First Rows Range Up To $120

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Tobacco Market opened today amid increased interest and concern from all segments of the tobacco industry as a result of revised grading standards applied this year by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

With marketing emphasis pointing directly towards tobacco that is free of sand or other foreign matter, today's opening auction was watched closely not only by producing farmers but by agricultural officials from all levels of the industry.

The first rows of tobacco auctioned at one of the opening sales brought prices ranging up to $120 per hundred pounds with a substantial number of $117, $118 and $119 per hundred pound quotes included in the first break.

Marketing officials did not view the first two or three rows as indicative of the overall opening day prospects, however, as some of the early piles reflected second and third pullings.

The strict grading standards implemented this season were evident on the first sale in spite of the generous prices on some of the stacks. Offerings containing excessive amounts of sand received "N" grades and consequently no price support. Many of the "no grade" piles dipped to the $50 per hundred pound range.

State Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham, who annually makes Greenville one of his first Eastern Belt stops, said that the "no grade" leaf was a good example of what would happen to the tobacco program if price support was lost.

Graham, saying that the opening sale here indicated a better break of tobacco than last year's first auction, predicted an average in the mid 80's for today's activities. Last year, the market averaged just over $90 per hundred but the strict grading standards were expected to mean a decrease in the overall average this year.

The commissioner pointed to the "intense interest" today in the auction activities and said that "farmers know what to do" to produce sand-free offerings and "they'll do the job if they are paid for their effort."

Graham said that he has "faith in the farmer" and is proud of their efforts to market a product that will be suitable for buying company demands.

Tommy Bunn of the N.C. Department of Agriculture explained that the grades that did not receive a price support indicated that the tobacco either had too much sand or foreign matter, was of extremely poor quality, or was damaged.

The chief of the Field Crop Section of the state Department of Agriculture, John Cyrus, noted that the first piles sold today reflected "generally good quality" but he noted that averages would be down due to the grading factors regarding sand.

Many growers have made the effort necessary to clean up their tobacco, he said, but some have not. Tobacco of comparable quality with last year's good break was bringing prices that were down $20 to $25 per hundred pounds as a result of the sand, he said.

He pointed to tobacco with tags showing $50 per hundred pounds and said that the same leaf last year, without the N-1 grade factors, probably brought $80 to $82 per hundred pounds.

Cyrus predicted that Stabilization would receive better than 20 per cent of today's opening leaf.

"The quality is as good or better than last year but the grades are the factors that are pulling the prices down," he said.

Today's auction was watched closely by Jerry Hill, deputy assistant secretary to Bob Meyer, assistant secretary of agriculture, representing US Secretary of Agriculture Bob

Eastern Belt Prices Run Shade Below Last Year

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
WILSON, N.C. (AP) — The Eastern Belt Tobacco Markets opened today, with prices on first primings averaging five to six cents lower at some auctions than the opening date last year.

At Growers Coop Warehouse here, early average prices ran about 87 cents per pound in the first few hours. Top leaf price was $1.23 for bright, clean above-the-sand leaf.

Last year, prices averaged 92.5 cents per pound at Growers.

Gov. Jim Hunt toured a number of warehouse opening on the Eastern Belt, and said he was trying to determine what effect the new sand grades were having on prices paid to farmers.

"It's still a little early to tell, but the clean tobacco seems to be selling pretty well," Hunt said. "The tobacco with sand is hurting, frankly, but I guess we have to learn to get it out. That's something we are going to have to do."

Beginning this year, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has begun cutting by 10 per cent price supports for tobacco graded with high sand content.

Clifford Aycock, general manager of the Growers Coop Warehouse, said only about 10 per cent of the early sales were going under the federal price support program, as opposed to 38 per cent at his warehouse on opening day last year.

"That's because of the lower (sand) grades. There's no support on some of the low grades," he said.

Several farmers attributed the low grades on their tobacco to dry weather, saying a lack of sap in the leaves caused the leaves to cure to a black color rather than brown. Such leaf sold for as low as 40 to 50 cents per pound.

"This leaf here is green in the center and burning up on the ends," said Arpe Newton, president of the Growers warehouse and a farmer himself. "It's going to do that until we get some rain."

Farmers stressed they needed rain during the next week to improve later harvests.

The estimated general average for some of the 15 markets that opened today was $80 to $90 per hundredweight, the Federal-State Market News reported. Last year's opening day average in Eastern Belt was $90.25. The Middle Belt average last year was $92.

Tobacco graded N2, which has no support price, made up an estimated 30 to 50 per cent of sales today, the news service said. The grade brought prices between $45 to $75 per hundredweight. The top price reported was $125 for a sheet of C5L. Stabilization receipts were estimated at 15 to 20 per cent of sales.

A few grades and their opening day hundredweight averages were: P4L, from $96-$105; P5F $91-$97; P5G $81-$85; N1L $85-$90; and N1G1 $78-$82.

Sadat Orders A Halt

CAIRO (AP) — President Anwar Sadat has ordered his troops to cease hostilities in Egypt's bloody six-day border conflict with Libya while Arab leaders work to cement a truce.

Cairo radio announced the cease-fire Sunday night as Sadat began a meeting at his coastal villa in Alexandria with Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, who flew in from talks with Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi.

There was no immediate Libyan reaction to the Sadat order and no independent confirmation that hostilities had ended in the embattled border region, off-limits to news reporters.

Boumedienne and Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat, two of the few Arab leaders on friendly terms with Khadafi and his radical regime, shuttled between the neighboring North Africa states trying to mediate the dispute.

The Sadat-Boumedienne meeting ended early today but no details were announced.

An Egyptian military spokesman said paratroopers, complying with the cease-fire, withdrew early today from the Libyan oasis of Al Jaghub, about 100 miles south of the Mediterranean coast and 20 miles west of the border.

'Misbehavior' By Police In Probe Claimed

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — An attorney who wants to represent Lorne Acquin, charged with the slayings of his foster brother's wife, seven children and a niece, says there was "gross misbehavior" by state police in the investigation.

State police refused comment on the accusation by John R. Williams, and also refused comment on a published report that the 27-year-old ex-convict told them that he bludgeoned members of Frederick Beaudoin's family with a tire iron and then set their house on fire in nearby Prospect with gasoline early Friday.

Williams, who met with Acquin over the weekend, said he would ask to be appointed Acquin's attorney when he appears for a preliminary hearing today at Superior Court in Waterbury on charges of murder and arson.

Acquin was held on $250,000 bail after being arrested early Saturday.

Williams said Saturday that the police investigation of the slayings involved "some of the most shocking misconduct of its kind I have ever seen."

He would not elaborate. The report in the Sunday edition of The New Haven Register quoted sources as saying Acquin, who had lived several years ago with the Beaudoin family, told state police he arrived at the Beaudoin home between 2:30 and 3:30 a.m. Friday.

The Register quoted the sources as saying that Acquin told police he talked in the kitchen with Beaudoin's wife, Cheryl, 29. Beaudoin was at work on the night shift at Pratt & Whitney aerospace plant in North Haven.

After the fire, investigators found her body in the kitchen.

An autopsy indicated that she had died of head injuries and a stab wound to the chest, Chief State Medical Examiner Elliot Gross said Sunday.

Six of the Beaudoin children died from smoke inhalation and head injuries from a "blunt force," while the seventh died of head injuries, the autopsy report said.

U.S. Commitment To Korea 'Stands

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
SEOUL, South Korea (AP)

President Carter said today that America's defense commitment to South Korea "remains firm and undiminished," as U.S. Defense Secretary Harold Brown opened two days of talks with the Seoul government to discuss Carter's troop pullout plan.

In the first concrete result of the conference, Brown and South Korean Defense Minister Suh Jyong-chul agreed to establish a joint U.S.-South Korean military command, effective about one year from now.

The pact will place the combined forces under the present American commander in Korea, Lt. Gen. John W. Vessey Jr., with a South Korean general as his deputy.

Informed sources said Brown told Suh and other officials that the gradual withdrawal of all 33,000 American ground troops is justified because the U.S. presence is "politically vulnerable."

Brown seemed to be implying that if the issue became a major controversy in the United States, it might lead to a sudden pullout without proper planning and leave South Korea vulnerable to possible attack from Communist North Korea.

Congressional critics of the authoritarian rule of South Korean President Park Chung-hee want U.S. troops pulled out unconditionally.

Brown also delivered a personal letter from Carter to Park during the defense secretary's two-hour luncheon with the South Korean leader.

According to the text released by Park's office, Carter said the troop pullout, planned to extend through 1981 or 1982, does not signify "any change whatsoever in our commitment to the security of the Republic of Korea."

"Our determination to provide prompt support to help the Republic of Korea defend against armed attack, in accordance with the U.S.-Korean mutual defense treaty, remains firm and undiminished," the Carter letter continued.

The sources reporting on Brown's talks said he spelled out to Suh the details of a $1.9 billion U.S. military aid program for the South Koreans that Carter will present to Congress. The aid is intended to compensate for the withdrawal of U.S. ground forces, principally the 2nd Infantry Division. American naval and air units are to remain.

A New Threat

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Rescue workers trying to bring order to the chaos left by the raging flood waters that claimed at least 51 lives faced the threat of renewed thunderstorms and a possible flash flood.

The National Weather Service forecast severe thunderstorms and flood warnings for this mountainous western Pennsylvania community through today. Roads to low lying areas were blocked off and some areas were evacuated in anticipation of high winds and more rain.

State officials kept a vigil on dams already filled to capacity by last week's torrential rain.

"We have a very careful watch on five dams," said Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline, chairman of the state Civil Defense Council.

"They are large water supply dams that service the area. They are near capacity. They're filled."

Four dams crumbled when the rain turned the normally placid streams and rivers in the Conemaugh River Valley into agents of death and destruction last Wednesday.

Rescue workers expected the death toll to climb as workers probed heaps of debris in outlying areas.

The Red Cross estimates that 7,491 families were displaced by the flooding. Thousands are out of work, including 11,000 at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. plant, Johnstown's biggest employer.

Potential Sentencing Termed 'Astronomical'

By JANET MCCONNAUGHEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hanafi Moslems convicted of seizing 149 hostages at three buildings here last March face "astronomical" sentences, say prosecutors.

Twelve members of the Hanafi sect were convicted over the weekend of conspiring to take hostages March 9 at B'nai B'rith headquarters, the Islamic Center mosque and the District Building, which is Washington's city hall.

Eleven were convicted on eight counts of armed kidnaping each and their leader, Hamaas Abdul Khaalis, was convicted on 24 kidnaping counts — eight at each site.

These convictions alone mean that each of the 12 faces a possible maximum sentence of 125 years to life in prison.

Khaalis and three other Hanafis were convicted of murder or assault with intent to kill, which also carry maximum penalties of life in jail. Khaalis, 54, could draw a term of as much as 325 years to life.

"In terms of what the defendants face as a potential sentence, it's astronomical," said Assistant U.S. Atty. Martin J. Linsky after the jury reached its verdict Saturday. He said the verdict would let D.C. Superior Court Judge Nicholas J. Nunzio "do what he has to do in terms of sentencing."

Nunzio refused to speculate on what penalties he would hand out. He set a hearing on sentencing for Sept. 6.

Each defendant could have been convicted of crimes at all three buildings — a total of 373 charges. But the jury of 10 women and two men decided only Khaalis was responsible for events at all three sites. Each of the other 11 was found guilty only of crimes committed at the building where he held hostages, for a total of 139.

Crimes other than kidnaping included the shooting of several men at city hall. One, Maurice Williams, 24, was killed. Another was left paralyzed. Khaalis and the two men who seized the building were convicted of second degree murder and two counts of assault with intent to kill in those shootings.

Khaalis and the six men who followed him into B'nai B'rith headquarters were also convicted of assault with a deadly weapon against a man who was stabbed and shot. And one of the six was convicted of an individual assault charge.

HAD FIRE

I ordered $8 worth of electronic tubes from the Altaj Company in Dallas, Tex. Jan. 16. Enclosed is my canceled check copy. I am puzzled that I have not received this order because the business I have had with the company in the past has been completely satisfactory. I'd like either the merchandise or a refund, preferably the merchandise. A. H.

Hotline wrote to the company Apr. 26, and like you, got no answer. About three months later, after we'd written the Consumer Protection Department of the City of Dallas, the letter came back marked "Return to Writer."

Gordon Arnold, an investigator for the Dallas Consumer Affairs Department, wrote us in the meantime that Altaj Electronics experienced a fire the first part of 1977 which destroyed most of its records and forced the company to sell the remaining stock and go out of business.

He suggested that you write to the owner, Sam Medley, 3017 Lincoln Court, Garland, Tex. 75041, enclosing a canceled check copy. He said he himself will be glad to accept such a letter and forward it to Medley. He said Medley has assured him that all inquiries so handled would be dealt with promptly.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

RESPONSE GREAT

Ms. Shelby Gorham, Director of the Treatment Facility for Women here, said response to the July 6 Hotline appeal for household and recreational equipment was "great." She said the owner of the house provided an air conditioner and others gave a color television set, an end table, magazines, plants, pictures, and the like. "We are just delighted at how generous people are and we thank everyone who gave," she said.

Women Not Now Subject to Draft

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: After reading your response to CONFUSED regarding ERA, I am still confused.

You stated that "The ERA means that women will be subject to the draft." I have read various articles by people supporting the ERA that have said over and over that the power to draft women, if they should be needed to serve, already exists. The U.S. Constitution grants this power and the ERA will not really affect it.

What do your experts say? Does the power to draft women already exist or not? This seems to be the main complaint against the passing of the ERA. Please set us straight on this part of a very important issue. Thank you.

FAITHFUL READER

DEAR FAITHFUL READER: Under the present law, women are precluded from being drafted by Section 453 of Title 50 of the United States Code. Once the ERA is ratified, the Congress will be required to treat men and women equally with respect to the draft. This means that both men and women who meet the physical and other requirements, and who are not exempt or deferred by law, will be subject to conscription.

Of course the ERA will not require that all women serve in the military any more than under present law all men are now required to serve. Those women who are physically or mentally unqualified, or who are conscientious objectors, or who are exempt because of their responsibilities (certain public officials, or those with dependents) will not have to serve. Thus the fear that mothers will be conscripted from their children into military service under the ERA is totally unfounded.

Congress has always had the power to draft women by legislating such a change. It almost did so in World War II. But the law as it currently stands does prohibit the drafting of women.

DEAR ABBY: People who dislike having their friends follow them into the kitchen are missing the boat.

What difference does it make if their kitchens are messy? Why are some people always "on stage," never wanting anyone to see them (or their kitchens) in a less than perfect state?

My friends come to see ME—not my kitchen. And if they want to follow me into my kitchen while I'm preparing a snack or dinner, it's all right with me. It gives us that much more time to spend together.

How can a person find time to finish a good book or do something creative or make himself an interesting person to be with if he's always worrying about appearances?

KITTY

DEAR KITTY: Thanks for pointing out something I confess I did not see. That's a topic on which I was myopic.

DEAR ABBY: Many of your letters are regarding sex problems. Here in Baton Rouge, sex is regarded as a MISDEMEANOR—the more you MISS, the MEANER you get.

ABBY FAN

DEAR ABBY: My children are just average, but they are good kids. I have no outstanding beauties among my daughters, and while they do have friends, none of them is wildly popular. My sons are average students, just fair in sports, but none of them ever made the team.

A relative of mine has outstanding children. They are popular, good looking and gets lots of honors—and he doesn't let me forget it for a moment. What can I say when he collars me and brags on and on about his kids?

SLOW BURN

DEAR SLOW: Nothing. Just because a jackass brays doesn't mean you have to answer him.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box, No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Shot During Escape Attempt

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A South Carolina man serving a sentence for armed robbery is in satisfactory condition at Central Prison hospital after being shot during an escape attempt, officials said.

Ronald F. Jackson, 31, serving 10 to 15 years, was shot at least three times as he attempted to go over a barbed wire fence at the Columbus County prison unit at Whiteville, unit Capt. W.A. Mahoney said.

Capt. H. R. Hagemann of Central Prison said Jackson's injuries did not appear to be serious.

WRONG PRICING LOGIC

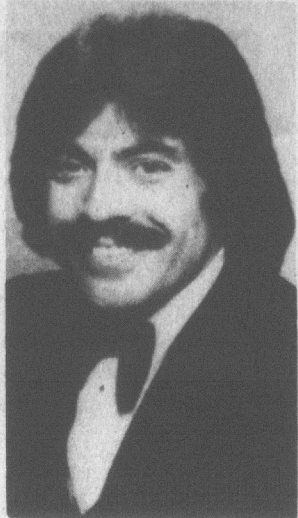

If you try to sell your home yourself, how do you set a realistic price? Most people base their price tags on the only facts known to them: original price, cost of improvements, and hoped-for profit. Then they adjust to bring their figure in line with what they think similar homes are bringing. Sounds reasonable, but three of the basic facts are irrelevant, and the fourth is highly dubious.

The original price, improvements, and hoped-for profit only determine whether you gain or lose, but they have nothing to do with the right price to produce a sale. Prices of other homes may give you some clue to the market, but most of the time you only hear of the asking price. If it's not a realistic price, it won't be the selling price.

How then do you set a realistic price? By consulting a local Realtor whose business it is to know how much property can bring and will bring. His knowledge of the market is invaluable.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at BLOUNT & BALL REALTY CO. 119 W. Third St., Greenville. Phone: 732-6165. We're here to help!

Minister Is Gun Target

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A 54-year-old Baptist minister was shot and wounded as he shook hands with members of his congregation after Sunday morning services, Charlotte police said.

The Rev. L.D. Parker of St. Luke's Baptist Church was struck in the side of the head by a shot which apparently came from a .22-caliber handgun, according to police.

Two members of the congregation wrestled the gun from the hand of Favella Miller, 25, outside the church, authorities said.

The woman was charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to inflict serious injury. She was being held under police guard at the Charlotte Mental Health Clinic pending a hearing this morning.

Parker was reported in satisfactory condition at Charlotte Memorial Hospital Sunday night.

Police said there was no warning before the shooting, which occurred in the presence of several hundred members of the congregation at the front of the church.

Carbon Dioxide Effect Is Alarming Scientists

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Scientists who are studying it, along with the rest of us, are the subjects of man's uncontrolled release of billions of tons of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere in what the researchers call "the great experiment."

The dumping of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere by way of fossil-fuel power plants and industrial processes has been going on without letup since the dawn of the Industrial Revolution more than a century ago.

But only since 1958 have scientists monitored atmospheric carbon dioxide levels, and now what they see is alarming many.

Carbon dioxide is accumulating at the rate of four per cent a year in the atmosphere, and scientists are trying to figure out why.

They're worried because an overload of carbon dioxide may drastically alter world-wide climate by causing the earth to become too warm, and also because high carbon dioxide levels influence the photosynthesis rates of many plants.

"In the 1950s," says Duke University botanist Boyd Strain, one of those concerned researchers, "it was thought that plants and the oceans would absorb excess carbon dioxide. But that isn't happening."

Strain will be hosting one of the workshops called around the country by the Energy Research and Development Administration on Aug. 4 and 5 at Duke. The purpose of the workshops is to discuss what effects the excess carbon dioxide might have.

The workshops are taking on an increasing urgency with the Carter Administration's decision to hike U.S. coal consumption to a billion tons a year by 1985 — twice the amount now used, said Strain.

"We're getting into another of man's binds," said Strain. "With nuclear power, there's trouble with radioactive waste disposal. With coal, it's carbon dioxide and other wastes."

There's no reason to be concerned about suffocating from too much of the gas, Strain said, since tremendous quantities are needed to harm human beings and animals. The problem is that it directly affects plants, which man and animals depend on for their ultimate survival.

Many plants eagerly take up high levels of carbon dioxide, Strain said, and faster growth rates might mean possible harmful genetic changes.

And the greenhouse effect of the gas, its ability to trap warm solar rays near the earth's surface, may lead to slow global warming.

This in turn could lead to vast changes in climate, totally upsetting agriculture in the bread-basket areas of the earth and flooding low-lying coastal areas of the continents with rising sea levels, some researchers speculate.

Combat Roles Yet Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The time hasn't come for equality of opportunity for men and women in the armed forces, even though they wear similar uniforms and perform many of the same jobs, says a just-released study.

The Brookings Institution, in a report released Sunday, concluded that more must be learned about the fitness of women for combat roles before the armed services can consider lifting barriers to combat-related assignments.

But the institution's 134-page report also found that the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force are not taking advantage of the new-found attractiveness of military life to women.

"Whether this nation can sustain its armed forces solely by voluntary means could well depend on how effectively the female resource is employed," it said.

While current job restrictions discriminate against women, the report said, it would be risky to eliminate the barriers without determining the capabilities of integrated armed forces.

The question of women's roles in the services once dominated by men has been a subject of lively debate ever since the United States ended the draft and turned to the volunteer concept in the early 1970s.

Current laws bar women from serving on all naval vessels except hospital ships and transports, neither of which is in the fleet now. The Pentagon and the Carter administration have asked Congress to amend the law to let women go on sea duty during peacetime.

The Brookings study called for experiments to determine whether women can succeed in combat jobs.

Aside from the sex discrimination question, the study said, the various military branches have failed to fully utilize women in military jobs open to them.

It said the number of enlisted jobs for women could be increased nearly five-fold by 1982 without lifting traditional restrictions against women in combat jobs.

Gray-Pollard Vows Solemnized

MRS. DAVID SMITH GRAY

Miss Kathy Elizabeth Pollard became the bride of David Smith Gray Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the Belvoir Free Will Baptist Church. Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. Gerald Owens, former pastor of the bride.

Musicians for the candlelight ceremony were Miss Lynn Dail of Falkland and Mrs. Rose Askew of Greenville. Vocalists were Bobby T. Harris and Mrs. Sherry Grant both of Greenville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Durlwood Pollard of Greenville. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. David Samuel Gray of Stokes.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a formal length gown of silken organza over peau de soie and Brussels lace. The bodice, fashioned with a natural waist, colonial beruffled neckline and puffed beruffled sleeves, was completely of lace. Featuring two lace panels down the front, the modified gathered skirt flowed into a chapel length train completely bordered with Val lace. Designed and made by her mother, her two-tiered cathedral length veil was of French silk illusion attached to a headpiece of daisies and carnations edged with Val lace and appliques. She carried a modified cascade of daisies and carnations.

The honor attendants were Mrs. Jo Ann Haddock of Greenville, sister of the bride, and Miss Kathy Roberts of Greenville. They wore formal length gowns of rose and green respectively, styled with empire waists and matching floral caftans. Each carried long-stemmed daisies and baby's breath tied with white satin bows. Daisies highlighted their hair.

Mrs. Brenda Pace of Kinston, sister of the bridegroom, Brenda Pollard and Katrina Pollard, cousins of the bride of Greenville, Karen Jones of Greenville, Janice Dail of Tarboro, cousin of the bride, and Bobbie Jo Whitaker of Ayden, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their dresses in mixed summer colors were styled like those of the honor attendants. Their bouquets were of long-stemmed daisies and baby's breath and they wore daisies in their hair.

Miss Kim Grant of Greenville, cousin of the bride, and Stevie Haddock of Greenville, nephew of the bride, were miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Grant carried a wicker basket of daisies and baby's breath. Their attire was identical to the bride and bridegroom's.

Grace Whitaker of Tarboro and Jan Leggett of Greenville, aunts of the bride, were honorary bridesmaids and carried long-stemmed daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Tyresia French of Greenville, cousin of the bride, presided at the register while Miss Stacy Dail of Tarboro, cousin of the bride, passed out scrolls with a message from the bride and bridegroom.

Mr. Gray served as his son's best man. Ushers included Jake Gray, brother of the bridegroom, Terry Haddock, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mark Pollard, cousin of the bride, all of Greenville, Dan Congleton of Stokes, Mike Pace of Kinston, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Alton Crawford of Bethel, and Worley Warren of Robersonville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Pollard selected a formal gown of apricot designed with an empire waistline and long sheer sleeves overlaid with chiffon. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue formal dress with princess lines and long sheer sleeves. The neckline was trimmed with seed pearls and overlaid with chiffon. Each wore matching accessories and white miniature carnation corsages.

Mrs. Ryan S. Pollard, grandmother of the bride, selected a green dress and carnation corsage.

Mrs. Betsy Harris and Mrs. Margie Pollard, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding.

For a wedding trip to announced points, the bride changed into a long white sundress with floral designs, shirred bodice and matching shawl. Her dress was accented by her mother's corsage. The couple's new residence will be in Stokes.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School. A graduate of North Pitt High School, the bridegroom attended Pitt Technical Institute and is employed with Gray and Creech.

Following the wedding, the bride's parents received in the church fellowship hall. After the couple cut the traditional first slice, Mrs. Barbara W. Pollard and Mrs. Barbara M. Pollard, aunts of the bride, served the cake while Mrs. Ida Whitaker poured punch. Assisting in the serving were Mrs. Myrtle Holland, Mrs. Margaret Roberts and Mrs. Margie Pollard. Mrs. Faye Roebuck, aunt of the bride, greeted guests and directed them to the refreshment table.

A pre-rehearsal pig picking was given by the bridegroom's parents Saturday night at their home in Stokes. The bride and bridegroom remembered their attendants with gifts at the dinner.

Miss Volkman, Mr. Tucker Are Wed

MRS. JOSEPH CLAYTON TUCKER

CHERRY HILL, N.J. — Trinity United Presbyterian Church was the scene of the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Gilda Elizabeth Volkman of Cherry Hill, N. J., and Joseph Clayton Tucker of Wilson. Officiating at the 4:30 double ring ceremony was the Rev. Thomas Pinnel. Formerly of Wilson, Miss Volkman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert William Volkman of Cherry Hill, N. J. She is a graduate of the East Carolina University School of Nursing. A graduate of Ayden Grifton High School, the bridegroom is a licensed electrician with the state of North Carolina. He is the son of Mrs. Francis Sumrell of Ayden, and the late Mr. Bill Tucker.

Ralph Barclay, soloist, performed several selections of wedding music, "O Perfect Love," "Because," "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a silk chiffon gown featuring an empire waist and queen neckline. Imported re-embroidered alencon lace and seeded pearls enhanced the bodice and buttoned cuffs of bishop sleeves. The gown featured an attached tubular cathedral train. Attached to a Juliet cap, her matching two tiered blusher of silk illusion was of cathedral length. Imported re-embroidered alencon lace accented the cap, blusher and veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies, pink sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Miss Chris Zalewski of Greenville was maid of honor for the ceremony. Her green floral print gown was fashioned with an empire waistline, ring collar and sleeveless bodice. A short bolero fitted jacket with capped sleeves enhanced the A-line skirt. She carried a nosegay of mixed flowers to match her dress.

Bridesmaids were Pam Conyers of Hopewell, Va., Tillie Cullipher and Kathy Paige both of Greenville, Fran Pinnel of Cherry Hill, N. J. and Mrs. Margie Smith of Rocky Mount, sister of the bridegroom. Jackie Smith of Hatboro, Pa., cousin of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid. The attendants' gowns were of baby blue organza over taffeta styled identically to that of the maid of honor. Their nosegays consisted of mixed flowers to match their gowns.

Miss Christy Daniels of Cherry Hill, N. J., was flower girl. She wore a crown of flowers and carried a Nile green basket filled with mixed flowers.

Ring bearer was Geoffrey Dail of New Orleans, La., cousin of the bride. Used in the bride's parents' wedding, his lace trimmed satin pillow featured an arrangement of pink roses and baby's breath.

The bridegroom selected Lemuel Stroud of Kinston to be his best man. Ushers for the ceremony included Ricky Anderson of Maury, Milton Garis of Wilson, David Letchworth of Lizzie, Brad Mizell of Kinston, Terry Smith of Rocky Mount, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Danny Tucker of Kinston, nephew of the bride.

The parents of the bride received at Kinney's Suburban House, Cherry Hill, N. J. The reception featured a full course meal, cocktails and afterwards.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Recent Ceremony

The marriage of Betty Craft Humbles and Jesse Mitchell Johnson was solemnized Friday, July 15, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamill.

The candlelight double ring ceremony at 8:30 p.m. was performed by the Rev. Tommy Evans. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Jean Haddock.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mary P. Craft of Rt. 8,

Greenville, and the late Mr. Leroy Craft. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Johnson. The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Larry E. Craft, wore a blue gown of imported crepe and chiffon styled with a V-neckline and long sleeves. The gown featured a chiffon cape. She carried a prayer book covered with white lace and orchids.

The maid of honor was Janice Johnson, daughter of the bridegroom. Miss Lori Waters of Winterville was the flower girl.

Mack Bunting of Greenville was best man and ushers were Jimmy Grady and Jeffery Hamill, both of Greenville. The ring bearer was Freddie Hartman of Winter Park, Fla., and the acolyte was Mitch Johnson, son of the bridegroom.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, N. Y., the couple will reside at Rt. 8, Greenville.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hamill following the ceremony. Guests were greeted by Mrs. James Grady, Mrs. Hamill, Mrs. R. C. Waters and Mrs. Beulah Jordan.

Wedding cake was served by Mrs. Fred W. Hartman of Winter Park, Fla., and Mrs. R. C. Waters of Winterville poured punch.

Mrs. Garrett Gives Program

Mrs. Nan Garrett presented a program on crafts at the July meeting of the Lake Ellsworth Garden Club.

Members made burlap flowers and received ideas on making felt Christmas ornaments.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Judy Capello. Mrs. Ellen Fagan and Mrs. Terry Pike reported on projects the club is considering adopting to beautify Greenville. Mrs. Becky Fowler gave suggestions for fall fund raising projects.

Mrs. Ruth Rollins was hostess for the meeting.

Personal

John Slaughter of Dover, Del., spent his vacation with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Clark of Greenville, and with his granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Baker of Vanceboro. Bobby Cully of Clayton, Del., spent his vacation visiting his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, and with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Baker.

A Lot Of People Stay On Jobs

It's been a long hot summer, as everyone knows. For some of us the oppressive heat has only hit when we went from one air conditioned building to another, or to an air conditioned car.

For many, however, working has meant being out in the broiling sun, carrying on the activities which keep a modern society going.

We don't always remember that these outside activities have to keep going, no matter what the temperature, but occasionally these workers get the credit due them.

George Shoe, architect for the new Greenville Middle School paid tribute to one group of workers at a recent meeting of the Greenville Board of Education.

He pointed out that work is behind schedule on masonry and roof construction because hot weather had slowed the workers' efficiency.

"Conditions are so bad because of the heat," he said, "that roof workers can only work early morning hours and later afternoon hours. Work on the roof at other times would damage the shingles, as they are soft from the heat."

Shoe offered his commendations to the workers for staying on the job in the hot weather.

"It's hot, heavy work and we're grateful they are present on the job in this difficult working condition."

A nice tribute. And we shouldn't forget that a lot of people are doing some pretty rugged work in the sun everyday to keep things going.

They Need All The Help They Can Get

Gov. Hunt last week requested that 54 North Carolina counties be declared emergency drought impact areas by the federal government.

The action would make the areas eligible for low-interest loans and other measures. The affected area stretching through the central part of the state includes Pitt and Greene Counties.

Many farmers have been hard hit in the affected counties. They need all the help they can get.

THIS AFTERNOON

Sees Escape In Diversity

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — North Carolina must "change its manufacturing profile" says Commerce Secretary D. M. (Lauch) Faircloth in order to escape from bottom place nationally in average factory wages.

Diversity is demanded to offset the traditionally low-paying industries which dominate North Carolina, the head of the state's economic development effort believes, and he has bluntly stated a goal:

"We will emphasize industrial diversification, and to the Governor, I am recommending as a goal for 1981 that at least 48 per cent — if not half — of our manufacturing jobs come from industries other than textile, apparel, or furniture.

"That is a notch to put on the yardstick," says Faircloth.

Off The Bottom
His second major goal: "I also intend to see that North Carolina gets off the bottom of the heap in average manufacturing wages. I say that by 1981, we should be 46th."

Faircloth sees a direct link between prevailing low wages and the grip which textiles, apparel, and furniture have on North Carolina. The effort to diversify must be aimed at bringing in higher paying industries to compete with those already here.

"During the 1974-75 recession, North Carolina's unemployment shot up above the national average to over 10 per cent, and one-industry towns were severely struck.

"By contrast, those areas in the state with diversified industrial bases suffered little. Unemployment in the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill Triangle, for instance, hardly rose above five per cent," Faircloth reported recently to a meeting of the N. C. Industrial Developers Association in Wrightsville Beach.

Just how strong is the control exercised by textiles, apparel, and furniture?

A study by Research Triangle Institute experts noted that in North Carolina about 60 per cent of those employed in manufacturing jobs are employed in those industries. Nationally, the three make up only 15 per cent of the total work force.

BILL NOBLITT

Most Jobs

Faircloth says over one third of the state's factory jobs are in textiles (249,000-plus jobs), and another 72,000 are employed in the apparel business — a textile-related occupation. After that comes furniture-making with 70,000 jobs.

There is then a sharp drop to electrical machinery with 39,000 jobs, chemical production and the food industry with 37,000 each, non-electrical machinery with 35,000; tobacco manufacturers with 28,000, metal working with 25,300; and lumber or wood operations with 23,000.

"Meanwhile it is a fact of economic life that few of North Carolina's larger industries pay high wages. One of the state's most troubling economic statistics is the figure that shows North Carolina last in the country in average factory wages — fiftieth," Faircloth said. The state's per capita income for 1976 was $5,509, "but that is still below the national average of $6,441 and ranks 40th from the top."

Emphasis on diversity does not mean, says Faircloth, that success will come overnight. "And certainly we will not turn our backs on our largest industrial employers because of the underdeveloped condition of parts of our state and the educational gaps in our work force, we sometimes may find that expansion of existing low wage plants is in the best interest of the state."

Faircloth puts "his first emphasis on "a policy of economic diversification aimed at high-paying industries (to) raise our workers' wage status."

Calling Your Loved Ones

PALERMO, Sicily—The telephone companies have been urging fathers to telephone home to their loved ones when they are away from home, and I'm beginning to understand why. If everyone has the same experience I had calling from Sicily, the telephone company stands to make a fortune.

It took me two days to get my loved ones in Paris on the phone. Every time I placed the call, I was informed the lines were down, Rome wouldn't let the call go through, there was fog over Mount Etna or the Mafia had cut the lines.

And every time I told them to forget it they informed me there was a surcharge for canceling the call.

"But I never received the call. How can you charge me for a call I never got?"

"But it was your intention to telephone and that is all we need. It is not us, Signor. It is the Italian Telephone Co. Don't cancel and then we won't charge you."

"But I can't get Paris on the phone."

"We know that, Signor. But as long as you can't get Paris they cannot charge you. If you tell them you don't want Paris, then they can charge you. This I'm sure you understand."

In order to save money I let the call stay in, and finally it came through. There was great excitement in the hotel, because, although many people in Sicily have in the last few years put in calls to Paris, none has ever gotten through.

My wife got on the phone. "How wonderful of you to call," my wife said. "Just a minute, Jo-jo (our three-and-a-half-year old) wants to say hello."

There was dead silence. Then I could hear my wife say, "Jo-jo, say hello to Da-da."

Dead Silence.

The Italian operator came on. "Are you finished?"

"No, we're not."

My wife came on. "It's funny, he's been talking about you all week. Wait a minute, now he wants to say something."

Dead silence.

"Say something, Jo-jo. It's Daddy," I could hear her saying.

The French operator came on. "Are you finished?"

Before I could reply, my wife came back on. "I don't understand it. He said he wanted to talk to you. Wait a minute, Connie (our two-year-old) wants to speak to you."

Dead silence.

Then I could hear Jo-jo screaming for the phone.

I heard my wife say, "You both can talk to Da-da. Jo-jo first."

Dead silence.

"All right, let Connie talk then," my wife said.

Dead silence.

"They're both shy," my wife explained to me. I could hear screaming in the background. Apparently they were both fighting to get at the phone.

Dead silence.

"I can't talk to you now," my wife said, "because they're fighting. Can you call me later?"

I said no, I'd write her a letter.

"Say goodbye to Da-da," my wife said.

Dead silence.

"Goodbye," I said and hung up.

The people in the lobby seemed a little confused by the conversation, but I didn't try to explain. I went over to the concierge.

"How much did that call cost?" I asked.

"She doesn't know," the concierge replied. "We've only been charging people for canceling their calls.

The operator's been here just four years and this is the first time anyone has called Paris and got his party on the line. She's quite upset. She's afraid she may lose her job."

"A state from which religion is banished can never be well governed." — Pope Leo XIII.

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has surprised the Capitol Press Corps.

In a speech last week, Hunt criticized the "liberal" news media for failing to give proper attention to the crime issue during the legislative session.

The reaction to his statement was generally disbelief.

"In the first place, he's wrong. We probably gave his crime package more attention than it deserved," one legislative reporter commented, offering evidence to support that position.

"Who is he to complain? He always gets his way with the press," another Capitol reporter commented.

"Shades of Spiro Agnew," said still another reporter, referring to the former vice president's attempts to intimidate the media and use them as whipping boys. Agnew was tried to make evil and "liberal media" synonymous.

But, not all reaction was negative. "It's probably a good thing. I think the press has been a bit too soft on Hunt," one reporter said. "Maybe this will help change that."

Gary Pearce, Hunt's news secretary, defended Hunt's position and commented that the news media are too sensitive to criticism. "The press is an institution that deserves to be examined just like government deserves to be examined," he said.

The speech was a criticism of the news media for not devoting more attention to the problem of crime, Pearce said. In Hunt's view, reporters have the "white, liberal perspective" that concludes crime is not a serious problem, Pearce said. "In that sense, they are out of touch with the people of North Carolina."

Hunt, on the other hand, believes North Carolinians are concerned about crime and hears about it in his travels, Pearce said. "That's one of the great advantages of campaigning," he said.

Hunt and the media should have a "friendly-adversary relationship," Pearce said. The governor is prodded into rethinking his position when he is criticized by the media, Pearce said, adding that Hunt's criticism was simply an attempt to

The Perils Of A Cassandra

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A defense expert's report to Congress on relative U.S.-Soviet military strength, contradicting the Carter administration's rosy view, has resulted in suppression of the report and threats that the expert may lose his job. An alarming picture was painted by John M. Collins, a Library of Congress researcher, in his report prepared for the Senate Armed Services Committee last March: relative U.S. declines, both qualitative and quantitative; rising vulnerability in Western Europe; possible erosion of the nuclear deterrent. Collins is suffering Cassandra's fate. The committee's staff rejected the report, and Collins faces disciplinary action.

It is alleged this was prompted by the Carter administration, but that has not been proved and is denied. Nevertheless, it fits a Carter administration tendency, previously reported by us, to smother material that would argue for higher defense spending. With a hold on Pentagon spending essential for President Carter's balanced budget, the tendency is likely to continue.

The Collins report was requested in July 1976 by Frank Sullivan, staff director of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He asked the Congressional Research Service (an arm of the Library of Congress) for an unclassified comparison of U.S. and Soviet military strength. What Sullivan wanted was a nuts-and-bolts catalogue to check Defense Department figures.

What Sullivan got was more than he asked or bargained for. Collins, with defense experience totalling 35 years, devoted full time to the project. He conferred with Sullivan in October and periodically gave him progress reports. Working through the Christmas holiday and 100-hour weeks at the end, he finished a draft Feb. 16. After review by the Defense Department, the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the services, Collins presented a final draft, ready for publication, to Sullivan March 9. At that point, Sullivan had uttered not a word of criticism.

"Quantitative changes in the U.S. and Soviet armed forces since 1970 favor the Soviet Union with scattered exceptions," Collins concluded. "U.S. qualitative leads, less pronounced than in the past, cannot completely compensate." The result "impinges increasingly on American abilities to deter attacks against the United States, defend this country if deterrence fails, and safeguard associates whose security is closely linked with our own."

Collins also reported that NATO is quantitatively outclassed by the Warsaw Pact in almost every category, "and is losing its qualitative edge in several respects that count." Other samples from the 218-page report:

"U.S. bombers and ICBMs are more vulnerable than ever before...Soviet counterparts are comparatively secure because of our second-strike strategy.

"American forces, people and production base are naked to nuclear attack. The 'vulnerability gap' grows, because Soviet leaders stress defense, while U.S. leaders do not. End results eventually could erode our deterrent."

While claiming U.S. advantages in leadership, aircraft, submarines and other areas, Collins did not soft-pedal weaknesses. On anti-submarine warfare, for example: "Breakthroughs in the detection field are still in the blueprint stage, but beyond that, the size of America's specialized force is simply insufficient."

Suddenly, Sullivan told Collins the report did not meet requirements and would not be published. Collins asked that portions be published separately; Sullivan refused. Trying to salvage something of his report (cost to the taxpayer: about $50,000), Collins persisted.

That brought in Gilbert Gude, the former Maryland Congressman, who now heads the Congressional Research Service. Writing Collins in June, Gude denied him a Civil Service step increase, contended the report is "not of an acceptable level of competence" and warned of disciplinary action if he violated the confidentiality of (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

RENEWING THE TRAFFIC LANES

The yellow traffic lanes on the streets of our towns and cities have to be renewed from time to time. Constant traffic wears away the painted lines. In the same way, our good resolves have to be renewed from time to time because of the pressure of life's traffic, which can be very heavy at times.

One way in which we renew these personal traffic lanes is by going to church. Here we have our remembrance sharpened with reference to those eternal principles of right and wrong which must underlie all satisfactory living. Every time we read the Bible we have an opportunity to redefine the sharp lines of moral law.

It would be gratifying if once we drew these spiritual traffic lanes they would last forever. But unfortunately this is not the case. They must constantly be redrawn, sometimes with considerable trouble and pain. But peace comes to the soul when we recognize that all this is a part of God's providence.

U.S. Tourist Industry Grows

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American tourist industry, which has been something of a little sister in the world travel picture, seems to be moving into its own.

While it may be years before the number of tourist dollars flowing out of this country is matched by money from foreign visitors, Commerce Department officials say the flow of U.S. tourist dollars abroad is far less lopsided than a decade ago.

"In recent years, this deficit — some call it the travel gap — has begun to shrink," said David L. Edgell, director of policy analysis in the Commerce Department's U.S. Travel Service.

"In 1976, it was 14 per cent less than in 1975, but still a substantial $2.65 billion," he said, in an article a recent Commerce Department publication, "Commerce America."

Edgell quotes agency predictions that, if recent trends continue, the United States will close the so-called "travel gap" by the end of the century.

There are a couple of reasons for his optimism.

The United States, which didn't even open a government office to coordinate a national tourist policy until 1961 — years after most European countries had aggressive programs — is seeing a gradual slowdown in the numbers of U.S. residents who vacation abroad.

Ten years ago, about 20.56 million U.S. citizens traveled in foreign countries; five years ago, it peaked at 23.8 million; last year, about 22.9 million Americans visited foreign countries. This year, government travel specialists predict about 23.5 million U.S. residents will travel in foreign countries.

By contrast, there has been a rapid growth in the numbers of visitors from other countries to the United States. The U.S. Travel Service said that in 1967, when more than 20 million Americans traveled abroad, only 9.96 million foreign visitors came to this country.

That number of visitors from abroad grew to 13.06 million by 1972 and reached 17.5 million for last year's bicentennial.

This year, the agency forecasts a 5 per cent increase to 18.4 million visitors. But officials say figures for the first five months show a jump of more than 8 per cent over a year ago may indicate the agency's estimate is too conservative.

One major reason for the increase in foreign visitors is simply that the economies of other countries and the amount of leisure time available for travel is growing.

Then too, as the United States draws more visitors and gets publicity through such events as the bicentennial, a snowball effect can take place. Those who vacation here tend to influence their friends to do the same.

If world economic conditions remain stable, the U.S. Travel Service says it expects receipts from foreign travel, which were nearly $7 billion last year to reach $20 billion in current dollars by the year 2000.

reverse that. "He's trying very hard to make you think about it."

Whether the crime issue was adequately reported is open for debate, Pearce admitted. He also acknowledged that Hunt has enjoyed generally favorable publicity, but attributes that to Hunt's openness and attempts to deal with important issues.

Whatever Hunt's motives, his criticism could help put more emphasis on the adversary part of the friendly-adversary relationship described by Pearce. There are a number of people in politics and in the Capitol Press Corps who have complained that such a change is overdue.

If the press is to be criticized, perhaps it should be criticized for letting the governor take the lead in balancing the friendly-adversary relationship.

Evans-Novak...

Our checks with Pentagon officials and other defense experts who have read the Collins report, while evoking some criticism of his writing and organization, produced general praise of his professional competence. Indeed, Senate committee staffers did not echo Gude's charge of incompetence but complained of "unsubstantiated assertions" and claimed they had only asked Collins for a "bean count" of weapons.

Why then was this not told Collins much earlier? Suspicion arises that the substance, not merely the form, of Collins's report was offensive. Some defense sources claim the National Security Council (NSC), then drafting PRM-10's cheery view of U.S.-Soviet strength, intervened to kill the Collins report. The committee's staff denies it, and there is no evidence to contradict them.

Still, suppressing the Collins report is of a piece with eliminating the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, downgrading Air Force intelligence and pooh-poohing the Team "B" dissenting view on Russian strength. This is no season for Cassandras.

Local Accidents Saw One Pedestrian Killed

ACCIDENT SCENE — where a pedestrian was fatally injured here Saturday night.

A series of traffic collisions Saturday night and Sunday resulted in the death of one person and caused over $4,500 property damage, Greenville Police reported.

Officers said Jimmie Ray Carmon of Route 1, Winterville, was killed when he stepped from behind a utility pole and into the side of a car driven by James Lynch Richardson of Route 4, Rocky Mount, about 9:25 p.m. Saturday.

No damage resulted to the Richardson car from the 12th and Evans Street intersection mishap, police reported.

No injuries were reported in connection with a 9:55 p.m. Saturday mishap involving a Police Department vehicle driven by William Dade Sherman Jr. of 407B Holly St. and a car driven by Leah Bryant Nobles of 1608 Henry St. on Greenville Boulevard, 350 feet East of the Evans Street intersection.

Officers reported the Nobles car pulled across the roadway into the path of the police car which was responding to an emergency call with its blue lights on.

Investigators, who charged Mrs. Nobles with failing to yield the right of way, estimated damage at $1,200 to the Nobles car and $1,500 to the city-owned vehicle.

Ricky Whitler of 1601 Chestnut St. and a passenger on the bicycle he was driving were reported injured in a collision with a car driven by Rogers Ray White of 105F Lakeview Ter. at 6:20 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Myrtle Avenue and Wilson Street.

Damage from the mishap was set at $500 to the White car and $25 to the Whitler bicycle.

Ralph Edward Sherrod of Route 6, Greenville was injured in a Sunday collision on Fourth Street, 30 feet East of the Laurel Street intersection.

Police reported the Sherrod car collided with a parked auto owned by J. L. Tripp Inc. of Raleigh causing an estimated $700 damage to the Sherrod car and $650 damage to the Tripp company vehicle.

Sherrod was charged with driving under the influence following investigation of the mishap.

'Archaic' Body

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., sharply criticized the U.S. Senate and called it "an archaic institution" at a meeting of the North Carolina Young Democrats.

One of a group of first-term legislators who have sought to reform Senate procedures, Bumpers singled out the seniority system as one of the major problems with the institution. He said under the present system, senators who become committee chairmen acquire "autocratic" power.

As a way of making the process more democratic, he proposed rotating chairmanships.

Ferry Service Impact Eyed

SWAN QUARTER, N.C. (AP) — Local officials are sure that the month-old ferry from the Outer Banks village of Ocracoke to Swan Quarter will make the Ocracoke residents more a part of Hyde County than they have ever been.

The vessel, the Gov. Edward Hyde, began operations with two arrivals and departures daily.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a downward turn today, faltering after the advance of the past six sessions.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.02 at 918.40, after a rise of better than 20 points in the six previous trading days.

Losers led gainers by more than a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

First-hour volume on the Big Board was a modest 4.59 million shares.

Analysts said investors seemed reluctant to chase after the market's recent upswing amid persistent concern that economic growth might be headed for a slowdown.

They reported some uneasiness about the prospective showing of the government's index of leading economic indicators for June, due to be reported on Friday.

The index, designed to function as a sort of economic crystal ball, dipped 0.2 per cent in May. An old rule of thumb holds that a single decline by the index is no great cause for concern, but that three drops in a row mean trouble may well lie ahead.

Gulf & Western Industries, the most active NYSE issue, fell 1/8 to 12 1/2. The Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation of the company is the subject of a series of articles that began over the weekend in the New York Times.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index was off .20 at 55.51. The American Stock Exchange market value index managed a .17 gain to 123.93.

Albania And China 'Cool'

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Albanian government, long the lone Chinese Communist ally in Eastern Europe, has asked China to withdraw its technical advisers from that tiny Balkan nation, diplomatic sources here said today.

The sources said the request was made through the Chinese Embassy in Tirana, the Albanian capital.

Between 700 and 2,000 Chinese technical experts are in Albania, the sources estimated. A worsening of relations between the two countries became apparent earlier this month when the Albanian Communist party daily newspaper Zeri i Popullit — Voice of the People — sharply attacked Peking.

Without mentioning China by name, the newspaper denounced it for its Third World policies and for its rapprochement with the United States.

The editorial, insisting there could be no compromise on ideology, suggested that the only true Marxist-Leninist party today is the Albanian party.

Relates Highlights Of Opti-Mrs. Club

Highlights of the club year were given by Mrs. Max Stephenson, president of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville, during its meeting Tuesday night.

The Greenville club has chartered two out-of-town clubs, Wilson and Kinston; hair dryers, books, pictures and cosmetics have been given to the nursing home; money was given to the Salvation Army during the winter months for their fuel fund; Easter baskets were prepared for foster children in Pitt County;

Members prepared cupcakes for the Special Olympics; toys have been given to the Kennedy Home, Kinston, Salvation Army and to the ADAPT Center; and gifts were sent to Cherry Hospital, Kinston.

The annual summer party for girls enrolled in Operation Sunshine will be held during early August. The two most outstanding optimistic girls will be named and presented gifts.

Mrs. Stephenson announced that the N. C. Optimist State Convention will be held Aug. 18-20 at the Royal Villa, Raleigh. Members made calico flowers to be used during the convention.

Scrapbook workshops will be held this week at the home of Mrs. Stephenson.

Members planned a membership drive to take place in the early fall.

Mrs. Charles Ross gave a short report on Operation Sunshine.

Approximately 175 paperback books have been contributed by the club to Sheppard Memorial Library to be used in the library's mini libraries.

Branch Office

At Flea Market

ATLANTA (AP) — Ben Pierce III works weekends at a flea market.

There would be nothing unusual about that, except that Pierce's booth is a branch office of his law firm.

"There's a lot of hungry lawyers out there," said Pierce, 35, who can be found sitting in a fanback chair, outfitted in blue jeans and a plaid shirt. A large poster tacked to the wall of the booth lists some of his services and fees — $50 for drawing up a simple will, $125 plus filing fees for an uncontested divorce, $250 for personal bankruptcy.

Pierce says business has improved each weekend since he opened the new office.

He doesn't expect the Bar Association of Georgia to complain, but he thinks he'll "shake a lot of them (lawyers) out of their trees."

Almost Room

To Play Tennis

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The tennis craze is so pervasive here that when home owners advertise their residences for sale they generally feel obliged to mention the availability of tennis in the copy.

Newspapers carry ads for homes with a tennis court, homes near a tennis court, homes that include a tennis club membership and recently ads saying "room for tennis court."

But an ad in today's Los Angeles Times stretched the imagination.

"Almost Tennis Court size back yard," it read.

Lopes' 3-Run Homer Aids Dodger Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

"All I was looking for was a hole on the right side," said Dave Lopes.

He found it in Bruce Boicclair's glove.

Lopes was given a second chance Sunday when the New York Met right fielder dropped his foul fly ball in the ninth inning, and promptly took advantage of it with a three-run homer that gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-3 victory.

"It was an omen that Boicclair dropped that ball," said Lopes. "After that I just knew I had to get a hit. All I was trying to do was find a way to get the tying run home. But what I did was make good contact and find the seats."

Boicclair went from hero to goat in the space of one inning. In the top of the ninth, he had sent the Mets ahead 3-2 with a pinch-hit sacrifice fly.

The victory stopped a three-game Dodger losing streak and improved their lead to 10½ games over the Cincinnati Reds in the National League West. The slumping Reds dropped their sixth straight game Sunday, a 3-0 decision to the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I believe all we needed is a victory like this to get us going again," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda, who held a pregame meeting with his team to give his players a pep talk.

In other National League action, the Houston Astros took a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, 10-6 and 6-4; the Philadelphia Phillies tripped the San Diego Padres 7-4; the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Atlanta Braves 7-6 and the San Francisco Giants beat the Montreal Expos twice, 3-0 and 5-4 in 12 innings.

Cardinals 3, Reds 0
Eric Rasmussen hurled a four-hitter and Ted Simmons singled home two runs, leading St. Louis over slumping Cincinnati. The Cards, handing the Reds their sixth straight loss and 10th in 12 games, snapped a scoreless tie against rookie Paul Moskau, 1-2, with Keith Hernandez' two-out, RBI single in the sixth.

Two innings later, Garry Templeton and Tony Scott led off with singles and Simmons singled through a drawn-in infield following a passed ball by Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench.

Rasmussen, 7-10, struck out five and walked two while registering his fourth career shut-out.

Astros 10-6, Cubs 6-4
Art Howe drove in five runs with a homer and a single and Enos Cabell and Cesar Cedeño also homered to power Houston to its first-game victory over Chicago.

Howe and Cabell hit solo home runs and Ed Herrmann had three hits, drove in one run and scored two to lead Houston's victory in the nightcap.

Phillies 7, Padres 4
Greg Luzinski drove in three runs and rapped three hits to spark Philadelphia over San Diego. The Phils trailed 4-3 after six innings before Luzinski's bases-loaded, two-run single highlighted a four-run rally in the seventh to put them in command 7-4.

Pirates 7, Braves 6
Pinch-hitter Jim Fregosi's two-out, bases-loaded walk forced in the winning run and capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the 13th inning as Pittsburgh beat Atlanta.

Giants 3-5, Expos 0-4
Right-hander Jim Barr pitched a four-hitter and San Francisco used a squeeze bunt by Tim Lincecum and an inside-the-park home run by Derrel Thomas to beat Montreal in the first game of their double-header.

ACC Tournament Sites Scheduled

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference basketball tournament will remain here through 1980, then return to Capital Centre in Landover, Md., the next year, the conference athletic directors have decided.

Bill McLellan, athletic director at Clemson University and chairman of the ACC Athletic Directors Basketball Committee, said the decision on sites for the 1979, 1980 and 1981 tournaments was reached at a group meeting here Sunday.

Capital Centre, which has a seating capacity of 18,000, hosted the 1976 ACC tournament the only time the three-day event was ever held outside North Carolina.

In every other year since 1971 the tournament has been held at the 15,700-seat Greensboro Coliseum.

The Greensboro arena had already been selected as the site of the 1978 tournament, and Sunday the athletic directors voted to keep it there for the 1979 and 1980 games.

Trevino Wins Canadian

By BOB GREENE
AP Golf Writer

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — The grin was in place and the quips were chattering out with machine-gun rapidity.

But Lee Trevino interrupted the flow of one-liners to turn dead serious, humble and philosophical.

"When somebody thinks he's tough, he just needs to get knocked down to find out what it's all about," Trevino said in the wake of his wire-to-wire triumph in the Canadian Open, a victory he'd feared would never come and one that capped his comeback from an operation that threatened to end his rags-to-riches saga.

He'd been knocked down.

Surgery for a herniated disc in his back last winter put him on the sidelines. There was considerable doubt that he'd ever regain the form and flair that made him one of the most popular figures to play the game and secured for him a place in American folklore.

"The doctors told me I couldn't play until July," he recalled. "I started playing in March. I hurt. I still hurt. You can't imagine the pain there is in my back when I get up in the mornings. It takes me an hour just to get straightened up."

"The thing is, when you've reached a position in life, you tend to forget that you got there by hard work. And it's gonna take hard work to keep that position."

"I've neglected that over the last few years. I wasn't working hard enough, practicing hard enough. I'm working hard now. I have something to prove. I've got to prove I can win again. After you've been hurt, you have to prove you're not all through."

He proved his point and with surprising ease, scoring a frontrunning triumph that required only a final round of two-over-par 74. He finished with a 280 total, eight under par on the hilly, 7,090-yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course and four strokes clear of the field.

He started the final round with a comfortable six-stroke margin. No one got closer than four strokes. He led by six with six holes to play and swaggered home, joking, talking, gesturing with the flamboyance of old.

He bogeyed two of the last four holes but it didn't really matter.

"I guess I just went to sleep," he said.

Peter Oosterhuis of England took second with a two-under-par 70 and a 284 total. Tom Kite, 73-285, was third alone.

Jack Nicklaus, the man who designed the course that is slated to become a permanent site for this national championship, bogeyed three of his first four holes and never got in the chase. He finished with a 74 and a tie for fourth with five others at 286.

Also at that figure were Ray Floyd, 74, Mike McCullough, 70, Bill Kratzert, 71, Mike Morley, 72, and Charles Coody, 71.

Garner Takes Lead In Series

GARNER — Garner won two games from Greenville's American Legion team Saturday and Sunday nights to go ahead in the best-of-seven series 3-2. On Saturday night, Garner nipped Post 39 5-4 and on Sunday bombed the local squad by a 21-2 margin.

The games mean Garner holds the advantage in the series for the first time, having won three straight after losing the first two in Greenville. The series moves back to Greenville tonight with the teams playing at Harrington Field at 8 p.m.

In Saturday night's game, Greenville took a 3-0 lead after a half inning on runs by Ned Craft, Nuggie Worthington and Ronnie Chapman, but Garner came back with two in the bottom of the third and another in the fourth to tie the game.

In the sixth inning, Ronnie Lee led off with a single for Garner and stole second. Eric Williams knocked him in with a base hit and then scored on an error to make it 5-3 Garner.

Greenville scored one more run in the eighth, but couldn't get the tying run across. Kevin Adams got on with a walk and scored on a pair of errors. Three other batters also reached base in the frame and two got on in the ninth, but all were left stranded.

Mike Williams started on the mound for Greenville and Henry Baker came on to relieve in the fifth. Baker absorbed the loss while Roger Jenkins, who went all the way, picked up the win for Garner.

The Sunday game saw Garner explode for 11 runs in the fifth inning as it routed Post 39 21-2.

Post 39 drew first blood as Ned Craft walked in the second, went to second when Wright Hooks walked, made third on a single by Kevin Adams and scored on Greg Lee's infield out.

Greenville didn't score again until Greg Lassiter's solo home run in the eighth, however, and by that time, Garner had pounded out 20 runs. Garner's final score came in the bottom of the eighth.

Although Garner greatly enhanced its lead with 11 runs in the fifth inning, the actual winning runs came in the third when the team broke a 1-1 tie with a trio of runs.

Johnny Blankenship led off the frame with a single and stole second. He went to third on Larry Newsome's infield out and scored on an infield out by Moe Barbour.

Ronnie Lee then walked and stole second and Eric Williams homered.

It was the first of three homers for Garner as Barbour knocked one in the fifth and Lee hit one in the seventh. Lee and Greg Baker each had three hits for Garner and Blankenship, Barbour and Don Sanderford each had two. Greenville was held to five hits during the contest and no batter had more than one.

Quinn Morris was the losing pitcher for the local team and Walter Stevens was the winner.

Greenville Babe Ruth Team Defeats Iredell

ASHEVILLE — Greenville's 15-year-old Babe Ruth all-stars picked up their first win in the state Babe Ruth tournament here yesterday with a 10-9 victory over Iredell County.

The win leaves Greenville with a 1-1 record in the tournament and the team is slated to meet Onslow County at 6 p.m. tonight.

Down 9-4 at one point in the ballgame, Greenville came back to tie the game in the sixth and a single run in the bottom of the seventh provided the win.

Iredell County scored five runs in the first two innings, but a pair of runs by Greenville in the third made it 5-4. Greenville then gave up four runs in the fourth to fall behind 9-4.

The local team came back, however, with two in the fourth, two in the fifth and one each in the sixth and seventh to gain the win.

Will Barrett provided the tying run as he singled, stole second and scored on pinch-hitter Jamie Adams' single to right.

Pete Pace scored the winning run in the seventh, reaching on an error and then coming in when Skip Topping got a base hit.

Job Slipping Away From Martin

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — On Billy Martin's desk is a plastic fly swatter which effectively keeps the pesky creatures out of the Yankee manager's hair.

Greenville Matmen Win

ROANOKE, Va.—Paul Osman and Milt Sherman each won individual titles to lead the Greenville Wrestling Club to the championship of the Roanoke Valley Wrestling Tournament this past weekend.

Osman was the champion of the 142-pound weight class, while Sherman won at 150. The two are the founders of the local team.

Greenville piled up 42 points in the tournament to down second-place Williamsburg, which scored 35. Roanoke got 25 points for third place and Knoxville, Tenn. was in fourth place with 20.

JONES' WORD GOOD
NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Jones, star forward of the Denver Nuggets of the NBA, put his money where his mouth was. Toward the end of the basketball season, Bobby was notified that he was leading in the $10,000 Seagram Seven Crowns of Sports computer basketball competition. He promised to give the money to charity if he won.

That's what he did. After winning the $10,000 prize, Jones wrote checks which totaled that sum. The money went to a church in Denver, two churches in Charlotte, N.C., his home town, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the Bible Study Foundation, Youth for Christ, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship and the Christian Broadcasting Network. Bobby also established a trust fund for former North Carolina teammate Brad Hoffman for urgent family medical expenses.

Martin must wish his other problems could be eliminated so easily.

Martin, watching the only job he's ever really wanted slip away from him, is a man no longer in control of his fate. Hired to win ball games, Martin can do that. (See 1976 American League championship.)

But his job is hanging by its last, thin pinprick because of factors beyond his managerial skills, which are extraordinary.

Martin is being undermined because he can't control the fragile, conflicting personalities in the clubhouse and because he can't cope with an owner

Southern Pitt In Title Game

PLYMOUTH — Southern Pitt's Little League all-stars moved into Tuesday night's District 7 tournament championship game with a 14-1 victory over Washington Saturday night.

Bernard Riciarelli led the team in the win, pitching a one-hitter and belting a home run. Maurice Thorbs was the leading batter, going 2-2, both of the hits being homers. Ken Whitehurst added a fourth home run for Southern Pitt.

The game was the third victory in the tournament for the team, which has given up just three hits in those three games and scored 36 runs with 12 home runs.

Southern Pitt will meet Eden-ton in the championship game.

Local Youth 5th In Derby

GREENSBORO — Craig Ricks of Greenville placed fifth in the regional Soap Box Derby race held here Saturday. The race was sponsored by the Greensboro Jaycees.

who feels he paid for the team, so now he can play with it.

"Managing on the field is easy. I can win 150 games on the field," said Martin Sunday after conferring with Yankee President Gabe Paul and finding his position was safe, for the moment. "It's the clubhouse that's killing me."

Martin is a throwback to another era, a time when baseball players — not businessmen — played baseball. All that mattered was the game. Managers made decisions like umpires. There were no appeals.

"The players used to like to just play baseball. Now they want to pick their place in the batting order," said Martin.

Casey Stengel, the late Yankee manager, shuffled Martin into practically every pigeon-hole in New York's lineup, but the combative infielder never uttered a peep. Except once. "The Old Man batted me ninth once behind (pitcher) Will Hafee in the Pacific Coast League, but I refused," Martin said. "I told him that I wouldn't let him embarrass me like that. He changed the order."

Martin claims no one else wants the Yankee job. "I don't think any manager wants to come into this clubhouse," he said. But, actually, a new manager would probably have it easier.

The Yankees, a first-place club on paper, are presently in third in the American League East. If the club begins playing up to its potential, the new man will get credit. If the team continues to play mediocre baseball, it will be blamed on the first two-thirds of the season or the irreparable damage done by the antagonisms on the team. And Martin, who got into a near fist fight with Reggie Jackson in the dugout at Bos-

The victory also enabled the White Sox to widen their lead in the AL West to four games over Kansas City.

Yankees 3, Royals 1

A two-run first-inning single by Lou Piniella powered New York past Kansas City. Yankee starter Don Gullett, 9-3, recorded the 100th victory of his major league career, but needed help in the ninth from reliever Dick Tidrow.

Tigers 6, Blue Jays 2

Rookie Bob Sykes hurled a two-hitter to give Detroit its victory over Toronto. Sykes retired the first 17 Blue Jays before catcher Alan Ashby beat out an infield hit. The only other hit he allowed was Bob Bailor's two-run homer in the ninth.

Orioles 3-4, Brewers 2-3

"That's the way we'll have to do it all year," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after the Orioles swept their doubleheader with Milwaukee.

Elliot Maddox' sacrifice fly snapped a 3-3 tie and drove in the winning run in the nightcap, while rookie Eddie Murray doubled home the winning run in the opener to give Mike Flanagan, 8-8, his sixth consecutive complete game victory.

Rangers 4, Indians 1

Doyle Alexander fired a seven-hitter and won his 11th game of the season in leading Texas to its fourth straight victory.

Rico Carty gave the Indians a 1-0 lead in the fifth when he homered, but the Rangers came back with two runs in the sixth on singles by Bert Campaneris, Claudell Washington and Willie Horton, and a fielder's choice.

Twins 5-10, A's 3-9, 2nd game 12

Lyman Bostock's leadoff home run in the bottom of the 12th inning gave Minnesota its second-game victory after the Twins took the opener behind pitcher Geoff Zahn, 9-7.

In the opener, the Twins scored single runs in the third and sixth innings, and three more in the seventh to overcome a 3-0 deficit.

Angels 3-4, Mariners 1-3

Bobby Bonds drove in four runs — three in the opener — as California swept a doubleheader from Seattle. In the first game, Bonds socked a two-run homer, his 21st of the year, and drove in the other run with a sacrifice fly.

Bonds, Danny Gooden, Dan Briggs and Mario Guerrero each chased home a run for the Angels in the nightcap.

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Hee Haw" is: 1. Corny. 2. The biggest hit in TV syndication. 3. A barnyard collection of ancient jokes. 4. A serious examination of the mores of modern society. Well, three out of four ain't bad.

"Hee Haw" is the summer show CBS hurriedly rushed to the air after the Smothers Brothers were fired a few years back. To the network's embarrassment it became a smash hit.

CBS was trying to shed its rural image for more sophisticated comedy, but found it couldn't kill the "Hee Haw" mule with a stick. Finally, it simply kicked it overboard.

The show's producers hocked everything they owned to put the show into syndication. It's now seen by more than 30 million people every weekend on 227 stations.

"I don't see any end to it," said George Lindsey, who joined the show seven years ago as a writer and one of its 35 regular performers. Lindsey, too, was a victim of CBS turn toward sophistication. He had been Goober for 7½ years, first on "The Andy Griffith Show" and then on "Mayberry RFD," which continued many of the characters.

"You can turn on 'Hee Haw' and it's got something for everybody. It's got singing, jokes and girls. It's like vegetable soup — you're bound to find something in it you like."

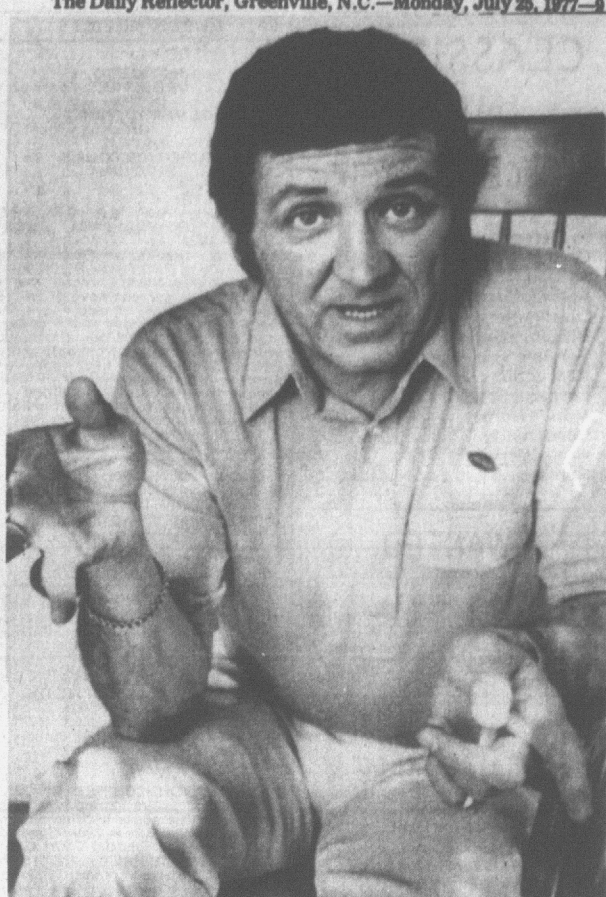

He talked in a room that seems a reflection of his comedic personality. Although not a hunter, he has stuffed animals on the walls. On closer examination, it's clear the eyes are crossed and that the javelina has a rubber chicken hanging from its mouth. The room had been a garage, but he had it built to look like a mountain cabin. He said, "There's a lot of stuff in here that doesn't mean anything to anybody but me. This is my room."

He devotes part of his time to the Special Olympics in Alabama, where he recently helped raise $35,000 by sponsoring a celebrity golf tournament.

Lindsey said he is disappointed that he can't work regularly in Hollywood. "But I'm not singing the blues," he said. "I'm booked solid through October. That's the power of television. It took me a long time to get people at 'Hee Haw' to stop calling me Goober. I got paranoid about it."

"I grew a moustache and one day in an airport a little girl pointed at me and said, 'Mama, there goes Goober with a moustache.' Then I grew a beard."

He finally shaved the beard and came to terms with it, although fans continue to associate him with the role.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JULY 26, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Consider some new ideas under which to operate in the future, to study languages or new thoughts or to depend more upon your prophetic inside to decide the problems and situations that do come to your attention. Fine also for planning any trips you anticipate in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Communicating with those out of town and improving your dealings with them is wise, as well as making friends of new acquaintances. A trip you want to make could be to your benefit.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow your hunches in handling obligations and you come out all right. Romantic leanings are fine but be sure to be considerate of the other person. Take no chances where credit is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Come to a better understanding with new partners and make revisions on agreements so that all works out smoothly. Handling a civic matter intelligently is possible now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't delay any longer but get busy and handle your responsibilities wisely. Avoid one who is a detriment to your progress.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good time to enjoy yourself at whatever outlets are most appealing to you. Put that particular talent to work that can yield good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrate on home and family, even though you may have to be away from abode. Make everything more functional. Entertain at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study interests well and you can be most productive now, be able to expand also. Present plans to allies and gain their cooperation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study into money and property interests and know how to add to and better them now. Listen to the advice of a successful friend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Concentrate on personal aims and go after them intelligently and gain them. Take part in a worthwhile group affair.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study into the principles of your present interests and put details aside for the moment and know where you stand, come to right decisions. Show more devotion to a loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good time to be with good friends and come to a better understanding. Don't permit others to downgrade you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take part in communal activities that could lead to improvement. Bring finest talents to the attention of bigwigs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be highly independent early in life and must be taught early to be more cooperative with others if there is to be real success in this lifetime.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A ♠KQJ ♠AKQ73 ♠A8S
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Your partner's bidding has not been exactly to your liking. However, you have a very good hand indeed and your jack of spades is a valuable filler, so slam is still a live possibility. The simplest way to investigate the possibilities is by showing your fragment with a bid of four clubs. Even if partner can do no more than return to four spades, you should make one last effort by raising to five spades.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠10962 ♠KQ1074 ♠863 ♠A
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—It does not look as if the hand is going anywhere, so we do not blame you if you elected to pass. However, you rate to take more tricks at a suit contract than at no trump because of the unbalanced nature of your hand. Since your heart suit is reasonably robust, we suggest a rebid of two hearts.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A ♠KJ7 ♠KJ5 ♠107652
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 1 NT
Pass 2 ♠ ?

What action do you take?

A.—Double. Since you did not double one heart for takeout, this double is for penalties. You can expect to take five or six tricks in your own hand, and the auction suggests that partner has a card or two to put icing on the cake.

Q.4—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠85 ♠J9643 ♠Q10974 ♠A
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's mere overall coupled with East's pass suggests that West has a very powerful hand and is likely to make a takeout double or a jump rebid at his next turn. You can make life difficult for him by raising diamonds vigorously. We are slightly in favor of a jump to four diamonds, but we would not blame you greatly if you settled for the conservative action of leaping to three diamonds.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠7 ♠KQ1062 ♠AQ84 ♠AK5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four no trump. This is the ideal time for Blackwood. If partner shows two aces and a king, we would gamble on the grand slam, since his king is probably in diamonds. However, we would bid seven clubs, not seven diamonds. Partner surely has long clubs, and it is just possible that you have a trump loser in diamonds. In clubs, your hearts should provide a parking place for one of partner's diamonds.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South with 40 on score you hold:

♠A965 ♠AQ852 ♠AQ73
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass, before you get into trouble. Partner's bidding suggests that he has length and strength in clubs, so any effort to "improve" the contract courts disaster.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠85 ♠K72 ♠Q83 ♠A9764
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you respond?

A.—One no trump. You have neither the strength nor the suit quality to venture to the two-level. Since you have a maximum no trump response, you should cooperate if partner makes any move toward game.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKQ7 ♠AKJ10 ♠AKJ7
♠5
What is your opening bid?

A.—With such a strong hand, you cannot afford to open with a one-bid. We would like about the length of one of our suits, and would open two spades. The problem with a two diamond opening is that we may not have time to get both major suits into the auction. Partner's likely response is two no trump and if we now show one of our majors, we will have to go to the four level to show the other. By bidding spades and then hearts, we will, at least, find out if partner has any enthusiasm for the major suits before bypassing three no trump.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? New Home Is Not For Majority Of Americans

By BARBARA and RAY HOWARD
(First of four articles)

You are young, rosy-eyed, about to get married and planning on your new home. But you can't find anything for less than $30,000. You are not alone. The median price of a new home has about doubled since 1970.

You are middle-aged, discouraged, about to be divorced and staring at a bleak future. You are looking for a home on a salary of $12,000. Prepare to become more discouraged. The average $14,000 wage earner has been priced almost entirely out of the housing market.

Price Nightmare For Nearly Everyone

You are middle-aged, comfortable, seeing the last kid off to college and planning to be just a couple again. You are looking for a smaller place but the prices shock you. You even find that you cannot afford to buy the house you live in now. More than a half of all homeowners are in the same fix.

You are 30, career-dominated, determined to stay single and about to be transferred to a new city. You want a snazzy downtown apartment, but find they have all been converted to condominiums. The few remaining apartments are luxury highrises, much beyond your means.

Housing facts are shocking and discouraging.

Property taxes are up more than 80 per cent since 1967.

Land and land development costs have jumped 110 per cent since 1969.

Financing of developments has leaped 177 per cent in eight years.

The median new home costs about $47,000.

Almost half of all new homes cost over $50,000.

Three out of 4 Americans have been priced out of the new house market.

Looking for a new home has become a price nightmare for practically everyone. But the nightmare also extends to homeowners who are rapidly becoming "house poor" under the burgeoning costs of insurance, property taxes, repairs, heating and electricity.

The nightmare is all the more shocking because it has come upon us so suddenly and unexpectedly. A few short years ago we lived in the nifty '50s and sizzling '60s when food and energy were cheap. When interest rates were low. When an inflation rate of more than 3 per cent seemed shocking. When television's situation comedies showed that everybody in America lived in nice, comfortable, roomy homes. When the American Dream was so attainable it almost became the American Right or the American Expectation.

If you were single and just starting out, chances are, you rented an apartment. Newly married couples without the downpayment for a house would "rent temporarily." There were 23.6 million rental units in 1970, up 3.3 million from 1960. As apartment buildings invaded the suburbs, it looked as if apartment living would be the wave of the future. Maintenance was easy, leaving us with loads of time and money for really enjoying those weekends.

But the '50s and '60s were mainly the decades of the family. Divorce was frowned upon, and large three- and four-child families became fashionable. Families looked at the American Dream as a home surrounded by land with green shrubs and trees. Fresh air and good schools were part of the dream, too. And all that spelled a single family home in the suburbs.

In 1950s, 55 per cent of us owned the homes we lived in. By 1970 that figure had climbed to 63 per cent. It was even higher in the suburbs, where 70 per cent of us owned our own homes. Whether we were starting a family, maintaining one or seeing one off to college, most of us wanted our own home. Even people who could not afford the cost of a site-built home found a way to fulfill their longing. The once ugly trailer gave way to the "mobile home" — the single family dwelling for the very young, the poor, the transient and the retiree. By 1970, there were two million families living in mobile homes, up from less than 800,000 in 1960.

Most of us dreamed of bigger and better homes than our parents had. And architects and builders were sensitive to our desires — and affluence. The 1,000-square-foot house of the '50s gave way to the 1,650-square-foot house of the late '60s and early '70s. The one-bathroom home became as outmoded as the outhouse. Two-bedroom bungalows gave way to three-bedroom ranches and split levels, which in turn were replaced by four-bedroom colonials in the '60s. Kitchens expanded to include a shiny array of built-ins. The formal living room became a furniture museum as we fled to the new living areas: family room, recreation room, den. The full basement, once a status symbol, became a requirement for most of us.

Our homes became castles as we added patios, screen porches and elaborate landscaping. The swimming pool, once a symbol of great wealth, became a middle-class suburban toy. And astoundingly, all this luxury was highly affordable. Most of us bought homes and met the payments with about 25 per cent of our incomes.

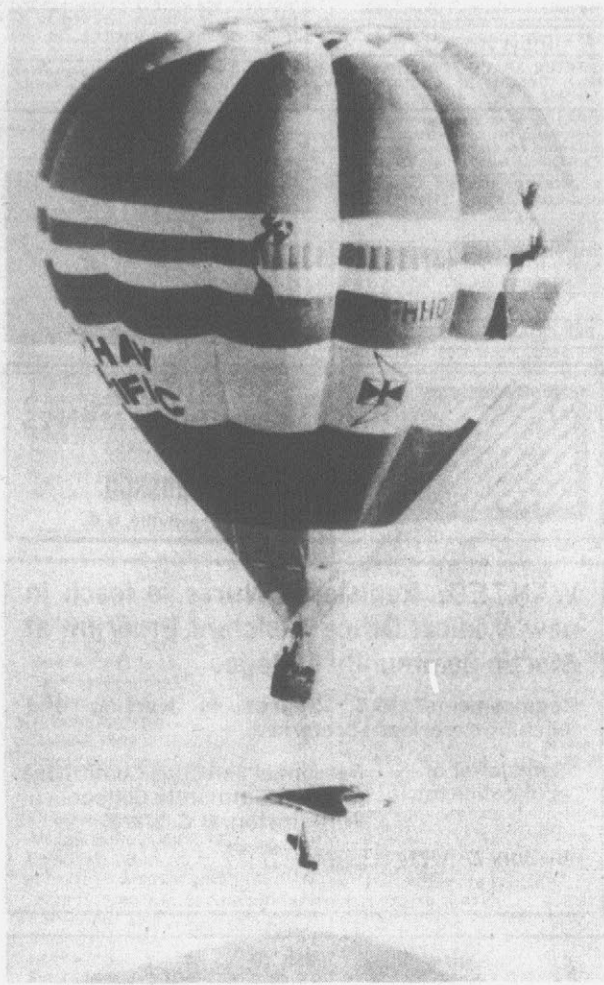

In the late '60s and early '70s, there seemed to be no limit to the growth of the American Dream home. We could even combine the advantages of home ownership and apartment living in the form of the condominium. (To some it became a combination of the worst features of both, as costs soared and service deteriorated.)

Our optimism about the future of housing reached a crescendo in 1972 when we built a staggering 2.4 million new homes. The future seemed bright and rosy for anyone wanting to rent or own a home.

But then came the oil embargo, double-digit inflation, raw-materials shortages, food shortages, high interest rates and the worst recession since the Great Depression. Although the recession officially ended in April 1976, our outlook for housing has been permanently and dramatically changed.

TWO BIRDS OF A DIFFERENT FEATHER — The hang glider of Australian Bill Flewellyn is hoisted high into the sky by a hot air balloon over the weekend near Mount Fuji in Japan, southwest of Tokyo. The lift, which took the 34-year-old adventurer to an altitude of over 10,000 feet, allowed for an 18-minute flight which ended safely at a nearby golf course. (AP Wirephoto)

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Pharmacists: Highly Trained Chemists

I've often wondered how I can be sure that the drug my doctor prescribes is the one I actually get. Do doctors cross-check with pharmacists about this? — Mr. B.N., Calif.

Dear Mr. N.: It is extremely rare that reliable pharmacists make errors in filling prescriptions.

Recently, I watched my neighborhood pharmacist and was impressed by the care he took. He took from the shelf the drug that had been prescribed, twice checked the label while he removed 20 capsules, and again checked the drug when he returned it to the shelf.

And this prescription did not call for an unusual or toxic substance.

Pharmacists are highly trained chemists who surround themselves with all kinds of techniques to guard against errors. It is impossible for physicians to check back with each pharmacist about the possibility of an error. All of us in the practice of medicine have learned to depend on the integrity and responsibility of the pharmacist.

A thought that must be considered: Any drug that is prescribed by a doctor and filled by a pharmacist should not be taken by the patient if any unusual toxic side effects occur. Before continuing taking the drug, consult with both the doctor and the pharmacist about the adverse reaction.

Many of my friends are sure that coffee taken at night affects their sleep. Have any scientific studies been made about this? I find that coffee does not affect my sleep. — Miss D.C., Minn.

Dear Miss C.: The relationship between coffee and sleep patterns has been repeatedly studied. Brain wave (EEG) tests seem to indicate that some sleep disturbances can definitely be traced to coffee.

Undoubtedly, some people are more easily affected by the caffeine in coffee than are others, and the quantity of coffee consumed seems to make a difference, too. These studies seem to suggest that one cup of regular coffee (not decaffeinated) taken half an hour before bedtime had little or no effect on sleep on most people. Two to four cups of regular coffee more seriously affected the total sleep time and the degree of insomnia.

By trial and error many people learn whether or not their sleep is interfered with by coffee or drugs (and caffeine is a drug) and they learn to eliminate them from their evening routine.

The FARM SCENE

By LEROY JAMES, Pitt County Agricultural Extension Agent

The ideal time to harvest corn is when moisture content is between 20 percent and 26 percent, according to Tom Williams, University of Delaware, Extension Agricultural Engineer. He says that combining when corn moisture content is above 26 percent may cause excessive kernel damage and increased drying cost, and when moisture content drop below 20 percent lodging and ear dropping cause even greater field losses.

The three things that cause most field losses are lodged or downcorn, headers too far off the ground, and driving too fast; the driver almost always keeps the headers too high to pick up much down corn.

What's too fast? One Eastern North Carolina grower told us he thought he usually drove around eight or nine miles per hour, but he wasn't sure.

Anything over three miles per hour is too fast. Probably the ideal is two and a half miles per hour. If you are having your corn custom combined you can afford to pay a man more per acre if you know he'll put more bushels per acre in the bin.

An Ohio study shows that increasing combine speed from 2.26 miles per hour to 3.1 miles per hour causes increased losses of more than three bushels per acre. At $2.50 per bushel that's a $7.50 per acre loss for that tiny speed increase.

We strongly recommend regular maintenance and adjustment check ups before and during harvest time.

Once you've made the major adjustments at the shop you can fine tune your combine in the field. Just keep your eye on what's going into the tank and adjust what ever's necessary to keep clean, uncracked, chaff free grain coming into the tank and not falling out on the ground.

Cambodia Refugees Find Camps 'Freer'

By PAUL VOGLE KLONGYAI, Thai-Cambodian Border (UPI) — Savagery, the refugees say, is a way of life in Cambodia.

Radio Phnom Pehn doesn't talk about it. But refugees like petite school teacher Mongkorn do.

After more than two years under the faceless rule which has followed the 1975 Communist victory, Mongkorn, 30, was "so anxious to be free that the death of my baby daughter was a welcome."

She and her husband left when the 3-year-old girl died from cholera.

Killing people in public for being "potentially dangerous" seems to be a thing of the past, but the refugees believe it still happens. They say reports that a million people have died sound conservative.

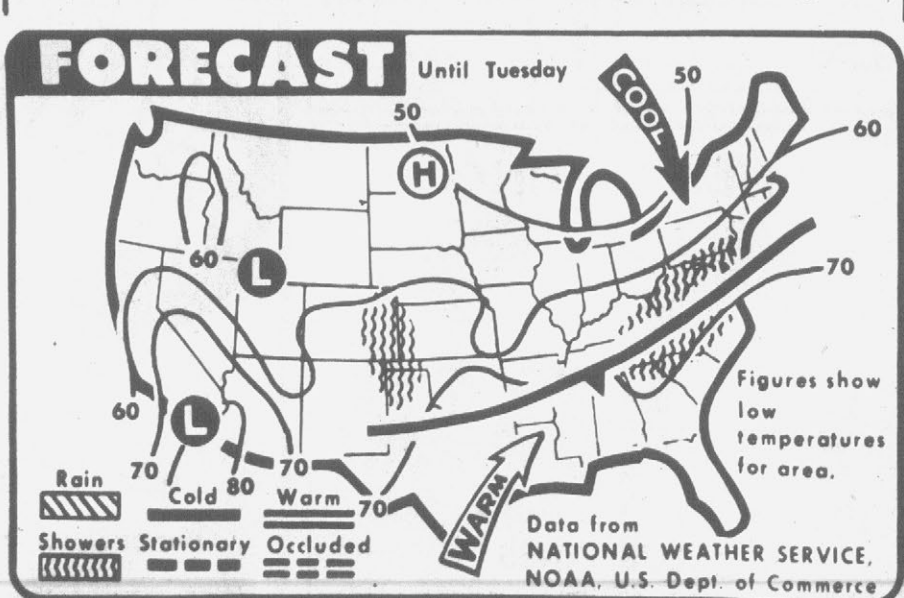

Kor Sin, a 43-year-old farmer separated from his wife in the confusion of the week of April 17, 1975, told of a friend in Battambang Province, where they helped dig irrigation ditches.

"The government man came up to him while we were at work one day. 'Your brother has defected,' he said. 'Come along to the office for a talk,'" Sin said. He never saw his friend again. The name was wiped from the records.

"That meant he was dead and that's when I decided any place was better than that village in Battambang," Kor Sin said.

Most refugees reaching the frontier east and southeast of Bangkok come from the farmlands of Battambang Province, the gem mines of Palim, or the southern seacoast of Cambodia.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild to cool weather is forecast today from the northern Rockies to northern New England. Warm weather is expected to continue in the southern states.

By The Associated Press Rain will return to North Carolina's weather picture for the next two days as moisture from a cold front pushing south combines with warm, unstable air blowing from the Atlantic.

Showers and thundershowers should be prevalent over the western counties today, and will spread into the central portion of the state tonight. By Tuesday, scattered showers will occur across the state, mainly in the southeast.

Seasonal temperatures were recorded Sunday across the state, with a high of 91 reported at Charlotte, Fayetteville, Jacksonville and Greensboro.

Early readings today were in the 70s in the Piedmont and coastal regions. Highs today will climb back into the 90s in some portions, while cloud cover will lower temperatures in other areas.

Temperatures will decline through Tuesday as the cold front pushes further southeast.

Prankster On Walkie-Talkie

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Charlotte Police Department has been having problems with an authoritative-sounding prankster with a stolen police walkie-talkie.

Last weekend 10 Charlotte patrol cars rushed to a roadblock on Interstate-85, only to find themselves victims of another joke by the authentic-sounding voice. Police say it was at least the second time they have heard from the imposter.

"He's been giving us a fit," said Don Henderson, communications supervisor for the city police. "It is kind of comical, but it is dangerous in a way."

The trickster, according to Henderson, has a calm radio voice. "He uses some CB citizens' band terms like 'good buddy' and some TV slang like 'caucasion male' from Adam 12, a police show."

The walkie-talkie, valued at $400, was one of three stolen July 11 from a shop where it had been sent for repairs. In one report, the caller mentioned that he had three walkie-talkies he found in a duffel bag. It is his familiarity with police practice that makes the imposter effective. He uses P-528, a code name for a city policeman. And he knows the name of the real police dispatcher.

Henderson said the prankster sounds like a man in his 20's.

On Friday, the caller used the department code to broadcast that he was in need of assistance at a city intersection, Henderson said. Five cars rushed to the scene but found nothing.

The imposter tried again the next night, calling to say he was pursuing a hit-and-run vehicle and shots had been fired. "We had maybe 10 more cars trying to intercept the hit-and-run driver," Henderson said. "One officer crossed the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad at Louise Avenue, and the train missed his car by a foot."

EX-EDITOR DIES
NEW YORK (AP) — Mary McDermott Roche, managing editor of House and Garden magazine for more than a dozen years, died Saturday at the age of 69 at New York Hospital.
