

Resignation Not In Plans, Avers Lance

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Lance today denied that he has any intention of resigning after he defends himself before a Senate committee on Thursday.

"I'm going to keep on doing the job at the Office of Management and Budget," Lance told reporters outside his Georgetown home as he headed for work and a session later in the day with President Carter.

Meanwhile, Democratic Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado joined the list of those advocating that Lance depart his government post. "But it's a decision that should be made by the President and not the Congress," Hart said this morning. "Congress revolves around controversy, but this one is taking some of the impetus away from the energy program."

Lance, under fire by the same panel which recommended his confirmation early this year as the nation's budget director, said his meeting at the White House was to be over routine OMB business and "I don't know" if the subject of his own troubles would even come up.

"I am going to have my regular meeting to talk about the OMB situation," the embattled Lance said. "I'm going to have an interesting day today. I have got to go and...make a decision about whether the caribou get to graze in the wilderness of Alaska or whether we get to explore oil there."

Lance is scheduled to appear Thursday before the Senate Government Affairs Committee. One member of that panel, Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., asked on Monday that it explore whether there was a cover-up of Lance's financial problems before Carter named him to the budget post.

Percy said he wants to call the President's former ethics adviser, John L. Moore, to testify at the committee's hearings on the Lance affair.

Asked about speculative reports that he would resign after he has a chance to present his case to the committee, Lance declared "That's absolutely incorrect," during the morning questioning by reporters.

On Monday, his wife told The Associated Press in an interview at the home that her husband had planted azaleas in the backyard and "We plan to be here to see them bloom in the spring."

After hearing testimony from Robert Bloom, who was acting comptroller of the currency at the time Lance was nominated for the budget post, Percy said:

"There are all the elements, it would appear from the testimony, of a cover-up."

The Senate panel, holding hearings on Lance's financial affairs, scheduled testimony today from Donald L. Tarleton, the Atlanta regional administrator for the comptroller of the currency.

Tarleton removed restrictions placed by federal examiners on the Calhoun (Ga.) First National Bank, which Lance headed as chairman of the board, two days before Carter announced Lance's selection as budget chief.

But in prepared testimony, Tarleton said Lance did not ask him to lift the restrictions. He said they were lifted "because the bank had returned to sound operating procedures and for no other reasons."

Lance planned a meeting with Carter at the White House today. Press Secretary Jody Powell said it was a normal weekly get-together and he didn't know whether increasing demands for Lance's resignation would be discussed.

Moore, now chairman of the U.S. Export-Import Bank, was special counsel on ethics and conflicts of interest for the transition group that helped set up the Carter administration. Moore took part in a telephone conversation with Lance, Carter and others on Dec. 1 in which problems at one of Lance's banks were discussed.

In announcing his intention to call Moore as a witness, Percy said he had no evidence that anyone outside the comptroller's office was involved in a coverup. But he added, "I hope to call Mr. Moore to testify as to what his knowledge was and why he didn't transmit this information (about Lance's financial trouble) to us."

At Monday's hearing, Bloom admitted he made a misleading statement to the Senate committee during confirmation hearings on Lance but denied that any information was deliberately concealed.

Bloom testified that the Dec. 1 telephone conference call was about how to handle press inquiries about restrictions placed on the Calhoun bank. The call involved Bloom, Lance, Moore, Carter and Lance's attorney, Sidney Smith.

Bloom said it was his recollection that Moore said little or nothing, although he does not keep memoranda of telephone conversations and "I'm damned if I can remember who said what."

But he agreed that he misled the committee when he told the panel in a letter than large overdrafts written by Lance and his wife caused no loss to the Calhoun bank.

CARS FLOAT TOWARD PLAZA AREA — Heavy rains hit the Kansas City area causing flooding and deaths on Monday. Here, cars float through the Country Club Plaza area of Kansas city where waters from Brush Creek did much damage. Police sent boats on rescue missions through out the city to aid persons trapped in submerged cars, mobile homes and houses near small streams and lakes. Rain that began Sunday night subsided early today, but more was reported on the way. Nearly 12 inches had fallen by 1 a.m., a one-day record rainfall for Kansas City. (AP Laserphoto)

Flash Floods Hit Kansas City; 15 Known Dead

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Flash floods left 15 persons dead, an undetermined number of others missing and hundreds more homeless or stranded today after the heaviest rains in the city's history.

"We had a six-foot wall of water roaring down Brush Creek ... and it just swept up everything in its path, shoved it aside or rammed its way through," said Frank H. Spink, Jr., director of emergency preparedness for the city, as he described the scene at the Country Club Plaza, a widely known shopping center in the southern part of the city.

"Police are checking for possible additional deaths in the cars caught in the wall of water that swept Brush Creek, Ward Parkway and the Plaza shopping area," he said.

Spink said nine of the confirmed deaths were in the city itself, four occurred in southern suburbs and two in eastern suburbs.

The plaza was one of the hardest hit areas as the normally lazy creek overflowed its banks, sent cars floating through the streets and dumped up to five feet of water in some stores. Police armed with rifles stood guard during the night to protect the shops from looters.

Water from the rampaging Blue River in the east section of the city forced the evacuation of 500 mobile homes at the Heart of America Trailer Court and closed the General Motors auto assembly plant and other industries in the Leeds district.

Widespread telephone and power outages were reported. Light rains fell intermittently this morning and Scott Hooper, police media coordinator in Kansas City, said, "All day we'll be continuing to have flooding problems throughout the city."

More than 150 private boats were called into service early today to rescue persons stranded in flooded homes and submerged cars.

The trailer court, located just west of the Truman Sports Complex, looked like a big lake this morning, with water half-covering many of the mobile homes.

"We were about the last people out of the trailer court because we had been watching for looters," said Toby Johnson, who has lived in the park for 10 years. Many of the park residents waded into the water this morning to retrieve what they could of their valuables.

Spink said the last major flood of consequence in the Plaza area occurred in 1961, "but it was minor compared to this." A flood in 1951 claimed six lives in the Kansas City area.

The National Weather Service said up to 12 inches of rain fell in the 24-hour period which ended at 1 a.m. today, the wettest day since the bureau started keeping records in 1889.

The rain fell in two periods — about 5 inches fell before dawn Monday and the rest late Monday night. The two rainfalls were separated by sunny skies Monday afternoon.

The weather service had predicted a possibility of severe storms and issued flash flood warnings for Monday night early in the day.

BATTERED WOMEN

Someone came by the REAL Crisis Intervention Center and asked if there is any program here or organizations here interested in working to help the battered woman—in other words, the woman trapped in a domestic situation in which she is abused. I don't know of a program here, but REAL would be interested in cooperating with other groups in getting something going. I'd like to know what's going on in other areas and also if there is interest here in such a project. Mary Larew, REAL Program Director Hotline has learned that there are battered women's assistance programs underway in several major N. C. cities and that attacking this problem is a mandate of the YWCA this year. We talked to leaders in both Raleigh and Greensboro — Holly Trott of the Frances R. Doak Women's Center and Diana Jones of the Greensboro YWCA.

Both cities have steering committees and have done some studying and some planning, but aren't actually underway yet. High Point, Ms. Jones said, has a program underway, using the local drug action line as an Abused Women's Hotline and is receiving calls from a wide area around High Point.

A study of the problem in Greensboro and overall is being done by Julia Nile of the University of North Carolina Dept. of Sociology faculty, she said. She invited anyone interested in learning more about the problem and how to deal with it to come to a seminar to be held at the Greensboro YWCA Oct. 13. For more information, one may contact Ms. Jones at 314 N. Davies Street, Greensboro, N. C. 27401. Her phone number is 273-3461.

The local Mental Health Center, according to Dan Kelly of the Mental Health Center staff, has an ongoing program to assist the battered woman. Very often, he said, alcohol abuse is a part of the domestic situation which produces such a problem, and members of Al-Anon can be very helpful in letting the spouse in trouble know that he or she is not the only one to live through such a trying situation. Anyone needing the services of the Mental Health Center can call 24 hours a day at 752-7151.

The Family Services Division of the Department of Social Services can also be of help in these situations.

Hint Invite To Jaworski

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The South Korean government may invite Leon Jaworski to visit Seoul in connection with his investigation into alleged influence buying by Tongsun Park, Foreign Minister Park Tong-jin said today.

The foreign minister told reporters that if Washington fully respects his government's basic position, it will present a set of proposals including a visit here by Jaworski, who is directing the House Ethics Committee's investigation of the millionaire Korean rice dealer's relations with members of Congress.

The minister indicated, however, that the U.S. government must first withdraw its request for the extradition of Tongsun Park, who has been indicted in Washington on charges of trying to bribe members of Congress. He said the impasse between the two governments is due to U.S. insistence that the fugitive be returned to the United States.

The foreign minister added that his government will cooperate with the U.S. investigation only when it does not violate Korean sovereignty and individual freedoms. In rejecting the extradition request, the Korean government said Korean laws would not permit it to extradite a Korean national against his will just because he had been indicted in a foreign country.

Tongsun Park has said he would not see Jaworski if he comes to Seoul to interview him. But there was speculation that the Korean government would invite the American to sit in on Korean interrogations of Park.

Ingram Claims Pressure For Senate Race

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said today that "people are pushing" him to run for the U.S. Senate next year and that he will make a decision "at the appropriate time."

In answer to questions at his news conference, Ingram also said there is a possibility he will run for governor in 1980.

He said that if he runs for either office he probably would not resign as insurance commissioner.

If he runs for governor, Ingram said that the law passed by the 1977 legislature which allows insurance companies to put rate increases into effect without his prior approval could be an issue.

Ingram said this after reiterating his contention that the 1977 insurance law would not have been passed if Gov. Jim Hunt had spoken out against it. Hunt may be a candidate for reelection in 1980 if the people approve a constitutional amendment to allow governors and lieutenant governors to run for reelection to a second successive term. The people will vote on the constitutional change in November.

If Robbed, Vandalized, Attacked-Get A Receipt

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Next time you're vandalized, robbed or assaulted, be sure to get receipts for the damages. You may need them in court.

Within the next few weeks judges will be required to consider sentencing criminals to repay their victims for the loss or damage they caused.

But Franklin E. Freeman Jr., assistant director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, said Monday that there will be fairly strict limits on what sorts of payments judges will be able to order.

"I think we're going to be pretty well restricted to actual losses that can be shown," Freeman said. "You know, the kinds of things were you've got bills or cancelled checks or medical bills or receipts for property damage."

Franklin concedes there might be disputes over what a fair repayment might be.

"I'm sure there will be dissatisfied prosecuting witnesses now and then, because they'll feel they weren't adequately compensated," Freeman said. "They'll say they weren't paid for the time they lost due to injury or for pain and suffering. But those are matters for the civil courts."

The legislature passed the law earlier this year at the recommendation of Gov. Jim Hunt.

"All of us for years in appropriate situations have ordered restitution in lieu of prison sentences," said Superior Court Judge Robert Rouse of Farmville. Rouse is incoming president of the state Conference of Superior Court Judges.

"This is absolutely new," he said.

Freeman said it was true that now judges for the first time would be required to consider whether repayment would be an appropriate penalty in conjunction with a suspended or probated sentence.

But he said most judges were doing that anyway.

"The main effect of the new law," Freeman said, "is that it will dignify a practice that most judges are already using."

Sold His Shoes, Jewel In Them

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A member of a Sunday school class at Cahaba Heights Baptist Church donated a pair of her husband's shoes to be sold at a benevolent garage sale Saturday.

When her husband came home and found out about it, he told her he had been hiding some rings and other jewelry in one of the shoes.

When the buyer tried to put on the shoes Sunday, one of them wouldn't fit and he found out why.

He returned the shoes to the pastor Monday, saying he felt whoever had donated the shoes had made a mistake.

BALLOONISTS IN ICELAND — Two American balloonists, Ben Abruzzo, 47, and Maxie Anderson, 44, right, show newsmen photographs of their families Monday in Reykjavik. They had been taken to the Icelandic capital after a U.S.A.F. helicopter plucked them from the bitter cold waters of the North Atlantic where they landed their balloon off Iceland. Law On Mail-Opening Drilled Into U.S. Customs Employees

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Customs Service, in the light of a congressional investigation that showed agents had illegally opened letters from abroad, is drilling its employees on when they may open first-class mail.

Robert Chasen, the commissioner of customs, told a House panel Monday that some Customs Service workers don't understand the legal restrictions on opening letters.

Chasen told a House Government Operations subcommittee that after the panel began investigating mail openings by agents, he ordered an audit that revealed some employees had not been given legal instruction.

Chasen said the study showed that a small percentage of all employees in areas where mail is examined "either do not understand or are unaware of all the restrictions"

He said, "I intend to make sure each employee working with the mails ... receives and understands the guidelines."

While it is illegal for the government to open first-class mail sent within the United States without a search warrant, the Customs Service can open letters from abroad. This authority is used in searching for illegal drugs or items on which duty is due.

No other government agency is allowed to open first-class mail without a search warrant obtained from a court.

The subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., has found that Customs Service officials opened about 270,000 letters last year.

It has found various incidents of illegal openings, the largest a two-year program ending in 1975 in which mail given to agency officials was turned over to military investigators who opened it illegally. Postal Service and customs officials have said they cannot provide a figure on how many letters were opened illegally.

Chasen said the 270,000 searches, carried out without the permission of the senders or receivers of the letters, found 21,000 letters contained drugs or other illegal items and 27,000 found merchandise with duty unpaid.

The legality of these searches was upheld in June by the Supreme Court, which found they cast only a slight "chill" on rights of free expression. Preyer has said he is considering recommending legislation to ban the searches.

Preyer released a letter from Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar expressing no objections to such a law, but Chasen opposed any legislation.

"Do you really want the international narcotics syndicates, the child pornographers and the professional smugglers to use the mails as free-flowing conduits?" he asked.

Robert Mundheim, general counsel of the Treasury Department, testified that the mail opening by customs agents began in 1970. Previously, the person receiving a letter was asked to agree to the opening and, if he refused, suspect mail was returned to the sender.

"The inherent weakness of the consent procedure is evident: the sender simply would continue to mail the item until it escaped customs detection," he said.

Congress Studies Aid Displaced Homemakers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is studying a bill that would help establish centers to retrain millions of divorced or widowed women who have labored for decades as homemakers and mothers, but suddenly find themselves on their own.

Often spurned by lawmakers, state employment services and the women's movement, these "older women, whether to support their children or themselves, are often ill-prepared to enter the labor market," the bill's sponsor, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., told a hearing Monday.

Bayh's bill would give the states $10 million in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1 to help them open service centers for the displaced homemakers.

Bayh told the Senate human resources subcommittee that such middle aged women, robbed of their livelihood by divorce or the death of a spouse, get little help from Social Security and job placement programs.

He noted that widows cannot collect on their husband's Social Security until age 60.

If these women do "breach the barriers of age and sex discrimination," Bayh said, "they are still likely to be employed at menial, low-level occupations which provide only marginal income."

The state centers would provide job counseling and training programs plus legal and financial help.

An Illinois state representative said many recent widows and divorcees could be called the "new poor." Susan Catania said "only about one divorcee in every seven is awarded alimony and less than one in two is granted financial support for the children."

"These women are not looking for a handout, but help to help themselves," she said.

While there are no specific figures on the number of displaced homemakers nationwide, Sen. Donald W. Riegle, D-Mich., told the committee that the 10 million widows in 1975 represented a 45 per cent jump in five years. The four million new divorcees that year were an increase of 223 per cent since 1950, he added.

Bills to supply aid to women who never worked outside the home have been passed in 13 states.

Vandalism Is Charged Trio

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Three Arkansas men, accused of prying wrought iron music notes from the gates to the late Elvis Presley's Graceland mansion, were charged with vandalism, police said.

The three were arrested early Monday on the Tennessee side of the Memphis-Arkansas bridge after a security guard at Graceland saw the men tear the notes from the gate and drive away in a car with Arkansas license plates.

Charged with vandalism and possession of marijuana were Nicholas Baldwin, 20, Thomas J. Kamphuis, 18, and Marcus Worth Logue, 18, all of Little Rock.

Police Capt. D.A. Moore said Baldwin also was charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell. He said Logue was charged with driving while intoxicated and driving without a license.

Bond for Kamphuis and Logue was set $250. Bond for Baldwin was expected to be set in a hearing Monday night.

Patrolmen F.E. Baltz and K.O. McKinnon, the arresting officers, said a security guard at Presley's Graceland mansion first spotted the trio about 3 a.m. Monday.

"All three ran up at the same time, jerked a piece loose and then jumped into a car and took off before the guard could get out of his guardhouse and stop them," the officers said.

The guard gave police a description of the men and their car and the vehicle's license number.

Police Sgt. W.E. Hardy spotted the car heading toward the Memphis-Arkansas bridge and gave chase. Hardy caught the car before it reached the Arkansas side of the bridge and officers Baltz and McKinnon, who were providing back up, made the arrests.

The officers said they found parts of the metal musical notes on two of the men.

Candace Once Had A Dream

HOUSTON (AP) — Candace Mossler seriously considered running for governor of Texas in 1972, says a son-in-law of the late matriarch.

James Meredith, of Denver, Colo., said Monday that Mrs. Mossler was paying political advisers "a lot of money" until several persons he did not identify convinced her she could not be elected.

The testimony was given during the third week of a trial in which two adopted sons, Daniel, 26, and Christopher Mossler, 25, are challenging the validity of a 1975 will supplement.

Mrs. Lance Expects To 'Be Around' For Awhile

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Lance has planted azalea bushes in his backyard here. "If it will give you a hint," says his wife, "we plan to be here to see them bloom in the spring."

Despite the controversy surrounding her husband's financial dealings, LaBelle Lance says she would be surprised if he resigned his post as director of the Office of Management and Budget.

"I don't think it will even be talked about until after the Senate hearings," she said in an interview Monday afternoon. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee is looking into Lance's financial dealings now and he is to testify on Thursday.

"If Bert should ever decide that he would be less effective as budget director, then I think he would sit down with the President and talk about it. But I don't think that time will come before the Senate hearings," she said, adding:

"Plus, the law says that a man should have a hearing before he is condemned."

Mrs. Lance was at home polishing silver when a reporter called to ask if she would discuss her side of what has become known as "The Lance Affair." She agreed immediately.

An hour later she was sitting in her formal parlor in her Georgetown home, wearing a vibrant red dress her husband bought her this summer because he thought she needed some cheering up. And she passionately defended the man she married 27 years ago last week.

"Bert has a tremendous intellectual mind and his mind grasps finances well ...," she said. "His business affairs have been very complicated, which is why most people don't understand them."

As she tells it, this ability to comprehend the complexities of his own financial dealings are assets to him as budget director.

Then how, she was asked, could the Lances pledge the same stock dividends as collateral on two different banks for two different loans?

Mrs. Lance's brown eyes narrowed and she took a sip of iced tea from her crystal goblet. "Now, I'll tell you one thing," she said. "I feel very ing questions about Bert Lance. I think he's probably just as secure and serene in his own mind as he was when we came because he knows us and we know him from a long time standing, not a fly-by-night (friendship)."

The past few weeks have been difficult ones, Mrs. Lance said. But she continues to attend prayer meetings, do volunteer work and housework and write poetry.

Three Accidents In Greenville Monday

An estimated $6,950 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated yesterday by Greenville Police.

Investigators reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:30 a.m. mishap on Fifth Street, 200 feet East of the Forest Hills Circle intersection involving a car driven by Mary Hemby Whitehurst of 1103 West Sixth St. and a parked truck owned by Christian Brothers Wholesale Flowers of Grimsland.

Damage from the collision was estimated at $2,500 to the truck and $1,300 to the Whitehurst car.

A 2:07 p.m. collision on North Greene Street involved cars driven by Michael Douglas Waller of Route 1, Grifton and Lemon Lee Barnes Sr., of 115 Trent Cir., police reported.

Officers set damage from the mishap at $600 to the Waller auto and $1,000 to the Barnes car.

Beverly Ann Gurkin of Dunn was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 4:03 p.m. collision on Charles Street, 400 feet South of the Ficklin Drive intersection.

Police reported the Gurkin car collided with an auto operated by Doris Cox Haddock of Route 1, Vanceboro, resulting in an estimated $1,075 damage to the Gurkin vehicle and $475 damage to the Haddock car.

Asked if she has sensed any weakening in President Carter's support for her husband, Mrs. Lance said, "No. I think the President feels — very justly so — that the Senate committee should have their chance to hear Bert, and Bert should have a chance to speak before them and answer many of these misrepresented allegations and charges."

"But basically I think the President has to go along with running the country, and I don't think he has to spend nine-tenths of his time answer-

Plan Fall Retreat For Church Women

BETHEL — Some 150 Methodist ladies from Belhaven, Bethel, Greenville, Kinston, Snow Hill and Washington are expected to attend the Fall Christian Personhood Retreat here Thursday at the Bethel United Methodist Church, according to Mrs. John Casey of Greenville, District Christian Personhood Coordinator.

Sponsored by the United Methodist Women from the Eastern Sub-District, ladies will be on hand to hear the Rev. James H. Bailey of Greenville, senior minister of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, who will be a featured speaker.

Bailey's talk will follow a program of special music, greetings, scripture reading and prayer. Registration will begin at 9:45 a.m. with lunch being served at noon by the Bethel ladies. All Methodists are invited to attend.

Mrs. Rachel Steinbeck Sturz of Greenville will give the welcome. Special greetings will be heard from the Rev. Ellis Bedsworth, minister of the Bethel Methodist Church; and Mrs. Jasper Smith of Bethel, President of the United Methodist Women here. Responding will be Mrs. Karl Hardee of Greenville, District United Methodist Women President.

A prayer will be given by Mrs. Helen Goodall of Bethel, Christian Personhood Coordinator; and a love offering will be taken by Mrs. Carolyn Henderson, District Treasurer.

Mrs. Mary Wells Andrew of Bethel will sing a solo. She will be accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Harold Staton, also of Bethel.

Bailey will be introduced by Mrs. Casey.

Don't Let Callers Run Your Life

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I applaud your suggestion to take the telephone off the hook when you don't want to be disturbed. Too many people are tyrannized by the telephone.

May I add that there is no reason to answer the door if you are not expecting company or don't want to be disturbed. And I am not suggesting that you turn off the lights and sit in the closet until you ever it is going away.

If your lights are on and your radio or TV is going and you don't want to be disturbed, just sit there.

It will prove that you are also not tyrannized by the doorbell.

Likes Privacy In Cal.

DEAR LIKES: Thank you for "applauding" my reply. Here's a Texan who didn't:

DEAR ABBY: Your suggestion to take the telephone off the hook when you don't want to be disturbed wasn't very practical.

In our town (and in many others), a telephone left off the hook for the period of time required to do a passable job of love-making activates a "howler" that comes through the earpiece with increasing volume.

Believe me, it's not easy to bring a romantic interlude to a satisfactory conclusion with Ma Bell screaming at you.

DEAR ORANGE: My suggested solution created such an uproar among my readers that I checked with the Pacific Telephone Company and was told that deactivating one's telephone by taking the receiver off the hook is forbidden because it can create malfunction (crossed wires, overloaded circuits, etc.) and foul up the system.

The only solution approved by Ma Bell is to turn the volume down as low as possible (there's a knob at the bottom of the instrument) and place the phone under a pillow.

DEAR ABBY: I have an awful problem that I'm sure many other girls have. I wear braces and when my boyfriend kisses me, it feels like someone is hitting me in the mouth with a barbed wire fence.

I like him a lot, but because of this, it makes me dread having to kiss him. Do you have any suggestions?

JODY

DEAR JODY: Yes. Tell him to slow up when he gets to the fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl. My problem is that nobody ever touches me. My parents haven't hugged or kissed me for a long time, except when I go away for a long time. Close friends outside of the family don't touch me, either.

I am outgoing to a degree and sometimes when I really want to hug someone, I just go ahead and hug them, but they always stiffen up or back off. No one ever reaches out to me first. My mother and I aren't close. I need someone older to talk to.

I feel like nobody cares about me or loves me. I am intelligent. I don't have a mental problem. I don't smell bad or I'm not ugly. I'm so confused—please help me.

WANTING LOVE

DEAR WANTING: Tell your favorite teacher what is bothering you. If you'll reach out for affection in a gentle, non-threatening way (and a teacher can explain that more fully), you'll find what you are looking for. And God Bless.

Good Jar Lids Found In Study

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — A study by food scientists at The Pennsylvania State University here indicates 49 per cent of the women surveyed last year were still experiencing canning failures.

Many problems were caused by failure to tighten the lid enough, the survey showed.

The study was a follow-up to testing of canning lids in 1976. Both were the work of Dr. Gerald D. Kuhn, professor of food science extension, and Louise W. Hamilton, professor of food and nutrition extension. Both were funded by the federal and Pennsylvania state governments.

The first study attracted nationwide attention when it evaluated nine canning lids by brand name.

Canning lid producers have since declined from the all-time peak of about 30 in 1976. Most had begun manufacturing lids as a result of shortages caused by the sudden upsurge in home gardening and canning two years earlier.

The current study was commissioned by three lid manufacturers whose products had not been tested earlier. Kuhn and Miss Hamilton had complete control over testing procedures and results.

All three types of lids tested performed well, including the first-ever aluminum lid and a reusable one-part lid made of traditional steel alloy.

The two-part study started with a survey at a shopping center. Women who can often were asked to tighten regular-size and wide-mouth lids on pint-sized Mason jars.

The researchers then used a machine to measure the tightness of lid screw bands to determine the range of tightness applied. They chose three tightness levels to use in evaluating jar lid performance.

Kuhn said researchers using regular size lids found 28 per cent of the home canners used less than the lowest tightness and eight per cent used more than the highest. With wide-mouth lids, 21 per cent used less than the minimum pressure, and 20 per cent used more than the maximum.

Related testing of about 3,000 canning lids showed jars sealed at the lowest tightness had double the seal failure rate as those tightened with either medium or high pressure.

Tightness of the lid and quality and design, are crucial. The most common home-canning technique involves packing produce into a glass jar, sterilizing it with heat that allows air but not liquid to escape, and sealing it against re-entry of oxygen.

In recent years most canners have used a two-piece self-sealing lid. One piece consists of a flat metal surface with a rubberized sealer along one edge that fits over the mouth of the jar. During cooking or sterilization, a screw band holds the lid in place. After cooling, the band is removed for cleaning and reuse.

A sound lid maintains the vacuum inside the jar and prevents contamination by micro-organisms that cause spoilage.

Kuhn and Miss Hamilton said some lids malfunction because of lid or sealer defects. But sometimes the home canner, not the lid, is to blame, because the sealing surface wasn't cleaned properly, the jar was overfilled, or both.

The study tested 192 samples of each of three different lids.

Two were two-piece lids: BFG Home-Canning Lids and Harvest Time, an aluminum lid. Also tested was Klik-It, a one-piece reusable lid.

Canning apples and carrots, the researchers found no failures due to lid defects and no rusting for BFG, Harvest Time or Klik-It.

They rated overall performance as excellent for BFG and recommended that users tighten the screw band with average to high strength.

They also rated Harvest Time excellent for overall performance even when screwed on with a low force. They recommended that bands be removed after cooling to avoid possible problems during storage when using aluminum lids with screw-bands of another metal.

The Klik-It one piece reusable lid had no failures because of lid defects even when used five times, as the manufacturer suggests. But they reported the one-piece lids were difficult to remove after storage. When screwed on with maximum pressure, lids buckled, but sealed during cooling.

With many good canning lids on the market, Kuhn and Miss Hamilton say fewer canning failures would occur if consumers examined lids before using them.

Miss Hamilton recommends looking for gaps in the gasket or sealer, or bumps, dents or anything unsmooth anywhere on the lid.

"After using a lid, if you find the gasket has slipped or torn, it's best not to buy that brand again," she added.

She said other lids to avoid are those made of plastic and traditional lids of zinc or glass. She said all have shown high failure rates.

The researchers also suggest that canners learn modern methods.

"Most people are learning about home canning from their mothers and grandmothers, some of whom used zinc lids," Kuhn said.

To keep jars from exploding, these lids were made very tight, then released a quarter turn before heating, and re-tightened after heat processing.

"This method should not be used on today's self-venting jar lids," Kuhn said.

without oil or butter, here's a recipe for pancakes with strawberry sauce, to be prepared in a nonstick pan, which would be a good candidate for Sunday brunch.

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 eggs, beaten
8 ounces cottage cheese
Grated rind of 1 lemon

SAUCE
1 cup strawberry preserve
1-3rd cup orange-flavored liqueur
¼ cup slivered almonds
Dash cinnamon

In a bowl, mix flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Stir in eggs, cottage cheese and lemon rind. With tablespoon, drop batter onto preheated nonstick skillet. Cook on one side till bubbles form and surface appears dry. Turn and brown on other side. Heat sauce in similar pan till bubbly and blended, stirring occasionally. Spoon over pancakes. Serves 4.

Scarecrow Is New Fashion Headliner
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (UPI) — Enter a new fashion headliner: the scarecrow.

It is used as models in window displays and other style promotions. One source, using aluminum foil, had four-H's from this area plan a fashion show with scarecrows designed as skiers, southern belles, angels, gunslingers, Indian princesses and even a robot from the movie "Star Wars."

The most popular subjects were farmers, cowboys and pioneer women, said RJR Archer, Inc., which believes its scarecrow contest the first of its kind.

Gather up those small wide-mouth vacuum jars and use them to carry foods in your picnic basket.

A handsome new or antique soup tureen makes a delightful container for green leaves.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I have never sat on a bus, at a dinner party, by the pool, or in a doctor's office in my entire life that I didn't find myself next to the parent of a college over-achiever.

You know the ones I mean. The parents whose son or daughter was the recipient of a four-year-all-expense-paid scholarship to one of the Big Ten schools that is recognizable by a single letter on a T-shirt.

The kid who turned down 12 other schools because they didn't offer Conversational Arabic, didn't graduate one Secretary of State, and discriminated against accepting 13-year-olds in the Freshman class.

I have the kid who, sometimes during the last two weeks of August, rolls out of bed and announces, "Hey, college starts in another two or three weeks, I'd better get it on."

After polite, but firm refusals from Harvard, Yale, Duke and Dartmouth, they work their way across the country... Ohio State, Missouri, Colorado, Tulane and San Diego.

As the time gets shorter, catalogues start coming in from places I never knew existed: Alpha Frisbee College (a free car tune-up for every 16 credit hours), Eddie's Business School of Massage and Acupuncture of Moline, and Guam School of Technology for Losers.

One day I picked up a catalogue from a school in Hawaii. Under "Location Of Campus," were explicit directions for jumping from a boat in a cork vest and swimming ashore with your luggage.

"The trouble with you," I told my son, "is that you don't plan ahead. You knew you were going to graduate at least three hours before they awarded the diplomas. You should have..."

"Don't worry, Mom. I have found a college. It's accredited, has absolutely no standards whatsoever, and is small enough to give individual attention."

"When do classes begin?"

"Whenever I get there."

"Is it in the free world?"

"Let me just say that it accepts five major credit cards." I don't mind wearing a T-shirt with a big D on it, but I feel like a fool driving around with a bumper sticker reading, "SEND DOO DAH TO THE ROSE BOWL!"

Trash, Treasure Sale Planned

Plans were finalized for the annual trash and treasure sale at the September meeting of the St. Peter's Woman's Club.

The sale will be held Sept. 17 beginning at 8:30 a.m. at the St. Peter's School yard, located on Fifth Street across from Green Springs Park.

A cathedral quilt made by club members will be displayed during the sale.

Crafts which will be sold in November were displayed at the meeting.

Guests for the evening were Rose Dilanciano, Claudia Ganthers, Barbara Ingonito, Katie Miller, Martha Pierce and Barbara Schmitt.

Sister Chris Gellings opened and closed with meeting with prayers. President Lud Sherwood presided at the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Margurite Anthony.

A high-dome lid on an electric skillet makes it possible to use the utensil for a roast.

If you have a wine basket you never use, you may want to put a plastic container or two in it and make a flower "bowl" out of it.

Considered; No Enthusiasm

Pat Taylor, former lieutenant governor and a trustee of UNC-Greensboro, suggested last week that that institution might consider merging with predominantly black N. C. A&T University.

The question was raised while the desegregation plan was being discussed by the UNC-G trustees.

"Has there even been any discussions about merging the two institutions here in Greensboro into one institution?" he asked.

The possibility has come up, of course, but as UNC-G Chancellor James S. Ferguson pointed out it has been strongly opposed, particularly by the black schools.

It was reported that Taylor suggested that the possibility be studied, but no action was taken.

Merging some of the predominantly black universities and nearby formerly white universities has long been a possibility considered. There is little enthusiasm for among its supporters of the predominantly black schools, however, and we doubt that it will become an acceptable solution.

Accreditation Result Of Much Work

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has accredited the Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

This happy news was announced by Director Jack W. Richardson last week.

The hospital joins 4,800 other hospitals across the nation which have earned the recognition. The accreditation is the result of a lot of hard work by hospital administration, employees and staff.

Cuts Across All Agencies

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — How do you serve the whole person, or the whole family, when a program is riddled with bureaucratic red tape, inter-agency bickering, funding guidelines, and tradition?

That is the dilemma facing North Carolina's Department of Human Resources, and Secretary Sarah T. Morrow.

Much attention has gone to efforts by Dr. Morrow to resolve difficulties in the department's mental health and alcoholism functions. But the situation cuts across all of the agencies under the human resources umbrella: social services (welfare), rehabilitation, the blind, mental retardation, health.

Dissolve Lines

The answer, says Dr. Morrow, a former pediatrician and health director who has been on the job seven months, cannot be gained from simply dissolving all those agency lines.

That solution, some have suggested, would allow the department to embrace human problems in their entirety.

But it would take years to get the various law changes accomplished in the face of well organized interest groups which lobby vigorously for specific programs. Additionally, state and federal funding regulations cause dollars to flow for specific programs.

The result is obvious: fragmented programs which serve selected problems, but allow others to go untreated. A female applicant for food stamps, for example, gets food stamps. No single interviewer wonders if an alcoholic father, a retarded child, and the mother's need for job training might combine to create the condition which causes a need for food stamps—and attempts to work with the whole person, or family, to resolve problems.

That condition, says Dr. Morrow, is one of her most worrisome problems.

"But we can't just dissolve those agency lines... what we can do is bring about coordination and direction at the top, and that is what we are attempting with the appointment of assistant secretaries to oversee programs."

Cut Across

The top-level people, she hopes, can cut across agency lines and push coordinating councils where the various program people begin recognizing the inter-relations of problems and the need for communication.

BILL NOBLITT

While Dr. Morrow says a departmental study suggesting a revamp of the regional approach to statewide program management has been placed on the back burner, some of the elements are valid and are being approached from other directions.

That study suggested more concentration of power and authority at the central Human Resources office in Raleigh. "The regional consultants often have responsibility, but little authority. Individuals at all levels are not sure of their comparative responsibility..."

Pulling bureaucratic control into the Raleigh office is causing agency heads who were not in the practice of talking to one another to begin doing so. Dr. Morrow believes this process can begin to break down the specialization process so the department can begin to serve people.

The departmental study urged such a move: "Return to central offices responsibility for supervision of all facilities... any individual must have the knowledge and consent of the next level of supervision before filling an immediately subordinate position... Develop a Central Coordinating Council... resolve inter-divisional problems and create more cooperative spirit... realign supervisory structure so regional directors are directly responsible to division directors..."

Dr. Morrow is learning from the uproar these changes are causing throughout her department that reform in governmental bureaucracies does not come easily.

THE INSIDE REPORT

'Burn One Witch A Year'

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The underlying reality of the Lance affair is betrayed by this reaction of members of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee to Tuesday's briefing from staff investigators; they were unimpressed by his evidence but thoroughly convinced Lance is finished as budget director.

Although dominating front pages and national news programs by bringing "new" allegations against Lance to the White House on Labor Day, the committee's chairman and ranking Republican — Sens. Abraham Ribicoff and Charles Percy — had little to show their colleagues the next day. But while many Senators remain dubious that Lance is guilty of any crime, all consider him beyond salvation. The Ribicoff-Percy operation, combined with the media barrage, destroyed what shadow of hope remained that Lance might yet regain his effectiveness as "deputy President."

Lance has been destroyed by pyramiding suggestions of wrongdoing without the hint of a trial. This suggests totalitarian-style justice or perhaps a throwback to an early American form. "This is Salem," one White House insider has been telling his colleagues all week, "and we burn a witch a year."

Beyond the catastrophe to Lance's personal life and the damaging political impact on President Carter, this assures severe difficulties ahead for conducting the federal government's business. Except for professional bureaucrats or college professors can anyone come to "Salem" without the risk of becoming the next "witch"?

The process is shown in the role of chairman Ribicoff, long noted as one of the nation's shrewdest politicians. Having defended Lance and attacked a media "smear" job against him only weeks ago, Ribicoff found himself in unusual country: opposing the liberal establishment. He purged himself abruptly with the dramatic holiday visit Monday to the White House, where he and Percy publicly implied grave new developments against Lance.

All that was new in their private report to the President, however, was a Republican staff investigator's interview in a Georgia prison. The prisoner, a bank embezzler, made unsworn and untranscribed accusations against Lance. Otherwise, the two Senators reshaped newspaper stories (concentrating on Lance's questionable use of his bank's airplane) and informed the President that Lance's usefulness was no more.

Nor was the committee staff's report on Lance, given behind closed doors to the Governmental Affairs Committee, any more impressive. "It was pretty superficial stuff," one Democratic Senator told us. "It was the kind of stuff a good lawyer on cross-examination could make mincemeat of." Another Democratic committee member said the presentation "certainly contained no grounds for prosecution."

Several Senators accused the staff of "irresponsibility" for interviewing a convict — notoriously sources of self-serving misinformation — and permitting that information to leak into the press. Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia informed his fellow committee members that the convict's lawyer was outraged by the incident and wanted to rebut his former client's accusations (providing he could get bar association clearance).

The committee agreed only by an eyelash to give Lance himself a chance to testify. It voted by only 7 to 6 not to postpone Lance's Sept. 15 testimony for weeks while presenting evidence against him. Having shifted sides with a vengeance, Ribicoff sided with most committee Republicans to delay Lance's appearance.

If Ribicoff had won, days of testimony would have built pressure for Lance's resignation, probably forcing him to quit before testifying. Even so, nobody on the committee gives Lance any hope of survival with or without early testimony. What is critical here is atmosphere, not facts. "I'd hate to be tried in a court of law like this," one committee member told us.

Without Lance being found guilty of any punishable

Deleting The Chit-Chat

WASHINGTON — An efficiency expert by the name of Charles H. Ford has just delivered himself of a lecture that all of us experts in inefficiency should take to heart. He wants us to cut out the chit-chat.

The lecture appears in the current issue of Nation's Business. This is very stern stuff, for Mr. Ford is a no-nonsense fellow. His point is that "talk is not cheap." Idle conversation costs business a fortune. He has found that a typical executive spends 5½ hours a day in conversation, and to his horror, two hours every day are wasted in "conversational fat."

This is a terrible state of affairs. This conversational fat equals 13 wasted 40-hour weeks a year, or one week out of every four. If a company has 100 executives, Mr. Ford calculates, "conversational fat takes the equivalent of all the time of 25 of them." He will show us how to get the fat off.

Time is wasted, he says, in four ways. The first is "completely extraneous conversation." For example, the committee assemblies and somebody says, "Guess whom I met in Chicago last week?"

Non-essential background information is a second no-no. If this scenario, the company president asks his purchasing agent, "Is the Jones matter settled?" The agent responds by reviewing the whole of the Jones affair. This is fat, fat, fat! Says Mr. Ford: "Everything except yes or no is non-essential. If the president wanted or needed additional details, he would have asked for them."

A third time-waster is the tangential conversation. A production executive asks an operations executive, "Do we have room for this machine if we decide to buy it?" The answer can go from, "No, but we can make room," into a discussion of where room could be made, what it would

Video Cassette Price Is Firm

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't expect the prices of video cassette recorder-players, the electronic machines that can copy and replay TV programs at your convenience, to nosedive as sales pick up.

That might have been the case with color television, digital watches and handheld electronic calculators but, it is said, the experience isn't going to be repeated.

That's an opinion, and you might feel justified in challenging it. But the opinion belongs to RCA, and the electronics giant has analyzed its market so precisely it is convinced it knows what to expect.

"Our strategy was not to set a price that would return a normal profit in the introductory stage," said Jack Sauter, a marketing executive. "Our price is based on the assumption we have been in the market one year."

That is, he explains, the $1,000 tag affixed to RCA's video recorder-player, to go on sale Oct. 1, discounts much of the start-up costs and assumes that sales already have reached a substantial volume.

Moreover, he adds, the learning experience is different from that of color TV, watches and calculators. "You don't have the same technological learning curve," he said. "This is not really new. The science was developed 30 years ago and we have been making studio equipment for many years."

Still, if RCA's projections of a billion-dollar sales level within three years is correct, it would seem that those who wait might also save. Perhaps $500? "I don't see it," said Sauter emphatically.

What is certain is that here indeed is a brand-new business just off the pad, and that already the price is $300 less than that of the company that launched it, Sony. RCA dealers are told theirs is "the best profit picture of the year."

Just as certain is the source of supply. Although about 15 brand names soon will be available, every one of them is made in Japan. RCA's is produced for it by Matsushita.

Why Japan? "They have done the pioneering in the mechanical end," said Sauter, vice president-marketing of the consumer electronics division.

"It's nice to do the inventing yourself," he said. "But if you're too late it isn't very rewarding. We felt timing was important; now is the time to market it." RCA, he indicated, had the electronics know-how, but lagged mechanically.

But in the marketing end, he said, "nobody but us has the ability to make this a major system." He listed them: 15,000 to 18,000 dealers, 1,000 service centers, $2 million network advertising, a like amount in local newspaper ads.

"We're not working on the assumption the public is just waiting for this," he said. "We're going to sell this thing."

Each dealer will be supplied with a floor model that will demonstrate as the literature says, how every customer can have the option of being his own TV producer, director, writer, cameraman and star.

Is ego, then, that which will sell the product? To some extent, it seems. The RCA people already have discovered that interest in an accompanying camera, which permits you to star in

Care In Using Words

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — (One of the lessons of the Bert Lance affair could be summed up as, "Beware of rhetorical over-drafts.")

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, which is investigating the budget director's tangled financial deals, probably wishes he hadn't brushed aside the original allegations against Lance as a smear.

And as more and more details of Lance's dealings as a banker come to light, President Carter may wish he'd never turned to his budget director and said, "I'm proud of you, Bert."

So it was understandable that Senate Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., was trying to choose his words very carefully when reporters asked for his views about whether Lance should resign.

Baker said he wasn't calling for Lance's resignation because he felt the investigations should continue and the budget director "should have his day in court."

Was Baker saying Lance should be charged with a crime? "Did you mean day in court or day in Congress?" a reporter asked.

"Day in Congress, I meant day in Congress," Baker quickly replied.

"I see things in Washington haven't changed much since I left," commented a bemused onlooker, former President Gerald R. Ford.

It was a protocol officer's nightmare. The sort of event that gives security men ulcers. Nineteen heads of state invited to lunch at the Capitol.

When foreign dignitaries come to Washington, they customarily are invited to have lunch with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. But they usually arrive one at a time.

But representatives of 27 countries, including 19 heads of state, were in Washington for the signing of the Panama Canal treaty, and the committee invited them all.

So far as Rep. Marjorie S. Holt, R-Md., is concerned, the Strength For Today

GETTING WHAT WE MOST WANT

The devil's most effective weapon is fascination. What we do not have we not only want, but come to regard with such burning desire that the possession of all heaven and earth will not compensate us if we cannot have that one thing.

Yet often when we get what we so desperately want, it turns out to be a bitter disappointment, and we wonder how we could have been so foolish as to want it in the first place.

Lord Chesterfield, a leading bon vivant of his age, wrote in sad disillusionment, "I have enjoyed all the pleasures of the world and consequently know their futility. I do not regret their loss. Their real value is very, very low, but those who have not experienced them always overrate them. For myself I by no means desire to repeat the nauseous dose."

The only sure safeguard against the ravages of fascination and disillusionment is a firm hold on the things of life that really counts.

Plane Crash Victim A 'Spokesman' For U.S.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A freshman state senator injured in a Honolulu plane crash found himself a center of attention and a spokesman for the United States during a visit to the Philippines.

Sen. Roger Sharpe, D-Burke, was on his way to the World Law Conference in Manila last month when an engine on the DC10 taking off at Honolulu burst into flames and the takeoff was aborted with the craft barely airborne. The 300 passengers were told to evacuate immediately because the plane was going to explode.

Sharpe broke his leg when an emergency chute broke loose and he leaped from the plane anyway.

"I helped two women passengers get away from the plane. My knees hurt but I felt so fortunate to be alive after that fear of imminent death, that I didn't pay too much attention to it until after I went to bed. The pain woke me up in the middle of the night. My leg was swollen to twice its normal size," Sharpe said.

Two days later, wearing a cast and hobbling along with crutches, Sharpe arrived in Manila to discover his injury was big news there. "U.S. Senator Injured in Plane Crash," one headline said.

"Even after I had explained what my position was, they seemed to feel that as an elected official I would have some impact on the policy back home. And that beyond that, because I am so young I might have a promising political future and that someday I might be in a very influential position," he said.

"Many of the people who came to me — some of them in prominent positions — expressed fear at being discovered, a fear that any dissenter would disappear," Sharpe said.

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos has been criticized for his record on civil rights since his government declared martial law in 1972. The nation of 45 million reportedly has 20,000 prison inmates and 664 persons on death row, Sharpe said.

"When I spoke to audiences I did not attack the government but spoke on human rights in the world," he said.

"The Filipino government is very anxious that a new United States ambassador be appointed. I think that is one of the reasons they were anxious to talk to me," the freshman lawmaker said.

Listening to both sides proved nerve-racking, he said. "Once within days of being approached by a group of dissidents who painted a picture of political intolerance, I was invited to spend the night in the home of one of the cabinet members in the Marcos government."

"They gave me a red carpet treatment and provided me with a chauffeur-driven limousine. But the house was protected by armed guards and after the earlier conversations, I was scared to death."

biggest favor Congress could do for the American people is adjourn.

Mrs. Holt noted on the House floor that some of her colleagues were urging Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to keep Congress in session for the rest of the year.

"I believe this is a very poor idea," she said. "It is an unfortunate fact of our times that the taxpayers are safer when the Congress is not in session."

Several years ago, the Senate broke tradition and installed microphones in the chamber. Some senators still find the microphones offensive.

This dialogue took place last week between Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, a liberal Democrat from Ohio, and Sen. John Tower, a conservative Republican from Texas.

METZENBAUM: If the senator from Texas will excuse me, I am very much interested in what he is saying, but I cannot hear him. If it is possible, will he use the mike?

TOWER: I shall try raising my voice. I opposed putting these evil instruments in the Senate in the first place and I have no intention of using them.

METZENBAUM: Perhaps the senator can raise his voice then.

TOWER: I am flattered that the senator from Ohio is so interested in what I have to say.

crime, would the information about his banking practices have caused Senators to block his confirmation in January? Although Percy says it would, few others agree. "He's getting capital punishment for a lot of sloppy business decisions," one Democratic Senator said.

Lance's principal sin is described in nearly identical terms by a Senate defender as being a "man-on-the-go" and by a critic inside the administration as being a "go-go banker." In a dull summer, this was clear violation of post-Watergate morality as defined by candidate Jimmy Carter. The media campaign was certainly not opposed by a banking-business establishment, which not only tends to view Lance's corner-cutting as the way of the parvenu but also fears an anti-banker ruboff.

So much stress was put on improper use of Lance's bank-owned plane in the Ribicoff-Percy presentation to the President and in the staff presentation to the committee that Senators fear businessman who fly their company planes will steer clear of service in Washington. If so, the first criterion in finding a successor to Lance will be an absence of business experience. For Jimmy Carter — and the country — that means trouble.

Wallace Divorce Action Filed

By SCOTT SHEPARD
Associated Press Writer
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An "incompatibility of temperament" and "an irretrievable breakdown of the marriage" are Gov. George C. Wallace's stated grounds for divorce from his wife, Cornelia.

A divorce petition filed on the governor's behalf alleges that "there exists such a complete incompatibility of temperament" between the Wallaces that they "can no longer live together as man and wife."

And, said the petition, there "has been an irretrievable breakdown of the marriage and further attempts at reconciliation are impractical or futile and not in the best interests of the parties."

The petition, dated July 22 and filed Monday, was identical in wording to an unsigned document which was made available to the press last month.

The petition filed Monday bore Wallace's signature and that of his attorney, Maury Smith. Neither the governor nor Smith would comment on the proposed divorce.

Likewise, Mrs. Wallace and her attorneys did not offer any comment on the petition, which stated incorrectly that Mrs. Wallace was "presently residing" in the executive mansion with the governor.

She moved out of the mansion seven days ago, saying she could no longer endure her husband's "vulgarity, threats and abuse."

The attractive brunette would not confirm then whether she planned to seek a divorce; and Friday, after conferring with her attorneys, she insisted she had "no plans yet" for such action.

She said, however, she had instructed her attorneys to "do what is necessary to protect me."

Whether that meant the use of reportedly damaging tape recordings of her husband was not clear until Friday when one of her attorneys, George Dean of Destin, Fla., said the tapes "will probably never be made public," not even in any divorce proceedings.

The existence of the tapes was first disclosed last September, when Wallace acknowledged that a "bugging" device had been discovered on his bedroom telephone.

The tapes, reportedly of conversations the 58-year-old partially paralyzed governor had with other women, were believed destroyed following their discovery.

But Dean said Friday, "My client (Mrs. Wallace) tells me they (the tapes) exist." Wallace called the "bugging" incident a "domestic matter between me and my wife."

The governor's only comment when his 38-year-old wife left the executive mansion last week was: "It's a private matter and I trust that our friends can treat it as such."

The Wallaces were married Jan. 4, 1971, only a few days before he began his second term as governor. Both had been married before.

The governor's first wife, the late Gov. Lurleen Wallace, died of cancer in May, 1968, while serving as Alabama's only woman chief executive.

The second Mrs. Wallace, a niece of former Gov. James E. "Big Jim" Folsom, was divorced from her first husband.

Mrs. Wallace has two children from her first marriage; the governor has four children from his.

Norway's Vote Results Confound Polls, Public

By ERIK A. WOLD
Associated Press Writer
OSLO, Norway (AP) — Prime Minister Odvar Nordli said today he expected to remain in office following election gains by his socialists that confounded the opinion polls and the pundits.

Computer projections based on a near-complete count of the votes in the general election Sunday and Monday gave Nordli's Labor party 77 of the 155 seats in the Storting (parliament) and the allied Left Socialist party one. This constituted the majority of one with which the socialists have governed since 1973.

"At this moment I see no reason to proclaim a change of government," said the 49-year-old Nordli in a television appearance. "We have been used to ruling with a one-vote joint socialist majority, ... and we can do it again."

He indicated he was prepared to seek a vote of confidence when the new Storting meets Oct. 3.

Election analysts said uncounted absentee ballots could change the outcome of three races apparently won by Labor. But Lars Korvald of the Christian Democrats conceded: "There is every reason to believe there will be a Labor-Left Socialist majority."

Two out of three pre-election polls and many political observers had predicted a swing to the right in which the opposition coalition of the Conservative, Center and Christian Democratic parties would displace the socialists. Expectations of this were heightened by the defeat of Sweden's socialist government last October.

Instead the computer projections gave the opposition 75 seats, including 42 Conservatives, 21 Christian Democrats and 12 Centrists.

The centrist Liberal party retained its two seats but refused to guarantee them to the center-right coalition if the results changed in its favor.

The Labor party has controlled the government for 25 of the past 32 years.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Avoid 'Dumping' — Eat Less

Part of my stomach was removed because of an ulcer. I perspire and get palpitations after I eat. This was explained as a "dumping" condition. I don't understand it. — Mr. M.B., Mont.

Dear Mr. B.: When a large part of the stomach has been removed because of an ulcer or tumor, a sudden, large mass of food can be dumped directly into the upper intestinal tract.

This "dumping" syndrome brings with it nausea, weakness, a rapid heartbeat and profuse perspiration. The dumping disorder occurs less frequently now that more refined surgical techniques make it unnecessary to remove large parts of the stomach.

It is believed that some of the symptoms are produced by a sudden outpouring of insulin from the pancreas. This unpleasant feeling becomes less and less marked, especially when patients learn to eat smaller quantities of food at more regular intervals. Try taking a short period of rest after eating. It may help reduce the frequency and severity of the dumping complaint.

Some surgeons will provide special diets for such patients. A number of drugs, too, have been used to relieve these panic-producing sensations.

Can glycerine suppositories become harmful if used repeatedly for constipation? — Mr. H.G., Tenn.

Dear Mr. G.:

Of all the methods used to relieve constipation, the use of glycerine suppositories is probably the least irritating. It works by stimulating the lower bowel and rectal area.

It's really amazing how few people bother to learn why they have chronic constipation. For many who have become dependent on laxatives or suppositories it comes as a surprise that there are better ways of reducing constipation.

The first step is not to become obsessed with the need for the "daily bowel movement." Many people in perfectly good health have a bowel movement every two or three days.

It's surprising how often people can be weaned away from their drugs if they go on a well-regulated diet, with sufficient roughage and an increase in the amount of water intake. Many doctors believe that six to eight glasses of water a day is all that is needed to keep the bowels "regular."

Ban Eased On Gas Hookups

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state's five natural gas companies have permission to resume new gas hookups to residential customers, at least for a while.

New hookups have been banned since last winter. The temporary easing of the moratorium lasts until a permanent order is enacted.

Hearings on the matter resume Sept. 27. In the meantime, homes in areas already served by gas mains can tie into the lines. Mains cannot be extended into new areas.

INSANITY PLEA — Miami defense attorney Ellis Rubin will plead that his 15-year-old client Ronald Zamora (above) committed the June murder of 83-year-old Ellnor Haggart under the influence of "TV intoxication". (AP Laserphoto)

Defense: Insanity Due TV Addiction

By RICK SPRATLING
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — A defense attorney hopes to use a defense of "television intoxication" to prove that a 15-year-old boy charged with shooting an elderly woman to death was addicted to television crime shows.

Principals to the case say attorney Ellis Rubin could break new legal ground with such a defense in the Sept. 26 trial of Ronald Zamora.

"Without the influence of television ... there would not have been any crime," Rubin argued at a pretrial conference Monday.

He claims Zamora's constant exposure to TV crime shows such as "Kojak" and "Police Woman" and a television film depicting the Charles Manson mass murders was responsible for "diseasing his mind and impairing his behavioral controls."

Rubin has often taken cases that attract publicity. He helped Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt win parole, and he has filed his own suit claiming Miami's controversial homosexual rights law was unconstitutional.

Zamora and Darrell Agrella, 14, are accused of breaking into the Miami Beach home of Ellnor Haggart, 83, on June 4 and shooting her to death with Mrs. Haggart's own gun and stealing $415 and her car. They are to be tried separately as adults. Agrella's trial is set for Nov. 7.

Rubin disclosed in earlier court briefs that he would show Zamora "became intoxicated with the TV dramas and lived them as if they were his own life."

"When his parents would come home from work they would find him on the floor watching TV," Rubin said recently. "He would even skip school occasionally to go home and watch afternoon television shows."

"His mother would hear a noise in the middle of the night and find it was her son watching television."

Rubin said that the parents had disciplined the boy for watching so much television but that he had defied them. A week before the killing, they sent him to a psychologist, Rubin said.

The attorney quoted a psychiatric report he said was done for the prosecution that found Zamora consumed by television programs, "as though he were to a certain extent living some of those experiences in reality. At times he would almost feel he was the character who played the 'heavy' role," Rubin quoted the report as saying.

"Even when the woman had been struck, there was doubt it happened — it seemed as though Zamora could wake up and find it never happened," said Rubin.

Tom Headley, assistant state attorney, said the issue was not television but whether Zamora was sane and understood the difference between right and wrong. He said the psychiatric report showed Zamora did understand the difference.

Their Funerals 3 Years Late

By ROB WILSON
Associated Press Writer
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — For some of the 68 people whose remains are being buried, the funeral is three years late. Michigan State University, nonetheless, is providing burial in a small cemetery for those who donated their bodies to science.

The services Thursday will be interdenominational, as they have been for the past five years. About 100 relatives from 45 families are expected to attend, university officials say.

"We feel it's necessary," Dr. Milvet Strickler said of the service. "It's different to give your body to a school than it is to, say, contribute $100 to a particular program."

Strickler is director of anatomical resources at MSU and head of the anatomy department's "willed body" program.

Most of the 68 bodies have been contributed to the university in the last year, although "some have been around for two or three years," he said.

The bodies have been cremated at off-campus crematoriums and the remains have been placed in separate urns, he said. "The 'cremains' will be buried together."

The university pays for all funeral and burial costs. The ceremony usually costs the university about $400 for each person, Strickler said.

About 25 to 30 inquiries about the willed body program are handled each week, a university spokesman said. The questions involve financial considerations, funeral services and matters such as dignity and privacy, he said.

No money or services are given in exchange for the donations, except for the free burial.

"We do make every effort to follow through on a person's request that his or her body be used for science. We even maintain a seven-day-a-week, 24-hour-a-day phone service," Strickler said.

About 4,500 persons are listed in the department's files as donors willing to give their bodies to the school when they die.

Names of the deceased are not known by the medical school faculty or the students. Each body is identified only by a number and a hospital arm band which states the person's age and cause of death.

Petty Talks Candidacy

ASHEBORO, N. C. (AP) — Stock car racing driver Richard Petty says he is thinking about running for an elective post next year.

In a copyrighted story, Asheboro radio station WZOO said today the Level Cross racing star is thinking of becoming a candidate for the Randolph Board of County Commissioners, running on the Republican ticket.

Petty reportedly will seek one of three seats on the board that will be open for the 1978 elections. The station said the report came from county Republican sources and added that Petty is expected to announce his candidacy early next year.

Meanwhile, Petty reportedly plans to take part in several Republican functions, beginning with a rally of Young Republicans in Asheboro next week.

Petty was contacted about the report Monday but said only that he was thinking about running and that it's too early for him to say definitely one way or the other.

The former Winston Cup Grand National NASCAR champion says he is not planning to give up racing. He says anything else he does would be important, too, but that racing will be his primary concern.

Alan Pugh, county Republican chairman, said he is aware of Petty's interest in becoming a candidate, but knows of nothing official on his plans. Pugh said he'd be delighted if a person of Petty's stature and ability would consider holding office in county government.

Farmville Mart Prices Steady

FARMVILLE — Prices continue steady with the exception of quality leaf and color grades, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Top price of these grades rose to $1.55 a pound. More nondescript grades appeared on the floor than at any time this year. Leaf grades accounted for most of the volume.

Practically, no grades of primings were evident on yesterday's sales. Stabilization receipts accounted for 2.92 percent of gross sales.

The Farmville market yesterday sold 885,746 pounds for $1,160,987, for an average $131.07 per hundred pounds.

To date, the market has sold 14,637,684 pounds at $17,540,565 for a season average of $116.51.

Home Insulation Said Vital To Homeowners

By BILL RAWLINS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Unless your home is adequately insulated, skyrocketing fuel costs eventually could make it impossible for you to keep up your mortgage payments, the president of the U.S. League of Savings Associations says.

As a result, he told the Tennessee Savings and Loan League Monday, savings and loan officials may be forced to appraise homes, when they are sold or when new loans are made, on the basis of their energy-conserving features.

John A. Hardin, Rock Hill, S.C., the national league president, said his organization wants to work with homebuilders and real estate officials to make energy-saving a feature all new homes and as many older homes as possible.

Thirty percent of the energy consumed in the nation consumed in homes, Hardin said. He added that savings and loan associations, which arrange mortgages for 80 percent of the nation's homes, have a self-interest in residential energy consumption.

"Unless homes are built or remodeled to conserve energy," he said, "at the rate fuel costs have been increasing, if we write a mortgage for 30 years, there's no way the owner is going to be able to make his mortgage payments."

Hardin said he is speaking to education loan officers, appraisers and others among the two million savings and loan employees across the nation to the importance of insulation and other energy-conservation features in homes.

The League of Savings Associations already is on record against a proposal in President Carter's energy bill, which Hardin said would require minimum energy-conservation standards before a person could sell his home.

"I don't believe we've come to the point where we want to have a government stamp on your house before you can sell it and that's what this would do," said Hardin.

"Our position is that this can be done voluntarily. When a person comes in to either buy an old house or a new one, our loan officer can look at the amount of insulation this home has and advise the appraiser of this."

At the same time, he said, savings and loan associations can learn to advise their customers on how much insulation would be needed — and educate builders and real estate officials along the same lines.

Charge Murder Of An Adopted Son By Drugs

GAFFNEY, S.C. (AP) — A 32-year-old Gaffney woman has been charged with murdering her six-year-old adopted son by giving him an overdose of drugs.

Rita Campfield Hauser was arrested Monday after undergoing questioning at the State Law Enforcement Division headquarters in Columbia. She was taken to the State Hospital in Columbia today to begin undergoing a 15-day psychiatric examination.

SLED agents had been investigating the death of Keith Alan Hauser since two men found his body floating in the shallow backwaters of the Broad River near here Aug. 30.

Mrs. Hauser is charged with giving her son ten capsules of Triavil, a combination tranquilizer and depressant.

She called the Cherokee County sheriff's department Aug. 30 and reported her son had not returned from Corinth Elementary School on the school bus as planned. Mrs. Hauser said she had last seen Keith walking toward the school building after she had brought him to school that morning.

The body was found about 11 miles from the school, leading police to say it is unlikely the child could have wandered away and died accidentally.

Coroner Drayton Queen said the child's body was in "good condition," with some small scratches around the mouth and jaw, when it was taken from the river.

Queen said he will not rule on the cause of death until the SLED reports are returned and the matter "fully investigated."

Authorities said the family moved to Gaffney about two months ago from Lincolnton, N.C.

Girl Scouts To Hold Yard Sale

The Greenville Neighborhood Girl Scouts will hold a yard sale Saturday from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. at Wickes Lumber Company on Greenville Boulevard.

This effort is to raise money to build a picnic shelter at Camp Hardee on the Pamlico River for the benefit of all area Girl Scouts.

Items to be sold include Girl Scout equipment, craft items, baked goods, and many other things. A well-known local artist has donated one of her works to be sold during the sale.

Those interested in donating items for the sale may contact Ann Harper at 758-4981 or 752-8821 or Rachael Whichard at 758-4297.

Set Orientation Meet Sept. 19

The local unit of the National Secretaries Association will hold an orientation session at the Walter B. Jones Alcohol Rehabilitation Center Conference Room Monday, Sept. 19, from 7 to 8 p. m.

Any secretary interested in being a member of the group is invited. The programs and benefits of membership will be discussed, according to Margie Davis, membership chairman.

No Parking On W. Berkley Rd.

Chief Glenn Cannon today cautioned motorists about parking on West Berkley Road where there is no parking allowed at any time.

The chief said no parking is allowed on West Berkley Road from the 14th Street intersection to Rosewood Drive.

He said cars found parked on either side of the street in violation of the no parking regulation, would be towed away at the owner's expense.

Partial Workload For FBI Director-Nominee

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Today, only 18 days after undergoing abdominal surgery in Houston, FBI Director-designate Frank Johnson Jr. prepared to take on a partial workload at his Montgomery office.

But the 58-year-old federal judge acknowledged Monday that while he feels "just great," it probably will be a month before he is ready to get back to a regular work schedule.

By then, though, he hopes to be ready for Senate confirmation hearings. Congress adjourns in mid-October, but other committee hearings will be held after adjournment.

"It takes a while to get your strength back after one of these operations," Johnson told reporters on his arrival Monday at Montgomery Airport.

He was released earlier in the day from Houston's Methodist Hospital, where he underwent surgery Aug. 26 for removal of an aneurysm—a ballooning of the aorta—in his stomach.

The disorder was discovered during a routine physical examination conducted one day after Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell announced that Johnson was President Carter's choice to succeed retiring FBI Director Clarence Kelley.

The experience, Johnson said, has led him to "believe that a complete physical examination should be required for all persons appointed to major governmental positions."

Internationally known vascular surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey, who performed the surgery on Johnson, told a news conference in Houston on Monday that "the judge is in excellent condition."

DeBakey said there were no complications and that a recurrence of the aneurysm is remote. He said the Dacron graft used to repair the artery will last the rest of Johnson's life.

DeBakey acknowledged that about six weeks would be necessary for Johnson to regain his strength, but added there is "no reason he won't be restored to perfect health."

DeBakey said he informed Carter the FBI director-designate is in good health.

Johnson and his wife, Ruth, were met at Montgomery Airport by the judge's brother, Jimmy, who drove the Johnsons to their Montgomery home.

Before leaving the airport, Johnson spoke briefly with reporters, telling them he did not know when his confirmations would be held. He also said he had not talked directly with Carter since entering the hospital.

Wood Chips To Heat A School

GRAND MARAIS, Minn. (AP) — They're bringing the old pot-bellied wood stove back to the schoolhouse here, but it's going to be considerably more expensive.

A proposed wood heating system for the community's 750-student school will cost $288,000. It will burn wood chips instead of fuel oil, saving the district about $16,000 yearly in fuel bills, said Supt. Vern Lueth.

Grand Marais is about 100 miles north of Duluth in Minnesota's timber country. The community lacks rail service, so all fuel oil must be brought in by truck.

The two connected buildings in the school complex have used an average of 65,000 gallons of fuel oil per year, at a cost of $26,000 annually for the past three years, Lueth said. He said the school board had been worried about rising fuel costs, plus hikes in the cost of bringing fuel up into the North Woods.

"We saw the solution in the tremendous resource we have around here," Lueth said. "Just from trees that have fallen, we could get enough wood."

The new heating system, to be installed for use by the first of next year, will burn about 1,000 tons of wood chips per year at a cost of about $10,000. Two lumber firms near Grand Marais already produce the chips needed for the heating system.

The new wood-fired furnace requires a separate building and a 30-foot silo to store the wood. The chips will be fed by conveyor into the plant and shot into the furnace firebox by a blower. The furnace will run a conventional hot-water heating system.

"Nothing at all you can burn is cleaner than wood," Lueth said. "I foresee no problems with pollution control agencies."

School officials estimate the new heating system will pay for itself in 18 years. And they're fairly certain that oil prices will shoot up much faster than the cost of wood during the same period.

WOMAN TORTURED IN SMALL CAR

Keeping up with fast moving traffic is sheer torture for her in a small car. Yes, compact and minis can suffer extra engine strain to accelerate speed. This can cause excessive engine heat, wear and noise. That's why small cars should have extra protection. Now they can get it thanks to WYNN'S OIL TREATMENT FOR SMALL CARS. It's formulated to help maintain performance, compression and viscosity at high temperatures while it fights power-stealing contaminants. Ayden's Municipal Elections Scheduled Nov. 8

By Debbie Jackson
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — The Pitt County Board of Elections will conduct the Ayden municipal elections on Nov. 8, according to a report delivered to the Ayden Town Board last night.

Steve Nobles, chairman of the Ayden Board of Elections, said that this will prevent Ayden citizens from having to go through two lines on election day, one for the municipal election and one for the state election.

Nobles added that local residents would be utilized in the election process.

In other business, the Board approved two reappointments to the Library Board of Trustees. Mrs. Leolia Dixon and Mrs. Carolyn Rouse will each serve another three-year term.

A resolution was adopted in compliance with a statewide management program on solid waste. Region Q, which includes five counties, was designated as Solid Waste Management Region. The program must be approved on a state wide level by April 21, 1978.

No guidelines are known yet, except for the general purpose of the program.

It was also noted that Ayden residents will be partially reimbursed for the suspension of the deferred fuel charge by VEPCO. Town officials said that dispositions will be ready by the later part of October.

The Board also approved an amendment to the Fiscal Year 1977-78 Budget. An ordinance on refund authorizes paying them in check form, in spite of the fact that it would cost more than using credit on residents, utility bills. Ayden officials said that residents had requested such action.

Another amendment to the budget approved was a well site purchase from Revenue Sharing. The town presently has two wells, but authorities feel one is needed in an area where industrial growth is most likely to occur.

In other action, a resolution was approved endorsing a Clean Water Bond Vote on Nov. 8, 1977. The statewide program would provide $230 million to assist local governments on water supply systems, with $110 going to water and $112 to sewer. No local taxes would be required.

A discussion of a new Customer Deposit Policy was delayed until the October meeting.

Also, a request was heard to rezone the area between East Second Street and East Third Street from the existing City Limit to a point 155 feet behind James Bowen's Store. A public hearing was set for the October 10 meeting to discuss rezoning

The B-2 Highway Commercial area to R-8 Residential.

The Board also approved a report on taxes, including releases, additions, and the 1977 Levy. Approximately $900 were released and $1,720 added.

An ordinance was also approved to supply stop signs in several areas of the city where they are needed, according to the Chief of Police.

Aflatoxin Risk To Humans Said Small

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Agriculture Extension agent Ed Yancey has emphasized that humans need not be overly concerned about possible illness resulting from aflatoxin.

"Based on the information we've been able to get at this time," Yancey commented, "we don't know of any residue growth in problems in livestock or wild game from aflatoxin that would be harmful to humans."

Yancy noted that because of recent widespread attention given to the subject of aflatoxin, it is understandable that people would have valid concerns about the consumption of wild game or domesticated livestock fed on corn.

"Some people in research on aflatoxin have noted their feeling is that if a toxin level was high enough could cause sickness or death to the animal before it would get to the point of coming through in the animal's tissue."

Yancey observed that "aflatoxin is indeed a very toxic substance and humans would probably get sick from ingesting it."

However, the possibility of a human eating tissue infected with aflatoxin are practically non-existent.

And on the crucial matter of direct consumption of grains by humans, Yancey said "there's strict safeguards so far as human food directly derived from grains are concerned."

"This is basically because no detectable level of aflatoxin is permitted in any grain used as human foods, things like corn flakes, grits, corn meal."

TV In Court Is Tried, Approved

By MARK O'BRIEN
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — The debut of television and broadcast coverage of the Georgia Supreme Court resulted in a split verdict, with justices applauding the decision and lawyers questioning the danger of attorneys turned performers.

"It went as smooth as silk," Chief Justice H. E. Nichols said Monday after Georgia's highest court opened its doors to television crews and newspaper photographers. "Technically speaking, everything went very well, and judging from the number of calls I've been getting, the public really liked it."

"There were four (television) cameras in the alcove, and all sorts of still photographers, but there wasn't any bulb-flashing or anything of that sort."

Presiding Justice Hiram K. Undercofer concurred, saying, "I was delighted to see the court operated so well."

But lawyers who made their first televised appearances expressed reservations about the added coverage, which Nichols said was meant to give the public "better understanding of the judicial process."

"My main concern about televising this is that the public is used to Perry Mason," said attorney Robert Glustrom, who argued an appeal for a man convicted of a double murder.

He said he was afraid that television viewers would judge a case "on how good a performer the lawyer is."

Another attorney, John Strother, said, "It will be up to the lawyers to remember that our primary obligation is to the litigants and to the law."

But Nichols, who wore a television-blue shirt under his black judicial robes, said the judge should be able to control abuse.

"I guess there's a little ham in all of us," he said. "But as for those so-called theatrics-prone lawyers, I've got a switch up there so I can shut them off."

Rules regarding coverage were drafted by a group of lawyers and media representatives. Written permission from attorneys on both sides is required before a case can be broadcast.

Nichols said the Supreme Court's experience with expanded coverage probably will decide whether it approves requests by courts in Columbus and Albany which want to broadcast their proceedings.

permitted on the tolerance rates in the regulations," Yancey emphasized.

"One thing that is significant and that I feel people should remember," Yancey added, "is that aflatoxin is not a new substance, not one caused by pesticides or any other modern crop cultivation factor."

"It is a toxin with which man has co-existed for no one knows how long. Certain molds, certain weather conditions cause the mold to appear in corn, peanuts, other grains, even pecans."

Because of these factors, Yancey concluded, along with what really amounts to a zero tolerance in levels permitted for infected grain fed to animals, "humans have little to worry about in possible dangers of becoming sick from the toxin."

"Levels established, based on research for various livestock according to weight, assures that permitted tolerances are far below the level that could create problems."

Leaf Quality Up On Mart

An improvement in the quality of offerings on the Greenville Tobacco Market was reflected in Monday's overall average, it was reported by J. N. Bryan, Tobacco Board of Trade sales supervisor.

Bryan said that the market averaged $136.87 per hundred pounds yesterday as 722,006 pounds sold for $988,245.

The percentage of leaf grades continued to increase, he noted, while lugs and non descript offerings showed a decline in volume.

Stabilization receipts accounted for only .92 per cent of total sales, it was reported.

Top practical price paid Monday was $1.47 per pound with the buying companies paying from $1.50 to $1.55 per pound for top quality leaf.

For the season, the local market has sold 24,147,993 pounds for $27,937,309, an average of $115.69 per hundred pounds.

BB&T's figures may be even more important to you than EPA's.

The Environmental Protection Agency's mileage figures tell you how economical a new car should be to drive.

But Branch Banking and Trust Company's Simple Interest Loan figures tell you how economical a new car should be to buy.

Because there are many ways a BB&T Simple Interest Loan can save you money every time you make a payment.

We make loans for all kinds of automobiles and recreational vehicles. (Home improvements, too.)

You can apply for your loan in minutes at any BB&T office. Or do it by phone.

Then we'll put ourselves into high gear to get your loan approved. So it'll be done quickly. We'll even call you with your approval if you'd like.

If our Simple Interest financing is not available at your dealer, come to BB&T.

And make your new car more economical than you'd figured.

Swain Aims To Collect

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — While they didn't say it in so many words, the message to Swain County from Gov. Jim Hunt's emissaries was clear: Uncle Sam has been acting like a deadbeat, and it's time to collect the bad debt.

Swain County made a deal with the federal government in 1943. In exchange for 44,000 acres of Swain County land for the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, the county was to get a 38-mile road.

The road has never been built. State Transportation Secretary Thomas W. Bradshaw and Natural Resources Secretary Howard Lee met with county officials Monday to offer state help.

Lee and Bradshaw said Hunt had ordered that the state help secure some sort of compensation for the lost land, possibly starting with office space for the county in a new federal building in Bryson City.

Lee also said the state will try to arrange an appointment with U.S. Interior Secretary Cecil B. Andrus to discuss a cash settlement, once the state and county have agreed on a figure.

Lee had a number of other proposals, including an attempt to persuade Andrus to build a visitor center in Swain County and renewed efforts to secure an extension of the Blue Ridge Parkway into the county.

The National Park Service has already rejected that proposal once.

But Lee warned that since the county lost a huge portion of its taxable property when the federal government took the park land, a strong community development effort needs to be made.

He also proposed that public hearings be called to find out how citizens feel the federal government should be asked to compensate for the land.

Two 'Heaviest Smokers' Quit

NEW YORK (AP) — After puffing the equivalent of eight cartons of cigarettes a day for years, the nation's two heaviest smokers have finally kicked the habit.

They had been blowing perfect smoke rings of steam continuously every 20 seconds, one high over Times Square and the other at State and Randolph Streets in Chicago's Loop.

But now all that remains in Times Square is a blank billboard with a hole in it. And in the Windy City the lips of the smoker have been forever sealed with a yard-square sheet of metal.

The Reynolds Tobacco Co. said Monday the signs not only had become too costly to operate, but also "our advertising thrust is taking a new direction."

Bella Is Offered A Movie Role

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Rep. Bella Abzug, one of five losers in the city's Democratic mayoral primary, can have a new career in the movies — if she wants it.

After Mrs. Abzug conceded defeat early Friday morning, Otto Preminger told her she could have a role in a new movie he is making. Everyone thought the eccentric producer was kidding.

Preminger insisted Monday that he was so serious that he plans to write in a part for Mrs. Abzug in "The Homeland," to be filmed in Israel.

WIN A NEW TRIAL

Sen. White Appointed

Sen. Vernon White of Winterville has been appointed to the Advocacy Council for Mentally Ill and Developmentally Disabled by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green.

The purpose of the council is to provide for and supervise a statewide program of protection and advocacy for the mentally ill and developmentally disabled.

In announcing the appointment, Green praised Sen. White, a farmer and educator, as a valuable addition to the council.

White will serve until June 30, 1980.

In naming White and Sen. Ralph Scott of Haw River to the council, Green said the council shall pursue legal, administrative and other appropriate remedies to insure the protection of the rights of the mentally and developmentally disabled.

Attorney Cherry Stokes Joins Law Firm Here

Attorney Cherry Stokes, formerly in private practice in offices on East Third Street, has joined the law firm of Williamson, Shoffner, Herrin and Stokes, with offices at 210 South Washington St.

An Ayden native, Stokes attended East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina law school at Chapel Hill.

Following his graduation from UNC in 1972, Stokes was associated with the Williamson firm here for six months before joining the District Attorney's staff where he served as an assistant prosecutor for two years before returning to the private practice of law.

Humphrey On Chemotherapy

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey has begun chemical treatments for an inoperable pelvic cancer tumor that was discovered during surgery a month ago.

Humphrey has been resting at his lakeside home in Waverly, west of Minneapolis, since he was discharged from University of Minnesota Hospitals Sept. 2.

At that time, his surgeon, Dr. John S. Najarian, said it would be "another week or two" before Humphrey could return to Washington and the U.S. Senate.

But Fred Gates, an aide in Humphrey's Minneapolis office, said Monday that the senator had decided to stay longer in order to begin chemotherapy treatments at University Hospitals.

Will Examine Effect Of PBB Farm Life

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Babies born to mothers who lived on PBB-quarantined farms will be examined for birth defects this week at a state-sponsored clinic in Muskegon.

Pediatricians, neurologists and psychologists from Michigan's three medical schools will test the children Thursday and Friday in an effort to determine if PBB — polybrominated biphenyl — causes birth defects.

The doctors will be testing children born on farms that were quarantined between Sept. 1, 1973 and Dec. 31, 1975 because of contamination by the fire retardant chemical. The two-day clinics will be held at the Muskegon County Health Department and at Muskegon General Hospital.

Also examined will be a "control" group of children born to Michigan mothers who had no detectable PBB in their breast milk and children who recently moved to Michigan.

"Complete psychological and neurological examinations will be conducted," said Dr. William Weil of the College of Human Medicine at Michigan State University, who heads the research team.

"Doctors will look for symptoms in the neuromuscular, nutritional, growth and infectious disease areas as well."

PBB was mixed accidentally with livestock feed in 1973. Since that time, people who ate food contaminated with the chemical have been found to have varying levels of PBB in their blood and tissues.

$10,000 Car Is Kept In House

FOUNTAIN CITY, Wis. (AP) — Lots of people have cars valued at $10,000, but most don't keep them in their houses.

Elmer Duellman is an exception.

His prize is a shiny-as-new 1929 touring car — a Model A Ford Phaeton.

"I bought it and my wife said, 'Boy, that's nice enough to put in the house,' and that's what we did," said Duellman, 37, who has assembled a collection of antique cars and who operates his own auto salvage yard.

A movable wall section allows the auto to be driven in and out of the family room.

Red Sox, Yanks Opening Crucial Series, Orioles Eagerly Watch

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox open a crucial three-game series tonight. And while they try to knock each other off they should also be warned not to forget about the Baltimore Orioles.

Earl Weaver's crew has nowhere near the hitting firepower of the Yankees and Red Sox, but the veteran Oriole skipper has blended good pitching and defense with a scrappy offense to come up with a winner.

The Orioles got a good performance from three-time Cy Young Award winner Jim Palmer Monday night and two RBI singles from part-time catcher Dave Skaggs for a 6-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

That left the Orioles just 2½ games behind the leading Yankees in the American League East and one game behind the Red Sox.

In other AL games, Cleveland bombed Detroit 8-1, Texas nipped California 3-2 and the Chicago White Sox whipped the Minnesota Twins 7-3. Oakland and runaway West leader Kansas City scheduled a double-header tonight when Monday night's game was postponed because of rain after one scoreless inning.

Ironically, the Orioles have stayed close all year although it's been an off season for Palmer — at least for him. He's 16-11.

Palmer had pitched a shutout in his previous outing, and he threw eight scoreless innings Monday night before asking to be taken out because his arm stiffened.

The Blue Jays got all three of their runs in the ninth off relievers Dennis and Tippy Martinez on Steve Staggs' two-run triple and a fielder's choice.

Indians 8, Tigers 1

Paul Dade drove in three runs and Wayne Garland pitched a six-hitter to end a personal five-game losing string and Cleveland's six-game losing streak. It was the first win for Garland, 11-18, since Aug. 14, sending Detroit to its sixth straight loss.

Rangers 3, Angels 2

Dock Ellis and reliever Len Barker combined on an eight-hitter as Texas outlasted California and spoiled Nolan Ryan's bid for his 20th victory. Barker relieved Ellis in the ninth inning and allowed a two-run single by Dave Chalk. But he held on to pick up his first major league save.

White Sox 7, Minnesota 3
Bob Coluccio and Oscar Gamble both delivered two-run singles in a five-run sixth inning to carry Chicago over Minnesota.

Jorge Orta had two RBI singles for the White Sox, who before the game announced that Manager Bob Lemon and his entire coaching staff had been rehired for the 1978 season. Reliever Dave Hamilton, 44, picked up the victory with 3 2/3 innings of shutout pitching.

The White Sox are eight games behind Kansas City in the West.

Key Pass Play Made It Easy For Maryland

By BILL WELCH
Associated Press Writer

With a precision pass to wingback Chuck White, Maryland's reserve quarterback Larry Dick can make winning the close ones look easy.

"All I had to do was catch it and walk in," White says of the 25-yard touchdown pass in the second half Saturday against Clemson. "Larry read their defensive coverage perfectly. They gave us one on one coverage and I knew I could beat him."

White snagged the ball at the Clemson 5-yard line and ran in untouched for the score. The play, which brought the trailing Terrapins to a 14-14 tie before another Dick touchdown bomb settled the game 21-14, is the AP Atlantic Coast Conference Play of the Week.

"Any time you get a big play like that, it really helps you," Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne said. "It gives you that lift, just like Clemson's interception (by Rex Varn, for a 93-yard touchdown), did for them."

"They did pretty much what we expected," said Dick, the Terps' reserve signal caller who took over in the third quarter when all-ACC quarterback Mark Manges departed with an aching foot.

"Vince Kinney had caught quite a few passes and we anticipated double coverage," he said. "The safety favored the quick side, giving one-on-one coverage with Chuck on the post pattern. I was sure he would beat him one on one."

After reviewing the pass on film Monday, Claiborne pronounced the execution excellent and credited White and Dick for reading a missed Clemson defensive assignment.

"It was one of our basic plays," Claiborne said. "Really, I think they (Clemson) made a mistake in their coverage."

"Our formation was to our right. Vince went to the flats and Chuck White went to the right and did a post pattern," he said. "I don't know who made the mistake, but somebody for Clemson should have gone deep but he hung on the outside instead. Chuck just beat the cornerback. He was wide open."

The defenders were Roy Eppes and Bubba Rollins. "We played it pretty good," Clemson Coach Charlie Pell observed later. "We just got there too late."

The play is one of Maryland's regular pass patterns, but Claiborne said he thought of the long, slanted post after reviewing last year's game with the Tigers.

"If he (the safety) hung back, we were going to do a post, and if he came across, we were going to go deep," Claiborne said. "This was in our game plan. I'm just glad we did it."

The formation was set up when defensive back Lloyd Burris blocked a Clemson field goal attempt and Claiborne credited the combination with turning the game around. "That was the first time we had field position in the second half," he said.

Belhaven Tops Roanoke, 20-12

BELHAVEN — Belhaven returned two of Roanoke's six lost fumbles for touchdowns, giving the Bulldogs the winning margin in their 20-12 victory over the Redskins last night in a game postponed from Friday due to rain.

Roanoke scored first in the contest when Tony Whitfield broke loose for a 55-yard scoring scamper. The PAT run failed, giving the Redskins a 6-0 lead.

In the second period, Belhaven's Gregory Stanley gobbled up a Redskins fumble at the Belhaven 20 and returned it 80 yards for a touchdown. Tony Ebron ran in the conversion and put the Bulldogs in the lead.

Belhaven added to its lead in the third period as Craig Ward scored on an 11-yard run to make it 14-6. A few minutes later, Earl McCuller picked up another Redskin fumble, returning it 50 yards for a score.

Charles Hines scored on a 63-yard run for Roanoke to make the final score 20-12.

Belhaven raised its season record to 2-1, while the loss was the third in three tries for Roanoke. The Redskins host Williamston Friday night and Belhaven will host Jamesville.

AHOSKIE — Rose High School's cross-country team captured its opening meet of the season, downing Ahoskie yesterday, 26-33. Low score wins in cross-country.

Ahoskie took the first two places, but Rose came back to take six of the next eight places to squeeze out the victory.

Rogers finished first for Ahoskie, completing the course in 16:41, while Wallace Johnson was second in 17:47.

Rose's Til Jolly finished third in 18:21, followed by Cliff Whichard in 18:26 and Bill DeVanzo in 18:46, all for the Rampants.

Teddy Gartman of Rose was sixth in 18:47, followed by Ahoskie's Doug Cabe in seventh at 18:49. Rose sent Mike Norfleet over the line in 18:56, and Steve Blackwell in 18:57, while Ahoskie's Tony Rawls was tenth in 18:58.

Other Rose finishers were: Blair Smith, 11th in 19:01; Mark Barber, 12th in 19:30; Sterling Ashby, 14th in 19:48; Ed Yancey, 15th in 19:59; Alan Parks, 16th in 20:06; Dan Mayo, 17th in 20:40; and Latham Mills, 18th in 20:59.

Rose travels to South Lenoir on Thursday.

Tarboro Tops Colts

LITTLEFIELD — Tarboro High School's junior varsity came back in the second half to gain a 20-12 win over the Ayden-Grifton Charger Colts last night.

Ayden-Grifton spotted Tarboro an 8-0 lead in the first period as the Baby Vikings scored on an eight-yard run.

Then, the Colts came back with two second period scores to take a 12-8 halftime edge. Dalton Ellis scored both A-G touchdowns, on runs of four and eight yards.

Tarboro came back in the third period, however, scoring on a two-yard run, and then capped that with a 63-yard interception return in the final period.

The loss left A-G with an 0-1 record. They travel to Washington on Thursday for the next game.

America's Cup Duel Beginning

By JOHN SHURR

Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Armed with the confidence that comes with success, crews of the 12-meter yachts Courageous and Australia put everything on the line today in the first duel for the America's Cup.

Going into the final best-of-seven series, skipper Noel Robins of Australia had built a 13-1 record over two months of sailing against challengers from France and Sweden.

Atlanta Braves' owner Ted Turner, skipper of Courageous, had a rougher trip in his bid to become the defender, but amassed a 24-8 over-all mark in three months of racing against Enterprise and Independence.

"I've raced a lot against Alan Bond's boats and I think we'll have some very interesting racing," Turner said Monday. "But whatever the outcome, I hope the races will provide for even better goodwill between the United States and Australia."

Before making that observation, however, Turner offered a line similar to those that have made him the best known and sometimes least loved skipper of the eight 12-meter yachts in Newport this summer.

"Well, since the first liar never has a chance, I'll let Mr. Bond go first," said Turner at a pre-race briefing.

"I think it's very even as far as crews, styles and equipment," said Bond, a real estate developer and moneyman behind Australia. "One of us might have a faster hull, but of course, we don't know which yet."

However, Gary Jobson, Turner's tactician and two-time sailing All-American, was more confident. "I hope for four straight," Jobson said. "We're going to work as hard as we can."

"We're going to cover when ahead and attack when behind

Houston Quarterback Rallies Team To 17-13 Win Over UCLA

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston quarterback Danny Davis, whose Midas touch propelled the Cougars into national prominence a year ago, spent the first half of Monday night's nationally televised game against UCLA looking for his magic.

Davis found the groove just as the 11th ranked Bruins lost theirs in the second half, and the swashbuckling junior quarterback whipped Houston to a pair of touchdown drives to nip the Bruins 17-13.

By game's end, Davis had gone from goat to hero and upstaged Rick Bashore, UCLA's sophomore quarterback, who had engineered the Bruins to a 13-3 halftime lead.

Kenny Hatfield booted a 34-yard field goal for Houston's first half scoring. Davis climaxed a 93-yard drive in the third quarter with a one-yard plunge and Dyrall Thomas scored the winning TD with a nine-yard run with 11:03 left in the game.

Bashore and the Bruins unraveled in the second half when they drove to Houston's seven-, six- and nine-yard lines but came away empty each time. After hitting nine of 11 passes in the first half, Bashore missed his first six attempts of the second half.

Despite his decisive turnaround performance, Davis said he was disappointed.

"I haven't matured the way I thought I would," said Davis, who completed 11 of 18 passes for 147 yards and rushed for 68 yards on 18 carries. "The team played well, but I didn't play the way I should have."

Bashore, who learned only a few hours before kickoff that he would start ahead of junior Steve Bukich, looked more like the veteran in the first half. After directing the Bruins to field goals of 36 and 31 yards by Frank Corral, he flipped a 20-yard touchdown shot to flanker Homer Butler with 15 seconds to go in the half.

The Bruins, coming off a 9-2-1 season, took a 13-3 lead and plenty of confidence into the dressing room at halftime. But it was Davis and the big-play Cougars who put it together in the second half.

"A lot of people will say we were lucky," Davis said. "We have to improve our defense. The pressure was on our defense but it showed a lot of pride. The entire team showed pride."

Contest Winners

Mike Campbell captured the first of the weekly Daily Reflector football contests this week.

Campbell, of 101 Stratford, correctly picked the winner in 28 of the 32 games listed in the contest last week.

He won, however, on the basis of his point guess, with an estimate of 83. The actual total was 76 scored in Ohio's 49-27 win over Marshall.

Second place went to J. Mike Board of 200 John Ave., who also had 28 correct picks. He was further off in his point guess with 53.

The second of the ten weekly contests appears on the following pages.

Worse Yet, 'Soap' May Even Prove A Bore

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES AP—
Tonight's the night, gang. ABC finally is airing the new adult comedy that may rot your mind, topple the Republic, and the world or even bore you. I have reference to "Soap."

ABC, more jittery tonight than the floor of a Manhattan discotheque, starts "Soap" by warning that certain of its "dialogue and situations may not be suitable for all members of the family."

This may be because Susan Harris' tags of two suburban tribes, the Sates and the Campbells, seeks laughs and ratings from such numbers as homosexuality, impotence, infidelity, promiscuity and the Mafia.

Advertisers definitely are worried about public reaction to this sex-crazed, $160,000-a-copy caper. ABC says tonight's opener isn't fully sponsored, but won't say who dropped out or why.

But it arrives amid much controversy — and, fear by church groups that if not stopped in its laugh tracks, "Soap" will pave the way for more sex-oriented shows in prime time, when millions of kids may still be watching instead of doing their homework or playing poker.

"Soap" starts at 9:30 p.m. in the East and West, an hour earlier elsewhere. ABC is letting Midwest stations, if they so choose, air it later tonight, after "Family" instead of before.

Some religious organizations are urging member churches to see the show, then express their views to the ABC stations carrying it in their cities.

This may prove hard in 14 cities — most in the South or Southwest — where ABC, with 195 outlets, says its affiliates either won't air "Soap" at all or won't show the opening chapters.

It said only one defector,

WJZ, Baltimore, is in a top 50 market. It mixed the first two shows and reserves judgment on the rest.

Interestingly, those two shows had scenes that ABC, worried about affiliate worries, ordered reshot. WJZ still said no dice.

The only detectable change in tonight's effort is a closing bedroom scene. In it is a young tennis bum who is having separate affairs with middle-aged Mrs. Jessica Tate and her promiscuous daughter, Corrine. Neither woman knows what the other is doing.

In the original, Jessica is in bed with the bum, then gets dressed, then is whisked out one door as her daughter arrives at another.

The daughter saucily smiles, tells the bum: "Hi, get your clothes off." He looks exhausted. Fade-out.

Tonight, Jessica is fully dressed, not in bed at all, though she still is whisked out one door as Corrine knocks on the other portal. Corrine now greets the bum with a simple, "Hi." They kiss. Fade-out.

The rest remains, from Jessica's unfaithful hubby to her sister's homosexual son, whose sibling still insists: "My brother is not a fruit. He's a practical joker with a wonderful sense of humor."

I don't know how many will find a wonderful sense of humor in "Soap." But all the advance fuss about the show probably will draw a huge opening-night audience tuning in just out of curiosity.

Fair Trial Seen By Magistrate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A U.S. magistrate says the Wilmington 10 got a fair trial in 1972, and a federal judge should reject their plea for a new trial.

In a memorandum filed Monday, U.S. Magistrate Logan D. Howell told U.S. District Judge Franklin T. Dupree that no constitutional rights appeared to have been violated in the trial.

The Wilmington 10, nine black men and a white woman, were charged in connection with a firebombing during racial violence in Wilmington in 1971. They were convicted in 1972 and imprisoned last year after exhausting their appeals.

The woman, convicted of a lesser offense, has since been paroled. The remaining nine attempted earlier this year to get a new trial after a key state witness said he lied on the stand.

But a state Superior Court judge concluded there were no grounds for the request.

James Ferguson, attorney for the group, filed a request for a new trial with the federal court last year. He said Monday he would ask Judge Dupree for a chance to be heard before the magistrate's recommendation was accepted.

Magistrate Howell said he had examined the trial record and found no reason to agree with defense contentions that:

—Defense attorneys could not effectively cross-examine state witness Allen Hall because they had been denied a copy of a typewritten statement from Hall on which prosecutor James T. Stroud had written some notes.

—Defense attorneys could not effectively cross-examine 14 witnesses called by the state with little or no warning.

—The 10 could not get a fair trial because their attorneys were not allowed to ask prospective jurors about their racial attitudes.

Howell did not reject another defense contention that state witnesses might have been induced to perjure themselves but said that matter could still be decided in the state courts.

Find Death Due Strangulation

YANCEYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An 86-year-old retired schoolteacher raped and murdered Sunday apparently died of strangulation, an autopsy has revealed.

Mrs. Lula Stephens Thompson was found dead at her Caswell County home. John R. Reynolds, 24, of Reidsville, was arrested and held without bond on charges of breaking and entering, murder and rape.

two diamonds and, declarer was sure, the ace of clubs.

So declarer exited with the king of clubs and sat back to wait for West's diamond return. Imagine her surprise when East won with the ace of clubs and claimed the last two tricks with high spades for a two-trick set.

Our eagle-eyed readers will have, of course, noted that, if East wins the queen of clubs with the ace, declarer can make her contract. After running all the trumps and cashing the ace of spades and king of clubs, West can be thrown in with the jack of clubs and forced to lead away from the king of diamonds.

The world of expert bridge is relatively small, and when a defender pulls off a brilliant play against you, it is usually someone you know. But how do you feel when a complete stranger produces a startling coup? And what if that stranger reminds you of your grandmother? Is she a ringer, or did she just make a mistake that turned into a brilliancy? That's what happened to Sue Emery, Editor of the ACBL Bulletin, on this hand.

After East's third-in-hand weak two-bid in spades, Sue felt she was too strong for a mere overcall, so she started off with a double and then showed her suit, North made an aggressive raise to game.

Declarer won the opening spade lead and led a club to the queen. East played low without a hint of any problem. On the club return, East followed with the eight. Not unnaturally, declarer placed West with the ace of clubs, so she finessed the ten. West won the jack and, to prevent declarer from ruffing a club in dummy, shifted to ace and another trump.

There was only one way to avoid losing a second club trick, in addition to a diamond—an endplay. Declarer overtook the queen of trumps and ran all her trumps, then cashed her remaining high spade. She was down to three cards, ace and one diamond and the king of clubs, and West was down to

Checking On Tax Statements

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Financial disclosure statements of state officials, filed with the state Ethics Board, are being copied by Internal Revenue Service agents for comparison with the officials' tax statements.

Ethics Board chairman J. Dickson Phillips said he questioned the wisdom of the IRS action, but the statements are public records and there is no way to stop the agents.

An IRS spokesman said the activity was "nothing unusual."

Family Develops Different Life Style

By ELAINE APOSTOLA
CASTLE HILL, Maine (UPI) — Horace Allison has appeared on "To Tell the Truth" and the "Today Show," and for a while his name appeared in the Guinness Book of World Records.

The reason: Horns.

Allison handcrafts them from the cone-shaped bald cypress trees of east Texas. He calls the horns — one of which is 26 feet long — "the trees that sing."

But that's only one aspect of the unusual life which Allison and his wife, Dana, have developed for themselves on 305 acres in northern Maine.

Home for them and their five children, ages 6 to 14, is two geodesic domes linked together by a highway. They raise asses, which Dana features in her paintings, and grow most of their own food.

Allison, 41, is a pediatrician who gave up his practice for health reasons. He calls himself the best juggler in Castle Hill, a community of about 500 in Aroostook County, but as his 11-year-old daughter, Piper, told him, "You're the only one."

"We've based our life on the back to earth movement," Mrs. Allison said. "We have more control over our own lives."

The family changed their way of life because they tired of city bureaucracy. Allison hails from the northern part of east Texas. His wife was born in Springfield, Mass., grew up in Vermont and has lived in Boston and Europe.

The Allison practice organic farming — making cider from their own apple trees, jelly from berries they gather themselves. They raise geese, ducks and chickens.

Unconventional in appearance as well as lifestyle, Allison has the stature of a John Wayne, but his hair flows past his shoulders. His wife — tall, plump and joyful — typically runs the farm wearing cutoffs and a comfortable blouse.

The family has about a dozen asses, including a prize jack — the only Portu donkey in the United States not in a zoo.

Mrs. Allison said they raise asses because they are such gentle creatures. "You could never trust stallions with the children," she said as one of her 14-year-old twin sons jumped on one of the asses sideways and went for a ride.

Her painting adds to the family income. She uses the medium of china to portray their asses. The former political science major at Boston University paints on china and porcelain medallions, which become jewelry and dishes, vases and lamp bases — selling them at craft fairs and by mail order.

Home is designed to meet their unusual needs. Allison said he needed space to play his large horn and do his juggling, and his wife added, "We wanted each one of the children to have their own room."

The Allison said they figured they needed about 2,500 square feet to live comfortably. A conventional home would have cost about $75,000, and they couldn't afford it. The domes cost about $40,000 and are easier to heat than a conventional home.

Originally they used electric baseboard heat, but now several Ashley wood burning stoves heat the domes, a system which costs almost nothing because they cut the wood from their own land.

Allison works weekends in area hospitals and some family income also comes from his production of the horns. Because of his performances, the family has been able to take several trips to New York, Texas and New Hampshire.

Sometimes the children perform with him.

Allison first got the idea for his horn in Texas, where he heard "blowing horns" — used for calling hunting dogs. Those horns, simple trumpets, were made from cattle horns and sounded strong resonant notes for calling dogs.

"I got my start with a dog call (about 10 inches long), used to call hunting dogs," he said. When Allison made his first huge horn, one about 4½ feet long, "the oldtimers said it would never work."

Allison thought since the short horn only produced one or two notes, a longer horn could produce multiple tones. Keeping in mind the simple design of the Swiss alpine horn, he decided to use the cone-shaped bald cypress tree of east Texas.

Allison found the cypress bald tree he wanted, peeled off the bark, saved the "knee" in half lengthwise, carved out the interior wood in each half, then glued them back together. He finished the surface with oil and wax and learned to play, "Assembly," "Taps," and other bugle calls.

"My product is superior to the Alpine horn," he said.

There is more craftsmanship in the Swiss horn, he admits, and its appearance may be more appealing. But Allison can play recognizable tunes on his horn and he prefers its tone. It has the musical range of a harmonica.

Allison now has selected cedar trees growing in the swamp of his property to make horns.

The strangest thing about having a horn in the family is taking it out for a ride, Mrs. Allison said. To transport the 26-foot horn they put two tires on the roof of their landcruiser, wrap plastic around the horn and place the horn on top of the tires.

"You should see the weird looks we get going through toll booths."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 14, 1977

Your DAILY HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Avoid arguments during the daytime and then the evening becomes an excellent time to show you are a cooperative person and can form a harmonious relationship with key persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Let associates know how much you appreciate them. Take steps in becoming a more important person in the community where you reside.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Exchange views with associates and improve production. The use of modern appliances will help make your work more efficient.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle creative matters wisely and get ahead much faster in career activities. Don't be too forceful with congenials.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't try to be too dominant about a situation at home, but quietly go about improving it. Be more understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good time to iron out wrinkles in your relationships with others and become good friends. Obtain the data you need.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A financial situation is not good during the day, but analyze it well and you will know the correct steps to take by tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you find personal affairs are not going well early in the day, all improves for you later in the day. An expert can give the advice you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you find it difficult to obtain the data you need, you can figure things out for yourself and come up with the right answers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you fail to attain your goals today, keep plugging away and come up with new facts that make the path clearer.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Gain support of influential persons and relieve any possible tensions you are under. Express happiness with family tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Change conditions around you so they become more favorable and satisfying to you. Be sure to follow your hunches at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get out of a situation that has been difficult for some time and then you can get ahead faster. Handle duties in a conscientious way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one with a fine disposition that will please others, so be sure to give the finest education possible and your progeny could easily become a leader. Any profession that requires precision is fine here. Don't neglect religious training.

Test Birth Control Systems For Dogs

By JAMES W. HATTON
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS (AP) — A form of "The Pill" for your pet will soon be available from your neighborhood veterinarian.

Three types of animal contraceptives are currently being tested at veterinary colleges at Ohio State University, Colorado State University and the University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, under grants provided by the Ohio Veterinary Medical Association.

All three of the contraceptives are for use on females, and at this point all are intended for dogs, said Dr. Phillip W. Murdick, chairman of the OSU Veterinary Clinical Sciences Department.

"Some may eventually be applied to other pets, but the problem does not really exist as much for other pets," Murdick said. "We do not have packs of cats running loose over the countryside; cats are not taken out on country roads and dumped. It will be another year or two for cats."

One type of contraceptive already in clinical use, which may be available in a year or less, is a food additive which prevents conception in much the same way as does the pill for humans.

The final product may be a specially treated pet food, or a chemical additive which can be sprinkled over the pet's regular food.

Another contraceptive, also in clinical testing, is a treated wafer that is implanted under the animal's skin. A drug is slowly released from the wafer into the animal's system over a long period of time, perhaps up to seven years.

A third kind is a drug injection. This, a form of hormone vaccine, is furthest from common use.

Each of the contraceptives with its advantages and disadvantages "may" have its place in the whole scheme of controlling over-population in pets," Murdick said.

"The wafer and vaccination have longer effects and may be economically more feasible. But they have the disadvantage that they are not easily reversed like the pet food additive, where you just take the pet off it and wait for a while. With the wafer you either have to wait for it to wear off, or go in surgically and remove it."

"Sterilization (by vaccination) is nonreversible. The vaccination will still have the side effects of having the female in heat and the attraction to male dogs."

"In many respects, surgical sterilization is still best because it is permanent," Murdick said.

NOTICE OF STATE ELECTION to be held on Tuesday, November 8, 1977 in the STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA on the question of amendments to the Constitution of North Carolina NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the qualified voters of PITT County that the General Assembly of North Carolina has called a State election to be held in each County of the State of North Carolina on Tuesday, November 8, 1977 at which the questions of amending the Constitution of North Carolina will be submitted as follows: QUESTION #1 FOR OR AGAINST constitutional amendment extending to a married man (as a married woman now has) the right to receive the homestead exemption, so that the homestead exemption is available to the surviving spouse of the owner of a homestead, if the owner dies leaving no minor children and the surviving spouse does not own a separate homestead. QUESTION #2 FOR OR AGAINST constitutional amendment allowing every person the right to insure his or her life for the benefit of his or her spouse or children or both, free from all claims of the representatives or creditors of the insured or his or her estate. QUESTION #3 FOR OR AGAINST constitutional amendment empowering the qualified voters of the State to elect the Governor and Lieutenant Governor to a second successive term of the same office. QUESTION #4 FOR OR AGAINST constitutional amendment to permit municipalities owning or operating electric generation, transmission or distribution facilities and joint agencies composed of such municipalities to own, operate and maintain generation and transmission facilities with any person, firm, association or corporation, public or private, engaged in the generation, transmission or distribution of electric power and energy for resale (each, respectively, a "co-owner") within this State or any state contiguous to this State, and to issue electric revenue bonds to finance the cost of the ownership share of such municipalities or joint agencies, such municipalities or joint agencies and providing that no money or property of such municipalities or joint agencies shall be credited or applied to the account of any such co-owner. QUESTION #5 FOR OR AGAINST constitutional amendment requiring that the total expenditures of the State for the fiscal period covered by the State budget shall not exceed the total revenues raised during that fiscal period and any surplus remaining in the State Treasury at the beginning of the period, and requiring the Governor to effect the necessary economies in State expenditures whenever he determines that a deficit is threatened. The submission of the Constitutional Amendments have been authorized by Chapters 80, 115, 363, 328 and 490, respectively, of the 1977 Session Laws of North Carolina, subject to a favorable vote of a majority of the qualified voters of the State who shall vote on each question (amendment) in said election. The polls for said election will be open from 6:30 A.M. to 7:30 P.M.; provided, however, that at voting places at which voting machines are used the County Board of Elections may permit the polls to remain open until 8:30 P.M. Absentee ballots will be allowed in said election. In accordance with the general laws of the State of North Carolina, the times and places for registration and the names of the elections officials will be determined by the authorized officers of the County and information with reference thereto and as to the location of the voting places may be obtained from the County Board of Elections. Qualified voters who are not certain whether they are registered for this election should contact the County Board of Elections. Dated this 12th day of September, 1977. Clifton W. Everett Jr., Chairman, County Board of Elections Sept. 12, Oct. 3, 1977

Kidnap Victim Found Abductors Inept, Bumbling

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The couple who kidnapped a Maryville banker's daughter and demanded a $150,000 ransom was described by their victim as "extremely inept and bumbling."

Annette Adams — lured away from a fraternity party Thursday night at Vanderbilt University in Nashville and forced, kicking and screaming, into a car — described her 54-hour ordeal on Monday.

The couple charged with kidnapping — Edward Garrity, 29, and Shelby Ann Baker, 28, both of Statesville, N.C. — appeared before a federal magistrate in Charlotte.

"I don't think they did anything right the first time," the 19-year-old sophomore said. "They got lost in Nashville 15 minutes after they forced me into their car."

The FBI offered no explanation why Miss Adams was singled out by the kidnapers. Her father, W.C. Adams, is president of the Bank of Maryville and the family is active in local civic affairs.

When Garrity and Miss Baker were arraigned Sunday, he said Miss Adams was chosen because her father has money. He added Monday he had done some research and made a couple of telephone calls before carrying out the plot.

Miss Adams said Garrity mentioned a man named Jeff a couple of times while she was held captive. However, officials said they anticipate no more arrests.

Miss Adams said the woman abductor lured her away from the fraternity party by saying one of her roommates in her dormitory apartment was upset and needed to talk to her. She said she has since learned that a woman and a man, each claiming to be a cousin, made a call to her room earlier.

Although blindfolded most of the time, Miss Adams said her abductors never threatened nor harmed her. She said they even stopped on one occasion to get her a soft drink.

"The first night I didn't know if they were going to kidnap me, kill me or play a joke on me," she said. "After the first drop attempt was made, I knew they weren't going to kill me."

Officials said four drop attempts were made, two on Friday night and two on Saturday. All were in the Knoxville area.

Adams said one attempt failed because the kidnapper feared federal agents were in the area and another was botched because a citizen found the money and turned it over to police.

Miss Adams disputed Garrity's claim that Miss Baker was not involved in the plot and that she, too, had been kidnapped by him.

"I had the feeling she was in on it more than he was," Miss Adams said. "He did all the dirty work but she was the one who never spoke and was careful not to let me see her face."

Miss Adams said there was only one occasion when she could have escaped during the time she was held captive.

"One time they got out to talk and they left the keys in the car," she said. "They were about 30 feet from the car and I could have gotten away. But it was a straight shift and I can't drive one."

Miss Adams also said she was afraid the couple might treat her more harshly if she attempted to escape.

Mrs. Adams received the first call from the kidnapers shortly after noon Friday. Adams was at a bankers meeting in Chicago at the time and did not learn of the abduction until he return home five hours later.

"I talked shortly with Agnette on the phone. She was crying," Mrs. Adams said. "This whole thing sounded like a horrible, terrible joke when it was first heard. My good friends at the bank took care of getting the money for me."

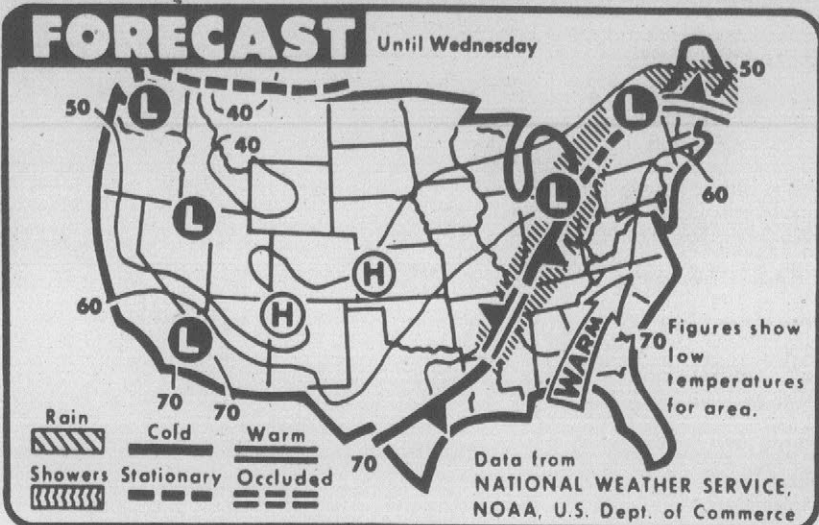

Adams said the bank has insurance covering extortion and kidnap cases and that he could have mortgaged their home to obtain the money if it had been necessary. Except for $1,910 used by the kidnapers to buy a car after Annette was released, all of the ransom was returned to the bank.

Miss Adams said she plans to return to Vanderbilt this week, possibly today.

"You can't live in fear," said her mother. "I want her to live as normal a life as possible."

Mr. and Mrs. Adams said the ordeal has brought their family, described by local residents as already close, even more together. "It puts your values in the right place. You realize what's important in life, your family is most important," Mrs. Adams said.

Overhaul Seen For Air Routes

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans will be flying direct to Europe from 11 cities for the first time if President Carter approves a major overhaul of transatlantic air routes proposed by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Kahn, at a meeting Monday, said he would like to see the proposal rob business from British carriers, recently given a greater share of the lucrative U.S.-London market by a new air transport agreement between the countries.

The market has long been dominated by American carriers.

Eager to see more U.S. flights to European points other than London, Kahn said: "I'd love to stick it to them. If we kill the British tourist business, they might come back and beg us to open up the agreement."

He asked staff members to expedite a plan for new U.S. routes to Luxembourg, a major center for European connecting flights.

"The British may find the treaty is good for their airlines, but not for tourism," added the chairman, who has voiced his opposition to the agreement before.

American cities that would be given their first direct European service are Atlanta, Cleveland, Dallas-Fort Worth, Denver, Houston, Kansas City, Minneapolis-St. Paul, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Tampa.

The CAB proposed essentially the same plan last year, only to have it shot down by then-President Gerald R. Ford.

President Carter, who will have the final say, asked for a plan by early next month, aiming for a decision by early November.

The board submitted the proposal to its general counsel Monday. Substantive changes are not expected in the document.

The plan would give two U.S. airlines, Delta and Northwest Orient, their first routes over the Atlantic.

Censure Will Be 'Fought'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — District Court Judge W. Milton Nowell of Goldsboro indicated Monday night he would not accept his state Supreme Court censure without a fight.

Nowell was censured, or reprimanded, for settling two traffic cases out of court, an action the high court said was improper because it denied the prosecuting attorney a chance to be heard and denied the public the right to see how the cases were handled.

Nowell referred inquiries to his attorneys "until we can get something worked up."

"I don't know what we're going to do," said Nowell's attorney, Herbert Hulse. "Until we know exactly where we stand and where we're going, we'd prefer not to say anything."

The Supreme Court acted on the recommendation of the state Judicial Standards Commission, which investigated the allegations against Nowell.

It was not the judge's first brush with high court displeasure. The first came last year after Nowell got involved in the primary election campaign of another judge, a violation of the Code of Judicial Conduct.

Chief Justice Susie Sharp removed Nowell at that time from his position as chief judge for the 8th District.

During argument last summer in the tickets case, Nowell's attorneys argued the judge was the target of politically-motivated media attacks.

Associate Justice I. Beverly Lake Sr. dissented from the censure ruling, arguing that the 1971 law under which Nowell was censured is unconstitutional because Judicial Standards Commission procedures do not adequately protect the rights of the accused.

Green Stays In Hospital

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green will remain in Wake County Memorial Center another week following surgery Monday night to repair a ruptured disc, his doctor said.

"Everything went well," said Dr. Archie Johnson, Green's personal physician. The lieutenant governor went into surgery at 6 p.m., and by 9 p.m. was described as "resting nicely" in the recovery room.

The 56-year-old state official injured his back while lifting logs on his east North Carolina farm three weeks ago. Johnson said the back was responding to treatment until last week, when Green complained of being unable to sit down during an airplane trip.

Green entered the hospital last week.

"I had some old beams out in a field and I wanted to get them stacked up on blocks so they wouldn't rot," Green said before the operation. "They were three-by-tens bolted together and 22 feet long, and I just grabbed my end and lifted it. That's when it happened. I was doing a two-dollar job when I shouldn't have been."

the weekend now is heading out to sea.

Temperatures around the state Monday were generally in the mid to upper 70s with some readings in the low 80s. It was expected to be some warmer around the state today with partly cloudy skies and possibly some thundershowers in the mountains this afternoon and tonight.

The forecast called for temperatures ranging in the low to mid 80s today east of the mountains, while staying in the 70s in the higher elevations in the mountains.

High temperatures Monday included 74 at Asheville and 75 in Greensboro. Elsewhere, Charlotte had 81, Hickory 77 and Raleigh 78.

Night temperatures will continue cool, ranging in the 50s and low 60s.
