HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh urged all residents in a 10-mile radius around the crippled Three Mile Island nuclear power plant to stay indoors at least throughout the morning following a new release today of radioactive gas from the facility.

Paul Critchlow, Thornburgh's spokesman, said:

"We are advising people within a 10-mile radius to stay indoors throughout the morning until further instructions are handed down. There is no need for an evacuation. There was a series of uncontrolled bursts of radiation from about 6:40 a.m. until about 9 a.m. this morning."

Critchlow said, "We are urging people to stay calm and not to panic. There is no need for evacuation at this time."

"Our people do not believe there is any immediate danger. The suggestion to stay indoors is precautionary only."

Earlier, Thornburgh had said he was considering evacuating all the nearly 1 million residents from a four-county area surrounding the facility. The counties are York, Dauphin, Lancaster and Cumberland.

"The heavier dose of radiation that was released into the atmosphere will be dissipated by noon," Critchlow said.

"The company had hoped to shut the reactor today. But they are finding more fuel damage than they anticipated and that this apparently is resulting in the increased radiation discharge."

"We do not have any assurances that this will not happen again," The emissions have stopped. Levels are pretty much down to normal," Critchlow said at about 10:45 a.m.

National Guard and local civil defense authorities were put on special alert.

State officials at first said the release was "unexpected," but U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission spokesman Frank Ingram said in Washington that the release was not unexpected and occurred as an automatic part of the recirculation of reactor cooling water.

But shortly after Ingram issued that explanation, he said conflicting reports were being made and that his initial information may have been wrong.

Arab Parley In Dissarray

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The Arab conference to punish President Anwar Sadat for signing a peace treaty with Israel appeared headed for a breakup in dissarray today as Saudi Arabia and other conservatives refused to vote harsh sanctions.

Foreign Minister Sadoun Hammadi of Iraq, which seeks a total political and economic boycott of Egypt, said if no agreement was reached today "we will split and each country will act as it wishes."

Hammadi, the foreign and finance ministers of 14 other Arab League countries and representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization met briefly Thursday, then recessed for 24 hours to consult with their governments on what to do next.

The head of the Iraqi delegation, Tariq Aziz, challenged the others to support his government's tough stand against Sadat, saying, "Let's meet tomorrow and see which country stands with it and which does not."

But conference sources said the conservative bloc led by Saudi Arabia was holding firm in its refusal to cut off aid to Egypt and diplomatic relations and move investments out of Cairo.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, another conservative, are the only Arab countries whose position is of crucial importance to Egypt since they are the only ones that make vital contributions to the Egyptian economy.

Saudi Arabia and Kuwait loaned Egypt just under $1 billion last year and supplied unknown amounts of military aid, and Saudi Arabia promised to pay for $500 million worth of U.S. F5 jet fighters for Egypt. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait also bank about $2 billion in petrodollars in Cairo.

An Arab trade boycott would be more of an annoyance than a crippling blow since only about 3 percent of Egypt's exports went to its Arab neighbors last year and less than 12 percent of its imports came from the Middle East. The most serious effect probably will be the loss of 40,000 tons of Syrian lentils a year, a staple in the diet of poor Egyptians.

Found Innocent

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — Gene Leroy Hart was found innocent today of three counts of murder in the sex slayings of three Girl Scouts at a summer camp in 1977.

The six men and six women of the jury returned the verdict one hour after resuming deliberations this morning.

Hart burst into loud sobs as the court clerk, Eloise Gist, read the first of three innocent verdicts handed her by jury foreman George Kelly. He buried his face in his hands, and defense attorney Garvin Isaacs beat upon the defense table with a clenched fist to loud cheers from supporters in the courtroom.

Law officers cleared the courtroom of Hart's friends and relatives as they continued loud crying and shouts.

Parents of the three young victims were seen weeping at the other side of the courtroom.

District Judge William Whistler polled the jury and each juror reported an innocent verdict.

Hart was ordered transferred immediately to the Oklahoma state prison at McAlester to continue serving sentencing totalling more than 300 years from previous convictions for rape, kidnapping and burglary.

Hart was charged with three counts of first-degree murder.

SIGNALIZING SAID NEEDED

When is something going to be done about the railroad crossing on Fourteenth Street? A good friend of mine got hurt there recently and he said he did not see the train until he reached the crossing. I definitely think there should be a traffic light or a gate located there. O.H.

Hotline directed your question to Ernest F. Mallard, grade crossing signals' construction engineer of North Carolina.

"If we receive funds as we expect to in October from the Federal Highway Administration, the overseer of the expenditures of federal funds for highway improvement projects, the Fourteenth Street crossing will most likely be funded," said Mallard.

Mallard added that after a survey of that crossing has been made and approved, an estimated $45,000 in warning signals will be installed at that crossing, including gates and flashing lights. He said that the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the costs, and that the state government and railroad will share the remaining costs, including the costs of maintaining the safety equipment at that location.

"Eight to 10 months after October, the railroad crossing signals should be completed there," said Mallard. "It takes time for agreements to be made between the state and railroad."

According to Mallard, every year all of the state's railroad crossings are inspected, during which time information on each of the crossings is collected.

The information collected includes the number of accidents occurring at each crossing during the past 10 years and the amount of automobile traffic and number of trains using each crossing yearly. In addition, the amount of protection already existing at each of the crossings is taken into account. By using a hazard index formula, all of the information is then given to a computer.

"There are 6,200 public railroad crossings in this state, and slightly over 1,000 signals," said Mallard. "Using the hazard index formula, a computer systematically decides which crossings have the greatest hazard potential."

Mallard said that the federal government requires such a systematic approach for fairness and accuracy.

Atlantis Found?

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Soviet ocean explorers are highly optimistic that further photographic tests will show they have found the fabled lost continent of Atlantis on the ocean floor west of Portugal, a Portuguese government official said today.

A Soviet oceanographic team earlier this month reported it had taken eight photographs of the remains of walls and great stairways at the bottom of the sea 200 miles to 300 miles off the Portuguese coast, midway between the mainland and the Portuguese island of Madeira.

The Soviets, who had just sailed in to Lisbon from the site aboard their survey ship, later met with officials of Portugal's National Institute for Fishing Research to discuss possible exploitation of ocean resources.

The institute's director, Dr. Marcello Vasconcelos, told a reporter today the Soviets appear confident they may have found the large sunken island of legend referred to in the writings of the Greek philosopher Plato.

"It is undeniable that they think they've found something," he said.

They told him they believe further evaluation of the photographs may enable them to make a conclusive judgment, Vasconcelos reported. The head of the research project, Dr. Andrei Aksenov, deputy director of the Soviet Academy Institute of Oceanography, had announced the photographs would be released to the public after study in Moscow.

Aksenov said the photographs were taken from the group's survey ship, Vityaz, over a mountainous underwater region on a course toward Madeira, but he gave no indication of the depth of the area. He told reporters that earthquakes, fissures or volcanic eruptions could have caused the ancient terrain to slide under the ocean.

Atlantis, believed to exist somewhere west of Gibraltar, was said to have sunk into the sea in pre-Christian times. Plato spoke of a high civilization that flourished there and said the island was destroyed by an earthquake.

The Vityaz was reported to have left Lisbon Tuesday, but there were conflicting reports saying it was headed either for Madeiran waters or for Britain.

Military Cutbacks Trigger Protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed cutbacks at military bases throughout the country have triggered calls for congressional hearings and meetings with high-level defense officials to review the decisions.

Overall, however, there was not a large outcry on Capitol Hill Thursday against the reductions, which would trim defense jobs in 36 states and the District of Columbia.

Thirteen states would wind up with a net increase in jobs. Only Vermont is not affected by the proposals announced Thursday.

The Defense Department's plan calls for closing, cutting back and consolidating operations at 157 military bases — eliminating 44,500 military and civilian jobs.

Ohio's congressional delegation is seeking an appointment with Defense Secretary Harold Brown to determine whether the expected savings are enough to justify the financial hardships that would result, according to a spokesman for Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

Ohio and Florida are the two states hardest hit by the cutbacks, with Ohio losing 5,362 military and civilian positions and Florida losing 5,365.

One of the strongest protests was registered by New Jersey's congressional delegation, which is fighting to save the huge recruit training center at Fort Dix.

"I intend to challenge their data and fight this proposal every inch of the way," said Rep. Bill Hughes, D-N.J.

Another New Jersey Democrat, Rep. James J.

Florio, added that, "we find the Army's action today not only cruel in its implications and unjustified in its motives but militarily unsound as well."

Maine's freshman senator, Republican William S. Cohen, asked the Senate Armed Services Committee to schedule hearings to force the Pentagon to justify proposed cutbacks at Loring Air Force Base, which would lose a total of 14 B-52 bombers and KC-135 tanker planes and their crews.

Texas would lose Goodfellow Air Force Base at San Angelo but still wind up with a net gain of military jobs. Even so, Sen. John Tower of Texas, ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, said he could not agree with the decision to close Goodfellow.

Assembly Votes UNC Seat For Holshouser

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The General Assembly elected 10 members to the University of North Carolina Board of Governors Thursday, giving a seat to former Gov. Jim Holshouser and voting off the board an incumbent endorsed by the black legislative delegation.

Holshouser, a Republican who had been opposed by GOP senators, was elected to a minority party seat over 1976 GOP gubernatorial nominee David Flaherty of Lenoir. He was one of five members selected by the Senate.

Also selected by the Senate were incumbents William A. Dees of Goldsboro and Jacob Froelich Jr. of High Point, and newcomers B. Irvin Boyle of Charlotte and Jack O'Kelly of Burlington. O'Kelly was elected to a minority-race seat.

Elected in the House were three incumbents, Roddy

Jones of Raleigh, E.B. Turner of Lumberton and board chairman William A. Johnson of Lillington. Also elected were Grace Epps of Lumberton and John Ed Davenport, a former state representative from Nashville.

All were selected by secret ballot, with the final slate officially elected afterwards in a roll call vote.

Holshouser had been opposed by some GOP legislators. Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, told a joint legislative session on Wednesday that Holshouser had entered the race late and that he was not the choice of Senate Republicans.

Defeated in a race with Turner for a minority-race seat was Kathleen "Kat" Crosby of Charlotte. Although both were incumbents, they had been nominated for the same seat, and Mrs. Crosby had been endorsed over Turner by all four black legislators.

In the House, two black members cast "no" votes on the final roll call. One, Rep. Kenneth Spaulding, D-Durham, said he voted against the slate because of the selection Turner, but refused to elaborate.

The other, Rep. Robert Davis, D-Robeson, refused to comment. He and Turner are from the same county.

A letter signed by Spaulding, Davis and the other black House member, Rep. Henry Frye, D-Guilford, was circulated to all representatives before the vote, asking them to select Mrs. Crosby.

Mrs. Epps was elected to a seat designated for a woman. She defeated an incumbent, Elise Wilson of Fayetteville.

All the terms were for eight years except Davenport's, which is for six years, and O'Kelly's, which is for two years.

Large Area Of Pitt Blacked Out By Accident

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Electric service to a large portion of Pitt County was interrupted last night when a car struck a utility pole at the intersection of Memorial and Paige Drives about 10:20, Greenville Utilities Commission officials said this morning.

Malcolm Green, superintendent of GUC's electric department said the outage occurred when a car struck and broke a pole carrying rying a 34,000 volt transmission line serving Winterville, Ayden, and a substation on N.C. 43 South of Greenville which feeds, "all of southern Pitt County," and a 12,000 volt distribution line which serves the Stantonsburg Road area, including Pitt Memorial Hospital and Voice of America site C.

"When the pole broke," Green said, "the two circuits went together and opened up."

Greenville Police identified the driver of the car involved in the mishap as Willie Leroy Beacham of Route 2 Ayden.

Officers said the Beacham car ran off the road and struck the pole, injuring Beacham in the process.

According to Green, power was restored to the area to the South of Greenville about 11 p.m., while service was resumed along the circuit served by the 12,000 volt line about 11:15 p.m.

Green noted that the hospital and the VOA site, "have automatic transfer, schemes," that provide for alternate sources of power so that essential services are maintained.

Power to Winterville Ayden and the N.C. 43 substation was restored by switching circuits at five different locations to re-route service to those areas.

The GUC official noted that the pole, which had a bank of transformers weighing 800 to 900 pounds at its top, as well as the transmission and distribution line, was being replaced this morning, and part of the transmission circuit is also being rebuilt today.

Including the switching time involved, replacing the pole and rebuilding the transmission line, Green estimated damage from the mishap, "just capital loss...not including the loss of revenue," at $2,500.

Greene praised utilities employees for their quick action last night.

He noted that eight of the 10 workers involved in restoring power last night, "volunteered...came in on their own," when their lights went off, "or they heard it on their scanners."

Only two people had to be called in, Green noted, adding that they were not affected by the outage, or didn't have radios.

Woman's Proper Couple Weds In Place? Author Says Everywhere

By CAROL DEEGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Social historian Sheila Rothman says she is "overwhelmed" by the conflict today around social policy toward women.

"I am struck by the inability to enact day-care legislation. I am struck by the tremendous conflicts around the Equal Rights Amendment, which seems to be such a simple issue, or in the area of reproductive freedom," she said.

Ms. Rothman is a Senior Research Associate of the Center for Policy Research in New York City. She has written numerous articles and reviews in the field of history and social policy and has co-edited two books with her husband, historian David Rothman. They have two children.

Her own latest book is "Woman's Proper Place: A History of Changing Ideals and Practices, 1870 to the Present." The book describes society's shifting assumptions about woman's "proper place" and the effect of these assumptions on social policies toward women.

"I think earlier generations of women had very seriously limited and restricted and clearly defined what woman's proper place was," she said. "They had a very clear notion: it was generally the home or somewhat linked to home activity."

"I think the critical thing about today is that woman's proper place is everywhere. Unfortunately, because of conflicts, I think we are going to be living with lawsuits, challenges and counter-challenges for a long time to come," she said.

Ms. Rothman said the critical determinant was just how strong women's vested interest group, the women's movement, was going to be.

"Understanding that the name of the game is conflict, are they going to be able to represent their members' interests and women's interests at this point? And how are they going to define that? And how are they going to fight for that?"

"That's the real issue of the '80s, I think," she said.

Ms. Rothman said that only through the recognition of the great variety of needs of women could there be real promise of future progress for them. But, she said, women's interests have been too narrowly defined.

"There are different groups who speak for women in the work force. There are different groups who speak for reproductive freedom for women, and they've all become kind of issue groups and we really haven't merged them. And I think that's going to be a problem," she said.

SHEILA ROTHMAN

She said another problem was that many women still believed that a woman's proper place was in the home, and that modern-day feminists had disrupted everything.

Ms. Rothman said the women's movement had made a mistake in trying to appeal to these older women instead of to their daughters.

"The women's movement should have said, 'Do you want your daughter to be denied the right to enter medical school? Do you want your daughter to have the chance to become a lawyer?' And many women who don't see these options for themselves, who are frightened of change and can't see themselves as moving in that way, certainly don't want their daughters to be denied the chance," Ms. Rothman said.

Ms. Rothman said she felt very strongly about the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, "but I don't think it's going to make that much of a difference."

"I do feel that we have a lot of laws on the books that really need enforcement and that if we could begin to enforce these laws, a lot of women and minorities could be helped."

She said the Economic Employment Opportunity Commission, the government agency charged with reducing job discrimination against women, had been "remarkably inefficient." In 1975, the EEOC had a backlog of over 100,000 cases; in 1978, the backlog totaled 130,000 cases, she said.

"('Woman's Proper Place' is published by Basic Books.)

FOR CHOCOPHILES—A dessert that may be made in a springform, like cheesecake, and garnished with pears and strawberries.

Two-Way Dessert For Chocophiles

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A friend of mine worked out an interesting recipe for chocophiles. She calls the dessert a "no-bake cocoa cheesecake." To make it, she covers the bottom of a springform with a graham-cracker mixture, adds the filling and after chilling and garnishing, cuts it into wedges.

To me, the luscious filling falls between chocolate mousse and chocolate Bavarian cream. So I chose an easy and calorie-watching way to make the dessert. I forgot the springform and omitted the graham-cracker mixture. Instead I turned the filling into a big glass bowl, chilled and garnished it and served it with a large silver spoon. You could, of course, turn it into sherbet glasses or punch cups or individual dessert dishes.

If you try the recipe both ways, I'd love to know which you prefer.

CHOCOLATE SWITCH (My Way)
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 cup water, heated to simmering
1/2 cup cocoa
1 cup liquid brown sugar, from a 16-ounce bottle
Two 8-ounce packages cream cheese, soft
2 large eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
Have all the ingredients, except the water, at room temperature.

In a small bowl sprinkle the gelatin over the cold water to soften — several minutes; add the simmering hot water and stir until dissolved. In another small bowl, with a spoon, gradually and vigorously beat the liquid brown sugar into the cocoa, keeping smooth; add the dissolved warm gelatin mixture and stir vigorously to blend.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer, at medium speed, beat the cream cheese until fluffy; beat in the egg yolks, one at a time, until blended. Add the cocoa mixture and vanilla; beat until smooth and blended.

In a medium bowl, with clean beaters, beat egg whites until stiff straight peaks form; add to the cocoa mixture and beat at lowest speed just until blended. (There will be about 5 cups of the mixture.) Turn into a 1 1/2-quart serving bowl — preferably glass. Or turn into sherbet glasses or individual dessert dishes. Chill to set. Garnish, if you like, with brandied apricots or candied violets or rose petals. Makes 10 servings.

CHOCOLATE SWITCH

(The Other Way)

In a 9-inch springform thoroughly stir together 1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs, 1/4 cup soft butter and 2 tablespoons liquid brown sugar; press over bottom of springform. Make up the filling mixture as directed above and pour over the crumb mixture. Chill to set — at least 3 hours. Just before serving, with a small metal spatula loosen edges; remove pan band. Place the dessert (on the bottom of the springform) on a serving plate. To garnish, slice 3 canned pear halves crosswise, keeping each half in its original shape; radiate the 3 sliced halves, still in their original shape, from the center; place a few strawberry "roses" where the pear halves meet. Cut the dessert wedges and remove with a wide server.

Traits to display in order to put the customer at ease are courtesy, friendliness, thoughtfulness and putting other people first.

President Martha Mills welcomed Debbie Johnston and Myrtle Fields as new members. Carol Hardee read the Dixie Council by-law changes to be voted on at the Dixie Council Conference in Winston-Salem during the weekend. Change Doctors Tell Him Reason

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I went to a doctor who examined me and said I needed some medicine. He didn't write a prescription. Instead, he called his brother's drugstore and told him to have the medicine ready for me, that I'd be over to get it in a few minutes.

I was quite surprised that I wasn't given a written prescription and allowed to have it filled at my own pharmacy. I also was angry because this doctor's brother charges much higher prices than the pharmacist I usually trade with. One of my friends asked this doctor for a written prescription. He got mad at her and refused to give her one.

Abby, shouldn't people be given their own choice of pharmacies?

MRS. O.J.

DEAR MRS. O.J.: Yes. The doctor is clearly operating outside the bounds of ethical medicine. Change doctors. And be sure to tell him why you're leaving.

DEAR ABBY: When my parents were first married, they tried for years to have a child, but could not. They finally gave up hope and adopted me. Two years later they adopted my brother. I am now 19.

After 24 years of marriage, my mother became pregnant! She was 47 and my father was 55. They were thrilled, and are now the proud parents of a baby girl. And what a beautiful baby she is!

Abby, please tell couples who think there is no hope of ever having a child to hang in there and they might be as lucky as my parents.

MARCIA

DEAR MARCIA: Your parents are luckier than some who become parents in their later years.

My medical expert, Dr. John A. Haugen, a fine obstetrician and gynecologist for over 40 years says, "A child born of a woman in her 40s runs a much greater risk of being defective." (Particularly Down's Syndrome—better known as mongolism.)

True, tests can be done in mid-pregnancy to detect abnormalities. If an abnormality exists, the pregnancy can be terminated but this (the test) is quite a major undertaking. Also, mothers in their 40s are more apt to have complications and more difficult labors. Finally, most parents in their 60s find raising teenagers no picnic.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and am ashamed of my mother. She tells the biggest lies, and she gossips a lot on the telephone. She will talk to one lady and pretend to be her best friend, when she is really her worst enemy. How can a person be so two-faced and then tell me that if I tell a lie God will punish me?

ASHAMED OF MOM

DEAR ASHAMED: Do as your mother SAYS, not as she does. Perhaps your mother will read this and realize that although "example" is not the ONLY teacher, it is one of the most powerful.

Pitt County Clean Up Steps Already Being Taken

CLEANING UP THE ROADSIDE — Several area young people aided the Pitt County Farm Bureau Women Thursday in picking up trash along State

Road 1723, outside of Ayden. The Farm Bureau Women will also be cleaning Saturday, March 31. (Reflector photo by Rebecca Buffaloe)

With the declaration of April as "Clean Up Month" throughout Pitt County, several area citizens are busily attacking the garbage left along city and county roadsides, as well as starting beautification projects within county towns.

The Keep Pitt County Clean and Beautiful Committee stands beside its slogan, "Take Pride in Pitt," in urging citizens to beautify their surroundings.

"On two Saturdays, April 7 and 21, we will clean up certain roadsides in the county," said Sam Uzzell of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service. "We'll meet at 8 a.m. at the Extension Office."

Another group, the Pitt County Farm Bureau Women, will be working Saturday, March 31, cleaning up designated roadsides.

A group of Farm Bureau Women were working this past Thursday along State Road 1723, aided by a group of young boys and girls.

"We picked up 25 bags of trash along a two-mile stretch," noted Mrs. Wilbur Worthington. "A neighbor, Hugh Garrison, hauled the trash to the county landfill."

Grifton, which has sponsored an annual clean-up campaign since 1970, worked last Saturday sprucing up the town's roadsides. Two other dates will be held, March 31 and April 7, so that residents may have the town in fine order for the annual Shad Festival April 20-22.

On April 7, Ayden residents will be rolling up their sleeves in a clean-up effort, while Grimesland Boy Scouts will be planting flower beds along Main St. and dogwood trees about the town.

Monday, April 2, the Home Pride Garden Club in Greenville will clean around the Greenville Art Center. The Lynndale Garden Club will feature a flower show April 5 and 6 to display spring's first offerings.

The area Sierra Club will meet April 9 to hear from the Keep Pitt County Clean and Beautiful president Steve Evans and Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce staff member Lynne Olmstead concerning the clean up effort.

A poster contest will also be held in the Pitt County Schools with beautification as a theme. The posters will be judged the week of April 9, with the Greenville/Pitt County Board of Realtors presenting live trees as trophies.

Other county towns such as Farmville and Bethel are formulating plans for clean-up projects during the month.

According to Pat Thomas, Farmville Town Administrator, a CETA-funded beautification crew has been working on projects such as cleaning vacant lots, painting dilapidated commercial buildings, and cleaning ditches, as well as some landscaping efforts.

Other groups such as the Boys Club and the local 4-H chapters are busy picking up trash along roadsides, as well as working on the county landfill sites.

Sum Uzzell points out that the county beautification committee will meet Thursday, April 5, at 12 noon at the Three Steers Restaurant, and invites interested citizens to come to the meeting.

"Anyone who wants to organize a small clean up group or anything should come to the meeting or call me at the Extension office, 758-1196," stated Uzzell. "We don't want people to call to get us to clean up things. We want to get people interested in doing something for themselves and the county."

Hospital Effort Is Recognized

Pitt County Memorial Hospital has announced that it has been presented with the American Hospital Association's Certificate of Recognition acknowledging its efforts to more effectively monitor costs and productivity.

"Through participation in a management information program provided by Hospital Administration Service, a division of the AHA, Pitt Co. Memorial is able to compare costs and productivity both internally and with other hospitals of comparable bed sizes," Hospital Director Jack Richardson said. "This hospital has been utilizing this program for 11 years and regularly uses the information in its cost containment efforts," he added.

Richardson said that, in April, 1979, the hospital will begin using a new HAS program, "Monitrend," designed to provide even more effective management data.

Bid To Rescind Action Is Killed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A House committee has killed a bid to rescind Rhode Island's 1972 ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. The Judiciary Committee voted 13-2 Thursday to indefinitely postpone consideration of the proposal.

Rep. Charles C. Baldelli, D-Woonsocket, sponsor of the measure, said he was "distressed by the lack of courage on the part of the House Judiciary Committee ... The people elect responsible legislators, not those who retreat behind the skirts of the ERA feminists."

Big Collection By Boobmobile

A two-day Bloodmobile visit at East Carolina University this week resulted in a collection total of 458 units of blood, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt Red Cross.

Mrs. Taylor said that Wednesday's visit netted 215 pints of blood with nine persons deferred, while Thursday's blood drive resulted in 243 pints collected and 21 persons deferred.

She said that the campus visit was sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council at ECU with Dalton Denson, president, and Tommy Pharo serving as co-chairmen of the drive.

Mrs. Taylor expressed appreciation to the students who donated blood and also the women of the Greenville Service League and volunteer nurses who helped in the two-day effort.

The Red Cross official said that blood collected on campus will be processed at the Greenville blood center and prepared for distribution to the hospitals in the area.

The next campus visit is scheduled for July 3, she said.

The chief said the two were taken into custody about 4:30 p.m. at Slay Dorm.

Millions Of Dollars In Grants Are Tied To Bond Referendum

Editor's Note — This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the upcoming bond referendums scheduled for April 3, 1979 in which registered voters in the City of Greenville will decide whether or not to issue $24 million in General Obligation bonds to finance proposed capital improvements. The following article was prepared by the Greenville Utilities Commission in order to enlighten voters on the details surrounding the proposed improvements.

Voters in the City of Greenville will go to the polls early next month to cast ballots on the question of issuing $5 million in General Obligation bonds to finance sewer improvements, but what they may not realize is that $8.4 million in federal and state grants will also hinge on the outcome of the voting.

Ed Waldrop, chairman of a special citizens committee organized to help inform citizens of the details of the upcoming bond referendums, pointed out that the $5 million bond proposal is only the local share of an overall project which carries a price tag of $13.4 million.

"Many people erroneously believe that the $5 million is the total cost of the project," said Waldrop continued. "Actually, this figure represents the smaller share, as state and federal grants will provide $8.4 million for the construction of capital improvements to the Greenville Utilities Commission's sewer collection and disposal systems. These grants, however, are given only if the city's voters approve the issuance of the $5 million in bonds to provide the local matching share of the project."

The specific proposals for sewer improvements call for the construction of a new sewer treatment plant and the construction of new sewer outfall and collector lines throughout the service area.

New Stringent Requirements

Charles Horne, director of the Greenville Utilities Commission, pointed to new requirements of the United States Environmental Protection Agency as one of the reasons for needed improvements to the existing wastewater treatment system. "The EPA has set new, more stringent guidelines for discharge into the Tar River, and we will have to make major improvements to our methods of treatment if we are to achieve these discharge requirements," said Horne.

"It is for that reason," he continued, "that the consultants we have employed to study this problem have recommended we proceed with the construction of a new plant. It is their opinion that the construction of a new wastewater treatment facility would be more economical in the long run than upgrading the old plant. We agree, and believe that further expenditures at our plant site would be unwise and short-term planning at its worst."

Waldrop pointed out that the construction of new sewer plant would allow for the GUC to meet EPA requirements, but would also allow for the future growth of the system. "The GUC purchased a possible site for the sewer plant two years ago, and the 200-acre site allows for the adequate growth in years to come," he said. It would also be large enough to meet new EPA requirements which may become mandatory in the future, but are not required today.

The only alternative open to the GUC is how to meet the new EPA requirements, not whether or not they will be met. Horne said that failure to meet the guidelines could result in the City of Greenville being fined at the rate of $10,000 per day until the new discharge limitations are achieved.

Other Projects

The construction of a new wastewater treatment plant is only one phase of the overall proposed improvements to the sewer system. If voters approve the issuance of the $5 million in General Obligation bonds on April 3, the GUC will embark on the implementation of other aspects of a project which is commonly called the 201 Facilities Plan.

In addition to the new plant, the 201 Facilities Plan calls for the construction of new sewer outfall and collector lines in the fringe areas of the city. This would allow for the continued growth of the City of Greenville in an orderly fashion. Also, most of the six temporary pumping stations currently being operated on the sewer collector system will be eliminated, resulting in some reduced operating costs and maintenance.

Payback periods

Waldrop stated that approval of the bonds is not anticipated to have any adverse effect on the City of Greenville's ad valorem tax rate, although there is expected to be a slight increase in sewer rates to meet principal and interest payments. For the average residential customer, these increases are expected to amount to not more than $1.25 per month, and all of the increases would not take effect immediately. The rate of increase, he said, would be set by the Utilities Commission, and would only be implemented when the bonds are actually sold. If additional sources of funding become available, then all of the increase may never be placed into effect.

Vandals Strike At Recreation Center

A belated report of vandalism on city property at Elm Street Recreation Center reveals that extensive damage was done to cooking facilities at the Kiwanis Cooking Shelter there.

According to Greenville Recreation and Parks Director Boyd Lee, the extent of damage amounted to approximately $200, with no items removed from the shop.

Lee said that the incident occurred sometime during Wednesday evening, March 21, with some person or persons entering the facility by pulling windows loose.

Cooking equipment hooked to gas lines was torn loose and the equipment and accessories turned upside down and scattered about.

Lee added that there was no money in the facility, and that repairs are being made to the damaged equipment.

Voter Drive Is Set Saturday

A Voter Registration Drive will be held Saturday in Winterville in front of the old Mount Shiloh Missionary Church building.

This drive is being held in order to get all citizens in the Winterville qualified to vote in all upcoming elections, according to Calvin Henderson and Willie Carney, organizers. Special emphasis is being put on young voters, they indicated. Everyone 18 or over should register.

Loophole For Unsafe Drivers

The U. S. Supreme Court has ruled that the police may not randomly stop an automobile to check drivers' license.

The court saw such stops as a violation of constitutional rights. The case under consideration involved a Delaware law.

North Carolina also has a law which allows law enforcement officers to stop motor vehicles to determine operation violations.

Justice Byron R. White wrote, "An individual operating or traveling in an automobile does not lose all expectation of privacy simply because the automobile and its use are subject to government regulation."

The justices suggested that law enforcement officers are still free to develop other methods of spot checks.

The early reaction we hear is that the high court ruling will not seriously hamper law enforcement since there are not many motorists, observed long enough, who won't give the officer some reason to stop them

Still the Supreme Court decision in this case seems questionable to us on constitutional grounds.

It seems clear that none of us have an absolute right to take to the highways. We have devised laws for registering cars and licensing drivers for the protection of all of us on the public highways. If society is going to require registration and licensing of drivers, then why can't properly appointed law enforcement officers request to see the license and registration at any time the vehicle is in operation?

Under this ruling an unlicensed driver who made no mistakes could drive for a long time without facing a law officer. That stretches the right of privacy a long way.

No Disaster, But Re-Study Indicated

The accident at Three Mile Island nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania is bone-chilling in view of recent concern over the safety of such plants.

At this writing it appears that no dangerous amounts of radiation have escaped from the building, an indication that safety factors were effective.

The accident shouldn't panic us into abandoning nuclear power for electric generation, but it does mean entirely new studies of safety devices incorporated into the design of such plants.

THIS AFTERNOON

An End Run That Works

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Local politics are hard at work in the General Assembly, seeking to expand the empires of county court clerks.

An almost daily check with the computer is needed to keep count of the flood of legislation being introduced adding personnel in the clerk's offices across the state. At latest count there were 27 bills in the House of Representatives; and an additional seven in the Senate after eliminating duplications.

Some of those proposals call for adding as many as four local assistant or deputy clerks of court in various counties; some propose three, some two, and in a few cases, only one new aide.

No up-to-the-minute total is available as the filing of bills continues apace, but the chairman of the Courts Committee in the House predicts it will peak out somewhere less than 100, but more than 50.

Reasons

Two things are happening, says State Rep. William H. McMillan, D-Iredell, whose committee is handling most of the influx:

"For one thing, the county clerk of court is a good, local courthouse politician ... he carries a lot of influence with legislators.

"And another, there are many cases in which there are real needs. Additional help is needed to keep up with the paperwork in the courthouse, and the clerks did not get recommended through regular channels either in the Administrative Office of Courts or the Governor's budget the personnel they feel they need. The legislative process is the last resort for them."

Proof of the political clout is readily available. One outspoken lawmaker who has been pushing for law rigidly restricting new personnel in state government as the only effective way to control growth and increased spending, has his name on top of a local bill asking for some new court clerks in his county.

Why, in light of his work to the contrary? "It's simple. You ask yourself if you want to get re-elected. If you do, you sign the bill," he snorted.

A law restricting new employees would, however, relieve that pressure, he observed; allowing legislators to lean on the limits rather than caving in to pressure.

Are the additional clerks necessary? Nobody can answer that at this point. McMillan has named a subcommittee which is supposed to investigate each request by touring base with local officials and the courts administrator in Raleigh. A cutoff date of April 1 for filing the local measures has been set, then the subcommittee will compile a single legislative proposal from all the local measures for final consideration.

Others

In addition to deputy clerks, there are a host of additional district attorneys, secretaries, and even a district judge or two to be added to the list. Total cost will easily exceed a million dollars. Then, judging from past experience, when many legislators who have not been under pressure to seek more court personnel become aware that neighboring counties and districts are getting more people, a flood of amendments will come in to the point that almost everybody will feel it necessary to add some people.

Court Administrator Bert Montague is irritated with the events which he considers an end run past his office which did not recommend the additional personnel. Gov. Jim Hunt, likewise, did not include massive new people for the courts in his budget recommendations. Of the present situation, he suggests that if the new employees are approved by the General Assembly, he hopes they will help provide more speedy trials.

Clerks are elected, and may hire an authorized number of people from state funds. Since 1975 the budget for court clerks has risen from $14.8 million per year to a proposed $21.2 million in 1980 — plus the flood of new people now being sought.

The $1,000 Invitation

WASHINGTON — I have a confession to make. I was invited to the White House for the signing of the Begin-Sadat treaty Monday with my wife, and it didn't cost me a dime. Please don't get me wrong. I would have been willing to pay $1,000 for the invitation (at least my wife would have), but the telegram arrived and there was no mention of making a contribution.

This could mean one of several things: (1) President Carter is very pleased with the suggestions I had made in resolving the pull-back from the Sinai; (2) Jerry Rafshoon is trying to win me over to his man for the 1980 campaign; (3) the name Brzezinski went in the computer and somehow came out as Buchwald; (4) the Carters wanted to borrow our salad plates for the dinner; (5) I'm the only one in Washington who still thinks Bert Lance is a good banker.

It was a very nice evening as Middle East peace treaty dinners go. There were about

To the editor:

This letter is about our vote next Tuesday, as will appear at the end.

I just saw an exciting scene in a good movie. It was the melodrama, "Paper Chase." The young lovers are on a dock. The winter Charles is frozen. They quarrel and goof around — then whoops! Hart finds himself spread-eagled on the ice. Susan stretches to rescue. Both break through. Luckily, their feet reach bottom; they splash out to more adventure.

It looks to me as though Greenville's leaders, shouting happily, are fooling around by ice of unknown thickness. They gloat over our building boom. They cheerfully foresee 80,000 population. They enter no-city-tax understandings with incoming industry.

It might work out great. Some argue that 100,000 to 200,000 is an ideal size culture without asphyxiation. More higher-paying year-round jobs help poor people. But you wouldn't want 200,000 people on Cape Hatteras. You wouldn't want a job if you as well as your tires got slashed.

No competent and objective comprehensive study of Greenville growth has been made. I mean comprehensive: involving long-term water (including upstream Tar developments), air, land, vegetation, energy, and crime — as well as jobs and the tax-base — and straight-line extrapolations of consumption! I mean competent and objective: If ECU expertise is called on, the people should be field-current, high-integrity — like Bellis (Biology), Riggs, (Geology), and Bearden (Business). An urban sociologist or geographer, an agriculture economist, a recreationist, and a political scientist should be on the team. Precommitted people like myself or Tom Brewer (on opposite sides), should be left out.

I'm going to vote for the sewage, against the water and electricity bonds. I suppose all will pass and wish us all a grand skate, and lotsa luck.

Carroll Webber Jr.

The lady I sat next to asked, "Are you with Sadat or Begin?"

I told her I was with President Carter.

"Who invited you?" I asked her.

"We got our invitations through Ticketron," she said. I seemed surprised. "How did that happen?"

"Well, we're tourists from Lafayette, Ind., and we're staying at the Hilton. We went to the hotel ticket agent and asked her what was playing in Washington tonight. She told us what was at the Kennedy Center, the National Theater, the Arena Stage and the Uptown Movie Theater. She also said she could get us two seats at the White House for a dinner in honor of Begin and Sadat for $1,000.

"My husband went through the roof. He said, 'Isn't that a lot of money for a dinner at the White House?' and the lady replied, 'Sadat and Begin are only playing for one night, and $1,000 takes care of everything including the tip.'

"My husband wanted to know where our seats were located, and the Ticketron lady took out a plan of the tables in the tent. She showed us two seats, but they were in the back, quite far from

'Sadat Will Fall': Iraq

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BAGHDAD — The strongman of oil-rich Iraq, whose nation is flexing new muscle following the fall of the shah in neighboring Iran, talks boldly about employing all means available, including full use of the oil weapon; to "retrieve the rights of the Arabs from the Zionist entity" — Israel.

Tough, handsome Saddam Hussein; however, failed in an exclusive interview with us to spell out precisely what he had in mind, except as punishment for Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in signing what the Arabs call a sell-out separate peace with Israel. For Sadat, the punishments which militant Iraq hopes to push through the anti-Sadat Arab summit here this week include withdrawal of financial support, transfer of the Arab League from Cairo and other sanctions.

But as to reprisals against the United States for having been indispensable middle man in the Egyptian-Israeli treaty; Saddam Hussein was ambiguous. "How or when or against whom?" he asked retorically. "The enemy is the Zionist entity, we make a distinction between the American people and the Zionist entity. We also make a distinction between the American people and their government. We cannot and will not put the American people in the same place as the Zionist entity."

Or, as Tarik Aziz, a top Saddam Hussein strategist, told us separately, "We're not in the mood for cutting oil."

Saddam Hussein's official title is Vice chairman of the Revolutionary Command Council, but he is de facto leader of the ruling Baath party. Receiving us in his office in the parliament building, his mood during more than two hours of talks was far less bellicose than his threats.

Virtually ruling out any early effort to invoke oil as a means of persuasion, he spoke philosophically about his long-troubled relationship with the U.S., most of which is directly attributable to the Arab-Israeli struggle and the

One-Up-Manship Begins Early

By GAIL MICHAELS

If you've ever listened closely to a conversation between two preschoolers, you know that fully one-third of their attempts to communicate with each other takes the form of one-up-manship. Meg has a friend whom she loves so dearly that she has wet her pants while visiting just so that she could wear her friend's clothes. But they are never together that one of them is not trying to outdo the other.

A typical conversation is peppered with such observations as: "My blocks are higher than your blocks"; or "I've been to see three movies, and you've only seen two"; or "My mommy is bigger than your mommy." Naturally it is always Meg who makes the last observation.

I try very hard to discourage this type of conversation, but I can't count on Phillip to help. He thinks these discussions are hilarious.

The last time Meg's friend visited us, they rushed into the kitchen, where I was cooking supper and Phillip was sitting at the table reading the paper. "Meg doesn't have a brother, does she?" her friend said.

"Not that I know of," I said. She grinned triumphantly. "Well, I do. I have a very big brother. He's five years old."

Meg was not to be outdone. "Well...well...well...I'm going to have two sisters, aren't I, Mommy?"

"Not if I can help it," I said. "Why not?" Phillip said. "I think that's a great idea."

I slammed the oven door. "Quit encouraging her. You make her think all this arguing is funny. Now, Meg, I want you two to go clean up your room before supper. It's almost ready."

"I can't," her friend said. "My hand hurts."

Meg assumed a look of great pain. My whole arm hurts."

"Oh, and my leg hurts," Phillip groaned. I can't do it either."

The two girls giggled, and I glared. "You two get into that room, and clean it up right now! And you, Phillip are incorrigible. You make them ten times worse, and...oh, no!"

A thick cloud of smoke was rolling from the oven door. I had charcoal broiled my bread. I plunked it on the table in front of Phillip, confined my comments to, "This is all your fault," and called the girls to dinner.

"I'm going to say the blessing," our guest said.

"No, I'm going to say it," Meg said.

"You both can say it. Meg, let your company go first."

With a self-satisfied smirk, Meg's friend proceeded to recite, "God is great."

For a minute, Meg was in a huff. That was her blessing, and her friend had stolen it. Nor was she content to repeat it. She was on the verge of tears when something obviously occurred to her. With a pious flourish, which indicated that we were to give our full attention, she brought her hands up under her chin and squinted her eyes shut.

"Our Father who art in heaven," she intoned. "Howard be thy name. Thy kingdom come, thy will be done. And forgive us our debts as we forgive this bread."

Phillip gave a solemn nod in my direction.

"Amen," she said. "Amen!"

Strength For Today

HOW MUST WE PRAY?

Often we pray as if we were afraid that God would be offended by our much asking.

Many years ago the Rev. Morton K. Kelsey, rector of a church in California, wrote: "This is the way God works. He does the most fantastic things according to man's standards. But often we cannot really believe that God could be interested in any of us creatures. He would not be willing to give us much, if indeed anything at all, so we ask for the very least we think He will grant.

"Actually, this is an insolent way to treat God. We never offend God by asking too much, only when we ask too little, then we mock Him!

"This is the whole point of Christianity — to tell us that God longs to empty the very treasure house of heaven on any one of us who asks for it. That is why He sent His son Jesus Christ, to live and teach and preach this truth."

A Gas Station 'Freak'

By TIMOTHY HARPER

Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — O.J. Thompto is a gas station freak. The dingy bells, the pungent gasoline fumes, even the grime of oil and grease: he loves it all.

Thompto, 49, makes it a particular habit to prow the isolated rural highways of the Midwest and South on auto vacations and business trips for his insurance and bonds agency.

He can't pass an old station without stopping to chat, browse and perhaps strike a deal to add to his already formidable collection of antique filling station memorabilia.

"This is something from my childhood that's leaving America," Thompto says. "It's nostalgia, from when things were simpler, easier, when people were a bit closer together."

Thompto remembers working in the tiny New Auburn, Wis., station where his father and the other area menfolk would gather.

"Gas-pump politics replaced cracker-barrel politics," he said. "We really don't have anything like that now."

Thompto, quick to point out that he began using his initials before O.J. Simpson was a gleam in a football coach's eye, has an old skinny gas pump from the 1920s in his back yard. Downstairs, his family room is crammed with stuff he has bought and begged in the three years since a whim launched this unusual hobby.

There are 30 big glass globes that used to sit atop gas pumps: the four red, white, blue and gold Standard Oil crowns, the Shell mollusk and the various domes of DX, Shel-

40 Years Ago Today

March 30, 1939

Mayor Marvin K. Blount, in an official proclamation today, called upon the citizens of Greenville to observe the "clean up, paint up and fix up" campaign to be held here beginning Tuesday, April 4.

The mayor declared that the national movement had resulted in numerous advantages to the various participating communities and said the movement should be supported as to promote general rehabilitation and beautification.

The official proclamation follows:

That whereas the national clean up, paint up and fix up campaign has resulted in many advantages to community life throughout the United States, "In safeguarding health and safety, promoting employment and relief, furthering fire protection, promoting better housing, stimulating civic pride, and making the home and city beautiful,

"Be it known that plans have been perfected for a thorough clean up, paint up and fix up campaign, beginning here on Tuesday, April 4th. In this worthy movement of cleaning, painting, repairing, and rehabilitation, we urge each citizen to do his or her best to make our community, clean, healthy, thrifty, and beautiful."

Transferral Is Approved

The Redevelopment Commission has approved, subject to City Council and Department of Housing and Urban Development concurrence, a transfer of interest between two local parties in a downtown parcel.

Commissioners, meeting in a special session this week, approved the transfer of interest in the amount of $44,000 from T & C Co. (Clarence Tugwell and Louis Clark) to HV & D Associates, a partnership involving local attorneys Mack Howard, Charles Vincent and David Duffus.

The transfer of interest involves a parcel owned by T & C Co. since August of 1975, located at the northwest corner of Third and Washington Streets. The partnership has been unable to develop the tract of approximately 12,000 square feet, which was purchased from the Redevelopment Commission for $32,060.

The new owners, subject to Council and HUD approval, will seek to be qualified as developers of the tract at the April meeting of the Redevelopment Commission.

ly, Sinclair, Unique, Fiore 100 and other oil companies.

There's a dollhouse-sized model of an old station fronted by twin brick columns, a battered five-gallon tin for Wadhams Tempered Motor Oil, several big signs, a carving used as the symbol of the Black Eagle Oil Co., a bunch of old quart oil bottles and a soda pop thermometer sign.

He values his junk at about $5,000 but says the real heart of his collection is the more than 300 photos he has collected of all sorts of gas stations: a Wadhams pagoda, a station with domes and minarets in Opa-Locka, Fla., a giant shell-shaped building in Winston-Salem, N.C., a pirate ship in Seattle and a castle in Madison that was voted "second most beautiful gas station" in a 1927 national contest.

Begin, Sadat and Carter, so he said, "Don't you have anything better?"

"The Ticketron lady replied, 'I have two over here by Henry Kissinger, but they also happen to be next to the kitchen.'"

"So we finally settled on this table. Where did you buy your seats?" the lady asked me.

I was too ashamed to admit I was there on the cuff so I said, "We got ours at the box office in front of the White House. I stood in line for two hours. My wife has never been to a peace treaty dinner before. We were going to use the money to pay the orthodontist, but my wife said since he's been waiting six months for his $1,000 he can wait a little longer."

"I'm glad I came," the lady confided to me. "We never see Begin or Sadat in Lafayette, Ind. When I get back my friends are going to be green with envy. Every time they've been in Washington and asked to buy tickets to a White House state dinner they were sold out." "Well, this is sort of a special event," I said. "In the past you had to give at least $10,000 to the Democratic or Republican Party to be invited here. But with all the large tents on the lawn they were able to reduce the price so the average person could afford it. Would you like some more roast beef?" "Yes, please. Do you think Begin or Sadat will sing?" "For $5 billion in military aid, you better believe it."

With the Egyptian fall from Arab grace, Rivalry for Arab leadership is intense between Baghdad and Cairo. As of today, Iraq has emerged as the foremost Arab leader, now speaking its revolutionary rhetoric in unison with such American friends as Jordan and Kuwait and possibly Saudi Arabia. Egypt's fall has been Iraq's windfall, and there is no ambiguity about Iraq's scorn for President Sadat or forecasts about his ultimate downfall.

"If President Carter believes that Sadat represents the Arab nation (meaning all Arab states) he is wrong. If he now believes Sadat even represents Egypt, he is misled," Saddam Hussein told us. "Sadat will soon be an outcast in his own country. It is now inevitable that he will go the way of the shah."

Ignoring the fact that Sadat's triumph in freeing his land of the Israeli invader is certain to be trumpeted day after day in the Egyptian press and seems eventually to enhance his prestige, Saddam Hussein told us: "The Sadat revolution will inevitably occur. It is not a revolution made in a factory; but it will come just as it did in Iran."

If the U.S. cannot now influence Israel on the corrosive Palestinian question and, as a result, Saddam Hussein's prophecy comes true in the wake of Arab fury, Iraq could rise further as mobilizer of Arab opinion and an obstacle to Carter's first great diplomatic success — the subject for a future column.

CORRECTION: In our last column, the Vote defeating Sen. Kennedy's attempt to restore health budget recissions should have read 55 to 42 instead of 55 to 32.

"Surroundings count — but not much. And where there is love, surroundings do not count at all."

My grandmother told me this. But for the longest time I did not understand what she meant. I thought people were a product of their environment. I thought people grew according to their circumstances: business people became merchants; religious people became clergymen; concerned people became firemen and nurses.

Now and again, I still pass slums; children playing in filthy alleys and on broken sidewalks. And I remember my questions. Where do the children of alleys sleep? How are they warmed? And how do they grow in surroundings that strangle clean air, comfort and beauty?

Grandmother could never answer all my questions. She would just smile and tell me, "Jesus Christ was born in a stable and He was the Savior of all mankind."

I understand now. Surroundings do not count at all — not where there is love. And love is found in church.

Where there is love

Committee OKs Marijuana Misdemeanor Penalty

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A House Judiciary Committee Thursday gave a favorable report to a bill which would make possession of between one and eight ounces of marijuana a misdemeanor punishable by up to two years in prison.

Anyone possessing up to 10 live marijuana plants would be subject to the same penalty. The committee gave the measure a favorable report after amending the original bill, which set limits of one pound of marijuana and 20 plants.

Rep. Allen Adams, D-Raleigh, the bill's sponsor, said he introduced it because law enforcement officers had requested a law setting misdemeanor penalties for possessing amounts of marijuana greater than one ounce.

Under the present law, possession of one ounce or less is a misdemeanor punishable by a $100 fine. Adams said there is no middle area between the $100 fine for possession of one ounce and a five-year felony penalty for possession of larger amounts. He said prosecutors want to be able to handle cases of possession of small amounts larger than one ounce without subjecting defendants to a possible felony conviction.

Plants are included in the bill, Adams said, because under present law growing marijuana in any quantity constitutes manufacture and is a felony.

The bill was amended after several legislators, including Rep. James E. Ezzell, D-Nash, said the limit of one pound and 20 plants was too high. Ezzell said an individual who had that much marijuana was doing more than smoking it socially with family and friends.

In other legislative action Thursday:

Sales Tax
The House gave tentative approval to a measure that would authorize the towns of Wrightsville Beach and Carolina Beach to pay for beach erosion control projects by levying an additional 1 percent sales tax.

The bill, which was introduced by Rep. Vernon James, D-Pasquotank, was to receive final House consideration today.

If the legislature and voters from those two towns approve the measure, it would make them the only areas in the state with a 5 percent sales tax.

The current state sales tax is 3 percent. In addition, there is a 1 percent local-option sales tax that has been approved by many counties and cities as a way to raise money for local projects.

James has said it is only fair for people all over the state to finance beach erosion control projects, rather than the property owners in the areas.

Opponents, however, said the bill would set a dangerous precedent and other towns and cities would soon be requesting an increase in sales tax.

Community Colleges
The House voted overwhelmingly, 109-4, to give tentative approval to a bill that rewrites most of the state law covering the community college system.

Although the measure makes no substantive changes, the legislators decided to delay final action until next week because of numerous questions.

Credit Cards
The House Banking committee, by a vote of 14-6, killed a bill that would have changed the method by which banks are required to compute interest on credit cards.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Eugene White, D-Caldwell, would have replaced the current average daily balance method. Under that method, if only part of the debt is paid each month, banks charge interest on the average amount owed each day.

White's proposal would have allowed interest to be charged only on the unpaid balance, a proposal banking lobbyists opposed vigorously.

Primary
A bill aimed at abolishing the state's presidential primary scheduled for next May has been filed by Rep. Mary Nesbitt, D-Buncombe.

Earlier this week, the House killed a bill that would have moved the primary to March.

Federal Money
Rep. Roy Spoon, R-Mecklenburg, has filed a resolution calling on Congress and the President to reimburse state governments for money the state spends implementing new programs mandated by federal law.

The measure carries the signature of 59 other House members. Spoon said it is patterned after a similar resolution passed by the California legislature.

Blind Bidding
A House Judiciary Committee gave a favorable report to a bill which would prohibit blind bidding in North Carolina. The committee first amended the bill to make it clear that the limitation on blind bidding referred to first-run movies.

Blind bidding is the practice by which movie theater owners must buy films before seeing them. Theater owners support the bill, saying it will keep them from buying "a pig in a poke." But the movie industry opposes it, saying it will drive up the cost of motion picture tickets. The bill now goes to the full House.

Child Abuse
The Senate approved a bill making certain forms of child abuse a felony. Child abuse is currently a misdemeanor, but the bill would make certain serious abuses — such as when a child's bone is broken or an organ or limb is damaged — a felony.

The bill now goes to the House.

Actor's Son Is Wounded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Chuck Connors' son was reported in stable condition today following 3½ hours of surgery for a gunshot wound to the stomach, suffered when he tried to stop a car theft.

Police said that after Jeff Connors, 27, was shot Thursday, two of his co-workers at a car dealership and an armed security guard who worked next door captured a young man.

Detective Walter Montgomery said Alfred Humphrey Jr., 18, of Los Angeles was booked for investigation of robbery and attempted murder. The gun used in the shooting had not been found, police said.

Fellow workers at Lou Ehlers Cadillac said Connors tried to stop a man from taking a car from the lot of the Wilshire Boulevard dealership. He was shot once in the abdomen and was taken to Cedars-Sinai Hospital.

Montgomery said the suspect was chased from the scene of the shooting and a young man was taken into custody by a security guard, an employee of an adjacent company and an employee of Lou Ehlers.

Otto Tharp, a fellow employee, said Connors "was hurting but he was conscious."

Stan Kamens, an agent for Connors' father, said authorities had told him the wound was "not a matter of life and death."

The victim's father is best known for his role in "The Rifleman" television series.

Migrant Rights Said Neglected

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A two-year study of the conditions of migrant farm workers in the state has concluded the workers' civil rights have been violated over the past 20 years.

The study, conducted by the N.C. Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, reports that law enforcement officials and state agencies have been negligent in protecting the rights of migrants. The study says laws designed to protect migrants have not been enforced.

The Rev. W.W. Finlator of Raleigh, chairman of the committee, said migrants lack the political power to ensure laws designed to protect them are properly enforced.

The draft of the report pinpoints laws designed to guarantee adequate pay and housing to migrants which it says have not been enforced, including:

—The Fair Labor Standards

Act and Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act, which require migrant crew leaders to pay workers the current applicable minimum wage and keep accurate records of earnings and hours worked. The report says these laws have not been enforced adequately by the N.C. Employment Security Commission.

—An 18th century anti-peonage law that says an employee may not be told he can't leave a work site because he owes debts.

—Farm worker housing standards, prescribed by the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

In addition to the report's findings, Finlator said that the state Rural Manpower Service permitted inter-state recruitment of migrant workers even though there was sufficient labor in the state.

JOIN US THIS SUNDAY FOR THE DEDICATION OF THE NEW GETHSEMANE PENTECOSTAL HOLINESS CHURCH IN GRIMESLAND

Worship services were first held in a small house, which was called The Mission, early 1951. The Mission started as a meeting place for prayer meetings under the direction of Rev. J.B. Edwards. As it grew, partitions were removed for added space. In August 1951, the Grimesland Pentecostal Holiness Church was officially organized under the leadership of Rev. Norman Butts and nearby ministers. Soon afterwards, a lot was purchased in Grimesland and construction of a new church began. In 1955/1956, there were three additional Sunday School rooms added to the church along with bathrooms. On April 8, 1969, under the leadership of Rev. W.M. Wooten, a new lot was purchased to build a parsonage and later a new church. After much prayer a new parsonage was built on this lot in late 1971 and early 1972 with the able assistance of Rev. Paul C. Jackson. In July, 1977 the complete indebtedness on the parsonage was paid in full. Under the direction of Rev. Danny Nelson, plans for a new church complex was approved in March of 1978 by the church body. Construction was started in May of 1978 and completed in January of 1979. Our new building has a seating capacity of 375.

We are announcing Special Sunday Services and Dedication Ceremony at the Gethsemane Pentecostal Holiness Church in Grimesland. The public is cordially invited to attend. In the morning worship at 11:00 A.M. there will be special singing. Our special guest speaker is Bishop J. Floyd Williams of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Bishop Williams is the General Superintendent of the International Pentecostal Holiness Church, Inc. At 1:00 P.M. there will be a spread lunch in the Fellowship Hall of the New Church. The Dedication Services are to begin at 2:30. The Rev. J. Doner Lee, Superintendent of the North Carolina Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church will be officiating. Pastor Danny Nelson issues a special welcome to all to come and join us in this day of praise, thanksgiving and dedication.

Doctors' Day

In honor of "Doctors' Day," today, the Pitt Co. Medical Auxiliary has presented a textbook titled, "Ophthalmology 8 Principles and Concepts," and authored by Frank Newell, to the Medical School Library at East Carolina University.

Doctors' day was first celebrated in Georgia in 1933 to honor members of the medical profession. Mar. 30 was chosen because this is the date that ether anesthesia was first used in surgery by Dr. Crawford Long in 1842. The Auxiliary to the Southern Medical Association adopted the idea in 1935 and Doctors' Day is now celebrated by medical auxiliaries in 16 southern states.

The Pitt Co. Medical Auxiliary has 99 members. Mrs. Jack Koontz is president.

Mission Plans Extension Day

The Cedar Grove Home Mission will observe its Extension Day Sunday afternoon beginning at two o'clock with dinner.

At 3 p.m., the Rev. C. Gardner and congregation of Selvia Chapel F.W.B. Church will render the service.

Mrs. Thelma Evans, president, invites the public to attend. The Rev. Kenneth Hammond is pastor.

'RFD Club' Has Social Evening

Members of the "Retired From DuPont" Club gathered at the Greenville Moose Lodge Wednesday for an evening of fellowship.

Forty-six were in attendance at the social hour followed by a buffet supper. Ward Jones, club president, conducted a short business meeting.

Music and dancing filled the entertainment portion of the evening.

All retired personnel of the duPont Co. are encouraged to join the RFD Club. Information may be obtained by contacting D.L. Harrell, Jr., 1903 Sherwood Drive, or W.M. Reading, Jr., 203 Pineview Drive; both in Greenville.

When you have a choice of plays, you should obviously select the one that offers the greater probability of success. Declarer failed to grasp this elementary principle of logic, to his great sorrow.

The bidding was straightforward. North had a close decision at his second turn, but he felt that his hand just merited a raise rather than a timid pass.

West led his fourth-best heart, and East's jack lost to the king. Declarer could count three spade tricks, two hearts and a diamond, in addition to three clubs once the suit was established, so he fired back the queen of clubs. East won the king and returned the queen of hearts, forcing out declarer's last heart stopper. When declarer persisted with the jack of clubs, East won and continued hearts. Then came the deluge. Down two.

North pointed out to declarer that he could have made the hand by going after diamonds rather than clubs. South argued that this was double-dummy analysis.

"How could I tell that diamonds were 3-2 and that East held the king," he waived.

He couldn't tell. But what other hope was there for the contract? Since there were nine hearts out, one defender had to have at least five, and they were bound to be

Rare Coincidence: A Good Show That Promises Well In Ratings

By PETER J. BOYER

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's one of those rare, happy coincidences in commercial television — a substantial, artfully constructed film that also promises to deliver good ratings.

It might seem a little crude, if not blasphemous, to consider Franco Zeffirelli's "Jesus of Nazareth" and the A.C. Nielsen ratings company in the same instant. But had "Jesus" not shown well in the ratings in its first outing two years ago, you can bet NBC wouldn't devote four nights to it, artful or not, Easter or no Easter.

But because Zeffirelli's powerful film drew an audience, an even better "Jesus of Nazareth" is being presented this time around.

Partly because of advertising problems and partly because of doubts as to its clout, NBC only allotted two 3½-hour slots for "Jesus of Nazareth" in 1977. Several minutes of Zeffirelli's eight-hour film were cut to accommodate the programming slots, including a couple of important scenes.

Not so this time. Four two-hour segments will comprise the miniseries, beginning Sunday, running on Monday and Tuesday, then concluding on Easter Sunday.

The lengthened "Jesus of Nazareth" is really more of a restoration than a stretch job. There will be "new" footage in each segment, but it is footage that Zeffirelli had intended as part of the whole film before the network took the scissors to it in 1977.

"The decision was to cut here and there, trying to make the program tighter, chipping it off, turning moving speeches into a stutter," says producer Vincenzo Labella, speaking of that first editing job. "Sometimes we had to lift entire sequences. We took out the entire sequence when Jesus meets the rich young man who asks to be a disciple and Jesus tells him, 'Sell all you have then follow me.'"

"This is very important in our time of exasperated consumerism." After seeing the ratings on the first showing, NBC and Procter and Gamble, the sponsor, "decided to give us more time," Labella says.

"The first time we had to sacrifice a lot. Now we are able to have the program as it was conceived."

The picture as conceived by Zeffirelli and Labella portrayed a very manly, intense Jesus Christ (Robert Powell), focusing on the mysterious spirituality of Christ, but also presenting him as a man. The effect of the film was truly remarkable; it was lauded by critics and viewers, and the clergy of all faiths.

In England, a study was conducted to determine the impact of the film. Six thousand three hundred twenty people were asked which source gave them the most insight into the life of Christ, the film, the Bible or their church. Forty percent answered the film, 33 percent said the Bible, and 27 said their church gave them the greatest understanding.

But if you've ever seen "Salvage 1" or "The Ropers," you know it is not beauty or strength of material that puts a program on network television. It is ratings. Labella has no illusions as to why the film is getting the full treatment this time.

"Quite frankly, because of the success of the show. When a show is successful, everybody likes it," he says.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks of companies in the nuclear-power industries declined broadly on Wall Street today as investors watched the situation at the nuclear plant near Harrisburg, Pa.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.86 at 863.91.

Advances and declines were evenly balanced in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said word of the release of more radiation today from the Pennsylvania nuclear plant where an accident occurred Wednesday touched off selling in several stocks.

General Public Utilities, the holding company which owns the Three Mile Island plant, dropped 1/2 to 16 1/4 on turnover of more than 150,000 shares before the company requested a trading halt.

Among companies which produce fuel and machinery for nuclear plants, Westinghouse Electric was down 1/4 at 18 1/2 in active trading; Combustion Engineering led 2 1/4 to 36 1/4, and Kerr-McGee fell 3/4 to 51 3/4.

Columbia Pictures, meanwhile, rose 1 1/2 to 25 after a 1 1/2-point gain Thursday. The company recently released a film, "The China Syndrome," about a fictional accident at a nuclear facility.

Analysts said investors apparently were buying the stock on the belief that the Harrisburg incident, and publicity resulting from it, would intensify interest in the movie.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .13 to 57.21. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .16 at 179.77.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 12.71 million shares at noon, against 13.99 million at the same point Thursday.

Bomb Kills British MP

LONDON (AP) — A bomb blast ripped through an automobile just outside the House of Commons today and killed Airey Neave, a member of Parliament and right-hand man of Conservative Party leader Margaret Thatcher, the British Press Association reported.

Police reported that the bomb went off as the car, described as a blue Vauxhall and apparently driven by Neave, was at an entrance ramp leading to the underground parking garage at the sprawling Palace of Westminster, the seat of Parliament on the River Thames.

Second Umpire Signs But 50 On Sidelines

CHICAGO (AP) — Paul Pryor of the National League has become the first veteran umpire to sign a contract for the 1979 season and may be the only regular working when the major league season begins next Wednesday.

Pryor agreed to a two-year contract this week, joining rookie American League umpire Ted Hendry, who had signed his contract before the current dispute began. Hendry reported for spring training this week in Arizona after receiving clearance from the umpires association.

That leaves 50 umpires still on the sidelines and they were scheduled to meet here today with attorney Richie Phillips for an update on their situation.

Following a federal court judge's ruling this week that he could not order the umpires back to work, the two leagues advised the officials that they would have until today to sign their contracts. If they fail to sign by today, they were advised that they would be replaced and could be rehired only when staff openings were available.

Phillips said that was the sixth ultimatum the umpires have received since the dispute began. At issue are the salaries and working conditions of the umpires, who are asking for increases from a current minimum of $17,500 to $23,500 and a current maximum of just over $40,000 to $60,000.

"Last year, six umpires earned less than $20,000, 12 were below $25,000, 20 below $30,000, 11 below $40,000 and three over $40,000," Phillips said.

Tiger Manager Likes Problem

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Detroit Tigers Manager Les Moss may be drawing straws before the weekend's over. He needs to trim his pitching staff, but his youngsters are not cooperating.

On Thursday, two of them combined with veteran reliever John Hiller to two-hit the Boston Red Sox, strike out 12 — including Jim Rice four times in a row — and give the Tigers a 6-2 victory.

Steve Baker, a 22-year-old right-hander who appeared in 15 games with Detroit last season, started for the Tigers, striking out five and allowing both hits and both runs in five innings.

Sheldon Burnside, a 24-year-old lefty, handled the next three innings, striking out six, and Hiller handled the last inning, chalking up the 12th strikeout — Mr. Rice again.

Moss' problem is that he wants to carry nine pitchers, so he must cut Baker, Burnside or 24-year-old Jack Morris.

In other exhibition contests, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati 7-5, the New York Mets blanked St. Louis 4-0, Montreal edged Texas 5-4, Pittsburgh clipped Baltimore 6-5, Toronto got by Kansas City 5-3, Cleveland edged California 8-7, Oakland downed Seattle 4-2, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Yankees 4-1 and the Chicago Cubs whitewashed San Francisco 5-0.

Atlanta lost a pair, the Braves' A squad bowing 13-10 to Minnesota and their B squad losing to Houston 2-1. San Diego vs. Milwaukee was canceled because of wet grounds.

Philadelphia got two-run homers from Bake McBride and Pete Mackanin, and Pete Rose made his debut as a Phillie against his former teammates.

Rose grounded out three times and flied out once, getting a mixed reception from the Reds' home crowd at Tampa, Fla.

Three Mets pitchers — Wayne Twitchell, Skip Lockwood and Mike Bruhart — combined on a two-hitter, striking out 12, to stymie the Cards. Bruhart also delivered a run-scoring grounder in the Mets' three-run eighth inning.

Gary Carter drove in the tying run with a double, then scored the game-winner on Jerry White's single in the eighth inning as the Expos topped Texas.

Bill Robinson and Rennie Stennett each had two-run homers to power the Pirates past Baltimore.

Dave McKay's two-run single in the fifth inning lifted Toronto over Kansas City, and Gary Alexander tripled in the ninth to drive in the winning run as Cleveland downed the Angels.

Jeff Newman singled three pace the White Sox past the times, driving in two runs, to Yankees.

Cubs starter Lynn McGlothen and Claudell Washington drove pitched five shutout innings and in two runs and scored once to keyed a two-run, third-inning rally against his former team-mates, the Giants, with a double.

Dave Edwards drove in three runs and Bombo Rivera had two RBI in Minnesota's win over Atlanta's A squad. Houston starter Joaquin Andujar, meanwhile, tossed a three-hitter against the Braves' B team.

Angels Seen As Winners In The West

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The balance of power may be shifting from Kansas City to California in the American League West, thanks in large part to the trading policies of the Minnesota Twins.

The Twins made two major winter deals with the Angels and as a result, perennial batting champion Rod Carew is now working in California along with outfielder Dan Ford. In exchange for those two, the Angels surrendered six players, none of whom figured prominently in their 1979 plans.

The Royals have won three straight division crowns with essentially the same team and shoots for No. 4 with very few changes. The question is whether they'll be able to hold off the improved Angels and the ambitious Texas Rangers. After those three, Minnesota and Chicago occupy the middle of the division, with Oakland and Seattle in the rear.

1978 Finish — Kansas City, California, Texas, Minnesota, Chicago, Oakland, Seattle.

1979 Prediction — California, Kansas City, Texas, Minnesota, Chicago, Oakland, Seattle.

The Angels did an effective job of plugging their holes over the winter. Besides getting Carew, baseball's best hitter, to play first base, California acquired Ford to replace the late Lyman Bostock in the outfield, and free agent Jim Barr for the bullpen.

Manager Jim Fregosi figures to open with an infield of Carew at first, Bobby Grich at second, third baseman Carney Lansford, and either Dave Chalk or Rance Mulliniks at shortstop. Ford, Joe Rudi and Rick Miller are the outfielders, with Don Baylor the designated hitter and Brian Downing catching.

The pitching is headed by superstars Frank Tanana and Nolan Ryan and backed by Don Aase, Chris Knapp and Dave Frost. Barr joins a bullpen that includes Ken Brett, Dyer Miller and Dave LaRoche.

Kansas City presents the same cast that has won three straight division titles. Manager Whitey Herzog has shuffled it a bit though, trying to get more mileage out of speedy Willie Wilson. "If Wilson plays fulltime, he'll steal 100 bases," the manager said.

That explains the spring training experiment switching Amos Otis to first base. If it works, Wilson will work in center field, flanked by Al Cowens and either Clint Hurdle, Tom Poquette, Steve Braun, Hal McRae or even Otis in left field.

George Brett missed most of spring training with an injured thumb, but he'll be the everyday third baseman, with Freddie Patek at short, Frank White at second and either Otis or Pete LaCock or John Wathan at first. The catcher is Darrell Porter.

The return of Steve Busby strengthens the Royals pitching staff with Paul Splittorff, Dennis Leonard, Larry Gura and Rich Gale the main starters and the Mad Hungarian, Al Hrabosky, the No. 1 man out of the bullpen.

Texas did some housecleaning over the winter and new Manager Pat Corrales will have a some new faces. The rebuilt bullpen has Sparky Lyle and Jim Kern, as good a lefty-righty combination as there is in the league. The new shortstop is rookie Nelson Norman and the new third baseman is Buddy Bell, acquired from Cleveland for Toby Harrah. Oscar Gamble, who came over from San Diego for Mike Har- grove, becomes the DH, with veteran Mike Jorgensen battling rookies Pat Putnam, Gary Gray and Dan Duren for Har- grove's old first base job. Second baseman Bump Wills completes the infield and Al Oliver, Richie Zisk and John Grubb or Bill Sample will be the out- fielders, with Jim Sundberg, one of the best in the business, the catcher.

Fergie Jenkins, Jon Matlack, Dock Ellis and Steve Comer figure as the starting rotation, with Lyle and Kern ready to pick them up.

Minnesota didn't exactly give Carew and Ford away and receive nothing in return. Third baseman Ron Jackson and first baseman-catcher Danny Good- win came over for Ford. Carew brought outfielder Ken Land- reaux and pitcher Paul Hart- zell. All four figure prominently in Manager Gene Mauch's plans for the Twins.

Jackson, Goodwin and Land- reaux will be everyday players along with shortstop Roy Smal- ley and catcher Butch Wyn- gar. Hartzell moves into a pitching rotation constructed around newcomer Jerry Koos- man, and returnees Dave Goltz, Roger Erickson and Geoff Zahn. Free agent Mike Mar- shall decided to stick around and is the main man out of the bullpen.

Shortstop Don Kessinger will double as the manager of the Chicago White Sox and needs some good medical luck for his club to contend. The White Sox looked like General Hospital last year with injuries to outfielders Claudell Washington, Chet Lemon, Wayne Nordhagen and Thad Bosley, infielders Jorge Orto and Alan Bannister and pitchers Pablo Torrealba and Ron Schueler all sidelined for extended periods.

All are back in working order and could play significant roles on Kessinger's club. The Sox also have one of the most interesting rookies, 5-foot-3 Harry Chappas, who's trying to beat the manager out of the short- stop job.

Torrealba joins a pitching staff headed by Francisco Bar- rios, Ken Dravec, Mike Proly and Jack Kueck. The Sox also like these young arms such as Ross Baumgarten, Rich Wor- tham and Steve Trout, son of a onetime Tiger star.

Eric Soderholm will play third base, Orta is at second and Lamar Johnson at first, with Lemon, Washington and probably Ralph Garr or Bob Molinaro in the outfield and Bill Nahorodny catching.

Oakland has another new manager, no novelty for Charlie Finley's A's. This time Jim Marshall is in the hot seat, hoping for some maturity from the club that led the division for much of the first two months last season.

Mitchell Page is Oakland's best offensive player and speedster Miguel Dilone will join him the outfield. The third job is open with Dell Alston, Glenn Burke, Joe Wallis and Tony Armas among the candi- dates.

Marshall likes his young pitching staff, especially John Henry Johnson, Matt Keough and Alan Wirth, all of whom had good rookie years. Other pitchers include starter Rick Langford and relievers Dave Heaverlo and Bob Lacey.

The A's could use some punch from first baseman Dave Revering and third baseman Wayne Gross with Jim Essian and Jeff Newman sharing the catching.

Seattle feels the addition of Odell Jones and Floyd Bannis- ter, both obtained in winter trades, should strengthen the Mariners' pitching staff. They join Glenn Abbott, Paul Mit- chell, Byron McLaughlin and Rick Honeycutt.

Manager Darrell Johnson likes his infield with Bill Stein at third base, newcomer Mario Mendoza at shortstop, Julio Cruz at second base and Dan Meyer at first. Leon Roberts and Ruppert Jones hold down two of the outfield jobs.

Kicks In A Birdie

Watson Leads Hungry Field

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — From the lofty plateau of his advanced age — 29 — Tom Watson viewed the PGA tour.

"At one time, players came on the tour from the caddy ranks and learned to play out here," he said.

"Now they're coming out of the colleges and they know how to play when they get here. The competition is much, much greater."

"The average age of the win- ners is lower. Younger players are winning all the time."

"There are all these 22 and 23-year-olds out here now who know how to play. They're strong and hungry and com- pletely unafraid."

He paused a moment and flashed his Tom Sawyer grin. "Listen to me. I'm going to turn 30 this year. I'm a veter- an. Old Tom."

Well, Old Tom is still doing just fine, thank you. He deliv- ered his remarks Thursday round of the 6-under-par 65 that staked the 1977 and 1978 Player of the Year to a 1-stroke lead in the first round of the $300,000 Heritage Classic.

Watson, winner of the 1977 Masters, two British Opens and the heir apparent to Jack Nick- laus' role as the game's pre- mier performer, hit every fair- way, missed one green, didn't come close to making a bogey and played the back side in 31. "I'd been disappointed in the way I was playing," said Wat- son, who marked up his third runnerup finish of the year last week in the howling winds of Sawgrass at the Tournament Players Championship. "I started playing a little better in the last two rounds last week. This was just a carry-over."

Lanny Wadkins, who played so well in the windswept ter- rors of Sawgrass last week to beat Watson by 5 shots, said very much the same thing.

"Just a good, solid round," Wadkins said after a late-after- noon 66 put him a single shot back.

He, too, got around the diffi- cult Harbour Town Golf Links without a bogey and was a single shot in front of George Burns and Jerry Pate, who had 67s.

Miller Barber, Phil Hancock, Tim Simpson and Doug Tewell were next at 68. Lon Hinkle topped a big group at 69.

Wedman Returning To Old Form After Wreck; Aids In Kings' Win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Scott Wedman says he's "just getting back in shape after the auto accident," but he had enough strength to trim the Clippers' sails in San Diego.

Wedman scored 19 points, while Phil Ford and Bill Robinson added 18 each as the Kansas City Kings broke a five-game win drought and beat San Diego 116-111 in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night.

"I'm not playing as long as I used to," said Wedman, who was on the court for 30 minutes. "But I feel pretty good. More than anything, I'm getting my endurance. We jumped out early, we haven't been doing that. We played good defense."

Wedman missed eight games after his Porsche skidded on a patch of ice a mile from his home on March 5. He suffered bruises and two slight shoulder separations when he was thrown through the car's fiberglass roof.

The Clippers were uninspired through the first half and were down at one time by 13 points in the second quarter before battling back.

The Kings broke a 69-69 deadlock in the third period when they rattled off six consecutive points, then outscored San Diego 14-4 to lead by 10 and the Clippers never seriously threatened.

All five Kings starters and two reserves finished in double figures. Sam Lacey scored 16 points, Otis Birdsong — who fouled out — contributed 13, and reserves Darnell Hillman and Lucius Allen each added 11.

San Diego's Lloyd Free, the NBA's second-leading scorer, led the contest with 37 points, but the Clippers saw their 11-game home victory string snapped.

Blazers 120, Cavaliers 103

Portland got a balanced attack led by Maurice Lucas' 24 points and shone on defense to turn back Cleveland.

"We have to play like this every night to make it," Coach

Gas shortages may be on way

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is predicting motorists could find gasoline in short supply this summer due to the Iranian revolution and that it will cost at least three to four cents more a gallon than now.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a House committee Thursday that unless Iranian production is restored quickly, there will be a gasoline shortage of "noticeable but not crippling" severity during the summer driving season.

Today's Cryptquip clue: T equals E

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Abandoned In Despair

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — At least three cases of abandoned babies have been reported in the two Carolinas in recent weeks.

Mecklenburg County social service workers say women who leave their children to be found usually do so as an act of despair.

"There's a lot of publicity about social agencies and adoption, so you wouldn't think they're doing it because they don't know where to take the child," said Mary Potts, head of the child-welfare division of the Mecklenburg Social Services Department. "They're probably under terrific pressure and stress."

The most recent case of child abandonment occurred in Greenville, S.C., last Sunday when a lady handed a baby to Anne Land at her front door and then fled in a car.

Ms. Potts said most children are left where they will be found in a short time. She said many mothers leave formulas with the child.

Joan Rosemond, head of the early intervention program at Mecklenburg Mental Health Services said she thought women who abandon babies have no place to turn for help.

"I think they're probably mothers without any roots, women who are transient. They're probably women who have no close family ties, who have no support in the community — mostly younger women of a low socio-economic status," she said.

In order for an abandoned child to be adopted, the courts must terminate parental rights — a process that usually takes at least six months.

Guest Preacher Leads Services

A series of special services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday through Tuesday with the Rev. L. Randolph Harrison, DD, as guest preacher.

He is pastor of the Presbyterian Church, Lexington, Va. The theme of the series will be "Commitment to Christ and His Church."

A native of Norfolk, Va., Dr. Harrison was graduated from Hampden-Sydney College and Union Theological Seminary, where he received the master of divinity degree. In 1973, he received the M.A. degree from Presbyterian School of Christian Education and in 1976, Hampden-Sydney honored him with the degree of doctor of divinity.

He is married to the former

Helene Cortez of Fortaleza, Ceara, Brazil, and they have three children.

DR. L. RANDOLPH HARRISON

The public is invited to attend the services which will start at 9 and 11 a.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Sunday through Tuesday. The Rev. Richard R. Gammon and the Rev. Gerald M. Anders are ministers of the local church.
