINE gets things done for you. Call 752-1336, and tell your problem or sound-off, or mail it to HOTLINE, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, NC. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

DONATIONS NEEDED

The Mental Health Center is in need of donations for their geriatrics and partial hospitalization units. Especially needed are such items as playing cards, games, puzzles, irons and ironing boards, silverware, plates, drinking glasses, record players, records, radios and televisions.

If anyone would like to donate these or similar items, he or she may contact Sandy Stokes or Mahlon Webb at the Center, 752-7151 ext. 20 or 55. Donations will be sincerely appreciated.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

CONTINUOUS

The Pitt County Boys Club expresses appreciation to the 15 or 16 persons who have contributed bicycles to the club as a result of the Friday, June 10 appeal in the Hotline column. "The boys really enjoyed sanding and painting and otherwise repairing these bikes," Program Director Bob DeSoto said. He said most of the bikes will be given to the Pitt County Department of Social Services for its Santa Claus program for foster children, but a few are being given to Boys' Club members who do not own bicycles.

The bike rebuilding is a continuous program of the Boys Club and bikes and bike parts are welcomed at any time. From now through the end of July, though, is the time when most of the work will be done, Desoto said.

Bicycles may be brought to the Boys Club, 205 W. Skinner Street or a Boys Club worker will gladly pick any up if the donor will call 758-4029.

W.L. Whedbee Rites Thursday

Mr. William Lipscomb (Bill) Whedbee, 72, a former mayor of Greenville, died Monday afternoon in Greenville Villa nursing home. Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Thursday at Memorial Baptist Church and burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. The Rev. Percy B. Upchurch will officiate. The body will be taken to the church from Wilkerson Funeral Home one hour prior to services.

WM. L. WHEDBEE

Mr. Whedbee spent all his life in Greenville and attended the Greenville city schools. He was a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the University of North Carolina Law School. He practiced law with his father for one year and later became associated with L. G. Cooper as Cooper and Whedbee.

For four years he served as judge of the Pitt County Recorders Court. During the depression years he was attorney for Eastern North Carolina Home Owners Loan Corp. For a number of years he was trust officer for State Bank and Trust Company and later served as supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. He was a member of Memorial Baptist Church, served on the Greenville Utilities Commission and was a member of the Greenville City Council.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Betsy M. Barker of Lexington, Ky.; one brother, Judge Charles H. Whedbee of Greenville; and one sister, Mrs. Malcolm Thompson of Louisville, Ky.

The family suggests that those desiring to make a memorial contribution consider their favorite charity. The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Repeal Vote Poised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is reaching for one of the hottest potatoes on its legislative menu — a vote on whether to repeal the $12,900 pay raise members of Congress began receiving March 1.

The key vote, which may come Wednesday, should be extremely close.

The House planned a relatively minor vote today on waiving a smaller pay raise that hasn't yet taken effect. The waiver was considered sure to be approved.

The major test will be on an amendment to strike from the legislative appropriation bill funds for the higher salary congressmen have been getting for more than three months.

The Democratic leadership is trying to muster the votes to defeat that amendment, something sources said they have not yet succeeded at.

If the amendment survives the rest of the legislative process, the annual pay of representatives and senators would be cut from $57,500 to $44,600.

And there would be similar reductions in the salaries of federal judges and other high officials, including the vice president, Cabinet members and top ranking federal employees.

Jail Had No Sprinkler System, Smoke Alarms

NASHVILLE (AP) — The Maury County Jail, scene of the cyanide-laden fire that killed 42 persons, lacked a sprinkler system and had no smoke alarms. The state fire and jail codes didn't require them.

An automatic locking system that could have opened all cells at once was not required. Instead, seven keys were needed to free 56 prisoners trapped inside their cells Sunday afternoon as the toxic fumes traveled through the jail's air ducts.

Thirty-four of those inmates and eight visitors died.

The 13-year-old jail underwent a routine inspection only last Friday and met all necessary state standards, including the proper number of fire extinguishers, state Correction Department officials said.

"This is really one of the better jails in the state," Thomas Woodson, director of the state jail inspection division, said Monday. The current jail inspection report ranks the facility 18th in a field of 102, he said.

Woodson said his agency does not require a sprinkler system for county jails. One reason, he said, is that "you could have the problem of prisoners constantly setting off the sprinkler system."

"All jails are potential firetraps due to the fact that you're keeping people under lock and key. This could happen in any given facility," Woodson said.

At Gov. Ray Blanton's urging, a five-member committee was named by Correction Commissioner C. Murray Henderson to see if a similar disaster could occur at any of the state's 14 adult and juvenile institutions.

Officials said Andrew Zimmer, 16, admitted to setting the fire in his padded cell. Zimmer, a runaway from a Wisconsin home for emotionally disturbed boys, remained in critical condition early today at Vanderbilt Hospital.

Dist. Atty. Gen. Bob Gay said his office filed arson charges against Zimmer on Monday and asked the court for permission to try him as an adult. He said other charges would be filed if warranted.

Fire officials say the plastic padding in the cell where the blaze began gave off toxic cyanide gas. High levels of carbon monoxide also were found in the victims' bodies.

Gay said Monday that an 18-year-old named David Pulley told state fire investigators that he passed two cigarettes to Zimmer, one of them lit.

Gay had said any person found to have passed a cigarette to Zimmer would be subject to criminal charges.

Clinton Wedding Unites Pair

Miss Sherry Ray Tew of Durham became the bride of Randy Michael Faircloth Sunday at 4:00 p.m. in the Mt. Vernon Baptist Church, Clinton. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Willie O. Carr.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Tew of Clinton, is a graduate of East Carolina University. A transfer to North Carolina State University from Sampson Technical Institute, the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Betty Lowe of Hawthorne, Calif., and Mr. H. B. Hawthorne of Cheyenne, Wyo.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Donna Darden, soloist, and Mrs. Jean Hatch, organist.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory silk organza over peau de soie. The empire bodice featured a sheer yoke and high neckline of antique lace. Matching lace encircled the waistline and cuffs of sheer shepherdess sleeves. The full A-line skirt continued into a wateau train trimmed in antique lace. For her headpiece she selected an imported ivory fingertip length mantilla edged in ivory antique lace and held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace. She carried an arrangement of white orchids, yellow carnations, daisies and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Rachel Edwards, the bride's cousin, of Wilson. Her gown was of nylon chiffon dotted swiss and featured an empire bodice, halter back, and ruffled neckline. A sheer jacket accented the green dress.

Miss Ginger Tew, sister of the bride, of Clinton, Miss Karen Tew, sister of the bride, of Winston-Salem, Miss Connie Gainey, cousin of the bride of Durham and Miss Laura Warren of Goldsboro were bridesmaids for the occasion. Their gowns were styled identical to that of the matron of honor. Each attendant's gown was a different color of the rainbow and they carried matching voile parasols.

Nancy Williams of Salemburg and Carla Raynor of Roseboro, cousins of the bride, served as scroll maids. Their dresses were identical to the matron of honor's and they presented a scroll with "Wedding Traditions" from matching green baskets to each guest as they left the ceremony.

Mr. Faircloth was his son's best man. Ushers included Benjie Faircloth, brother of the bridegroom, Tony Faircloth, cousin of the bridegroom, and Lynwood Robinson, uncle of the bridegroom, all of Clinton, and Howard Tew, brother of the bride, of Chapel Hill.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Miss Fran Gainey, and Miss Sheila Williams, cousins of the bride, and Miss Claudia Peterson, cousin of the bridegroom, were the floating hostesses. Presiding at the register was Miss Debbie Keene. Cake and punch were served by Mrs. Norma Newman, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Shelby Faircloth, cousin of the bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. John Tew, aunt and uncle of the bride, said good-byes.

After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S. C., the couple will reside in Raleigh, where the bride is employed at F. C. X, Inc.

Saturday night, the bridegroom's father hosted an after-rehearsal dinner for the wedding party and guests at a local restaurant.

Wedding Invitation

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Braxton request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Susan Olivia, to James Ronald Copeland, on Saturday, July 2, at 2:00 p. m. at the Meadowbrook Presbyterian Church. No invitations were mailed.

MRS. RANDY MICHAEL FAIRCLOTH

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A couple at a party the other night were lamenting the fact that they didn't know if their children were old enough to be left alone when they go on vacation.

"How old are they?" I asked. "Fifteen, 17 and 20," replied the wife.

"You have it all wrong," said my husband. "The question is not how old, but how young. Of-hand, I'd say you missed it by 12 years. You could have gone when they were three, five and eight' but not now."

"You are too funny," said the woman, "but I'm serious."

"So are we!" I interrupted. "Did you ever hear of a three-year-old calling up 100 of her closest friends and having a party the minute your car leaves the driveway?"

"Or a five-year-old getting your car stuck sideways in the garage?"

"Or an eight-year-old leaving the garden hose running for 15 days and finding your trees waiting to merge on the expressway?" chimed in another father.

"You can't leave a seven-year-old," said the woman indignantly. "Listen," said another observer. "My daughter at seven could have run General Motors from a sandbox. She could make a meal, handle major decisions, dress herself and I once saw her move a piano when a Barbie head rolled under it. She knew how to adjust the color on the TV set, walk in the attic without a floor, and could sniff out bananas I was saving through three inches of metal. The only thing she needed me for was to make out her deposit slips at the bank. That's the year we should have gone on a vacation with her home running things. Not ten years later."

"What happened ten years later?" we asked.

"According to the police report, it was a 746."

"Which was?"

"Blocking off streets for a parade without a permit."

"Illegal parking of two Portapotties on a carport."

"Kidnapping and holding an assistant principal against his will."

"Assault, naming three drums, 12 guitars and a bass as weapons, causing hearing damage to anyone within a radius of 112 miles and sterility in a 34-year-old milkman who left his truck.

"Unsanctioned gathering of 150 people in a house built as a single family dwelling, causing the kitchen to become a health and fire hazard."

"There were also charges of neglect to the dog who hadn't been fed anything in three weeks except pizza and space dust, but the testimony was weak."

"But leaving small children constitutes neglect," said the couple.

"We know, but it beats a 746."

Miss Harris, Mr. Brown Married At Gum Swamp Church

MRS. GARY WYNNE BROWN

Miss Cathy Ann Harris became the bride of Gary Wynne Brown, Sunday at 3:30 p.m. The Rev. J. Stewart Humphrey officiated at the double ring ceremony held in the Gum Swamp Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. Henry C. Harris and the late Anna W. Harris of Greenville, is a graduate of North Pitt High School and an employee of King's Department Store. The bridegroom is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and attends East Carolina University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ivy Brown of Greenville.

Mrs. Bobby Ray Harris directed the wedding. A program of wedding music was presented by soloist Bobby Teel Harris who sang "The Wedding Song," "The Twelfth of Never" and "The Wedding Prayer." He was accompanied by Randy Buck, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. Featuring a scoop neckline, the empire bodice was of floral Venice lace. The full A-line skirt was accented by appliques of Venice lace and continued into a chapel length train. Attached to a camelot cap of floral lace, her chapel length veil was of silk illusion. She carried a formal cascade of apricot roses, white carnations and baby's breath tied with white satin streamers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Jean Stepps of Greenville. The sister of the bridegroom, Miss Tori Ann Brown, also of Greenville was maid of honor. They wore mint and garden print formal length crepe de chine gowns. The full flowing skirts were gathered at the waistline into a fitted midriff. The fitted bodice was complemented by a squared neckline and full shirred sleeves cuffed at the wrist. They wore matching picture hats and carried long-stemmed mums with baby's breath, accented by satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Angela Buck, cousin of the bride; Miss Debra Everett and Mrs. Jane Fox, all of Greenville. Their dresses, hats and flowers were in apricot, identical to those of the honor attendants.

Miss Gina Gwen Brown, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. She was dressed like the bridesmaids.

Miss Tammy Harris of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She was dressed as a miniature bride and carried a white basket filled with flower petals and tied with a satin bow.

The ring bearer was Todd Humphrey of Greenville. He carried a white heart-shaped satin pillow trimmed with baby's breath and tied with satin streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Ronnie, Kent and Ricky Brown, brothers of the bridegroom, and Cliff Harris, brother of the bride. All are from Greenville. The junior usher was Brice McMillan, cousin of the bridegroom, of Warsaw, Ohio.

The bride's stepmother wore a formal-length gown of nectarine knit. The bridegroom's mother chose a formal length Nile green gown.

Grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. J. S. Harris and Mrs. Roy White, and Mrs. Viola Brown and Mrs. Glendora Brewer, grandmother and stepgrandmother of the bridegroom, were honored with white carnation corsages.

The reception, immediately following the ceremony, was held in the church fellowship building. Wedding cake was served by Mrs. Lummer Buck, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. J. S. Brown, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Whitford of Raleigh and good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McMillan of Warsaw, Ohio.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live in Greenville.

A tossed green salad is a great main course for a Saturday lunch or a Sunday night supper when you add to it strips of ham and cheese, anchovy fillets or caper-stuffed rolled anchovies. Smoked tongue may be used instead of the ham. Chicken may also be added.

Hopefully More Funds For ECU

The way East Carolina University has fared in the budget approved by the State Legislature is indication enough that this will be a relatively close budget for North Carolina.

The only capital improvements project included for ECU was $3.82 million for a new bed tower at Pitt Memorial Hospital in conjunction with the ECU Medical School.

This is actually a restoration of funds which were cut out during the last biennium when the state was faced with shrinking revenues.

In the operating budget there are funds for growth and salary increases but not much else. In fact, UNC officials are concerned that the funds provided for the second year of the biennium won't be enough to expand the ECU med school.

The budget calls for $3.5 million for the medical school's operating expenses the first year and the same amount the second year. However, the UNC administration had asked for $5 million the second year. The Legislature will be reviewing the budget next year and hopefully the med school budget will be increased.

As for capital improvements the main campus of ECU is hurting because it didn't share in the higher education bond issue at all.

There is hope that a windfall will occur through approval of early collection of corporate taxes. If that happens funds may be provided to renovate the old Wahl-Coates School for speech and drama programs and make that space more usable.

Perhaps those funds will be made available by the time this is read. They are badly needed.

Fine Theory; In Practice-We'll See

The N.C. General Assembly has enacted the "sunset" law which requires periodic review of some 100 regulatory agencies and licensing boards.

In theory the review could lead to elimination of boards which no longer fill a need.

The review must be thorough and tough if the "sunset" law is to have any meaning. If it means that only more forms will be filled out with nothing accomplished, it won't have much value to the taxpayers.

School Disparity Studied

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Does a child in a mountain cove or on a tidewater creek have a shot at just as good an education as one in an urban Piedmont setting?

The answer obviously is No. The State Constitution's mandate that "equal opportunities shall be provided for all students" is an ideal far from reality.

Reasons are varied: no uniform statewide curriculum guide; no minimum standards; gravitation of specialists to urban centers; simple non-availability of numbers of students to justify exotic courses, etc.

But just as obviously, one pressing reason is a wide disparity in funds made available for education in North Carolina's 145 local school systems.

The Average

Much has been made of the state's passing the $1,000 mark in per-pupil spending recently.

But a good many (about 35) of the state's school units fall below that level—some by a considerable degree.

Randolph County, for example, spent in 1974-75 a total of $64.88 per student, actually lower as a combined total of state, local, and federal funds than the amount spent in state funds alone ($876.48) per pupil in Madison County, which ranks first in the state in state funding. Madison's total per pupil spending including all sources is $1,262.97.

Sharpe differences in local support make up for part of the disparity: Charlotte-Mecklenburg spends $459.86 per child, while Yancy puts up $70.25.

Federal funds contribute: Guilford spends $65.34 per child, while Tyrrell has $409.04 per pupil federal.

Even state funds, where equity would seem most likely, vary widely from the Madison County peak to just over $660 per child in numerous Low-Piedmont and Coastal Plains counties. Cumberland, for instance, gets the lowest at $655.12 per child.

Some experts contend differences in school construction, heating, or transportation costs create most of the disparity in state funds. State auditors who studied the matter said the differential is more likely due to salaries paid people with higher certification or experience levels, and to "efficiency of local management, and the effective utilization of available resources...."

BILL NOBLITT

Not Equal

Nonetheless, the end result of dollar disparities produces unequal educational opportunities. An analysis of the situation by two staff members of the Department of Public Instruction points up differences in "input" such as programs offered, special services provided, classroom size, dropout prevention, career preparation, etc., and in "product" such as success in students going to college or getting higher pay, learning more and different things better, and staying in school till graduation.

"Just as there are very marked differences across the state in geography and economic conditions, there are obvious disparities in social services. Education is a social service which stands out in this way," reported J. L. (Jet) Pierce, former director of planning for the education unit, and Consultant Donovan Russell.

With that background in mind, a federal grant of $360,000 has been secured to set up the Governor's Commission on School Finance. While that body will naturally put some emphasis on raising and spending money most effectively, considerable attention will be devoted to the critical issue of disparity in funding across the state.

State Senator Livingstone Stallings, D-Craven, chairman of the senate Education Committee, will chair the study group, with State Education Board Member Richard Manz of Roanoke Rapids, State Rep. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell, and Dr. Craig Phillips, Superintendent of Public Instruction, forming an executive committee.

Now A Household Word

Two years ago, when I first wrote about the Laetrile controversy, it was necessary to start at the beginning and explain what the stuff is. Today Laetrile is the next thing to a household word—and a good thing, too.

The more this controversy is discussed, the better the key issue will be understood. Now discussion abounds. Newsweek magazine has devoted a cover story to the fight. State legislatures have taken it up. Television is covering the story regularly. The American Medical Association, the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, and of course the federal government are all in the act.

For the record: Laetrile is the trade name given to a compound derived chiefly from apricot pits. What it is, is amygdaladin—a substance present in hundreds of fruits, shrubs and berries. It was chemically isolated more than 50 years ago. A few biochemists with impeccable credentials insist it is a vitamin; they have dubbed it B-17. Many more biochemists, with equally impeccable credentials, say that is nonsense.

If Laetrile were put forward merely as a nutritive supplement, in the fashion of wheat germ, iron or niacin, few problems would arise. But a Committee for Freedom of Choice in Cancer Therapy is pushing it as a drug for the relief of cancer. Thousands of cancer victims in the United States swear by it. In contrast, the government and the medical establishment swear at it.

Those who believe in the efficacy of Laetrile are true believers. By the thousands, they have made pilgrimages to Mexican clinics just over the border. They have delivered themselves of testimonials whose sincerity cannot be doubted. Several leaders of the cause have risked fines and imprisonment—four of them, indeed, last month were heavily fined and put on three years' probation by a federal judge in San Diego—for "smuggling contraband" into the U.S.

The foes of Laetrile are equally convinced of the rectitude of their cause. To the medical establishment, Laetrile is quackery pure and simple. The AMA and the Food and Drug Administration properly emphasize that not a shred of scientifically acceptable evidence demonstrates Laetrile's effectiveness in cancer therapy. Their position is that gullible cancer victims will be duped into paying money for useless Laetrile tablets when they might be helped by conventional treatment through surgery, radiation or chemo-therapy.

On one point, little dispute is heard: For all practical purposes, the stuff is harmless. A few passionate critics, breathing dark warnings of "cyanide poisoning," make mumbling noises. They point to the death of a 10-month-old infant in New York who died after swallowing a handful of Laetrile tablets, but a 10-month-old infant could die as readily from a handful of aspirin tablets. Even the government complains only feebly of toxicity.

Thus are the lines drawn. The government's basic position, in my own view, is indefensible. The AMA's opposition, no matter how sincerely based, smacks of unconscionable greed and ungodly arrogance. The "reputable" doctors want all the money and they assert all the wisdom. The government invokes criminal law to persecute the true believers and good nuts who rebel against the FDA's commands.

This hoity-toity attitude turns me off. It turns off others also. Nine states, if I am not mistaken, now have authorized Laetrile by law. Half a dozen federal judges have sanctioned its use and held it harmless. Under these circumstances, it is both cruel and ridiculous for the Department of Justice to seek indictments and prison terms for the Apricot Kernel Gang. The government has grossly overreacted in the whole affair.

In view of the publicity, every cancer victim in the

The Public Forum

To the editor:

I am a new resident of this area and cannot understand why a resident of Pitt County must pay a cash fee in order to leave garbage at the county landfill. In all the other areas I have lived in (various locations in five states) it seemed that the powers that be were more than anxious to have citizens leave their refuse at the designated location. In fact, there were vigorous campaigns to reduce the amount of litter. This did not eliminate the problem, but it did seem to help.

It would seem to me (I am not very well versed in any of the political sciences) that the aforementioned policy would have the effect of forcing people to litter. During the short time that I have

Other Editors Say: Should Continue

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

Athletic programs make strange decisions, and perhaps the strangest of them all in recent years was the decision of UNC to drop ECU from its football schedule starting in 1981. On the one hand, the Athletic Directors are talking about the high costs of athletic programs, and every game must produce a goodly number of fans. The ECU game was a sellout at Kenan Stadium last fall, and will continue to be in the four games that must still be played under the existing contract. The rivalry between the two schools is tremendous, and for the past four encounters the game has rated among the top three on the Tar Heel schedule. There is no travel expense involved, just a bus ride from Greenville to Chapel Hill.

Athletic Director Bill Cobey didn't explain the reasoning to our satisfaction when he stated that after 1981 UNC football teams would play no one within the state except ACC Schools. He indicated that the Tar Heels wanted to play ACC teams and then fill out the remainder of their schedule with inter-section rivals. Was he referring to teams like Richmond which will open the Tar Heel home schedule this fall?

Over the past five years UNC home games have drawn 40,000 or more fans on seven occasions. Three of those games were against ECU. We would call that good scheduling for an athletic program that needs money.

We must admit at this juncture that when ECU was first scheduled in football that we personally thought it was a mistake. After watching three of those four encounters we can only say that the Pirates make for exciting football, and we would like to see them remain on the schedule. An aside might also be mentioned. With the energy crisis still a serious problem, we might, by 1981, be playing all of our games with teams close to home base.

Before this situation is settled the state legislature will probably get into the act. Those eastern legislators will introduce a bill making it mandatory for the game to be played. Stranger things have happened in Raleigh. The local folks should certainly give the matter some second thoughts.

Home-Buying Outlook Brighter

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—In many respects the reports sound terrible. New, single-family housing has been priced beyond the means of the median-income household. The American dream is being denied young Americans. So it is said.

But a lot of Americans apparently don't think so.

From the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center comes the report that in its May study the greatest improvement in consumer buying attitudes was in regard to houses.

Sixty-two per cent of those studied, the center declared, felt that buying conditions for homes were favorable compared to 48 per cent three months earlier. The May level was the highest since 1972.

Evidence that the opinion is translated into action comes from builder reports that now indicate about 1.5 million single-family dwellings and another half-million units in multi-family structures may be started in 1977.

Add to this the results of a continuing monthly survey by the National Association of Realtors that indicates about 3.4 million resale homes will change hands this year and you have an understanding of the market's strength.

There are even more surprising aspects of the current market, perhaps the strongest in U.S. history.

In January and February, when parts of the land were locked in ice, preventing the most elementary economic transactions in some areas, sales of new single-family units soared 30 per cent over a year earlier.

The resale, or existing, home market has an even longer-term growth trend. In January 1975, sales had fallen to 2 million units a year. But, as prices rose, so did sales, totaling more than 3 million units in 1976.

Still, it is true that the typical $15,000 a year income is insufficient to buy the typical, newly built, single-family house, the median price of which was $45,000 last year but may be closing in on $50,000 now.

But median means middle, and that means one-half the new houses on the market are priced below $50,000. Last year the median price of resale homes was $37,300, and a good many sold for $10,000-$15,000 less than that.

Houses are available for purchase, and with personal income rising at a rate faster than that of inflation, some homebuyers have had a boost to their confidence, which had been lagging.

When people are confident they are more inclined to take on risks, such as debts. Many young people, it would appear, are convinced that they must take the plunge now or risk even deeper financial water next year.

Asked to explain why they felt today's housing market conditions were favorable, 1 in 2 respondents told Michigan's surveyors that prices would only be higher tomorrow. Measured that way, they tend to view today's prices as bargains.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Seeds Of Future Tragedy

By ROWLANE EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

CAPE TOWN, South Africa—Serious efforts by the ruling Nationalist party's more enlightened leaders to forestall disaster in South Africa are encountering intransigence from party stalwarts and disdain from Washington, building a sense of future tragedy that hovers over this land.

What is being cautiously advanced by Verligte (enlightened) Afrikaansers would have surprised and pleased the world five years ago: gradual dismantling of apartheid, the institutionalized racial discrimination established by the Nationalists when they gained power in 1948. Beyond that, the Verligtes want to give the country's non-white majority a bigger piece of the economic pie and, ultimately, a slice of political power.

But militant blacks here and the Third World Communist coalition dominating the United Nations reject anything short of strict majority rule—an inflexible closing of the door to moderation apparently concurred in by the Carter administration. The Verkrampete (intractable) Afrikaansers cite this as proof that since only the suicide of white South Africa will satisfy the Americans, why not go into the laager (armed camp)?

Certainly, the official U.S. position here belittles the government's hesitant reduction of racial preferences. But a minority view at the American embassy, objecting to Washington's new line, believes these tentative first steps—though largely superficial—ought to be applauded, while further steps are urged.

Pervasive whites-only signs are beginning to come down, most notably in post offices. Regular black vs. white boxing and wrestling marks the beginning of interracial athletics. The country was amazed by a recent announcement that the University of Stellenbosch, intellectual bastion of Afrikaanderdom, is being opened to non-whites on a very limited basis.

Still more hesitant is relaxation of economic preferences. The old Nationalist pledge that a white man need never take orders from a Kaffir (black) is violated by a few non-whites quietly given supervisory positions. Interior minister Connie Mulder, a conservative and perhaps the next prime minister, told us racial wage discrimination must cease. More government money is planned to improve living conditions of urban blacks.

Even Verkrampete politicians grudgingly acknowledge the need for much of these social and economic changes. It is the question of political participation by non-whites that threatens 29 years of Nationalist party monolithic unity.

Dr. Piet Koornhof, the ebullient, English-educated minister of education, is the most daring of Verligte Afrikaansers. He scandalized the orthodox recently by calling for shared decision-making with not only Coloreds (mixed-blood) and Indians but also urban blacks. In a two-hour conversation with us, Koornhof admitted political change should be faster than is expected, while confessing that a formula for such change is not in sight and will be a long time coming—perhaps too long.

The major reason for delay is the dominant thinking within the government. Koornhof's suggestion for shared decision-making was repudiated by one cabinet colleague after another (including Dr. Mulder)—but not by the new foreign

Strength For Today

SEED

About one hundred years ago the British Museum received an ancient pot taken from the ruins of an Egyptian temple built in the time of Moses. In it were found a few grains of wheat and a few peas. These were planted under glass, and in thirty days they sprouted and grew.

We often complain that we cannot do great things because we do not have the power of great things within us. But we never know until we have planted the seed. Or again, we complain and say that our powers have come to an end. We are worn out. We have failed.

But there are always seeds scattered about somewhere which we have never planted. In them there may be many unsuspected powers—powers which may mean much to us and even to the world. In the day of infirmity and defeat we plant the miserable little seeds with no hope, but the God of the harvest brings forth the blade, then the ear, then the full corn.—

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers are forecast today from the Ohio Valley to the Great Lakes and east to the mid-Atlantic region. Sunny skies are expected for most of the nation. Cooler weather is due along the northern tier of states to the Great Lakes but warm weather is forecast for most areas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

By The Associated Press

A Bermuda high was the dominating influence on North Carolina's weather today, sending afternoon temperatures back into the 90s over most of the state and promising more of the same Wednesday.

However, a cold front will be moving southeastward out of the Midwest Wednesday and this will increase the probability of thundershowers. Only widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers were indicated today.

Temperatures climbed to the 90s around the state east of the mountains Monday, while readings in the 80s were recorded in the mountains. New Bern was the state's hot spot with a high of 95 degrees and the mercury reached 93 at Raleigh, Goldsboro, Wilmington and Rocky Mount.

Widely scattered thundershowers broke out in the afternoon but rainfall generally was light. A tornado was reported during the late afternoon five miles south of Jacksonville, according to the National Weather Service. No damage was reported.

INTERESTED—CBS reportedly is interested in having NBC News anchorman John Chancellor succeed Eric Sevareid as the network's news commentator when Sevareid retires in November. The report in the New York Times said CBS has denied negotiating with Chancellor, and Chancellor said he was not permitted to negotiate with any other network until his NBC contract expires in the fall. Nazi Is 'Sensitive' To Report On Background

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Frank Collin, who plans to lead a July 4th Nazi march through this heavily Jewish community, enjoys publicity, but not stories tracing his background to a Jewish father who survived a Nazi death camp in World War II.

Collin calls the writers of the stories, one of them Pulitzer Prize winner Mike Royko of the Chicago Daily News, "gutter journalists."

"If the Police Gazette said something about me, I wouldn't respond, so why should I respond to gossip from people who lower themselves to using gutter sources for their stories?" Collin said in response to the stories.

Royko and Jack Mabley of the Chicago Tribune published columns on Monday and over the weekend tracing Collin's background.

Royko and Mabley said Collin's father, Max Simon Cohn, came to Chicago after surviving the Dachau concentration camp, changed his name and became a successful businessman on Chicago's south side.

The younger Collin was arrested during a Nazi demonstration in August 1969, and police records show that his address then was the same as Max Simon Collin of Olympia Fields, a Chicago suburb. The elder Collin could not be reached for comment.

In 1970, the American Nazi party discovered Collin's background and kicked him out of the party, Mabley and Royko said.

Last fall Collin helped organize the National Socialist Congress because, he said, the American Nazi party is "treasonous to the cause of Hitler's principles."

Collin, 32, the national coordinator of the NSC, has called for a national convention this weekend in Chicago. He said "up to 100" members of the NSC from eight states plan to march Monday in Skokie, if legal disputes are settled in time.

Rabbi Meir Kahane, founder of the Jewish Defense League, has promised to bring supporters to Skokie. "There will be no Nazi march in Skokie. We intend to bloody the Nazis should they try. I am not predicting violence. I am promising violence," Kahane said.

A suit was filed in Circuit Court Monday saying that the planned march would be torture for survivors of Hitler's concentration camps.

The suit was filed by Sol Golshtein, a Jewish chemist who said his mother was buried alive by German Nazis.

The Illinois Appellate Court had banned the Nazi march on grounds that it threatened to cause violence, but the U.S. Supreme Court has ordered the court to review its ban.

minister, R. F. (Pik) Botha. Although publicly silent, Botha privately supports Koornhof. Charismatic, flamboyant and probably the first South African politician to use television effectively, Botha is viewed by realistically liberal businessmen as the best hope for the future.

So, Botha's outrage over U.S. policy is not, the fulminating of just another Afrikaaner. While calling for sufficient change to satisfy the more urgent needs of the black people, Botha told us that "we South Africans are profoundly concerned about the United States appearing to demand that change should be so fundamental that it must lead to our destruction as a people."

Upon returning here from his post as ambassador in Washington, Botha made headlines by declaring he was not prepared to die for whites-only signs in elevators. But, asked an opposition member in parliament the other day, what aspect of apartheid is he prepared to die for? The answer: continued white political control.

The overriding problem thus becomes how minority whites can share decision-making with majority non-whites short of political self-destruction. It is precisely that delicate question that the new U.S. policy, no longer viewing South Africa as an anti-Communist bulwark against Soviet penetration on the continent, considers irrelevant.

Here are the makings of a tragic cycle. If American disdain and Afrikaaner intransigence combine to block change, reduced foreign investment will worsen the economic condition of the nation's non-whites and reduce the confidence of its businessmen. "I am a loyal South African," one prominent financier told us, "but I will not go down on a sinking ship. If nothing changes in three or four years, I'm leaving." Such departures would signal not a victory for human rights but rather defeat for moderation and a long, bloody struggle that can only wound the West.

country must know by now that Laetrile's therapeutic value never has been satisfactorily proved. My own conclusion, after reading fifty pounds of printed material on both sides, is that the stuff has no more medical value than so much root beer, or for that matter, so many prayers. Those who turn to Laetrile before trying conventional treatment are pursuing a course of dangerous folly.

But so what? I hold this truth to be self-evident, that in a free country the government has no business trying to prevent a free people from harmlessly pursuing happiness as they please. That is the essence of another household word never to be surrendered. The word is freedom.

Billy Avows No 'Secrecy'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham has termed news reports that his organization shielded a $22.9 million fund from the public "grossly misleading."

"First, the fund is not a complete secret," the evangelist said in a written statement. "Its entire holdings and a listing of its gifts to scores of other evangelical organizations was no secret."

Graham said the information has been on file with the Internal Revenue Service.

The Charlotte Observer reported in its Sunday edition that Graham spoke publicly about the World Evangelism and Christian Education Fund of Dallas, Tex., for the first time last week.

The newspaper quoted Graham as saying the fund's existence was deliberately kept from public view for fear that the organization would be flooded with requests for financial help.

"It is a nonprofit, charitable, religious and educational organization with some of America's most reputable businessmen in control," Graham said of the fund.

been here, I have found people that actually could not afford the fee to dispose of their refuse. May we suppose then that the County government does not know that there are poor people in Pitt County? And many others who need no reason to improperly dispose of their refuse along the highways and byways and in other unauthorized locations in the county.

It would seem to me that a legislative body with an interest in the county and its people, would take steps to, if not advocate the proper disposal of refuse, at least remove the bars.

It's Never Too Soon To Meet Future In-laws

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Our only son, Sammy, is a wonderful young professional man who practices in another state. He recently became engaged to a girl who lives where he practices. We have met her and think she's a nice young woman, but we're wondering what kind of family she comes from.

Sammy telephoned last week, saying he wanted to bring the girl and her mother here to meet us. I discouraged him, saying it was too soon—that I preferred to wait until after summer to have them here.

Today he called again to say they are coming! I was shocked to think that this girl and her mother would set aside formalities and come without my personal invitation. (I'm sure they pressured Sammy into it.)

Of course I'll be hospitable, but what do you think of people who would come without a personal invitation from the hostess?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: After a couple has announced their engagement, it is never "too soon" for the families to meet. (In fact, it's customary to meet BEFORE.) I suspect you aren't too keen on Sammy's girl; your preference to "wait" reveals your reluctance to accept her.

If you don't want to lose your "wonderful son," you'd better mellow fast, Mother, and forgo the "formalities."

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend asked me if he could borrow my car, so I said okay. (His was in the shop.)

When he brought it back I noticed a cigarette butt with lipstick on it in the ashtray. I asked him how it got there, and he said he didn't know.

Do you believe it's possible that he doesn't know how it got there? Or do you think he's lying to me?

Your answer is very important to me, so please give it some thought.

HURT

DEAR HURT: One swallow doesn't make a spring, and one cigarette butt shouldn't necessarily hang a man. I would have to know more about your boyfriend and his record of reliability before expressing an opinion.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more letter about the mockingbird? (A man signed DESPERATE couldn't bear to hear the song of a mockingbird because his wife who loved the bird had died.)

It wasn't a mockingbird's song that broke my heart. It was the sweet fragrance of the honeysuckle that grew on our back fence. Every time my husband would cut the grass, he'd pull a sprig of it, place it in his back pocket and whiff it every few moments.

Then my husband died suddenly. When I buried him, I buried the father of my two small sons, my lover, my teacher and my devoted companion.

During the first few months after his death, it was hot and humid, and the whole yard was heavy with the fragrance of honeysuckle. It seemed to follow me wherever I went. Of course, it reminded me of him.

Many people have told me to cut that honeysuckle bush down, but as it grows, so do I. My memories of him shall never die.

U.S. Interested In New Weapon

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — After witnessing the first demonstration of a machine gun capable of firing more than 2,000 bullets a minute Monday, a U.S. government representative told inventor L.E. Lisk that he would be in touch with him later this week.

The representative from Aberdeen Proving Grounds said the gun "could do things that no other weapon" could do, and promised to make a report immediately to U.S. military officials. He said the United States was interested in the gun as an anti-aircraft weapon.

The weapon, which is the fastest-shooting machine gun ever known, was designed by David M. "Carbine" Williams before his death in 1975, and perfected by Lisk, a colleague of Williams. Williams also invented the M1 carbine rifle.

Lisk has discussed sale of the blueprints for the weapon with a number of representatives of foreign governments. He says Belgium, Israel and Saudi Arabia have expressed interest in the weapon, whose design is priced in the millions of dollars.

The Greensboro resident insists that he will not sell the gun to any country not on good terms with the United States. "I know how 'Carbine' felt," he said. "And I feel the same. Before I'd sell it to anyone other than a responsible government, I'd dig a hole and bury it."

According to Lisk, the weapon can easily be adapted to fire shells of a much higher caliber than the .22 bullets he uses in tests and demonstrations.

Lisk said Williams abandoned work on the gun because he was disillusioned with the use of his earlier invention as a murder weapon.

"He'd see somebody get shot and die on TV and he could hardly stand it," Lisk said. "I was with him when President Kennedy was shot. And they kept playing it on television over and over. That hurt him."

Courts May Require Remedial Effort

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, reaffirming the role of federal judges in ending school segregation, says courts have the power to require remedial programs for children whose education has suffered because of past discrimination.

Supplying what one attorney called a "banner day for the cause of civil rights" the court ruled Monday in a pair of unanimous decisions in cases from Dayton, Ohio, and Detroit.

The justices ruled that the powers of federal judges in cases of unlawful school segregation are not limited to the re-assignment of pupils.

While the justices decided that the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals went too far in ordering a system-wide desegregation plan for Dayton schools, they said widespread solutions may be fashioned if widespread discrimination is found.

In Dayton, however, the court said an integration plan that last year forced the busing of 18,000 of the school district's 41,000 pupils was too broad for the effects of discrimination found.

More significant is the fact that the court did not, as some civil rights groups had feared it might, retreat from a 1963 ruling in a Denver case that judges may impose system-wide remedies in northern cities when such remedies are required.

In the Detroit case, the justices said federal courts may order school districts to upgrade programs aimed at helping black pupils who were discriminated against by official policies.

The court also ordered Detroit schools and Michigan to share in the cost of an $11.6-million effort to revamp remedial reading, in service teaching training, testing and guidance counseling services in Detroit.

In other matters, the court: —Decided by a 5-4 vote that lawyers have a constitutional right to advertise the fees they charge for routine legal services, a ruling expected to greatly benefit consumers.

—Let stand a lower court's unprecedented ruling in a California case that white employees may, under the Civil Rights Act of 1964, sue employers for discriminating against blacks because the alleged bias deprives white workers of inter-racial associations.

—Struck down an Alabama law that had imposed height and weight standards for prison guards. The justices said Alabama officials had not proved that the standards are not discriminatory against women. While the court's decision does not invalidate similar laws in other states, the justices handed women a significant victory in ruling that, under federal law, they may challenge such standards.

—Agreed to review the constitutionality of Ohio's death penalty law under which 70 men have been sentenced to die.

—Took away the last chance federal prisoners John Mitchell and H.R. Haldeman had to overturn their convictions in the Watergate cover-up, refusing to reconsider an earlier decision not to hear appeals by the two former aides to former President Richard M. Nixon.

One Injured In Accident

One person was reported injured and an estimated $1,025 property damage caused in three traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported 9-year-old Kevin Baker of 102 Heritage St. was injured when he ran into the path of a car driven by Cynthia Elizabeth Talbert of 302 Windsor Rd. about 10:20 p.m. on Chestnut Street, 50 feet East of the Memorial Drive intersection.

Police estimated damage to the Talbert car at $150.

A truck driven by Charlie Dixon of Robersonville collided with an auto driven by John Muhluk of 2712 Shawnee Pl. about 8:50 a.m. at the intersection of Dickinson and Grand Avenues, according to investigators, resulting in an estimated $175 damage to the Dixon truck and $275 damage to the Muhluk car.

A 1:20 p.m. collision at the intersection of Bismark Street and Greenville Boulevard involved a car operated by William Dade Sherman of 407B Holly St. and a truck driven by Clarence Edward Capps of Raleigh.

Officers said no damage resulted to the Capps truck while an estimated $425 damage resulted to the Sherman car.

Arrest Youth In Alleged Theft

A 17-year-old local youth was arrested by Greenville police early today in connection with the alleged theft of a seat from a car at R.B.J. Enterprises on Greenville Boulevard.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers charged Frank Ray Kilpatrick of 1808 Forrest Hill Dr. with entry into a vehicle with intent to commit larceny in connection with the theft.

Cannon said Kilpatrick allegedly removed a bucket seat from the front of a car. It was discovered by officers about 3:05 a.m.

Value of the seat was set at $75.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

We are planning changes in the rates for calls to Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and changes in the rates for some mainland interstate calls.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company has filed a new schedule of rates with the Federal Communications Commission which decreases the charges for all dial-direct calls to Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and increases charges for some Long Distance calls made interstate in the continental U.S. The Company has asked that the new rate schedule for U.S. offshore points become effective July 1, 1977. The new rates are designed to more closely align rates for calls to Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands with the current rates for all interstate Long Distance calls within the forty-eight contiguous states. The charges for some continental interstate Long Distance calls would go up effective September 13, 1977. The combined effect of the above rate actions is designed to provide approximately a zero revenue change in Bell's estimated interstate Message Telecommunications Service revenues for this phase of rate integration.

The new rate schedules and supporting data have been filed with the Federal Communications Commission.

■ Basic charges for initial minutes for all calls within the contiguous forty-eight states remain unchanged. Additional per-minute charges will increase by one cent or less for out-of-state calls up to 431 miles.

■ In order to bring the charges for calls to Alaska and Hawaii more closely in line with the charges for similar calls made between the contiguous forty-eight states, the charges for the average call to Alaska and Hawaii (based on past usage) will now be reduced by 29% and 25% respectively.

■ Charges for calls to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will be reduced as a result of restructuring and reducing the rates between the U.S. mainland and these points. Rates will be revised so that they are structured in the same way as the rates for interstate mainland calls. Charges will vary dependent upon the distance covered by the call and by the time of day and day of the week, and dependent upon whether or not the call is operator assisted. These changes in rates for calls to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will result in a decrease of about 24% in the charge for the average call based on prior usage.

The following examples illustrate the new Long Distance rates between U.S. mainland and the offshore localities indicated:

Offshore Dial-Direct Rates

* For operator-assisted three-minute initial period rates, no discount applies.
 For operator-assisted additional minute rates, the same percentage discounts apply as for dial-direct calls.
Rates quoted do not include tax.

"Weekday" rates apply from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. "Evening" rates apply from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday through Friday. "Night and Weekend" rates apply from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. every night, all Saturday, and all Sunday, except 5 to 11 p.m. on Sunday. Dial-direct rates apply for all offshore dial-direct calls completed from a residence or business phone without operator assistance. They also apply on calls placed with an operator from a residence or business phone where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-direct rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel-guest, credit card or collect calls, or calls charged to another number, because an operator must assist on such calls.

N.C. Legislators Act On Variety Of Measures

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill to require nurses to follow the orders of physicians' assistants in treating patients won House approval Monday and a pair of anti-pornography measures won the support of a House committee.

The House approved the doctors' assistant bill 52-47. It had been killed last week, but revived a day later in an unusual reconsideration vote.

The measure has been strongly opposed by nursing organizations, and supported by others who said it was needed to continue health care in certain rural health clinics.

Also in the legislature:

PORNOGRAPHY

A pair of bills aimed at closing adult book stores and X-rated movie theaters was scheduled for House debate today after winning approval in committee Monday.

One bill would allow district attorneys or the attorney general to file a civil suit to have the declared a public nuisance.

The bill would require that only one of the four categories of adult businesses be allowed in a building. A business would be permitted to have a bookstore, a theater, peep shows or a massage parlor.

TENANTS

The House agreed with a Senate amendment and put into law North Carolina's first landlord-tenant act. The new law sets out minimum responsibilities for landlords and tenants and provides guidelines for handling disputes. The law does not allow tenants to withhold rent without court approval.

A landlord will be required to keep a dwelling fit and habitable. The tenant will be required to keep the dwelling clean and not intentionally damage it.

Except in emergencies, tenants must notify landlords in writing when repairs are needed. Also, if a landlord must tell a tenant in writing if he believes the tenant is not living up to his responsibilities.

REORGANIZED

The House approved minor Senate amendments and enacted a bill that reorganizes the Department of Natural and Economic Resources into the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development. Economic development has been moved to the Department of Commerce.

The bill was one of the final stages of a state government reorganization plan requested by Gov. Jim Hunt early in the session.

WELLS

The appointment of Hugh Wells was confirmed by a joint Senate-House meeting, making him the head of the new public staff of the state Utilities Commission. Wells, a former member of the commission, was nominated last month by Gov. Jim Hunt.

Wells will take office Friday, the day the new staff comes into being. It is composed of more than 90 persons who were on the Utilities Commission staff. The regulatory body still has a staff of nearly 70 to assist it.

SPEEDY TRIALS

The Senate approved a bill that would require persons charged with crimes to be tried in a reasonable time after arrest or be set free. As amended by the Senate, beginning Oct. 1, 1978, the person must be tried within 120 days and beginning July 1, 1980, he must be tried within 90 days.

The measure now goes back to the House which is expected to concur in the Senate amendment. The House-passed version specified the first effective date as July 1, 1978.

ENERGY

The Senate approved and returned to the House a bill that would encourage energy conservation. The House is expected to concur with a Senate amendment and enact the bill.

The proposal would give tax credits to homeowners who add insulation to their homes and buy and install solar energy devices. It would also require new homes to meet minimum insulation standards before they can be connected to an electricity supply. It would also ban master meters in new apartment houses, requiring each apartment to be metered separately.

DEATH

A bill that would allow doctors to discontinue extraordinary medical treatment from terminal patients in certain cases was approved in the House on an 80-23 vote and returned to the Senate for concurrence on a minor amendment.

The bill would establish a legal definition for brain death, and establish a legal document that persons could sign, stating that they did not wish to be sustained by artificial means if they ever suffered irreversible cessation of brain function.

BOYCOTT

The House tentatively approved to a Senate-passed bill prohibiting North Carolinians from entering into contracts with others who require discrimination against third parties. The bill was patterned after legislation in five other states, and was aimed at a foreign trade boycott promoted by some Arab states against Israel.

The bill was approved on an 87-16 second reading vote, and final action was set for Tuesday.

The House approved the bill after Rep. William Creech, D-Wake, said it was "a nullity" and preempted by federal legislation enacted earlier this year. Creech said the state was trying to regulate foreign trade, and said the bill was "patently unconstitutional."

Phony 'Fencing' Plan Effective

BUFFALO (AP) — The FBI has recovered a stolen Rembrandt painting, arrested two prominent Buffalo officials and extended a crime and corruption investigation to six other states, agents say.

Federal, state and local investigators operated video-tape cameras in a store where an FBI informer bought stolen goods for 15 months, leading to the arrests and extending the probe, according to FBI and local officials.

The informer has been given a new identity and is no longer in Buffalo, officials add.

Twenty-three persons, including the Democratic majority leader of the Erie County Legislature and an assistant district attorney, were arraigned on state and federal charges, including burglary, grand larceny, robbery, arson and possession and transportation of stolen goods.

Police valued the recovered stolen property at $500,000, including the $250,000 Rembrandt painting, "Le Rabbin" or The Rabbi, that was taken from The Leon Bonnat Museum in Bayonne, France, in 1971.

FBI agents are seeking a fugitive in connection with the Rembrandt theft.

An FBI spokesman said the informer, Charles Carlo of Buffalo, established an antique and art shop in May 1976 and began buying stolen goods. Carlo recently joined the Federal Witness Protection Program, said Richard Rogge, who heads the Buffalo FBI office.

Police claim that Carlo was carrying a concealed recorder June 20 when he allegedly discussed a bribe with James Arcadi, majority leader of the county legislature. Arcadi allegedly offered a money-back guarantee on a $6,500 bribe to fix a pending criminal case.

Carlo said he also met Richard Mancuso, who was suspended Monday from his job as assistant district attorney, to discuss the bribe. Mancuso and Arcadi pleaded innocent in City Court to one count of second-degree bribe receiving.

Rogge said the stolen goods deals "involved activities in other jurisdictions including Cincinnati, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, New Orleans, New York City, Norfolk, Phoenix" and overseas points. He did not elaborate.

Coins Pay For A Fountain

CINCINNATI (AP) — In Cincinnati, three coins in the fountain means the fountain water will be turned on three times. It sprays for pay.

Located in a new million-dollar development near the the Ohio River, the fountain can only be operated by the insertion of a quarter into one of two boxes.

For 25 cents, a passerby can expect a three-minute spray of rushing water that spouts about 30 feet above a reflecting pool.

Project director Abe Rankin calls the pay fountain "a gimmick, an idea the architect had."

KILLED IN WRECK

CAIRO (AP) — Mahmoud Abdul Aziz Mahmoud, 50, managing editor of the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram, was killed in an auto accident Sunday, the paper reported Monday.

McCovey Passes Aaron As Top Grand Slam Artist In National

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

Willie McCovey, taking yet another home run trot around the bases, was thinking of Hank Aaron and Lou Gehrig.

"It didn't hit me until I was half way around the bases," McCovey said Monday. "Then I thought, 'God, I finally passed him.'"

The San Francisco first baseman unloaded two home runs in the Giants' 10-run sixth inning — the only player in major league history to twice hit two homers in one inning — including his 17th career grand slam.

The power barrage carried the Giants to a 14-9 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

The bases-loaded shot enabled the 39-year-old McCovey to pass home run king Hank Aaron as the National League's all-time grand slam leader.

The homers, McCovey's 12th and 13th of the season, gave him 478 for his 19-year major league career. Gehrig, the former New York Yankee star, holds the major league record with 23 grand slams — a record McCovey concedes.

"But I think I can catch him in career homers," McCovey said. "He has 493. I know that is within my reach."

In other NL games Monday, Chicago nipped Montreal 4-3, Philadelphia defeated New York 4-2, St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 6-1, Houston edged San Diego 7-6 and Los Angeles squeezed past Atlanta 2-1.

Trailing 8-1 after three innings, the Giants bombarded Cincinnati pitching for four homers, two doubles and a triple, with recently activated reliever Joe Hoerner giving up his second grand slam in a week.

Cubs 4, Expos 3

Chicago recorded its seventh straight victory as Mick Kelleher raced home from third on Ivan DeJesus' sacrifice fly, capping a three-run seventh-inning rally. The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the first on Larry Bittner's fourth home run of the season.

Montreal came back to take a 3-1 lead in the bottom of the first on Ellis Valentine's run-scoring single and a two-run single by Tony Perez.

Phillies 4, Mets 1

A bases-loaded pinch single by Jay Johnstone in the ninth inning drove in two runs and gave Philadelphia its victory over New York. Johnstone's single came off Met reliever Skip Lockwood, 1-4, who relieved starter Nino Espinosa in the ninth and allowed the first three men he faced to reach base.

Cardinals 6, Pirates 1

Mike Tyson hit his first home run of the season and only the eighth of his major league career to lead St. Louis over Pittsburgh.

"Lou Brock was passed out and another guy was lying on the dugout bench when I got back (to the bench)," said Tyson. "Gene Gieselman (St. Louis trainer) was handing out ammonia capsules. I don't know why they were surprised. I hit them out in batting practice."

Astros 7, Padres 6

Bob Watson's single scored Cesar Cedeño to cap a three-run ninth-inning rally as Houston topped San Diego.

Dave Winfield's two-run home run and a run-scoring triple by Gene Tenace had given San Diego a 6-4 lead before Houston's rally.

Dodgers 2, Braves 1

An opposite-field two-run homer by Rick Monday was enough to give Los Angeles its victory over Atlanta. The Braves mounted threats in each inning except the first off starter Burt Hooton, 6-3, but scored only in the seventh, when singles by Gary Matthews, Willie Montanez and Biff Porcoroba produced the Braves' run.

Greenville's Post 39 American Legion baseball team slipped past Johnston County, 5-4, last night in 11 innings to clinch the league championship.

The win left Greenville with a 10-3 record on the season, with just one game remaining on the schedule. Everyone else in the league has lost at least five games.

Quinn Morris went all the way for Greenville, giving up seven hits. He struck out nine and walked two.

Johnston County used two pitchers, starter Jimmy Mitchell and reliever Chris Parker. The two actually moved back and forth on the mound several times, alternating playing third and pitching.

Johnston County scored first, getting a run in the top of the first. Steve Smith singled and was safe on an error on Chris Parker's fielder's choice. Smith took third on an out and scored when Vaughn Stephenson singled.

Greenville tied it up in the third and took the lead with a second run in the inning. Morris singled with one down, and Nuggie Worthington came up with a hit. Al Butts was walked, loading the bases, and a single by Will Sanderson brought in both runners for a 2-1 lead.

Greenville added a third run in the sixth. That came on a solo home run by Billy Mitchell over the right field fence.

In the seventh, however, Johnston County rallied for two runs to tie it at 3-3. Jack Wooten walked and Paul Sherrill reached on a two-base error. Mitchell followed with a single, scoring Wooten. A wild pitch then scored Sherrill.

Johnston County took the lead at 4-3 with a run in the top of the eighth. Tim Barbour singled and Stephenson walked. Wayne Nixon reached on an error, loading them up, and Sherrill was safe on a fielder's choice, letting Barbour score.

But Greenville came right back to tie it again in the bottom of the eighth. Ned Craft reached on a bunt single and Wright Hooks doubled, driving him in.

That forced the extra innings. Greenville finally broke the tie in the 11th inning. With one down, Greg Lee walked and Morris reached on an error, moving Lee to third. Morris stole second and Worthington was intentionally walked.

Butts followed with a single, scoring Lee with the game-ending and title winning run.

No one on either team had more than one hit.

Greenville travels to Smithfield tonight for a return visit with Johnston County, winding up the regular season.

Snow Hill In 6-2 Victory

WILLIAMSTON — Snow Hill's American Legion baseball team rolled to a 6-2 victory over Williamston last night.

Williamston's Russell Holton held Snow Hill hitless until the fifth inning when the Snow Hill team came up with four runs to take the lead for good.

Williamston took the early lead in the game, scoring in the seventh and eighth innings. Speight doubled in the eighth and David Winborn singled. Speight scored when Whitley reached on an error.

In the eighth, Jenkins doubled, moved up on Chase's single and scored when Carraway grounded out.

Jenkins and Winborn each had two hits to lead Snow Hill. Smith had three for Williamston, while Hardison and Keel each added a pair.

Lions Down Optimists

The regular season champion Lions copped the North State Little League baseball tournament title last night, defeating the Optimists in a one-hitter, 5-1.

The win gives the Lions the right to meet the Tar Heel League champs, First Federal, in a best-of-three City Tournament starting tomorrow night at 6 p.m. at Elm Street Park.

After four scoreless innings of play last night, both teams got on the scoreboard in the fifth with one run each. David Jester scored for the Lions in the top of the frame, reaching on an error and getting all the way home when Patrick Rand got on with a two-base error.

Glenn Buck scored the Optimists' only run in the bottom of the frame. He walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored when Gary Scott reached on an error.

The Lions came up with four runs in the sixth to clinch the win. Troy Hudson led off the frame with a single, going to third on Steve Staton's fielder's choice.

An error scored Hudson and moved Staton to third. He came home when Marc Gatlin reached on a misplay. Chris Evans singled Gatlin to second and both runners advanced two bases on another error. Evans scored on Tracy Roscoe's infield out.

The Optimists were held to one hit by Lion pitcher Marshall Rand, while the Lions had only four hits. Hudson was the leading batter with two hits.

More To It Than Success

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — It's easy to be patient, cooperative and cheerful if you've won four golf tournaments and $269,115 in only six months.

But Tom Watson says there's more behind his sunny disposition than success.

"I think, in a sense, we are entertainers," he said. "The public comes out to see us. They want to read stories about us. I try to be honest with the press."

He commented during a half-hour session with reporters Sunday after winning the Western Open for the second time and before signing autographs and posing for a picture of himself pointing to his winning total of five-under-par 283 on the scoreboard.

Watson joined the pro tour in 1972 and, in his first five years, earned $528,309 while winning two tour events as well as the British Open and World Series of Golf, both in 1975.

He has added four victories this year, including the Masters.

Asked whether anything bothers him, Watson replied, "I love the game I play. It bothers me to play poorly ... I'm hard on myself, but that's the way I improve."

With so much success at the age of 27, he says his goal is to keep improving in such areas as playing in wind and working the ball from right to left as well as from left to right.

Billy Jean Has No Desire To Give Up

An AP Sports Analysis
By WILL GRIMSLEY

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King is the Joe Frazier of tennis.

Cut her to ribbons. Smash her from pillar to post. Knock her down. Spit on her. Put your heel in her eye. Then pivot.

She bounces back, swinging. "Retire? Quit tournament tennis? You gotta be kidding," the plucky, 33-year-old grand dame of Wimbledon champions snapped after a humiliating 6-1, 6-2 loss to Chris Evert Monday before a packed center court gallery in the aged Wimbledon stadium.

"It just means I've got a lot more work," she said. "I've got to make myself match tough. I gotta be tough mentally as well as physically."

"I gotta go out and kill myself for the next six months. It's a long, arduous process. I will suffer.

"But I'll be back."

It's a warning her contemporaries would do well to heed. Billie Jean may lose a battle but she loses very few wars.

People around Long Beach, Calif., remember her as the pudgy little fireman's daughter who played baseball with her brother and other boys in the corner lot, sliding and slashing with the best of them.

Tennis? She'd never be a good tennis player, they said. She didn't have the graceful strokes and the lightning speed. All she did was pounce and puff, fuss and fume, knock the cover off the ball and beat everybody.

She won four championships at Forest Hills. She became the sensation of Wimbledon, winning six ladies titles and 13 doubles and mixed doubles crowns.

She became a dominant force on the Virginia Slims circuit. "Billie Jean intimidates us all," said Chris Evert.

Billie Jean came up at a time when women's tennis was merely tolerated — treated with disdain by most of the men and some promoters. The girls got little newspaper space. Prize money was about a fourth of that paid out to the men.

Billie Jean would come into the press marquee at Forest Hills and in the dungeon interview room at Wimbledon, prop her feet on the table and blast away at these inequities.

She staged sitdown strikes. She threatened mass walkouts. She was suspended. She had purses taken away. But she won her point. Women's tennis grew to full stature.

She became the chief flame carrier for women's sports lib. She headlined the campaign by beating Bobby Riggs in the famed "Battle of the Sexes" in 1973.

After winning her sixth ladies title at Wimbledon in 1975, she retired from tournament competition. She underwent a third knee operation. Her career appeared doomed. But she came back.

It was tragic to see this game lady humiliated by her younger opponent Monday. Sadness swept the crowd and lapped over to the normally calloused press pews.

Billie Jean refused to submit to embarrassment herself — or apologize.

"No, I am not embarrassed," she said. "I gave an honest effort. Chris played well. I am not sure I could have beaten her had I played my best. Forget knees, ankles, brains, no one may have beaten her today."

Clever Kevin Porter of the Detroit Pistons topped all play-makers in the NBA for a single-game performance in the 1976-77 season. He had 20 assists in one game against the Boston Celtics.

Boston Drops Fourth Straight, 4-1

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

"We couldn't keep hitting the way we were hitting," said Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "That's unheard of."

The Red Sox bats haven't been heard from lately. Boston dropped its fourth straight game Monday night, a 4-1 decision to Dave Roberts and the Detroit Tigers. It was the third consecutive game in which the Red Sox failed to hit a home run after a record power spree of 33 round-trippers in 10 games earlier in the month.

"Their power always is in the back of your mind," said Roberts, who surrendered seven singles to Boston in winning his first game in six weeks. It was only the second time this season that the Red Sox did not get an extra base hit.

Zimmer blamed his starting pitchers for the recent skid, which has seen Boston's first-place lead in the American League East shrink to two games over New York.

"Our four starters haven't pitched past the first few innings," Zimmer noted. "They were in a groove for a month, that's why we got to where we're at."

Pacing the Tigers' triumph were doubles by Ron LeFlore, Rusty Staub, Tom Verzer and Steve Kemp. Jason Thompson chipped in with his 14th homer of the season.

In other AL action, Toronto edged New York 7-6, Minnesota blasted Milwaukee 10-3, Chicago downed Seattle 10-4, Baltimore topped Cleveland 9-2, Kansas City defeated California 7-2 and Texas took Oakland, 5-2.

Blue Jays 7, Yankees 6
Hector Torres, a .219 hitter with just one homer and five RBI before the game, belted the first grand slam home run in Blue Jays history to pace the Toronto attack.

Ron Fairly added a two-run blast for the Blue Jays, while Thurman Munson hit his 10th homer of the season for the Yankees.

Twins 10, Brewers 3
Minnesota continued its torrid hitting pace with Rod Carew leading the way as usual. Carew's 3-for-4 night raised his major league-leading batting average to .408 and gave him 20 hits in his last 32 at bats, a .625 clip. For good measure, Carew also stole home.

Dave Goltz, 8-4, surrendered homers to Sal Bando and Sixto Lezcano in the first inning for the Brewers' runs, then settled down to pitch a seven-hitter, striking out nine and walking one.

AL Roundup

White Sox 10, Mariners 4
Chicago also continued its batting splurge, pounding out 13 hits. The White Sox' hottest hitter, Lamar Johnson, had three hits, including a bases-loaded triple, and knocked home four runs.

Orioles 9, Indians 2
Mike Flanagan's eight-hitter and Billy Smith's four RBI led the Orioles past Cleveland. Flanagan, 3-6, went the route, striking out four and walking one.

Smith socked his fourth home run of the season in the seventh inning to chase Cleveland starter Dennis Eckersley, 7-6.

Royals 7, Angels 2
Pete LaCock slammed a three-run homer to help Andy Hassler capture his first game at Anaheim Stadium in more than two years. LaCock's home run came in the fourth inning off California starter Wayne Simpson, 3-5.

Hassler, a former Angel, got relief help from Steve Mingori and Doug Bird in posting his first victory at California since April 25, 1975.

Rangers 5, A's 2
Texas made Connie Ryan's final game as their manager a victorious one with Claudell Washington hitting his fifth home run of the year, as many as he hit all last season with the Yankees.

Billy Hunter, the fourth manager of the Rangers within a week, arrived at the game in the fifth inning and watched his new charges from the press box. Hunter takes over the Rangers managerial duties tonight.

Billy Hunter Takes Over As Ranger Chief; 4th In A Week

By ERIC PREWITT

OAKLAND (AP) — Billy Hunter, the Texas Rangers' fourth manager within a week, takes over tonight and team owner Brad Corbett vows, "No more changes."

Hunter accepted the job offer Monday morning, while in Cleveland with the Baltimore Orioles. He arrived at the Oakland Coliseum — still wearing an Orioles' necktie — to watch the last 4½ innings of a 5-2 Texas victory over the Oakland A's.

"I like the score," said Hunter, who also likes the Rangers' chances of winning the American League West title.

"The personnel is great, we're not too far behind, and the division is up for grabs. I just hope we can put it all together," he said in a press-box interview while interim Manager Connie Ryan called the shots on the field. "The club has good defense, good speed and can score runs."

"When you see the team's record is 33-35, you know something's wrong."

The Monday night victory broke a three-game losing streak and brought the Rangers within 5½ games of first-place Minnesota.

Ryan will return to his third base coaching job tonight while Hunter, 49, manages for the first time in major league baseball. The new manager, a former big league infielder, was the Orioles' third base coach for 14 years.

"He's been in the league a long time. He knows our club. He brings us experience," said Corbett.

The owner said Hunter received a contract running through the 1979 season. Eddie Stanky, hired last Wednesday after Frank Lucchesi was fired, also signed a three-year contract but quit after one game.

Ryan was offered the opportunity to finish the season as manager "as late as this morning," Corbett said before Monday night's game.

"Connie thought it best that we go get Billy because he knew he'd probably be manager next year, anyway," said Corbett, who also talked to Harmon Killebrew about the job.

"Everything's settled now and I'm glad," said Ryan, 57. "The best crack I heard during all this was that Ryan is working under a multi-hour contract."

Hunter, upon arriving at the Oakland Coliseum, was handed a telegram which read: "Good luck, Billy. It is a great club and fine ownership. (Signed) Eddie Stanky."

King's Chances Getting Slimmer

By ROBERT JONES
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King, on the comeback trail after a cartilage operation — her third in all — has her sights firmly fixed on beating the record she shares with Elizabeth Ryan for winning the most Wimbledon titles — 19.

Miss Ryan, American born who has lived in Britain for many years, won her titles — all of them in women's and mixed doubles — between 1914-1934. Billie Jean has equalled that in 11 years and collected a post-war record of six singles titles on the way.

She failed to gain anything here last year, but came back again this time for that elusive 20th win that will stamp her name alone in the record books.

She's only got one chance out of three now of doing it this year. She teamed with Karen Susman and lost in the first round of the women's doubles, then lost again Monday in the singles to Chris Evert.

Her only chance of pulling off the record in 1977 lies in the mixed doubles. With her partner, Phil Dent, she won her way through to the last 16 Monday by beating Ray Ruffels and Virginia Wade in two sets.

Billie Jean, 33, is mentally still the same fierce competitor she always has been. But physically, last year's operation has taken its toll.

Miss Evert, who gave Billie Jean her biggest Wimbledon beating since her first year here in 1961, said after her 6-1, 6-2 victory, "the fire has gone out of her eyes. She didn't seem to have any zest."

Billie Jean roared with laughter when she heard of the comment. "Mentally I'm in good shape — physically I just don't know," she said.

Will she come back again next year? "After that (her match against Miss Evert) I'll certainly be back," she said.

Then she hedged a little. "I'll know more about that in six months to a year, when I see how I'm going on physically," she said. "I'm still not quick enough, but I'm working hard on my knee and six months or so should tell me whether I can carry on as I have done. There are still one or two shots I need to work on hard and I find my mind still wanders too much."

Miss Evert meets Britain's Virginia Wade, while Sue Barker, another Briton, meets Betty Stove in the semifinal Wednesday.

Miss Wade beat Rosemary Casals of the U.S. 7-5, 6-2, Miss Barker beat Kerry Reid of Australia 6-3, 6-4 and Miss Stove beat Martina Navratilova, the Czech who now lives in the United States, 9-8, 3-6, 6-1. It will be the first time since 1961 that Britain has had two women in the semifinals.

Today the men were to occupy center stage, with quarterfinals between Jimmy Connors, Belleville, Ill., and Byron Bertram of South Africa; John McEnroe of New York and Dent; Vitas Gerulaitis of New York and Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif., and Iie Nastase of Romania and Bjorn Borg, the defending champion from Sweden.

Sports Briefs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Four finalists were paired off today in the southern regional playoffs of the $170,000 World Putting Championship.

Monday's card was shortened by rain.

Seeking berths in the quarterfinals were: Robert Smith of Dallas, Gary Benfield of Charlotte, N.C., Eugene Carter of Johannesburg, South Africa, and Rodney Phillips of Lubbock, Tex.

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Atlanta Falcons linebacker Tommy Nobis has been charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and speeding, police said Monday.

Authorities said Nobis, who retired after last season, was stopped on Interstate 85 near the Lawrenceville connector around 2 a.m. Sunday morning.

The 6-foot-3, 248-pound Nobis, an administrative assistant with the National Football League Falcons, was released from jail a short time later.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, who have surprised the baseball world by compiling this year's best record, are getting a bigger bombardment from their fans than from their opponents.

The team said Monday it has been swamped by telephone calls from fans seeking to purchase tickets. As a result, the club said, a system of ticket purchases via charge cards has been set up.

A team spokesman said fans may buy tickets by telephoning and charging them to their credit card numbers.

Hundreds Of Thousands Of Files Face Disposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI may soon get rid of hundreds of thousands of files on individuals and organizations that attracted FBI attention only because they participated in some sort of political protest. Justice Department and FBI officials said Monday they are considering how to dispose of many of the 6.5-million files the bureau has collected on citizens and groups.

But William Schaffer, a deputy assistant attorney general, said that under the law, "the FBI just can't dispose of the files unilaterally."

He said department and FBI officials are conferring with representatives of the National Archives to determine what can be done.

The law sets down procedures for government agencies, including the FBI, to transfer historic records to the archives and gives archivists a role in determining what must be preserved and what can be destroyed.

The issue arose at a House judiciary subcommittee hearing. Some committee members criticized the FBI for hoarding volumes of files having nothing to do with criminal activity.

"Why doesn't the FBI say, 'We are getting rid of all of these silly non-criminal files that we never should have amassed in the first place?'" asked Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., a long-time critic of FBI record keeping.

"We have in the FBI a repository of files that strikes fear into the hearts of Americans," asserted Drinan, who once found a report on himself amid the FBI records.

"I think that you want to get rid of those files. I hope that when we gather again next year that the files will have been discarded," the Roman Catholic priest added.

In response to committee questions, department and FBI officials said they are receiving an average of 68 requests every working day from individuals seeking FBI records under the Freedom of Information Act.

More than 6,000 requests are pending and the bureau has assigned 375 employees to process them, said James M. Powers, the FBI official in charge of handling the requests.

He said the FBI hopes to eliminate the backlog by Sept. 30.

Find Water Index 'Low'

WASHINGTON (AP) — River and underground water shortages have been discovered in the Southeast, the U.S. Geological Survey says.

Carroll Saboe, head of the survey's current water conditions group, said Monday in addition to agricultural and soil moisture problems in the Southeast, a spot check has indicated other problems.

However, he said problem in the Southeast is far from being as critical as the shortages in the West and upper Midwest.

"Some streams have been running well below normal...for several months in parts of the Southeast and so far are showing no significant improvement," he said.

The flow of the Neuse River at Clayton, N.C., broke a 50-year low during May and on June 22 was 70 per cent below normal, he said.

"Other index streams in the state were running from 15 to 45 per cent below normal, and the ground water at Chapel Hill was about two feet below the June average," he said.

Scientists Optimistic On New Mirex Formula

By RON HARRIST
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Scientists working on new formulations of Mirex fire ant bait think they may have developed a pesticide that not only breaks down rapidly in the environment, but also packs more killing power.

While experts at Mississippi State University are optimistic about their discovery, they say more tests are needed before the new formulation could join the South's battle against the imported fire ant.

Earl Alley, research director, said as much as 95 per cent of the Mirex content in new baits degrade in about a month.

Mirex is the toxic element of the bait. Existing Mirex pesticides take a long time to break down. The long-lasting Mirex gets into plants and water supplies, and can be stored in the fat tissues of animals.

The Mirex bait is dropped onto fields from airplanes to combat the pesky fire ant, whose large earthen nests dot the Southern countryside. The ant's bite is painful, and can kill small animals.

"While there are still a lot of unanswered questions, the results thus far have been encouraging," Alley said. "Hopefully by this fall we will have a pretty good handle on the answers."

Mirex is suspected of being a cancer-causing agent and. The Environmental Protection Agency will not allow use of the existing baits after June 30, 1978.

Alley said scientists were working on alternatives to Mi-rex. But so far, he said, the troublesome chemical appears to be the best answer.

Until a year ago, the bait contained .3 per cent Mirex mixed with corn-cob grits and soybean oil. The formulation now in use contains about .1 per cent Mirex. Alley said the test formulations contains half that amount, and that only a quarter of what now is spread on each acre is needed to achieve the same kill.

Alley said the additional killing power may stem from organic compounds, amines, used to speed the breakdown of Mirex. He said the amines act as catalysts to promote degradation when Mirex is exposed to sunlight and heat.

Alley said initial tests have been carried out on small plots but that tests using several thousand acres would begin this fall.

Alley said scientists were now trying to comply with EPA guidelines, which must be met before the new formulation can be registered and placed into use.

"That's kind of a long process even though they already have a lot of data on Mirex," he said. "Starting from scratch it would take five to 10 years to get through all these regulations. We are a little bit ahead of the game but if we have to meet all the requirements it could take two to three years."

Safety Council Estimates Toll

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Safety Council estimates that between 500 and 600 persons may die in traffic accidents over the July 4 weekend.

The worst Independence Day traffic death toll on record was 758 during a four-day observance in 1972.

During last year's three-day weekend holiday, 497 persons were killed.

With this tip by Bridge World co-editor Jeff Rubens, the third Bols Bridge Tips Competition, sponsored by the Dutch manufacturers of Bols Liqueur, comes to an end. During the past three years, some 25 experts of world renown have given their advice.

Rubens points out that many bridge blunders are cooperative in nature—one of the defenders makes a losing play but his partner was at fault. A good player should be alert to his partner's difficulties as well as his own. For example, he should try to remove undesirable options. Consider this hand.

North-South bid aggressively to reach three no trump. South might not have opened his flat hand. North might have bid only two no trump, but he felt that his wealth of intermediate cards made his hand too good for that. The result was a tenuous final contract.

West led his fourth-best heart, East won the ace and automatically returned his partner's suit. Declarer false-carded by following with the four and seven, concealing the three. West, who was looking at an entry-less hand, decided that the best chance for the defense was to play South for only three hearts, so he ducked. Later in the play, East scored two spade tricks and a diamond, but the defenders never got their king of hearts and declarer made his contract.

West's heart duck was the fatal mistake, but the king of hearts was 'lost' by East. From his hand, East should have realized that West could not have an entry to the hearts, so the immediate heart return could cause partner unnecessary grief. Instead of returning a heart, East should have made a safe shift; for example, to the eight of clubs. When he later leads a heart, West will realize that it must be futile to duck. He will win the king, and the defenders will come to their five tricks.

Note that, in the unlikely event that West has the king-jack of hearts, nothing three of trump with the nine tricks without letting East gain the lead, and there is always time to revert to hearts.

sions" began on public TV. Its intent: To encourage original drama for TV and give new-to-TV American writers a showcase for their wares.

Fourteen shows later, with 10 new ones ready for next fall, "Visions" chief Barbara Schultz already is getting set for season No. 3 — but with only enough loot for six fresh productions.

The problem: She and producing station KCET here haven't been able to find corporate underwriters for the series, even though there's no lack of them for made-in-Britain shows.

So the money for two seasons — $7 million total — has come from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the Ford Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA).

And while nothing's signed and sealed yet, she says, CPB will be kicking in $1 million and Ford and NEA $500,000; each for the series' third season.

Why no corporate interest in "Visions"?

"I wish I could answer that," she said by phone from New York, where she's mulling story submissions. "Apparently, they don't feel it's good for their image, or it's too risky. I just don't know."

She says she's puzzled, "because after last season, when we were so very well received (by critics) we thought we'd get some interest from a corporation or two. But we didn't."

The corporate till-keepers KCET approved said they loved the series, she added, but either said "it wasn't for them" or that they'd already committed their public TV funds elsewhere.

Oddly enough, when "Visions" was winding up its first season, another LuLIC TV series, the six-program "The American Short Story," then came on, a series also made in America and funded by NEA.

Might this signal a gradual shift in public TV programming from heavy reliance on British Broadcasting Corp. and other English wares?

"No, I don't think so," Ms. Schultz said. "I've got to be very honest, sometimes I feel we're an affiliated station of the BBC. I don't mean to sound sour grapes because they do wonderful stuff."

"But it gets a little tiresome at times."

Despite no corporate backing for "Visions," Ms. Schultz said she's at least gratified for its good reviews and the commercial work it helped get for several of its new-to-television dramatists.

She ticked them off — Conrad Bromberg, whose "Two Brothers" was the series' first show; David Epstein, author of "Pennsylvania Lynch," and Nell Cox, writer-director of "Lisa's Pioneer Diary."

It proved a good forum for these and other playwrights, she said.

"I feel that's why it's so important for this project to have a life, to continue," added Ms. Schultz, executive producer of CBS Playhouse in the so-called golden era of original TV drama.

"The good writers are there, they should be allowed to work, to write what's on their mind. It's the only way we're going to develop (for TV) a good body of American work and American writers."

Energy-Saving Tips On Farm

The cost of energy for production and curing is second only to labor cost for flue-cured tobacco growers, according to L. Gaylon Ambrose, assistant agricultural extension agent.

Ambrose suggested growers stop hot air leaks, ventilate only enough to hold humidity down, add insulation, load racks or boxes uniformly, assure an air seal around each rack or box, tune up the fuel burner and harvest only ripe tobacco.

Ambrose said growers should check door gaskets and structural cracks. He noted a quarter-inch crack 15 feet long between the pad and the building may result in loss of as much as 10 per cent of the air and heat.

He suggested vents be opened only enough to hold humidity down to the proper level (100-105 degrees wet bulb temperature during leaf drying and 105-110 degrees during stem drying).

He noted well-insulated walls, roofs and floors may save as much as 75 gallons of fuel per cure, and said uniform loading assures even drying, better quality, quicker "kill off" and less energy usage.

He said a half-inch crack between boxes reduces ventilating efficiency by 50 per cent. Ambrose suggested periodic maintenance and adjustment be given both oil and gas burners to ensure efficient operation. He said fuel dealers usually have the proper instruments to make any necessary adjustments.

Shorter curing times mean less heat loss and more efficient curing, he added.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Act quickly now and put in effect a new and interesting plan you have been postponing. Make more of an effort to get on the good side of co-workers and higher-ups.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal time to look into new ventures or travel. Making new associates who can be of help to you is good. Take no chances with your help.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your intuition is good regarding how to handle obligations better in the future, so follow it. Try to be more cooperative with mate or loved one and get better results. Avoid a troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Matters concerning your partners are vital to you now, so handle them most intelligently, make fine plans for the future. Situations arise so that you know better where you stand with others.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have a good deal to do and can cooperate better with associates and get right results now. Take time to improve health, also.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are highly inspired how to gain your finest aims and can go after them in a positive way and make a better position for yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Improve affairs at home and achieve greater harmony. Entertain good friends and get good results. Avoid a troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get the information you need so that you can make new projects more successful. Use caution where your temper is concerned.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study new interests well so that you can command a greater abundance in the near future. Talk over with an expert how to become efficient.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make necessary changes now, and stop procrastinating. Put off socializing for a later time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Concentrate more on the idealistic side of your affairs and less on the material and get good results. Be more concerned with the problems of a loved one and have better understanding.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You want to be your gregarious self today and should follow through with this and get good results. A good time to meet new people.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get into those civic and career affairs that can bring you greater success and happiness. Make your capabilities known to bigwigs for good results. Be careful of a jealous friend.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will get an early start on a career and hit upon the right philosophy of life. Add foreign languages to the educational career since there will be much travel to other countries in this lifetime. Take care your child does not cultivate the wrong type of persons early in life.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed today in a drifting session.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a .68 decline at 923.42.

Losers held a very slight edge on gainers in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

First-hour volume on the Big Board was a moderate 5.57 million shares.

Analysts said it was difficult to discern any clear message in the market's behavior with investing institutions making last-minute portfolio maneuvers before issuing their midyear reports.

They noted some caution over analysts' projections that the growth of the economy might slow or even stall toward the end of this year and in 1978.

Kennecott Copper picked up 1/2 to 29%. The company was said to be considering a diversification plan following the expected completion of the sale of its Peabody Coal subsidiary.

Simplicity Pattern ranked among the volume leaders, unchanged at 13% in trading marked by a 108,600-share block at 13 1/2.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .02 at 55.32.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .10 to 120.13.

OVER THE COUNTER

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was little changed today in a drifting session.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a .68 decline at 923.42.

Losers held a very slight edge on gainers in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

First-hour volume on the Big Board was a moderate 5.57 million shares.

Analysts said it was difficult to discern any clear message in the market's behavior with investing institutions making last-minute portfolio maneuvers before issuing their midyear reports.

They noted some caution over analysts' projections that the growth of the economy might slow or even stall toward the end of this year and in 1978.

Kennecott Copper picked up 1/2 to 29%. The company was said to be considering a diversification plan following the expected completion of the sale of its Peabody Coal subsidiary.

Simplicity Pattern ranked among the volume leaders, unchanged at 13% in trading marked by a 108,600-share block at 13 1/2.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .02 at 55.32.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .10 to 120.13.

INSTANT POTHOLE — Earthquake? At least that's what Mary Harris of 2818 Deal Place must have thought Monday afternoon when the pavement caved in after she had stopped at an intersection on Ragsdale Blvd. "There was nothing wrong with the road when I came up,"

she said. "It looked like a regular road." Ms. Harris was not cited since "she didn't do anything wrong," the investigating officer said. Damages to the Harris auto were estimated as light. (Reflector Photo by Keith Mills)

Standby Plan To Ration Gas

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is developing a standby program that would allow the President to impose gasoline rationing on a moment's notice.

The project was confirmed Monday by James Bishop, an aide to presidential energy ad-

Canoe Race To Be Held July 4

A canoe race on July 4 is being sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department and the Greenville Jaycees.

The race will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Falkland Wildlife boat landing, with the Greenville Town Common as the finish line. Any type canoe may be used but no motors, sails, or kayaks are permitted. Two man teams will compete and trophies will be awarded the first three teams finishing the race.

There is no entry fee, and all participants must wear coast guard approved life jackets.

Interested persons are to register on or before Friday, July 1 by calling 752-4137, extension 251.

Water Cutback Said Overdone

FREMONT, Calif. (AP) — For months, water officials in parched northern California districts have been urging their customers to conserve water. Now they're saying, "enough, already."

Drought-conscious consumers are overdoing it, officials say.

As a result, the Alameda County Water District, which serves 61,000 households east of San Francisco, scrapped its water rationing program over the weekend.

"The people cut back almost 57 per cent. We only required a 25 per cent decrease," said district manager Matt Whitfield. "The people have been so good at saving water it was getting worrisome."

Last week, general manager Kenneth Boyd of the San Francisco Water Department pleaded with city residents not to let their lawns die for lack of water.
