

Report Actual Drop In Business Profits

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business profits continued at record levels in the first three months of this year, with much of the gain attributed to inflation, the government said today.

But when adjusted for taxes and inflation, profits from current production actually showed a 6 percent drop in the first quarter to an annual $166 billion total, a Commerce Department statement said.

"That's the first decline since the first quarter of last year, when weather was awful and there was a coal strike," said department spokesman Kenneth A. Petrick.

At the same time, the Commerce Department reduced its estimate of the nation's firstquarter economic growth from 0.7 percent to 0.4 percent. "The slowdown was attributable to sales," said a department statement.

Before-tax profits for the first quarter were at an annual rate of $226.9 billion, up 0.9 percent from the fourth quarter of 1978, the statement said.

The new total eclipsed the record $224.9 billion in profits at an annual rate in the last three months of 1978. Profits were $54.8 billion, or 32 percent, ahead of those of the first quarter last year.

The department attributed much of the increase to a higher valuation of inventories because of inflation.

Fourth-quarter profits last year, adjusted for taxes and inventory inflation, had been $176.6 billion on an annual basis.

The Commerce Department also reported that the nation's gross national product, the total value of output of goods and services in the economy, grew at an 0.4 percent annual rate, down from an 0.7 percent rate estimated previously.

The lower figure showed the economy dipping close to the recession level, although economists expect a rebound in the second quarter. A recession is said to occur when the economy shows negative growth for two consecutive quarters, and there are widespread predictions of a mild recession beginning later this year.

The report two months ago that pre-tax corporate profits in the final quarter of 1978 were 26.4 percent ahead of the fourth quarter of 1977 drew howls from labor officials and from Alfred Kahn, the president's chief inflation fighter.

"Profit gouging," charged AFL-CIO President George Meany.

"It's a dramatic figure, and it's bad," said Kahn.

The problem, of course, is that the government is attempting to slow the rate of inflation by getting voluntary cooperation with wage and price guidelines.

Kahn and others fear that, if corporate profits rise rapidly, it will be difficult to convince workers to abide by the guidelines, which call for wage increases of no more than 7 percent a year. Prices are to be held half a percentage point below 1976-77 increases.

$10.5 Million Awarded In Death Of Silkwood

By MICHAEL BATES
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A federal court jury today awarded the Karen Silkwood estate $10.5 million in damages in connection with the plutonium contamination suit against Kerr-McGee Corp.

The jury awarded $505,000 in actual damages and $10 million in punitive damages. District Court Judge Frank G. Theis had ordered the courtroom sealed when the jury returned this morning after sending word that it had reached a verdict.

The jurors had resumed deliberations this morning just under two hours before they reached the verdict. On Thursday, they asked a question that touched off heated in-chambers debate, then decided to work through the evening. But they retired without announcing a decision and returned to the jury room shortly after 9 a.m. today.

The three-man, three-woman jury passed a note to the judge Thursday that said: "In instruction number 18, what does physical injury mean?"

Several witnesses during the 10-week trial testified Miss Silkwood told them she felt she was dying. Her survivors are suing the Kerr-McGee Corp., alleging negligence in connection with her contamination with plutonium from the company's nuclear fuel plant, where she worked as a lab technician.

Kerr-McGee claims Miss Silkwood stole the plutonium and contaminated herself, probably while attempting to spike her urine samples to embarrass the company. She died in a Nov. 13, 1974, car crash.

Commandos Hit PLO In Lebanon

SARAFAND, Lebanon (AP) — More than 150 Israeli commandos stormed ashore behind a barrage from missile boats and helicopter gunships and fought a savage, two-hour battle with guerrilla defenders at a Palestinian coastal base in southern Lebanon before pulling out, guerrilla commanders and local authorities reported today.

The attack, involving machine guns, grenades and armor-piercing rockets, came as Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin offered to meet with Jordan's King Hussein for peace talks and an Israeli Cabinet committee endorsed Begin's plan for Palestinian autonomy despite Defense Minister Ezer Weizman's opposition.

Guerrilla commanders in this Palestinian-controlled town said the fighting occurred Thursday night in guerrilla-held areas between the towns of Insariyeh and Adloun overlooking southern Lebanon's Mediterranean highway 21 miles north of the Israeli frontier. The scene was two miles south of Sarafand and 40 miles south of Beirut.

The Israeli command in Tel Aviv said the commandos blew up a Palestinian training camp near Adloun, destroyed buildings and ammunition stockpiles, killed an undisclosed number of guerrillas, and that all of the attackers returned safely.

The guerrillas reported a Palestinian and a Lebanese were wounded and said "many" Israelis were killed or wounded and evacuated by helicopter.

The raid was made two days after a Palestinian terrorist bomb killed two teen-age boys.

Missing Sister Is Found After Years Of Absence

By CAROL TYER

FALKLAND — Roberta Williams Tyson left here in 1934 with a crew that was to dig Irish potatoes and pick strawberries up and down the East Coast.

Her family heard from her occasionally for a while, but after the early part of 1936, never again — until last week.

Last Wednesday, May 9, two of her sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Dupree and Mrs. Mary Ella Johnson, each got a letter from her. She was a patient at Barrow Geriatric Center in Petersburg, Va.

"I've never seen my wife any happier," Charlie Dupree said. "She got on the phone and called the Center, which is a part of Central State Hospital in Petersburg."

"The administrators made arrangements for her to talk to her sister."

"I asked Roberta all kinds of questions — who her mama was, who her daddy was, to name some of her sisters. And I hollered with joy and thanked the Lord when she gave me all the right answers," Mrs. Dupree said. "The sister we'd thought was dead for more than 40 years is alive!"

Mrs. Dupree told the hospital administrators she'd be there Saturday to visit her sister. "But I couldn't wait," she said, "Charlie took me up there Friday."

Day before yesterday, Wednesday, Mrs. Dupree visited the hospital again and brought her 73-year-old sister home — home to Falkland, a town Mrs. Tyson remembered with wood on buildings and a previous generation of people.

"She asked about the Mayos and the Pittmans and Nelson Hopkins and all the aunts and uncles and, of course, our parents," Mrs. Dupree said. "She spoke of houses that have long since burned or fallen down. Only a few of the people she named, we've been able to reintroduce her to. None of the buildings look the same."

"Mama and Daddy are gone, of course, and two of our brothers and two of our sisters are dead, but she's got five sisters left. And she has a daughter, Ernestine that we raised who now lives on Long Island, N. Y. and has children and grandchildren of her own."

The hospital officials told Mrs. Dupree that Mrs. Tyson was admitted to the hospital in 1936. For 43 years she had lived in that institution. She

A HOTLINE APPEAL

HOME SITES NEEDED

The Pitt County Association for Retarded Citizens is seeking two sites in residential areas of Pitt County, preferably in Greenville, for homes built especially for retarded citizens. It is expected that about $100,000 will be spent on each of these homes.

Sites must meet standards of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, the agency from which the money for these homes has been borrowed by the State Association for Retarded Citizens.

"These homes are needed," said Ronald Rice, president of the local ARC, "for people who are capable of working and making their own livings under supervisions, who have been law-abiding citizens, but who have limited mental capabilities. Some of these might be persons released from mental retardation centers because of the progress they have made, while others might be retarded persons who have outlived their parents and need a home."

Members of the committee seeking two sites for which the Association is prepared to pay the going price are Dr. William B. Martin, Dr. Kenneth Quiggins and Vann Latham. Any of these persons or Rice may be contacted. The phone numbers are as follows: Rice — 756-2723; Martin, 756-1672; Quiggins, 756-2968; and Latham, 752-5596. (See related article.)

New Operations Center

MOVING DAY — Members of the Greenville Utilities work force make final wiring additions in the new operations center this morning as moving began. The new center is located on Mumford Road and the cost of the facility was set at $1.7 million by utility officials. The new center will house the control and computer center for the utilities and dispatch point. Also included in the center will be a warehouse, supervisor offices, lounge, garages, and repair departments for meters, and transformers. The new buildings replace a 75 year old structure located off Third Street. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

C-Of-C Board Opposing Fire-Rescue Separation

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of the Board of Directors of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce went on record at a Thursday meeting to oppose the separation of fire and rescue services in Greenville, and to support the $9 million School Bond Referendum to be held June 8.

Tom Parrish, chairman of the Chamber's Local Concerns Committee, emphasized that in the Chamber's stand of opposition to separating the two services, members of the committee "recognize that both the fire and rescue systems" now operating in Greenville provide "excellent services."

The Chamber's decision to oppose separation and to opt for integration was made following a four-months long study of the situation.

Parrish pointed out that their study shows that Greenville is one of the very few North Carolina towns of more than 20,000 that is without an integrated fire-rescue system.

Principal among several basic reasons the committee feels that eventual integration of the two services will best serve the interests of Greenville and its residents are:

— It would allow for greater and wider distribution of emergency service in the case of a catastrophic incident.

— It would permit the placement of rescue personnel at the Memorial Drive Fire Department, cutting down on the response time to rescue operations in the western part of Greenville.

— Integration would result in considerable economic savings as well as better utilization of training programs for both divisions.

Parrish said that whatever decision the City Council makes, it is imperative that

House Panels Begin Probe Of Shortages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is there a real gasoline shortage? Are motorists being overcharged? Two House panels are launching an inquiry seeking answers to these questions "once and for all."

Public suspicions about the reality of fuel shortages "are at their highest level since the Arab oil embargo of 1973," says Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas, chairman of the House subcommittee on oversight and investigations.

Eckhardt said Thursday many Americans still don't believe the fuel shortages are real. His panel and the House energy and power subcommittee were holding a joint hearing today to look into the present West Coast gas shortages and the chance they soon will spread east.

He said the Carter administration — which now is predicting a 5 percent gasoline shortage this summer — has done little to effectively persuade Americans that oil shortages aren't contrived by big oil companies.

"We intend to get beyond the rumors and fiction to put the facts on the public record for once and for all," Eckhardt said.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the second panel conducting the inquiry, claimed that "gasoline pricing violations appear to be at a record high equalled only by public suspicions of the oil industry's responsibility for current shortages."

Meanwhile, Dingell said he sees considerable congressional support for a proposal by Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., that would require motorists to leave their cars home one day a week to conserve fuel.

The new plan, being drafted with the encouragement of the White House and House leadership, also would tentatively limit gasoline sales nationally to at least $5 per car to keep motorists from "topping off" their tanks with small purchases.

Under the proposal, car windshields would have to bear stickers displaying a number from one to seven

System Of Day Care Centers For Delinquents

By LISA ADLER
SANTA MONICA, Calif.
(UPI) — They are urban updates of the little red schoolhouse.

Youngsters of varying ages work side-by-side in a single room. The lone teacher instructs each child individually. But these are not average students in an ordinary school-room. The students at Community Day Center schools throughout California are chronic juvenile offenders, wards of the court living at home with their parents.

Community Day Centers are alternative public schools for students who cannot or will not function in normal high schools, according to Jerry Sloan, superintendent of the Los Angeles County Special Schools section. Students are assigned by the juvenile court to attend the CDCs as a term of probation.

CDC students all have arrest records, some simply for truancy but many for grand theft auto. Most have been expelled from at least one high school. They are, as a rule, a little on the scruffy side and fond of obscenities.

For many of them, the Community Day Center is the last resort before they are assigned to youth camp or a probation center for juvenile criminals.

"The CDCs are an attempt to keep youngsters out of the juvenile justice system," Sloan said. "CDCs are there to assist the youngster in completing a high school diploma and maintaining and continuing the educational process."

Called storefront schools in some areas, each CDC classroom has about 20 students and a special curriculum is developed for each pupil. Academic work is completed at the student's own pace. The youngsters do not compete with each other.

Melvin Peters teaches 25 students at the Santa Monica CDC, aided only by probation officer Linda Hicks.

"These kids have been shuttled around. They have a lot of problems," Peters said. "A lot of them were failing in regular school. They felt rejected by both their parents and the school."

He said his students' attitudes run the gamut from antagonism to "failure syndrome." Many are far below the academic level for their age group. Some 11th graders can barely manage 5th grade reading.

"I try to give them a feeling of success, make them think they're worth something. These kids are really very childlike. They have no idea how to take responsibility for themselves."

Many of the students told of using drugs, running with gangs and of varying degrees of violent activity.

Arnold Schindler, principal of all six Los Angeles CDCs, said the return rate for CDC students is minimal, perhaps as low as 5 percent. Some of his students have gone on to college and one was elected student body president of his junior college class.

Schindler said he believes the small classroom size coupled with consistent, individualized attention accounted for the CDCs success.

"I see a great change in many of them," he said. "They really get turned around."

Birthday Party Held Friday

Robert Dorney was honored Saturday with a surprise birthday party held at St. Peter's Parish Hall given by his children, Bobby, Kathy and Diane.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tronto escorted Mr. and Mrs. Dorney.

Dorney was roasted by Kevin Cunningham, master of ceremonies, Allan Boyer, Thomas Butler, Frank Flower, George Iaboni, Larry Lamb, William McCluskey, Thomas Shea and Tronto.

Guests included Father J. Paul Byron, relatives and friends, who remembered Dorney with gifts.

The refreshment table was accented with flowers and two birthday cakes. Mrs. Thomas Butler, Mrs. William Belleshein and Mrs. Joseph Pellegrini served cake and coffee was poured by Mrs. John Kozlowski. Butler and Iaboni assisted in serving. Music was provided by McCluskey.

Parents, Beware Of Old Refrigerators

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday our 4-year-old daughter disappeared suddenly. One minute she was beside me in the kitchen, and the next minute she was gone. I nearly went crazy looking for her in the yard, in and out of the neighbors' houses, searching frantically with tears in my eyes and a lump in my throat.

Finally, just before sundown, when I was nearly exhausted and hysterical, a neighbor spotted an old refrigerator stored in the corner of our garage! He opened the door and out tumbled my daughter, blue and practically lifeless. With the help of a quick-thinking neighbor and the fire department, the child was revived, and thank God, now she is all right.

Abby, please urge parents to position discarded refrigerators with the doors turned toward the wall so kids can't open them. If anything had happened to my child, I'd never have forgiven myself.

THANKING GOD

DEAR THANKING: I appreciate the timely reminder. Parents, please REMOVE the doors from stored refrigerators, cabinets or other potential "coffins" for curious and adventuresome children.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old high school junior. A year ago I was raped on my way to school. I believe I have dealt with the situation very well, but my problem is this: Am I still considered a virgin?

I realize that technically and physically I probably am not, but since this was done without my consent and cooperation, in another way of looking at it I'm still a virgin. (I never "gave" myself to anyone. My virginity was taken from me.) This question has bothered me a lot and I hope you can give me an answer since I respect your opinion very much.

I am signing my real name, but if you print this, please sign it...

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Putting the physical and technical aspects aside, you are as virtuous as a virgin. And you certainly may consider yourself virginal.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman, expecting my first child in three months.

Last month my husband's grandfather died. He was loved and respected by all who knew him. The entire family felt a tremendous loss.

My husband's family has let me know that our child is to be named after Grandpa Albert. If the baby is a girl, she will be named Alberta, I am told.

I, too, loved Grandpa Albert, but I hate that name. If offered a compromise, saying I will use Albert or Alberta for the child's middle name, but not for the first name.

My husband and his family insist that it has to be Albert or Alberta.

Can you help me?

EXPECTING

DEAR EXPECTING: It appears to be you against your husband and his family. I think they are unfair to demand that you give your child a name that you dislike. Your compromise seems fair enough to me. Stick to your guns. If you lose, your child will bear the name of one of the world's most brilliant scientists.

Revenues Are Basis For Operating City Services

This is the final in a series of articles, prepared by the city government, concerning the proposed 1979-80 budget.

The basis for providing funds for the various city operations are directly related to its revenues.

Local, state, and federal revenues make it possible for the city to support infrastructure operational costs and added requests for various services.

Property taxes are the backbone of the city's revenue. The great growth Greenville has experienced and the increased levels of services extended during the present decade, have been made possible through various increased state shared revenues. Federal funds have also assisted the city in obtaining needed funds.

The most important state shared revenue resource has been the one-cent local option sales tax that is distributed by the state to the county. The city's distribution of the tax which went into effect in 1971 is based on population.

Revenues from sales tax have continued to grow. City officials estimate that Greenville will receive $750,000 during the present fiscal year. Unlike many other sources of revenue, it will continue to provide a source of additional funds which are related to inflation.

Franchise tax revenues have also provided continued growth in additional funds for the city. It is anticipated that Greenville will receive $685,000 before the end of the present fiscal year.

The franchise tax represents three percent of the gross receipts tax for private utility companies. Rising utilities costs have caused increased franchise tax revenues for the city.

Other state revenues have contributed significantly to solve the problems of needed funds such as beer and wine and intangibles taxes.

These taxes have contributed over $200,000 to the city this year. Unlike the sales tax and franchise tax, their growth is constant.

During the administration of Governor Bob Scott, the gasoline tax (Powell Bill) was increased from one-half cent to one cent per gallon.

The formula was changed with the new bill, and its present distribution is based on one-fourth of the mileage of accepted streets and three-fourths on the population. Greenville's first payment under the new formula was $341,645 compared to the last payment under the old formula of $149,289.

Since funds from the Powell Bill, sales tax and beer and wine taxes are primarily based on population, the city has begun a population study so that the city may receive a higher certified population from the state.

The city's tax base has not kept pace with community needs. One principal reason is because revaluation is only done every eight years, the last in 1973. Presently any new construction in Greenville is based on 1973 values.

Growth in tax valuation during the last four fiscal years has averaged only 6.4 percent. Last year, it was necessary for the first time in four years to increase the city's tax rate.

The city provides various programs and services to the citizens of the area, such as recreation, rescue and the library. Relatively small outside revenues have been received by the city to support the rescue and recreation functions.

Only a small amount of funds are derived from the non-resident recreation fees established by the City Council several years ago.

A substantial source of revenue for the city has been the turnover from the Utilities Commission. This year the city received $636,000 and it is anticipated that during 1979-80 the city will receive $915,000 from the Utilities Commission.

There are no other locally administered revenues that contribute substantially to the city's budget.

FEDERAL REVENUES
Greenville has benefitted from federal funds which are best illustrated by its urban renewal projects. Funding for redevelopment projects was replaced by Community Development funds.

Funding for the next fiscal year for Community Development will be on a scaled-down basis and is estimated at $619,000. This amount represents one-third of the first year's allocation.

These funds have provided an opportunity for the city to carry out projects that couldn't otherwise have been funded in the city's budget. Such projects have included housing rehabilitation, code enforcement, numerous recreation projects, thoroughfares, sidewalks, and paving unpaved streets. Additionally, these funds have provided for additional personnel which in some instances will have to be picked up by the city when funds terminate.

The city will apply again next year for Community Development discretionary funding for the proposed Evans Street Project which is estimated to cost $2.1 million. Such funding will provide less flexibility in carrying out projects compared to the present hold-harmless Community Development funds.

Greenville has relied heavily on General Revenue Sharing Funds for operational and capital needs. The payments have varied throughout the years and have declined in the last several years. Distribution of these funds are determined on a national and state basis primarily through tax efforts.

In recent years, other federal funds have assisted city operations. Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds have provided for personnel and equipment in the Police Department. Other federal funding include ACTION, various CETA programs and Anti-Recession. Even though the funds have been very beneficial in improving the level of service in various departments, it places an added personnel cost on the city once the federal funds are terminated.

Urban Mass Transportation funds will not only provide capital but operational funds. The basis for the operating subsidy is up to one-half of the previous fiscal year's net cost of operations. At this point, it is not assured that these funds will be made available in subsequent years.

This concludes the five-part series of articles concerning information about the City of Greenville's 1979-80 proposed budget. The budget will be submitted to the City Council prior to June 1, 1979, and will be available for public review at the City Manager's office,

City Clerk's office and Shepard Memorial Library.

Ceremony Marks 1954 Supreme Court Ruling

The 25th anniversary of the historic 1954 U.S. Supreme Court decision in "Brown vs. Board of Education," which held that segregation in public education is unconstitutional, was observed yesterday in a noon-time ceremony on the steps of the Pitt County Court House and in a program at the York Memorial AME Zion Church last night.

During the court house ceremony, D. D. Garrett, president of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, presented R. L. Martin, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners with a proclamation, and urged positive action by officials to fully implement the principles of equality in education.

According to the Proclamation, the Supreme Court decision, "served as the catalyst for the shifting of judicial sanctions from that of segregation to desegregation and the elimination of legal barriers to equal opportunities," as well as, "the basis for enactment of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, 1965, and 1968, thereby providing greater assurance of equal opportunity in employment, equal access to public accommodations, housing and desegregated education."

Saying that there continues to be "resistance to meaningful implementation of these civil rights laws," at many levels, the proclamation continued: "We hereby proclaim May 17, 1979 as a day for all citizens to rededicate themselves to the ideals and principles of equality and justice," and "call upon all elected officials and citizens to exert active individual leadership in making equality a reality for all Americans."

"This was to us a milestone," Garrett emphasized, urging, "the whole community to really work" toward truly equal opportunity for everyone.

Doubt Mexico Oil Estimate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 40 billion barrels of oil Mexico has claimed to hold in proved reserves is far too high an estimate, the Los Angeles Times reported petroleum experts as saying in today's edition.

Numerous petroleum experts in Mexico City and the United States said Mexico has large quantities of oil, but not nearly as much as Mexican officials have estimated, the paper reported.

One key source said the figure may be half what the Mexican government has estimated. James W. Watson, senior vice president of DeGolyer and MacNaughton, the U.S. firm hired by Mexico to certify its oil discoveries, said Mexico's proved oil reserves are well below 28 billion barrels.

"We've reminded (the Mexican government) over and over about the danger of losing credibility," Watson said. "We've been trying to hold them back."

Watson, who has been in charge of certifying Mexico's oil and natural gas reserves for Pemex, Mexico's national petroleum company, vowed to "set the record straight" in any future Department of Energy hearings in Washington on the purchase of Mexican natural gas by U.S. companies.

Pemex hired the Dallas firm in 1976, not only to certify its petroleum discoveries, but to get the credibility it desperately needed to borrow funds from international banking concerns.

The Mexican government has also indicated potential reserves may be as high as 200 billion barrels, but petroleum experts and government officials said those estimates are grossly in error, the paper reported.

A.A. Meyerhoff, of Tulsa, Okla., one of the world's leading geologists, said the estimate of 200 billion barrels was "utter nonsense."

Francisco Viniestra, former exploration manager for Pemex, said of the 200 billion estimate: "It's impossible. I know the geology of Mexico and it's not there."

Watson claimed Pemex has misled the public by including Mexico's natural gas figures in the oil reserve totals, even though natural gas cannot be refined into oil or gasoline.

In addition, Watson said, "their proven reserves very likely include their probable reserves. It's their interpretation of the ground rules, not ours."

Arrested On Larceny Charge

Ray Chapman of Route 6, Greenville, was arrested by Greenville Police this morning on larceny charges after he allegedly took a 79-cent package of sweet rolls from the Piggly-Wiggly store at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Hooker Road.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the theft occurred about 7 a.m. and said Chapman was taken into custody a few minutes later.

Warned Against Florida Oysters

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Oyster dealers, distributors and consumers were warned Thursday to avoid purchasing or eating oysters from Florida.

The state Department of Human Resources said that during routine sampling, 50 percent of the oysters were found to have bacteria counts higher than permitted under North Carolina standards.

Bob Benton, supervisor of the shellfish sanitation unit in the department, said oysters with high bacteria count could cause gastrointestinal disorders and possibly hepatitis.

Since Feb. 15, Benton said that 73 oyster samples from Florida have been taken and half of those were found to exceed bacteria standards. Several hundred gallons of Florida oysters have been embargoed and destroyed, he said.

Worth A Visit Despite Risks

Maybe we should be accustomed to bad news about energy these days — but there are constantly new facets to the problem.

Now Hatteras and Ocracoke residents are being warned by the Cape Hatteras Electric Membership Corp. that there could be rotating blackouts this summer. The EMC is concerned that the demand might exceed delivery capacity, and has set up diesel generators to supplement its outside power sources.

Those who live on the island might make light of the problem. You don't, after all, have to go back too far to recall the days before electricity came to the Outer Banks . . . but that was before tourism became big business.

A black out period, even for a visitor to the Outer Banks, could be endured for all the advantages the area has to offer. Our own decision would be to go . . . assuming the gas is available to get there.

Time HUD Explains Its Past Outlays

Both North Carolina senators, Robert B. Morgan and Jesse Helms, say they will oppose any more funding of Soul City, which in ten years has cost the federal government $16 million in grants through the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

There are also $10 million in federal loan guarantees on the project.

For that money Soul City now has 124 inhabitants, it was reported.

It is indeed past time for HUD to explain its high expenditures on Soul City and the lack of concrete results. Certainly no more federal funds should be authorized, unless some clear results can be shown.

THIS AFTERNOON

Toughest Cases Are Last

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — After so much has been done by state and federal government programs for the learning disabled, the handicapped, the retarded, the mentally and emotionally ill, there remain some of the toughest cases of all.

State Rep. Jim Ezzell, D-Nash, is slowly finding powerful support for a proposal he has introduced in the General Assembly dealing with this small — but expensive — task which yet remains.

The problem is that there are those who have been identified who need 24-hour a day treatment, but can't attend public school and so can't qualify for the more standard residential treatment facilities already in operation.

Further, the nature of the problems is such that putting the youngsters in a children's section of a mental hospital or existing retardation centers would only cause more trouble for them instead of helping them.

Causes

The victims may be retarded in some cases, learning disabled, emotionally or mentally disturbed — or all of these things — but capable of responding to intensive therapy.

Ezzell's proposal calls for spending $1.6 million in the coming fiscal year, and $2.2 million the following year to establish and begin operating two residential treatment centers for these "special" cases. One would be in the Piedmont or west, one in the east. Existing state or federal property could be converted for the purpose.

Why so expensive? Isn't that going to be a stumbling block? "If we don't spend that much now, we are going to have to spend much more in coming years for prison and hospital space to look after these kids", Ezzell feels.

Most have not yet come into contact with the courts, but many will unless their lives are changed, Ezzell believes. Prison or training school would be disastrous for the fragile contact with reality which the children now have.

BILL NOBLITT

Mental hospitals, by their overcrowding, lack of treatment alternatives and stigma would be disastrous for them as well. "They don't need to be institutionalized . . . they need special care," Ezzell says.

County social services agencies have thus far identified more than 125 such youngsters in the state, although there are probably more who have not been located.

So severe are the problems of 30 such youngsters — and so clearly lacking are state programs for them — that they are now being sent to treatment centers in other states. Public funds of more than a million dollars each year pay for these out-of-state treatment programs.

Special

Mental health specialists envision a staff ratio of one-to-one at the specialized treatment centers so that the children can be provided the flexible and innovative treatment activities which could possibly snap them back to a productive life.

In most cases the condition is too severe to allow the child to remain at home, and since public school programs and workable local treatment programs are lacking as well, that alternative is out of the question anyway.

The only approach which has promise, Ezzell is convinced, is an entirely new program designed around psychological rehabilitation combined with institutional care in a highly specialized setting where individual attention can be given.

Fantasy For Our Time

WASHINGTON — Man and woman cannot live by bread alone. All of us need fantasies to keep us going, particularly when we're trying to fall asleep. Some people have difficulty coming up with a good fantasy, so as a public service I shall provide one which has worked for me for the past two weeks. You are all welcome to steal it.

I am driving along a highway and I notice that my gas tank is getting close to the "Empty" mark. Up ahead I see a gas station with 16 pumps. It is all lit up in beautiful colors. There is a large sign which says: "Unleaded Gasoline 27 Cents a Gallon — With Free Car Wash."

I pull into the vacant station. A man in a spic and span blue uniform with starched hat rushes out from his office and says, "Welcome, sir. I was afraid I wouldn't have a customer this evening. How may I serve you?"

"I would like a full tank of unleaded gasoline, please."

"Yes, sir," he salutes me smartly. "We have the best that money can buy. Would you like a cup of coffee while I'm filling you up? It's on the house."

"That's very kind of you," I say. "Black with two lumps of sugar."

The attendant gives me a steaming cup of coffee and puts the nozzle into my tank.

"Would you care to use the restroom? We have shaving equipment, hair lotion, combs and cologne if you'd like to freshen up."

ART BUCHWALD

"Thank you very much. I might just do that."

"In the meantime," the attendant says, "I'll check your oil, your battery and fill your tires with the correct pressure of air. Is there anything else you would like me to do?"

"I wouldn't be mad if you checked the oil filter," I say.

"I would be delighted, sir."

I go into the washroom and clean up and then return to my car.

The attendant, with a big smile on his face, says, "I took the liberty, sir, of putting your automobile through the car wash so you wouldn't have to wait."

"That's very decent of you," I say.

"I also vacuumed the inside of your car and washed your floor mats for you."

"Why thank you, my good man. Here is a dollar bill for your kindness."

"I'm sorry, sir, but we are not permitted to take tips. We

Write A Line Or Two

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — It is epigram time once again across this singing land.

In the shadow of rented mortboards young brows are furrowed, brains are being searched and ballpoint pens are poised to write an appropriate line of endearment alongside a photograph in the high school or college yearbook for a fellow or sister graduate.

Parting is indeed one of life's sweetest sorrows, when the parchments are handed out from the podium. So the exit line written to a departing classmate in the yearbook he or she just plunked down forty or so bucks for must perforce linger until the pages turn yellow and hairlines turn gray, even if everyone will see each other next morning in the carpark and all the rest of the summer at the beach.

The line or lines penned next to the portrait must be tender, terse and take into consideration the ironic possibility that today's campus oaf may be tomorrow's Nobel laureate or the puffy-faced blonde named Norma Jean Baker might yet grow up to become Marilyn Monroe.

A bit of obscurity in the prose might be the best way to write off the class schlep or the one with the face like a washed out bridge, just in case the ensuing decades do produce an unlikely role reversal.

Something on the order of, "Aw, ya big lug," which Wallace Beery said to Jackie Coogan in the original version of "The Champ," (or was it to Marie Dressler in "Tugboat Annie?"), might be warmly evasive enough for the class Incredible Hulk or whoever was voted most likely to go through life on the wrist of a corrections officer.

Jack Buckley, a young friend who goes to Providence College, signs his yearbook requests with a bon mot that J. N. Bouton, the baseball Boswell, attributed to Yankee catcher Jake Gibbs in "Ball Four," his

THE INSIDE REPORT

Turkey To The Junkyard

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Echoes of incendiary anti-American propaganda beamed into Iran from the Soviet Union just before the fall of the shah are now being heard in Turkey, leading presidential advisers to this chilling conclusion: Moscow believes Turkey is ripe for destabilization.

In private, the Turkish government is seeking emergency help from Washington to reduce murderous street violence, tamp down an economic crisis and bring Turkey back as a fullfledged member of the Western alliance. But in a case study of errors, the Carter administration has let precious time slip by — perhaps too much time.

As a result, the single most ingenious and innovative post-World War II decision by the U.S. — President Truman's 1947 Greek-Turkish aid program — may be headed for the junkyard of history. It would reside there alongside Washington's other post-war alliances with Iran and Pakistan.

That would directly affect the Mideast, rich with oil which both West and East desperately want. In the absence of the U.S.-Turkish alliance, the Mideast would be more vulnerable to Moscow. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) would be a dead letter in the eastern Mediterranean.

What's more, the unwanted trip to the junkyard comes just when Carter desperately needs monitoring stations in Turkey for the new SALT II agreement, replacing bases lost in Iran. But Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher returned from his recent rescue mission to Ankara with very little progress toward agreement. It is at this bleak moment that the Kremlin has unlimbered its propaganda guns used to such good effect in Iran.

The propaganda zeroes in on the new counterterrorism "fascists" of the West. "NATO is the main supporter of the fascist escalation in the country," a Romanian-based clandestine transmitter purred last week. "NATO is behind the murderous fascist dens, the counterterrorism organization and those aspiring to a fascist military coup." Three days later, a U.S. soldier stationed in Turkey was murdered — the second such killing in a week.

Two years ago, Jimmy Carter had little expectation of conditions in Turkey presaging the end of Harry Truman's great post-war experiment.

Carter had inherited an ideal safety-valve from the Ford administration — a four-year defense cooperation agreement (DCA). It would not only have ended the arms embargo imposed by Congress under pressure from the Greek lobby, but would have reopened closed U.S. bases for a price — tag of only $1 billion in arms and economic aid.

That was torpedoed by the Greek lobby, aided diligently by Vice President Walter F. Mondale. Sen. Paul Sarbanes of Maryland, Senate kinsman of the lobby, has beaten a steady path to the vice president's door. Carter was persuaded, partly on grounds of cleansing himself of Ford-Kissinger taint, to dump the four-year agreement and go to Congress for a straight up-or-down vote ending the arms embargo.

The president deserves credit for winning that test last summer, reopening U.S. bases for one year. But his decision to dump Henry Kissinger's document to placate the Greek lobby has now boxed him in just as Turkey's importance to the U.S. has reached a new height because of Iran. Here is a textbook case of sacrificing good policy for bad politics.

Turkey, suffering from economic paralysis and social disruption that has imposed martial law over one-

Please allow me to be the first to congratulate the 21 firefighters who have just completed the E. M. T. course.

Greenville has always been one of the most progressive fire departments in the state of North Carolina. I dare say of all the paid brigades, few can brag of having this many Emergency Medical Technicians. These men can be doubly proud of their patch because of the slander and degradation they endured while going through this course.

This is an asset to the citizens of Greenville. Now, not only will they be able to enter a burning business or dwelling to find trapped victims, but they will also be able to sustain life. This is essential, since the rescue squad is prohibited to do these functions.

Once again, gentlemen, I say congratulations and a special thanks to Sandy Landis, your instructor. Greater love hath no man than that, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

Victims Of The Male Design

By GAIL MICHAELS
I've long held the cherished conviction that male fashion designers are sadists. They can deny it all they want, but the evidence speaks for itself. Who else but a sadist would have given us the Concord hairdo? Thank goodness, that one never got off the ground.

But plenty of other silly fashions have. For instance, there's the strapless tube top. There's a simple trick for wearing one of these. You simply take one deep breath and hold it for the next eight hours.

Then there's the straight skirt with the slit. No woman who wears this contraption can walk with a normal stride. Unless she wants to open the slit to the waist, she can only move from the knees down.

Of course, this presents no real problem if she wears the current shoe fashions because she can't do anything but totter anyway. Walking in wedgies, platforms, and spiked heels is like trying to balance on the edge of a precipice.

What I can't understand is why any woman would allow herself to be tortured by these styles just to be fashionable. For the many years that I've been standing on the sidelines in my tennis shoes or flip-flops, I've never come up with an answer.

All I know is that fashion sense doesn't have anything to do with common sense.

The one ray of hope I saw for an intelligent alliance between the shoe industry and women's feet was the wooden exercise sandal. Finally, something comfortable was also fashionable. All my friends raved about these sandals. They were like walking on air, my friends said. So after eight years I bought a pair.

They were not like walking on air. They were like walking on wood with a hump in the middle. My toes weren't long enough to fit over the hump, and by the end of the week I felt as if I had planter's warts on both feet.

It just takes awhile to get used to them, everybody said. So I kept walking in them. Or rather shuffling in them. If I picked up my feet, the heels dragged along the ground and shifted to the side, and I fell off. And when I made a concerted effort to hold them on with my toes, the heels just waved around in the air and played "This old man" on my ankles.

After a few more weeks I gave up. The last time I wore my sandals was when I shuffled to the shoe store to buy myself a pair of tennis shoes. On display at the front of the store was a pair of shoes that looked like an exaggerated version of my sandals. Like my sandals they had a wide strip of leather at the front and wooden soles. The only difference was that the heels were five inches tall.

"You can't tell me that anyone really wears those things," I told the shoe salesman. "The first time a woman puts them on, she'd fall off and break her leg."

"On the contrary, they're our best-selling shoe," he said, and he pointed to a girl who was wearing a pair of the shoes under some silky loose trousers with pleats at the waist and folds and wrinkles at the bottom. She looked like the winning entry in a sack race. There was so much material around her heels that at first I thought she had perhaps tied the shoes on with string. But on closer examination I could see that she was actually picking up her feet and walking without any visible gimmick.

"See," said the salesman. "They fit beautifully. Would you like to try a pair?"

I shook my head. No one can convince me that she didn't have them stuck to her heels with bubblegum.

Strength For Today

LEARNING TO BE HAPPY

The Scottish minister, Thomas Chalmers, once preached a famous sermon under the obscure but intriguing title, "The Explosive Power of a New Affection."

Chalmers on a journey sat beside a coach driver who quite unexpectedly at one point cracked his whip skillfully behind the ear of one of the horses. When Chalmers asked why he did this, the driver replied, "There is a stump along here, and the horse on the off side always shies when he comes to it; so I always crack the whip just behind his ear before he reaches it in order to give him something else to think about."

Chalmers saw the point — driving one thing out of the mind by bringing another in . . . dissipating the power of evil thoughts by cultivating good thoughts.

All of us can exercise this "explosive power" by replacing unpleasant memories with pleasant ones. We cleanse our lives of the things that destroy through the explosive power of the things which are lofty and worthwhile.

Pat Flanagan, president of the Greenville Toastmasters, will compete in the speech contest for all Toastmaster clubs in the state on Saturday, May 19, in Winston-Salem. He was a winner in the local club contest and area division contest held in Goldsboro in April.

The speech contest May 19 is part of the Toastmasters' District 37 annual spring conference. In addition to the contest, there will be educational programs, business meetings, and the election of district officers.

Pat Flanagan is a chemist employed by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Inc. in Kinston. He has been a member of the Greenville Toastmasters for two years and served as administrative vice president before being elected president for 1979.

Toastmasters is an organization devoted to the development of communication and leadership skills. Anyone interested in the group may contact Pat or Charlotte Flanagan, 756-7192, for additional information. Guests are always welcome at the club meetings which are held on the second and fourth Wednesdays of every month at the Western Steer Restaurant. fourth of the country, needs far more today than it did before. That means the budget-conscious Carter will now have to raise the ante far above the amount in the ditched Ford agreement, and in return will get a devalued Turkish alliance.

If Carter had stuck to the Kissinger-tainted agreement and used the same clout on Congress to pass it that he used to end the arms embargo, Turkey today would not be in such straitened circumstances. Nor would the U.S. have to worry about permission to use Turkey as a SALT monitor in place of Iran. Instead, Carter played to the Greek lobby, and Turkey is today ripe for Moscow's nudge toward destabilization.

With the failure of Christopher's mission to Ankara, the president is heading toward another cliffhanger: how to persuade the Turks not to shut down U.S. bases in October even if no new defense agreement has

"Cash. But I only have a $20 bill."

"That's no problem, sir. I'll be glad to make change. Since you have purchased 10 gallons of gasoline, you have the choice of a complete set of dishes or a copper frying pan or a new set of golf clubs."

"I think I'll take the golf clubs."

"Very good, I'll put them in the trunk. We also have a fire engine for your child, or would you prefer a computerized football game?"

"The fire engine will do."

"Here it is. And here are your green stamps. You get a bonus of 30 for purchasing unleaded gasoline."

"I must say you have a very smooth operation here."

"Our job is to sell gas, and if we can induce you to come back, then we feel all the trouble we've gone to will not have been in vain. We're in a very competitive business, and since people can buy unleaded gasoline anywhere, we have to make them believe that we're the best."

We shake hands and I start off on the highway. A few miles down the road I pass another gas station with a large sign: "Free Massage With Purchase of One Quart of Oil."

By this time I am blissfully asleep.

So, the Soviets are using their escalated radio broadcasts to finish the work insensibly started by the U.S. Congress with its arms embargo and systematically reduce American ties with Turkey.

For the first time, specialists here believe the Russians might possibly pull it off.

master work: "Waitress, I'll have the pie a la mode, but put some ice cream on it, will you?"

As a recipe for life, the sentiment is almost existential and 30 years from now it will sound even better. Concise, compelling, simple yet suggestive of hidden layers of complexity.

Looking through my own high school yearbook now, coming face to face with the friends of those thousand lovely yesterdays, I wish I had written next to all their pictures the verse from Yeats that Jim Smith, an AP colleague in Boston, quoted in response to a testimonial:

Group Homes For Retarded Sought

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The North Carolina Association for Retarded Citizens has the funds and is seeking to build 42 group homes for retarded persons throughout the state. If sites are found, two of these homes may be in Pitt County.

"People are becoming more aware of the rights of retarded persons to be a contributing part of the community," Pitt Co. Assn. for Retarded Citizens Pres. Ronald Rice said. "For that reason, plus the dollars-and-cents wisdom of these people making their own way, more and more residents of institutions for the retarded are being brought back into the community. True, some of them continue to need guidance, but they don't need to be shut away."

In the past 10 years, Rice said, the population of Caswell Center in Kinston has dropped from between 2,200 and 2,300 to between 1,100 and 1,200. Efforts continue to be made to bring more and more of these people, either home to their families, or when this is not possible, into group home situations. Even when the group homes have to be provided at taxpayers' expense, the costs are much less than when the institutional care must go on.

For one thing, very often group home residents can work at paying jobs under good supervision and provide for themselves financially, Rice said.

Rice is interested in the welfare of retarded persons, always has been. But his interest has been heightened in the past two and a half years. For it was about that long ago that it became apparent that his granddaughter, Brandy Hall, now three, is mentally retarded. "Brandy has loving parents and is receiving all the services a community can offer," her grandfather said. "But her parents may not live as long as she does. I, perhaps selfishly want to do everything humanly possible to provide for her care in the years, hopefully far in the future, when we may not be around to care for her. There are many other families in this community and around the state that have the same prospect for their beloved children to think about. This community and every community needs good, well-run group homes for its retarded citizens."

The group homes that will be built here if sites can be found will cost about $100,000 each, including land. Each will have a separate bedroom for each of its five residents, plus an apartment for a couple who will act as houseparents.

HUD says these homes must be in residential areas with water and sewer service and be as accessible as possible to shopping, church, work, recreation and the like, Rice said.

Experience has shown, Rice said, that retarded persons make good citizens and pleasant neighbors.

Some $5.2 million has been borrowed by the North Carolina Association for Retarded Citizens to build 42 group homes in the state. Previously homes have been rented or leased.

The General Assembly is now considering establishing state policy that "community living arrangements" cannot be barred from communities by restrictive zoning measures, nor can local governments require special use permits of them. Sponsors of the bills are Senators William Creech of Wake County and Carolyn Mathis of Mecklenburg.

No special use permits would be needed in Pitt County or Greenville, the search committee for the sites has been assured. Editor's note: See related Hotline appeal for group home sites.

The Jarvis Weekday School has openings in its Tuesday-Thursday 3 year old's class for the 1979-80 school year. If interested please call the director, Nancy Nobles at 752-5389.

Homecoming Marks 17th Year

Pastor J. M. Bragg of the People's Baptist Temple announces special homecoming services will be held Sunday, May 20, at 10:30 a.m. The church is celebrating its 17th anniversary, featuring special guest The Gethsemane Quartet from Greensboro.

The church began as a little frame house on Memorial Drive, presently occupied by Cox's TV, progressing to three acres of land on the 264 by-pass. Today the present location consist of 15 acres of land, a church building with educational facilities, an athletic field and a day care area.

The ministries of the church include a Christian day school, a day care facility, a deaf ministry, a mentally handicapped ministry, a youth ministry and many more. The church membership recently approved a building program which calls for the remodeling of the present gymnasium and construction of a new gymnasium.

The homecoming services will include a concert by the Gethsemane Quartet at 10:30 a.m., a special message by the pastor, dinner on the grounds and an afternoon by the Gethsemane.

The pastor invites all the public to attend.

Evangelist For Revival

Floyd Tackett of Goldsboro will be evangelist for revival services at the Church of God of Prophecy, Mumford Road, May 21-26 at 7:30 p.m.

FLOYD TACKETT

Tackett has been involved in evangelistic work for the past 24 years and has conducted services in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and North Carolina.

He is current pastor of the Church of God of Prophecy, Goldsboro. He has a weekly radio broadcast and is a graduate of Bible Training Institute.
The Rev. Warren Barfield will be assisting.
For information contact the Rev. James C. Brown, 752-9015.

A man alone in a field... making the field ready for spring planting... perhaps is closer to God than he realizes.

The field didn't "just happen." The earth didn't "just happen." Those fruit trees, laden with blossoms, didn't choose to bloom just because they wanted to look pretty.

Stop and think about it. In the natural order of life, little is left to chance. There is a precision about the very rotation of the earth itself. There is a miracle embedded in each blade of grass.

All about us is the unmistakable evidence of Creation, by a Master Hand. The man in the field is, in some ways, closer to this creation than many of us, yet he too may very well be unaware of it. We can all capture or recapture this awareness by going to church regularly.

Students Earn Special Award

The members of Farmville Central Student Council Association attended an awards presentation Tuesday, May 15, at the old Capitol building in Raleigh.

The club was presented a plaque for first place in District I for a school beautification project. Members of the SCA had participated in a clean-up project and various other forms of beautification the previous year and these activities were compiled and submitted for competition.

After the awards were presented, the group visited with state representative Sam D. Bundy at the Legislative Building. They attended a session of the House and were recognized by the speaker.

Those attending the presentation were Diana Gordon, Mary Beth Joyner, Melanie Bell, Barbara Hardison, Calvin Horne and Roy Richardson. Principal Russ Cotton, and assistant principal and co-advisor of the SCA, James E. McAdams, accompanied the group.

Assumes Post As Energy Coordinator

Linda G. Hix recently assumed duties as coordinator of the Greenville Comprehensive Community Energy Management Program (CCEMP).

The program is being administered through The Office of Energy Conservation and Management of Greenville Utilities Commission.

Ms. Hix, the office announced, will be directing an extensive public information program to increase community awareness of the energy program in which the city is under contract with the U.S. Department of Energy to develop a comprehensive Energy Action Plan for Greenville and its extraterritorial area.

In addition, Ms. Hix will be coordinating the activities of various committees and community groups which will be designated to provide input into the action plan development.

Prior to her new position, she was employed with the city as transit marketer for the Greenville Area Transit (GREAT) bus system. She has been involved in community service programs for nine years, including the organization and direction of a volunteer vision care program for pre-school children.

An Owensboro, Ky. native, Ms. Hix serves on the Pitt County Transportation Development Advisory Committee and assists various transportation, planning, and public services agencies. She is married to Dr. James Hix, associate professor chemistry at East Carolina University.

Rescued Boy With Feet

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A man constrained in a back brace and unable to bend over used his feet to pull a 6-year-old boy from the bottom of a swimming pool Wednesday.

Jack Baynes, who was on his back in a hospital bed two weeks ago, was on his way to a mailbox at the mobile-home park where he lives when he saw a boy crying. The boy said his friend was in the pool. An eyewitness to the accident, Grace Blackmon, helped Baynes find the child.

After Baynes brought the boy up with his feet, he immediately began applying artificial respiration techniques he was during World War II.

He said the boy began breathing after about five minutes. The Guilford County Ambulance Service administered oxygen to the child before taking him to a Greensboro hospital.

The child, Shawn Roberts, was placed in the intensive-care unit of Moses Cone Hospital, where he was listed in stable condition.

Baynes has five discs out in his back and says he is in constant pain.

"All I could think about was that it was a kid," Baynes said, after he pulled the boy from the pool.

"Didn't neither of us get scared until it was all over," Baynes said of himself and Ms. Blackmon.

Charge Driver In Collision

Henry Leon Groome Jr. of 101 Canterbury Rd. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 1:42 p.m. collision at the intersection of Chestnut and Wilson Streets.

Police reported the Groome car collided with a truck driven by Luther Lee Barrett of 413B Hudson St., resulting in an estimated $1,000 damage to each of the two vehicles.

Horse Fanciers Gather Sunday

The Pitt County Horse Fanciers are holding a gymkhana 1 p.m. Sunday at Starquest Stables on Highway 33, eight miles outside Greenville city limits.

A gymkhana features mounted competitive games. There will be classes such as musical sacks, egg and spoon and a slow canter race.

Captures Attention Of Watergate 'Junkies'

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Blind Ambition," CBS' Watergate miniseries based on books by John and Mo Dean, has its little afflictions — some awkward acting and irritating sidetraps to the private life and loves of John Dean.

But America's Watergate junkies — and I'm one of them — won't fuss. Call it Blind Addiction. You don't like it or dislike it. You just watch it, glued.

The first episode of the four-night, eight-hour miniseries airs Sunday. Martin Sheen as Dean sets the scene by telling his story to lawyer Charles Shaffer. Through flashbacks, we're reintroduced to that old Watergate gang — Nixon, Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell, Magruder, Liddy, Colson, and the rest.

It may not be artful but it is fascinating, an inside, critical look at the paranoia that polluted the Nixon White House. And Dean's story is the best of the insiders' Watergate yarns because he turned rat and got booted out of the gang, thereby removing the need to hide any blemishes when painting portraits.

Haldeman is portrayed as being ruthless, Nixon as being a bit unsure, Liddy as being just plain cuckoo (holding his hand over a flame to prove his macho to his men). It's scary, and real. The Oval Office confrontations that occurred when the walls started crumbling down are taken verbatim from the White House tapes, every grunt, moan and stumble except for some blasphemy excised by censors.

Dean's account, of course, suggests that Dean was the cool head, the one who easily recognized the absurdity in such projects as the Huston plan (buggings, opening personal mail, etc.) and the planned bombing of the Brookings Institute.

But Dean is no hero, even in this movie.

"It was unflattering," he said in an interview after screening the movie. Seeing his meetings with Nixon on film "was a very strange feeling," he says.

"I was doing what a lot of people do with their bosses, being a subtle sycophant. And it turned my stomach, just as it did when I heard the tape."

Unfortunately, Watergate intrigue is not all we get here. There is much — too much —

John and Mo Dean. John and Mo meeting, John and Mo moving in together, John womanizing, Mo complaining, John and Mo splitting up. They should have saved Mo's book for a two-hour movie of its own (and then shelved the movie). And Torn is a little bothersome as Nixon. Exaggerating Nixon's self-conscious mannerisms to the point of caricature, Torn is like the jokester at parties who always wants to do his Nixon imitation. Get past those problems, though, and you've got a Watergate feast.

Yesterday's Cryptiquip — AMUSED OLD LADY LAUGHED AT THE YOUNG WOMEN IN WIGS.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: Z equals D

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Scout Project Aimed At Camp

Boy Scout Troop 826 of Greenville conducted a pancake and sausage breakfast Sunday, May 13, in St. Peter's hall. The profit from the breakfast will be used to help defray the cost of summer camp for the scouts at Camp Bonner, the East Carolina Council camp at Blounts Bay.

The breakfast was the first ever attempted by the troop and resulted in a $200 profit. The troop is sponsored by the Knights of Columbus Council 6600 and support was given by several local merchants.

Prizes were awarded to the top three sellers of tickets: first prize, James Staton; second prize, Robby Dillard; and third prize, Rodney Smith.

Gifts Of Blood

The Bloodmobile visit Thursday at Burroughs Wellcome here resulted in the collection of 226 pints of blood and only 12 deferrals.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt Red Cross, who said that all of the donors were plant personnel, thanked the local plant nurses, Elizabeth Briley and Alice Whitley, for coordinating the visit.

Mrs. Taylor also offered her thanks to the company for allowing the Bloodmobile to have the plant visit and also the women of the Service League and volunteer nurses for their assistance.

The next Bloodmobile visit will be June 1 at Union Carbide. Mrs. Taylor said that the visit will be open to the public.

indicating the day of the week the vehicle couldn't be driven. Motorists would pick the day and states would distribute the stickers.

It would be illegal to drive a car on the day indicated by the sticker and motorists doing so could be arrested or ticketed.

Moffett said that, unlike the president's rejected standby gasoline rationing plan, his proposal can be used to ease gasoline shortages this summer.

Moffett proposed his plan after the House last week overwhelmingly turned down President Carter's standby plan for gasoline rationing.

But one problem, Moffett said, is "how do you make 100 million stickers and get them out?"

There were these other energy developments:

The presidents of Gulf Oil and Mobil Oil told separate House committees they oppose Carter's proposed windfall profits tax. William P. Tavoulares, president of Mobil, said the tax would cost the nation needed additional oil production.

But Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., said Mobil used windfall profits following the 1973-74 Arab embargo to buy Montgomery Ward and the Container Corp. of America and asked, "Isn't that the indication you're going to use profits to further expand and diversify into fields that have nothing to do with oil?" Tavoulares responded those companies were self-sustaining.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said the administration expects a 5 percent gasoline shortage this summer and some reports of efforts to try to ease the gasoline shortage in California were overly optimistic.

New Virus A Dog-Killer

CHICAGO (AP) — Veterinarians say the virus is so new it doesn't have a name and it's as mysterious as Legionnaires disease. But they're sure of one thing. It's fatal to dogs and spreads quickly.

"It's an exquisitely new virus and in all my years as a veterinarian I have never heard or seen of anything like this," said Dr. T.E. Fritz of the Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago.

Last fall, the virus infected more than half of the 800 beagles used at the Argonne lab for experimentation. Ten dogs died, Fritz said.

Although the virus, identified only as one of many gastrointestinal viruses, is not believed to affect humans, several technicians in daily contact with the beagle colony experienced nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and related symptoms, which lasted for about 3 days, Fritz said.

The earliest symptom of the virus in dogs is vomiting, he said, followed by diarrhea that lasts for as long as a week. "There was a wide range in severity of signs, and death occurred within 48 to 72 hours of the first vomiting in all but one case," Fritz said.

At the peak of the Argonne epidemic, Fritz said, more than 50 dogs were being treated daily with fluids and medication.

taxpayer-financed research program to try and come up with a non-polluting and fuel-thrifty "car of the future."

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Supreme Court Thursday upheld for the second time the murder conviction of an Anson County woman who was found guilty of killing her husband with rat poison.

Rozelle Oxendine Hunt, 50, was first convicted in 1974 in the slaying of Joe Hunt. Her conviction was upheld by the state Supreme Court in 1976. But in 1977, after a post-conviction hearing, a Superior Court judge awarded Mrs. Hunt a new trial on grounds that she had inadequate representation at the first trial.

At her second trial last September, she was convicted again of killing her husband by putting rat poison in his tea. She was sentenced to life in prison.

In another case Thursday, the Supreme Court upheld the drug conviction of a Charlotte man who contended that police had searched his car improperly when they found cocaine.

Nathaniel Phipper was sentenced to five years in prison after he pleaded guilty to drug charges.

Phipper's lawyer argued that police had taken cocaine illegally from his client's glove compartment after Phipper had been stopped for speeding. The officers learned then that there was an outstanding warrant against the defendant on a traffic violation.

During a search, officers said Phipper attempted to throw away a small key. The officers retrieved the key, opened the glove compartment and found the cocaine, according to court records.

Supreme Court Judge J. Frank Huskins said the search of the glove compartment was permissible because officers had "a reasonable ground of suspicion" to believe Phipper's car contained contraband.

The Supreme Court also ruled Thursday that a Lee County teen-ager had no legal right to sue the Morehead Foundation because it failed to award him a scholarship to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The court affirmed a 1978 Lee County Superior Court decision that dismissed a lawsuit brought against the foundation by Jay Allen Kania and his father.

The Kania had contended that the foundation gave more weight to leadership than to scholarship in not awarding a scholarship to the younger Kania.

Missing Sister...

had been placed there under the name, Ruby Petteway, and apparently had long since ceased to realize that this was not her name.

Cal Robinson, Director of Barrow Center, said in a telephone interview yesterday, "Ruby, as we knew her, was committed to Central State Hospital when it was the Negro mental hospital. Many of the persons who came in then didn't even really need psychiatric treatment. It was just a place to keep them. Eastview, the building she lived in longest, was a snakepit — a place where 900 women were kept. There was no involvement with the patients, no treatment, no push to get people back into the community.

"Occasionally, apparently, there were some attempts to locate her family, which she always said she had in North Carolina, but her hometown was listed as 'Fulton, North Carolina, and all the letters sent out on her behalf came back.'"

Just a few weeks ago, "Ruby" told Mrs. Morgan, an aide at the hospital that her family lived in Falkland, N.C. — F-A-L-K-L-A-N-D. She also told her the names of her sisters, Mrs. Dupree and Mrs. Johnson, and the aide wrote the letters that brought about the reunion.

Asked if she thought she'd ever see her family and Falkland again, Mrs. Tyson said "I didn't know."

"Bless her heart, I guess she didn't," Mrs. Dupree said. "She's been away 45 years. I guess she didn't know."

The hospital officials told her family that Mrs. Tyson has known only institutional living most of her adult life and that an adjustment period will be necessary. They advise that she be taken to her sister's home for a week-long visit and then brought back to the hospital and, if all goes well, that several visits be made before a final decision is made as to whether she'll be released to the care of her family.

"I do hope we can bring her home to stay," Mrs. Dupree said. "But if not, we're still thankful."

"A bus carrying strawberry pickers was wrecked in Virginia in 1940," Mrs. Tyson's brother-in-law, Charlie Dupree said, "and her father, Haywood Williams, always maintained she died in that wreck, or we'd have heard from her again."

"Yes, we really had had to accept that she probably was dead," Mrs. Dupree said, "but now the Lord has brought our family back together again in this life."

action be taken that would solve the controversy within the two systems which the committee members feels has "caused chaos" in conditions necessary for a sound and well directed management.

Other points mentioned in the Chamber's study notes the total absence of any black personnel employed in the Rescue Division operations; and the contention that "the city's fire and rescue services must be managed by the city."

The committee's report calls for a long term integration plan for the two systems, with a suggestion that Greenville may need to consider also "the modern trend in most North Carolina cities comparable to Greenville... to not only integrate the fire and rescue services, but also the police services to create public safety departments."

John Perry, representing the Chamber's Education Committee in the absence of chairman John M. McConney, reported on the Chamber's action to support the forthcoming $9 million School Pitt County School Bond referendum facing the public on June 8.

Perry cited the priority needs of both county and city schools in building and improvement programs, including replacing the heat and air-conditioning system at Aycock Jr. High School; providing an athletic facility to serve Aycock and Rose High School; and construction of an auditorium at Rose.

"The need to replace outmoded facilities and improve existing facilities at several of the Pitt County elementary schools is critical," Perry said. The Education Committee's report notes that the Pitt County pro rata share of $6 million would take care of the most pressing needs.

In response to a question about the recent exploratory overture by East Carolina University on the possibility of purchasing Rose High School, Perry said that since this development surfaced after the committee's study on school needs, that in-depth discussion of the idea had not been carried out. "We will, however, be giving this thought consideration in the overall picture," Perry said, "and since Rose is only a small part of the overall school picture, I do not believe it will affect public thinking on the bond issue."

Jerry Powell, president of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, said he personally feels "such a move would be a good one, beneficial both to the university and to Rose High."

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today steady to 1.00 lower. Wilson, 44.75; Rocky Mount, 44.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourne, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 45.00. Salisbury, 43.50. Spivey's Corner, 42.00-43.00; and Kinston 45.00. Sows: Spiveys Corner, 325-600 pounds, 34.50-37.00; Fayetteville, 400 pounds up, 38.50.

Poultry
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina F.O.B. dock broiler market was higher, supplies moderate, demand very good, weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for next week is 50.12 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,584,000.

Hens
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady with weak undertone, supplies adequate, demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter, 24 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, pausing after Thursday's sharp rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which jumped 14.47 Thursday for its biggest gain in seven weeks, slipped back .09 to 842.86 by noon today.

Gainers held a 5-3 lead over losers in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Thursday's upsurge was attributed to strength in the dollar and hopes that tentative signs of slowing economic activity might eventually lead to lower interest rates.

But a less favorable portent on the interest-rate outlook came at Thursday's close when the Federal Reserve reported a rise in the money supply.

Brokers noted that an expanding money supply tends to lessen the chance of any early move by the Federal Reserve to encourage interest rates to decline.

Squibb Corp. led the active list, down 1/4 at 28 3/4. A 250,000-share block traded at 28 1/2.

American Credit 1 1/2 to 49 3/4 following Federal Reserve approval of the company's acquisition by Barclay's Bank.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .09 to 56.32. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .91 at 179.75.

Volume on the Big Board came to 13.30 million shares at noon, up from 12.67 million at the same point Thursday.

N.C. Moves Closer To Statewide Bingo Law

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina is one step closer to having a statewide bingo law after final House approval Thursday of a bill aimed at limiting the game to tax-exempt organizations.

However, the House amended the bill on final reading to ensure that the membership organizations included in its provisions cannot shut out anyone, regardless of whether they are members and regardless of their race.

The amendment was offered by Rep. Henry Frye, D-Guilford, and it would require that the organizations make their bingo games open to the general public.

"I just wanted to make sure no person was turned away because of his race," said Frye, who is black, after the amendment was adopted on a 69-34 vote.

Frye said later he had no specific organization in mind but had heard there were some that would not allow blacks to attend.

The bill, which must now be returned to the Senate for concurrence in House changes, would replace all local bingo laws. It would allow only tax-exempt organizations and some small-time commercial operations to hold bingo games.

Playing time would be limited to two sessions per week, five hours per session. However, the same organization would be able to hold the two weekly sessions in each county of the state.

The bill was debated at length Wednesday and Thursday with consideration given to 14 amendments. The most hotly debated amendment was the one approved Wednesday prohibiting the organizations from hiring professional managers to run the games.

The original House measure would have limited the organizations to awarding prizes of $250 in cash or merchandise. But that provision was changed Thursday to allow the awarding of prizes worth more than $250.

Rep. Foyle Hightower, D-Anson, who offered the amendment, said many charitable organizations now award prizes such as cars or televisions for raffles. He tried to add the same amendment Wednesday but was unsuccessful.

The House also amended the bill to allow small-time commercial operations to award $10 cash prizes. Originally, the bill had said the commercial oper-

Former Caswell Worker Charged

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — A former employee at the Caswell Center for the Mentally Retarded has been bound over to Lenoir County Superior Court on charges of assaulting a center resident.

Robert Leon Johnson, 32, is charged with assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious bodily injury.

He allegedly struck a resident at the center in the head with a broom handle, causing injuries that required several stitches, on March 2. He was a center employee at the time, authorities said.

ations could only award prizes of merchandise worth no more than $10.

Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, opposed allowing $10 cash prizes, saying it would prompt small-time commercial bingo operations to crop up throughout the state and eventually destroy the intent of the bill.

The original House measure would have limited the organizations to awarding prizes of $250 in cash or merchandise. But that provision was changed Thursday to allow the awarding of prizes worth more than $250.

Jail Man As Masked, Armed Assailant Here

Douglas Howard Chapin, 27 of Tarboro, was jailed here yesterday under a $10,000 bond after being charged with breaking and entering and assault with intent to commit rape, in connection with a 2:30 p.m. incident on East Fourth Street.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Chapin allegedly entered an East Fourth Street dwelling, and wearing a mask over his face and armed with a pistol, allegedly threatened to rape and shoot a 22-year-old woman.

The victim, Cannon said, told officers she had been sunbathing in her yard, entered her home to take a shower, and had walked from the bathroom when she saw a masked and armed man standing in her home.

Her assailant fled, she told officers after she started screaming when he forced her into a bedroom.

Other witnesses told police that the fleeing man pointed a pistol at two female neighbors and pushed one to the ground when they got in his way as he ran to a motorcycle to make his get-away.

Cannon said Chapin was spotted by Edgecombe County Sheriff's Deputies about 3:09 p.m. and was stopped and taken into custody about 3:20 p.m. after the motorcycle was struck by a sheriff's department car to stop it.

Chapin, who received only minor injuries in the collision, was taken into custody by Greenville officers about 4:40 p.m. and placed in the Pitt County Jail.

Chicago Cubs Learn Truth To Saying About Wrigley Field

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

They say you can never score enough runs in Wrigley Field, and no one knows it better to day than the Chicago Cubs.

They scored 22 Thursday — and still lost the game.

"It's unbelievable," said a weary but happy Mike Schmidt after leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a hit-happy 23-22 victory over the Cubs in a 10-inning game that tied a major league home run record. "I don't even know what the final score is — honest, I don't."

Schmidt's two homers — including the game-winning blast in the 10th — were among 11 that soared out of Chicago's notorious hitter's paradise, tying a record held by many teams.

The total of 45 runs was four shy of the major league mark of 49, ironically set by Philadelphia and Chicago on Aug. 25, 1922. Chicago won that game 26-23.

In addition, the 49 hits through the first nine innings were two shy of the major league record for hits in a regulation game by two teams. The Phillies and Cubs collected a total of 50 hits in the game, two short of the National League mark for extra innings and eight shy of the major league mark.

"After we scored seven runs in the first inning I looked over to Mick Kelleher and told him this thing could end 20-20 because we both wear a number 20," Schmidt said, grinning. "Sure, I'm tired but it's nice to be on the winning end. You have to give them credit for not giving up."

The Cubs were losing by 12 runs at one point, at 21-9, and had they come back to win, they would have broken the record for the greatest comeback in major league history.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Atlanta Braves whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the New York Mets 6-5; the San Francisco Giants blanked the Houston Astros 3-0; and the St. Louis Cardinals and Montreal Expos played to a 2-2 tie in a game suspended after 10 innings.

Schmidt teed off on Bruce

Sutter's "split-fingered" fastball for his game-winning homer, which not incidentally was his 14th of the season and fourth in the three-game series in Chicago.

Braves 6, Dodgers 3
Barry Bonnell's two-run homer in the sixth inning led Atlanta over Los Angeles as knuckleballer Phil Niekro gained his 201st career victory. Bonnell's homer off reliever Charlie Hough came just after error in 12 games when Bill Russell booted a grounder by Glenn Hubbard. Niekro, 4-6, held the Dodgers to seven hits with his route-going performance.

Pirates 6, Mets 5
Willie Stargell's two-run homer in the eighth inning — his second of the game — led Pittsburgh over New York. Stargell, who hit a solo shot to highlight a two-run fourth, blasted his game-winning homer after Bill Robinson drew a two-out walk. The drive into the right field seats at Three Rivers Stadium made a winner of Kent Tekulve and a loser of Jesse Orosco.

Giants 3, Astros 0
Ed Halicki hurled a two-hitter and Larry Herndon keyed a three-run seventh inning with an RBI triple as San Francisco beat Houston.

RED OAK — Rose High School did a good job of getting men into scoring position, but failed to come through in getting them across the plate until it was too late yesterday, bowing to Northern Nash, 4-1.

It was the final game of the season for both teams. Rose finished the year with a 14-6-1 record overall, 8-6 in Division I play. Northern Nash ended up 12-10 overall and 8-6 in league play.

Rose left 11 men on base, and in every inning except for the second, had men in scoring position with no more than one out. But it wasn't until the sixth frame that they managed to break the ice. And Northern Nash had already pushed over their four runs at the time.

Rose banded out seven hits and had five walks and a hit batter to put men onto the bases, but it didn't help.

"We just didn't hit the ball with men in scoring position," Coach Ronald Vincent said. "He had so many chances and just didn't take advantage of them. But we're going to be all right, we're going to be ready next year."

Things started going bad for the Rampants in the first inning. They loaded the bases on two hits and a walk with none out, but failed to score. A strikeout, a fielder's choice that caught the runner going home, and an infield grounder ended the threat. The bases in the fourth, also failing to score.

Finally, in the sixth, they got their run. Joey Mattheis led off with a single to center, moving up on a passed ball. He scored on Mark Shank's single to center with two away.

Northern Nash, after a threat in the second on two walks, scored its first run in the third.

After two were out in the third, Donald Boyd walked and stole second. David Wells singled to center, and a soft fly that fell in between the left fielder and third baseman, hit by Bruce Ellis, brought in Boyd.

The Knights broke it open in the fifth, scoring three more runs. With one down, Boyd reached on an error. Wells then hit a towering drive to right center, easily clearing the fence for a two-run homer.

Ellis kept it going with a walk, and a double to left by Dwayne Pridgen brought in the final run. Shank and Will Barrett led the Rose hitting with two each, while Wells had two of the four hits Northern collected.

The Rampants failed to make the playoffs, despite opening the year as one of the teams favored in the league.

"I feel sorry for our seniors," Vincent said. "We're really going to miss them. They are as good a group of seniors as we've had." The seniors include Will

Tigers Fall In Closer

WILLIAMSTON — Ahoskie nipped Williamston, 4-3, in the final baseball game of the year for the Tigers yesterday.

All four of the Ahoskie runs came in the second inning. Jay Doughty singled and Willie Mitchell reached on an error. Craig Woodard also reached on a misplayed ball, scoring Doughty. Curtis Barnes hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Mitchell, and Woodard scored on an error. Barry Renner walked, moved up on an error and Mike Rountree reached on another error. A double steal brought home Renner.

Williamston got all three of its runs in the sixth. Alan Peaks singled and Victor Thomas got a hit. Phil Peaks grounded to the infield, and Thomas was forced at second. Tim Hines tripled, scoring both of the Peakses, and Keith Clark hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Hines.

Doughty led the Ahoskie hitting with two, while Jeff Odom, Alan Peaks and Thomas each had two hits for Williamston.

The Tigers finished up the year with an 8-14 overall mark and a 6-8 Northeastern Conference mark.

Squaws In Last Loss

PLYMOUTH — Roanoke High School's girls' softball team wound up the season yesterday, bowing to Northeastern Conference champ Plymouth, 18-11.

Plymouth pushed over a run in the first, but Roanoke scored six times in the second to take the lead. Plymouth came back with four in the second, then added seven more in the third to take the lead for good.

Plymouth added four more in the fourth and two in the sixth. Roanoke picked up three more in the fourth and two in the sixth inning.

Jennifer Jackson was the winning pitcher. Annie Fuller led the Plymouth hitting with three, while Nancy R. Berson and Denise Albritton each had three for Roanoke.

Lee Ann West hit a three-run homer for Plymouth in the third inning. Roanoke ended the year with a 6-8 record.

Sanderson, Ronnie Chapman, Joey Mattheis, Mike Williams, Robert Morehead and Lindsey Winstead.

"We had a good year, record-wise, but the way we ended it was disappointing for the boys," Vincent added. "I thought that we had the team that could go a long ways this season. But the injuries (to Chapman and Sanderson) hurt us both physically and psychologically. It took a lot of us and we never recovered from it."

Rose had lost just one game prior to the injuries to Chapman and Sanderson, both of which occurred during the Pitt-Greenville Tournament at Easter.

Rocky Mount and Wilson Hunt will represent the league in the post-season playoffs.

Roanoke Ends With Victory

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School romped to an 11-6 baseball victory over Plymouth yesterday as the Redskins closed out the 1979 season.

Plymouth scored first, getting a run in the first inning. Pender walked and came around when Bowen's single was errored.

Then, Roanoke struck for six runs in the bottom of the first, taking a 6-1 lead. Steve Wallace reached on an error and Jesse Matthews walked. Glenn Cargile singled, loading the bases. A walk to Wally Keel scored the first run, and when Tony Whitfield's third strike was errored, he reached and Matthews scored. Clay Roberson's walk brought in Cargile, and Will Harris singled in Keel and Whitfield. Joey Ross then singled in Roberson with the sixth run.

Plymouth rallied for two in the second and three in the third to tie it up at 6-6.

Roanoke came back with one in the bottom of the third to move back ahead, this time for good. Whitfield singled and stole second, scoring when Clay Roberson reached on a fielder's choice.

Roanoke added three more in the fourth and scored once in the fifth for its 11 run total.

Ross and Cargile led the Roanoke hitting with two each, while no one had more than one for Plymouth.

Roanoke closed out the year with a 14-6 overall mark and a 9-5 Northeastern Conference record.

SuperSonics Gain NBA Finals Again

SEATTLE (AP) — Power, poise, balance, a good bench and luck.

The Phoenix Suns agree that Seattle has all those ingredients and that's why the SuperSonics are in the National Basketball Association finals — and not the Suns.

"It just shows you it takes more than one or two men to make a basketball team. If you have 11 men playing in harmony, you can be successful," said a happy Seattle forward John Johnson after the Sonics edged the Suns 114-110 Thursday night to win their second straight Western Conference title.

The triumph gave the Sonics a 4-3 edge in the best-of-seven series and sends them into the NBA final series against the winner of tonight's Eastern Conference championship game between the defending champion Washington Bullets and the San Antonio Spurs.

In their first appearance in the championship finals last season, the Sonics lost to the Bullets in seven games.

It took a pair of Jack Sikma free throws with two seconds remaining Thursday night to preserve Seattle's win in the rugged and emotional series finale before a Kingdome crowd of 37,552 — the second biggest in NBA playoff history.

"Wow, what a nightmare that would have been if we lost it," said Sikma, the Sonics' 6-foot-11, second-year center who finished with a game and career-high 33 points and 11 rebounds.

Sikma was referring to a seemingly insurmountable 100-85 Sonic lead with 6:04 left in the game that dwindled to just two points before it was over.

An 8-0 Suns run cut Seattle's lead to 105-101 with 2:07 to play. Dennis Johnson followed with seven straight free throws for a 112-104 Sonic cushion with just 20 seconds left.

Walter Davis hit a basket for Phoenix and then stole the ball from Sonic reserve Joe Hassett and fed Paul Westphal for a jumper with eight seconds left. Another Seattle reserve, Wally Walker, lost the next possession, again to Davis. Westphal scored again to cut the lead to two points and was fouled by Walker.

Westphal had two chances to make one shot. He intentionally banged his first shot off the backboard, and then missed the second again on purpose hoping a Sun player would grab the rebound. But Sikma came up with the carom and was fouled by Don Buse.

Sikma, with three chances to make two shots, missed the first but sank the other two.

"You're still in the ball game until the game is over," said Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "The free throw situation was to hit the backboard, then hit the rim on the second one and hope we could get it back and make a shot.

"Our options were very limited. Seattle played well, you have to give them credit," said MacLeod, who last coached the Suns into the NBA finals in 1976 when they lost to Boston.

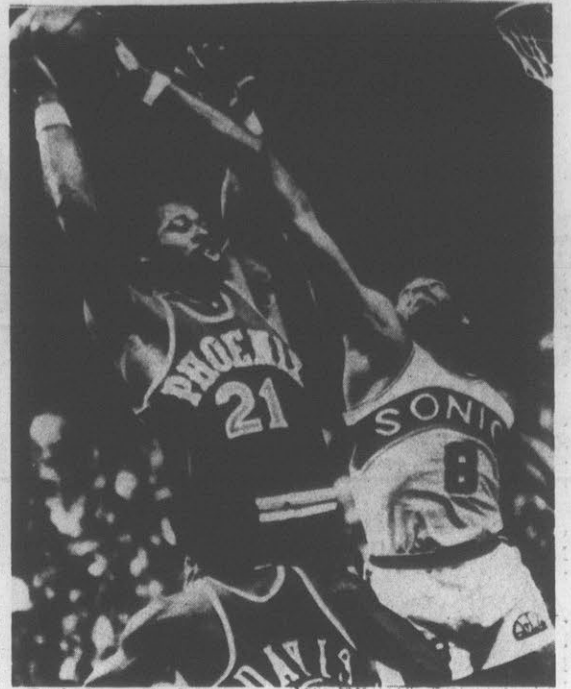

"They're strong, physical, have good balance and their center can score."

One of the tell-tale signs in the series, rebounding, again went to the Sonics, this time 48-33.

"I think power has prevailed," said Phoenix center Alvan Adams, who returned to the lineup for the first time since suffering a badly sprained ankle in Game 3.

"Watching Washington and Seattle play last year, there was a lot of power and strength. It has been proven power prevails. They killed us on the boards again."

"Maybe we were pounding the boards so hard they thought we had six or seven players out there," said guard Dennis Johnson, who had 26 points. "We have a team that isn't the best shooting team. We can shoot, but when we miss we pound the boards because that's our next chance."

Shaky Marshall Saves Koosman's Win

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Jerry Koosman says he doesn't mind those late-inning walks to the dugout these days — although he might have had second thoughts about leaving the mound Thursday night.

Koosman, who has found a second life with the Minnesota Twins, was cruising along with a four-hitter and a 7-1 lead over Kansas City after seven innings. Then the Royals nicked him for a couple of hits and runs in the eighth, but things still seemed well in hand.

However, when John Wathan and Clint Hurdle singled to start the ninth (with Wathan scoring on center fielder Willie Norwood's error, cutting the Twins' lead to 7-4), Manager Gene Mauch called on Mike Marshall to throw some cold water on Kansas City.

Instead, the Minnesota reliever, having his troubles lately, brought in a bucket of gasoline from the bullpen. With one out, Pete LaCock doubled to score Hurdle and Tom Poquette's single scored LaCock.

An infield single by George

Brett put the potential tying and leading runs aboard before Amos Otis hit back to the mound and into a game-ending double play as the Twins held on for the 7-6 victory, Koosman chalked up his seventh win without a loss and Marshall managed his 10th save.

In the rest of Thursday's abbreviated American League action, Boston beat Baltimore 6-2, Chicago defeated Oakland 5-1, California turned back Milwaukee 8-5 and Cleveland beat Toronto 8-3.

Red Sox 6, Orioles 2

Jim Rice hit a two-run homer off Steve Stone in the first inning and Butch Hobson hit a solo shot in the second as the Red Sox beat Baltimore and moved one-half game ahead of the Orioles in the battle for first place in the East.

White Sox 5, A's 1

The A's losing streak reached seven games — they have scored nine runs in that stretch — as Ken Kravec and Mike Proly limited punchless Oakland to just two hits.

The only hits off Kravec, who pitched seven innings, were a third-inning single by Jim Esian and a seventh-inning homer by Jeff Newman. Claudell Washington, in the third inning, and Alan Bannister, in the eighth, had two-run singles for the White Sox.

Angels 8, Brewers 5

Bert Campaneris drove in three runs with a sixth-inning sacrifice fly and a single in the eighth as the Angels swept their three-game series from Milwaukee.

Brian Downing, Rick Miller, Rod Carew and Don Baylor

each had two hits to lead California's 13-hit assault with Baylor extending his hitting streak to nine games. Gorman Thomas hit his 11th homer for the Brewers.

Indians 8, Blue Jays 3

Toby Harrah led Cleveland's long-ball assault against the Blue Jays with two-run homers in the sixth and eighth innings. In the second inning, Andre Thornton led off with a homer and, after Harrah bunted his way aboard, Dave Rosello put one over the wall.

Umpires Meet To End Strike

PHILADELPHIA — Major league baseball's 52 umpires gathered here today with the expectation that their strike would be over by nightfall and all would be returning to their jobs on Saturday.

Richie Phillips, the umpires' lawyer and negotiator, was to present his out-of-work clients with a settlement he and baseball officials had worked out.

The proposed settlement involves increased salaries, upped per diem expenses, and in-season vacations.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

GULFPORT, Fla. (AP) — Are you ready for a "birdie" and a bogey on the same golf hole by one person?

It happened to LPGA tour player Bonnie Bryant in the Orange Blossom Classic at the Pasadena Golf Club, Bonnie, a southpaw shooter, hit a drive from the 18th tee, a 501-yard par-5 hole.

The ball was still gaining altitude when a low-flying sea gull glided into its path. A direct hit felled the sea gull. But the ball came to earth a mere 75 yards off the tee alongside a tree.

A phone call to the U.S. Golf Association for a ruling got one — "Rub of the Green." The annoyed Bonnie then wound up in a bunker and eventually got a bogey six on the hole.

More Turn To The Rails

Castro Blasts U.S. In His Visit To Mexico

WASHINGTON (AP) — More and more Americans are going to the train station to avoid the gas station.

That's the word from Amtrak, which is enjoying renewed popularity in the face of ever higher gasoline prices and longer service station lines. In California, where the gas problem is worst, train ridership is near World War II records.

Want to take the Chicago-to-Denver leg of the San Francisco Zephyr train in the next two weeks? You probably can't. As of Thursday, it was 99 percent sold out, Amtrak reported.

The railroad passenger corporation said ridership is up in every part of the country. And the Zephyr isn't the only Amtrak train suddenly crowded with passengers. Reservations for the next 13 weeks are running 50 percent heavier than last year.

Amtrak responded to the surge by searching sidetracks for old cars to be refurbished. It said 80 of them have been sent to a repair base and the first to come out are due back in service Monday.

Some are 30 years old.

Another indication of the increased rail traffic is Amtrak's telephone switchboard. It logged 1,365,592 calls last week — compared to 366,454 during the same week a year ago.

Garner Man Is Neuse Victim

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Garner man drowned Thursday in the Neuse River after he and a friend were swept off a ledge into deep water while setting a fishing net.

The Wake County Sheriff's Department identified the victim as 20-year-old Steve B. Harris.

Deputy J. F. Hales said Harris and a companion, M.D. Hill of Raleigh, were below the Milburne Dam setting the net in water about waist deep. The swift water falling off the dam caught the net and pulled them off the dam apron into deep water, Hales said.

The body was recovered in about 20 feet of water by the Wendell Rescue Squad.

By VICENTE MORALES Associated Press Writer COZUMEL, Mexico (AP) — Fidel Castro, visiting Mexico to "tighten the bonds of friendship," blasted the United States for its treatment of illegal Mexican immigrants and praised his host, President Jose Lopez Portillo, for refusing to tailor his oil policy to suit Washington.

The Cuban president said the unemployment that send Mexicans across the U.S.-Mexican border in search of work is the result of "the bitter and inevitable mutilation of the national territory and the underdevelopment imposed by the force, the arrogance and the domination of the United States in the past."

Cuba supports the demands of the Mexicans for "just, civilized and humane treatment in the United States," Castro said in a toast Thursday following his arrival on this resort island off the Yucatan coast for his first visit to Mexico since his exile here 23 years ago.

Turning to the recent discovery of vast new oil reserves in southern Mexico, he told Lopez Portillo: "We are pleased...you have clearly expressed that you do not propose to view Mexico's oil development as a part of North American oil needs but as an instrument for the development of your own country."

The Mexican leader in his toast to his visitor said that oil was one of the chief topics discussed at their first conference Thursday. There was continuing speculation that they would arrange to replace some of Cuba's oil imports from the Soviet Union with Mexican oil. But Lopez Portillo indicated the emphasis was on oil policy in general.

He said Mexico views its oil as "a vehicle to achieve peace, harmony and progress." He reviewed his proposal for a United Nations meeting in September to work out a global energy plan and said it was needed by "all poor countries who, cornered by the powerful, seek rules for reciprocal and committed order."

Castro on his arrival said he came to "tighten the bonds of friendship," not "to solicit anything material or to ask for oil or gas."

However, he was expected to discuss the possibility of increasing Cuba's exports of rum, cigars and nickel to reduce Cuba's unfavorable balance of trade with Mexico. It was $20 million last year.

Before the two presidents conclude their talks this afternoon, Castro was to do some sightseeing in the air, on land

State Senate Approves Open-Meeting Bill By 42-0

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Senate ended its long delay on open-meetings legislation Thursday, approving the bill unanimously and sending it to the House for concurrence on amendments.

By a 42-0 vote and with no debate, the Senate voted its approval to the heavily amended bill revising the state's open-meetings law.

It now heads back to the House with supporters saying they are hoping for concurrence on the major Senate changes.

"I'd like to see the House concur and let's get on with it," said William Lassiter, lobbyist for the N.C. Press Association, the primary backer of the bill. "It's a compromise."

The quick vote came on the bill's fourth trip to the Senate floor. It was returned to a different committee for more study on its three previous floor debates.

Sen. Henson Barnes, D-

Wayne, floor leader for the bill, attributed the unanimous vote to the long delays and said senators had grown weary of the issue.

"It's been here so long, they've gotten familiar with it and they see it's a good bill," Barnes said. "It's been in so many committees they're all familiar with it."

The major Senate change was an amendment exempting from the requirements for open session the state Advisory Budget Commission and Council of State.

Other amendments give state and local government boards the right to require electronic news media reporters to pool their equipment and personnel in crowded meetings and to charge the media for expenses involved in moving a meeting to a larger room if the media asks for it.

Lassiter said he hoped the press could remove the two boards' exemptions in future legislative sessions and gain a provision adding criminal penalties for violations.

The measure is more specific about grounds permitted for excluding the public from meetings than the current law, naming circumstances under which state and local government boards could exclude the public.

The bill would allow persons to seek a court injunction to block government boards from holding illegally closed meetings.

In other legislative action:

CWIP

Various consumer groups and individuals turned out at a public hearing to speak for a bill that would repeal a law allowing utility companies to add the costs of construction work in progress to monthly power bills.

That law goes into effect July 1, and Rep. Tommy Rhodes, R-New Hanover, introduced the bill to repeal it, saying he thought it deserved more consideration by the legislature.

Current law allows utility companies to charge for construction costs only after a plant is completed and in operation.

Opponents of the law, which was enacted by the 1977 legislature, argued that it discriminated against the present consumer in favor of the future consumer and put an undue burden on senior citizens.

But officials from Carolina Power and Light Co. and Duke Power Co. said they would not be able to build plants to provide enough electricity for the state if they can't charge for construction work in progress.

Insurance

In his weekly news conference Thursday, Gov. Jim Hunt declined to take a position on proposals to change the method of setting rates for automobile insurance and other casualty coverages.

However, the governor did say he supported a continuation of the 6 percent maximum limit on rate increases for essential coverage, such as auto-liability insurance.

Tax Cut

Hunt praised a tax-cut package recommended by a Senate and House subcommittee, which would provide a $10 to $49 tax cut for individual taxpayers.

He said the package was about the same size as the one he proposed early in the session. The governor said that although it does not include his proposal for a rebate, it would have a similar effect by benefiting all income-tax payers.

Judges

A bill that would have split the western judicial district, establishing a separate Superior Court district for Mecklenburg, Gaston, Lincoln and Cleveland counties, was killed in the Senate.

The Senate gave the measure final approval on a 19-17 vote, then reversed itself moments later when Sen. Fred Alexander, D-Mecklenburg, changed his mind and said he opposed the bill. The bill then failed on a 21-17 vote.

Chairs

A resolution authorizing legislative leaders to buy new chairs for Senate members was approved on a 37-4 vote. The resolution would allow current and past senators buying their existing chairs, which are 16 years old.

Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, sponsored the move, saying new chairs are needed "in order to make you as comfortable as you can be while listening to this rhetoric."

Cutting Back

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Department of Public Instruction has written to local school systems asking them to cut back on use of school activity buses because the state's gasoline allocation was cut this month.

Tom I. Davis, information officer for the department, said the letter asked school superintendents to cut gas use by 5 percent and to try to cut it by as much as 15 percent.

A spokesman for the Department of Administration said school buses use more than half of the state's monthly gas allocation.

Last May, the allocation from Exxon Corp. to the state was 4,571,100 gallons, of which 2,380,400 went to school systems. This month, the allocation to the schools had been cut to 1,904,320 gallons.

"We're trying to get by with what we have," Davis said.

The New Hanover County school system has canceled 90 field trips in an effort to save fuel and has also canceled some athletic events for the remainder of the school year.

To Enforce 'No Parking'

Greenville Police Chief E. G. Cannon said this morning that officers will begin enforcing "no parking" regulations along the West side of Lewis Street, from Fourth Street to Second Street.

Cannon said the "no parking" signs were erected about a week ago and officers will begin ticketing and towing cars illegally parked along Lewis Street.

The chief also said the intersection of Third and Lewis Streets will be a four-way stop intersection for the next 30 days. At the end of the 30-day period, according to Cannon, the stop signs on Third Street will be removed so only traffic along Lewis Street will be required to stop for the intersection.

In the past, he said, Third Street traffic was required to stop for Lewis Street traffic.

Cannon explained that the change is being made in an effort to slow down traffic traveling along Lewis Street.

Man Robbed Cash Register

Greenville Police are looking for a man who took an estimated $50 from a cash register at McDonald's at the intersection of Memorial Drive and the Stanfordsburg Road last night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the man entered the fast-food store, placed an order, and when the cashier opened the cash register, reached over the counter and scooped up about $50 from the cash drawer and ran.

N.C. Divorce Bill Is Killed In House

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Church leaders, who mounted a last-minute opposition campaign, were successful Thursday in their efforts to stop a bill that would have cut in half the separation period required for most divorces in North Carolina.

The House reversed its tentative approval of two weeks ago and killed the bill that would have reduced the separation period from one year to six months.

The bill failed to win final approval on a 39-62 vote, and opponents applied a seldom-used parliamentary move called the "clinch" to ensure that it has virtually no chance of being brought up again this session.

Church leaders voiced opposition to the measure after it won tentative House approval two weeks ago.

Sixteen church leaders representing the N.C. Council of Churches and most major denominations signed a letter urging defeat of the bill, which had already been approved by the Senate.

After the House voted tentative approval and the objections were raised, the bill was sent back to a House committee for further discussion and debate.

But after hearing arguments from both sides, that committee returned the bill to the House floor with a vote for favorable approval for the second time.

The church leaders said the bill would have the effect of destroying family life in North Carolina and encourage quick remarriages. Legislators echoed those sentiments in the floor debate Thursday.

"This is the most holy of all contracts we will ever deal with," said Rep. Otha Carter, R-Stanly. "I don't think it's right (cutting the separation period)."

Rep. Bertha Holt, D-Alamance, said the House should move very carefully in its consideration of the bill.

"It is far reaching and affects family life and children," she said. "Remember that this (kind of divorce) is based just on proving you have lived separate and apart. Think what this does to marriages of 27 or 30 years."

Supporters of the bill argued for it as a means to alleviate the strain and bitterness often times caused by the year-long wait for a divorce.

A couple with marital trouble, they argued, would know in six months if there was any chance of reconciliation.

Rep. Richard Grady, D-Wayne, said he had mixed emotions about the bill but would support it because "where there is friction and where it goes on too long, sometimes violence occurs. One or the other or both lose their lives. This bill could possibly save some lives."

Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg, the bill's floor leader, said the bill would do more good than harm.

"There's no strong reason for opposing it," Helms said. "I believe you will find a greater number of instances, where there are children involved, that this could be helpful for them."
