

REMOVING VICTIMS — Rescuers work in darkness and thick underbrush carrying bodies of the dead to waiting ambulances after an Amtrak passenger train slammed broadside into a pickup truck Sunday night near Plant City, Florida, killing at least 10 people. Police said seven of the victims were children, ages 1-10. All of the victims were in the truck. The train, the Floridian, was on the last leg of a trip from Chicago to St. Petersburg. Pickup Lost Race To Rail Crossing

PLANT CITY, Fla. (AP) — "I did everything in my power to stop it, but there just wasn't enough time," says the engineer of an Amtrak passenger train that slammed broadside into a pickup truck and killed 10 persons, seven of them children.

Florida Highway patrolmen at the scene of the Sunday night accident said there were no survivors in the camperbacked truck.

None of the 40 passengers in the train was injured. Troopers said they thought the victims were migrant workers. They said it may be a day or so before firm identifications are made.

Early reports indicated that two adults were in the cab and one adult and seven children, ages 1-10, were in a camper perched atop the truck bed. The camper was wrenched off and crushed almost beyond recognition.

Investigators said late Sunday that they believed they had removed all of the bodies but because of the darkness and thick underbrush would again sift through the charred, twisted wreckage today.

Police investigators said they found a purse with identification cards indicating some of the victims were from Bushnell in northern Florida.

Pete Medley, engineer on the Chicago-to-St. Petersburg route of the Floridian, said he tried his best to stop.

"The engineer said he was 200 feet from the crossing when he first saw the truck," said Plant City police Sgt. Lee Candis. "The crossing was marked with flashing lights."

Witnesses said the crossing lights were working and the train whistle was blowing, but the truck went across the tracks in an apparent attempt to beat the train. The crossing is located about 25 miles due east of Tampa in a rural area billed as the "strawberry capital of the world."

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Two liberal senators filibustering to keep natural gas under federal control say they are within two votes of victory as the Senate deadlock enters its third week.

Although two tests have demonstrated that supporters of natural gas deregulation have the votes to win, Democratic Sens. James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio are vowing to continue their filibuster in the name of lower home heating costs.

"We are good for another 10 days or two weeks," Abourezk said after a rare weekend Senate session.

Abourezk and Metzenbaum are pinning their hopes on a tie floor vote.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale would then have to break the deadlock — by voting for the Carter administration's plan to continue controls.

In an important vote last week, supporters of deregulation won 50 to 44.

But for a potential parliamentary advantage, Abourezk voted with his opponents, meaning the true vote was 49 to 45.

With Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., willing to switch and vote for the federal controls if his vote would make the difference, that leaves a two-vote margin to reach a tie.

Predicting that some minds would be changed over the weekend, Abourezk said he thinks "the momentum is in our direction."

Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said he expected the issue to be decided by Wednesday. But as long as the filibustering senators refuse to agree to a time for a vote, there is little Byrd can do to force the issue.

The Carter administration had originally proposed raising the price ceiling on natural gas to $1.75 per thousand cubic feet, but the President has since agreed to a compromise of $2.03.

The President's allies argue that while gas producers may need higher prices to provide enough incentive to find new reserves, gas does not need to be deregulated.

And a final congressional decision must await action by a House-Senate conference committee.

Because the House has approved Carter's $1.75 ceiling, Senate supporters of deregulation quietly acknowledge they anticipate a joint committee will vote a higher ceiling than $1.75, but will not approve deregulation.

As the Senate resumed the seemingly endless natural gas debate that has blocked almost all other business, the House scheduled work on a comprehensive proposal to make it easier for labor unions to organize.

The measure would punish recalcitrant companies that illegally block union recruiting efforts, speed procedures for joining unions and require immediate reinstatement of any worker fired for union activity.

Contractors Prepare For New Hospital Addition

By STUART SAVAGE

Contractors began moving equipment onto the site to begin construction of a 7,600 square foot addition to Pitt Memorial Hospital this morning, the Pitt County Board of Commissioners were told today.

Ralph Hall, director of the physical plant at the hospital, said funding of the $560,500 intensive neonatal unit will be by the State as part of the East Carolina University School of Medicine capital program.

Hall noted that three other expansion projects under way at the hospital for the ECU program should be occupied this month or early in November. The other three projects include some 74,400 square feet of new space and the renovation of some 6,800 square feet of space at a cost of $5.1 million.

Hospital director Jack Richardson, who told the board that the hospital census is gradually rising, noted that the payroll per day at the new facility amounts to more than $19,000.

Richardson noted that as the new ECU additions are opened, the State will share in the costs of maintenance and operation of the areas. He added that when the medical school begins its teaching program, the state will refund "teaching costs" to the medical facility.

In other business this morning, the board awarded contracts to Bagg and Griffin Inc. of New Bern for $5,000 tax abstracts at a low bid of $1,477.70. Other bidders included: Owen G. Dunn at $2,056 and Jordan Business Forms Inc. at $1,912.

Commissioners also authorized the Martin County Community Action Agency to administer a $35,000 grant to Pitt for weatherization of homes in Pitt this year.

Under the program, according to Haywood Harris, director of the Martin agency, up to $250 can be spent for material to replace windows, patch roofs and do other projects to make homes of the disabled, the elderly and aid for dependent children recipients more weather-tight. Harris noted that the funds would help improve about 125 homes.

Jimmy Smith, an employee of the Farmers Home Administration in Pitt told the board that the agency had made $5.2 million in loans for 240 homes in the county during the past year and loaned $232,000 toward the purchase of 11 farms. The agency also made some $1.97 million in farm operating loans, Smith noted.

County School Board To Hold Split Session

The Pitt County Board of Education will hold a split session Tuesday beginning at 4 p.m. in the Ayden-Grifton High School.

Following its regular monthly meeting, the board will reconvene at 7:30 p.m. to hear county residents express their feelings concerning the August 2 adopted resolution calling for the merger of Ayden and Grifton Middle schools.

Russell Houston III, a Grifton attorney, addressed the board last month and asked that the meeting be held at night to provide parents with school-aged children with an opportunity to attend and express their sentiments concerning the merger.

Other significant items on the agenda include:

— A report by C.W. Everett Sr., attorney, on the Lake Ellsworth disputed school line.

— Consideration of a suggestion from Chairman Henry Dunn of the Greenville City Board of Education providing for a joint meeting of the two boards, at which time personnel from the Division of School Planning and State Board of Education would be invited to attend and offer advice and counsel.

— A recommendation by the superintendent for the continuation of an agreement with Vocational Rehabilitation to operate a special Vocational Rehabilitation program with emphasis on the rehabilitation of handicapped persons enrolled in the school system, or drop outs up to the age of 18.

— A presentation by the Superintendent of an application presented earlier to the Department of Public Instruction requesting consideration of a $25,000 grant to be funded by the Community School Act. Also, a letter from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners has been received in support of the application as a vehicle whereby a beginning of a County Recreation Program might be implemented.

Strike Ties Up Shipping

NEW YORK (AP) — Cargo ships were backed up at the mouth of the Mississippi as 50,000 dockworkers along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts took their strike against container-ship cargo into its third day.

Conditions at the port of New Orleans were the worst because members of the International Longshoremen's Association, AFL-CIO, were striking all shipping. Workers in other ports shut down the container operations only.

Shipping industry officials said the strike would have no impact on the general public for at least two more weeks, but they expressed concern about the New Orleans situation.

The New Orleans longshoremen were scheduled to vote Tuesday on whether to scale down their walkout at the nation's second-largest port. Union officials said the wider strike had been called because of confusion during the strike vote last week.

The ILA wants the strike to focus on containerized vessels, which are a bone of contention in the contract talks. The strike was called midnight Friday when the longshore contract expired.

Greenville Will Get $404,838 As Street Aid

Greenville will receive $404,838.97 as its total 1977 state street aid allocation from the North Carolina State Highway Fund.

The allocation, figured on the basis of 75 per cent regarding relative population and 25 per cent on relative non-state system local street mileage, will be used for maintenance, construction, and reconstruction of local city streets.

Allocations designated for other Pitt towns include: Ayden, $54,948.16; Bethel, $24,831.95; Falkland, $1,358.99; Farmville, $66,615.19; Fountain, $6,654.06;

Grifton, $32,565.72; Grimesland, $5,797.76; Simpson, $6,120.72; and Winterville, $26,912.82.

Greene County towns sharing in the street aid allocations include: Snow Hill, $17,505.18; Hookerton, $6,170.32; and Walstonburg, $3,071.62.

Bank Robbed At Taylorsville

TAYLORSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two armed men held up a branch of Northwestern Bank in the Bethlehem community of Alexander County today and fled with an undetermined amount of money, the sheriff's office said.

No injuries were reported during the holdup, which occurred about 10:20 a.m.

Indira Arrested

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India for 11 years until her election defeat last March, was arrested today on charges of misusing her position.

Eyewitnesses said a large squad of agents from India's central bureau of investigation took Mrs. Gandhi, 59, into custody at her New Delhi home.

Mrs. Gandhi was charged with acquiring 104 vehicles through misuse of her official position, India's national news agency reported.

A large crowd assembled outside Mrs. Gandhi's home as soon as supporters learned of the raid and while she was still inside. They chanted "Long live Indira Gandhi."

Shortly after the plain-clothesmen arrived, supporters of Mrs. Gandhi issued a statement in her name charging that the "arrest is a political one. It is to prevent me from going to the people. It is an attempt to discredit me in their eyes and the eyes of the world."

Dayan Doubts Motive

By The Associated Press
Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said the U.S.-Soviet declaration of principles for an Arab-Israeli peace agreement was another American attempt to push the Palestine Liberation Organization into the Geneva peace talks "through the front door."

Israeli leaders, Sen. Henry Jackson and George Meany sharply criticized the joint declaration while the PLO and other Arabs called it a positive step toward peace.

The declaration, issued Saturday as part of the effort to get Arab-Israeli peace negotiations in Geneva started before the end of the year, urged Israel to recognize the "legitimate rights of the Palestinian people" and give them a role in the Geneva conference.

Dayan, in the United States to negotiate with the Americans and indirectly with the Arabs, told the newspaper Yediot Aharonot a meeting he is having with President Carter Wednesday would be "decisive."

Soviet Leaders Begin A Week Of Meetings

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union gave a major political promotion today to 76-year-old Vasily V. Kuznetsov, one of its top diplomatic troubleshooters. The move came at the start of a week of high-level policy meetings that are also expected to name a formal second in command to president Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Moscow radio announced that Kuznetsov, the top deputy to Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, was named one of eight candidate members of the Communist party's ruling Politburo. There are also 14 full members of the Politburo, headed by Brezhnev.

Kuznetsov was once an exchange worker at the Ford Motor Co. in the United States and received a degree from the Carnegie School of Mines in Pittsburgh.

The promotion moves Kuznetsov, who has helped guide Soviet foreign policy on China, the Cuban missile crisis, the Middle East and the 1968 Czechoslovak invasion, from purely government work to the top political arena.

There was immediate speculation that Kuznetsov may succeed Gromyko, 68, as foreign minister. Some diplomats said that Gromyko, who has been foreign minister for 20 years, could be named by the Soviet parliament this week to the newly created post of "first vice president," or Brezhnev's right-hand man.

But given the unpredictable world of Kremlin politics and Kuznetsov's age, no diplomats seemed confident about what will really happen.

The Communist party's 250-member Central Committee, which decided on Kuznetsov's promotion, also promoted to candidate Politburo member Konstantin U. Chernenko, 66, Chernenko, a former member of Brezhnev's personal secretariat, was made a secretary of the Central Committee at the 25th Communist party congress in March 1976.

The Central Committee also approved the final draft of the Soviet Union's new constitution, which is to be adopted by parliament during this week's session.

Kuznetsov, a bespectacled, white-haired diplomat with a reputation as an able and versatile negotiator, is a former Soviet ambassador to China. A metallurgist by training, he became chairman of the Soviet state economic planning commission at the age of 39.

In 1941 he was made a deputy member of the wartime state committee of defense. He became a deputy foreign minister in the early 1950s and spoke several times at the United Nations.

The plenum also raised four candidate members of the Central Committee to full membership. They are Vasily P. Demidenko, head of the Communist party in North Kazakhstan in central Asia; Nikolai K. Kirichenko, party first secretary of the Crimea; Pyotr S. Pleshakov, minister of the Soviet radio industry; and Alexandra M. Fominykh, a pig farm employee who is one of the Central Committee members representing ordinary Soviet workers.

Chernenko was born in 1911. He graduated from the Kishinev pedagogical institute in his native Moldavia and joined the Communist party in 1931. Brezhnev has given no indication of plans to retire, but many diplomats believe his health is deteriorating. The Moscow rumor mill has buzzed for weeks with speculation about who the first vice president will be.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are anticipated today over parts of the southern Rockies, the Great Plains and portions of the Texas and New Mexico border. Warm temperatures are expected for much of the West Coast with seasonably cool weather elsewhere. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Cooler and drier air spread through North Carolina today behind a cold front that moved across the state Sunday and Sunday night, and a frost warning has been issued for the northwest mountains tonight.

A squall line of thundershowers, moving ahead of the cold front, spread from the mountains into the coastal plain early Sunday before dissipating. Thundershowers developed again Sunday afternoon in the Piedmont and spread toward the coast.

Skies were generally clear this morning and early risers found temperatures considerably cooler. Low overnight readings included Asheville 47, Greensboro 48, Charlotte 50, Raleigh 51 and Wilmington 61.

A brisk northerly wind added a chill to today's readings which were expected to range from the 50s in the northwest mountains to no higher than the 70s on the coast.

Continued cool is expected Tuesday with temperatures generally in the 60s except for some 50s in the mountains. Lows tonight are expected to drop to the 30s in the mountains and range to near 50 along the Outer Banks.

Fair and quite cool weather is forecast through the week with a trend toward warmer temperatures starting Thursday.

Rare Auto Classic Found, Refurbished

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — If you can remember the Packard, you might also remember the Packard Request. In 1954, the automaker built the classic-grilled dream car to boost sales. The one-and-only model of The Request seemed to pass into oblivion along with the Packard company name.

It was last on public view at the 1955 Chicago Auto Show.

It turns out that the Request wasn't in oblivion after all. It was in Portland, Ore. Three people discovered it rusting and refurbished it with visions of a wide-open nostalgia market dancing in their heads.

Larry Dopps happened to discover the rusting chassis in a back yard two years ago.

"It was a real mess inside and out, although the low mileage (14,000 miles) engine was perfect internally," said Dopps. "Accidents had demolished the grill, one of the special front bumpers and the fiberglass hood."

It took about 1½ years to refurbish the car.

The owners aren't showing the car at present. But they are expected to bring it out for public viewing soon. Some classic car buffs have said the car might fetch as much as $200,000.

Insurance Lobby Biggest Spender

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Lobbyists wined and dined North Carolina legislators last year to the tune of nearly half a million dollars to protect or advance the special interests they represented, according to expense reports.

The insurance industry was the top spender of any permanent interest group during the last session of the General Assembly, laying out a reported $40,865. Most of the money was spent in the process of promoting legislation that stripped Insurance Commissioner John Ingram of much of his power to delay insurance rate hikes.

In addition to the expenses reported in lobbyist forms filed with the secretary of state's office, dozens of trade and professional associations maintained full-time lobbyists in Raleigh on salaries not listed in the reports.

Other firms and associations retained law firms to do their lobbying, an expense that is not required to be reported.

The largest actual expenditure of funds was an outlay of $78,141 reported by North Carolinians for the Equal Rights Amendment. Opponents of ERA filed no expense report. Lobbyists spent their clients' money in a number of ways, but the most expensive was the legislative reception, which generally involved a meal with liquor for a number of legislators.

The most lavish of these was sponsored by the Oil Jobbers Association — a $4,975.96 bash at the Angus Barn restaurant between Raleigh and Durham.

Other gatherings, large and small, took place at hotels and restaurants all over Raleigh. Some legislators were treated to an evening at the Village Dinner Theater, courtesy of the North Carolina Railroad Association. The tab was nearly $1,400.

Reported expenses also included novelties like pens and paperweights, flowers, opportunities to earn speaking fees and tickets to athletic events or the Carowinds amusement park near Charlotte.

There is this woman. Watch her.

She is a tapestry of delicious contradictions. Capable of laughter that all the world may witness. And of tears that no one will ever see. A swimmer who may never enter the water. A musician who may choose to listen rather than to play. A wife who feels like a lover. A mother who remembers what it was like to be a child. There is this woman. And here is the fragrance that defines her: a melding of flowers and more flowers, mingled with a fresh flourish of spices. We call it—Cabriole.

Couple Weds Sunday Afternoon

MRS. JAMES PHILMON LAMM

The wedding of Miss Jan Marie Heidenreich and James Philmon Lamm was solemnized Sunday at Hooker Memorial Christian Church. The Rev. Robert Hufford officiated at the double ring ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Ralph Messick.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harry Heidenreich and granddaughter of Mrs. Lester Jones; all of Greenville, and the late Capt. Jones. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lucien Holden Lamm of Wilson, and the late Mr. Lamm.

A program of wedding music was presented by Christopher Jenkins, organist, and Miss Margaret Ellen Heidenreich, sister of the bride, and James Roland Longacre of Audobon, Pa., soloist. Miss Heidenreich sang "One Hand, One Heart" and Longacre sang "Ich Liebe Dich" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a formal length gown of white maracaine over white peau de soie designed with an open short V-neckline with standup collar. The fitted empire bodice was styled with a diamond shaped insert of sculptured floral Venise lace beaded with clusters of pearls, centering the gathered folds of maracaine and featuring long fitted sleeves. The waistline was encircled with white piping from which flowed the full circular skirt and attached chapel length train.

She wore a three tiered illusion veil edged in imported French chantilly lace held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace, entirely beaded with seed pearls. She carried a formal cascade of sonya roses, lace poms and miniature carnations, centered with a white georgianna orchid with English ivy.

Miss Margaret Ellen Heidenreich was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of royal blue knit designed with an open V-neckline and featuring a wide berth collar and short caplet sleeves. The full circular skirt was enhanced by a peplum overlay extending from the empire waistline, in a wrap effect, with a silk fabric rose and selfie belt at the side. She carried a Williamsburg bouquet of fall poms pons, sonya roses and corn flowers, accented with wheat and fall leaves. She wore flowers in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Mary Lynne Slomenda, cousin of the bride, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mrs. James Roland Longacre of Audubon, Pa., Carol Ann Morgan and Sharon Jean Fisher of Charlotte, Joanne Weaver Conyers of Rocky Mount, Janice Marie Hinson of Rockingham, and Mrs. Gerald Lynn White and Ms. Linda Dodds Rotenberg, cousins of the bride, of Greenville. The bridesmaids, gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant.

The best man was Charles Holden Lamm, brother of the bridegroom, of Chapel Hill. Groomsmen were James Ralph Heidenreich, brother of the bride, of Greenville, and Robert Seth Woodard of Washington. Ushers were Lemuel Hardy Gibbons Jr. and Dred Stuart Walston Jr. of Wilson, Patrick J. Norton Jr. and R. Preston Clark of Raleigh, Wayne J. Musselwhite of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Joshua H. Weeks of Rochester, N.Y.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of jade green knit designed with an open V-neckline, empire bodice accented with an inset of rolled self-fabric in a floral designed motif from which fell the gathered skirt. She carried white cymbidium orchids on her hand bag.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal length gown of cotton blue knit designed with a high rolled collar, empire bodice featuring an attached drape that extended to the back of the gown. She carried white cymbidium orchids on her hand bag.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. James Emil Heidenreich of Pittsburgh, Pa., grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Charles Carroll Lightsey of Wilson, grandmother of the bridegroom, and Miss Estelle Lamm of Lucama, aunt of the bridegroom, were remembered with white orchids. Mrs. Thomas L. Broadrick of Greenville directed the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. She is presently manager of Dak's in Rocky Mount. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, where he was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, a Morehead Scholar, and a member of the varsity football team. He is associated with Branch Banking and Trust Co. in Wilson.

After a wedding trip to Charleston, S.C., Mr. and Mrs. Lamm will reside in Wilson.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Cooking Is Fun

PEANUT BUTTER CRESCENTS

1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1-3rd cup sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup warm (110 to 115 degrees) water
1 egg, beaten
4 cups sifted flour
Peanut Butter Filling, see below

Scald milk and pour over butter, sugar and salt in bowl; cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast on warm water and stir to dissolve. Add egg, yeast and 2 cups flour to milk mixture; beat with electric mixer at low speed until smooth, about 1 minute; beat at medium speed until thick, about 2 minutes. Add remaining flour to make a dough that leaves the sides of bowl. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead gently. Put into a greased bowl; invert to grease top of dough. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1 hour. Turn dough onto lightly floured surface. Divide in half; cover and let rest 10 minutes. Roll each half to 12-inch circle; spread with the Peanut Butter Filling; cut each circle into 12 wedges. Roll up each wedge from wide end and place pointed end down, on greased baking sheets. Curve ends slightly to make crescents. Cover and let rise until doubled, about 30 minutes. Bake in 400-degree oven 15 minutes, changing position of baking sheets in oven when half baked. Remove from baking sheets and cool on racks. Makes 24 crescents.

Peanut Butter Filling: Combine 1-3rd cup peanut butter, 1-3rd cup honey, 1/4 teaspoon salt and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon.

Hot Tips For Fire Prevention

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR READERS: This is Fire Prevention Week, and I received so much positive response to the column I published last year at this time, I decided to repeat it. Last year approximately 12,000 Americans perished and 300,000 were seriously injured in nearly three million fires. And in Canada, there were nearly 900 deaths caused by approximately 79,000 fires.

A large percentage of those who died were children, elderly persons and invalids who had been left alone "for just a few minutes."

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking
2. Electrical wiring
3. Heating and cooking equipment
4. Children playing with matches
5. Open flames and sparks
6. Flammable liquids
7. Suspected arson
8. Chimneys and flues
9. Lighting
10. Spontaneous ignition.

The total loss due to fire last year was an estimated $3,001,000,000 in the U.S.A. and $254 million in Canada. Now for some tips that could save your life:

—Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. And never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.
—Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. And replace a cord if it is frayed.
—Never leave small children alone in the house. Not even for a few minutes.
—Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.
—Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.
—Never use flammable liquids for drycleaning indoors.
—Never smoke in bed.
—Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside, so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher and keep it handy in your kitchen, or be a sport and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

More recently, some excellent fire-detection systems have become available to homeowners. Ask your local fire marshal about them.

NOW, in case of fire:

If you suspect fire, feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window. But first alert the rest of the household.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped.

Once out, stay out. No treasure—not even the family pet—is worth risking a human life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so. God bless. Have a good day!

Home Economics Fall Meet Held In Windsor

WINDSOR — The Home Economics Division of the Coastal Plain Development Association held its fall meeting here Thursday.

The CPDA is a 10-county non-profit organization of people working together to achieve area goals. The Home Economics Division emphasizes programs directly related to the family.

Sgt. John Askew, of the Ahsoskie Police Department Crime Prevention Program, was the speaker and furnished each person a "Watch Out, There's A Thief About" kit and a key identification tag.

He stressed the importance of securing locks on home doors and windows. "Engraving identification numbers on items of value is one of the best preventive measures you can take," he stated. He also encouraged participation in the neighborhood watch program.

The current theme of the Home Economics Division is "Operation Awareness." Members who do not have a crime prevention program in their community were urged to work with their local law enforcement agency to apply for the program.

The business session was conducted by the chairman, Mrs. Jean Sigmon of Halifax County. Mrs. Sherry Sanford of Bertie County gave the devotion.

The foods committee agreed to continue its effort to inform people about living on sodium-restricted diets. Crime prevention will be the major project of the housing committee. The clothing committee reported that over 300 garments were turned in for Cherry Hospital patients.

Attending from Pitt County were Mrs. Ann Davis, immediate past president, and Mrs. Frances Burns, Greenville, Mrs. Rachel Bailey, Fountain, Mrs. Reba Boyd, Grifton, and Mrs. Evelyn Spangler, home economics extension agent.

Share-A-Craft Program Held

The Westhaven Home and Garden Club held its meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Peggy Byrum, assisted by Mrs. Sue Zadeits.

Members participated in a share-a-craft program, sharing projects and instructions on each. Mrs. Byrum told of bread dough flowers and demonstrated how they are made.

Newcomers Alice Angel, Pam Gardner and Darlene Timmer were welcomed.

It was decided that a yard-bake sale will be held Saturday, Oct. 29, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the entrance of the Westhaven Subdivision as a money-raising project.

The next meeting will be held held at the home of Mrs. Becky Alexander.

Dorm Telephones In Demand

Back in the old days—really not so long ago, East Carolina University dorms were virtually inaccessible by telephone.

Generally there was no more than one pay phone on a dorm floor, and that one was constantly tied up. Calling in meant long waits while an occupant went to find the wanted party. Perhaps they never returned.

Well, things have changed on the campus. In 1972 Carolina Telephone began promoting individual phones for dorm rooms, and the dorms were gradually wired to accept such phones.

The program has been popular, to say the least.

In fact, phone company officials say that 2,453 rooms now have telephone service. That's 85 percent of maximum and the highest percentage ever for the local campus.

The service is so popular that a special telephone directory for ECU is being prepared to be issued no later than Oct. 1.

So no dorm resident need be isolated for long from family, boy friend or girl friend. The dorms are now saturated with phones, something that might seem an idyllic situation to dorm dwellers of the past.

For Some, The Farm Bill Is Too Late

A farm bill signed by the president last week will increase the income of grain farmers.

The $11 billion legislation is more than President Carter wanted, but he said it would lead to stability for farm economy.

For some grain farmers the action will come too late, but in the future it could be helpful in keeping farming on a paying basis.

THIS AFTERNOON

Assembly Makeup Changes

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—More women, more teachers, more retired people, and more people who work for somebody else are key ingredients in a new mix of representatives in the North Carolina General Assembly.

At the same time, there has been a sharp decline in numbers of lawyers and farmers in the legislative halls—a decline in power for the two groups traditionally given the nod for holding the reins in state government.

A review of membership in the assembly over the past 10 years reflects the distinct change in composition: In 1967 there were 43; this year, 26. Ten years ago there were 26 farmers; now there are 12.

Teachers (or other school people) numbered only seven in 1967; today there are 15. Retired persons now number 15, where 10 years ago there were six.

More Women

Female lawmakers show the most dramatic change. In 1967 there were four, three in the Senate and one in the House of Representatives.

This year: 23, with 19 in the House; four in the Senate.

What has brought about the change? Michael Crowell, a member of the Institute of Government faculty who works with the Legislative Reporting Service, finds several factors at work.

A key consideration is the move to annual sessions instead of meeting every two years. This is a recent change, and was initiated by the need to give the state budget a review during the recession of 1973-74.

Other factors include higher pay, declining rural population, pressures for social change for women (and Blacks), and a change in the turn over rate.

Crowell sums up this way: "That the changes have taken place is clear, but with so many changes in the legislative institution taking place over the last decade, it is not possible to tell how much the composition and turnover in the General Assembly has been affected by annual sessions and how much by other factors.

Several more years' experience might offer additional evidence."

One conclusion possible from the data presented by Crowell in the recent edition of "Popular Government" published by the Institute is that the shift toward annual sessions has not produced a who had never served. In 1977, only 33 newcomers were in the assembly.

Crowell predicts that this turnover situation "is just an oddity that will disappear in 1979." If his proposition bears up and turnover does indeed increase, while the overall makeup reflects the changes outlined, then the legislature will have moved more toward a citizen's group representative of the state rather than toward a professional situation.

This year's General Assembly has 26 lawyers; 47 owners, managers, or executives of business; 12 farmers; 12 insurance people; 11 real estate executives; one bank executive; three people connected with newspapers or broadcast stations; 15 teachers or administrators; two other professional (doctor); 10 unemployed, housewives, etc.; and 15 retired.

Totals are not the same as membership, since some legislators may be listed as both a lawyer and a real estate man, for example.

BILL NOBLITT

Longer Time

Many have predicted that longer and more regular sessions would lead to development of professionals' because the working people couldn't afford to spend the time in Raleigh.

Crowell finds that the various changes combined have produced a dramatic decrease in turnover in both houses. Ten years ago there were 81 legislators elected

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter Finally Wins One

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The shaky ceasefire that President Carter finally pulled off in southern Lebanon this week was the result of a cliff-hanging drama boldly played out here, in Israel, and in Saudi Arabia totally concealed from public view.

The stakes were far higher than suspected, both for Jimmy Carter's slim hopes for an Arab-Israeli settlement and for U.S. relations with two intimate Mideast allies: Israel and Saudi Arabia.

For the first time, the President sent a tough private warning to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin: if he did not order marauding Israeli troops — at least two companies of infantry plus armored personnel carriers and "super-Sherman" tanks — back into Israel from southern Lebanon, Begin could not count on the good offices of the American President.

Coupled with this warning, after months of Israeli defiance over Carter peace plans, was an only marginal less than summons to Saudi Arabia: persuade the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) to pull out of their Israeli border areas. As the PLO's chief subsidizer, the Saudis are powerful persuaders.

For Begin, the possibility of truly alienating the American President was, in the words of one Mideast expert, "a real and present danger." The implication sent Begin by top-secret diplomatic message through U.S. Ambassador Samuel W. Lewis was that the U.S. could not go on financing Israel's economy and security while Israel's army was on the loose in a neighboring country.

Adding to this pressure, Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan was bluntly told last week by a U.S. Senator and loyal friend of Israel that Begin must stop his encroachment of the occupied West Bank. "I don't have to apologize for my credentials as a friend of Israel," Sen. Abraham Ribicoff told Dayan at a closed-door luncheon given by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sept. 20. Ribicoff then dropped this warning: more Israeli settlements on the West Bank might make it impossible for the U.S. to oppose a United Nations resolution condemning Israel.

In similar vein, Dayan also got the full force of Mr. Carter's true feelings about southern Lebanon in his talks with the President last week. Dayan, who is regarded by some diplomats here as "flexible," undoubtedly informed the prime minister following those talks that, with Mr. Carter angry over Lebanon and the U.S. Senate unhappy over the settlements, Israel might consider a tactical retreat.

That retreat led to the ceasefire in southern Lebanon, but it would not have taken place without the President's stern pressure on Saudi Arabia — a more significant player in the Arab-Israeli struggle than generally realized.

With the Saudis, Mr. Carter's tack was the preservation in good health of the U.S.-Saudi Arabian alliance: without Saudi muscle to move Palestinian guerrillas away from the Israeli border, the President would have trouble persuading Congress to approve the sale of F-15 fighter aircraft to Riyadh.

Putting the squeeze on the Saudis was, in its way, more delicate than squeezing Begin. The reason: by common consent here, the PLO guerrillas would have withdrawn from the border under arrangements agreed to earlier, but the provocation of Israel's mini-invasion changed their mind.

Such niceties of right and wrong played little part in Jimmy Carter's rising anger. The Saudis, by virtue of their tremendous wealth, were by far the most persuasive agents for dealing with the PLO. The value they place on their U.S. connection was reason enough to do as Mr. Carter asked.

What particularly marked the presidential handling of this crisis between the U.S. and Israel over southern Lebanon was its novelty: it was the first clear example that Mr. Carter may be mastering the technique of rapid, silent diplomatic movement made possible by American power exerted at the proper points in correct proportions.

Beyond that, it would be a mistake to make too much of the presidential maneuvers that forced Israel back from territories she has long coveted for both security and economic reasons. For one thing, not a single U.S. politician interceded on

No-Frills Airline Route

WASHINGTON—President Carter intends to embark on an 11-day trip to eight countries on four continents in late November. Some people are accusing the President of trying to get into the "Guinness Book of Records." But Zbigniew Brzezinski, Mr. Carter's National Security Advisor, insists that the trip makes sense and will enhance American foreign policy with countries that are playing an increasingly important role in world affairs.

There is another theory as to why the President is going to all these places and, while I couldn't pin it down, it makes more sense than the one advanced by Mr. Brzezinski.

It seems the President only wanted to go to Brussels, but since he is so conscious about costs he had to include the other countries in his itinerary.

Rumor has it that Andy Young, the ambassador to the U.N., came into the President's office and said, "I have good news for you, Mr. President. Under the new 'no-frills' airline rates you can fly to Brussels for $145."

"That sounds great, Andy," the President said.

"All you have to do is show up at the airport six hours in advance and be listed on standby."

"That seems reasonable," the President said.

"If the plane isn't full up you get a seat and fly to Caracas, Venezuela."

"That seems to be a weird way of going to Brussels."

"You have to stay 24 hours in Caracas and then fly to Brasilia in Brazil and remain there for 24 hours more."

"And then go to Brussels?" the President asked.

"No, then you fly to Lagos, Nigeria, for a 72-hour layover," Andy said.

"All this for $145?" the President said.

"It's a fantastic bargain," Andy told Mr. Carter.

"From Nigeria the plane then goes to New Delhi for a 48-hour refueling stop."

"And from there it's on to Brussels?"

"Not exactly. You then fly to Tehran for lunch."

"Does the airline provide me with lunch?"

"Not under the 'no-frills' plan." But the Shah of Iran will give you lunch in Tehran because he wants to encourage 'no-frills' airliners to land in his country."

"What date will that be?"

"November 29th."

"Will they be showing the same movie on the entire flight?" the President wanted to know.

"They don't say in their ads, but if you want to see a movie you'll have to pay $3.50 extra."

"We better scrub the movie," the President said.

"I'd rather have the $3.50 to spend in Brussels."

"You won't be going to Brussels after Tehran. To get the benefit of the $145"

Other Editors Say: Becoming Involved

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Perhaps one of the most important cogs in the machinery Gov. Jim Hunt has set up in an effort to create greater citizen involvement in North Carolina affairs is his Secretary of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, Judge Phil Carlton.

In a recent speech in Rocky Mount, Secretary Carlton emphasized that the Community Watch programs which are springing up in various locations were making a vital contribution to citizen involvement and at the same time are giving a substantial boost to his department's efforts.

Secretary Carlton was quick to point to a misleading interpretation of citizen involvement via the Community Watch procedures as he pointed to one community where over-zealous citizens had formed a sort of vigilante group.

Members of that particular community's "watch" group even provided uniform for their group and carried side-arms, a practice which the cabinet officer was quick to discourage.

For some time Rocky Mount has employed the "Crime Watch" telephone service which the police have praised as something which has been of valuable assistance.

Perhaps an official organization patterned along the "Community Watch" lines also would prove valuable here just as long as members do not consider themselves an actual arm of the law.

Certainly more citizens who are discovering through their own contacts practices which are not for the community's good and individuals who constantly break the law are needed to cooperate with law enforcement officers.

Somehow there should be a distinction between tattletale artists and those who are honestly anxious to lend a hand to law enforcement officers.

However, the chances are that most law enforcement men are able, at first glance, to separate the good from the bad as far as citizens' reports are concerned.

Certainly no one wants to see a spy state established where reporting citizens could become more of a nuisance than a help and we believe that such practices should be pointed out by responsible authorities if or when a Community Watch program is established in any community.

Staff Could Do Job

By DAVID R. NELSEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Last week, the state Department of Human Resources announced it has hired a public relations firm to help it find some 55,000 children who need to be inoculated against serious diseases such as polio, measles and diphtheria.

While the state's goal is commendable, the method has raised some questions. In short, why should a state department with a public relations staff of five need to hire an outside firm to do public relations work?

The firm — Wills, Pennington and Associates of Raleigh — will be paid $9,400 for the first three months and the contract could be extended. What the firm is going to do, Gov. Jim Hunt said, is come up with "some new, innovative, imaginative kinds of things to do."

About 16 per cent of Tar Heel children between the ages of one and four have not been immunized, making an epidemic possible. Some parents have been lulled into the false belief that the diseases have been eradicated because immunizations have sharply cut the occurrences.

A federal program has been launched to get those parents to bring their children in for immunizations. Most of them are poor and many are illiterate, authorities say. North Carolina's share of the federal money is $518,000.

Hunt argued that the parents don't read newspapers so other methods of reaching them must be used. And, the public relations staff in the department claims it is too busy and says it doesn't have the expertise to produce radio and television public service announcements.

As to the staff being busy, a visit last week found two persons at work and one absent from his desk for an extended period. The director was out of town on state business and there is one vacancy on the staff.

It would appear that when the new director learns her job and the vacancy is filled, the staff might be able to handle some additional work.

As to expertise, the department could have called on the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters, an organization that often responds to public need.

Also, why didn't the department ask the Department of Public Instruction to insist that the law requiring school children to be immunized be vigorously enforced? Why didn't the department turn to Hunt's Office of Citizen Affairs to get volunteers involved?

Letters could have been written by the agency to religious leaders seeking their support for the program. County social service and welfare agencies could have been asked to make the inoculation program a top priority.

All of that could have been done without hiring a public relations firm. When Hunt said "new, innovative, imaginative kinds of things" are needed, the interpretation can be made that such thinking is in short supply in state government. So, maybe an outside firm is needed.

Good Economic News Remains

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Don't for a minute believe that all the economic news of late is bad, even though a good many seers are holding their heads and moaning that nothing seems to work anymore.

We are still building and buying houses and cars and we are making progress in resolving some of our pollution problems and we are enforcing equality and reducing inflation and making plans to invest in new plants.

It is true that economic expansion is slowing, but so far there is very little to indicate an actual shrinking of the economy is to be expected. A slowing of expansion is still expansion. It is growth, albeit at a slower rate.

That said, there are some very real problems, as distinguished from fears, that we will have to deal with over the next few years, and the solutions aren't going to come easily. When did they ever?

What is to be done with unfair foreign competition, especially from Japan? Talk to businessmen today and they easily reveal their anger about, and even their terror of Japanese imports. Steels, cars, electronic equipment.

Some if not most of America's best brand names in consumer electronics have given up the attempt to compete with the Japanese. Instead they are contracting with them to produce goods abroad to which are then affixed American brand names.

Meanwhile, American steel and electronics equipment makers are laying off workers, some of them claiming at the same time that the Japanese are exporting products at below their true production costs.

Businessmen are also complaining about harassment from a strictly domestic source. Government regulation, they say, has reached the point where it is dictating production, handcuffing marketing and adding to inflation.

Small business too has its complaints. Not only is it being crushed by big business and big labor, says its spokesmen, but it is being inundated by government paperwork requirements which, the spokesmen underscore, is a nonproductive task.

Youngsters are upset about their inability to crack the labor force. Those in their 60s are now determined to stay a while longer, now that discriminatory retirement edicts are giving way. And therein is a serious problem.

When one executive, for example, decides to stay on for five years beyond the old retirement age of 65, he causes to back up behind him scores of other executives who had expected to move up a notch in the company.

Of immediate consequence, delayed retirements will make it all the more difficult to cut into teen-age unemployment, which has become a worldwide problem loaded with possible political consequences, in radicalism, for instance.

We have plenty of problems. We haven't solved our energy shortage. The farmers aren't happy. The stock market is beset by investor doubts and its own structural instability.

But load on all the problems and you still can't say that all economic progress has stopped. Life goes on.

Filibustering Hits Low Point

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — As entertainment, art or education, the Senate filibuster is shot. It hit bottom this time.

No fiery speeches, no record-long orations. Just a bunch of weary, sometimes angry men, hanging around all night for a boring succession of attendance calls and useless votes.

The stall ended with the promise of a compromise on the regulation of natural gas prices after a 37-hour session, which proved that the filibuster is not what it used to be.

First one side, then the other snarled the Senate in parliamentary delays in the battle over the regulation of natural gas prices. They succeeded in proving that the Senate filibuster is not what it used to be.

Maybe it never was. "I have seen a filibuster, but that is when somebody stands up and talks about something, not just dilatory actions," said Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., who has been around for 33 years. "Sure, we have slept here all night, many a night, but there was somebody talking. At least we could come in and get educated once in a while in the course of an evening."

That suggests it is easier to sleep at the Senate when somebody is giving a speech, which probably is true. And it takes all the charity nostalgia can invent to look back with pleasure at the record 24 hours and 18 minutes of oratory contributed by Sen. Strom Thurmond, filibustering against a civil rights bill 20 years ago.

Or, for that matter, the 14-hour speech logged by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., in the filibuster against the 1964 civil rights bill. That produced an all-night session of the Senate, which didn't happen again until last Wednesday.

Ironically, it was Byrd, now Senate majority leader, who ordered this latest run-on session in an effort to break the impasse over energy.

"We've had about enough of this foolishness," said Byrd, the reformed filibuster. "It's making the Senate look bad. Really, it's an outrage."

There usually is an ample supply of outrage around the Senate. It increases sharply when a filibuster starts, whether the stalling tactic is the old-fashioned one of run-on speech-making or, as in the latest case, of parliamentary maneuver.

Whatever the method, the objective is the same: delay, as a minority seeks to block or force changes in legislation that probably would pass if put to a vote.

It once was the tool of Southern conservatives bent on blocking civil rights legislation. But it's there for any senator with a cause, a thick skin and a knowledge of the Senate rule-book.

Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., a leader of the natural gas fil-buster — which was accomplished not with talk but with 508 amendments to tie up the Senate — told his colleagues that any one of them could find themselves in his spot another time.

"I do not know when it will be — they will have an issue that strikes them, that grabs them so hard, about which they will feel so strongly, that they might want to do the same thing."

But it isn't like the old days. The 37-hour energy session, broken by a breakfast recess, was a quickie compared to the 125 hours and 31 minutes the Senate met during a 1960 civil rights filibuster.

Lyndon B. Johnson was majority leader in those days, and he didn't worry about working around the clock. He did provide brief recesses, though. "Every man has the right to a Saturday night bath," he explained.

As for outrage, there's nobody around now who can come close to that of President Woodrow Wilson.

"A little group of wilful men, representing no opinion but their own, have rendered the great government of the United States helpless and contemptible."

That was 60 years ago, after a filibuster blocked an administration bill to permit the arming of merchant ships. Until then, Senate debate was really unlimited. The dispute led to the first cloture rule, under which a two-thirds vote could cut off a debate. It now takes three-fifths.

But that only limits the talking, not the parliamentary maneuvers.

fare you have to fly to Paris first."

"It could be worse," the President said. "They could have taken me to Poland."

Andy looked embarrassed. "They are taking you to Poland. But it will only be for 24 hours. They have to drop off several people in Warsaw."

"It sounds like a long flight."

"Frankly, I don't know how they can do it for $145, but the regular fare is $395 with taxes so we're saving $250. Now on December 2nd you arrive in Brussels, but you can only stay for 24 hours."

"I would think that's enough time. Then I go back to Washington?" the President asked.

"There's no guarantee you can leave the next morning. You have to go back on standby for the return flight. But I was told that at that time of year you won't have any trouble getting on the plane."

"And that's the cheapest way I can go to Brussel?"

"I've checked out all the other charter planes and this is not only the least expensive but also the fastest way to get there."

"You did a good job, Andy, and every taxpayer in America is proud of you."

Israel's behalf: the legal case against her was too obvious.

More important, even though southern Lebanon could have exploded into Arab-Israeli War, it was only a sideshow to the main attraction: reconvening the Arab-Israeli peace conference. It was only one part of the tangled issues, most of them procedural, that must be straightened out before the Israelis and the Arabs can be brought together at Geneva.

Thus, although Mr. Carter played his secret hand brilliantly in this sideshow, the larger issues remain impenetrable and menacing: the role of the PLO, the unavoidable question of a Palestinian homeland and the Arab demand for full Israeli withdrawal from all Arab lands captured in 1967.

Red Tape Hits Cancer Studies

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says red tape is delaying decisions on whether hundreds of chemicals suspected of causing cancer should be banned from the American workplace.

In a plan expected to have a far-reaching impact on business and industry, the Labor Department today proposed eliminating the slow, item-by-item review of suspected carcinogens it says has stymied its work.

Although 1,500 to 2,000 substances have been identified as potentially causing cancer, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has completed regulatory action on only 17 in its five-year history.

The proposal by the Labor Department agency would set standards for identifying and regulating all potential cancer-causing agents, often without the need for lengthy hearings as now required.

"Trying to control carcinogenic substances on a case-by-case basis is like trying to put out a fire with an eye dropper," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said in announcing the plan, designed to pick out those substances that need emergency action.

"This new policy will allow OSHA to respond to threats to workers' health with much greater speed and efficiency," Marshall said.

After public hearings sometime in the next several months, the Labor Department can make the standards permanent.

The new approach is likely to be welcomed by labor and environmental groups, while being opposed by industry.

Enforcement of many standards issued previously by the agency have been delayed through court challenges from business and industry groups.

The Manufacturing Chemists Association opposed an earlier draft of the plan and was expected to object to the final proposal.

The proposal would allow the agency to classify potential cancer-causing chemicals found in the workplace as either confirmed carcinogens, suspected cancer-causing agents or safe.

Such classifications would in turn automatically trigger various degrees of regulatory action.

A confirmed carcinogen would be placed under an immediate temporary standard, with final action on a permanent regulation limiting worker exposure within six months.

Chemicals suspected of causing cancer would trigger a proposed standard that would become final only after public hearings.

TWIRLING GRANNY — Mary Enos, 72, of Ursina, Pa. has been marching with a Ursina band for the past five years. She says it keeps her young and provides a meaning for life. She is grandmother of 13. (AP Laserphoto)

At Burroughs Wellcome Company, we manufacture medicines, and we feel the effect of spiralling health care costs just like everyone else. Anyone who does something to contain those costs is taking on a big job.

"Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina is doing something. We have Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage at our company. And one of the things that sold me on their program was their total commitment to cost containment.

"Health care costs have been going up even faster than the consumer price index. They now account for more than 8% of the GNP. Blue Cross and Blue Shield is addressing this problem...by developing a new contracting agreement with hospitals and other institutions, monitoring utilization of health care facilities, and educating the consumer about his own health care responsibilities. And they are working hard to keep rates as low as possible by screening and validating claims and monitoring hospital and physician's charges.

"Now I know this doesn't mean they can lower their rates to us. But it does help them hold down future increases and pay back more dollars in benefits. I know they're working for better utilization of hospital facilities and area-wide planning to avoid duplication.

"They're also paying three outpatient claims for every inpatient claim...another way of saving expensive hospital beds for people who really need them.

"All these things help, now and for the future. And before you know it, the future will be today. I say, good going, Blue Cross and Blue Shield. You've got my dollar—I'm glad you're spending it wisely."

Wintering calves can be a profitable enterprise for North Carolina cattlemen. Success requires sound management practices to obtain adequate weight gain and feed efficiency. Estimation of operating costs enables cattlemen to determine the maximum price they can afford to pay for feeder calves this fall, given expected stocker prices in the spring. If cattlemen can purchase calves below their maximum or breakeven price, they should consider wintering calves to increase their incomes.

The price outlook is favorable for wintering calves. Fall calf prices are expected to be $42 per cwt this fall and increase $44 per cwt for stockers in the spring. Profitability of a wintering program could increase if calves can be purchased for less than $42 per cwt this fall or if stocker prices are higher than $44 per cent next spring.

A critical factor determining profitability of a wintering program may be the price and availability of forages. Based on the feed prices used in this paper, wintering rations based on silage are more profitable than hay and corn rations. Substitution of corn for droughty corn silage in a ration may increase cost per head, depending upon the prices of silage and corn in a particular area. Producers with limited silage should compare the total profits of feeding a full silage ration to the total profits of increasing the number of calves fed a limited corn silage ration with additional corn grain. Although net returns above operating expenses may be lower per head for the reduced corn silage and corn grain ration, total profit may be higher because of increased numbers. Note that labor and capital requirements are higher for additional calf numbers.

Producers with hay to feed should compare the profits of a full hay-corn ration with the profits of a ration of limited hay and corn. A limited hay wintering program is likely to be more profitable both on a per head basis and on a total profit basis than a full hay-corn ration. If hay prices are high, it may be more profitable to sell the hay rather than winter calves.

Forage supplies and feed prices will vary among individuals. Therefore, cattlemen should calculate their cost and expected returns to determine the profitability of wintering calves for their situation.

Co-Edited Coming Book

ECU News Bureau

A new book on contemporary novelist Kurt Vonnegut co-edited by Donald Lawler of the ECU Department of English is being released this month in hardcover and paperback editions.

"Vonnegut in America," a collection of essays on Vonnegut's life and work, is published in hardcover by Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence of New York and in paperback by Delta.

Dr. Lawler's co-editor is Jerome Klinkowitz, professor of English at the University of Northern Iowa, and author of several studies of fiction and of "The Vonnegut Statement."

The Lawler-Klinkowitz book grew out of the 1975 Modern Language Seminar on the writing of Vonnegut, chaired by Prof. Lawler in San Francisco.

The book has attracted several notable critical comments. "A meaty and informative collection," said "Publishers Weekly." Other notices have appeared in "Kirkus Reviews" and in "The New York Times Book Review."

Dr. Lawler, an associate professor of English at ECU, is the author of "Approaches to Science Fiction," due for publication by Houghton Mifflin in early 1978, and is completing work on a critical edition of Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Gray" for W. W. Norton of New York.

Four Injured In Sunday Wreck

Four persons were reported injured in a 3:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fifth Street and Memorial Drive here yesterday.

Officers reported cars driven by Lottie Joyner Henry of Farmville and Jesse Thomas Dail of Route 1, Hertford collided, injuring both drivers and a passenger in each of the two cars.

Investigators estimated damage at $2,500 to the Henry car and $2,600 to the Dail vehicle.

Dail was charged by police with failing to stop for a red light.

N.C. Weekend Traffic Counts 17 Lives Lost

By The Associated Press

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of 17 persons this weekend in North Carolina, raising the toll for the year to 1,067. The death count last year at this time was 1,104.

The dead:

—Dexter Bryan Marshall, 17, of Louisburg, killed Saturday night when the car he was driving ran off a rural Franklin County road and overturned.

—Cedric Campbell, age unknown, of Middlesex and Harold Lee Whitley, 20, of Middlesex, who died early Sunday morning when the car in which they were riding ran off N.C.39 in Johnston County and overturned.

—Marshall Rotwell, 36, of Maxton, who died Saturday night when he was struck by a vehicle while changing a tire on U.S. 501 near Laurinburg in Scotland County.

—Colvi Irving Plummer, 81, of Greensboro, killed Sunday night when he walked into the path of a vehicle on U.S. 220 near Randleman.

—William Evan Harrell, 57, of Washington, N.C., hit by a car as he walked along U.S. 17 north of Washington Saturday evening.

—Donald R. Agner, 17, of Durham, killed early Sunday when the car he was driving ran off a rural paved road one half mile north of Chapel Hill, hit an embankment and overturned.

—Raymond L. Gregory, 20, of Mocksville, killed Saturday night when the driver of the car in which he was riding lost control on a curve of a rural paved road south of Mocksville and ran off the road.

—Bertha Kurtz, 59, of Dover, N.J., killed near Four Oaks in Johnston County when her car ran off Interstate 95 and struck a bridge abutment.

—Keith E. Davis, 7, of Robbins, killed when he ran into the path of a vehicle on N.C. 705 about four miles north of Robbins.

—Ronald Preston Greene, a child whose age was not given, Glen Alpine, killed near his home when a car door opened and he fell out.

—Wilson M. Brown, 19, Greensboro, killed in a head-on collision on U.S. 421 near Boone when the car in which he was riding reached the crest of a hill in a fog Saturday.

—Haywood L. Blount, 22, of Rt. 2, Apex, killed early Saturday when the car in which he was riding ran off a Wake County rural road and struck a tree as it was being chased by Apex police.

—Valfrid Palmer, 19, of Pelham, N.Y., fatally hurt in a wreck Friday night when he lost control of his vehicle on a Raleigh city street and hit a tree.

—William M. Cain, 26, of Raleigh, killed Friday night as he was trying to pass a car on his motorcycle on U.S. 1 south of Raleigh and hit an oncoming car. The impact threw him under the car he was trying to pass.

—Ashby C. Wade, 18, fatally hurt Friday in a collision on a Jackson County rural road when the car in which she was riding hit another car broadside.

—Charles E. McGee, 23, of Westfield, killed Friday night when his car ran off U.S. 158 in Forsyth County seven miles east of Winston-Salem, hit an embankment and overturned.

Writing Internships Program Is Planned

ECU News Bureau

A program to enable East Carolina University students interested in writing careers to undertake off-campus work experiences is being developed by the ECU Department of English.

The program is an outgrowth of ECU's pre-professional writing curricula and is to be coordinated with the ECU Office of Cooperative Education. Its chief purpose is to place a limited number of students in temporary internships as writers with businesses and industries.

"This effort should lead to job opportunities for fulltime students next year," said Dr. Sally Brett of the ECU English faculty.

ECU students may study the craft of writing in two English programs. One leads to the liberal arts degree in English with a Concentration in Writing, and the other, to a minor concentration in journalism.

Students will seek work opportunities in public relations, editing, writing and publishing for business and industry, as well as news writing for radio, television and newspapers.

Work experiences in journalism are coordinated by Lawrence O'Keefe and Ira Baker of the ECU journalism faculty.

Prepare Course In 'Parenting'

ECU News Bureau

"Systematic Training for Effective Parenting," a non-credit evening course for parents who seek guidance in child-rearing, will be offered at East Carolina University Tuesdays, Oct. 11 - Nov. 29 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Class instructor is Dr. Mel Markowski of the ECU School of Home Economics, an experienced marriage and family counselor.

Further information about the parenting course is available from the office of Non-Credit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N. C., telephone 757-6143.

High Adventure For Climbers

By GEORGE A. THREEWITTS
ECU News Bureau

A pair of East Carolina University rock climbers are finding high adventure in the tall oaks, sycamores and pines that grow on the campus at ECU and even on some buildings and a barbecue pit.

On weekends, usually Sundays, Bob Castle, an ECU Parks and Recreation major from Swan Quarter and Doug Queen of Fayetteville, a Geology student, strap on climbing harnesses and with coils of rope draped over their shoulders, they ascend their way into the tree tops high above the campus mall. Then with ropes looped over high branches and treaded through steel carabiners on their belts, they skillfully rappel their way to the earth's surface again. Sometimes it is a vertical slide of 60 feet and more.

"We got interested in tree climbing last spring," Queen said. "The nearest rocks are five hours away. . . and climbing trees help us stay fit and psychologically accustomed to the height."

They agree that there is a similar amount of difficulty in climbing trees and rocks. A tree, they say, is easier because of the branches, but the hard part is that the branches of most of the oaks on campus are about as high as a three story building. They have to climb straight up to get to them.

A huge oak that towers above most of the other trees has become a favorite for the climbers. They have named it El Capitan after a granite monolith in California's Yosemite Park.

The first branch of the oak is about 25-30 feet up. "It is really hard to get a rope up there," Queen said. "We had to devise all sorts of different techniques."

"We've climbed the tree about five or six times already," he said. "Each time it gets a little easier but still, it is really difficult." Queen said they have also climbed some sycamores and that they have been wanting to climb a certain pine on the wooded campus but so far they haven't been able to get a rope up it.

They explained that the type of climbing that they do is called friction climbing. It is difficult because there are very few hand or foot holes to hang on to.

"You have to kinda like stick to whatever you're climbing," Castle said. "It depends on the kind of boots you are wearing and technique."

For rock climbing, they must travel to the western part of North Carolina. They prefer Stone Mountain State Park near Elkin where the climb is about 600-700 feet long. They also enjoy Table Rock Mountain in the Linville George Wilderness Area. The mountain is more vertical and has holes, ledges and cracks which they say enables them to practice the more traditional or classic rock climbing.

As for the hazards of climbing, the two believe that as long as climbers use good equipment and practice the proper techniques, it is relatively safe. They do caution that television shows might portray climbing as an easy sport. It's not.

While Queen says he would like to climb an eight thousand meter peak such as Nangtatarbat in Nepal, Castle would be more content to scale some of the major rocks in the United States.

"I'd just like to climb as much as I can. It's a personal type of thing. I just want to climb," Castle explained.

Some of their other climbing accomplishments at ECU besides the trees, include rappelling from the top of Ficklen Athletic Stadium, a distance of about 80 feet.

"We used to climb some of the older buildings all the time," said Queen. "But the corners have almost natural ladders that make the climb so regular and even that they are no challenge."

They also climb an old granite barbecue pit located in a wooded section of the campus. The grill enables them to practice their techniques on stone and helps keep their hands in shape and calloused enough to withstand the rigors of rock climbing.

Besides climbing and keeping up their studies at ECU, the two would like to form an outing club. It would be a broad based organization that would offer sports such as canoeing, rock climbing and backpacking. They urged that anyone with ideas or who can offer assistance to contact them at 758-9570 or 758-5279.

Because they are avid climbers, Queen and Castle say that living in the "flatlands" of Coastal North Carolina can be frustrating at times. But the trees offer solace.

"We sort of vent our frustrations on them," says Doug Queen. "They serve a lot of purposes to us really."

"We're like surfers looking for the ultimate wave," Bob Castle said. "Except we're looking for the ultimate tree to climb."

Lonnie Clemons Named Teen Program Coordinator

Lonnie Clemons, native of Greenville and a retired Army sergeant, has been appointed coordinator of the Dial-A-Teen program of REAL House.

REAL Director Billy Harris on Friday announced the appointment, which will be effective Monday, October 3.

"The Dial-A-Teen program," Harris said, "is a Pitt County program for teen-agers. Primarily it is to help young people between the ages of 13 to 19 to find part-time work in after school hours, on weekends and during the summer."

"Another important part of Dial-A-Teen," Harris added, "is to let these young people help others of their age group who have problems, and on occasion to tie in with work of the juvenile court."

Before returning to Greenville recently, Clemons was affiliated with the Petersburg Training School and Hospital in Petersburg, Va. "I worked with juvenile delinquents and with the mentally retarded," Clemons said, "as a technician in psychiatric counseling."

A veteran of 22 years in the Regular Army, Clemons retired as a Staff Sergeant in 1971. While in service, he saw duty in the Korean and Vietnamese conflicts, and served also in Europe, Panama, Okinawa, and on Guam.

He attended extension programs of the Universities of Maryland and Wisconsin, and completed a number of U.S. Armed Forces Institute courses. He was also an instructor in Department of Military Sciences at Army Schools in Ft. Belvoir and Ft. Lee, Virginia.

Persons interested in contacting Clemons relative to possibilities of youth work or juvenile problems are to call 758-4357 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

When Raymond W. Edwards signed up for NCNB Cash Reserve, he got rid of checking account service charges and the paperwork of getting a loan.

Until 1975, about the only way to get no-service-charge checking in North Carolina was to keep a $100 balance in your checking account.

What's more, if your balance ever went to $99, you had to pay a service charge for every check you wrote.

That's how it was in 1975.

Then NCNB introduced the idea of giving you a choice of ways to get no-service-charge checking and, at the same time, give you the benefits of another NCNB service.

We call it The Triple Option, and in two years, thousands of people all over the state have signed up.

Here's how it works:

Option #1: Have $25 or more automatically transferred each month from NCNB Checking to an NCNB Regular Savings Account and get no-service-charge checking.

Option #2: Deposit and maintain $500 or more in NCNB Regular Savings Account and you can get no-service-charge checking.

Option #3: Build a credit cushion into your NCNB Checking Account with Cash Reserve, and you can get no-service-charge checking.

So you can see just how The Triple Option lets you pick the other service that works best for you.

When we introduced it in 1975, it was North Carolina's most flexible no-service-charge checking plan. In 1977, it still is.

Because we want to be your only bank. And we figure that the better service we give you on a checking account, the more likely you are to come to us when you need a loan, or want to open up a savings account or need some other service you may be going to another bank to get.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today, bogging down again after last week's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 12.39 points last Thursday and Friday, dropped back 1.74 to 845.37 by 11:30 a.m. today.

Gainers clung to a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

First-hour volume on the Big Board came to 4.94 million shares.

Last week's upswing from the market's lowest level in more than a year and a half was sparked by a series of favorable economic news developments.

In particular, stock prices seemed to benefit from a stronger-than-expected showing by the government index of leading economic indicators, which rose 0.8 per cent in August.

But relatively little of the buying interest that pushed the market steadily ahead on Friday afternoon carried over into today's session. Analysts said investors apparently remained wary about the outlook for the money supply, Federal Reserve credit policy and interest rates.

Boise Cascade slipped 1/2 to 25 1/4. The company said it would buy about one-third of the stock tendered to it under a $28-a-share offer.

The 11 a.m. NYSE composite index was off .06 at 52.75.

Algiers Airport A Haven

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — A Japanese jetliner under the command of five hijackers and carrying $6 million ransom, 19 hostages and six other terrorists landed in Algiers today after an overnight, two-stop journey from Bangladesh, government officials said.

An official communique said landing permission had been given "at the express demand of the Japanese government and for humanitarian reasons."

The Japan Air Lines plane touched down at 2:20 p.m. local time (10:20 a.m. EDT), airline officials said.

One American was among the captives still aboard the plane.

The hijackers, believed looking for asylum in a sympathetic country, had commandeered the DC8 over India last Wednesday, forced it to land in at Dacca in neighboring Bangladesh, where they released most of their hostages. After a 4 1/2-day siege, they took off from Dacca Sunday, stopping in Kuwait and Damascus, Syria, refueling and freeing more hostages on the way.

There was speculation that if Algeria refused to give the terrorists refuge, they would turn to Libya or South Yemen, the two Arab countries with radical governments which have accepted hijackers and other terrorists in the past. The hijackers are members of the ultra-leftist Japanese Red Army, which works closely with the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Time Extension On Negotiations

TARBORO — Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Communications Workers of America have agreed to extend their work agreement to allow time for further contract negotiations, it was announced by Don Collier, Greenville District Manager.

Collier noted that the CWA contract expired at midnight on Sept. 30.

Approximately 3,050 of the 4,500 Carolina Telephone employees are represented by the union, he pointed out. The members are employees of the Plant and Traffic Departments and include installer-repairmen, construction and equipment maintenance employees, operators and personnel in other classifications, Collier added.

Yanks, Royals Meet For AL Pennant Again

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It took 162 games and six months of struggling, but the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees are right back where they left off a year ago — battling for the American League pennant.

The best-of-five series begins Wednesday in New York with a day game. The two teams play Thursday night in Yankee Stadium and then move to Kansas City for a night game Friday. Then, if they are needed, they'll play a day game Saturday and a night game Sunday. The winner then hosts the first two games of the World Series, which begins in the American League city Tuesday, Oct. 11.

One pitch separated the two division champions a year ago. They went down to the ninth inning of the fifth playoff game before Chris Chambliss blasted a dramatic home run that put the Yankees in the World Series for the first time since 1964.

Both teams suffered through difficult times this season as they sought to repeat their division titles. The Yankees, in a soap-opera atmosphere, had a summer of discontent, often arguing with each other on and off the field. The Royals became involved in a four-team battle in the West with strong and surprising challenges from Texas, Chicago and Minnesota.

In early August, the Yankees, who spent much of the season's early months in third place, seemed to straighten out. The turnaround, which included a string of 40 victories in 50 games, started when Reggie Jackson was inserted into the cleanup spot in the batting order. Jackson, the center of much of the clubhouse controversy, responded with a rash of home runs and runs batted in that pushed his season's total in both departments up among the league leaders.

Third baseman Graig Nettles, voted the club's Most Valuable Player in a poll of the players, swung a lethal bat and catcher Thurman Munson, last year's American League MVP, also supplied plenty of power. Jackson, Nettles and Munson teamed for more than 85 home runs and more than 300 runs batted in.

The attack's table setter was leadoff man Mickey Rivers, the club's leading hitter, whose speed often sets up Yankee rallies.

Chambliss and outfielders Roy White and Lou Piniella rounded out the offense that finished tied for the AL lead in hitting with Boston and Minnesota with a .280 batting average.

The defense was airtight with second baseman Willie Randolph and shortstop Bucky Dent doing an almost flawless job up the middle.

Pitching was the Yankees' problem but three hurlers were consistently outstanding. Slight Ron Guidry demonstrated an explosive fastball that made him the staff's biggest winner and most dependable starter and relievers Sparky Lyle and Dick Tidrow had long stretches in which they pitched almost daily.

Mike Torrez and Ed Figueroa hurled well, but strangely, the best winning percentage on the staff belonged to Don Gullett, who won 14 games despite long stretches when he was sidelined by injuries.

Like the Yankees, Kansas City moved to the top with a hot streak that started in mid-June and never let up until they clinched the division crown on Sept. 23. The Royals played at a 68-24 pace that included streaks of eight, 10 and 16 consecutive victories. The 16-game winning streak was the longest by any major league team in 24 seasons.

The Royals were 28-31, tied for sixth place, seven games behind, when they caught fire. They reached first place for the first time all season on Aug. 20 and then nailed down the title with a sizzling September that included 20 victories in 21 games.

Noseguard Sparks Gamecock Defense

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — It was the South Carolina defense, says East Carolina quarterback Jimmy Southernland, that the Gamecocks a 19-16 football win Saturday over the Pirates.

"You got to give their noseguard (sophomore Roscoe Watson) lots of credit," Southernland said. "He anticipated our count many times. We knew he probably would be the quickest noseguard all year and he hurt us worse than anyone else."

Watson sparked the Gamecock defensive effort in the fourth quarter, shutting down the Pirates' offensive efforts and allowing South Carolina's offense to take over the ball and maneuver into the final scoring opportunity.

The final score came off the toe of Britt Parrish, who says he likes to have a blank mind when he trots onto the field for a kick.

"I tried to block out everything in my mind," Parrish said, including two earlier missed field goals from 32 and 42 yards away.

"I knew I hit on the right spot for it to get there, but then I didn't hear any crowd noise for what seemed like a long time and I got worried," Parrish said.

The field goal went 43 yards, and ended the Pirates' four game winning streak and chances for a perfect record.

Carew Wants Gold Glove

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

While everyone was waiting to see if Rod Carew would hit 400 this season, the Minnesota Twins first baseman had another goal in mind.

"What I want most is to win the Gold Glove award," Carew said. "A Gold Glove would be a perfect cap for the season. I hope the voters don't hold it against me that I've only played first base the last two seasons. I thought I played it as well as any first baseman in the league this year. I think I deserve it."

The Twins' star finished the season in a flurry Sunday, getting three hits in four at bats to wind up with a .388 batting average as Minnesota defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2.

Carew was hitting .400 at midseason. His .388 average is the best in the majors since Ted Williams hit .406 for the Boston Red Sox in 1941. Williams also hit .388 in 1957.

Carew finished with 239 hits, most by a major leaguer since Heinie Manush had 241 for Detroit in 1928, and led the league in runs scored with 128 and triples with 16.

The first baseman knocked in a run with an eighth-inning single, giving him 100 RBI for a season for the first time in his career.

Carew's teammate, Larry Hise, won the RBI title with 119. Another Minnesota batter, Lyman Bostock, was second in batting with .336.

Boston's Jim Rice won the home run championship with 39; Hal McRae of Kansas had the most doubles, 55; Kansas City's Fred Patek led in stolen bases, 52; California's Nolan Ryan paced in the league in strikeouts, 345, while Dennis Leonard of Kansas City, Baltimore's Jim Palmer and Dave Goltz of Minnesota all won 20 games, tops in the AL.

In other AL games Sunday, Cleveland and Toronto split a doubleheader, Toronto winning the opener 2-1 and Cleveland taking the nightcap 5-4; New York edged Detroit 8-7; Seattle nipped Chicago 3-2; Kansas City blanked California 2-0, and Texas downed Oakland 8-7. Baltimore at Boston was rained out.

Blue Jays 2-4, Indians 1-5. Reliever Rick Waits held Toronto to one hit through four innings, striking out one and walking one as Cleveland nipped the Blue Jays in the second game of their doubleheader. In the opener, Gary Woods scored from third on a wild pitch in the 11th inning to give Toronto the victory.

Yankees 8, Tigers 7. Reserve catcher Elrod Hendricks smashed a game-tying, two-run double in the eighth inning and Dell Alston then squeezed home the winning run as New York wound up its season by edging Detroit. Mickey Klutts homered for the Yankees while Ben Oglivie drove in three runs for the Tigers with a home run and a sacrifice fly.

Royals 2, Angels 0. Kansas City right-hander Dennis Leonard captured his 20th victory of the year, blanking California. Leonard scattered six hits, struck out nine and walked one. George Brett homered, his 22nd of the season, for the Royals.

Mariners 3, White Sox 2. Dan Meyer drove in a pair of runs with a single and double to lead Seattle over Chicago.

Rangers 8, A's 7. A two-run double by Kurt Bevacqua sparked Texas' five-run third inning and Bill Fahey knocked in two more runs as the Rangers defeated Oakland.

Pirates, Reds Lose Divisions, But Win Individual NL Races

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds did everything this year but win their division titles — literally.

While the Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers claimed the Eastern and Western divisions of the National League, the Pirates and Reds ran off with all the significant individual races.

Among the winners was John Candelaria, the Pittsburgh left-hander who became the first pitcher since 1965 to lead the league in earned run average and winning percentage while winning 20 games. That puts Candelaria in pretty good company, since Sandy Koufax was the last to do it.

"I think I should have a good chance to win the Cy Young Award," said Candelaria. "No one had a better year."

Candelaria's credentials speak as loud as his words — a 20-5 record for an .800 winning percentage and an ERA of 2.34.

Fans Urged To Buy Soon

Persons wishing to purchase tickets to East Carolina's Homecoming Day game with Southern Illinois this Saturday are being urged to get them early this week, according to Sports Information Director Ken Smith.

Smith said the school is in its final stage of general admission ticket sales and that the situation is "more critical" than in the Pirates' opening game, which saw a more-than-capacity crowd.

Miller Barber First In Napa

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Miller Barber did it with consistency, winning his 10th tournament title just as he has accumulated $1.2 million in his 19 years on the pro golf tour.

"It seems like every time I've been in contention lately, someone comes along and burns the grass off the place," the 46-year-old Barber said Sunday after winning the $200,000 Napa PGA tournament.

Howard Twitty, a 28-year-old pro from Arizona, came up with a searing 62, second best round on the tour this year, but it wasn't enough to beat Barber, who finished with a seven-under-par 65 on the 6,870-yard Silverado Country Club North course.

Barber posted four subpar rounds, including a 66 on the second day, for his 72-hole total of 272, which beat George Archer by two strokes and Twitty by three. Archer, who led the field by four strokes after a 63 Saturday, struggled to a 73 Sunday.

Twitty began the tournament with a 73 and went into the final round 12 strokes from the top before breaking the course record set by Johnny Miller in last year's tournament and tied by Archer Saturday.

"I think I'm still in a state of shock. I wondered how in the world George could shoot a 63 and then shoot a 62," said Twitty, who chipped in two shots for birdies and finished his round by sinking putts of 30 feet and 40 feet on the final two holes.

The only score to better Twitty's 10-under-par round this year was the all-time tour record 59 posted by Al Geiberger in the Memphis Open.

Another top finisher in the Napa event was Tom Watson, the Masters and British Open champion who tied for eighth and picked up $5,225, raising his season-leading money total to $310,000.

Barber has won only 10 tour events in his career, including the Napa tournament in 1969, but Sunday's $40,000 victory pushed him over $100,000 in winnings for the fifth year and raised his all-time total to $1,227,951, ninth highest in the sport.

Steelers, Saints In Wins

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Quarterbacks Archie Manning and Terry Bradshaw used different techniques but the end results for the New Orleans Saints and Pittsburgh Steelers were the same. And after all, the end results are all that really count in the National Football League, according to Detroit Lion Coach Tommy Hudspeth.

Manning ran for three touchdowns and passed for a fourth in New Orleans' 42-24 rout of Chicago Sunday. Bradshaw reversed the method, passing for three TDs and running for another as Pittsburgh defeated Cleveland 28-14. Hudspeth's Lions survived a so-so performance, defeating Philadelphia 17-13.

Besides the Saints' upset of Chicago, underdogs did well in other games. The New York Jets stunned New England 30-27 on a last-minute field goal by Pat Leahy and San Diego upset Cincinnati 24-3 with James Harris passing for 200 yards and two TDs.

Saints 42, Bears 24

Manning scored on runs of 8, 2 and 11 yards and threw a 35-yard TD to Chuck Muncie against the Bears. The Saints also got TDs on 52-yard fumble recovery by Bob Pollard and a 57-yard interception by Jim Merio.

Steelers 28, Browns 14

Bradshaw connected for TD passes of 6 and 14 yards with Lynn Swann and hurled a 65-yarder to Frank Grant. The 33-year-old quarterback also scored the final TD himself on a 1-yard plunge.

Lions 17, Eagles 13

Dexter Faussey scored with Lion TDs, one on a 14-yard sweep and the other on a 3-yard pass from Greg Landry as Detroit subdued Philadelphia.

"We didn't play well. I'll grant that," said Hudspeth. "But we won the ball game. That's what counts."

Jets 30, Pats 27

Leahy's 32-yard field goal with 23 seconds left came after the Jets had stripped the ball away from Mike Haynes following a punt.

It was the second straight loss for the Patriots, who bowed by the same score to Cleveland last Monday night.

Chargers 24, Bengals 3

Harris hit ex-Bengal Charlie Joiner on touchdown passes of 30 and 15 yards as the Chargers surprised slumping Cincinnati. Harris scored the other Charger TD on a one-yard plunge as the Bengals lost their second game in three starts.

Dolphins 27, Oilers 7

The Dolphins stung the Oilers for three touchdowns in the first period and then coasted to their victory behind quarterback Bob Griese.

Duriel Harris caught five Griese passes for 87 yards and Benny Malone carried 17 times for 84 yards for Miami.

Vikings 19, Packers 7

Viking Coach Bud Grant picked up his 100th regular season victory despite a fired-up Green Bay defense that sacked Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton four times for 53 yards.

"It was as good a pass rush as I've seen in awhile," said Tarkenton, who nevertheless completed 19 of 27 passes for 184 yards and directed three long scoring marches.

Broncos 24, Seahawks 13

The Broncos won their third straight with veteran quarterback Craig Morton passing for 181 yards and running for 35 more against the winless Seahawks. Morton threw a 47-yard TD pass to Rob Lytle and also scored on a 1-yard run.

Skins 24, Cards 14

Billy Kilmer tossed touchdown passes of 12 yards to Frank Grant, 27 yards to Jean Fugett and 53 yards to John Riggins as the Redskins jolted the Cardinals.

Rams 34, 49ers 14

John Cappelletti and Lawrence McCutcheon scored two close-in touchdowns each leading the Rams past the 49ers. Three of the four TDs came from one yard out and the other — McCutcheon's first — was from the six.

Cowboys 23, Bucs 7

Colorful linebacker Thomas Henderson took an interception 77 yards for a Cowboy touchdown as Tampa Bay lost its 17th consecutive regular season game.

Efren Herrera kicked field goals of 32, 19 and 20 yards to seal the Dallas victory.

Colts 17, Bills 14

Bert Jones completed 20 of 30 passes for 175 yards and hit Don McCauley on a 15-yard aerial for the clinching TD as the Colts topped the Bills. It was the 13th straight regular season loss for Buffalo.

Falcons 17, Giants 3

The Falcons sacked Giant quarterbacks nine times for 81 yards as Atlanta's defense sparked.

"I can remember when we've gone seven games without getting nine sacks and that was not too long ago either," said veteran defensive end Claude Humphrey.

Waltrip Gets 'Easy' Wilkes

Darrell Waltrip

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip took time after his Wilkes 400 victory Sunday to poke some verbal jabs at Cale Yarborough, the man he beat by seven seconds.

"We've got a thing going now called the Cale Scale, which is a rating of the degree of difficulty in each race. And on the Cale Scale from one to 10, I'd rate this one about one," the Owensboro, Ky. driver quipped.

A week ago Yarborough had criticized short-track races as being too long, too demanding, too exhausting.

Waltrip pushed off pressure from Yarborough through the final 48 miles after Richard Petty rammed into a pit road guard rail and was forced to bow out. The Randleman driver lost control and wrecked as he tried to dodge Bobby Allison on lap 242 of the 400-lapper at the North Wilkesboro Speedway.

At the time of the crash, Petty had a half-lap lead on Wal-trip and was pulling away. Petty was uninjured in the accident, but is still recovering from rib injuries suffered in a wreck in late August.

Benny Parsons' chance for victory was also wiped out by the Petty crash. After Petty slammed into the guard rail, his car spun onto the track and was hit by Parsons' Chevrolet. Parsons lost several laps while his crew repaired the damage and he finished fifth.

Following Petty's crash, Wal-trip and Yarborough were the only two in the lead lap.

Lady Bucs Finish 4th

FAYETTEVILLE — East Carolina's women's tennis team, sorely missing top-seeded Debbie Spinazzola, finished fourth in the Methodist Invitational Tennis Tournament which concluded here Saturday.

The Lady Pirates were able to capture the number two doubles championship with Louise Snyder and Diane Keough teaming to beat Meredith's Randle and Breedlove in the finals, 6-0, 7-5. The pair had an easy time in both the first round and semifinals, taking Denkins and Gonzales of Atlantic Christian in the opening round, 6-0, 6-2, and Gunsallus and Crawford of Methodist by the same score in the semis.

Dorcus Sunkel was the only other Lady Pirate to make it to the finals. She was beaten in the number four singles championship by High Point's Temma Allen, 6-3, 7-5. Sunkel beat Susan Best of Atlantic Christian, 6-0, 6-0, in the opening round and avenged an earlier loss to Methodist's Cynni Finn in the semifinals, 6-1, 6-1.

Diane Keough, Marie Stewart and Susan Helmer all won first round matches, but were defeated in the semifinals. Helmer and Ginny Gainey, teaming at number three doubles, won their opening match also, but lost in the semis.

Gainey and Snyder, playing number one and two, respectively, each bowed in the first round. Snyder, however, came back to win in the consolation round.

"We surely missed Debbie (Spinazzola) out there today," coach Cynthia Averett said following the tourney. "She was there giving the girls support. But we were weakened by not having her. I hope she can come back from her injury (infected toe) real soon."

"The entire team played well, some to the top of their ability. Every team up here was stronger than last year."

High Point won the championship, while Methodist finished second. Meredith took third, one point over the Lady Pirates.

doing it. But when the Pirates keep their defense on the field for nearly two-thirds of a half, that will tell—and it did.

When that defensive unit finally came off the field for the last time, it was thoroughly exhausted. Heat, humidity and time had taken its toll.

With the inability of the offense to mount any sort of drive in the second half, the Pirates couldn't hold off the Gamecocks down the stretch.

That they did for so long is a tribute to the defense. And the fact that East Carolina's offense showed earlier in the game that it could move against South Carolina proved that the day when the Pirates can stand behind such teams totally equal in every respect is not far in the future.

A little more depth will mean a lot for the future. And Pat Dye has already said that next year's team will be the best he's had.

What Will Follow?

What the future holds in store for the Pirates is something that only the team can decide.

The loss to South Carolina was a bitter one. It spoiled the hopes for an unbeaten season. Whether it will kill the Pirate chances for a bowl bid remain to be seen. Six more games await East Carolina before that will be decided.

Losing to South Carolina is nothing to be ashamed of. The Gamecocks are good, make no mistake about that.

Winning the remaining games will be important to the Pirates. Homecoming is next against Southern Illinois, a team with a 2-3 record. Another overflow crowd in Ficklen seems assured.

Unless the Pirates do let down the rest of the way, they should be favored to win the remainder of their games. None of them will be easy, however.

Southern Illinois will want to knock off the Bucs to erase some old memories. Next comes Richmond, always tough on the Pirates. Then, a road game against The Citadel, another former Southern Conference foe that never bows easily.

Southwestern Louisiana, a team with one of the sharpest passing attacks in the country is next, and they will bring an outstanding record into Ficklen.

After that come two old foes who would like nothing better than to polish off the Bucs simply for defeats last year. They are Appalachian State, played in Boone, and William & Mary to be played in the Oyster Bowl.

Desire and pride will probably be the key factors from here on in.

Pat Dye's teams have posted successive 7-4, 8-3, and 9-2 records. Unless the Pirates give up, they should be 10-1 this season when it's all over.

The abrupt turn-around of the football game Saturday afternoon between East Carolina and South Carolina could really have been caused by something that wasn't there.

South Carolina, a team with established tradition that goes back years, is a major institution. They are big time football, there is no doubt.

East Carolina, which is trying to shake off the mantle of the little school "down East," played the Gamecocks to the wire in the game, giving them all they wanted.

Gamecock coach Jim Carlin repeated several times in post-game interviews that East Carolina was the best team he's seen this year. And that includes Southeastern Conference power Georgia, only an 18-10 loser to Alabama this past weekend.

What finally made more difference in the game was the fact that South Carolina was able, with its deeper manpower, to wear down the Pirates, who must make do with much less depth, at least on the offensive side of the ledger.

Defensively, the Pirates played South Carolina just as well as they could and did a good job of

UNC-Greensboro Tops Lady Pirates

GREENSBORO — UNC-Greensboro's field hockey team ran its record to 3-0 Saturday when it defeated East Carolina 3-1 in a Division I NCAAIAA matchup here.

UNC-G got one goal in the first half and two in the second, as the Lady Pirates scored their lone goal after intermission. Jill Masterman, Leslie Carron and Cassie Chlad all tallied for UNC-G, while Sue Jones picked up the ECU goal.

The Lady Pirates had more penetration time (time spent inside the opponent's 25-yardline), but the host club tallied twice on fast breaks to come up with the winning margin.

The Lady Bucs drop to 1-2 for the season and 0-2 in Division I. They play again tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 when they host UNC-Chapel Hill.

Oakland Favored Over Chiefs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two of Monday night football's most consistent winners, Oakland and Kansas City, tangle tonight with the Raiders favored by as many as 14 points.

The Chiefs, who have lost only twice in nine Monday night appearances, are winless in two outings this year. The injury-depleted Raiders, 8-1-1 for Monday night, have not lost a regular season or postseason game in a year.

A crowd of about 50,000 was expected for the 9:05 EDT kickoff, the 35th meeting in the once-bitter rivalry which dates to the birth of the old AFL 17 years ago.

Oakland, the defending Super Bowl champion, lost offensive tackle John Vella and linebacker Phil Villapiano in last week's 16-7 victory over Pittsburgh. Defensive back Jack Tatum was also on the questionable list.

"Any time you lose a player or players like these, it has got to hurt you," said Raider Coach John Madden. "But that's one thing we've felt that we've always had, pretty good depth. Now it's going to be tested."

The Chiefs, 5-9 the past three seasons, fashioned a 3-3 exhibition record this year and sparked hope that their much advertised rebuilding program was beginning to bear fruit. But a season-opening loss at New England and last week's 23-7 shelling by San Diego have put the Chiefs in danger of another dismal year.

"We are in the process of growing and we are aware of that," said Coach Paul Wiggin. "I think we've got to evaluate just what our team is all about right now."

The evaluation resulted in free agents shoving two veteran linemen off the first team. Bob Simmons will start ahead of Charlie Getty at left guard and Cliff Frazier has wrested the left defensive tackle job from Willie Lee.

The Chiefs are also wrestling with injury woes. For the second game in a row, Ricky Wesson, another free agent, will be Kansas City's only healthy reserve in the defensive secondary.

Sanderson Nips Rose

RALEIGH — Sanderson High School won the final two doubles matches Saturday afternoon to defeat Rose, 5-4 in a tennis match here.

The Rampettes took the first two singles events and the top doubles match for a 4-3 lead going into the last two doubles.

The loss was the fourth against two wins for the Rose team, which will travel to Roanoke Rapids tomorrow.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1977

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time for all sorts of new beginnings and arrangements where health, wealth and attachment are concerned. You are able to add to your success and prosperity by combining the best from the past with new and modern formulas and means for getting ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan how to make your home more comfortable. Some new interest should be studied carefully, also.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Gather the information you need that will help you do a finer job at regular work. Change your attitude and get better results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get your ideas working intelligently so that you can become more prosperous in the future. Modernize old and tried methods and get better results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are using good judgment and can now make plans for expansion that have been difficult before this. Let friends know your aims and gain their cooperation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can make concrete plans for gaining personal wishes because you have backing you need now. You are also able to have an excellent rapport with mate, loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good friends can be helpful in gaining personal wishes, so contact them early. Get into group affairs that bring greater happiness and enjoyment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try to please bigwigs more and advancement comes easily now. Strive to be more of a perfectionist.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Seek new interests that will help you to advance more quickly in your career. Get new appliances that make your work more efficient.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you keep your promises and avoid possible trouble. Don't argue with loved one, but be willing to do more instead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can make fine arrangements for the days ahead with associates. Put finest talents to work and impress others favorably.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk over future plans with fellow workers and gain their cooperation. Be careful of strangers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Meet with good friends during spare time and enjoy mutual happiness. Some exceptional talent you have can be put in motion with excellent results. Stay within your budget.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have excellent judgment and can get practical matters and good ideas working nicely and can please the public in general. Teach early to accept delays philosophically and avoid getting a martyr complex.

Pesticides, Bears Worry Beekeepers

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tobacco farmers' moans about freezing winters and droughts are nothing compared to the agony of beekeepers in the Carolinas, who face attacks from bears and pesticides in addition to the weather.

"In Eastern North Carolina, bears and bees go together," sighed Red Springs beekeeper David Rattley.

Rattley tends more than 350 beehives and has been fighting off bears for years. Last December two young bears destroyed 15 of his hives, and he was forced to string electric fences around the hives.

"That works for most bears," said Richard Hamilton, assistant director of the North Carolina Wildlife Commission. "However, some bears are oblivious to electric fences. They go crazy when they smell honey."

A more modern tale of woe for beekeepers is the increasing toxicity of pesticides used in neighboring fields.

A Tillman, S.C., farmer recently sprayed his soybeans to protect them from Army worms, but he forgot to warn his neighbor H.O. Morris, president of the South Carolina Beekeepers Association.

The soybeans were in bloom, and bees from 28 of Morris' 250 hives were drawing nectar from the flowers. The pesticide rid the fields of bees and worms.

If Morris had known about the spraying earlier, he could have moved his hives to keep them from his neighbors' fields.

The combined effect of beekeepers' many difficulties will mean between five to 10 per cent higher honey prices for consumers next year, according to state officials.

1NT Pass Pass Dble.
Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Bid two spades. Had partner's double been in the direct seat, i.e., immediately behind the no trump bidder, you would have been delighted to pass for penalties in the expectation of a substantial pickup. In the balancing seat, however, partner's double does not promise more than an opening bid, which makes it too close to play for penalties, especially since partner's values are in front of the no trump bidder.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦62 ♠AK1095 ♠954 ♦K82
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 1♥ 1♦
1NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Since partner was not forced to bid over the interference, his voluntary offering of one no trump should show a hand that is better than minimum. You have a useful hand, and your action should be dictated by your partner's nature. If he is a timid soul, take the pressure off him by jumping to three no trump; if he is aggressive, two no trump will do.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
3♦ Pass 2NT Pass
3♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Your hand has turned to gold! You have a superb fit for partner's second suit and a key card in his first-bid suit. Unfortunately, you have no cue-bid available to show how much your hand has improved. Therefore, we suggest you jump to five spades. Partner will realize that the only thing that could have brought you to life after a negative first response is a fit for both his suits but no outside control.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A107 ♠84 ♠954 ♦AKJ92
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass
3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—With two aces and a king, you have a very good hand for partner despite the fact that you have only two cards in his suit. On this auction, you can surely expect him to hold a long, strong suit. Slam cannot be ruled out, and we suggest you cue-bid three spades before supporting hearts to tell partner you would not be averse to slam if he feels so inclined.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

New MTM Sitcom Not Up To Usual Standard

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another new sitcom eased in over the weekend — CBS' "We've Got Each Other." It was El Doggo, even though it was made by the Mary Tyler Moore works, which usually has classy wares.

A Saturday night effort, the show has Oliver Clark and Beverly Archer as a married couple. She works for a fashion photographer (Tom Poston). He toils at home as a copywriter for a mail-order house.

The scheduled premiere show started by rousing her at dawn with a new clock Clark was testing for his boss, a purveyor of crazy gadgets. The clock didn't ring or buzz. It screamed. Okay.

Then he made breakfast, she got ready for work. A crisis developed. You knew that when her employer's top model, a dense, nasty blonde played by Joan Van Ark, called and said she had a crisis.

She said her car was broken. It turned out to be a flat tire. Miss Archer went to retrieve her and bring her to work, as Poston was to shoot a big fashion spread that day.

Miss Archer — seen last season as a staff daughter on ABC's first flop version of "The Nancy Walker Show" — always runs such errands for the model, we learned, and seems to hate the chore.

So when she and Miss Van Ark arrived at the office, verbal sniping occurred. Miss Van Ark demanded an apology. Miss Archer refused. Miss Van Ark demanded she be fired. Poston said, "What?"

Miss Archer quit. For the rest of the show, Poston, playing an absent-minded genius, floundered about. So did the rest of the cast. They seemed to be waiting for Godot or a gag. Neither arrived.

A neighbor of Our Couple, sporting a T-shirt that said "Pools by Ken," did arrive, though. He said he'd had a fight with his wife over some hot dogs. Then he withdrew.

Poston had the best line in the show. For the record, it went: "A vacation. That's what you need, a nice long vacation. Take an hour."

The actors were okay. But the script by Tom Patchett and Jay Tarses, creators of the series, needed something extra, like maybe a visit to a bonfire.

It was feeble, weaker than even the weakest sitcom of the mid-1950s. Unless drastic improvement occurs, I fear the outlook for "We've Got Each Other" is oh, no, you don't.

As of today, the "CBS Morning News" has a new co-anchor—the capable Leslie Stahl, who'll do the yawn patrol from Washington while Hughes Rudd continues his fine work from that place where the lights go out.

Ms. Stahl succeeds Bruce Morton. He wanted to return to regular reporting. He'd succeeded Sally Quinn, who fled back to the Washington Post after less than a year of peering at the camera.

Ms. Stahl, arrives quietly, without the lavish buildup CBS News gave Ms. Quinn several years ago. Come to think of it, though, Bruce Morton arrived quietly and without a lavish buildup, too.

I don't know the moral of this. Must everything have a moral?

Large Group TV Log Of Pledges

ECU NEWS BUREAU

One hundred and twenty East Carolina University students have been named as "pledges" to ECU's eight social sororities.

Names of the new pledges were announced after ECU's annual fall sorority "rush period," which involved ECU's chapters of the following sororities:

Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Pi, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

"This is the largest group of pledges we've had at ECU in seven years," said Pamela Willingham Holt, Panhellenic Advisor at ECU.

She attributed the increase to an intensive promotion campaign undertaken by the campus sororities, which emphasized sorority house meal programs and facilities advantages of sorority membership.

The increase in interest shown by ECU students in sorority membership is part of a nationwide trend, said Ms. Holt.

Greenville students include: Eva Pittman, Sigma Sigma Sigma; Tina Longnecker and Becky Snyder, Alpha Delta Pi;

Ann Haigwood and Cristina Priestly, Chi Omega; and Connie Ball, Alpha Delta Pi.

Knauer Teaching Businessmen

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — After eight years of representing consumers in the White House, Virginia Knauer is trying to teach businessmen some of the lessons she learned about the American shopper.

She has opened a Washington-based consulting agency to help companies and individuals deal with the demands and needs of consumers in areas ranging from product complaints to environmental worries.

In a recent interview, Mrs.

Knauer said businesses are concerned primarily with "how better to communicate with the consumers. Banks are interested in how better to explain to women depositors how to take advantage of the new laws (on women and credit) ... The utilities are interested in how to get consumer reaction on variable rates. ..."

Mrs. Knauer said the attitude of business has changed since she joined the federal government. She said there was an "early resistance ... to changes to accommodate the consumer point of view." During her time in the White House, she said, "I saw a complete coming around to the realization ... that the smart businessman, when he used consumerism as another innovative marketing tool, would find it financially beneficial."

While inflation is still the single most important concern of consumers, Mrs. Knauer said there have been some changes in attitude. There is "a growing sophistication," not only in terms of buyers' rights, but in terms of what those rights will cost, she said. "Consumers are becoming sophisticated enough (to know) that when they ask for certain new protection, they're going to pay for it, not manufacturers (who) pass on these costs."

Mrs. Knauer, whose government title was director of the Office of Consumer Affairs and special assistant to the president for consumer affairs, was criticized during her tenure for what some felt was her favoring of the voluntary approach to consumer protection while not pushing strongly enough for legislative action.

She said she still believes in encouraging businesses to act on their own to protect consumers, although "the goad (of possible legislative action) always should be there."

Mrs. Knauer also came under attack from some activists for switching her position on an independent agency for consumer affairs. She supported such an agency, then, when President Ford proposed instead the creation of consumer representation divisions within existing departments, changed her view.

She said she is convinced that Ford was right. "I think the time has come and gone as far as the agency bill is concerned," she said, noting that proposals for such an agency — supported by President Carter — have run into unexpectedly strong opposition this year.

Mrs. Knauer also contended that while the Carter administration has the image of being more attuned to consumer interests than its predecessors, consumers actually have less of a voice than before.

She noted that she served on several Cabinet-level bodies such as the Cost of Living Council and said her successor, Esther Peterson, does not seem to have that kind of input in policy making.

Birds In Pictures And Books Part Of His Life

By MAUREEN CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
WAYNE, Maine (AP) — Ornithologist Olin Sewall Pettingill Jr. surrounds himself with his work, in a house filled with pictures and books of the birds he has spent half a century studying, writing about and photographing.

The former director of Cornell University's ornithology laboratory and wildlife filmmaker for Walt Disney is the noted author of books that have helped students and amateur bird watchers for years.

Pettingill, who is 69, has a comfortable, Victorian-era house by the water in this lakeside community. Outside, there is little indication of his life-long devotion to birds. But inside, the walls, floors and furniture are covered with paintings and small wooden and porcelain sculptures of birds. Eagles grace a rug, an owl mobile hangs in the kitchen and ducks are imprinted on light switches and lampshades.

He laughs telling visitors how as youngsters, his two daughters complained they were tired of seeing only birds throughout the house, and asked their parents to consider another decorating scheme.

The walls of his study are covered with hundreds of bird guides and textbooks.

Pettingill, called Sewall by friends, recently completed a revision of his popular Guide to Bird Finding East of the Mississippi, first published in 1951, and is rewriting his similar Western handbook.

The books tell bird watchers the best spots to find certain species.

"When I wrote those books, I had no idea that in 25 years I would be doing it all over. There have been appalling changes in bird life and the environment. Many fine areas for birds are gone," he said.

After learning that prime sites named in his earlier books have become highways and shopping centers, Pettingill's new books will focus more on sanctuaries and public areas that he hopes will remain untouched for some time.

His films of penguins attracted the attention of Walt Disney, then starting his True Life Adventure series. He called on Pettingill for a film on penguins and later for several other wildlife films.

Pettingill made the penguin movie on the Falkland Islands, 300 miles off the southern tip of South America. He has made several trips to the Falklands since to photograph the penguin.

His wife, Eleanor Rice Pettingill, who died earlier this year, described a Falkland visit in her book, "A Penguin Summer." She was her husband's companion and helper throughout his career.

Although he claims no favorite bird, Pettingill likes seabirds, the penguin, puffin and albatross, and birds of the prairie, especially the American woodcock. "Seabirds stir my excitement," he said.

He keeps no live birds at his house, but has boxes for tree swallows and several feeders at his nearby summer house. He said he likes watching birds feed by his window while he has breakfast or lunch.

"Birds are very useful in a number of ways," he said. "They are monitors of the environment. They are with us where ever we go, except for the far reaches of the arctic, and sometimes, the midocean."

Privette Is Talking Race

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. Coy Privette, president of the Baptist City Convention, says he's considering running for the General Assembly next year.

"I know the ways of the General Assembly," Privette told the News and Observer of Raleigh.

Privette, who unsuccessfully sought the Republican gubernatorial nomination, said friends have asked him to consider running for the 8th District congressional seat held by Rep. William G. (Bill) Heffner, D-N.C., or one of three General Assembly seats from Cabarrus and Union counties.

The newspaper said Privette would decide whether to run by January. In Washington, the minister said, he would have less impact as a congressman.

"I'm not sure what door you even get it. The only door I know is the one for the tourists," he said.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., will be up for re-election next year on the Republican ticket, and Privette said that wouldn't hurt his chances.

Helms has run strong in Cabarrus and Union counties, although both have large Democratic majorities.

Incumbents in the legislative seats are Betty Thomas and Dwight Quinn of Cabarrus County and Aaron Plyler of Union County, all of whom are expected to seek re-election.

Put Priority On Benefits

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Benefits, not money, will be the top priority for the International Longshoremen Association in negotiating for a new contract with the state ports, union officials say.

"Money's not too important," said Leroy Guthrie of Local 1807 in Morehead City. "It's the benefits we're after."

Gov. Jim Hunt has said he would oppose the union's demands for a closed shop in today's opening negotiations.

A closed shop, when workers must be union members, and government negotiations with unions are both outlawed under state statutes, but federal law allows both and takes precedence over state regulations.

State ports fall under the National Railway Labor Act which requires collective bargaining and allows closed shops.

Heart and Vascular Diseases (I)

Heart disease, stroke, and disorders of the blood vessels are major targets for physicians everywhere. Certainly, they rank equal in importance to the massive problem of cancer.

Despite all of the educational campaigns, there still are areas of confusion about the causes of heart disease and its allied vascular problems. Until this confusion is removed, men and women everywhere will continue believing that such catastrophes will not happen to them.

A severe heart attack or a severe stroke may be fatal when one of the blood vessels that brings blood and oxygen to the heart or to the brain suddenly becomes completely blocked.

The sudden onset of such a calamity does not mean that the disease of the blood vessels began at that moment. The onset of heart attacks, strokes and vascular diseases frequently begins many, many years before the so-called attack occurs.

Arteriosclerosis is a condition that affects the arteries. They become narrower, and instead of being soft and elastic, they harden.

Atherosclerosis is a subdivision of arteriosclerosis. Actually, atherosclerosis is the real troublemaker. Fatty deposits and calcium begin to line the blood vessels and set up the process of narrowing. The result is that the normal flow of blood through these arteries is considerably slowed down. The greater the narrowing, the greater the reduction of the blood supply. The greater the reduction of the blood supply, the greater is the chance of having a heart attack or a stroke.

If the calcium deposits continue to become thicker, the blood supply with its life-giving oxygen does not properly arrive at its destination in the heart muscle.

Similarly, if the arteries going from the heart to the brain are markedly narrowed, a portion of the brain becomes starved for lack of blood and oxygen and a stroke then follows.

When the heart's pumping ability falls below normal, because of its own oxygen starvation, a whole set of problems are set in motion. The lungs begin to develop a backwash of fluid, swelling of the ankles and legs occurs, shortness of breath follows, and pain in the chest (angina) becomes prominent.

When the brain becomes oxygen starved, speaking and walking may become difficult, loss of memory may occur, and many of the bodily movements are interfered with.

These are the portraits of coronary heart disease and of strokes. Although they occur in different parts of the body, the underlying process of narrowing of the arteries is responsible for both.

Hussein Picks Fourth Wife

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Jordan's King Hussein has chosen a physician to become his fourth wife, a Beirut newspaper reports.

The newspaper, As Safir, quoted reliable sources on Sunday as saying the king will marry Lana Badreddin, daughter of former Lebanese parliament member Ali Badreddin, in a few days.

The royal palace in Amman declined to comment on the report.

The paper reported Miss Badreddin caught the 41-year-old king's fancy several months ago when she appeared in a medical debate on Jordan's national television. Later, she joined the administration of Al Hussein hospital in Amman. She has been a frequent palace visitor, As Safir said.

Hussein and two former wives have been divorced. His third wife, Alia Toqan, died in a helicopter crash near Amman last February.

SHOWTIME

Disney's 'Treasure Of Matecumbe' Was Almost Peter Ustinov's Last

GREAT HEALER — Dr. Ewing T. Snodgrass (Peter Ustinov), a purveyor of patent medicines, extols healing secrets of a great Indian Chief in a scene from the television premiere of "Treasure of Matecumbe," a two-hour special airing on "The Wonderful World of Disney," Sunday, Oct. 2 (7-8 p.m.), on NBC-TV.

Burnett Is Surprised

When "The Carol Burnett Show" began its eleventh season this fall, it wasn't just "Another opening, another show," as the song goes. It was the beginning of a very special season with a very special new co-star for the personable comedienne — Dick Van Dyke, well-known show business personality who's equally at home in comedy or drama.

Also featured on "The Carol Burnett Show" (Saturdays, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV) are Vicki Lawrence and Tim Conway.

What surprises Carol most of all about her show is that it has actually begun its eleventh year. "In the beginning, CBS kept telling me just to do a half-hour situation comedy," she recalled recently, "and I didn't want to do that. Joe (her husband and the show's producer, Joe Hamilton), and I both preferred a comedy-variety show and an hour one. If I was going to be a flop, I wanted to flop on my own terms. We finally talked them into going along with us."

Happily that 'flop' turned out to be a successful, multi-award winner, and "The Carol Burnett Show" is now the longest-running variety show on prime-time network television.

What's the key to the show's success? Ask any member of the cast and crew, and you'll get the same answer — immediately:

"Carol, of course."

Naturally, she denies this, dismissing her talents by simply saying, "I'm still a star-struck kid."

Characteristically, Carol credits the show's success to Hamilton. "After all, he IS the boss, and he's a lot smarter than I am," she quips.

Van Dyke has been a frequent guest on Carol's show and has become a regular member of the cast with amazing ease. "My only problem is coming up with an idea that's new. Each time I mention a routine to the writers, they say: 'We've done that,' or 'Yeah, that worked great a few years ago with so-and-so.'"

"Treasure of Matecumbe" is Peter Ustinov's fourth film for Walt Disney Productions and at one point it was almost his last. The 1976 movie makes its television premiere on "The Wonderful World of Disney," Sunday, Oct. 2, at 7 p.m., in a special two-hour presentation on NBC-TV.

"I was doing a hurricane sequence in the picture," he said. "My feet sank in the sand, and when I was hit by a few hundred gallons of water I couldn't move. I did an elegant curtsy and crumpled with torn ligaments in my left ankle. I was off the picture and in a plaster cast for five weeks."

Joining Ustinov in the cast, of the film that is, are Robert Foxworth, Joan Hackett, Vic Morrow and Mouseketeer Billy "Pop" Atmore in this exciting action adventure that takes two young boys on a perilous journey down the Mississippi River toward Florida in search of pirates' gold.

Peter Ustinov "crumpled" resembles a monolith hit by the wrecker's ball. He is a rock of a man, six feet tall, with splendid, sculptured features. His heart, however, is soft. He labors tirelessly for UNICEF, an international agency sponsored by the United Nations which deals with children in need, and travels with a diplomatic certificate in his passport identifying him as a goodwill ambassador to the world.

Good actor that he is, however, Ustinov cannot be measured by that talent alone. He is also producer, director, playwright, scenarist, novelist, recording artist, illustrator, linguist and vintner. Consequently he is never idle.

"Occasionally I disappear for three or four months and do nothing except write and fill up the tank," he conceded.

Musical Special Stars Legendary Singing Idol

"Elvis in Concert," a musical special starring the legendary musical phenomenon, Elvis, will be broadcast Monday, Oct. 3, 8 to 9 p.m., on CBS-TV.

The entertainment special, highlighting Elvis' music and mystique, was videotaped this summer at concerts at the Omaha Civic Center in Omaha, Neb., and the Rushmore Plaza Civic Center in Rapid City, S.D.

The program conveys the particular excitement and electricity generated by this master showman. Also captured are the other unique aspects of an Elvis concert, including the ecstatic audiences and the simultaneous blend of precise musical preparation and infectious carnival atmosphere.

Elvis' career is a part of popular history. The hysteria at his concerts, the controversy after his "Ed Sullivan Show" appearance, the long string of gold records, and the most publicized haircut since Samson — all were carried in nationwide headlines.

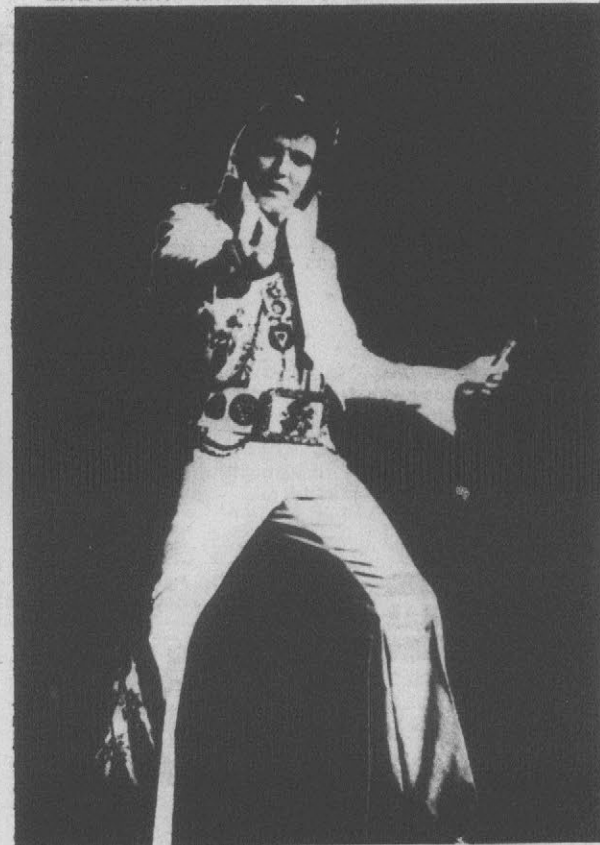

Elvis is estimated to have sold over 500 million singles and albums through 1975, more than any other recording star. He has had 55 singles that were million-sellers worldwide and 24 certified gold albums. The long list of familiar song titles that he made famous includes "Heartbreak Hotel," "Hound Dog," "Don't Be Cruel," "All Shook Up," "In the Ghetto" and "Suspicious Minds." His recent album "Moody Blue" is currently high on the charts.

While the Elvis of nostalgia is a hard-rocking teen idol, the special displays the wide range of his talent and repertoire. The mellow Elvis turns his distinctive style to good use in strong renditions of popular standards, country and western favorites, and gospel songs and past hits.

"Elvis in Concert" is as much concerned with style as with unmistakable talent. The disarming combination of the supreme confidence of a superstar with the boyish smile of the kid next door, the Elvis mystique and his performing magnetism.

This summer, television cameras captured the excitement of an Elvis performance for "Elvis in Concert," a musical special to be broadcast Monday, Oct. 3 (8-9 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

ANOTHER CELEBRITY CIRCUS

A two-hour celebrity circus special, "The Second Annual Circus of the Stars" will be produced for CBS-TV, with taping the first week in October.

The show will air in early December.

'October Magazine' Premieres

"October Magazine," the season-premiere edition of the CBS News informational daytime series on subjects of particular interest to women, will feature segments on medical catastrophes, prisoners' wives, and the private life of television game show host Bob Barker, Thursday, Oct. 6, 10 to 11 a.m. Sharon Lovejoy is anchorwoman.

According to the government, any illness that costs a family more than 15 percent of its annual income is classified as a medical catastrophe. But David and Marie Dayhoff of Virginia Beach, Va., measured their medical catastrophe not only in dollars and cents, but also in ounces gained and days survived for their baby, Donny.

Donny was born 12 weeks premature and, because of serious lung problems, he was given only a 15 percent chance to live. For four months, Donny was cared for in an intensive care unit, costing the Dayhoffs—who earned $9,000 a year—$80,000 in hospital bills. Although insurance covered 80 percent, they still owed $16,000 that they did not have. "It was a dilemma that could strike any family at any time," says producer Judy Teemtsma.

In another segment, "October Magazine" answers some questions about the lives of prisoners' wives. When the gavel goes down and the judge pronounces the sentence, the criminal goes to jail. But what happens to his wife and family while he is serving his sentence? Producer Joseph Lovett visits the Boston area to interview wives who have gone through this experience.

NBC-TV Two New Game Shows, Hosts

"Knockout," a game of strategy, quick-thinking and deception, and "To Say the Least," a word elimination game with celebrity teams, will premiere on the NBC-TV daytime schedule, Monday, Oct. 3, it was announced recently by Madeline David, Vice President, Daytime Programs, NBC-TV.

"Knockout," with comedian Arte Johnson as host, will be telecast from 11:30 a.m. to 12 noon; "To Say the Least," starring veteran game show host Tom Kennedy, from 12 noon to 12:30 p.m.

Ms. David said: "Arte Johnson and Tom Kennedy are two of the most delightful, witty and warm personalities on television today. Tom, one of the most popular daytime hosts, was signed to an exclusive long-term contract by NBC-TV last year. Most recently in daytime he starred in 'Name That Tune.'

"Knockout" is played by three contestants who match wits for money and prizes. To win, a panelist must earn the eight letters in K-N-O-C-K-O-U-T by choosing the item in a group of four that does not belong.

"The Say the Least" combines strategy and the gambler's instinct in a word elimination game with two teams of contestants, one made up of celebrities. Playing one-on-one, each team representative is given a sentence such as "Elizabeth Taylor married this famous Welsh actor." Each contestant takes a turn at strategically eliminating words in the sentence and gambling that the word or words remaining will give his team the clue to the correct answer. The cash and prize jack-pot mounts with each round.

Haggerty Always Wears His Bracelet

If it seems as though Dan Haggerty, star of NBC-TV's "The Life and Times of Grizzly Adams," is never seen on camera without a heavy, silver bracelet on his left wrist, it's true, the bracelet is always there.

"I've never taken it off since it was given to me nine years ago," confirmed the rugged, title star of the popular hour-long series, telecast Wednesdays, 8 to 9 p.m. on NBC-TV.

In those days Dan was making a living as a sometime-animal trainer for television and the movies and as a wood-working and leather craftsman.

James Stacy Co-Stars In

'Big Event' Movie

James Stacy, Lee Majors and Barbara Hershey star in "Just a Little Inconvenience," an NBC World Premiere movie to be presented Sunday, Oct. 2, 9 to 11 p.m., a "Big Event" on NBC-TV. Majors is a Vietnam veteran trying to rehabilitate his best friend, who has become bitter and withdrawn after being maimed in war action that he feels Majors could have prevented.

Frank Logan (Majors) undertakes to teach the embittered Kenny Briggs (Stacy) to ski again despite the loss of an arm and a leg. Logan hopes this will snap Briggs out of his depression and return him to a useful and happy life.

At the ski lodge, Briggs falls in love with Nikki Klausung (Hershey), a vacationing school teacher, but the romance is complicated by his lack of self-esteem.

There's more to "Just a Little Inconvenience" than viewer will see, because James Stacy is, in real life, badly maimed from a near-fatal motorcycle accident a few years ago. A drunken driver hit the young actor and the severity of his injuries necessitated the removal of an arm and a leg. Because of the prevailing laws in the state of California, Stacy was subsequently paid over a million dollars by the bar that had served liquor to the driver.

But money is not enough to compensate the loss of limbs, and Stacy's adjustment to the tragedy is a testament of courage and determination. Perhaps his background unwittingly gave him the strength and 'toughness' to overcome his adversities: as a child he was known as 'the toughest kid in Burbank (Calif.)', and he drifted aimlessly around the world when he was in his teens.

Finally, a Pepsi commercial gave him some roots and direction — acting. His first TV series was "Lancer."

TIME OF ADJUSTMENT — James Stacy stars as an embittered Vietnam veteran who finds adjusting to the loss of an arm and a leg to be an almost insurmountable problem when he returns to civilian life in "Just a Little Inconvenience," on "The Big Event," Sunday, Oct. 2 (9-11 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Archie Chases Great Dream

Archie's got more to lose than his collateral when he secretly puts everything on the line and chases his "Great American Dream" — buying Kelcy's Bar — in Parts I and II of a four-part story, to be broadcast as a special one-hour, eighth-season premiere of "All in the Family" on a new day, Oct. 2, 8:30 to 9:30 p.m., on CBS-TV.

However, Archie pays a high price for forgery when he discovers just how much it will cost to have Edith as an "equal" business partner.

One-Of-A-Kind

Asked for a one word description of herself, Joan Hackett promptly answered "Renaissance."

Right on. Miss Hackett acts, sings, paints, writes, and has the medievalist's gift for full artistic expression. Beyond that she is a great cook, too.

The multifarious star added another string to her bow with her role in "Treasure of Matecumbe," airing Sunday, Oct. 2, on "The Wonderful World of Disney," on NBC-TV.

As a post-bellum Southern belle who runs away from her Yankee suitor to hunt for a fortune in the Florida Keys, Miss Hackett also dances. The dance begins modestly enough when she kicks up her heels with some rivermen, but ends in a knockdown dragout.

"I rehearsed three weeks and shot for five days," said the brown haired beauty. "Later I counted 17 black and blue marks. It felt like 117."

"We worked outdoors 90 percent of the time, on locations in Kentucky, the Florida swamps, and along the Sacramento River," she continues.

"I was in water night and day, and then for good measure got drenched to the bone and nearly froze when they staged a huge hurricane in winter weather."

"Thank goodness you can't remember pain," she said with a grin.

Miss Hackett is entirely convincing as a blithe spirit.

Laura J. Fletcher

SETTING UP HOUSEKEEPING

If I were to set up housekeeping, first I would get rid of all those hard-surfaced, waxy problems known as hard-wood floors — unless, of course, I had a full-time "slave" whom I wished to punish with hard work!

Then I would install wall-to-wall carpeting and maybe a few area rugs. Finally, my vacuum cleaner would be equipped with a brush or beater bar to properly adjust for proper cleaning of my carpets.

Housekeeping, then, would be a "cinch" for lazy of me!

Joins NBC

Horst Siefert, an international sports broadcast authority, has been appointed as a special consultant to NBC Sports, it was recently announced by Chester R. Simmons, Vice President, NBC Sports.

Siefert, a resident of Hamburg, Germany, will immediately assume his duties for NBC in the development of new international sports program concepts.

Findlays Get New Housekeeper; She Will Take Care Of Maude

There's a new addition to the Findlay household this season, and it's their new housekeeper, Victoria Butterfield, played by Marlene Warfield.

Does she intend to 'put Maude down,' as her predecessors have?

"No," responded Marlene, "I'm going to take care of her just wonderfully. All of the maids on the show have been 'sassy' and have stood up to her because she's such a strong character. But this one's going to be very colorful, because the lady's from Jamaica."

"Maude is a middle-American and Victoria's an island girl.

This, of course, means that there's a big difference in our cultures, our attitudes. So, it should be a very interesting experience."

An excellent example of this 'difference in cultures' will be strongly evident in the segment of "Maude" airing Monday, Oct. 3, 9:30 to 10 p.m., on CBS-TV. Victoria is ordered by her stern, righteous West Indian father (guest star Roscoe Lee Brown) to stop dating American men and come home to the islands.

Does Marlene feel any intimidation in following two such actresses as Esther Rolle and Hermione Baddeley?

"No, none at all. I figure — 'Look, if they can hire me, I must be ready for it.'"

Marlene says that the "chemistry was there" when she first reported for the season's filming of "Maude." "I think it's because we are all New York-based actors, and there's a camaraderie evident when you're working with stage people. It's almost like 'old-home-week,' and there's a special respect for each other."

Marlene, who grew up in Brooklyn, has acquired her excellent Jamaican accent through a lot of hard work. "I've listened to Jamaicans, to Jamaican records and I've been coached by someone from the Jamaican embassy."

This is Marlene Warfield's first TV series, although she has made guest appearances in numerous series. "I need the comedy experience and I'm anxious to learn all facets of the business. 'Maude' is going to give me millions of dollars of exposure, and this is what I want at this time in my career."

The lady from Jamaica is now firmly ensconced in the Findlay household, and Maude and Company may never be the same again.

Murder Occurs In Peyton Place

drama "Peyton Place," star in "Murder In Peyton Place," a World Premiere drama to be presented on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Oct. 3, 9 to 11 p.m. on NBC-TV. Mia Farrow is featured as she appeared in her original role of Allison MacKenzie.

The suspense drama, inspired by the original series, focuses on the slaying of Rodney Harrington and Allison MacKenzie as part of a diabolical plot to destroy the small community.

A relentless investigation — conducted by Elliot Carson, Dr. Michael Rossi and Rodney's brother, Norman Harrington — into the double homicide unveils some startling information which leads to a former resident, now powerful and wealthy, who has secretly returned, seeking revenge.

The series "Peyton Place" was set in the small New England town of Peyton Place, and depicted the dramatic incidents in the lives of its townspeople. It ran from 1964 to '69, and spawned a spin-off series, "Return to Peyton Place," which ran for two years — 1972 to '74.

Letters Change Lives Of Couple

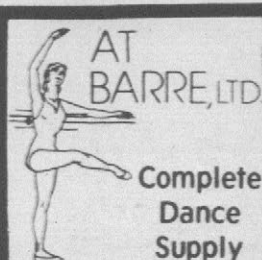

Three letters, delayed a year by a plane crash, dramatically change the lives of a young couple separated by a jail sentence, a lonely middle-aged woman involved in a romantic affair, and two lovers pretending to be wealthy, in "Letters From Three Lovers," the "CBS Late Movie" airing Monday, Oct. 3, at 11:30 p.m., on CBS-TV.

June Allyson, Ken Berry, Juliet Mills, Belinda Montgomery, Martin Sheen, Robert Sterling, Barry Sullivan and Lyle Waggoner star in this sequel to "The Letters," presented earlier as a "Movie of the Week." Henry Jones repeats the role of Mr. Ames, the postman.

First of the trilogy, "Dear Vincent," is about Angie and Vince, a young couple deeply in love, whose marriage plans are thwarted by money problems.

PARTNERS IN EVIL — Stella Stevens and Robert Deman portray two of the community residents who are upset when a couple is slain under mysterious circumstances in the world premiere drama, "Murder in Peyton Place" to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies," Oct. 3 (9-11 p.m.) or "NBC TV."

Kristy Is Like Other Teenagers

At 15-years of age, Kristy McNichol is already an experienced actress, the recipient of an Emmy, and a star of one of the most popular series on television, "Family," seen Tuesdays, 10 to 11 p.m. on ABC-TV. In the series, Kristy plays a bright teenager who has a close, happy relationship with her family and experiences many of the problems typical of any other teenager today.

Like the character, Buddy, Kristy is in many ways the all-American girl who loves the outdoors, is strongly attached to her family, and is both straightforward and honest.

On the other side of the coin, Kristy is a modern teenager, a product of the very 'with-it' southern California lifestyle; she's poised, an extrovert, sophisticated, rides her motorcycle and thrives on outdoor males in competitive sports.

A product of divorce, Kristy lives with her mother and two brothers. Jimmy, now 16, recently made his TV debut in the new series "The Fitzpatricks," and Tommy, 11, has made a few commercials, but is totally immersed in school.

Kristy, who's been acting for 7 years, says she's been lucky in her career. "I'd like to direct a picture with me in it when I'm about 18," she says. "I am interested in lighting and camera work, and I always watch the director and learn so much by doing this. I know it's hard work, but I really think I could do it." Whatever, Kristy says she loves acting and hopes to do so forever.

Kristy's mother says there'll be no dating until her 16th birthday. "But that's fine," she exclaims. "I'm not rushing it because I'm on the go. I like boys who are good looking and a little taller than I am. I also like boys who are very clean — that's one of the major things. The boy doesn't have to be a brain, but I do like boys who talk about sports and things like that."

As far as people are concerned, Kristy's favorites are her fans. "When I get a letter saying, 'You're the greatest,' I think, instead of them saying this to me, I should tell them, 'I think you're the greatest.'"

ZIMBALIST TRADITION

The famed Zimbalist name is being perpetuated in the arts by yet another generation. Stephanie Zimbalist is continuing the acting tradition by following in the footsteps of her famous dad, Efrem Zimbalist Jr. Her grandfather, Efrem, Sr., was an international concert violinist and her grandmother was the renowned opera singer, Alma Gluck.

Stephanie recently guest-starred in a segment of ABC-TV's "Lucan."

Stars In Mystery

Cloris Leachman stars as a juror in a murder case who, discovering that the wrong man is on trial, finds her own life threatened by the real killer — her husband — in "Death Sentence," the "Tuesday Movie of the Week" airing Oct. 4, at 11:30 p.m. on ABC-TV. Laurence Luckinbill also stars.

Susan Davies (Miss Leachman) is a member of the jury at the trial of John Healy (Nick Nolte), accused of murdering his wife, Marilyn (C.J. Hincks). It is seemingly an open-and-shut case until the prosecution and defense attorneys bring out evidence that, in Susan's mind, appears to link her husband, Don (Luckinbill) to the crime. Susan becomes more suspicious when she learns that a car similar to Don's was seen at the Healy home the night of the murder. Susan tells her husband of this evidence but he appears to brush it off and Susan accepts his explanation.

However, with the trial over and the jury locked up in a hotel, Susan slips out and returns home for a confrontation with Don. To her shock, Don admits to the murder and prepares to make Susan his next victim.

Emmy Award winner, Kristy McNichol, continues her role as Buddy Lawrence, the youngest member of the Lawrence Family, on the highly acclaimed series, "Family," which has returned for its second full season Tuesdays (10-11 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

"Anatomy of a Crime" Darren McGavin. Private investigator Dave Ross is hired by a wealthy man to look into allegations that a woman, a stranger, has found his daughter, who was kidnapped 12 years before and never returned after a large ransom was paid. (repeat, 2 hrs)

Snyder Assigned

Tom Snyder, host of "Tomorrow," will take on a special assignment as the principal on-camera reporter in the three-and-a-half-hour NBC News program that will examine medical care in America.

Snyder will be actively involved in the preparation of the program, which will preempt an entire evening of programming on the Network Jan. 4.

The program will deal with the economics as well as the quality of medical care and will be filmed in locales including Denver, Houston, Atlanta, New York City, East Lansing, Mich. and Muncie, Ind. Visits will be made to a number of hospitals, two medical schools, doctors' offices, clinics and group health organizations.

Couple Has Desperate Struggle

When a young college girl becomes pregnant, she and the father-to-be are caught in the middle of a desperate struggle with a black market adoption ring out to take their baby in "Black Market Baby," a drama airing as "The ABC Friday Night Movie" Oct. 7, 9 to 11 p.m., on ABC-TV.

The stars are Linda Purl and Desi Arnaz Jr., who teamed up last season in "Having Babies."

Linda Purl (r) and Desi Arnaz Jr., who starred together in the highly acclaimed ABC motion picture "Having Babies," team up again in

"Black Market Baby," a two-hour motion picture to air as "The ABC Friday Night Movie," Oct. 7 (9-11 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

Also starring are Jessica Walter, David Doyle (of "Charlie's Angels") and Tom Bosley (of "Happy Days"). Bill Bixby is the special guest star.

When Ann Macarino (Purl) meets pre-med student Steve Aletti (Arnaz), she is at first turned off by his advances, but soon finds herself deeply in love. When she tells him that she is pregnant, he suggests they see a lawyer, Freemont (Bixby), who will help them put the child up for adoption. They soon discover that Freemont is part of a vicious ring that sells babies on the black market.

Linda Purl is proving to be a versatile young actress who takes her career seriously.

For her role of Anne Macarino, a young lady of Italian heritage in "Black Market Baby," the blonde, blue-eyed beauty became a gorgeous brunette with big brown eyes.

It was a relatively simple procedure to darken her flaxen hair, but what amazed the cast and crew — and even Linda herself — was her quick adaptation to wearing contact lenses.

When Linda was not on camera, she would remove the brown lenses and put them in a case. Just before doing a scene, she would clean the contacts and place them back into her eyes.

"What's surprising is that many people who started wearing contacts have had many problems and can't adjust to them as Linda did, including myself — I just gave up," said one member of the crew.

Linda explained, "I've heard that it takes a long time to get used to wearing them."

When asked if it's true that blondes with blue eyes have more fun than brunettes with brown ones, Linda smiled, "Yes and no."

Ryan Comes Out Of Shadows

Mitchell Ryan draws an interesting parallel between his own life as an actor and that of his starring role as a modern-day feudal baron, in the made-for-television suspense drama, "Escape From Bogen County," airing Friday, Oct. 7, 9 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Ryan, who recently starred as the top corporate head in the "Executive Suite" series, shared starring honors with lovely Jaclyn Smith and Michael Parks.

"From my own experience," said Ryan, "I can comment on actors, in general, by confessing that early in my career I wasn't being a true witness of my own life, I mean, I wasn't being fair with myself, my profession, fellow actors, or the audience."

The tall, rugged looking actor was speaking between scenes during filming of principal action in a small Arizona town.

"I've learned that, as a group, we actors are sometimes negative and selfish in our thinking and our actions. And these actions tend to hurt the actor as well as those around him. I believe, using myself as an example, that we actors can suffer from what I call a self-inflated il-ness. We tend to blow situations and things out of proportion. In other words, we can be selfish and self-centered to a fault."

Ryan likened some of these feelings to the drama's character, Ambler Bowman, the powerful man who runs Bogen County and thoroughly terrorizes his young wife (Ms. Smith). "He's a selfish, twisted ego-centered man tough enough to make people conform to his desires. In the same way, an actor who is intensely selfish and possesses enough power, can do pretty much the same thing."

Ryan, a former high school football player who once had a regular role in the daytime drama, "Dark Shadows," then explained that he's come out of the shadows of "negative" thinking and is now enjoying himself and his work.

"Now, once I commit myself to a given project, I do everything I can to contribute positively, no matter what. It sure makes things go better and easier than fighting yourself, the situation and your fellow workers."

But Ryan did admit that some of the old remembered emotions of a selfish person can come in handy when asked to play a man like Bowman.

'Papillon' Debuts

"Papillon," the motion picture box office sensation starring Steve McQueen and Dustin Hoffman, which was adapted from the auto-biographical international best seller, comes to television for the first time as a preview movie special, Thursday, Oct. 6, 8 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV.

The incredible but true story of a convict's harrowing 13-year ordeal in the hell of Devil's Island, from Henri "Papillon" Charriere's book, will occupy an entire evening of primetime programming on the Network.

"Papillon" tells the dramatic story of Charriere's repeated attempts to escape from the notorious penal colonies of French Guiana. The film is a portrayal of the bonds between doomed men in a brutal, dehumanizing institution.

Enroute to Devil's Island, Papillon meets Louis Dega, an urbane and infamous counterfeiter. He agrees to protect Dega in return for money to finance his escape.

Papillon's first attempt ends in disaster. Betrayed, he is captured and sentenced to two years in solitary confinement. Emerging from solitary, he immediately tries another escape. This time, Papillon gets as far as Colombia before he is captured.

Upon his release from five year's solitary confinement, Papillon finds his friend Dega now a broken and demented old man, muttering to himself in his little vegetable patch. But Papillon, his thirst for freedom unquenchable, makes new plans to escape — or die in the attempt.

ACC Championship Game Goes To ABC

Exclusive rights to the final game of the 25th Atlantic Coast Conference Basketball Championship have been secured by ABC Sports, it was announced jointly recently by Roone Arledge, President of ABC News and Sports, and Bob James, Commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The game will be played in the Greensboro (N.C.) Coliseum Saturday, March 4, 1978 and will be aired live in a special expanded version of "ABC's Wide World of Sports."

"The Atlantic Coast Conference is generally acknowledged as the finest basketball conference in the country," Mr. Arledge said, "and we are very pleased to incorporate basketball — through this outstanding game — into our roster of standout events in 1978."

Next year's lineup of important ABC Sports events includes the Major League Baseball All-Star Game and the National and American League Championship Series; the U.S. Open, British Open, and PGA Golf Championships; the Kentucky Derby and Preakness horse races; "ABC's Monday Night Football" and The Pro Bowl; the Indianapolis 500 and Daytona 500 automobiles races; and "NCAA Football" and the Sugar Bowl.

The seven-team ACC quite commonly earns two or three places in college basketball's Top 10, with such strong teams as North Carolina, North Carolina State, Maryland, and, of late, Wake Forest. Last year, two teams made the NCAA playoffs — Wake Forest and North Carolina, with Carolina, bowing to Marquette in the final game. The ACC boasts NCAA Champions — North Carolina in 1957 and North Carolina State in 1974.

Only two players have ever hit a home run in the loge level (second level) at Dodger Stadium. Frank Howard was the first to do it for the Dodgers in the 1963 World Series. The second was the New York Mets' Dave Kingman on June 4, 1976.

'See The Man Run' Is Bizarre

An impressive cast is starred in "See the Man Run," a bizarre story of a struggling actor faced with the question of what to do when tempted by an enormous sum of money, in "The CBS Late Movie," Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 12:30 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Robert Culp stars as Ben Taylor, the opportunistic actor who casts himself as the middleman in a kidnap plot. Also starring in the 90-minute suspense drama are Angie Dickinson, Eddie Albert and June Allyson.

The film opens as Ben and Joanne Taylor (Miss Dickinson) are awakened by a phone call early in the morning, with Ben answering it. The caller is a kidnapper, demanding $50,000 ransom from a Dr. Spencer for the return of his daughter. The man says he will call again with instruction and hangs up before Ben can tell him he's not Dr. Spencer.

Oakland Raiders Start Super Bowl Steamroll

For years, football fans wondered when the Oakland Raiders would reach the Super Bowl again. Last season, the rough-tough Raiders fought their way to a 13-1 regular season record, survived the playoffs and went on to the Super Bowl where they demolished the Minnesota Vikings 32-14.

Each NFL team embarks upon a new season with hopes and dreams of playing in the Super Bowl. Invisibly there are always several class teams in the running, and usually the teams that do indeed don their uniforms on 'Super Sunday' are those who have successfully overcome the injuries of a hard campaign. To become a Super Bowl Champion, a team must not only field 22 top players, but have them backed up by class athletes as well. Depth is as much a part of winning football as blocking and tackling.

Oakland cruised through their title romp with no less than 11 key players lost to injury. So crippled was the Silver and Black defensive line that head coach John Madden was forced by the loss of five defensive linemen to resort to the 3-4 alignment.

Now in 1977, with all of their wounded warriors returning, the Raiders appear ready to steamroll another Super Bowl Crown. Their offense boasts of a solid ground game, an awesome air attack and an "Iron Pocket" from which Ken Stabler can shred opposing defenses.

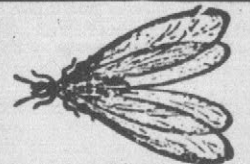

After being forced into a three-man format of John Matuszak, Dave Rowe, and Otis Sistrunk, the World Champions plan to stick to that plan. They are, however, expected to mix fronts according to the situation now that they are back to full strength.

A quick, mean, smart group of linebackers return intact from last season. Punishing Phil Villapiano at left linebacker, the 'Mad Stork,' Ted Hendricks on the right and brutal hitting Monte Johnson join with 'Mr. Big Plug,' Willie Hall in the center to make the defense jell.

Oakland's secondary has become renowned for their savage, brutal, and hard-hitting tactics. What greater accolade could a defensive secondary possibly achieve in the contact sport of football? Every successful coach's dream is to field a secondary that breathes intimidation. The Oakland secondary of George Atkinson, 'Mr. Karate,' merciless Jack Tatum, aggressive Skip Thomas and foolproof Willie Brown are a dream come true.

The big question in 1977 finds football fans wondering — how long will it be before the Raiders are dethroned.

'ANGELS' GOOD ON SKATES

Jaclyn Smith and Cheryl Ladd learned to ice skate for a recent episode of "Charlie's Angels," and Jaclyn frankly admits that it wasn't an easy accomplishment. "Neither Cheryl nor I had ever been on ice skates before," she said, "and I don't think that surprised anyone who saw the show. We looked so clumsy—just awful." But skating instructor Tom Lawler, who appeared as a star figure skater in the teleplay, was quite impressed with how the girls took to the ice.

Film Was Shot In Unique Way

When "Papillon," a giant film created from an incredible international best-seller, airs Thursday (Oct. 6, 8 to 11 p.m. on CBS-TV), viewers will be treated to a motion picture filmed in an unusual way—from beginning to end.

Most viewers would consider that the normal way to do things, but filming in continuity is rare—and a great boon to actors trying to delineate a character, according to Dustin Hoffman.

Hoffman stars with Steve McQueen in "Papillon," the adaptation of Henri Charriere's book about his unbelievable escapes from Devils' Island.

"For any actor, but especially for one from the stage," says Hoffman, "shooting in consecutive order is a great help in developing a character. The usual way, for economy, is to shoot all scenes in the same locale or on the same set at the same time, regardless of their order in the movie."

"So, frequently what happens is that the one day during the second month of filming, you suddenly understand a certain aspect of your character. But by then, of course, it's too late to reshoot scenes you did before you had the insight."

Before shooting began, Hoffman became involved with Dalton Trumbo, co-author of the script, in creating the character of Papillon's closest friend, convicted counterfeiter Louis Dega.

Hoffman remembers how impressed he was when he first met Trumbo. He discovered that aspects of the writer's personality "were appropriate for the man I saw Dega to be," and suggested that Trumbo "write the character off himself."

In addition, Hoffman spend weeks in the New York Public Library reading about French penal colonies. "I studied about ten or twelve books on prison life there," he says. "One of the books was by a former inmate, an art forger whose life had great similarities with what I thought about Dega, who was a counterfeiter. I drew from this man's real-life experiences as a frame of reference for filling out my concept of Dega."

Another actor in the film had less difficulty creating her character—Hoffman's wife, Anne, who plays his wife in the film.

Steve McQueen (l) stars as Papillon and Dustin Hoffman plays his friend, Dega, in "Papillon," an extraordinary drama of human survival, to be broadcast for the first time on television, Thursday, Oct. 6 (8-11 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Sinatra Appears

Frank Sinatra stars as a wild renegade who has the cavalry on his trail, the law at his throat, outlaws at his back and women on his mind, in the western adventure tale, "Dirty Dingus Magee," to be telecast as "The CBS Late Movie" Thursday, Oct. 6 at 11:30 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Also starring in the film are George Kennedy, with Ann Jackson and Lois Nettleton.

Magee discovers his life in jail to be calmer and safer than liberty. When he is freed, he finds everybody is out for his life. He's used as a one-man uprising to keep a sleepy Western town out of bad financial trouble and becomes a target for the U.S. Army and the local sheriff. He's robbed by a bandit and caught in an ambush by the townspeople—all of which obviously keeps him constantly running for cover.

GETTING IN TUNE

Lawrence-Hilton Jacobs, Freddie Washington on "Welcome Back, Kotter," is getting ready to cut his first album for ABC Records. In order to keep in tune, Jacobs has been practicing both his singing and piano playing during breaks in production of the popular comedy series.

Pike's Peeks

TV Showtime Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD—The networks are embroiled in the heated battles for ratings and ABC-TV has come out the victor in the first two weeks of the new season, with CBS and NBC fighting for second place. Five newcomers made the top 30—"Soap," "The Betty White Show," "Carter Country," "Redd Foxx" and "Rafferty."

Last year "Happy Days" viewers saw Fonzie lose his heart to the finger-snapping Pinky, who eventually rode off into the sunset on her hot-pink motorcycle. This year her little sister, Leather Tuscadero, appears in search of a job for her singing group. Richie, Potsie and Ralph Malph go bananas over her, but not The Fonz. Seems she committed the unpardonable sin of stealing his comb.

While Guy Lombardo is hospitalized in Dallas, good pal Freddy Martin is fronting his orchestra. Martin played the saxophone for years before he got up the courage to try his talents as a bandleader.

Riding high on the success of his 'sleeper,' "One on One," is Robby Benson, who's now huddling with Warner Bros. about another film with a soccer theme.

Have you ever noticed the gold ring that Shaun Cassidy always wears? It bears the Cassidy family crest, and Shaun says, "My two younger brothers and my half-brother, David, wear similar rings."

Does the voice of 'Charlie the Tuna' sound familiar? It should, because it belongs to Broadway and TV giant Herschel Bernardi. Herschel, who also does the Green Giant commercials admits that he was paid $40,000 for ten minutes work preparing a tooth paste commercial.

"What's Happening" co-star Danielle Spencer has been released from the hospital and is now convalescing at home following the tragic auto accident in which her step father was killed.

Also released recently was Tony Orlando. Tony's now in seclusion for a long rest and hopes are high that he'll be able to keep his December engagement in Las Vegas.

ABC-TV Presents Trivia Contests

"The World Series of Trivia," a fast-paced 90-minute battle among four contending teams in the sport of identifying the who, what, when, where, and how of the past, with special appearances by Buster Crabbe, and The Shirelles, will be presented as the "Thursday Night Special," Oct. 6, at 12:30 a.m. on ABC-TV.

Richard Dawson is the host of this unique program taped before an audience of students at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado.

The four contesting teams in the title battle—the Trivia Tramps, the Zasu Pitts Fan Club, Justice Prevails, and the University of Colorado—field a wide variety of questions about the long-ago, most of them concerning radio, TV, the movies, music and sports. David Bowen deals out the questions. The teams score points for correct answers and lose points for incorrect answers.

roles which include "Flash Gordon," "Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion," and "Tarzan," as well as a view on film of his triumph as a swimmer in the 1932 Olympics.

PRODUCTION RESUMED
Production of the CBS-TV series "Alice" has resumed after a two-week hiatus following a change in the crew. Bob Carroll Jr. and Madelyn Davis are the new producer-writers.

Jaclyn Smith Stars Is Suspense

Jaclyn Smith stars as the victimized wife of a modern-day feudal lord, in "Escape From Bogen County," a made-for-television film to be broadcast Friday, Oct. 7 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Jaclyn Smith, of "Charlie's Angels" fame, stars in a powerful story about a ruthless political czar who strips his young wife of her human and legal rights in the compelling suspense-drama, "Escape From Bogen County," also starring Mitchell Ryan and Michael Parks, to be broadcast Friday, Oct. 7, 9 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Miss Smith portrays Maggie Bowman, the young wife who flees from her husband's tyranny only to be returned, a virtual prisoner of his power and insane desire to dominate her.

Ambler Bowman (Ryan) is regarded in many ways by those influenced by his immense power. The citizenry of the community think of him as a benevolent leader; the authorities see him as author of their employment and graft; and the Texas State Attorney General's office sees him as a corrupt and deadly foe of honest government.

Abe Rand (Henry Gibson), investigator for the Attorney General's office, is assigned to build a case against Bowman, who laughs at all attempts to unseat him until Rand makes overtures to Maggie Bowman in the hope she'll testify against her husband.

Miss Smith is usually seen in carefully lighted scenes, her hair beautifully styled and her makeup meticulously applied. But that's not the case when the dark-haired actress appears in "Escape From Bogen County."

"In 'Charlie's Angels' we're all made up and carefully combed," she noted during a break from location filming in Florence, Ariz. "Here I'm sunburned, windblown, and using much less makeup. I have a hot, natural look that's entirely in keeping with a woman living in the Southwest, who's being given a hard time by her husband."

"I'm pushed, shoved, treated with contempt, and thrown in jail on a trumped-up charge," she continued, "and I love it. This script is definitely a stretch for me, no mistake about that. And believe me, for the dozens of scripts that have been sent to me, there aren't that many good roles for women, and fewer still if you're looking for 'good girl' roles."

Anthony Perkins Makes Rare Video Appearance

Anthony Perkins, who starred in Alfred Hitchcock's classic thriller, "Psycho," and in the Broadway hit, "Equus," will make a rare TV appearance when he stars in the two-hour "theatre of fact" dramatic Event, "The Survivors of Buffalo Creek," to be presented on NBC-TV during the 1977-78 season.

"The Survivors of Buffalo Creek" is the true story of how a dam bursting in 1972 in West Virginia caused the deaths of 125, traumatized the survivors and resulted in a historic multi-million-dollar law suit.

The special will become the first network dramatic program produced on the revolutionary one-inch videotape. It will be taped entirely on location in the West Virginia area where the events before and after the tragedy took place.

Perkins will portray the attorney for the survivors who sought to establish that his clients suffered not only bereavement at the loss of family impairment; that they would never lose their fear of what happened to them on that terrible day.

The tall, lean actor has appeared in more than 30 motion pictures including "Mahogany," "Murder on the Orient Express," "Play It as It Lays," "Catch-22," "Pretty Poison," "The Trial," "Friendly Persuasion," "The Tin Star," "Fear Strikes Out," "Tall Story," "On the Beach" and "Desire Under the Elms."

On Broadway, in addition to "Equus," he starred in "Tea and Sympathy," "Look Homeward, Angel," "Greenwillow," and "The Star Spangled Girl." He starred off-Broadway in "Steambath," which he also directed. Other directional assignments have taken him to regional theatres around the country where he has staged productions of "The Imaginary Invalid," "Angel Street" and "The Unknown Soldier and His Wife."

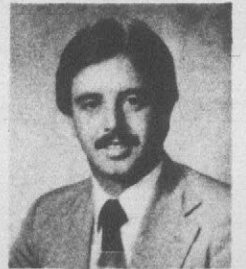

Perkins is married to photographer-actress Berry Berenson, and they are parents of two sons.

Crimson Tide Enters 20th Year With Rebuilding Program

Alabama is now into its 20th season under the master, Bear Bryant. The school has recorded 18 consecutive winning seasons and a 90.9 winning percentage since 1972.

While the Crimson Tide boasts of a potent offense, one that was never held under two figures scoring in 1976, it is on defense where the major rebuilding problems exist.

There are five new faces in the defensive line. Terry Davis (250) has moved from offensive center to middle guard. Marty Lyons (250) and William Davis (260) are the tackles. Calvin Parker (235) and John Knox (205) are now the starters.

Despite its patches, the Crimson Tide defense is not green. All the line-backers and all of the stingy secondary are the same players that started on last year's 9-3 team.

Jeff Rutledge, a 57 percent passer last season with 979 yards and 8 TDs to his credit, will be directing 'Bama's offense. Rutledge is joined in the passing attack by Ozzie Newsome. Newsome caught 25 passes for 529 yards and six touchdowns.

SHIP SHAPE SET

Richard Gilliland, starring in "Operation Petticoat," says that filming in sets simulating the cramped quarters of a submarine reminds him of a story his mother tells. A family friend was about to retire and suggested to his wife that they sell their large house and move into a mobile home. His wife said no, "I refuse," she said, "to spend the rest of my life walking in a straight line."

He is said to be the best athlete to attend Alabama since Joe Namath.

Newsome says that he is not disturbed that Alabama seldom throws, since he understood the wishbone concept when he joined Bryant.

Piano-playing Johnny Davis led the team in rushing last season with 688 yards and a 5.6 average. He is joined by halfback Tony Nathan, a Heisman-type (if he got the ball enough) who gained 480 yards for a 6.4 average last year. Both Davis and Nathan are expected to be in national statistics this season.

When Alabama meets

Southern California on Saturday, Oct. 8, the Crimson Tide will need a victory over the top-ranked Trojans to redeem themselves in the eyes of the wire service pollsters for their early season loss to Nebraska.

Saturday's game will be televised on ABC-TV, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Jodie Foster Plays

The batter's blonde pigtails barely showed beneath her helmet.

"I'm usually a pretty good ballplayer," said young Jodie Foster, assessing the other players on the field with steady blue eyes. "But with all these boys here, I'm worse. I've always played with girls."

Nonetheless, Jodie, who has the title role in "Rookie of the Year," a presentation on the "ABC Weekend Special" airing Saturday, Oct. 8, 12 noon to 1 p.m., proceeded to belt in runs and slide into bases with the ease and enthusiasm of a seasoned regular.

Jodie stars in the role of Sharon Lee, a sports-loving 11-year-old girl who triggers a controversy among players, parents and game officials when she wins the chance to play on her brother's all-boy baseball team.

When it comes to sports, Jodie, whose formal name is Alicia Christian Foster, likes "anything you can name."

Long-jumping, track, basketball, football, skiing, and bike-riding are among her favorites.

"When I was little," confided Jodie — now 13 — "I used to say my name was Alexander or Brian because I wanted to be a boy."

She was dubbed Jodie by her big brother, Buddy, an accomplished actor, and her two older sisters, Connie and Cindy. As children they couldn't pronounce Alicia.

On television, Jodie played the daughter of Ted and Alice in the comedy series, "Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice." She also appeared with Red Buttons in "Alexander," and other television series in which she has performed guest roles include "Bonanza," "Gunsmoke," "Julie" and "The Doris Day Show."

Animated

"The Legend of Paul Bunyan," the tall tales of the legendary logger, and "The Legend of John Henry," stories of the black folklore hero, two animated films from America, will be broadcast on "The CBS Saturday Film Festival," Oct. 8, 1:30 to 1:56 p.m.

Because Paul Bunyan was no ordinary logger, his reputation was known throughout the land. When fully grown, legend has it, he could stand in Illinois and cast a shadow all the way across Missouri to Kansas.

The ballad of John Henry — sung by Roberta Flack — is the story of the greatest steel-driving man of them all.

New York Yankees Back In Playoffs

The New York Yankees, under the guidance of their controversial manager Billy Martin, are once again competing for the American League Championship and a chance for the World Series crown.

NBC Sports will provide live action of the American League Playoffs in the best of five series beginning Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 3 p.m., with games Thursday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m., on Friday, Oct. 7, at 8 p.m.

One of the most unsung heroes in the New York lineup is third baseman Graig Nettles. He doesn't have one of those lucrative seven-figure contracts, nor would you recognize his face on any commercial because he doesn't do them. He's never received a Gold Glove award, but it's understood that he has been the best third baseman in the American League for years.

Graig Nettles is a very quiet, reticent person. He does his job as efficiently as anyone, yet without fanfare. Teammates call him "Puff," because he's there one minute and gone the next, like disappearing in a puff of smoke.

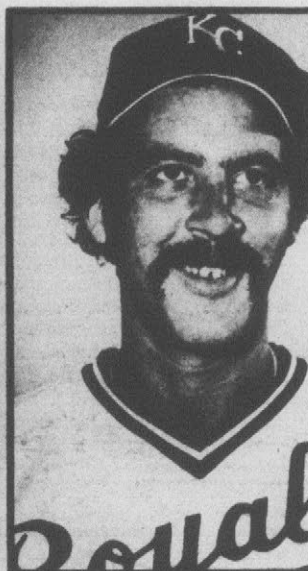

Nettles holds the Yankee record for home runs and RBIs as a third baseman, and he has a good chance at breaking the league record for home runs by a third baseman.

Manager Billy Martin says Graig is "a gamer. He wants to play. He never wants to sit."

Graig's third base fielding has earned him the respect of many. After New York acquired him from Cleveland, all-time great Brooks Robinson was asked how good Nettles was at third base.

Graig Nettles (l) of the New York Yankees, and Doug Bird (r) of the Kansas City Royals, are both optimistic about keeping their teams' World Series hopes alive. NBC Sports will provide live coverage of the best-of-five series of the American League Playoffs beginning Wednesday, Oct. 5 at 3 p.m. and continuing on Thursday, Oct. 6 at 8 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 7 at 8 p.m.

Doug Bird Helps KC Royals

The Kansas City Royals, with the help of pitching ace Doug Bird, are back in the American League Playoffs. NBC Sports will provide live coverage of the best-of-five series beginning Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 3 p.m., on continuing Thursday, Oct. 6, at 8 p.m., and Friday, Oct. 7, at 8 p.m.

Birdie, as he is known to everyone, was a relief pitcher in Omaha before coming to Kansas City in 1973. This season Manager Whitey Herzog activated him as a starter. However, by the month of July he was back in the bullpen.

"If they want me in the pen, that's okay with me," said Bird.

When the Royals reactivated him again in August, Birdie came through for them. From August to early September, he posted a record of 10-4 and nine saves. Thus, he helped put Kansas City in the lead of the Western Division.

"Birdie has been tremendous," says Herzog. "With Birdie throwing so great out of the bullpen we were able to toss Mark Littell into the starting rotation. And everybody knows we needed another starter."

The 27-year-old righthander with the explosive fast ball, dangerous slider and palm ball is always ready to play.

Courage And Kilmer Go Together

On Sunday, Oct. 2, the Washington Redskins will host inter-conference foe St. Louis, and CBS-TV will televise the action beginning at 4 p.m. One of the smartest and 'gutsiest' quarterbacks to ever play the game will be in action — Billy Kilmer.

Kilmer entered the NFL as a shotgun-style QB and gained almost 1,000 yards rushing in his first two seasons. He also scored 15 TDs himself by running.

In his third year, 1963, he suffered a broken leg in an auto accident on a freeway, contracted an infection, and spent three months in the hospital. Soon he was back in the hospital and was told that if a second operation was not successful, an amputation might be necessary.

After missing all of the 1963 season, Kilmer played very little in 1964, missed 1965, and then saw very limited action again in 1966. He then played four years in New Orleans and passed for 7,500 yards and 47 TDs.

Right after George Allen arrived in Washington in 1971, Kilmer came to the Redskins where he has become the winningest quarterback in the NFL the past six seasons. In his first season as a Redskin, he was selected the team's MVP and the sportswriters' Most Courageous Athlete.

Billy Kilmer possesses an extreme desire to play football and win. Year after year, injuries have slowed him down but never stopped him. He is a very courageous athlete with a long list of games played in (and usually won) when in pain.

Behind the dedicated, scrappy, spirited football player image is a forthright, sensitive man who is the devoted father of an 18-year-old daughter born with cerebral palsy and disjuncted hips. Never being able to walk hasn't defeated Kathy Kilmer. As a college freshman, when she wants something she goes ahead and does it, even with a paralyzed right side and arm that she can't use normally.

When Kilmer was voted "most courageous" he said, "My daughter has undergone so many operations to correct her disjuncted hips that she is the one who should get the most courageous awards."

Courage and Kilmer go together. He defies the odds time and again. He has been a pro 17 years, and he just may make it 18 before all is over.

To date, he has led the Redskins to six consecutive winning seasons, five trips to the playoffs, a NFL Championship, and a trip to Super Bowl VIII.

Perennial Powers Clash Saturday

On Saturday, Oct. 8, at 3:30 p.m., on ABC-TV, the University of Southern California and the University of Alabama will meet in the fifth meeting ever of these two perennial powers. Alabama holds a 3-1 advantage in the series that had its first contest in 1938.

While Alabama has been generally favored to win the Southeastern Crown, it has also been conceded that USC is the likely candidate to claim the final Pacific-8 Crown (it becomes the Pacific-10 next year with the addition of Arizona and Arizona State).

Southern California was upset by Missouri last season in their opener, but they then rebounded to run off 11 straight victories and wind up No. 2 in both final wire service polls.

In that 11-game winning streak, USC outscored its opponents, 361 to 93, and made it to the Rose Bowl for the 8th time in 11 years, and best UCLA, Notre Dame, and Michigan in succession down the stretch.

After downing Missouri and Oregon State in their first two games this season, the Trojans quickly regained their last year's second place status in the wire service polls.

Ten starters, six on offense and four on defense, return along with a host of potentially good players who have plenty of playing time. A total of 28 lettermen are on hand.

"The inexperience of this team is definitely a question," says coach John Robinson. "Now, some people go from inexperienced players to veteran ones in about three weeks. Some take two years. How quickly we make that trip from relatively inexperienced to being a competent veteran team is a big key."

Senior quarterback Rob Hertel completed 65 percent of his passes last season. He also had eight of those go into the end zone. Robinson is counting on Hertel to give the Trojans a brilliant season.

"He has the arm, the intelligence, the poise and the leadership ability to become outstanding," said Robinson.

John Wayne Stars

John Wayne, who won an Oscar as Best Actor for "True Grit" in 1970, stars as a brawling cowboy who battles a gang of Texas carpetbaggers and encounters a Civil War informer during the action in "Rio Lobo," a western adventure to be rebroadcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Oct. 8, 9 to 11:20 p.m., on NBC-TV. Jennifer O'Neill, Jorge Rivero and Jack Elam co-star.

Wayne, in one of several collaborations with director Howard Hawks, portrays Cord McNally, an ex-colonel in the Union forces who travels to Texas after the war seeking the traitors who had been informing the enemy of Union gold shipments.

In one town, McNally locates Pierre Cordona (Rivero), a former Confederate guerilla leader who had actually led the robbery of a train in which McNally's close friend was slain. The two decide to make their peace since the war has ended.

They meet a stagecoach passenger, Shasta Delaney (O'Neill), who has miraculously survived a shootout with several gunmen who had previously slain her medicine show partner, and Cordona tells McNally that one of the villains was Ketchum (Victor French), and that his partner may be in Rio Lobo.

When McNally, Cordona and Tuscarora (Chris Mitchum) reach Rio Lobo, they find it terrorized by carpetbaggers. Tuscarora is put in jail on a trumped-up charge and McNally and Cordona, along with Phillips, seize Ketchum, terrorizing him into signing over all the properties he has stolen to the original owners.

possible FBI, CIA-Mafia, and the foreign involvement in the assassination of John F. Kennedy.

Starring in "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," are Ben Gazzara as Anson "Kip" Roberts, the street-wise prosecuting attorney, and Lorne Greene as Matthew Arnold Weldon, the patrician and establishment defense attorney; and in their first starring roles are John Pleshette and Mo'Nique as Lee Harvey Oswald and Marina Oswald. Also starring are Frances Lee McCain as Jan Holder, Lawrence Pressman as Ewbanks, Charlie Robinson as Melvin Johnson and George Wyner as Blandings.

Robert E. Thompson, the award winning screenwriter of "A Case of Rape" and the feature film "They Shoot Horses Don't They?" wrote "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," calling it "the most difficult thing I've ever written."

Movie Conclusion Airs

If Lee Harvey Oswald had lived to stand trial for the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, would he have been found guilty or innocent? The answer to this intriguing question is sought in "The Trial of Lee Harvey Oswald," a four-hour motion picture for television airing in two parts, concluding Sunday, Oct. 2 (9-11 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

The controversy that has surrounded the assassination of John F. Kennedy and haunted America for the past 14 years is explored in the film through a behind-the-scenes look at the bizarre life of Lee Harvey Oswald and the events that led up to that tragic day in Dallas.

Oswald's intense relationship with his mother, his many trips to Russia, his marriage to Russian-born Marina and his involvement in both the pro and anti-Castro movement are all dramatically depicted.

Various conspiracy theories are also examined, including

NEVER NEEDS PAINT!

Premium Solid Vinyl Siding is solid all the way through. It is not laminated or painted, and is not a veneer so there's nothing to wear off or come apart. While scratches show on "Coated" siding, they are not apparent on Vinyl siding because the color is clear through.

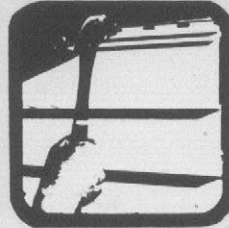

IS REMARKABLY TOUGH!

Premium Solid Vinyl Siding resists denting from the hail, rocks, baseballs, lawn mowers and other objects that mar your home's appearance. It installs easily over any other siding material with concealed nails.

DEFIES THE ELEMENTS!

Premium Solid Vinyl Siding does not conduct heat or cold. This means it stays cool in summer and warm in winter. Vinyl does not retain moisture like wood. And, it will not "magnify" rain or hail sounds, or pop and crackle with temperature changes.

ADDS SOLID BEAUTY!

Premium Solid Vinyl Siding gives your home that always "freshly painted look" with the deep shadow lines of traditional wood design. Incredibly durable . . . it won't rust, rot, corrode, flake or scale . . . and termites won't touch it.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR MARIE OSMOND, star of Dorothy and Marie

As the only girl in a family of eight brothers, have you ever wanted a sister? — C.R., Galveston, Texas

● Sure. I wanted someone to play dolls with me. My brothers never would. Good thing about being the only girl was that I didn't have to share a room. They all doubled up. If I felt really left out, Mom would pretend to be my big sister. Now I'm almost grown up, and I still think of her as my pal and big sister.

FOR CYRUS VANCE, Secretary of State

Where are you getting the money for the expensive antiques you're using to redecorate the Diplomatic Reception Rooms? — Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● The antiques in the Diplomatic Reception Rooms at the State Department are gifts from individual Americans to their fellow citizens. In some cases, the antiques are lent or donated to the nation by private citizens; in others, they are purchased with funds contributed by individuals or corporations. No Government funds are spent to furnish these rooms.

FOR BOB BARKER, daytime host of The Price Is Right

How do you remember all those jokes and funny lines you spout so easily? — P.D., Boca Raton, Fla.

● It's all spontaneous. I don't keep a joke file or use cue cards. I use them only if I have to give the name of a foundation or fund and to keep track of which act comes next. I can study acts two weeks in advance, put them away and not refer to them until time to use them — and it all comes back to me.

FOR LORETTA LYNN, country singer

Do you ever wear flashy clothes the way Dolly Parton does? — F. Thomas, Brewer, Maine

● I would never dress in a flashy style. I wear long dresses because I want to dress in a ladylike fashion. I feel comfortable in them, and, most important, my audiences like them.

FOR EDITH HEAD, designer

Will dresses go out of style in the next decade? — Gladys Kent, Lansing, Mich.

● No. I think dresses will be with us for quite some time. So will pants. I think this coexistence will continue for the next decade, and after that, your guess is as good as mine.

FOR BEN CRENSHAW, pro golfer

Is golf played the same way all over the world? Which country has the best golfers? — E.A.L., Oceanside, Calif.

● Because of TV, the game is being played more and more worldwide, and similar teaching facilities are also making golf more into a single, universal sport. The U.S. still has the best golfers because the sport has grown more quickly here, and the prize money is more appealing. But in many other places — Japan and Australia, for example — golfers are coming into the American tour in growing numbers.

FOR LT. GEN. A.J. GOODPASTOR, Superintendent, U.S. Military Academy, West Point

Do you consider your job as challenging as your duties when you were Supreme Allied Commander and staff secretary to Eisenhower? — I.E.G., Forest Hills, N.Y.

● I see my tasks less as a challenge than as an opportunity to contribute to the self-development of present and future members of the "Long Gray Line" of West Pointers. Whether as Supreme Allied Commander, Presidential staff secretary or Superintendent at West Point, the most rewarding thing is the opportunity to be of service to our country and people.

FOR JUDY BLUME, author of children's books

Will you ever write books for older teenagers involving love and sex? — A.K., Asbury, N.J.

● I already have. My novel, Forever, is an explicit love story about two high-school seniors. My daughter, Randy, and her friends wanted to read a love story in which, for a change, nobody dies. I agreed. I also thought it was important to present sex within a loving relationship. Katherine, the protagonist, has an affair with Michael, and at the end both experience pain. In this case, Michael is hurt most by the relationship. Whoever said boys aren't equally vulnerable?

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

There's an actress on Operation Petticoat (Jamie Lee Curtis, right) who looks like a star whose name I can't remember. Is she the daughter of a performer? — G.V., Zanesville, Ohio

● You must be thinking of Janet Leigh, who was married to actor Tony Curtis. In addition to Operation Petticoat, their daughter, Jamie, has been in Quincy and Columbo. She lives with Janet and her stepfather (stockbroker Robert Brandt) in Beverly Hills. She's an all-round athlete, plays the guitar, paints in oils, is a voracious reader and an enthusiastic photographer.

FOR JAMES BEARD, gourmet and author

If you had to live on one meal a day for the rest of your life, what would you choose? — N.R., Eau Claire, Wis.

● Heaven only knows. I've never been a person for favorites, but I know there are certain things I would hate to go without the rest of my life: fresh oysters, chicken, squab, asparagus and all the fruits — papaya, fresh litchi, ripe peaches and crisp tart apples. I've almost made a menu, haven't I? But then I left out a million other things that I like — caviar, foie gras, hamburgers, frankfurters....

PRO & CON

Should More Money Be Mandated For Solar Energy Research?

PRO Prof. Erich A. Farber, Director of the Solar Energy and Energy Conversion Lab, University of Florida

Through research we have to find better methods of converting solar energy, our largest and most permanent energy income, into the forms of energy that we use in our daily lives. This will free our fossil fuels (oil, coal, gas) for medicines, preservatives, pesticides, fertilizers and plastics, which are just as vital to our survival. We should, however, not wait for the perfect answer, but put to work the knowledge which we have now for the conversions which make economic sense — such as solar energy used for water-heating and cooling. We should utilize this nonpollutant source that belongs to all of us.

CON Hans. A. Bethe, Professor of Physics, Emeritus, Cornell U.

I do not believe the promise of solar energy is very great. Solar-energy utilization is not around the corner. To harness it for truly major energy production is exorbitantly expensive by any method now in sight — and will not become practical in this century, no matter how much we spend on research. However, solar-heating of water seems reasonable. For large-scale solar-energy power, it seems most promising to direct our efforts towards using the waste from farms, forests and cities. As one example, instead of discarding the stalks from wheat or corn, they could be fermented into substitutes for natural gas.

DYAN CANNON'S FIGHT FOR HAPPINESS

First there was the joy of marriage, then its loss and a plunge into anguish. Now she has discovered inner peace and new self-esteem.

A relaxed Dyan Cannon today: she vows never to lose touch with herself again.

By Alan Ebert

Dyan Cannon is a better actress than most know. For years, the public and press thought her to be as tough-and-together-as her screen image. Only now does Dyan admit she was always "terrified, a little girl pretending to be all grown up. I was without any sense of security, any inner peace. There were days, weeks, when I had to fight to stay alive."

Yet, she seemed like the girl who had everything — Cinderella at the ball, meeting-and-marrying the prince. She came from Tacoma, Wash., to Hollywood to become a star. Her first 200 appearances in bits in teleplays did nothing but attract screen idol Cary Grant, who married her in 1965. A year later, their daughter, Jennifer, was born, and two years after that, the storybook marriage ended in bitterness and divorce.

In those days, because she seemed "tough," Dyan shrugged off disappointment. She did not allow herself to feel wretched or depressed because her marriage had failed. Instead, she fled into activity, appearing first in the road company of How To Succeed In Business and then, briefly, in a Broadway bomb, The 90 Day Mistress. When the show collapsed, Dyan didn't. She gambled on a peanuts-for-pay-or-no-play-at-all appearance in Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice. Her performance won the New York Film Critics Award for Best Supporting Actress, an Oscar nomination and stardom. Without pause to reflect, Dyan plunged into a series of sex-laden films ranging from Love Machine and Doctors' Wives to The Anderson Tapes and Such Good Friends. Only a few knew, that as her star was on the ascendant, Dyan was in a decline, sliding into a depression that found her trying experimental therapies and drugs.

"Then, I would have tried anything to ease the pain," she says. "Yes, I knew drugs were bad, but I was so desperate and self-destructive that I would listen to no one. My problem, in a nutshell, was not knowing and, therefore, not liking me. I had never learned who and what I was but had always been whatever was wanted of me. I accepted others' definitions of who Dyan Cannon was because I had never defined her for myself. I didn't think I was pretty. Worse, I didn't know if I was nice. So I ran to a lot of bad places and a lot of bad things."

That was then. Now, four years after she left therapy and a film career that brought her as much discomfort as it did fame, she says, "I couldn't play one more sex-obsessed woman without screaming." Now Dyan is in great shape. No longer does she look or act tough. There is a new softness. She is far prettier at 39 than she was at 29. Also, she is "higher" than ever, but not from either smokes or drinks. She has become a vegetarian who needs "no additives" because "for the first time, I've got a piece of the rock. I've got me."

Dyan with daughter Jennifer, who combines the best of Cary Grant and her mother.

Hers are not just words. Even her self-imposed exile from the screen four years ago at the height of her success took a rocklike courage. "I had to do it," she explains. "It was hurting me not to. I guess as my concept of me changed, I could no longer portray women I did not respect."

Dyan's life turned around on a morning she clearly remembers. "I awoke, began to once again feel that awful inner emptiness and heard myself yelling, 'Enough! Enough pain.' I forced myself to look in the mirror — something I had always avoided — to studiously study me. And suddenly, I was smiling, laughing, not at but with me. So I wasn't a perfect beauty. Big deal. But I saw something better. I saw the inner me. For the first time I recognized I am basically a good and kind person — nice. It made me cry."

It makes her cry even today. "Do you know how wonderful it is to feel comfortable within when you never have before?" she continues. "It is then you can begin to live your life. When I found me, I had to find another side of my work. I had to make another kind of statement, one that was positive."

When Hollywood didn't offer her that opportunity, Dyan made her own. Two years ago she enrolled in the American Film Institute and this year, her first product, Number One, a 47-minute short that she wrote, produced and directed, not only was nominated for an Academy Award but also was a winner at the San Francisco, Paris and Teheran film festivals.

Dyan is a bona fide success story. Even today, as she produces, writes and directs another 47 minutes of film to add to Number One so that it may be presented as a feature rather than as a short, she remembers all too well, but without sadness, the recent years of deprivation. It may surprise many to learn there were times when her local Malibu grocery would extend no further credit until past bills were paid. To get where she is today, Dyan went beyond broke and all the way to debt. But, she promises, "I'll pay every cent back." Now that she has been signed to a multipicture deal by Twentieth Century-Fox to direct, she undoubtedly will. In addition, she has been offered two Broadway musicals and, if time permits, she will kick up her heels in a musical version of Born Yesterday.

But no matter how frantic the professional activity becomes, Dyan vows never to lose touch with herself again. Each morning, as the sun rises, so does she. Donning a sweatsuit, she runs along the Malibu coastline for nearly an hour. That is followed by 90 minutes of meditation. In her bedroom and study, she writes poetry. Her time to herself is inviolable. The only person who might interrupt is daughter Jennifer. A beautiful child who combines the best of Grant and Cannon, she is Dyan's "best friend" as well as daughter. She is an amazing little person. Bright and witty, she will never have to fight, as her mama did, for self-respect. She already has that and is sure of who she is. But Jennifer has always known both her parents love her. Cary has been a wonderful father.

While Dyan once maintained she would never marry again, today she says, "Although I am not running toward a relationship, I'm not running from one. Actually, I think marriage is the ultimate experience. What is more beautiful than two people who have discovered their own uniqueness, and choosing to share it with another? I believe in marriage today because I think one's life can be that much richer when experienced with another."

"But I would not marry for security. I have that now. I have grown strong. In the discovery of self, in reaching into me and finding someone worthy of love, I found another kind of love, and peace. I found God who lives within us all."

Smiling — beaming actually, she adds: "He was there all the time, just waiting. Isn't it ironic that I found Him in the very last place I looked."

If your parents or parents-in-law condescend to discuss things with you like, say, retirement, you might make a suggestion. It's based on an old Italian saying, "Dolce far niente," which means "It is

The author is a former editor-in-chief of Family Weekly and later of Popular Science, where he reached the age of mandatory retirement. Now he writes books, two of which have been published by Doubleday: A Century of Wonders and Fire of Genius.

HOW TO TALK WITH YOUR PARENTS ABOUT RETIREMENT

The spectacular achievements of many who are past retirement age can serve as an inspiration to us all.

Adm. H. G. Rickover, USN.

Actress Lillian Gish.

pleasant to do nothing" — but you add to it. What you'd like to tell them about retirement is: It is pleasant to do nothing, as long as you have something to do.

There's much discussion these days about the wisdom of setting an arbitrary age for compulsory retirement. On the one hand, employers say that younger employees are discouraged if those reaching, say, 65, won't step down. On the other hand, there are countless examples of men and women over retirement age who have satisfactory or even spectacular records of achievement. A recent article in The New York Times cited 25 men and women, among them Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, 77, actress Lillian Gish, "over 65," composer Richard Rodgers, 75, anthropologist Margaret Mead, 76, jazz musician Count Basie, 73, choreographer Martha Graham, 83, singer Mabel Mercer, 77, architect Buckminster Fuller, 82, and countless others still active.

But our premise is that mandatory retirement is a fact of life, and you'd like to tell your parents your ideas about that "something to do." Which brings you to hobbies. A life-long hobby comes in mighty handy after retirement. People with green thumbs are the luckiest ones. If they've been tending a garden through the years, now there's more time to branch out from the regular maintenance chores and plan an improved landscape, replacing old worn-out plants, mapping out and planting new flower beds.

The man (or woman) with a workshop where wonderful things can be built for indoors and out is to be envied. Your retirees can get books and magazines with exciting plans — and perhaps invest in some new, long-desired tools; working people rarely have time to build all the useful and beautiful improvements they dream or read about. The time is ripe for a full program for the do-it-yourselfer.

I met a man recently who had taught school all his life, until that mandatory age limit caught up with him. His hobby had always been repairing and improving old furniture. Now it was paying off. He showed me what had been a dilapidated old wooden table he had rescued from a neighbor's attic and which he had rebuilt and refinished into a beautiful, shining work of art. He's done dozens like it — chairs and chests of drawers as well. He charges reasonable sums, keeping in mind that he can't earn more than $3,000 a year and still collect all of that tax-free social security. And he's really a busy man.

A friend of mine had a hobby of collecting old clocks. When he retired he opened a shop in his house and made a business of his skill and knowledge. And he's much happier than he was as an advertising salesman. Of course, there are those talented people who can paint or sculpt or play musical instruments but do not necessarily make a business of their talents. Their "something to do" is taken care of.

If your parents tend to be too sedentary, you could tell them: get out of the house and not be hypnotized by the "boob tube." (I like watching television but only as a diversion — not an occupation.) If it's just a long walk or a visit to the library (they've always wanted time to read) or paying a call on an old friend, anything is better than just sitting there. Betty Ford wasn't kidding when she told ex-President Jerry not to come home for lunch.

Speaking of walks, you might suggest they step up their exercise program. Unless there's a physical problem, calisthenics, walking or easy jogging is a great up-lifter. And the latest wrinkle is — skipping rope. Health expert Curtis Mitchell took it up in his seventies and has written a book about it, The Perfect Exercise (Simon and Schuster). The cardiovascular system (heart and lungs) cries for activity, and that isn't accomplished by just sitting around.

You might convince your parents that the years after retirement could be the very best ever. One of my good friends discovered, in retirement, the joys of an annual trip on a freighter. It's not as expensive as you might think to take a cruise on one. They'll meet others, and there are some colorful and stimulating ports of call. And if they're "into" camping, now's the time for that kind of travel without the nagging thoughts about what's happening back at the office or factory. Yes, suggest the joys of travel. They've earned them.

Tell them not to sacrifice their own opportunities because they're saving the money for you to inherit. I can't believe that any reader of this magazine would approve of that type of self-sacrifice. If you are able to support yourself and your family, tell your parents that retirement is their reward for all the help they've tried to give you thus far; not necessarily financial help, but their moral support and encouragement.

Above all, you might like to tell them this is their chance to make new friends, and to spend more time with old ones. Point out that the courage to try new things (a correspondence course, a charity that needs help, a community project?) isn't limited to the young. They could make your parents' lives more fulfilling.

Now we come to that forbidden subject (or is it?) — sex. Young people can't imagine those old fogies still enjoying the warmth and excitement of physical love. But many do — and you'd be surprised at what age.

The father of a friend of mine recently married his late wife's good friend — he's over 80, and they enjoy every minute of their busy life — in every way.

And there's that marvelous skier, horseback rider and adventurer — who's still young at 85 — who, earlier this year, spent his honeymoon touring the world. His name is Lowell Thomas.

Tell your parents their life can be great after retirement, if they truly have "something to do." Unless they are ill or financially pressed, they have years of relaxed and constructive living ahead of them. Now your parents have more time for their friends — and I might add — for you.

But they must realize that you, too, have a life to lead and that routine meetings on specific days of the week are frustrating and counterproductive. Your relationship with your parent or parents, after retirement, should be based on a real desire to be together, perhaps often, perhaps just occasionally. But that relationship should never be a burden or a bore, either for you — or for them.

Talk these things over with them. I think they'll understand and be grateful for your loving interest in their future.

ROBBING HOODS

If burglars ever should break in,
I hope they'll take that diamond pin,
Not knowing that what seems to pass
For precious gem is only glass.

By Richard Berman

In this age of the "what's-in-it-for-me" professional athlete, Greg Luzinski, the left fielder for the Phillies, is indeed an authentic hero one can admire both as a man and as a player.

For instance, this year Luzinski quietly spent more than $20,000 of his own money to buy box seats to the Phillies games for underprivileged kids and has pledged to do the same for the next three years. "The fans have been super to me," he says, "and I want to do something for them. Many children have never had box seats, and I want to give some of them a chance to see how much fun it is to go to a ball game."

The kids had 126 seats on each of 36 home dates. The section is known as "The Bull Ring" (Luzinski is called "The Bull" because of his hulking 6'1", 275-pound frame and tremendous strength) and is located in the left-field stands directly above Luzinski's outfield position. The Bull also gives each youngster an autographed picture and donates $100 to the favorite charity of any Phillies player hitting a homerun into the section.

Generosity is only the beginning of a list of qualities that make him a special superstar. He is one of baseball's gentlest and most tranquil men, and he is congenial toward everyone, even umpires ("If I respect them, they'll respect me.") and nagging sportswriters. Fellow Philadelphia slugger Mike Schmidt has said that Luzinski's temperament may be his greatest strength: "He'll never be a basket case about his hitting. He doesn't let himself get hyper, and he doesn't go into deep depression."

Phillies manager Danny Ozark also thinks his star left fielder's even temper is a valuable asset, particularly over a long and arduous season involving a tight pennant race: "In a crucial situation you never see perspiration flowing down his face. Nor do you see him relax. We can be five runs ahead, he's still the same. And he's the same in the clubhouse after a game, whether he has gone 0-for-4 or 4-for-4. He's very unemotional and determined, and that's a tough combination to beat."

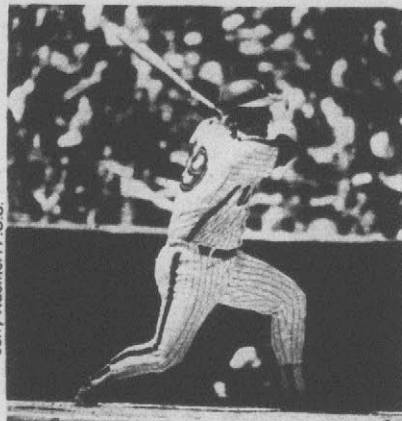

Luzinski is also loyal to his team. When he recently signed a handsome contract with the Phillies (approximately $1.5 million over five years), Luzinski knew he could command much more as a free agent. But he says the Phillies have been a positive force in his life. "They've been friends, and that should count for something."

If "The Bull" sounds like a pussycat off the field, he is a veritable volcano in the batter's box. Luzinski is indeed a rare commodity — a consistent .300 hitter who also hits for power. (He has been averaging about 30 homeruns a year over the last three seasons.)

He hits to all fields, and his swing is quicker and more compact than that of most homerun hitters, who frequently swing for the fences and thus don't make contact as often. Luzinski is also exceptionally knowledgeable and disciplined when it comes to hitting. "If I made up my mind to go for long balls all the time, I'd wind up leaving too many men on base. Maybe if I played somewhere else with different kinds of guys in the supporting cast it'd be different, but here I'm better off as a spray hitter."

GREG LUZINSKI: A BIG-HEARTED HERO

This phenomenal slugger stands out: He's a special kind of superstar kids can look up to with their parents approval...he's loyal, modest, hard-working, family oriented...he's generous to the tune of $20,000 a year.

Teammate Schmidt is especially conscious of Luzinski's value to the Phillies — and to his own career: "I wouldn't be where I am today, statistically, if I didn't have Greg hitting behind me. Let's face it, most pitchers would rather pitch to me than Greg. So I see a lot more fastballs when they get behind in the count."

Luzinski, 26, has already appeared in three consecutive All-Star games (for the last two he received more votes than any other National League outfielder), and his potential is staggering. In 1975 he was runner-up to Joe Morgan for the National League's Most Valuable Player, and he is given an excellent chance of winning it this season. His recent contract has made him even more determined to succeed. "I have something to prove," he was quoted as saying. "I have the feeling, because of all the money being thrown around, a lot of people are saying guys won't go out and play. When I signed my contract, that was number one in my mind — to prove to the people I'm worth every penny."

Luzinski has certainly captured the hearts of Philadelphians. The fans obviously appreciate his talent, generosity and loyalty, but other factors also have contributed to making him the town's most popular baseball player. With his flowing blond hair and smooth, fair skin, he perfectly fits our image of the clean-cut all-American sports hero. (His only blemish is a small divot over one of his blond eyebrows, which he got during the only childhood fight he recalls having.) He goes about his work without complaining or bragging. He's a favorite with his teammates. "Everybody likes Greg," says Schmidt, "because he's Polish, because he keeps things simple, because he's a family man who's made good."

Maturity also has a good deal to do with the respect Luzinski has gained from the fans and his peers. "He's always been mature," says Phillies shortstop Larry Bowa. "He got married real young. He had a family real young. He knew his responsibilities and met them."

In the clubhouse, "The Bull" is a leader without, as he says, "the rah-rah stuff." And, finally, perhaps the fans identify with a man who, like many of us, is not a great all-round athlete. In his early major-league days, Luzinski's bulky frame and awkward strides created a comedic effect in left field. But he worked tirelessly to overcome weaknesses in the field, as well as a serious knee injury, and now is at least an adequate fielder.

His lack of speed and agility in the field is the source of Luzinski's one sore spot with the Phillies. Sometimes in the late innings of a game Ozark removes him for defensive purposes. Luzinski hates to leave a game, and once, upon entering the dugout, his competitiveness got the better part of his reticence, causing him to hurl a batting helmet and some sharp words in Ozark's direction.

What accounts for his quiet determination and even temper? "It's just the way I was brought up," Luzinski says. His wife, Jean, whom he met at a high-school baseball game in his home town of Chicago, says her husband still can't believe he's a star. "He still cares about the $4 the fan paid to get into the game," she says. Referring to Greg's disposition, Jean confides that her husband would prefer to stay at home and play with their daughter, Kimberly, and son, Ryan, than face the throngs of admirers who seem to appear every time Jean and Greg go out in public.

Unlike some players, Luzinski's towering presence makes him instantly recognizable to Phillies fans. The Luzinski family lives in Medford, N.J., a Philadelphia suburb, and Jean says parents have even driven their kids up to the lawn to gape at the house. Luzinski reacts to all the fame with the same modesty and equilibrium that he reacts to everything else. He doesn't blow his top. He doesn't engage in public feuds with other players. And he doesn't attempt to make his salary a national concern. He is content doing what he seemingly always wanted to do — playing baseball.

In high school he began to play baseball as a freshman and never batted under .500 for four years. He also was a top football prospect in Illinois before being drafted by the Phillies in the first round of the 1968 draft. Since coming up from the minors in 1972, his batting average has climbed steadily, with this season being his best ever at the plate.

Although Luzinski seems to be an uncomplicated man, his actions could have deep meaning for professional sports. If teams, other than the very rich, are to survive, there must be players like Luzinski who are not ashamed to consider team loyalty along with salary. But, more important, we aging fans know baseball is really a kids' game. We remember how we idolized players like Joe DiMaggio, Stan Musial and Jackie Robinson. They set an example for us, and it was a good one. Are there enough players of such stature today? All sports need more people like The Bull from Philadelphia who combine talent and integrity.

THE NFL'S LEAST-UNDERSTOOD COACH

Mickey Palmer / F.O.S.

John Madden is brilliant and lives and sleeps football. Yet why, even after a Super Bowl Championship, do fans see him as only a puppet on a string for the Raiders' owner?

By Frank Cooney

It seems odd that an event as gaudy as a Super Bowl could bring anything into proper perspective. Although billed as a championship game, it has become the National Football League's annual Mardi Gras, a superfluous spectacle featuring not mere men, but stars, superstars and folk heroes.

Yet, last January in Pasadena, amidst the ballyhoo and buildup for Super Bowl XI, one of the most misunderstood men in American sport somehow managed to reveal his true personality. After toiling eight years in a shadow land of misconceptions, Oakland Raiders coach John Madden emerged in that bright limelight as, well, a real human being.

Not a humorless prison warden or a paranoid puppet or a bumbling truck driver. For years, these were typical lame attempts at quickie caricatures of the big, red-headed coach. Like much of the folklore surrounding the Oakland Raiders; it was fiction repeated until it was accepted as fact.

In those hectic days before Super Bowl XI, a dubious public realized otherwise. Garish and grueling press conferences became a daily entertainment hour as Madden melted even hard-core pessimists with his homespun yarns and easy, but poignant, jokes. Humorless? This man was a closet comedian, complete with exaggerated facial expressions and hand gestures.

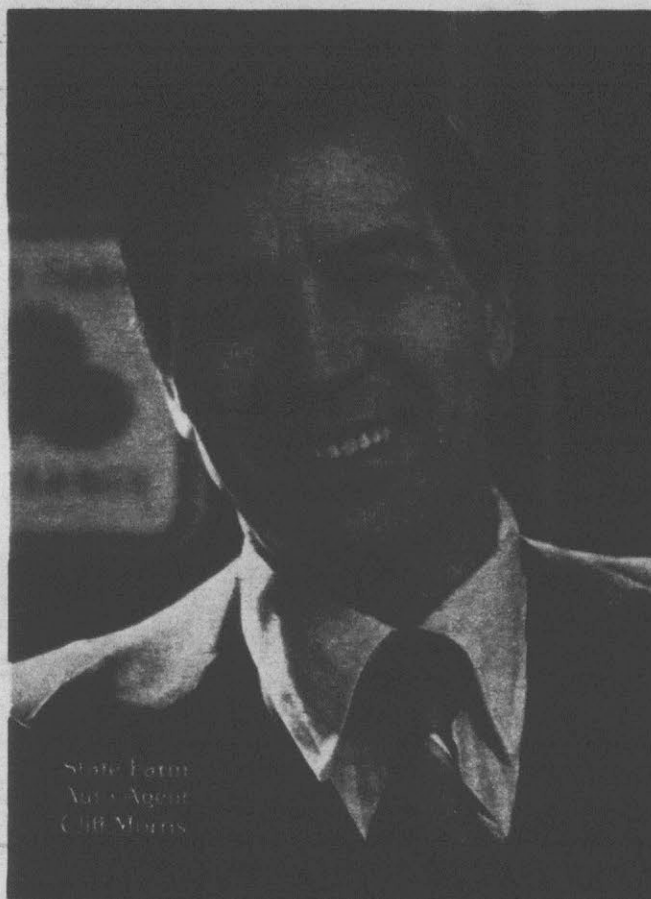

And on the practice field he was obviously the architect and general contractor for impressively organized workouts. This surprised those who thought managing general partner Al Davis, the Raiders' resident genius-owner, really ran the show. In fact, Davis never attended a practice all week. A paranoid puppet? No way. Here was one of the most self-confident football coaches in the NFL.

Then, finally, last January 9, he also proved he was the No. 1 coach. A resounding 32-14 victory over the Minnesota Vikings capped a season of unbelievable adversity with the ultimate prize. He was absolutely the No. 1 coach of the No. 1 team.

To those who know him well, winning a Super Bowl was no surprise. It was inevitable. Ever since he was a hyperactive school kid in Daly City, a San Francisco suburb, all he ever wanted to be was a coach.

"Coaching isn't work; it's more than a job," says Madden. "Football is what I am. I didn't go into it to make a living or because I enjoy it. I am totally consumed by football, totally involved. I'm not into gardening, for instance, or any of the usual hobbies. I don't hunt, I don't fish, I don't camp. I'm into football, period."

His lone diversion is his family, and even that has been organized to fit in with his devotion to duty. During the season, he usually spends seven days and six nights a week on football.

"I have Friday nights at home," he says. "I'm usually so tired that I take a nap, then get up and go to bed early. My family knows and understands what this is all about. My wife, Virginia, is a very independent person. She teaches fifth grade, and she doesn't depend on me. During the off-season Virginia and I and our boys, Mike and Joey, do things together. But starting in July, my life is the Raiders."

And that brings up his more publicized relationship, his business marriage to Davis. Together they form the entire executive board that makes all important decisions about the Oakland Raiders. It is more of a friendly relationship than a business arrangement.

Why a State Farm agent may be your best life and health agent, too.

The first time Ron and Helen Steinmetz of Sikeston, Missouri, called on Cliff Morris, it was about life insurance.

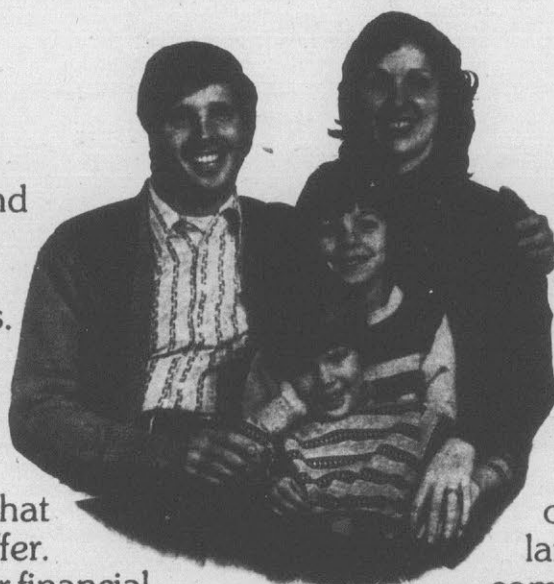

They'd talked to some other agents and wanted to see what State Farm had to offer.

"We discussed our financial situation and our future plans with him," recalls Ron, "and Cliff came back with the program we felt would do the most for us."

"It was comfortable talking to him," says Helen.

"I liked the way he explained things so clearly, and suggested we take all the time we needed to make our decision."

It was a sound decision.
As a State Farm agent,

Cliff Morris has undergone extensive training in all phases of family insurance.

He's backed not only by America's largest insurer of cars and homes, but one of the country's largest life companies, too.

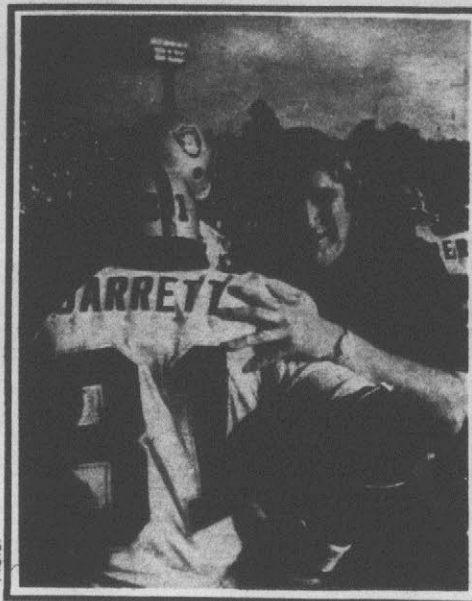

Later Ron and Helen bought State Farm policies for their home and car. So now, if they have a question about any of their family insurance, or a claim, they just call Cliff.

If you want someone who offers the outstanding protection and personal service the Steinmetzes enjoy, just check the Yellow Pages and call the State Farm agent in your neighborhood.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

A Raiders' victory: team and coach are one.

Strong mutual respect, as well as their considerable knowledge, make it the most efficient executive board in pro sports.

"What I think about John as a person and as a coach," says Davis, "is that he is a very close friend and a freaking genius of a coach. He has been somewhat overlooked because of the type of organization we have, but it's just a matter of time before he is recognized as the greatest coach."

There are those who wonder why Madden does not aspire to loftier goals. Why doesn't he follow the current trend toward the head coach-general manager combination? He has been offered such a position by other teams but realizes they are not real promotions.

"The true measure of a man's position isn't his title, but how many people he must answer to," says Madden. "In my case there is only one, and he knows what this business is all about from all angles."

"Anyway, I am exactly what I always wanted to be — a coach. I don't think it is a good arrangement to be coach and general manager. First you sit down at a desk and hassle over a contract with a player and maybe don't come to an agreement. Then you are supposed to go out on the field and coach him. That's not for me."

Madden measures every move he makes, especially when it involves his players. Last year, when the Raiders lost several starters to injuries yet kept building toward the Super Bowl, the players heaped endless praise on him for holding everything together.

"He went through hell and made it seem like heaven," says defensive lineman Dave Rowe. "Most coaches would have been tight-jawed. They would have done a lot of screaming, especially during those tight games. People talk about how Vince Lombardi made winners by treating his players like dogs. John knows that won't work with today's more sophisticated, more affluent athletes."

"This team is well known for having a variety of unusual people. We have players here other teams rejected as being uncoachable. Yet John took the most diversified personalities in the league and made them work together."

"I know coaches who couldn't have handled this team for a week," continues Rowe, "yet he made it look easy. The problems we had would have sent most clubs to the outhouse, but we wound up in the penthouse. John Madden was obviously born as a coach and has improved his abilities every day of his life."

They teach all the tables from 2's through 12's as easily as the words of a song!

Try them for two weeks
FREE!

Your child must memorize all his tables to pass in the New Math

Help your child do better in arithmetic—especially in the New Math—by getting him these new multiplication records. New Math teaches meaning—teaches why $2 \times 7 = 14$ —but modern math teachers still insist on children memorizing their tables. Now even children of pre-school age can easily learn all the tables from 2's through 12's simply by playing these records.

No urging needed from parents. Children love these records. Each table has its own catchy tune and jingles. And the man on the record quizzes your child so the tables stick in his memory. He must have his multiplication tables memorized to learn long division, fractions and decimals. Musical Multiplication Records make learning the tables an exciting game—easy and fun!

MOVE OVER, DOROTHY HAMILL

Ice is nice, but it isn't the only way to skate, say enthusiasts of one of America's fastest growing sports

Dan and Fleurette — a winning pair

By Haru Roberts

When 21-year-old Lex Kane finishes his eight-hour shift at a motor company plant in Sterling Heights, Mich., his real working day is just beginning. Lex gets into his car for the 100-mile drive to the rink in Toledo, Ohio, where he will practice his skating for 4 to 6 hours before returning home. "So what?" ask those familiar with the rigors of a figure-skater's life from watching the Olympics on television. Well, there is a difference — Lex is a roller skater.

The dedication it took to make Lex this year's national senior men's champion will come as no surprise to the country's 25,000 competitive roller skaters, but to most Americans roller-skating conjures up visions of Battling Bertha roller derby Amazons rather than first cousins to Peggy Fleming.

Roller skaters will be getting long-awaited recognition of their sport when it is included for the first time in the 1979 Pan-American games. And with that recognition, they ask, can Olympic status be far behind?

Competitive roller-skating falls into three categories: hockey, speed and artistic. Within the artistic category, which is the most popular, is a variety of events. There's dance-skating, in which couples skate dances specially created for roller-skating, and pairs-skating, where couples do complementary freestyle skating. Individuals can compete in figure-skating. (They are judged on how closely they execute figures painted on the rink.) and freestyle skating, in which the skater performs a routine that includes often breathtaking jumps and spins to music.

In singles-skating, individual titles are awarded in the figure and freestyle categories, but to become an international singles champion like Lex, the skater must perform both types of skating.

In the United States, which has an estimated 20 million recreational roller skaters, competitive skating is concentrated on the East and West coasts and the Great Lakes region. Many skaters start out as speed skaters, then move into artistic skating. Marvin Facher, who operates a chain of rinks, says, "When kids start out they say, 'I want to go fast.' Then they discover there's nothing sissy about pairs and dance-skating."

Currently, there is not the monetary incentive to become a champion roller skater there is in ice-skating, says senior international dance champion Fleurette Arseneault. "Dorothy Hamill wins the Olympics and she's doing all kinds of commercials. A roller skater wins the world title, and there's nothing."

The lack of any gold other than a World Medal at the end of the rainbow hasn't discouraged Fleurette and her partner, Dan Littell, who placed second in last year's World Championships and are favored to win this year. Each weekend 19-year-old Fleurette flies from Boston to New York for a concentrated weekend of practice. Twenty-five-year-old Dan has only a short drive to the rink in Levittown, N.Y., but has already moved cross country to train.

Most competitive skaters are introduced to the sport early — it seems to run in families. Lex Kane was taken to a rink at the age of five weeks by his parents, who had met at a roller-skating rink. An exception to the rule is nationally known coach John Dayney, who had never been to a roller-skating rink until he was 15. Dayney started his own skating dynasty. His son, Randy, is a former world champion who now coaches Lex Kane, and his 18-year-old daughter, Robin, just took third place at the Nationals in International Ladies Singles.

What do roller skaters get out of the sport? In addition to the fun, exercise and opportunity to socialize, many competitive skaters would agree with John Dayney, pupil, 13-year-old Linda List: "Skating taught me that if I want to do something, I can. I think it's given me more drive to do everything."

Want to start your own skating family? Unless your children develop competitive gold fever it doesn't have to cost you much. Although some children start early, John Dayney says six is a good age to begin. Beginning skaters of any age should start at general sessions. To progress, a skater should try figure-skating in a class. Then he or she will need private lessons. Boy and Girl Scouts offer a roller-skating merit badge, and scout groups can obtain discount rates.

Skates can be rented, but if the skater is serious it's better to buy one's own. As growing feet can be accommodated by putting larger boots on the same plates.

The Third Generation Monte Carlo. A new dimension in affordable luxury.

With immense pride, we present a trim and timely new edition of Chevrolet's popular personal luxury car: The Third Generation Monte Carlo.

Although thoroughly redesigned, today's Monte Carlo retains the unique personality of Monte Carlos past.

Front and rear overhang have been reduced. The turning diameter is over two feet shorter than last year, giving the car added agility in cramped quarters.

The new interior is a virtual "Driver's Suite," with sumptuous cloths and carpets, tall windows, a totally new instrument panel, and special Monte Carlo "touches" throughout.

Surprisingly, there is more rear-seat leg room, head room and hip room than last year. More trunk space, too.

There is a new standard powerplant, a 231 Cu. In. V6. A 305 Cu. In. V8 is available. (Monte Carlo is equipped with GM-built engines produced by various divisions. See your dealer for details.) The Third Generation Monte Carlo. Drive it soon.

Telling it like it is. While we've been critical of the Administration's energy program, we have not been alone. Many newspaper editorials and television commentators have been bringing the program's shortcomings to the American people. Here are some comments from newspapers and TV:

DAILY NEWS "The weird concoction of taxes, rebates, regulations, and fuzzy objectives which President Carter packaged as an energy program has... [had] inexcusably sketchy examination. Americans can only hope that the misguided and fundamentally flawed proposals will be weighed and measured more... An effective energy policy should be directed at two principal goals—reducing drastically the nation's dependence on imported oil, and assuring certain, steady supplies of energy in amounts sufficient to sustain economic growth. In its present form, the President's plan fails dismally in both key areas."

New York, August 8, 1977

St. Louis Globe-Democrat "The government has proven beyond all doubt that it is totally incapable of supplanting the open market in regulating prices or in controlling supply and demand. Washington has manufactured the energy crisis. The sooner it gets out of the energy business, the sooner this federally created crisis can be ended."

June 11, 1977

The Tampa Daily Capital "This plan would do nothing to encourage exploration for oil. The tax would go to government—a part to pay bureaucrats, the rest to be rebated. It seems logical that government would do more to solve the energy problem if it decontrolled prices, levied no higher gasoline taxes and did what it could to encourage firms to find and produce more oil."

June 3, 1977

Clever, but will it fit through the door?

WDAU-TV "The President's program is long on conservation and short on expanding energy sources so that our economy can keep growing. It tells us—in effect—that we must lower our sights; that America's long period of economic expansion is over. That concept ought to be rejected."

Scranton, Pa. August 10, 1977

Richmond Times-Dispatch "...the basic weakness in Mr. Carter's energy plan... is its inordinate emphasis on conservation. Very little was included in the plan to stimulate the production of energy... excessive conservation would seriously retard the nation's economic growth."

June 21, 1977

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS "...neither direct taxes at the gasoline pump, nor on oil at the wellhead, can produce incentives for one iota of additional energy. So the prime need... is for a balanced program that offers incentives for both individual conservation and investment on the supply side."

THE MARTIAL ARTS HAVE ARRIVED

Do you know the difference between judo and aikido, jujitsu and karate? If you don't, finding out can be painful.

Judo champ Connie Kenison of Menlo Park, Cal., in action

By Jack Murray

Like a grass fire that lies unnoticed until fanned by a strong wind, the martial arts are spreading across America.

Although these various disciplines were introduced into the United States prior to World War II, it wasn't until the later 40's and early 50's that a significant number of practitioners could be found in this country. During the middle 50's, Curtis Le May, then chief of the Strategic Air Command, spearheaded an Air Force program in the martial arts that fostered their popularity among servicemen.

In 1964 judo was introduced into the Olympic Games, appropriately enough in Tokyo, and the United States had its first judo medalist, Jimmy Bregman, of Washington, D.C. For the most part, though, there was still only a small group of hardcore devotees who knew what was happening in the sport.

In the 70's ABC-TV televised a new series, Kung Fu, and thanks to some talented stunt men and some spectacular camera work, millions of young Americans became enthused and signed up for lessons in the various Oriental fighting arts.

Eventually, the public came to understand that the martial arts include several similar, although entirely separate, disciplines. The most common of these are:

Jujitsu. Perhaps the oldest of the martial arts. For many years skills were passed from one generation to another by the Japanese warrior or Samurai class. Later they were taught only to Japanese military personnel. Jujitsu emphasizes pressure on the joints, such as the elbow, wrist, fingers, and involves extremely rough self-defense techniques.

Jack Murray, managing editor of American Judo Magazine, currently holds a third-degree black belt in judo.

Judo. This originated in Tokyo with Professor Jigoro Kano, who wanted to give the Japanese a national sport and a means of self-conditioning. It is a form of wrestling based on jujitsu, but it is bad form to injure one's opponents.

Aikido. Another Japanese contribution. It is passive in nature and taught strictly as a self-defense skill. It incorporates many of the foot techniques of judo, along with some of the joint techniques of jujitsu.

Karate. Developed on Okinawa by monks who were forced, by their conquerors, to find a form of self-defense that did not employ weapons. Emphasis is on empty-handed striking and kicks. Within the past few years professional karate has been introduced in America. Like boxing, it is a full-contact sport, and the participants wear padded gloves and protective shoes.

One side effect of this sudden exposure of the various martial arts on television was an extremely large number of young adults who signed up for judo or karate classes for the purpose of self-defense. As the rate of street crime grew, so did the number of people donning traditional pajamalike costumes for once-a-week training. Unfortunately, most of them learned only that they had a lot of muscles that they hadn't used in a long time, and all of those muscles ached. The net result was that many of them dropped out long before they acquired any reasonable skill.

Yet by 1975, the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States estimated that at least 250,000 Americans, of all ages, were involved in some form of martial arts training. At least a third were women.

And late in 1978, the International Olympic Committee will decide whether to include women's judo in the Olympics. If the decision is affirmative, this rapidly growing sport should become even more popular.

The Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge presents its official tribute to America's fighting men.

THE AMERICAN MILITARY

100 authentically detailed miniature pewter sculptures, honoring the

A limited edition collection, to be produced by The Franklin Mint.

Limit: One set per subscriber.

Today, as we approach the 200th anniversary of our nation's first great military encampment at Valley Forge, it is time for Americans everywhere to recall the proud heritage of our men in uniform. A time to honor all the brave American fighting men who have served the cause of liberty—on land, on sea and in the air—from the time we began our struggle for independence right on to the present day.

To this purpose, the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge—a nonprofit organization dedicated to the perpetuation of traditional American values and ideals—is proud to announce that it will issue a remarkable series of miniature pewter figures—The American Military Sculpture Collection.

This will be the most comprehensive collection of military sculptures ever created to honor America's fighting men. It will portray Americans of every military service, in the uniforms they wore in every era of our history. And it is available to you now, for a very brief period of time.

A comprehensive collection

This unique collection will consist of 100 finely detailed and totally authentic miniature pewter sculptures. Each sculptured figure will portray an American fighting man in the uniform of his service at a specific period in our nation's history. And each will have its own distinctive character and personality.

Among those to be portrayed are:

The Colonial Private—a Virginia rifleman—who endured the terrible winter at Valley Forge in 1777 . . .

The Revolutionary Naval Captain, on the deck of his ship in full dress uniform . . .

An Army Corporal, wearing the short jacket and high collar that was regulation for our infantry soldiers during the Mexican War of 1846 . . .

A Confederate Private of the famed Louisiana Tiger regiment—and his counterpart in the Union Cavalry . . .

An Infantryman in the distinctive spiked helmet and full dress uniform of 1881 . . .

An Army Air Corps Captain—a World War I pilot—wearing the wings and medals he had so proudly earned . . .

An American doughboy of 1918, in leggings and full field pack . . .

A Coast Guard Seaman, coxswain of a landing craft for the 1944 Normandy invasion . . .

An Armored Division Private in the European theatre of 1944, with special tank helmet and holstered pistol . . .

An Air Force Captain, navigator for a giant B-52 of the Strategic Air Command in the late 1950s . . .

An Army Private, wearing the full field dress of the present-day Airborne Cavalry . . .

In all, one hundred pewter sculptures, honoring America's heroes of every rank and service—through two centuries of our nation's history.

Original works of art, authentic in every detail

Each individual figure will be an original work of art, created exclusively for this collection by Ron Hinote—recognized as one of America's leading sculptors of military miniatures. Hinote's work is widely admired for its detail and devotion to historical accuracy—qualities which distinguish this outstanding new collection.

The Infantryman of 1813, for example, will be depicted wearing a coat with long-cut sleeves. These coats were tailored long on purpose, because the material was known to shrink drastically.

The World War I Army Air Corps Captain will be portrayed in his dress uniform. And you will actually be able to see the medals he has won, including the Distinguished Service Cross—newly established by an act of Congress in 1918.

The full field pack of the American doughboy will be sculptured with painstaking detail to include entrenching tools, mess kit and other necessities of life at the front lines. The Marine bundled against the grim Korean winter of 1952 will be shown with his trusty M-1 rifle and a welcome cup of hot coffee. In every case, the uniform, the equipment—and the action—will be carefully authenticated and true to life.

To assure the highest quality, moreover, this historic new collection will be produced by the world-famous Franklin Mint. Each sculptured courageous Americans of every service and every era—from the Revolution to the present day.

figure will be cast in fine American pewter. And each will be individually hand-finished and hand-polished, to bring out every fascinating detail of the sculpture and the full rich luster of the metal.

Issued in limited edition

The American Military Sculpture Collection will be issued in only one edition. This edition will be produced solely to order for individual subscribers, with an official limit of just one set per person.

After each subscriber has received his sculptures, the molds will be broken—so that this collection can never be issued again.

Convenient acquisition plan

The sculptures will be completed and issued to subscribers at the rate of one per month. The original issue price is $19.50 for each sculpture, and payment will be on a convenient monthly basis.

Each subscriber will also receive, without extra charge, a handsome five-tiered cabinet designed to display the complete collection on wall or tabletop. Crafted of rich cherry wood solids and veneers, and fitted with latching glass doors, this is a display you will be proud to have in your home—the ideal setting for this most impressive panorama of historic military sculptures.

In addition, each sculpture will be accompanied by an informative reference folder, describing in detail the significance and background of that figure, its uniform, and the equipment portrayed.

Subscription deadline: October 20, 1977

As an owner of The American Military Sculpture Collection, you will possess a work as unique as it is distinctive—the definitive tribute to both the courage and the achievements of the American fighting man. But the deadline for entering your subscription is October 20, 1977. Any applications postmarked after that date cannot and will not be accepted.

Your subscription application should be mailed directly to The Franklin Mint. No payment is necessary at this time. But please remember: the Subscription Application at right must be postmarked by October 20, to be accepted.

WHEN YOU SHOULD SEE A CREDIT COUNSELOR

A growing number of Americans at all income levels are charging toward disaster and could need professional help to pull them out of overwhelming debt.

By Paula Dranov

Jack and Sandra were desperate. They dreaded the daily mail delivery and the ringing of the telephone. "I felt so helpless, so panicky," says Sandra of the realization that they simply couldn't pay off the $7,400 they owed on their car, a bank loan and their 12 credit cards.

"I knew we were getting in pretty deep," Jack recalls. "But before I lost my job, I figured we could handle it." Indeed, Jack and Sandra hadn't even added up their debts while he still was earning $14,500 as the manager of a small appliance store. Although he soon found a sales job, he had to take a big pay cut. "Now, I'm making only $9,500, and we just can't spend the way we used to. But it took us a while to realize that. Let's face it, until we get out of this mess, we can't spend anything at all."

Jack and Sandra aren't the only couple to find themselves in too much debt. About 5 percent of all Americans who use credit — and virtually all of us do — eventually face bills they can't pay. And with consumer installment credit rising every year — from $90 billion in 1965 to $196.16 billion today — the likelihood is that many more of us are going to find ourselves in the same fix.

For most of those in trouble today, overspending was easy. "It was the credit cards that did it," Jack says of his own predicament. "It never really seemed like spending — until the bills came in. And even then, at first, the payments seemed so low that we just kept using them."

The temptation to spend more than he could afford was everywhere, Jack complains. And it's true that today, flashing a credit card can get you anything from an original work of art to auto repairs and even taxi rides in some cities. What's more, obtaining credit and credit cards has become easier. Even young people without an established credit record can successfully apply for some charge cards as long as they've held a job for six months or so and earn about $8,000. For others, the more credit you've got, the more you can get as long as you're not delinquent in your payments.

Although most Americans use credit prudently — total installment debt is less than 15 percent of total personal income — a growing number are charging toward disaster. For many, credit cards are tickets to the good life.

Jean and Charles are much more affluent than Jack and Sandra — he earns $40,000 as a corporate executive — but they found themselves in the same kind of trouble — $25,000 worth. Ironically, other than their two cars, they didn't have much in the way of major purchases to show for all that debt.

Eventually, both couples concluded that they couldn't solve their problems alone and sought the help of credit counselors. Although this kind of counseling isn't new — the first such agency was established in Phoenix in 1958 — it has become increasingly available in recent years. There now are more than 200 such agencies throughout the country affiliated with the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, a nonprofit organization supported by contributions from banks, retail stores, consumer finance groups as well as labor, legal, credit-reporting and social-service agencies.

Essentially, a credit counselor helps clients evaluate their financial situations by reviewing their incomes and obligations. Consultations are free, but should a client want the counselor to arrange a debt-repayment scheme, there's a standard fee — except in hardship cases — of $10 per month.

Galo Cabrera, a New York counselor, says many of the people he sees don't know how much they owe before he adds up the amount for them. Often, a husband and wife will have credit cards about which the other doesn't even know. And often, clients are hopelessly naive about credit and debt management. "I even had one couple who wrote their bank saying they wouldn't make any more mortgage payments until some plumbing repairs were made," Cabrera reports. "They looked upon the bank as the landlord and figured that if that's where they were sending their money, the bank should fix the pipes!"

But worst of all, most people who come for help have no idea of cost of credit. Although aware that they're paying interest, they don't realize that on installment purchases it usually amounts to 18 percent per year and that on most bank loans it comes to 12 percent or more. Borrowing from a finance company can mean charges up to 18 to 22 percent per year.

Counseling agencies will never see one partner of a couple without the other — whether the two are married or living together. Frequently, counselors find, overspending can be traced to the anger of one partner toward the other — "revenge spending," they call it. "There's also an element of keeping up with the Joneses," says the National Foundation's Mary Quinn.

The debt-repayment plans counselors devise are designed to enable their clients to pay off what they owe without penalizing them so severely that they revert to their old habits in despair. But for many, the austerity imposed can be traumatic.

"He took away our credit cards," says Sandra. "We handed them over, and he cut them to shreds. Those cards had been our lifeline." "I was glad to see them go," Jack sighs. "I don't know if I could have resisted the temptation if we had just promised not to use them."

Their counselor helped Jack and Sandra arrive at a budget with which they could live. They agreed to shave their phone bills from an average of $25 per month to $15, to reduce the amount they spend on food by 25 percent and to curtail, until their debt is repaid, gift-giving, eating in restaurants and all but essential clothes purchases.

While credit counselors see an increasing number of clients at Jean's and Charles' income level, the National Foundation reports that the average client earns $15,000 a year and owes $6,000. In New York, Galo Cabrera's typical client is a couple in their mid-30's with two children, an annual income of $11,000 and debts of $7,800 spread among 8.8 creditors. This "typical" client spends $397 more per month than he or she earns.

Like all counseling clients, Jack and Sandra and Jean and Charles agreed to send their counselor a check each month to be used toward their debts. In both cases, the counselor was able to get an extension of the bank loans and to persuade most of the other creditors to give them more time to make payments. "Most creditors are glad to do it," says Cabrera.

In addition to agreeing to the repayment scheme, clients also must promise not to incur new debts until the old ones are paid. The National Foundation claims that 80 percent successfully complete their repayment plans. If a client defaults, the counselor notifies the creditors, who then can take legal action against the debtor.

How much installment debt is too much? The National Foundation figures you can safely owe up to 15 percent of your annual salary. That figure would include car payments but no money owed on home mortgages. When debt approaches 20 percent of annual income, "it's time to start taking a long look," says Mary Quinn.

There are some danger signals to alert you to a credit overload:

- Falling behind in rent or utility payments.
- Using more than 20 percent of take-home pay for installment payments.
- Reducing credit payments in order to meet the rent.
- Requesting a new loan before an old one is paid.
- Exchanging small debts for a big one via a consolidation loan.
- Using cash advances from credit-card issuers for daily expenses.
- Delving into savings accounts for daily expenses.

THE DOCTOR AND YOU

Avoid The Energy Rollercoaster

Sugar can make you feel temporarily high and energetic, but it can make you feel mighty low, too. Sugar is the body's gasoline, burned to keep your motor running. All the food we eat can be used for energy, but the basic source is glucose, a "fast food" form of sugar converted from carbohydrates, which are found in such nutritious foods as fruits, vegetables, grains and cereals and in candies and cakes. Of course, your system can convert protein and fat into glucose and burn it, too, but that process is somewhat more complex than the other.

Consumed carbohydrates move quickly into the bloodstream, and your blood-sugar (or glucose) level rises, which is a signal for your body to produce insulin. So the pancreas squirts insulin into the blood, and blood sugar drops. Sometimes, in overreaction, too much insulin is produced, and the blood sugar plummets. You feel dizzy, weak (rollercoaster symptoms), hungry again, sleepy, irritable, sometimes headachy or nauseated. Low blood sugar is called hypoglycemia, and it can develop within an hour or so of a very sweet meal.

If you have this problem, you may ride that blood-sugar rollercoaster all the time. You eat because you're hungry — often a candy bar "for energy" — and your blood sugar soars. Here comes that insulin, and the blood sugar dips. Doctors recognize this living from spoon to mouth (reactive hypoglycemia) as a cause of overeating and obesity. Others don't get fat but stay nervous, irritable and apprehensive on the blood-sugar rollercoaster.

Adding fiber to the diet in the form of fresh fruits and vegetables and avoiding sweets and starches may slow down the sugar on its way into the bloodstream and moderate the problem somewhat. But anyone with hypoglycemic symptoms should see a doctor, who administers a six-hour glucose tolerance test and explores other possible causes: alcoholic beverages, caffeine, lack of sleep, fad-dieting, stress or even an organic defect. Treatment involves eliminating causes, diet modification (to one high in protein and low in carbohydrates) and, if stress is the problem, the use of tranquilizers and psychotherapy. Self-diagnosis may be as dangerous as living on the rollercoaster.

JOBMANSHIP

Getting Control Of Your Time

Evelyn Freidrich and Peter Marne think they're overworked. Their boss thinks they're disorganized. "It's not that they deliberately waste time," says their boss. "They just use it poorly. Here are some good time-saver ideas:

Sometimes break the rules if it will save time. For example, occasionally, it might be more practical to call your superior and settle a matter instead of doing all the work necessary for a memo. Reduce paperwork. Do similar jobs in batches once or twice a week instead of in bits daily. Also, study paperwork to see if you can eliminate steps or save time by changing the sequence. Eliminate tasks. List the routine jobs you do regularly. Ask yourself about each. Is it worth something I do or someone else does? Don't let the phone waste your time. Be pleasant, but say what you have to say without long socializing. Some busy people find that answering by giving their names instead of "hello" moves the conversation quickly to the point. If you know you'll be discussing a specific topic, have the necessary information at hand.

Plan your day. In his book, How To Get Control Of Your Time And Your Life (Wyden), Alan Lakein, a time-planning consultant, states that "the main secret of getting more done every day consists of making a daily list of high-priority things that have to be done." Must you write the list down? Yes. Doing so is effective. Lakein explains. It's not completing the list that counts but making the best use of your time. With the list, however, it's easier to stick to important tasks and not be sidetracked by time-consuming trifles or tangents.

COOKING WITH APPLES

October is officially designated National Apple Month. Here are some delightful new ways to use them in your kitchen.

Tender slices of apples in a golden citrus syrup spooned over ice cream make a sweet ending to an autumn dinner.

By Marilyn Hansen

An Apple A Day

One medium apple contains about 70 to 80 calories, 18 grams carbohydrate, pectin and Vitamin C. Apples provide bulk in the diet for the proper functioning of the body's digestive and regulatory systems.

HOT APPLE SUNDAE

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 pt. vanilla ice cream
- 3 tart apples

1. In skillet, mix together sugar, orange juice, lemon juice and cinnamon. Stir over low heat until sugar dissolves.

2. Bring to a boil; simmer 5 minutes. Add apples, peeled and sliced, and simmer, covered, 15 minutes longer. Serve over ice cream.

Makes 4 servings

GERMAN APPLE PANCAKE

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 large apple, cored and sliced
- 1/2 cup butter, melted
- 1/4 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 lemon, cut into wedges

1. Preheat oven to 450°F. Place butter in 10-inch ovenproof skillet, quiche pan or pie pan; put in oven and melt.

2. Beat eggs well. Add salt, flour and milk; beat until smooth.

3. Place apple slices into melted butter in pan. Pour batter over all. Reduce heat to 350°F. and bake until crisp and brown.

4. Serve in wedges with butter, confectioners' sugar and lemon juice.

Makes 4 servings

Editor's note: Grilled link sausage goes well with the dish.

APPLE 'N' CHEESE BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 1/4 cups whole wheat flour
- 1/4 cup wheat germ
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 egg
- 1 cup grated sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 cup finely chopped apple

1. Grease and flour a 9- x 5- x 3-inch loaf pan. Preheat oven to 350°F.

2. In bowl, mix flours, wheat germ, baking powder, sugar and salt.

3. Beat together milk and egg; add to dry ingredients, blending well.

4. Stir in cheese, walnuts and apple. Pour batter into prepared pan. Bake for about 1 hour and 15 minutes or until a cake tester poked in center comes out clean. Remove from pan and cool on rack.

Makes 1 loaf

BIG APPLE CHEESE BALL

Assortment of red and golden Delicious apples

- 4 cups grated sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 pkg. (3 ozs.) cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup apple cider or juice
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon onion salt
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 2 teaspoons caraway seeds
- Paprika
- Cinnamon stick
- Crackers

1. Chill apples. Combine cheeses, cider and seasonings. Beat until smooth.

2. Refrigerate 2 to 3 hours. Shape into a round, apple-shaped ball. Roll on side of cheese "apple" in paprika. Insert cinnamon stick for stem. Refrigerate until served.

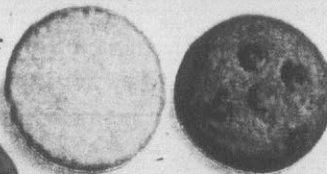

3. Serve cheese apple as a spread with crackers and wedges of red and golden Delicious apples.

ming aid that not only helps you melt away as much as 12 pounds the first 2 weeks — but even more amazing, helps you:

LOSE up to 4 to 6 inches off your waistline

LOSE up to 2 to 5 inches off your hips

LOSE up to 3 inches off your thighs

LOSE up to 4 inches off your buttocks

LOSE up to 4 inches off your stomach

all without a moment of torturous diet — without a moment of brutal, punishing exercise — without battling your willpower or fighting off gnawing hunger!

URNS A CUPFUL OF COFFEE (or tea) INTO HOURS OF "LIQUID WILLPOWER"

(completely flavorless — affects only your appetite — not your taste.)

Most significant of all, as long as you follow this medically proven "Coffee-Off" lifetime slimmness program, you actually become TOTALLY immune to fat build-up for the rest of your life — even if you've been hopelessly overweight for all your adult life.

NOW A LIFETIME OF SLIMNESS WITHOUT A MOMENT OF GNAWING HUNGER!

How can medical science make this lifetime dream come true? It's simple. Because one of America's leading weight-loss specialists has finally found a way to take ordinary coffee or tea... and convert it into a wondrous new kind of fat-fighting aid that SHUTS OFF EVEN A RUN-AWAY APPETITE, ON COMMAND! Yes, medical science has finally found a way to take ordinary coffee or tea and actually force hunger to STOP on the spot... make excess pounds and inches disappear from sight so fast... that in just 10 days time you will simply refuse to believe your bathroom scale — and in just a matter of weeks you may actually need a brand new wardrobe!

BEST OF ALL — NO CRAVING, NO SLIDE-BACK — YOU STAY SLIM FOR GOOD ON THIS LIFETIME SLIMNESS PROGRAM!

The secret is a medically-proven formula, (that to the eye looks just like an ordinary sugar-cube)... BUT, when activated in coffee or tea... enters your system and automatically SHUTS OFF YOUR APPETITE — SHUTS OFF THAT DRIVING URGE FOR FOOD — SHUTS OFF GNAWING HUNGER for hours at a time! Actually kills your desire, your craving, your appetite for food from meal to meal! So much so in fact, you aren't lured or tempted by even the most mouth-watering food. Not by ice-cream... not by cake... not even by the most luscious steak. In a nutshell...

YOU'RE SIMPLY TURNED OFF FOOD FOR HOURS AT A TIME

The name of this doctor's wondrous "Coffee-Off" way to Lifetime Slimmness is "FULL-STOP", because that's just what this medically-proven slim-cube formula does — brings gnawing, run-away appetite to a dead FULL STOP right in its tracks! Yes, according to medical experts just one "FULL-STOP" slim-cube in a cup of coffee or tea turns off your appetite INSTANTLY as if it suddenly went to sleep. You simply have no desire to eat for hours on end... even if all your life you've been cursed with a non-stop appetite. In fact, so effective is this "willpower-in-a-cube" you may actually have to consciously remind yourself to eat — which the doctor insists on — in order to prevent TOO MUCH WEIGHT-LOSS, TOO FAST!

Now, just think what this great new development means, if all your life you've had to battle your appetite and struggle with your willpower!

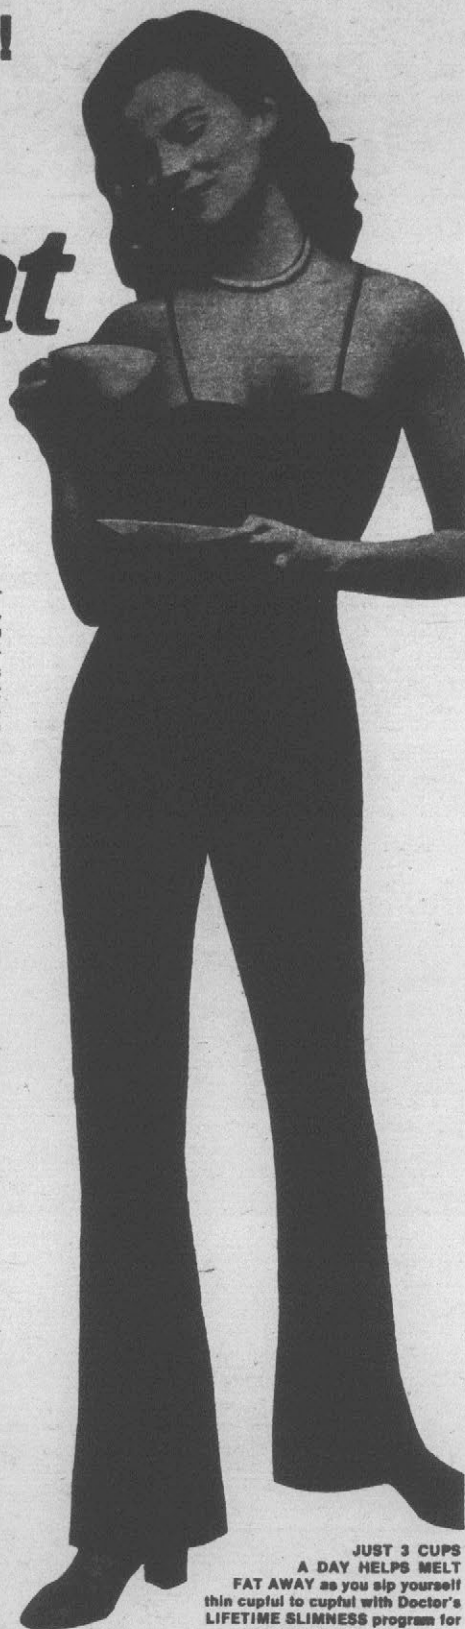

Doctor's "LIQUID-WILLPOWER" DEVELOPMENT Ends Torturous Diet!

It means that instead of battling those meal-time pangs of hunger... fighting that maddening urge for food... you simply reach for a "FULL STOP" slim-cube instead of fattening food and "sip your appetite to sleep" with this doctor's amazing 3-cups-a-day "Coffee-Off" way to AUTOMATIC WEIGHT-LOSS. PEOPLE QUIZ/By John E. Gibson Does romance tend to disappear from marriage after the honeymoon? Do calculating women prefer gullible men?

TEST YOUR LOVE KNOWLEDGE

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Romantic love — when couples idealize each other, minimize faults and see virtues larger than life — tends to fade gradually after the honeymoon.
2. Women consider love to be more important to marriage than men do.
3. When a love affair goes on the rocks, the man is more likely to terminate the relationship.
4. The more beautiful a woman is, the more likely men are to fall in love with her.
5. Love songs allow men to release emotions that are considered unmasculine in our culture.
6. Women who play a calculating game where romance is concerned are most attracted to men who are openhearted, trustful, "naive."

ANSWERS

1. False. Studies conducted by social psychologists at Johns Hopkins and Harvard investigated "the degree of idealized images in the marriage relationship." They found that romantic, pre-honeymoon images tend to persist after marriage, despite conflict and daily routine. Each spouse continues to see the other as responsible for good behavior, and circumstance or situation responsible for the bad. Seeing the best side of your partner may serve a benevolent function by acting as a buffer against irritations and minor conflicts and by maintaining the reinforcing value of continued support. The findings also strongly suggest that many marriages would not last as long as they do if love did not at least partly blind people to their spouses' faults and frailties.
2. True. A psychological study of men's and women's attitudes toward love, conducted by a team of behavioral scientists at Rosary Hill College in New York, cites findings showing that "whereas the most important attribute for success in marriage was felt to be love-affection-sentiment by women subjects, men chose companion-ship."

3. False. According to a National Science Foundation study of more than 100 dating and engaged couples, the desire to break up was seldom mutual. Women were more likely than men to perceive problems in the relationships and more likely to be the ones to precipitate the breakups.

4. False. In his treatise on falling in love, psychologist Vernon W. Grant reports findings showing that beauty and attractiveness are definitely not the same and that "even a high degree of beauty may have a low degree of attractiveness." A strikingly beautiful woman may have a cool, aloof or self-centered manner that minimizes her attractiveness. Conversely, a plainer female's pleasing personality may do more to make her attractive to the opposite sex than the facial features of a classic beauty. Surface features often play a smaller part in attraction than many people suppose, and romantic love, "especially when it leads to marriage, tends to stress much more vital traits of character and temperament."

5. True. In a study at the University of Northern Iowa, 200 of the most popular songs over a 14-year period were evaluated. In most of them men were pictured as emotional and submissive. Women, on the other hand, were depicted as active and aggressive in love relationships.

6. False. Psychological studies of romantic attraction at the University of Delaware, in which 144 male and female subjects were given personality tests, showed that calculating women found calculating men the most appealing. These women appeared to enjoy a relationship in which each partner sought to control or manipulate the other.

Booklets For You And Your Family

Everyone wants the meals they serve their family to be nutritious as well as delicious, but it's often hard to separate food facts from fads. To help you get the most from your food dollar, the Government has prepared some inexpensive booklets on nutrition and diet. To order any of them, write: Official Business, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Request the booklet by title and number, and allow 4 to 6 weeks for delivery. Fats in Food and Diet (030E. 35¢): Saturated and unsaturated fat content of common foods; includes a cholesterol-content chart and discusses the effects of dietary fat on health. Food and Your Weight (031E. 50¢): Suggestions for losing, gaining and maintaining weight; plans for nutritious diets; lists calories per portion of common foods. Nutrition: Food at Work for You (679E. Free): Functions and sources of major nutrients; how to estimate your daily food needs; tips on buying and storing food. Read the Label, Set a Better Table (638E. Free): How to use nutrition labels to save money and to serve balanced meals. Myths about Vitamins (549E. Free): Discusses claims made about various vitamins; includes a chart of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances and a list of the best vitamin sources.

A Real Steal

Want to buy merchandise at prices that are a real steal? You may have to look no farther than your local police department. Most auction off recovered but unclaimed property at least once a year, and the prices are often unbelievably low — such as a regulation-size pool table for $20 or a bicycle for $5. Bert Sloane, communications coordinator with the Beverly Hills (Calif.) Police Dept., says his department has auctioned off everything from a full-length mink coat to a set of Cadillac hubcaps. Another California police department auctioned off a kitchen sink. Less exotic items, such as kitchen appliances, lawn mowers and musical instruments, are also available, and the merchandise is sold "as is," with proceeds usually going into the city's general fund. To find out about auctions in your area, call your police department's public-information officer or watch local papers for announcements.

WHAT IN THE WORLD...

Pharmacist's Aide

Having Big Brother watch out for you can be a good thing when the Big Brother happens to be the IBM computer located at the Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center. The computer is used by the 5 county-owned pharmacies to print prescription labels, and when it receives the patient's file number, it automatically compares the newly prescribed drug with others the patient may be taking to make sure he will not react adversely. If there's a potential problem, the computer prints a warning so that the pharmacist can check with the patient's doctor. The computer also has a lot of friends among the county's many Spanish-speaking patients — it prints bilingual labels.

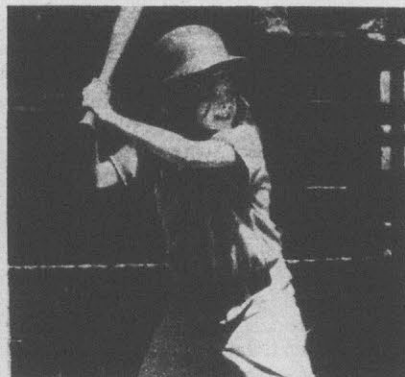

Adapting Recipes for Crockery Cooking

You can cook your family's old favorites in the handy new crock pots — but only if you make a few adjustments. Some adaptations endorsed by our food editor:

- Brown fatty cuts of meat and fowl or trim off the fat before putting them into the crock pot. Excess fat raises the temperature in the cooker, causing overcooking.
- Use only half the usual amount of liquids, such as tomato sauce, water and bouillon — they won't boil away in slow-cookers.
- To keep frozen vegetables and seafood from losing color and texture, thaw them before adding to the crock pot during last half-hour of cooking time.
- Root vegetables such as carrots and potatoes take longer to cook than meat, so slice them thinly, and put them in the cooker first.
- Milk, cream cheese and sour cream break down during long cooking, so either add them at the end of cooking time or substitute undiluted condensed cream soups that can cook all day.

Seedy Dealings

Whether you're a homeowner planning a new lawn, a farmer thinking about seed for next year's crops or a home gardener who will pore over seed catalogues this winter, there's a law to protect you if you get poor or mislabeled seed. Although you're likely to get a refund if you return the seed to the store, the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture wants you to know that you can take other action. To protect yourself, save the package, your receipt and some of the seed. Then, if the seed fails to perform as advertised, get in touch with the company — mistakes can happen. If the company doesn't respond satisfactorily to your complaint, notify your state department of agriculture. To facilitate investigation of your complaint, in your letter be sure to include the package, the seed you saved and your receipt.

Protecting Girls From Sports Injuries

With women's sports as likely to be soccer as softball these days, many parents are concerned about possible injuries. But before you start biting your nails when your daughter comes home and announces she's going out for basketball, listen to Dr. Allan J. Ryan, editor-in-chief of The Physician and Sportsmedicine magazine. He says that women are no more likely than men to be injured in contact sports — with the right precautions. The first step in preventing injuries is to make sure that your daughter wears the equipment (shin guards, knee pads, etc.) recommended for the particular sport. Training in the correct movement by the coach is also important. But the most crucial step, says Ryan, should take place long before the athlete gets suited up — proper conditioning. It should include exercises to stretch muscles, general calisthenics, running and, for some sports, special workouts with weights to build up strength and to prevent muscles from tiring quickly. And it's an old wives' tale that strenuous training will make women bulky — just look at Olga Korbut.

Quick Takes

Although the set's on, many viewers apparently tune out when they watch television news. A study by a State Univ. of N.Y. at Buffalo researcher reports that people contacted after watching the evening news could recall only 1.2 out of 10 news stories... The winner of the salad sweepstakes is the tomato. The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture says that tomatoes are found in more home gardens than any other vegetable — 95% of gardens contain them. Beans are the runner-up... Youngsters who roasted in the summer sun may not like what they see in the mirror a few years from now. Studies show that 4 out of 5 young people have sun-damaged skin and that the amount of damage increases steadily with age and exposure — even without actual sunburn... As if pro football players didn't have enough injuries to worry about, now there's "turf toe." The Florida podiatrist who named the condition, a swollen and painful great toe joint that reduces a player's effectiveness, says that turf toe is caused by switching between natural and artificial playing fields... What do today's teenagers want to be when they grow up? The answers may surprise you. Although 72% of the teenagers surveyed in a Gallup poll said that going to college was important to them, the top career choice of teenage boys was skilled worker (carpenter, plumber, electrician), and secretary was the No. 1 job choice of teenage girls. An apple a day won't necessarily keep the dentist away says the British Medical Journal. Seems the apple's reputation as "nature's toothbrush" has been a bit inflated. The journal says apples may bring about some cleansing, but they haven't been shown to improve dental health.

For over two hundred years, the old idea of the encyclopaedia remained the same. But now, to meet the demands of our changing world with its vast amounts of information... now, there is Britannica 3. This is a new, completely redesigned encyclopaedia. It is written in clear, readable language... the language of today... so that even the most complex subjects become much easier for your children to understand.

What makes Britannica 3 unique?

New Britannica 3 is more than an encyclopaedia. It's a revolutionary new home learning center... America's only encyclopaedia arranged into three distinct parts.

1. The 10-Volume Ready Reference lets you get at facts, quickly and easily. Ideal for homework.

2. The 19-Volume Knowledge-in-Depth for readers who want to explore entire fields of learning.

3. The One-Volume Outline of Knowledge—your guide to the entire encyclopaedia... permits you to plan your own course of study on any subject under the sun. Britannica 3 covers more subjects more completely. It is more responsive to today's needs of your family. And when you judge by its 43 million words, Britannica 3 delivers more value per dollar than any other accepted reference work. So if you want more up-to-date facts about more subjects than you'll find in any other single source, you want the new Britannica 3.

JOGGING IS GOOD FOR THE SOUL AND THE BODY

WOODSTOCK KEEPS FALLING BEHIND

WHOOPS! THERE HE IS UP FRONT AGAIN...

NOW, HE'S BEHIND AGAIN..

I'LL BET HE DROPS BACK SO HE CAN FLY...

IT'S NOT FAIR TO FLY WHEN YOU'RE SUPPOSED TO BE JOGGING!

MAYBE I COULD LOOK AROUND REAL FAST, AND CATCH HIM...

ON THE OTHER HAND, I DON'T WANT HIM TO THINK I DON'T TRUST HIM...

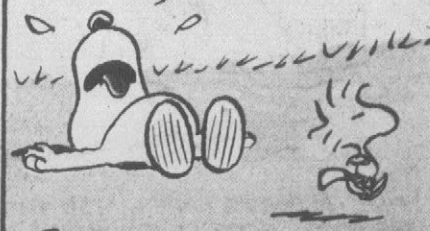

ON THE OTHER HAND, I DON'T LIKE TO BE TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF, EITHER!

ON THE OTHER HAND..

Our Story: KAREN WONDERS WHY HER FATHER IS SO UPSET. REALLY, IT WAS NECESSARY TO CUT HER HAIR OFF SO HER HELMET WOULD FIT, AND BESIDES, IT WOULD ONLY BE IN THE WAY SHOULD SHE WIELD HER SWORD!

TO WORK OFF HER HURT SHE GOES TO THE PUBLIC GYMNASIUM. THE MORNING HOURS ARE GIVEN OVER TO THE YOUNG FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF BODY AND MIND. KAREN HEADS FOR THE POOL.

AS SHE GLIDES BACK AND FORTH IN THE POOL A YOUNG ATHLETE WATCHES HER, FIRST IN ADMIRATION, THEN ENVY, FINALLY JEALOUSY AND OUTRIGHT DISLIKE.

JUST TO TEASE HER HE JUMPS INTO THE POOL WITH A SPLASH. "SO YOU THINK YOU CAN SWIM," HE SNEERS. "HOW ABOUT A RACE?"

"FINE," ANSWERS KAREN, "TEN TIMES THE LENGTH OF THE POOL, MORE IF YOU WISH." HOW WAS THE BOY TO KNOW THAT HER MOTHER WAS SAID TO BE OF THE RACE OF WATER NYMPHS BY THE PEARL DIVERS OF THE MISTY ISLES?

TOO LATE HE REMEMBERS THAT HE HAS NEVER SWAM THAT FAR IN A RACE BEFORE. HE IS EXHAUSTED.

"SWIMMING IS FOR FISHER FOLK AND PEARL DIVERS ANYWAY. LET US TRY A REAL RACE." "HOW FAR WILL WE RUN?" ASKS KAREN. "UNTIL ONE QUITS, ACKNOWLEDGING DEFEAT," HE REPLIES.

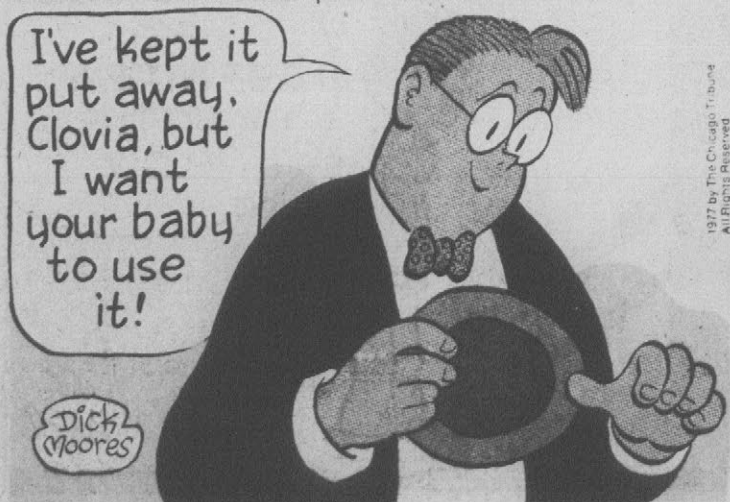

NOW THE GREAT GONG SOUNDS. TIME FOR THE YOUNG PEOPLE TO LEAVE SO THEIR ELDERS CAN ENJOY THE REMAINING HOURS.
