Sadat Invites Mid East Parties To Cairo Talks

By United Press International

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, following up his precedent-shattering trip to Israel, Saturday invited all the parties in the Middle East conflict including the Palestians to Cairo to talk peace. Israel promptly accepted but Syria and the Palestine Liberation Organization refused.

In a speech in the Egyptian parliament that drew rousing applause, Sadat extended the first invitation in Israel's 30-year history for an Israeli diplomat to come to an Arab state.

"When the official invitation of the Egyptian foreign minister will reach Jerusalem, the cabinet will decide who to authorize to represent it at the Cairo talks," the Israeli government said in Jerusalem.

But Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Kaddam, whose country has been in the forefront of criticising Sadat's visit to Jerusalem, called the proposal a "cover for the continuation of Egyptian-Israeli contacts," and added: "The proposal is rejected.

In New York, NBC News quoted Sadat as saying in an interview that he would go ahead with the Cairo meeting even if Israel turned out to be the only other country that attends.

"It is for everyone to decide for himself but if the Israelis come only, I shall start the conference," Sadat told the network.

But the Egyptian leader again denied that he would consider negotiating a separate Egyptian-Israeli peace even if the other Arabs refuse to negotiate for themselves.

"It (the conference) will be part of a whole settlement, not a separate settlement ... I shall be seeking a settlement, not a bilateral agreement between me and the Israelis," he said.

Sadat said that if Syria, Jordan and the PLO did not attend the meeting, he would negotiate their demands with the Israelis and then ask for an Arab summit meeting to discuss the outcome.

The U.S. State Department said in Washington, "We will be consulting with those invited to determine their willingness to meet in Cairo to prepare for the Geneva Conference."

The Soviet Union, co-chairman of the Geneva conference along with the United States, noted Sadat's speech in a sparse four-paragraph Tass news agency report.

The Tass dispatch from Cairo termed Sadat's speech an attempt to justify his "pilgrimage" to Jerusalem last week and an effort to neutralize criticism by Arabs.

At the United Nations in New York, Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim conferred with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance by telephone and Soviet Ambassador Oleg Troyanovsky on Sadat's invitation.

Waldheim also consulted with the U.N. ambassadors from Jordan, the Soviet Union, and the Palestine Liberation Organization, which will be invited. Egyptian Foreign Ministry sources said the question of inviting Lebanon was being discussed.

Sadat said the talks could begin as early as next Saturday and Foreign Ministry officials in Cairo said the talks would probably be at the foreign ministry level and the conference can begin next Saturday, Dec. 3.

The ministry officials said the invitations refer to Egypt's decision "to hold an informal conference in Cairo with the aim of making preparations for the Geneva conference."

The ministry officials said the invitations will be delivered Sunday, with the invitation to Israel routed via the United States or the United Nations. Egypt and Israel, who have fought four wars and still are technically at war, have no diplomatic relations.

Sadat specified that the invitation for preparatory talks for reconvening the Geneva conference was also extended to Moscow, "so that the Soviets will not say we are keeping them out," and to Syria which "immediately takes its cue" from the Russians.

Sadat's 44-hour visit to Jerusalem was the first by an Arab leader to Israel since the Jewish state was born in 1948.

In his speech Saturday, Sadat did not specifically mention an invitation to the PLO but acting Foreign Minister Butros Ghali said that, despite its hostility to Sadat's Israel visit, the PLO will be getting an invitation.

But only hours after Ghali confirmed the PLO would be invited, a PLO official said, "Sadat's suggestion for a meeting in Cairo of all parties involved in the Middle East crisis cannot be accepted by the PLO."

The Egyptian president, lifting the veil a bit on the pressures he is under, said, "I will tell the Palestinians that we shall try to put up with them once more."

"We shall try to put up with their rashness and the fact that they fell into the Syrian-Soviet trap" of criticizing Sadat's trip, which he called a "sacred job."

Sadat couched his invitation to the Soviet Union with the warning that "if it tries to create obstacles it will be making the biggest mistake of its life."

The Geneva Conference last met in December 1973, but has not been reconvened because of procedural problems.

One problem is who will represent the Palestinians, hundreds of thousands of whom lost their homes in the first Middle East war in 1948 from which Israel emerged as a state.

Food Shortages Would Appear Within A Month After Strike

UNADILLA, Ga. (UPI) — An organizer of the mass "tractorcade" that brought 10,000 angry farmers to Plains for a protest against high production costs and low crop prices said Saturday farmers have enough crops in storage to ride out a long strike next month.

Farmer Gerald Richardson said American shoppers will start noticing food shortages in grocery stores within a month of the threatened Dec. 14 strike date.

"We've got a lot of farm storage, and 85 percent of the farm production is in the farmer's hands or under government loan already," he said. "That ties it up where they can't sell it."

Tommy Kersey, the Unadilla farmer who led the tractor caravan to President Carter's hometown and addressed a mass rally on the outskirts of Plains, went to Delaware this weekend to help organize a similar protest. Richardson said farmers in 44 states have been contacted by the American Agriculture Strike Office.

"You've got your wheat in the ground this time of year, and out West, if they have to, they can just harrow it under," he said. "The main thing we want to do is keep it off the market."

Richardson added that, "within a month, there wouldn't be any groceries on the shelf," and emphasized that "we don't like to do this." He said mass tractor demonstrations have "just begun" to draw the government's attention to the farmer's plight.

"The American consumer has got to find out where their food comes from," he said. "I've heard talk of using food supplements if the farmers strike. Well, they don't seem to know that food supplement is made from soybeans."

He said a new "tractorcade" will start at the Florida line Dec. 9, with drivers heading for Atlanta and staging at the Georgia Farmer's Market south of the city. A mass protest at the State Capitol is planned Dec. 10, four days before the nationwide farm strike.

Unless congress raises controlled crop prices to "100 percent parity" — the level farmers consider necessary to pay production costs and afford a reasonable profit — the protestors plan to abandon their fields. Richardson said many farmers have enough crops in storage to feed their families, and are willing to do without other necessities for a while.

"We're not going to buy anything, we're not going to sell anything, and we're not going to plant anything," he said.

No Carter Comment

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Carter declined immediate comment Saturday on Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's invitation to a preparatory Middle East peace conference, and aides said he would consult the other nations invited to see if they mean to attend.

White House spokesmen said the president, spending the holiday weekend at Camp David, had advance word from the Cairo government on the proposal Sadat made in a Saturday speech.

"We have no additional comment on any other aspect of the speech this morning," a Carter spokesman said.

"We will be consulting with those invited to determine their willingness to meet in Cairo to prepare for the Geneva conference."

Smith's Offer Accepted By Abel Muzorewa

By JACQQUES CLAFIN

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — Black nationalist leader Bishop Abel Muzorewa Saturday accepted Prime Minister Ian Smith's invitation to negotiate a one man, one vote majority rule settlement.

Muzorewa said "we take very seriously" Smith's desire for a settlement which will keep whites from fleeing Rhodesia.

The acceptance by Muzorewa, president of the United African National Council, meant all three black leaders Smith invited have agreed to a constitutional conference aimed at bringing majority rule to Rhodesia.

The other two are the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and tribal chief Jeremiah Chirau.

"In a way, Mr. Smith has capitulated and succumbed to our demand for a transfer of power on the basis of universal adult suffrage," the United Methodist bishop told some 300 supporters meeting at a soccer stadium in a black township of Salisbury.

"We say fine, Mr. Smith. Let us talk."

Muzorewa expressed the belief Smith is sincere when he says he will agree to adult suffrage providing safeguards for minorities are incorporated into a settlement.

Muzorewa said Smith has told him he wants a settlement designed to retain the confidence of whites so that they don't flee. "We take that request very seriously," he said.

Muzorewa called on Britain to organize the proposed conference, but "if the British dither and delay, than we shall know we can go ahead without them."

He also said he wants all black parties, including his rivals of the militant, guerrilla-backed patriotic front, to take part. "but we are not going to wait for anybody who may not be interested."

Lucy Cherry Crisp Dies

Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp, an early pioneer in efforts to establish the North Carolina Museum of Art, the museum's first director from 1947 to 1955, and a long time columnist and feature writer for "The News and Observer," died Friday night at the age of 78.

A native of the village of Crisp in Edgecombe County, Miss Cherry grew up in the Crisp family home in Falkland. A graduate of the University of North Carolina, Greensboro, she began a career of public service to the arts as a piano teacher and supervisor of music in public schools.

As a young writer in the 1920's, Miss Crisp contributed a weekly folk column, "Byways and Hedges," and a Sunday column, "Tar Heel Art," to the "The News and Observer." She also wrote feature articles for that and other papers. She was a regular contributor to the Raleigh paper on through the 1930's.

Miss Crisp's poems appeared in numerous periodicals and anthologies, and she was the author of two published poetry volumes, Brief Testament and Spring Fever.

Although most of her life's work was in centered North Carolina, she was for a few years director of the Florence, S. C. Museum of Art, Science, and History, and served as religious counselor at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana.

Along with the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, Miss Cherry in the early 1940's was a tireless advocate in efforts to get a state art museum established in North Carolina.

When the N. C. State Art Gallery, forerunner to the present N. C. Musuem of Art was founded, Miss Crisp was appointed director of the gallery, a position she held from 1947 to 1955. During those years she edited the North Carolina News of Art, and in 1956 produced A History of the North Carolina State Art Society.

In Greenville, she was a director of the Greenville Art Center, and during World War II was director of the United Services Organization (USO).

In 1969 Miss Crisp was given an Alumni Service Award by UNC-Greensboro, and in 1973 the North Carolina Museum of Art honored her with special observances which included the commissioning of a painting by Phillip Moose, Captive Bird, to be housed in the museum's permanent collection.

Miss Crisp's personal and family papers, including copies of her columns, articles, books, lectures, art publications and manuscripts were donated to the East Carolina University Manuscript Collection in 1974.

Donald Lennon, director of the collection, said the Crisp papers provide "a rich source for research into North Carolina art, culture and literature between the years 1920 and 1960. Among the papers are correspondence revealing a close friendship with such celebrated Americans as George Washington Carver, Lloyd C. Douglas, and Frank Porter Graham, as well as extensive correspondence with North Carolina artists."

Lucy Cherry Crisp

Miss Crisp was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, of Greenville, the American Association of Museums, and the Society of Mayflower Descendants.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Charles A. Lawrence of Falkland; and one brother, Richard H. Crisp of Greenville.

Funeral services will be held at two o'clock Monday, at the First Presbyterian Church of

Swan, Monkey Islands Purchased With Grant

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nature Conservancy announced Saturday it is buying two large wetland areas on the North Carolina Outer Banks to preserve them for birds and other wildlife.

The purchase will be made with a $4 million grant from the Richard King Mellon Foundation of Pittsburgh — said to be the largest foundation cash grant ever made in this country to a private conservation group.

The two areas, called Swan and Monkey Islands, although they no longer are true islands, are on the seaward side of Currituck Sound, in Currituck County, N.C., about 20 miles south of the Virginia border.

They are part of a narrow finger of sand dunes and marshes stretching south along the Atlantic Coast from Virginia Beach toward Cape Hatteras.

The Conservancy said research indicates these are the most important unprotected wetlands along the coast, providing a habitat for 15 percent of the waterfowl on the Atlantic flyway.

About 170,000 waterfowl use the marshes each winter, including mallard, black duck, widgeon, gadwell, canvasback, ringnecked ducks, greater snow and Canada geese.

More than 100 species of birds, including peregrine falcon, southern bald eagle and osprey, have been recorded there.

The marshes and dunes are home to 15 species of mammals.

The conservation group said the land it will purchase, and other land in the area on which it will obtain easements, total 6,508 acres.

A Difficult Dilemma For Educators

To Promote, Or Not To Promote

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Reflector Staff Writer
First Of Two Parts

The educational system, both on a local and a national level, has undergone some serious criticism within the past few years.

One of the most often heard criticisms is that educators are "socially promoting" students, or merely passing them from one grade to the next without their having attained the required achievement level necessary for academic promotion.

Greenville educators seem to think that, although the term "social promotions" is a vague one with various contributing factors, the trend, in general, is decreasing.

According to Superintendent of the Greenville City Schools Glenn Cox, it is sometimes better to promote a child than to retain him.

"The educational program is geared to be on a continuum. The child reaches a certain level in the second grade, and he is picked up at that same level in the third grade," he said.

Cox added that each student is at a different academic level at the end of the school year. Therefore, it is the duty of the teachers, guidance counselors, and the principal to determine if each child would benefit more by going to the next grade and being pick ed up at his individual level of achievement or by being held back.

Cox said that if a child is promoted for two years say the first and second grades, and is somewhat behind the average child in reading level, that eventually he will probably drop too far behind and have to be retained.

"The group of educators may decide that he needs to go back and start that grade over to strengthen skills already learned"

He added that the child's maturity level may be a deciding factor in determining whether to promote or toretain.

"If a large child has not reached a determined reading level, it could do more harm than good to retain him."

The youngster that is obviously out of his peer group, and physically larger, could feel isolated from the children in his class if continuously held back. This is especially evident in the early teen years. For example, the difference between an 11-year old and a 14-year old is quite noticeable, both in physical appearance and maturity.

"We don't promote on a "social" sense. We try to see where students can make the most progress.

"I'd like to think that under the context of social promotions, we're not doing it," said Cox.

Superintendent of the Pitt County Schools Ott Alford said that there are "probably a good number of students passed on."

But he also added that this is not something being done to make the teachers' jobs easier.

He reiterated Cox's belief that

Irish Gunmen Surrendered

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

DUBLIN, Ireland (UPI) — Eight gunmen holding terrified supermarket shoppers captive for 13 hours surrendered to police early Sunday after releasing their remaining six hostages unharmed.

Police said the men, believed to be members of the Irish Republican Army, were talked into surrendering by a Roman Catholic bishop.

The drama began shortly afternoon Saturday when the gunmen, armed with shotguns, a submachine gun and a hatchet, tried to rob a supermarket in Fairview, three miles from the city center.

A passerby saw the robbery taking place and called police, who arrived with army troops and surrounded the buidling.

The gunmen seized nine hostages but later released three of them, all women.

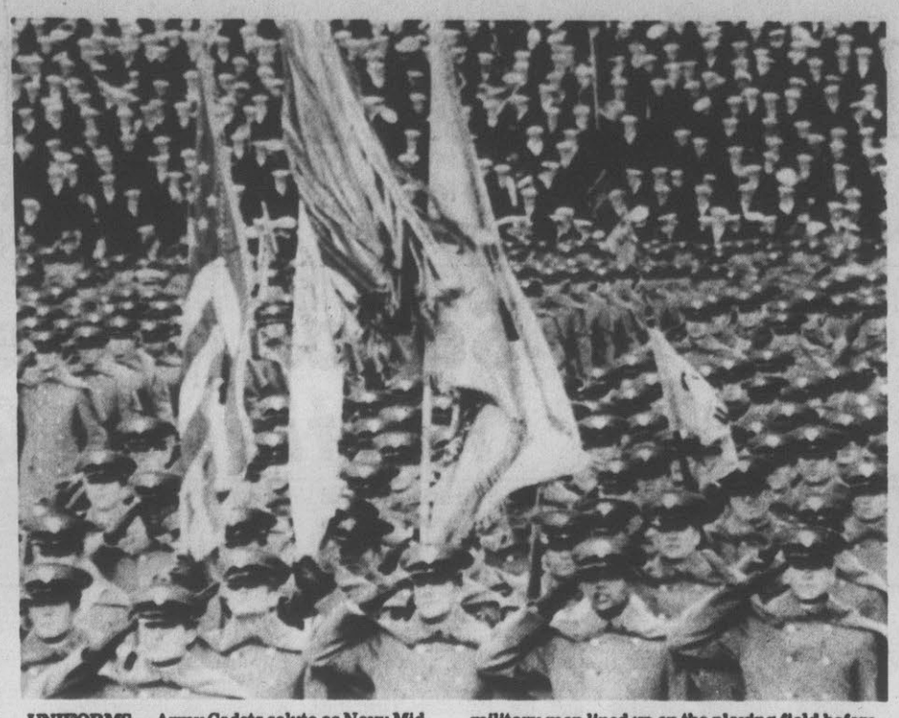

The end came dramatically after police and troops erected floodlights around the warehouse where the fugitives were holed up in a small upstairs room after dragging and kicking their hostages along with them.

Among the hostages released when the gunmen surrendered was a young girl. The five others were men, police said.

Roman Catholic Bishop James Kavanagh, who negotiated with the gunmen, said the men feared they would be "ill-treated" by police if they surrendered.

"We were able to convince them that they would be perfectly safe," he said.

The only demands made by the gang, which identified itself in a telephone call to a Dublin newspaper as belonging to the IRA, was for "proper food" and the attendance of a priest and lawyer at their interrogation by police.

Former Official Claims Aquino Is Marcos Pawn

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The conviction and death sentence of the Philippines' top opposition leader by a military court was unconstitutional, a former Philippine foreign secretary said Saturday.

Raul Manglapus, a constitutional lawyer, one-time senator, cabinet member and former teacher of constitutional law at Manila's Ateneo University, said modern Philippine law is based on American law and both Philippine and U.S. Constitutions prohibit trying civilians in military courts, even in time of war.

Benigno Aquino Jr., 44, the chief opposition leader to Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos before Marcos declared martial law in 1972, was found guilty of subversion, murder and illegal possession of firearms by a military tribunal in Manila Friday. He has been imprisoned for the past five years.

A seven-man tribunal sentenced Aquino and two alleged members of the communist New People's Army to death by firing squad.

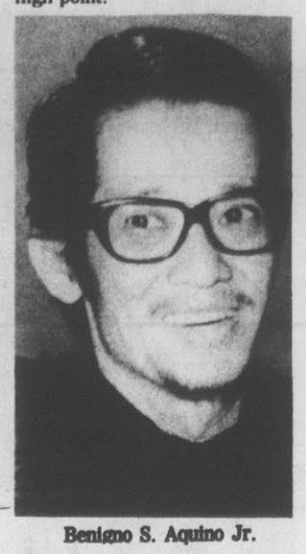

Manglapus said he believes Marcos now will use Aquino's life as a bargaining point in talks with United States over alleged human rights violations and in negotiating a new military bases treaty with the United States.

"Senator Aquino is the victim of a mock trial and is now to be used as a pawn in the Marcos power game," Manglapus told UPI.

Manglapus said Marcos might be putting his career, if not his own life, on the line if the execution is carried out.

"His (Marcos) own life would be in danger if he carried out this sentence," said Manglapus.

He said Aquino has a following in the Philippines, and they, plus "the general public would, I think, be so aroused by this act that the chances of a violent rebellion ... would reach, I think, a very high point."

Mountain Folks Self Sufficient

BURNSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Federal workers and Red Cross volunteers have run into the mountain folks' self-sufficient spirit during efforts to aid victims of recent flooding.

Donna Hughes is an example. The 20-year-old mill worker lost her home, furniture and clothing in the Nov. 6 flood.

Mrs. Hughes and her family were told the federal workers would find her a trailer to stay in. But she found one of her own, and turned down a government offer to pay the first three months rent.

"I told them they'd done enough for us, that we could pay it ourselves," she said. "The Red Cross woman told me she had clothes for us, but I told her I wouldn't take them. But she told me that if I didn't take them she would just have to quit trying to help people up here. So we took it."

Red Cross officials say many flood victims are like the Hughes, who insist on fending for themselves.

Billy Brooks Wilson lives in the same community with the Hughes. His little store was washed away and he was told to seek a federal loan to rebuild the business.

"But I told them I didn't want that. I thought I'd just wait and build it back as I could," said Wilson who had no insurance. "Sure it'll take a while, but I'm going to do the best I can."

Young Boy's Death Possibly Caused By Religious Rite

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A 6-year-old boy who died of malnutrition was one of six children who apparently were fed little more than salt water in what police say may have been part of a religious rite to ward off demons.

Daniel Bush weighed only 35 pounds, 20 to 25 pounds underweight, said the physician who performed the autopsy on the boy Friday.

The youngster's mother, Trula Bush, 35, and Willa Mayes, 40, appeared at a preliminary hearing in Municipal Court today, both carrying Bibles. Judge Patrick J. Barton continued the case until Nov. 30 after Mrs. Mayes dropped to her knees and spread her arms out toward him. Mrs. Bush told the judge the woman was receiving a "spiritual reply."

The women were returned to jail, where Mrs. Bush was held on three counts of neglect and involuntary manslaughter and Mrs. Mayes on three neglect charges. Bond for each was set at $15,000.

The other five children, a brother and sister of the dead boy and three of Mrs. Mayes' grandchildren, were hospitalized Friday, all suffering malnutrition.

William Bush, 8, and Katherine Bush, 7, were listed in critical condition.

Billy Williams, 8; Michael Collier, 7, and Sabrina Collier, 5, were reported in good condition.

Authorities said the women and children lived in the basement of a small, one-story frame home.

Authorities said both women were members of St. Jude Temple of Spiritual Truth, housed in a structure they described as an old home, partially boarded up with paper facsimilies of stained glass in some of the windows.

When Daniel was pronounced dead, Mrs. Bush protested, "Dan isn't dead. He's pulled this before. All you have to do is put him in a room by himself and he'll come out of it," the detective said.

Mrs. Bush contended her son was alive when the ambulance arrived about 3 a.m. and accused hospital physicians of killing him. She said she knew they were responsible "because Jesus told me so," authorities said.

Bicker Over Aiding Survivors

VIJAYAWADA, India (UPI) — A week after a cyclone and tidal wave killed thousands of people — unofficial estimates range up to 15,000 — federal and state officials bickered Saturday over who should be helping homeless survivors.

In squalid relief camps, thousands of refugees expressed increasing anger over aid being given to urban and semi-urban areas while rescue workers have still not yet reached some villages devastated by the storm.

Officials of the central government and of Andhra Pradesh state — where the cyclone and tidal waves hit — had promised to spare no expense in caring for survivors. But the area has not been declared a disaster zone, which would entitle it to speedy assistance unencumbered by red tape.

Nor is the army being used, although air force helicopters are dropping food supplies to those still marooned in villages.

Reaches Tentative Agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — Longshoremen and shippers in Philadelphia and Baltimore have reached tentative agreement on guaranteed income provisions for dock workers, raising hopes that an end is near in the two-month strike of 39 ports from Maine to Texas.

Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, on Friday directed locals to vote Tuesday on the new contracts.

The union has been pressing for guaranteed annual income plans to protect dock workers against job losses due to automation.

Chitlin Strut In Salley

SALLEY, S.C. (AP) — Brisk breezes stirred the smell of fried pig intestines about this tiny community in central South Carolina Saturday as more than 20,000 persons gathered for the 12th annual Chitlin Strut.

"The odor's not as bad as some have made it out to be," said Fire Chief P.G. Sharpe, a life-long resident of Salley, which has a population of 601.

But, visitors seemed more inclined to agree with another Salley resident, who said, "If you can think of anything that smells so bad that it would take about a week for it to wear away, then it's that bad."

Ariel Waits For J.B. Cooper

ARIEL, Wash. (UPI) — The buffalo stew simmered gently Saturday and the 400 residents of this small community had the welcome mat out for the man who hasn't yet come to dinner — hijacker D. B. Cooper.

The town of Ariel keeps throwing annual parties for the legendary hijacker who parachuted from an airliner somewhere in the vicinity with 20,000 $10 bills on Thanksgiving eve 1971 and hasn't been seen since.

"We'll just keep giving him parties till he comes," said host Vince Tricola of the Ariel Store and Tavern. "Who knows? Maybe he'll show up yet."

No trace has ever been found of the money.

$56 Million Repair Bill

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Repairs to the guided missile destroyer USS King will cost taxpayers nearly $56 million by the time they are completed here.

A civilian shipyard in Louisiana was paid $48 million to repair and renovate a Navy ship that had to be towed here for $8 million more in repairs, the Norfolk Ledger-Star said Friday.

After nearly three years and cost overruns of nearly $26 million at Boland Marine and Manufacturing of New Orleans, the King was towed to Norfolk Naval Shipyard last April for the additional work.

Cyril Ritchard In Critical Condition

CHICAGO (UPI) — Actor Cyril Ritchard, who frightened a generation of children with his portrayal of Captain Hook in "Peter Pan," was in critical condition Saturday in the coronary care unit of Northwestern Memorial Hospital.

Ritchard, 78, collapsed Friday during a matinee performance of the musical "Side by Side by Sondheim." He had been playing the role of narrator in the show.

Stage manager John Grigas said Ritchard had just made an exit through the audience at the in-the-round performance in the Drury Lane Theater in Water Tower Place when he collapsed in the aisle.

Grigas told the 900 persons attending the show that Ritchard had been stricken, then took Ritchard's role himself for the last 15 minutes of the performance.

Theater-goers honored the stricken Ritchard with a standing ovation at the close of the show.

Hospital officials described Ritchard's condition as "critical and highly unstable" Saturday.

Ritchard is best known for his role as Captain Hook in "Peter Pan," in which he starred with Mary Martin. He later played the same role in the television broadcast of "Peter Pan."

House Fire

The home of Mary Rouse at 607-A Sheppard St. incurred heavy damages when a fire broke out Friday near a water heater in the kitchen.

Greenville firemen responded to the call at noon and fought the fire for half an hour. According to the report, the wood frame structure sustained heavy fire, smoke and water damage in the kitchen and a bedroom.

Firemen stayed on the scene for two hours to make sure the flames were out. The estimated amount of damage is unknown.

Presley Fans Wait

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — About a hundred fans huddled in below freezing weather Saturday at the gates to Elvis Presley's estate, some vowing to wait all night, if necessary, in order to be on hand for the first public tour of the singer's gravesite Sunday.

There were no lines during the afternoon. Instead the fans milled around, swapping Elvis stories, snapping photographs of Graceland Mansion and listening to radios. Many were out-of-town visitors who said they had arranged for motel rooms for the night.

Richard Carlson Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Richard Carlson, who appeared on stage and screen but whose best-known role was in the long-running television series "I Led Three Lives," is dead at 65.

A family spokesman said Carlson, who died Friday at Encino Hospital, suffered a cerebral hemorrage Nov. 15 and never regained consciousness.

Carlson invested his savings in a Minneapolis theater company to gain theatrical experience after earning a master's degree at the University of Minnesota.

He appeared in the films, "Back Street," "King Solomon's Mines," "It Came From Outer Space," and "Creature from the Black Lagoon."

He portrayed counterspy Herbert A. Philbrick in the "I Led Three Lives" television series during the 1950s.

A private service for Carlson, who is survived by his wife, Mona, and two sons, was tentatively scheduled at the Harvard School Sunday.

No Ban On Bacon

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has no intention of turning its current move to keep a cancer-causing compound out of meat into a ban on bacon, says Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Foreman.

The possibility that bacon production would stop because of current proceedings aimed at reducing the amount of nitrite used in curing meats is "absolutely minuscule," Ms. Foreman insisted in an interview. She said reducing nitrites and using ascorbic acid and Vitamin E as preservatives will help prevent formation of the cancer-causing nitrosamine compounds, she said.

Here are excerpts from a UPI interview of the the Agriculture Department official, who formerly was director of the Consumer Federation of America.

Q — Do you notice a new atmosphere of controversy between your department and the food industries?

A — I think that push has to come to shove. It was inevitable that we were going to get to a point where we're on different sides of the fence. The publication of the requirement to submit data on nitrosamines, and the proposed regulations on (meat containing bone powder), and the announcement of our intention to publish some changes in grading procedures, and the knowledge that we will soon publish regulations on net weight labeling, are all issues where there were bound to be differences of opinion between the industry and consumers. And the department has to make some decisions between the two.

I suspect that none of the regulations we've put out so far has made either consumers or the industry perfectly happy. We've done the best job we can in carrying out the law as we understand it.

I have tried to avoid any name calling. And quite frankly, for the most part I think the industry has tried to avoid that, but there are obviously some exceptions to that.

Q — What kind of health-related food issues are coming up in the future?

A — We're learning more about the relationship between large amounts of salt and fat and some health problems. We may have to re-examine our thinking about how much (should be allowed in foods).

Q — What do you see coming up in new trends in government food standards?

A — We've got to move fairly slowly because we don't know as much as we should. We've got to be in the information-gathering stage for a while. For example ... is a hot dog with "tissue from ground bone" still a hot dog?

We don't know how to deal with those problems. But we should be concerned.

Early Skiing

By United Press International

Temperatures dipped into the 30s and 20s in the mountains while wind gusts blew snow flurries around the area.

But a spokesman at Beech Mountain reported, "We've got skiiers anyway. They're out on the mountain this morning."

Beech received four to six inches of snow, and resort officials put their snowmaking machines to work to create an eight to 10-inch base for some good skiing on one of its slopes. The resort planned to have a slope in operation Sunday also.

Appalachian and Sugar Mountain didn't have skiing Saturday, but they began making snow and planned to open slopes Sunday.

Grandfather Mountain reported temperatures dropped to 4 degrees Friday night and there was not much of a warming trend early Saturday. At midday, the temperature still was 4 degrees atop the mountain, and the 50-knot winds created a wind-chill factor of minus 50 degrees.

The National Weather Service predicted temperatures would drop into the teens and 20s overnight but reach into the 30s and 40s in the mountains Sunday. Sunny weather was to greet skiiers early Sunday, but the weatherman also predicted a chance of showers across the western half of the state by evening.

Cold air moved across North Carolina Saturday behind a cold front which moved across the state. Gusty northwest winds were associated with the cold front.

The National Weather Service issued a gale warning for the coastal section and a travelers advisory because of the icy roads and blowing snow.

Wants Construction Stopped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Ralph Nader organization, citing newly obtained CIA documents on an alleged nuclear accident in the Soviet Union, says U.S. nuclear plant construction should be stopped until safety can be studied further.

The Critical Mass Energy Project made public Friday a series of documents dealing with the incident, which occurred in the southern Ural Mountains in 1958.

The group said the documents lend new credence to earlier unsubstantiated accounts of the incident, which reportedly killed scores of people and exposed thousands to radiation.

Miss Teen-Age America

DALLAS (AP) — Leslie Owen Griffiths, the representative of Anchorage, Alaska, has been named Miss Teen-age America in the annual pageant here.

Miss Griffiths, at 15 the youngest entrant in the contest, was presented a gold and enamel medallion Friday night to symbolize her status as the pageant's choice for top teenager in the nation.

The blue-eyed, red-haired Miss Griffiths and the three 17-year-old alternates were selected from a group of eight semi-finalists.

First alternate was Ramona Lynn Easter, daughter of a serviceman stationed at Ansbach, Germany. Tamera Kay Nerby, representing Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., was named second alternate, and Miss Oak Ridge, Tenn., Jill Karen Hahn, was named third runner-up.

Nader Says Auto Makers Could Supply Details

By MICHAEL J. CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ralph Nader Saturday sent the federal government proof that auto makers keep detailed records of the defects in their cars and said federal safety experts should subpoena copies.

To underscore his point, Nader released a series of Ford Motor Co. computer printouts showing the top 20 1977 model defects Ford had to fix on warranty.

In a letter to Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, Nader complained the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has had the authority to subpoena safety-related information from auto companies since 1974, but has done so only once.

He said NHTSA should use its powers "to compel the Ford Motor Co. to provide copies of its weekly, monthly and other warranty claim analyses.

"The fact that Ford routinely gathers warranty data and analyzes such data in the comprehensive manner indicated above puts to rest once and for all the argument that to provide such information would be exorbitantly expensive."

While it might cost Ford millions to gather such information, Nader said, the printouts show the company is already doing so, and providing the government copies would involve little more than printing costs.

"Since the other automotive manufacturers undoubtedly prepare similar analyses in the normal course of their business," he said, "I request that the Department of Transportation extend such subpoenas to those manufacturers also."

The Ford printout showed, when the reading was taken last June, repairs to automatic transmission assemblies were costing the company the most money — $8.4 million — of any warranty obligation.

"The component most frequently repaired was the fixed moon roof," Nader said, with more than 17 per cent needing repairs.

"Many of the items on the list are safety related, including the transmission assembly, the converter rear axle and the starter," he said.

Exiles Speak Of Harrassment

ROME (UPI) — East European exiles told an international gathering Saturday about what they called everyday harassment of dissenters in communist countries, including imprisonment, loss of jobs and arbitrary home searches.

One of them said he had his telephone cut off because officials said he tried to get the telephone repairman to sign a human rights proclamation. Another said he was jailed for "speculation" because he sold family property and used the proceeds to build himself an apartment.

The International Sakharov Hearings, which began Friday with a filmed appeal by Soviet dissident Physicist Andrei Sakharov to let the world know about human rights violations in the East, went into their second day with testimony about individual experiences of persecution.

Sakharov, father of the Soviet nuclear bomb and winner of a Nobel Peace Prize for his human rights activities, had his filmed message smuggled out of Moscow after being refused a Soviet visa to come to Rome for the meeting.

Fought Fire, Then Demonstrated

LONDON (UPI) — Striking firefighters abandoned picket lines Saturday to join troops in putting out a hospital blaze and then marched with their wives and children in a demonstration demanding a 30 percent pay raise.

The firefighters, in their 13th day of a national strike, joined with troops to fight a fire at St. Thomas's Hospital in suburban Lambeth where 200 patients had to be evacuated.

The patients were engulfed in smoke pouring through the ventilation system from the fire, which started in a linen cupboard. The combined assault quickly extinguished the blaze.

Later, a union official estimated 10,000 firefighters and their families marched through the city to Prime Minister James Callaghan's official residence at No. 10 Downing Street.

They handed in a petition with half-a-million signatures calling for the government to exempt the firefighters from its ruling restricting pay increases to 10 per cent.

Will Not Renew Visa

TORONTO (AP) — The Chinese government has informed the Globe and Mail it will not renew the visa of Peking correspondent Ross H. Munro when the document expires Dec. 23, the Toronto newspaper reported today.

Yao Jen-liu, second secretary of the Chinese Embassy in Ottawa, said in a letter to The Globe and Mail the visa will not be renewed "for obvious reasons" on which he was instructed not to elaborate.

Munro recently wrote a series of articles on alleged human rights violations in China. It was not known whether the series had anything to do with the Chinese decision, the Globe and Mail said.

Different Shades Of Thinking

When the new City Council is sworn in December there will be two new faces among the six persons who occupy the seats.

Charles Vincent and Judy Green will be the newcomers to the council. They will be taking the places of Frank Fuller and William Hadden. Fuller was defeated in the October election and Hadden lost out in the November run-off.

The voters returned Clarence Gray, John Howard, Mildred McGrath and Joe Taft to the council and, of course, Mayor Percy Cox was re-elected without opposition.

It wasn't an election marked by major surprises although there were some unexpected turns.

Charles Vincent, a newcomer to local politics, led the ticket in the October election, for instance. Veteran Council member John Howard, who wasn't even in the top six in October, turned things around to the point where he led the ticket in the run-off election on Nov. 8.

With two new members on the City Council beginning in December we undoubtedly will see different shades of thinking emerging in council decisions, and new alignments on the voting. We wouldn't anticipate any radical changes in direction insofar as city policy making is concerned but inevitably there will be some movement.

Catching Up On New School Schedule

Contractors seem to be catching up on the work at the new middle school — now officially Greenville Middle School — and it appears the project may be completed on schedule.

Architect George Shoe was complimentary concerning the contractors' efforts to catch the project up in reporting to the Greenville School Board Monday.

If progress continues the work can be completed by the scheduled date of Dec. 19 and students and staff will occupy the school after Christmas.

That is good news. The new facility is needed and the Christmas break will be an ideal time to move into it.

Stories Relieve Tensions

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Commerce Secretary D. M. (Lauch) Faircloth can be spotted from a distance—just follow the sound of laughter.

The Clinton millionaire politician is one of the few state department heads whom lawmakers look forward to hearing from at committee meetings.

Take this exchange on a recent day. A senator wanted to know how the state's efforts at economic development were doing in the Far East and Soutn America.

Says Faircloth: it's like the time back during the Depression when his father decided to sell off one of the hogs. They needed the money, and the hog was eating too much anyway.

The Senior Faircloth talked to the store owner who wondered how fat the hog might be. "Sleek and fat as can be. He's the biggest of the lot and gets first pick," came the answer.

Well, the store owner figured, it being July and no way to keep the meat he had figured he might make some sausage if he had a skinny hog. . .but a fat one just wouldn't do.

Wrong Facts

Mr. Faircloth was only momentarily stalled. He figured briefly, then said: "Now about that hog I wanted to sell you. He ain't nearly as fat as you might have heard he was."

And that, says the commerce secretary, pretty well described state operations in the Far East and South America. But he hopes to fatten the program up later this year or next.

Faircloth was head of the highways operation several years ago, and still takes a lot of ribbing about the Faircloth Freeway, a fine, four-lane facility bypassing his hometown. To such an individualist, such matters don't register. He comes to work when he please, figures he's thinking even walking in the woods; may show up one day in his chauffer-driven Cadillac limousine and the next driving his own pickup truck; wears outdated suits with skinny lapels (and a Brooks Brother label) and his shoes are as apt to be muddy as not. The saying around Clinton is not to let Faircloth walk across your land. . .he'll own it.

Even the Republicans honor the man's hunor: an award is given annually named for Faircloth (a Democrat) who upon witnessing a Republican meeting stood and announced he had never been able to understand electricity or Republicans.

The rumpled suits really are Brooks Brothers creations. A reporter pulled open Faircloth's jacket the other day to check the label—assuming it would be on the inside pocket. "You all don't even know where to look. . .here it is," he said as he pulled open the back of the jacket at the neck to show the tiny label.

Malice in Blunderland

In a talk entitled "Malice in Blunderland," a Duke University child psychiatrist recently characterized North Carolina's juvenile justice system as a contradiction in terms: there's little justice and almost no system to it.

Dr. Harold J. Harris criticized the juvenile training school system as a way to get "bad kinds" out of the way. There is no organized lobby demanding attention for their problem Harris contends, and especially ill treated are the status offenders who are sent to training school for non-criminal actions such as running away or truancy from school.

There is some hope, said Harris, referring to state efforts to establish community treatment programs and wilderness camps.

The alternative to the "juvenile junkyards" which are training schools, Harris noted, are such approaches, "but there is a lot more that needs to be done."

Sunday Morning Notes

A multi-million dollar container crane stands unused at the Morehead City State Port.

The containerized business for the crane just hasn't developed and it is a problem that the State Ports Authority is working on.

A source has told us that there are two other such cranes in North America which have been installed but are unused. One is in the Vancouver area and the other in Great Lakes region.

It moved one observer to comment' "Boy, if we could just get that crane salesman on the surplus tobacco problem, things could be cleared up in a month."

The trip from Greenville to Raleigh has long been character.ized by narrow two lane roads and passing through a multitude of small towns.

Gradually this is changing, however, as a limited access U. S. 264 and 64 is constructed towards I-95 at Wilson.

The part that is open already makes the trip much easier and it gives hope to those of us living down this way that the new road will eventually be extended on to Greenville.

There are problems, however. Your columnist traveled to the Duke-Carolina game last weekend. It was a long day with a weary drive back. In the past even a tired driver knew pretty much where he was on the old U. S. 64 and U. S. 264. He could keep his bearings as he passed through Zebulon, Middlesex, Bailey and Sims.

Gradually these towns are being bypassed. Alas your columnist missed the interchange which takes U. S. 64 traffic over to U. S. 264 near Zebulon.

It meant finding another interchange and cutting back across at Middlesex to return to U.S. 264. One of the few disadvantages of a modern highway.

Ficklen Stadium will be the fourth largest in North Carolina when the expansion which is expected to get underway this month is completed next fall.

It will be the largest stadium in Eastern North Carolina and, for now at least, it should include a seat for practically every man, woman and child living in Greenville.

That led one observer to comment, "Boy, what a town meeting we could have."

After observing a few City Council public hearings, you columnist has decided he wouldn't be there. The babble of voices would be deafening.

An Old Radio Is Art

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — Remember those crackling old 1930s radios playing mostly static which you finally threw away when the tubes burned out?

A pity you junked them. They're art objects now.

The Victoria and Albert Museum, Britain's major applied arts museum, calls them "Classic Radio Receivers — 1920s to 1950s" and has put 130 of them into a high-class museum display. It is called, using the British term for radio, "The Wireless Show."

They're all there. All those blocky brown Bakelite boxes, the wood ones with speaker grilles carved as sunsets or

Other Editors Say Pre-Salk Memory

(The Raleigh Times)

Fear reigned in laziest summertime. Swimming pools closed just when August heat bore down. Movie theaters and other crowded places were forbidden territory for the young. Sometimes county and state fairs were cancelled in panic, along with summer theatre and even baseball games.

The script for a terrorism movie? No. This was America's response only three decades ago the to scourge of poliomyelitis, otherwise known as infantile paralysis.

In the 1930s and 40s, many families had a cousin who'd had polio. Most youngsters knew someone around their age who had died of it or been crippled by it. Some had been to the always terrible funerals of children.

Newspaper pictures of victimes bravely surviving in iron lungs were standard. The Australian Sister Kenny's exercise therapy was hotly discussed at American dinner tables. Thousands of adults still bear polio's traces--one leg a little thinner, its muscles never fully restored, was a common consequence.

Polio knew no boundaries of class or neighborhood. After all, a patrician U.S. president of the United States was a victim too. He led the March of Dimes, and everyone gave generously, feeling they were helping to buy off grim fate.

The way that fate spread was never well understood, except that the young were at greatest risk, crowds were dangerous, and the peak time was summer. Mystery made the menace worse.

Such was the fear, especially among parents, that when Jonas Salk came along with his polio vaccine in the 50s, he was the greatest media medical hero since Louis Pasteur. Debate raged over live vs. killed virus vaccine, shots vs. oral doses, and every family had a stake in the outcome.

In an amazingly few years, polio seemed dead, vanquished by millions of sugar cubes doctored with drops of vaccine. The few cases now in the news again represent not failure of immunology but the carelessness of success. There will never be another polio epidemic in America, say the public health people.

Those who remember the fear of pre-Salk summers will be most heartily thankful for that. And those who don't remember should look to their immunization records and those of their children. For these are memories nobody needs.

Arrests mounted as violence continued to mark the strike of union drivers on Greyhound bus lines operating in 16 states.

Stoning of 16 buses in scattered sections of the 16-state strike area brought an announcement from Ivan Bowen, counsel for the eight Greyhound companies involved in the strike, that he was holding the union responsible for damage.

"I have formally notified the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen it would be held financially responsible for any damage to the companies in the strike," Bowen said.

President Roosevelt suggested expenditure under the new farm program be kept within $500,000,000 in an effort to bring Federal spending within income.

In a letter to Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the democratic leader, the President took note of Senate discussions on possible costs of the farm program now being debated.

"It is obvious," he said, "that a constant increase of expenditures with an equally constant increase in revenue can only result in a continuation of deficits."

Turbulence In Pentagon

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Symptomatic of turbulence within the nation's senior officer corps, the chief of air defense has been relieved of his command for "medical" reasons after writing his superior a stinging private letter charging that a proposed reorganization undercuts U.S. security and sounds the wrong signal to the world.

Gen. Daniel (Chappie) James Jr., commander of the U.S. — Canadian North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) and the U.S. Aerospace Defense Command (ADCOM), suffered a heart attack in September (medically described as a "cardiac incident"). He was expected to stay in command until retiring six months from now. But that was before his Oct. 20 letter to Gen. David Jones, Air Force chief of staff. Both Jones and James deny to us that the letter was connected with James's relief from command, but scarcely any Air Force officer believes that.

James, 57, the first black ever to achieve four-star rank, is noted for moderation and discretion. Hence, the language in his protest to Jones is exceptional. Opposing a Jones-backed reorganization which eliminates ADCOM to save costs, James called the proposal "inaccurate," "superficial," and "biased" and declared "a perceived deemphasis in U.S. air defense priority could signal the wrong intention to both our enemies and our allies."

Typifying discontent among the uniformed military, James's complaint transcends petty bureaucratic grievance and goes to central issues of national survival: withdrawing troops from Korea; junking the B-1 bomber; proposing concessions in strategic arms and European force negotiations. These have generated a barely suppressed anxiety at the Pentagon.

The Air Force study heightens this anxiety by proposing that ADCOM be eliminated — its interceptor functions going to the Tactical Air Command (TAC), its space surveillance functions assumed by the Strategic Air Command (SAC). To Air Force officers, this climaxes years of downgrading air defense, making the U.S. vulnerable to air attack.

That this proposal could doom the 30-year U.S.-Canadian partnership in NORAD was disclosed in an Oct. 14 "eyes-only" memorandum sent to Ottawa by Canadian Maj. Gen. K. C. Lett, NORAD's director of operations. Contending the Air Force study breaks the U.S.-Canadian agreement, Lett said: "It is underhanded, devious, full of half truths."

On Oct. 18, the Air Force sent a confidential memo to Defense Secretary Harold Brown summarizing the study. Arguing against a separate Air Defense Command, the summary contends ADCOM could be eliminated "without disturbing...our international agreements with the Canadians regarding NORAD." That raised some Air Force eyebrows, considering Gen. Lett's attitude.

About that time, Gen. James, convalescing at home in Colorado Springs, Colo., dictated an eight-page letter to Chief of Staff Jones. It was then expected James would reassume his command around Dec. 3. So, according to fellow officers, James knew he was making a bet-your-job gamble in writing Jones.

"I have strong objections to the approach, logic, appropriateness, rationale, adequacy and accuracy of the study," James began. He complained the study was written on high with innuendo reaching his command, adding: "The misinformation is undermining the Air Force."

Then James got to the substance. Contending the reorganization would provide only "minimal savings," he said: "If national security is a valid priority, a strong air defense organization is required." He called perceived deemphasis in air defense "untimely," coinciding with the cancelled B-1 and the coming Soviet Backfire bomber.

Warning the plan would help Canadians who want to withdraw from NORAD anyway, James declared: "I am convinced that the Canadians will not tolerate any significant dependence on SAC for attack warning (a conviction confirmed by Lett's memo).

James does not weasel:

Strength For Today

WHEN LOVE ACCOMPANIES JUSTICE

Some parents and teachers are afraid of the young people in their lives. In some instances they are afraid to criticize questionable behavior on their part for fear that the young people will then go out and do worse things. The elders are afraid to express themselves on moral issues lest the young people call them old-fashioned and strait-laced.

Young people resent arbitrary and high-handed treatment, and they should do so. They do not want to be nagged. They have a bitter resentment against injustice. But they understand love and sympathy. They may make a wry face over wise counsel and laugh a bit at what they regard as old-fashioned ways, but they appreciate it when older people take enough interest in their welfare to sit down and talk problems over.

Some conflict between generations is inevitable and brings tensions to families, but much worse is the moral appeasement and indifference which drives families irretrievably apart.

Wrapping Houses In Newspaper

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a surging demand for yesterday's newspaper, to wrap the house in.

Or, to put it in the words of executive of what is sometimes called the waste paper industry, "there has been a dramatic demand for news in the past few months."

News to this executive is not the news that is printed on the paper, but the paper on which the news is printed. The paper stock, in other words.

The home insulation industry wants it, the very newspaper you are reading, to be recycled as insulation, and they are willing to pay premium prices for it, about 50 per cent more than last year's figures.

Wholesalers in some areas are selling to newsprint consumption mills at $65 to $70 a ton, and sometimes more, with the buyer paying the freight, according to "Official Board Markets," sometimes called "The Yellow Sheet" of the industry. Those are the latest prices quoted for what is called No. 1 News in the Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit markets.

In California, prices are about $37 to $42; in the Southeast, $55 to $60 and in the Northeast, from $23, the Boston low, to $50, the Philadelphia high.

Why so high in the Midwest? That's where the insulation makers are situated.

While these are not the quotations your Boy Scout or Girl Scout troop can expect, industry officials say that generally speaking such local collectors, who then sell to wholesalers, are also earning 50 per cent more than they did a year ago; in some instances up to $50 a ton.

The actual price received in community paper drives depends not only on the needs of the local dealer but also on quality.

No. 1 News means used or unused newspapers, stacked and tied or baled, with no contaminants. As a spokesman for the Recycling Industries puts it: "No magazines, dirt or wire." Just pure newsprint.

Robert Kilburg, president of the Paper Stock Institute of America, explains "The unprecedented demand is due to the pressure now being placed on news supplies by the insulation industry to meet homeowner needs."

Millions of Americans, he noted, are insulating their homes to minimize fuel costs, "encouraged by pending passage of a tax rebate for home insulation in the emerging energy bill."

The technology of grinding used newsprint and processing it with fire-retardant chemicals to make cellulose insulation is at least 50 years old, but the demand for the product wasn't nearly as great as it is now.

Many insulation manufacturers will use only newsprint rather than various forms of papers because of its ability to absorb chemicals added in the processing and because it has other special qualities.

The end product of the manufacturing process is sold to dealers and directly to homeowners to be blown into existing or new structures, or poured from bags between and over attic joists.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Sensitive Probe

Now that the succession amendment has been approved at the polls, one of the misgivings about it is eased a bit by the governor's willingness to explore a politically sensitive area.

Gov. Jim Hunt is quoted as saying there is "another side" to the appraisal of performance by school children, and that is "teacher performance". It was "not a trial balloon" when that subject was brought up by members he appointed to the State Board of Education, the governor said. It was a "clear signal" of intention to look at "all aspects of public education in North Carolina and the problems we are having".

That is encouraging to the belief that Gov. Hunt will take the political risk of probing into an area guarded by a powerful pressure group. Teacher organizations have opposed efforts to re-examine the tenure policy and relate job security and salary to performance.

The political risk may not be too great, even if the governor seeks a second term. Competent teachers do not necessarily welcome the prospect of having students promoted into their class rooms without adequate preparation. It is plausible that they would like to work with students who had competent teachers in the preceding grades. In the secrecy of the voting booth, if not openly in a teacher organization meeting, some of them might support a candidate who looks at "all aspects of public education" including the tenure system. — The Robesonian (Lumberton)

Parkway Popular

The Blue Ridge Parkway, long a favorite area for thousands of Unifour residents to spend a Sunday afternoon or go camping, has become a major attraction for people throughout our nation and many foreign lands.

The Parkway, in the words of Joe Brown, the superintendent, has become "an elongated national park". In speaking during a Public Lands forum at Western Carolina University, Brown said "More and more people realize that the Parkway offers a wide variety of recreational opportunities."

As he said, the Parkway is being put to ever-increasing use by campers and picnickers, fishermen, hikers and those just plainly interested in Mother Nature.

But scenery remains the major reason people visit the Parkway. As Brown said, the unique facility affords people "a change of pace" and an opportunity to escape "from the pressures of home life or employment."

With more than 16 million visits recorded in 1976, it is apparent the Parkway is fulfilling a vital recreation need for the American public. — The Hickory Daily Record

Why Pay More?

A new study by a North Carolina economist confirms what many energy experts have been saying all along — that Congress will be making a serious mistake this fall if it fails to deregulate the price of natural gas.

Dr. Edward K. Erickson of N.C. State Univ. argues (in a report prepared for the gas industry) that Americans could save at least $100 billion in fuel costs over the next 12 years if gas producers were given a financial incentive to drill new wells.

Erickson's analysis is timely because the Carter administration wants to clamp a lid of $1.75 per thousand cubic feet on the price of natural gas. The House already has approved this dubious proposal. And the vote in the Senate is likely to be close.

The administration, it seems to us, is being penny wise and pound foolish on the deregulation issue. What's the sense in keeping natural gas prices artificially low (rolling them back from $2 or $2.25 in some states) if production falls off and the country is forced into using more expensive forms of fuel? The Gastonia Gazzette

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Nov. 27, the 331st day of 1977. There are 34 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1942, during World War II, French navy men at Toulon, France scuttled 10 French cruisers, 28 destroyers and 14 submarines to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Nazis.

On this date:

In 1703, a coastal storm in England took an estimated 8,000 lives.

In 1940, during World War II, Germany annexed the French province of Lorraine.

In 1945, Gen. George Marshall was named a special U.S. envoy to China to try to end hostilities between the Nationalists and the Communists.

In 1970, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover charged that a terrorist group had plotted to blow up tunnels connecting Washington buildings and to kidnap White House Assistant Henry Kissinger.

In 1973, the Senate voted 92-3 to confirm Gerald Ford as vice president.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon Johnson nominated Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara as the new president of the World Bank, and submitted the nomination to the 107 member nations for their approval.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon announced that he had accepted the resignations of two cabinet members — Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney and Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird.

One year ago: Thousands of people marched through London's Trafalgar Square in a demonstration for peace in Northern Ireland.

Thought for today: All art is based on non-comformity — Ben Shahn, American artist, 1898-1969.

Little More Than A Rubber Stamp At Houston

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

HOUSTON — The National Women's Conference wound up at 1:30 Monday afternoon in something close to pure bedlam, with the pro-family contingent walking out to the strains of God Bless America and the rest of the ladies, God bless them, still chanting it up for the E.R.A.

The three-day clambake produced little in the way of surprises and almost nothing in the way of hard news, but it was an interesting affair nonetheless. It may even have had its useful aspects. Whether the results justified the expenditure of five million dollars in public funds depends upon one's point of view. I would rather have the five million back, but I have seen far more federal money wasted in much worse ways.

The one small surprise came toward the very end, when the delegates voted down a recommended resolution for the creation of a Cabinet-level Women's Department. This was the last of 26 proposals, and the general idea was that without a Women's Department the other 245 might be ignored. As it turned out, the delegates felt that if a Women's Department were created, a Men's Department might be required in the name of Holy Equality, and the thought was unbearable. The ladies shouted the proposition down; the pro-lifers took to their heels; and in a final gurgle of oratory the conference adjourned sine die.

Otherwide, no surprises. The apprehensive sponsors, fearful that hair might literally be pulled, had fortified the conference rules with some bristling provisions against punching, gouging and performing on the bullhorn, but none of these rules had to be invoked. With only a handful of exceptions, the combatants behaved with remarkable civility. If the opposing forces lusted in their hearts for mutual mayhem, they kept such felonious impulses to themselves.

The 25 approved resolutions had been well publicized over the past two years. Most of them earlier had been approved in most of the state women's conventions. The Houston ratifications thus amounted to little more than pro forma rubber stamps, and indeed this was the stifled cry that arose now and then from the dissident seats: "Rubberstamp! Rubberstamp!"

Proponents domianted the affair by a margin of four or five to one, though the standing vote on the pro-abortion resolution appeared to be a good deal closer. The abortion issue was the most emotional issue, generating even more heat than a resolution on sexual preference. This latter resolution is intended to protect lesbian women against discrimination. For the record, there were plenty of lesbian women in evidence — they conducted a "dyke vigil" Sunday evening — but I saw none of the offensive conduct reported at a few of the state meetings last summer.

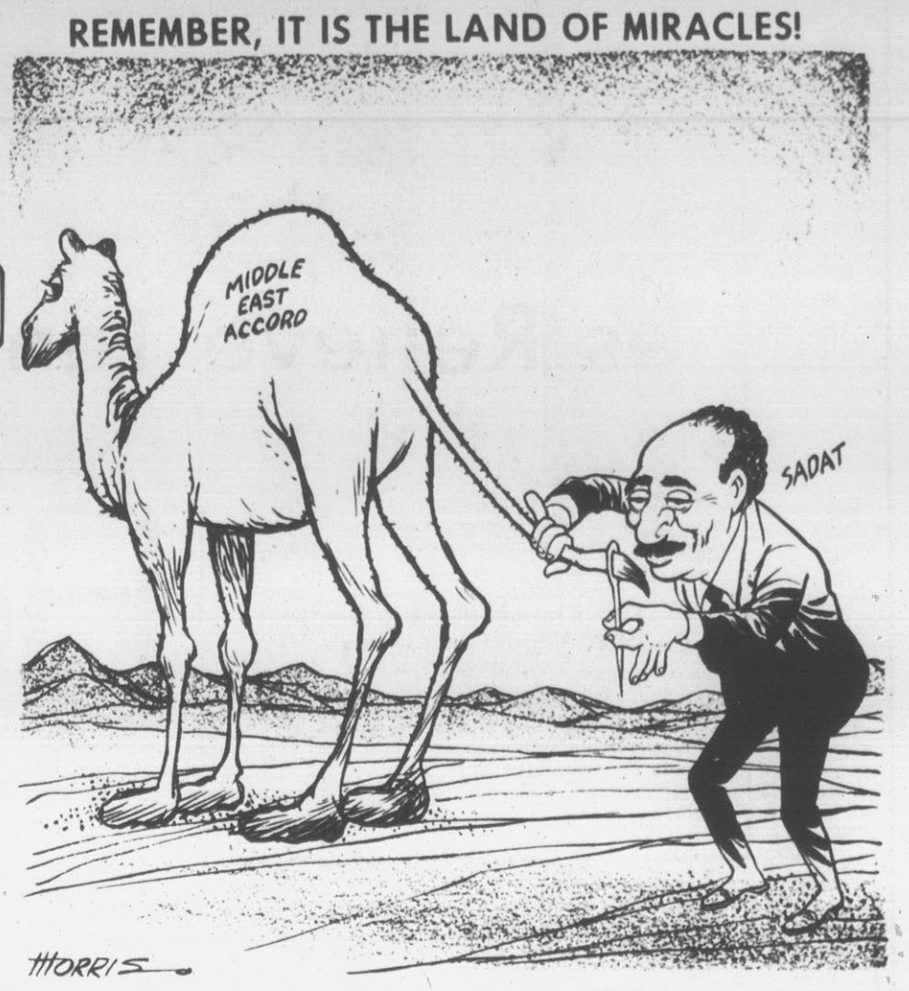

The official International Women's Year sessions at the Coliseum understandably dominated the news, but the unofficial pro-family rally at the Houston Astro-Arena deserved more coverage than it got. Phyllis Schlafly's troops turned out 15,000 strong in a rally that one speaker said was "just like revival in a black Baptist church." The affair united Catholics who oppose abortion and fundamentalists who oppose any tampering with what they perceive as women's God-given role in the scheme of things.

The pro-family folks impressed me as just as sincere in their convinction as the IWY supporters are sincere in theirs. We saw extremism on both sides. Bella Abzug equated the dissidents with the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society, and the dissidents equated their foes with lesbanism and free love.

After listening to these ladies for the better part of three days, I left Houston with the heretical thought — a thought that ought to be suppressed — that it was a mistake ever to teach little girls to read. They grow up to be women who read Robert's Rules of Order. They learn to holler "Point of personal privilege!" and "Point of parliamentary inquiry!" and they can tie a meeting into knots.

The most outstanding women at Houston were Dr. Mildred Jefferson, a Boston surgeon who heads the National Right to Life Committee, and Ms. Anne Saunier of Ohio, who chaired most of Sunday's sessions at the Coliseum. Dr. Jefferson is a five-foot package of dynamite, and Ms. Sunier, a long-legged militant, man-hating tiger, is the best presiding officer I ever watched in action. If she wanted to make her services available to the presidential conventions of 1980, we could wrap up the business in 24 hours and go home.

A High Sheriff Of The Low Country Writes

BEAUFORT, S.C. — Although J.E. McTeer has been out of the law enforcement business for 15 years, around Beaufort County, South Carolina, he is still known as "The High Sheriff of the Low Country," the title of his slim memoir.

The McTeer clan has been sheriffing hereabouts for most of this century. When his father died, Ed took over the office at age 22 and served for the next 37 years. Young McTeer's brother became his deputy and later a state trooper, and one of Ed's sons — a captain in the state wildlife service — is now being urged to run for the office.

But what the 73-year-old retired sheriff is best known for today, and the reason people still come for "consultations" in his musty Beaufort office is that he is also known as a "White Witch Doctor," the title of his latest book.

The two volume titles are intertwined.

Sheriff McTeer, a tall, erect but almost frail man with thick bifocal glasses and a full head of white hair, took up serious study of West African history, culture and religion — voodoo — as soon as he took office in 1926.

He also taught himself Gullah, the Low Country dialect composed of pidgin English and African, used by the early slaves and their descendants.

"I knew I had to study it to be fair when I became sheriff," he recalls, noting the large percentage of black people in Beaufort County.

There were other reasons for studying witchcraft. Many of the county's citizens, white as well as black, believed in black magic and "the root," regularly visiting such local practitioners as "Dr. Crow," "Dr. Bug," "Dr. Eagle" and "Dr. Buzzard."

"As sheriff, I saw numerous people dying who had a hex on them and had been possessed. I saw people burn their houses down, dig their yards up, quit working and go crazy — commit suicide.

"I decided that with my knowledge and the power I had, that I would devote my time and energy to saving these people, to removing the spells from them. I became a white witch doctor, which means practicing for good not the color of skin."

While noting that much of his work consisted of dealing with people's psychosomatic reactions, he says softly: "I have the power to make a person know that I can remove that spell — and he sees it go."

There were also more practical considerations. Once he made other witch doctors his allies, they often served as informers when crimes were committed.

For a time, there were some rough goings-on in Beaufort County, what with the Parris Island Marine training center located there and the rum-runners during Prohibition. But withal, there's one aspect of McTeer's record that pleases him the most:

"In the 37 years I was sheriff I never killed anyboby . . . It was a trust that the people had in me that allowed me to handle law enforcement like that . . . I didn't even carry a pistol," he recalls, adding that twice he talked would-be lynch mobs into surrendering their captives.

Sheriff McTeer does have one pet peeve — psychiatrists, many of whom come from the state hospital in Columbia, and from around the world to consult with him.

"They cannot put themselves down on the level of the people who are possessed. The average psychiatrist hides his head in the sand and tells a person: 'That's stupid. Nobody believes in witchcraft. Now, you've got to get that out of your mind. You're living in a civilized age.' And the person who's possessed looks at him and says: 'You're the one who's crazy. You're raving crazy!'"

"The study itself is seriously inaccurate. It is a superficial and biased collection of perceptions about the most serious operational role assigned to United States forces — 'are we or are we not under attack?' There is no room for misinterpretation, confusion or mistake."

Shortly thereafter, James was reassigned to Washington. Jones told us the change had "nothing to do with" James's letter. James used nearly identical language over the telephone from Colorado: "It has absolutely nothing to do with it. I am going out because of health."

But Chappie James is no shouter and never intended his letter to see the light of day. Besides, fellow officers say he does not want to agitate black airmen. However, for the officer corps, his departure discloses what happens to a senior officer who protests, even privately, that cost savings undermine security.

Christmas Decorations Mixed Up The Calendar

I had a hard time getting into the spirit of Thanksgiving this year. One reason for this was the holiday decorations — I really think they fooled me. The Christmas decorations have been out so long that I got mixed up and went into my annual January blahs prematurely. Another reason was that Meg caught the first cold of the season, promptly gave it to me, and I collapsed more deeply into gloom with each succeeding sniffle.

Anyway, by Tuesday of this week I was in such an unholiday mood that the only thing that could have paralleled the atmosphere in our house was the atmosphere at the Butterball Turkey Farm.

"Perk up," Phillip said during the commercials for "Adam-12." "You've been mooning around the house for a week, and it's getting on my nerves. Why don't you think of all the things you have to be thankful for?"

I lifted my head from my tissue and said, "Sure. I'm thankful that I only have pneumonia and a baby with an ear infection. After all, we could have caught trichinosis or something."

"That's the spirit," he sighed. "Now think of something else you have to be thankful for."

"I'm thankful that after I made the mistake of walking on the kitchen floor in my sock feet, we were able to remove the socks with only two or three swipes of a putty knife and four applications of GREASE RELIEF."

"So the house is a little disordered. It'll get better. You'll feel like cleaning it up in a few days."

I gave him a withering look and hid behind another tissue. "If you're trying to cheer me up . . ."

"Come on, Gail. Snap out of it," he said impatiently. "Just because you've got a little cold, there's no reason to get down on the whole of Thanksgiving."

"But that's just it. It's not only because I've got a cold. It's that nowhere have I seen any evidence this year that Thanksgiving is any more than an excuse for a long weekend. Santa Claus rode in about the time the Halloween witches rode out, and the poor old grounded turkey didn't even have a chance. The only Thanksgiving tribute I've seen is a sign saying 'Buy a car. Get a turkey.'"

Phillip wrenched his attention from the TV set long enough to say, "Well, I'm looking forward to Thanksgiving — good food, football games. It's great!"

"But it should be more than that," I said, stumbling into the bathroom for another box of tissues. "If I knew that someone somewhere really and truly cared about preserving the original meaning of Thanksgiving. . . If I could just have a sign . . ."

Just then I heard a howl from the living room, and Phillip screamed, "The television's blown a tube! I'll never get it fixed by Thursday. I'll miss the games!"

I lifted my eyes upward and said, "Thank you, Lord."

The Disgruntled First Face Midge Costanza

By LAURENCE McQUILLAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Margaret "Midge" Costanza daily catches broadsides leveled at the White House by disgruntled outsiders. That's part of her job. But now she is starting to find herself the target of insiders as well.

Some say she is too outspoken in her role as presidential assistant for public liaison — an office which deals with anyone from the public who has a gripe. Her goal is to convince them that the government cares.

Midge Costanza — who turns 45 on Nov. 28 — considers herself as "a loudmouth, pushy broad" who must keep the president from becoming isolated.

She doesn't particularly like controversy — "I don't look for it" — but she does not shy away either. In her brief tenure the White House has listened to the typical groups, such as advocates and opponents of equal rights for women and abortion.

She added groups who were ignored in the past, such as gay rights activists. She allowed a vegetarian group to host a meatless meal at the White House, angering cattle raisers.

"Anything that is worth changing in this nation is controversial," she says. "If you don't take a stand for anything, then who are you? Not everybody has to agree with me, but you've got to stand for something."

Her parents immigrated from Sicily and opened a sausage business in Rochester, N.Y. Their daughter's first taste of politics came in high school, where she was elected student vice president as a junior. The bitter side came the next year when she ran for class president and lost — to a boy she had dated.

In 1973, Ms. Costanza became the first woman elected to the City Council in Rochester, N.Y., and was chosen by her colleagues as vice mayor — a ceremonial post in a community with a city manager form of government.

Her first contact with Jimmy Carter came in 1974 when the Georgia governor campaigned for her unsuccessful bid to win a congressional seat in western New York.

The next year she repaid the political debt, becoming the first New York Democrat with an official sounding title to endorse the unknown Georgian.

Now, she literally has the closest office to Carter in the West Wing of the White House. Aside from physical presence, however, there is a question about her sphere of influence.

Some White House aides describe her as having the least access to the president of any senior staff members.

She insists the relationship with Carter is a good one, calling him "my best friend in the whole world." However, when the president recently invited all of his senior staff members and their families to join him at Camp David, she was not included.

The slender presidential assistant stands a shade over five feet, with short, jet black hair that accents facial features which make her Italian heritage clear.

She wrinkles her forehead as she talks, often in staccatto sentences. Her large eyeglasses — shaped like a pair of twin circles — are often taken off and pointed to her listener as she drives home a point.

There are two areas that stand out in trying to search for reasons why Midge Costanza has problems. First, she publicly challenged Carter's anti-abortion stand to the point of organizing internal opposition. Washington, accustomed to unquestioning support of presidential decisions by White House staffers, was aghast.

Second, she was the only White House aide to suggest that Bert Lance resign as budget director — a view not popular with the "good ole boys" of the so-called "Georgia Mafia."

"One of the things that's very important to me is that when I leave — whether that be in four years or eight years, that's up to the president — I want to leave knowing who I am," she said as she sat in her office amid stacks of paper.

"I can't keep changing to please a lot of people," she said. "I'll never recognize myself if I did that. I have to be me."

"I am responsible for what I think," she says with a determined expression on her face. "If I wish to express what I think on any given question that's given to me, I don't stop and consider why aren't my colleagues saying this."

Ms Costanza is aware that her White House colleagues are aiming barbs at her: "I have heard that they are but no one has bothered to tell me about it."

Then the tough exterior gives a hint of breaking down. There is moisture in the eyes, but discipline refuses to permit tears.

"I work for the president, not the junior staff members. They have a right to their opinion ...I don't have much use for people who through anonymity criticize others."

She is convinced that the unkind words do not come from fellow senior staff members. Her loyalty allows for no doubt that the comments come from "little trees, round radios and pear-shaped radios and several that look like toasters.

Considering radio's importance, said Carole Hogben of the museum's staff, "it is surprising that no special exhibition of this scope would appear to have been mounted before."

Maybe so. Radio, after all, was the first mass entertainment — free and in the home. It speeded that world-shrinking process that now makes the whole globe a village.

"What we are celebrating in this exhibition," Miss Hogben says, "is the kind of receivers that one used to have at home when they first brought the world's sounds to our doorstep, and which can never be replaced in quite that unique form."

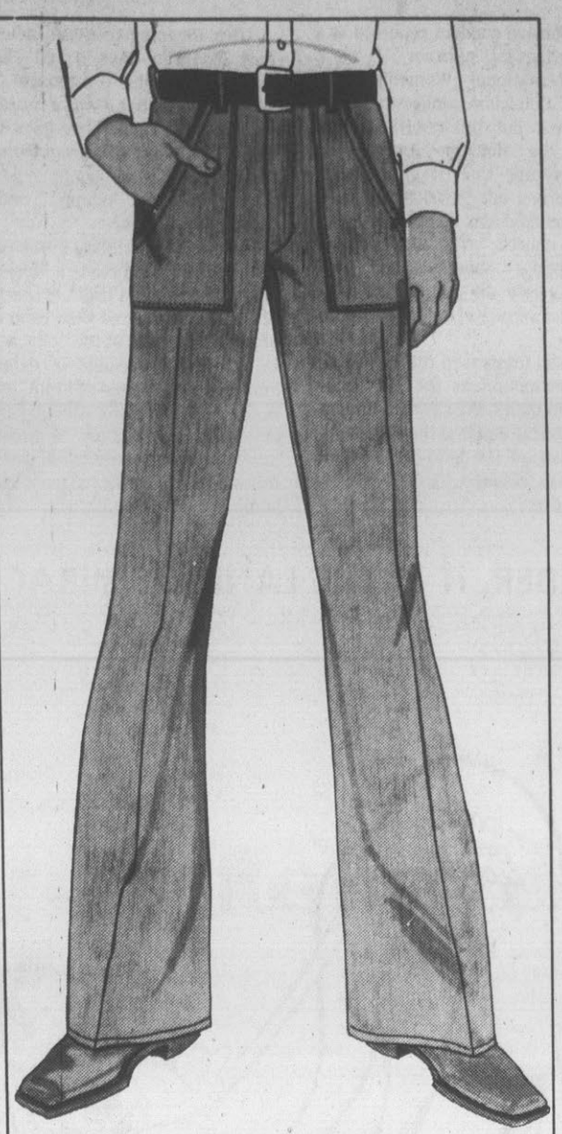

This nostalgic study of "classic" radios, she said, is practically virgin territory.

"Hardly any manufacturers with a history behind them have preserved any early examples of their products." There are no books, no archives and — almost needless to say — "few museums have yet begun collecting electrical 'brown goods'," named for the prevailing color of their plastic.

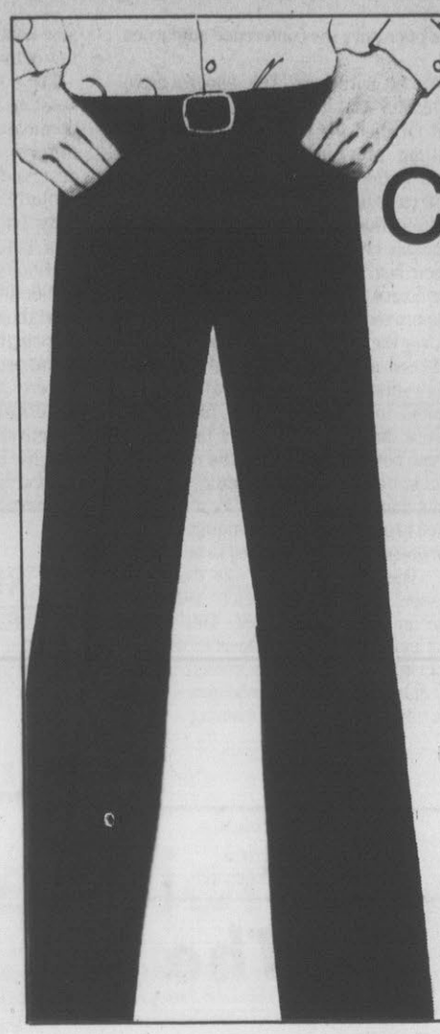

So the field of early radios is a "paradise for the amateur enthusiast, collector and historian." This exhibition comes mostly from them.

Especially from the British Vintage Wireless Society, organized last year as a tuned-in band of fanatics who believe any radio is lovable.

One of its members has 600 sets crowding him and his relatives out of house and home. There is a National Wireless Museum of old radios in the Isle of Wight. A few stalls in London antique markets now sell nothing else.

Educator's Dilemma...

deciding whether a child's being taken from his peer group will harm his ability to learn. If "We're told to measure a child against his capacity the child that is really doing his best, it would be much easier," said Alford.

Area educators also said that they feel the bad connotations surrounding retention in the past may have caused an increase in the number of promotions.

Alford said that trends in education tend to sway with public opinion.

"We've been in a decade of liberalism. Now we're entering a decade of conservatism," he added.

Alford noted that due to public criticism, or concern, the number of promotions will probably decrease.

Ann Burkes, chairperson for the English and Social Science department and Coordinator of Reading at Pitt Technical Institute, said she agrees with the idea that the bad feelings surrounding retention in past years may have influenced educators.

"We've had a stigma on retention and failure...If we began to retain students, then there would not be this stigma," she added.

"If the public genuinely wants students to read, then they'll have to retain."

She added, however, that this would require more reading lab instructors and, therefore, more money.

"The state must be willing to give money for this."

Burkes noted that many educators feel that smaller class sizes result in more personal attention for the students and fewer retentions. But that takes money, too.

"It's not easy to answer the problem of social promotions," said Dr. Douglas R. Jones, chairman of the East Carolina University Education department.

"The term has bad connotations. In some places it is used wisely, and in others it is used incorrectly," said Jones.

He added that the whole point of the question of social promotions is what happens to the child after he is either promoted or retained.

"Every teacher and parent should keep the youngsters feeling successful. The grade level doesn't really matter."

Jones added that it is the job of the educator, not to play the role of the absolutist, sticking strictly to the academic lines of promotion or retention, but to "move the child along at a constant rate and to help him maintain a "good" feeling about himself.

"He needs to reach some goals in order to be a better citizen. We need to forget about social promotions, as such, and think about the individual child."

Factors Revealed In Research On Milfoil

BARCO, N.C. (AP) — Commercial fishing apparently is not endangered by a fast-spreading seaweed called milfoil, researchers say.

The plant which flourishes in Currituck Sound, does pose a danger to crabs since it can drop oxygen levels in the water, according to a six-month study conducted by Sea Grant, a seven-year-old program of the University of North Carolina.

The program is funded by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

The study was instituted after area residents expressed concern that the plant would ruin fishing in the sound. Sea Grant researchers also heard reports of dead catches by crabbers.

However, the preliminary data, which will officially be presented to the public Dec. 1, gave researchers "pretty good ideas that milfoil does not interfere with the numbers of fish," said Sea Grant Director B.J. Copeland.

The milfoil has moved into the area relatively recently. Researchers were able to compare the numbers of fish in three coves in 1965, before milfoil appeared, to the fish levels of August, 1977.

A secondary concern of residents was that the seaweed would provide choice breeding areas for flies and mosquitoes. Preliminary findings indicate that horseflies do breed in the weeds, although not a large extent.

In a separate study of milfoil's possible commercial uses, an East Carolina University graduate student found that horses like to eat it. Don Caraey mowed the underwater fields of seaweed and fed it to horses at Bell's Island.

Culture Week Being Observed Beginning Monday

"Celebration 1977: A tribute to North Carolina achievements in Arts and Letters" begins Monday as the state observes the 64th annual Culture Week from Nov. 28 through December 3.

The annual events will bring together persons distinguished in the arts as well as members and guests of a dozen different organizations interested in the fields of history, literature, music and art.

One of the highlights of the week will be the presentation of the 14th annual N.C. Awards. Also taking place is the 40th annual artists exhibition.

The public is invited to attend all open sessions. Unless otherwise indicated, they will be held in the Hotel Hilton, 1707 Hillsborough Street in Raleigh.

A summary of main events during the week shows:

— Monday, Nov. 28 — 11 a.m., N.C. Museum of Art, hanging of the portrait of Queen Elizabeth II, in honor of her Silver Jubilee Year. — 7 p.m., Civic Center, presentation by Gov. Hunt of the N.C. Awards, the highest honor the state can bestow upon its citizens. Five persons will be honored.

— Tuesday, Nov. 29 — N.C. Dept. of Cultural Resources Secretary Sara Hodgkins will address the N.C. Museum Council; and David Quinn, professor of history, University of Liverpool, England, will speak at the meeting of the Roanoke Island Historical Association. Tuesday will also mark the 21st annual meeting of the N.C. Federation of Music Clubs, and will feature performances of winning compositions and presentation of awards and scholarships.

These are: — Dec. 1, 2, 3, and 8, 9, and 10 — Old Salem — Candle Teas, sponsored by the Women's Fellowship of Home Moravian Church, from 2 to 9 p.m., at the Single Brothers House.

— Dec. 9 — Wilmington — Lighting of the world's largest living Christmas tree, a stately live oak which botanists place at about 400 years old.

— Dec. 13 — Old Salem — "Salem Christmas 1800" with sights and sounds of the Moravian congregation town of Salem in 1800.

— Dec. 17 — Kill Devil Hills — Annual celebration of the Wright Brothers' first flight, with the First Flight Society.

— Dec. 17 — Charlotte — A 26 mile, 385 yard marathon through the streets of Charlotte, sponsored by "The Charlotte Observer."

— Dec. 18 — New Bern — A special Christmas outing of the gardens at Tryon Palace, free to the public, with hot cider and cookies to be served.

— Dec. 21-26 — Fontana — Christmas in the Smokies will be celebrated at Fontana Village Resort.

— Dec. 24 — Old Salem — Christmas Eve lovefeasts at Home Moravian Church, at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. for children and at 5 and 7:45 p.m. for adults.

Adopt-A-Pet

Duchess, a year-and-a-half old female purebread Border Collie is this week's Adopt-A-Pet.

Her former owners say she is "very loving and friendly, loves people" and is used to living on a farm where she can run and play.

Duchess is black, with a white front, paws, and nose. And she has been spaded.

Mrs. Jeanette Fiore, Humane Society president, is the person to call if one wishes to adopt Duchess or any other pet. Her phone number is 758-0468.

Reduced fee spaying certificates are provided with all pets placed, upon request.

Last week the Humane Society gave away four puppies, two cats, and two kittens.

Also this week other animals available for adoption include five eight-week-old puppies that will grow into small dogs, suitable for apartments, nine puppies that are half-shepard, half-collie, one male dog, a year-and-ahalf that is over 100 pounds, ten seven-month old cats, and four kittens.

Kelly To Be Speaker At ACS Meet

Dan Kelly of Greenville will speak during the annual fall dinner of the Pitt County Unit of the American Cancer Society Tuesday at 7 p. m. at Western Sizzling Steakhouse here.

Kelly will talk to the group about becoming involved with the counseling of dying persons and their families and other loved ones. His daughter, Lauretta, died of cancer earlier this year.

Presently coordinator of consultation and education at the Pitt County Mental Health Center, he has lectured extensively on death and dying and has counseled with families of the terminally ill. Prior to coming to Greenville two years ago, he was in charge on an Occupational Alcohol Abuse Control Program in Vermont.

He is a graduate of Wagner College, Staten Island, N. Y. and has attended graduate school at the University of Vermont and Boston University. He is a painter who for years had a studio in Greenwich Village, New York City.

He is now serving as temporary chairman of the Advisory Board of the Greenville Women's Correction Facility.

Anyone interested in attending the dinner, not already committed, is invited to contact Mrs. Hugh Carroll, Unit Director, or Dr. Emmett Walsh, President.

'Flash' Synopsis

The new comic strip which began last Sunday picks up in the middle of a story sequence. Here is a synopsis of the story as furnished by King Features Syndicate: G

As the story opens, on a remote star system an underground "tower" bursts through the earth onto a peaceful countryside. The curious peasants are violently subdued and rounded up by the marauding Skorpi who have been at war with distant worlds for 2,000 years. They devastate planet after planet and enslave the survivors.

Flash Gordon, Dr. Zarkov and Dale, on an exploratory mission in a faster-than-light starship alight on a distant unexplored planet. Leaving Dale with the crew, Flash and Dr. Zarkov enter a silent and devastated city. They look back at the sound of a foreign spacecraft leaving the vicinity where they had left their spaceship.

They rush back to find that Dale and the crew have been captured. The two intrepid spacemen switch to a captured Skorpi "sting-ship" which has more speed and maneuverability and is the fastest, deadliest ship in the known universe.

Trailing the slaveship, they land in the Skorpi empire. Flash sends insect-sized spy robots in search of the captives. Horrified, Flash sees a maltreated Dale turned into a slave to work in a uranium mine.

Flash jumps into the captured sting-ship and blasts the guards and armored units. Taking Dale, Flash destroys the enemy camp and liberates the slaves.

As they are about to return to their home planet, a new menace appears — a Skorpi black widow craft.

Hoping To Keep Skylab In Orbit

By United Press International

The United States rocketed an 84-ton space station called Skylab into orbit around the Earth on May 14, 1973, and during the next nine months it served as home for three-man crews for as long as 12 weeks at a time.

The Skylab program borrowed hardware and technology from the preceding Apollo moon landing project and demonstrated that men could live and work in weightless space for long periods of time.

Its scientific payoff was great. A powerful telescope aboard the 118-foot-long ship produced extraordinary photographs of the sun; it studied the comet Kohoutek; a special array of cameras and sensors looked down to study Earth resources; an electric furnace processed materials in ways they could not be worked on Earth and other instruments carried out a variety of experiments.

An accident during launch that ripped off a solar generating panel and jammed another gave astronauts an opportunity to prove they could carry out repairs in orbit to save a mission that cost $2.5 billion.

But the big spacecraft is still up there, circling the globe every hour and a half in an orbit more than 200 miles high. It is gradually dropping toward the Earth, however, under the drag of particles from the sun and very sparse fringes of Earth's upper atmosphere.

As it stands now, Skylab will reenter the thicker portions of the atmosphere sooner or later. The aerodynamic forces against the aluminum structure will cause it to break up and the friction of air rushing by it will cause much of it to burn up as it falls. Some pieces are expected to survive re-entry and hit the planet's surface.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration doesn't know when re-entry will occur, but scientists say it could happen anywhere from 1979 to sometime in the 1980s. The best guess is that it would return in 1981.

NASA, however, hopes to keep Skylab in orbit. The agency has plans to send its new space shuttle rocket plane up to Skylab in early 1980 to hook a special rocket pack to the space station to propel it into a higher orbit where it would last for many more years.

The composure was back. She could be back campaigning on New York City's tough street corners, or in Florida or California, as she did.

"By God, when you meet me, like me or not, you better know it's based on reality," she said with a renewed determination. "I've either given you a real reason to like me, or a real reason not to like me, but there's no in between."

Annual Plea By CARE

NEW YORK (UPI) — For every dollar the public donated to CARE last year, the international aid and development agency delivered more than $9 worth of aid, says executive director Frank L. Goffio.

Individual contributions help the agency obtain United States government Food-for-Peace farm commodities for distribution to needy families in developing countries.

They also help provide materials, equipment and training for villagers to build schools, water systems, health and nutrition centers and agricultural projects to grow more food.

At Christmas, CARE's seasonal gift card plan enables donors to send money to the agency in other people's names. Donations are acknowledged with attractive red and white greeting cards that donors can mail themselves, or that the agency will mail for them.

Names and addresses of donors' gift lists should be sent with a contribution for each card to CARE, Dept. HOL, Box 570, New York, N.Y. 10016 or to any regional CARE office. If you want the agency to do the mailing, indicate how each card should be signed.

CB Repair For Professionals

Incompetent repair can bring the owner a citation, says Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Be sure to find a licensed repairer, because compliance with government rules is your responsibility," she said.

Common problems are failure of the final output and audio output transistors and broken microphone wires.

Rochester's Hard-Boiled Prof

EDITOR'S NOTE — It's something akin to Tiffany's selling rhinestones or Seattle Slew pulling a hansom cab. George Grella, well-versed college teacher of literature — ancient and modern — says detective stories are among the best.

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Newsfeatures Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — On the door near the end of the hall is a sign: SAM SPADE, HARD-BOILED DICK.

Inside hangs a trench coat and a black and white Humphrey Bogart poster, his chilling stare directed at the bare radiator across the small room. From such settings unfold so many great detective stories ... "I was sitting in my office, nursing a hangover, when through the door waltzed ..."

Our tousled hero here, however, is not Sam Spade, super sleuth, but George Grella, aficionado of the detective novel par excellence. Also doctor of philosophy, teacher of literature, Son of Italy, would-be shortstop.

Alas, instead of the expected sloop-brimmed fedora and sagging gray suit, he is festooned in a collision of green plaids covering an "Italia" T-shirt and a corduroy jacket bearing "Italian Power" and "Dodgers" buttons on opposite lapels. The desk drawer that should conceal a .38 and a bottle of booze — as vital to the American private eye novel as the curvaceous blonde — holds instead a fielder's mitt and a bottle of neat's foot oil. Where wanted posters should be are photos of King Kong, the Los Angeles Dodgers and the poet John Crowe Ransom. What should be bare walls, save for the peeling paint, are shelves of books spilling to the chairs and floor.

In this incongruous hideaway at the University of Rochester, George Grella conducts his love affair with literature, ancient and modern. He talks of authors and characters as if they were old friends. But it is to the chillers, thrillers and killers of popular writing that he devotes special attention, in lectures and essays now being expanded into a book. And of his favorite characters — the hard-boiled detectives of American fiction — he speaks almost with empathy.

"The detective in these hard-boiled novels is not one of those gentlemen who comes down from London and solves the crime, and his hobbies are foreign languages and playing the harpsichord. He's an underpaid, suffering sort of person, tough and sensitive and honorable. It's not so much that he dishes out violence. It's that he suffers violence. He's a stoic sufferer. He's tough enough to take it.

"He's also tough in a moral way. Tough seems to mean that he's initiated into the sinfulness of his society, into the falseness and deception in it. And the wisecrack indicates a lot of things, the quick wit of the detective, his intelligence, his imperviousness to the kinds of things that the phony society shows him. I'm a great believer in wisecracks and good lines myself."

This sounds more like academic drivel than the whodunit excitement associated with drugstore pulp, but Grella says it's the stuff that makes the mystery novel such an enduring American diversion.

"It's a quest more than the penetration of a puzzle. There's almost no puzzle to these things. What we are about are the characters and scenes, because they are usually so well done. This quest is really more for some truth. It's a romance. The mystery itself gets pushed aside. The detective is really not interested in clues, fingerprints, because he knows the police can do that better than he can. What he's really interested in is character. He knows people."

If Grella has a quest of his own — and he would wince at the suggestion — it's to recognize in popular fiction that which is good.

"I wish I could tell you the test for great literature. Raymond Chandler, Ross MacDonald, Dashiell Hammett (all creators of hard-boiled detectives) — I think those novels are definitely mainstream literature."

English writers borrowed the detective structure and applied it to the manners of their country, where class distinctions were more pronounced, he says. The English murder mystery, which Grella calls the formal detective story, usually has as its villain a cad who doesn't belong to the aristocratic set into which he intrudes under some guise. When his crime is exposed and he is carted off by the constable, it is the triumph of society — usually expressed as a small group enjoying a leisurely weekend at a country mansion — over the outcast.

When the detective story was taken up again in America earlier this century, the pronounced class distinctions were missing, Grella says, although social class as a theme pops up now and again, notably today in television's Columbo. There the hero is an unmannered guy with a shabby raincoat whose crooks always seem to be rich.

Notwithstanding the Sam Spade sign tacked to his door by a student, Grella rarely flops back in his squeaky chair in reverie, identifying with the detective he's reading about. Yet if the American detective is a wounded innocent, a seeker of truth, a ruffian in gentleman's clothes, a wisecracker, so too is George Grella.

He is articulate, analytical, an omnivorous reader, a tough grader and he thinks of himself as an orthodox literary critic. But his interests don't seem to fit the popular notion of a scholar.

Like the time he ordered a baseball book for the university library. "Baseball is one of the biggest things in my life. It's like books. I still suffer the agonies of rooting for the Dodgers. Baseball is as much a part of our culture as literature or painting or dance. It's one of the great American things, and it expresses the best in our culture."

Surrounded by his books, writing his own detective novel when time permits, Grella is happy and feels lucky.

"Where I come from, a lower middle-class Italian background, most guys are not happy with what they do. I'm one of the few people I know where I come from who works at a job he really loves."

Fire-Proofing Tips For Home

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fire is like the weather. Many people talk about it, but precariously few do anything about it, says Glen E. Jorgensen, whose company is a major source of home improvement financing.

Sixty-two hundred persons died in fires last year, and property losses totaled more than $3.5-billion, said Jorgensen, president of CIT Financial Services. The company's current customer publication offers these fire prevention tips:

Make certain everyone in your house, including babysitters, knows the location of the nearest fire alarm box. Keep the phone numbers of the fire and police departments beside the telephone.

Plan escape routes from all parts of the house or apartment. Tell everyone how to evacuate the building in case of fire.

Install at least two workable home fire extinguishers within easy reach. Check them monthly to see they are fully charged.

Screen fireplaces.

Store refuse in containers made from non-flammable material.

Store flammable liquids in safety cans.

Avoid multiple connections in wall outlets.

Keep outside venting ducts clean.

Keep your basement, garage and other such areas free of combustible materials.

Keep matches out of the reach of children.

Have your heating plant and chimneys cleaned and serviced annually.

Check for and replace worn out or frayed electrical wiring.

Use fire-retardant curtains and bedding.

Consider installing a reliable fire or smoke detector system.

Use fuses of the proper amperage for the circuits they protect.

Clear away weeds, brush and other debris around the house.

Keep a box of sand stored in a handy place to fight oil or gas fires.

Priority Needs

A number of high-priority needs for volunteers exist in Greenville, in addition to continuing needs of a routine nature.

The needs for which assistance at this time is most essential are:

— Transportation for taking clients who live in the county to the Health Department.

— Assistants to help with clerical and casework load at the Vocational Rehabilitation Center.

— Groups to help needy families during Christmas by providing food baskets and gifts for children.

Persons interested in providing these or other volunteer services or wishing more information are to contact Nancy Harrington, 752-4137, extension 285.

Lost Colony Touring Unit

RALEIGH — A $4,000 planning grant for a multi-media touring production of The Lost Colony has been given to the Roanoke Island Historical Association.

The touring production, designed for school grades 5-12, will emphasize classroom experience in performing arts, literature and history.

In announcing the grant, N.C. Department of Cultural Resources Secretary Sara W. Hogkins said, "We are delighted that the department can aid in the planning of this production which will make an important part of North Carolina's history come alive to so many school children across our state."

Gospel Chorus Sings Sunday

The Community Gospel Chorus of Greenville will present a pre-Christmas program of 100 voices Sunday, November 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church. The Rev. J. H. Taylor III will be at the organ, and the Rev. O'Kelly Lawson will be the speaker. The public is invited.

AIMED AT SOCCER FANS

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Unruly people in Bogota auditoriums and stadiums could find themselves behind bars for 24 hours under terms of a new law. The new regulation is aimed at providing a basis for punishment of fans causing disturbances at soccer games.

Ballet To Premiere In Farmville

FARMVILLE — An original ballet by Greenville's Christina Williams is being presented by the Farmville Arts Society and will receive its premiere performance at 3 p.m. Sunday, December 4 in the auditorium of Farmville Central High School.

The ballet, La Reconciliation, is choreographed by Ms. Williams and is being danced by members of her Ballet Arts Workshop in Greenville. Music for the dance is drawn from a variety of sources, including such well-known classics as Coppelia, The Sleeping Beauty, and Graduation Ball.

Speaking about the story thread that ties the dances together, Ms. Williams states "the story is as old as the world but is also prophetic of the future.

"Action revolves around man's age-old struggle with the material world. Ancients thought that nature was composed of four basic elements — earth, air, fire, and water. They felt that each of these elements had its distinctive spirit."

Spirits traditionally assigned to each element of nature, Ms. Williams explained, "is that air had its sylphes, fire its salamanders. For the earth, there were gnomes and for water, ondines."

Early man held a belief that man's struggle was linked to these spirits. "Though long-lived, they had no immortal soul," Ms. Williams said, "so they had to gain a soul by attracting the love of a human, and did everything in their power to draw men to themselves. For men there was a risk in this, the danger they would become so enamored of the material world they would lose sight of their own spiritual nature." of the ballet. "I'm an optimist," Ms. Williams declares, "that's where the prophetic part of the ballet comes in. As I see it there's one thing that can bind all discordant elements together, the spirit of love. That is what happens in La Reconciliation.

Dancers performing in the ballet are: Crystal Collins and Bonnie Correll, salamanders; Janet Duffy and Dianne Haynie, ondines; Cyndy Latham and Brooke Sharpe, gnomes; Leigh Messner and Patricia Bath, sylphes; and humans — Jerri Bullock, Beth Mann, Susan Vick, Marcia Stevens, Genia Bohannon, Hannah Taft, Pam Jeffers, and Sharon Creson.

Ms. Williams dances the role of the Spirit of Love.

Costume design is by Sharon and Ken Creson, with sound by Tom Williams and lights by Fred Burgess.

The Farmville Arts Council, formed in March of this year, now has a membership of 230. The council, one of more than 70 in North Carolina, is assisted by the N.C. Arts Council and the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources.

THE SPIRIT OF LOVE . . . One of the dances to be performed in the production of "La Reconciliation" is "The Spirit of Love." Soloist Christina Williams (center) is shown rehearsing with six members of the corps de ballet. The ballet will premiere at 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4 at Farmville Central High School, under the auspices of the Farmville Arts Council. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

New Cinema Series Set

The second series of The Cinema Society of Greenville will begin in January and run until mid-April, with six outstanding films to be presented.

Again, like the first series, tickets are available only by subscription for the package of six, with no individual tickets to be sold.

The price is $6 for the six films. Subscriptions must be purchased by December 15th. Checks are to be made payable to: The Cinema Society of Greenville and are to be sent in care of The English Department, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834, attention Bill Stephenson or Peter Makuck.

Dates of showing are all on Sundays. Show time is at 8 p.m. in the auditorium at the Jenkins Fine Arts Center.

Movies to be shown and dates are:

— Jan. 29 — The Discreet Charm of the Bourgeoisie — A social comedy about upper-crust Parisians who only want to dine together — but life keeps intervening. With Fernando Rey and Delphine Seyrig. An Academy Award winner.

— Feb. 12 — Walkabout — Considered one of the great "sleeper" films of the 70's. The story of two European children abandoned in the Australian outback, and of the aborigine boy who helps them survive.

— Feb. 26 — Not A Pretty Picture — An autobiographical film by Martha Coolidge. The story of her own attempt to confront feelings about being raped when she was 16 and living at a boarding school. Honored at the American Film Festival.

— Mar. 19 — Chloe in the Afternoon — Eric Rohmer's witty, sophisticated comedy about love and commitment, in which a happy French couple find their life set topsy-turvy by a leading film star.

— Apr. 2 — Aguirre the Wrath of God — The tale of a party of Spanish gold-seekers during the conquest of Peru who became lost on a tributary of the Amazon. With Klaus Kinski in the lead role. Considered the foremost work of the German film renaissance of the 1970's.

— Apr 16 — The Conformist — Director Bernardo Bertolucci's classic based on a novel by Alberto Moravia. An upper-class youth is caught in the dilemma of having to demonstrate loyalty and conformity to Italy in its Fascist days by assassinating his former professor. Stars Jean-Lous Trintignant, Stefania Sandrelli and Dominique Sanda.

Cloggers Celebration To Be Held Dec. 3

The Second Annual Green Grass Cloggers Day Celebration for 1977 is being held this year on Saturday, December 3, beginning at 10 a.m. and continuing until midnight.

The celebration, a joint event of the Roxy Music Arts and Crafts Center and East Carolina University, will be in Wright Auditorium.

Admission is $4 for all day ($3 to Roxy members); $2 for the workshop only, which will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and $3 for the concert only. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

The workshop is in three divisions — the Music Workshop; the Clogging Workshop; and the Appalachian Dance Workshop.

Ten groups from several states will be on hand to perform and to pay tribute to the Cloggers. Some are music groups, others are primarily dancing groups.

These are: Sweet Water String Band, Magpie, The New Five Cents, and The Footloose Cloggers, all of Washington, D. C.; Holly Van Auken McKee of Ohio; The Fall City Ramblers of Indiana; Plank Road String Band, Lexington, Va.; The Henrys of Rochester, N. Y.; the Cub Hill Cloggers of Baltimore; and the Flatland Cloggers of Norfolk, Va.

The Green Grass Cloggers of Greenville is a winner of the "World Champion Traditional Cloggers" and has been cited by Mayor Percy Cox "for having consistantly and unselfishly contribued their talents to charitable, correctional, and social institutions throughout North Carolina."

Tuesday Lecture

Nobel Peace Prize nominee Beate Klarsfeld, known internationally as a relentless Nazi-hunter, will lecture at East Carolina University on Tuesday, November 29, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 244, Mendenhall Student Center. There is no admission charge.

Karlsfeld's lecture and other public appearances here are sponsored by the ECU Hillel, of which Dr. Bramy Resnik is advisor and coordinator.

A native of Berlin, Klarsfeld was born in 1939. Reared in the Christian faith, she was a child during the height of the Nazi regime.

It was not until her arrival in Paris in 1960 that she learned about Nazism and the full extent of the horrors it perpetrated. In 1963 she married Serge Klarsfeld, a Jew whose father had died in the gas chambers of Auschwitz.

Ms. Klarsfeld's plunge into active public life began in 1968. That was the year she mounted a West Berlin podium and delivered "the slap heard around the world" to the face of KurtGeorge Kiesinger, then Chancellor of West Germany. At the price of her own arrest (and a one-year prison sentence), she focused world attention on Kiesinger's background as a Nazi. He was defeated in the next election.

Beate Klarsfeld

Since then, avowing to bring to justice the murderers of millions of Jews, Beate Klarsfled and her husband have compiled a list of hundreds of suspected Nazis still at large.

She has written a book about her battle against Nazism, Wherever They May Be. She was nominated for the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize for her continuing actions against anti-semitism, against the impunity of Nazi criminals, and for her work in favor of peace between Arab states and Israel.

To Give Recital Here

Flutist Brooks de Wetter-Smith and pianist Jane Whang, both faculty members of UNC-Chapel Hill, will be in recital at the A. J. Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow, November 28. There is no charge and the public is invited to attend.

Compositions to be featured in the recital are Handel's Sonata in A Minor, Opus 1, No. 4; Cesar Franck's Sonata in A Major; Toru Takemitsu's Voice for Solo Flutist; and Kamillo Lendvay's Quattro Duetti.

In additon to the recital, Wetter-Smith is scheduled to conduct a master class for advanced flute students. This will be from 3 to 5 p.m.

de Wetter-Smith is a graduate of the New England Conservatory and is a candidate for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree from the Eastman School of Music.

Ms. Whang, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College and the Yale School of Music.

Riley Recital

Jackie Riley, an East Carolina University music major from Tarboro, will present her senior piano recital at 9 p.m. Tuesday, December 6, in the Recital Hall of the A. J. Fletcher Music Center. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Her program will include Mozart's Adagio in B Minor,; Shubert Schubert's Impromptu in E; Chopin's Nocturne in C and two works by Bartok.

Hospitality House

Hospitality House, the Kay Currie interview show on WITN-TV, Channel 7, will be on the air today from 12:30 to 1 p.m. The theme of today's show is "A Thanksgiving Weekend Special" and was filmed in the kitchen of New Bern's Tryon Palace.

With Kay is a palace hostess, Mamie Miller. The two talk about cooking utensils of the 18th century, and discuss vegetables and herbs popular in those days.

Another guest, Jo Aiken, gives a history of old needlepoint techniques, from which today's needlepoint has derived.

Carrying out the historical period in music, the Craven Consort, conducted by Roger Bennett, gives a recital of of 18th century music on alto recorders.

Two Potters At East Of Ayden

AYDEN — "East of Ayden" is the appropriate name given by two young potters — Ed Weintraub and Steve Reynolds — to their pottery studio located on Highway 102 about three miles east of Ayden.

Like many other craftsmen inspired by the contemporary renaissance in hand crafted products fashioned of the earth's most common material, clay, these two young men express an affinity for objects made of earth for man's everyday use, as well as for items that are decorative and have the stamp of individuality.

For them, too, the role that techniques play is as important as the art factor when they create a pot, bowl, or vase.

It was techniques these two concentrated on recently on a warm November morning when they opened a kiln of new work following a successful firing.

"Our kiln is a gas-fired, reducing atmosphere kiln capable of firing stoneware and porcelain," Weintraub explained. "It's a 50 cubic foot kiln."

Reynolds noted that "we can fire about 100 pieces of different sizes in one firing. Usually we will have pieces with seven or eight different glazes in one firing, ranging from matts to glossy."

Weintraub, who has a masters degree in ceramics from East Carolina University, and Reynolds, who has studied at NCSU, Meredith and ECU, are full-time potters — even though Reynolds devotes several hours each day to his job as a motor-route carrier for "The Daily Reflector."

"Firing takes places every two or three weeks, Reynolds, a native of Ayden, said.

"We each spend a couple of weeks making things," Weintraub said, "until we have enough pieces to fill the kiln."

Pieces shaped from clay, green ware, are first fired to set and harden them. This is done at a temperature of about 1,700 degrees. The second firing is made after glazes have been applied, and temperatures are higher, ranging in the 2,400 degree range.

Opening the kiln after firing, especially after the second firing which will reveal the degree of success attained in getting the desired patterns and colors from glazes, is an exciting time for the two.

"After the heat is turned off, it's several hours before the kiln is cool enough to begin opening it," Weintraub said.

"It's slow, hot work," Reynolds added. At the time, he was carefully removing bricks that form the opening to the kiln, stacking them gently. "These are special fire bricks, and we stack them to form a nine inch thick double layer." The bricks, if handled properly and not broken, can be re-used to build up the kiln door.

With several firings behind them, Weintraub and Reynolds have decided they have accumulated enough pieces to have a studio exhibition and sale. This will be a two-day affair, Saturday and Sunday, December 10 and 11. The public is being invited to visit the exhibition, which will include work by both potters. There is no admission charged.

Jerry Raynor

OPENING THE KILN . . . When firing a kiln of work is completed, and it has cooled sufficiently, it is opened slowly and carefully. Ed Weintraub (left) keeps a check on contents while Steve Reynolds stacks the still warm bricks. Their studio, named "East of Ayden" is located three miles east of Ayden.

FROM SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

By JOE R. STINES

The legend of Jesse James comes to life as author John Ernest explains how a Missouri farm boy could become a notorious outlaw, and how a notorious outlaw could become a national hero. He describes James's method of robbery: his way with words, his skill as a horseman, his ability to lead his accomplices through hostile country and impossible situations. He explores the impact of the Civil War on a border state boy, who came to accept violence and revenge as an acceptable way of life. JESSE JAMES (Prentice-Hall, 1976) is an exciting story told from a sober perspective.

SONG OF THE TREES by Mildred Taylor is based on an incident that actually occurred in her family. Depression times were hard in Mississippi and jobs were scarce. Cassie's father, David, had gone to Louisiana to lay tracks for the railroad. That was when the trouble started. With David at home, Mr. Anderson would never have dared cheat Big Ma by forcing her to sell the beloved trees for practically nothing.

This work preceded Taylor's 1977 Newberry Winner, ROLL OF THUNDER, HEAR MY CRY, which was also centered around Cassie Logan and her family. SONG OF THE TREES is short, simple but a true reading experience.

Another addition to Sheppard's children collection is GREEDY MARIANI AND OTHER FOLKTALES OF THE ANTILLES by Dorothy Carter. Humor and wisdom, greediness and stupidity, courage and cowardice, success and failure fill these varied and interesting stories — twenty in all — that reflect the countries from which they have been gathered. Storytellers will find this collection to be a splendid source of new material. Trina Hyman has caught perfectly the irreverent spirit of the book in her outstanding black line illustrations.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS PAGEANT EVER by Barbara Robinson is now available at the children's library. This is a very funny and memorable story of an outrageous family of children who discover the Christmas story and help everyone rediscover its meaning. The Herdmans — Ralph, Imogene, Leory, Claude, Ollie, and Gladys — are horrible. They do awful things like finding out everybody's weight in order to blackmail the fat kids, and threatening to stuff pussy willows in their enemies' ears. They are the terrors of the public school, and it's hardly surprising when they extend their reign of terror to Sunday school and take over the church's Christmas pageant. They have never heard the Christmas story before, and their interpretation, which includes beating up Herod promises disaster. The actual pageant is full of surprises for everyone, including the Herdmans. THE BEST CHRISTMAS PAGEANT EVER offers Christmas humor as well as spiritual blessings.

Tuesday Reading For Poet Sewell

Poet-author Elizabeth Sewell will give a reading of her poetry at 8 p.m. Tuesday, December 6, at the Methodist Student Center, 501 East Fifth Street.

A poet and author who has also had extensive teaching experience, her most recent post was that of Joe Rosenthal Professor of Humanities in the Religious Studies Department at UNC-Greensboro.

Born in India of British parents, her early years were alternated between south Asia and England. During World War II she served as a civil servant with the Ministry of Education and also earned a degree at Newnham College, Cambridge, taking first class honors in modern languages. She earned both the M.A. and Ph.D from Cambridge University, and holds honorary degrees from St. Peter's College and from Fordham University.

She has taught in several American colleges and in Canada.

Ms. Sewell's poetry includes the volumes The Orphic Voice, Poems, 1947-1961, and Signs and Cities. She has to her credit three novels; and several volumes of literary criticism, among which are The Structure or Poetry, Paul Valery.

Exhibited In Georgia

Three students in the East Carolina University School of Art had work in a recent invitational exhibition at the University of Georgia, Athens. The exhibit, supported by Riegel Textile Corp., was held in conjunction with the southeastern conference of the Surface Design Association.

The three were Charlotte Purrington, Kim Irwin, and Sue Wyre. Purrington and Irwin each won awards in the competition.

Sara Edmiston, chairman of the ECU School of Art's Department of Design appeared on the conference program as a representative of the association. Other ECU delegates to the conference were faculty member Dorothy Satterfield and student Pamela Freeman.

Yearns For Poet's Bones

By JOEL EPSTEIN

ROSH HA'AYIN, Israel (AP) — In this sleepy town, where the car has yet to replace the donkey cart, people are yearning for the bones of their national poet.

A suburb of Tel Aviv, Rosh Ha'ayin is populated by 15,000 Jews of Yemenite origin. Although they have lived in modern Israeli society for 27 years, they still hold fast to the old customs.

Many women still bake the Sabbath loaf in a stone oven Friday afternoon. Sheep graze in vacant lots across from apartment blocks, and chickens scratch in the narrow lawns.

The Jews of Yemen immigrated en masse to Israel in 1950, bringing with them a rich cultural heritage. Part of that heritage was the poetry of the 17th-century religious leader and mystic, Shalom Shabazi.

"Shabazi? Of course I know him," said 16-year-old Yoel Okashi, and started singing a wheedling chant in guttural Yemenite Hebrew. Yoel had never learned the lines in school, he said. But, "Shabazi's love songs and poems about Jerusalem are well-known by everyone around here."

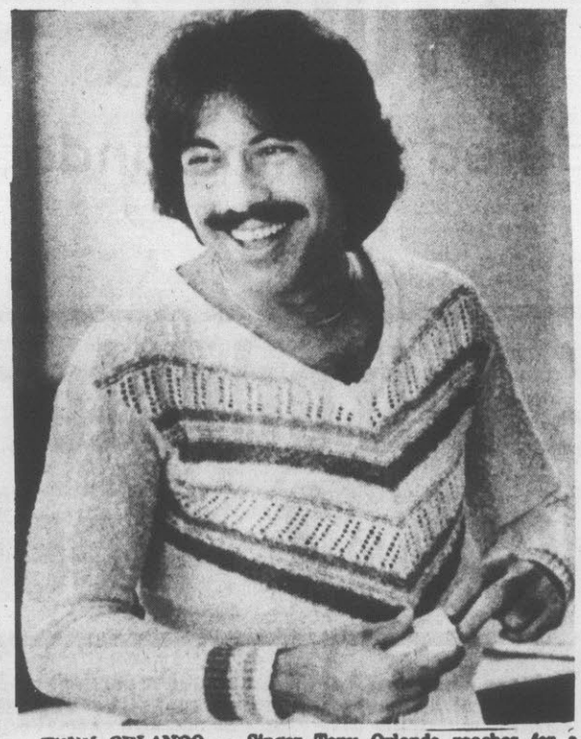

Many of Shabazi's poems express his yearning to settle in Jerusalem, the ancient capital of the Jews. Now a group of activists from Rosh Ha'ayin want to bring his tomb to Israel from Yemen.

"We read reports in Israeli newspapers that the Yemen government had desecrated Shabazi's tomb, paving a road over it," said the leader of the group, Tov Darhab. "We want to know if this is true, and we have started contacts to bring the tomb here."

Darhab's father was in charge of guarding the tomb before his family came to Israel. "Even the Moslems honored Shabazi," said Darhab. "When the sultan passed the tomb near Taiz, he would get off his horse, and circle the mausoleum three times before riding on."

More than a thousand Yemenite Israelis gathered in Rosh Ha'ayin recently to start their campaign for Shabazi's bones.

"For 300 years Shabazi has yearned to come to Israel. Now we hope to help him realize his dream," said Darhab.

Indiana Rally Halts ECU Upset Bid

ECU's Walter Moseley blocks shot by Indiana's Scott Eells, but Hoosiers win,75-59

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — A massive substitution play by University of Indiana coach Bobby Knight gave his Hoosiers a boost and brought a subdued crowd of 14,085 to life to help Indiana take a come-from-behind 73-59 victory over East Carolina yesterday.

After watching his team go from three points up at halftime to four points down with just over ten minutes left to play, Knight replaced his entire starting lineup and the change worked miracles. Indiana outscored the Pirates 15-3 down the stretch to win going away.

Before that, however, it looked as if ECU's Pirates just might pull a big upset in their initial encounter. Under first-year coach Larry Gillman, the Bucs fought the Hoosiers on even terms for three-quarters of the game and were only out of it in the final two minutes.

"This is the first time since I've been in coaching that I've substituted five guys in a tight game," Knight said following the contest.' "But the people that were playing weren't getting done what we had to have done."

So, the coach sent in Butch Carter, Jim Roberson, Phil Isenbarger, Scott Eells and Tommy Baker and the five underclassmen, including two freshmen, brought the team back to life.

Gillman, asked after the contest the best aspect of the Hoosier team, replied, "Bobby Knight."

"Bob Knight came into the dressing room and told our team how well it played. For our program, that was a real shot in the arm," Gillman added.

The young East Carolina coach blasted the game's officials in the dressing room. "There was a lot of inconsistancy in the officiating—but also in the play," he said. "I thought the officiating was terrible on both sides."

Gillman blamed mistakes made by both teams on the fact that it was the first game of the season. "Indiana will have a fine year," he concluded, "and so will East Carolina."

The Pirates, behind Herb Gray's 15 second-half points, took the fight to Indiana after intermission, building up a four-point lead at one point. Gray was the team's leading scorer with 24 points, while Oliver Mack finished with 16 after a poor 3-11 second half shooting performance.

Eells led Indiana with 14 points and Radford scored 12. Both teams shot poorly in the game, 36 per cent for ECU and 39 per cent for the Hoosiers.

Gray pulled down 13 rebounds and Greg Cornelius 10 to pace the ECU board game, while Ray Tolbert led Indiana with 13 caroms.

The Pirates were behind for most of the cold-shooting, low scoring first half, but managed to stay close and trailed by three points at intermission, 34-31.

It looked as if Indiana might stage a blow-out in the opening minutes of the contest. The Hoosiers scored the game's first four baskets to take an 8-0 lead with 17:39 on the clock.

Gillman then called a time-out to calm down his young team, which committed a number of turnovers in the first few minutes. That seemed to work as Mack hit a turn-around jumper to break the scoring ice for the Bucs and they added six straight points a few seconds later to pull to 10-8 on Mack's long jump shot with 15:02 left in the half.

Jim Wisman connected from the right side to extend the Hoosier lead to four points and, after a three-minute scoring drought, Steve Risley hit from the right side to make it 14-8.

But Mack and Walter Moseley made jump shots to cut the lead to just two and the Pirates tied it up at 18 following two buckets by Gray and two free throws from Mack.

Indiana's Bill Cunningham countered with a pair of jump shots to push the Hoosiers back in front by four and the teams traded baskets until Kyle Powers scored from the lane with 1:29 left in the half to give the Bucs their first lead of the game, 31-30.

Hoosier Wayne Radford then connected on a pair of jumpers, the second with just 16 seconds on the clock, to put Indiana ahead, 34-31, going into the second half.

East Carolina quickly regained the lead after intermission and held it for much of the second half. Powers hit the first shot after halftime to cut the Hoosier lead to 34-33 and then Mack added a jumper from the right side to put the Bucs ahead, 35-34.

Radford scored on a jumper from the foul line to put Indiana back in front, but Gray connected on two shots from the lane to make it 39-36 with 17:21 on the clock.

Mike Woodson kept Indiana close, scoring a pair of buckets, while Mack and Gray both hit for the Pirates. Risley then hit a follow shot and Radford a jumper from the left to give IU a 44-43 lead with 12:56 on the clock.

Over the next minute, Gray exploded for five points, four of them coming on excellent drives down the lane, to give ECU its biggest lead, 48-44 with 11:08 left.

Hoosier Cunningham hit from the right side to pull IU to within two and then Knight made his substitutions with 10:33 left, bringing the crowd to its feet when Jim Roberson hit from underneath to tie the game at 48.

A technical foul of Gillman allowed Scott Eells a trip to the foul line where his pair of free throws gave the Hoosiers the lead.

Moseley scored a layup on a fast break to tie the game again at 54 with 6:58 on the clock, but the Hoosiers got a pair of baskets and then, after Gray hit a jumper from the line, reeled off 13 straight points to put the Pirates away.

Penn State Nips Pitt, 15-13

By GARY MIHOCES
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Penn State turned back a two-point conversion run by fullback Elliott Walker with 12 seconds to play on a slick, snowswept field to give the Nittany Lions' a 15-13 victory over the University of Pittsburgh Saturday.

The victory raised ninth-ranked Penn State's record to 10-1, restored the Nittany Lions' Eastern football dominance, and gave them a measure of consolation for their Orange Bowl snub.

Tenth-ranked Pitt, which scored a touchdown with 12 seconds left on a 17-yard pass from Matt Cavanaugh to Gordon Jones, fell to 8-2-1.

The white field was spotted with foot prints when Pitt began its 48-yard touchdown drive with 40 seconds left in the final quarter. Cavanaugh hit two passes before finding Jones on the 17-yarder that pulled Pitt to within two points in the nationally televised clash.

As Walker bulled off left tackle on the conversion try, he was driven into the synthetic turf by Penn State sophomore tackle Matt Millen. Fans rushed onto the field as the officials signaled that Walker hadn't crossed the goal line, obliterated by the snow.

An onside kick try failed and Penn State ran out the clock and ran onto the field, led by Coach Joe Paterno, who wore a brown suit and no hat on the frigid sideline the entire day.

Although the wind-chill factor was near zero degrees at game time, the field was dry and Penn State quarterback Chuck Fusina threw a 48-yard pass to Jimmy Cefalo that set up a 34-yard field goal by Chris Bahr on the game's first series.

Later in the first quarter, Jones made a twisting, 42-yard punt return and caught a 21-yard pass to set up a 1-yard touchdown sneak by Cavanaugh that gave Pitt a 7-3 lead.

In the second quarter, a Cavanaugh fumble set up a 31-yard Bahr field goal.

Guman raced untouched to the end zone, and his last screen block came from Cefalo to give Penn State a 12-7 halftime lead.

After Guman's touchdown, Fusina slipped and fell short on a two-point conversion run.

The snow began falling about midway of the third quarter just after Leroy Felder intercepted a pass at midfield intended for Ron LaPointe, who entered the game at tight end in the second quarter after Mickey Shuler left the field on a stretcher with a back bruise.

Only a couple of inches of snow fell, but the dry powder lingered on the frozen field as both teams went scoreless the entire third quarter.

Bahr gave Penn State a 15-7 lead with 4:32 left to play with his third field goal, a 20-yarder.

Pitt then drove to the Penn State 8-yard line with the help of a 20-yard run by Fred Jacobs but Cavanaugh threw a pass into the end zone that was intercepted by linebacker Ron Hostetler.

Hostetler also intercepted a Cavanaugh pass in the end zone late in the first quarter, and he was named the game's outstanding player.

With about a minute left in the game, Penn State was forced to punt, and Jones returned the ball 5 yards to Penn State's 48-yard line. Cavanaugh, who completed 14 of 29 passes for 204 yards, then hit Randy Reutershan with a 13-yard pass and Willie Taylor with a 22-yarder before the touchdown pass to Jones.

Besides falling short on the two-point conversion run, Walker also fell shy in his bid for 1,000-yard rushing season. He gained 66 yards against Penn State and finished the season with 972.

Penn State, which waited in vain last weekend for an Orange Bowl bid, instead will go to the Fiesta Bowl.

Ford, O'Koren Lead Tar Heels

By MONTE PLOTT

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's Mike O'Koren tossed in 21 points, including 15 in the first half, and Phil Ford added 20 as the top-ranked Tar Heels rolled to a 94-63 season-opening win Saturday night over Oregon State.

The Beavers threatened only once, opening a 3-point lead late in the first half. But the Tar Heels scored 18 unanswered points for a 44-29 halftime lead.

Forward Ricky Lee was high man for Oregon State with 17 points before he fouled out with 8:07 left in the game. Lee went out with Oregon State down by 20, and when Ford converted two shots from Lee's foul, the Tar Heels went up 71-49.

Yonakor had 12 points for the Tar Heels, as did Tom Zaliagiris. Alonzo Campbell scored 10 for Oregon State.

Deacs Inch Past UNCW

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — All-America Rod Griffin scored 22 points as No. 17 Wake Forest held off a surprising UNC-Wilmington team to take an 83-79 victory Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

UNC-Wilmington was hurt by turnovers and fouls, sending the Deacons to the free-throw line for 32 foul shots in the game.

Wake Forest capitalized on numerous Seahawk mistakes in the early going to take a 25-14 lead midway through the first half.

But on the inside play of Denny Fields, who had 20 points in the game, UNC-Wilmington came back to narrow the margin to 48-41 by halftime.

Then, in the first two minutes of the second half, the Seahawks reeled off eight straight points to take a 49-48 lead, their first since the opening minutes.

Wake recovered to take a 58-51 lead midway through the second half, and at one point converted 12 straight free throws — eight by Griffin — to hold off the UNC-Wilmington surge.

Whitney Leads State Victory

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Charles "Hawkeye" Whitney scored 35 points and North Carolina State put five players in double figures as the Wolfpack defeated Applachian State, 97-79, in the season opener for both teams Saturday night.

The Wolfpack's fast-break offense, which produced leads of as much as 27 points, was too quick for the Mountaineers to contain.

Junior-college transfer Tiny Pinder got 16 points for the Wolfpack, including six of N.C. State's last 10, and Tony Warren added 14.

For Appalachian State, junior guard Daryll Robinson hit 23 points, including 10 of the Mountaineers' last 12. His backcourt mate, sophomore Walter Anderson, chipped in 18, mostly from the 25-to-30-foot range.

Whitney, who scored 20 points in the first half, had five points in the first 1:30 of the second half as the Wolfpack took a commanding 58-31 lead.

Appalachian narrowed the score to 87-69 with five minutes left in the game, but N.C. State's defense did not allow another basket until 1:45 remained.

QB, Mom Threatened

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The lives of Penn State quarterback Chuck Fusina and his mother, who lives in nearby McKees Rocks, were threatened prior to the Penn State-Pitt football game Saturday.

"I got three or four letters and she got two or three," Fusina said after Penn State edged Pitt 15-13.

"They threatened my mother's life if I played in the game," the junior quarterback said, adding that he wasn't overly worried except for his mother's sake.

Fusina and his mother both received similar threats last year before the annual rivalry, which Pitt won 24-7.

"Sick," was how Penn State Coach Joe Paterno described the threats.

Army Snaps Five-Year Jinx, Tops Midshipmen

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Leamon Hall and Greg King each cracked one yard for touchdowns and Mike Castelli kicked a 21-yard field goal in the first half Saturday as Army held on to beat Navy 17-14 for the first time in five years.

A pair of pass interceptions by linebacker John Hilliard set up Army's 10-0 lead in the 78th renewal of this service football classic, and helped the Cadets wrap up their first winning season since 1972.

Navy narrowed the gap to 10-7 in the second quarter on an 18-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Bob Leszczynski to wingback John Kurowski.

But the Middies trailed 17-7 at halftime after King's scoring dive with 1:09 left.

In the third period, the Middies moved 29 yards for a touchdown after a 26-yard punt return by Mike Gelpin. The drive took seven plays, with Joe Gattuso Jr., who scored three TDs in last year's Navy victory, going over from the two.

The Middies twice threatened to pull the game out in the second half, once late in the third period when they reached the Army 23 only to have Leszczynski fumble the ball away on an option play, and again with 1:07 left in the game when Gattuso's halfback pass from the Army 9 fell incomplete in the end zone on a fourth-down play.

On that last Navy drive, Leszczynski completed a 17-yard pass on fourth-and-six to split end Phil McConkey for a first down at the Army 44.

Leszczynski then threw one pass incomplete, overthrew McConkey who was open at the Army five, failed on a screen pass, then again on fourth down connected with McConkey for 27 yards and a first down at the Cadets' 17 with 1:36 remaining.

Leszczynski's first two passes on the next series fell incomplete, but Gattuso ripped through the middle for eight yards to the Army nine. That brought up a fourth-and-two with 1:07 to play.

Navy Coach George Welsh, who lost his first game to Army after four straight triumphs, disdained an attempt for a game-tying field goal and had Gattuso throw the futile final halfback pass.

The Cadets took over and ran out the clock as the corps stormed onto the field to celebrate a victory over Navy for the first time since 1972. In those four losses, the Middies had outscored Army 138-16.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Paced by Jim Spanarkel's 18 points, the Duke Blue Devils opened their 1977-78 season with a 95-49 rout of the Johns Hopkins Blue Jays.

The two teams battled on even terms for the first five minutes of the games. Then with the score tied at 10-10, the Blue Devils outscored the Blue Jays 10-2, eventually stretching their lead to 55-21 at the half.

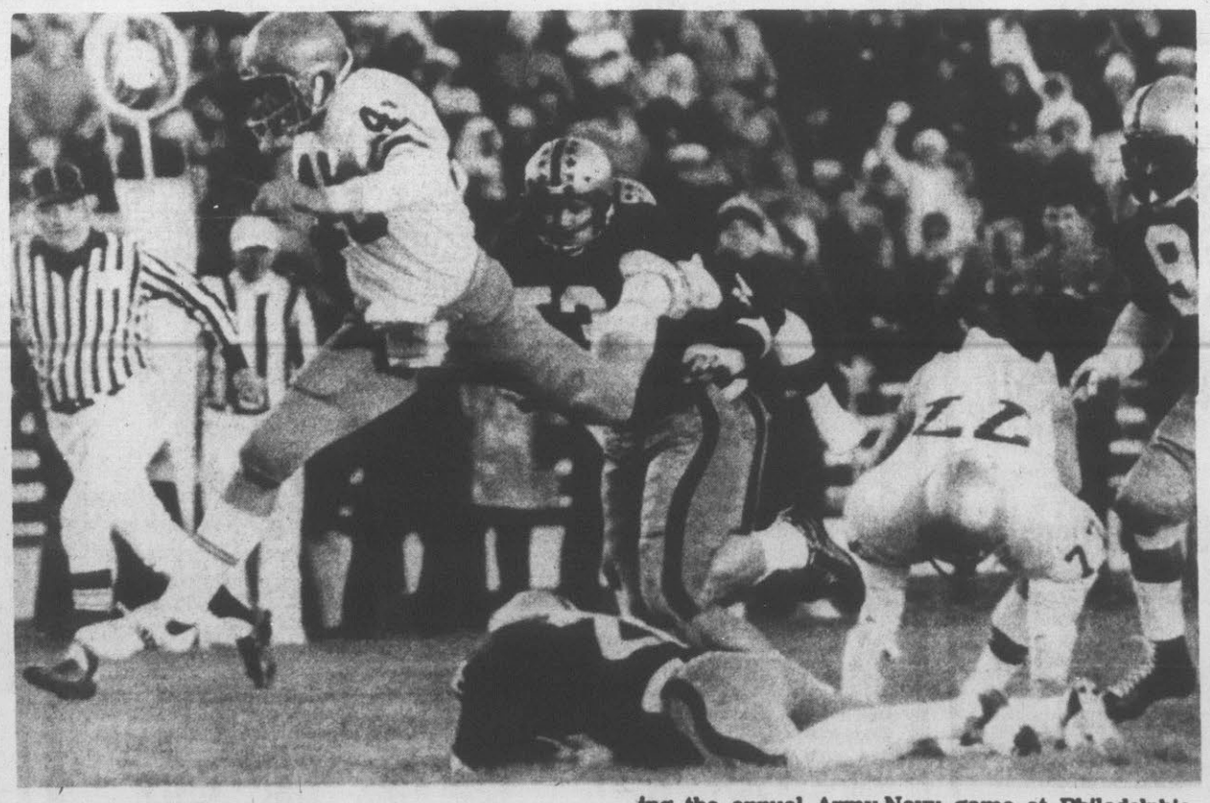

The defense of freshman Eugene Banks and Spanarkel's shooting keyed Duke's offensive charge as the Devils shot 80 per cent for the first half and 75 per cent for the game.

The game saw all 12 Duke players break into the scoring column as Blue Devil Coach Bill Foster was able to substitute freely against the hapless visitors.

Duke Center Mike Gminski collected seven rebounds, completely dominating the smaller Blue Jays on the boards. Banks netted 14 points while Gminski and Kenny Dennard added 10 apiece.

Bowl Trip Has Huskies Excited

SEATTLE (AP) — "I couldn't believe it! Talk about tension!" exclaimed Cheri Wayland, 21, a University of Washington junior who agonized through the last painful, ecstatic seconds of a nationally televised football game that sent the Huskies to the Rose Bowl.

"We were glued to the television set. It got so bad I almost wanted to turn it off a couple times," said Wayland, who watched the University of Southern California beat UCLA 29-27 on a 38-yard field goal by Frank Jordan in the last two seconds of play Friday night.

Like dozens of other Washington students, she sat tense and figgety in front of the TV. The Huskies needed a USC victory to go to the Rose Bowl this year. They got it — barely — but they got it.

"When USC won, we jumped up and down, hitting each other and hitting the ceiling. I'm sure our neighbors thought we went crazy," said Wayland, who watched the game with her father, mother and brother in their Lynnwood home north of Seattle.

"I'm trying to get to the Rose Bowl. If I do, it'll be with my brother. Now we've got to find out if we have enough money," Miss Wayland said Saturday.

Washington Coach Don James sat inches from his TV set as the game wound on. USC was not assured victory until the final instant. Then a bedlam of joy erupted in James' living room, where he, his wife, friends and reporters gathered.

"It was like coming off the field after a big win," he said. It will be the first Husky Rose Bowl trip in 14 seasons. Washington, which finished in first place in the Pacific-8 Conference with a 6-1 record, will face Big Ten champion University of Michigan.

"I thought the UCLA offense was enough to stop them," James said. "There were some highs and lows in the game...I have a hard time explaining my feelings."

Husky offensive coordinator Dick Sesniak beamed. "I tell you it's a dream come true. I tell you, that field goal kicker, I could kiss him right now," exclaimed Sesniak.

It was pretty exciting," said Joan Welch, a sophomore, who watched the game with a pack of other students in McCarty Hall, a dormitory.

"We were all sitting on the edge of the bed screaming and yelling. There were other people down the hall screaming, too, so we were all in it together.

"Afterwards, everybody was running up and down the hall screaming."

Mark Cockrell, 20, of Des Moines, Wash., wants to get about six people and car pool it to Pasadena.

"The first thing to do, I guess, is get in line overnight for tickets," he laughed. "Then somebody down the hall has a house in Los Angeles where I think we can stay."

University officials said they would announce ticket policies no earlier than Monday.

Cockrell watched the game on TV at home with his parents. "It's one of the few games I've ever gotten excited about in past two or three years."

Brown, Lawrence Pace All-ACC

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Clemson and North Carolina, who battled to a 13-13 tie during the football season, dominate the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team.

Each claims seven of the 23 selections announced Saturday night. Both the Tigers and the Tar Heels posted 8-2-1 seasons. Clemson will go to the Gator Bowl and the Tar Heels won an invitation to the Liberty Bowl.

North Carolina State, which is on its way to the Peach Bowl, placed three men on the team, made up by a vote of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

Wake Forest, which did not win a conference game in a 1-10 season, also placed three men.

Maryland, which is heading for the Hall of Fame Classic bowl, had only one player make the selection, as did Duke and Virginia.

Each member of the offensive team except center Larry Tearry of Wake Forest won his position without serious challenge. Tearry won the center spot by three votes over sophomore Jim Richter of State.

The voting on the defensive unit was much closer. North Carolina, leader in the nation in points allowed and tops in the conference for defense, placed five of its seven men on this unit.

Tackle Dee Hardison, a repeat selection from last season, was the third highest in the voting, with 120 of the 124.

Tackle Rod Broadway, end Ken Sheets, linebacker Buddy Curry and back Alan Caldwell are the other Tar Heels on the defense. Guard Mike Salzano joines Lawrence on the offensive team.

Steve Fuller, who won the total offense crown on the last day of the regular season by edging Mike Dunn of Duke, was chosen quarterback as Clemson placed four on the offense and three on the defense.

Split end Jerry Butler won his position handily, as did tackle Lacy Brumley and guard Joe Bostic. End Jonathan Brooks, linebacker Randy Scott and back Steve Ryan are on the defensive team.

Fuller accounted for 172.7 yards a game by passing for 1,497 yards and running for 403. He was responsible for 14 touchdowns, four of which were on passes thrown to Butler, who caught 43 for 760.

Steve Young of Wake Forest repeats as the tight end on a league-leading 51 catches for 483 yards.

Brown made the backfield for the third straight year. His 1,251 yards rushing led the conference, but rookie Lawrence averaged 121.1 yards a game to top in that department. He did not play in the season's opener against Kentucky.

James McDougald of Wake Forest, who made the team a year ago as a freshman, completes the backfield. He averaged 89.7 yards a game in an injury-slowed season.

Senior backs Rick Carter and Ralph Stringer of State and lineman Ted Klaube of Maryland complete their defensive team. A.W. Jenkins, middle guard of State, lacked only one vote, and back James Royster of Wake Forest missed it by three.

Davis, Rutledge Lead Alabama Past Auburn's Tigers By 48-21

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Fullback Johnny Davis' power running and quarterback Jeff Rutledge's deft passing paced Alabama's second-ranked Crimson Tide to a 48-21 Southeastern Conference football victory over Auburn Saturday.

The victory gave Alabama a 7-0 SEC mark and a 10-1 record to take into the Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl against Ohio State.

Rutledge hit on 9 of 13 passes for 193 yards, including scoring tosses of 42 and 30 yards, and also ran for 102 yards on 15 carries. Davis's 104 yards on 20 carries included a 12-yard burst up the middle for a score.

The 48 points was the most Alabama has scored against Auburn since Bear Bryant became the Tide coach in 1958. The previous high was 38 in 1962 and last fall.

Auburn stung Alabama early when Joe Cribbs cut through left tackle, picked up blockers and ran 85 yards for the second-longest touchdown run in Auburn history. The longest was 92 in 1936.

After Alabama had the game under control, Auburn's Charlie Trotman connected with Byron Franklin on a 72-yard scoring pass.

Tony Nathan scored on two short runs for Alabama to give him 92 points for the season.

After Cribbs' run, the Tide moved 70 yards to tie the score on a 30-yard pass from Rutledge to Bruce Bolton. Two possessions later runs by Davis and Nathan carried Alabama 58 yards for the score by Davis and Alabama led from then on.

Rutledge's other scoring pass was for 42 yards to Ozzie Newsome, who took in four tosses for 119 yards. He ended the season with 36 catches for 800 yards, a 22.2 yard average per catch.

Cribbs led Auburn's attack with 133 yards on 15 carries.

The Alabama offense rolled up 515 yards to 297 for Auburn as the Tide defeated the Tigers for the fifth straight time.

'Bama Victory Came In Trenches

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's 48-21 football victory over Auburn Saturday "was one up front in the trenches," Coach Bear Bryant said in the victors dressing room.

"I think our lines dominated — the offense in the second half and the defense all day."

Coach Doug Barfield, whose Auburn Tigers finished 5-6 in his second season, said: "Let's congratulate Alabama for their victory and wish them well in the Sugar Bowl" against Ohio State Jan. 2.

"They played well. We didn't play that poorly, but we made some errors starting the second half and that let them have a couple of quick ones," Barfield added.

Bryant said the Crimson Tide defense "did well with the exception of two or three plays that gave them cheap touchdowns. Auburn did well. They have some talented people who made us look bad at times."

Bryant also said that Auburn's kicking game was better than Alabama's.

Ozzie Newsome, an Alabama receiver, set a Southeastern Conference record for a career. In his four years, he has caught 102 passes for 2,070 yards, an average of 20.29 a reception. The previous mark was 19.95 yards per catch by Andy Hamilton of Louisiana State, 1969-71.

With the Tigers winning only three games his first season, Barfield asserted: "We made some strides this year and had a lot of folks to play well all year. We had our ups and downs and we must now turn our priorities to recruiting and getting ready for next year."

Georgia Tech Holds Off Bulldogs, 16-7

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Tech, sparked by the running of Eddie Lee Ivery, built a 16-0 lead in the first half and withstood a trio of second-half mistakes to trim Georgia 16-7 Saturday in the season's football finale for each team.

The defeat gave Georgia its first losing season in 14 years under Coach Vince Dooley, with both teams having entered the game played in cold, 30-degree weather with 5-5 records.

Tech, taking advantage of a brisk 15-mile-per-hour at its back, enjoyed excellent field position to take an early lead on a 35-yard field goal by Johnny Smith and a one-yard touchdown run by Gary Hardie.

Ivery, who rushed for 112 yards and lifted his season total to a school record 900, scored the other Tech touchdown on a 13-yard run with just under three minutes remaining in the first half.

Tech, which had dominated play in the opening half, was victimized by a lost fumble at its 24 and Georgia blocked two punts, taking possession at the Yellow Jacket 19 and 17 yard lines.

However, the Bulldogs were able to score only after the third turnover of the half, moving 17 yards on four plays with James Womack scoring from the one with only 6:12 left in the game.

It came after Bobby Thompson blocked a punt which was returned three yards by Ricky McBride.

Campbell Scores Four As Texas Rips Aggies

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Burly Earl Campbell stampeded for a career-high 222 yards, tallied four times and became the country's top rusher and scorer as the No. 1-ranked Texas trounced Texas A&M 57-28 Saturday and edged within one game of the national championship.

Campbell carried 27 times and scored on runs of 4, 6 and 23 yards after grabbing a 66-yard bomb from Randy McEachern for the Longhorns' first touchdown.

McEachern, Texas' Cinderella quarterback, tied a school record by throwing four scoring passes, three of them coming as the high-powered Longhorns exploded for five touchdowns in a 14-minute stretch of the first half to take a 33-7 lead.

The convincing victory, which clinched the Southwest Conference title, completed an 11-0 regular season for the rags-to-riches Longhorns, who were unranked at the start of the year, and sent them into the Cotton Bowl against fifth-ranked Notre Dame, as college football's only unbeaten team.

Campbell's outburst pushed his 11-game total to 1,744 yards, passing Oklahoma State's Terry Miller, who ended his season last week with 1,680. In addition, Louisiana State's Charles Alexander went into Saturday night's game against Wyoming with 1,455.

The four touchdowns boosted Campbell's point total to 114, six more than Darrell Lipford of Western Carolina, whose season is over.

After spotting 12th-ranked Texas A&M an early 7-0 lead when Curtis Dickey's 7-yard run capped a 70-yard drive following the opening kickoff, Texas roared back late in the first period on the 60-yard heave from McEachern to Campbell and the 4-yard plunge by Campbell 2:10 later that made it 14-7.

McEachern, a junior who spent last season on the injury list as a spotter in the broadcast booth, came off the bench and led Texas to an upset over arch-rival Oklahoma in the fourth game of the season when two other quarterbacks were injured.

He fired a 43-yard pass to Johnny "Lam" Jones that set up Campbell's first touchdown run and scampered 12 yards on the final play of the opening period to put the ball in position for another 4-yard scoring run by Johnny "Ham" Jones on the first play of the second quarter.

Three minutes later, McEachern flipped a 9-yard scoring pass to Alfred Jackson and six minutes after that, Jackson made a leaping grab of a 12-yard pass between two defenders in the end zone to make it 33-7.

Texas A&M, 7-3 with one regular-season game remaining, and headed for the Bluebonnet Bowl against Southern California, had to be content with becoming the first team to score more than one touchdown against Texas on the ground this season.

George Woodard barreled one yard for a touchdown before halftime but Campbell and his teammates put on devastating show again in the second half.

The 220-pound senior covered 80 yards on five consecutive carries following the second-half kickoff when the Aggies elected to take an 18-mile-per-hour wind and let Texas receive.

The Aggies stopped Campbell for no gain on the first play of the third period but he took a pitchout around left end for 11 yards, gained four yards up the middle, then broke loose for 59 yards to the A&M six. One play later, Campbell had the ball in the end zone for his third touchdown.

The Aggies bounced back and got within 40-28 on scoring runs of eight yards by David Walker and one yard by Woodard but Campbell rumbled across with a pitchout from the 23 on the first play of the final period and Texas was home free.

The Longhorns' final points came on a 37-yard touchdown pass from McEachern to Lam Jones and a 48-yard field goal by Steve McMichael, who was subbing for the injured Russell Erxleben.

Lehigh Stops Massachusetts

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — Quarterback Mike Rieker and end Steve Kreider, who had combined on three earlier touchdowns including a 71-yarder to open the game, hooked up on an 8-yard toss in the fourth period Saturday to pull Lehigh past Massachusetts, 30-23, in an NCAA Division II quarterfinal game.

Rieker, a senior from Catasauqua, Pa., also threw scoring passes of 35 and 7 yards to Kreider while Ken Wood added a 38-yard field goal as the Engineers, 10-2, jumped to a 23-0 second period lead.

Massachusetts countered with a 36-yard screen pass from Mike Fallon to Dennis Dent in the second period and a pair of third period scores — a 1-yard run by Billy Coleman and a 7-yard pass from Fallon to John Gladchuk — to tie the game.

Fallon also hit a pair of 2-point conversion passes to Kevin Cummings in the comeback.

The Minutemen, who finished the season at 8-3, had knotted the score at 23-23 on Gladchuk's diving cath and the extra point conversion by Dave Croasdale at 9:46 of the third period.

But after the Massachusetts defense had collared Rieker and forced the Engineers to punt early in the fourth period, punt returner Croasdale made a fatal muff at the Massachusetts 16.

Offensive guard Tom Stine recovered the fumble and Lehigh got another first down moments later when Croasdale, then playing in the defensive backfield, was called for a personal foul while trying to defend against Kreider.

On the next play Kreider, who finished with 9 catches for 71 yards, caught Rieker's toss in the end zone over Croasdale for the winning score. Rieker completed 25 of 40 passes for 351 yards.

Clemson Defeated

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Brown University put an end to Clemson's 16-game winning streak and hopes for an elusive national soccer championship with a 2-1 victory here Saturday in the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament.

The Bruins, with an 11-4-2 record, will go to the national semifinals next weekend in Berkeley, Calif.

The previously unbeaten and top-ranked Tigers had taken a 1-0 lead in the first half on a goal by Benedict Popoola. Clemson would have had a 2-0 lead at halftime, were it not for a spectacular save by Brown goalkeeper Ted Von Gerichten.

Baylor Romps Over TCU, 48-9

WACO, Texas (UPI) — Tailback Gary Blair scored on runs of two and one yards and Baylor rolled up 528 yards Saturday in a 48-9 rout of Texas Christian.

Baylor ended the season with a 5-6 record, 3-5 in the Southwest Conference, and tied with Houston for fifth place. TCU had a 2-9 season mark and a 1-7 SWC record and finished next to last above winless Rice.

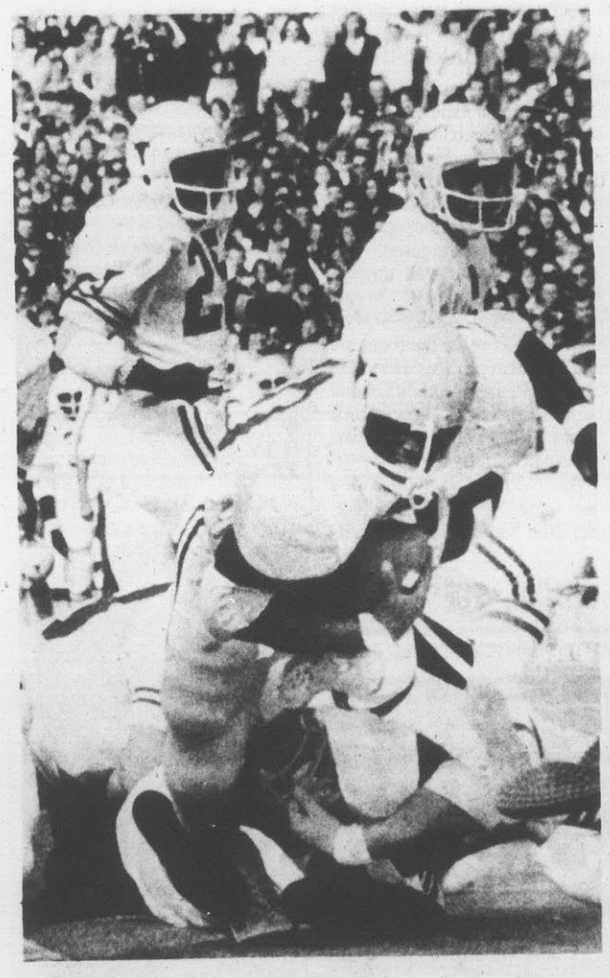

Blair, who gained 127 yards, took a handoff from freshman quarterback Scott Smith and ran two yards to score on Baylor's first possession of the game. Blair broke through the TCU line and ran 66 yards five plays earlier to set up the score.

Robert Bledsoe put the Bears on the scoreboard again with a 40-yard field goal from the TCU 23 to put Baylor ahead 10-0 at the end of the first quarter. Freshman Steve Mormon booted a 50-yard field goal with less than two minutes left in the half to put the Horned Frogs on the scoreboard for the first time.

Baylor fullback Greg Hawthorne slid through the TCU line with 24 seconds left to put the Bears ahead 17-3 at the end of the first half. Blair helped set up that score with a 30-yard run.

Baylor's defense stopped the passing combination of Steve Bayuk to split end Mike Renfro, who went into the game with the SWC career reception record of 159, and yards on receptions of 2,713.

Two minutes into the second half, Baylor safety Ron Burns recovered a fumble by TCU fullback Chester Strickland and four plays later Bledsoe booted a 48-yard field goal.

Cross-Town Rivalry Won By Houston, 51-21

By GARY TAYLOR
UPI Sports Writer

HOUSTON (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Delrick Brown passed for three touchdowns and ran for another Saturday, carrying the Houston Cougars to a 51-21 triumph over cross-town rival Rice.

Houston running back Alois Blackwell scored on runs of one and seven yards en route to a 142-yard rushing performance which pushed him past 1,000 yards gained for the season.

Cougars' split end Don Bass caught two of Brown's TD passes and Dyral Thomas had a 4-yard scoring reception from Brown. Houston also scored on Randy Love's 10-yard run and a 34-yard field goal by Kenny Hatfield.

The defeat was Rice's 10th of the season after a season-opening win. The Owls scored three second-half touchdowns — a 41-yard pass from Randy Hertel to David Houser plus Earl Cooper's 4-yard run and 1-yard run on the game's final play.

Houston's victory was its fifth in the seven-year-old series between the two Houston teams. The 37-point margin was the widest in the history of the series.

Houston, 6-4, ran its Southwest Conference record to 4-3. The Cougars have one game remaining at Texas A&M Saturday.

Houston was held without a first down on its first series, but the Cougars struck quickly on their second possession. On first down from the Houston 46-yard line, Brown spotted Bass on a deep flag pattern and threw a 54-yard pass to him after defender Carlton Derrett had fallen down.

Houston's longest scoring play the remainder of the afternoon was 10 yards, but in lieu of the quick strike, Houston took advantage of intercepted passes to widen its margin.

Gerald Cook's interception and 19-yard return set up the Cougars for a short-scoring drive and Blackwell's 1-yard touchdown run.

Cornerback Anthony Francis intercepted a pass early in the third quarter, and Houston scored its fifth touchdown eight plays later on Brown's 5-yard run.

Hatfield's 34-yard field goal in the fourth quarter was set up by Sam Proctor's interception.

Shea Third In Cross Country

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Jan Merrill of New London, Conn., captured the 13th annual National AAU Senior Women's three-mile cross country run for the second year in a row at Cal State San Bernardino Saturday.

Merrill was timed in 16:54.4 to win by 10 yards over Kathy Mills, a student at PENN State who last week won the AIAW championship in Texas. Mills' time was 16:58.1.

Over 1,000 entered Saturday's competition. Weather was a factor, as temperatures were in the mid-80s.

Julie Shea of North Carolina State was third in 17:14.1, followed by Cindy Bremser of Madison, Wis., 17:31.4; Judy Graham of San Jose, Calif., 17:31.9; Brenda Webb of Knoxville, Tenn., 17:35.4; Ellison Goodall of Duke University, 17:50.4; Doris Brown Heritage, Seattle, Wash., 17:51; Joan Benoit of North Carolina State, 17:54, and Carol Cook of Iowa State University Track Club, 17:58.

Fitzgerald Leads Virginia Tech To 27-7 Victory Over Keydets

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Virginia Tech fullback Mickey Fitzgerald carried for 104 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead Virginia Tech to a 27-7 college football victory over Virgiia Military Institute in the snow here Saturday.

Fitzgerald's touchdowns were 1-yard plunges capping drives of 57, 17 and 50 yards for the Hokies, who didn't allow VMI's Keydets to score until the third quarter.

Tech closed out its season with a 3-7-1 mark while Southern Conference champion VMI ended with a 7-4 record.

Most of the offense was generated on the ground because of the weather. Snow obscured vision, the wind was blowing at 20 miles per hour and gusting to 40 mph, and the temperature at game time was 20 with a wind chill factor of about -25 degrees.

A first-quarter fumble by Keydet Joe Robinson launched Tech's first scoring drive, a seven-play effort. The longest gain was a 14-yard run by Roscoe Coles. With the ball on the 2, Fitzgerald plunged to the 1 and then took it in on the next play.

VMI turned over the ball on downs on the Tech 43 when VMI's Andrew Gibson was thrown for an 8-yard loss in the second period and the Hokies scored seven plays later when quarterback David Lamie ran in from the 8.

Tech scored again before the half after holding VMI inside its own 3-yard line and forcing a punt. Mark Lambert's kick went only 32 yards and it was returned to the VMI 17. Coles carried to the 9 and four plays later Fitzgerald went over for his second touchdown.

The Keydets took the second half kickoff 80 yards in 15 plays for their only touchdown. Butch Hostetter, spelling Gibson, picked up 50 of those yards in six carries, the longest a 30-yard dash from to the Tech 39. Steve Boddi scored on a 1-yard dive.

Tech wrapped up the scoring with a 50-yard drive in the final period using nine plays before Fitzgerald went over the middle to score. Fitzgerald set up the touchdown on a 12-yard run to the 1.

Fitzgerald, who became Tech's starting fullback with just four games left in the season, carried the ball 32 times for 104 yards and ran his touchdown string to seven in four games.

Gibson, who sat out several plays with a knee injury, carried 14 times for 56 yards to push his VMI single season rushing record to 1,218 yards.

Holtz Calls Sooners Best

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas football Coach Lou Holtz says Oklahoma — the Razorbacks' Orange Bowl opponent — is "probably the best football team in the country."

Holtz, whose sixth-ranked Razorbacks wrapped up a 10-1 season with a 17-14 Thanksgiving victory over Texas Tech, watched Oklahoma finish its regular season 10-1 with a 38-7 triumph over Nebraska on Friday.

Third-ranked Oklahoma lost to Texas 13-6 on Oct. 8. Arkansas lost to Texas 13-9 the following week.

"Texas is a great football team, but Oklahoma has improved tremendously," Holtz said.

He watched the Nebraska-Oklahoma game knowing the Razorbacks would play the winner Jan. 2 in Miami.

"If you want to look for something good in the game, it didn't take you long to determine which team you had to play," Holtz said. "My wife sat there watching it. She said, 'Boy, are they good.' When you go to the Orange Bowl you don't expect to play Our Sisters of the Poor with a 2-9 record.

"We sure didn't expect to play somebody as good as what Oklahoma appears," he said. "I know a lot of people in the state expect them to blow us out of the stadium, but I assure you one thing, it will be a great football game and Arkansas will play extremely well."

Holtz described the Sooners as "awesome."

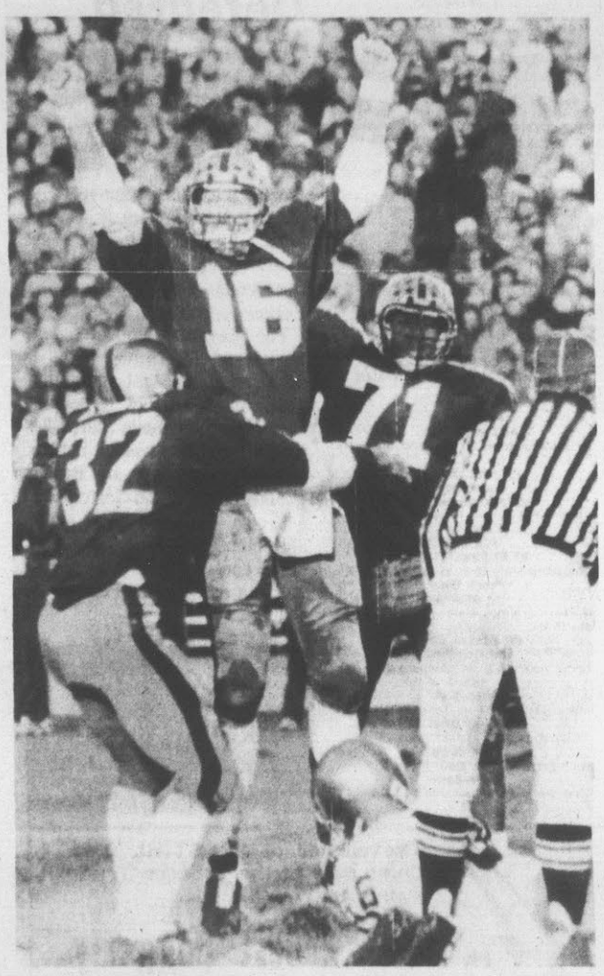

"Their offense is super. Their defense is underrated. They have tremendous speed and tremendous quickness.

"Right now, Oklahoma is a better football team than we are by a pretty good margin. But, we plan on being a lot better for the bowl game than what we've been thus far. Whether we will or not remains to be seen.

"I just have a lot of confidence in this football team. I can't tell you why we should be on the football field with Oklahoma except this — I believe in our football players."

Holtz said the Razorbacks would probably resume practice in about a week.

"We're going to start the winter program. Then we'll have spring practice, work on fundamentals. We'll work on them extremely hard. We weren't as good fundamentally as we were earlier in the season."

Bonnett, Cale Take 1st Row

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Longtime rivals Neil Bonnett of Hueytown, Ala., and Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C., will be sitting in the front row of the NASCAR Winston West 250 at Phoenix International Raceway Sunday.

Bonnett turned a one-lap average of 116.978 miles per hour to Yarborough's 116.467 to win his seventh inside front row position on the NASCAR circuit this season.

Crew chief Harry Hyde said the crew will be making minor adjustments on both cars late Saturday to try to get more speed out of the Dodges.

Bowen is driving a Chevrolet Nova and Allison is in the only American Motors Matador in the field.

Bonnett was the third driver to go on the one-mile oval Saturday afternoon and then sat and watched as the rest of the field tried to beat his time. Yarborough, who was the first driver to Bonnett's car after he qualified, was one of the last drivers on the track.

"I think qualifying early helped me," said Bonnett. "The track was a little cooler, but everybody had the same advantage."

Yarborough said his car was "pushing" in the fourth turn, but that problem was expected to be corrected in time for Sunday's race.

"The track is real nice and smooth," Bonmnett said, "and I think we'll see a lot of passing coming off the second turn. That seems to be where we get the most speed."

"The only thing I was concerned about was Cale and I being on the front row," Bonnett added. "But when we come down to the checkered flag, we're both going to be all out to beat the other guy."

Immediately after learning they had made the front row, Bonnett and Yarborough headed for their car owner's motor home to watch a taped replay of the last week's Times 500.

Edmonton, Montreal Clash In Canada Version Of Super Bowl

MONTREAL (AP) — Wet snow, driven by gusty winds, fell on Montreal Saturday but the forecast is for at least partly sunny skies Sunday when the Edmonton Eskimos meet the Montreal Alouettes in the Grey Cup game, the Canadian Football League's equivalent to the Super Bowl.

The Eskimos and Alouettes ran through brief practice sessions Saturday before ground crews moved in to clear off the snow from the artificial turf at Olympic Stadium.

Temperature at game time, 1:30 p.m. EST, is expected to be below freezing.

The Alouettes are favored by 2½ points. All 68,511 seats have been sold, a record easily surpassing the 53,467 who watched last year's game in Toronto when the Ottawa Rough Riders defeated the Saskatchewan Roughriders 23-20.

With all public transit shut down by a strike, fans have been urged to form taxi pools or join musician Bobby Gimby in a nearly 5-mile walk from downtown Montreal to the stadium.

The game is expected to be a defensive battle as the Alouettes surrendered an average of less than 16 points a game during the 16-game season while the Eskimos gave up an average of 20 a game.

Both teams suffered through mid-season slumps but finished strongly. The Alouettes won their last two regular-season games, beating the Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa, and then dispatched the Ottawa Rough Riders in a close Eastern final.

The Eskimos won their last five games, edging the Winnipeg Blue Bombers and the British Columbia Lions for first place in the West, then dispatched the Lions 38-1 in the Western final.

Offensively, the Eskimos led the league with 412 points, but they lost their only regular-season meeting with the Alouettes.

Bruce Lemmerman will start at quarterback for Edmonton. But Tom Wilkinson, in better health than in Grey Cup Games of recent years, will be ready if Lemmerman falters.

Sonny Wade, the 6-foot-3, nine-year veteran from Emory & Henry looking for his third Most Valuable Player award in the Grey Cup, will start for the Alouettes. Coach Marv Levy can call on sophomore Joe Barnes, whose sprint-outs helped Montreal to early-season success before he was sidelined with a separated shoulder.

One area where Edmonton would appear to have an edge is in field goal kicking. Dave Cutler hit on a record 50 this season.

Grambling Rips Southern, 55-20

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Grambling quarterback Doug Williams threw for three touchdowns and Robert Woods returned punts 62 yards and 45 yards for scores as Grambling romped over Southern University 55-20 in a regionally televised battle of Southwestern Athletic Conference rivals Saturday.

The three touchdown passes gave Williams 91 scoring tosses for his four-year career at the little North Louisiana school. It is the most ever by any collegiate player.

Seven players shared in the scoring for Grambling, including linebacker Eugene Hall, who raced 68 yards with an intercepted pass in the third quarter.

Williams completed 19 of 30 attempts for 307 yards. That gives him 2,963 yards for the season, with a regular-season game against Temple scheduled next week in Tokyo.

Keeps His Crown

Coopman, his eye and mouth bleeding, fell to the canvas and was counted out. He tried to get up, but collapsed onto the mat again. The time of the knockout was 2:31.

The Belgian had not even touched Evangelista.

The Spaniard weighed 220 pounds, Coopman 199½.

Tennessee Rolls Past Vanderbilt

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Quarterback Jimmy Streater ran for three touchdowns and passed for a fourth to give Tennessee a 42-7 college football victory Saturday over Vanderbilt, putting the Commodores in the basement of the Southeastern Conference.

The lanky, 165-pound sophomore put the Vols out of range at 28-0 at the half Saturday with scoring runs of one and nine yards and a 51-yard touchdown pass to Jeff Moore, all in the second quarter.

The game ended what has been a dismal season for Tennessee Coach Johnny Majors and Vanderbilt's Fred Pancoast.

The Volunteers finished with a 4-7 record with Vanderbilt their only victim in six SEC encounters. The Commodores were winless in six SEC games and 2-9 for the season.

Tennessee's defense prevented Vanderbilt from ever getting its air attack going. Until he left the game with an injury midway in the third quarter, Commodores' quarterback Mike Wright, the SEC's leading passer, connected on only five throws for 43 yards in 12 attempts.

Tennessee opened the scoring on the Vols' first possession with a six-yard touchdown by Nate Sumpter on a pitch around right side climaxing a 71-yard drive.

Streater and tailback Frank Foxx scored Tennessee's last two touchdowns on runs of three and 15 yards, respectively. Tennessee kicker Jim Gaylor booted six extra points, ending his career with 50 straight point-afters without a miss.

Huskies Win Without Playing

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

It was the biggest win of the year for Washington and the Huskies didn't even get their uniforms dirty.

Washington earned its first trip to the Rose Bowl in 14 years when Southern Cal edged UCLA 29-27 Friday night on Frank Jordan's 38-yard field goal with two seconds remaining in their intra-city college football rivalry.

A victory by UCLA would have sent the Bruins to the Jan. 2 classic in Pasadena. But Jordan's field goal knocked UCLA out of the bowl picture, gave Southern Cal a spot in the Bluebonnet Bowl against either Texas or Texas A&M and made Washington the Pacific-8's representative in the Rose Bowl against Michigan of the Big Ten.

"It was like coming off the field after a big win," said Washington Coach Don James, who watched the thriller on television. Washington finished with a 6-1 Pac-8 mark, while both Southern Cal and 17th-ranked UCLA were 5-2 in conference play.

Oklahoma and Arizona State were other big winners Friday.

Oklahoma, ranked No. 3 nationally, clinched the Big Eight championship and a berth in the Orange Bowl in Miami Jan. 2 by overpowering Nebraska 38-7 Friday afternoon with an awesome offensive display led by quarterback Thomas Lott and running back Elvis Peacock.

As a consolation prize, 11th-ranked Nebraska will be going to the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn. Dec. 19 against North Carolina.

No. 19 Arizona State, meanwhile, beat Arizona 23-7 to become the Western Athletic Conference's representative in the Fiesta Bowl. The Sun Devils will play Penn State at Tempe, Ariz on Christmas Day.

Saturday's schedule included No. 1 Texas at No. 12 Texas A&M, No. 2 Alabama against Auburn at Birmingham, Ala.; No. 9 Penn State and No. 10 Pitt, No. 16 San Diego State at San Jose State, No. 18 Brigham Young at Texas-El Paso and the traditional Army-Navy inter-service clash at Philadelphia.

Southern Cal's Jordan went from goat to hero in a matter of minutes. His two missed extra points did not appear crucial when Southern Cal moved out to a 26-10 lead, but Rick Bashore's passing cut apart the Trojans' defense throughout the second half and he finally put the Bruins ahead 27-26 with a 1-yard scoring strike to Don Pederson with 2:56 to play.

But Southern Cal, led by Rob Hertel, who completed 15 of 24 passes for 254 yards, took the ensuing kickoff and marched from its own 27 to set up Jordan's third field goal of the game.

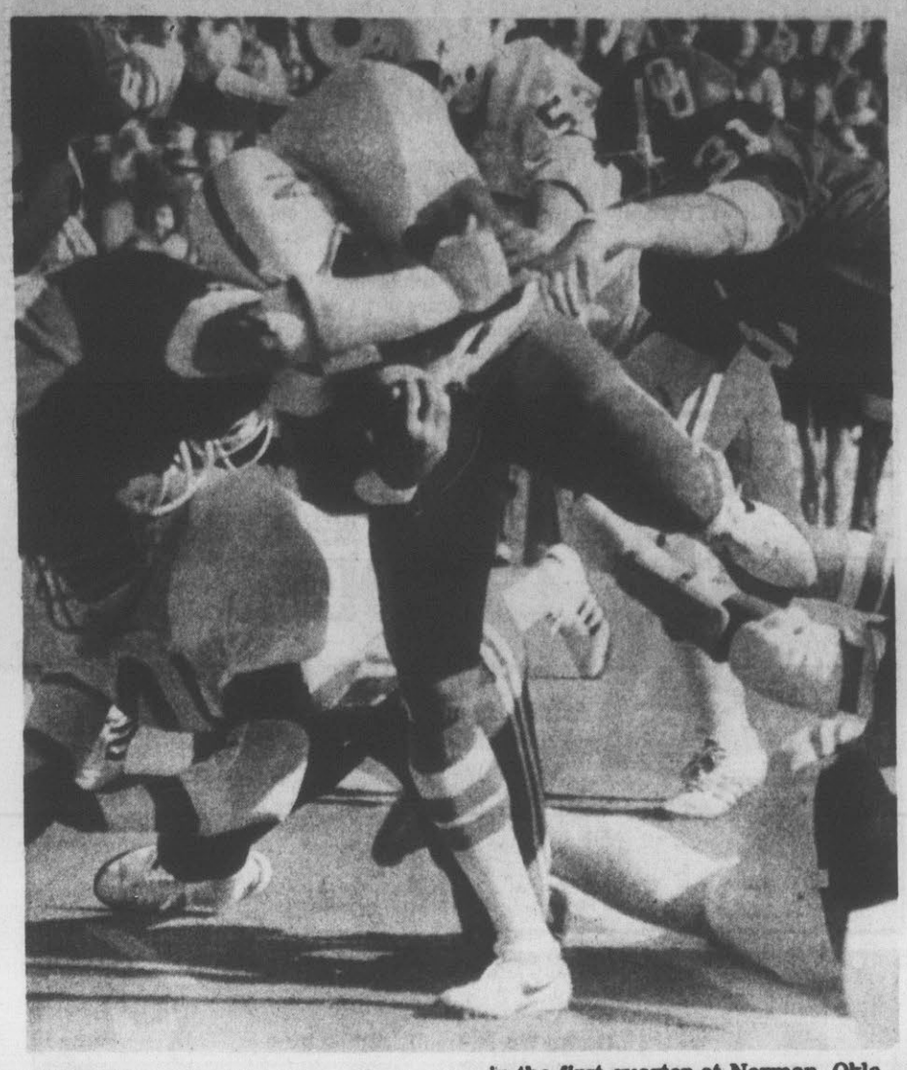

The Trojans were out of timeouts and had to hurry to get the field goal off, but that turned out to be a blessing in disguise. "It happened so fast," said Jordan, "I didn't have time to be nervous."

Southern California Coach John Robinson would have preferred to have been playing for a Rose Bowl bid, but he is happy his club will be seeing post-season action.

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer was more than thankful. "We're not going to the river, we're going to the beach," he rejoiced after his team's sixth straight victory over Big Eight rival Nebraska, showing he prefers the shores of the Atlantic Ocean (the Orange Bowl in Miami) to the banks of the Mississippi River (the Liberty Bowl in Memphis).

"This offensive team is the best I've ever coached," added Switzer. Lott and Peacock outrushed the entire Nebraska backfield, 266 yards to 190. Lott, who drove the Cornhuskers dizzy with his execution of the options off the Wishbone, rushed for 143 yards and one touchdown while Peacock, a senior, gained 123 yards and scored twice.

Fullback Mike Harris rushed for 111 yards and scored one of three opening-half touchdowns as Arizona State raised its conference record to 6-1 and overall mark to 9-2. The Sun Devils are assured of at least a tie for the WAC crown with Brigham Young, which had previously announced it would not play in the Fiesta Bowl.

Clemson Romps In Its Opening Cage Contest

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

They call it the IPTAY Tournament — an amalgam composed from that alumni fund-raising battle cry at Clemson, "I Pay Thirty A Year."

Tim Somerville would have paid anything not to have his TCU basketball team play in it Friday night.

"We were bad," said the TCU coach.

They were worse than that, losing a 125-62 decision to the host Clemson Tigers in an opening-round game.

While Somerville was stunned with the defeat, he would have been even more shocked to learn that Clemson Coach Bill Foster was not entirely happy with his team's performance.

"Our offense was fine," Foster said, "but the defense needs some improving. We'll have to work on it."

Clemson earned a berth in tonight's IPTAY finals against Rhode Island, an 81-69 victor over Ohio behind Jiggy Williamson's 26 points in the other opening-round game.

The IPTAY was one of several tournaments that opened around the country to officially trigger the 1977-78 college basketball season.

In New York, St. John's and Old Dominion advanced to the finals of the Joe Lapchick Tournament. George Johnson scored 24 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead the host Redmen to a 66-60 victory over Lafayette and Old Dominion whipped Niagara 90-82 as Ronnie Valentine scored 27 points and collected 14 rebounds.

Highly-regarded freshmen Jeff Lamp and Lee Raker combined for 37 points to lead Virginia to an 83-63 victory over Madison in the first round of the Virginia Tipoff at Charlottesville. VMI romped over Roanoke 64-50 in the other first-round game behind Ron Carter and Jeryl Salmond.

Freshman Bob Williams scored 17 points and grabbed nine rebounds to lead St. Joseph's (Pa.) to an 85-57 rout of host Richmond in the opener of the Spider Classic in Richmond, Va. The victory sent the Hawks into tonight's finals against William & Mary, which edged Virginia Commonwealth 55-54 on John Lowenhaupt's jump shot with 10 seconds left.

Kevin Galbraith's two free throws with one second remaining gave the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga a 66-64 triumph over Louisiana Tech in the New Orleans Classic. The University of New Orleans edged Eastern Michigan 84-83 in overtime in the other first-round game as Nate Mills scored 21 points.

In other action, Maryland's 14th-ranked Terrapins opened their season with a 95-62 trouncing of Bucknell as the heralded Albert King made his college debut with 13 points.

Three Maryland freshmen accounted for 30 points. In addition to King, a highly-touted recruit from New York, Greg Manning added nine and Ernest Graham had eight. Lawrence Boston and Jo Jo Hunter led the winners with 15 points apiece.

Alabama, the nation's 15th-ranked team, lost an 88-78 decision to the touring Soviet National team as Vladimir Tkachenko scored 24 points and grabbed 15 rebounds.

Lew Massey's 32 points led North Carolina-Charlotte to a 68-64 victory over Illinois. Gary Winton poured in 26 points and collected 11 rebounds to power Army over RPI 89-56. Mike Evans fired in 31 points as Kansas State edged Northern Illinois 76-74.

Steve Smith scored 18 points and Cliff Robinson added 16 to lead Southern Cal over Idaho State 80-69; Fordham whipped St. Lawrence 88-79 behind John Walsh's 15 points; Herb Williams scored 34 points as Ohio State routed California State-Hayward 99-82; Sammy Drummer scored 20 points to lead Georgia Tech over Georgia 75-58; Creighton smothered Carroll College of Montana 95-66 behind Rick Apke's 25 points; Texas-El Paso rode Calvin Hale's 31 points to a 78-64 victory over Abilene Christian; Pan American smashed Air Force 85-71 as Henry Taylor and Michael Edwards combined for 45 points and The Citadel defeated South Carolina-Aiken 82-58 behind Tom Slawson's 18 points.

Fete For Rampants

Personal Goals Set By Women Swimmers

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The East Carolina University women's swimming team has once again come under the direction of men's coach Ray Scharf, who says that this year's edition will be working toward personal, rather than team, goals.

"We just don't have the numbers to put together the kind of team we need to win a lot of meets," Scharf said. "But we do have a few swimmers who are capable of qualifying for the nationals before this season is over."

Scharf, who has headed the men's program for a number of years, will be coaching the women for the third season. He started the team in 1968, coached two years, then gave it up to stick strictly with the men. This year, he's resumed the women's job in addition to the men's.

"I don't find it any great problem to work with both, since their seasons go right together this year. In the past, the women have been winding up their season about now, instead of just starting it."

About half the women who tried out for the team have left it already, Scharf reports. "We started out with 19, and now we've got only nine or ten. But those who have stuck with it are swimming their best times already."

The main reason for the defections, according to Scharf, has been the tough workouts he's put them through. "They work with the men, and go through virtually the same training program. We treat everyone the same; we don't discriminate. Some of the women have gone up to 12,000 yards already in workouts, and that's a lot more than some of them did last year."

Only three of the remaining women were on the team last year, while the rest are all freshmen.

"This (lack of numbers) will give us problems on the schedule. You can win with this number, but you have to be real good in all events. We just don't have the personnel to go up against teams like North Carolina, N.C. State, and Alabama and win overall. So our goals have changed."

The coach said that in the past the state meet had been the wrapup of the season, whereas this year, it starts the season (Friday and Saturday at N.C. State). "We've set our goals, instead of aiming for the state title, at qualifying for the nationals (AIAW meet, March 15-18). We already have one girl of national caliber, and if the others work hard, we could have one or two more, and maybe a relay or two."

Julie Shaffer, a freshman, is the lone woman on grant on the team. "She has the best potential on the team. She's a real good butterflier, and her best time last year would have qualified her for the nationals." She also competes in freestyle.

Junior Sharon Burns is the team's captain. Scharf calls her a hard worker who'll improve. She is a good freestyler and will also swim the individual medley.

Freshmen include Andre Lennon, who swims the medley and freestyle; Ann Weldon, a freestyler; Lucy Weckerling, a freestyler; Selene Wheeless, a freestyler; and Krista Marr, who swims the freestyle and backstyle.

"We don't have a breaststroker or a diver," Scharf said. "Our approach has to be from an individual point of view. Actually, we will probably have the best women's team we've ever had at East Carolina, but our record won't show it."

Scharf added, "We will have to swim on pride. We meet some of the strongest people in the country."

Irish Rip Ole Miss

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's Don Williams and Kelly Tripucka combined for 32 points Saturday to spark the fourth-rated Irish to a 111-62 drubbing of Mississippi.

The Irish, with five players in double figures, matched a balanced offense against a frail Ole Miss defense.

"We got pounded to death, but we let ourselves get pounded," said Mississippi Coach Bob Weltlich. "Any time you let your opponent score 111 points, you've got to consider your defensive effort poor."

The Rebels led only once, 4-2, with 18:27 to go in the half. Then Rich Branning hit two free throws with 18:06 remaining to make it 6-2 and the Irish were never headed.

Ole Miss came within one point of the Irish, 21-20, when Kim Benson, brother of Indiana University All-American Kent Benson, hit a jumper with just over 11 minutes to play in the half.

But the Irish widened their advantage, outscoring Ole Miss 22-4 in the next five minutes.

Basketball Meetings

Organizational meetings will be held Monday night for the men's and women's recreational basketball leagues.

The meetings will be held in the Elm Street Gymnasium. The women's meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. and the men's at 8:30. All managers or team captains are urged to attend.

The leagues are sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department.

Barnes Seems Happy With New Teammates

By DAN SEWELL
AP Sports Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Marvin Barnes looked over his new teammates while lacing up his sneakers and then turned to his girlfriend.

"Look at all these old ABA players. Hey, this is going to be just like old times. And they've got my old coach, Bob MacKinnon," he said, smiling.

"I love basketball. It's going to be nice to just play basketball and be happy," he explained. "I've had my share of havoc and chaos in my life. I'm ready to settle down."

Buffalo is the latest stop for the enigma called Marvin Barnes, a highly-talented player who's never been able to avoid trouble.

Barnes was placed on probation for slugging a Providence College teammate with a tire iron, then spent the past summer in a Rhode Island correctional facility after violating probation by carrying a revolver into an airline terminal.

In his second pro season three years ago, Barnes jumped his St. Louis Spirits American Basketball Association team briefly, saying at one point, "I'd rather work in a factory." He habitually missed practices and team flights.

He joined the Detroit Pistons this season after his jail stint, vowing that he'd turned over a new leaf, but the new Marvin Barnes didn't last long, and the Pistons were itching to get rid of him after a locker room confrontation last week and Barnes' subsequent refusal to return.

The Pistons said Barnes didn't return because of ankle problems, but his attorney, William B. Daniel, said the ankle was fine.

"It's like in a marriage, if you have a fight with your wife. Sometimes you don't want to go back," Daniel explained.

Pistons General Manager Bob Kauffman used the same metaphor: "What could have been a happy marriage never materialized."

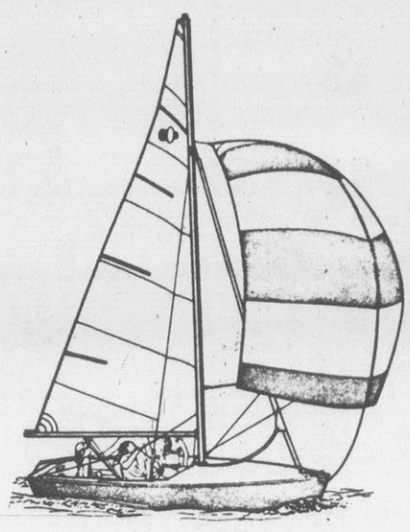

Barnes missed practices and didn't "get along well" with his teammates and Coach Herb Brown, Kauffman said.

Barnes simply said, "I felt I needed to be somewhere else, and the Detroit Pistons felt I needed to be somewhere else. I needed a change of scenery."

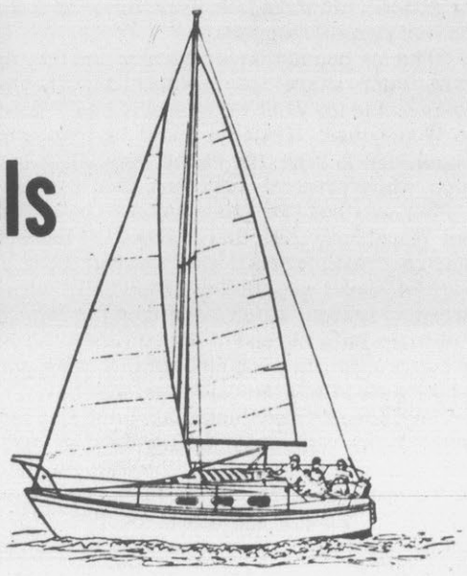

Braves' owner John Y. Brown, who dealt forwards John Shumate and Gus Gerard for Barnes Wednesday, admitted, "There's a certain element of risk involved. But when you need help you've got to take chances. We're not looking for any disruptive influences. we think he can help us."

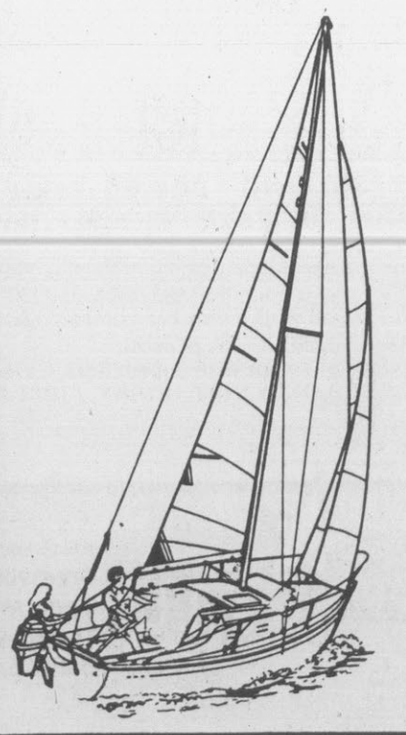

MacKinnon, who coached Barnes his rookie season at St. Louis, said, "He's very coachable. He has a lot of self-pride and he wants to win. He's had his problems, but we're just looking to the future."

Leach's Goal Starts Flyers To Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Reggie Leach tries to make the most of every opportunity. And that's how he scored against the Cleveland Barons.

The right winger's rebound goal at 11:11 of the first period broke a 1-1 tie to start the Philadelphia Flyers on their way to a 7-2 National Hockey League victory over the Barons Friday afternoon.

Leach tapped a loose puck behind Cleveland goalie Gary Edwards, who had failed to control a shot fired by Philadelphia defenseman Kevin McCarthy.

Three minutes later Philadelphia forward Barry Dean was credited with a tally when Barons' forward Dennis Maruk inadvertantly backhanded the puck into his own net and the Flyers were off and away.

The victory boosted Philadelphia into first place in the Patrick Division, one point ahead of the New York Islanders, while Cleveland remained last in the Adams Division.

The Philadelphia-Cleveland game was stopped with 42 seconds remaining in the first period when a bench-clearing brawl erupted. Four players were ejected.

The hapless Barons, and their predecessors, the Oakland Seals, have won a total of only four of 34 games at Philadelphia's Spectrum.

Ivan Boldirev scored three goals to lead Chicago over Colorado. Boldirev connected twice within 20 seconds of the second period as the Black Hawks built a 4-0 lead and ended an eight-game winless streak. During that span, Chicago had lost five games and tied three.

The Chicago triumph also prevented Colorado from moving into a first-place tie in the Smythe Division and expanded the Black Hawks' lead to four points over the Rockies.

Sports Shorts

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears will desert the snow and cold for the sunny southland Tuesday to prepare for their Dec. 4 National Football meeting against the Buccaneers at Tampa Bay.

Bears workouts will be held at Jesuit Boys' High School in Tampa.

Coach Jack Pardee said Friday, "We want to insure good practices for the entire week. I don't think we'd get the proper weather conditions to work out here. Cold weather and ice and snow are not conducive to preparing a good passing game."

He added, "Also, we want the players to get in condition to playing in warm weather."

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A sports management group here has abandoned its bid for a North American Soccer League franchise and instead has applied for membership in the older but more obscure American Soccer League.

Phil Bryant, president of Meridian Sports Management Inc., said Friday he will explain the reasons for the shift when the group is ready to announce plans for the season. In the meantime, the group is awaiting approval from the ASL.

"There's been a lot of speculation about soccer in Indianapolis and we want to wait until everything is firmed up," said Bryant, who hopes to have a team in operation by the spring of 1978.

The ASL was the nation's first professional soccer league and until recently operated mainly on the East Coast.

THE NORTH CAROLINA Wildlife Resources Commission reports some good news and some bad news for small game hunters this fall. First, the good news: quail and grey squirrel hunting should be good. Now, for the bad news: the rabbit population is at its lowest level in recent years.

"Unfortunately, we don't know why the rabbit population is low, but there are several factors that could be causing the decline," Charlie Woodhouse, wildlife biologist for the Commission explained. "Poor weather, changes in the animal's living habits, their regular boom and bust cycle and heavy pesticide use could all be playing a big part."

One prevalent theory among hunters is that heavy pesticide use by farmers is responsible for the decline, but Woodhouse rules that out as the sole reason. "We're finding low rabbit populations everywhere, including timbered areas that have been recently cut over and never sprayed. These areas should be full of rabbits. In the past, farmers used pesticides that are a lot more potent than the compounds they're using now, and we still had a healthy rabbit population." The NCWRC is currently conducting a study on the effects of pesticides on quail and rabbits which could shed some light on the matter.

ONE INTERESTING THEORY of the declining rabbit population is that the animals have changed their living habits and are no longer living in many of their former hang-outs. "Some people think the rabbit's lifestyle has changed over the years as a response to hunting, and I think that could be a part of it," Woodhouse said.

"The rabbits that lived in the covers that are easily hunted have been shot out and the smarter ones that live in areas that are hard to hunt are the ones which survive to breed. I think this plays a part, but I still don't think it's the whole reason for the drop."

Rabbit populations run in boom and bust cycles, but usually the population will recover from its low point in a year or two. The rabbit population has been down for about four years now and is showing no real signs of recovery.

"The fox population is high now and they usually take their share (of rabbits), but they're not responsible for what we're seeing now," according to Woodhouse. "Usually, you'll find when the fox population is high, the rabbit population is (also) high, which presently isn't the case."

Poor weather is another factor to be considered, but Woodhouse feels that it shouldn't have caused such a drastic reduction. "Weather does play a part in rabbit populations, especially during the breeding season, which lasts from the beginning of February until the end of the summer. But rabbits are so prolific, they should be able to repopulate the whole state after a bad year, and they haven't.'

"Some people also think that changes in land-use patterns are responsible for the decline; and while this may affect small areas, the changes statewide in the last four or five years haven't been drastic enough to cause a significant decline. When you come right down to it, we don't know what the problem is."

QUAIL POPULATIONS, on the other hand, should be in the best shape this year of the past few seasons. "We had a lot of rain this spring, which helped the quail out," Woodhouse said. "The hens feed mainly on wild grass and small shrubs during the breeding season, and it's important that they have a good, wet spring so there's lots of feed. If it's dry, the feed will be less nutritious, and we'll lose a lot more of the chicks. Fortunately, this year's drought didn't hit until mid-summer, when most of the chicks have already been hatched."

Squirrels are also having a good year, due to a heavy crop of acorns, beechnuts, and other times of prime squirrel quisine. A heavy mast crop is also expected for the coming year, so the animals should continue to do well.

Will Play

CINCINNATI (AP) — Eddie Edwards, the Cincinnati Bengals' No. 1 draft of 1977, has been given a clean bill of health and will suit up for Sunday's National Football League game against the New York Giants, the club announced Friday.

The rookie defensive tackle has missed the last two games while undergoing tests for mysterious chest pains.

The 6-foot-5, 255-pound No. 1 draft choice from Miami of Florida has not played since Nov. 6, when he suffered a blow to the chest against the Cleveland Browns.

Tampa Still Seeks Win

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — For Tampa Bay on Sunday it's the same quest that's been so elusive for 24 games: that first National Football League victory. For Atlanta it's the thin hope for a playoff berth.

The Falcons are 5-5, and Coach Leeman Bennett, still aiming for the playoffs, says, "As far as we're concerned the speculation is over. We've got to win four games.

"It's that simple, and even that might not be enough."

The Falcons trail Los Angeles by two games in their division after dropping a 21-20 squeaker to New Orleans last Sunday.

Besides the positive motivation of their playoff hopes, the Falcons are well aware of the ridicule that will fall to the first NFL team to bow to the Bucs.

Tampa Bay Coach John McKay will switch quarterbacks, going back to NFL veteran Gary Huff, in an effort to win the team's first game in its two NFL years.

Huff put 20 points on the board in a pre-season loss to the Falcons, but he's been out with rib troubles. And the Bucs have been going with young Jed Blount.

McKay said, "I'm not starting Gary because he did well against Atlanta last summer, but because he is our most experienced quarterback who has won some games. Because of that Atlanta defense we need all the help we can get."

The Falcons have given up only 82 points in 10 games, and McKay said, "Atlanta probably has the best defense in the league."

The Tampa offense features two former McKay standouts from Southern California — Anthony Davis and Ricky Bell — but it hasn't produced much.

Neither has Atlanta's offense, making a low-scoring game likely.

Goal Is Not Made

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Gordie Howe, playing despite a banged up left hand, took eight shifts, but once more failed to score his 1,000th career goal, as the Quebec Nordiques whipped Howe's New England Whalers 6-2 in a World Hockey Association Friday night.

Real Cloutier and Marc Tardif each scored two goals for the Quebec sextet, but the game was reasonably close at 4-2 going into the final period.

New England poured 21 shots at Richard Brodeur in the Quebec goal in the third period, but none of them came off the stick of the 49-year-old superstar. His only real scoring opportunity came in the third period, when he fired wide from directly in front after being set up by Alan Hangsleben.

Howe spent 15 minutes in the whirlpool bath after the game, then displayed his left hand, with a large-sized swelling across the knuckles around the tendon area.

Quebec, last year's Avco Cup champions, outplayed the Whalers in the first two periods — and only two goals in the final minute of the second period made it a game. Larry Pleau worked with John McKenzie and Dave Keon to reduce the Quebec lead to 4-1 with 43 seconds remaining. With only eight seconds left in the period, George Lyle scored directly from a faceoff.

In the final period, both teams played it wide open. Tardif scored twice in the final 4:08 to ease the pressure.

Saturday night, the Whalers host the Edmonton Oilers, against whom Howe scored his 999th goal on Nov. 10 in Hartford.

Gordie was further handicapped by the absence of his son Mark, who normally plays left wing with his father at center on a line with Tom Webster. Mark has torn cartilage in his rib cage area and also will miss the Edmonton game.

In the only other WHA game, Rich Preston scored twice in the third period to rally the Houston Aeros to a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Stingers.

Preston tied the game just 12 seconds into the final period on a short backhand shot and scored the game winner on a power play at the 9:51 mark on assists by Larry Lund and Andre Lacroix.

The triumph was Houston's fourth in its last five games and moved the Aeros into fifth place in WHA standings.

Joe DiMaggio holds the major league consecutive game hitting streak of 56 but he also batted safely in 61 straight games for San Francisco, then in the Pacific Coast League.

Bucks Put On Rally To Win

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

It was, in a word, incredible.

The Milwaukee Bucks, playing on the road, overcame a 29-point deficit with just 8:43 left to play, limited Atlanta to just 11 points in the fourth quarter and beat the Hawks 117-115 Friday night. Rookie Marques Johnson sank two free throws with one second left for the winning points in the National Basketball Association game.

"To say we collapsed is an understatement," a stunned Hawks Coach Hubie Brown said.

Milwaukee scored 17 points in a row in one stretch of the fourth quarter and finally tied the game on a jumper by Lloyd Walton with 27 seconds remaining before Johnson hit his game-winning free throws. Reserve Junior Bridgeman led the Bucks with 24 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA Friday night, the Boston Celtics edged the New York Knicks 121-119 in overtime, the Philadelphia 76ers trimmed the Golden State Warriors 125-119 in overtime, the Phoenix Suns beat the Indiana Pacers 118-110, the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the New Jersey Nets 129-117 and the Chicago Bulls topped the Seattle SuperSonics 106-89.

Celtics 121, Knicks 119, OT

New York overcame a 21-point deficit in the second half to send the game into overtime, then came back from a six-point deficit in the extra period for a 119-119 tie before Jo Jo White hit two free throws with three seconds remaining to win it for Boston.

Charlie Scott topped Boston with 23 points but New York guard Earl Monroe came on as a reserve to lead all scorers with 37.

76ers 125, Warriors 119, OT

Golden State, which lost its third in a row, erased a 17-point deficit in the fourth quarter and sent its game at Philadelphia into overtime on Charles Dudley's layup with 35 seconds left that made the score 113-113. But Doug Collins' running jumper snapped a 119-119 tie during the extra period, then Julius Erving clinched the victory with two free throws and a layup.

Suns 118, Pacers 110

Phoenix raised its record to 10-6 as Paul Westphal and Alvan Adams scored 30 points apiece and Gar Heard added 35, offsetting 35 by Indiana's Adrian Dantley. Heard's basket with 7:47 to play put the Suns ahead to stay at 97-96.

Lakers 129, Nets 117

James Edwards scored 31 points and second-year man Tom Abernethy hit 10 of his first 12 shots and scored a career-high 24 for the Lakers, who handed New Jersey its 15th loss in 17 games.

A's To Denver?

CHICAGO (AP) — Charlie Finley says he is negotiating with a group interested in purchasing his Oakland A's baseball club and moving it to Denver.

Finley said Friday that negotiations were held earlier in the week with Red Patterson of the California Angels and "an individual who would be the primary owner of the team, whose name I am not at liberty to divulge.

"Red was here and spent a day with me," Finley said. "There was no solid offer. We talked money. Yes, I'd say we're in the same ball park as to the amount of money involved."

Finley said he was leaving for Alabama on a business trip but would be in touch with Patterson again next week, probably Monday.

"I'm also still negotiating with Robert Moody (of Galveston, Tex.), who wants to buy the club and move it to New Orleans," Finley said. "I'll probably be talking to him next week, too."

Three ACC Teams Win

By The Associated Press

Three Atlantic Coast Conference teams took home victories from the basketball court Friday night, as four other league teams, include top-ranked North Carolina, took on opponents Saturday night.

Virginia's freshmen recruits Jeff Lamp and Lee Raker scored 37 points between them to pace the Cavaliers to an 83-63 win over James Madison.

The 14th-ranked Maryland Terrapins trounced Bucknell, 95-62, and Clemson downed Texas Christian 125-62.

"I thought we played awfully well," said Cavalier coach Terry Holland. "It was an outstanding team effort. I thought we did a darned good job defensively. I didn't think we gave them very many shots."

Lawrence Boston and Jo Jo Hunter each scored 15 points and teammate Albert King put in 13 in his varsity debut in Maryland's winning effort.

At the half it was Maryland ahead, 36-37. Bucknell pulled to within 46-37 with 15:03 remaining. But the Terps spurted to a 59-39 lead as Hunter scored four points and King three.

Clemson never lost the lead against the Horned Frogs, as Colon Abraham led the Tigers' scoring with 21 points, while sophomore John Campbell added 17 and grabbed 11 rebounds. Tiger Coach Bill Foster used all 14 players he had available in the season-opening game.

Rocky Mt. Wins Again

By The Associated Press

East Mecklenburg and Rocky Mount advanced to the North Carolina 4-A high school football finals Friday, while Robbinsville and Harrells Aademy won state high school football championships in their divisions.

Quarterback Jess Eberdt passed for 257 yards and two touchdowns to lead Rocky Mount to a 25-22 victory over Pine Forest of Fayetteville. East Mecklenburg took advantage of a blocked punt in its 14-7 win over Asheville.

Robbinsville defeated Rock Ridge, 42-7, for its 25th victory in a row and the 1-A championship. Quarterback Tim Solesbee ran for two touchdowns and passed for another in the Robbinsville attack.

Harrells won the state independent schools title with a 12-10 win over Christ School. Mike Fussell scored the winning touchdown on a 5-yard run with 10:21 left in the game.

In 3-A action, Western Guilford defeated host Clinton, 20-7. Western Guilford recovered a fumble on the Clinton 17 and scored two plays later for the winning touchdown.

Western Guilford's opponent in the 3-A finals will be South Caldwell, which handed Brevard its first loss of the season, 16-6.

In a 2-A semi-final game, Clayton upset previously unbeaten Tabor City 16-6, with Randy Poole running 21 yards for one touchdown and kicking a 27-yard field goal.

The other 2-A semifinal game, Maiden at Charlotte Catholic, was postponed to Saturday night because of heavy rains.

Situation Same For Two Teams

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

One team has nothing to lose, the other team everything. The situations almost are mirror images. But the words from the coaches couldn't be more similar.

The New York Jets are 2-8 and going nowhere this National Football League season. And they are thinking of starting Richard Todd, their quarterback with the bum knee, against powerful Pittsburgh Sunday.

The Oakland Raiders are 8-2 and trying to get back to the Super Bowl they won a year ago. And they are thinking of starting Ken Stabler, their quarterback with the bum knee, against bumbling Buffalo Monday night.

Todd was injured three weeks ago in a game against Miami. Stabler was hurt last Sunday against San Diego.

Also Sunday,, it will be Baltimore at Denver and Los Angeles at Cleveland in a pair of games matching divisional leaders, plus Dallas at Washington, Minnesota at Green Bay, Atlanta at Tampa Bay, the New York Giants at Cincinnati, Philadelphia at New England, Kansas City at Houston, San Diego at Seattle and New Orleans at San Francisco.

Joe Greene, Pittsburgh's fierce defensive tackle, is the guy who will be going after Todd — or his replacement, rookie Matt Robinson. And he can't figure out why the Jets, building their hopes of the next decade on Todd, would want to use Joe Namath's heir against the Steelers.

"If Todd is the Jets' whole future, as they say, and he is under par, then they shouldn't play him. They're 2-8. the game can't possibly mean much to them in that position."

It means a lot to the Steelers, 6-4 and tied for first with Cleveland in the tight American Football Conference Central Division.

Baltimore's lead over Miami is 1½ games in the AFC East, so it appears the teams' critical game will be Monday night, Dec. 5, when the Colts and Dolphins meet at Miami. The Rams, whose National Football Conference West lead over Atlanta is two games, have won their last four games against Cleveland.

Dallas will be trying to widen its lead over St. Louis to two games in the NFC East and virtually kayo the Redskins from the playoffs, while Minnesota hopes to regain its one-game edge over Chicago in the NFC Central.

As it has every week since it became a member of the league 24 games ago, Tampa Bay is trying to get its inaugural victory. The Buccaneers, who have scored a league-low 53 points this season, go against the Atlanta Falcons, who have allowed a league-low 83.

By Jerry Bishop

With living areas loosely defined by the triple wing arrangement, the Hiawatha, an impressive 3 bedroom plan, shows versatility and allows the family to adapt rooms and areas as needed.

The formal dining room, for example, can be used as a fourth bedroom, since a closet is provided and more than adequate dining space is included in the family room. The Hiawatha, designed with remarkable adaptability, can be successfully customized to fit the needs of a small family, a large family, or a family that entertains frequently.

On the exterior, the home exudes rustic appeal. Used brick, shake shingles, and vertical siding are fused with good results, and the unusual drive-through garage is placed at right angled to the front to protect the facade.

A covered porch leads to the entry, where guests are ushered directly into the living room. An area that measures nearly 22 feet in length, the living room offers extensive space for entertainng and can be reserved primarily for that use. Note that the family room merits its own entry, a fact that will minimize cross-traffic through the living room.

Situated to the right of the living room in the home's quiet zone are the bedrooms. Three bedrooms and two full baths include a luxurious master bedroom with double closets and full bath. Three storage closets for linens and clothes are featured.

The large formal dining room with closet edges the bedroom area and is given an optional entry to the kitchen. Grouped together, the kitchen and family room create a vast space for family activity or informal parties. Besides the functional, complete kitchen, a long breakfast bar is included. Sliding glass doors extend the area to the covered patio, a delightful living area that can be enclosed for winter use if desired.

In total, the Hiawatha offers 1730 sq. ft. of living space, with another 1553 sq. ft. of space for storage or recreation room in the full basement.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

If you were having a house built to order, which would be your preference in each of the following cases?

1—Three bedrooms of about the same size or one large bedroom and two small ones?

2—A laundry room next to the kitchen or such a room in the bedroom wing, assuming that the house had no basement?

3—If the overall square footage permitted only a family room or only a dining room, which would you want?

4—Would you rather have a large living room and a small dining room or a medium living room and a medium dining room?

5—A one-car garage that would allow an extra room in the house or a two-car garage?

6—One bathroom in the master bedroom and one outside it or two bathrooms outside it?

7—If you intended to have both an attic and a basement in your new house and the builder agreed to finish one of them without extra charge, which would you select?

8—Given a choice between a fireplace in the living room or one in the family room, where would you want it?

9—A traditional or contemporary exterior design?

10—An extra room or a completely enclosed rear patio?

Why these questions? Because, over the years in weekly columns about new house designs, these are the subjects which seem to come up the most. People are constantly asking whether certain changes will be practical in the designs as presented. Most of the time they are, although in some cases, such changes add to the cost of construction. But the above 10 questions relate to subjects which seem to cause the most concern without any appreciable cost differences.

It is one of the curious things that people are constantly asking for innovations in housing, but seldom choose them when it comes down to building for themselves. Most house designs have their own styling and readers either select them or ignore them, but in a few instances over the years, the architects have provided choices. A house is given two exteriors, one traditional and one contemporary. The interior in each is identical. In nearly all cases, the readers choose the tried-and-true traditional designs. The same thing occurs when an architect introduces something new on the inside of the house. Invariably, people will write in and say they like the house but wonder whether the builder will charge more if they skip the innovation and utilize something more conventional.

Let's hear from you. And in answering the above questions, be honest. Your answers should be predicated on what your selections would be if you actually were having a house built. We'll let you know what we find out.

3 Or 4 Logs For Good Fire

CHICAGO (UPI) — A good fire needs three to four logs, and a grate and andirons to hold logs up from the firebox floor to create better air circulation, says the Fireplace Institute, a trade organization.

A backlog is just that, a large log at the rear of the grate to radiate heat into the room and provide a heat source to keep other logs burning brightly.

Kindling such as newspaper twists, dry twigs and pieces of dry scrap lumber should separate the backlog from the front log. Two or three additional logs should be placed over and around the kindling.

Here's the Answer

Q. — I am a recently retired widow and would like to refinish a hardwood floor, but only around the rug; in other words, only the part that shows. I have never done this kind of work before and would like your advice as to the kind of sandpaper to use. I don't want to use a power sander, just a piece of sandpaper around a wooden block.

A. — You don't say how much of the floor is showing, but if there is very much of it, you have scheduled quite a job for yourself. Sanding by hand can be tedious if the objective is to remove some or all of the old finish, but it certainly can be done. Use a heavy grade of paper for the first sanding, a medium for the second and a fine for the third. You can skip the heavy paper if there is very little finish to remove. Once satisfied with the result of the sanding, wipe with turpentine to remove all traces of grit. Then, to be doubly sure, go over the floor with a vacuum cleaner. After that, refinish with varnish or shellac if you want a glossy finish, with a penetrating sealer if you want a non-gloss surface.

Q. — I am thinking about getting one or more smoke detectors for my home, but I am a bit leery about all the sales pitches for them. Since it is the flames that do all the damage, why don't they sell flame detectors?

A. — Three-fourths of all home fires start slowly, with smoking and smoldering much before there are any visible flames. Also, the large majority of fire deaths in the home are caused by smoke inhalation. Very few persons burn to death. Tests show that smoke and other lethal gases are generated in large quantities before temperatures rise to dangerous levels. Heat detectors are less effective than smoke detectors in life-saving capabilities.

Q. — I intend to get two smoke detectors. Which is better — the battery-powered or the AC.-powered?

A. — Both do the job. Those who like AC-powered models feel that it is an advantage not to have to change batteries once a year. Those who prefer the battery type — and they seem to be in the majority — make the choice because a handy electrical outlet or special wiring is not necessary.

Q. — I have an old cabinet that I want to refinish. It was last finished about 10 years ago with shellac. I now want to put on a polyurethane finish. Can this be applied right over the shellac after I sand it a little to get off the gloss?

A. — No. While there is one type of shellac that will stand up under a polyurethane, the usual kind, which has not been formulated for such a purpose, may be damaged. A regular varnish should be used.

Q. When is the best time to cut back asparagus plants? (Mrs. D. E., Mint Hill)

A. Anytime after frost. (George Hughes, extension horticulturist)

Q. What is the best soil for pansy plants? (D. E., Charlotte)

A. Pansies do well in a cool, fairly moist soil. If your soil is not naturally fertile, add such as bark shavings, peat moss, compost. Mix well to a depth of six inches. Be sure to select a site that is well drained — pansies will not tolerate wet feet. And, pansies grow best in full sun. When you set plants, be certain that the crown is above ground. (A. A. Banadyga, extention horticulturist)

Q. I have one apple tree that is about 25 years old and two trees that are about four years old. When is the best time to prune them? (S. G., Zebulon)

A. Wait until the trees are dormant, which is usually between Thanksgiving and Easter in the Raleigh area. I would prune the old tree in January and the young trees at or near the time of bud swell next spring. All apple trees should be pruned and trained annually. (Mel Kolbe, extension horticulturist)

Q. Are there some vegetables that are particularly adapted for growing indoors during the winter months? (R. D., Charlotte)

A. Yes. Vegetables that are better adapted for growing indoors because of their short growing season and climatic and space requirements are radish, spanish, kale, mustard, onions, chives, parsley, leaf lettuce, endive, escarole, beets and watercress. A new, delightful book by Jack Kramer entitled "Escarole in the Bedroom — Growing Food Plants Indoors" is published by Little, Brown and Company, 34 Beaver Street, Boston, Mass. 02106 and tells all about how to grow vegetables indoors. ## Outdoor Gas Lamps Banned

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota has banned decorative outdoor gas lamps, as a means of conserving natural gas.

Although widely promoted by utility firms a few years ago, the lamps are now viewed as a waste of natural gas needed for heating homes.

The ban was ordered by the 1976 state legislature but was postponed until Oct. 1, 1977, giving time for homeowners to convert their lamps to electricity.

Homeowners who don't comply can be fined up to $500 and given up to 90 days in jail, but there were no early reports of prosecutions.

The law allows homeowners over 65 and certain other persons to seek variances, allowing them to keep their lamps in operation.

The ban also applies to any commercial use of decorative gas lamps.

Has Clue To Snakebite's Life-Saver

By DAVID N. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Van Philpot wondered for 40 years what kept venomous snakes from dying from their own poison. Now he knows what it is — and his isolation of that clear protein substance could save thousands of lives each year.

That isolation, believed to be the first ever, may now lead to a new method of saving snake bite victims.

Snake bites currently are treated with antitoxin from immunized horses but almost one-third of the people receiving that substance have allergic reactions, sometimes fatal ones.

"In addition, horse antitoxin for rattler bites cannot be used for moccasin bites, for example," Dr. Philpot said in a telephone interview. "But what we have found can be used for all viper and pit viper bites all over the world." The viper family includes asps, rattlers, bushmasters, copperheads, and moccasins.

The search to find such a substance began when Philpot was a 15-year-old boy in high school biology class in Houuston, a small town in northeast Mississippi near the Alabama border.

After learning that some animals were immune to poisons, Philpot said he theorized that antibodies in the blood of king snakes enabled them to fight poisonous rattlers and win.

But it was 10 years before he was able to do anything to prove that hypothesis.

"In 1948 I got 10 mice and inoculated them with a lethal dose of snake venom," Philpot says. "I protected five with serum I had made from king snake blood. The inoculated mice lived but I didn't know what it was in the serum which neutralized the poison.

"It was like a golfer teeing off for the first time and hitting a hole in one. I was lucky — too much venom or too little serum and they would have all died."

Because so much luck was involved, Philpot said few scientists took his results seriously and he spent the next two and a half decades at several sites trying to find the specific neutralizing agent.

It was his collaboration with Dr. Stjernholm, a Swedish immigrant who teaches biochemistry at Tulane, which finally purified the protein substance which naturally inhibits the effect of snake poison.

"It took two years to isolate the agent and another two to find out how it worked," says Dr. Stjernholm. "We found it was the same agent in all viper and pit vipers."

Philpot and Stjernholm say they have sent their findings off to be published and that drug firms seem interested in producing the substance, which would need the approval of the federal Food and Drug Adminstration before it could be marketed.

The doctors say that process could take two to three years and that in the meantime they will be trying to isolate the neutralizing agent in the cobra and coral snake family.

Try This MPG With Your Car

STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — A Mercedes-Benz automobile has set what may be a world record for fuel economy — more than 1,500 miles per gallon of gasoline. The car, 18 inches high, 106 inches long and weighing 125 pounds, was designed and built by a team of teen-age apprentices at the company's Stuttgart factory for a fuel economy competition. It was powered by an air-cooled, one-cylinder diesel engine of less than one horsepower.

Keep Cool To Control Bugs

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) — Refrigerator storage in tightly covered containers is a good way to keep household staples free from insect infestation, says research chemist Stuart Bellin.

He recommends such storage for flour, cornmeal, grits, rice, cayenne pepper and paprika.

Bellin, a certified North Carolina pest control applicator, said bugs such as grain moths, grain beetles, weevils and drugstore beetles can get into grains while they are still at the mill.

Tracks Bear

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — U.S. scientists are tracking a pregnant polar bear who evidently has little respect for convention or international borders.

The bear was tagged with a special radio transmitter by a federal research team last June as she wandered north of this Arctic coast community.

But in September, she headed west and crossed the Bering Sea ice into Siberia. Her radio signals are coming in loud and clear from the Soviet Union via satellite for readings by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service researchers in Barrow.

She was one of two bears tagged at the time, according to project leader Jack Lentfer.

Lentfer said he has written his counterparts in Moscow, asking their help in tracking the bear or permission to follow her into Siberia to recover the transmitter.

Woman Killed In Strike Honored

BESSEMER CITY, N.C. (AP) — Ella May Wiggins might not ring a bell with many North Carolinians, but to others she is the symbol of the Southern mill worker's labor problems.

Mrs. Wiggins was shot to death Sept. 14, 1929, at the height of violence over a strike at a Gastonia mill. She was 29, and the mother of five children.

Union leaders will honor her today at her resting place in the Bessemer City Cemetery.

"She probably had more impact on people's lives than all the statutes in this blamed state," said Bill Brawley, a Charlotte fire captain. "There were a lot of people killed in this state at that time, and it stopped the labor movement here. I think we've got to go back and start from there, let the world know about Ella May Wiggins."

The labor heroine was a Bessemer City mill worker who wrote strike ballads and helped organize black workers. She was enroute to a union meeting in south Gastonia when a car forced the truck she was riding off the road. Shots were fired into the truck and she was killed.

Her relatives have mixed feelings about Mrs. Wiggins' activities.

Charlotte Payne was just 13 months old when her mother Ella May died. She grew up in an Asheville orphanage.

"If the truth were really known, I guess I'm a little bitter, thinking she should have stayed home with us. I know I missed out a whole lot by not having a mother," said Mrs. Payne, 49, who lives in Roanoke, Va.

Mrs. Wiggins' brother Albert, a Bessemer City textile worker, wanted to sue news commentator Paul Harvey years ago for calling Mrs. Wiggins a communist in a Gastonia speech. A lawyer told him he couldn't afford a lawsuit.

"I believe she was trying to help the working people," her brother said. "I don't think she was a communist, though. I'm proud of her, but I'd rather leave it alone. It might hurt my grandchildren and my nieces and nephews."

Miss Creech, Mr. Cannon Are Married On Friday

PINE LEVEL — Miss Minya Susan Creech, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Levey Preston Creech of Pine Level, and Thomas Ray Cannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Taft Cannon of Greenville, were united in marriage Friday at 7:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the Pine Level Missionary Baptist Church by the Rev. Doland Humphreys. A program of music was presented by Janet Hinton, organist, and Ron Staton, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her brother-in-law, Donnie Tart. She wore a formal gown of ivory sata peau fashioned with a colonial neckline, empire waist and long bishop sleeves with a ruffled cuff and bridal buttons. The bodice and sleeves featured re-embroidered alencon and Brussels lace accented with rolls of tucks on the bodice. The A-line skirt was designed with matching re-embroidered alencon and Brussels lace with a short ruffle bordering the bottom, which extended into a chapel length train.

The bride wore a picture hat covered with an overlayed on re-embroidered alencon lace. Seed pearls trimmed the scalloped edge of lace. The hat was accented with a band of chiffon with a bow and flower cluster adorning the back of the hat. She carried a bouquet of orchids, daisies and stephanotis.

The honor attendant was Jo Ferguson of Richmond, Va. Bridesmaids included Mrs. Robert Brown, Mrs. Leon L. Moore, Ms. Kathy Owens and Mrs. Mark Tipton, all of Greenville, Mrs. Edwin F. Pearce and Mrs. Donnie R. Tart of Pine Level, sisters of the bride.

They wore lyric halter gowns of polyknit chiffon fashioned with a raised waist which was accented with a matching flower and sheer chiffon capes. They carried nosegays of bronze daisy mums.

Flower girls were Suzanne Tart and Beth Pearce, both of Pine Level. Their dresses were styled with raised waistlines and puff sleeves. They carried baskets of bronze daisy mums.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man and ushers included Bob Brown, Billy Cannon, brother of the bridegroom, Chico Clark, Lyn Moore and Mark Tipton, all of Greenville, Dick Clark of Beaufort, S. C., and Richard Jackson of South Lake Tahoe, Nev.

After a wedding trip to Kaiwah Island and Charleston, S. C., the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of ECU and is employed by Pitt County Schools. The bridegroom attended Rose High School and Fishburn Military School. He is associated with Cannon's Warehouse and in the nursery business with his brother.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at an after-rehearsal dinner honoring the bridal couple and members of the wedding party.

MRS. THOMAS RAY CANNON

Couple Exchanges Vows On Saturday Afternoon

St. Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene of the wedding ceremony Saturday at 5:30 p.m. of Candace Cicerone and Phillip R. Dixon.

Daughter of Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Angelo J. Cicerone of Shreveport, La., the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of white qiana over peau de soie designed with an open V-neckline with a stand-up Queen Anne collar of silk sculptured Venise lace. The empire bodice was overlaid in panels of the matching lace with the waistline encircled in Venise lace. The long fitted sleeves featured self-fabric covered button closures at the wrist. The full gathered circular skirt flowed in to an attached chapel length train.

She wore a fingertip length mantilla edged in Venise lace to complement her gown. The bride carried a formal cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses, orchids, stephanotis and sprays of English ivy.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Larson Jr. of Raleigh.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Paul Allen III of Westview Christian Church, Wilson, and John Price of St. Paul's Church.

A program of organ music was rendered by Mrs. Paul Allen III of Wilson. Nuptial music was presented by a string trio including Dr. Paul Topper, violinist, Mrs. David Mellado, violinist, and David Mellado, cellist.

The honor attendant was Sharon Cicerone Vetter of Rapid City, S. D., sister of the bride. Bridesmaids included Patricia Cicerone of Baton Rouge, La., sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jane Shetterly Lawrence of Wrightsville Beach. The attendants wore formal rust gowns fashioned with am empire waistline, gathered bodice, spaghetti straps and an accordian pleated skirt. A capelet of sheer chiffonette draped their shoulders. They carried nosegays of rust rover mums with matching natural diamond straw and baby's breath tied with spice velvet. They wore natural baby's breath in their hair.

The flower girl was Toni Vetter of Rapid City, S. D. She carried a basket of spice and gold miniature flowers tied with a spice bow. The ring bearer was Michael Schmidt, son of Dr. and Mrs. Rodney Schmidt of Greenville. He carried a white satin pillow with a spray of fall flowers.

The best man was Greg Dixon of Raleigh, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Edward Harper III and James Hicks, both of Greenville, Carl Joyner of Raleigh, and David Guilford of Winston-Salem.

The bride received her B.M. and M.M.E. from the School of Music at East Carolina University. She is a teacher of music at D. H. Conley High School and A. G. Cox School. The bridegroom graduated from East Carolina University and the UNCCH Law School. He is an attorney with Gaylord, Singleton and McNally.

The couple will reside in Greenville following their wedding trip.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Parrish Hall.

Miss Carmen Elaine Dawkins Weds Nicholas Albert Daves

Miss Carmen Elaine Dawkins and Nicholas Albert Daves were married Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Immanuel Baptist Church by Rev. Gene M. Adams and the father of the bride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Garrett Dawkins of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harmon Daves Jr. of Spartanburg, S. C.

The chancel of the church was decorated with a fifteen-branched candelabrum interspersed with greenery and flanked by a basket of fall flowers. On either side were candelabras in fall flowers and palms.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory poie de' soie satin with appliques of chantilly lace centered with clusters of seed pearls. The sheath gown had a high neckline with long tapered sleeves. The gown was bordered at the bottom with poie de' soie lace. Her elbow length veil was of ivory silk illusion and was attached to a bandeau headpiece with appliques of chantilly lace. Her bouquet was a formal Victorian bouquet of talisman roses, lace pompons and baby's breath tapered off in English ivy and ivory streamers.

Alice Elaine Dawkins of Greenville, niece of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal gown of rust polyester knit with a halter design, featuring a chiffon cape. The bodice featured a scoop neckline and an empire waistline.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Howard Garrett Dawkins Jr. of Greenville, Mrs. Frank Morgan Dawkins of Louisville, Ky., both sisters-in-law to the bride, and Mrs. Alvin Shedrick Jolly III of Spartanburg, S. C., sister of the bridegroom. They wore dresses similiar to that of the honor attendant. They carried bouquets of fall pompons, talisman roses and corn flowers accented with crimson wheat and fall baby's breath. They also wore baby's breath in their hair.

Miss Mary Ann Hagler of Winston-Salem and Miss Nancy G. Barnhill of Robersonville were honor attendants.

The mothers wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Dr. Howard Garrett Dawkins Jr. of Greenville, Frank Morgan Dawkins of Louisville, Ky., both brothers of the bride, and Alvin Shedrick Jolly III of Spartanburg, S. C., brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Wedding music was provided by organist Herbert Joyner and soloist Nora Jean Hill, both of Kinston.

The reception was held at the church. Greeting the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ronald L. Goins of Winston-Salem and Dr. and Mrs. Howard G. Dawkins Jr. In charge of the bride's table and register were Mary Ann Hagler of Winston-Salem and Nancy G. Barnhill of Robersonville. Others assisting were Mr. and Mrs. A. Shedrick Jolly III, Mrs. Charles W. Warren, and Mrs. Dan S. Williamson, both aunts of the bridegroom.

Dawkins, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Williams at the home of the Carter's on the morning of the wedding, a rehearsal party given by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Tyson at their home Friday, a rehearsal dinner given by the parents of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. A. Shedrick Jolly III at the Brook Valley Country Club, and a coffee given in honor of the bride at the home of Mrs. A. M. Mumford. Other hostesses were Mrs. Glenn Cox, Mrs. Curtis Howell, Mrs. Reid Tripp, Mrs. Charlie Snell, Mrs. A. S. Johnson, Mrs. W. G. Moore, Mrs. Alex White, Mrs. Tyson Bilbro and Mrs. Raymond Martin.

Marsh-Fleming Vows Solemnized Friday

SMITHFIELD — Miss Ann Morris Fleming and Timothy Grady Marsh were united in marriage Friday at 8:00 p.m. in the Centenary United Methodist Church here.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dixon Fleming of Smithfield. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oren Grady Marsh of Miami, Fla.

Miss Fleming's gown of white silk organza over de-lustered satin featured an empire bodice with bishop sleeves. Re-embroidered alencon lace beaded in seed pearls and iridescent sequins outlined the portrait neckline and formed sprays on the sleeves and full skirt which extended into a chapel train. Her full length mantilla of bridal illusion was bordered in the matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and asparagus fern centered with a yellow throated white orchid.

Wedding music was presented, by Mrs. John Arthur Wallace Sr., organist, and Frank Wallace, trumpeteer.

Miss Jean Griffin Fleming was her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a bottle green knit gown featuring a portrait neckline and long sleeves trimmed with malibu. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, fuji mums and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Dixon Fleming Jr., sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Amy Marsh, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Kay Castleberry, Miss Mary Creech and Miss Martha Wooten, all of Smithfield, and Miss Rhonda Smith of Burlington. Their dresses and flowers matched those of the maid of honor.

Charles Hartman of Johnson City, Tenn., uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were John Dixon Fleming Jr. and Miles Glenn Fleming, brother of the bride, of Smithfield, Capt. Tommy Bailey of Boone, Bruce Maynard and John Pisani both of Miami, Fla., and Robert Worsham of Smithfield.

The bride attended Peace College and Appalachian State University. She will complete her education at the University of Miami. The bridegroom graduated Magna Cum Laude from East Tennessee State University, where he received a B.S. degree. He received his M.A. degree from Appalachian State University. He is presently employed by the Dade County Public Schools, Miami, Fla.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Country Club of Johnston County.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Fleming of Raleigh, and Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Edwards of Greenville, aunts and uncles of the bride entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Fleming for the bridal party and members of the family Wednesday evening.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at dinner following the wedding rehearsal Thursday evening in the Rendezvous Room adjoining Howard Johnson's Restaurant.

On Friday at noon, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Alford of Rocky Mount, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Griffin of Charlotte, aunts and uncles of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Cunningham of Smithfield held the wedding brunch in the Cunningham's home honoring the bridal couple, wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Miss Barbara Kay Carson Weds Joel S. Barnhill

MRS. JOEL SPENCER BARNHILL

The Bethel United Methodist Church was the setting for the private wedding ceremony of Barbara Kay Carson and Joel Spencer Barnhill. The double-ring ceremony was soleminized by the Rev. Ellis J. Bedsworth at 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wade Carson of Bethel. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tracy Barnhill of Stokes.

Jackie Jarvis of Greenville, organist, presented a program of nuptial music prior to the ceremony. Soloist, Emery T. Davis of Bethel, sang "Ich Liebe Dich," "Walk Hand In Hand" and "One Hand, One Heart."

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a formal gown of white qiana. The gown was fashioned with an empire waist, a Queen Anne neckline and long fitted sleeves. The A-line skirt fell from the empire bodice into a cathedral train. Seed pearls and iridescents on rosepoint lace enchanced the neckline and encircled the cuffs of the sleeves.

Her cathedral length mantilla of silk illusion fell from a Camelot cap of qiana adorned with seed pearls and iridescents on rosepoint lace. The bride carried a formal cascade bouquet of miniature white carnations, white sweetheart roses and a white orchid interspersed with stephanotis.

Mrs. Joseph Roy Smith attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of terra cotta qiana. The gown was designed with an empire waist, cowl neck collar and long fitted sleeves. She carried a cascade of yellow fiyi mums, bronze pompons, and eucalyptus.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Clarence Tracy Barnhill Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Dr. Joseph Roy Smith.

The mother of the bride chose a formal gown of autumn rose, complemented with a full length sheer coat. She carried a white cattleya orchid fastened to her handbag.

The mother of the bridegroom wore an azure blue formal gown and carried a white cattleya orchid fasten to her bag.

The bridegroom's maternal grandmother selected a formal gown of mellon rose. She wore a white cattleya orchid.

On Friday evening, the bridegroom's parents honored the wedding party, out-of-town guests and relatives at an after-rehearsal dinner at The King and Queen Restaurant in Greenville.

The bride attended Atlantic Christian College. The bridegroom attended North Carolina State University. They are both employed with Carson Gas and Peanut Company.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Bethel.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Couple Saturday Afternoon

Miss Lena Hope Tripp and Kenneth M. Sermons were married in the Red Oak Christian Church Saturday at 4 p.m. Dr. Harold Deitch officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The church was centered with a fifteen-branch brass candelabra holding an arrangement of pink and white gladioli chrysanthemums and pompons flanked by two seven-branch brass candelabra.

The couple knelt on a white wrought-iron prie-dieu for the benediction. Family pews were marked with pink and white satin.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Earl Tripp of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sermons of Farmville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown with a chapel train of qiana and Venise lace. The fitted bodice featured a Victorian neckline and full length tapered sleeves. Venise lace motifs outlined an illusion yoke of the bodice, appliqued the tapered sleeves, and encircled the waist. The full length skirt extended into a chapel train. Venise lace bordered the hemline. The bride chose a fingerti length chiffon mantilla bordered with Venise lace with an illusion blusher attached to a Camelot cap for her headpiece. Her bouquet was a white lace covered Bible topped with a white cattleya orchid corsage, with garlands of pink miniature carnations and pompons with matching ribbons.

Geneva Warren of Greenville, cousin of the bride, was the honor attendant. She wore an A-line dress made of pink polyester with floral chiffon jacket. She carried a long-stem white mum and baby's breath with pink streamers. She wore a headpiece of white pompons with baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Jo Anne Sermons, sister of the bridegroom, and Tena Tripp, sister of the bride, both of Greenville. They wore dresses similiar to that of the honor attendant and carried a long-stem pink mum. They wore a hairpiece of white pompons and baby's breath with pink ribbons.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were William Sermons of Farmville, brother of the bridegroom, and Len Sawyer of Greenville.

Wedding music was provided by organist Libby Braxton.

The wedding was directed by Joyce Spencer.

The reception was held at the church following the ceremony. The table was decorated with a lace cloth and a centerpiece of pink and white carnations, pompons and gladioli, interspersed with baby's breath. The cake was served by Mrs. Faye Tripp, aunt of the bride. Pinch Punch was served by Leatrice Galloway, aunt of the bride. Assisting in serving was Mrs. Nell Bland, Mrs. Jane Tripp, and Mrs. Barbara Tripp.

The mother of the bride wore a pink dress with a pink carnation. The mother of the bridegroom wore a green dress with a white carnation. The grandmothers were remembered with corsages of white carnations.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School and is employed with Eaton Corporation. The bridegroom is a graduate of Farmville High School and is employed with the Greenville Fire Department.

Showers included one given at the home of the bride-elect. A shower given by relatives of the bridegroom was held at the home of Mrs. J. E. Sermons in Farmville.

A miscellaneous rehearsal party was given by the bridegroom's parents at the church Thursday in honor of the bridal party and out-of-town guests. The table was decorated with a lace cloth and a centerpiece of pink and white carnations and baby's breath. The cake was served by Mrs. Tina Felford, and the punch was served by Mrs. Margaret Wise.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I was standing on the curb the other day when my husband yelled from behind the wheel of the car, "Get in!"

I yelled back, "Where do you want me to sit?"

He retorted, "Your usual place."

I had to stand there and smile. That was a ridiculous thing to say to a woman who has changed seats in a car every time the gears shift.

When we dated, I sat so close to the driver, he looked like he was driving alone. The longer we dated, the more I gravitated toward the passenger side.

After we were married, I was all the way over to the door . . . with the exception of when my mother-in-law rode with us and I was relegated to the back seat.

After the first two children were born, I sat with my body draped over the back seat so I could lurch and swat. When a third child came along, I sacrificed my front window seat and sat between the other two in the back to (a) accommodate everyone with a window seat and (b) to keep them from killing one another.

After car pools became a way of life, I slid over to the driver's spot behind the steering wheel, a position I held until my knees locked.

I remained there until the children began to drive. Then I moved back to the passenger side where I sat constricted in fear with my right foot on an imaginary brake and both hands on the door handle.

When the children left and we began to see grown-ups once again, I was relegated to the back seat with the other woman where it was assumed we would have more to talk about than the man I married.

Some women tell me it isn't over yet. There's the period when you get grandchildren and they ride up front and you sit in the back with the porta-potty and the playpen, and when your daughter gets older, you end up in the back seat with her again.

"Are you going to stand there all day or are you going to get into the car?" yelled my husband impatiently.

I crawled over the dog (who insists on sitting by the window where he can hang his tongue out of the no-draft) and squeezed in close to my husband. "We've gone complete cycle," I whispered.

He hadn't the foggiest notion what I was talking about.

Engagements Announced

MISS MARY LOU BUNTING. . .is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Royal Bunting of Bethel, who announce her engagement to Timothy Wilson Roberson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hudson Roberson of Robersonville. The wedding will take place Jan. 21.

MS. KATHY HADDOCK LANGLEY. . .is the daughter of Mrs. Mary B. Williams of Rt. 2, Greenville, who announces her engagement to Frank Charles Harrington Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Harrington Sr. of Rt. 3, Greenville. The wedding will take place in May.

McKenzie-Crowther Vows Solemnized

Miss Susan Jane Crowther became the bride of Charles Kevin McKenzie at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Friday. The Rev. Pat Houston performed the double ring ceremony at four o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. Arthur, John Crowther and Mrs. Jennifer Gale Crowther of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. L. C. McKenzie Jr. of Roseboro, and the late Mr. L.C. McKenzie.

A program of organ music was presented by Sharon Irwin. Miss Holly Stallings, vocalist, was accompanied by her brother, Lee Stallings. The music presented was "You Light Up My Life" and the "Wedding Song."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white qiana over peau de soie designed with a scoop neckline with a stand-up Elizabethan collar, outlined in Venise lace. Matching lace was repeated on the fitted empire bodice and encircled the waistline. Self-covered buttons extended down the back to the waistline. The long fitted sleeves featured cuffs of the silk Venise lace. The flowing skirt and attached chapel length grain were edged in the silk Venise lace.

She wore a walking length tiered imported illusion veil held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in silk Venise lace beaded with pearls. Her bouquet was a mixture of pink orchids, pink roses, white carnations and stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gillian S. Elliot, of Gaithersburg, Md., aunt of the bride, wore a formal length, gown of pansy knit designed with a scoop neckline accentuated by Trapunta stitching. Matching trim was repeated on the cuffs of the long fitted sleeves. The full skirt fell from the empire waistline styled with an overlay of Trapunta with rope tied at both sides. Her bouquet was of pink roses and white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Claudia McKenzie, sister of the bridegroom of Boone, Miss Julie Strickland of Greenville, and Miss Michele Gentile of Grimesland. Their gowns were styled identically to the honor attendant in a shade of hyacinth blue. They carried identical bouquets as the matron of honor.

The best man was Bradley W. McKenzie, brother of the bridegroom from Roseboro. Groomsmen were David G. Crowther of Raleigh and William J. Crowther of Greenville, both brothers of the bride, and Shelley Hairr of Clinton.

The police hut was decorated with pink and white flowers.

The bridegroom is employed as a Greenville police officer. He is a graduate of East Carolina University. The bride will be attending Pitt Technical Insititue.

The couple will live in Greenville following a wedding trip to the mountains.

The bride and bridegroom were honored at a dinner Thursday given by Mr. and Mrs. Amos R. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. James and Mr. and Mrs. William A. Tew in Clinton.

Mrs. T. R. Strickland Miss Julie Strickland entertained at a shower Sunday.

Abby Votes With Other Sources

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y.News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am just about ready to lose my mind. I have talked to our minister, my family doctor (he gave me some pills for my nerves), all my relatives and some of the neighbors, and everyone tells me there is nothing I can do. You are my last hope.

I have a beautiful daughter. She is 54 and has never been married. She had her chances, but she was particular. She worked steady for 35 years, saved her money and never ran around.

Well, she finally met a man she thinks is worth marrying. He is 57 (he says) and has never been married (he claims). He travels for some kind of electronics company, and all I know about him is that he drives a nice car and has my daughter in a trance. Here is the blow. My daughter says she doesn't want a wedding, so if she doesn't come home one night, I shouldn't worry—she'll have gone to Las Vegas to get married. How can I talk some sense into that child's head?

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'll have to vote with the minister, your family doctor, the relatives and the neighbors. Your "child" is a big girl now and well able to make her own decisions. Don't take it personally. She's entitled to have the kind of wedding she wants.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 25, have been divorced for five years and have two children, ages 6 and 4. I wasn't married when my second child was born. That's when I had my tubes tied. (I figured two children were enough for me, married or single.)

Then I met Ray and it was love at first sight for both of us. Ray is perfect for me in every way. He's 33, divorced and has never had any children, but he's crazy about kids. He's just like a father to my children and they adore him. Abby, I've never known such a kind and understanding man.

Ray and I have set our wedding date, and the closer it gets the more chicken I get because I never told him that I had my tubes tied. He keeps talking about the "kids" we will have one day, and I just can't tell him I can't have any more. I am so afraid that if he knows the truth it might change the way he feels about me, and I love him so much I don't want to lose him.

Would it be terribly dishonest if I were to keep this from him?

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: Yes. If it will make a difference in his feelings for you, you're better off knowing now. Tell him. If he's as kind and understanding as you say he is, he'll marry you anyway.

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Miss Linvill, Mr. Cooley Wed

Linda Louise Linvill and Robert Elton Cooley were married Friday at 4 p.m. in the Ayden United Methodist Church. The Rev. Travis Owen officiated in the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Beierschmitt of Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elton L. Cooley of Grifton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a two-piece formal-length dress of ivory with front and back crystal pleating, the full sleeves gathered at the waist. The dress was trimmed in gray, green and brown ribbons. Her veil was a three-tiered fingertip length of nylon illusion with an ivory satin bow and scattered flowers. Her nosegay was of bronze and yellow daisies with streamers to match her dress.

Carolyn Beierschmitt of Chester, Va., was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of polyester with a square neck, empire waist, and short puffed sleeves. She carried a single long-stemmed yellow carnation with green streamers.

Bridesmaid was Janice Grady of Beulaville. She wore a gown similiar to that of the matron of honor.

John O'Quinn of Grifton was best man. Ushers were Dennis Beierschmitt of Chester, Va., brother of the bride, and Jimmy Jone Jr. of La Grange. Christopher Linvill, son of the bride, lighted the candles.

Wedding music was provided by organist Andrea Norris and soloist Wilbur Ormond. Songs included "Love" and "Colour My World".

The wedding was directed by Joyce Ormond.

The reception was held in the fellowship following the ceremony. Serving as hostess was Linda Dinn of Grifton. At the register was Wanda Gaskins of Greenville. The cake was cut by Mrs. Joan Jones of Clayroot. Punch was poured by Carron Haddock.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Rt. 2 Ayden.

The bride is a graduate of Norview High and attended Old Dominion University and is employed by E. I. Dupont. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School and is employed by Stuart Shinn, Inc. of Greenville.

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

An old house, a bit of imagination, careful planning and a committed family — that's what it took to produce a comfortable home tailored to suit the needs of the Wiley Ray Hardee Jr. family of Pitt County.

Carol Ann and Ray, a couple in their early 30s, decided that renovation of a house on the 123-acre farm they are buying was the best way of achieving their dream house.

The local Agricultural Extension Office was contacted to assist in planning for the project. The Home Economics Extension Office, a cooperative contractor, plus back-up help from the extension housing specialist made the demonstration project a rewarding experience.

Informality is the way of life for this active farm family and this is the feeling they wanted their home to have. One large living area, an adequate dinning area near a well planned kitchen and an office for the farm operation were some of the 'musts' on their list.

Warm colors were selected for the interior of the house. Exposed beams, a massive fireplace and stained woodwork contribute to the atmosphere of the great room. Shutters serve as window treatment at the four windows which house a variety of green plants.

The office has a restored fireplace that really works. A Ben Franklin stove, a black rocker, a brass bed and two oak chests are used in the master bedroom. The house has bedrooms for each of the couples three children and a guest room. A laundry area is located behind louvered doors in the bedroom hall. A tile floor with a drain is a built-in safety measure in case of a washing machine overflow.

The house, with yellow vinyl siding and barn red shutters, has a newly landscaped yard including fruit trees which were already there. A wing, to house vehicles to be added in the future, will complete the project.

The Hardees are opening their remodeled home Wednesday, Nov. 30, to share ideas with others who might be interested in a renovation project. The public is invited to visit the house, which will be open from 2-5 p.m. and from 7-8 p.m., according to Mrs. Sue B. May, home economics extenstion agent.

The Hardee home is located on rural road 1110 between Ayden and Grifton. When traveling south from Ayden on Highway 11, turn west on rural road 1108 at the Ayden-Grifton High School, go approximately one mile and turn left on rural road 1110.

Deborah G. Peel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Dallas Peel of Richmond, Va., formerly of Greenville, is now living in Wilhelmshaven, West Germany.

At the end of September, she began serving as an apprentice with Alfred Fuhrer Orgelban, a pipe organ building firm in Wilhelmshaven.

She was invited to live in the home of the president of the company, Fritz Schild, his wife and two children. After working in Germany for approximately a year, she will return to the United States where she will represent the company in sales and maintenance.

Deborah received her master of music degree in church music from Northwestern University in August.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Gilbert Peel Sr. of Greenville.

Miss Beaman, Mr. Ellis Wed

FARMVILLE — The marriage of Jackie Carol Beaman and Willard Leon Ellis Jr. was solemnized in the Friendship Free Will Baptist Church Friday at 7:00 p.m.

The Rev. Walter Reynolds performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Susan Parker of Rt. 1, Farmville, pianist. Kenneth Cobb, cousin of the bride, sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "More." Susan Beaman, sister of the bride, sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper O. Beaman of Rt. 1, Farmville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of organza and alencon lace encircled with seed pearls. The fitted bodice featured a split V-neckline and full bishop sleeves. Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls adorned the bodice and organza ruffle over the hand. The full length flared organza skirt extended into a chapel train accented with a bow at the waist back.

The bride chose a fingertip layered veil of illusion appliqued with alencon lace attached to a lace cap etched with seed pearls. The bride's jewelry was a pearl necklace and matching earrings. Her bouquet was of white miniature carnations and fuji mums with yellow sweetheart roses interlaced with ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Leon Ellis of Farmville are parents of the bridegroom.

The maid of honor was Susan Beaman of Farmville, sister of the bride. She wore a formal length gown of spice polyester interlock and ivory Venise lace. The gown featured a Queen Ann neckline, A-line skirt and matching capelet. She carried a nosegay of spider mums, baby's breath and daisies. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Larry Brock of Meridian, Miss., sister of the bridegroom, Debbie Smith of Rt. 2, LaGrange, Pam Beaman of Farmville, sister of the bride, and Vicky Ellis of Farmville, sister of the bridegroom. Their dresses and flowers were identical to those of the honor attendant.

Tammy Brock of Meridian, Miss., niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a formal length white dress with an assortment of flowers. The ring bearer was Chad Grant of Farmville.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Walter Moffitt, Ricky Ellis, Morris Lewis and Wayne Slaughter, all of Farmville.

Mrs. Phil Rouse of Snow Hill, cousin of the bride, presided at the guest register. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Wesley Oakley and Mrs. Walter Reynolds.

A graduate of East Carolina University, the bride teaches kindergarten in the Greene County School System. The bridegroom, a graduate of Farmville Central, is employed by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph, Farmville.

The couple will live in Farmville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall.

The lace covered table was centered with a silver candelabrum of white mixed flowers and candles. Punch was poured by Mrs. Jimmy Wooten, cousin of the bride. Mrs. Linwood Cobb, aunt of the bride, served the three tiered wedding cake, which was placed on a matching decorated table.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at an after-rehearsal party in the fellowship hall.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Kjorina Peterson, 18, who is Utah's Junior Miss, wasn't loafing when she entered the Kodak Junior Miss Photo Awards with three photographs and an essay on bread. Named top winner in the event, she also got the dough: a $1,000 scholarship grant.

Couple Weds In Candlelight Rites

HIGH POINT — Barbara Anita Kearns and Charles Venable Barlow were married in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church here in a double ring ceremony by Pastor Joseph L. Griffin on Saturday in a candlelight ceremony at 6 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Clifford Kearns of Trinity. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Barlow of Greenville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory organza and French imported alencon lace. The bodice featured an empire waistline with a French alencon lace cape appliqued with seed pearls in designs. The cape featured tiny covered buttons down the back. The A-line skirt was edged in wide matching lace and swept into a lace trimmed chapel train. The chapel length veil of bridal illusion was edged in matching French alencon lace and fell from a matching lace covered Juliet cap encrusted with seed pearls in designs to match the bodice of the gown. The bride carried an arm bouquet of happiness roses featuring garlands of asparagus fern.

Linda Kearns Carraway of Maryville, Tenn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore an A-line spice colored polyester dress with a V-neckline covered with a crystal pleated peblum jacket with cap sleeves and an inset waistband which buttoned at the waist and fell to the hips with a slight ruffle. She carried a bouquet of marble daisies in fall tones tied with a two-toned ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Marilynn Kearns Sizemore of Orange Park, Fla., and Stephanie Margarete Kearns of Trinity, both sisters of the bride. They wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant and carried similiar bouquets.

Paula Routh of Frankville was flower girl. She wore a dark brown velvet jumper and a cream-colored ruffled blouse. She carried a basket of marble daisies in fall tones and tied with a two-toned ribbon.

Father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were George Bryan Carraway, brother-in-law of the bride, of Maryville, and William Lyle Barlow of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom.

George Bryan Carraway of Maryville, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

The mother of bride wore a long formal gown of shrimp colored georgette fashioned with an empire wiastline and flowing cape. A talisman cymbiduim orchid was attached to a coordinated gold purse.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal length gown of green polyester with a V-neckline which draped over the shoulder to the waist. It was accented by an ivory cymbidium orchid corsage.

Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Margaret Hearne.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of East Carolina University. The bride is employed by the Parent and Child Training Team, Alamance County Mental Health Center in Burlington. The bridegroom is working on his master's degree in chemical engineering at Clemson University.

Mrs. Fitts Speaks To Credit Women Tuesday

The Greenville Credit Women-International held its meeting Tuesday evening at the Three Steers Restaurant.

Mrs. Dawn Fitts spoke to the members on the topic from the International manual entitled "Club Protocol for CW-I." She stressed that protocol is defined as being the customs and regulations dealing with diplomatic formality, precedence and etiquette.

She stated that it is important for the presiding officer to begin with familiarizing herself with the by-laws so that she can be in command of the rules and regulations of CW-I. This gives an individual a positive feeling about what, why and how she is to perform.

Her closing remarks stated that, "You can readily see that protocol is a code of etiquette that provides the common sense and courteous rules that are used in conducting a meeting, handling your job and even guiding your everyday living and thus creating less friction. Once you realize the why and need of protocol, you will find it so helpful in all that you do. To know and follow the rules you will find that you have the confidence to accomplish many things."

A report of the proposed budget for 1977-78 was presented by Chairman Inda Wingate. Mrs. Barbara Manning announced that the annual Christmas meeting will be held Dec. 20 at First Federal with each one bringing a covered dish.

Mrs. Linda Westbrook gave a report on the annual fall board meeting held in High Point. All new local club presidents were installed in an "hour glass" installation. New state yearbooks and educational manuals were distributed to members.

Mrs. Doris Price was welcomed into the club. Mrs. Lillie Darden was welcomed as a prospective member by President Carol Hardee.

Ideas for money-making projects for scholarships, presented each year to EC business students, were presented by Ms. Corrinne Beddard.

On The Young Side

By Sharon Connolly

The majority of clubs at Rose High were not active last week as students went to school for only three days before the Thanksgiving holidays began.

One club that was active was the Anchor Club. Several members met Sunday afternoon to prepare fruit baskets. These baskets were later delivered to the nursing home as Thanksgiving presents.

Two other clubs held a joint meeting last week. These were the Key Club and the Keywanettes. During the meeting both clubs were invited to help with a skate-a-thon to raise money for diabetics. The event is planned for Dec. 21 at Sports World.

The distributing of fruitcakes also occurred at the meeting. Each club member was asked to sell at least one Benson fruitcake at $4.50 each to raise money for later club projects.

Ending school Wednesday was a Thanksgiving skit performed during an assembly. Following the skit was a "turkey of the day" contest. Frank Davenport was crowned "turkey of the day" after he received the most "gobbles" from the student body.

MUNICIPAL THEATER

RIO DE JANIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Rio de Janeiro's ornate, turn-of-the-century municipal theater is scheduled to open by the end of the year after two years of renovation and remodeling.

Registered Bridal Consultant

If you have any traditionalists in your wedding party, you and your fiance will drive off amid a shower of rice, with a pair of old shoes tied to your fender.

You may laugh, but the custom goes back a long ways. In India, when a couple was honeymooning in a house, the bride's red slippers were thrown across the peaked roof as a discreet "do not disturb" sign. Our custom of attaching old shoes to the vehicle of the departing newlyweds stems from this ancient sign language.

Rice is a symbol of good crops and a full larder. Therefore throwing rice on the bridal couple is a way of wishing them prosperity.

Here at Anne Marie's we don't sell rice or old shoes, but we are experts in every phase of the modern wedding, and we'll be glad to help you in any way we can.

Some Mental Patients Can't Cope With Freedom

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

Five hundred years ago, boats were cruising the waterways of Europe with cargoes of unwanted madmen, castaways shoved from port to port in ships of fools.

An enforced ocean voyage was an easy way to cleanse a town of strange and disturbing figures. Some were herded on pilgrimage ships taking the demented to shrines. Some were pushed off at the next harbor. Some were abandoned to the sea.

In today's enlightened age of science and social conscience, thousands of mentally disabled persons are still voyagers, a fragile cargo released from state hospitals and cast adrift in contemporary ships of fools.

They journey from hospital to hospital, from hospital to community — there to follow a circuit of halfway houses, flophouses and emergency rooms. Many return to the hospital.

In the name of humanity, therapy, civil liberty and economy, more than 300,000 mentally disabled persons have been discharged since 1963 and "sent to the community."

But the "community," with its warm connotations of caring, often doesn't exist or isn't the place people came from or remember. Mostly it shuns the mentally disabled and shuts them out.

There are successes in the exodus. Experts agree that "de-institutionalization" can and often does work and that many former patients lead successful and productive lives. Across the country there are dedicated people and programs to prove that properly planned, financed and executed, returning people to a community setting is good in terms of therapy, dignity and economy.

The shift from public institutions "clearly has succeeded in removing people who don't need to be in hospitals," says William TenHoor, chief of the community support program of the National Institute of Mental Health.

If it has worked for many, to many others it has meant little more than moving from big warehouses to little warehouses, from back wards to back alleys. And the public dollar doesn't follow them.

They have poor housing and few services. They live in nursing or boarding homes where they receive too much or too little care. Some are recruited into migrant labor camps or prostitution. Many are victims of crime, poverty, hostility, indifference.

In any event, the movement is in full swing. Community mental health is virtually the national policy and law of the land where an estimated 20 million persons suffer some sort of mental illness at an annual cost of about $37 billion.

Few contest the theory behind the reform. But an array of critics — officials, state employees, psychiatrists, politicians and social and health workers — argue that the big shift from hospitals to communities is a good idea poorly executed.

"Our society has made the decision that you don't lock up people and throw away the key anymore," says Dr. Allan Beigel, a psychiatrist and chairman of the President's Commission on Mental Health. "The mental health system is still trying to catch up to that societal judgment.

"The problem is the overwhelming number of released patients and lack of resources in the community. And the resources are not adequately organized."

He adds: "The mentally ill have no natural constituency ... There is still a stigma attached to mental illness."

Numbers outline the problem.

Since 1955, the total population of mental hospitals has dropped from a peak of 559,000 to 191,395, or about 66 percent — in part as a consequence of the new drugs that make patients more manageable.

Illinois, for example, had 49,000 patients in 1959 but fewer than 13,000 today. New York's in-patient population dropped from 85,000 in 1964 to 26,700 today. In California, the decline was from 36,000 a decade ago to about 16,000 now.

Total admissions to state hospitals have dropped since 1972 and stays are becoming shorter, but 55 percent of admissions today are re-admissions, up 8 percent since 1969.

Mere numbers say nothing about the human dimensions of the exodus, which is best understood in the geography of the great dispersion, the psychiatric ghettos of big cities.

Chicago has its Uptown neighborhood, once a fashionable lakeside resort. New York has its Upper Broadway. San Francisco has its Tenderloin. Rundown areas in Hollywood and Venice serve as "communities" in Southern California.

Nor is it just the plague of big cities. Former patients cluster in the resort communities of Long Beach, Bay Shore and Sayville on New York's Long Island. They find their way to affluent San Mateo County, Calif.

They live in "Irish Jack's" jumbled halfway house in Redwood City, Calif., or Chicago's Northmere — some call it the Nightmare Hotel — with its shrine of St. Jude; or the chandelier-lit Promenade Hotel on the Long Beach boardwalk with the waves shining at their feet.

At the worst, they browse the streets. They move in a shuffle, the result of heavy medication. They sit on the curbs drinking or holding conversations with their private voices.

And always some want to go back to hospitals. A middle-aged woman kept returning like a homing pigeon to New York's Bronx State Hospital. She couldn't cope with a troubled daughter, late welfare checks and the East Bronx where she was robbed five times. She began to hear voices.

One night in Uptown Chicago, a 19-year-old former patient asked his counselor at a converted old hotel, the Grassmere: "Is there a difference between being homesick and hospitalsick? I think I'm hospitalsick and need to go back." One time he cut himself up to gain readmission.

Kathleen Brown, administrator at the Grassmere, says it's getting harder and harder to be admitted to a hospital. "Nowadays they've got to go out and prove how sick they are. They shouldn't have to do that."

Says Joan Richmond, associate director of consultation at the Edgewater Uptown Community Mental Health Center: "We have clients for whom life on the streets is a nightmare. We have clients begging to be hospitalized, and we have to tell them that what they want is no longer available."

In northern California, a 27-year-old schizophrenic and alcoholic has been in and out of hospitals and emergency rooms since 1963. At Napa State Hospital he worked with the retarded and confided to his social worker, "I had to drink hair tonic to get back in." Today he is out again, wandering.

"There is a concrete and visible chronic population," says Dr. W. Melvin Brown, past president of the San Mateo County Mental Health Association. "They need dignity and a haven from stimuli. So we sent them out to the community and they tell us by their bizarre behavior and by their appearances in local emergency rooms that they don't want to be here."

Here and there in the swirl of the exodus patients find a true community, like the bright, clean, Fountain House on New York's littered West 47th Street.

Founded by former patients in 1948, it is a bright magnet that serves about 2,000 members a year — most of them schizophrenics. Fountain House has a staff of more than 60, an annual budget of $1.2 million (40 percent from private sources) and provides a day program, evening program, 35-cent lunches, 50-cent dinners.

"We try to create opportunities," says associate director James R. Schmidt. "We try to discover the talents that members have and stimulate them to help each other. We're not a clinic. But we do care."

For many ex-patients though, the community is nothing like the highly organized, adequately financed Fountain House. For them, the community is a dangerous place where the strongest survive — and they are the weakest.

—Alphonsero B., a British West Indian, a chronic schizophrenic, was discharged from a Bronx hospital. He became a day laborer in Baltimore and was recruited into migrant labor. He was expelled for bizarre behavior, wandered for days and was arrested for stealing cucumbers from a farm kitchen. He was rehospitalized in Virginia.

—Kathy (not her real name) is a 22-year-old schizophrenic who lives in San Mateo County and travels a prostitution circuit from Southern California to Nevada. The product of a family that never allowed her freedom, she was sent to Napa State Hospital at 14 and was in and out for years, most recently after the birth of her child. She was discharged and found her way to East Palo Alto where she drifted without supervision until she connected with a pimp.

Those may be extreme examples, but routine case stories are eloquent enough. Twirley, the tall man who spins, toplike, on the Long Beach Boardwalk. Sadie, the gaunt paranoid in gingham who starves slowly in her Tenderloin hotel room and mumbles of conspiracy. George with the gentle eyes who stands outside Chicago's Northmere Hotel, eager to talk with anyone.

Dr. Jack Weinberg, president of the American Psychiatric Association, has watched Chicago's Uptown neighborhood become a psychiatric slum where an estimated 10,000 former patients live in the shadows of the glittering high-rises on Lakeshore Drive.

"We have great fears about placement of people in the community," he says. "It's vital to place people from the hospital in an emotional climate accepting to and accepting of them.

"But suddenly thousands were dumped without providing aftercare and they live without the rudimentary elements of human existence. It isn't good community psychiatry ... It's criminal."

In well-off San Mateo County, which may have had more successes than most areas, Dr. Brown, the former president of the county's Mental Health Association, puts things even more pointedly.

"The community health movement has fallen into disrepute," he says. "In fact, there is no community movement because there is no community. No one has welded a community that cares."

In Long Beach and Bay Shore, Long Island, as in other places, citizens object to the numbers of former patients visited on their towns.

Eddie Dinnean, 55, and a cluster of disheveled, quiet men sit on the steps of the whitewashed Baybright hotel, a focus of community anger in Bay Shore.

Tall, gangling, shabby, he peers with some whimsy and bitterness through thick glasses set at a jaunty angle.

"I've had 10 years of incarceration in hospitals, and I've bounced around a bit. I'm an alcoholic and a real kook," Eddie says cheerfully. "I prayed for the day they would let us out and we could live like human beings again."

The Baybright isn't that bad, he says, and the ex-patients there are like brothers and sisters. "We have to be, because it's rough out there," he adds, pointing to the tidy, quiet main street.

"The town doesn't like us sitting out here," he says. He's right. The kids call him a bum and retarded.

"I went out for a cup of coffee and they refused to serve me. I was barred from the ice cream store because I spoke a little loud and rude.

"I've been here four months now," says Eddie, "and I just talk to my friends and stay away from the unfriendly ones. Out here they judge you by your clothes.

"Well, the Bible says when people mock you, smile."

Philantropic Urge Came In The Wee Hours

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — The urge to be philanthropic can come at odd moments.

It came for J. Balfour Miller, 85, while he was rearranging his stock portfolio in the wee hours of a sleepless night.

As a result of his nocturnal bookkeeping last week, Miller discovered 1,600 shares of a stock he didn't know he had. The next day Miller sold it and donated $50,000 of the profits to the Trinity Day School in Natchez.

"Finding that stock was just one of the many blessings I've enjoyed since I was sick," Miller said. "I told myself, 'You're going to give that money away and you're going to give it away immediately.'"

Miller, who was hospitalized earlier this year with bleeding ulcers, said he thought he knew his holdings by heart until he came upon the 1,600 shares.

Unite To Repeal 'Gay' Ordinance

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A drive to repeal the city's recently enacted "gay" rights ordinance has drawn Roman Catholics and Southern Baptists together in the cause.

Wichita's Catholic Bishop David Maloney told a rally protesting the ordinance that homosexuals have human rights but "that doesn't mean they have the right to force someone to hire them." He said rights are limited by one's behavior, by the rights of other people and the need for public order and safety.

Log Tobacco Barns

The Pollard Barns

The four log tobacco barns on the Hicks Pollard farm on the Old Stantonsburg Road near Greenville are a true rarity at this point in the 20th century.

Log tobacco barns, even single ones, are no longer common. But the presence of a quartet of such barns, all except one in fine condition, is perhaps unique in Pitt County.

Not only that, but these barns are exceptional in size and design.

"My father, Joe Franklin Pollard, had the first of these barns built for him in 1917," Hicks Pollard, now owner of the farm said. "The last two were built in 1920.

Because of an error by the man in charge of building the first barn, these barns are larger than standard tobacco barns.

"I can't remember the name of the man Pollard commented. "Whoever he was, he built the first barn 17 by 17 feet. That's a foot larger than most barns, which are 16 by 16 feet.

"After that was done, daddy had tobacco sticks made a little longer to fit the wider tier poles. When he built the next barns, he decided he might as well make them all larger so that the longer sticks could be used in all the barns."

The architectural feature of these barns seldom seen is a small eave like projection encircling the barns at a height of about six feet from the ground.

"Daddy's idea was that this would shed water so that the lower logs would not rot," Pollard explained. "He was right too. There's never been a single log replaced."

Pollard said the original clay filling in the chinks had been replaced. "It was sometime in the 1930's," he recalled.

Plank shelters and tin roofs now covering the original split-cypress shinges are later additions.

"Some years back we converted the barns to oil heat," Pollard said. "We're not using the barns now, but with a little fixing up we could if the need arose."

Pollard loves the old barns. "I'd hate to see them torn down," he remarked. "There's a lot of interest in old things, and I hope it will be possible to save at least one of them."

Mrs. Pollard, who also had a deep affection for the barns, said "Lots of people stop and ask about them. Several people have come out and taken pictures. Some young people, artists, have been here and sketched or painted pictures of them."

A Brief History

Fifty years ago tobacco barns constructed of rough hewn logs were commonplace structures in rural North Carolina. Now, only a few are left.

Such barns were not the only farm buildings made of logs. Corn cribs, smoke houses and other farm storage buildings were often constructed of logs.

Tobacco barns, however, were the most prominent, and generally the most solidly constructed, as they had to retain heat for curing tobacco.

Barn raising was one of the last community efforts in North Carolina to carry over from the 19th into the 20th century. By its nature, it required considerable muscle power. Farmers did not have cranes or power equipment in those days, so lifting the heavy logs into place meant gathering together several strong men, along with mules, horses, heavy ropes and chains.

Once the four walls of notched logs had been erected, the framework for the roof was laid and covered with shingles, usually ones of split cypress.

The final phase of construction involved filling the chinks between the logs with mortar. Until the time prepared commercial lime became readily available, most mortar was prepared simply by digging clay and mixing it with water to the right consistency for troweling.

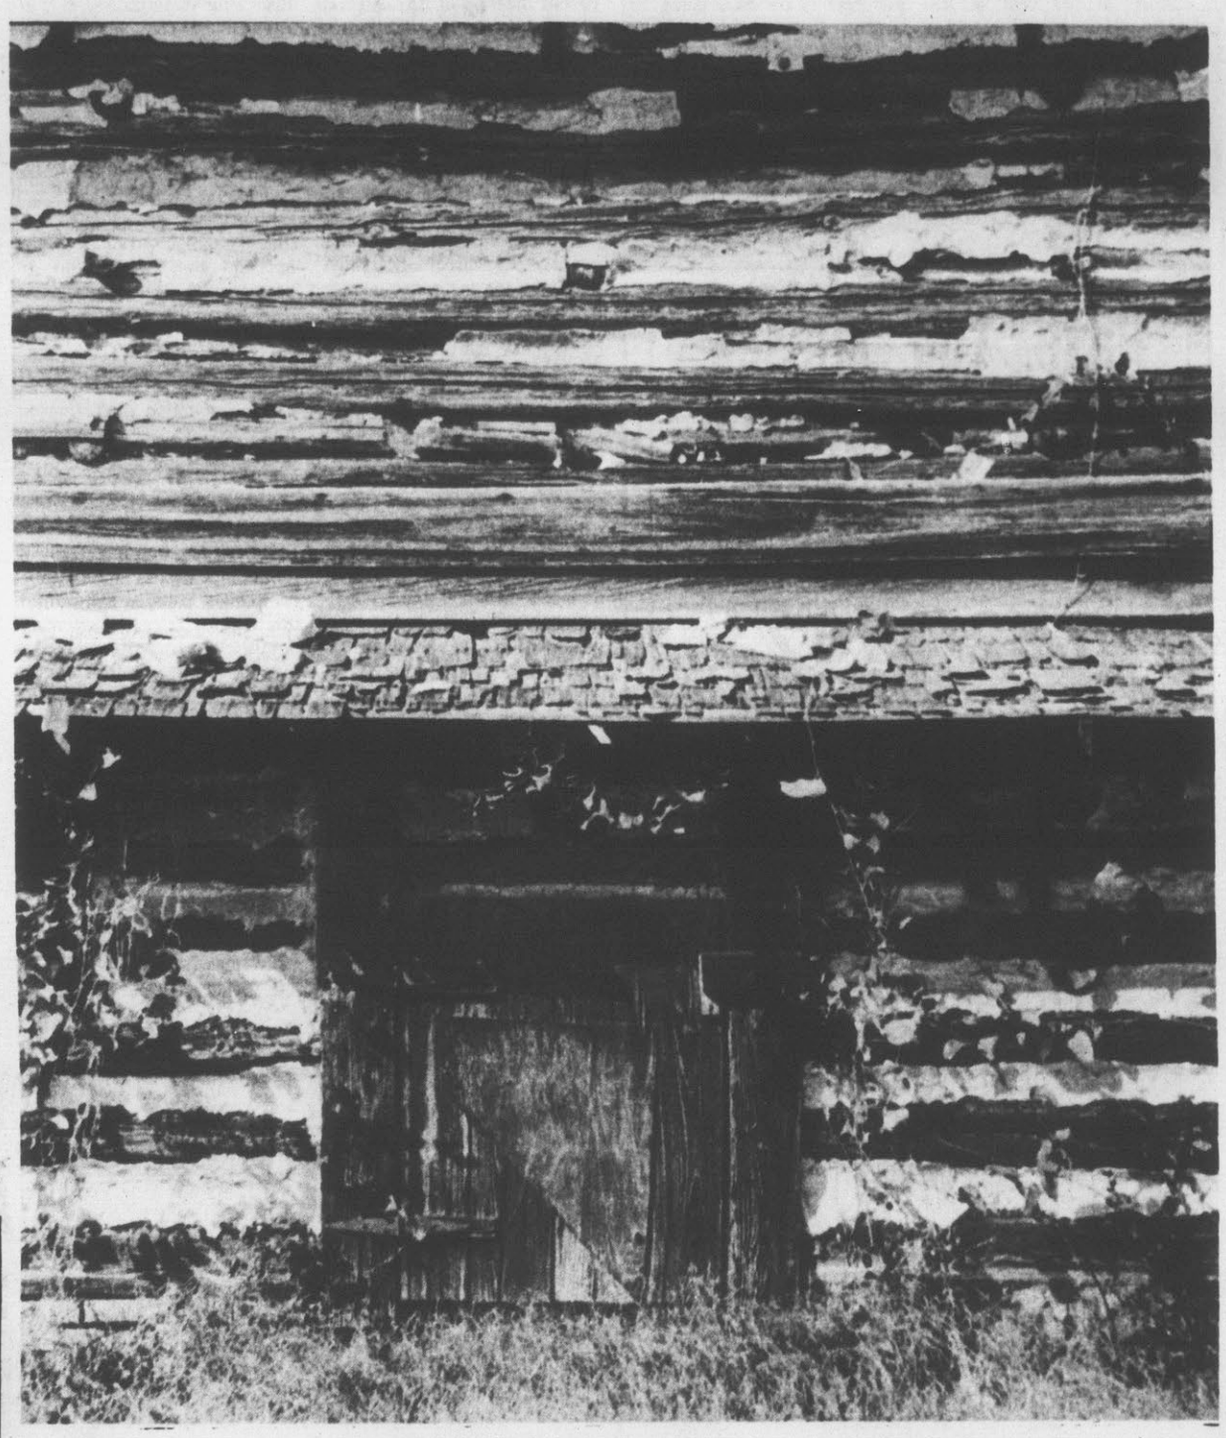

Naturally, this was a binder material that deteriorated quickly and had to be replaced every few years.

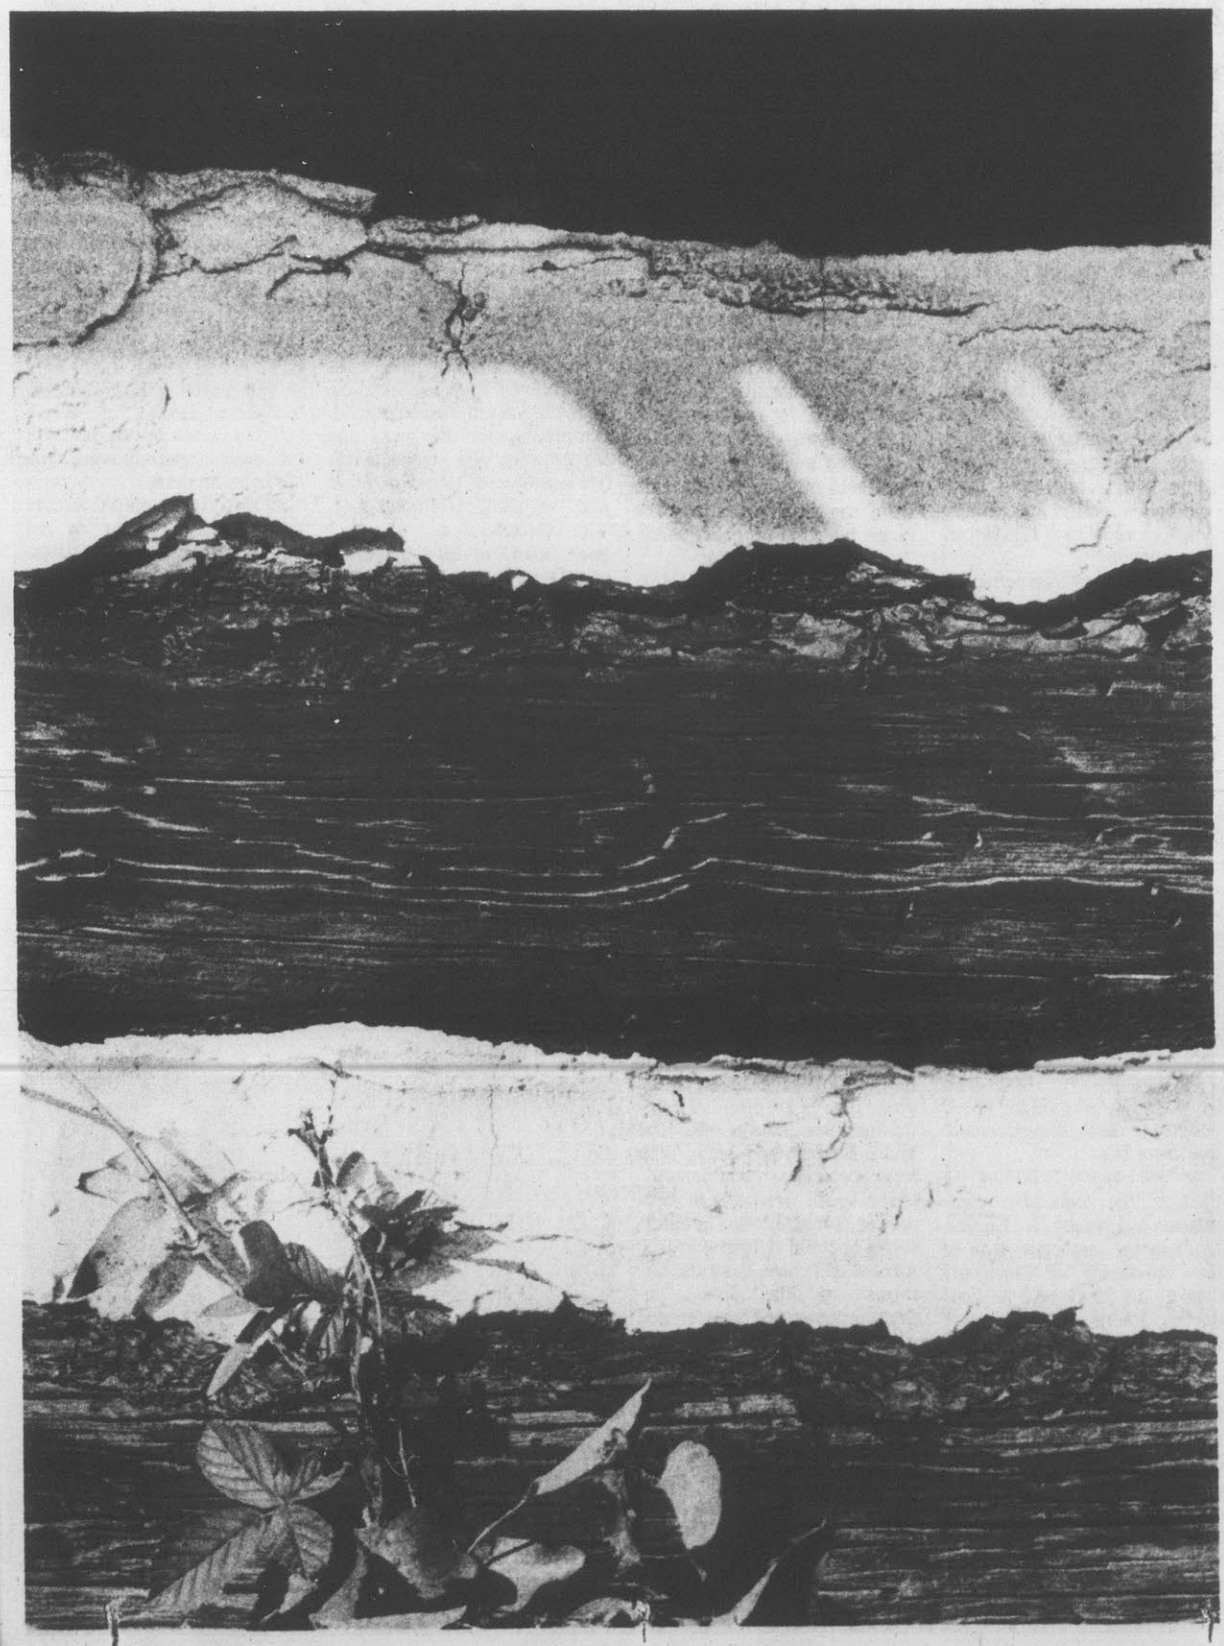

Two brick furnaces, about ten feet long and three feet high, were used to heat the barns. A system of metal conduits, most often referred to as flues, led from the furnaces across the sand covered floors of barns so that heat would rise to all parts of the barn. Use of such flues led to the coinage of the phrase "flue-cured" for tobacco heat dried by this method.

The loss of manpower on farms during World War I had its impact on farming. One of the changes it brought about locally was that farmers had to turn to construction of tobacco barns using sawed planks instead of logs.

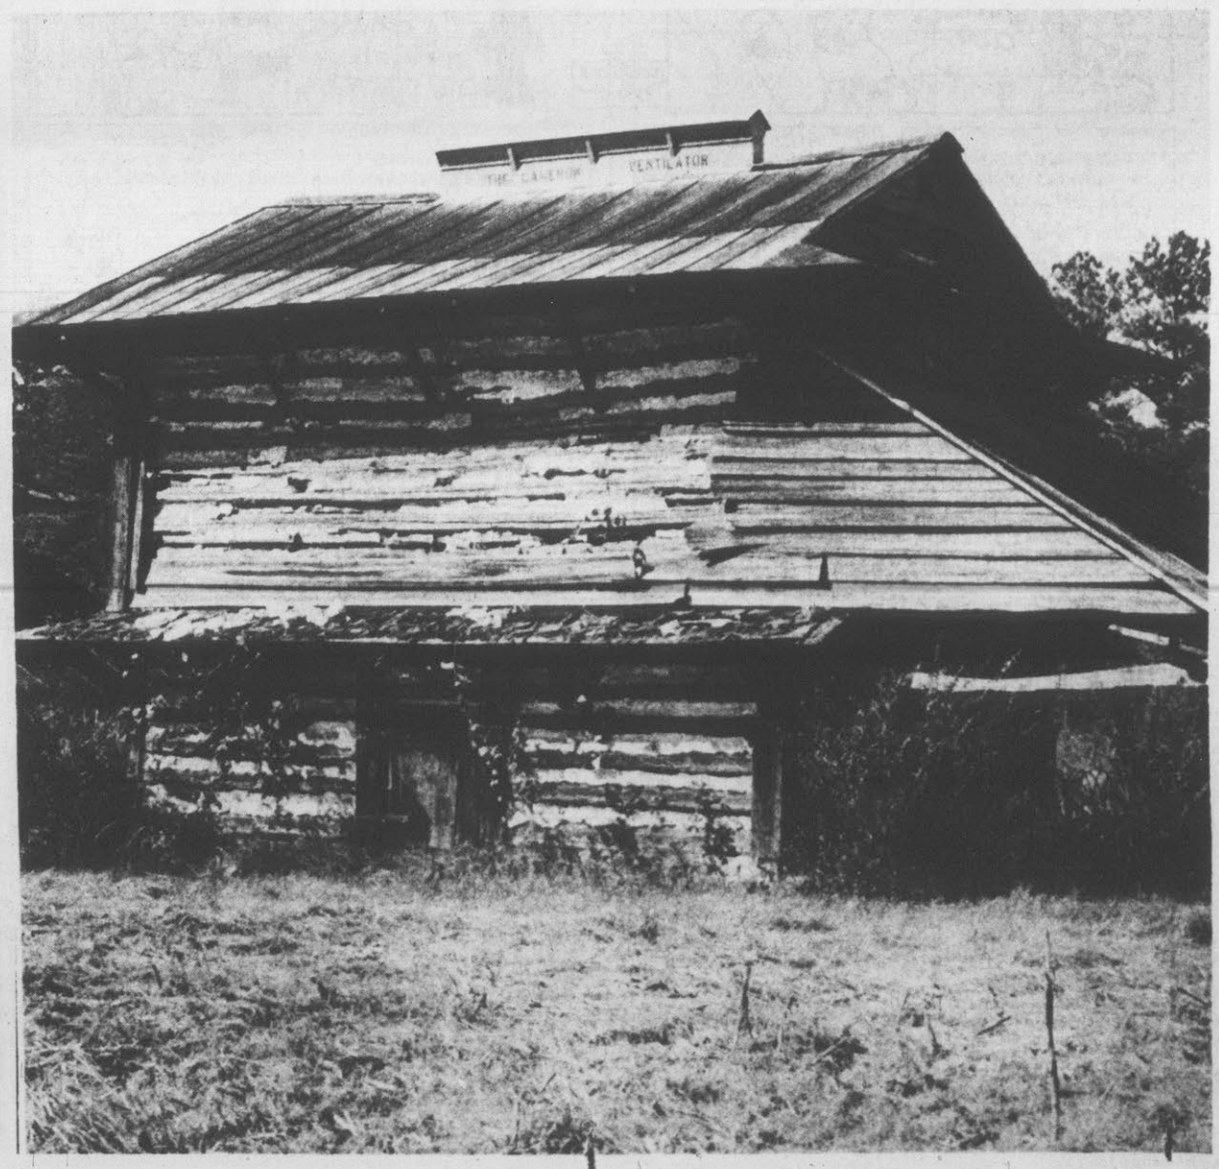

This was more expensive as it entailed timber for a framework as well as an outer covering of planks. It had the advantage, however, that it could be done with less manpower, and was within the capabilities of older men and boys not yet in the prime of manhood.

In the 1920's and 1930's, most farmers replaced or re-covered shingle roofs with tin.

Arsonists Raise Your Fire Insurance Rates, Too

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you think your fire insurance is costing three times as much as it did only a few years ago — you are right. But you probably don't realize that the arsonist is much more responsible than inflation for what you are having to pay.

If you were paying less than $50 a year for fire insurance on a small house in 1968, you may be paying $175 now. But the house is insured for two and a half times as much now and the insurance companies' operating cost has gone up because of inflation.

Nevertheless, chances are that more than 20 per cent of your total insurance premium and around half the increase in rates since 1968 is due to the spectacular rise in fires set by arsonists.

The spreading incendiary flames now are responsible for 40 cents of every dollar insurance companies pay out in fire claims. Ten years ago it was only 10 cents.

"Since 70 per cent of the money insurance companies take in goes to pay claims and only 30 per cent to pay operating expenses, the huge rise in incendiary fires obviously is a bigger factor than monetary inflation in the skyrocketing cost of insurance," says Phyllis Popper of the Arthur Milton Organization, a New York insurance brokerage house.

The Insurance Services Office and other trade groups say it is next to impossible to pin down the exact impact of incendiary fires on insurance rates but they agree that it has been very large. In the "fair plan areas," the poor neighborhoods where abandonment of buildings and incendiarism are so rampant people no longer can get insurance at anything remotely like standard rates, the cost of arson is astronomical.

Robert Krischbaum, director of New York's fair plan, said fire insurance rates in some fair plan areas now are two to two and half times the standard ISO rates, yet they started out in 1968 virtually at par with ISO rates.

The fair plan then was originally started just as a way to allocate risks. Since its inception, the New York fair plan has paid out $250 million in fire claims. At the presently accepted national average of 40 per cent of the total going for arson, that would be $100 million in New York alone.

But Kirschbaum added: "It is generally accepted that every dollar paid out in fire insurance claims means a loss of $9 additional in wages, rents, taxes and other economic costs to the community, so our $100 million arson loss in the New York fair plan areas alone really is a $1 billion economic loss."

But Ms. Popper and many insurance people believe the 40 per cent currently accepted national average for arson losses is much too low for the slums and other fair plan areas. They think much more than half of all fires in these areas are incendiary.

Police officials and fire department officials tend to agree. It is in these fair plan areas that the more spectacular arson rings, such as those that resulted in numerous arrests in Boston, Detroit and other cities, have operated.

What arson in the areas where more or less standard fire rates prevail has done to insurance costs is stated pretty dramatically by W.D. Swift, vice-president for property claim services of the American Insurance Association, one of the leading trade groups.

"About 20 per cent of all the fires in the United States are intentionally set," Swift told a recent meeting of fire chiefs in Massachusetts. He said that, at the 40 per cent of claims paid rate, the loss amounts to $1.5 billion a year nationally and the additional economic cost to the nation is from $10 billion to $13.5 billion.

Swift also said the 40 per cent figure may be much too conservative as a national average of direct incendiary losses by the insurance companies and he estimated that "the number of incendiary crimes is growing by 20 to 25 per cent every year."

Arson is burning things for profit, incendiarism includes arson but also includes fires set by vandals, pyromaniacs and people seeking revenge.

Will Perry, an assistant to Swift, said one of the less appreciated aspects of the cost of incendiarism is the tremendous shrinkage in the tax base when areas like New York's South Bronx are leveled by incendiary fires.

New York fire records show that 30,000 buildings have been burned down in the South Bronx in ten years.

Naturally, the insurance companies have looked for ways to take the quick profit out of arson but they are hampered by the fair claims practice laws enacted in most states years ago to protect property owners from stalling by insurance companies and their lawyers.

These laws in the main require the settlement of fire insurance claims within 15 to 30 days after they are filed. If the company smells a rat, it must get permission of a court to hold up payment or risk being sued for punitive damages.

The organized arson rings often include in their members shady lawyers and crooked real estate people, and even crooked fire department officials, who know how to set up an arson operation to take full advantage of these laws so they can collect the money and run.

In consequence, arson is a comparatively easy crime to get away with. Philip F. Simpkins of the Fireman's Fund group of insurance companies on the West Coast says it's the toughest of all crimes to prove and that only three of every hundred arsonists ever go to jail.

The New York state legislature recently passed a law to deduct any taxes due the state or muncipalities from fire insurance claim settlements, but some legal experts doubt the law will stand up in the courts.

State laws give the companies the option of replacing any burned property instead of paying cash. That formerly was used to make arson a crime that could not pay off, according to Howard D. Tipton, administrator of the National Fire Prevention and Control Administration. Tipton has been urging insurance companies to use this option and insist on rebuilding instead of settling claims in cash.

But inflation has driven rebuilding costs so high that the companies seldom can afford this option; instead they must pay the cash settlement and take advantage of the clause allowing them to take depreciation for the age of the building.

Tipton blames landlords, police, fire officials, insurance officials, social workers, local politicians and the public all for the rise in arson. He says landlords burn down buildings in some big cities because they consider rent control laws unfair.

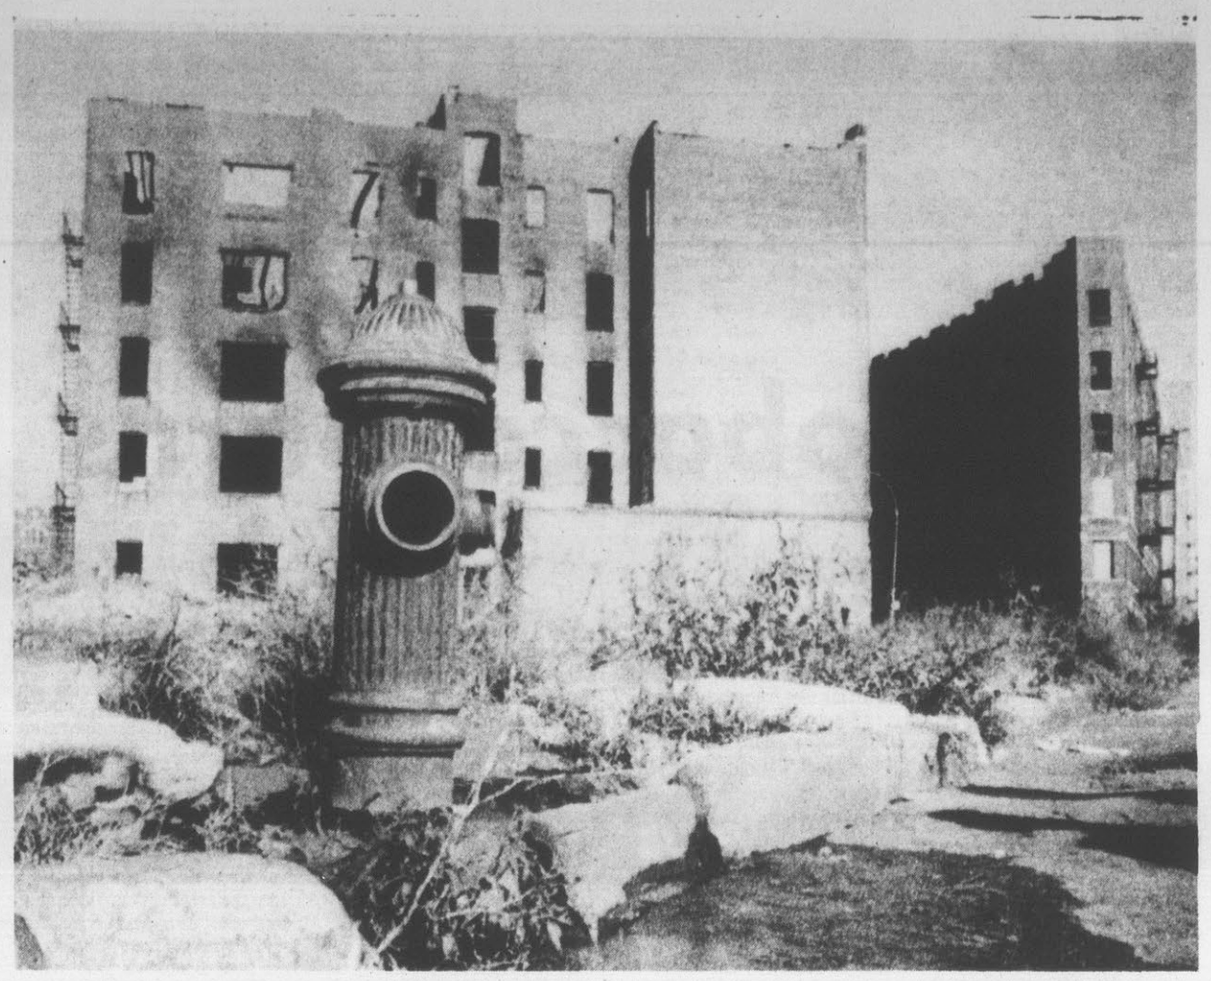

Tenants and neighbors are terrorized by the arsonists in the big cities and fear to help the police stamp them out. In slum areas of Boston and New York, youth gangs have been forcing tenants out of apartment buildings, taking the buildings over and stripping them of everything that can be sold, then setting them afire for kicks. This has been going on for the last two years.

Tipton said prosecutors, juries, politicians and social workers still tend to see arson in the David and Goliath terms of little people against the giant insurance companies and to excuse arson as a form of justified reaction against social injustice.

The operations of the arson-for-profit rings vary a lot and are quite complicated but they all follow the pattern of getting title to a rundown building for a song, inflating its paper value by a few rigged changes of ownership until a big insurance policy is obtained on it. Then the building is torched, the insurance company that has been careless or betrayed by one of its own agents or employees has to pay off and the ring splits the gravy.

How about the motivation for other incendiary fires?

New York Police Chief Anthony Bouza said recently the motivation for that kind of incendiarism grows out of the fact that "we are creating where what the Romans did in Rome — we are creating a permanent under-class of unemployed and desperate people ... and if these people weren't permanently pacified by alcohol, we'd all be in trouble."

MAKING FOR HIGHER RATES — If you think your fire insurance is costing three times as much as it did only a few years ago, you are right. In poor neighborhoods where abandonment of building and incendiarism are so rampant people no longer can get insurance at anything like standard rates. (UPI Photo)

Digestive Disease Is Major Reason For Hospitalizations

EDITOR'S NOTE — Whether it's a tummy ache or cancer of the colon, it's DD — digestive diseases. DD in one form or another is the No. 2 cause in the country of workdays lost and the No. 3 cause of death. It also is the cause of a national commission traveling the country to tell people about it — and to learn more about it.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — A small medical road show is touring the country to mobilize an intensified attack against "DD" — digestive diseases.

Some 18 million Americans by current estimate are afflicted with diseases of the gastrointestinal tract — from the esophagus through the stomach, liver, pancreas, gallbladder, intestines and rectum.

They suffer from heartburn and stomach ache, disorders of the liver and pancreas, gallstones, chronic constipation, irritable bowel, miserable ileitis and colitis, polyps and hemorrhoids — and about 175,000 cancers annually.

Digestive diseases are the leading reason people land in hospitals, and the second reason, after cardiovascular diseases, why people go to doctors.

They are second only to respiratory diseases in cause of disability and days lost from work, and they are the third-leading cause of death in this country, after heart diseases and cancer, says the National Commission on Digestive Diseases. The economic cost is put at $17 billion a year.

Such figures underlie a sense of urgency within the commission, established by Congress in October 1976 and charged with coming back in two years with a comprehensive, long-range program for reducing the toll in suffering, death and economic loss from DD.

As one way of fulfilling its mission, the 26-member commission chaired by Dr. Eugene D. Jacobson, associate dean of the University of Cincinnati School of Medicine, is conducting a series of public hearings in major cities.

Its experts tell what is known about DD and explain the need for more research funds and efforts to learn how to cure or control some still mysterious diseases.

It also invites testimony and suggestions from physicians, scientists, nurses, government officials and organizations concerned with DD and, as Jacobson puts it, "from the people who pay the price in pain — the patients and their families."

The commission includes research scientists, medical educators, allied health professionals and representatives of the public. It began its series of hearings in New York and Newark, N.J., in October and is scheduled to continue through Chicago, West Palm Beach, Fla., Seattle, Los Angeles, Houston, Washington, D.C., Denver and, tentatively, Atlanta and Boston by June 5.

The digestive system performs wonders in turning food and drink into simple chemical nutrients that keep body cells alive and healthy.

The liver is a biochemical factory carrying out some 5,000 reactions and delivering bile to the gallbladder. The pancreas produces digestive enzymes and insulin to regulate blood sugar. The stomach makes acids and pepsin for digestion. Nutrients enter the bloodstream from the small intestine. The large intestine or colon solidifies wastes for excretion.

As with any complex machinery, things can go wrong.

Some people upset their system with too many antacids or laxatives — concern over constipation, some physicians say over-concern, has Americans spending $500 million a year on laxatives.

Some drugs including tranquilizers may temporarily upset the digestive system, says Dr. Paul Sherlock, professor of medicine at Cornell University Medical School. Aspirin and products containing aspirin — there are more than 300 on the market — "cause most of the gastritis (stomach inflammation) that we see," he adds. Taking food along with aspirin can lessen that hazard.

The specialists point to alcohol as probably the greatest single harmful influence in DD. Alcohol can cause gastritis, cirrhosis of the liver, inflammation of and interference with the pancreas. Smoking plus alcohol is called a major cause of cancer of the esophagus.

Excessive coffee may cause diarrhea or gastritis, they say. Emotions can affect the digestive system, including the large intestine.

"Unrelieved tension and hostility can affect the stomach," says Dr. Thomas P. Almy, professor of medicine at Dartmouth Medical School. "But we cannot relate this clearly to the causation of ulcers. Diet, drugs and alcohol may play roles."

Farther down from the site of ulcers, "irritable colon is the most common complaint I see," said Dr. Sherlock. "It's a disorder of civilization. It is suggested it has a lot to do with stress and strain."

Some 75 to 85 percent of Americans at some time or another suffer from hemorrhoids. One danger is that rectal bleeding can be attributed to the hemorrhoids, with possible cancer of the colon being overlooked. Of 174,400 new cases of cancers of the digestive system expected in 1977 — meaning 25 percent of all cancers — some 101,000 will be cancer of the colon.

Some 2 million Americans are afflicted with ileitis and colitis, the painful, debilitating inflammations of the small and large intestines respectively. They also cause diarrhea, fever and crippling complications, with 100,000 new victims a year, many of them children, says the National Foundation for Ileitis and Colitis, Inc.

But causes are not known, nor is there any cure. The result frequently is removal of segments of the intestines, with wastes eliminated through an opening in the abdominal wall.

The incidence of DD changes. The specialists told of seeing a decline in prevalence of duodenal ulcer and gastric cancer, a slight increase in colon cancer, and marked increases in cirrhosis of the liver and cancer of the pancreas in recent years. But no one is quite sure why.

And there are successes. A major one is development of highly effective intravenous feeding of all essential nutrients to substitute for normal consumption in various digestive diseases.

Rules Cover Mail Order

PUEBLO, Colo. (UPI) — A reminder for shoppers who order by mail:

Federal Trade Commission rules say a merchant who advertises one-week shipment of orders must ship within that time or notify you that he cannot, and send you a postage paid card to return if you want to cancel and get your money back.

If you do not return the card, the seller can assume you agree to the delay.

Similar rules apply to orders from companies that do not advertise their shipment dates. In such cases, the FTC rule says the merchandise must be shipped within 30 days, or the customer notified of the delay and given the option of accepting it or cancelling his order.

These and other rules are spelled out in detail in a free pamphlet. To order it, send a postcard with the title, "Shopping by Mail? You're Protected!" and your name, address and zip code to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 627E, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

COOK HONORED — The U.S. Postal service has announced the slated release on January 20, 1978 of two stamps honoring Captain James Cook which mark the 200th anniversary year of his arrival in Hawaii and his visit to Alaska in 1778. The stamps are to be released simultaneously at Honolulu, Hawaii and Anchorage, Alaska. (AP Laserphoto)

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Dialysis Reduces Symptoms

It is believed that schizophrenia may be related to some chemical substance in the blood. It was this thought that prompted Dr. Herbert Wagemaker, of the University of Louisville School of Medicine in Kentucky, to try to cleanse the blood of the offending chemical.

A patient of his with chronic schizophrenia also had a kidney disorder. For this condition, kidney dialysis was given. This is a process by which unwanted chemical substances are removed from the blood when the kidney itself cannot do it. It was noted in this particular patient that the symptoms of schizophrenia were definitely diminished during the dialysis program.

Many readers have been seeking additional information about this new, exciting possibility. Direct communication with Dr. Wagemaker may give readers some indication of the research program that is going on and the type of patient who may benefit by this still speculative approach to this mental disorder.

A new drug is being enthusiastically talked about in scientific circles. The drug seems to be able to reduce the calcium deposits within the arteries. In experimental animals there has also been marked reduction of the cholesterol levels in the blood.

Dr. William Hollander, of Boston University Medical Center, has been studying this chemical compound, known as PHB. In a recent international symposium on drugs, it was shown that the drug may have very significant value as a protection against coronary artery disease.

Although the reports are still premature, there is sufficient interest to induce researchers all over the country to proceed to learn more about this anti-atherosclerotic drug. Only in this way can initial studies in animals later be translated for the benefit of humans.

The threat of hepatitis as an aftermath to blood transfusion is now being diminished. In Japan, at the Nagoya University Medical School, gamma globulin is now routinely given to patients who are being transfused.

Gamma globulin is a short-term protection against certain types of infection.

Another idea seems to be catching on. Patients who know that they are to be operated on at some future time are asked to donate one or more pints of blood. This blood is then banked and used for the same patient if the need should arise. In this way, there is greater assurance that the blood is free from the contaminants that someone else's blood might contain.

There are a great many elective operations where the patient is in good health and where such planning can take place.

ANIMAL'S EYES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some species of animals have eyes with unusual features. The rabbit can see behind himself. Bees cannot see red, but they can see ultraviolet light, which is not visible to humans. Fish and snakes can't blink, but pity the poor jellyfish who can't see at all; he can only sense light.

GADABOUT GRANDMOTHER — Peggy Hoskins, a 61-year-old grandmother has been driving about the United States, Canada and Mexico since she was widowed nine years ago. Stopping in Chicago suburban Glenview, Ill., to visit one of her six daughters, Mrs. Hoskins models a jacket with souvenir patches of 350 of the places she has visited. She says she plans to continue her odyssey until she's either broke or bored. (AP Laserphoto)

SALES OPPORTUNITY

Would you like to earn $12,000-$25,000 a year and more, as a salesman? You can do it right here in your own home town. No overnight travel is required. We offer comprehensive 3 year training program. You will receive excellent fringe benefits.

Of the 10 men in sales positions serving the Eastern North Carolina area, three earn in excess of $25,000 per year, five between $15,000 and $25,000 per year, two between $10,000 and $15,000 per year.

We will start at up to $12,000 per year commission based on 2 sales per wk. Our incentive compensation plan makes it possible to earn in excess of $20,000 in the first year, and in excess of $30,000 the second year.

A sales background is desired. All of our men are over 25: some are grandfathers. We are looking for hardworking, honest, ambitious men and women who meet people well, and who will work hard, and follow our proven sales system exactly.

Take 5 minutes to investigate this challenging, satisfying, and rewarding career. Call Mr. Boyette at 478-5134, or 478-3110, Sunday, November 27, 1-10 P.M. or 782-0689 Monday, November 28, 9-5 P.M.

LOOK UP...

. . . from the street at this stately home and you will sense the courtliness of the earlier time it represents. This 11-room home, once one of Greenville's most fashionable, sits in a regal position atop a downtown hill, insulated by its 1.8 acres of grounds.

— Walk through its grand entrance hall into its spacious living and dining rooms and on to its large kitchen and breakfast room separated by a butler's pantry.

— Climb the staircase to the four large bedrooms. Stand before the fireplace in the master bedroom and imagine old-fashioned comforts.

With proper renovation and care this can be the realization of a dream. Let us show it to you today.

Christmas is a time for sharing, caring

Christmas joy shines in us all

The spirit of Christmas—it means many things to many different people, yet it is alive and real in spite of attempts to disclaim it, bringing to people all over the world a time of joy, a feeling of brotherhood and a sense of renewal—of friendships, love and hope.

Christmas for some is a deeply religious experience. For others, Christians and non-Christians alike, it is a joyous time to gather with family and friends, to send cards and letters to all those we may have neglected in the past year, and to shop for all the lovely presents that will sit temptingly under the tree until Christmas Day.

Most special list you can make

Indeed, the Christmas gift list is a very special part of the loving Christmas spirit—it's something different from any other list of names in the world. It may be large or small, filled in with everything from the practical to the extraordinary, but every list of Christmas plans is a very personal expression of friendship and love.

No mere shopping guide, the Christmas gift list is an important extension of the joyous spirit of Christmas itself—a time for caring, sharing, a time to stop and reflect on a year's worth of memories and those who made them special.

As we write down the names of the friends and relatives we wish to present with our holiday packages, we recall all of the qualities of each person listed. Christmas is the time when every present must be special, every package filled with delight.

To find such gifts involves more than a casual thought. In a sense, the Christmas shopper places himself ahead to Christmas Day, to the moment when the wrappings are undone and the ribbons scattered, in hopes of finding just the right item to light up a face and widen a smile.

Spontaneous memories

The answers may come to us as we drive to work, while cleaning the attic or reading the Sunday paper. Suddenly we remember the look on mother's face the day she spotted that special blue dress . . . or the little hints that dad's been dropping all along for a new rod and tackle . . . or the extra attention the young tomboy-turned-teenager has been paying to her wardrobe and the way junior's been spotted practicing with a tie in front of the mirror.

We remember a friend's favorite color, or fragrance, or how much she admired a certain style. We even intercept Santa's letters on their way to the North Pole in the hopes of keeping up with St. Nick in spreading Christmas joy to the children!

A list this personal, this loving and thoughtful, requires a great deal of planning, needless to say.

Plan early for your Christmas gift buying, so that you can be certain the presents you select will carry with them that special message of thoughtfulness and love. Even the best plans can use some help.

This year's offerings for Christmas are better than ever, combining the best of rich, nostalgic, romantic items with an array of modern wizardry to set the head spinning!

It's the perfect year for all the special women in your life—mothers, wives, and sweethearts will all appreciate the beautiful return of romance as seen in the latest fashions and accessories. Ruffles, lace, silks and satin are all making fashion headlines, and what prettier way is there to show her how pretty you think she is!

But pretty women are also modern, liberated women and can use some of the sleek new appliances and gift items to make life easier and more fun.

Open mind, open choices

A calculator for a conscientious home accountant, a dishwasher for the woman who has better things to do than dabble in water, a hair styler or dryer for the gal on the go who wants the most from her looks with a minimum of primping time spent.

She might even appreciate a new tool kit, or even a power tool or craft kit—it's amazing how many women would rather be their own handymen!

The boy in the man

For the men on the list, it's the perfect time to remember the boy in each and every one of them! There's a whole new line of electronic games and devices on the market which are sure to keep him whiling away many a happy hour in the year to come—new video games, calculators, or a CB or police scanner for that little bit of Kojak in them all!

Men always appreciate a gift in the apparel line, and there's no time like Christmas to give him a fragrance set, one that speaks especially for him and lets him know that he deserves a little pampering, too!

Teenagers seem to present the greatest stumbling block in the planning of a Christmas list—or so it would seem.

Actually, teenagers are very receptive to just about anything new and unique. They are very interested in making a good appearance, so a gift of clothing—or better yet a personal care appliance—is sure to please. You could give the young lady in the house her own telephone, or imagine gifting a young man his first electric shaver!

Teenagers also have definite tastes in music, and while you may not know the difference between Rod Stewart and Jimmy Stewart, a look through their current record collection and a chat with the salespeople at your local record store should give you a fairly good idea of what's popular and pleasing on the teen scene.

Babes in Toyland

Children are always a delight to shop for at Christmas, and this year there are more wonderful selections than ever before to choose from. There are dolls of every kind for boys and girls alike—dolls to cuddle and love, dolls to play grown-up with, dolls to lead them through all of their wonderful fancies and fantasies.

There are games for future athletes and budding Einsteins, and toys that talk, walk, fly, dive, laugh, cry, teach, tickle and love.

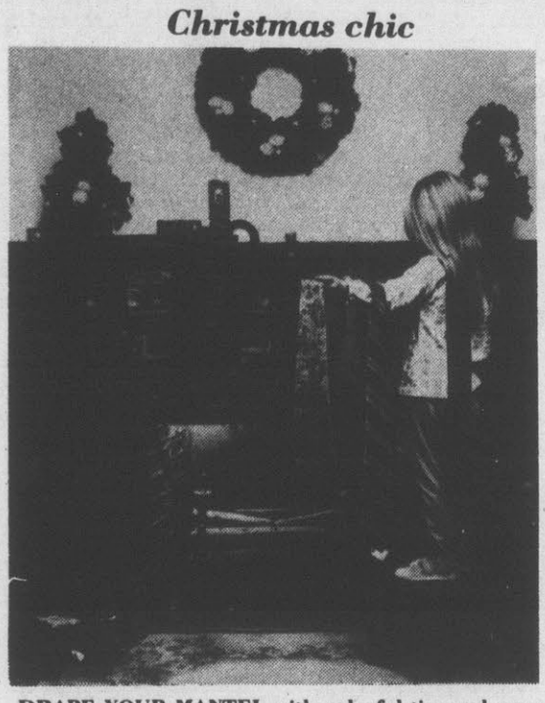

As always, if you should have any doubts as to what would be most appreciated, just listen in when they crawl up on Santa's knee.

But whether you're shopping for youngsters or grandparents, newlyweds or singles, students or career builders, relatives, friends, or the gang at the office, remember that the most important part of any Christmas gift is the time and thought put into it by you, the giver, and the joy you'll receive when they open the packages to say . . . "Merry Christmas, and thanks so much!"

Christmas chic

DRAPE YOUR MANTEL with colorful ties and soxy socks in various lengths. When they are Countess Mara designs with the renowned coronet insignia they will add that extra dash of high style. The socks come in various lengths, copious enough to hold treasures for young and old. Tuck a CM umbrella into one of the socks, or "puff out" a silk pocket handkerchief to show its true colors.

Short order pleasin' for all

COUPLES, SINGLES, OLDSTERS, youngsters or anyone else who wants to cook up meals or snacks in just minutes will delight in the gift of a Fry All fast fryer/cooker from Dominion by Hamilton Beach. In addition to deep frying chicken, potatoes, shrimp and other items, this versatile "short order" appliance grills steaks, franks and hamburgers; boils vegetables or spaghetti; or heats stews and soups. Thermostatic heat controls, a handled fry basket and oil drainage edge bracket insure tasty, healthy cooking results. And the non-stick surface makes both cooking and cleaning easy.

Hold on to special moments

GET A 'HANDLE' on Christmas memories by shooting color pictures that develop while you watch. Photos taken with The Handle—Kodak instant camera are ejected immediately after exposure, with developing essentially complete eight minutes later. Other features help make instant photography easier and more convenient than ever. There's an electric eye for good exposures, a lens already focused for subjects four feet away and beyond and a built-in handle for easy carrying and gripping. This aim-and-shoot sharpshooter is available at photo dealers for a list price of $30.95. A neck strap, initials for personalizing and a battery come with the camera.

Bathtime fun with Mickey Mouse!

WHO'S THE LEADER OF THE TUB that's filled with bath time glee? M-I-C-K-E-Y M-O-U-S-E! Mickey and his gang are back, this time in Mickey's Tub Club by Knickerbocker Toy Co.—a toy that will make bathing a fun-filled event. The Tub Club attaches to the side of the tub and is jam-packed with fun things to do: a sliding pond for Mickey or Donald, a water wheel, a floating chaise longue, a swimming tube, a raft, and a wind-up outboard motor that attaches to each of the vehicles with a sponge, soap dish and figures of Mickey and Donald Duck.

Guitar makes ideal gift for Christmas

This year, why not surprise him or her with something that will last a lifetime—the gift of music. All it takes to turn the music lover on your list into a music maker is a guitar.

One of the most popular instruments in America among all age groups, the guitar makes an ideal gift. It is highly versatile, easily portable, fun and easy to play, and a handsome accessory for the home.

If you see a guitar in the future of someone you know, these pointers from the Guitar and Accessory Manufacturers Association will help you in your selection:

• Acoustic guitars range in price from $30 to $500 and up. If you are shopping for a beginner, plan on spending around $100 for a good guitar.

Less expensive instruments can go out of tune easily. The recipient can always "trade-up" for a more expensive model after he determines what his needs are.

• Beginners should learn to play on an acoustic rather than an electric guitar. They are easier to play, and will spare you the expense of instrument plus amplification equipment.

• Start a beginner on a guitar with nylon strings, which are much easier on the fingers than steel strings.

• Check the guitar's "action"—the ease with which the strings can be depressed. The strings will buzz if the action is too low, and be difficult to depress if too high.

Make sure the strings don't vibrate against the frets when depressed. They should lie almost flat, with only enough room for a dime to pass between string and fret.

• Buy a brand name guitar. Quality instruments are guaranteed by the manufacturer, assuming normal use.

• Hard cases offer more protection than soft cases. Remember that guitars should not be exposed to dampness or extreme changes in temperature and humidity.

• With electric guitars, make sure that all the pick-ups work. Plug the guitar into the amplifier, then tap each pick-up on its corresponding toggle (a device on the guitar that changes the power from one pick-up to another) switch position. A working pick-up will produce a loud, tapping sound in the amplifier.

• Investigate the self-instructional materials at your retail store, and check into the availability of group lessons in your area.

Lessons cost only a few dollars per hour, and are widely available from park and recreation departments, schools, adult education centers, music retailers and YMCAs.

• Guitar accessories make ideal stocking stuffers. Choose from sheet music and song books, pitch pipes, strings, straps, picks, even electronic digital tuning devices.

Sensuous spill

FOR HOLIDAY EVENINGS, Joy Stevens borrows distinct men's styling for this straight, deeply yoked coat and adds a slim tube of a dress. The look is totally feminine in a sensuous spill of jersey of QIANA. It's so luxurious, you'd never suspect that it's practical.

Riches from Terrance Brown

THE FIREPLACE IS LIT and you look romantic in Terrance Brown's elegant, high ruffle-necked blouse with push-up sleeves. The billowing, crystal-pleated skirt has an elasticized, one-size-fits-all waist and delicate satin bow. All in pongee of QIANA, the richest feeling you ever wore.

Radiant reflections

LIGHT UP THE FACE YOU LOVE this Christmas with the expert help of a lighted mirror. Applying makeup will be easier than ever with the Oster "Soft-Glo" Lighted Mirror, as its 40 watt bulb provides ideal non-glare, non-shadow lighting for a better, brighter image. The Oster "Soft-Glo" Lighted Mirror has both a regular mirror and a magnification mirror that's great for close-ups, and it can be adjusted to any angle with a flip of the finger. Available in two-tone blue, the "Soft-Glo" Mirror sits attractively on your vanity or mounts quickly to the wall. There's even a convenient utility storage tray to keep cosmetics close at hand. Men will love it, too, for getting that extra-close shave! Oster's "Soft-Glo" Lighted Mirror makes the perfect gift for under the tree—for a radiant recipient and a pretty reflection of your thoughtfulness!

Your own personal time

SHOW YOUR IDENTITY this holiday season with a distinctive bracelet watch. From Bulova's Caravelle Collection comes a tasteful timepiece fashioned in gold- or silver-tone. Linked to a double chain, the elongated case houses a chocolate or aquamarine colored dial and leaves room for monogramming.

Gift of time and love will make this Christmas perfect

If you're looking for a gift for mother that's easy on the budget yet filled with loving thoughts, why not give her a promise of your time and help for Christmas?

It might take the form of so many days work of after-dinner clean up and dish duty. Or an offer to take over the ironing for a week . . . or a month!

Even a vow from teenagers to keep a close-to-spotless room in the upcoming year will make any mother beam with contentment.

Make a list of all of the jobs your mother has to do—just in one day!—and see where you can be of help to her.

Then, make a vow to yourself to keep the promise of your gift and you'll be well on your way to giving mother one of the best Christmas presents ever!

The beautiful best of the Yule season

Tree's decorations reflect shared joys!

Christmas is a time of family tradition. And the most important of all family traditions is often the family Christmas tree.

Time spent decorating the tree—and the ornaments chosen—reflect a family's taste, style and heritage, and lend an even greater spirit of sharing to the Christmas season.

With so many baubles, trinkets and ornaments available, how does one decide what "look" the family tree should have? One way to approach the project is by choosing a single theme around which tree ornaments are chosen and then handmade by members of the family.

Tree decorations made from eggs, for instance, can be creative, "fun" ornaments to make. "Eggshell Santas" are easily made by piercing one end of a raw egg with a needle, the other end with a slightly thicker prong.

To remove the egg's contents, blow into the smaller hole; then clean and dry the egg. Using india ink, draw a circle about one inch from the top of the egg. Paint the area above the line red, for Santa's "cap." Add another circle, approximately ¼ inch below, and draw in spots for his cap's fur trimming.

Using red or pink paint, draw Santa's rosy face, leaving a small white area at the bottom for Santa's "beard."

Hang eggshell Santas using a twist tie from a plastic bag, inserting each into the smaller hole in Santa's cap.

There's an old Ukrainian custom for tree ornaments made from egg shells, a tradition dating back many years and featuring elaborate designs. Empty the egg's contents by following the instructions above. Then, using water colors, fine line markers or colored pencils, create striking patterns and animated faces.

Other designs may include copying your favorite cloth pattern right onto the egg. By applying a thin layer of glue to the egg, glitter, braided yarn and bits of cloth may also be used to add a creative, personal flair.

CHRISTMAS MAY BE the whole family's holiday, but for children, it's the most exciting time of year. And with personally-engraved Lillikins twinkling ornaments from Lillian Vernon, children can help start a new family tradition as they hang the solid brass ornaments on the tree.

But no matter what the theme or ornaments, all tree decorating ideas are merely a way of "personalizing" a Christmas tree. An inexpensive collection of Lillikins from Lillian Vernon, for instance, give a tree a glittering effect, and can quickly become a family tradition or make excellent gifts.

Carefully crafted in dozens of nostalgic Christmas scenes and figures and sold for less than $2 each, the ornaments are tarnish-free, unbreakable, personalized heirloom decorations which twinkle delicately from a tree, mantelpiece, above a door or anywhere as a handsome conversation piece.

Available in most fine department stores or through the mail, Lillikins are made of solid brass and other fine metals, and are personally engraved at no extra charge.

To give a Christmas tree a strictly traditional look, decorate it with edible ornaments: dried fruits, hard candies, popcorn, cranberries, and of course, candy canes. If you're lucky—and can keep the children away—they'll last right through Christmas Day!

For many more tips and suggestions on trimming the Christmas tree, write for the free booklet, "A Tree-Trimmer's Text," published by Lillian Vernon. For your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Lillian Vernon, Dept. MS, 510 South Fulton Ave., Mount Vernon, N.Y. 10550.

WALL, MANTEL, DESK or grandfather: a clock is a good gift for the home because it adds fashion to function. The Howard Miller wall clock Santa is checking off on his list originated in the Dutch city of Zaandam. It has decorative cast brass figures and framing and pear-shaped brass weights.

They'll love a gift that ticks and tocks

'Tis the season to be jolly! Why not practical, too: when thinking of gifts, think of items that will be useful the year around. Gifts for the home, for example.

An excellent gift for the home is a clock, for a number of reasons. It combines fashion with function. It has a personality, a face and a voice: it literally "talks" to you with its ticking. It is also a constant reminder of the giver, for it is in use every day.

In choosing a clock as a gift, you've great latitude. For while all clocks have one thing in common—they tell time—Howard Miller offers a world of difference in styling.

You can have a traditional grandfather, or a floor clock so modern it's digital; a wall clock that looks like an overgrown pocket watch, or one that resembles a regulator from an old railroad station; a clock handsomely cased in cherry or oak, or one framed in natural cork or rattan.

A gift of time? It's a good one to give, because it's useful and it's good-looking!

Tips for no-fuss holiday hair to keep you glowing

Rushing headlong into the hectic holiday season leaves little time for fussing with appearances, especially to create the more elaborate party hairstyles.

Fortunately, today when you want to look your best fast, there's no need to cram a hair salon appointment into your holiday schedule of shopping and get-togethers.

In fact, according to experts at Gillette, if you start with a good professional cut, styling can be achieved quickly, easily and in the comfort of your own home with some of the new easy-to-use hair appliances that produce salon-look results.

Always start with freshly-shampooed hair that's well-conditioned to stave off the drying, dulling effects of cold weather. Towel dry to remove excess moisture, and use a wide-tooth comb to smooth away tangles.

Begin styling with a hand-held dryer like Promax Compact 1200 from Gillette that will enable you to achieve a variety of looks. Weighing in at half the size and ounces of most professional "pistol" dryers, the 1200-watt Promax is as easy to hold as it is to use.

Set the dryer on high temperature and air speed for initial drying, fluffing and creating curls. Finish styling at cool, more comfortable settings, which can also be an asset in straightening or preventing frizz.

Also try cool air for those final touches, designed to lock in shape. The same concept works in your kitchen, where freezing immediately after cooking locks in flavor.

Wrap up your at-home professional look with a special accent to emphasize your festive mood. Give all or part of your hair a knot, roll or ponytail, topping it off with a favorite comb or decoration. Or, wind a gold rope or string of buttons through a braid.

And when it's time for a big holiday bash, items like a real piece of holly or a star-shaped comb will "dress" you up with a minimum of fuss and change.

In fact, unusual trinkets and decorative items for the hair are perfect "stocking stuffers" as well. And, when your friends and family want to know how your hair turned out so nicely, make them a present of the Promax Compact 1200, too.

TIE UP A FRESH HOLIDAY HAIRSTYLE this year with a string of buttons wrapped around a top knot, or other attention-getters that express your festive mood. Save your gift ribbons or Christmas trimmings to wind through your quick and easy party hairstyle, accomplished on your own with help from a versatile new dryer like Gillette's Promax Compact 1200.

Season's shattering experiences require first aid skills for spills

Planning a holiday bash for family and friends? It can be a shattering experience—literally. Broken glasses, spilled food and drink, cigarette burns on your favorite carpet.

One difference between a smart party-giver and a harried hostess is the ability to ward off party-time disasters—and to cope with them when they occur. What to do and what to avoid?

Carolyn Lohmiller, president of Broom Hilda, Inc., a Chicago professional cleaning service, says that organization is the key to putting on a successful holiday "do."

Professional party planner Marilyn Perry of New York City agrees. "Preparing for your holiday get-together shouldn't be an overnight thing."

The proper vacuum cleaning equipment can make a lot of difference in tidying up your home both before and after a party, Lohmiller says.

"Vacuuming is very important. If a person cares about her home, she'll go out and purchase good cleaning equipment—like a top-quality upright or Power Team."

One vacuum cleaner manufacturer, Eureka, has introduced an extra wide upright, the Wide Track, that cleans a third more carpet with each stroke and makes pre- and post-party cleanups go faster.

"Keep floors clean around your carpet, too," says Lohmiller. "That will help prevent tracking dirt onto the carpet."

But what about troublesome party spills, such as red wine on a light carpet? Perry recommends putting salt on the affected area. The salt raises the wine to the surface, and a simple sweep of the vacuum cleaner erases the stain.

Generally, though, serve white wine to your party guests, says Perry. It doesn't stain nearly so much as red wine.

For general stains and spills on furniture and carpets, Perry advises an application of soda water. Wait about 10 minutes, she says, then blot with a paper towel and let dry. Finally, vacuum to remove residue and revive the carpet fiber's nap.

If you're planning a buffet, Perry advises moving the chairs away from the dining room table to ease traffic flow. One word of caution: don't put the chairs against a wall, where guests can sit in them and cause marks on your walls. The wall scratches aren't easy to disguise.

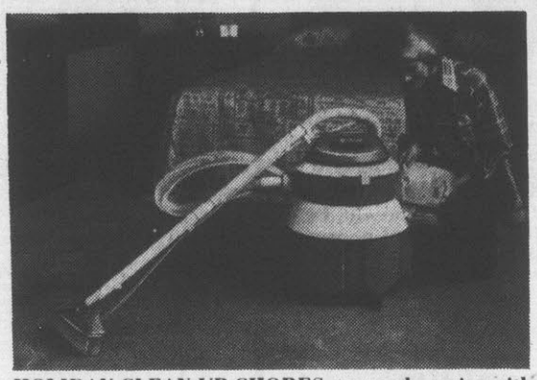

Prepare your party foods in advance as much as possible, she stresses. Serve pre-dinner snacks like paté and cold vegetable trays and skip the nuts and potato chips. They're likely to get dropped on the carpet where they get ground into the pile.

Spare your guests from unnecessary spills by using pads underneath area rugs, says Perry. Keeping guests as well as their drinks upright can prevent many party disasters.

Replace small ashtrays with the extra-large variety, and make sure they're emptied regularly. Disguise cigarette burns on carpets by clipping off darkened ends of carpet tufts, then apply soda water, blot dry and vacuum.

Holiday punches? Go easy on the sugar, recommends Perry. Sugar-base punches leave dark stains when spilled.

More information on first aid for party spots and stains is available in Eureka's Carpet Stain-Removal Guide. For a copy, send 25 cents in stamps or coins and a self-addressed business reply envelope to: Stain Guide, Dept. MCS, 1201 East Bell Street, Bloomington, Illinois 61701.

HOLIDAY CLEAN-UP CHORES are made easier with the new Kenmore spray carpet cleaner, which has the capability of cleaning a typical 9-foot by 12-foot carpet without refilling. The unit sells for under $130.00 at Sears retail stores.

Holiday hosting hard on carpets

More home entertaining is done during the holidays than any other time of the year. And the added flood of family, friends and neighbors leaves its mark on rugs and carpeting.

Now Sears has introduced the first home power spray carpet cleaner to make holiday clean-up chores a little easier. The appliance has the capability of cleaning a typical 9-foot by 12-foot carpet without refilling, and weighs less than 45 pounds filled.

The Kenmore spray carpet cleaner resembles a canister vacuum cleaner and features a single two-gallon supply and recovery tank.

After filling the unit with hot tap water and cleaning solution, the mixture is sprayed into the carpet at 18 pounds per square inch by activating a trigger control on the handle grip. Some 70 per cent of the liquid used in cleaning is recovered by the vacuum system, and in two to three hours the carpet is dry.

The unit is equipped with an 18-foot power cord, a 6-foot vinyl hose and a 40-inch wand with a 9-inch nozzle featuring two spray jets molded of a clear material to allow for visual inspection of the cleaning operation.

An attachment set is available to convert the spray cleaner into a conventional wet-dry vacuum cleaner for indoor and outdoor use.

Look no more! Here's that one-of-a-kind gift!

Christmas presents a good opportunity to give the entire family a present they'll all appreciate and use for many years to come: a new refrigerator with a host of features most older models don't have.

And you'll be pleasantly surprised to find that many of the new models will fit into the kitchen space your current model occupies.

Even if your kitchen space is limited, there's a two-door model from Hotpoint that will fit into a space only 29¼ inches wide and 65 inches high, yet will still give you 4.58-cubic-feet of freezer space and 9.6-cubic-feet for fresh food. Yes: Model CTF14EV is No-Frost.

Or if you have a 66⅝- by 31¾-inch space available, Hotpoint has a deluxe two-door, No-Frost model that provides a generous 20.8-cubic-feet overall, with an abundant freezer section of 6.93-cubic-feet. Just think of the ice capacity: the bucket is rated to hold about 70 cubes—about five pounds of ice!

Moreover, because of design improvements since you bought your present model, you'll probably have more fresh-food capacity, a lot more room in your freezer than you have now, and you'll get the added convenience of never having to defrost again.

The new Hotpoint models come in a variety of The New Naturals™ sparkling colors to match almost any decor: Almond, Fresh Avocado, Coffee, Harvest Wheat, and Snow.

Eight of Hotpoint's Top Freezer, No-Frost models have the Power Saver switch and are equipped for an optional automatic ice-maker.

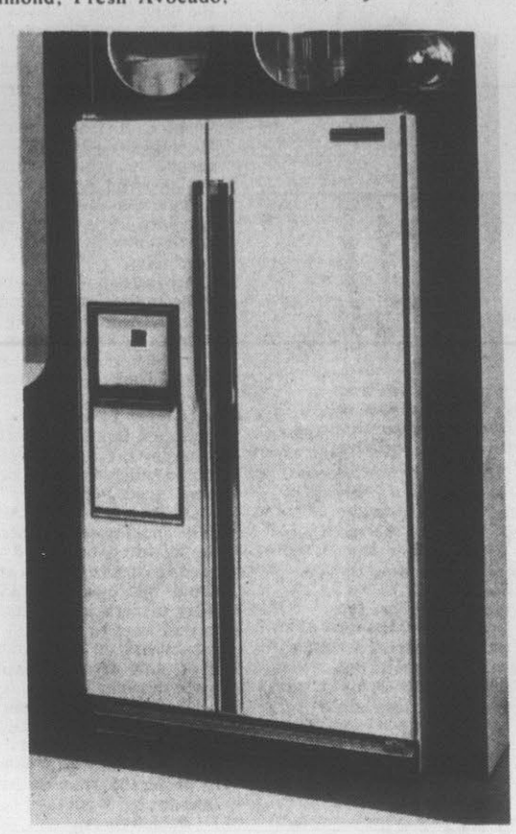

Furthermore, these models feature egg storage, covered butter and cheese bins, deep door shelves, interior lights in the fresh food section, adjustable shelves, magnetic door closers, and convenient door stops to protect nearby walls and cabinets. And most of them roll out on wheels for ease in cleaning behind and beneath the appliance.

Four Hotpoint Side-By-Side models, all No-Frost, range in total capacity from 18.9- to 23.5-cubic-feet, with freezer sections ranging from 6.55-cubic-feet up to an abundant 8.6-cubic-feet.

Two of these models also feature Hotpoint's unique exterior Water 'N' Ice service. No longer do you need to let all that precious cool air escape into the room when you want ice: just tilt-out the bucket in the door to use as many cubes as you need. Or fill your glass with chilled water without opening the freezer door.

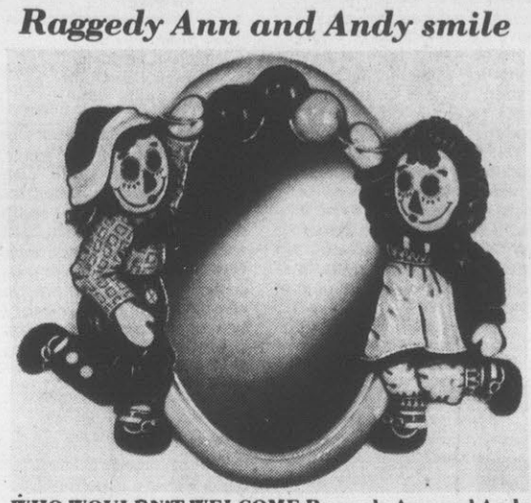

And, of course, the side-by-sides have all the convenience features of the two-door models, plus a light in the freezer section and a slide-out freezer basket. So there are plenty of refrigerator models to choose from to fit your family's needs and desires.

Therefore, if it's that extra special gift you're seeking for the whole family, replace your refrigerator, and gain greater capacity plus a lot of useful extra features.

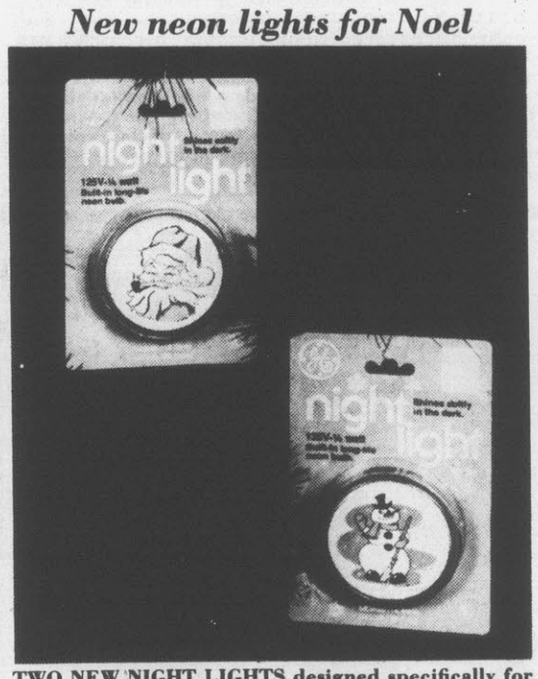

A GLEAMING, NEW REFRIGERATOR WOULD BE AN IDEAL family Christmas gift that gives many more features than older models, and increases your storage space besides. This 23.5-cubic-foot model from Hotpoint has a spacious 8.7-cubic-foot freezer section, yet stands less than 67 inches high and fits into a space 36 inches wide. A special feature on this model is Hotpoint's unique exterior Water 'N' Ice service. (Shown is Model CSF24MV.)

Raggedy Ann and Andy smile

WHO WOULDN'T WELCOME Raggedy Ann and Andy into their home during the Christmas season? Here, the two playful cartoon characters flank the sides of a delightful oval mirror that measures 23 inches wide and 19½ inches high. The mirror, of vibrant blues, reds and yellows, is from Syroco's new "Raggedy Ann and Andy" collection of clocks, wall plaques and a garment rack tidy-up. All are made of durable plastic for easy care and cleaning. Retailing for approximately $22.00, this decorative and practical accessory is sure to reflect everyone's happy face.

New neon lights for Noel

TWO NEW NIGHT LIGHTS designed specifically for the Christmas season are available from General Electric. These seasonal designs feature a Santa and a snowman colorfully illustrated on a white insert in a 2½-inch diameter base. The decorated insert can be rotated within the base so that the figure may be displayed upright in either vertical or horizontal wall outlets. The lights are ¾-inch deep and fit flat against the wall. The ¼-Watt neon bulb is long lasting and glows continuously for just pennies a year. They are recommended as holiday decorations, stocking gifts and party favors. Suggested retail price is $1.59.

FOR CHRISTMAS GIFT GIVING and holiday enjoyment, Cory's Brew-Mates provide the same rich flavor of electric drip coffee or tea at a fraction of the cost.

New brewer for gift-givers' savings

With the rising price of serving coffee, Santa better think twice before investing in an automatic drip coffeemaker.

Fortunately, there is an alternative brewer which uses the drip principle to produce the same rich flavor of electric drip coffee or tea at a fraction of the cost.

Cory Food Services, Inc. has introduced Brew-Mates, a complete manual drip brewing system which includes a "Tweetie" whistling kettle, non-electric drip brewer and paper filters.

The system brews from two to eight cups of coffee or tea almost as fast as instant. Just boil water in the 2 qt. kettle which shows the exact water level and whistles when water boils. Then pour over fresh ground coffee or loose tea in the system's brew basket lined with a paper filter and placed atop the matching glass decanter.

It's a perfect gift for budget-minded shoppers who appreciate the fresh drip-brewed taste of coffee or tea. What you save on the brewer alone can help buy many cups of coffee well into the New Year.

Your new clothes will need the best of care

Here comes Christmas. And if you're like most Americans, it will bring with it lots of new clothes, particularly if you have young people in the house.

Special items

Christmas is the time of year you get and give those clothing items you ordinarily wouldn't buy for yourself (to make it seem like Christmas) as well as filling up the wardrobe with items that will be needed sooner or later anyway (might as well be practical).

As a result, the clothing mix your family will sport after the holiday season will likely range from the delicate and filmy to the rough and ready.

In a few weeks, though, the reality may begin to take some of the glow out of the gifts. That reality is that the old washing machine just isn't capable of washing the delicates without damaging them or might not be able to handle the strain of the heavy coveralls that are so popular with today's young people.

Keeping pace

The fact is, today's washing machines have to keep up with the trends in clothing. They must handle delicates, permanent press, knits as well as heavy items with equal care. No simple task. But manufacturers are answering the challenge with new and better cycles and other improvements.

General Electric, for example, in its new "V-Line" washers, offers improvements specifically designed to keep pace with today's fabrics and lifestyles.

Modern sensibility

The New Year may bring a lot of new clothes, but it will also bring some new problems for your old washer. New home laundry equipment is designed to deal with modern day laundry problems.

Menu delight for holiday appetites

It takes more than a fine recipe to create a unique holiday menu; it takes strategy. Each course should complement the others, and stand on its own, as well.

For a taste of culinary success, try this complete holiday dinner menu.

To stir up hearty appetites, start by stirring up some real Italian Egg Nog. For each tall glass, combine one cup milk with one egg. Beat or shake vigorously. Add one ounce Liquore Galliano. Pour into brandy snifter and chill in refrigerator. Garnish with chocolate curls or chopped nuts before serving.

CONSOMME GALLIANO

- 1½ cans beef broth
- 1½ cups tomato juice
- 1½ tablespoons lemon juice
- salt and pepper to taste
- ⅛ cup Liquore Galliano

Bring broth, juices, salt and pepper to boiling in large saucepan. Stir in Galliano and simmer for about three minutes. Serve piping hot.

And now . . . the main course. Add color and sophistication to the holiday baked ham by dressing it up with a liquored apricot glaze:

APRICOT GLAZE

- 1 jar (12 ozs.) apricot preserves
- 1 tablespoon lime juice
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- ½ cup Liquore Galliano
- 6 pounds fully cooked ham

To prepare glaze, heat preserves, lime juice, cloves and Galliano in small saucepan. Place ham on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake at 325° for about 30 minutes.

Remove from oven; remove any rind and smooth fat. Score in diamond pattern, if desired. Return to oven. Bake 1½ hours longer, basting or brushing frequently with apricot glaze. Luscious!

CLASSIC MACEDOINE OF FRUIT

- ½ ripe pineapple, cut in spears
- 1 grapefruit, sectioned
- 2 oranges, sectioned
- 1 red apple, unpeeled and sliced
- 1 pear, unpeeled and sliced
- black and white grapes
- 5 ounces Liquore Galliano
- ½ cup red currant jelly
- 1 tablespoon orange juice

Combine all fruits in large, shallow bowl. Stir in ½ cup Galliano. Chill four hours or overnight. Drain, reserving liquid for sauces and compotes.

In saucepan, melt jelly. Stir in orange juice and ⅛ cup Galliano. Brush mixture thickly onto fruit. (Note: red grapes, persimmons, pomegranates, tangerines and kumquats may be substituted.)

Finally, enjoy a relaxing after-feast toast with a tasty Galliano & Soda. Pour 1½ ounces Liquore Galliano over ice in "highball" glass. Fill to top with Canada Dry Club Soda. Drop in wedge of lime, stir and serve.

WHO SAID A TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS dinner has to look and taste strictly traditional? A delicious, easy-to-prepare recipe using Liquore Galliano for basting and glazing the holiday ham is included in a free, 24-page booklet of holiday menu suggestions. For a complimentary copy, write to "The Gold Standard," P.O. Box 323, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The 'good old days' are fun to recall, but . . . !

Fifty years ago, if a family treated itself to a new electric refrigerator for Christmas, it signaled more than the end of a year, it ushered in the end of an era.

Gone were the days of regular ice delivery and continual dumping of water from the drip pan, for it was 1927, the year of the first practical household refrigerator—General Electric's Monitor Top.

That was the first year families could buy the gleaming white, four-legged refrigerator with five to seven cubic feet of space inside. The smaller model would cost more than $50 a cubic foot at a time when earnings of most workers averaged just $1,380 a year.

What made the Monitor Top refrigerator unique was its heremetically sealed compressor (called "icing unit" then) which sat like a crown on the top of the refrigerator. There were no outside pulleys or belts as there had been on previous electric refrigerators, which were really converted iceboxes.

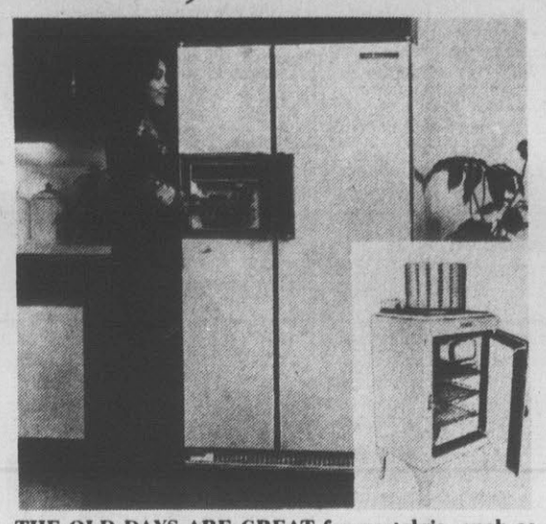

In 1927, GE offered the Monitor Top in one color and two sizes.

The family treating themselves to a new refrigerator this year has a much better deal. They can choose from a wide selection of models and colors. In 1977, GE offers 14 refrigerators in sizes ranging from 9.5 to 23.6 cubic feet.

Ten of them are Frost-Free, three of them offer ice through the freezer door and many of them are available in five of The New Naturals™ Colors—Snow, Fresh Avocado, Harvest Wheat, Coffee and the all-new Almond.

And they cost less per cubic foot than did the old Monitor Top—in a time when average income has increased manyfold.

The good old days are fun to recall, and the old Monitor Top is a part of many of our recollections; but in terms of convenience and value, refrigeration's good days are now.

THE OLD DAYS ARE GREAT for nostalgia, such as this 1927 Monitor Top refrigerator, but in terms of convenience, space and features, honors go to this modern General Electric side-by-side model with ice cubes, crushed ice and chilled water dispensed through the freezer door.

Microwaves go from fast to nice and slow!

Versatility is the benefit that today's microwave oven buyers want in increasing numbers. They want to use their ovens not only for fast cooking, but for preparing the wide range of foods that has been the traditional domain of the thermal oven.

That means being able to slow the super-fast microwave process to cooking functions such as simmering. Having such broad speed capabilities expands use possibilities from merely heating a single item to slow simmering soups or stews, or preparing an entire pot roast with vegetables.

An independent survey made for the General Electric Company underscored the microwave user's desire for versatility. The study indicated 70 per cent of potential buyers were looking for versatility. They want an appliance that fits into their everyday lifestyle as well as one to satisfy "special occasion" needs.

Other surveys made by GE at its cooking schools across the country indicated the need and desire to learn more about microwave cooking. New owners and potential buyers want to know all the capabilities of a microwave oven and what to expect when they use it.

Since the microwave is the largest selling major appliance today, this is a large group asking for help. It is projected that industry sales for 1977 will total some 2.1 million units.

In answer to the need for versatility GE introduced a new microwave oven, the JET 110. To provide more microwave education, the Company researched and developed a new 272-page book entitled The Microwave Guide and Cookbook.

The JET 110 countertop microwave oven offers multiple power levels that allow the user to program the oven for High, Medium, Low, Simmer 'N Cook or Defrost. It has capabilities of cooking in three ways: time, temperature or simmer.

In order to cook by temperature or simmer, the Automatic Chef™ temperature probe is inserted into the food to monitor its progress. When cooking by temperature, the oven shuts off when the predetermined food temperature is reached.

In simmer cooking, the probe holds the desired 180°F for 10 minutes or 10 hours—thus taking the guesswork out of long, slow cooking. A specially designed, three-quart stoneware casserole for slow simmer cooking is packed in the JET 110 along with the new cookbook.

Diana Hansen, manager, Range home economics, for GE, directed work on the new cookbook. She explains: "What we have tried to do with this book is bridge the gap between cooking schools and cooking in the home. We've tried to present, in an easy-to-read way, the information which people need to know to become confident, successful and expert microwave cooks."

Mrs. Hansen added: "We haven't backed off on sensitive issues. Microwave is terrific in some applications and not in others."

The 481 full-color photographs show comparisons of foods prepared by microwave vs. conventional cooking and many intermediate "how-to" steps during preparation, as well as beautiful ready-to-serve microwaved foods.

The book contains an introductory section and 15 "microlessons" for novice microwave cooks. There is also a special section covering "Simmer 'N Cook", since slow cooking in a microwave oven is a new concept.

"Microwave cooking of less expensive cuts of meat, or making chili or soup, positions the new ovens where opinion research indicates buyers want it—as an everyday, everyway appliance" Mrs. Hansen noted.

Following is a "Simmer 'N Cook" spicy beverage recipe, perfect for cold weather entertaining. The ideal serving temperature is maintained in the microwave as the aromatic spices steep through the cider.

MULLED SPICY CIDER

This punch has a piquant, spicy flavor. For more mellow flavor, substitute two cups orange juice for equal amount cider in recipe below.

POWER LEVEL: Automatic Simmer
MICROWAVE TIME: Four to six hours

- ½ cup brown sugar (packed)
- 1 teaspoon whole allspice
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash nutmeg
- 1 stick cinnamon
- 2 qt. apple cider

In stoneware accessory or 3-qt. casserole place sugar, allspice, cloves, salt, nutmeg, cinnamon and cider. Insert temperature probe so tip rests on bottom of dish, halfway between center and side. Use accessory cover, or cover tightly with plastic wrap, arranging loosely around probe to vent. Attach cable end at receptacle.

NEW VERSATILITY has been added to microwave oven speed and convenience in General Electric's JET110. Now, even slowly simmered stews, roasts and poultry can be prepared by microwave because GE has added a "Simmer'N Cook" setting to its newest microwave. By combining the automatic temperature control with the new setting, foods are heated quickly to 180 degrees and held at that temperature to simmer for as long as the recipe calls for. A special crockery dish, with opening for the temperature probe, comes packed with every JET110.

Best time!

WHAT BETTER TIME than Christmas time to spruce up one's walls with a timepiece as elegant and outstanding as this Ridgeway Regulator wall clock. Almost four-feet high, the "AMHERST" has a porcelain face, cable-driven weights and a lyre pendulum all enclosed behind a glass door. In a rich, deep pine finish featuring banister turnings, broken pediment top and single finial, the clock has a recognizable Early American heritage. Here, Ridgeway helps you usher in a happy holiday season with the ticking of a classic timepiece that is truly a work of fine craftsmanship.

The best surprise can be no surprise!

Christmas traditionally is a time of surprises. But sometimes the best surprise is no surprise.

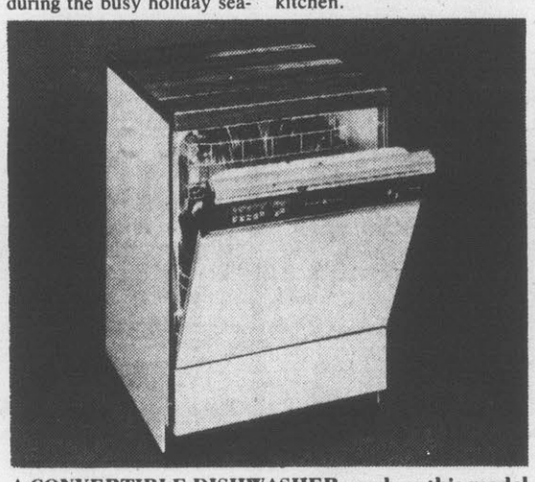

For instance, the homemaker who's been doing dishes by hand for far too long, a pre-Christmas gift of a convertible dishwasher could really take the sting out of those mounds of holiday dishes that result from all those great holiday meals.

Convertible dishwashers, points out General Electric, are especially appreciated as gifts, because they can be hooked up at the kitchen sink and used immediately with no hassle with installation during the busy holiday season.

Later, when things quiet down, convertibles can be installed as built-in machines if you wish.

And convertible models offer many of the important features found in built-in models. The GE model GSC890 for instance, offers six cycles—including the Power Scrub cycle—soft food disposer, dual detergent dispenser, and rinse aid dispenser just like its built-in counterparts.

It even has a wood cutting board top to provide four square feet of additional working space in your kitchen.

A CONVERTIBLE DISHWASHER, such as this model by GE, can help take the work out of cleaning up after big holiday meals . . . and get 1978 off to a good clean start.

A timely thought: the gift of time

Christmas is the most cheerful and festive season of the year. Gala parties and quiet celebrations, feelings of good will and togetherness combine to make it so. And even the otherwise tedious chores—like shopping—become a great joy. But, unfortunately, there never seems to be enough time.

Yes, "Time Flies" and sometimes we feel like it is simply "passing us by." You can capture time this Christmas by giving the man you care for a Speidel LCD digital watch for men. Each contains a six-function, solid-state module that provides hours and minutes continuously as well as months, dates, and seconds on command.

Or give that special lady an LCD digital watch for ladies—a unique blend of delicate jewelry and sophisticated electronics.

During the Christmas season every second counts. So this year give a gift of a Speidel watch . . . and maybe that special someone will find they have more time to spend with you.

We've got what you want.

Who is that gift really for? Give presents personal touch

"This year, I'm going to do it right; plan a budget, make a list and shop ahead of time." Sound familiar? Yet suddenly, it's two days before Christmas, and the frantic rush to buy gifts has just begun.

A little planning can go a long way, and help stretch any Christmas budget. Here are some gift ideas for mom, dad, the kids and even for grandma and grandpa to help make this year's Christmas shopping easier.

For mom

One of the best parts of opening the Christmas gifts is displaying them under the tree. To help set off the gifts in tasteful, traditional style, the Christmas Tree Skirt from the Lillian Vernon gift catalog of over 1000 unique items features charming Christmas figures hand-screened onto bleached jute with a real homespun look. With a slit up the back, the skirt is placed around the tree trunk, and is handwashable in warm water. Based in Mt. Vernon, N.Y., Lillian Vernon is a leading U.S. gift catalog marketer.

If mom likes to sew, a thimble is essential to her work. Why not replace her ordinary, metal thimbles with those from Lillian Vernon's international collector's set. Crafted from porcelain, silver-plated brass and gold-plated metal, the thimbles are available in striking designs from five European countries. They may be ordered from the Lillian Vernon catalog.

Next to salt and pepper, what one ingredient complements more dishes than any other? Ask mom, and she's likely to say Liquore Galliano, the popular Italian liqueur. A 23-oz. size of this legendary liqueur makes a versatile Christmas gift for mom, ideal for Harvey Wallbanger Cakes, Chicken Cordon Gold, or in the glaze for the holiday ham.

For dad

If the sport of fishing is more to dad's liking, the "Fishing Machine" from St. Croix provides challenging angling action in a full-sized fiber glass rod which collapses into the rod and assembly for fishing at a moment's notice.

Complete with a patented "Range Finder-Depth Finder," the Fishing Machine collapses for easy storage in car, boat or briefcase.

With next year's baseball season still four months away, the wait may be just too much for a sports-loving dad. To keep him occupied in the meantime, "Super Jock" Baseball from Schaper will let dad recreate fast baseball action right on the living room floor.

Based on the same exciting game principle as the original four "Super Jock" sports action games, a firm knock on the baseball athlete's head sends the baseball flying, and makes point-scoring more difficult than it looks!

If dad is a scotch whisky lover, he'll love a gift of Ballantine's Scotch in the handsome decorator decanter. For the second year in a row, the stylish decanter is being offered in limited quantities, and at no extra charge. And when the top quality scotch is gone, the decanter remains as a striking addition to any home bar.

If dad has to go to his local pub or bar to enjoy a glass of imported beer, then give him a real treat with a case of imported beer under the Christmas tree.

An excellent choice is St. Pauli Girl beer from Germany, one of the top five U.S. imported beers. Light, clean-tasting, and with virtually no aftertaste, St. Pauli Girl beer will surprise dad's demanding taste because it's properly aged and brewed with absolutely no chemicals or preservatives.

For the kids

To help children create entire environments of lifelike play situations, the three newest Playmobil Toy System series—Medical, Fire Fighters and Cavalry—may be used alone, or added on to sets a child may already own.

Playmobil people are colorful, miniature figures with movable arms and legs and a variety of accessories, available in base, starter, deluxe and super deluxe sets.

With all the excitement the Christmas season brings, smart parents will give their youngsters toys and games which keep them out from underfoot and engrossed in constructive play.

For preschoolers ages two through seven, the Beaver Work Bench from Kusan has a variety of safe, soft plastic tools which allow "busy beavers" to improve physical dexterity as they play at "building" or "making" just about anything a young imagination can conjure up.

Designed for children—and their parents—"Finders Keepers" is a suspenseful, two-in-one family game.

The fun-filled time puzzle is a three dimensional board that uses a marble, playing cards and corresponding geometric shapes in a race against time. With two playing boards; one for youngsters, one for older folks, "Finders Keepers" will keep players at the edge of their seats.

For preschoolers who still have a few years to go before they can build skyscrapers or roads, the "Scoop Loader," the newest Chunky Truck pull toy from Kusan, will let them have fun pretending in the meantime.

Like its four predecessors, the Scoop Loader is made of durable, colorful plastic, and has a removable "Chunky" driver who steers from atop the truck. By manually tilting the scoop up and down, kids can safely lift imaginary—or real—loads of dirt, sand, gravel or small objects.

For grandparents

With so many gift ideas for mom, dad and the kids, there's yet another family member to be considered—a grandmother or grandfather. Ideal for use on the patio, porch, or even indoors, Cosom's Home Shuffleboard is a Christmas gift with year-round appeal.

Complete with a 15-foot long "memory" plastic court, four cues, eight discs and playing rules, Home Shuffleboard also has an optional, all-weather scoreboard for accurate scorekeeping.

For the whole family

Because the family Christmas tree is just that—a family tree—there's something uniquely personal about its appearance. And what better way to enhance that personal look than with elegant ornaments which reflect a family's taste?

Crafted from solid polished brass, Lillikins "twinkles" from the Lillian Vernon Gift catalog are personally-engraved, twinkling tree ornaments which make ideal gifts for the entire family.

Available in more than a dozen nostalgic Christmas scenes—snowmen, angels, bells, cherubic children and Santa figures—Lillikins hang gracefully from the tree, mantelpiece, above a door or window, or anywhere as conversation pieces.

In no time, Lillikins will become cherished family heirloom ornaments.

One gift for the whole family is a new door security device that will help everyone sleep a lot easier. A new, hard-rubber wedge that installs on the floor offers more protection than chain locks.

St. Croix's patented "Stoplock" provides deadbolt strength against forced entry and cannot be cut, sawed or forced. It's available in chain, security and hardware stores for a suggested retail price of $9.95.

Bread dough art is fun!

Christmas decorating can be fun and creative for the entire family by adorning trees, windows and fireplaces with inexpensive and easy-to-make bread dough art.

Yuletide ornaments such as stars, wreathes, hearts and various free-form designs are created from dough shaped into a desired form, then baked to dry for painting.

In conventional ovens the drying of bread dough ornaments takes one-half to one full hour, but with a microwave oven this process lasts only three minutes.

For microwave owners "Bread Dough Art," a brochure by Panasonic, provides step-by-step information on the basics, tools, creating, drying and finishing of bread dough ornamentation.

Learn how to create bread dough art by sending for a free copy of "Bread Dough Art" to: Panasonic Company, Home Appliance Division, One Panasonic Way, Secaucus, N.J. 07094.

Athlete for all seasons keeps hockey 'on the ice'

HE SHOOTS! HE SCORES! If this shout has a familiar ring, it's because TV hockey seems to be more and more popular these days. And kids love to dream up their own versions of big-league ice hockey.

But when the weather's cold and snowy, and they have to stay inside, it's hard to find an indoor game that captures all the excitement and action of the NHL.

One such game, "Super Jock" Hockey by Schaper, is a safe, challenging, and suspenseful sports action game for children six years and older.

Players alternate taking "slap-shots" and playing goalie. The offensive player shoots the soft puck by rapping the durable "skater" on the head, causing his hockey stick to swing and propelling the puck toward the net.

As in the real thing, the goalie controlled by the defensive player has little time to "make a save" and prevent the puck from "beating" him. The winner, of course, is the player who scores the most goals.

"Super Jock" Hockey may also be operated by only one player, who practices taking "slap-shots" at the net with the goalie in a fixed position. Either way, no batteries are required.

The game comes complete with "Super Stick" player, colorful decals, two hockey pucks, and goal net . . . and costs less than the price of a good hockey ticket. Best of all, the front row view is like being "on the ice!"

STANDING READY FOR ACTION are the "Super Jock" Hockey player and goalie—all they need are a couple of young "coaches" to start the game. "Super Jock" Hockey joins the Schaper family of exciting, durable sports/action games, including "Super Jock" baseball, basketball, soccer, and the original "Super Toe" football game.

Bring out the best for guests . . .

The season to entertain elegantly

The holidays are the most popular time of the year to get together with family and friends to enjoy each other and the good things of life.

Along with taste-tempting foods, an excellent way to add to the festiveness of the season is to bring out from storage good china, silver and stemware.

Sprucing up these dusty, seldom-used items is easy and safe in an automatic dishwasher. Simply load the good dinnerware, set the controls for rinse and hold, and the dishwasher will automatically give all these items a holiday sparkle.

Maytag's Consumer Information Center has a booklet that suggests several ways to make the most of your dishwasher during the holidays. Invariably, guests for dinner will result in a lot more dishes—more than a dishwasher can hold in a single load.

The Maytag booklet suggests that the cooking pots and pans, snack trays and glasses can be washed while you and your guests are having dinner. After dinner, unload the clean items, load the dinner dishes, and return to the dining or living area to enjoy your guests.

Later, after everyone has gone home, you can retire knowing that tomorrow morning will be more pleasant when you wake up to a clean, orderly kitchen.

A checklist for a jollier holiday

Christmas is a time for good cheer, not chaos! Yet the unprepared may find that the holiday season has crept up on them, leaving them to frantically address cards, rummage through the basement for decorations, and garble excuses as they sneak out to buy food and drink for their unexpected guests!

FOR THE TREE:

☐ Check lights and cords.
☐ Buy extra bulbs.
☐ Look over tree cloth to be sure it is clean and has no holes.
☐ Find tree stand and clean it up.

FOR GIFTING:

☐ Make your list early and do a little at a time.
☐ Get wrapping paper, ribbons, cards.
☐ Wrap as you buy gifts.

FOR CARDS:

☐ Select your cards early. If they are to be personalized, take the envelopes home now.
☐ Bring address book up to date; remember ZIP codes.
☐ Address envelopes during short sessions while watching television, listening to the radio or stereo.
☐ Get postage stamps, and remember special denominations for those going to foreign countries.

Great surprises for Christmas morning!

Smart shoppers select lovely American handcrafted glass

Spread Christmas cheer to everyone on your shopping list with a gift of gleaming, handcrafted American glass.

Glass pieces that are created by the skillful hands of a master artisan have artistic value as well as practical use. According to the Glass Crafts of America Association, a gift of handcrafted glass—our oldest craft—is a 360-year-old tradition.

Many of the beautiful glass designs you will discover during your holiday shopping were created by members of Glass Crafts in Glass Country, an area which encompasses West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, and Ohio. Here, master craftsmen work in 10 glass houses to create a wide variety of exquisite glassware.

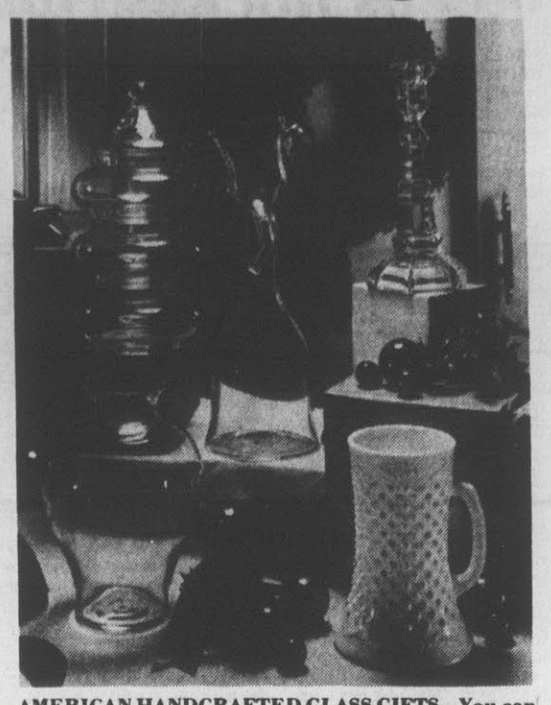

With a wide variety of glass pieces to choose from, you'll complete your shopping list with ease.

For those who appreciate classics, there are the traditional milk, coin, satin, and slag glass, which are fashioned into exquisite pieces.

For modern tastes, choose contemporary terrariums, oversized bottles, or graceful decanters that are produced at these factories. Many of these designs could be a part of tomorrow's prized collections.

Slight variations in every piece of glass—no two pieces are ever alike—make each gift unique in our world of machine-made products. This glassware is formed using skills that have been passed down from generation to generation. Glassmaking has been a part of American life since 1608 when our forefathers built the first glass factory.

Some of the skilled artisans in Glass Country create their pieces using an iron blow pipe, an ancient tool which is used to expand fiery, molten glass into unique designs (many one-of-a-kind). Other workers carefully press heated glass into a mold to make pieces such as jars or torte plates.

AMERICAN HANDCRAFTED GLASS GIFTS—You can find something for everyone on your Christmas shopping list when you choose beautiful American handcrafted glassware pieces like these (clockwise—upper left): graceful stacking cannister, wine cannister, wine decanter and funnel, elegant candlestick, hobnail milkglass stein, and contemporary hand-blown vase. These gifts were created at factories in "Glass Country, U.S.A.," an area which includes West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, and Ohio. For a free brochure on visiting this scenic area and seeing glass made first-hand, write to: Glass Crafts of America Association, Box 113, Suite 5700, 600 Grant Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219.

You can tour the Glass Country factories and watch craftsmen create their treasures before your eyes.

Glass Crafts offers a complimentary brochure, "Welcome to Glass Country, U.S.A.," which features a map showing factory locations, driving routes, tour and gift shop hours, and photographs of some of the beautiful glass designs made by the companies. It can be obtained by writing to Glass Crafts of America, Box 113, Suite 5700, 600 Grant Street, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15219.

Holiday entertaining that goes easy on the hostess!

Even for the willing hostess, entertaining during the busy Christmas season can be difficult. Preparing for the holidays is a challenge, especially for a woman dividing her time between a job and her home.

Given just a few hours and a bit of imagination, you can entertain with ease, says Charles Solt, design director of Lenox China and Crystal.

Mr. Solt suggests that the best way to cope with holiday entertaining is to plan ahead. Consider the available space and number of people you are inviting. Arrange menus and prepare food in advance. Think about how you will set the table and serve guests.

The holidays offer many opportunities to use fine china and crystal to create attractive table settings, whether you are entertaining formally or informally.

"We have even created Lenox China plates, cups, and saucers, as well as special pieces such as a cake stand, a bowl, and candlesticks, all with a cheerful red and green holiday design," he said.

Many hostesses do not have enough complete china services to serve large gatherings. Mr. Solt suggests mixing and matching china patterns.

One key to a dramatic table is an attractive centerpiece. Use your imagination and create centerpieces with natural fruits and vegetables, explains Mr. Solt. Make an edible red and green arrangement using tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers or any vegetable on hand. Or arrange polished red apples in a bowl ringed with a small pine wreath and a few pinecones. A silver bowl or basket would complement either arrangement.

Give different rooms of your house a festive atmosphere, especially if you have space limitations, advises the Lenox design head. Here are some tips he offers:

• Set a buffet table in your dining or living room for an informal wine and cheese gathering. Cover the table with a rich red cloth, add boughs of pine tied with colorful ribbons, and several sizes of red, green, and white candles.

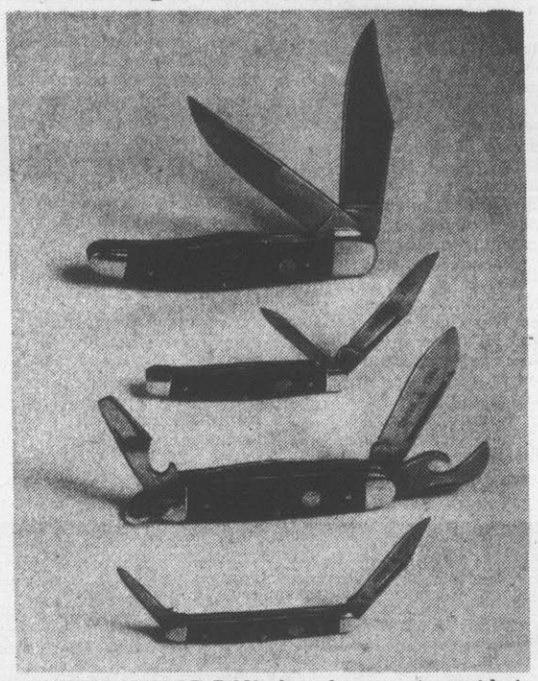

• For a formal dinner party, accent red and green with silver and gold; a dramatic background for your holiday china by Lenox. Use silver and gold ornaments as a centerpiece. Ivory candles and small gold and silver place cards add to the effect.

For that special someone

IF SANTA DECIDES not to stuff the stocking of a friend or relative with coal this Christmas, then why not recommend that ol' Chris slip in a Mr. Thin radio for that special person who has been good all year. Perfect for Christmas stockings and everyday shirt pockets or handbags, the Panasonic radio receives AM stations in a lightweight ½ inch thick cabinet. Its sister radio, the RF-015, packs FM/AM sound in a unit only ⅝ of an inch thick. In either version the Panasonic Mr. Thin will bring continual listening pleasure to that special person, and besides, it's easier for Santa to hide.

Sharp, handy gift idea

FOR THE MAN OR BOY who takes genuine pride in ownership of the best in finely-crafted personal accessories, a Boker pocket knife in his Christmas stocking will make this holiday remembered forever. For these are lifetime quality, bearing the Tree Brand emblem famous for 140 years, America's oldest name in pocket and sporting knives. The variety includes handy 2¾-inch pocket miniatures to a convenient folding hunting knife, 9-inches long when opened. Their handles are stag type, genuine bone or luxury rosewood with keen edge-holding cutlery steel blades—a joy to own and use, and show with pride. Most are in the popular "under $10" gift group at hardware and sporting goods departments.

Keeping Christmas secrets!

Sometimes the lettering on gift boxes will show through the wrapping paper, giving away your Christmas surprise. When you're shopping for Christmas gift wrap, stock up on tissue wrap. A few layers of it under the outside wrappings will keep your Christmas secret safe until it's opened!

TEST THE LIGHTS

Be sure to test your Christmas tree lights before last-minute trimming of the tree or you and the children may be in for some disappointment. Do this before Christmas Eve. If you're buying new lights, shop early before stock and selection become limited.

OUTDOOR DISPLAYS

Many homes are brightly displayed for the Yuletide holiday. If you're setting up lights outdoors, make sure the wiring is weatherproof and not cracked. Also secure wires so they don't hang or blow too much in the winter wind; secure free-standing displays as well.

TRYING TO KEEP UP WITH the latest in hair styles for many people means having a dresserful of the latest hair appliances. The beauty experts at Remington have solved all that with the Deluxe Super Brush™ 1000 Hair Styler. This versatile unit with its multitude of attachments can perform the function of a pistol dryer with its pistol drying nozzle (left), and it does it with less arm fatigue. The spot concentrator (left center) concentrates heat and air flow in one area for spot drying of pin curls. The hot air styling comb (right center) helps to untangle hair and adds the finishing touch to your hair style. The circular styling brush (right) sends warm air flowing through and over the hair while you brush in the style you choose.

Merry modes for the man in the house

A gift guide for men: selecting something he'll really love

Are you one of those wise women who knows how to give the Christmas gifts he'll keep? It is a talent. And when those women, who seem to excel at gift-giving are asked the secret of their success, they simply smile.

Would it surprise you to learn that there's no great genius involved? Cherished gifts require more than a moment's thought about the lifestyle and personal interests of the man you're buying the gift for, be he father, husband, boyfriend or neighbor down the street.

It's no wonder then, that so many women are confused and disappointed when the tie they bought for "him" was quickly returned. After all, what's wrong with a tie? It's a safe choice. Nothing's wrong with a tie. But we're talking about Christmas, and that means anticipating something magical.

So if your holiday offerings are met with a traditionally kind, "gee, thanks," then you'd better look elsewhere for the gift signals he may be sending you.

Rather than go through this seasonal strife, we've compiled a group of gifts that would please any Rajah. Not because all of them are rich in terms of cost, but because the thought behind each one of them makes them special and memorable.

This Rajah's roster can boost your confidence for creative gift giving. First, let's describe the type of man you're shopping for. He's probably on the way up at his job or has been established quite a while. He knows what he likes, but like so many men, he's not telling you.

He appreciates quality, can spot luxury at 100 paces, and he's hoping you'll give him the gifts he'd choose for himself.

On Christmas Day, present him with one or more of the following:

1. Chinese wok, cookbook and 10 cooking lessons . . . Because you know how he loves to relax by puttering around in the kitchen and playing master chef, let him "cook" with the right equipment and a proper education.

2. Series of professional facials . . . at a top skin care salon for men. Skin care salons are springing up in big cities all over the country. This is a loving gift that not only will make him feel great, but he'll look great too.

3. Satin bow tie, ruffled dress shirt, velvet blazer . . . for the man with taste, style and a highly developed sense of elegance. A ruffled-front QIANA dress shirt is perfect for those formal affairs when everyone's dressed to the nines. It's so luxurious you'd never suspect it was practical, too. This is also one of those occasions for which a "special" bow tie gift makes sense. Add a plush velvet blazer and he'll love you forever!

4. New skis, winter trip to the slopes . . . either one, or the other, or both are very generous if you can swing it. This would be an excellent way to say, "I know how much you care about your favorite winter sport!"

5. Original cast albums and two tickets to his favorite show . . . If you can get his favorite show album, terrific. But tickets to the show itself are even better, especially when you get to go along!

6. Racing gloves, ascot, and sportswear . . . Give him racing gloves made of the finest leather that buckle at the wrist. A dashing ascot to make him look like an English lord, and, a silky-soft, supremely flattering QIANA turtleneck sportshirt from Thane. When the game's the thing, you want him to be dressed for it.

7. Health club membership . . . This says how much you care about his physical well-being. Regular exercise classes, saunas, massage, swimming, tennis, will all keep him healthy and fit for many Christmases to come.

8. Brass desk set and tailored business shirts . . . He'll appreciate prestige business shirts of QIANA. They'll drape perfectly over his body for a flawless fit, and it pays to look good on the job. Van Heusen's "Van Q" line has a fine selection to match his champagne tastes. Pair these up with a fine desk set and you'll send his fashion quotient soaring!

9. Complete horoscope analysis . . . By complete, we mean a reading of predictions for an entire year including love, money, travel, health and career.

10. Camera equipment . . . If he's always been a photography buff, indulge him in his love. If not a camera, then a useful accessory piece such as a fish-eye lense or special film.

11. Dinner at the finest restaurant, your treat! . . . Careful. He must be a special kind of man who can handle this kind of gift. Man enough to understand the generous thought of a woman, treating her man to the finest. (You can let him pay for the limousine ride home.)

There's still plenty of time to make holiday purchases of this calibre. Or better still, come up with ideas of your own. However you go about your gift-giving this year, you're bound to have a more enlightened view of what will please the man, or men, in your life.

Last minute tip: Leave this list in an obvious place where he's sure to see it. He may just reciprocate in this gift-giving game.

Highest fashion rating

RAISE HIS FASHION QUOTIENT and let his ego soar by giving him Thane's luxurious turtleneck of pure QIANA. It costs a little more, but what luxury doesn't?

Focus on the slopes

GREAT GIFT IDEA for the ski buff on your Christmas list—ski goggles with interchangeable lenses for all-weather use—amber for hazy days, dark for sunny days and clear for bad days. Choose goggles with big, wide, optically-correct lenses for clear, unobstructed vision. The lenses in these Bausch & Lomb goggles are distortion-free from edge to edge—and made from the same tough plastic used in the astronauts' helmets. Other features to look for include air vents that keep the lenses fog-free and filters to block out sleet and snow. Goggle frames should be tough enough to withstand rugged use and lined with soft foam for comfort.

Liked by father, liked by son!

IF YOU'RE WATCHFUL about being a smart Christmas shopper, Timex has the answers—over two hundred watches in a wide variety of styles and fashions, which range from simple mechanical to high-technology electronic. The Christmas pair pictured above are wearing TIMEX Automatic (son) and TIMEX Quartz (dad) watches. Automatic watches are handsome and carefree—they wind themselves with normal wrist motion. Suggested consumer prices begin at $17.95. Quartz watches offer battery-operated convenience and accuracy. They keep time to within a half-second per day—that's 99.9994% accuracy. Suggested consumer prices begin at $44.95.

Organic legware!

RATHER THAN FILLING the traditional Christmas stocking this year, Burlington Socks/Adler fills a "Sox Pot," a new Christmas gift idea for the gals. An attractive plastic flower pot and top that doubles as a reservoir is filled with four pairs of women's assorted argyle or cable patterned knee-hi's plus a packet of Burpee coleus seeds. The argyle "Sox Pot" retails for $12.00 and the classic cable knit knee-hi's for $8.00. Sold through department stores, apparel and specialty shops nationwide.

Things to remember

New Year's is the traditional day for resolutions, but Christmas should be the day for "remembers."

Remember—the good times you've had and be thankful for them.

Remember—your family loves you; return that love.

Remember—your pet depends on you for his food, his lodging, his health; give him a good life.

Remember—your friends; it is your responsibility to keep them as friends.

Remember—people in hospitals need you more now; pay a brief visit with a cheery smile.

Remember—nursing home patients love to see a friendly face; drop in for a chat.

Remember—the people who are working on Christmas Day to make your life happier; a pleasant smile and a friendly voice will make them happy.

Remember—the true meaning of Christmas: Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Man.

WHEN IT PAYS TO LOOK GOOD on the job, give him a silk-like QIANA business shirt like this one from Van Heusen's "Van Q" line. It's so luxurious, you'd never suspect that it's practical.

Crafty stocking stuffer

HERE'S A CHRISTMAS BONUS that you and your sewing and fabric-crafter relative or friend will both enjoy, for it's under $10 and combines two popular essentials for garment making, embroidery and fine needlework. Just in time for gifting, notions departments have a special handy folding-cover kit holding famous Wiss Contura-Lite dressmakers shears and their Quick-Clip speed cutter. The speed cutter is designed for thread cutting, seam ripping and finishing. The shears will easily cut multiple layers of fabric. Why a "bonus"? Because now you can stuff a stocking with both for less than the regular price of the shears alone!

All of daddy's beautiful dolls!

HELLO, DOLLY: A new plaything causes delightful reactions that are worth saving in color snapshots. This dad has his Kodak Tele-Instamatic 708 camera handy for big, bright snapshots of all his dolls—on this day and every one thereafter—indoors with flash and outside.

THERE'S A NEW PRODUCT to lighten the kitchen chores at home—an electric peeler from General Electric. It's called the Peeling Wand™, and it takes the drudgery out of peeling. You just guide it over the food, and the peeler does the work—peeling potatoes, carrots, cucumbers, and fruits like apples, pears and peaches. It can even be used right at the kitchen sink under running water.

A great gift idea never seen before

For the first time, you can give your favorite cook a product that makes the most frequent, boring kitchen task less of a chore. It's the Peeling Wand™ Electric Peeler from General Electric.

Time off tedious task

For large families or small with lots of vegetables and fruits to peel, the Electric Peeler is an effective way to get a tedious task done. You simply guide the peeler over the surface of the food, and the peeling wand does the work.

The rotating drum on the Electric Peeler flicks off bits of peel from a variety of fruits and vegetables. An "eyer" tip takes out potato and other food blemishes and even stem ends from small tomatoes.

Pressure control

It's easy to control the thickness of peel by the amount of pressure applied. In addition, the peeler can be used to grate small amounts of lemon rind, chocolate and Parmesan cheese.

The Peeling Wand sits in its own storage rack which can be wall mounted or placed flat on a counter. And there's no problem using the peeler under running water, since the unit is completely sealed.

Easy clean-up

The Peeling Wand is also easy to take apart, to rinse and clean. It has a thumb-operated on-off switch on the lightweight, comfortable handle surface. The handle has ridges that help prevent slipping when wet.

Sealed for safety

The Peeling Wand is UL approved and it makes an ideal gift for anyone who spends time in the kitchen peeling fruits and vegetables.

Give your tired shopper's feet a soft, relaxing holiday treat!

It's the holiday season. How do you know? Because your feet hurt!

And, it's no wonder. You've shopped for gifts for everyone on your list. And you've been on your feet baking and cooking for days because it's your "turn" to host the holiday feast. Then at the office party last week, you just couldn't stop dancing.

Well, before you wrap the presents, decorate the tree or frost the cake, take a "just for you" break and treat your feet—your whole body, in fact—to a few well deserved minutes of pampering.

The footcare experts at Scholl suggest you begin your beauty break with a soothing and refreshing foot bath in a hot tub. Add a packet of menthol-scented granules, then close your eyes and relax for a few minutes. You'll feel the gentle soaping and soaking benefits almost immediately.

Towel dry your feet thoroughly, especially between each toe.

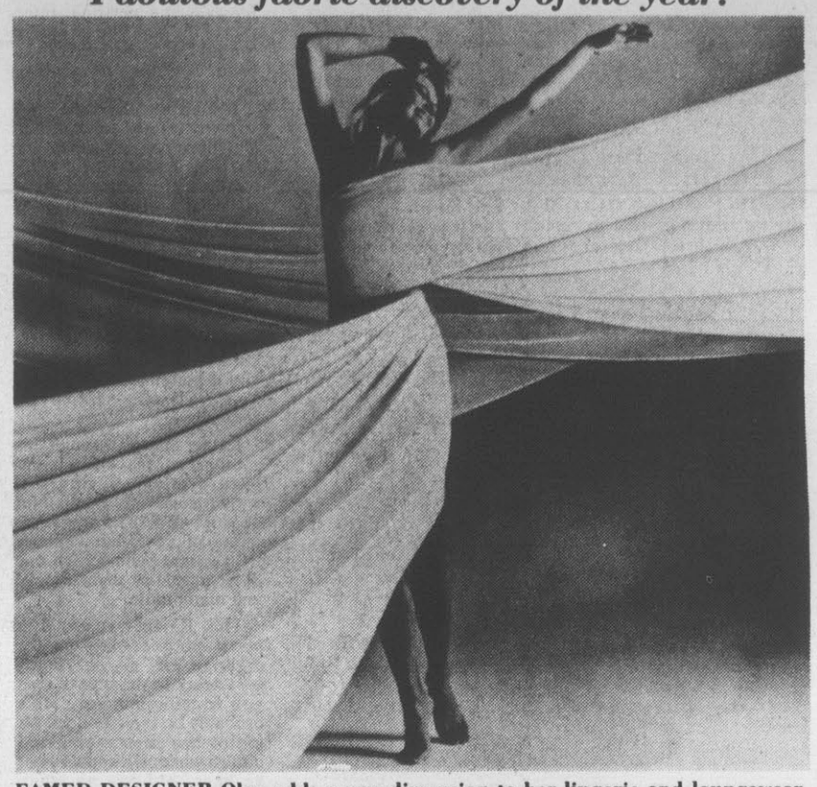

Now, put your feet up—on a pillow or low chair—for a few extra minutes of relaxation.

Complete your beauty break with a gentle massage, smoothing feet, legs and your entire body with a moisturizing softening lotion that stimulates circulation as well.

A sprinkle of foot powder, both on your feet and in your shoes, makes a great grand finale for your beauty break.

Your foot-beauty breaks don't have to end with the holidays. Why not give yourself, and maybe a friend, the pamper-plus delight of a Scholl Foot Massager for Christmas? Its gentle heat and vibrating action will help ease muscular aches, stimulate circulation and tone foot muscles every time you use it.

Fabulous fabric discovery of the year!

FAMED DESIGNER Olga adds a new dimension to her lingerie and loungewear collection for the holiday season. It's a new patented exclusive fabric improvement over cotton which she has named Olgalon. Olgalon has the soft, natural feeling of fine cotton and the comfortable fit of light stretch. And, it has the long-wear and easy-care qualities of nylon. It is quick drying, shrink proof, non cling and will not wrinkle like cotton. Olgalon is available in a complete wardrobe of perfect lingerie gifts for day and night wear including panties, camisoles, slips, sleepgowns and matching peignoirs that are priced from $5.00 to $38.00.

Ten steps to the party that's perfect to give!

It happens every Christmas. You want to give a gala holiday party and invite all your favorite people. But then you begin to think about all the effort that must go into an evening like that. What to serve? What to wear? Slowly, you find yourself making simpler, "safer" plans like attending someone else's party, or just curling up in front of the television set.

Go ahead and have a magnificent Christmas bash. It really can be simple if you plan ahead. And if you work with a list of things to do, you'll feel a sense of accomplishment as you check off each item and move one step closer to a carefree gala.

Being the beautiful hostess must be a crucial part of your party plan. Otherwise, why bother? Your guests deserve to see a radiant hostess welcoming them into your home.

Many women will agree that dressing the role of the guest is easier than dressing the role of the hostess. As a guest, your only responsibility is to wear your prettiest dress, arrive on time and enjoy the evening.

Comfort counts

As a hostess, you not only want to look beautiful, you also have to feel comfortable in what you wear so you can spend your time thinking about your guests.

The key to enjoying your own party is advance preparation plus the kind of party clothes that are as carefree as they are beautiful. Today's fashion designers understand this glamour/practicality dilemma and have produced a dazzling selection of elegant clothes in QIANA nylon, the richest feeling you ever wore. It's so luxurious, so silk-like, you'd never suspect it was practical too.

Top designers

Notable fashion names like Halston, Diane Von Furstenberg, Anthony Muto, Terrance Brown and Joy Stevens are creating exquisite fashions in satin, pongee, jersey, suede and velour of QIANA and in the most glamorous holiday colors. No longer do these clothes have to be saved for special occasions only.

Look for loungewear that can be worn anywhere, soft peasant looks and versatile matching coat and dress ensembles, romantic crystal pleated skirts and ruffled-neck blouses.

Formal to fun

There are harem pants and bandeau tops that can be worn for fun, many weekends after the party season is over and blouson dresses that let you bare your shoulders any time of the year.

Once you've found the dress that says "party time" to you, settle down to work. Here's a 10-step plan that will bring a beautiful Christmas with it:

1. Buy gifts year-round: It will give you time to place a special order for someone special. It also guarantees that there will always be a wide selection of items to choose from and no holiday crowds. If it's a thoughtful gift, it's the right gift no matter what time of year you find it.

2. Send invitations early: This increases your chances of having the people you want with you, with you. Check who is planning to be away, or planning a party of their own.

3. Make your own decorations: Collect unusual trimmings while on vacations, business trips and attending local bazaars. It's fun to do and so much more personal. It gives the children an exciting project throughout the year too!

4. Have carollers stop at your home: Get in touch with your church or local "Y" and arrange for carollers to sing for your guests.

5. Home cooking: Prepare old family recipes weeks ahead so you'll feel confident before the party. Estimate how much cook-ahead food can be placed in the freezer.

6. Catering: Catering your party can give you the advantage of being able to serve the kinds of food your guests would rarely prepare for themselves. Order special gourmet dishes and out-of-season fruits well in advance, to be sure of quality and availability.

7. Order flowers/special arrangements: Call your local florist. Ask him to visit your home so that he might make suggestions as to where special arrangements, wreaths, etc., might look best. Or, allow enough time to create your own holiday wreath.

8. Plan a gift for each guest: It can be simple or elaborate, just as long as it's a personal touch. For example, you might want to bake or buy a fruit tart tied with a holiday bow for everyone to take home.

9. Hire a bartender: If your budget can handle it, hiring a bartender can mean one less worry. There's nothing like a professional to add a little class to your gala!

10. Relax. Look and feel beautiful: You've planned everything to the last detail. Now, take a bubble bath! Have a nap! Spend some time on your hair and makeup. Wear your luxurious QIANA party outfit—you'll feel as beautiful as you look.

Attractive trimmings and Yule treats

Thoughtful Christmas gifts always welcome under tree!

"The best Christmas gifts are always thoughtful gifts," advises W. Dan Lemeshka, a Gorham division of Textron executive.

In addition to the magnificent silver, crystal and china designs for which the company is famous, Gorham also offers many outstanding new gifts each year. This year, they may be among the most welcome gifts of the holiday season.

Children and adults alike will love the colorful Gorham miniature Sesame Street character Christmas tree ornaments.

Six of the TV favorites—Ernie, Bert, Cookie Monster, Grover, Oscar and Big Bird—are all available, and are inexpensive. Each comes with a gold string loop to be easily hung on the tree.

Gorham also offers a variety of very delightful Christmas tree ornaments that may be worn as pendants.

Among the sterling ornaments is a drummer boy, three wise men, a locomotive engine, and an exact replica of the first silver Snowflake made by Gorham for a limited edition.

The most enchanting Christmas tree ornament this year may be the Turtle Dove Tree Ornament by Gorham. The ornament, which comes gift boxed features sterling turtle doves in two dimensions.

Of special interest to collectors are two beautiful Christmas plates—one featuring the delightful Moppets, and the other an illustration by world famous artist, Norman Rockwell.

Another gift suggestion for the collector is the Gorham three and one-half inch fine china bell. The 1977 bell—for the annual collector's edition by Gorham—features a gold plated scroll handle, holly and berry decoration and border of 22 karat burnished gold. One side depicts a full-color reproduction of the famous Currier & Ives "American Homestead" scene. The other side reads, "Noel 1977."

There are also charming "magic" music boxes by Gorham. One features a Santa in his sleigh with a nearby dancing reindeer. The music, of course, is "Rudolf The Red Nosed Reindeer."

These and dozens of other wonderful holiday gifts by Gorham are available in leading jewelry, department and gift stores this season.

The raptures of wrapping!

One of the best parts of the Christmas gift is the pretty packaging that it comes in.

Decorative papers and ornate ribbons and bows all make the Christmas tradition of gift-giving that much more exciting.

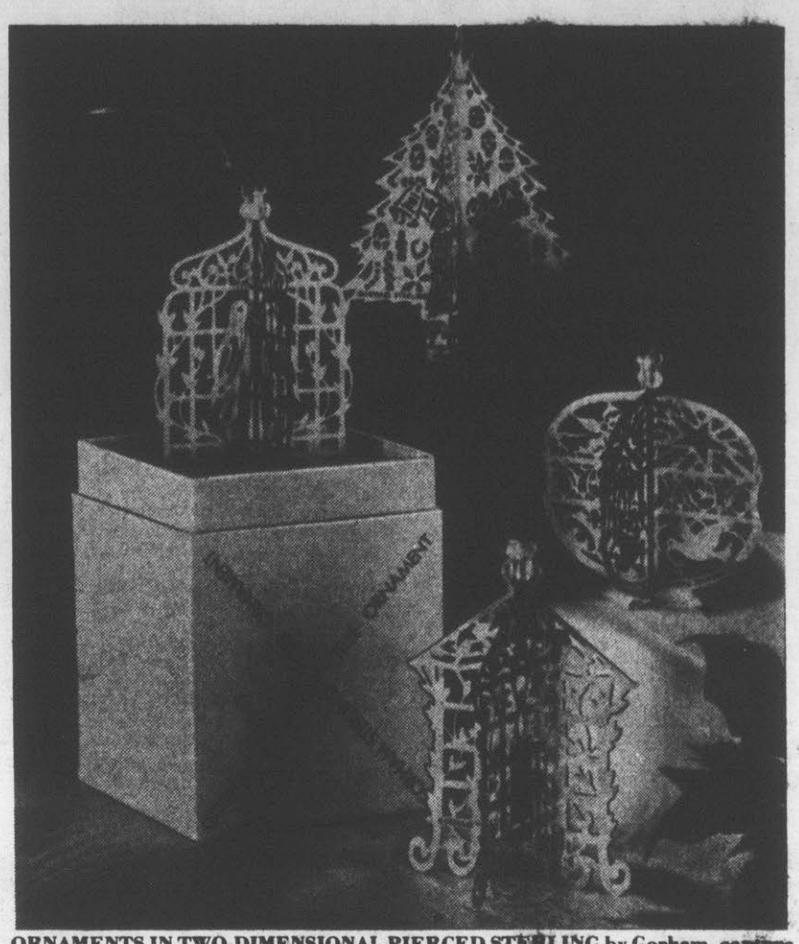

This year, why not take a little extra time to make your Christmas presents really special, from the wrapping on down!

You can make your gift wrappings a treat to the taste buds as well as the eyes! Tie candy canes into the ribbons, or make little packages of candies and cookies with cellophane and tie them to the gifts for an extra delight!

For a nostalgic touch, wrap your gifts in fabric swatches and tie them up with old-fashioned grosgrain ribbons in gingham checks or perky plaids.

TREE SAFETY

Keep in mind that a dry Christmas tree can be destroyed by flames within minutes, thereby threatening the entire home. Remember to keep the tree well-watered at all times and dispose of it when the needles begin drying and falling easily from the branches.

ORNAMENTS IN TWO-DIMENSIONAL PIERCED STERLING by Gorham, capture and reflect light as they twirl on the tree. Shown are Turtle Dove, Tree, Noel Ball and Lantern ornaments ready-to-hang. Each is gift boxed.

The gang from Sesame Street!

CHILDREN AND ADULTS ALIKE will love these colorful Sesame Street characters by Gorham for the Christmas tree. Each miniature comes with gold string loop for easy hanging. Ernie, Bert, Cookie Monster, Grover, Oscar and Big Bird are all available to add cheer and charm to your tree or holiday decorations. They range from two and one-half inches to three and one-eighth inches in height.

Precious silver snowflake

STERLING SNOWFLAKE! The 1977 design for the Gorham annual collector's edition. Hang it on the tree, wear it as a pendant, or give it as a gift.

Plan to make your holiday less hectic

Warm reveries and family togetherness fill the holiday season. However, preparing for hectic holidays with their steady flow of guests can leave you exhausted long before the doorbell rings.

To have enough time and energy to enjoy the festivities, be sure you plan ahead and organize your holiday chores. These suggestions may help:

• Buy your gifts and send your greeting cards early. Stores get crowded as the holidays draw near; early shopping can save you hours of waiting on long check-out lines. By preparing your cards early, they will receive prompt delivery.

• Making this year's holidays memorable should not be your responsibility alone. Arrange for help from all members of the family; assign tasks—large or small—and make each person responsible for his specific chore.

• Give the house a major cleaning several weeks prior to the holidays; so all that's left is some light and easy housekeeping.

For quick and effective last-minute clean-ups, keep a bottle of Glass*Plus® glass, appliance and cabinet cleaner handy. Just spray this versatile cleaner on washable surfaces all around the house—windows, mirrors, chrome, countertops, and appliances—and wipe with a clean cloth or damp sponge.

• Prepare cook-ahead meals. Cakes, pies, cookies and many main courses such as casseroles can be prepared weeks ahead of time and put into the freezer. The days when guests are expected, just defrost and reheat for a delicious holiday meal.

Precious moments make lovely gifts!

Your vacation pictures are tucked away in a drawer, mixed in with other pictures and papers. Give your home a Christmas present and buy an album or show-off case for those snapshots.

Your child caught a terrific candid shot of mother during the summer. Have the picture enlarged and framed and brighten your home.

Or select a series of pictures of the whole family and frame them together in a montage.

You'll not only perk up your home, you'll perk up your family as they recall memorable and pleasant moments each time they pass the pictures during their daily routines.

A really snappy idea is to have a frame made with a turnscrew back. Make several montages of pictures and rotate them according to the season. Or several individual pictures can be rotated in a frame—a close-up of a rose in summer, a sunset in the fall, a snow scene in winter, a landscape in the spring.

Another way to give your home a Christmas present and give your child a long-lasting glow is to take pictures he has drawn in school or at home on rainy days and frame them to hang on a wall in his room or the family room.

If there is real talent in your house, think big and get a piece of canvas. Let the talented member of the family paint a picture on the canvas and then glue it to the wall with the proper adhesive. The canvas can be removed at any time without harming the wall itself, and it can then be stored and kept for a Christmas present when the artist is older and has his own house to decorate.

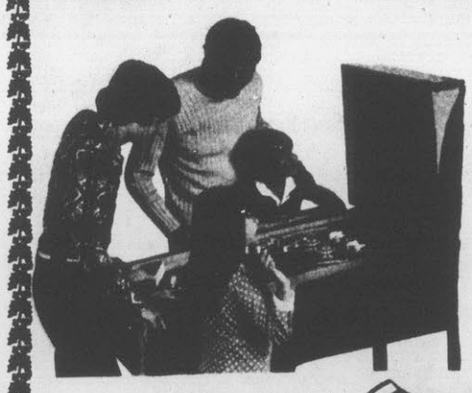

Perhaps you have musical talent in your house. Tape record the musician and send the tape to a family member who lives in another part of the country. The whole family can join in Christmas greetings on the tape and give a truly personal touch to a far-away relative or good friend.

Perhaps mother or dad doodles while on the telephone. Collect those doodles, select the ones that are funny or pertinent, glue them to a piece of colored drawing paper and frame them!

'Tis the season to be decorative!

Your own portrait photo makes most personal gift

You don't have to be handy with a spindle, spoon or spade to give a unique gift this holiday season. Just call on a professional who will work with you in creating the most personal gift you can give to loved ones—a portrait photo of you alone or with your family.

Today, most studio photographers offer a pre-sitting conference where you can plan with the professional the style and colors of clothing, the setting, and the mood for the portrait that best captures your personality and interests.

For the outdoor activist, this may mean casual attire for a portrait "sitting" that actually takes place outdoors. Photographers have been known to set up their cameras on ski slopes, at tennis courts, in open fields, alongside streams, or in backyards—all in the interest of portraying their subject in a natural, typical environment.

On the other hand, you may prefer the controlled setting of a portrait studio where the photographer can use lighting, posing, backdrops and props to create a variety of photographic moods and styles.

Whichever you choose, now is the time to make arrangements for a portrait photo Christmas gift. Since this is the photographer's busiest season, you should allow six to eight weeks from the time of the sitting before the finished portrait will be ready to wrap.

SPANNING THE GENERATIONS, a portrait photograph is a gift relatives and friends will cherish this Christmas. Visit your professional photographer now to arrange a portrait sitting in time for holiday gifting.

There are bound to be several people on your holiday gift list who will treasure a new portrait of you or your family. And, if it's made on Kodak paper, clearly marked in the back of each print, you can be sure the quality will be good enough to display in their homes and offices.

From one portrait sitting, you can order large framed photographs for your own home, for parents and grandparents. Smaller prints are ideal for offices and dormitory rooms. You might enclose small prints with Christmas cards. Or ask your photographer about the contemporary-styled greeting cards in his Kodak Special Holiday Collection.

WHETHER THE FAMILY CHRISTMAS TREE boasts the traditional, international or personal "look," Lilikins personally engraved, brass tree ornaments lend a special touch, unique to a family's style and taste.

Small treasures to be stuffed into stockings

"Stockings hung by the chimney with care" is a Christmas tradition the whole family enjoys.

This year, in addition to the usual small treasures and candies, stuff your family's stockings with some entertaining and useful booklets. Texize Chemicals Company offers three different booklets free on a write-in basis; at least one is sure to be right for someone in your household.

"Do-it-yourself" youngsters and adults alike will enjoy "Crafty Critters" a booklet full of clever ideas and directions for making a variety of toys and crafts from the empty plastic bottles in which different household cleaners are packaged.

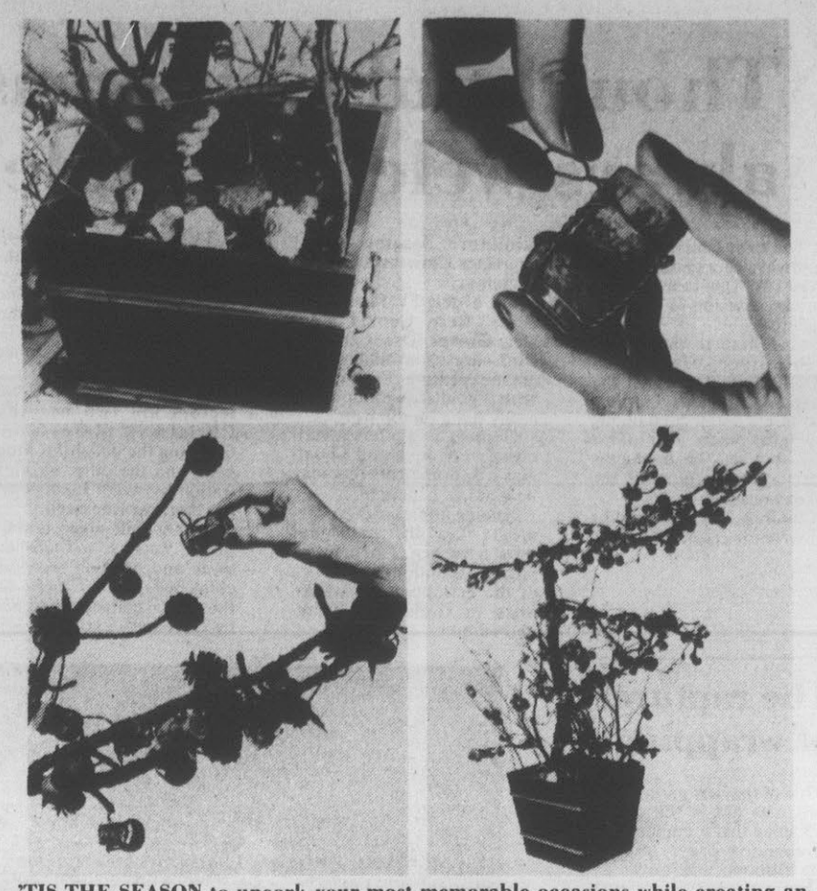

These projects make great after-school or rainy day diversions for youngsters, and the crafts are suitable for gift-giving as well as for year-round use.

Homemakers will enjoy the "Creative Homemaking" booklet which offers a variety of helpful household hints ranging from time- and money-saving tips to suitcase-packing advice to decorating ideas.

Specific subjects include pots and pans, gardening equipment, laundry, children's clothing, and closets.

An invaluable guide to both moms and dads is the "K2r Stain Dial." It's an easy-to-use guide which provides the right information for removing 56 different types of spots and stains from dry-cleanable fabrics. By following the stain dial tips, it's even possible to cut down on expensive dry-cleaning bills.

To receive your free copies of any or all of these stocking stuffer booklets, write to: Consumer Relations Dept., Box N; Texize Chemicals Company; P.O. Box 368; Greenville, SC 29602.

'TIS THE SEASON to uncork your most memorable occasions while creating an unique Christmas decoration. Champagne corks, saved from those special moments, and placed artistically on a pine bough result in a decorative conversation piece for Christmas and year round.

A Champagne cork tree has many fond memories

A sentimental champagne lover, New York interior decorator Mona Bower, has found a way to keep memories alive while creating an attractive Christmas decoration.

Following an old custom in France, where champagne is made, Ms. Bower saves champagne corks and hangs the mushroom shaped closures on a branch. The result is a tasteful conversation piece that is constantly on view.

She then placed the decorations—champagne corks saved from special occasions, supplemented by small Christmas baubles—at irregular intervals, wherever they seemed pleasing to the eve.

The champagne corks hang from their original wire muzzles, twisted in the shape of hooks. Or fine nylon thread can be used. Each cork could also be labeled with the names of people with whom you shared the champagne, and the occasion when it was popped.

A purist, Ms. Bower insists on using only corks of champagne bottles she personally drank from. So her tree keeps growing with each season's new harvest of champagne corks.

'Little people' toys will help big, creative imaginations grow

For the average parent shopping for children's toys and games, the abundance of products flooding the market may make the task frustrating.

At Christmastime, that frustration can easily turn into a nightmare, and often raises the question, "Isn't there any toy that's right for my child?"

Despite the confusion—at Christmas or any other time—the toy industry attempts to provide toy items which best meet the needs and learning abilities of a particular age group.

The preschool age group, for example, demonstrates special skills and interests unique to their group. These skills, combined with parental and teacher support and the toy industry's recognition of what it takes for a child to have "fun," have resulted in a recent trend in preschoolers' toys.

Although there's nothing "small" about a preschooler's imagination, energy or desire to learn, the trend, nevertheless, has been towards "smallness" in many preschoolers' toys.

Commonly called "toy systems," these categories allow a youngster to act out his observations of the adult world around him through miniaturized "people," and in the process, to develop important social skills. Role-playing, the acting out of dramatic or historic scenes, and imitation of parents are methods of interaction which preschoolers use as a means of communication.

The Playmobil Toy System is a series of three-inch tall "little people" and their accessories in a variety of imaginative settings.

Each Playmobil "family" can be played with separately, or together with other toys a child already owns for hours of creative play. Playmobil people are available in seven different series: Cowboys, Indians, Construction Workers and Knights, and the newest Medical, Fire Fighters and Cavalry series, as well. All characters are jointed to sit, stand, ride horses, and hold small objects in their hands.

A CHRISTMAS GIFT of the Playmobil Cavalry series from Schaper transports a youngster back to the days of the "Old West." Complete with cannons, flags, an array of weaponry, horses, bridles and a stagecoach, the Playmobil Toy System Cavalry series may be used alone, or in conjunction with Playmobil Cowboys and Indian sets.

Variety is the spice of donuts

HOT, FRESH DONUTS with a mug of cider make a happy treat for Christmas carolers and other holiday revelers. The Donut Maker from Hamilton Beach cooks up a wide variety of cake donuts, plus special donut muffins and bagels. Compact and convenient to use, this appliance bakes two extra-large donuts in a matter of minutes. The cover has ventilation holes which allow steam to escape and cook high-rising, fluffy donuts. And the non-stick interior and immersible cover make cleaning as easy as cooking. An attractive—and tasty—holiday gift.

Bounty of fun for 'Babes in Toyland'!

Christmas guide to selection of kids' toys

PROVIDING THE PROPER TOY for a child is an important job for parents. A good toy which is fun and helps provide exercise is the new Stretch Monster, a 13" creature with green scaly skin and devil-like eyes. He can be stretched into funny positions but always returns to his original shape. Made by Kenner Products.

Toys have been called the tools of a child's development: they affect the way children develop their minds and muscles and find out who they are and what they can do about it. So, selecting toys can be an important job for concerned parents.

How does one shop wisely for toys? Here are some suggestions:

• Know and understand your children's abilities, attention spans, and interests. Talk with them to find out what they really are interested in and what they really want.

• Buy a toy that involves children, and gives them something to do. A new toy this year that is fun—and provides exercise, too—is Stretch Monster. This 13" half-man, half-creature with green scaly skin and devil-like eyes, can be pulled or put in funny positions; he always returns to his original shape.

• Children will play with and benefit from toys only if they are fun. Don't be overzealous about buying so-called "educational" toys—they may only be boring.

The new Golden Bookmobile, for instance, is a wise purchase because it can inspire kids to get the reading habit early. This is a sturdy, kid-powered, skoot-around little truck that features a fold-down door, and a storage compartment for 30 Golden Books or other playthings.

Included are 10 bookmark "passengers" and a Little Golden Book to start the preschooler's library.

• Buy toys that help prepare children for later adult roles. Baby Heartbeat is a new doll, for example, that teaches children about health and caring for others. Children can listen to the real-sounding "heartbeat" of this newborn doll with a special "stethoscope," or take her temperature with a safe "thermometer."

• Always consider the manufacturer's recommended age groups printed on packaging, but don't forget that each child is unique.

And one final word of advice: shop early. If you shop at the last minute, quite often the really wanted toys, such as the Six Million Dollar Man; Jaime Sommers, the Bionic Woman; and the new Oscar Goldman action figures, may be gone. Then, no matter how well you planned your purchases, you will have to settle for another toy.

So this year, think about your children and their needs; select toys that help them prepare themselves for the future. There's no better gift than that!

KID'S WON'T WASTE ANY TIME getting into the action with a Christmas gift of "Super Jock" baseball, the fifth and newest sports/action game from Schaper. A firm rap on the durable baseball athlete's head sends the soft baseballs flying for fast, hard-to-score points.

Brighten your holiday home with the soft glow of candles

With the holiday season approaching, it's time to focus attention on ways to enhance and enliven your decor.

Traditionally, candlelight has been a gracious feature in holiday decorating. Whether the candles were on a mantelpiece or used as a table centerpiece, they added to the mood of the occasion.

Candles are not new in decorating. But there's something new in generating candlelight. It's the Un-Candle floating candle concept. Corning utilizes glass cylinders with candle wicks floating in oil.

The candleholder is made of clear glass into which the home decorator puts colored water, colored stones, seashells, a Christmas trimming, flowers or anything that is appropriate. Water is added with a little cooking oil and a 12-hour floating wick. Light, and you have candlelight.

With traditional candlelight in a new and exciting fashion mode, opportunities for decorating ideas are almost limitless.

CANDLES ARE NOT NEW in decorating, but there's something new in generating candlelight—it's the Un-Candle floating candle concept by Corning.

For no matter what your tastes are in furnishings, there's always room for the proper kind of candlelight. And using it wisely is one of the least expensive and most rewarding ways to bring special interest to your decor.

The Un-Candle collection includes a variety of shapes and sizes that can be mixed and matched by the creative home decorator. Each Un-Candle comes with 50 floating wicks, and this saves the expense of 50 candles, Corning says.

Besides being an excellent decorating item in the home, Un-Candles make an ideal gift, particularly when filled with cookies, candy, or some other appropriate "gift within a gift."

Golden tree castles

ELEGANT, AIRY AND INTRICATELY FILIGREED describe Reed & Barton's sparkling new Tree Castles in 20kt. gold electroplate. Each exquisite Tree Castle bears a different see-through design. From $9 to $12.50 at fine jewelry stores.

Baby's first Christmas away from home requires planning

It's a baby's first Christmas, and you might find yourself facing the prospect of a visit to the relatives' home for at least a part of the holiday.

Whether your visit is short or long, far away or just across the town, toting an infant around during the excitement of the Christmas festivities requires some careful planning in advance to keep both mother and baby happy during their stay.

Good planning also helps to ease your visit as far as your hosts are concerned. As doting and deliriously happy as grandparents may be at having the new member of the family in their home, chances are that it's been quite a while since they've had to deal with all the attention an infant demands.

Your consideration and preparation will help to avoid frayed nerves for those who had long ago forgotten early morning feedings and endless diaper changes.

Make sure you take along an extra supply of all of baby's special needs—formula, bottle liners, bottles and nipples—so there won't be any need for an emergency rush to the store on Christmas Day. If you could even find a store open!

Diapers can be a problem when visiting with baby. If you are planning to stay for a few days and you use cotton diapers, check immediately with your hostess (even if she is your own mother—she deserves more consideration than anyone else!) to see how you can arrange to store and launder diapers.

And follow through with this! Nothing will make you less welcome than heaps of soiled diapers left standing.

If you use disposable diapers, you should check to see where the best place would be to dispose of them.

Don't take a chance and clog up your host's plumbing!

Baby should have enough clean clothing to always look sweet and pretty as a picture, as he or she is bound to be the center of attention throughout your stay.

Bathroom beauty at Christmastime

Bathrooms deserve as much attention as the rest of the house during the holiday season, especially with so many guests dropping in. Deck the mirror with holly and pine. Put a wreath on the inside of the door. Fill up pretty baskets with red and green guest soaps and invest in some perky holiday towels. For an extra rich touch, add lovely red and green candles (pine and bayberry are good holiday scents), then light them when the guests arrive! (Just make sure they're safely secured in sturdy candle holders.) A candlelit bath is really a beautiful experience!

Dress up your house for the holidays Sale

It's your year for the family to drop in. Relatives. Neighbors. All will have kind words for your hospitality. And why not your new carpet? A warm, inviting, pleasant, comfortable carpet. We have dozens for you to look at. Or for us to tell you about. And right now our most popular Pepperell Carpets are on sale. Priced to pick up your spirits. And put your home in a holiday mood.

Not if you've got an Amana Touchmatic Radarange

MODEL RR-9

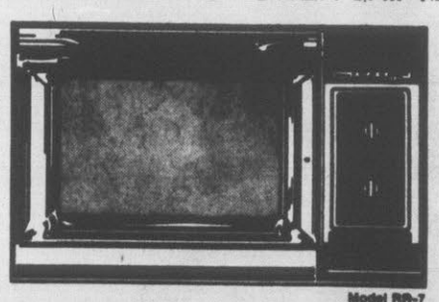

The Amana Touchmatic Radarange Microwave Oven revolutionizes microwave cooking. Makes microwave cooking simple as 1-2-3.

- Amana COOKMATIC Power Shift™ puts you in full control of everything you cook.
- Clean-up is quick, too, because you cook on serving plates, or paper plates!
- Only the food gets hot. So you and the kitchen stay cool.
- Stainless steel oven interior wipes clean in a jiffy, because splatters don't bake on.
- Big enough to roast a 20 pound turkey.
- Digital clock on the control panel displays the time in big bright numbers. When cooking, it's a split second timer that shows remaining cooking time. Then when cooking's done—it "remembers" and displays the time of day . . . automatically.
- The Radarange oven saves energy. Uses 50 to 75% less electricity than a conventional range!

If it doesn't say Amana it's not a Radarange

Delicious holiday treats to make 'n eat!

HANDSOMELY GLAZED and glowing with fruit, the Queen Ann Holiday Brunch Cake will grace your table perfectly any time of the day or evening—as long as it lasts! Guaranteed to be a holiday hit, it is one of the many exciting recipes in Red Star Yeast's new Second Recipe Exchange Cookbook. To obtain the book or the special Vintage Fruit Sauce Cookbook, send 50 cents for each to cover postage and handling to: Carol Stevens, Consumer Services, Red Star, Universal Foods Corporation, Box 737, Milwaukee, WI 53201.

New cookbook gathers best recipes of all home bakers!

All accomplished bakers share one ingredient . . . their love of exchanging recipes.

Now there's a cookbook that brings together recipes of some of the country's best home bakers, judged the winners of a nationwide Baking Recipe Exchange conducted by Red Star Yeast.

Recipes from the 23 bakers represented include luscious coffeecakes with new shapes and a variety of fillings and glazes; savory breads made flavorful with cheeses, herbs, olives—even dried beer; wholesome, vitamin-packed loaves and a half dozen spectacular new sweet roll and sweet bread ideas.

The book also offers tips on the new, quick mixer-method of yeast baking. All call for the use of Red Star, the instant blend active dry yeast that is packed without preservatives.

To obtain the new Second Recipe Exchange cookbook or the special Vintage Fruit Sauce cookbook, send 50 cents for each to cover postage and handling to: Carol Stevens, Consumer Services, Red Star, Universal Foods Corporation, Box 737, Milwaukee, WI 53201.

Is Your Favorite Family Recipe a Winner?

Entering your special yeast baking recipe in Red Star's 3rd Recipe Baking Exchange may be a winning decision. Those 25 entries judged best will receive $100 and all entrants will be sent a cookbook free.

Send your name and address, a history of the recipe and whether it is your own creation, to Recipe Exchange, Universal Foods Corporation, Box 737, Milwaukee, WI 53201. All entries must be postmarked by May 1, 1978.

Just right for the holidays is this beautiful, fruit filled brunch cake from the current cookbook:

QUEEN ANN HOLIDAY BRUNCH CAKE

- 4 to 4½ cups all-purpose flour
- 2 pkgs. Red Star Instant Blend Dry Yeast
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup water
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 4 eggs
- 1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup currants
- ½ cup chopped candied mixed fruit
- ¼ cup chopped candied cherries
- ½ cup flaked coconut
- ½ cup sliced almonds

Oven 375°
10-inch Bundt pan

In large mixer bowl, combine 1½ cups flour, yeast, sugar, salt, ginger and grated orange peel; mix well. In saucepan, heat milk, water and butter until warm (120°-130°; butter does not need to melt). Add to flour mixture. Add eggs and cream cheese. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. Add fruit and coconut. By hand, gradually stir in enough remaining flour to make a stiff batter.

Arrange almond slices on bottom of well-greased and floured 10-inch (12 cup) Bundt pan. Spoon batter into pan. Cover; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, about 2 hours. Bake at 375° for 35 to 40 minutes (30 to 35 minutes for colored fluted Bundt pan), until golden brown. Place on wire rack and allow to cool for 15 minutes before turning out of pan. Drizzle cooled cake with glaze.

ORANGE GLAZE:

Combine 1 cup sifted powdered sugar, 5 to 6 teaspoons orange juice, 1 teaspoon grated orange peel and ¼ teaspoon vanilla; blend until smooth.

Deliciously different and a perfect topping for holiday desserts and other foods is "Vintage Fruit Sauce," developed by Red Star from a secret recipe.

Make it ahead and keep it on the shelf to spoon over angel food or pound cake, crepes, ice cream, ham slices, squash or carrots or combine with rice stuffing for game or poultry:

VINTAGE FRUIT SAUCE

TO FERMENT FRUIT:

- ¾ cup drained canned peaches, cut in pieces
- ¾ cup drained pineapple tidbits
- 6 maraschino cherries, cut in half
- 1½ cups sugar
- 1 pkg. Red Star Instant Blend Dry Yeast

Combine ingredients and place in a glass jar with a loose cover—an apothecary jar is perfect. Stir several times the first day, then stir once a day. At the end of two weeks this starter has fermented enough to make the Sauce.

TIPS: For best results use fruit in heavy syrup. One cup of the starter is enough to make the Sauce so the other cup may be given to a friend along with the recipe, or used to start a second batch of sauce. We do not recommend doubling the Sauce recipe.

SAUCE:

- 1 cup fermented fruit
- ½ cup drained canned peaches, cut in pieces
- ½ cup drained pineapple tidbits
- 6 maraschino cherries, cut in half
- 1 cup sugar

Combine all ingredients in a glass jar with a loose cover; stir well. Set in a fairly warm place. Continue to stir once a day. Sauce can be served after one week. Fruit and sugar must be repeated every two weeks. No need to refrigerate. Sauce will keep many months if directions are carefully followed.

A CAMERA IS ALWAYS A POPULAR GIFT, and the new, completely automatic OneStep camera from Polaroid makes an ideal present. It is inexpensive and so easy to use that it never needs to be focused. Sending a "used" camera will make your gift even more special. Before you wrap the package, shoot your own family's Christmas preparations. Tuck the pictures in with the camera and share your holiday happiness.

Most popular gift: the 'used' camera

A camera is sure to be the most popular gift you can give this Christmas, but sometimes it is hard to decide which one will make the perfect gift.

That problem has been solved for you by the new OneStep camera from Polaroid. It is completely automatic and never needs to be focused—all you do is press the button and the camera produces a colorful, long-lasting SX-70 picture in seconds.

It is so easy to use that it makes the ideal gift for everyone from kids to grandparents. It has its own built-in neckstrap, is comfortably lightweight, and the price is lightweight, too—designed for gift-giving at only $39.95.

You can make your gift even more special by giving a "used" camera. Before you wrap up the OneStep, use it to take pictures of your own Christmas preparations.

Shoot the cookies fresh from the oven, the children wrapping packages amidst joyful chaos, the family conference over which tree is the biggest and best, Grandma knitting mittens.

Tuck the pictures in with the camera and share your own holiday excitement. It makes a wonderful present, something unique that only you can give.

Once the holidays are over the picture-taking can go on, creating a visual story to share with friends and relatives throughout the year. The OneStep is a Christmas gift that never stops giving.

The holiday spirits!

One of the world's most prized beverages the year round, scotch whisky, has now become a prized holiday gift, as well.

For the second holiday season in a row, the makers of Ballantine's Scotch, long an international favorite, are playing Santa Claus to American scotch whisky lovers. They're now offering the elegant, limited edition decanter wrapped around their premium-quality scotch.

And the cost? Not a penny more than the everyday price of this best-selling label, according to "21" Brands, marketers of the product.

The special cut-glass decanter is available in fifth sizes only, and comes packaged in an attractive holiday gift box. Created by a top European designer, it also carries this added feature: the decanter may be displayed on a shelf or sideboard long after the contents have disappeared.

When used this way, it remains an attractive remembrance for bar or sideboard long after the Yuletide season has passed.

Cultivated chefs and happy cookers love crisp new idea!

Cultivated chefs and happy cookers alike always appreciate a gift that adds a new dimension of fun and fantastic success to their kitchen work.

This Christmas you can put a surprise package under the tree that will give double delight to anyone who loves serving good food without a fuss! The "Li'l Fritter," a fantastic new electric deep fryer from Oster, is the fun-time appliance for families, couples, and singles, that also serves as a very practical all-purpose food preparer.

Everyone loves delicious, crunchy chicken, shrimp, fish fillets, french fries and onion rings, doughnuts, fritters, pastries . . . almost anything you can dream up!

With its 1200 Watt variable heat control (Lo, Medium, Hi), the "Li'l Fritter" keeps the oil at the proper cooking temperature. The oil heats up quickly, and there's a better heat transfer, so food never gets greasy.

The cooking surface is non-stick and non-stain for easy clean-ups. The "Li'l Fritter" holds 2-4 cups of oil for one or two servings, and when the cooking is done, just snap on the cover and it fits compactly in your refrigerator.

The steel wire cooking basket with fold-in handle is included, and it stores inside the "Li'l Fritter" when not in use. Just plug it in to re-use oil for future feasting!

The best feature of all is that the "Li'l Fritter" is big on versatility. It fries foods to perfection—but that's only the beginning!

The "Li'l Fritter" also cooks hot dogs, soups, eggs, corn, "boil-in-bag" meals, stews, sauces, leftovers, and lots, lots more. And the "Li'l Fritter" Cookbook, also included, is a great addition to the kitchen library . . . so you'll never run out of good things to eat!

A fun-time gift with a very practical application that brings a bounty of good eating to all—what better way to say "Merry Christmas"!

CRUNCHY, MUNCHY CHRISTMAS DELIGHTS can be yours this holiday season with the help of the Oster "Li'l Fritter" electric deep fryer, a perfect gift that everyone is sure to enjoy! Aside from delicious, perfectly fried chicken, fish, shrimp, and onion rings, the "Li'l Fritter" will spark up your entertaining with deep fried delicacies such as fried zucchini and carrot slices and fried cheese cubes. And when the holiday hosting is over and the New Year begins, the versatile "Li'l Fritter" will double as the perfect appliance for cooking hot dogs, soups, eggs, corn, "boil-in-bag" meals, stews, sauces, leftovers, and lots more!

FINDING A GIFT he will really like can be a challenging experience. Shirts that don't fit, ties that don't match his wardrobe, and tools that he may never get to use can all be a problem. Remington has taken the guesswork out of gift buying with not only a new and exciting gift, but one that is quite useful. It's the REMINGTON® XLR™ electric razor. Remington is so confident that their revolutionary XLR electric razor will shave him as close as a blade that they pack a blade razor with every XLR. If the XLR doesn't shave as close as a blade, all he has to do is return the electric to Remington along with the sales slip within 30 days for a refund of the full purchase price.

Best things to hear and see under tree!

Counting the hours 'til Christmas

Say a Merry Christmas with modular stereo unit

An exciting gift to give or receive this Christmas is a modular stereo system from Zenith. These systems are designed in several different sizes for most rooms and are available with a variety of features for any lifestyle.

You can choose between three models with a built-in 8-track cartridge tape player. If you want an 8-track player/recorder, there are four models to choose from. Or if you prefer a cassette player/recorder, two modular stereo units have this feature.

Each Zenith modular stereo system has a 100% solid state AM/FM/Stereo FM tuner-amplifier, and a stereo precision record changer.

All Zenith systems offer a choice of matching Allegro speaker enclosures in three different sizes. It's another sound idea from Zenith.

Dressing up to your festive fashion best

"THE LITTLE THINGS MEAN A LOT" is true of fashion accessories as it is of much else in life. Dressing up has been long recognized as a source of instant fashion "high" to women in all walks of life. Men: join the fun! Simply getting into a splendid formal shirt makes one feel festive—feel good. Left, a 65% polyester, 35% cotton blend fly front, with salt and pepper crochet edge with a double ruffle down the center framed on each side by coordinating ruffles. Matching trim link cuffs, of course. Right, black stripe 100% polyester ivory styled with fly front with solid ivory collar and link cuffs and eleven narrow pleats on each side of the box center. It is colorfully available in pale blue and yellow as well. Both shirts are from After Six Accessories, the world's largest manufacturer of formal wear. So, fellows—start your special evenings in fashion this fall: the right shirt is a simple guarantee for building a good evening into a life-long memory!

Dressed to impress

FOR THOSE FORMAL AFFAIRS when everyone's dressed to impress, surprise him with a ruffled-front dress shirt of pure QIANA to make big fashion points. Let him experience the richest feeling he'll ever wear.

ON STAGE THEY PERFORM with angelic grace, but backstage they're still kids. The pictures you take with your Kodak Trimlite Instamatic 48 camera will not only save the wonderful sight of bubble gum angels but also keep them occupied and quiet.

Picture your little angels in all their angelic glory!

You can dress a child in an angel outfit but you can't, necessarily, create an angel. When your camera is handy, you can capture the whole wonderful moment in pictures. As an added benefit, you can also keep them occupied before they go on stage.

Little wonder the holiday season is one of the most popular times for picture-taking, with all the special highlights worth remembering. The Christmas pageant, a party bubbling with gaiety, a tree twinkling with lights, wide-eyed children at their most appealing—all can be saved in snapshots when camera, film and flash are close by.

Convenient to carry, easy to use, a pocket-size Kodak Trimlite Instamatic 48 camera has an automatic shutter speed and lens opening for taking great pictures in rapid succession—indoors and outside. With a focus range of three feet to infinity, the camera allows you to select your distance with the help of a rangefinder.

To help you get the most out of your camera, whether you're taking pictures during holiday or other occasions throughout the year, Kodak photo experts offer the following tips:

- Compose each picture before you take it by checking the picture background for distractions that will draw attention away from the main subject. Shoot from a different angle to catch another view. Or move closer until the viewfinder framing marks enclose only what you want in the picture.
- Remember that the "fast" lens of the Kodak Trimlite 48 camera allows you to photograph from three to 30 feet from the camera when you're using a flipflash.
- Shoot from different angles to add variety and excitement to your snapshot collection. Photograph from a distance to establish the setting; move to medium range to fill in detail; take close-up views when you want to emphasize particular subjects. Take pictures of children from their eye level to portray facial expressions.
- Include in the picture an object—a Christmas tree bough, a gaily wrapped package, a stage prop—that is closer to the camera than the main subject. This technique, known as foreground framing, helps keep the viewer's attention on the main focal point.

The 'downs' and 'ups' of holiday entertaining

Deck the halls with boughs of holly . . . and try to make light of those holiday spills and splatters.

If it's your turn to entertain family and friends this holiday season, don't let accidental spots and stains spoil the fun and festivity of the occasion. With a little spot removal know-how clean-ups of both washable and dry-cleanable items can be quick and easy.

The most important rule to remember is that a spot is easiest to remove if it's treated immediately. Before laundering any items, be sure to read the manufacturer's washing instructions.

Most common spots will respond to a treatment of Spray 'n Wash® laundry soil and stain remover. Just spray the pretreat directly on the spot, wait 60 seconds, and launder normally. For extra-tough spots, try another spray and washing.

Many spots and stains on dry-cleanable items—including upholstery, drapery, and rugs—can be removed with K2r® Spot-lifter. Just apply it to the spotted areas, let dry to a fine white powder, and then brush the powder and the soil away. (Check the effect of any spot remover in an inconspicuous place before attempting to remove a spot from a non-colorfast fabric.)

Here are some common holiday spots and stains you're likely to encounter and their appropriate emergency remedy:

* Gravies and fondues—scrape off as much of the grease as possible. Use spray pretreat or spot-lifter—depending on the fabric—to get the residue.

* Egg Nog and heavy cream—lukewarm water or soap and water will remove any solid portion; then pretreat or spot-lift accordingly.

* Cranberry sauce and berry juices—sponge with cold water first and pretreat or spot-lift.

* Wines—lukewarm water will remove white wine spots on non-washables; K2r will take care of red or rose spots. For washable items, just use spray pretreat before laundering.

* Candlewax—place the stained item between layers of absorbent paper and press with a warm iron. This will draw up most of the solid wax. Then pretreat or spot-lift accordingly to remove residue.

* Chafing dish smudges—sponge off sooty residue with cool water. Spray 'n Wash or spot-lifter will do the rest.

* Coffee—on a non-washable item, spot-lifter will remove the spot; any traces of sugar will respond to a moist rag. Pretreat and launder the coffee spot on washable fabrics.

* Candies and cream-filled sweets—again, on a non-washable, any remaining sugar trace—after using the spot-lifter—will be removed by dabbing with a moist cloth. And, again, the washable item needs the spray pretreat and proper laundering.

* Lipstick—just spot-lift or pretreat.

* Green vegetable spots—wet stained area with cool water, then spot-lift or pretreat.

* Evergreen sap—sponge up as much of the sticky solid or residue as possible; then spot-lift or pretreat and launder.

Little gifts she can use

Looking for some extra delights to put under the tree for mom? Here are some ideas for extra little presents she's sure to appreciate!

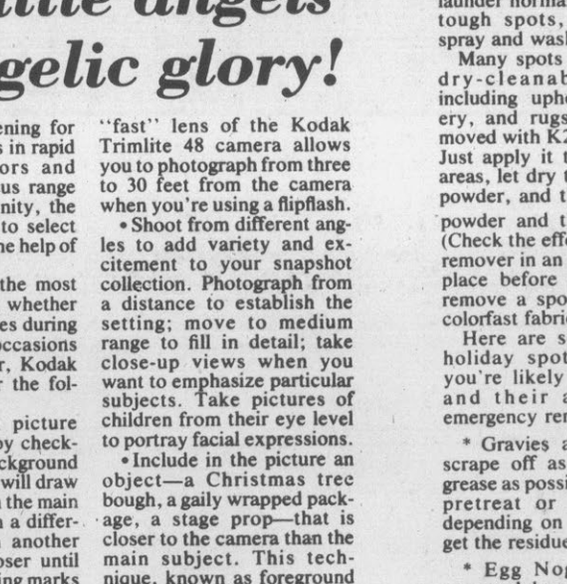

A purse size cosmetic case is always a welcome gift. Buy one that's roomy enough to hold all her daily cosmetics, yet compact enough to fit into her bag with room to spare. Some cosmetic cases are made in fine leathers and suedes, some come in durable, wipe 'n clean vinyl in pretty colors and designs.

Women can never have enough pantyhose or stockings. Check her style and color preference and size, then give her a dozen pair wrapped up in a pretty box.

If any of the ladies on your list have pierced ears, you can purchase an earring tree that holds all of her favorite loops and ear studs in order.

There are a number of handy lucite cosmetic trays on the market that will keep a woman's make up and odds 'n ends neat and orderly.

Sachets are a lovely gift idea. She can place them in all of her bureau drawers for pretty accents with a pretty, long-lasting scent.

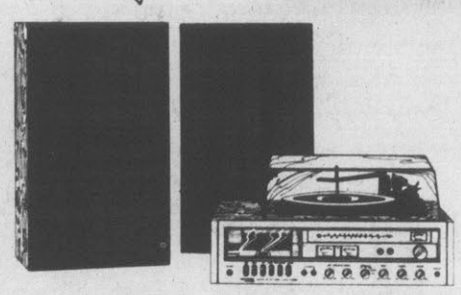

Jarman Town Boots... made for today's lifestyles.

A distinctive 6" zippered boot that's ready to go any time, any place! In genuine leather with comfortable long-wearing sole and heel.

Color TV tops lists for giving, getting; it's a good one-gift idea for all seasons

If you want to give "something extra special" for those special people on your Christmas shopping list or if you're looking for that "perfect" family gift this year, the "one-gift" idea could solve your problems.

There's one Christmas gift idea that fits both situations—the color TV set. As a Christmas gift, it can add colorful sight and sound to a home that everyone will enjoy during the holidays. And those special people also won't forget you as they enjoy the gift of color TV in the months and years to come.

Christmas shoppers will find that it's a good time to buy color TV. They'll also find that this season's new models combine more electronic advances—in more screen sizes and cabinet styles—than ever before.

Zenith Radio Corporation, for example, offers advance color TV performance features—Color Sentry automatic picture adjustment, Electronic Video Guard tuning and Space Command remote control with ZOOM—in more models in the company's new color TV line.

Zenith models include portable-size and table sets, as well as consoles with the look of fine furniture. There's even a new series of consoles with credenza styling.

You can choose from models in such styles as Early American, Mediterranean, Country, Contemporary and Ultramodern to meet any home decor and any lifestyle.

There are screen sizes for different viewing preferences or special space requirements. For example, there are portable-size and compact-size models in the 13- and 17-inch diagonal screen sizes that provide practical alternatives for small family use or as a second set for the kitchen, den or bedroom.

For those who enjoy a larger screen for viewing, there are new decorator compact models in the 19-inch diagonal screen size.

And for those who like large screen viewing and the look of fine furniture, there are a variety of 23- and 25-inch table models and consoles to choose from.

Zenith also offers a complete line of black-and-white TV sets, including 9- and 12-inch diagonal models that feature smart styling, as well as improved performance and portability. Three of these small-screen sets have AC/DC capability. One is a 9-inch model with an additional power option. It operates from its own rechargeable battery pack, offered as optional equipment with this set.

If you have any trouble selecting a TV set, be sure to consult a salesperson at your dealer. He or she can suggest special features that will help you select the "right" TV set for your home or for that special person. Remember, there's something new and something special in TV for everyone on your Christmas shopping list.

Indoor baseball season begins on December 25th!

For some, adults in particular, the World Series tolls the end of yet another baseball season. But as snowflakes appear, and winds swirl, diehard young lovers of the nation's number one sport often still find themselves wanting to play baseball.

The second season—the holiday season—can also be the indoor baseball season. And toy manufacturers are now getting into the "swing" of indoor baseball.

Introduced just a few months ago, a two-player game called "Super Jock" baseball involves precision timing and player coordination. The newest of five "Super Jock" sports action games, the baseball game, "Super Slam," operates on the same exciting principle as its four counterparts, and will keep youngsters busily engaged in challenging play right through the winter months.

Intended for minor leaguers ages six and up, the game begins by forming a small playing field and designating bases and the pitcher's "mound." With a flick of the lever, players operating the pitcher send soft baseballs flying out, chest-level, toward the heavy-duty batter.

The batter, a durable nine-inch-tall slugger, then swings an adjustable bat when rapped on the head. With three outs per inning, players alternate for an exciting, nine-inning contest. And, like the real thing, each new game is filled with action-packed suspense until the final pitch.

All "Super Jock" sports games come complete with everything needed to play, including decals, scorepad, and field markers. Colorful and long-lasting, they stand up well to repeated whacks on the head.

Colorful entertainers

FOR EVERYONE on your Christmas shopping list this year there are Zenith TV sets. Some will appreciate these two color TV performers—a decorator compact in the 17-inch diagonal screen size (foreground), featuring Space Command remote control; and a 13-inch diagonal color TV set (background) that has one-button channel selection.

Sure-shot gift for chefs

AN IDEAL GIFT for anyone on your Christmas list who enjoys being creative in the kitchen is the Wear-Ever Super Shooter electric foodgun. This gift is not only for the lady of the house—men who enjoy cooking will welcome it, too. The electric foodgun, with its lightweight motor and easy-to-fill barrel, transforms food preparation into kitchen artistry. Equipped with a filler tip, decorator tip and nine design discs, it triggers professional-looking canapés, shoots shaped cookies and mints, makes attractive garnishes and can be used to fill pasta shells, cream puffs and éclairs. The electric foodgun sells for about $25 and comes with a booklet containing sixty recipes to use with it.

THIS AUTOMATIC EGG COOKER . . . a Krups appliance that takes all the guess work out of boiling eggs. Just set to soft, medium or hard and your eggs will be perfect every time. Boils up to 7 eggs, easy to handle, simple to clean. Krups egg piercer is placed right into the base of the water-measuring beaker . . . this prevents the eggs from bursting and results in more even cooking. The lid serves as a support for the egg-holder which can perch atop the table. Available in white or yellow. A gift that's sure to please.

Hollywood Honors Elizabeth Taylor With Gala Celebrity Party Thursday

Elizabeth Taylor will be honored at a gala celebrity party saluting her as one of Hollywood's great leading ladies, on "An All-Star Tribute to Elizabeth Taylor," to be broadcast Thursday, Dec. 1 (9-10 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

"An All-Star Tribute to Elizabeth Taylor" a gala celebrity party in honor of one of Hollywood's greatest leading ladies — a two-time Oscar-winner — will be presented Thursday, Dec. 1, 9 to 10 p.m., on CBS-TV.

At the black-tie, by-invitation-only tribute, taped Nov. 13 on Stage 5 of the Burbank Studios, many of Miss Taylor's good friends and fellow actors from over the past years performed for her in a lighthearted and affectionate cast party atmosphere.

Miss Taylor's brilliant career, spanning more than 50 films, has been highlighted by two Academy Awards as Best Actress: for "Butterfield 8" (1960) and "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" (1966). (The latter film, coincidentally, considered by many to reflect Miss Taylor's greatest performance to date, was shot on what was then Warner Bros.' Sound Stage 5, where the tribute was taped.)

Miss Taylor has also received three other Best Actress nominations: "Raintree Country" (1957), "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" (1958) and "Suddenly, Last Summer" (1959).

The talented actress was born in London of American parents. Her father was an art dealer; her mother, Sara Sothern — who attended the tribute — a stage actress. With the outbreak of World War II in Europe, her family moved to Los Angeles, where she became a child star. Miss Taylor made her screen debut in 1942 in "There's One Born Every Minute" and first won acclaim as a lead actress in "National Velvet" in 1944.

In the 50's, Miss Taylor graduated to mature roles in such films as "A Place in the Sun," "Elephant Walk," "Giant" and "Raintree Country." For the latter film she received the first of four consecutive Oscar nominations.

Miss Taylor entered another phase of her career in the 60's, when she made seven films in succession with her then-husband, Richard Burton: "Cleopatra," "The VIPs," "The Sandpiper," "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?," "The Taming of the Shrew," "Doctor Faustus" and "The Comedians."

Her two latest films, both yet to be released, are "Winter Kills" and "A Little Night Music."

'Oscar Presents The War Movies And John Wayne' In 2-Hour Show

December 7, 1941, changed Hollywood as much as it changed the world. Literally overnight the movies had an entirely new story to tell — World War II.

The way the movies have looked at the war is explored in "Oscar Presents the War Movies and John Wayne," a two-hour special produced by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences that will air Sunday, Nov. 27, 9 to 11 p.m., on ABC-TV. Alan Landsburg, the show's producer, worked with a team of researchers to cull scenes from 800 of the nearly 2,000 films produced about the war.

"The special will tell the story of the war as told in the movies," Landsburg said. "It opens on the night of Dec. 6, 1941, showing some of the movies that were playing that night such as 'The Maltese Falcon,' 'The Bank Dick' and the 'Andy Hardy' series. Then comes the attack on Pearl Harbor as seen in various films. Subsequent acts depict the making of an army, the need for heroes, men on furlough, the home front, winning the war and looking back. We think it will be interesting, emotional, nostalgic and amusing."

John Wayne will host the special and will be joined by co-hosts Walter Matthau, Louise Fletcher, Jeff Bridges and Brenda Vaccaro. Landsburg believes that Wayne was an obvious choice to host a special of this kind.

"More than any other actor John Wayne was the epitome of the American fighting man. We had a great need for heroes during the war and Wayne never let us down."

To assemble the show, Landsburg and his staff looked at something like 800 films, most of them produced during the war years, 1941-45. It was an exhausting, demanding task but the producer feels it was worth it.

"It will be quite a nostalgic trip for those who lived through that period," he said. "At the same time, it will be a revealing one for young people who did not experience it. World War II was the last time our entire nation was united behind a war effort and it brought about a way of life that was unique, serious and funny, tragic and heroic. All of that will be reflected in our show."

John Wayne's distinguished career in motion pictures— and his starring roles in many of the great war films, including "The Longest Day," — are part of "Oscar Presents the War Movies and John Wayne," a special presentation of Hollywood's view of WW II, airing on Sunday, Nov. 27 (9-11 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

Cash Recalls Holidays

Johnny Cash stars in "The Johnny Cash Christmas Special," a musical, nostalgio look at some of the most significant holidays in Johnny's personal and professional life, to be broadcast Wednesday, Nov. 30, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV. Johnny's guests include June Carter Cash, the Carter Family, Jerry Lee Lewis, Roy Orbison, Carol Perkins, the Statler Brothers and special guest star Roy Clark.

The special was taped in Nashville, Tenn., and Israel, and the Nashville portion is a unique get-together of some of the greatest names in country-western music and an opportunity for them to recreate with Johnny some of his Christmases.

Christmas 1952 finds Johnny a soldier in Germany. He had just bought his first guitar, and when he sings such classic tunes as "Blue Tailed Fly" and "Molly Malone," it is a return to that holiday spent far away from home.

Roy Clark joins Johnny for a look back to the days when they were growing up and their boyhood hero, Gene Autry, sang not only their favorite western tunes, but their favorite Christmas songs as well.

When Johnny performs "Big River," he reminisces about Christmas 1955 when he was just starting out and country-western music was evolving into the "rock-a-billy" sound. Three of his guests, Jerry Lee Lewis, Roy Orbison and Carl Perkins, were part of this movement too, and they were all working under the auspices of Sun Records with another young singer, Elvis Presley.

As a tribute to Elvis' memory, Johnny, Carl, Jerry and Roy all sing "This Train is Bound for Glory."

Johnny proposed to June in 1968 on stage during a concert. He wouldn't continue the show until she answered and then when she accepted, they sang "If I Were a Carpenter," which they perform once more on this special.

Christmas 1968 was spent in Israel as a personal expression of Johnny and June's faith. And against the background of the two of them revisiting favorite sites in Bethlehem and Galilee (taped especially for this program), the entire company celebrates Christmas in the most traditional way — by singing such carols as "Silent Night," "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," and "Children Go Where I Send Thee."

BONUS FOR BLAKE

Robert Blake says he got a special bonus in filming "Buddy," a recent segment of "Baretta." "We worked for two days with 15 young people from the workshop of the Glendale (Calif.) Association for the Retarded. We had a ball. They're warm, friendly, and they don't say something unless they mean it. It's what you might call refreshing."

ALI TO STAR IN MINI-SERIES

Boxing champ Muhammad Ali will star in his first dramatic TV venture when he plays the lead in an NBC-TV six-hour mini-series based on the best-selling novel "Freedom Road." The book, about a black slave's rise to a U.S. Senate seat after the Civil War, was written by Howard Fast.

JOHN RANDOLPH TO CO- STAR IN "LUCAN"

John Randolph has been signed to co-star in "Lucan," ABC-TV's new one-hour adventure series currently under production in Northern California.

Take Vows Again

A dramatic development in one of the stormiest romances in daytime television will take place when Mary Ryan and Jack Fenelli repeat their nuptial vows on Dec. 1. And for 13 epsidoes thereafter fans of "Ryan's Hope" will share in the happiness of the couple's second honeymoon, a memorable trip to Ireland.

The reunited lovers will visit many of the traditional Irish tourist shrines which were filmed on location when the cast and crew visited Ireland in Oct. Dublin's pubs, Blarney Castle and Stone, the ruins of St. Columba's tower, Queen Maeve's cairn, the racetrack at Curragh where the horses "run the wrong way" are just some of the beautiful settings Mary and Jack, played by Kate Mulgrew and Michael Levin, will visit during their two-week wedding trip.

Mary and Jack's on-again-off-again relationship began with the serial's premiere and resulted in their first wedding in July, 1976, with a Mass held in St. Benedict the Moor Church. Their union, battered by fits of temper and selfishness, ended in annulment and divorce in August, 1977, but not before a daughter, Ryan Fenelli, was born.

Now, as a result of Maeve Ryan's machinations, Mary and Jack, while locked in the basement of Ryan's Bar, have come to terms with the problems which separated them, agree that each must try a little harder to understand the other, and have decided to give marriage and life together a second chance. The couple will depart for Ireland immediately following the simple ceremony which will be held in the Ryan living room, attended by the family and a few friends.

'Gene, Gene, The Dancing Machine' Is A Stagehand

It's NBC-TV's "The Gong Show" and Milton DeLugg's orchestra is playing Count Basie's "Jumping at the Woodside." Host Chuck Barris announces "Gene, Gene, the dancing machine" and out come a 250-pounder dancing a jig in his sneakers.

As he dances, people offstage are throwing things at him — hats, Styrofoam bananas, anything laying around.

This happens so regularly on 'Gong' (weekdays 3 to 3:30 p.m.) that the studio audience usually starts applauding as soon as the music plays. The star of the act is Gene Patton. When his act is over, he'll start picking up the hats, bananas and other paraphernalia, because he is really a stagehand.

Several months ago, a member of the Barris staff asked Patton if he would appear on the show. Other members of the crew had already done so, so Patton was pleased and surprised. "Barris just has a knack for picking out unusual acts. The boom man sang a song.

"The producer and the other staff people participate in skits. So, after I told them I'd go on the show, I talked to Barris and decided that I'd dance. He watched me do a few steps and picked out the music. That was it. I went on that day."

Patton had to join the union for artists, AFTRA, immediately since he had made an appearance on "NBC's First Fifty Years."

"The rule is," he said, "that after one appearance an artist has to join the union. On 'First Fifty Years,' I was seen as a tourist walking through the NBC Studios."

Patton appears on 'Gong' two or three times a week and is paid performer's wages in addition to his stagehand salary. "I'm not saying how much money I've made," he said, "but it was good enough for me to send my son to college this year."

His son Sidney, 18, is a drama major at Morehouse College in Atlanta. A daughter, Courtney, 10, wants to be a actress. Five other Patton children have grown up and provided him with three grandchildren.

Poll Puts NBC Tops

NBC-TV was voted the network with the Best Daytime Programming — with "Days of Our Lives" taking top honors in 10 categories and "Another World" coming in first in four categories — in the first Soap Box magazine.

NBC-TV had more first-place showings than any other network, and the awards were tabulated from more than 20,000 votes in the magazine's readers' poll.

"Days of Our Lives" won in the following categories:

Best Written Storylines, Best Ensemble Acting and Camera Effects, Best Use of Sets and Best Daytime Serial.

'The Hobbit:' Special Airs Sunday On NBC-TV

What does a hobbit sound like? After Nov. 27, lots of people across the country will probably think a hobbit sounds the way Orson Bean thinks he sounds.

Bean speaks for Bilbo Baggins, pivotal character and chief hero in "The Hobbit," an animated special airing Sunday (Nov. 27), 8 to 9:30 p.m., on NBC-TV. The show marks the first time that any work by Tolkien is being dramatized for TV.

As the millions of hobbit fans known, "The Hobbit," the world-famous book by J.R.R. Tolkien, is really an adventure story set in Tolkien's marvelous fantasy world.

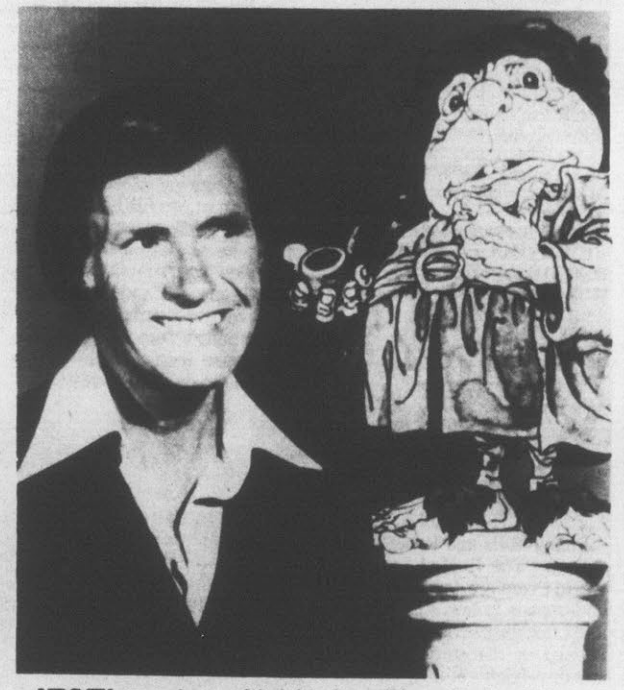

Since it is fantasy, how did Bean approach his vocal impersonation of Bilbo Baggins? He said: "To be honest, I really don't know what I did. It just happened— I know it sounds as magical as when Bilbo touches his special ring in the Tolkien book, but it's true.

"I had read the hobbit stories before I took on this assignment so hobbits weren't stangers to me. But at first I didn't even have the foggiest idea about how I would speak for Bilbo. I immersed myself in hobbitry again.

"I read and read and read the book once more and let it all soak in. And then, when it came time to record the voice, I just let what happened, happen."

As is usual in animated programs, Bean and the other actors (Richard Boone, Hans Conried, John Huston, Otto Preminger and Cyril Ritchard) speaking for characters recorded their voices before an animation was started. Said Bean: "The animators were influenced by the inflections of the voices and it was fun to see a bit of myself reflected in their animation. All of the other actors with me were hobbit freaks and the recording session was fun."

Aside from the voice, Bean feels he has a couple of other things in common with Bilbo Baggins. "On first glance I suppose you'd say this was ridiculous. After all according to Tolkien, Bilbo is kind of short and 'inclined to be fat in the stomach.' Well, that's not me. But Bilbo and I are both pushing 50 and the call to adventure has shoved me out of my middle-class rut just as it has pulled Bilbo out of this comfortable hobbit role."

NBC-TV presents a multi-night of specials on Sunday, Nov. 27 beginning at 8 p.m. when Orson Bean narrates the animated special "The Hobbit." Then at 10 p.m., Cindy Darline Miller, Miss World U.S.A., will represent the United States at the "1977 Miss World Beauty Pageant," via satellite, from London, with host Andy Williams.

Miss World-U.S.A. Hopeful To Compete

Cindy Darline Miller is bright, beautiful, blonde and a winner.

Recently selected as Miss World-U.S.A., Cindy will represent the United States and join more than 60 of the most beautiful girls from around the globe for "The 1977 Miss World Beauty Pageant." Multiple Emmy Award winner Andy Williams will serve as host and entertainer for the event, to be colorcast Sunday, Nov. 27, 10 to 11:15 p.m. on NBC-TV, which will originate on a delayed taped basis from London, England.

Cindy, a 20-year-old native of Chesapeake, Va., will be making her first visit to England. The blue-eyed, 5-foot-7 beauty is quite enthused about the trip and her role in representing her country. "It's the greatest honor in the whole wide world," she says emphatically. "I'd like to be a fine example for others."

Cindy, herself, is a fine example of her mother, Marguerite, in whose beauty contest-winning footsteps she is following. Before her marriage, Mrs. Miller won several contests in her hometown — she was named the Great Bridge (Va.) High School homecoming queen and was the first winner of the Miss Great Bridge title. Describing Cindy, she says: "I thought she was a china doll when she was born. She's always been pretty — and sweet too."

Cindy is not a fragile doll. She enjoys many outdoor activities including horseback riding, tennis, skiing and boating. She also studied piano for several years and took tap and ballet instruction.

Questions Are Posed

Do Americans understand the nobility of failure? Is "Doonesbury's" Walden Commune (or any other commune) a thing of the past? What's happened to the rebels of yesteryear? Where do old football players go to die?

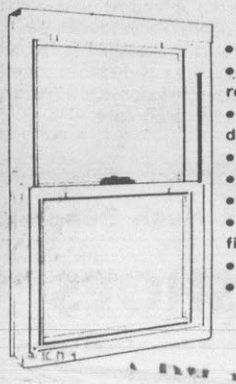

The questions are posed in "A Doonesbury Special" — the first animated program based on "Doonesbury," Garry Trudeau's Pulitzer Prize-winning comic strip — which will be presented Sunday, Nov. 27, 9:30 to 10 p.m. on NBC-TV.

Barbara Harris, Jack Gilford, Will Jordan and the Rev. William Sloane Coffin (Senior Minister of The Riverside Church in New York City) are among those speaking for young (and not so young) characters created by Trudeau for his contemporary comic strip, praised for its sharp social commentary.

Trudeau created the special and wrote the script for the show, which included all of the main characters from "Doonesbury."

'The Return Of The Hulk' Airs

"The Return of the Hulk," a two-hour movie special on the further adventures of David Bruce Banner, a scientist whose radiation experiments turned him into a homeless wanderer and raging beast looking for a cure for the ray's monsterous effect, will be broadcast Monday, Nov. 28, 8 to 10 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Bill Bixby again stars as the ill-fated Banner. Like its predecessor, "The Incredible Hulk," which aired earlier this month, this special movie presentation is based on the Marvel Comic Book character who has been a reader favorite since 1972.

Lou Ferrigno and Jack Colvin reprise their roles as the Hulk and the newspaper reporter, respectively, with Laurie Prange, Dorothy Tristan, Gerald McRaney and William Daniels in guest-starring roles.

After Banner is presumed dead from a laboratory explosion, he is free to search for a cure for his affliction, a change in his metabolism which transforms him from his normal, average person into a powerful, seven-foot monster when he is enraged. It becomes difficult for him not to get angry after he discovers a young woman being victimized by her widowed stepmother in order to gain control of her fortune. The girl, Julie (Miss Prange), has been crippled since the accident which also caused the death of her father. Banner's suspicions are aroused when he sees the stepmother (Miss Tristan) and her physician (Daniels) administering a questionable drug to Julie. He stays on at Julie's ranch to keep an eye on her until the foreman (McRaney), at the stepmother's orders, fires him and bodily tries to oust him from the premises. Enraged, Banner turns once again into the raging Hulk, spiriting Julie away. The appearance of the Hulk again puts the indomintable reporter McGee (Colvin) on his trail.

Laurie Prange has divided her activities between the theater and the screen during her young career. Her movie credits include "The Class of '65" and played the younger sister in "Looking for Mr. Goodbar." She recently completed a role with Bette Davis in the upcoming "Harvest Home."

Among Dorothy Tristan's many credits are the motion pictures "Truckin'." "Man on a Swing" and "Scarecrow." A writer as well as an actress, she currently is filming "State Beach" for release next year.

Gleason And Honeymooners Celebrate Wild Christmas

Christmas is already in the air and Jackie Gleason and the Honeymooners will celebrate that holiday with a version of "A Christmas Carol" that Dickens would never have dreamed of in his wildest nightmare in "The Honeymooners Christmas Special," airing Monday, Nov. 28, 8 to 9 p.m., on ABC-TV.

Jackie Gleason and Audrey Meadows as Ralph and Alice Kramden and Art Carney and Jane Kean as Ed and Trixie Norton have been fighting life's little frustrations— especially those they cause themselves — ever since their days as televisions favorite friends and neighbors on the old "Honeymooners" series, and their lives are certainly no simpler in their holiday special.

Ralph's boss as the bus line (Gale Gordon) believes that Ralph is the perfect man to direct the company's Christmas play — because Ralph told him so with a confidence as blustery as the winter wind — and Ralph wants the assignment because the last director was promoted to Vice President and married the boss's daughter.

Alice isn't too crazy about this plan because she and Ralph were supposed to be in Miami on vacation at the time, and the possibility of Ralph becoming a Vice President seems rather remote to her (and the idea of his marrying the boss's daughter doesn't appeal at all).

Ralph, of course, has never directed a play before in his life, but that doesn't stop him from leaping— or blundering — into the project, casting Norton (Carney) as both Tiny Tim and Scrooge in "A Christmas Carol" and selling commercial plugs to help pay the production expenses.

The Honeymooners present a version of "A Christmas Carol" that Dickens never dreamed of when (l to r) Jane Keane, Audrey Meadows, Jackie Gleason and Art Carney team up again on "The Honeymooners Christmas Special," airing on Monday, Nov. 28 (8-9 p.m.) on ABC-TV.

ED FLANDERS KEEPS PLAYING HISTORICAL ROLES

His specialization was not planned — it just happened — says Emmy-winner Ed Flanders about being cast so often in the role of historical figures.

Flander's latest portrayal was that of Pulitzer Prize-winning editor William Allen White in ABC-TV's "Mary White."

Flanders recently won his second Emmy for his portrayal of a former President in "Harry S. Truman: Plain Speaking," and presently is being seen in motion picture theaters as Truman in "MacArthur." He also played the forthright President in "Truman at Potsdam."

In "Eleanor and Franklin," Flanders appeared as Louis Howe, confidant and advisor to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. In "The Trial of the Catonsville Nine," he was seen as the controversial Dan Berrigan.

Police Woman Framed

Donna Mills and Robert Reed star in "The Hunted Lady," a World Premiere drama about an undercover police woman who must flee for her life when she is framed by mobsters, on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Nov. 28, 9 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV. Also cast in the movie are Alan Feinstein, David Darlow and Will Sampson.

Special security officer Susan Reilly (Mills) becomes a traget for elimination when she agrees to assist a fellow officer, Sgt. Stanley Arizzio (Feinstein), with his investigation into the connection between an aspiring presidential candidate, Sen. Roger Clements (Mark Miller), and the syndicate.

James Redford (David Darlow), son of the syndicate chieftain, instructs hitman Robert Armstrong (Lawrence Casey) to get rid of Arizzio and make it appear that Susan is responsible for his demise.

Susan, wounded in the shootout, flees to Reno in search of some evidence that will help prove her innocence.

'Happy Days' Completes Filming 100th Episode

"Happy Days" celebrated the filming of its 100th show with the completion of this week's episode, "Bye Bye Blackbali"

It is interesting to note that the original announcement of the series had no mention of a character named Fonzie or an actor named Henry Winkler in the lead paragraph. The two "unknowns" were buried at the bottom of the page.

Henry Winkler had six lines in the original episode and a bit with a comb that helped to make the Fonzie character a nation television hero.

Extraordinarily, the cast has remained bascially intact since the series' inception. Ron Howard stars as Richie, Henry Winkler as Fonzie, and Tom Bosley as Howard. Marion Ross co-stars as Marion, Anson Williams as Potsie, Donny Most as Ralph Malph, and Erin Moran as Joanie.

Al Molinaro has been added to the cast as Alfred, owner of the Drive-In, and Scott Baio has been added this season as Fonzie's street-wise cousin, Chachi.

Julie Andrews Joins Bob Hope As 'America Salutes The Queen'

Julie Andrews joins host Bob Hope and an international galaxy of stars on "America Salutes the Queen," a three-hour entertainment event celebrating Queen Elizabeth's Silver Jubilee, to be presented Tuesday, Nov. 29, at 8 p.m. on NBC-TV.

The roster of stars includes: Dean Martin, Paul Anka, Harry Belafonte, Carol Burnett, Alan King, Cleo Laine and John Dankworth, Shirley MacLaine, the Muppets, The Brotherhood of Man and Tommy Cooper.

The transatlantic salute the Queen Elizabeth's 25th anniversary as monarch will take place in her presence and that of His Royal Highness of Duke of Edinburgh. Lord Lew Grade, Chairman and Chief Executive, ATV, said. "All of the performers are giving their services without any fee and all proceeds from this American and British good will spectacular — approximately one million pounds— will be donated to several public service and artist benevolent charities."

Queen Elizabeth's ascent to the throne 25 years ago brought about an instantaneous change in the life of one who had been immensely happy as a wife, mother and daughter. Family life was forcibly curtailed and public loyalties were given precedence. As a result, that luminous look that had been so evident in earlier photographs was replaced by a solemn, sad dignity.

Today, we have another Queen and a woman: someone who seems fulfilled in many roles; a monarch without self-consciousness and without groundless fears. She is truly a monarch and person; she has evidently become more totally herself and is, in most respects, a wise and understanding person. She has emerged as a Queen in every sense of the word.

Millions join the host of stars as "America Salutes the Queen."

INTERNATIONAL SALUTE — Bob Hope is the host and Julie Andrews is one of the international stars performing in "America Salutes the Queen," a three-hour entertainment event celebrating Queen Elizabeth's Silver Jubilee, to be presented on Tuesday, Nov. 29 (8-11 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Valerie Changes Character

Sixteen years ago Valerie Harper was just the third girl from the left in the chorus line behind Lucille Ball in the Broadway production of "Wildcat." Ten years later she rushed to the stage to accept an Emmy from Lucy as "outstanding actress in a supporting comedy role" for her performance in "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"Remember me, Lucy," she blurted out, "from 'Wildcat'?"

Lucy, it turned out, hadn't forgotten.

Now, in a very un-Rhoda-like role, Valerie portrays a motorist who is forced to flee for her life after witnessing the slaying of a highway patrolman in "Night Terror." The film will be rebroadcast as "The CBS Late Movie" Tuesday Nov. 29, at 12:30 p.m. on CBS-TV.

"I'd been locked into comedy for so long I felt like a kid with the key to the candy store when I got a chance to do a nice scary movie," she said, referring to her role in "Night Terror."

"Comedy is tough," she continued. "It either works or it doesn't and there's no room for near misses. So making people laugh is a very demanding business, but I love it. Still, it was a relief to get away from it for awhile."

FILMING UNDERWAY

"The Last Island," a two-part episode of "The Six Million Dollar Man" starring Lee Majors, has begun filming on location in the Hawaiian Islands.

The episode, being filmed entirely on and near the island of Oahu, is the story of Steve Austin's search for a space satellite that has disappeared in the Pacific.

Redford Stars In Tale Of Murder

Robert Redford and Faye Dunaway star in a thrilling tale of espionage and murder, "Three Days of the Condor'" to be broadcast on "The CBS Sunday Night Movies" Nov. 27 9 to 11:22 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Redford portrays Turner, a CIA agent with the code name Condor. His job seems innocent, reading popular books and feeding information to a computer. He notices something a little odd during his research and brings it to the attention of CIA headquarters but they seem unimpressed. But afterwards, while Turner is out getting lunch, his co-workers are all massacred.

Robert Redford portrays a CIA researcher whose seemingly unimportant job mysteriously plunges him into a murderous intrigue, in "Three Days of the Condor," the hit movie thriller, to be broadcast as a special movie presentation on Sunday Nov. 27 (9-11:22 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Turner's attempts to investigate the matter results in the death of a friend and an attempt on his own life. He flees, kidnapping a beautiful photographer (Miss Dunaway) and forcing her to hide him in her apartment.

The tension mounts as Turner attempts to sort his friends from his enemies, elude his would-be killers, and uncover the mystery behind the seemingly senseless slaughter.

Cliff Robertson, Addison Powell and John Houseman portray top CIA men whose loyalties are unclear. Max Von Sydow is an international gunman hired to track Turner down.

Redford does exceptionally well with his Condor characterization, emerging as a man perpetually caught in the middle who learns just enough to want "out" from the agency, and too much for them to sanction his voluntary departure. Ms. Dunaway is similarly fine as the unwilling hostess who quickly becomes Redford's only key to survival, while Von Sydow's chilling portrait of a ruthlessly pragmatic free-lance assassin is exceptional. Robertson plays his pseudo-humanistic "company man" role well and adds a bit of ominous weight to the film's final image: Condor seeking protection at the New York Times as if it were an embassy capable of granting political asylum.

Standouts among Condor's multiple brushes with death are a tension-ridden elevator ride shared by an unsuspecting Condor and his would-be assassin; an enigmatic close call at the hands of a 'phony' mailman, and the climatic surprise showdown between Redford, Von Sydow and Addison Powell, the number one man in the ruthless splinter group.

Fiedler And Boston Pops Go Hollywood

Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra will be seen in a major 90-minute special, "The Boston Pops In Hollywood," Tuesday, Nov. 29 at 8 p.m. on PBS.

Appearing as guest stars in the special are Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, Mortimer Snerd, and Charlton Heston who serves as host. The concert was taped before a live audience at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles.

"The Boston Pops In Hollywood" opens with "Entrance of Guests," from "Tannhauser" by Wagner; followed by the Roumanian Rhapsody No. 1 in a Major, Op. 11, by Enesco.

Edgar Bergen, McCarthy and Snerd join maestro Fiedler and the Pops for a rousing and lighthearted version of "The Carnival of the Animals, Grand Zoological Fantasia," by Saint Saens. Duo artists Anthony and Joseph Paratore are featured on twin pianos in the production number which pays tribute to members of the animal kingdom as illustrated through the zany poetry of the late Ogden Nash.

Following a brief film tribute chronicling Fiedler's long and illustrious career with narration by Heston, the Pops Orchestra offers selections from "Girl Crazy": "I Got Rhythm," "Embraceable You," "Bidin' My Time," "But Not For Me."

Turbulent Life Portrayed

The turbulent life of legendary actress Sarah Bernhardt is portrayed in loving detail by Zoe Caldwell on the "Great Performances" series. The program, which takes a detailed retrospective look at "The Divine One's" lenghty world-famous career, will be broadcast Wednesday, Nov. 30, at 9 p.m. on PBS. "Sarah" is part of a drama mini-series exploring the off-stage lives of people in the theater.

"Sarah" tells the story of the French actress' personal triumph over ill-health, anti-semitism and a disastrous marriage. It is set in Paris in 1912 as Bernhardt, age 68, sits before her make-up mirror preparing for her role in the silent film, "La Reiner Elizabeth." She thinks back to the time before she became an institution on two continents — to the days when she battered her way into the Comedie Francaise; ran a soldiers' hospital in a theater during the 1870 seige of Paris; and conquered Europe and North America under the shrewd guidance of her agent, Edward Jarrett (played by Donald Davies).

In 1880, on Bernhardt's first North American tour, the Bishop of Montreal threatened the star and her entire company with excommincation for having the audicity to perform on Christmas Day. As Victorien Sardou, who wrote many of her greatest hits, declared, "If there's anything more remarkable than watching Sarah act, it's watching her live." Bernhardt never lost an opportunity to make the world aware of her presence. As an admirer commented while observing her conquer North America, "she understands publicity — in that respect she's totally American."

Invoking the name of Sarah Bernhardt has become synonymous with the unbound expression of one's feelings, without regard to others' conventions. Consistently violating the 'rules' of her day, she had an out-of-wedlock son in her early twenties, broke her contract with the Comedie Francaise to star on her own, and married the womanizing Jacques Damala, a man several years her junior. Bernhardt's talents always outweighed any scandal she caused.

The Statler Brothers Look Back On Success

When the Statler Brothers received this year's Country Music Association's award for best vocal group, it might have been, well, just the teeniest bit repititious. It was the sixth consecutive time they've won that particular award. But to one member of the group, Don Reid, it wasn't one bit dull. In fact, he said, "Each year it gets more exciting."

The group will be giving numerous and harmonious examples of what makes them one of the most popular vocal groups on the country-western music scene today when they appear on "The Johnny Cash Christmas Special," Wednesday, Nov. 30, 10 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV.

Made up of Don and Harold Reid, Lew De Witt and Phil Balsley, one might wonder why the group is called The Statler Brothers. It's all very simple, according to Don, "We got our named off a box of tissues. On any other day we could have been the Kleenex Brothers."

The group has worked together "since we were little guys" growing up in Staunton, Va. They worked, Don explains, "anywhere they'd give us $2."

Unanimously, they feel that they owe their success to Johnny Cash. Harold noted, "We were as green as grass," when Cash hired them in 1964 to work as background singers and as a warm-up group. Brother Don said, "For some reason he liked us and put us to work."

Cash helped them get their first record contract, and soon after that they recorded their gold record, "Flowers on the Wall." Their success has continued unabated ever since.

When they were on the road with the Johnny Cash show, Cash was always careful to make sure that everyone was home for Christmas. But there were "impromptu" celebrations following concerts that were held during the holiday season.

Harold masks Johnny's true generosity by saying that during a typical Christmas celebration with Johnny "we all sat around and waited to see what he brought us. And if we didn't like it, we just went home early."

And then there was the year that Cash brought everyone imported custom-made wallaby coats following a trip to Australia and New Zealand. Harold said, "I took mine home and shot it; it was still breathing."

Although the Statler Brothers are no longer part of the Johnny Cash Show, Harold said, "We're still like a family." And it's only fitting that family should spend Christmas together.

Reindeer Worth A Million

It was 26 years ago that a shiny-nosed reindeer named Rudolph first began delighting the hearts of millions. Since them, "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" has achieved worldwide fame and has become a Christmas tradition as a television special.

Indeed, composer Johnny Marks' song about Rudolph is one of the most valuable pop songs ever written, ranking with Irving Berlin's "White Chirstmas" as one of the world's top musical money-makers. And on Wednesday, Nov. 30 (8 to 9 p.m. on CBS-TV), "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," the beguilding animated musical special about the young buck whose luminous snout saves Christmas, will be rebroadcast.

Bing's Last Christmas Special Airs

Bing Crosby, whose legendary voice has been a part of Christmas since he began celebrating the season in song approximately a half-century ago, will be seen Wednesday, Nov. 30, 9 to 10 p.m., on CBS-TV, in his annual Christmas special, an imaginative hour of music, humor and warmth taped in London in early September five weeks before his death on Oct. 14.

The innovative special, entitled "Bing Crosby's Merrie Olde Christmas," is woven around the Crosby family's responding to an invitation from an imaginary British relative, Sir Percival Crosby, to celebrate the holidays in his ancestral English country home filled upstairs and downstairs with characters portrayed by some of Britain's most popular performers. Included are special guest rock superstar David Bowie, Twiggy, Ron Moody, top British award-winning comic genius Stanley Baker, and the Trinity Boys Choir (from London's Trinity School), in addition to Crosby's wife, Kathryn, and their three children, Harry, Mary Frances and Nathaniel.

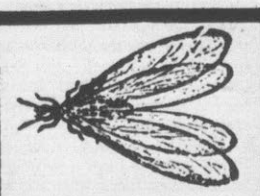

Among the many musical highlights of the special is a duet of "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" by Crosby and Twiggy, amid memorabilia in a dusty attic.

Drama Combines Fact, Fiction

What if Custer's last stand had gone the other way and the controversial frontier general had lived to stand trial? This is the story of "The Court-Martial of George Armstrong Custer," a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presentation starring Brian Keith, Ken Howard, Stephen Elliott, Blythe Danner and James Olson Thursday, Dec. 1, 9 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV.

The telecast, which combines fact and fiction, is an adaptation of the best-selling novel, "The Court-Martial of George Armstrong Custer," by Douglas C. Jones.

The drama opens with Custer discovered alive on the battlefield following the massacre. The news upsets President Ulysses S. Grant, who finds Custer dangerous and irresponsible. Grant considers him an embarrassment to the Army and wants him out. He insists on a court-martial, though he is warned that Custer has a large, popular following, and that this could set a dangerous precedent of trying every officer who ever loses a battle.

Three charges are brought against Custer: 1) that he disobeyed orders; 2) that he was negligent; and 3) that his conduct jeopardized good order and discipline.

He is defended by Allan Jacobson, the family attorney, on grounds that only a commander in the field, facing the enemy, can decide the proper form of action.

Majors Asa Gardiner prosecutes the case for the Army. He is smitten by Elizabeth Custer, whose allure is legendary. Jacobson and Gardiner have one thing in common— a distaste for the job they have been ordered to undertake.

Olson portrays the controversial general, and Keith is cast as Jacobson. Howard is Maj. Gardiner and Miss Danner is Custer's wife.

John Gay wrote the teleplay from the book, of which critics have said:

"A superb courtroom thriller...if you liked 'The Caine Muntiny,' if you enjoyed 'The Andersonville Trial, if you have any suppressed Clarence Darrow in your soul at all, you should seize on this brilliant novel." — "Edwin Corley, Good Books"

"...Credible and stunning...more real than many tales in books that aspire to be unvarnished fact." — 'Chicago Daily News.'

Pike's Peeks

By Charlie Pike
TV Showtime Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD — "Happy Days" may produce yet another spinoff next year, a la "Laverne and Shirley." This one's about Potsie and Ralph (Anson Williams and Donny Most), who head for California and a life of their own.

Maeve McGuire's leaving "The Edge of Night" after nine years as Nicole to do some regional work, and plans call for her role to be re-cast.

A rarity in soaps has happened on "Guiding Light." Bill Bauer (Ed Bryce) has returned after a ten-year absence, and there'll be lots of nail-chewing before fans finds out whether or not he goes back to wife Bert (Charita Bauer).

Ryan O'Neal's mother, Pat, is writing a book about her family and is already on page 120.

Vernon Presley, Elvis's father, has taped an interview with Buck Owens for "Hee Haw" that's slated to air Jan. 7, the day before the late singer's birthday.

Gabriel Kaplan gets serious when he hosts "What's a Museum for, Anyway?," taped at Washington's National Gallery of Art. The special will be broadcast in January on CBS-TV.

Magician Doug Henning and Barbara DeAngelis will tie the nuptial knot sometime around Christmas.

Would you believe — Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck dolls and pictures are banned from nursery schools in Queensland, Australia? Officials say "they do not leave enough to the children's imagination."

Tony Orlando's back on the nightclub circuit after treatment for manic depression. The two gals who made up the 'Dawn' part of his act are gone now, pursuing their own careers.

Renee Taylor's signed for a role in "Forever Fernwood." Wearing Louise Lasser pig tails and mimicing her to the last detail, Renee plays a woman who 'thinks' she's Mary Hartman.

'Santa Claus Is Comin' To Town'

"You better watch out
You better not shout
You better not cry
I'm telling you why...
Santa Claus is comin' to town"

"That's a wonderful old standard," said Fred Astaire as he hummed the title tune of the holiday special, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," which airs Thursday, Dec. 1, 8 to 9 p.m., on ABC-TV.

"I don't actually appear in person on the show," Astaire explained, "I talk for a puppet that looks a lot like me. I play a North Pole mailman — they call him S.D. Kluger, and I narrate the story that tells some of the legends about Santa Claus.

"Kluger, like all the other characters in the show, is an animagic puppet," continued Astaire. "He was carved, painted, dressed and then placed on the set. A technician was in charge of each movement he made and each separate motion was photographed. It's sort of like an animated cartoon, only these are actual figures that they put together to make a movie out of. The final effect is really very life-like and quite delightful."

"Santa Claus is Coming to Town" tries to make some sense out of the many mysteries and legends surrounding the Santa legend. "The way the story of Santa Claus is handled," said Astaire, "is what attracted me to the script. The explanations are imaginative without being too cute. For instance, it tells how Santa Claus is sometimes called Kris Kringle. It explains that he was a foundling child wearing a pendant that had Claus engraved on it. He was found and adopted by a family of toymakers named Kringle.

"The story treats other legends in the same logical way — like how Santa came to give out presents only on Christmas Eve, and how his reindeer learned to fly, and that sort of thing."

The special has a totally original musical score (except for the popular title tune) with music by Maury Laws and lyrics by Jules Bass. "I sing the title song...'You better watch out, you better not shout...'" Fred continued, "and a couple of the five original songs."

Astaire's appearances on television in recent years have been rare. "I don't expect to do another special," he said. "I like this one particularly, I haven't really thought about another one. We all loved this one...."

"Santa Claus is Coming to Town," the perennial Christmas favorite, returns for an encore presentation on Thursday, Dec. 1 (8-9 p.m.) on ABC-TV. The animated tale featuring the voices of Fred Astaire, Mickey Rooney, Keenan Wynn and Paul Frees, answers the many mysteries surrounding the legend of Santa Claus.

Now There Are Four Musketeers

The indomitable heroes of "The Three Musketeers" are back for another round of joyful swashbuckling and high intrigue in "The Four Musketeers," airing as a "CBS Special Movie" Friday, Dec. 2, 9 to 11 p.m., on CBS-TV. Starring in what was originally intended by director Richard Lester to be a four-hour epic are Oliver Reed, Raquel Welch, Richard Chamberlain, Michael York, Frank Finlay, Faye Dunaway, Christopher Lee and Charlton Heston.

All the raucous, sparklingly anachronistic energy of the earlier film is present, as is the high slapstick that tumbled the plumed heroes from their fictional pedestals and into the brawling mainstream of 17th Century France. But the sequel's accent is tilted slightly more toward character, drama and even tragedy because it conveys the darker aspects of the Dumas tale: the heartbreak and villainy that the era and politics made indispensible.

Set against the Protestant rebellion that nearly spelled the end of Louis XIII's France, the second half recapitulates the first in a brief series of narrated flashbacks and then gets down to business. 'Four' picks up the action with young D'Artagnon (York) as country a bumpkin as ever, but now one of the loyal musketeers, sworn to protect the Queen (Geraldine Chaplin) from having her amorous exploits with Britain's Duke of Buckingham (Simon Ward) put to scurrilous use by Cardinal Richelier (Heston) and his arch, one-eyed henchman (Lee).

Faye Dunaway's Milday, intent on revenge for being one-upped in the first half (and discovered as a branded harlot in the second) emerges as even more of a villainess this time around, and Raquel Welch is the clumsy Constance (D'Artagnon's first real love), who is kidnapped and disposed of.

Outstanding sequences in the film include an attempt to stab Constance in a convent (which results in the chain destruction of a row of confessionals), a brilliantly staged duel on a iced-over stream, and a firing squad's puzzlement at how to blindfold the one-eyed Rochefort. Wonderful anachronisms also abound, including an early submarine and a delightfully crude ancestor of the modern pinball machine.

In a unified extension of their original roles, York's D'Artagnan, Reed's Athos, Richard Chamberlain's Aramis and Finlay's Porthos all take on even more depth of character. Although they may have taken their last ride into the sunset, "The Four Musketeers" are destined to live forever.

Faye Dunaway stars as the scheming Milday, intent on revenge in "The Four Musketeers," to be broadcast as a special movie presentation on Friday, Dec. 2 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Sampson's Way Is 'Living'

Will Sampson has had his share of offers to play stereotypical Indian roles ever since his debut in the Oscar-winning film, "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." He turned his back on these offers, but couldn't refuse the role offered in "The Hunted Lady," airing Monday, Nov. 28, at 9 p.m., on NBC-TV.

WRAL-TV To Air Slavery Series

Slavery has been called the greatest crime in the history of the world; but all whites were not guilty and all the blacks were not innocent. It was a crime of humanity against itself. Such is the premise of the upcoming special series on WRAL-TV: "The Fight Against Slavery."

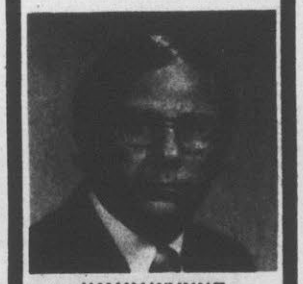

In what may prove to be the most important local television programming this fall, "The Fight Against Slavery" (Part I) will be aired Dec. 2, at 9 p.m. on Channel 5 WRAL.

"The Fight Against Slavery" is an incredibly powerful drama of overwhelming social, economic and political dimensions. It is shocking, brutal at times, enlightening, and absorbing. Based on historical fact, all of the major incidents are known to have happened, and were possible, the individual character's use words they are known to have spoken at the time.

"The Fight Against Slavery" begins in 1750 when the abduction of West African natives and their sale in Jamaica and the New World was at its height. The programs deal with the infamous "Middle Passage" — the slave routes — and the people who abolished it within the British Empire in 1834, 30 years before our own Emancipation Proclamation.

CBS Sports Broadcasts Mixed Golf Team Championship Action

CBS Sports will broadcast the final two-rounds of golf action in the 72-hole $200,000 Mixed Team Championship, Saturday, Dec. 3 (4 to 5 p.m.), and Sunday, Dec. 4, (4 to 6 p.m.), from the Bardmoor Country Club in Largo, Fla.

Teams will be comprised of one member of the PGA Tour and one member of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

One of the more than 40 teams vying to pocket the first prize is comprised of Ben Crenshaw, winner of the 1977 Colonial National Invitation, and Judy Rankin, the LPGA's leading money-winner of 1977.

The teams will play a new competitive format designed for this event, which calls for all players to hit from every tee and, on all driving holes, the exchange tee shots and hit a second. Before the third shot, on the par-four and par-five holes, the team will select one ball to keep in play and will stroke it alternately until the ball is holed out. On par-three holes, each player will hit from the tee and then the team will select one ball to play on an alternate stroke basis until holed out.

"This format accomplishes two goals," PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman says. "First, it will provide players with the opportunity to compete more than other formats do, with each player hitting two shots on every driving hole. And secondly, this much action by members of the team will provide viewers with plenty of chance to see the relative style of play between the men and women professionals."

Ray Volpe, Commissioner of the LPGA, points out that the new format "will be a lot of fun for both the players and viewers," adding that "it will really be interesting to watch how the professionals hit their teammate's drive, and their decision on selecting one ball to continue play will offer all kinds of possibilities and speculation."

The championship's invitation list includes the 40 players who lead the PGA Tour's official money list for 1977, and in the event a player declines his invitation, he will be replaced by the next player on the official money list.

All-Indian Cast Featured In ABC Children's Novel

Ned Romero, who portrayed the legendary Chief Joseph in the highly acclaimed "ABC Theatre" presentation, "I Will Fight No More Forever," heads the all-Indian cast in "The Nunundaga," currently airing as the "ABC Children's Novel for Television" on Saturdays, 12-noon at 12:30 p.m.

The moving, dramatic story of how an Indian youth meets an enormous challenge was written by I.C. Rapoport. Although the Nunundaga is a fictional tribe, the story is based on the life experience of plains Indians in the 1800s, and draws upon the lore and values of early American Indians as a real family looking for survival in a hostile world.

The cast includes Guillarmo San Juan as Snake Eyes, the son of Painted Bear, played by Romero, leader of the tribe, and John War Eagle as One Feather, the boy's grandfather and holder of the Sacred Bow, their symbol of power.

Other important roles are played by Moniker Ramirez (Wind Song), Joe Renteria (Low Wolf), Victoria Racimo (Star Fire), Emelio Delgado (White Bull), Madeline Taylor Holmes (Yellow of the Fire), Richard Romancita (Black Eagle) and Oscar Valdez (Night Crier).

In the initial half-hour episode, the Nunundaga are near starvation because of the lack of buffalo meat. Following another fruitless expedition with Painted Bear, Snake Eyes is inconsolable because he frightened a buffalo away.

When the boy dreams that they are about to be attacked by their enemy, the Dust People, the tribe moves camp. There, out of the darkness, a Dust pony strikes old One Feather to the ground and steals the Sacred Bow.

The entire production was filmed on location in the Coronado National Memorial grounds in Cochise Country, Arizona.

Michele Will Tell

TO B.W., WILMINGTON, N.C.: Mark Hamill's the middle son (of seven children) of a retired U.S. Navy Captain. He grew up in Calif., Va., New York City and Japan. His acting debut was in a segment of "The Bill Cosby Show" (in 1970), and he then became a 'regular' on "General Hospital." He co-starred in the short lived TV series, "The Texas Wheelers," and his movie credits include "Sarah T: Portrait of a Teenage Alcoholic," "Mallory," "Delancy Street" and "Eric." TRICK ROPER CAST AS WILL ROGERS

Gene McLaughlin, a world champion trick roper and stuntman, has been cast to portray Will Rogers in "Ziegfeld: The Man and His Women," a three-hour drama to be televised on NBC-TV.

McLaughlin, who is a professional cowboy and rides the rodeo circuit, has done stunt work in the features "Black Sunday," "Stunts," and recently completed working on "The Wiz" in New York. Although he has never performed as Will Rogers, he has collected a great deal of memorabilia about the late humorist and bears a striking physical resemblance.

Odoms Is Mortons' Top Target

The Denver Broncos are off and running with their best season start in the club's 18-year history of the franchise. In 1962, the Broncos won six of their first seven, but reversed that mark in the second half of the season to finish 7-7.

Denver will meet Baltimore on Sunday, Nov. 27, on NBC-TV at 4 p.m. in a contest which will involve two of the AFC's most powerful teams. This contest will hurt the loser more than it will help the winner in their respective playoff aspirations.

Craig Morton, formerly of the Dallas Cowboys and the New York Giants, is now the twenty-sixth quarterback to play in Denver since 1960. With new head coach Red Miller, the emphasis has been on offense as their defense was playoff caliber last season.

Morton has discovered in Denver that for the clutch plays and those important third downs, he has quite an effective arsenal at his disposal. Not only a good running attack led by Otis Armstrong and Lonnie Perrin, but one of the premier tight ends in the business, Riley Odoms.

Odoms has been a big part of the Denver offense and it's no secret that he is Morton's number one target when things get sticky. The six-foot-four, 230-pounder combines excellent speed, great ability catching and running with the football and outstanding blocking ability. It is no surprise to learn that Odoms was a first-round draft pick by Denver in 1972 and has since been a three-time Pro Bowl selection.

This season, Odoms is leading the team in receptions and is averaging just under 11 yards per catch. He has also proven that he is not shy about crossing the goal.

As the Broncos head for the stretch with their sites set on their first-ever playoff spot, Morton must keep 'em moving, and you can be sure if they start to stall, Riley Odoms will get the call.

A three-time Pro Bowl selection, Riley Odoms of Denver is considered by many as the premier tight end in the business. He combines excellent speed, outstanding receiving and exceptional blocking ability. Denver and Baltimore will meet on Sunday, Nov. 27 at 4 p.m. on NBC-TV in an AFC power struggle.

Cowboy Fullback To Keep Healthy

Not necessarily forgotten — but maybe a tad overlooked, Dallas Cowboy fullback Robert Newhouse had mentioned in some post-game interviews that he's "just trying to stay consistent and healthy."

That last word of the comment is the key one. Healthy. That's what Robert Newhouse must be in order to be an effective and contributing weapon in the complex Dallas Cowboys offense.

The Cowboys will battle the Washington Redskins in what always proves to be a tough intra-division contest Sunday, Nov. 27, at 4 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Just prior to the start of the '76 season, it was discovered at the Cowboys' training camp that Newhouse's pelvis had been cracked from an automobile accident in the fall of 1971. The injury had still not healed properly some five years later.

Now, Newhouse is making up for lost time as the 27-year-old running back led the Cowboys in rushing for the day in three consecutive games earlier this season. It was Newhouse — not the more-written-about Tony Dorsett or Preston Pearson.

Does Newhouse resent the attention that his running mates at tailback are getting?

"Not at all," he says smiling. "I have a lot of respect for both of our halfbacks. This is a halfback-oriented team. And they're both great runners. They help me, and I help them. I'm just trying to do my job. This is a great place to play because everybody's playing as a team. A lot of things are working well this year. I want to stay healthy and continue contributing."

There's that word again. Healthy.

"The key phrase in the NFL is 'getting the job done'," says Newhouse. "People have questioned my size. I think being a running-back — big, small or whatever — the thing is getting the job done.

"Size doesn't play that big a role. Ever since I was in college, I realized I wouldn't grow any bigger, so if I was going to play pro ball, I had to get out there and do it. That's what I'm trying to do.

"I want to help this team get back to the Super Bowl. I was there once and I want to go back and win this time. I'm trying to stay consistent. And healthy."

Patriots Are Threat

The New England Patriots have a double threat in quarterback Steve Grogan. The passer-runner had 18 TD passes last season to put him in a tie for fourth place among NFL quarterbacks, but even more significant were his 12 rushing touchdowns which established an all-time record for quarterbacks.

New England meets the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday, Nov. 27, at 1 p.m. on CBS-TV.

Last season Grogan led the Patriots to the greatest comeback ever in NFL history. Coming from 3-11 in 1975, he led them to an 11-3 season in '76. The passer-runner is a real touchdown terror to opposing teams. His 397 rushing yards made him the top rushing quarterback in the NFL, and this contribution helped the team set a new rushing mark of 2948 yards.

In last year's play-off game with the Oakland Raiders, New England suffered a heartbreaking 24-21 loss, but it was no reflection on Grogan's ability. After the game Oakland's head coach John Madden remarked: "We tried to shut off the Patriots' running game and put the pressure on him. But he started to get things easy on us with his passing, so we had to back off a little and show him more respect. The kid is a competitor. He presents a lot of problems to a defense with that running ability of his."

Steve Grogan is one of the new breed in the NFL. He's like Baltimore's Bert Jones and Chicago's Bob Avellini — quarterbacks who served their apprenticeship while playing instead of warming the benches for several seasons and merely observing.

When the Patriots traded one-time Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett to the San Francisco 49ers for two extra number one draft choices — Grogan became their starting quarterback, and the rest is history.

In only his third pro season he has developed outstanding leadership qualities. Coaches and players alike have a deep respect for him.

Veteran wide receiver Marlin Briscoe says: "Steve has more poise than any other young quarterback I've played with. He has great confidence in his ability."

It is no wonder that Grogan has outstanding leadership qualities and an uncanny ability to react quickly to any situation. It is said he has one of the highest IQs ever tested by the Patriot scouts.

Head coach Chuck Fairbanks describes Grogan thusly: "Steve has the arm, the mind, the heart and the desire to be one of the best. We love him as a competitor. During the week in practice and away from the field he's very quiet. But once the whistle blows on game day, you can see the fires light up in his eyes."

Youngsters Create Bride For Frosty

The indomitable Frosty the Snowman takes a bride and gains a new friend in "Frosty's Winter Wonderland," an animated Christmas special featuring the voices of Andy Griffith, Shelley Winters, Dennis Day, Jackie Vernon and Paul Frees, airing Saturday, Dec. 3, 8 to 8:30 p.m. on ABC-TV.

Narrated and sung by Andy Griffith, "Frosty's Winter Wonderland" is the story of how true love overcomes all adversity when — to alleviate Frosty's loneliness — the youngsters who made Frosty (Jackie Vernon) last winter, create a Mrs. Frosty (Shelley Winters) to be his companion during the long cold nights and during the summer, when Frosty must return to the North Pole to avoid melting.

However, this apparently happy situation is nearly spoiled when Jack Frost (Paul Frees) — jealous of Frosty's happiness and attention — steals the magic hat that first brought the man of snow to life. With Frosty standing lifeless, the Mrs. Frosty-to-be makes a snow flower and attaches it to her groom, bringing him back to life without the aid of the hat.

And, when Jack Frost makes a last-ditch effort to stop the wedding, she appeals to his better nature and asks him to be the best man. He accepts, a new friendship is made, and with Parson Brown's (Dennis Day) blessings, the wedding is held.

New Times Listed

Two new situation comedies — "Szysznyk" and "Another Day" — and a second night of motion pictures, "The CBS Friday Night Movies," highlight the mid-season changes in CBS-TV's primetime program schedule.

Also, "Kojak," "The Carol Burnett Show," "Maude" and "Switch" will move to new time periods.

Three programs — "Rafferty," "Busting Loose" and "The Betty White Show" — have been cancelled.

Details of the changes follow:

"The CBS Friday Night Movies" will premiere on Dec. 2 (9 to 11 p.m.) beginning with "The Four Musketeers."

"Szysznyk," half-hour situation comedy starring Ned Beatty, will be presented Wednesdays (8:30 to 9 p.m.) beginning Dec. 7, replacing "Busting Loose."

"Another Day," half-hour situation comedy starring David Groh and Joan Hackett, will premiere Monday, Jan. 9 (9:30 to 10 p.m.).

"Kojak" and "The Carol Burnett Show" will exchange time periods beginning Saturday, Dec. 10, when "Kojak" will move to its new time, 10 to 11 p.m. On Sunday, Dec. 11, "The Carol Burnett Show" will move to 10 to 11 p.m.

"Switch," starring Robert Wagner and Eddie Albert are currently seen Fridays, 10 to 11 p.m., will move to a new time period, Mondays, 10 to 11, beginning Dec. 5. "Rafferty," seen at this time, has its final broadcast Monday, Nov. 28.

On Monday, Dec. 12, "Maude" and "The Betty White Show" will exchange time periods, with "Maude" moving to the 9 to 9:30 p.m. time period, and "The Betty White Show" moving to 9:30 until Monday, Jan. 2, its final broadcast date.

On Monday, Jan. 9, "Another Day" will premiere in the 9:30 — 10 p.m. time period, replacing "The Betty White Show."

"Szysznyk," which had a successful summer run on the Network, stars Ned Beatty as an ex-Marine who returns to civilian life as supervisor of a Washington, D.C., community center. Featured in the cast are Olivia Cole, Leonard Barr and Susan Lanier.

"Another Day" stars David Groh and Joan Hackett as a married couple who find that their share of the American dream seems to be made up of problems involving their jobs, growing children and mounting bills. Featured in the cast are Hope Summers, Lisa Lindgren and Al Eisenmann II.

Griffith Returns

Andy Griffith returns to the world of law enforcement in his second portrayal of Jasper Lake, Calif., Police Chief Abel Marsh, in "It's Deadly," a World Premiere drama on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Dec. 3, 9 to 11 p.m., on NBC-TV. Dan O'Herlihy also stars.

Griffith created the Abel Marsh role in "The Girl in the Empty Grave," telecast last September.

When a trailer truck tips over in a field outside Jasper Lake, the fumes of its contents appear to cause the deaths of two elderly bird-watchers as well as the total destruction of all vegatation in a widespread area.

Chief Marsh attempts to discover if it was an accident or an attempt to instill terror. Col. Edward Stryker (O'Herlihy), representing the Army, is the first of a number of government experts who try to keep the event from becoming a media cause celebre.

"Your Floor Covering Center"

3203 Memorial Drive

From the mountains, deserts, sea, beaches, forests, flowers and the people of the west, Walter has fashioned the California Look in carpets. A superb selection of contemporary California colors brings the mood of the California lifestyle to every room of your home. And softly as a California sunset, the textures are smooth and silky to the touch. If you're looking for carpet, be sure to come to our store and look at the California Look carpets we picture inside.

THE CALIFORNIA LOOK™

by Walter Carpets

These luxurious carpets now in

Santa Monica

NO. 577

Soft as the summer sands of the world-famous Santa Monica beaches, this tracery cut loop saxony brings a new kind of silky smoothness to the nation's floors. Walter Carpets makes it in high-fashioned multi-colors that are as subtle as the late afternoon skies of the tropical Pacific.

SALE PRICE

$10.49

REGULAR PRICE: $12.95

Venetian

NO. 233

Fashions come and go, but solid colors in carpet are always in vogue. That's only one reason you'll make a wise investment when you buy this beautiful saxony plush. Wear and cleanability are features, too, thanks to Walter's making Venetian out of heat-set nylon. All this plus FHA approval. Yours in America's newest California Look colors.

Willowbark

NO. 204

A spectacular effect created by Walter's Spectracolor® multi-dye system gives your room a completely new kind of beauty. It shimmers! Two colors, one at the base of the tufts and another at the top, combine in a pearlescent manner for an exquisite effect. Bright-luster 100% heat-set nylon makes this saxony cut and loop extremely durable. So good it carries the Ban-Lon® label.

SALE PRICE

$9.95

REGULAR PRICE: $11.95

Tuscany

NO. 560

Tender Touch silky soft, you'll love the feel as much as the beauty of this extraordinary saxony. Subtle multi-color bright lustre continuous filament nylon yarns give Tuscany a soft, shimmery look that adds warmth and drama to any room. Soil hiding nylon maintains original "look" and color longer. Yours in a wide choice of shimmering colors.

FOR CAROL BURNETT

When you and your husband argue, what's it about? —H.M., Danville, Va.

● The kids. They get their own way with me more than with their dad. Another way in which we clash is that Joe has endless patience, and I don't. I can't wait. Everything must be done immediately. If I give Joe a chore to do and he takes his own sweet time, I get mad because I don't know what's holding up the work and what's happening.

FOR RAY MARSHALL, Secretary of Labor

● I do not believe that moonlighting bears much relationship to unemployment: Hours and earnings are lower than the jobless desire or expect; secondary jobs utilize skills and experience markedly different from those of the unemployed; and a large proportion of secondary jobs are "created" by the workers themselves, such as self-employed farmers, professionals or business operators.

FOR BOBBY LAMM, musician with the rock group, Chicago

What do you remember most about your recent European trip? —R.C., Klamath Falls, Ore.

● Two things. While we were in Italy, a few of our trunks got lost and we had to play some dates in regular street clothes. The other much more disturbing incident was playing a concert at the Nuremburg Stadium in Germany built by Adolf Hitler for his bullies. It wasn't pleasant to perform at a place associated with one of the biggest murderers and worst dictators history has known.

FOR JANET GUTHRIE, first woman to race in the Indianapolis 500

Is the women's rights movement responsible for where you are today? —K.R., Huron, S.D.

● Of course. Had it not been for it I wouldn't have had the chance to drive championship cars. Nevertheless, I'm not a "women's libber" — even though I'm grateful — because I'm not a political person. Politics is bad for racing — just like an oil patch on the track.

FOR KAREN CARPENTER, singer

Have you and your brother Richard increased your group? Seems there are more voices on your records. —Stan Castleberry, Lufkin, Texas

● You're right in that there are other voices in addition to Richard's and mine, but we haven't increased our twosome. We have a group of seven musician-singers who travel and record with us. We need those additional voices to give us better balance, a richer sound and to elaborate on the harmonies.

FOR JACK CARTER, comedian

What do you do if another comedian steals your jokes? —T.M., Tupelo, Miss.

● I burn up, of course, but try not to show it because that makes the thief do it all the more. On the whole, it's hard to steal from me because my routine is not set patter — it's all personal, ad-lib stuff. However, I was once at a Don Rickles roast, and, right before my very eyes, another comedian stood up and used some of my jokes.

FOR JAMES A. CONLON, director, U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing

Why don't we have Braille currency, as they do in Holland? —Mrs. Alfred C. Herz, New London, N.H.

● We've made extensive investigations into Braille-type markings on U.S. currency and even printed experimental notes with raised markings which were examined by blind persons. Results confirm that such currency is not of particular value to most blind people due to the rapid wear of the raised markings and to the fact that most of the blind lack the sensitivity of touch required to distinguish markings.

FOR JULIE SOMMARS, star of Herbie Goes to Monte Carlo

● I'll answer that with this story: The day after I signed autographs at a tire-imprinting ceremony at Grauman's Chinese Theatre, immortalizing Herbie (The Love Bug), I was with my 5-year-old. She spotted some kids and yelled to them: "This is my mom, star of Herbie Goes to Monte Carlo. Do you want her autograph?" They held a conference and decided it would do no harm to get my autograph — which I gave them.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

What is Esther Williams doing now? —M.R., Rye, N.Y.

● Living a quiet life in Beverly Hills with her husband Fernando Lamas. (They met when they made the movie Dangerous When Wet. He was the first of her leading men who knew how to swim.) Esther, 54, is a bit on the plump side and hasn't made a film since the late 1950's. She's a private person and doesn't go out often to public places. When she does, she takes with her a batch of cards to hand out when asked the inevitable question. Message on the card: "Yes, I Still Swim."

FOR RUSSELL RHODES, author of The Styx Complex

I think there's something effeminate about a well-coiffed man. Do you think women prefer this type to the rugged, disheveled kind? —J.T., Bluefield, W. Va.

● If a man is effectively manicured and coiffed, no one will really notice because his nails and hair won't attract undue attention. Instead, they'll contribute to an overall appearance of naturalness and good looks. There's nothing effeminate about that. Concerning preferences, research shows that while women may fantasize a bit over the caveman type, they prefer trim, well-groomed bodies and minds to settle down with.

Should Immigration To The U.S. Be Curtailed To Protect Jobs?

PRO Melanie Wirken, Immigration Project, Zero Population Growth

The inadequate enforcement of U.S. immigration laws has allowed hundreds of thousands of immigrants annually to enter the country illegally in search of jobs. The precise effect of illegal immigration on domestic unemployment is unknown, but certain assumptions appear reasonable. Workers willing to work for less and under inferior conditions can be expected to 1) compete with American workers, 2) hold down wage rates and 3) delay an upgrading of work conditions. Rather than neglecting the effect of immigration on unemployment, resources and population growth, U.S. immigration policy must be reformed within this broader context.

CON Sen. Edward Kennedy (D.-Mass.)

Most legal immigrants come here to be reunited with their families. The annual influx is very small — less than a quarter of 1 percent of our population, and less than 50 percent of the new arrivals seek jobs. Such numbers have little impact on the country's vast labor market. If anything, immigration today is an economic good as it has been in the past. Some immigrants are investors. Some bring needed special skills. All are consumers. These factors help create jobs and strengthen our economy. However, illegal immigration does depress certain sectors of the economy. Something more must be done to resolve this serious problem.

RICHARD BURTON TALKS ABOUT HIS STORMY PAST AND FUTURE HOPES

For years his personal life was a shambles and most of his work, he says, was "rubbish," but his performance in Equus is a resounding signal that a great actor is back.

By Patricia Baum

Wherever Richard Burton goes, the waters still part. Even in the most elegant and conservative Beverly Hills hotel, long used to hosting superstars and royalty, heads turn, eyes ogle and both classy guests and blasé staff buzz with excitement. "His eyes are so green," gushes an elevator girl. "He's still so handsome," exclaims another.

After spending some time with Richard Burton, one soon understands the reasons for all the attention. The imposing figure, strong face and resonant voice that made him a matinee idol are all marvelously intact after 52 years. But more important, a forceful, personal magnetism gives Burton a commanding presence and makes the very air about him crackle with electricity. At the same time, however, beneath the impressive surface, Burton is sensitive and as fallible as the rest of us.

He admits, for instance, that he suffers from self-doubt. Until his recent stage comeback in Equus, in which he portrays a psychiatrist treating a stable boy who has blinded six horses, he feared he had lost his ability to hold the attention of an audience. Before he stepped onto the Broadway stage that first night, after an absence of some 12 years, he recalls with a shudder, "I was more scared than in my entire life. I was trembling and perspiring all over. But the minute I walked out onstage, I knew I still had the power and breathed a secret sigh of relief."

In fact, Burton considers Equus a major turning point in his life. It was about that time that he finally ended the tempestuous marriage to Liz Taylor and settled into a less flamboyant existence with a new wife, former model Susan Hunt (see cover). His success in the play (he repeats this role to critical acclaim in the new film based on the play) prompted him to focus more on the theater.

Burton never was your typical struggling young actor. Although the son of a poor Welsh coal miner, his unique gifts — the deep voice, dynamic vigor and immense authority — brought quick success on the London and New York stage and resounding praise from critics. Burton, it was said, was the dramatic heir to Laurence Olivier, destined to become the greatest actor in the English-speaking world. But after marrying Elizabeth Taylor in 1964, he was bitterly accused of squandering his talent and swapping theatrical respect for quick movie celebrity and the good life. His stage work dwindled as his film fees zoomed to $1 million per picture. Although a few movies, such as The Spy Who Came in from the Cold and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?, matched his magnificent abilities, the joint ventures with Liz for the most part were second-rate.

For all his commanding manner, Burton recalls the criticism with obvious pain. "I was so taken aback by it at first," he confesses, "that my acting was not up to par. Finally, I had to stop reading about myself altogether." In fact, for more than a decade, he claims, he has not seen any articles about himself, and he bristles still in defending his career: "Yes, I've made some splendidly monstrous films, but everyone must do some rubbish. I needed films to increase my scope. The stage can be very inhibiting."

How does he feel about the enormous amounts of money he's made? By his own estimate, he's taken in more than $20 million over the years. "I used to be horrified," he says, "by the immorality of receiving an absolutely huge amount for an absurd bit of work. But I've come to believe that it's not so unfair. I've given large sums to charity. And I've paid a high personal price in the loss of privacy."

He seems to have resigned himself, however, to accepting this attention. He had hoped that with Susan he could at last enjoy a real personal life. But he now knows that is not possible because the public relentlessly continues to stalk him.

"The commotion over me was a strain on our marriage at first," he says. "Elizabeth, having been a star since childhood, understood it, but Susan didn't, and she thought I was some kind of freak."

Even more troublesome is the constant threat of danger, for his high living and relationships with beautiful women have incited much envy and hatred. "My worst fears," he explains gloomily, "have been the kidnapping of my children [two by first wife Sybil and Liz's four, whom he looks on as his own] and having acid thrown in my face." Sometime ago, onstage in Toronto, he was convinced the latter would really occur. "I was standing in front of the footlights about to deliver a curtain speech," he says dramatically, "and this woman charged up the aisle with a cup in her hand. I thought, Oh, my God, here it comes. But it turned out all she wanted was my autograph."

Then, during the Equus run in New York, he was threatened with assassination. Had it happened — despite the heavy security — Burton, forever the thespian, had his death line all planned: "I would have said, 'It is the hazard of my profession.' Very Elizabethan, was it not?"

Burton's struggle for safety and privacy has forced him over the years into unwanted isolation. He argues convincingly that his fame and wealth, instead of making him free, have placed "a bar on my window. Even now I rarely attend parties. When I'm not working I'll go for months seeing just my family and staying at my homes in Switzerland and Antigua. I am no longer able to relate to ordinary people. Even if I try to be very natural with them, they can't be with me. Happily my sanity is saved by my many brothers and sisters who couldn't care less how famous I am."

Part of the problem with his marriage to Elizabeth Taylor, Burton now concedes, was his heavy drinking. "I had a glass in my hand from the time I arose to the time I went to bed," he says. "I was fairly sloshed for several years and had a perpetual hangover."

The constant boozing not only infuriated Liz but also affected his work: "My lines became slurred and my timing was off." The booze threatened his very life, too, and when a physical exam revealed an enlarged liver and doctors gave him two weeks to live, he swore off alcohol except for an occasional drink at family celebrations.

Once sobered up, Burton reconciled with Liz and they remarried. But, after some months, they divorced again because, according to Burton, "we finally realized that we both have intensely forceful personalities that clash and that it's impossible to live together." Still, Burton is clearly fond of his former wife. "Thirteen years is a long time," he says softly. "Elizabeth and I speak often, and I would be happy to work with her again."

Despite three divorces, Burton expresses high hopes for his marriage to Susan and speaks glowingly of her. "Of course, I was reluctant to wed again after so many failures," he explains. "Then, too, Susan is 22 years younger than me. But I found her so fascinating I knew the marriage would last. She's intelligent, well bred and an accomplished pianist. Above all, she has blazing honesty. She cannot lie. If there's one thing I can fault her for, it's her tardiness. But then Elizabeth was the all-time winner for that."

He's equally optimistic about his career. Although he once believed he worked simply for money, "I've discovered that I too have been bitten by the bug. I am dedicated to my profession. Onstage I've changed my performances nightly to keep myself alive. And I've vastly improved my acting over the years by simplifying it to the least movement and sound and becoming less obvious. With my upcoming work in the theater and some challenging new films, I can go even further."

Perhaps far enough to assume someday the mantle of Olivier. But Burton does not need that honor to be happy. "I have so much to be grateful for," he says. "I've never been out of work or out of love. I've done such a gamut of plays and films and had so much excitement that I couldn't possibly ask for a more fulfilling life."

REWARD YOURSELF FOR POSITIVE BEHAVIOR

A painless way to overcome time-wasting habits is to give your ego the praise and compensation it needs.

By Edwin C. Bliss

We go through life distributing rewards: a morsel to our dog when he performs a trick, a tip to the waitress who serves us promptly, a treat to the child who gets an outstanding report card, a hug for the spouse who gives us a gift.

In fact, we are generous in rewarding everyone except the one person who is most important to each of us — ourselves.

For many, the concept of rewarding oneself for a desired action seems contrived. But behavioral scientists tell us it is one of the most effective ways of altering our own behavior. If you would like to change some of your habits (and who wouldn't?), try using some self-bestowed rewards. In my work as a time management consultant, I have found this an excellent technique for helping clients overcome time-wasting habits. It often succeeds where willpower cannot.

The first step in setting up a reward system is to focus on a single habit you want to establish and to decide what specific action constitutes "success." In other words, don't resolve to reward yourself for being more prompt or for not procrastinating. Desirable as these goals may be, they are not specific enough to serve as rewardable objectives. Instead, select such actions as being at your desk at 8:00 A.M. sharp or starting your day with the most unpleasant task you have to do or setting up a more efficient system for record-keeping. The reward must be tied to a particular action, not to a character trait, even though character is what you hope to influence in the long run.

Second, recognize that there is usually no relationship between the magnitude of a reward and its effectiveness. Trivial things such as a stick of gum can be more useful than a fur coat in providing an incentive for changing habits because they permit frequent rewards for small successes, and that is the key to behavior change. The fur coat, however desirable, cannot serve as an immediate reward for each of the little steps one must take toward the ultimate goal.

Of course, a major reward, such as a fur coat, a car or a vacation, can motivate one toward important goals, but when the purpose is to change a habit, small but frequent rewards are far more effective. The point is to reinforce each small success and thus "shape" behavior.

Self-rewards can take many forms: a snack, a cup of coffee, a drink of water, a five-minute break, a short walk, an afternoon of goofing off, a moment to freshen up, reading time, a period of window-shopping, a haircut, time to play the piano or listen to music, an exercise break or permission from yourself to purchase some necessity (such as a shirt) or some luxury (such as a piece of jewelry). A reward also can be a nap, a bath, perhaps even extra television-viewing. Even the doing of a small chore can be used as a reward if it is something you would like to finish.

And, although tangible rewards are generally the most effective, you also can reward yourself mentally. Simply give yourself a mental pat on the back for each small accomplishment. Everyone reacts favorably to praise, and your subconscious mind doesn't care whether that praise comes from another party or from yourself. Lay it on a bit thick when you've succeeded in achieving even one small step toward your goal. Silly as it sounds, it not only builds self-esteem but also reinforces the appropriate behavior.

A second method of mental reinforcement, developed by Joseph R. Cautela, professor of psychology at Boston College, involves imagining yourself doing the thing you want to reinforce, and then imagining yourself getting an appropriate reward. Repeating this process over and over again can reinforce your tendency to perform the desired action.

Whatever method you use, whatever reward you select, remember that any action that is followed immediately by a pleasant event tends to be repeated and that you can put this truth to work in shaping your own behavior.

THE WARNING SIGNS OF TEENAGE SUICIDE

There are several, and if parents recognize them quickly and know how to act with good judgment, they could prevent a tragedy.

By Nancy Naglin

Gail was a quiet high-school junior. She was a good student, had lots of friends and was treasurer of Junior Achievement. But three weeks before her seventeenth birthday, she said good night to her parents and, withdrawing to her room, consumed a private cache of sleeping pills. She survived. Other young people are not as lucky.

"Suicide among young people aged 15 to 24 has increased in epidemic proportions," says Dr. Ari Kiev, a psychiatrist at Cornell Medical School.

Suicide is now the second-leading cause of death after accidents among the country's young people, up from fifth place only five years ago.

To find out what's going wrong and why, FAMILY WEEKLY asked the experts. "There's much more pressure placed on young people to participate in activities before they are ready," says Dr. Kiev.

"It's harder to grow up in this culture," says Dr. Herbert Hendin, director of psychosocial studies at the Center for Policy Research in New York City. Young people have to make wiser choices at an earlier age, as well as make sense of changing sex roles. But sex alone isn't responsible.

"The family," adds Dr. Kiev, "has been undermined by such perplexities as a rising divorce rate, high mobility, fragmented structure of communities and the impact of the Vietnam years weakening goal-directed behavior."

Then there are the pressures of approaching maturity and taking responsibility for one's life and career. "Suicide among people 15 to 24," says Dr. Hendin, "is affected by how they feel about life when starting out on their own. Many young people believe they won't be able to shape their lives."

Who are the kids in trouble, and how can you spot them? Dr. Hendin cautions: "Worry about the kids 15, 16 and 17 years old who are alone, sitting in their rooms listening to rock music, not talking to anybody and not getting into trouble. The most seriously suicidal kids have stopped complaining. They only complain through their suicide attempts."

Dr. Hendin describes these young people as "deadened or numbed" to life. They may be outwardly cheerful and cooperative, but they have already adopted death as a defense against life. What do they have in common?

- Much isolation and loneliness in their lives.
- Contacts with people don't touch them deeply.
- Using work as a barrier against life, although it is often a pleasureless preoccupation.

When do you become alarmed? "When a kid is on a suicidal course, you may hear some subtle, philosophical statements about what it's all about," warns Dr. Kiev. Always take these comments seriously. He suggests you also be alert to:

- Intense withdrawal
- Outspoken unhappiness
- Disturbances in appetite or sleep
- Loss of interest in sports
- Marked decline in school performance
- Giving away meaningful objects
- Any mention of suicide, even in a joking or lighthearted way.

"Nothing is ever lost by trying to talk," advises Dr. Hendin. "The biggest problem with people who are feeling down," points out Dr. Kiev, "is that they don't think people understand."

It's much better to try to be reassuring than to preach. Dr. Kiev advises being accessible and reasonable. "I know you're feeling down and in time it will get better," is a much better approach, he says, than "snap out of it," which is a put-down.

Adolescence is a time of depression, but no matter how hopeless or self-defeated a young person may feel, strong family support can help deter most who are on a disaster course.

OF AUTHENTICITY
(Double your money back guarantee)

Your Rubies and Emeralds come with a Certificate of Authenticity, your assurance and guarantee that the Emerald is mined in South America, the Ruby mined in Pakistan, each absolutely genuine, fully facet-cut and hand-polished in India, laboratory tested by a World Wide Gemstone Company with offices in New York, Milan, Bombay, Bangkok, Hong Kong, Tokyo and Switzerland. If anyone, any jeweler or appraiser, can prove your Ruby or Emerald is not genuine, not exactly as represented, return the pendant with his signed statement and we will cheerfully send you TWICE the advertised price.

We are in the business of buying and selling precious gemstones. In many instances, we deal directly with the mines of South America, Africa, and Asia. We have dealt with these mines for two generations. During this period, our purchases have amounted to many, many millions of dollars. Occasionally, we pay "cash on the spot" if the price of a valuable collection is attractively low. With offices throughout the world, we also pay for precious gemstones in international currency if it's advantageous to use either U.S. Dollars, Swiss or French Francs, Japanese Yen, etc.

We buy and sell Rubies and Emeralds that cost many thousands of dollars per carat (for the ultra-rich) to less valuable genuine Rubies and Emeralds (for average income individuals). But regardless of the intrinsic value of the precious stones we purchase, our experience and generations of dealing in genuine stones is your assurance that our genuine Rubies and Emeralds are the finest and best value in any price category.

The most important message we wish to convey to you is that the Rubies and Emeralds offered to you—here and now—is that each Ruby... each Emerald... is Genuine... not Fake... not Glass... not Simulated. Each stone is Individually Handcut and Polished for the most possible brilliance, clarity, beauty and value—by highly talented Indian and Pakistan craftsmen.

DIAMONDS ARE A GIRL'S BEST FRIEND YET, RUBIES AND EMERALDS ARE CONSIDERED RARER... MORE VALUABLE THAN DIAMONDS

There is no question that diamonds are precious, valuable and popular with most people... but did you know that Rubies and Emeralds in corresponding size and quality exceed the value of Diamonds?

Leading Precious Gemstone Authorities have stated this throughout the ages ... including the Encyclopedia Brittanica. Rubies and Emeralds are considered among the rarest gemstones known to man. For instance, 10-carat Diamonds are more often found than a 10-carat Ruby of equal quality.

Rubies and Emeralds have been desired, bought and collected by Cleopatra, Alexander the Great, Kings and Queens of ancient and modern day, such as Catherine of Russia, the King of Sweden and the Shah of Iran. Wealthy collectors of precious stones consider them their most prized possession.

Your Ruby or Emerald is personally yours, as no two are alike. Weight may vary by fractions.

And Now! Believe it or Not! You, too, may be the proud possessor of beautiful, handcut and polished, precious, Genuine Rubies or Emeralds. Your very own two-carat Genuine Gemstones to buy and save as an important collection. Or you may have your very own Emerald or Ruby Pendant, each stone individually mounted on a Tiffany Setting of Hamilton Gold with matching 18-inch chain.

ORDER NOW AND SAVE UP TO 50% AS COMPARED TO OTHER ADVERTISED OFFERS

You may have seen other advertisements offering one-carat Emeralds and Rubies at $10 per carat. Our price is up to 50% less. As low as $5 per carat if you order our pouchful of 12, two-carat Rubies and Emeralds (a total of 24 carats). Or, we offer a TWO-CARAT genuine Emerald or Ruby for only $14 (only $7 per carat). If you desire, your TWO-CARAT Emerald or Ruby will be hand-mounted on a Tiffany Setting Pendant of Hamilton Gold with matching 18 inch chain for only an additional charge of $3.95 (practically our cost) or a total price of only $16.95. This Fantastic Price Slash for Genuine Rubies or Emeralds is made possible because we want you as a totally satisfied customer who may buy other valuable jewelry from us at a tremendous saving.

90-DAY MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

Enjoy your Genuine Rubies or Emeralds for three full months without risk or obligation. Your Pendant must be every bit as beautiful as you hoped, it must also bring you the raves, the praise from your friends, that you'd get wearing the most expensive, high-fashion gemstones. Otherwise, return your purchase to us for a full refund anytime within 90 days. This is an absolutely risk-free, no-obligation offer.

WHY LOCAL JEWELERS OR DEPARTMENT STORES CANNOT EQUAL OUR LOW PRICES

We buy our genuine gemstones direct from the source who deals directly with the Mine Owners and the Craftsmen that handcut and polish these precious stones. We buy these gemstones in great quantities to satisfy the demand created by our National advertising on TV, Magazines and National Weekly Papers.

Local Department Stores and Jewelers would have to buy the same category of gemstones through salesmen, wholesalers and importers. The quantities they buy can only be equal to the traffic generated by the store in each local community. We cannot vouch for the mark-up of each local store but the difference in retail price for the same merchandise can be substantial. On the other hand, our Genuine Rubies and Emeralds are so beautiful, you'd swear they cost $150 to $200 in a local jewelry or department store.

If your child is a poor reader

–see how phonics can help him

Try it at our risk– for two weeks!

See how your child can learn to read better and spell better in just a few weeks with records that teach him by phonics, at home! Mail Free Trial Coupon below.

Would you like to see your child gain as much as a full year's grade in reading in as little as six weeks' time? These are results parents have seen again and again with this simple home-tutoring course in reading.

Mrs. J. J. Webb, Napa, Cal. writes: "After sending my 10 year old son to Special Reading School at $12.50 per hour, spending $700 on this tutoring, I saw your ad and sent for The Sound Way to Easy Reading. In only 8 weeks he learned more from your course than from his Special Reading School. I am thrilled to see how well he reads."

Mrs. J. J. Webb is only one of over 200,000 parents who have turned to The Sound Way of Easy Reading for help in the frustrating problem of a child who can't read. And more than 26,000 schools use it.

Teaches with records

Don't think it's all your child's fault if he hasn't learned to read. Many of our brightest children are not able to grasp the "look-and-say" method taught in most schools today. Yet, many educators insist that at least 40% of our children must have formal training in phonics—that they will never master reading without it!

That is why so many poor readers show remarkable progress with The Sound Way to Easy Reading. It teaches reading by the phonics method (the method by which most parents learned to read years ago). Its phonograph records and charts show your child exactly what to do, so he can teach himself without any help from you.

The records drill him in the sounds of the 26 letters in the alphabet and their blends. Once he learns the 123 basic phonics sounds in this course he can read up to 85% of the words in the English language. It works for children of all ages—in the earliest grades, and even in high school.

Tested and proved

In a pilot study by university psychologists, children gained up to a full year's grade in oral reading skill after only 30 lessons with The Sound Way to Easy Reading.

A semester-long study involving 214 pupils in 4 Chicago schools proved that the classes given The Sound Way to Easy Reading showed marked improvement in reading and spelling over the control groups.

Help your child now

By starting your child on The Sound Way to Easy Reading now, you can change his entire attitude toward school—turn his sense of failure into the joy of sucess. Try it free for two weeks. You send no money—just mail this coupon now!

USED BY 200,000 PARENTS who send many letters like these:

Advanced two years—"Your course has made my son want to read. No more frustration with words he doesn't know, he just concentrates and sounds them out. In 7 months, Steve's reading level advanced two years."
Mrs. R. Collins, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Better report cards—"If I had known about your course before, Gregory would not have had to repeat 3rd grade. In only 7 weeks, he reads and spells much better, and is bringing home better report cards."
Mrs. R. Quinn, Cheektowaga, N.Y.

IN 26,000 SCHOOLS
teachers are highly enthusiastic

Second grade—"Your course is the best teaching aid a teacher could have. I have been using it for the past 2 years for my basic second grade reading course. My class looks forward to the record quizzes. Their improvement in reading and spelling has been outstanding."
Mrs. Diane Williamson, Chickasaw, Ala.

Remarkable improvement—"I have seen my remedial groups advance 1½ to 2½ levels in reading in 6 months and show 85% to 90% improvement in spelling. A low achievement 6th grade group showed remarkable improvement. I have convinced many teachers in our school to use your course."

Amazing "Burn-fat-by-the-hour" program
Developed by Doctors at Boston Medical School

BURNS AWAY MORE FAT EACH 24 HOURS THAN IF YOU RAN 14 MILES A DAY!

Incredible "Crash-Loss" Breakthrough Reported in Reader's Digest Works So Fast You Can Actually Measure the Difference In Your Waistline In Just 24 to 48 Hours!

Yes, LOSE up to 6 POUNDS the first 48 HOURS — LOSE up to 12 POUNDS the first 7 days — LOSE up to 4, 5, even 7 POUNDS MORE the next 7 days — and continue to burn away as much as 7 to 9 pounds more fat every 2 weeks thereafter, (if you still need it) . . . until you've finally lost 50 – 70 – 100 pounds OR MORE . . . without fasting, without constant willpower, without constant pangs of hunger or a single moment of body-racking exercise!

Recommended by the U.S. Government's very own doctors to members of Congress who want to lose weight fast . . . Hailed as the weight-loss "breakthrough of the century" by leading medical journals . . . here at last is the most effective NO-DRUG program for FAST – INSTANT – PERMANENT LIFETIME WEIGHT-LOSS ever made available to the public without a prescription!

WORKS SO FAST THE FIRST WEEK ALONE YOU LOSE AS MUCH AS 1½ TO 2 POUNDS OF BOTH FLUID AND FAT EVERY 24 HOURS!

Direct from the pages of the N.Y. Times and Reader's Digest comes reports of an incredible "fat burning" breakthrough by medical researchers at one of Boston's foremost medical schools! Reports of a new "crash-loss" program (featuring a remarkable natural substance) that safely yet surely steps up FAT-BURNING METABOLISM . . . forces your system to ATTACK bulging pockets of fat . . . and starts to shrink and burn that fat in just a matter of hours!

Yes, from one of New England's leading medical centers comes the new SUPER FAT-BURNER way to turn up your "inner furnace" . . . unlock those clinging pockets of fat . . . break them down SO FAST . . . you burn off excess bulge at the unbelievable rate of up to 6 POUNDS of both fluid and fat GONE the very first weekend alone!

Think of it! You actually burn away more fat each 24 hours than if you ran 12 to 14 miles a day! Lose more inches each week than if you did 300 sit-ups each morning and 300 push-ups each night! Actually LOSE as much as A FULL SIZE THE FIRST 7 DAYS . . . and from 3 to 5 inches off your waistline the very first month!

That's right! Weight-loss results and inches-off wonders that absolutely stagger the imagination. Just look:

U.S. ARMY OFFICERS LOSE WEIGHT 3 TIMES FASTER THAN EVER BEFORE!

Case History #1: When medical researchers in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Los Angeles first tested this new hi-amino concept on a scientific weight-loss program . . . they reported astonishing results of as much as 12 POUNDS LOST IN JUST THE FIRST 7 DAYS! – 16 to 18 pounds gone by the end of week number two – and most mind-boggling of all – U.S. Army Officers actually losing weight 3 times faster than ever before! As much as 50 POUNDS GONE, like that!

WAISTLINES SHRINK UP TO 3 INCHES IN 7 DAYS — A FULL 5 INCHES SMALLER IN A SINGLE MONTH!

Case History #2: When first rumors of this medical breakthrough leaked out to professional actors, actresses and celebrities . . . they immediately rushed to the offices of America's leading weight-loss specialists to get their hands on this "magic compound"; and no wonder! Because the first week alone they carved away as much as 2 pounds a day . . . 13 pounds a week . . . were forced to take in their belts 3 notches smaller in just 10 days!

DOCTORS REPORT: AVERAGE LOSS — 57 POUNDS!

Case History #3: But most significant of all . . . when universities, hospitals and medical schools, (such as New York's Leading Medical School and Cleveland's largest hospital) tested this newly discovered "crash-loss program" on patients who all their lives had been hopelessly overweight . . . they reported astonishing losses of as much as 2 pounds a day at the start . . . 20 to 30 pounds a month . . . as much as 70 pounds lost over a single summer season! – by simply stepping up their fat-burning metabolism and burning, melting, oxidizing 50, 70, 100 pounds of hard-set fat . . . FASTER, SURER than they had ever dreamed possible!

WORKS LIKE "POWDERED HEAT" — MAKES YOUR INNER FURNACE BREAK DOWN BODY FAT!

What is this wondrous new development that helps safely stimulate fat-burning metabolism and shrink your body's fat cells the moment it starts working in your system? It is a totally new concept in the war against fat. An ANTI-FAT WEAPON unlike anything you've ever seen, or tried in your life. A FAT-BURNING aid that helps you convert body fat to body fuel AUTOMATICALLY . . . and EVAPORATE excess pounds and inches starting the very first day!

Think of it! A medically proven formula that is such an effective reducing aid . . . that when combined with the food you eat on this "crash-loss" program . . . burns off as much fat each 24 hours as if you jogged up to 14 miles a day . . . or played 3 hours of tennis in the most brutal heat!

The name of this wondrous amino formula is "THERA-SLIM-100" and here is precisely how you use it to win the body and figure of your dreams as you:

LOSE* UP TO 4 TO 6 INCHES OFF YOUR WAISTLINE

LOSE* UP TO 2 TO 5 INCHES OFF YOUR HIPS

LOSE* UP TO 3 INCHES OFF YOUR THIGHS

LOSE* UP TO 4 INCHES OFF YOUR BUTTOCKS

LOSE* UP TO 4 INCHES OFF YOUR STOMACH

and as we've said before, starting not in weeks, but in mere days.

HELPS YOUR BODY CONVERT STORED UP FAT TO BURNED UP ENERGY!

At this very moment – having read this far – you are but one short step away from LIFETIME IMMUNITY TO FAT! Now comes your FINAL GIANT STEP into a whole new world of LIFETIME SLIMNESS.

Of course, there is one thing you must keep in mind. With the "THERA-SLIM-100" way to LIFETIME SLIMNESS you cannot gorge yourself on all sorts of fattening foods, candies and desserts. Not that you'd ever want to, because with "THERA-SLIM-100" – due to your new, stepped up metabolism – besides enormous weight-loss you also experience a loss of hunger. Which makes it one of the easiest ways to lose weight fast. Now here's how simple it is:

STEP #1 – YOU EAT

In addition to the wide and tasty selection of food you enjoy morning and night, (all scientifically programmed to help maintain a high-level of FAT-BURN-OFF) . . .

STEP #2 – YOU TAKE "THERA-SLIM-100" hi amino compound.

Once a day, you take "THERA-SLIM-100" in a glass of water, (just like refreshing fruit juice). This hi-amino intake helps keep the fat-burning chain reaction going ALL 24 HOURS OF THE DAY – NON STOP!

STEP #3 – YOU HAVE AUTOMATICALLY STEPPED UP YOUR FAT-BURNING METABOLISM – SO YOU AUTOMATICALLY BURN OFF EXCESS WEIGHT!

In virtually no time at all, you make your inner furnace accelerate fat burn-off. Safely, gently, yet surely you cause a gradual change in your fat-burning metabolism as you "rev-up" that inner furnace.

The result: Your body begins to eliminate stored-up fat and fluid at a rate so incredibly fast, the very first weekend alone YOU DRAIN AWAY AS MUCH AS 5 OR 6 POUNDS!

In short, with the "THERA-SLIM-100" weight-loss program, you force your body to automatically convert body fat to body fuel . . . automatically shrink fatty cells . . . drain off excess flab . . . flush it right out of your system ONCE AND FOR ALL!

Never before has medical science offered you a surer, faster, more effective weight-loss method, (short of total fasting) than this super fat-burning breakthrough development at one of Boston's Leading Medical Schools.

THE FACTS ARE IN! THE RESEARCH IS DONE! THE INCREDIBLE WEIGHT-SLASHING RESULTS HAVE BEEN PROVEN BEYOND A SHADOW OF A DOUBT BY MEDICAL SCHOOLS — HOSPITALS — DOCTORS — AND SCORES AND SCORES OF OVERWEIGHT PATIENTS! NOW THE FINAL STEP IS UP TO YOU!

REMEMBER: You must see dramatic results in just 24 hours – results you can measure with both your scale and your tape measure . . . you must lose:

up to 6 lbs. the first 48 hours

up to 12 lbs. the first 7 days

up to 7 lbs. more the next 7 days or it costs you nothing! Simply return within 10 days for full refund (except postage and handling, of course). Act now!

IF YOU READ NOTHING ELSE — READ THIS!

What you see on this page is the announcement of the latest breakthrough by medical science in the war against fat. Developed at one of Boston's leading medical schools, the incredible weight-loss results this new "crash-burn" program delivers are so astonishing (average loss 57 lbs.) it has been featured in every leading medical journal . . . given headline coverage in such outstanding publications as Reader's Digest and the New York Times, to mention just a few. Aside from — ABSOLUTE STARVATION — there is no surer, faster, more effective way to slash away pounds and inches than with this Boston Medical School discovery.

However, before starting we advise you to consult with your physician to be sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. Individuals with gout, heart disease, diabetes or pregnant women should not use it at all. As a matter of fact, we insist that you show this entire program to your family physician . . . have him check you regularly to make sure you're not losing too much, too fast . . . and advise when you've lost enough. See if he doesn't agree that the "THERA-SLIM-100" road to Lifetime Slimness, including the recommended progressive daily tonsup, isn't by far the most effective approach to the conquest of obesity ever developed by medical science.

THE DOCTOR AND YOU

A COMPUTER X-RAY THAT COULD SAVE YOUR LIFE

AS&E

CAT-scanning has nothing to do with cats. Instead, it is a new way of taking X-rays, a method so good it promises to be the most important advance in diagnostic medicine since the development of the X-ray itself. CAT-scanning stands for computer-assisted tomography, and tomography is an X-ray technique that shows a picture of a site through the body at a given depth. The computer is used to bring out the details of this picture.

Think of CAT-scanning this way. Suppose you had a loaf of raisin bread and wanted to count and locate the raisins. You would slice the bread into little sections and then count and diagram the raisins as they appeared in the slices. CAT-scanning does the same for the body. The X-ray passes through the body at a given depth, and, when the picture is developed, it shows what that section through the body looks like, just as you would see the raisins in a slice of bread.

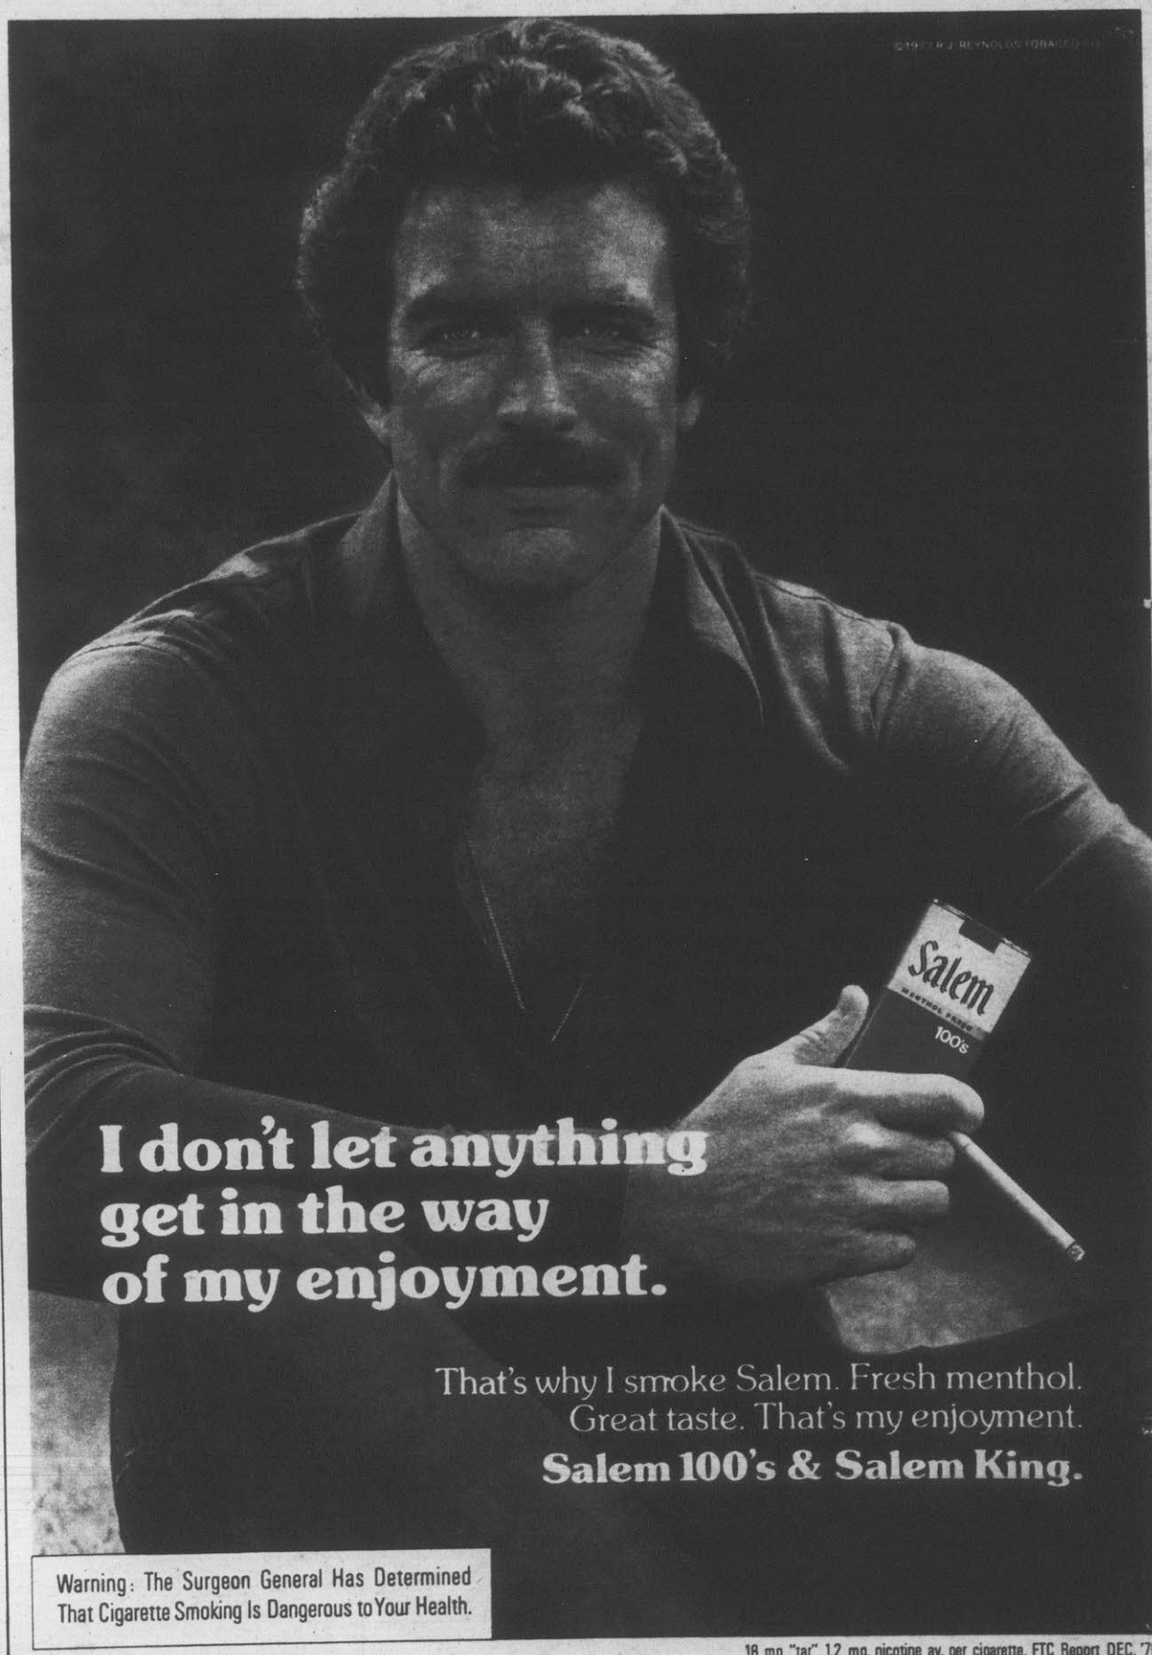

What is new in this process is the use of a computer, which can see and record much more subtle differences in an X-ray than can the human eye. It also can store this material and return it in different patterns. So by using the computer to assist the X-ray, the pictures produced contain much greater detail than ever before, enabling doctors to pick out in the brain or the chest an abnormality about the size of a pinhead.

Here's how the examination works. First, the patient is positioned so that he cannot move. (CAT-scanning is a slow procedure, and even the slightest movement will blur the picture.) Then the X-ray beam is passed through the head of the patient in the usual fashion. But instead of the X-ray being caught on a film, it is picked up by sensitive crystal detectors. These, in turn, transmit electrical impulses to the computer, which is programmed to analyze and store this information. Next the computer prepares an image of the slice it has seen through the skull and projects that image onto a cathode ray tube, like the tube in a TV set. For a permanent record, this picture can be photographed. By taking a series of these pictures, doctors can find abnormalities in the patient. Recent advances in scanner technology permit the system to be used not only for the skull, which is motionless, but also for the chest and abdomen, which move a little with breathing. Here, the patient is put on an examination table, and the scanner moves around the patient, taking a continuous series of scans of the entire body.

Although CAT-scanning produces very detailed and helpful pictures, the method does expose the patient to many times more X-ray than does the conventional X-ray machine. CAT-scanning will therefore continue to be used with great care and will not become part of the annual checkup in the near future.

CAT-scanning equipment also is expensive, the units costing upwards of $500,000. There are additional costs for installation and for training the technicians who operate the machines and the doctors who interpret the findings. This cost will make it impossible for every community to have CAT-scanners at first. But over the next few years, CAT-scanning should become a readily available addition to the arsenal in the war against disease.

CLEAR YOUR COMPLEXION IN TIME FOR THE HOLIDAYS!

See why over 700,000 families have switched to ACNE-STATIN!

"ACNE? Our girls got lasting help with Acne-Statin®"

Pat Boone and his daughter Debbie.

"With four daughters, we've tried the leading acne medications at our house, and nothing ever seemed to work until our girls met a Beverly Hills doctor and got some real help through a product she developed called 'Acne-Statin'."

The doctor explained that a bacteria called "C-Acne" located deep in the pores of the skin breaks the oil in the pores into Fatty Acids. The pores become blocked and irritated, resulting in blemishes, blackheads, whiteheads and pimples.

WHAT MAKES ACNE-STATIN SO DIFFERENT?

The doctor went on to say that many medications only attack acne at the surface level by attempting to dry-up the oil. Usually this is ineffective against Acne, and only irritates, dries and peels the skin. ACNE-STATIN goes right to the root of the problem. It liquifies at body temperature and deposits an anti-bacterial agent that kills bacteria on contact, and keeps on killing bacteria hours after each washing. The photographs below dramatically demonstrate Acne-Statin's continual effectiveness compared to the ineffectiveness of soap.

WHAT ABOUT SENSITIVE SKIN?

Debbie said that even when she leaves it on overnight it doesn't irritate or dry her skin. Dr. Karr explained that it is hypo-allergenic and that it contains a moisturizer. So it leaves even sensitive skin moist and soft with NO PEELING. REGARDLESS OF AGE or sex, Acne-Statin helps control skin irritations from occasional blemishes to chronic acne.

DR. ATIDA KARR's genuine concern for skin care was as impressive to me as her credentials. In addition to being an M.D. she also has an M.S. in Physiology and a Ph.D. in Cellular Physiology and Biochemistry. For five years she was involved in cancer research at the University of Pennsylvania under a federal grant.

Equally impressive were the letters she had received from youth and adults alike who had received significant help with Acne-Statin. HERE ARE EXCERPTS from two of those letters. The first one is from an editor of one of the nation's leading fashion magazines.

"Thank you for recommending your fabulous product. I have literally tried everything on the market, plus some of my own home remedies and have spent hundreds, in fact probably thousands of dollars on treatments, facials and the like and nothing has ever really cleared up my skin, much less left it in good condition. That's why I can't believe that such a pleasant lotion-like cleanser and treatment like Acne-Statin could work as thoroughly as it did. It really is fantastic. It's the only thing that has ever worked."

"Being 25 and having had occasional acne for the past 10 years, I have tried almost every commercial and prescription product, and the results have varied. Since using your Acne-Statin, for the first time I have a clear complexion. As an actress, it is necessary that I have my skin clear. My blemishes are completely gone. Not just on the surface, but all traces of infection have disappeared. My skin has reached a balanced condition."

SEE THE DIFFERENCE

In these microscopic photographs, each tiny "bubble" is a COLONY of millions of bacteria. Slide A is part of a facial culture taken eight hours after washing with soap. As you can see there are still countless bacterial colonies. Slide B shows a culture of the same facial area a full eight hours after washing with Acne-Statin. Acne-Statin kills bacteria on contact, and keeps on killing bacteria hours after each washing.

WHAT IN THE WORLD

Danger In Your Faucet

Hundreds of people are needlessly burned each year because the hot-water thermostats in their homes are set at too high a temperature.

"I doubt that 1 out of 10 households knows the temperature of the water that comes out of their faucets," says Dr. Donald D. Trunkey, head of San Francisco General Hospital's burn center. He points out that 156°F. can produce a full-thickness (3rd-degree) burn in 1 second.

Where should you set your thermostat? Although many adults prefer 160°F. or more to insure hot showers, these temperatures are extremely dangerous, especially to children (or elderly people) unable to control the mixing of hot and cold water. Dr. Trunkey says 130°F. is adequate for most purposes. (You can check your water temperature by taking a reading under the faucet with a candy thermometer.)

To minimize danger to children, Dr. Trunkey reminds parents not to leave them unattended in the bathtub where "there are knobs within easy reach."

And be wary of hot water outside the house. An investigation by Medical World News of water temperature in hotels and hospitals found several exceeding the recommended limits.

Protecting Your Property

Even if your trees aren't quite as old as Maryland's 400-year-old Wye Oak (above), they can turn into money trees.

Many homeowners don't realize that the sudden destruction of their trees or plants may entitle them to an insurance claim as well as a tax deduction. In recognition of the importance and functional value of trees, insurance companies are raising the limits of claims for trees under homeowners' policies and, as a result, increasing numbers of people are calling in professionals to appraise their holdings.

According to Dr. L.C. Chadwick, emeritus prof. of horticulture at Ohio State Univ., more appraisals are done for the average homeowner than in special cases.

Then if the tree is suddenly damaged or must be removed, it will have more than sentimental value.

Shopping By Mail

Shopping by mail can mean variety without headaches if you follow these suggestions:

- Check the company's reputation before placing an order if you have any doubt about its product. The simplest way is to contact the Better Business Bureau nearest the company.
- Don't rely solely on a picture. Read the description of the item carefully, noting such details as size, weight and color.
- Keep a record of your order, including date, company name, address and phone number.
- Give explicit instructions with your order. Include your full address and specify if a substitute item is not acceptable.
- Look for a company policy on returning merchandise. If you don't see one, write and ask what it is.
- Don't overlook shipping charges — your order may be delayed.
- Don't send cash; use only check or credit-card number.
- Look for a guaranteed delivery date or allow 30 days.

If the merchandise doesn't arrive within the time specified, or if it's damaged or not what you ordered, write the company immediately, stating your complaint and giving proof of purchase. Be sure to keep a copy. If the company doesn't respond satisfactorily, contact the medium in which the ad appeared or the Mail Order Action Line, 6 East 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017, a consumer-assistance program organized by mail-order companies.

Music Is Therapy For Handicapped Kids

Playing a musical instrument is fun with a purpose for the physically handicapped children participating in a new program run by the Moss Rehabilitation Hospital and the Settlement Music School in Philadelphia. Each of the children will learn to play an instrument selected to strengthen a physical function. For example, a child with a weak arm might learn to play the drums.

"In many cases, when the child leaves the hospital with a recommended program of therapy, he won't follow it because of lack of motivation," says Bernard Henderson, Settlement's director of programs. "We thought if playing an instrument could be designed so that it performed a therapeutic function, there wouldn't be this problem."

After consultations with specialists, each child selects the instrument to be played. Then an adaptive device, such as a special stand, may be devised to make playing the instrument easier. Children begin with half-hour private lessons and supervised home practice (parents also receive instruction so they can be sure their child is practicing properly), and then may join a performing group when they're more advanced.

Quick Takes

There's a new way for people to overcome fear of contact lenses — hypnosis. The American Optometric Assoc. says many optometrists are using hypnosis to calm the fears of patients apprehensive about placing the lenses on their eyes.

And in the now-for-something-completely-different department: A N.J. woman wanted her automobile checked because it didn't sound right. When the mechanic opened the hood, he spotted the cause of the trouble — a 4-ft. boa constrictor wrapped around the air filter.

Two-thirds of hospitals responding to a recent 'survey by the American Hospital Assoc. said they would be forced to cut back or eliminate certain patient services if proposed Government ceilings on hospital-spending go into effect. Almost ½ of the responding hospitals said clinical services, such as X-rays and diagnostic labs, would be the first to go.

Good news for calorie counters — a national fast-food franchise is testing drive-in salad bars at selected locations. Salad to go, anyone?

Worried about a rerun of last year's bone-chilling weather? The National Weather Service says that, based on climatic records, the odds are at least 30 to 1 against such a severe winter. But it advises residents in the Northeast and central Mississippi Valley that they're most likely to be hit by colder than normal temperatures.

Low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco gaining solid support from "taste" smokers.

It's clear: low tar MERIT is delivering the kind of taste that can satisfy high tar smokers, the toughest "taste" critics of low tar smoking.

The reason is a real advance in tobacco technology that results in a way to boost natural tobacco flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

It's called 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And both were taste-tested against a number of higher tar cigarettes.

Overall, smokers reported they liked the taste of both MERIT and MERIT 100's as much as the taste of the higher tar cigarettes tested.

Cigarettes having up to 60% more tar!

Only one cigarette has 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco.

And you can taste it.
