

Terrorist Hostages Freed By W. German Commando Raiders

BONN, West Germany (AP) — A West German commando force was flying home in triumph from East Africa today after a blitz raid on a hijacked Lufthansa airliner in which they rescued all 86 surviving hostages and killed three of the four hijackers.

Later in the night after the failure of the hijacking was announced, three of the imprisoned West German terrorists whose freedom the hijackers demanded committed suicide. A fourth terrorist on the list also tried to kill herself and was in critical condition.

The Entebbe-style rescue operation early today at Mogadishu, the capital of Somalia, provided "a very serious lesson for some people around the world on how to deal with terrorism," said a West German government spokesman.

President Carter congratulated the Bonn government for the "courage of their decision" to end the 4½-day hijacking without giving in to the hijackers' demands. Japanese Justice Minister Mitsuo Setoyama, whose government met the demands of Japanese hijackers two weeks ago, said the West German action "showed how to prevent hijacking."

Somali officials said nine passengers and one commando were slightly injured in the 10-minute raid and the terrorist who survived, a woman, was badly wounded. Lufthansa, the West German airline, said one other passenger was hospitalized "in a state of collapse." But all the hostages left Mogadishu this morning for home, Radio Somalia reported.

Most were Germans, but two Americans were reported among them. They were Christine M. Santiago, 44, of Santee, Calif., and her 5-year-old son, Leo. Mrs. Santiago has a heart condition.

The surviving hijacker, the lone woman in the Arabic-speaking gang, remained in a Mogadishu hospital, officials said.

The identities and nationalities of the terrorists remained in doubt. But Somali Information Minister Abdugadir Salad indicated that the three bodies were being sent to Germany.

The hijackers demanded the release of 11 imprisoned West German terrorists and two Palestinians in Turkish jails, along with $6 million in ransom. The couple who headed the list, Andreas Baader and his mistress, Gudrun Ensslin, committed suicide during the night in their cells, and two others on the list, Jan-Carl Raspe and Irmgard Moeller, slashed their wrists. Raspe died in a hospital during the morning, and Miss Moeller was reported in critical condition.

The only hostage killed was the chief pilot of the Lufthansa Boeing 737 jet, 37-year-old Juergen Schumann, whose body was put off the plane shortly after it landed in Mogadishu Sunday. Officials said he was shot Sunday while the plane sat at the airport in Aden, South Yemen, fifth of its six stops during its zigzag journey over Southern Europe and the Middle East to East Africa.

The raid, reminiscent of Israel's successful rescue at the Entebbe, Uganda, airport last year, was the first combat operation for the Border Guard Group 9 commando strike force, set up after the 1972 Munich Olympic massacre. Officials said the antiterrorist specialists had rehearsed the attack well, practicing on an identical plane before being sent to Mogadishu.

Under cover of darkness, the raiders blasted open emergency exits over both wings of the twin-jet airliner. They poured into the passenger cabin hurling "blinding" grenades that stunned with a flash of light and loud bang but emit no shrapnel.

They found that the hijackers had rigged the inside of the plane with explosives and poured gasoline over the aisle carpeting. The passengers had been strapped into their seats with their safety belts.

The hijackers apparently did not have enough time to ignite the gasoline or detonate the explosives.

"There was some shooting. ... There was no panic. The passengers were evacuated as fast as possible by sliding down inflated slides from the emergency exits," a Lufthansa spokesman said.

A Somali government spokesman said two of the hijackers were killed inside the plane and the third man was wounded and died in a hospital.

The Somalis said the raid was launched about 2:30 a.m. and lasted 10 minutes. German officials in Mogadishu radioed Bonn: "The job is finished."

The attack was made an hour before one of a series of deadlines set by the terrorists. The husband of one of the hostages said West German officials told him the hijackers had threatened to kill one hostage every five minutes after the deadline.

One West German government official said he felt "relief, but tempered relief. We must remember that the pilot was killed and they still have Schleyer. We don't know what happened to him."

The 11 West German terrorists whose freedom the hijackers demanded were the same demanded by the West German terrorists of the Red Army Front who kidnapped industrialist Hanns Martin Schleyer on Sept. 5 in Cologne. The kidnappers had threatened to kill Schleyer last Sunday unless Bonn gave in to the air pirates.

Fears Friend Can Do Harm

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Durham attorney Jerry Paul said Monday he thinks Joan Little is in the Norfolk, Va., area, possibly being kept away from telephones by a male companion who thinks he's doing it for her own good.

"I'm afraid someone around her might do something foolish that would cause her to get hurt," said Paul, who defended Miss Little in her nationally publicized 1975 murder trial. "That's why I'm trying so desperately to get in touch with her."

Paul said he had asked that a plea be broadcast on a Norfolk radio station asking that Miss Little call him at once.

"I have had several people out looking for her and they checked all the places in the Raleigh area where she possibly might have been," Paul said. "She wasn't at any of them. The only indication I have is that she may be in the Norfolk area."

Paul said the "indication" came from "someone who I have reason to believe knows what he's talking about" who also told Paul that Miss Little was with a male friend "who may be scared for her and not allow her to call."

Miss Little was serving a seven-year prison term in Raleigh for burglary when she escaped Saturday from the North Carolina Correction Center for Women.

Last week she had been suspended from her work-release job as a dental assistant after prison officials said she had failed one day to show up at work after leaving the prison.

Deputy prisons director W.L. Kautzky also said she was under investigation for other possible infractions, including a claim by a fellow prisoner that Miss Little had cashed a $200 money order for her and kept the money.

Miss Little was to be considered for parole next month, but the work-release suspension and the other allegations made it unlikely she would have gotten it, a fact which Paul and others said probably contributed to her decision to flee the prison.

Concorde Flight Readied

NEW YORK (AP) — A needle-nosed, faster-than-sound Concorde jet was readied today for this week's historic landing at John F. Kennedy International Airport. Supersonic transport opponents vowed they would be there to greet it.

While a British Airways spokesman was chortling, "We're on our way," in London Monday, a leader of the community groups fighting the landings of the noisy plane was vowing:

"They'll have the biggest demonstration this city has ever seen."

The U.S. Supreme Court on Monday refused to delay Concorde flights to New York pending an appeal by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey of a lower court ruling to permit the flights.

The British line and Air France, which together developed and exclusively operate the Concorde, immediately announced a "familiarization flight" would take off from Paris and land at Kennedy at 11 a.m. Wednesday, with regular twice-weekly flights each way starting Nov. 22.

The joint meeting is open to the public.

New Middle School Is Behind Schedule

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Emphasizing their concern that construction at Middle School is now approximately six weeks behind schedule, members of the Greenville City Board of Education Monday night took action it hopes will bring construction up to date.

By a unanimous vote, board members authorized architect George Shoe to take whatever action is necessary to persuade the general contractor to close the gap in the construction schedule, including informing the contractor of the possibility of bringing suit if the project is not completed by the contracted date of December 19.

Prior to the motion, Shoe explained that W. G. Dunn, general contractor and president of Eastern Construction Company, has stated "he doesn't have enough time to complete the sequences of construction that must follow the work of the plasterers."

Shoe's report shows that as of Monday, construction is 75 per cent completed, and that the construction schedule at this point calls for an 86 per cent completion.

When Shoe mentioned that Dunn claims the cold weather of last winter and the wet days earlier this year had contributed to about 60 days lost time in construction, board members said they could not accept that figure without official documentation based on a verifiable day by day weather reports covering the entire period since construction began.

Shoe said, "Dunn will be put on notice that he will have to document a claim of weather delay of that ceremonies were held yesterday for an addition to Pitt Memorial Hospital that will add 33 beds to the medical facility for the specialized treatment of high risk newborns.

The 33-bed neonatal intensive care unit is being built at a cost of $560,000, and will serve as one of six such regional centers serving the State.

Dr. Jon Tingelstad, chairman of the Department of Pediatrics for the East Carolina University School of Medicine said for a number of years, North Carolina has had one of the highest infant mortality rates in the United States. A Comprehensive Health Planning Task Force on Maternal-Infant Care was named in 1972 to analyze the problems and make recommendations for solving them.

As a result, the General Assembly in 1974 passed the "Perinatal Health Care Bill" which established the regionalized perinatal health care program. Under the regional program, Greenville, along with Asheville, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Durham-Chapel Hill, and Fayetteville, have been selected as sites for regional neonatal centers. The neonatal intensive care unit here will serve 29 Eastern counties extending from the Virginia border on the North to Onslow County on the south, and from Nash, Wilson, Wayne and Duplin Counties on the West to the Atlantic Coast.

State funds are being used to build the specialized unit in

He Got Away, Over And Over; But Back In Jail

TONS OF MULLET — This net, strong along the beach at Surf City Friday, shows the payoff of 18,000 pounds of mullet for fishermen who went about their business in spite of heavy rains and lingering overcast skies. (AP Laserphoto)

PONTIAC, Ill. (AP) — Harold Hemminger is "the one that got away" — over and over again. He is back in jail after four years on the lam, awaiting trial on charges of escape, of course.

"Harry's one of the best jailbreakers there ever was," said an officer assigned to keep him from slipping out of the courtroom in an appearance before Circuit Judge William Caisley.

It is hard to find a jailer or prisoner who won't smile when talking about Hemminger. He's never taken a hostage or harmed a guard during any of his escapes. "Hell," he said with a grin during an interview. "I ain't out to hurt anybody."

Hemminger, 36, was recaptured earlier this month in Viroqua, Wis., after spending four years "hunting and raising kids" when he was supposed to be in Pontiac Correctional Center in Illinois.

He escaped in 1973 after being sentenced a year earlier to a three-to-10-year term for burglary.

In 1971, Hemminger escaped from the maximum security facility at Waupun, Wis., where he also was serving a sentence for burglary.

It is hard to tell how many jails Hemminger has escaped from. A prison official says five, Hemminger says four. And the Vernon County, Wis., sheriff who arrested him said "jails all over the country" had reported him missing.

Jailed several times for non-violent crimes, Hemminger said he had never run away unless he found it "absolutely necessary."

He said he escaped once in Wisconsin out of hunger. "I mean, I get hungry, too," he said. "And that damned sheriff was a belly robber."

Hemminger, who weighs about 150 pounds, said he had wasted away to 110 pounds in the jail. So he took down the ceiling light in his cell, knocked a hole in the ceiling and went to get something to eat. He never returned.

How about Leavenworth, Kan.?

"I was framed," Hemminger said. "The courts should have let me go but they didn't. So it was necessary to leave."

That time Hemminger was put to work loading scraps of metal into barrels, which were then taken to a junkyard outside the prison walls. Hemminger squeezed into a barrel and was loaded onto the truck.

"I kicked the lid off and jumped off in downtown Leavenworth," he recalled.

When arrested most recently, Hemminger tried to escape by climbing onto the roof of his rural home, but there was nowhere to run. On the ground below him were about 80 coon dogs, which he had been training and hoped to sell, and the two children he said were born during his years as a fugitive.

The escapee said he had lived pretty casually. "I hunted every night ... after the first year," he said. "I figured they'd just stopped looking."

Shot At In House Joan Little Was Purchasing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — David P. Lane, the Raleigh dentist who gave Joan Little a job in a prison work-release program earlier this year, says he was in the process of selling a house to Miss Little when she escaped from the state women's prison last weekend.

Lane said Monday he was selling the house to Miss Little so she would have a home "in a good neighborhood" when she was paroled from the seven-year sentence she was serving on a breaking-and-entering conviction.

Meanwhile, the News and Observer of Raleigh reported in today's editions that a man Lane identified as Miss Little's boyfriend was charged with attempting to kill another man at the house Miss Little was buying.

Police records show that on Sept. 18, Stephen Pickins was shot in the head and shoulder at the house owned by Lane. Vernell Nelson Muhammad, 23, was arrested on Sept. 18 and charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill.

The newspaper quoted Lane as saying that Muhammad was Miss Little's boyfriend and that the two had known each other for about a year. "He's the only one other than her family that visits her at the prison," Lane said.

Asked about how Miss Little planned to finance the purchase of the house, Lane replied: "I called and talked to Universal Studios in California and they assured me that she had plenty of funds and that more funds were coming in all the time. They are making a movie about her — the life of Joan Little."

Lane said Miss Little had hired Pickins to make repairs on the house and had given him a key. He said that he understood Pickins was shot when he was mistaken for a burglar while inside the house.

The newspaper quoted Pickins as saying he was working at the house when a man rang the doorbell and said he had left something in a dresser drawer. Pickins said he let the man in and resumed working, and then the man opened fire on him.

Mandel Appeal Request Filed

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. Marvin Mandel and his five co-defendants have filed formal requests that a federal appeals court review their convictions and sentences on mail fraud and racketeering charges.

Albert Finginski, one of the suspended governor's attorneys, filed a notice of appeal with the U.S. District Court clerk's office here. The notice, and those of the other five defendants, will be forwarded to the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

Monday was the deadline for the men to appeal their Aug. 23 convictions.

The filings were routine, one-paragraph statements. Briefs supporting their appeals are to be sent to the Virginia court after the trial exhibits and 20,000-page transcript are forwarded by the federal district court here.

Eugene Gressman, a Washington lawyer and law professor at the University of North Carolina, was hired by the defense to prepare the briefs. Gressman said he probably would not argue the case. Mandel was suspended from office when he was sentenced Oct. 7.

A jury convicted him on charges of accepting some $350,000 in gifts and financial interests, in return for using his influence on 1972 legislation beneficial to Marlboro Race Track, which was then secretly owned by his co-defendants.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert L. Taylor of Tennessee sentenced Mandel to four years in prison.

Also sentenced to four years in prison were: Irvin Kovens, Harry W. Rodgers III and W. Dale Hess. The three were also fined $40,000. Taylor sentenced William Rodgers to 20 months in prison and a $40,000 fine and Ernest N. Cory Jr., to 1½ years in prison.

Neither Mandel nor Cory was fined. Taylor said they could not afford to pay.

Under state law, Mandel can regain his post, back pay and benefits if his conviction is overturned before his elected term runs out in January 1979.

Docks At New Orleans Inch Back To Normalcy

Escapism In Their Hobby

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Some hobbyists use their avocations to escape problems at home and at work, says a clinical psychologist here.

Prof. Robert Toal of Purdue University said he's not talking about husbands who make their wives golf widows or who are dedicated Sunday football fans. "My impression is that a lot of women are glad to get their husbands out of the house so they can get things done."

Toal said he is talking about such cases as a young professional and newlywed who began building a model railroad as fulfillment of a long-time dream.

"The guy comes home from work, makes a few sulky comments to his wife during dinner, then goes to work on the model until 1 or 2 a.m. each day, unless there is a pressing social engagement."

The psychologist said this kind of behavior is a means of coping with unresolved problems the hobbyist may not even realize exist.

It only compounds the problems, Toal said. The compulsive hobbyist "is not attending to the human needs around him" from his family or spouse.

Another case he described was that of a young married man with two children who was going through divorce proceedings.

One of the patient's problems involved a dirt-track racer he kept secret from his wife. He even built a small house with a dirt-racing track about 10 miles from his original home.

"He wanted to escape from the human obligations of marriage," Toal said.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Grain elevators here were going full blast today as the nation's No. 2 port, closed for two weeks by a general waterfront strike, continued to inch back toward normal.

Longshoremen in New Orleans and other Gulf and Atlantic ports remain on strike against automated ships such as container, barge-carrying and "roll-on, roll-off" vessels.

But New Orleans longshoremen, who had independently expanded the selective strike into a boycott of all ships, are working on freighters using bulk and hand-loaded cargo.

That is good news for Midwestern farmers, who had been complaining about the wildcat general strike here.

New Orleans, which was the only port completely closed by the strike of the International Longshoremen's Association, handles more than half of America's grain exports — primarily from the upper Mississippi Valley.

A port spokesman estimated that fleeting areas were clogged with 600 river barges loaded with grain. About 2,000 more, held back due to the strike, were scattered at various points upstream.

Normally, 35 to 40 ships would be loading or unloading at New Orleans, the nation's largest port outside New York. But port spokesman Monday listed only nine general cargo ships being worked with 22 at anchor — 10 of them waiting for a berth at a grain elevator.

The general dock strike in New Orleans was ended over the weekend when ILA President Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason threatened disciplinary action unless the New Orleans locals got back in line with others from Maine to Texas.

IWY Torch Relay Run Begins In N.C. Today

By ROSALIE TROTMAN
Reflector Woman's Editor

The 2,500-mile torch relay from Seneca Falls, N. Y., to Houston, Tex. — the location of the 1977 National Women's Conference began Sept. 29.

The purpose of the International Women's Year Torch Relay is to underline the broad-based support by American women of the National Women's Conference and state women's meetings.

The torch will be in North Carolina today through Oct. 24, according to Ms. Laurie Arrants of Greenville, state coordinator for the relay.

In 1848, Seneca Falls was the site of the first women's convention in the nation's history to declare that women should have the right to vote. Kathy Switzer, the first woman to run in the Boston Marathon, began the relay at Seneca Falls. She was handed the torch by a descendant of a woman who participated in the 1848 women's rights convention.

Donna deVerona, Olympic gold medal winner, and Carole

Laurie Arrants

Oglesby, president of the National Association of Girls and Women in Sports, ran the first few miles of the relay.

The relay was organized by the National Association of Girls and Women in Sports and the National Commission on IWY. It is being sponsored by "womenSports" magazine. The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports endorsed the relay.

The 2,500-mile run is known as "American Women on the Move" — the theme of the Houston meeting.

"Women and men runners from all walks of life in the U. S. are participating including celebrities, mayors, governors, athletes, homemakers, students, grandparents, nurses, secretaries, farm women, rural and city women, IWY Commissioners and more. Each person will run an average of one mile," said Ms. Arrants.

Relay runners from East Carolina University are Ms. Arrants, Kathy Taylor, Anne Holmes, Debbie Knight, Linda Mason, Cynthia Averette, Minnie McPhatter and Kathy Smith.

"If persons from this area are interested in becoming a runner, we have spaces open for Saturday, Oct. 22, for the run between High Point and China Grove," continued Ms. Arrants.

Ms. Arrants can be contacted at 757-6442 or 753-4649.

North Carolina events to be held in conjunction with the relay run are two rallies — one in Durham Thursday at the Municipal Building at 11:30 a.m. and the second one in Charlotte Sunday. A press conference will be held at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. According to Ms. Arrants, Charlotte Mayor John Belk will speak.

On Nov. 19, nearly 2,000 delegates elected from 36 states and territories will convene the National Women's Conference sponsored by the National Commission on IWY.

In 1976, Congress passed Public Law 94-167 which called for these state-territory meetings where participants examined the barriers women face to full equality and make recommendations on eliminating these barriers. The state-territory recommendations will be used in developing a National Plan of Action to be submitted to the President and Congress by the IWY Commission. Delegates to the Houston conference will vote on the plan of action.

"Names and signatures of each official runner will be on a scroll that is accompanying the torch. Following the convention, the torch and scroll will be donated to the Smithsonian Institution for display as a historical document," concluded Ms. Arrants.

Women Of The Moose Mark 25th Anniversary Sunday

Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, marked its 25th anniversary Sunday afternoon with an open house at the Moose Temple. The chapter was instituted Oct. 17, 1952, and received its charter Sept. 8, 1955.

Mrs. Lillie Briley, one of the six charter members still on the chapter rolls, attended the observance.

Current officers of the chapter headed by Mrs. Hazel Barnes, senior regent, welcomed Women of the Moose, Moose members and out-of-town guests. Other officers in the receiving line were: Mrs. Virginia Morgan, chaplain;

Mrs. Jean Clark, treasurer; Mrs. Josephine Dees, recorder; Mrs. Frances Breedlove, sentinel; Mrs. Marie Bullock, argus; and Mrs. Mary Knapp, junior graduate regent.

Since its organization, the local chapter has been under the leadership of 25 senior regents, the chapter's highest elected office. Past senior regents present included: Mrs. Lillie Briley; Mrs. Earline Coghill; Mrs. Josephine Dees; Mrs. Molly Harris; Mrs. Ellen Bradford; Mrs. Peggy Roberson; Miss Ada Jones; Mrs. Betty Diehl; Mrs. Dorothy Anderson; Mrs. Peggy Jamieson; Mrs. Wilma Turner; and Mrs. Knapp.

Nineteen members of the Greenville chapter have been chosen for membership in the College of Regents, the order's highest honor, over the years. Membership is limited to those who have successfully served as senior regent and is by invitation from the WOTM Grand Council.

Colleagues present were: Mrs. Briley; Mrs. Bradford; Mrs. Roberson; Miss Jones; Mrs. Diehl; Mrs. Anderson; and Mrs. Jamieson.

Eighty-eight members have earned membership in the Academy of Friendship, the second degree in WOTM membership. Academy membership is accorded those who serve a year as chairman of a Chapter Development Committee, recruiting at least two new members during the year and conducting a successful fund-raising project.

Three members of the chapter have been appointed past deputy grand regents for the State of North Carolina, the highest appointed office on the state level and seven others have been designated Star Records for proficiency in keeping chapter records. Star records present were Mrs. Dees, Mrs. Coghill and Mrs. Harris.

Five others have been named Queen of Sponsors for N. C., an honor achieved for enrolling the largest number of new WOTM members in a given year. Those present Sunday, who have won this honor were Mrs. Dees, Queen of Sponsors two different years, Mrs. Roberson and Mrs. Jamieson.

A highlight of the celebration was the display of yearbooks, depicting the chapter's history in pictures, publicity articles and other mementoes. Mike Mahne and Rick Murphy provided a background of organ music. Out-of-town guests attended from Washington, Goldsboro, Charlotte, Fayetteville, Elizabeth City and Tarboro.

Imitation Tobacco Unpopular

Maybe we have some good news for tobacco growing areas.

The Wall Street Journal reported this week that a British cigarette manufacturer plans to destroy 100 million cigarettes which are made with a synthetic tobacco substitute made from wood pulp.

It was reported that Imperial Group Ltd.'s H.D. & W.O. Wills subsidiary will destroy the cigarettes. Two other manufacturers were reported considering the same thing.

The action was said to be due to poor public acceptance of the cigarettes made with synthetic materials. Imperial Group's Imperial Tobacco subsidiary had previously announced plans to fire 50 workers making Non-Smoking Material (NSM) in Scotland.

It was reported that manufacturers of NSM cigarettes had hoped to capture five percent of the market in Britain, but so far had gained only two percent of the market.

The new cigarettes reportedly produce a fine ash which quickly falls from the cigarette, which smokers did not like.

The slow acceptance of the synthetic tobacco may give American tobacco growers a better chance at holding their share of the world market.

There are, of course, many other threats to American tobacco, including health warnings and foreign competition. This effort to use synthetic materials appears to be less than successful in Great Britain at this point, and that may help our own export situation.

Cleared The Way For Concorde Flights

A Supreme Court ruling Monday has, temporarily at least, cleared the way for the Concorde supersonic jetliner to begin service at Kennedy International Airport in New York.

It was something that British-French owners of the jetliner had to have if the Concorde was to provide any service at all. New York was a must.

Now the real test of the Concorde begins as the giant aircraft start landing at Kennedy.

Changes Due Fishing Law

By BILL NOBLITT
(First of Two Articles)
RALEIGH — One of the main purposes of the federal action extending coastal jurisdiction to a 200-mile limit is to protect American fisheries from depletion by foreign fleets.

But another major purpose written into that new law is only now becoming evident: it will also protect American fisheries from depletion by American fishermen.

Few people are aware that intensive work is underway right now to design rules and regulations which will have tremendous impact all across North Carolina. . .not just on the Coast.

For the ultimate plan has to do with what federal officials term "optimum yield" in the fisheries. Heretofore, emphasis has been on "maximum yield." There is a distinct difference.

Plans for maximum yield lead to regulation covering breeding grounds, times of the year, total catch, and so on, by the commercial fishermen. The goal—to catch as much as possible.

Optimum yield, on the other hand, takes into account such elements as biological-environmental impacts, social implications, and economic impacts of the fishing industry.

The sum, what the federal government wants to see are plans which regulate fisheries (sports and commercial) with regard not only to the men who catch the fish, but with regard to environmental impact, the consumers, national food supplies, prices; and with an eye not just to what happens in North Carolina, but concern for regional, nationwide, and even international repercussions.

We are into "a whole new era of ocean use" says David H. Wallace, associate administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. An era in which concerns are now directed at "how to allocate (ocean) space, environment, and resources. . .and to whom."

Wallace was in Raleigh recently for an international symposium on the extended jurisdiction of fishery management, along with numerous federal and state officials and representative from at least four foreign countries.

Wallace made it absolutely clear that present directions will produce "management regimes of profound impact on all in relation to ocean use."

Robert W. Schoning, director of the National Marine Fisheries Services, helped spell out just what is taking place:

The 200-mile limit took effect this year, and the immediate impact is significant—some 2,700 foreign fishing vessels are reduced to about 700; last year's take of 3.3 million tons will be cut to 2.1 million. Foreign vessels can fish, but only with permits, in certain waters, and for specific catches.

NOBLITT

Stop Depletion

"We are going to save our waters and take more of these fish ourselves. . .we must stop over-fishing and depletion," says Schoning.

Then he adds that the law also calls for setting up regulation of American users as well as foreign.

Regional councils have been established. North Carolina is in the South Atlantic region along with South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. Those councils (consisting of state and private people) are now gathering information and drafting what will become a massive guideline for all coastal fisheries.

Technically, the federal jurisdiction runs from three miles out to the new 200-mile limit, leaving the states jurisdiction over coastal sounds and bays, and three miles of ocean.

But both Wallace and Schoning are blunt on this score: inside that three-mile jurisdiction are many migrating species, and breeding grounds. That is why regional planning is demanded in the federal law; and that is why the councils must draw up regulations which mesh with the federal law.

"We do not want to preempt the states on this," Schoning says. "But, unless something is done. . .steps must be taken."

Wallace is a little more blunt: "The federal law doesn't speak to the coastal sounds and the three-mile state jurisdiction. But if cooperative action does not work, then federal jurisdiction must be extended."

Constitutional Uproar

It used to be said of Southern gentlemen that in any ranking of their favorite indoor sports, construing the Constitution consistently ranked in second place. This put the supreme law of the land in a nice one-two race with whiskey, whist and women, and there it remains to this day. Here on the banks of the Potomac, our Constitution is once more the talk of the town.

Three issues in particular have provoked arguments in barrooms and cloakrooms. The first involves Senator Birch Bayh's city-slicker scheme for extending the time to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. A second has to do with the role of the House of Representatives in the matter of the Panama Canal. A third deals with the political future of the District of Columbia.

It is a bit much, perhaps, to credit the senior senator from Indiana with sole proprietorship of the ERA proposal. Rumors of a time extension floated around last spring, but it wasn't until two weeks ago that the possibility began to be taken seriously. Then Bayh talked with the staff of his subcommittee on the Constitution, and down at the White House, Counsel Robert Lipshutz asked the attorney general for a formal opinion.

What is proposed, to state the matter bluntly, is to change the rules in the middle of the game. When Congress sent the Equal Rights Amendment to the states in March of 1972, the act of submission contained the familiar seven-year time limit on ratification. This has been the time frame, almost without exception, in every constitutional amendment that has been proposed since the 18th Amendment was sent out for adoption in December of 1917.

The 18th (Prohibition) Amendment contained a seven-year deadline within the body of the amendment itself. The same procedure was followed with the 20th and 21st Amendments in 1933 and with the 22nd Amendment on presidential terms in 1951. Scholars objected that the practice needlessly cluttered the Constitution with useless clauses, and thereafter the custom developed of writing a seven-year deadline into the submitting statute, rather than in the amendment.

This procedure has caused no problems. The last four amendments have sailed to ratification in periods ranging from three months to 19 months. Now the Equal Rights Amendment is becalmed. It has been stuck for more than a year at 35 out of the necessary 38 states. Senator Bayh and the White House have the seven-year itch. Their nebulous idea is to provide by simple statute for a three-year extension. This would give ERA proponents until 1982 to get their remaining three states.

It is a slippery stunt, and could be pulled off only over the dead bodies of Senator James Allen of Alabama and 30 of his infuriated colleagues. If Bayh wants to see a filibuster to surpass all filibusters, he is welcome to give this a try.

The second constitutional uproar involves the power of the whole Congress, under Article IV, Section 3, to "dispose of. . .the territory or other property belonging to the United States." Beyond question, the nation owns certain property, in fee, in the Canal Zone. This is not a

Other Editors Say Federal Pay Hike

(Kinston Free Press)

A federal pay hike for government workers amounting to 7.05 per cent now goes into effect for some 3.4 million workers. Just the increase will cost taxpayers over three billion dollars per year.

State and local increases for government workers have been moving ahead faster than ever before. But this huge federal hike will surely accelerate the momentum all down the line.

For many years the prime excuse for increases in the various agencies of government was, "the gap needed to be closed between pay rates in public vs private business." It was often said, "we need to be competitive in order to get a better class of workers."

For the most part, there is no longer much discernible competition in that direction. Survey after survey has revealed that government workers have all the best of most everything. It is highly debatable whether or not the better "class" has been achieved.

Most workers in the private sector are hardpressed to meet the mounting costs of maintaining an increasing number of government workers at an ever-growing pay scale.

Workers in both sectors, private and public, are hit by increased tax bills and undermined by the continuing inflation factor. But to the extent that the gap in pay widens in favor of the public sector, private sector workers will get the brunt in lost living standards.

The percentage of public workers to those engaged in private business and industry has been steadily increasing and as this trend continues, the private sector worker will be in a declining living-standard position.

His tax-to-income ratio will increase and that insidious hidden tax of inflation places him at a greater disadvantage. For as the dollar declines in value, what he has left will buy less.

Inflation bodes no good for the worker in the public sector, for he too will eventually feel its depth of hurt. So the every advantage that now seems to help him will in time take toll of him too.

There was no fiscally responsible means set up to take care of the enormous addition to the federal payroll. The added pay-out will end up in added debt. And, as the national debt rises, so will the inflation rate rise.

It is only one more action of fiscal deceit perpetrated by the federal government. The administration, Congress and high officials in the bureaucracy all are party to the deception.

The president's adherence to the stated goal of a balanced budget only adds to the trickery imposed on the people of this nation.

In U.S., They'd Land In Jail

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
PITTSBURGH (AP) — If domestic steelmakers practiced the same below-cost pricing used by foreign exporters to the American market "it wouldn't take 60 days to throw them in jail," said Edgar B. Speer, U.S. Steel Corp. chairman.

The Clayton Act (of 1914) outlawed the pricing of goods below cost in order to drive competition out of business, and the Trade Act of 1974 restated it, said Speer, reading the latter act's statement of purposes.

Paragraph 4 of the statement declares as one of the aims "to provide adequate procedures to safeguard American industry and labor against unfair or injurious import competition." Section 301 authorizes the President to impose quotas.

But, he said, when foreign producers sell at below production costs "we think it's lovely" instead of enforcing promptly the legislation on the books. The 20 million tons of imported steel, he indicated, is the equivalent of 100,000 domestic jobs.

Eager to point out the implications of steel's difficulties for the local and national economies, the chairman contrasted the $30-a-ton discount obtained by the American buyer of foreign steel with what he said were much higher costs in unemployment compensation and lost domestic production.

In a blunt interview Oct. 12, the day before he and other steel company executives met at the White House, Speer expressed resentment over what he felt was a failure of Washington to respond to the industry's difficulties.

Since 1974, he said, steel producers have tried without success to win the ear of federal officials about imports. "Now we're invited down in 1977," he paused. "Invited," he said again, drawing out the pronunciation. "In 1977...big deal."

Speer said the industry finally won attention to its problems — imports, environmental regulations, capital shortage — only when they became social problems, with plants closing and "60,000 people hitting the bricks."

He was said to be more optimistic after the meeting with President Jimmy Carter, encouraged by the likelihood of limits on "dumped" imports as well as possible relief from strict enforcement of environmental regulations.

Ethics Is For Others

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — By a coincidence surely not intended, the day the House voted not to consider a reform commission's recommendations for improving its practices, its Judiciary Committee approved a measure to set higher ethical requirements — in the executive branch.

The bill would require officials to disclose their financial affairs more fully and to refrain from using their government contacts for private interest after leaving office.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., the chairman, said that, "with growing public skepticism of our government officials, it is necessary that we move very rapidly to enact safeguards against conflicts of interest by officials in the federal executive branch."

Rodino, incidentally, voted to consider the proposed House standards and procedures.

The House clerk's report, listing vouchers members put in for expenses, provided some

40 Years Ago Today

October 18, 1937

The 1937 Pitt county fair officially got under way with the expectations of a large crowd.

The two American Legion posts in the county—Farmville No. 151 and Pitt county No. 39 sponsored the event.

A farmers meeting in Winston-Salem shouted approval of compulsory crop control as a remedy for the ills of agriculture.

The demonstration came when Senator E. D. Smith opened a hearing by a committee of senators appointed to sound out farm sentiment upon agricultural legislation and asked "do you want compulsory control?"

"Yes, yes" came cries from the 500 farmers, representative of farm organizations and agricultural officials.

Strength For Today

ONE BOW SHORT
"Yet all this availeth me nothing," said Haman, "so long as I see Mordecai sitting in the king's gate."

The king of Persia had elevated Haman to a place of great honor. When he passed down the street, multitudes rose to their feet and bowed to the ground. But when Haman counted up all these marks of reverence with which his coming was hailed, he found himself one bow short. Mordecai, the Jew, sat continually in the king's gate, and refused to kneel.

As Haman brooded about the failure of Mordecai to do him honor, he came to feel that all of the obeisances to him were as nothing as long as one man refused acknowledgment.

Everyone knows, of course, the fate of Haman. He was hanged on a gallows fifty cubits high. And everyone who has his spirit destroys his happiness in the same way. The man who despises all that he has because he can't have all that he wants, is hastening the day when he will have nothing.

problems were compounded by Washington's attitude toward pricing. In effect, steel is a regulated industry, he said.

"It is not formally regulated, but informally it is just as tightly regulated as other basic industries," he said, naming among them natural gas, oil and transportation.

In shirtsleeves, speaking tartly, Speer observed that "every industry the government puts under control is in trouble." Leaning forward, he snapped that the government couldn't operate a house of ill repute at a profit.

Too often, he suggested, the industry's complaints that it and its workers are being hurt by subsidized imports have drawn the reaction that the problems arise from the cyclical nature of the industry or from mismanagement.

Acknowledging that some of the problems clearly arise from the ups and downs of the business cycle of which it is so basic a part, Speer said it is nevertheless "very convenient to blame as dangerous if Geneva is not reconvened. But the Arabs strongly disagree. The attainment of a new Geneva conference, they believe certain to have the effect of raising expectations far beyond their realistic level, and when the illusion of progress is pierced, the reaction will be devastating.

These Arab fears may prove to have been overstated if, as Mr. Carter greatly hopes, the peace conference is convened and does in fact spark new momentum toward settling the real issues. That is what the President and his advisers are counting on.

But even so, the Arab fears rejected by Mr. Carter carry a different kind of warning for the President. Despite nine months of nonstop effort to settle the Arab-Israeli struggle, he has failed to gain the confidence of the Arabs. They praise his objectives but are fearful of his tactics.

Indians Claim Cape Cod Town

BOSTON (AP) — Wampanoag Indians in pigtailed and beaded and lawyers in three-piece suits will gather in a U.S. District courtroom to argue an Indian claim to 11,000 acres valued at $30 million in the Cape Cod town of Mashpee.

The case, opening here today, has paralyzed land transactions in Mashpee.

James St. Clair, the Boston management for all problems.

If imports were not subsidized, he was asked, could domestic steel compete? "Absolutely could," he replied. He indicated that Japanese exporters were exploiting rather than reacting to marketplace demands.

In 1973-1974, when the world steel industry was at the top of the cycle and unable to satisfy all demand, Japanese exports to the United States fell to 11 per cent of the domestic market and Japanese steelmakers sought price premiums.

With the market now on the low end of the cycle, he said, Japanese exports to the United States have swollen to 18 per cent of the domestic market and Japanese producers are selling at 10 to 40 per cent below domestic prices.

Given true price competition, he said, American steelmakers are fully competitive with European and Japanese producers. "The American steel industry has led in manhour production (a measure of efficiency) since its inception," he said.

While maintaining U.S. industry is technologically superior to its competition, a position often contested, Speer said American concerns were handicapped by working under different antipollution requirements. Foreign nations, he said, exclude existing plants from some requirements.

ammunition for those who claimed earlier House reforms weren't working.

The great majority of entries, however, seemed to be well within guidelines for official expenditures and a few were downright parsimonious.

For example, Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., had one for $1.30 spent delivering a report — by subway.

When Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., asked the House to agree to a conference on a bill to admit bobsleds and luges duty-free, members sat up and listened.

It wasn't that they were that keenly interested in winter sports, but that the Senate in its free-wheeling style had tackled 169 pages of energy legislation on the minor bill.

Then again, Staggers was having trouble pronouncing luges. He gave it several variations, while the House chuckled, and the clerk, reading the measure, had still another twist.

The dictionary says a luge is a small sled of Swiss origin and that it rhymes with rouge.

An investigator for a Senate subcommittee looking into a purported union-insurance scandal was describing a trip to Miami to interview a man who allegedly threatened the life of a major figure in the case.

The investigator testified that he was accompanied by three members of the local sheriff's force.

At that point, he was interrupted by Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., who asked why the deputies were along.

The investigator, about five feet tall and slender, replied, "Senator, that man was at least six-feet-two."

Cancer Warning On Estrogens

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, saying estrogen drugs may cause cancer if taken to excess, is requiring that warning brochures be given with every estrogen prescription starting today.

The Food and Drug Administration says women receiving the drugs must be told in plain language the risks of taking the female sex hormones.

The most serious risk is cancer of the lining of the uterus, FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy said Monday. The risk increases if estrogens are used "too frequently or too long," he said, and can be five to 10 times greater than for a woman who has never taken estrogens.

The odds of developing gall bladder disease requiring surgery are 2½ times as great, he warned.

Five million American women now take estrogen drugs during and after menopause, and Kennedy said he hopes the warning brochure will reduce that number "at least by half."

The drug industry and doctors' groups have opposed the FDA labeling requirement in court, but so far without success.

The FDA first proposed its estrogen warning program in July, with the brochure requirement to take effect Sept. 20. The effective date was pushed back because of the court challenges.

In other health news: —The House voted overwhelmingly Monday to prevent the FDA from enforcing its proposed ban on saccharin for 18 months. The Senate also has voted for an 18-month postponement, but the two houses must reconcile differences on whether the artificial sweetener should be sold with a warning label.

—The Environmental Defense Fund asked the FDA on Monday to require a cancer warning label on permanent hair dyes that the group said are used by 25 million American women.

Kennedy said the FDA has asked the National Cancer Institute to expedite a study on two suspect chemicals in hair dye, and "we'll take regulatory action if necessary after the results are final."

—The Agriculture Department said it intends to ban the chemical used to cure bacon, ham and other lunch meats unless manufacturers can prove the substance doesn't cause cancer.

In his news conference Monday, Kennedy called estrogens "valuable drugs with many beneficial purposes." But he said estrogens were not "essential therapy during the menopause, and certainly the least necessary use of estrogens is after menopause." He also said they do not keep skin soft or provide a feeling of youth.

Last year, the FDA instructed physicians to prescribe estrogens in the lowest possible doses for the shortest possible times, and to re-evaluate use of the drug every six months. The brochures for patients repeat that advice. They also warn that estrogens should never be used during pregnancy.

The FDA said the most commonly prescribed brand of estrogen drug is Premarin. Others are Estratab, Evex, Menest, Femogen and Ogen.

Ill-Informed On Attitudes

CHICAGO (AP) — Pollster George Gallup Jr. says American religious leaders are alarmingly ill-informed about changing religious attitudes and have "only a vague notion" of people's actual religious concerns.

"We know more about what breakfast foods people like and why than we do about the spiritual health of the American people," he said in the October issue of the U.S. Catholic, published by the Claretian Fathers. He said his new religion research center hoped to provide data that would give religious leaders a "realistic look" at current religious factors in society.

Avers Right To Privacy Curbs Hunting Cheaters

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who headed a federal commission on privacy says the government's plan to ferret out welfare cheaters would infringe on Americans' right to privacy. "Welfare cheats can and must be identified and removed," David F. Linowes told the secretary of health, education and welfare Monday. But Linowes called the planned computer search "an abuse of personal privacy rights." HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., speaking last week to a closed meeting of executives of some of the nation's largest businesses, proposed making computer tapes of welfare rolls available to private employers. As part of Operation Match, HEW's campaign to hunt down cases of cheating and fraud, the welfare roll tapes would be compared against payroll tapes.

"We would provide the welfare tapes and run them against names of employees to preserve the right of privacy and turn in names where they are found to match," Califano explained to reporters after last week's meeting. Linowes said he was "surprised that this kind of program could reach this stage with him personally presenting it this way."

"The biggest threat to privacy today is computer-to-computer linkage," he added in a telephone interview. Linowes said Califano "is talking from a file-cabinet mentality. He thinks that if he transfers a computer tape he's protecting somebody's privacy. He thinks that a tape is a safeguard. This is terribly uninformed."

Several civil liberties experts contacted by The Associated Press said they were concerned that, if the government could conduct wholesale computer searches of individual records to fight welfare fraud, it might be able to use such tactics to investigate or harass political opponents. Califano, in a statement Monday, said the program, which would be conducted by the states, would "respect the rights of employees, welfare recipients and the American people." Linowes said computer tapes provide anyone with a computer terminal "instant access to all sorts of private information."

Drive Is Begun By Eaton Corp.

Eaton Corp. here launched its United Fund plant solicitation Monday evening with a dinner and organizational meeting at the Ramada Inn. Some 30 plant representatives, who will serve as solicitors for the campaign at Eaton, attended the kick-off session. Special guests at the meeting were Joe Tripp, executive director of the Pitt United Fund; Jerry Powell, chairman of the overall Pitt campaign; Chet Emerson, executive director of the Boys' Club of Pitt County; and Mary Quiggins, parent member of the Retarded Citizens Association.

The fund goal for the local plant has been set at $13,662, it was announced, with Ron LaFroschia, manager of inventory control at Eaton, serving as campaign chairman. Richard Licko, plant manager, made a brief presentation to the kick-off gathering. Eaton, participating in the United Fund as a member of the large industrial division, has 350 employees at the Greenville facility. It was pointed out during the meeting that a sister plant in Salem, Va. has challenged the local firm to top the $25.61 average pledge per employee recorded last year at Salem. The local Eaton department with the highest percentage of fair share givers this year will be awarded a plaque that will be circulated each future year to the top department. In addition, the solicitors with 100 per cent departmental participation and highest per cent of fair share givers will be recognized and all fair share givers at Eaton will have their names placed in a hat for a special drawing.

Pair Fined For Swindle

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A federal judge has fined two North Carolina security brokers $3,500 each for their roles in a $40 million swindle by Cochise College Park Corp., a defunct Arizona land firm. U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Craig Monday sentenced Max L. McCall and Ralph F. Strand, owners of McCall and Strand Financial Services Inc. of Fayetteville, N.C. The two brokers pleaded guilty Sept. 19 to charges of engaging in deceptive practices in the sale of securities in exchange for the dismissal of numerous felony mail fraud charges against them. Craig designated the crimes as misdemeanors, saying he believed McCall and Strand did not knowingly sell bogus land contracts, but were misled to believe they were selling sound investments. "These two fellows were on the fringes and they were sucked in," the judge said. McCall and Strand were among 18 persons and five corporations indicted by a federal grand jury more than a year ago in connection with the operation of the firm, which sold land near Douglas, on the southeastern border of Arizona and folded in 1972. Six land promoters and officials of the firm were found guilty earlier this year of fraud charges. Five of the convicted swindlers have been sentenced to 10-year prison terms, while the others are awaiting trial or sentencing.

Right To Seize Documents Of Collectors Is Being Debated

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina is the focus of a national debate among librarians and archivists over whether governments have the right to take valuable documents from private collectors without paying for them.

State officials here are convinced they do have such a right, and proved it earlier this year with a successful court battle to reclaim two colonial indictments from a collector who had offered to sell them to the state for what he paid for them — about $800. In the end, he had to hand them over for nothing.

But librarians and collectors around the country apparently are not going to let it go at that, claiming the stakes are too high to let the state get away with what to them seems like larceny.

"There's just no way to calculate the vast sums of money that could be involved in this," said Mattie Russell, curator of manuscripts at Duke University's Perkins Library. "The items that could be affected are very valuable and many are already going underground because of this."

The state's position, upheld by the state Supreme Court, is that North Carolina law makes it impossible for public documents to belong to anyone but the state, even if they were thrown out, lost or sold centuries ago.

Nor does it matter if the present owner bought the item in good faith for a large sum.

"If the item was illegally obtained, time is irrelevant as far as we're concerned," said Paul Hoffman, assistant administrator of North Carolina's archives. He might have added that under the law there is no way to obtain a public document legally.

"This subject is not losing its immediacy as far as we're concerned," Mrs. Russell said.

Seized By Cuba; Freed

CAPE CARTERET, N.C. (AP) — A Cape Carteret developer says Cuban authorities seized three boats and four of his men but treated them well and released them promptly and he wants to say thanks to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

The boats were owned by William B. McLean of Cape Carteret and O. J. Riggs of nearby Bogue.

McLean, developer of Cape Carteret and a principal developer of Emerald Isle, said it all happened about two weeks ago. The boats were on their way from Key West, Fla., to Grand Cayman Island in the Bahamas, where McLean is building some apartments and has plans for a beach motel.

Riggs' 60-foot trawler was towing two large sports boats owned by McLean, which could not make the 600-mile crossing themselves.

McLean said a fishing boat challenged them near Cuba and then fired several shots over the trawler's bow.

He said the boats were taken to Cuba and searched. The men were stuck there for two days, but McLean said they were treated with courtesy and none of his property was damaged or stolen.

McLean said he planned to write a thank-you note to Castro for the manner in which the incident was handled.

"The American Library Association is still very much involved in trying to establish a consensus in this country as to what entitles a government to replevin (reclaim a document)."

Mrs. Russell is author of an article in the October issue of American Libraries, the association's publication, and the North Carolina case was the subject of a special discussion session at the annual meeting in Salt Lake City earlier this month of the Society of American Archivists.

The consensus among speakers there was that if a private owner had clearly obtained a document in good faith and it could not be shown the item had been recently stolen, the owner ought to be paid for his property.

Mrs. Russell said archivists and collectors now were work toward drafting of a federal law that would define once and for all the circumstances under which a state could recover documents and when they should be paid for.

Cite Ignorance Of The Bible

NASHVILLE (AP) — The president of the Southern Baptist Convention, the Rev. Jimmy Allen, says Biblical illiteracy is of "epic proportions" in this country, and that the Bible has become a "foreign language" to many Americans.

"No wonder citizens are flim-flammed by every kind of religious pitchmanship," he says. "Not only are they patsies for eastern religion and sects, but also for every kind of parachurch group which sounds like the bugle calling for their attention."

Summer Proved Good To Apples

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The summer drought was a disaster for most of the state's agriculture, but in one small corner of the farming community it was good news.

The apple people, who thought mother nature had a grudge against them when a spring cold spell destroyed hundreds of thousands of bushels earlier this year, have a sweeter juicier product now because of the hot, dry summer.

Gaylord Davis, president of the board of directors of the Carolina Gro-Shares Co-op, said the estimated 4.5 million bushels of apples in Henderson County that survived the cold snap are among the best ever.

The drought, he said, forced the fruit to ripen early, making it smaller but tastier than usual — great for cider.

Boyd Campbell, Henderson County agricultural extension agent, said the number of apples being juiced instead of packed has increased this year to more than 50 per cent, largely because the smaller apples have brought lower prices.

"When the price of bagged apples goes down, growers don't get enough return to make it worthwhile, so many go to juicing," Campbell said.

Bagged apples are currently selling at $4 to $4.50 a bushel, while tray-packed apples are bringing $6 to $7 a bushel, he said.

If it had not been for the increased rain/fall in September and October, there would have been even more juiced this year. But the rain helped increase the size of the apples, Campbell said.

Most apples used for juice or cider are too small to pack or bag or have been damaged by hail. The flavor and sweetness of the smaller apples are as good as those being packed, but they do not sell as well because of their looks.

There are a number of apple juice and apple cider processors in Henderson County, ranging from large co-ops and corporations to small individual processors with small electric presses or, in some cases, the old hand-cranked kind.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned upward today in buying ascribed to technical forces within the market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials edged up .78 to 821.12 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said stocks attracted some "bargain hunting" interest and covering of previous short positions after the market's broad decline of late.

But they also noted continued wariness over the prospect of a further rise in interest rates.

Alcon Laboratories was actively traded, up 1/4 at 39 after a 9-point jump Monday, when Nestle S.A. of Switzerland proposed a $42-a-share offer for Alcon stock.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 1.30 to 820.34 following an 18.71-point loss last week.

Declines nosed out advances by a 5-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume slowed to 17.34 million shares from 20.41 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dipped .05 to 51.19.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell .67 to 114.92.

magnitude (60 days), that the board is going to bring suit if he cannot show valid reasons why the contract cannot be met on time.

Several members, while acknowledging they are not familiar with the labor market, suggested that Dunn might look into the possibility of hiring additional workers for night shift work until such time as he catches up on the construction schedule.

On the matter of school board appointment of trustees to the Board of Trustees for Pitt Technical Institute, the board approved (with member Miles Frost dissenting) the appointment of Joseph M. Taft, Sr. for another eight-year term.

This matter was brought from the table where it was placed at the last school board meeting. Taft's term expired June 30, but he has continued to serve pending the school board decision.

Frost based his dissent on "my concern that only one representative from the industrial area of the community is serving on the board of trustees. I think it appropriate that this element of the community have some voice on the board."

State law directs that in electing members to the board of trustees for technical institutes, the school board or boards in the area (county) served by the institute will appoint four of the 12 members. The law states that in counties where two or more school boards serve the area, the election will be a joint procedure.

Dr. James Bearden noted "I have serious reservations about the procedure we have been following. We have been seconding the nominations made by other people."

"I wish we had not gotten into naming names (Taft) at this point until we had clarified our position, our responsibility at this point," Bearden added, "I think we have no choice but to go along with the recommendation (for Taft)."

Superintendent Cox was directed to inform officials at Pitt Technical Institute that in the future the school board expects advance notice of members whose terms are expiring, and also concurred in more closely adhering to state policy that calls for joint action by the county and city school boards in appointing the four members allocated to the school boards.

In other actions, the board: — Agreed to have an appraisal made of school owned property measuring about 50 by 125 feet west of W. Berkeley St. and north of 14th Street, with the possibility of placing the property up for auction. This is part of a larger parcel of school owned land that extends along 14th down to Evans Street.

— Heard a report from Mrs. Ann Harrison that a federal grant of $32,500 had been received for the use in the current school year for the Young Children's Languages and Motor Handicapped Program. Mrs. Harrison noted these funds will possibly be granted for a second and third year of work in this field, and will permit the school system to greatly expand activities for young children now underway.

— Was informed by Cox that the Lynndale property belonging to the school system was now being negotiated for private sale. Cox said that under state laws, by virtue of the failure to sell the property through previous auctions, the land can be offered for private negotiation until November 12, at which time if not sold it must be again put up for public auction.

— Approved the resignation of one teacher; maternity leave for another; and the election of five additional teachers.

— Received a report from Cox that a budget amendment in current expense for $181,000 had been approved by county commissioners; and that a capital outlay budget amendment of $45,000 has been submitted to provide funds for carpeting at Middle School.

— Heard a report from Cox that the Live Project house was the subject of an upset bid, and that because of this the house would again be put up for auction at 11 a.m. October 28, with a beginning bid of $30,500.

collaboration with the ECU School of Medicine and Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Medical School Dean Dr. William Laupus termed the project another, "cooperative program," between the medical school and the citizens of Pitt County, which will, "add a great deal to the regional aspect" of the local community.

The 33 beds will bring the total number of patient beds at the hospital to 403.

Construction of the neonatal unit, designed to provide the most sophisticated diagnostic and therapeutic techniques available to deal with the high risk mother and child, is scheduled for completion in April 1978, with the special unit scheduled to open July 1, Laupus noted.

According to Tingelstad, Dr. Verbena Sugg, a neonatologist on the medical school faculty will direct the special nursery's activities with several Greenville pediatricians, including doctors Earl Trevathan, Ben Shapley, Edward Davis, Michael Bramley, and Samuel Pepkowitz, playing an active role in the special unit's functioning.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will take equipment and manpower from its units in the United States and send them overseas to strengthen Western Europe's defenses against any huge, short-warning Soviet ground attack, it was announced today.

Gen. Bernard W. Rogers, Army chief of staff said, "We must sacrifice a bit of the unit readiness ... here in the continental United States" in order to increase the ability of U.S. Army divisions in Europe to meet any Soviet attack and blunt it in the critical first 30 days of any European war.

"The gains we will obtain through this focus on early force readiness for Europe, however, will not be without their price," Rogers said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the Association of the United States Army.

"Yet the threat exists now, and we must act with dispatch," he said.

Rogers did not specify how much additional equipment, weapons and ammunition would be positioned in Europe, but other sources indicated that enough for two additional Army divisions is contemplated.

Some of the stockpiles may be placed in the north German plain, which is considered one of the most vulnerable avenues of invasion.

The Army chief of staff's remarks underscored mounting concern in the Pentagon and Congress over what is now perceived as a Soviet ability to launch a major attack on Western Europe with only five to seven days of preparation, compared with the 23 days of warning time formerly assumed by North Atlantic Treaty Organization planners.

U.S. Army strategists believe a critical point may come in 1981-82 when, they say, the Russians will have finished re-equipping their army divisions and air force squadrons facing NATO with powerful new weapons.

A recent series of articles by The Associated Press disclosed problems in American military readiness in western Europe and elsewhere.

Greenville Family In Collision On Saturday

GATESVILLE — The van in which a Greenville family was riding was hit head-on by another vehicle on Highway 13 nine miles north of Gatesville in Gates County Saturday about 4 p.m.

Jimmy Leo Smith, 32, sustained head and internal injuries and broken limbs and was pinned in the wreckage for some time. He is a patient in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Donna Mercer Smith, his wife, was critically injured by head and facial injuries. She is in a Norfolk hospital.

A son, Jeffery, 18 months, sustained head injuries, also, and was taken out of critical care, Pitt Memorial, yesterday. A daughter, Vanessa, nine, has apparently less serious head injuries and is in Pitt Memorial. Another son, Leo, 12, sustained a broken leg, but was released from Ahsokie General Hospital to the care of his grandparents. Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Almada Mercer, received a broken wrist and broken arm and sprains, but she, too, has been released to her home.

Smith is employed by Carolina Sales Corporation here.

Killed in the accident was Robert Earl Reese, 23, of Norfolk, Va., the driver of the other car. His sister, Diane E. Reese, received "incapacitating injuries."

N. C. Highway Patrol Officer R. M. Potts said Reese's car crossed the center line into the lane in which the Smith van was traveling. Damages, he estimated, were $2,500 to both vehicles.

The river level today at 8 a.m. was reported at 3.4 feet.

Spokesmen for the GUC water department said, although the river is unusually low, the level has caused no problems as far as the city's water supply is concerned.

Rampants Storm Past Bertie, 33-26

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Rose High School's Rampants completely dominated the offense last night, but had to struggle to get past stubborn Bertie Senior, 33-26, in the postponed Homecoming game.

Five different Rampants scored touchdowns, as the team ground out over 400 yards in total offense. Bertie got less than half of that, but Rampants mistakes helped them put nearly all of their points on the scoreboard.

Mac Washington, Mike Joyner, Joey Mattheis, Billy Roberson and Robert Morehead all scored for the Rampants.

Washington's score, from three yards out, was the first for the Rampants.

Joyner added another second quarter score with a 14-yard romp. Mattheis scored in the third period from four yards away, and then threw nine yards to Roberson. Morehead finished it off with a 61-yard dash down the sidelines on the option in the final period.

Nepton Speller staked Bertie to an early 6-0 lead with a one-yard plunge. Jack Curlings got them back in the game with a 35-yard sprint, and D.D. Hoggard surprised everyone with a 91-yard kickoff return. Calvin Ballance finished up the Bertie scoring with a two-yard burst in the final period.

The victory was the first in Division I play for the Rampants since 1975, when the team won the State 4-A championship. It evened their conference mark at 1-1, and upped their overall record to 4-3. Bertie fell to 0-2 in the league and 4-3 overall.

Morehead led the Rose rushing with 96 yards, while Washington had 85 and Joyner had 57. Mattheis, who rushed for 51 yards, hit six of 12 passes for 103 yards.

Overall Rose rushed for 315 yards, giving them a total of 418. Bertie had 133 on the ground and 83 through the air for 216.

The Falcons appeared headed for a touchdown on their first series, marching from their own 45 to the Rose nine. But on fourth and four, the Rampants overwhelmed Robert Morris for a two-yard loss, turning the ball over.

The Rampants, however, fumbled it away on the second play, as Washington coughed it up and James Speller recovered at the 18.

That set up the Falcon score. Three plays moved the ball to the one, and after one play got nothing, Nepton Speller dove in for a 6-0 lead with 4:18 left in the period. Curlings' run for two was cut short.

Rose used ten plays to take the lead, scoring on the first play of the second quarter. The drive started at the Rampant 31, and a key play was Morehead's 15-yard run behind key blocks by Quinton Eaton and Franklin Clark on the pitch out. That moved it to the Bertie 39. Washington added 11 yards on the next play, then Reggie Selby picked up 11 more to the 17. Bertie was penalized to the eight, but Rose was thrown back on another penalty to the 13. Washington got five yards on each of two carries, then as the second period started, he scored from three yards away. Yousef Barakat's kick gave Rose the lead, 7-6, with 11:57 left in the half.

Rose came right back on its next possession to move ahead, 14-6. That drive started at the 24, and included a gutty fourth and three play at the Rose 43 that saw Joyner pick up four yards and a first down on a lead play. Selby added 11 from there across midfield, and after another fourth down play at the 33, Bertie was penalized 15 yards to the 14 for pass interference. Joyner again ran on the lead, going the rest of the way for the score. Barakat again kicked for a 14-6 lead with 3:06 left.

Bertie quickly got back into the game. They scored in only five plays. From the Bertie 38, the Falcons got seven, and then nine on rushes by Hoggard. After a pass failed, Mike Parker picked up 11 yards to the Rose 35. On the next play, Curlings kept the ball around the right side and went all the way. He then passed to Garry Cherry for the two-point conversion, tying it at 14-14 with 1:28 left.

The Rampants nearly got back in, moving from their own 24 to the Bertie 13 in the time left. A 20-yard field goal by Ted King just missed at the horn.

Rose got the ball in great field position in the middle of the third period after only a 12-yard punt by Curlings at the Bertie 33. Mattheis hit Roberson for 12 yards on the first play, and Joyner picked up 15 on the counter on the second. After Washington got two yards to the four, Mattheis kept it himself right up the middle for the score. Two two-point try failed, leaving Rose ahead, 20-14.

Lightning struck on the kickoff, however, as Hoggard pulled in the ball on the nine and raced through the Rampant defenders to go all the way, 91 yards, to equal the score again. Bertie tried a kick for the conversion, but it was just off the mark, leaving it tied at 20-20.

Rose drove to the Bertie 27 following the kickoff, but lost the ball on downs.

R—Roberson, 9 pass from Mattheis (run failed)
R—Morehead, 61 run (Barakat kick)
B—Ballance, 2 run (pass failed)

They got it back on their own 18 and drove this time for the score. From the 36, Morehead, with perfect timing by Mattheis on the pitch, picked up a big 13 yards. Then, after nine more by Joyner to the Bertie 42, Mattheis raced for 17, then hit Roberson for 14 more to the 11. On third down from the nine, Mattheis hit Roberson, who made a leaping catch in the corner of the end zone, making it 20-20 with 7:11 left.

Bertie came back to the 24 of Rose but lost the ball on downs. Rose took over at the 38, and after Washington got one yard, Morehead got another pitchout and raced down the sidelines 61 yards for the clinching score.

Gerald Hall Returns To Form; Leads Nation In Punt Returns

After the first four games of the 1977 season, one would have had to wonder how East Carolina University's Gerald Hall was an all-America candidate. The junior strong safety and punt return specialist had done virtually nothing that reflected in the statistical data.

But, after seven games, that's all changed. Hall is now the nation's leader in punt returns with a 20.7 average on nine returns for 186 yards. Johnny Johnson of Texas is second with a 19.4 average.

The Edenton native had three returns Saturday against the University of Richmond, including a school record 80-yard touchdown return. The previous game against Southern Illinois, Hall had four returns for 102 yards, including 51- and 42-yard returns that set up Pirate scores.

"We are now seeing the old Gerald Hall of last year," said coach Pat Dye. "Gerald played the first four games with chipped bones in his ankle, something most would not even have played with."

"Only in the last three games has Gerald regained his quickness, although not completely, and begun to show his great, great ability. He is as talented a player as there is on our team. And whether he played for Southern Cal, Alabama or any other team, Gerald would still have all-America ability. It just so happens he plays for East Carolina."

Last season, Hall left his impressions upon many, returning 26 punts for 302 yards and one touchdown, which ranked him 12th in the nation in punt returns. He also had six pass interceptions for 153 yards.

This season, in addition to the great punt returns, Hall also has 22 unassisted tackles and 17 assists, one fumble recovery, two pass interceptions with returns totalling 18 yards, two quarterback sacks and three tackles for a total loss of 16 yards.

Despite being injury-plagued throughout this season, Gerald Hall is back where he left off last year. He's tops in the nation in punt returns and a strong candidate for all-America honors.

Pirates Finish In 8th Place

DURHAM — East Carolina University's golf team finished in 8th place yesterday in the Duke Intercollegiate Invitational golf tournament.

The Pirates finished with 1,153, 22 off the pace. North Carolina's Blue team finished first with 1,131, followed closely by Duke's Blue team at 1,133. Ohio State was third with 1,134, followed by N. C. State at 1,135, and the Carolina White team at 1,139. Tennessee was next at 1,146, with South Carolina seventh at 1,149.

Trailing the Pirates were Eastern Kentucky, 1,159, and Virginia at 1,161 in the top ten. A total of 15 teams participated.

In the individual matches, Steve Smith of UNC-Wilmington won with a 216, followed by Mike Forgash of Duke at 217.

East Carolina's Mike Buckmaster was tied for fourth at 221. Other Pirates included Keith Hiller at 231; Donnie Owens, 232; John Abraham, 236; and Phil Bell, 242.

"I was pleased with our two-day totals," Coach Mac McLendon said. "But the team has to learn to be consistent through all three days. It was still an excellent beginning for our fall season. The experience of being close to the leaders after two rounds will give the team an edge."

Volleyball Finals Set

LITTLEFIELD — The finals of the Eastern Carolina Conference volleyball tournament will be held tonight at Ayden-Grifton High School.

Regular season champion Greene Central meets Farmville Central at 7 p.m. At approximately 8 p.m., North Pitt, the runner-up, will face D. H. Conley.

The two winners will clash for the championship and the right to enter the state playoffs at about 9 p.m.

EXPLANATION—The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.5 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Russell Gone As NBA Opens

By The Associated Press
The National Basketball Association opens its 32nd season tonight with several big names, including Cazzie Russell, missing.

Russell, who has averaged 15.4 points per game in his 11-year NBA career, was placed on waivers Monday by the Los Angeles Lakers as teams reached the 12-player opening day limit.

The 33-year-old three-time All-American from the University of Michigan played for the New York Knicks and Golden State Warriors before joining the Lakers.

In addition to Russell, other veterans waived Monday included guard Herm Gilliam by the Portland Trail Blazers, center Otto Moore by the New Orleans Jazz, forward Byron Beck of the Denver Nuggets and center Roger Brown of the Detroit Pistons.

An eight-year veteran in the NBA, Gilliam, 30, was the oldest player on the defending champions. He averaged 9.3 points last season and 10.3 for his career.

The 6-foot-11 Moore became expendable at New Orleans when the Jazz acquired center

Joe Merriweather from Atlanta last week. Brown was a five-year NBA veteran.

Beck, 32, was one of two remaining original American Basketball Association players still playing. In 10 seasons, Beck averaged 12.8 points per game.

The Cleveland Cavaliers traded guard Gary Brokaw to the Buffalo Braves for future considerations. Brokaw, originally drafted by the Milwaukee Bucks, was sought by Buffalo after the Braves lost guard Nate Archibald with an injury.

The Cavaliers also cut rookie guard Steve Grote, a second-round draft choice, and free agent guard Don Smith.

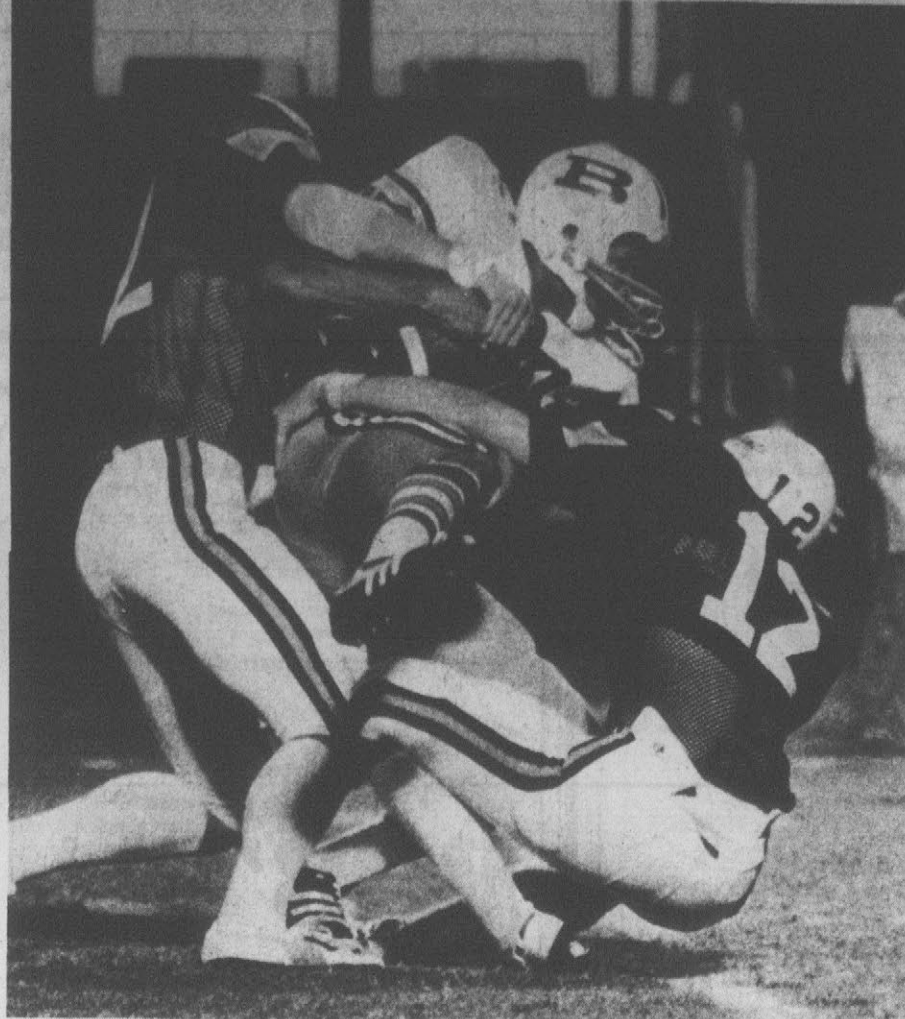

Rookie forward-center Wilson Washington of the Philadelphia 76ers was placed on the injured reserved list. Washington, a second-round draft choice from Old Dominion, will miss at least five games.

Other players waived Monday included guard Conel Norman of the Washington Bullets; rookies Rickey Brown, Billy Reynolds and Dennis Shaffer of the Seattle SuperSonics; rookie Chuck Goodyear of Milwaukee; forwards Marlon Redmond and Neil Jurgenson of the Golden State Warriors; Freeman Blade and Butch Fehrer of the Phoenix Suns, and guard Louie Nelson and forward Don Adams of the Detroit Pistons.

Veteran Dean Tolson, a 6-8 third-year forward, was placed on the injured list by Seattle, as were forward Ira Terrell by Phoenix, veteran forward Derek Dickey and rookie Ray Epps by Golden State, and rookie forward Kenny Carr by Los Angeles.

Chicago said Scott May, who missed the start of last season with mononucleosis, has a strained left knee and may miss the Bulls' season opener at Cleveland tonight.

Los Angeles Ram-draftee Nolan Cromwell will be tried at safety but was a quarterback in school at Kansas and also was a world class hurdler.

Weird Finish To Game As Steelers Win, 20-14

By GARY MIHOCES
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Maybe you saw the Pittsburgh Steelers beat the Cincinnati Bengals on Monday night television, but didn't follow a few of the freak and frantic happenings.

You weren't alone.

"There were lots of things out there I didn't understand," said Bengals team founder and ex-coach Paul Brown, the football authority who gave the game such innovations as face masks, playbooks and game films.

Whatever the films show today, both coaches gave gut impressions after the Steelers won 20-14.

"A super victory," said Pittsburgh's Chuck Noll.

"Frustrating, disappointing," said Bill Johnson of Cincinnati. Noll's team won with quarterback Terry Bradshaw playing with a cast on his fractured left wrist, and the victory gave the 3-2 Steelers a tie with Houston and Cleveland atop the AFC Central Division.

Johnson's team, picked by many to oust Pittsburgh as division champ, fell to 2-3 and lost quarterback Ken Anderson with a knee injury of undetermined severity.

"A loss is a loss is a loss," said Bengals wide receiver Isaac Curtis.

Curtis was smothered at the Steelers' seven-yard line to end the game after Pittsburgh nearly lost a 13-point lead in the last seconds.

Here are some events that led up to that last gasp.

Bradshaw, who cracked the small bone in his left wrist last week in Houston, started the game wearing a plastic cast. He fumbled his first center snap.

"I guess that shook the fans up some," he laughed later.

On the first play of the second quarter, Rocky Bleier ran one yard for a Steelers touchdown, set up by a couple of short Bradshaw to John Stallworth passes.

A series later, Stallworth caught a pass but lost the ball and his equilibrium when belted in the face by a forearm from Bengals defensive back Melvin Morgan. Noll called it a "a good right cross." The official called it a 15-yard penalty.

Bleier fumbled a few plays later. Bengals cornerback Jerry Anderson scooped the ball up cleanly at Cincinnati's 30-yard line and ran to the Steeler end zone. But the play was called back because an official had accidentally tooted his whistle too early.

The Bengals still got the ball, drove into Steeler territory and lined up for a 50-yard field goal try by Chris Bahr.

The snap went over Bahr's head. As he chased the ball, he kicked it twice. Steeler cornerback Mel Blount grabbed it and ran to the three, and Bleier scored two plays later.

The Steelers had kicking trouble of their own as Roy Gerela missed the point-after. And Cincinnati scored 1:04 before halftime on a four-yard run by tackle Glenn Bujnoch.

Yes, tackle Glenn Bujnoch. He took an improvised lateral from quarterback John Reaves and carried his 257 pounds and the ball into the end zone. "I knew it was a lateral. I just hoped the ref knew," said Reaves.

Anderson, the Bengals' starting quarterback, was hit on the knee by tackle Steve Furness in the second quarter. "I wouldn't classify it as a late hit," said Anderson, out the rest of the night.

Michigan, Texas Hold As Poll Is Shaken Up

By The Associated Press

Colorado's tie with Kansas, Nebraska's loss to Iowa State and Kentucky's victory over Louisiana State caused a major shakeup in the Top 20, but top-ranked Michigan and No. 2 Texas continue to dominate The Associated Press college football poll.

Michigan, 6-0, swamped previously-unbeaten and 14th-ranked Wisconsin 56-0 and received 47 first-place votes and 1,100 points to hold the top spot. Texas, 5-0, a 13-9 winner over Arkansas, got eight first-place ballots and 1,014 points from a nationwide panel of 56 sports writers and sportscasters.

Alabama, Ohio State, Southern Cal and Oklahoma all moved up one notch as a result of the 17-17 tie with Kansas by Colorado, which fell from third to seventh.

Alabama, 5-1, which beat Tennessee 24-10, was third with 811 points; Ohio State, 5-1, moved to fourth with 700 points after beating Iowa 27-6; Southern Cal, 5-1, got 638 points and advanced to fifth by beating Oregon 35-15, and Oklahoma, 5-1, jumped to sixth with 638 points after edging Missouri 21-17. Colorado, 5-0-1, had 431 points for seventh.

The new No. 8 was Kentucky, 5-1 and 369 points, which made a big jump from No. 12 after pounding LSU 33-13 at Baton Rouge. Arkansas, 4-1, was ninth, down one spot, with 340 points, and Penn State remained 10th, receiving 328 points, after holding off Syracuse 31-12.

The Second Ten were Notre Dame, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Pitt, California, Iowa State, Brigham Young, Nebraska, Florida and Clemson.

Nebraska had been ninth before losing to Iowa State 24-21, but the Cornhuskers dropped to 18th. Iowa State, cracking the Top 20 for the first time this year, was 16th.

Other teams joining this week's rankings were Brigham Young, which routed previously-unbeaten Colorado State 63-17 and Clemson, which upset Duke 17-11.

Wisconsin and LSU, which had been 16th, fell from the rankings after their losses. Houston, formerly No. 19, also dropped from the Top 20 after being victimized by three touchdowns in the final 39 seconds to lose to Southern Methodist, 37-23.

Series Returns To New York

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Torrez and the New York Yankees try to end the baseball season that began last February while the Los Angeles Dodgers rest their hopes on Burt Hooton's knuckle-curveball tonight in sixth game of the 1977 World Series.

The best-of-seven Series returns to Yankee Stadium with the New Yorkers needing one victory for their 21st world title. The Dodgers, trailing 3 games to 2, staved off elimination by winning Sunday and look tonight to Hooton, who beat the Yankees with a five-hitter in Game 2 Wednesday night.

The Hooton victory evened matters at 1-1 before Torrez sawed off the Los Angeles bats in the Series' pivotal game last Friday.

"I can't lay back and be fine," Torrez said Monday. "I have to go right at them — be aggressive on the mound. I know if I pitch a good game and we win, we're world champions."

"I want to win it in a bad way," he said, pointing to his ring finger. "I want the one (the ring) that says 'World Champions.'"

The Dodgers, who want to become the fourth team in history to come back from a 3-1 deficit, hope Hooton's baffling knuckle-curveball will be their savior.

"I'm going to try to keep Mickey Rivers and Willie Randolph (the Yankee's speedy leadoff batters) off the bases," said Hooton. "I think we'll be in good shape if I can do that."

Monday was a day off for travel in this cross-country matchup of traditional rivals. But it didn't stop the Yankees from adding another installment to their daily Soap Opera, which has been spiced with back-stabbing, second-guessing, personality clashing and near-firings.

Ed Figueroa, at first designated as the Yankees' sixth-game pitcher, cleaned out his locker on Monday.

Figueroa has been ailing the past few weeks with a sore finger, but said he threw on Saturday and Sunday "and I felt 100 per cent."

Yankee Manager Billy Martin, however, got a different diagnosis after consulting the team doctor and two trainers.

"I know he wants to pitch but I'm not going to take a chance and put a man out there who is not 100 per cent in a big game," said the embattled manager.

The loss drops the Lady Bucs' record to 2-5 on the year.

But the four wins were not enough as UNC's team of Ann Mitchell and Sarah Farr downed Dianne Keough and Snyder, while Anne Peper and Mary Virginia Swain took the deciding match for UNC, downing Genny Gainey and Helmer.

The loss drops the Lady Bucs' record to 2-5 on the year.

Rampants...

Barakat's kick made it 33-20 with 2:31 left.

But Bertie wouldn't give up. They scored in just four plays, moving from their own 41. Curlyings hit Julius Sessoms for 37 yards, then kept for 15 more to the two. Ballance crashed over from there, pulling it to 33-26 with 1:14 left.

Rose recovered the attempted on-side kick and ran the clock out from there.

The Rampants travel to Northern Nash on Friday, seeking their second straight league win.

Next TV Documentary Covers Russian Front

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the 1950s, Isaac Kleinerman edited "Victory at Sea," the Emmy-winning documentary on U.S. naval power in World War II. Now, he's working on that war again.

But this time, the work involves an aspect of the war rarely seen in TV documentaries here — the Russian front. He's executive producer of a coming 20-part series, "The Unknown War." It's unique, he says, in that most of the film footage comes from Soviet archives under a contract between Air Time, Inc., the series' New York-based distributor, and Sovinilm, a Russian agency.

The series, narrated by actor Burt Lancaster and written by Harrison Salisbury, The New York Times' Moscow correspondent from 1949 to 1954, will be sold to stations for airing next fall.

Kleinerman, who recently returned from a six-week visit to Russia, says the series starts with Nazi Germany's attack on Russia in June 1941 and ends with Japan's surrender in September 1945.

He candidly noted that the "rough cut" — the initial versions — of the 20 shows were put together in Moscow by Sovinilm editors, but says he has the right to make whatever changes he feels are needed.

He conceded some may feel the series is nothing more than a propaganda exercise by Russia, an effort to revise its history for U.S. viewers.

However, he emphasized, "contractually, we have the right to reject any program we feel is not up to our standards ... we want it to be absolutely correct in terms of history, and it's going to be that."

Kleinerman, a respected CBS News documentary-maker for 19½ years until he resigned last August to form his own company, admitted he began work on "The Unknown War" he calls "considerable reserve."

"I made a number of films over there (in Russia) and I knew what the problems were," he added. "I know how they do things. But I must say, there isn't a thing I've asked for that they haven't complied with."

Kleinerman, who will leave New York for Moscow in two weeks to continue work on the series, was asked why it's being edited there.

"Because all the films are there," he said. "The logistics (of bringing the rare Russian footage to New York) would have been impossible. They could not ship all that film here."

"And under no conditions could we send over all the film editors, the assistants, to do it over there. Economically, it just wouldn't work."

Kleinerman, who said more than 100 Sovinilm employees are toiling on the series, said he doesn't think the Russians are "trying to slip something over on us" in the making of the program.

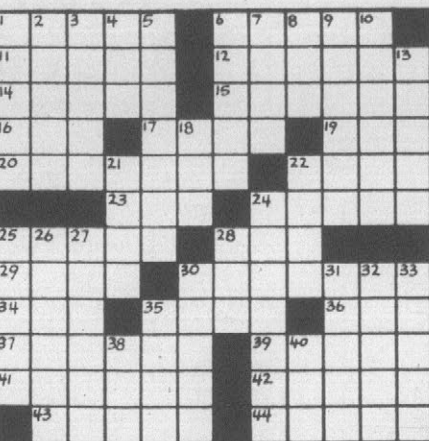

He cited as an example Sovinilm's use of footage showing the late Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev — whose name has been expunged from Russian history books — involved in the battle of Stalin's

It was done without prompting, Kleinerman said, and "I must say I was surprised. It really convinced me they're really trying awfully hard to present something that's very straightforward, that they have more to gain than lose by playing it straight."

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Alcohol and Pregnancy: New Findings

I hear and read bits here and there about the relationship between alcohol and pregnancy and the health of the newborn baby. I can't find any definite information on the subject. I'm not pregnant now, but expect to be before too long. My husband and I are social drinkers, but I know I can give it up if necessary. — Mrs. H. F., Va. Dear Mrs. F.:

More and more information is accumulating that indicates some hazard to the unborn child if the mother is a drinker — even a social drinker.

A very intensive study was made at the University of Washington on exactly this problem; 1,500 educated, middle-class pregnant women were studied. They were not alcoholics, but primarily social drinkers. The conclusion arrived at was that even moderate drinking (less than two cocktails or glasses of beer or wine a day) may have dangerous effects on the unborn child, especially during the first month or two of pregnancy. This is particularly significant because many women who are social drinkers may not know for one or two months if they are pregnant.

Physicians who are studying this problem, known as the "fetal alcohol syndrome," are surprised that such a danger was not recognized a long time ago. This can probably be explained by the fact that doctors have been more concerned about definite alcoholics in relation to pregnancy than they have been about the average social drinker.

Many birth defects, both physical and psychological, that were previously unexplained are now definitely attributed to the alcohol-pregnancy relationship.

It should be added that many of these studies point to the fact that heavy smokers and heavy coffee drinkers apparently do the unborn child a severe injustice, too. The combination of heavy smoking and even mild social drinking is said to definitely affect the newborn baby's physical health and learning ability.

It should be emphasized that the greatest danger of alcohol, with or without smoking, occurs during the first month of pregnancy.

In the light of these findings, I must advocate that all women who are in the process of family planning should give up all alcohol so that the fetus may grow and develop in the womb without any additional threats to its safety.

Giving up alcohol, cigarettes and coffee may seem to be a great deprivation. But it is hardly significant in terms of the joy of giving birth to a normal, healthy baby. Your husband's drinking, of course, will not affect the baby. Not so with tobacco, for it has been found that newborn infants, living in an atmosphere of smoke and smokers, have a greater chance of developing pneumonia after colds than do those who live in a "smokeless" home.

Merit Attracts Large Numbers of High Tar Smokers.

Low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco gaining solid support from "taste" smokers.

---

Most current MERIT smokers have come directly from high tar cigarettes.

It's clear: low tar MERIT is delivering the kind of taste that can satisfy high tar smokers, the toughest "taste" critics of low tar smoking.

The reason is a real advance in tobacco technology that results in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

It's called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

MERIT and MERIT 100's

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Aug. 77 100's: 12 mg "tar," 0.9 mg nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined
That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

REGULAR and MENTHOL

are packed with this special tobacco.

And both were taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.
