

'Good Chance' Debris To Hit Oceans

Skylab Fall Slated Wednesday

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Skylab's "countdown to crash" ticked relentlessly on today, and a space agency official said there is a good chance all the debris from the faltering hulk will plunk harmlessly into the south Atlantic or Indian oceans on Wednesday.

"Right now, it looks like it's going to come down in the south Atlantic Ocean or in the Indian Ocean," said Richard G. Smith, head of the space agency's Skylab task force.

The North American Air Defense Command said today in its 6:55 a.m. EDT forecast that the 77.5-ton station will fall out of orbit in a 12½-hour period, between 5:54 a.m. and 6:24 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

The midpoint of that period was set at 12:09 p.m.

On the previous forecast, issued six hours earlier, some of the debris would have dropped over west central Australia, a sparsely populated area, but under the latest forecast that area would be spared.

However, later forecasts could put Australia back into the picture. And if Skylab should stay up another hour beyond that point, the debris would fall in the United States and Canada.

Trackers said the Skylab was orbiting at an altitude of 110 miles, a drop of eight miles in 24 hours. At 100 miles, it will begin to glow from the heat of re-entry. At about 70 miles, it will begin to break apart.

"If the middle time-frame holds good, we are in an excellent set of orbits," said Richard G. Smith, head of NASA's Skylab task force. "That turns out to be the set of orbits with the least population under it."

All the orbital paths in that middle time-frame pass over various sections of the United States. All also traverse large stretches of ocean.

NASA continued to emphasize that the chances are slim any pieces of Skylab will cause injury or damage. But the agency advised that people who hear news reports Skylab is coming their way head for the lower floors of a house or building.

Smith cautioned that the predictions, made by the North American Air Defense Command, are not precise because of different natural forces working on Skylab. These include variations in the gravitational pull of land masses and oceans, atmospheric friction and solar flares, which heat up the atmosphere and increase drag on a satellite.

Even NORAD's final prediction, coming two hours before expected re-entry, will be only 20 percent accurate, he said. That means the station could come down anywhere over a 15,000-mile path.

If present predictions hold, Smith said, NASA probably will make no attempt to delay

Skylab's re-entry a few orbits by sending commands to fire the craft's thrusters and decrease the drag. That is an option officials plan to use only if it appears the station is headed for re-entry on an orbital path over heavily populated areas.

Instead, Smith said, the thrusters will be fired about eight hours before the predicted re-entry to start Skylab tumbling. That, he said, will prevent the big vehicle from skipping through orbits, like a stone on water, as it strikes the ever-thicker atmosphere. Previous space vehicles have skipped in just such a manner, delaying their fiery plunges for an hour or more.

The debris will fall over an area 100 miles wide and 4,000 miles long, with the heaviest pieces traveling farthest because of their velocity. When they hit the ground, the small pieces will be traveling about 30 mph and the largest ones about 250 mph.

Governors Plan Endorse Removing Oil Price Lid

By DON MCLEOD
AP Political Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The nation's governors were about to hand President Carter another big boost today with an absolute endorsement of his plan gradually lifting the lid off the price of crude oil pumped in the United States.

The National Governors Association's annual convention closes today after action on resolutions covering energy, revenue sharing and a variety of other issues pressing state and local governments.

Carter's oil decontrol plans, announced in the spring, drew the wrath of consumer groups, and the move has been credited as one of the reasons for his skid in the popularity polls.

But when the resolution supporting decontrol passed the governors' committee on natural resources and environmental management Monday, the question of whether to decontrol prices was not even discussed.

The debate came over the attendant tax Carter has proposed on the "windfall profits" oil companies will get from higher oil prices. Although the fight was spirited, Carter carried that issue, too.

The endorsement by the governors follows a similar action by the country's mayors at their meeting in Pittsburgh last month, and both represent a major achievement by the administration.

Decontrol, the administration admits, will drive up the price of oil and is likely to aggravate an already embarrassing inflation rate that is running at more than 13 percent on an annual basis so far this year.

It also is a critical concern for state and local officials who have high fuel costs in their operating budgets and a lot of poor citizens who cannot afford to heat their homes or drive to work.

The mayors' backing came after intense debate and extensive White House lobbying, but decontrol was accepted in the end as a necessary evil leading toward eventual solution of the energy shortage — itself a major cause of their inflation woes.

Board Endorses Rezoning 'Parcel'

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Redevelopment Commissioners approved a resolution requesting that the Planning and Zoning board consider rezoning a parcel north of 16th Street that is being looked at by a black physician as a possible office site.

The Redevelopment Commission, it was mentioned last night, owns some 210 feet of frontage on 16th Street west of a parcel sold to Dr. Hazel Brown for development as dental facilities.

The parcel under consideration by Dr. Isaac Artis, a doctor of internal medicine, involves approximately 100 feet of frontage on the western end of the Commission-owned tract. Sale of the parcel to Artis, involving some 10,000 square feet, would leave an additional 18,000 square feet in between the two developments that could be used for future construction or for expansion by the two property owners.

The Commission agreed to seek rezoning from R-6 or residential to Highway Commercial, which would be an expansion of the present property zoning of the Brown tract. Commissioners indicated that if the Planning and Zoning Commission felt another zoning designation to accommodate Artis would more appropriate, they would go along.

Both the parcel owned by Brown and the tract under consideration by Artis are located on the north side of the new 16th Street-Howell Street connector.

Southside project manager Faye Brewington said that Artis, a native of Greenville, was interested in building a medical office containing some 1,800 to 2,000 square feet.

In other business, commissioners approved a contract with T. I. Wagner, who formerly served as deputy director of the Redevelopment Commission, as an option negotiator for acquisition of real property involved in the right-of-way for the 14th Street project under the Community Development program.

Some 20 parcels are involved in the initial contract, which has a six months limit and covers the right-of-way area from Dickinson Avenue to Farmville Boulevard.

Compensation to Wagner will be on a fee basis, according to Executive Director Joe Laney, based upon the delivery of a completed option to the Commission.

Wagner was involved in the acquisition of the Newtown property during his former tenure with the Redevelopment Commission.

Commissioners voted to set a two-week time limit on the receipt of a financial statement from Clarence Tugwell and Louis Clark regarding
(Continued from page 2)

Arraignment Waived By 4

Four persons charged with conspiracy and embezzlement of almost $100,000 from the Eastern Tar River Credit Union here, yesterday waived their arraignment in Pitt County Superior Court and entered pleas of not guilty to the charges.

The four, arrested last month in connection with the case included Dr. Andrew A. Best, a Greenville physician and member of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees, Ruth Marie Staton, a Rose High School instructor who served as a credit union clerk, farmer and store operator Marvin Stephenson, and Willie Taft, an employee of Fieldcrest Mills.

Mrs. Staton is charged with 24 counts of embezzlement, 9 counts of conspiracy and one count of falsifying records, while Best, a member of the black-operated credit union's board of directors, was charged with embezzlement and conspiracy in four cases and conspiracy in another.

Stephenson is charged with three counts of embezzlement and conspiracy, while Taft is charged in two counts of embezzlement and conspiracy.

Court officials this morning said the four will probably be tried on the charges in August.

Judge Bradford Tillery presided at yesterday's court session.

REFLECTOR

HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

SAW UFO!

Early Monday morning I saw what I believe was an unidentified flying object over the old Epes High School building. When I called the police, they sent out a patrol car, but the officers laughed when I told them what I saw. What can I do and who can I talk to about what I saw. S. P.

Hotline called Frank Harrison at Mount Olive College, who said he'd be happy to get in touch with you and listen to your description of the UFO you believe you saw. Harrison is associated with the Center for UFO Studies run by Dr. J. Allen Hynek of the Department of Astronomy at Northwestern University.

Harrison's phone number is 658-2502.

CONSUMER PROTECTION MEASURES

The 1979 North Carolina General Assembly did some good things for the consumer. Much of the recently approved consumer protection legislation has to do with situations that, over the past few years, have been written in our Hotline column. In the interest of space, we will publish one-at-a-time in Hotline columns of the near future, brief descriptions of some of these new consumer protection measures. For more information about any or all of them, one may contact the N. C. Dept. of Justice Consumer Protection Division, 733-7741.

1— Effective July 1, creditors are prohibited from sending collection letters that look like official court papers. These official-looking papers (sometimes even with seals and ribbons) have been used in the past to intimidate debtors by making them believe that official proceedings are being pressed. N. C. Attorney General Rufus Edmisten said. Violation is a misdemeanor, he indicated.

Arthur Fiedler Is Dead

ARTHUR FIEDLER

BOSTON (AP) — Arthur Fiedler, the zesty showman who brought classical music to millions as conductor of the Boston Pops, died today at his Brookline home, a Boston Pops spokesman said.

The 84-year-old maestro, who had remained vigorously active until the past year, died at 7 a.m. at his home, Pops spokesman Larry Murray said.

On June 9, Fiedler suffered a heart attack, his fifth since age 44.

The hospitalization was the latest in a series of illnesses that began with surgery to relieve pressure on his brain in December, 1978.

(Continued on page 6)

Williamston Employees End A Brief Strike; Partial Victory

WILLIAMSTON — About 30 Town of Williamston employees ended a brief strike and returned to their jobs at mid-morning, after having won a partial rate of their demand for a pay increase.

The group, from three town departments — the Sanitation, Water and Street, and Sewer Departments — went on strike Monday morning.

The workers took the striking action following receipt of their first pay check for the 1979-80 fiscal year on Friday, at which time they discovered they had not been granted an increase in pay. Earlier, they had requested a cost-of-living increase of seven per cent, in addition to the five per cent merit or anniversary raise.

The anniversary raise of five per cent is given each employee on the date they first began work for the town.

Monday morning, the workers reported to work, but then announced they would not work until their demands were considered. The town mayor and several commissioners, after talking to the workers, agreed to hold a special meeting Monday night.

At that meeting, following an executive session, the town board members told the striking workers they would meet with them again this morning.

An offer of a five per cent cost-of-living raise, in addition to the annual merit raise of five per cent, and an agreement to not penalize the workers for the loss of a day's work on Monday was announced to the striking group of employees.

At first the employees refused the offer, and met privately with members of Williamston's Fire and Police Departments — not involved in the strike. After deliberations with members of these two forces for about an hour, the striking employees agreed to the offer of the five per cent cost-of-living raise, and returned to work at approximately 10:30 this morning.

Treasure

MAN WITH A MIDAS TOUCH — Rich Banko admires a seven-foot, 10.5-pound gold money chain he recovered from the sunken wreck of the Spanish galleon Nuestra Senora de Atocha, off Key West, Fla. (AP Laserphoto)

PATIENCE REWARDED — Mel Fisher, head of Treasure Salvors, Inc., holds a 75-pound silver bar recovered from the sunken Spanish galleon. Fisher points to where tax collectors took a bite from the bar. (AP Laserphoto)

PRIZE OF THE ATOCHA? — Divers salvaged this 22 carat gold bar Saturday from the wreck of the galleon Nuestra Senora de Atocha. (AP Laserphoto)

By ANNE S. CROWLEY
Associated Press Writer
ABOARD THE JAMES BAY — More than 300 years ago, wealthy passengers eager to strip the New World of its treasure boarded the Spanish galleon Nuestra Senora de Atocha. Now divers salvaging what they believe is the sunken ship say they've reached its first-class compartments and the loot of its long-dead occupants.

"Aren't they pretty?" gloated diver Rich Banko as he admired the gold that broke a three-year drought in the quest for the galleon.

Banko looped a 7-foot, 10½-pound golden chain around his neck the way a rich Spaniard would have
(Continued on page 2)

Electric Rate Rescission Is Asked Of Ayden Board

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN — Mindful of the recent increase in electric rates, the Ayden Town Board of Commissioners worked with the air conditioner off Monday night during its regular monthly meeting.

However, two customers of the Ayden electrical system came before the board to ask for the rescission of the one cent per kilowatt additional charge which became effective with this month's billing.

The manager of the Ayden-Grifton Convenient Mart asked the board for at least a temporary rescission of the charge, saying that his bill had jumped from $450 to $1,015 for the operation of the store and a trailer behind it.

"It is going to be impossible for me to run my business with rates like that," the store manager pointed out.
Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger

noted that the decision of raising the rates "was not an easy one," but stated that the town could not go on absorbing the increasing charges passed on by Virginia Electric Power Company (VEPCO) through the Greenville Utilities Commission. Louis Tyson, a local tobacco farmer, brought on his utility bills to show that his bills had increased during the past months.

"I've got all gas facilities in my house. I could understand the increase if they were electric," said Tyson.

Tyson stated that when his next utility bills come, they should be even higher, owing to the use of electrically-run bulk tobacco curing barns.

"What is the town going to do if next month I get a $3,000 electric bill and I can only pay $1,500 until I sell my tobacco?" asked Tyson.

Mayor Persinger asked Tyson to come to the Town Office and talk with officials about the matter, saying, "We'll try to work with you, but I can't make any promises."

Board members pointed out that many items had affected the current bills, such as summer rates and the increase in fossil fuel charges passed on by VEPCO. Mayor Persinger called for Ayden citizens to "be patient" until Ayden Utilities could make the changeover to Carolina Power and Lights in May, 1980, the projected changeover date.

The board held a public hearing on the granting of a conditional use permit to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bridges for the operation of a day care center at 209 Verna Ave.

During the hearing, board members queried Mr. and Mrs. Bridges on their plans for the center.

According to Mrs. Bridges, the center would have to be approved and inspected by several county and state agencies to make sure it met standards. The center will probably operate on a 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. basis, said Mrs. Bridges, but will be open to suggestions from prospective customers.

The center would house 15 children, and would serve one meal and two snacks during the day, according to Mrs. Bridges.

The board voted to grant the Bridges the conditional use permit, noting that the several county and state agencies would be responsible in making sure that the center would be a safe place for children.

The board also voted approval of FHA documents for the loan resolution, nondiscrimination agreement and equal opportunity items pertaining to the water improvements. Approval was also given for the authorization of the town mayor and clerk to sign FHA documents for the well, water tank and distribution lines in the water project.

The board accepted low bids of $5,573.74 from Eastern Electric Supply for miscellaneous hardware and a low bid of $5,722 from WESCO for padmount transformers.

A petition was received from Chester Stox and Charles Hart pertaining to the annexation of North Hills addition. The board voted for Town Clerk Ralph Ford to investigate the petition, and report at the August board meeting.

In other business, the board approved the Ayden Fire Department's annual certification and voted to spend $100 for an advertisement in the Ayden-Grifton High School football program.

Sidestepped Charge Of Murder, Asks Pension

By DAVID SHAFFER
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Torsney, a former police officer who sidestepped a murder charge in 1977 by pleading insanity, has been freed because doctors and the state's highest court believe he is no longer mentally ill.

Even so, Torsney is still seeking a lifetime, $15,000-a-year pension from New York City on grounds of a disability — insanity.

The sharply-divided Court of Appeals ruled Monday that Torsney, 34, must be released from the Creedmoor Psychiatric Center because he is not so sick as to pose a threat to society or himself — the legal test of whether he should be freed.

The former patrolman, who is white, was acquitted at his November 1977 trial on a charge of second-degree homicide for the shooting death of an unarmed black Brooklyn teen-ager. Defense lawyers said he was suffering from a mental illness when he shot the boy.

The court held that it does not now matter how sick Torsney may have been on Thanksgiving Day, 1976, when he responded to a call at a Brooklyn apartment building where an armed man was reported.

That night, other officers testified, police determined the report was false and began to leave, passing 15-year-old Randolph Evans on their way. Moments later, Torsney put a gun to Evans's head and fired. Tors-sney claimed the youth pointed a gun at him, but officers found no gun.

Defense lawyers convinced the jury that Torsney was suffering from a rare form of psychomotor epilepsy, and after an all-white jury voted an acquittal, Torsney was placed in a mental hospital under the state's mental commitment statutes.

A short time later, doctors at the hospital determined that Torsney was not a threat to society and recommended his release. A Supreme Court judge upheld the release order in January 1978, and the Brooklyn district attorney appealed.

But the Court of Appeals, in a 4-3 decision, said the state has no choice under the state's mental health law but to release him.

Treasure...

(Continued from page 1)

worm it in the 17th century. But he won't get rich from his find — he'll be lucky if he gets one gold or silver coin.

The James Bay, a 160-foot Canadian minesweeper leased for the summer, is now anchored about 40 miles west of Key West, Fla. and 90 miles north of Cuba. In the past two weeks, its crew has brought up four golden bars, a fancier but smaller gold chain, a gold disc, an uncut amethyst and what it says is the stern anchor of the Atocha.

It's the first time in three years that divers scavenging the ocean bottom have struck gold from the Atocha, which broke apart in a hurricane in 1622 and quickly was scattered by another storm.

In the 10 years Mel Fisher and his crew have been excavating treasure from what their archeologists say is the Atocha, divers had uncovered only the "throwaway hold" at the bow where the least important artifacts were stored, says Fisher, head of Treasure Salvors, Inc. Yet the bow yielded $24 million worth of coins, silver bars, muskets, cannonballs and some gold, he says.

The new booty is from the stern, says Claudia Linzee, the project's archeologist. Now, the crew is on the hunt for the main hold where Fisher says Spanish entrepreneurs packed newly mined gold and silver.

The crew has narrowed the search to a strip of ocean 1,000 yards by 18 miles, he says. When the crew started, the search area was the size of Miami.

"We know it's there — it's got to be," Fisher says. We've got 18,000 Spanish documents that say it's there. Besides, look how romantic it is."

The Atocha's manifest lists 800 gold bars, 896 silver bars and 250,000 gold and silver coins valued by Fisher at several hundred million dollars. He says there may be even more because the 270 people aboard the ship probably were smuggling.

Fisher admits the power of the sea makes any treasure hunter's job dangerous. Four years ago, his son Dirk, daughter-in-law Angel and a diver were killed.

Fisher says the discovery of the stern anchor gives further proof the wreck is the Atocha. If so, says a Florida official, it's an important discovery. But state underwater expert Cory Richards says there's been no proof that any of Fisher's treasure is from that galleon.

Greenville Native New 'Miss Flame'

WINTON — Greenville native Dorothy Barnes, daughter of the late Leroy and Dorothy Barnes, was crowned "Miss Flame 1979-80" at the 89th convention of the N.C. Volunteer Fireman Association held July 2-6 here. Miss Barnes was crowned by Sudie Mayo, the outgoing queen. Denise Reed of Warrenton was first runner-up.

Miss Flame was entertained by the Better Best 4-H Club of Warrenton. Activities held during the week were fashion show, disco dance and a July 4 celebration.

Auxiliaries attending the convention included Farmville, Warrenton, Louisburg, Wake Forest, Wilson and Greenville. Greenville won a trophy for the most outstanding scrapbook.

Members from the Greenville auxiliary who attended were Beatrice Reeves, Sudie Mayo, Maggie Hymond, Virginia Ebron, Cathleen Walker, Essie Daughtery and Dorothy Barnes. Miss Barnes was elected state president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Ruff and Ready Firemen.

Volunteer firemen who attended were Jesse Grimes, John Bizzell, James Barnhill, John Corey, Ernest Peterson and James Cherry.

May Stiffen Gun Control

CHINA GROVE, N.C. (AP) — Town officials planned to consider tonight a proposal to stiffen China Grove's firearms law.

The action stems from a confrontation Sunday between Ku Klux Klansmen and a group of protesters at the China Grove Community Center. The Klan had rented the building to show the film "The Birth of a Nation," a 1915 movie glorifying the Klan.

Authorities said most of the 100 Klansmen and 100 protesters were armed but that no one was arrested on charges of illegal possession of firearms.

About 70 officers from the Rowan County Sheriff's Department, the Highway Patrol and the State Bureau of Investigation were called in to bolster China Grove's four-member police department.

Police Chief R.A. Overcash credited good fortune for the absence of bloodshed even though persons in the crowd displayed rifles, pistols, shotguns and billy clubs.

Town Clerk Steve Luther said the board of aldermen would meet tonight to discuss outlawing firearms in community buildings rented to private groups. He said that could be accomplished by amending the ordinance banning the use of alcohol at rented town property.

"Stiffening the ordinance would give us a little more leverage in controlling things before they get out of order," Luther said.

Redevelopment...

(Continued from page 1)

the proposed development of a parcel at the corner of Third and Washington Streets by Tugwell and Clark as T & C Co.

Commissioners had requested that the financial documents be presented at last night's meeting and they agreed that approval of the developer's site plan would not be given until the financial statement was presented.

T & C Co., according to Laney, propose to build an office structure of some 4,000 square feet on the 12,000 square foot lot. The developers indicated they could be under construction in 45 to 60 days and no later than Oct. 1, Laney said.

Mrs. Brewington reported that five acquisitions were completed in the West Meadowbrook section since the June meeting and single acquisitions were made in the Central Business District.

Southside and South Evans areas.

One relocation was handled in South Evans, she said, and one disposal was handled in Southside.

Ed Cobb, staff rehabilitation officer, said that five rehabilitation projects were completed since the last meeting, including one on Taylor Street in West Meadowbrook and four in the West Greenville area on Hudson Street (two), Ford Street and Vanderbilt Lane.

Cobb reported that approval has been received for two 312 rehabilitation loans.

Cars Collided At Intersection

An estimated $900 damage resulted from a 7:40 a.m. collision today at the intersection of 14th Street and Red Banks Road, according to Greenville Police Department investigators.

Officers, who reported both drivers involved in the mishap were injured, identified them as Helen Denny Talbert of 302 Windsor Rd., and Patricia Clark Tugwell of 1207 Kingsbrook Dr.

Police, who charged Mrs. Tugwell with following too close, set damage at $500 to the Talbert car and $400 to the Tugwell auto.

Sees Continued Ties To Taiwan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taiwan's representative to the United States, Kongsin C. Shah, predicted Monday that strong trade ties will continue to bind the two countries together despite the break in diplomatic relations following the establishment of full diplomatic relations between the United States and China.

LEGAL CLINIC OF JAMES E. BROWN

No Appointment Needed
Providing Legal Assistance For Specific Legal Problems At Fixed Fees. Appointments Available With Lawyer For Evenings & Saturdays At No Extra Charge.

- | | |
|---|---|
| Thirty Minute Consultation | $10 |
| Uncontested Divorces | $100+ Court Costs |
| Uncontested Legal Separation | $75 |
| Uncontested Personal Bankruptcy | $200 |
| Simple Wills | $35 |
| Uncontested Adoptions | $150 + Costs |
| House & Land Purchases | 1/2 % Of Purchase Price + 75 Closing* If Applicable |
| (Title Examinations, review sales contract etc.) | $200 minimum |
| Traffic Court Representation-District Court Only | |
| From Stop Sign Violation To Driving Under The Influence | $25 To $175 |
| Incorporations | $250 + Costs |
| Name Changes | $35 + Court Costs |
| Preparation Of Deeds & Notes | $20 |
| Power Of Attorney | $20 |

The Quoted Fee Will Be Available Only To Clients Whose Matters Fall Into The Categories Described. Clients Are Entitled Without Obligation To A Specific Estimate Of The Fee For Matters Falling Outside The Described Categories.

Hours of operation:
Monday Through Friday 9:00 To 5:00 P.M.
Saturday 9:00 To 12 Noon
609 Albermarle Ave. Across From D D Garrett Realty
Phone 758-7255

Python Paranoia Hits Neighbors Of Big 'Pet'

By TAMARA JONES
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Helen Seymour clearly remembers the day last month when the man next door moved into the other half of her San Diego duplex. He brought his wife, his baby and a 12-foot python.

Since then, she said, the huge snake has escaped twice and strangled two of her pedigree Samoyed puppies.

The current whereabouts of the serpent remain a mystery, and python paranoia is running rampant in the quiet Clairemont neighborhood north of San Diego.

Neighbors think the snake is on the loose, slithering its way through backyards in search of its next meal.

And if the snake's owner knows where it is, he's not telling.

He doesn't answer the doorbell. The drapes are safety-pinned shut across the windows of the small house. And there's a big hole in the screen of the bedroom window — the python's escape hatch, the neighbors say.

"My dogs started barking at 4:30 one morning," Mrs. Seymour said. "I went out to the kennel and one of the puppies let out a horrible scream. I didn't have a flashlight, and when I reached down to pick the puppy up, here's this huge snake wrapped around it."

The same thing happened again on the Fourth of July. Each time she ran to get her neighbor, he slung the 40-pound snake over his shoulder and walked off without even an apology, she says.

The last time, authorities searched the house where the snake reportedly lived in a cardboard box, but found no snake. Animal control officials said the snake owner, whom they declined to identify, told them he no longer had the snake.

The landlords who rented the duplex to the family say they knew nothing about the constrictor.

"When they filled out the rental application, they put down 'turtle' in the space for pets," said Mrs. John Holland.

Meanwhile, tricycles lie abandoned on the street, no sign of their owners. But police and fire officials say they have had no calls about the neighborhood's slithering mystery — Skylab has prompted much more concern, fire officials said.

Encil Rains, director of San Diego County Animal Control, stresses that the disappearing snake "is not a panic situation."

"We're not going door-to-door and peeking in windows looking for the thing," he said. "It's a pretty good hunk of snake — 6, 8, maybe 10 inches around — and that's just not a playmate," Rains said.

"It's immoral, illegal and wrong to have a snake that size, but we're not really worried since we can't prove it's running loose."

He laughed at earlier news reports of "an all-points bulletin" out on the snake. "How many points does a snake have?" he asked. "There are only two."

And that's two too many, as far as the people on Jemez Street are concerned.

"I'm afraid to go outside and petrified to get into my car. There are a lot of kids around here, and that thing's dangerous," said a woman who lives across the street from Mrs. Seymour.

The woman asked not to be identified, "because" you wouldn't want neighbors with a 12-foot python mad at you, would you?"

Lemon Custard
Pies
No Preservatives Added
Diener's Bakery
815 Dickinson Ave.

LAUTARES JEWELERS
Diamond Setting, Remounting
And Repairs
Done On The Premises
Greenville's Only Registered Jeweler
AGS MEMBER AMERICAN GEM SOCIETY

Entire Stock Of Missy & Junior
Beachwear
1/2
Price
Brody's Downtown
Pitt Plaza

Everything under the sun's on sale at Pitt Plaza's
Summer Clearance.
July 12-14.

Now's the time to buy summer things. Everything's marked down; it's time to clear out merchandise. So, come to Pitt Plaza Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and take advantage of Pitt Plaza's summer clearance.

Grocery Stores To Feature More Fresh Produce

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

America is still a long way from becoming a nation of vegetarians. But at least one supermarket industry observer predicts a backlash in the 1980s against our long-standing meat-heavy diet.

It's already underway in some stores, according to Gerald Lewis, president of Creative Designs International, a New York City-based supermarket design company.

Lewis says some supermarkets now on the drawing boards will have larger sections for fresh produce to meet consumer demand created by nutritionists who tout fruits and vegetables for fitness and health.

Although new stores are being built across the country, Lewis said in a telephone interview, the produce-oriented ones are particularly strong in the sunbelt.

This doesn't mean we're giving up meat, he added. "It's still a very, very important department," he said, adding that he sees no moves to reduce the size.

Lewis expects the energy crunch and more foods suitable for room temperature storage to reduce the size of refrigerated areas for dairy and frozen foods.

Howard Jenkins, vice president of Publix, a Florida-based supermarket chain, calls produce the main trend of the next decade. He says consumer demand in his state is particularly strong with elderly persons.

Delicatessen, bakery and fast-food take-out departments are also coming, industry spokesmen say, to meet the needs of working women who have less time but more money.

Jenkins speculates that his company might install sit-down restaurants in some of its stores in the early '80s if the take-out concept becomes popular enough.

Jenkins and Lewis are among supermarket designers quoted by Progressive Grocer, a trade magazine, in the first of two issues dealing with grocery retailing in the '80s.

Predictions about store sizes ranged from 15,000 to 40,000 or more square feet, depending on location, energy costs and regional preferences, among other factors. Several executives said stores in rural areas are becoming larger and more like their city and suburban cousins.

Rural consumers' tastes no longer differ from those of people in metropolitan areas, says Bill Miller, general manager of the store development division of Wetterau, Inc., of Hazelwood, Mo.

Thanks to television and trips to urban areas, their preferences resemble suburbanites', Miller says; they want delis, bakeries and more non-foods, and rural retailers are providing them.

Designer Arnold Ward, president of Arnold Ward Studios of New York City, thinks supermarkets of the 1980s will be larger but simpler — as consumers in a tight economy become suspicious about the causes of price increases.

In a telephone interview, Ward said, "One thing that definitely arouses consumers' suspicions are store or chain operators remodeling or redecorating elaborately. If they spend $100,000 to decorate stores, customers question how the owners can afford to spend so much. They think they're being ripped off."

Ward thinks this attitude favors alternatives such as warehouse stores, which display products in cardboard shipping boxes and wire baskets and sell at a discount.

He says larger stores are a strong trend because, "one-stop shopping will be the way of the '80s."

He attributes this partly to the growth of suburbia, "especially down South, where people have to travel 10 miles or more to do their shopping."

One-stop shopping saves fuel, time and money, he added.

In Hopkins, Minn., Lloyd Stenbeck is director of store planning and engineering for Super Valu, a large voluntary wholesaler. Both Stenbeck and Ward see more service orientation such as consumer affairs directors to whom grocery shoppers can turn with complaints and suggestions; more ready-to-eat foods and in-store restaurants for working people who are disinclined to cook after a day's work.

Stenbeck sees a bright future for service stores, despite the development of limited assortment and warehouse stores because, he says, "people still like to be attended to."

One problem that won't go away is shoplifting.

A new system Ward's company plans for some clients combines customer and watchdog service.

It is "a platform with a public address system directly in the center of the check-stands," Ward said. "The store manager stands in the middle and directs the action, like the captain of a ship. He listens to complaints, oversees the front end and watches for shoplifters."

Ward adds that regular mirrors "make shoppers feel like crooks, something no supermarket man wants."

So some stores are installing a "catwalk security" system that uses concealed one-way mirrors instead.

Drop The Grudge, Even Grudgingly

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man who will be married soon. A problem has come up. I have an aunt and uncle (I'll call Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe) who were my favorite relatives while I was growing up and they always treated me as if I were their own son. They are my god parents.

Well, some time ago, something happened between my parents and Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe. They haven't spoken since. I still don't know what was behind the quarrel.

I would like to send Aunt Sue and Uncle Joe an invitation to my wedding.

My parents may be hurt if I do, but I feel that if my parents want to hold a grudge, it is THEIR grudge, not mine. I am not sure my aunt and uncle would accept even if they were invited, but I think they'll appreciate being asked. What do you think?

C. IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR C.: Your attitude shows great understanding and maturity. Children should not be expected to "inherit" and perpetuate the grudges of their parents. (P.S. If you decide to invite them, advise your parents in advance.)

DEAR ABBY: When I am looking at merchandise in a store and a salesperson inquires in an almost-menacing, authoritative manner, "May I help you?" I always say, "No, thanks, I'm just looking." Then I invariably move on.

Perhaps if I had been left alone to look a little longer, I'd have decided to buy something. But when help is offered while I am trying to make a decision, I am forced to make an instant decision which is almost always negative.

Please tell salespeople that, if they want to make a sale, they should let the customer look around until he makes up his mind to buy.

INTIMIDATED BY SALESPERSONS

DEAR INTIMIDATED: Where do you shop? In most places these days you have to beg a salesperson to write up your sale. I agree that a salesperson who intimidates the customer loses the sale, but an offer to help need not be "menacing and authoritative." How about a friendly, casual, non-intimidating, "If you need any help, please let me know."

DEAR ABBY: Over the weekend I attended a friend's wedding. When I got home, I told my mother that the best man collected money for those who wanted to dance with the bride or groom for a two-minute period. Mother thought this was cheap. She said she attended one wedding where this was done and everyone at her table thought it was disgusting. Others say this is a tradition and can benefit the couple by paying for their honeymoon hotel room, for example. I am getting married soon and would like your opinion.

DEE

DEAR DEE: Unless this is an accepted custom in your social group, don't dance for dollars.

DEAR ABBY: I was amused to read about the man who wanted his ashes scattered over the grounds of the country club that wouldn't have him as a member.

Perhaps his motives are the same as my sister's. An ardent fan of the Chicago Cubs, she wants her ashes scattered over Comiskey Park, hoping the ashes will be blown into the eyes of a White Sox player during a crucial play!

C.E.L.: FORT WAYNE, IND.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Pictures of the bride only will be published. Engagement and wedding forms are available upon request.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement. Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to "The Daily Reflector" one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

For further information, telephone the newspaper office.

Opera Singer Saw 'Madame Butterfly' And Was 'Hooked'

By SYLVANA FOA
VIENNA, Austria (UPI) — America's Patricia Wise is too skinny to fit the popular image of an opera diva but her voice is big enough to bring Viennese critics to their feet with roars of "bravo."

"Most people expect women opera singers to be fat," said Miss Wise, who hardly qualifies with only 120 pounds on her 5-foot-6 frame.

"Singers with great big voices like Joan Sutherland tend to big bones and wide lungs, as we say in the profession. I come out with my flat chest and people wonder..."

"But you don't have to be fat," said the 34-year-old soprano from Wichita, Kan. "Skinny singers can do it, too, with good vocal projection."

Miss Wise performs in some 60 operas each year, most at the 110-year-old Vienna State Opera House.

"I have no dates at all in the States next year. First because I'm totally booked up in Europe for the next two years and second because I'm not so cheap any more."

"American opera houses can still find good cheap talent right at home. They aren't willing to foot the bill for someone who's gotten expensive."

Miss Wise started singing when she was 13.

"My father was in the oil business and we moved around a lot — we were living then in Eldorado, Kansas, population 13,000. I got a kick out of harmonizing in church so my mother started lessons."

"I was in big demand for entertaining bridge clubs. But I was much more serious about horses — I didn't want to be a singer. I wanted to be a cowgirl."

Miss Wise said she didn't even like opera until she got to college.

"I thought opera was just a lot of screeching and would turn off the radio when it came on. Then I saw 'Madame Butterfly' and realized opera was a play and a symphony all wrapped up. I was hooked."

The next season she signed on at the Santa Fe Opera and in 1966 headed for New York and the Metropolitan Opera Studio. Her debut in a lead came six years ago with the role of Rosina in "The Barber of Seville" at the New York

(Continued on 5)

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ellis

Anniversary Party Given Couple Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ellis of Greenville celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday.

An anniversary party was given by their daughter, Rose, at the Arlington Street Baptist Church. Guests were received by Miss Ellis.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a silver candelabra filled with blue and yellow mums, carnations, pompons and baby's breath. Mrs. Arlene Ellis poured punch and Mrs. Genet Lilley served cake.

Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Betty Ann Jubert.

Mrs. Ellis wore a corsage of white carnations.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Okay, so it's only two ads, but they've appeared within one day of each other and if the momentum holds, we could have a trend on our hands.

I'm talking about an ad to sell a house and another one seeking employment that have dared use a refreshing and unique approach to advertising: honesty.

The first ad was out of London and was placed by a man trying to sell his house. His ad read: "Two and a half bedroom box located in suburbia, miles from any pretty country, yet lacking the cultural facilities of any decent sized town. Pocket handkerchief garden which floods in winter, acid soil suited only to rhododendrons and thistles.

"It's convenient, expensive and dirty. The whole in terrible decay."

The second ad was placed by a woman newspaper executive who had had a hard day and decided to place an ad in the Job Wanted Female classification in Florida. She wrote:

"WANTED: EASY JOB: Educated, experienced woman wants what most people want — a high-paying job in an advisory role, three days a week with long lunch breaks, good benefits, including one-month vacations and a secretary. Does not do windows."

The possibility for honesty in advertising is unlimited. Wouldn't it be wonderful to see a husband embrace his wife, tweak her nose and say, "Honey, I don't know how you do it, taking care of the house, the six children, running an engineering firm, and serving on the Supreme Court bench," and she would look deeply into his face and smile, "I drink."

I told my husband what I'd really like to see is an ad under Used Cars that reads:

"We don't want to be your friend. We just want to sell you a car. We have the second-best deal in town with no intention of matching another offer. For this week and for as many weeks as it takes to unload it, we have a four-door, undependable gas hog that needs brakes, tires and a mechanic for an owner. Has a lot of toys under the hood (also in the back seat and trunk) and has been owned by everyone in town. We're pushing this turkey because it makes our lot look shabby."

My husband winced. "Who would buy a car with a pitch like that?"

"We did."

Births

Norville

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dennis Norville, Rt. 6, Greenville, a daughter, Danielle Denise, on June 30, 1979, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Peaden

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alton Peaden Jr., Rt. 2, Farmville, a son, Roy Alton III, on July 2, 1979, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

McCray

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Willie McCray Jr., 409 Church St., a son, Travis Sintel, on July 3, 1979, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Bridal Policy

"The Daily Reflector" policies relating to engagement announcements and wedding write-ups are as follows:

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Black Bart
WOODSTOVES

Summer Specials

$588⁷⁶
Fully Insulated

Save up to 90% on your heating bills!

PRICE INCREASE JULY 15

Buy Now And Save!
($100.00 Deposit Holds Till Fall)

264 By-Pass
Greenville
Red Oak Shopping Center

Hours:
Tues.-Fri. 10-5
Sat. 10-1
Closed Mondays

756-4651

Clear-Vue OPTICIANS

Soft Contact Lenses
$149⁵⁰ Including Fitting And Cleaning Unit Now Thru July 31st

"Free Trial Offer With No Obligation"

Semi Soft Lens$130.00
Hard Lens$115.00

Lenses By Bausch and Lomb-Soft Lens
Milton Roy Naturevue

CLEAR-VUE OPTICIANS
GREENVILLE, N.C. 752-1446 BUILDING A 1705 W. 6TH ST.
OFFICE HOURS: 9 A.M.-5 P.M. MON.-TUES. THURS.-FRI. 9 A.M.-1 P.M. WEDNESDAY
Berkley Mall Goldsboro 114 E. Walnut Downtown Goldsboro
VISA master charge

ADJACENT TO EAST CAROLINA EYE CLINIC

Black Bart
WOODSTOVES

Summer Specials

$588⁷⁶ Fully Insulated

Save up to 90% on your heating bills!

PRICE INCREASE JULY 15

Buy Now And Save!
($100.00 Deposit Holds Till Fall)

264 By-Pass Greenville Red Oak Shopping Center

Hours: Tues.-Fri. 10-5 Sat. 10-1 Closed Mondays

The Little Shop 756-4651

Kmart THE SAVING PLACE

Sensational NEW Personality Portrait Package

Bigger Package NOW Includes Additional 8x10 Color Portrait

$12.95 total package price

95¢ deposit

Additional Packages Only $12.00

Package now includes: TWO 8x10's, 3 5x7's, 15 wallets, and 4 Color Portrait Charms

The perfect Color Portrait Package for the entire family at a super K mart price, and in a variety of poses and backgrounds. No additional charge for groups. Poses our selection. Satisfaction always or deposit cheerfully refunded.

TUES. July 10 WED. July 11 THURS. July 12 FRI. July 13 SAT. July 14

Photographer On Duty Daily 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

EAST GREENVILLE BOULEVARD, GREENVILLE, N.C.
(Greenville Square Shopping Center)

Carefully Documented Event

Skylab is going to come down in the next few days. Our best scientists can't say when, but it is a certainty that Skylab will crash to earth.

It will be the most carefully documented striking of the earth by an object in all our history.

Government tracking stations are following the course of Skylab around the clock, and television networks will constantly remind their viewers of the impending event.

People around the world have become obsessed with the fall of Skylab. Many are genuinely worried about the chances of being struck by falling debris, even though the odds for any one person are astronomical.

Others see it all in a light hearted way. Some entrepreneurs are selling Skylab helmets. Some have erected targets on the theory that the government can't make a direct hit if it tries.

The descent of Skylab can be put better in perspective if we recognize that objects have been falling from the skies for as long as the earth has existed. Many meteorites have been collected through the centuries and studied as objects from outer space. To get here they have to survive the searing heat generated by contact with our atmosphere. Countless meteors, of course, burn up and never reach the earth's surface.

Since the advent of flight the possibilities of aircraft crashing are constantly with us, and the crashes are not always controllable to miss populated areas.

So the Skylab fall, spectacular as it is, probably poses no more threat to mankind than countless other objects which have fallen from the heavens over the centuries. It's the anticipation that is so mesmerizing.

SALTY Temptation For The Senate

While it doesn't seem likely that the U. S. Senate will reject the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) it is obvious the temptation is going to be there to amend it many times over.

That likely means the Carter administration will have a real challenge to allow the senators to make minor changes— which they can point to for home consumption— and convince the Russians that the agreement is still intact.

It would be unrealistic to believe that the SALT agreement could come through the Senate without any changes. Nevertheless an acceptable treaty can still be ratified.

THIS AFTERNOON

Good Things For Future

By BILL NOBLITT
 RALEIGH — Gloom, despair and misery got you down?

Tar Heels have some particularly good things to feel good about, says Jake Wicker of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill, and "in light of the past and where we stand today, we can be optimistic."

The trick is to make a distinction between things not to worry about ... things to feel good about ... and things to be concerned about.

Wicker, a veteran faculty member at the Institute of Government whose specialty includes municipal and county administration and finance, explored these three categories for a meeting of the North Carolina League of Municipalities.

The main theme of Wicker's dissertation had to do with North Carolina's cities and Balanced Urban Growth.

He believes that the state's "conscious attempt today to maintain a pattern of balanced growth should be successful."

Why? Because the pieces are already in place, Wicker concludes.

Scattered

Even though ranking as the nation's tenth most populous state, and enjoying benefits of successful industrial and economic growth, North Carolina remains a state of small towns and rural settings with no dominating urban center.

All other governmental and economic decisions aside, that happy condition is largely due to 75-year-old state policies with respect to highways and public education, Wicker finds.

Many states leave both those major functions up to local governments. The result is often spotty development.

"These two long-standing state policies were adopted in the belief that all children should have good educations and all citizens should have good roads.

"Their avowed purposes have been and are being achieved.

"But beyond that, the fact that people and goods can move easily made it possible for new industry to locate throughout the state.

"The fact that children throughout the state have access to substantially the same educational opportunities has made it unnecessary for people to move to one, or a few, urban centers for education.

Annexation of surrounding territory by towns, for example, often stirs ill humor. But Wicker reminds that most urban growth takes place in and around existing cities and towns, and the state's policy is based on the belief that "urban type of services and functions assigned to municipal governments may be provided more efficiently and democratically by enlarging existing cities and towns — by annexation — than by creating new cities and towns." — Tomorrow: Why Worry?

Wicker says.

Planning

But a key consideration in planning that future growth has to be a clear recognition that city governments, county governments and state government must reach a clearer understanding of the interlocking nature of their responsibilities and roles; ending current bickering and political fighting over actions which, after all, will affect all citizens.

Annexation of surrounding territory by towns, for example, often stirs ill humor. But Wicker reminds that most urban growth takes place in and around existing cities and towns, and the state's policy is based on the belief that "urban type of services and functions assigned to municipal governments may be provided more efficiently and democratically by enlarging existing cities and towns — by annexation — than by creating new cities and towns." — Tomorrow: Why Worry?

BILL NOBLITT

THE INSIDE REPORT

Pentagon's Conscience

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
 WASHINGTON — When Lt. Gen. Edward L. Rowny declared the afternoon of June 29 that even though retiring from the Army he was "not going on a SALT-free diet," the administration was given notice it could not portray the military high command solidly behind SALT II.

The occasion was a full-dress parade at Ft. McNair in southwest Washington concluding Rowny's 38 years of active duty, the last six and one-half of them as representative of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) at the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). Serving under three presidents, Rowny fought a dogged but losing battle against succumbing to Russian intransigence. Now, he made clear, he would testify against what resulted.

"This is a sad day for the Army," commented one defense community insider as Baltimore native Rowny trooped the line to the strains of "My Maryland." It was sad because of losing "the conscience of the JCS" who insisted the brass assert themselves for national security; it was sad also because Rowny, while on active duty, could not criticize a treaty he in good conscience could not support.

Unlike many SALT critics, Rowny is a genuine believer in arms control. Had U.S. negotiators bargained with as much tenacity as their Soviet counterparts, he believes, there would be a treaty today whose ratification Ed Rowny would have no trouble endorsing.

A distinguished combat officer in three wars, he respects military discipline. While in private he grumbled that U.S. negotiators of three presidents retreated to their first fallback position before they had sat down at the table, in public he said nothing, Rowny, rejecting pleas to speak out during the negotiations, felt he could be most effective inside instead of outside.

Even after his retirement decision a month ago, administration officials hoped he would keep his misgivings to himself — a hope that flickered during the retirement ceremony at Ft. McNair. The citation by Defense Secretary Harold Brown awarding Rowny the Distinguished Service Medal declared his advice "contributed most significantly to the treaty in its final form."

But this was to prove unlike other retirement ceremonies, as foreshadowed by the audience. Beside the usual family and fellow officers, much of the anti-SALT lobby was there. Included was Dr. Fred Ikle, President Ford's disarmament agency chief and now a Republican spokesman against SALT II. An even more exotic guest was Lane Kirkland, AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer and a leader of the Committee on the Present Danger.

Rowny chose this day for his first public statement on SALT, which though muted was unmistakable. He continued on page 5

Strength For Today

EVERLASTING LOVE

"I have loved thee with an everlasting love."

Speaking to Jeremiah, God used the words to indicate His undying affection for the Jewish people. Yet these were a people who had failed the Most High in almost every particular. Nevertheless, God could assure them that His love for them was "everlasting."

Here are words for us to ponder when the going gets hard. And also, even before that, when the sun is shining brightly, when success is upon us, when our hearts are full of gratitude to God for His many mercies.

The great God, the Maker of heaven and earth, the spiritual Father of every one of us — He loves us. Love is the central characteristic of His nature. The thing we call love, which is manifested in such an inadequate way here on earth — this love divinely perfected is of God's very nature, and He pours it out upon the life and into the heart of every last child of His upon the earth.

Elisha Douglass

THE L. A. TIMES SYNDICATE

"Be realistic, mi amigo! If I step down, you may have those dictatorial, bloodthirsty commies on your back."

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

The Legislative Veto

WASHINGTON — Our government, as every schoolboy knows, theoretically embraces three branches — the executive, the legislative and the judicial.

Other Editors Say Not Really Bleak

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Air travel appears to be getting worse rather than better in the Rocky Mount area. Piedmont Airlines has announced plans to pull out. Passenger use of Piedmont planes has not been heavy enough to keep the company here. Likelihood of attracting another commercial airline such as Piedmont also appears slim.

Surrounding towns are upgrading local airports although support has been pledged to the Rocky Mount-Wilson facility. Tarboro for example has been given tentative approval of grant funds to upgrade an air strip near the town for private use.

Tarboro-Edgecombe Airport Authority expects to receive $250,000 from the state Department of Transportation to upgrade Barnhill Airport, a small, formerly private strip that was given to Tarboro and Edgecombe County jointly.

With private flight service going to local airports and commercial airlines pulling out of the bigger Rocky Mount-Wilson facility, the future of aviation in the Rocky Mount area looks bleak.

However, an honest approach to the problem and to the energy shortage indicates the outlook is not so bad as it may seem.

Rocky Mount is too close to Raleigh-Durham Airport ever to make Focky Mount a viable commercial facility. In an hour and slightly more than an hour, Tarboro area residents may travel by car to Raleigh-Durham and board more flights than Rocky Mount-Wilson could ever hope to have.

The energy crunch makes a big difference. With gas for auto travel expected to be short, a commuter service to the Raleigh-Durham Airport is an excellent alternative for Rocky Mount-Wilson officials to consider. That idea is also being investigated.

A commuter service combined with the fact that Rocky Mount-Wilson can handle bigger private planes than surrounding smaller airports and can handle private planes, bit and little, in the Rocky Mount area, means the airport still will have a valid use.

Surrounding community airports will handle local traffic. But Rocky Mount-Wilson can offer a commuter service, a larger airport and handle Rocky Mount's local air traffic. From a realistic point of view, the outlook is quite bright.

Lenders Seeking Customers

By JOHN CUNIFF
 AP Business Analyst
 NEW YORK (AP) — Americans owe at least $288 billion of installment loans, an increase of about $45 billion in a year, to say nothing of more than $1 trillion of residential, commercial and farm mortgages.

They owe the money to commercial banks, savings banks, savings and loan associations, retailers, finance companies, insurance companies, credit unions, and private parties, including parents and employers.

They continue to add to it, with the aid of lenders. Lenders like the high interest rates they receive. Borrowers like the idea of deducting that interest on their tax returns, and paying back in cheaper dollars.

Once upon a time, borrower approached lender hat in hand. Times have changed. Some lenders now try to drop money in the hat; they solicit customers, they offer credit cards with automatic lines of credit.

Is it unwise to use credit? No. It may be unwise not to use it. Credit in itself is neither good nor bad; what gives it such designations is the use to which it is put. That use can be wise, or unwise.

Families that use credit to pay routine, recurring bills, such as for groceries, are misusing credit. So are those who use credit for items of little permanence. And those who use it to finance whims.

Those who pay for durable, big ticket items such as

Dissent In Poor Health

By SETH MYDANS
 Associated Press Writer
 MOSCOW (AP) — A year after their convictions, Anatoly Shcharansky has headaches and eye trouble, Yuri Orlov is weakening from the strain of hard labor, Alexander Ginzburg is free in the United States, and the Soviet dissident movement is in poor health.

The 1978 trials of the three men came after a crackdown on critics of the Soviet system — stepped-up surveillance, harassment, arrests and trials — that began at the start of 1977. The climactic moment occurred at 4 p.m. last July 14 when Shcharansky, a 31-year-old Jewish activist, was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 13 years at hard labor after refusing to ask for mercy.

Ginzburg, a charter member of the Helsinki human rights group, was sentenced the day before to eight years at hard labor. Orlov, the founder of the Helsinki group, had been sentenced the previous May 18 to seven years at hard labor and five years of Siberian exile for anti-Soviet agitation and propaganda.

Last April, after nine months in a labor camp, Ginzburg was exiled to the United States in a prisoner exchange.

The three were the best-known of the imprisoned dissidents, and the United States and other Western governments protested their trials and convictions. But Amnesty International, the Western organization that monitors political prisoners around the world, counts a total of 321 human-rights activists in the Soviet Union who have been imprisoned, exiled to Siberia or given forced psychiatric treatment since the Soviet government and 34 others signed the Helsinki Accords in August 1975.

Orlov and other dissidents organized the Helsinki group in May 1976 to publicize their government's violations of the human rights provisions of the accords. They became the chief target of the government crackdown.

(Continued on page 5)

40 Years Ago Today

July 10, 1939

A complete roster of farm experts who will accompany the third annual farm and home tour in Pitt County on Wednesday and Thursday was announced today by R.R. Bennett, Pitt County farm agent.

It was explained that H.R. James, assistant farm management specialist, and L.I. Case, beef cattle specialist, would go with the tourists Wednesday and Thursday for lecture demonstrations. Both are from State College.

The farm experts traveling with the tourists Wednesday, besides James and Case, will be Dr. R.F. Poole and Dr. Luther Shaw, plant pathologists from State College, and E.G. Moss and J.F. Bullock from the Oxford Tobacco Experiment station.

Bennett said the tobacco experiment station experts will discuss tobacco diseases, concentrating on Granville wilt and black shank at one of the earlier stops in the morning on the first day of the tour.

Stuart Morgan

The Daily Reflector

INCORPORATED

209 Cotanche Street, Greenville, N.C. 27834

Established 1882

Published Monday Through Friday Afternoon and Sunday Morning

DAVID JULIAN WHICHARD, Chairman of the Board
 JOHN S. WHICHARD — DAVID J. WHICHARD Publishers

Second Class Postage Paid at Greenville, N.C.
 (USPS 145-400)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

Payable in Advance
 Home Delivery By Carrier or Motor Route Monthly $3.50

MAIL RATES

(Prices include tax where applicable)
 Pitt and Adjoining Counties
 $3.50 Per Month
 Elsewhere in North Carolina
 $3.85 Per Month
 Outside North Carolina
 $5.00 Per Month

MEMBER OF ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to use for publication all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited to this paper and also the local news published herein. All rights of publications of special dispatches here are also reserved.

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Advertising rates and deadlines available upon request.
 Member Audit Bureau of Circulation.

Evans-Novak . . . Kilpatrick Col. . .

(Continued from page 4)

fessed he had asked to be relieved of duties "reluctantly, and with deep sadness and disappointment." Brown's compliment for contributing to SALT II was ignored.

Rowny then jumped into a debate gripping today's Pentagon: "...our military may have lost the regard of many of their fellow citizens because they are perceived as not completely fulfilling their obligation to give professional military advice to appropriate civilian authority." Rowny specified "military advice tempered by personal ambition or lack of intestinal fortitude." Just such criticism is rampant within the military, directed at JCS members — particularly its chairman, Air Force Gen. David Jones.

Rowny pledged he would "not simply fade away. In taking off my uniform I shall not cast off the oath I took 38 years ago." He then ad libbed the line abjuring "A SALT-free diet." But he did not follow advice to base his retirement on the First Amendment (pro-free speech) and the Eighth Amendment (anti-cruel and unusual punishment).

His last two years in Geneva were indeed cruel and unusual, Carter administration negotiators treating him as the enemy within. Derogatory leaks about him drifted from high officials in Washington. After his retirement was announced, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee tried to hobble Rowny by scheduling him to testify in tandem with a pro-SALT, retired admiral.

Rowny will be silent until his mid-July testimony, which will explode White House fantasies of a solidly supportive military. Just as his reports from Geneva prodded the JCS into a firmer stand during negotiations, the prospect of Rowny's testimony may embolden one or two chiefs into critical public positions.

He also will invite speculation about what kind of treaty was really possible. Skeptics believe the Kremlin would never sign an agreement as "equitable and verifiable" as Ed Rowny demanded, but it would have been interesting to find out had this country followed the Pentagon's conscience.

Mydans Col. . . .

(Continued from page 4)

News about those imprisoned is scarce. It comes either in the rare, censored letters they are allowed to send their families or by word of mouth from other prisoners who are freed.

Outside prison walls the dissident movement has weakened, at least for the time being.

The Helsinki group continues to exist in skeletal form and holds occasional meetings with Western reporters as it did when Ginzburg, Orlov and Shcharansky were active. But the remaining members do not have the vitality or strength of those now imprisoned. They barely keep alive what was once an energetic gathering and reporting of data on alleged repressions.

One strong figure remains in the dissident movement, physicist Andrei D. Sakharov. He is still free and active, perhaps, because of his international renown and possibly because of friends in high places in the Kremlin.

(Continued from page 4)

television, the Civil Aeronautics Board with air transportation, and so on. The new breed of agency is different. The writ of the FTC, for example, runs clean across the board. Any activity that even remotely "affects commerce" is fair game for the commission.

At the FTC, 1,700 bureaucrats, including 600 lawyers, are actively, eagerly, obsessively engaged in the promulgation of rules and regulations. By Schmitt's count, the FTC is working on 40 public investigations, 120 private investigations, 30 active litigations and 15 proposed Trade, Rule Regulations. The TRR's cover funeral homes, health spas, used cars; hearing aids, mobile homes, children's "television advertising and a mind-boggling assortment of other matters.

"The Federal Trade Commission," Schmitt contends, "may be the second most powerful legislature in the country. The FTC claims the power to declare any commercial act to be 'unfair,' regardless of state law, and thereby to amend all state statutes and reverse all state cases that may be inconsistent with its declaration. All 50 state legislatures and state supreme courts can agree that a particular act is fair and lawful, but the five-member appointed FTC can overrule them all."

Schmitt's concern goes beyond particular TRR's. The basic question is a question of power: "Who writes the laws in this country — unelected administrators or the elected representatives of the people?" His disturbing answer is that the regulatory agencies are spinning out 18 laws for every one law enacted by the Congress. For all practical purposes, the agencies are untouchable. They are headed by boards or commissions whose members are named for fixed terms, and they are served by bureaucratic staffs with what amounts to life tenure.

Under an amendment proposed by Schmitt to the FTC authorization bill, Congress would have 60 days in which either house could impose a legislative veto upon a TRR. There is nothing especially novel in a legislative veto as such. Since 1932, Schmitt says, Congress has reserved such a power nearly 300 times. At least 34 states have some form of legislative veto over state agencies. The authority appears to be rarely used. "Just the existence of the veto has improved the quality of regulation and has made the agencies more responsive to the legislature."

Schmitt's resort amounts to a last resort, and last resorts ought to be seldom invoked. The device troubles some observers who regard the veto as a legislative intrusion upon executive responsibilities, but there seems to be nothing unconstitutional in the approach. My own inclination would be to try the Schmitt plan for a few years and to see how it works with the FTC. If a veto would restrain that power-hungry outfit, the same kind of emergency brakes could then be provided for all the rest.

Singer...

(Continued from page 3)

City Opera.
For the past five years, Miss

Wise has based herself in Europe, winning praise and curtain calls with her lively interpretation of coloratura roles.

"I think of myself as a singing actor, not a singer with an operatic voice. I take a role and try to become the character — hop around when the character would've hopped around.

"One of my favorite roles is Oscar, the page in Verdi's 'A Masked Ball.' There my size and my tomboyishness helps — I mean, what fat diva who can only stand there with her arms folded across her bosom could be convincing as a 14-year-old boy?"

"Actually there is more demand now for believable opera singers. More and more people are sampling opera and some guy attending his first opera just isn't going to believe that the fat lady on stage is really a character dying of consumption.

"Of course, a lot is forgiven and forgotten if the audience is moved by the quality of the voice."

SECRET LAUNCHING

CHERBOURG, France (AP) — The French government has launched its first nuclear submarine, the 2,700-ton Provence, at a secret ceremony attended only by a few officials, engineers and technicians. Its first sea trials are scheduled for early 1981.

78-Year-Old Ended A Jail Escape Attempt

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 78-year-old doctor ended two Buncombe County jail inmates' attempted escape Monday when he overpowered one of his captors and disarmed him.

The inmate was armed with a crude knife fashioned from a spoon.

"I just decided I was going to take that spoon away from him and I did," said Dr. John C. Young, an Asheville physician who has served as jail doctor for the past 21 years.

Plan Services Sunday Night

The Rev. Hugh Walston of Greenville and the congregation of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church will render services at Sweet Hope FWB Church, Galloway's Crossroads, Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Offerings will go to the Pew Fund. Everyone is invited, according to the sponsors, Della Smith and Magalene Stephenson.

The jailbreak attempt began about 8:20 a.m. while Young was in the jail dispensary on the 14th floor of the courthouse for his daily task of seeing ill inmates.

Suddenly, two of the men, identified as Harady Lee Goss, 38, and Bruce Talbert, 21, produced makeshift knives. Talbert grabbed the jail nurse, Pat Ward, and put a knife to her throat, deputies said.

Goss grabbed the doctor and put his knife to Young's throat. Miss Ward said she was terrified, but Young said he was more annoyed than afraid.

"It wasn't the time to be scared," Young said. "I waited 'til later to get scared."

Meanwhile, a jailer sounded an alarm and armed deputies began covering all stairways, hallways and exits in the building.

The two inmates, Young, Miss Ward and a jailer got on the jail elevator and started down. Goss and Talbert announced their intentions of taking Young's car and Young once they got out of the courthouse. "I didn't know what I was going to do then," Young said. "But I knew I wasn't going out of the building."

The elevator stopped on the fifth floor and the small group got off and headed for the back stairs. Two deputies appeared midway down the steps.

Talbert warned the deputies to stay back, saying he had nothing to lose.

Young saw his chance. "I got a chance to grab his (Goss's) right arm and I did. We wrestled for a second and then I just threw him to the floor and took that spoon away from him. I wasn't going out of that building just because he had a spoon on me," Young said.

Deputies said both Talbert and Goss will be charged with attempted escape.

Goss is awaiting trial on charges of rape and armed robbery in unrelated incidents, and Talbert faces trial on charges of armed robbery.

To Buy, Sell, or Rent Contact
D.D. Garrett Agency
Real Estate Broker
Accounting—Insurance—Notary
606 Albemarle Ave. Ph. 752-4476
Greenville, N.C. 27834

Winterville Class Held 15th Reunion

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville High School Class of 1964 held its 15th class reunion recently at the A. G. Cox School here.

Members and faculty were greeted by Mrs. Ann Gold at the register. Refreshments were served from a table centered with yellow roses, the class color. After a "get acquainted" hour, members enjoyed steak dinners.

Class president Dickie Allen welcomed classmates, with the response given by Mrs. Helen Collins, a retired English teacher from WHS.

Mrs. Linda McLawhorn, class secretary, called the roll, with each classmate giving remarks about his or her families and vocations. Mrs. Ann Gold read the class history, taken from the 1964 yearbook.

The faculty members also had a chance to tell of their lives, as well as remember instances from the 1964 school year.

Mrs. Ann Gold remembered each classmate with a gag gift pertaining to his or her occupation or a special incident.

The 64 attending members of the Class of 1964 made plans to meet again in 1984.

INDEPENDENCE

LONDON (AP) — The House of Lords gave final approval to a measure granting the Caribbean island of St. Vincent and its 100,000 residents independence on October 27.

Camp And Bible School Craft Center

See Us For Craft Ideas

Hungate's

Pitt Plaza, Greenville, N C

Three ways you can slow it down this summer.

Summer, when all the air conditioners are humming, is the time when our customers use more power than at any other time of year. To meet the demand this summer, you can be sure that we'll be doing everything we can to provide you with all the power you need. We'll be using our available units to capacity, and if necessary, we'll be buying power from our neighboring utilities.

If you pitch in by following the steps below, you can help us make it through the summer.

1. Don't overcool your home. Set your home air conditioner's thermostat at 78° or higher, or not more than 15° cooler than the temperature outside, whichever is the higher setting. For every degree cooler than 78°, your air conditioner uses about 5% more energy. So a 73° setting means you're using 25% more energy than you would at a 78° setting. By watching your thermostat, you'll save energy at a time when it's most important. And you'll save money, too.

2. Do the big jobs early. Or late. We call it Hot Watch. The hours between 10 A.M. and 10 P.M. are the "peak load" hours, when the most electricity is being used and the chance of shortages is greatest. So try to restrict your use of major appliances and hot water during these hours. Do your baking and laundry before 10 A.M. Turn on the dishwasher just before you go to bed. Shower before 10 A.M. or after 10 P.M. You won't be using less energy, but you'll be using it when we have power to spare. And that will reduce our need to build costly power plants. 3. Give your water heater a rest. It will save money and energy. With the exception of heating and cooling systems, the water heater is the biggest energy user in your home. Use your dishwasher and washing machine only for full loads. Wash clothes in cool or warm water instead of hot. With your help we can save energy and make it through the summer. And that's important to all of us.

Vepco

SALE

To Begin
Wednesday,
July 11

Savings Up To 50%

— Downtown Store Only —

213 W. NASH—DOWNTOWN WILSON-243-3882

Master Charge, VISA or Cash Only!

Stock And Market Reports

Following are selected 11 a.m. stock market quotations

Burroughs	70
United Telecommunications Prd	22 1/2
Heublein	27 1/2
Jeff Pilot	35 1/2
Tri South	13 1/2
Wicks	13 1/2
Wachovia Realty Investments	6 1/4
Eckerd	28
Central Soya	13 1/2
Hardes	13 1/2
Integon	25 1/2
Fieldcrest	32 1/2
Hatteras Income	15 1/2
Veeco	13 1/2
Eaton	40
John Deere	39 1/2
P & G	77 1/2
Piedmont Aviation	12 1/2
Conner Homes	27 1/2
McGraw Edison	26 1/4
NCNB Corporation	14
OVER THE COUNTER
Combined Insurance	20 1/2
Planters Bank	17 1/2
Lowe	17 1/2
Little Mint	1 1/2

Hogs

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today was steady to $1 higher. Wilson, 42.50; Rocky Mount, 41.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourne, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 42.00; Salisbury, 40.00; Kinston 41.50 and Spivey's Corner, 39.50-40.50. Sows: Spivey's Corner, 325-600 pounds, 29.00-33.00; Fayetteville, 400 pounds up, 33.50.

Poultry

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina F.O.B. dock broiler market was steady with firm undertone for next week, supplies adequate, demand good. The dock weighted average price for this week is 41.31 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,577,000.

Hens

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady, supplies very heavy, demand very light. Prices paid per pound for hen over seven pounds at farm, Monday and Tuesday 12 cents.

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today, pausing after the rally of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 17.24 points in the past two sessions, dropped 3.50 to 849.49 by noon.

Losers led gainers by about a 7-6 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market began rising late last week when President Carter began a domestic summit at his Camp David, Md., retreat to consider such issues as the energy situation and the economy.

Analysts said traders were anticipating proposals by the President to promote energy conservation and stimulate production of alternative fuels.

Stock prices got an added boost Monday when the White House confirmed that Saudi Arabia planned a temporary increase in oil output, offering hope of short-term relief from supply problems.

But investors seemed to settle back today to await word on what specific steps Carter might propose.

Actively traded oil stocks included Texaco, up 1/8 at 29; Phillips Petroleum, up 1/4 at 40 1/4; Exxon, up 1/8 at 55 1/2; and Gulf Oil, down 1/8 at 28.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index lost .21 to 59.11. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.22 at 200.49.

Volume on the Big Board reached 19.49 million shares by noon, up from 17.96 million at the same point Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Midday stocks

Abt/Lab	33 1/2	33 1/2	33 1/2
Akzona	12 1/2	12 1/2	12 1/2
Alita Chalm	35 1/2	35 1/2	35 1/2
Alcoa	52 1/2	52 1/2	52 1/2
Am Airline	11 1/2	11 1/2	11 1/2
Am Baker	14	14	14
Am Brands	60 1/2	60 1/2	60 1/2

The Meeting Place

TUESDAY

8:00 p.m. — Witha Council, Degree of Pocahontas meets at Rotary Club
8:00 p.m. — Greenville Community Chorus meets at Memorial Baptist Church

WEDNESDAY

9:30 a.m. — Duplicate bridge at Planters Bank
1:30 p.m. — Duplicate bridge at Planters Bank
6:30 p.m. — Kiwanis Club meets
6:30 p.m. — REAL Crisis Intervention meets
6:30 p.m. — Greenville Toastmasters meet at Shoney's
7:00 p.m. — Jaycees meet
8:00 p.m. — Greenville White Shrine meets at Masonic Temple
8:00 p.m. — Pitt County Al-Anon Group meets at AA Bldg. on Farmville Hwy. Telephone 752-5284
8:00 p.m. — John Ivey Smith Council No. 4600 Knights of Columbus meet at First Federal 8:00 p.m. — Pitt County Ala-Teen Group meets at AA Bldg., Farmville Hwy. Telephone 756-2501 or 752-5284

Amr Can	41 1/2	41	41
Am Cyan	26 1/2	26	26 1/2
Am Motors	6 1/2	6 1/2	6 1/2
Am Stand	50 1/2	50 1/2	50 1/2
Amr T&T	57 1/2	57 1/2	57 1/2
Beat Food	21 1/2	21 1/2	21 1/2
Beth Steel	21 1/2	21 1/2	21 1/2
Boring S	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
Borden	25 1/2	25 1/2	25 1/2
Burling Ind	16 1/2	16 1/2	16 1/2
Cannondale n	23 1/2	23 1/2	23 1/2
CaroPwlt	22	21 1/2	21 1/2
Celanese	45 1/2	45 1/2	45 1/2
Cent Soya	13 1/2	13 1/2	13 1/2
Champ Int	24 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
Chessie Sys	31	30 1/2	30 1/2
Chrysler	9 1/2	9	9
Coca-Cola	38 1/2	38	38
Colg Palm	16 1/2	16 1/2	16 1/2
Com Edis	24 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
ComAgro s	16 1/2	16	16 1/2
Conf Group	28 1/2	28 1/2	28 1/2
Delta AirL	42	41 1/2	42
DuPont s	26 1/2	26 1/2	26 1/2
Duke Pow	20	19 1/2	20
East Kodak	57 1/2	56 1/2	57 1/2
Eaton Corp	40 1/2	39 1/2	40 1/2
Esmark	26 1/2	26 1/2	26 1/2
Exxon	55 1/2	55 1/2	55 1/2
Firestone	12 1/2	12 1/2	12 1/2
FlaPowlt	28	27 1/2	27 1/2
Fia Pow	31 1/2	31 1/2	31 1/2
ForMot	42	41 1/2	41 1/2
Gen Mills	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
Gen Dynam s	11 1/2	11 1/2	11 1/2
Gen Edis	23 1/2	23	23
Gen Food	51 1/2	51 1/2	51 1/2
Gen Mills	31 1/2	31 1/2	31 1/2
Gen Motors	25 1/2	25	25 1/2
Gen Pacifi	58 1/2	58 1/2	58 1/2
Goodrich	28 1/2	28 1/2	28 1/2
Goodyear	20 1/2	20 1/2	20 1/2
Graco Co	28 1/2	28 1/2	28 1/2
Glor Nek	33 1/2	33	33
Greyhound	15 1/2	15 1/2	15 1/2
HerculesInc	19 1/2	19 1/2	19 1/2
Honeywell	70 1/2	69 1/2	69 1/2
duPont s	72 1/2	72 1/2	72 1/2
Inf Harv	41 1/2	41 1/2	41 1/2
Inf Paper	43 1/2	43 1/2	43 1/2
Inf Reclit	14 1/2	14 1/2	14 1/2
Inf T	30 1/2	30 1/2	30 1/2
K marl	27	26 1/2	27
KaiserAlum	18 1/2	18 1/2	18 1/2
KraftInc	40 1/2	40 1/2	40 1/2
KrogerCo s	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
Liggett Grp	35	34 1/2	34 1/2
Lockheed	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
Loews Corp	49 1/2	49 1/2	49 1/2
Masonite	24 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
McDermott	19 1/2	18 1/2	18 1/2
Meat Corp	26 1/2	26 1/2	26 1/2
MinnMM	56 1/2	56	56 1/2
Mobil s	41 1/2	41	41
Monsanto	50 1/2	50 1/2	50 1/2
Nabisco	23	22 1/2	23
Nat Distill	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
OilCorp	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
OlinCorp	19 1/2	19 1/2	19 1/2
Pennell	20 1/2	20 1/2	20 1/2
PepsiCo	24 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
PhillipsPet	35	34 1/2	34 1/2
Phillips s	40 1/2	40 1/2	40 1/2
Polaroid	29 1/2	29	29 1/2
Proct Gamb	77 1/2	77	77
Quaker Oat	24 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
RCA	25 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
RaisinPur	10 1/2	10 1/2	10 1/2
Republic Sil	26 1/2	26 1/2	26 1/2
Revlon	48 1/2	47 1/2	47 1/2
Reynold Ind	59 1/2	59 1/2	59 1/2
Rockwell Int	37 1/2	37 1/2	37 1/2
SearsRoeb	14 1/2	14 1/2	14 1/2
SigRegis Pap	31 1/2	31 1/2	31 1/2
Scott Paper	17 1/2	17 1/2	17 1/2
Sealed Air	29 1/2	29 1/2	29 1/2
SearsRoeb	18 1/2	18 1/2	18 1/2
Sylvania Cp	9 1/2	9 1/2	9 1/2
Sony Corp	8 1/2	8 1/2	8 1/2
Southern Ry	13 1/2	13 1/2	13 1/2
South Ry	54 1/2	54 1/2	54 1/2
Sperry Rand	46	45 1/2	45 1/2
Sid Brands	26 1/2	25 1/2	26 1/2
Sidoli Cal	52	51 1/2	52
Sidoli Ind	69	68 1/2	69
SidoliCh	61 1/2	60 1/2	61
Slevens JP	14 1/2	14 1/2	14 1/2
Texaco Inc	29 1/2	29 1/2	29 1/2
TexEastn	53 1/2	53	53
Texasgulf	24 1/2	24 1/2	24 1/2
UMC Ind	15 1/2	15 1/2	15 1/2
Un Camp	46 1/2	46 1/2	46 1/2
Un Carbide	39 1/2	38 1/2	39
UnOilCal s	40	39 1/2	39 1/2
Uniroyal	5 1/2	5 1/2	5 1/2
US Steel	22 1/2	22 1/2	22 1/2
Wachov Cp	17 1/2	17 1/2	17 1/2
Westing El	20 1/2	20 1/2	20 1/2
Weyerhae	29 1/2	29	29 1/2
WinnDix	29 1/2	29 1/2	29 1/2
Woolworth	25 1/2	25 1/2	25 1/2
Xerox Cp	62 1/2	62 1/2	62 1/2

Hogs

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today was steady to $1 higher. Wilson, 42.50; Rocky Mount, 41.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourne, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 42.00; Salisbury, 40.00; Kinston 41.50 and Spivey's Corner, 39.50-40.50. Sows: Spivey's Corner, 325-600 pounds, 29.00-33.00; Fayetteville, 400 pounds up, 33.50.

Poultry

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina F.O.B. dock broiler market was steady with firm undertone for next week, supplies adequate, demand good. The dock weighted average price for this week is 41.31 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,577,000.

Hens

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady, supplies very heavy, demand very light. Prices paid per pound for hen over seven pounds at farm, Monday and Tuesday 12 cents.

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back today, pausing after the rally of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 17.24 points in the past two sessions, dropped 3.50 to 849.49 by noon.

Losers led gainers by about a 7-6 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market began rising late last week when President Carter began a domestic summit at his Camp David, Md., retreat to consider such issues as the energy situation and the economy.

Analysts said traders were anticipating proposals by the President to promote energy conservation and stimulate production of alternative fuels.

Stock prices got an added boost Monday when the White House confirmed that Saudi Arabia planned a temporary increase in oil output, offering hope of short-term relief from supply problems.

But investors seemed to settle back today to await word on what specific steps Carter might propose.

Actively traded oil stocks included Texaco, up 1/8 at 29; Phillips Petroleum, up 1/4 at 40 1/4; Exxon, up 1/8 at 55 1/2; and Gulf Oil, down 1/8 at 28.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index lost .21 to 59.11. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.22 at 200.49.

Volume on the Big Board reached 19.49 million shares by noon, up from 17.96 million at the same point Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Midday stocks

Abt/Lab	33 1/2	33 1/2	33 1/2
Akzona	12 1/2	12 1/2	12 1/2
Alita Chalm	35 1/2	35 1/2	35 1/2
Alcoa	52 1/2	52 1/2	52 1/2
Am Airline	11 1/2	11 1/2	11 1/2
Am Baker	14	14	14
Am Brands	60 1/2	60 1/2	60 1/2

Nader Seeking More Damages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader says Congress should increase the money damages courts could order utilities to pay victims of a nuclear power plant accident.

A 22-year-old federal law protects the industry from having to pay damages in excess of $560 million for a single accident, although actual damages from such an accident could run as high as $30 billion. Nader told a House Energy and Environment subcommittee Monday.

CHILDREN'S POLICY
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt proposed establishment of a national children's budget and a national policy on children during a speech Monday at the National Governor's Ass'n meeting in Louisville, Ky.

Somoza Again Alleged Ready To Resign; Situation Is Desperate

By JOE FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza's resignation was again rumored to be imminent today as a knowledgeable military source said the national guard's situation was "hopeless."

Managua residents, who depend mostly on government broadcasts and publications and rebel radio stations for their news, flagged down foreign correspondents' cars Monday to ask: "Is he gone?"

"He's leaving at midnight," a boy of 12 volunteered. "Everybody is saying it. He's going to Miami."

Others passed similar information but beyond "everyone is saying," nobody seemed to know where the reports came from.

Somoza's aides continued to insist that the dictator had no plans to leave the country. They said high-level visitors streaming to his bunkered military headquarters were there only for routine briefings.

However, other Nicaraguan sources said Somoza has agreed to leave when the U.S. government tells him to. But they said the Carter administration was still trying to arrange for a new government in which conservatives and centrists would outweigh the leftists of the Sandinista National Liberation Front.

The Sandinistas, whose guerrillas have won control of nearly every major town and city population center in the past six weeks, have shown no sign of being willing to take a back seat in the future government.

A knowledgeable military source estimated that the national guard, Somoza's combined army and national police force, could run out of ammunition in three weeks.

The source, who refused to be identified, said the guerrillas

Fiedler...

(Continued from page 1)

Fiedler opened his 50th season with the Pops in May. But a few days later, he collapsed backstage and spent several days in the hospital suffering from exhaustion.

In November, he was hospitalized for exhaustion, and on Dec. 11, he underwent brain surgery at Tufts New England Medical Center to correct difficulty walking.

The illness had forced Fiedler to cancel a planned televised celebration Dec. 17 on his 84th birthday.

Fiedler became conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra in 1930, and in the years that followed, he molded it into a Boston institution that lovingly fed classical music to people who swore they did not like classical music.

For 10 weeks each spring, he channeled the sometimes forbidding virtuosity of the Boston Symphony into the musical tastes of the "average guy." For most people, he was the Pops.

With his stern military mustache and flowing white hair, he led the orchestra through bouncy mixtures of light classics, show tunes and Top 10 hits.

Probably the biggest audience of his long career was on the night of the bicentennial Fourth of July. He led violins, horns, a row of cannons and the bells of a nearby church in a rousing version of "The 1812 Overture" before a brimming crowd of 400,000 people on the banks of the Charles River. The performance was such a success that $25,000 showed up for an encore on Independence Day, 1977.

When not conducting Pops concerts in Boston, Fiedler traveled throughout the world leading local orchestras. His schedules would have been numbingly exhausting for most men half his age. For instance, in 1976, at age 82, he made 164 appearances outside of Boston.

He delighted generations of audiences with his unconventional musical choices. He was the first to play Beatles' music with a symphony orchestra.

Fiedler was born Dec. 17, 1894, in Boston, the son of Emanuel Fiedler, the Austrian-born first violinist with the Boston Symphony.

In 1910, the family moved to Berlin when his father retired. Young Fiedler went to school there at the Royal Academy of Music. But as World War I approached, he returned to Boston.

have cut the guard's overland supply routes, the government cannot retake the 24 cities lost to the guerrillas, and "all the top brass has its eye on the door."

He said the guerrillas "could really raise hell" in Managua if their northern and southern forces converged on the capital.

There were no reports of heavy fighting Monday. The government's much-heralded push on Masaya was still bogged down, lending support to the report of government shortages of military supplies.

The lines of Nicaraguans seeking visas at the U.S. Embassy was longer than usual, and about 300 lined up Monday morning. Many said they were residents of the United States who had returned to Nicaragua to try to get family members out.

An embassy worker said members of the embassy staff were told that the next 24 hours would be crucial. A U.S. Air Force C-130 transport plane and two 30-passenger helicopters were in Liberia, Costa Rica,

Storm Rips Cocoa Beach Airport Vetoed

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Four persons suffered minor injuries when a powerful storm packing high winds and rain ripped into a six-mile stretch of Cocoa Beach, authorities said.

The damage Monday was estimated at $1 million, including water in the lobbies of several motels along the beach, blown-out windows and overturned cars, authorities said.

Two women and a man were treated and released at Cape Canaveral Hospital after suffering minor cuts when their car overturned on State Road A1A outside the Holiday Inn, police said.

Another woman suffered minor lacerations when strong winds blew a window out of the hospital. The woman was cut by glass as she walked in the hospital parking lot, authorities said.

Robert Walker, Cocoa Beach fire chief, said he believed the storm was a tornado.

Guests from several motels, clad in everything from towels to evening clothes, were evacuated from their rooms after several ceilings caved in, Walker said. They milled outside buildings waiting for confirmation it was safe to return.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, JULY 10, 1979

A Little Disgusted

Atlanta Braves' Jeff Burroughs tosses his bat to the ground in the first inning after being called out by home plate umpire Eric Gregg Monday night. The Braves lost to the Chicago Cubs, 7-4. (AP Laserphoto)

Spaceman Hurries To Get Out Of The Way

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

It was no coincidence that Montreal left-hander Bill Lee used just 92 pitches in beating the Los Angeles Dodgers. It was no coincidence the game took just an hour and 55 minutes to complete.

"With Skylab falling," Lee observed, "you pitch quicker."

Of course. With the newest piece of space debris headed earthward, who better to listen to than baseball's "Spaceman?"

"The less time you spend on the field," he explained, "the less chance you have to get hit."

Lee, 9-5, may have meant that two ways: less chance of getting hit by Skylab, and less chance of getting hit by the Dodgers.

Lee gave up just seven hits — six of them singles — Monday night, and had a two-run single of his own in the Expos' 3-0 victory. In the process, Lee got 20 outs on grounders, and one more on a strikeout, leaving only six balls to re-enter the atmosphere at Olympic Stadium.

"Today was about as good as good as I can do getting groundball outs," he said. "Occasionally, you have to throw flyball outs to keep them honest. Otherwise they'll start ricocheting balls off your shins."

There was none of that by the Dodgers Monday night. In fact, there wasn't any hitting by the Expos, either, until the fifth inning.

Los Angeles right-hander Don Sutton, 7-10, retired the first 13 Montreal batters before walking Gary Carter and giving up a single to Ellis Valentine. Larry Parrish, back after a three-day layoff because of a bruised foot, doubled to right for a run.

In other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the San Francisco Giants 4-2, the Chicago Cubs drubbed the Atlanta Braves 7-4 and the St. Louis Cardinals held off the Cincinnati Reds, 6-3.

Phillies 4, Giants 2

Mike Schmidt's sixth home run in the last four games, a two-run shot, powered Philadelphia past San Francisco and helped Dickie Noles record his first major league triumph.

Noles, 1-1, was promoted from the American Association last week when the Phillies lost three pitchers to injuries within 24 hours. He survived nine walks and a fifth-inning home run by Vida Blue, 7-7, who has won only one of his last 11 starts.

Cubs 7, Braves 4

Steve Ontiveros capped a four-run first inning with a two-run homer, then doubled to deliver another in Chicago's two-run fifth in carrying the Cubs past the Braves.

Jerry Martin and Larry Bittner had driven in first-inning runs before Ontiveros unloaded on Phil Niekro, 11-11. The homer was the third of the season by Ontiveros and the 25th of the year off Niekro.

Bruce Sutter preserved the victory for Dick Tidrow, 5-2, and recorded his 19th save of the season.

Cardinals 6, Reds 3

Ken Oberkell drove in two runs, including the game-winner in the Cardinals' seventh inning, sending St. Louis past Cincinnati.

Joe Morgan struck out twice, but extended his hitting streak to 16 games with a single in the Reds' three-run ninth.

Perry Among Star Hurlers

NEW YORK (AP) — Steve Rogers and Steve Carlton, who both flirted with no-hitters last week, were among those named Tuesday by Manager Tom LaSorda to an eight-man National League pitching staff for next week's All-Star Game.

Rogers, of the NL East Division-leading Montreal Expos, hurled 71-3 innings of no-hit ball Saturday in Montreal against Lasorda's Los Angeles Dodgers before finishing with a four-hit victory. He also leads the league's starting pitchers in shutouts (five) and earned run average (2.39) through Sunday.

Carlton, 10-8, allowed only one hit — a leadoff double in the seventh-inning by Elliot Maddox — and retired the first 18 batters in his 1-0 victory over the New York Mets at Philadelphia last Wednesday. The left-hander has two one-hitters this season and 103 strikeouts.

The two will join pitchers Joe Niekro, Joaquin Andujar and reliever Joe Sambito of the NL West Division-leading Houston Astros when the All-Stars meet next Tuesday for the golden anniversary All-Star Game in Seattle's Kingdome.

Also picked for the NL mound staff Tuesday were Gaylord Perry of the San Diego Padres, Mike LaCoss of the Cincinnati Reds and reliever Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs.

Niekro, Andujar and Sambito all have played vital roles for the surprising Astros, who are off to the best start by far in the club's 18-year history.

Niekro, 13-3, won eight consecutive starts from May 13 through June 13, earning him NL Pitcher of the Month honors for May, while Andujar, who received the same award for April, has picked up three of his 10 victories in relief.

Sambito, the league's hottest pitcher out of the bullpen recently, has 10 saves and four wins. The left-hander currently is on a streak of 351-3 consecutive scoreless innings covering his last 23 appearances, and his ERA has dropped to 1.08.

Perry, the 1978 Cy Young Award winner who will turn 41 on Sept. 15, owns a 9-6 record with eight complete games and a 2.48 ERA. He recorded his 100th strikeout of the season Sunday in beating the Mets.

LaCoss, who blazed out of the gate with eight straight victories, has an 8-3 mark and a 2.41 ERA. Sutter, the winning pitcher in last year's All-Star game in San Diego, leads the

Robinson Wins Hurdles

By JERRY GARRETT
AP Sports Writer

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The United States once again failed to complete a day at the VIII Pan American Games without controversy.

It took nearly three hours of appeals and deliberations to settle a controversy arising from James Robinson's scintillating victory over the legendary Cuban half-miler Alberto Juantorena, the highlight of Monday's activities in these hemisphere Olympics.

Robinson bumped into Jamaican Owen Hamilton, who was running second, en route to a tenth-of-a-second victory over Juantorena in the 800 meters. Hamilton filed a protest after dropping off and finishing fourth in the event. The referee and a Jury of Appeals finally upheld Robinson's victory.

Robinson did not deny he bumped the Jamaican.

"There was an opening to get through, but at the time I made my move, Hamilton drifted over into the inside of lane 1 and we bumped," Robinson admitted. "I knew I had to stay with Juantorena to beat him. My finish at the end did it."

"He's fast at the end, and I'm fast at the end. I figured I had a pretty good chance of beating him — I heard he's been having a little back problem. To me, it's a very satisfying win because I consider him the best half-miler in the world."

Behind Robinson, American basketball Coach Bobby Knight was in the news again. Knight said "I'm getting crucified by my silence" over his skirmish with a policeman Sunday, so the coach called a news conference for today to explain his side of that controversy.

Knight has been accused of laying hands on the policeman, who has not been identified. Asked Monday night whether he had a court appearance scheduled, Knight replied, "Honest to God, I don't know."

The accusations have been flatly denied by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Knight's squad, who are headed for a probable gold medal showdown with Puerto Rico on Friday, meanwhile, clubbed Argentina into submission, 99-73. The U.S. women's team likewise humbled Mexico, 92-58, in moving to within three games of a gold medal.

The United States reaped a big gold medal harvest Monday in the final day of weightlifting. Mark Cameron of North Bergen, N. J., who boasted that he would outlift the super heavyweights, failed — by just 23 pounds — but did collect all three gold medals in the regular heavyweight category.

Thomas Stock, Belleville, Ill., finished up with 847 pounds to win the jerk, snatch and total in the super heavyweight division.

America's Greco-Roman wrestlers closed out their competition by winning a medal in every category, including four golds. The winners were Bruce Thompson, Rosemont, Minn., in 52 kilograms; Dan Chandler, Anoka, Minn., 82 kilograms; John Mathews, Flint, Mich., 74 kilograms, and Brad Rheingaus, Appleton, Minn., 100 kilograms.

The 12th gold medal of the day for the U.S. athletes went to Essie Kelly, Prairie View, Texas, in the women's 800.

The U.S. softball squads also kept on track toward gold medals.

league with 19 saves and had a 1.17 ERA going into Monday night's game at Atlanta.

It will mark the first All-Star appearance for LaCoss, Niekro, Sambito and Andujar, who was selected to the 1977 team, but missed the game due to an injury. It will be the fifth appearance for Perry, who has represented both the National and American leagues twice.

The amazing Kathy Arendsen, Zeeland, Mich., stretched her string of scoreless innings to 29 with a one-hit victory over Belize, 1-0. She lost her no-hitter with one out to go in the game. In her last outing, she pitched a perfect game, preceded by a 15-inning two-hit shut-out.

Though the competition is only two-thirds over, the field was depleted with the withdrawal of the Dominican Republic in a squabble over having to play two games in one day.

The U.S. women were to play twice today, in games starting only four hours apart.

The U.S. men, with their fireballer Ty Stofflet, who pitched a no-hitter Sunday, play only once today. They took a tough 1-0 decision over Venezuela Monday.

In other action involving U.S. athletes Monday, Americans took a 1-0 victory over Trinidad-Tobago in field hockey; while in boxing, Lemuel Steeples, St. Louis, advanced to the semifinals of the junior welterweight division with a decision over Benedito Ferreira of Brazil, and Edward Green, Fort Bragg, N.C., had to withdraw from his bout with Mike McCallum of Jamaica because of a cut.

Entering today's competition, the ninth of 14, the United States had an overwhelming lead with 85 gold medals and 192 medals overall. Cuba was next with 49 golds and 103 overall. Canada had 20 gold and 104.

Behind the top running three, it dropped off to 9 and 27 for Argentina, 7-28 for Brazil and 2-27 for Mexico.

Legion To Open Play

Pitt County's American Legion baseball team returns to action tonight at 8 p.m. at Harrington Field, opening the best-of-five series for the Area 1 title.

Pitt will face Rocky Mount in the finals of the area tournament. Pitt finished atop the regular season standings, while Rocky Mount was tied for second place. Pitt beat out Snow Hill for the right to play in the finals, while Rocky Mount defeated Goldsboro.

Following tonight's game, the series moves to Rocky Mount on Wednesday night, at 8 p.m., then returns to Greenville for the third game on Thursday, Friday's game, if needed, will be back in Rocky Mount, and a Saturday game, also if needed, would be in Greenville once more.

The winner moves on into the field for the state playoffs.

Triple Gold For Stock

Tom Stock of Belleville, Ill., grimaces as he makes a gold medal lift in weightlifting Monday night at the Pan American Games. He won three gold medals in the sport. (AP Laserphoto)

Sr. Babe Ruth Event Opens Here Tomorrow

The Senior Babe Ruth League's Area G Tournament will get underway Wednesday at Guy Smith Stadium here, with the Greenville-Pitt County teams as the hosts.

Action gets underway Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. with the 16-year-old team bracket, while the 17-18-year-olds play at 8:30 p.m. Greenville will face Albemarle in the first round action of both divisions, with Windsor getting a bye into the second round.

In Edenton, the Babe Ruth Area G tournament will get underway with Pitt County's 13-year-olds facing Currituck County, and the 14-15-year-olds meeting Windsor.

In each event, the winner will advance to the State Tournament.

In addition to these tournaments, the Little League, District Tournament will be held in New Bern and Roanoke Rapids, starting July 23. Greenville's two teams will be involved in play in Roanoke Rapids.

Both Greenville teams received byes in the first round. The Tar Heel League all-stars face Roanoke Rapids on Tuesday, July 24 at 3 p.m., while the North State is scheduled to play the winner between Tarboro and Northampton County on Tuesday, July 24, at 5 p.m. District finals will be Wednesday, July 25, in Roanoke Rapids, with the winner moving to the State Tournament, to be held in Greenville July 30-August 1.

Greenville will also be the host for the State 13-year-old Babe Ruth League Tournament, with Greenville's all-stars receiving a bye into that eight-team field. That tournament is scheduled to get underway on July 27.

The Senior Babe Ruth League 16-year-old all-stars will consist of Brady Quinn, Vic Setliff and David Taylor of Ayden-Grifton; Roger Bell and Ronnie House of North Pitt, Jamie Byrd, Billy Dough, Jeff James and Barry Tyson of Clifton Insurance; David Cherry and Mike Tugwell of Farmville; Kenny Barnes, Art Fletcher and Bobby Hopkins of University Kiwanis; Tommy Griffin and Ricky Simpson of Robersonville; and Joel Edwin Brown, Terry Mills and Troy Perkins of Winterville.

The 17-18-year-old all-stars will be Corky Teachey of Ayden-Grifton; Reggie Selby, Joey Mattheis, Todd Galloway and Wayne Stokes of Clifton Insurance; Allen Corbett, Tony Eason and Greg Oakley of Farmville; Mac Stokes and Charles Daise of University Kiwanis; Jessie Matthews, Street Lee, Tony Whitfield, Steve Wallace and Clay Roberson of Robersonville; and Arnell Credle, Carl Arnold and Mike Edens of Winterville.

NO-HOLD MIX

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ron Mix, a former guard for the San Diego Chargers and now in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, had an unusual nickname during his playing days — "The Intellectual Assassin."

It was a tribute to his mixture of brains and brawn. Mix, a great blocker, had an extraordinary record in his 10 seasons with the Chargers. He was only called twice on holding penalties during those 10 years.

For all your insurance needs: Call once. And for all.

BILL DEANS

752-8821

406 W. Tenth St. Greenville

NATIONWIDE INSURANCE

Nationwide is on your side. Nationwide Mutual Insurance Company. Nationwide Mutual Fire Insurance Company. Nationwide Life Insurance Company. Home office: Columbus, Ohio.

4 GOOD REASONS to see your good neighbor agent

Bill McDonald

East 10th Street Greenville, N.C. 752-6680

CAR • HOME LIFE • HEALTH

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

STATE FARM INSURANCE

STATE FARM INSURANCE COMPANIES Home Office: Bloomington, Illinois

Sports Calendar

Today's Sports

Softball

Church League

Memorial vs. Arlington Street

First Pentecostal Holiness vs. Grace

Oakmont vs. Trinity

St. Paul's vs. First Presbyterian

First Free Will vs. Black Jack

University vs. Faith

Women's League

Western Steer vs. Pepsi Cola

Blount-Harvey vs. Village Groomer

Fleming Disco vs. Stroh's

American Legion

Rocky Mount at Pitt County (8 p.m.)

Wednesday's Sports

Softball

City League

Sunnyside Eggs vs. Taft Office

Players Retreat vs. Philpides

Coastal Plain Outfitters vs. Whits

Dixon Drywall vs. Brewers

Cheetahs vs. Silkscreens

Industrial League

Union Carbide vs. Greenville

Square

Eaton vs. Carolina Leaf

Empire Brushes vs. Winn-Dixie

Daniel Construction vs. Grady

White

Public Works vs. Burroughs

Wellcome

Fieldcrest vs. Daniel Construction

Women's League

Western Steer vs. Stroh's

Baseball

American Legion

Pitt County at Rocky Mount (8 p.m.)

Senior Babe Ruth League

Area Tournament at Greenville

Babe Ruth League

Area Tournament at Edenton

Tadlock Insurance Agency, Inc.

Evans Mall at 320

Continuous Professional Insurance Service Since 1935

C. Frank Dail — Agent

Phone 758-1165

SHOP HOLT

Used Car Sale On Now Holt Olds-Datsun 101 Hooker Rd. 756-3115

SAAD'S SHOE SHOP QUALITY SHOE REPAIRING WE ORDER SHOES Located at College View Cleaners 113 Grande Avenue "Parking In Front"

FREE ESTIMATES Don't You Really Wish You Had A Fence?

Chain Link

SPECIAL If You Buy NOW You Get A FREE Walk Gate (Chain Link)

Guaranteed Professional Quality At Lowest Prices

EVERETT FENCE BUILDERS Greenville

Call 756-6388 Lester Everett

Homers Defeat Royals

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

The problem, George Brett seems to think, is that when Kansas City gets the pitching, it doesn't get the hitting — and the Royals haven't been getting much pitching lately.

"We just can't keep the ball in the ballpark lately," Manager Whitey Herzog said after the Cleveland Indians launched four pitches over the fence to rout Kansas City 8-2 and saddle Herzog's Royals with their ninth loss in the last 10 games. Kansas City pitchers have given up 44 homers in the last 24 games.

In the rest of the American League, California beat Boston 6-0 and took a one-half game West Division lead over Texas, which lost 5-4 to Chicago. Baltimore widened its East Division margin to three games over Boston by downing Oakland 7-3. Minnesota defeated Detroit 5-3 and Toronto beat Milwaukee 7-1.

Angels 6, Red Sox 0

Nolan Ryan, relying as heavily on an exceptional curveball as well as his blazing fastball, took advantage of the California sunset to strike out a dozen Boston batters and check the Red Sox on six hits. It was the 127th time in his career he has fanned 10 or more batters.

"I don't know anybody I'd rather have pitching in the twilight," Angels Manager Jim Fregosi said.

Joe Rudi had a two-run single in a three-run first inning and Brian Downing homered to lead the California attack against Mike Torrez.

White Sox 5, Rangers 4
Ferguson Jenkins of Texas, who twirled a one-hitter against Baltimore his last time out, was belted for five runs in five innings by Chicago.

In the White Sox's decisive three-run sixth, Chet Lemon hit a run-scoring double, then scored the winner on Milt May's double-play grounder. Lemon also drove in one of two first-inning runs.

Orioles 7, A's 3

Baltimore erupted for four runs in the second inning to send winless Matt Keough of Oakland to his 11th loss of the year and 15th in a row over two seasons, the latter figure just four shy of the league record.

Ken Singleton hit a homer for the Orioles and Jim Essian had one for the A's.

Twins 5, Tigers 3

Minnesota's Jerry Koosman, who had won his first seven games of the season and lost his next six, won his fourth in a row with relief help from Mike Marshall, who picked up his 17th save.

Willie Norwood and Glenn Adams supplied the power with home runs against Detroit but Ken Landreaux's RBI single in the sixth broke a 3-3 tie, then he doubled and scored an insurance in the ninth.

Blue Jays 7, Brewers 1

John Mayberry, Roy Howell and Al Woods hit the home runs for Toronto that backed Dave Steib's four-hitter. It was Steib's first victory and first complete game.

Woods' homer was an inside-the-park shot that hit the wall and ricocheted off the face of stunned center fielder Gorman Thomas.

The Chicken To Be At All-Star Contest

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Do you think it's a coincidence that San Diego radio station KGB decided to drop its contempt of court action against the city's beloved Chicken at the same time that Skylab is hurtling back to earth?

After all, you wouldn't want to get a little Chicken angry at a time like this, would you? Ted Giannoulas, now considered a natural resource by the city of San Diego, starts a week's run in Seattle tonight. He'll be staying on through next Tuesday night's All-Star Game in the Kingdom so the nation's Chicken-lovers can delight in his act once more.

The Chicken may very well be the best thing that's happened to the grand old game of baseball since Abner Doubleday...or was it Alexander Cartwright...decided the bases ought to be 90 feet apart.

But this has not been the best of baseball seasons for Mr. Chicken, who's been involved in all kinds of litigation over rights to his character. Can you imagine that? Suing a chicken?

Anyway, reprimanded by the courts, Giannoulas was rehatched out of a giant-sized styrofoam egg in San Diego about 10 days ago and immediately flew the coop for appearances at New York's Shea Stadium and Wrigley Field in Chicago before moving on to the Kingdom. Even his return, however, was not without complications.

"Twelve hours before my 'Grand Hatching,' four guys in their 30's snatched the egg," said Mr. Chicken, a touch of sadness in his voice. "It was on display in the stadium and they just walked off with it after midnight."

Clearly, this case of egg-napping endangered the big moment. But luckily, the thieves, in a sudden attack of sobriety, realized there aren't many places you can hide a 40-pound styrofoam egg. So they set a ransom for its return.

"They asked for 12 tickets, all the beer they could drink, and immunity," said Giannoulas. "I offered four tickets, 20 beers, which I thought was enough, and immunity." The egg-nappers accepted. At the prescribed time, the transfer was made and Giannoulas climbed inside for his hatching. The egg was positioned by a half dozen Padre players and to the music from Star Wars, up popped Mr. Chicken.

The largest crowd of the season, more than 47,000 fans, gave him a standing ovation as he all but flew out of the egg, feathers askew, waving his wings wildly. "It was," Giannoulas decided solemnly, "the most moving moment of my life."

The new Chicken looks like a first cousin of the original. The colors are different, but the soulful eyes remain. And that is the key to his appeal.

When he was cut loose by KGB in April, Giannoulas became, in the great tradition of The New Baseball, a free agent.

As for the Skylab dilemma, Mr. Chicken has no immediate suggestions. How many problems do you want him to solve at once?

The designated hitter in the American League is eligible for all batting championships.

SPORTS MEDIA SEMINAR

"a summer camp for young writers" at East Carolina University

JULY 15-20
Call 919-757-6491 or 756-1233

Solomon Has Better Idea

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chinese and Soviets had their five-year plans. Lots of car dealers offer two and three-year plans. And Harold Solomon has a three-year plan for better tennis.

The little baseline battler wants to start with a slight adjustment of image, beginning with that frequent appellation "clay-court specialist."

"That's a misconception. Let's change it," he said Monday night after beating old friend Eddie Dibbs 4-6, 7-6, 6-2 in the first match of the $300,000 Forest Hills Invitational. In Monday night's other match, Poland's Wojtek Fibak beat Mexico's Raul Ramirez.

Solomon noted that he has won more titles on fast hard courts than on clay. But the fact is that he does play a lot on clay. Neither he nor Dibbs had played since the French Open, the last European clay-court tournament in early June. And he and Dibbs simply passed up Wimbledon, the most important tennis event on earth.

"Yeah, we were invited," Solomon said with a smile. "I really haven't enjoyed playing over there (Wimbledon) that much. There's a big difference between center court and the outside courts. It's OK if you're Borg or Connors, who always play on Centre Court or Court One," he continued. But I think the last time I played there I played on Court 12."

Wimbledon's grass courts can become very ragged during two weeks of play. And the conditions vary so much from court to court that players frequently have difficulty adjusting to the bounce of the ball.

What Solomon and Dibbs did between the French Open and now was practice every day in Florida. And in that spell, Solomon says he made a plan.

"I decided last week that over the next three years I'm putting everything into tennis. I'm really going to give it a go and see how far I can go," said Solomon, who has been a top 10 player for most of this decade, but whose results have been less than spectacular the last few years.

He says he has improved his serve, and his statistics Monday night were respectable. He got in 64.6 percent of his first serves. But he double-faulted at some crucial points, including three times to lose serve. Solomon scored often on cross courts and played more often in the vicinity of the net than usual.

The match was filled with errors, by both players. There were 19 service breaks in 31 games.

Action resumes in the 12-man, round-robin Invitational today with Solomon playing Sandy Mayer and Dibbs going against big-serving Peter Fleming. Tonight Victor Pecci is to play John Alexander, and defending champion Vitas Gerulaitis is to meet Fibak.

Prep Tourney Winners

Greenville Hardware captured the Prep League's post-season tournament championship this year. Members of the team are, first row, left to right: Todd Jordan, Toby Fischer, John Jordan, Jimmy

Ricks, Ronnie Moore; second row, Manager John Shackelford, Hunter Bost, Curt Hendrix, Tim Norris, Billy Godley, and Coach Danny Hester. Not pictured are assistant coach Charles Shackelford, Leon Perkins and Frankie Moore. (Reflector Photo)

Yankees Finally Discovering Tobacco-Chewing Tiant Is There

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Baseball is a spittoon sport and the spittoon of the spit is venerable Luis Tiant.

Nobody can keep the tobacco juices flowing with the adrenalin as well as this 38-year-old warhorse out of Havana, Cuba, who was a consistent winner at Cleveland and Boston before donning New York Yankee pin stripes this year.

"I only chew in a game," says the ageless, mustachioed righthander. "Not to relieve pressure but to keep me from craving water. You can't drink a lot of water when you pitch."

Tiant is one of the most intriguing personalities in the game. His listed age — like that of Satchel Paige — is always open to skepticism, some diamond historians insisting he lost five or six years somewhere down the track.

"I don't care if they say I am 55, 65 or 95 — what difference does it make?" retorts the crusty Latin, who, using his full repertoire of weird motions and chomping on a jawful, mowed down the Oakland A's 2-0 Sunday. He allowed one hit, faced only 28 men.

For some reason the Yankees have just around to discovering that the old guy is around. He spent most of the early spring plugging hot dogs on TV with the quaint confession: "I'm happy I am a Yankee, I always wanted to be with a weener."

"I tried to tell them," he insisted, "when you're old, you need more work."

Tiant works with a wad of tobacco as big as a human fist in his mouth and one can judge the toughness of the batter facing him by the number of squirts of the juice he emits before the pitch.

Rod Carew, the American League's leading hitter, is a five-spit job. Boston's Jim Rice four, Milwaukee's Ben Oglivie three. A batter who doesn't draw one spit shouldn't send out his laundry.

Uniquely, baseball, from its inception, has been a game of chaw, spit, pitch, hit, chaw and spit again.

"It goes all the way back to the 80's," says Joe Reichler, diamond chronicler and aide to the commissioner. "The players came off the farms and out of the mills. They were tough Irishmen."

"Baseball wasn't held in much esteem then. Society considered it a sordid game. There was a lot of gambling and ribald stuff. Chewing tobacco was a way of life with these men."

This set the tone. As the game progressed, cleaned up its act and moved into the 20th century, the habit of chewing tobacco came along for the ride.

Monte Irvin, the Hall of Famer formerly with the New York Giants, says this ritual has remained a part of the game because it is considered a macho thing.

"The kids coming up got to thinking they had to chew to prove they were good ballplayers," Irvin said. "I was the only guy on my team who didn't chew. I tried, but it made me sick."

"There was a special place in the dugout where the players were supposed to spit. It was a brown, smelly pool of tobacco juice. It was repulsive to me. I stayed on the other end."

Monte said that while most players are chewers and spiters there have been some all-time greats who abstained — Babe Ruth, Jackie Robinson, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron, among them.

Don McGlohon
INSURANCE
Hines Agency, Inc.

Is Your Daily Reflector Delivery Okay?

We take particular pride in the efficiency of our carriers who deliver The Daily Reflector to your home.

If the daily delivery of your Daily Reflector is less than satisfactory, please tell us about it. Call our Circulation Department and we will do our best to work out the problem.

752-3952

Between 8:30 A.M. and 6:30 P.M.
Weekdays and 8 'til 9 A.M. On Sundays

ZENITH
CLEARANCE SALE
BIG SAVINGS NOW!

GREAT SOUND at a great low price!

ZENITH
INTEGRATED STEREO SYSTEM

Model IS4030 featured above shown with Allegro 1000 Speakers. Simulated wood cabinets, grained Walnut finish.
The quality goes in before the name goes on.
BEST SYSTEM ON THE MARKET FOR THE MONEY PRICES TOO LOW TO ADVERTISE
HUDSON BROS. RADIO & TV, INC.
2000 E. Greenville Blvd.
Phone 752-7862 (Night Appt. 752-5886)
Open Mon. - Fri. 8 To 5 P.M.
Saturday By Appointment Only scoreboard

Recreation Ball

Summer Basketball
Spartans 33 39-72
Pitt Memorial 22 25-57
Leading scorers: S—Donald House 23, Calvin Parker 14; PCMH—Dennis Boyd 12, Michael McLachlan 13.

Quicksilver
29 27-56
Leading scorers: C—Danny Carmon 20, Jamie Adams 12; Q—Blake Phillips 16.

City League
Carolina Music 240 332 1-15
Pantana Bob's 100 005 0-6
Leading hitters: CM—Willie Streeter 4.5, John Huber 3.4, Bobby Parker 2.3 (2 HR); PB—Rick Koryda 3.4, Randy Wood 3.4.

Whits
003 123 0-9
Cheetahs 010 100 0-2
Leading hitters: W—Whit Miller 3.3, Greg Lee 3.4, Worn Albee 3.4; C—George Vines 2.3 (HR), Samuel Daniels 2.3.

Taff Office
90 100 520-26
Coastal Plain 100 104-5
Leading hitters: T—Joe Gaddis 5.5, Tuff Balbot 4.5 (HR), Gene Rackley HR; CP—John Carson 3.3, Jack Richardson 2.3.

Philippides
501 226-13
Pair Electronics 245 150-17
Leading hitters: P—Alvin Fraier 3.4 (HR), John Ezell 3.4; PE—Al Salisbury 3.4, Russ Cayton 3.4; Lamm 2 HR.

Ervin's
431 004 6-3
Jaycees 010 003 0-4
Leading hitters: E—Lanny Leonard 4, David Ross 5; JC—No one had more than one.

J.A.'s Uniforms
030 25(12) 0-22
Regional Auto 000 000 1-1
Leading hitters: JAU—Jimmy Page 4, Cotton Nicholson 3; RAP—Al Nichols 2, Herb Wilkerson 2.

Tipton Builders
270 310 5-18
Home Savings 200 020 0-2
Leading hitters: TB—Mike VanLandingham 3.4, Johnny Rhodes 3.4 (2 HR); HS—Tommy Coltrane 2.

Johnny's
005 010 2-8
Integon 200 000 0-4
Leading hitters: JMH—Rufus Ralston 2, Jackie Hardee 2; I—Ed Peele 2.

Baseball
AMERICAN LEAGUE
EAST
Baltimore 56 29 659 —
Boston 52 31 627 3
Milwaukee 49 38 563 8
New York 48 38 558 8 1/2
Detroit 40 43 482 15
Cleveland 40 45 471 16
Toronto 28 40 318 29 1/2

WEST
California 51 37 580 — 1/2
Texas 45 39 536 4
Minnesota 43 42 506 6 1/2
Kansas City 38 46 452 11
Chicago 37 51 420 14
Oakland 24 65 270 27 1/2

Monday's Games
Toronto 7, Milwaukee 1
Cleveland 8, Kansas City 2
Minnesota 5, Detroit 3

Major League Leaders

AMERICAN LEAGUE

BATTING (200 at bats) Smalley, Minnesota 344, Downing, California 352, Adams, Minnesota 340, Bochte, Seattle 339, Molitor, Milwaukee 328.

RUNS: Lankford, California 69, Baylor, Texas 63, Smalley, Minnesota 63, Rice, Boston 63, Smalley, Minnesota 63, R. B. Baylor, California 60, Lynn, Boston 60, Smalley, Minnesota 60, Rice, Boston 60, Kemp, Detroit 61, Thomas, Milwaukee 61, Bochte, Seattle 61.

HITS: Brett, Kansas City 117, Smalley, Minnesota 115, Lankford, California 110, Molitor, Milwaukee 108, Rice, Boston 106.

DOUBLES: Washington, Chicago 25, Lynn, Boston 24, Cooper, Milwaukee 23, Limon, Chicago 23, Jackson, Minnesota 21.

TRIPLES: Brett, Kansas City 12, Randolph, New York 8, Wilson, Kansas City 8, Molitor, Milwaukee 6, Porter, Kansas City 6, Jones, Seattle 6.

HOME RUNS: Lynn, Boston 24, Rice, Boston 21, Thomas, Milwaukee 23, Baylor, California 21, Singleton, Baltimore 19.

STOLEN BASES: LeFlore, Detroit 44, Wilson, Kansas City 37, Wells, Texas 34, Bonds, Cleveland 22, Cruz, Seattle 22.

PITCHING (8 Decisions) Davis, New York 12, 1,000 2.04, Kern, Texas 10.1, John, New York 13.3, 813 2.33, Zahn, Minnesota 7.2, 778 3.15, Barrios, Chicago 8.3, 727 3.41, Palmer, Baltimore 7.3, 700 3.20, Drago, Boston 7.3, 700 3.10.

STRIKEOUTS: Ryan, California 151, Jenkins, Texas 97, Guidry, New York 96, Koosman, Minnesota 81, Flanagan, Baltimore 80, Kravec, Chicago 80, Kern, Texas 80.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
BATTING (200 at bats) Brock, St. Louis 326, Foster, Cincinnati 333, Mazilli, New York 321, Templeton, St. Louis 325, Hendrick, St. Louis 322.

RUNS: Schmidt, Philadelphia 63, Lopez, Los Angeles 63, Matthews, Atlanta 62, Royster, Atlanta 61, Kingman, Chicago 60, North, San Francisco 60, R. B. Kingman, Chicago 60, Foster, Cincinnati 60, Winfield, San Diego 60, Schmidt, Philadelphia 63, Clark, San Francisco 58.

HITS: Templeton, St. Louis 109, Matthews, Atlanta 108, Garvey, Los Angeles 108, Winfield, San Diego 105, Rose, Philadelphia 103.

DOUBLES: Griffey, Cincinnati 25, Rose, Philadelphia 24, Matthews, Atlanta 24, Mazilli, New York 23, Reitz, St. Louis 23.

TRIPLES: Templeton, St. Louis 10, Scott, St. Louis 9, Winfield, San Diego 9, McBride, Philadelphia 8, Hernandez, St. Louis 7.

MONDAY'S GAMES
Philadelphia 4, San Francisco 2
Chicago 7, Atlanta 4
Los Angeles 4, Los Angeles 0
St. Louis 6, Cincinnati 3
Only games scheduled

Chicago (Reuschel 7.5) at Atlanta (Solo 4.4) (n)
San Francisco (Whitson 2.4) at Montreal (Sanderson 5.5) (n)
San Diego (Jones 6.6) at Philadelphia (Eggen 8.7) (n)
St. Louis (Fulgham 2.1) at Cincinnati (Seay 7.5) (n)
Los Angeles (Weich 4.5) at New York (Swan) (n)
Pittsburgh (Bibby 3.7) at Houston (An dujar 10.1) (n)

Wednesday's Games
Los Angeles at New York
San Francisco at Montreal (n)
San Diego at Philadelphia (n)
St. Louis at Cincinnati (n)
Pittsburgh at Houston (n)

HOD
NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!
ON A SHINING NEW 280 ZX!
TO GET THE BEST DEAL EVER!
AT HOT OLDS DAISON
101 HOOKER RD
GREENVILLE, NC

Crossword By Eugene Sheffer

ACROSS

1 Tax

5 Surpass

8 Fellow

12 Roman statesman

13 GI's address

14 Fashion

15 Similar

16 Road hazards

18 Determined

20 Young bird

21 Craggy hill

22 Hood's gun

23 Seraglio

26 City in East Germany

30 Pindaric work

31 River island

32 WWII org.

33 Drinkable

36 Large cat

38 Inlet of the Orkneys

39 Legal profession

40 A single step

43 Permitted

47 French dish

49 Chevrotain

50 Mine entrance

51 Crude metal

52 Shield

53 William — Benet

54 Once more

55 Adorn, or trim

DOWN

1 Food fish

2 Solidify

3 Of the ear

4 High explosive

5 Gambol

6 Footless animal

7 Grass?

8 Throngs

9 Public auditorium

10 Awry (dial.)

11 Plague

17 Owl's cry

19 Monk's title

22 Decay

23 Informal dance

24 Commotion

25 Soak flax

26 Dessert

27 Hound

28 A primate

29 Deface

31 Pub order

34 Navigate in the air

35 Brian —; a king of Ireland

36 Dancer's cymbals

37 Pressed

39 Azure and navy

40 Box

41 Fuss (colloq.)

42 Aconite

43 Air: comb. form

44 Carry on

45 Heroic in scale

46 Dim part of twilight

48 Watch pocket

Avg. solution time: 24 min.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP

7-10

NZGFVGC ICIPIUK JRVPKUY FUY-
NGZY JRKKUFPI

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — BIG AGGIES ARE INTERESTING TO TINY BOYS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Z equals L

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

© 1979 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

PTL President To Continue Fighting

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attorney for the PTL network president Jim Bakker says Bakker will keep fighting, despite a U.S. District Court judge's decision Monday to leave in effect a subpoena seeking more PTL financial records.

Judge George L. Hart Jr. issued the ruling at the close of a 45-minute hearing. The decision leaves the next move up to the Federal Communications Commission.

One aspect of the case is pending in the local U.S. Court of Appeals, and Bakker's attorney may file a new appeal. "This suit is both premature and in the wrong court," Hart ruled.

John H. Midlen Jr., the Washington attorney for Bakker, said after the court session that a new filing with the appeals court is a possibility. In any event, he said, "We will keep fighting."

The inquiry stems from an FCC decision to conduct an investigation into the operation of television station WJAN, Canton, Ohio, specifically its religious activities, missionary fund-raising and disbursements. It is licensed to a Bakker-affiliated group.

There have been published reports that Bakker's operation has raised millions of dollars through television appeals, and that it diverted some of the money to missionary efforts other than the beneficiary and to paying off debts.

Gathering From The Past

KEN MURRAY "SHOOTING STARS" — Several veteran Hollywood stars joined filmmaker Ken Murray at The Burbank Studios this past weekend for "The Last Great Hollywood Party, Part IV". Front, from left, are Mary Brian, Carmel Myers and

Harriett Nelson; rear, from left, Rudy and Mrs. Vallee, Ken Murray, Rita Hayworth and escort Mac Krim. The party featured Murray's films grouped under a program entitled "Ken Murray Shooting Stars". (AP Laserphoto)

Tonight: SALT 2 Talked

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The news, Fred Silverman told NBC affiliates last May, will be given a higher standing at the network. And a matter as important as SALT II would be the subject of prime-time discussions on NBC.

Skeptical mutterings all around.

Wasn't this the fellow who gave us "Laverne and Shirley," "Supertrain," and Fonzie? The fellow who turned network prime-time into a protracted recess?

Sure. He'll give SALT II plenty of attention. He'll let (McLean) Stevenson crack a joke about it on "Hello, Larry" (another entertainment meant to be viewed from a playground sandbox).

But tonight Fred Silverman makes good. NBC has put together what promises to be a lively and informative debate on the arms limit treaty, to be broadcast live from the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington.

"He said he would do it, and here it is," said NBC News executive Gordon Manning, who planned the debate.

Likely, few will watch, and NBC knows that. Still, it is an admirable concession to the notion that television should sometimes be more than a talking, giggling sedative.

"SALT II is the most important question of the decade," suggests Manning, a journalist who's partial to quaint ideas such as public responsibility, "passions run high on both sides. And this is an idea whose time has come. The (Senate) Foreign Relations Committee opens SALT II hearings (this week), and its first two witnesses are (Secretary of State) Cyrus Vance and (Defense Secretary) Harold Brown.

"So, here we have, on the first day that the Senate considers the treaty, NBC doing a live debate that brings the various nuances of the treaty to the public. I'm encouraged by it."

The first hour of the program will be the actual debate of the SALT issues by two three-man teams. Captain of the "opposed" team is Republican Senator Jake Garn of Utah, who will be joined by Paul Nitze (former SALT negotiator) and Elmo Zumwalt, former chief of naval operations.

Captain of the "for" side is Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, who will be aided by William J. Perry, a weapons expert in the Pentagon, and Adm. Nowell Gayler (Ret.), former chief of the National Security Agency.

In the last 30 minutes, experts from the floor will pose questions to the two sides.

Viewers tuned to a decade-old movie ("Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon" on CBS), or a repeat of "Three's Company" (ABC) will be missing out, I think. A news special doesn't have to be dull.

"We're trying to produce this as dramatically as we can without putting it in a 'Gong Show' format," said Manning.

Whether it's watched or not, the SALT debate is on, and in prime time. That's victory enough.

TV LogWNCT-TV Ch. 9

TUESDAY	1:00 Young and Rubicam	1:30 World Turns
7:00 Dating	2:30 Guiding Light	3:30 M*A*S*H
7:30 Jokers	3:30 Paper Chase	4:00 Love
8:00 Kangaroo	4:00 Merv	4:30 Brady Bunch
11:00 Movie	4:00 9/Alive News	6:30 News
WEDNESDAY	5:30 Carolina	7:00 Dating
6:00 Morning	7:30 Jokers	8:00 Never Say
9:00 Three's Company	8:30 Good Times	9:00 Movie
10:00 All in	11:00 News	11:30 Movie
10:55 News	12:00 9/Alive News	12:15 Movie
11:00 Price Is	12:45 Your Turn
12:00 Search For

WITN-TV Ch. 7

TUESDAY	11:00 Rollers	11:30 Wheel of Fortune
7:00 Tic Tac	12:00 News Noon	12:30 Squares
7:30 Name That Tune	1:00 Our Lives	2:00 Doctors
8:00 Runways	2:30 Another Wild	4:00 McHale's
9:00 Big Event	4:30 Hogan's	5:00 F Troop
11:00 News	5:30 News	6:00 News
11:30 Tonight	6:30 NBC News	7:00 Tic Tac
1:00 Tomorrow	7:30 Donna Fargo	8:00 Laugh-In
11:30 Movie	9:00 Movie	11:00 News
WEDNESDAY	5:30 Adam 12	6:00 News
6:00 Almanac	6:30 NBC News	7:00 Tic Tac
7:00 Today	7:30 Donna Fargo	8:00 Laugh-In
7:25 News	9:00 Movie	11:00 News
7:30 Today	11:30 Tonight	12:00 News
8:25 News	1:00 Tomorrow	2:00 News
8:30 Today
9:00 Shore
10:00 Card Sharks
10:30 All Star

WCTI-TV Ch. 12

TUESDAY	10:00 Douglas	11:00 Laverne & Shirley
7:00 Sanford	11:30 Family	12:00 Pyram
7:30 She Na Na	12:30 Ryan's	1:00 Children
8:00 Happy Days	1:00 One Life	3:00 Hospital
8:30 Laverne & Shirley	3:00 Tom & Jerry	4:00 Search
9:00 Three's Company	4:00 Emergency	6:00 News
9:30 Taxi	6:30 News	7:00 Sanford
10:00 13 Queen's	7:30 Eight is	8:00 News
10:30 Comedy Pilot	9:00 Ch. Angels	10:00 Vegas
11:00 Movie	11:00 News	11:30 P. Woman
1:10 Maverick	1:45 Maverick	2:45 Edition
2:10 Edition
WEDNESDAY	5:55 Iongs	6:00 News
6:00 PTL Club	9:00 Ch. Angels	10:00 Vegas
7:00 America	11:00 News	11:30 P. Woman
7:25 News	1:45 Maverick	2:45 Edition
8:25 News
9:00 Donahue

WUNK-TV Ch. 25

TUESDAY	7:00 Prime Time	5:00 Mr. Rogers
7:30 Report	6:00 Studio See	6:30 Reboop
8:00 Previn	7:00 Like it	7:30 Report
9:00 Norman	8:00 Search	9:00 Norman
10:00 Easy	10:30 Beaux Arts
4:00 Sesame St.
WEDNESDAY

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
1979 by Chicago Tribune

Both vulnerable. North deals.

NORTH
♦ Q 6 3
♥ A 7 5 3
♦ A K 8
♠ A 8 3

WEST
♦ 5
♥ K Q 10
♦ J 9 6 4
♠ J 9 7 5 4

EAST
♦ J 10 9 2
♥ J 9 6 4 2
♦ 10 5 3
♠ 6

SOUTH
♦ A K 8 7 4
♥ 8
♦ Q 7 2
♠ K Q 10 2

The bidding:

North East South West
1 NT Pass 3 ♦ Pass
4 ♦ Pass 5 ♦ Pass
6 ♦ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♥.

Like billiards, card playing is a game of position. Among the principles of winning technique is: "Make your opponents commit themselves before you expend your high cards." (Thus, it is a distinct advantage to play fourth to a trick.) Declarer failed to follow this precept and paid heavily for his lapse.

Because of his flat hand and only three-card support, North chose to raise to four rather than show a maximum no trump, rich in controls, via a cue-bid. However, when South made a move, North wasted no time in getting to slam.

West's opening lead of the king of hearts was won by dummy's ace. The king and queen of trumps revealed that declarer had a trump loser, so he switched his attention to clubs. He led to the king of clubs and back to the ace. Unfortunately, East ruffed and returned a trump, and declarer was still stranded with a club loser. Down one.

Just a little bit of positioning would have made all the difference. Since East has the trumps, he is the dangerous defender. Therefore, he should be made to play before declarer commits any of his high clubs to a trick.

The first club should be won with the ace, not the king. Then a low club is led off dummy. What is East to do? If he ruffs, declarer will follow with a low club, and the rest of his hand is high. He can draw trumps and claim the balance.

If East discards, as he should, declarer wins the queen of clubs, crosses back to dummy with a diamond and leads another club, again forcing East to play before he uses an important honor. Let's assume that East again discards. Declarer wins the king and ruffs his remaining club in dummy. Whether East overruffs or not, he can get no more than his trump trick, and the slam coasts home.

John Denver In Whaling Fight

LONDON (AP) — Singer John Denver turned up at the 22-nation International Whaling Commission with his guitar, presented a petition signed by a half million Americans calling for an end to whaling, and sang a song titled "I Want to Live" to the delegates.

"It was certainly a new experience," said one whaling man who was about to spend five days discussing how many whales the world should kill in the next 12 months and how it might be more humanely handled.

Buccaneer MOVIES 1-2-3
756-3307 Greenville Square Center
MOVIES ARE GREAT FUN!

CLINT EASTWOOD
ESCAPE FROM ALCATRAZ
Held Over
Shows:
2:10-4:40
7:10-9:30

WALT DISNEY PRODUCTIONS
The APPLE DUMPLING GANG RIDES AGAIN
TECHNICOLOR
THE APPLE DUMPLING GANG RIDES AGAIN
TIM CONWAY, DON KNOTTS, TIM MATHESON
KENNETH MARS, ELYSSA DAVLOS, JACK ELAM, ROBERT PINE
Shows: 3:15-5-7-9

A L I E N
In space no one can hear you scream.
HELD OVER
Shows:
2:00-4:30
7:00-9:30

TICE
DRIVE-IN • AYDEN HWY

Now Thru Thurs.
9:15 P.M. Only
SUPERMAN
Plus 2 Color Cartoons

MEADOWBROOK
DRIVE-IN • ROAD OPPOSITE AIRPORT

NOW THRU THUR.
VAN NUYS BLVD.
10:30
2nd Big Hit - 8:45
EVERYTHING CAN HAPPEN ON...
Malibu Beach

264 PLAYHOUSE INDOOR THEATRE
6 Miles West
Of Greenville On U.S. 264
(Farmville Hwy.)

NOW SHOWING
AT YOUR ADULT ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

A WOMAN'S TORMENT
Starring
TARA CHUNG with JENNIFER JORDAN
JAKE YEAGER
MARLENE WILLOUGHBY
ANITA DAVIS
APRIL MURPHY
IN COLOR
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN OVER 21
ALSO L.D. REQUIRED
DOORS OPEN 8:45
SHOWTIME 8:55
FOR SHOWTIME
ANYTIME
756-0848

New York Mayor Likes Casinos

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — New York Mayor Edward Koch, while touring Atlantic City's two casinos, proclaimed gambling a good idea for the Big Apple and promptly lost 25 cents in a slot machine.

"I learned a lot and I lost a quarter," Koch said Monday after he visited Caesars' Boardwalk Regency and Resorts International Hotel Casino.

Greenville Happenings
752-7082
Complete Entertainment Information Service

Plaza cinema 1-2-3 756-0088
PITT-PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER
ENDS THURS. NOW!
HOW THE WEST WAS FUN!
BUTCH & SUNDANCE
THE EARLY DAYS
SHOWS DAILY 3:00-5:00-7:00-9:00

Plaza cinema 1-2-3 756-0088
PITT-PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER
N-O-W!
3rd FUN WEEK!
BARBARA STREISAND RYAN O'NEAL
THE MAIN EVENT
as Gilbert & Sullivan
PG
SHOWS DAILY 3:15-5:20-7:25-9:30

Plaza cinema 1-2-3 756-0088
PITT-PLAZA SHOPPING CENTER
2nd BIG WEEK!
ROGER MOORE JAMES BOND 007
MOONRAKER
United Artists
SHOWS TODAY 2:30-4:55-7:20-9:45

PARK UPTOWN GREENVILLE 752-7649
ENDS THURSDAY!
The stars of "SUPERFLY" are back in "THE HITTER"
SHOWS 3:15-7:05-9

Pippi Longstocking
SPECIAL CHILDRENS MATINEE'S WED. & THUR. 1:00 P.M. & 3:00 P.M.

PLAZA CINEMA 3
ALL SEATS $1.00

EMPLOYMENT

42 Help Wanted

CARPET AND VINYL installers needed for immediate employment. $3.50 to $4.50 an hour plus fringe benefits, paid vacations and insurance. Experience preferred. Call Carpets by George, 756-5718.

SALESPERSON for tractors and farm equipment. Call 756-2845 for appointment. Eastern Tractor & Equipment Company, 264 By-pass, Greenville, NC 27834.

EXPERIENCED AUTO MECHANIC

Must have own tools. Experience necessary. Hospitalization, vacation and sick leave, commission plan, uniforms.

SMITH-WALDRUP MOTORS

756-4267

HOUSEHOLD pest control technician. High school graduate. Valid North Carolina driver's license. Reliable. Excellent salary, experience desirable but not necessary. Call 752-5175 for interview.

LOOKING for sharp, creative cosmologist to start work immediately. Contact Carol at 758-1505 before 7 p.m., 758-7247 after 7 p.m.

LEGAL SECRETARY wanted. Accurate typist, good with figures. 758-1403.

BE YOUR OWN BOSS this summer. Earn good money as an Avon Representative. Fresh, friendly people. Flexible hours. For details, call 758-7086 or 758-3414.

PUT EXTRA CASH in your pocket today. Sell your "done" needs with an inexpensive Classified Ad.

SALESPERSON needed. Experience helpful. Only persons willing to work long hours need apply. Apply to Dick Kinley, Smith-Waldrop Motors, 756-4267.

GUYS OVER 17

National firm has immediate openings for 10 very neat, ambitious people to assist me in my

Nationwide Travel Program

No experience necessary. All expenses and transportation completely furnished, but you must be willing to leave immediately for U.S. major cities, resort and beach areas and return. High salary and excellent work conditions make this extremely desirable for the younger set. Parents welcomed at interview or placement, call Ms. DeWees at 758-3401. Thursday and Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. only.

DATA GENERAL experience. Program part-time. FORTRAN and BASIC for consulting and engineering firm. Reply, Box 3313, Greenville, NC.

RADIOLOGY TECHNICIAN. Two technician department. Small hospital, new equipment. Excellent petitive compensation. Resume to Hospital Director, Bertie County Memorial Hospital, P. O. Box 1, Windsor, NC 27893. No calls please.

PART-TIME BOOKKEEPER. Familiar with payroll and sales tax returns. Typing and adding. Send resume to Bookkeeper, P. O. Box 2881, Greenville, NC.

MOVING VAN driver. Excellent opportunity for experienced carrier. Must have experience in moving and have chauffeur's license. Salary commensurate with experience. Call 758-7000 or send resume to P. O. Box 817, Greenville, NC 27834.

BRODY'S HAS opening for full time salesperson for fashion department. Good full time job. If you like people, like clothes, see Mrs. Flye at Brody's, Pitt Plaza.

COUNTER HELP. Orange Julius, America's most unique fast food franchise, is coming to Greenville. If you enjoy meeting people, call Mr. Brent Weaver at 756-1115, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon only, 1 till 6.

MANAGER and assistant manager. Orange Julius, America's most unique fast food franchise, is coming to Greenville. If you are a mature individual who enjoys challenging work and meeting people, call Mr. Brent Weaver at 756-1115, Wednesday and Thursday afternoon only, 1 till 6.

S & S CAFETERIA will open a 300 seat cafeteria in the Carolina East Mall. We are looking for several people for the salad department. We need one of these people in charge of Salad Department as department head. Experience desired as we make all salad dressings, congealed, mixed fruit, mixed vegetable, and so forth from scratch. You will be thoroughly trained as to our standards by a qualified teacher. Apply in person only to Mrs. Fearance, Holiday Inn, Greenville, NC between 9 a.m. to 12 and 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, July 9 through Wednesday, July 11.

EXPERIENCED electrician. Call Dennis Electric & Plumbing Company, 756-8970 anytime.

RNs, LPNs. Are you seeking a challenging position that will provide you with professional growth and development? At Guardian Care, you will participate and have input into the work setting and decision making process in this specialty area of gerontological nursing. Full time and part-time positions are now available. Send resume to P. O. Box 1157, Zebulon, NC 27897.

SALES ASSISTANT needed. Sales manager needs individual to train for sales opportunity to earn $15,000 first year, earnings unlimited. Send resume to P.O. Box 1846, Greenville, NC.

STOP! ASK... YOURSELF

"Where will I be and what will I be doing 5 years from today, if I continue what I am doing now?"

We have 3 sales positions to fill which can develop into management for the right person.

You Can Immediately Expect To:

AVERAGE OVER $200 PER WEEK COMMISSION

- Attend 2 weeks schooling in Raleigh, expenses paid
- Be guaranteed $800 per month to start
- Be given the opportunity to advance into management
- Outstanding hospitalization and profit sharing

- To Qualify:
- Must be sports minded
- Age 21 or over
- Ambitious/ Dependable
- Willing to work hard with limited travel

FOR THE RIGHT PERSON THIS IS A LIFETIME CAREER OPPORTUNITY WITH AN INTERNATIONAL GROUP OF COMPANIES

Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

Call for Appointment Now

Mr. Farside

Monday - Friday

756-2792

Monday - Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

PART-TIME domestic help needed. Would consider live in. Own transportation preferred. 756-4377 after 6 p.m.

RECEPTIONIST/Bookkeeper, 40 words per minute minimum. Apply from 9 to 11 at Greenville Collection Service, 219 West Tenth Street. Wilcar Executive Center.

COOK wanted. Experienced short order cook, excellent hours. Apply in person at the Beef Barn, between 11 and 12 noon.

WANTED. Delivery help, full time. Apply in person at Carolina Office and Equipment Company, 510 South Greene Street.

100 CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

ROOFING

STORM WINDOWS DOORS & AWNINGS

C. L. LUPTON CO.

752-6116

42 Help Wanted

GENERAL MECHANIC needed. Apply in person at Langley's True Value, Belfiel, NC.

MECHANICAL Designer/Draftsman. Experience desired, not required. Equipment process manufacturing background helpful. East-End Engineering, 731, Kinston, NC 28501, (919) 523-0832.

WANTED. Experienced live-in companion to care for elderly lady. Call 752-4063 after 5 p.m.

SECRETARY for established law firm. Competent in both shorthand and typing. Previous experience in law offices desirable but not essential. Submit resume to Secretary, P. O. Box 1967, Greenville, NC 27834.

MANAGER/SUPERVISOR trainee. Must be willing to travel. Company benefits available. If interested, apply in person at Dodges Store, 3209 Memorial Drive. See Mr. Eubanks.

SALES POSITION. 1. Honest. 2. Willing to work hard. 3. Have a backbone. 4. Want high earnings. Guaranteed income to start. 5. Aggressive. 6. Have integrity. Do you qualify? $12,000-$20,000 income first year. Send resume (with telephone number) to P. O. Box 2264, Greenville, NC 27834.

44 Work Wanted

REPAIR WORK. Carpentry, roofing, masonry. Call James Harrington, 752-7765 after 6.

SEPTIC TANK installation, lot clearing, landscaping, backhoe-builder work. Call Sonny Cox, 742-0848 or 752-3414.

NO JOB TOO SMALL. Carpenter and repair work on houses and mobile homes. Cabinet and counter tops. Call 758-0779 or 752-3076, Donnie Eakes, anytime.

WALLPAPER Hanging. Have sample books. Will bring to your own home. Free estimate. 752-4898.

EXPERIENCED woman will keep children (2 years or older) in her home 6 days a week. 756-6972.

LOG CABINS. Will build to your specifications. For information call 752-5680 or 752-2484 after 6 p.m.

AMBITIOUS MAN with retailing experience, an Associate Arts degree and third level college. Also has experience with supervision. For more information, call 756-6851.

WOULD LIKE to do domestic work. Good, fast and expensive. 752-2370.

EXPERIENCED PAINTER. Interior, exterior. Reasonable rates. Free estimates. 752-2009.

WANT TO KEEP 2 1/2 to 3 year old in her home. Call 752-2291.

46 FOR SALE

48 Farm Equipment

MARINE BATTERIES, 80 amp continuous. Action pack, $56.95; super battery, $69.95. Call 756-1000. 100 amp service battery, $62.95. Agri-Supply Company, Greenville, 752-3999.

156-RACK POWELL tobacco barns, $2500 each or will trade for Long box barns. Call 438-2304 (New Bern).

50 Garage-Yard Sale

MOVING! Everything goes! Furniture, rugs, appliances, household items, clothing, 9 a.m. till 12 noon, Saturday, July 7, 115 Lee Street, Cherry Oaks.

56 Miscellaneous

BOOTLEG PRICES: Men's knit slacks and jeans, $9.99; sportcoats, $22.95; lady's pantsuits, $13.99; slacks, $5.99; tops, $4.99. Large selection. Call 758-2200. Larry's Bypass, across from (Nichols), Greenville.

SMALL LOADS pinebark, sand, top soil and dirt and rock. At 2200, Call Charles Tice, 758-3013.

RINSE & VAC $10 a day. Shampoo not included. Whitehurst Carpet Center.

LARGE LOADS of sand, topsoil, fill dirt and rock. At 2200, Call Jim Hudson, 756-4742.

PIANO RENTAL, as low as $15 per month. Cha-Rich Music, 756-1212.

AMAZING NEW wireless home or office phone. Call 758-1944 for free demonstration.

NEED FURNITURE? We have it! Brands you'll recognize. Financing available. Call 758-2200. Larry's Furniture Store, 701 Dickinson Avenue.

CENTPEIDE SOF, 752-4994.

CLEAN CARPETS last longer and look better. Rent the best—rent Steamers. Call 758-2200. Larry's Carpetland, 3010 East Tenth Street.

TOP SOIL, fill dirt, sand, rocks, landscaping, and bulldozer work. Call Henry Worthington, 746-3461.

FILL DIRT, builder sand, top soil and rock. J. L. McDaniel, 756-2251 or 756-2229 (mobile unit); 756-2351 residence.

MARY KAY Cosmetics, 756-3659 to reach your consultant.

FISHER wood burning stoves will heat your house naturally. See our new fireplace inserts. Ask the owner about its performance. 752-3609, Fleming's Furniture & Appliance.

FEDDERS 3000 BTU air conditioner, $199.95; 4000 BTU air conditioner, $299.95; Fedders 10,000 BTU air conditioner, $329.95; 752-3609, Fleming's Furniture & Appliance.

EXPERT PIANO tuning and repair. The Music Shop, 756-0007.

HOTPOINT FREEZER, 15 cubic feet. Good condition. $85. 758-3896. After 5 p.m.

WURLITZER PIANO, $400. 758-2939 or 758-6833.

TO PLACE your Classified Ad just call 752-6166 and let a friendly Ad Visor help you word your Ad.

A $25 PRIZE will be awarded to anyone who can send a design to Tammy's Nursery & Kindergarten, 2501 East Tenth Street, to be used on activity buses, etc. All entries will be judged by July 27. Winner will be published July 31.

USED DISHWASHER and 8000 BTU air conditioner, $285-0101.

STERLING SILVER for sale. Complete set of Old Maryland engraved by Kirk, 758-3016 after 5 p.m.

DRUM SET, good condition. 752-3786.

YOU CAN SAVE money by shopping for bargains in the Classified Ads.

LITTLE'S NURSERY, Silver Queen corn, 756-3626.

FRESH CORN, $1/100 if you get it! $1.50/100 if we deliver. White potatoes, $7/bushel if we deliver. $6/bushel if you pick it up. 746-6298.

RACING GO-CART. Black Hawk sprint chassis, less motor, $350. 752-2196 after 6 p.m.

DRUM SET, 4 piece Ludwig set with cymbals. 752-2196 after 6 p.m.

SONY BETAMAX video cassette recorder with 20 tapes. Tapes are erasable. Inquire for information on tapes. 752-2196 after 6 p.m.

HOT TUB recreation. Redwood or Cyprus tubs. Call Hot Pools, 746-2673.

ELECTRIC typewriter and waterbed. 752-8077 after 6 p.m.

28,000 BTU air conditioner. 220 volt. Runs fine. 758-3070.

100 CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

ALTERATIONS SPECIALIST

Full & Part-Time Positions Available For Persons With Two Or More Years Experience In Altering Wearing Apparel. Benefits Include Profit Sharing, Pension, Paid Vacation, Sick Leave And Holidays, Hospitalization, And Life Insurance. Store Discounts. Call Personnel Department.

6week Tyler

758-2176

An Equal Opportunity Employer

56 Miscellaneous

MOVING THURSDAY. Couch, 2 chairs, dinette with 4 chairs, 1 twin bed. Reasonable. Contact, B-21 Glendale Court.

ZENITH 25" color console TV. $175. 756-5412.

MOVING SALE! Everything must go! No-frost refrigerator, air conditioner, 16,500 BTU room desk, many other items. For more details, call 758-2708 or care by 703-B Church Street after 5 p.m.

750 HONDA, $36,000. California frame, custom painted, fiberglass body. A lot of chrome. Must see to appreciate. $1600. 752-1331.

SUNBEAM vacuum cleaner and attachments. New rust suede coat (ladies medium, tag still on), vinyl sofa sleeper, Waring blender, two toaster ovens, Dremel, drill set, Olive Cook Aluminum set (excellent condition), popcorn popper, nearly new Norelco Pro Comb, 756-5190.

KING SIZE waterbed. Complete with frame, heater and liner. 758-0946.

60 INSTRUCTION

PRIVATE piano, guitar, banjo, mandolin and dobro lessons. Piano-Organ Warehouse, 756-2032.

REAL ESTATE SCHOOL. The Bacon School has taught more people the real estate business than any other in NC. Next Goldsboro class starts Tuesday, July 24 at 7 p.m. Course qualifies you to take the NC Licensing exam. Last chance! Classes meet 2 nights a week, 5 1/2 weeks. School requirements for Broker's exam will increase from 30 to 40 hours on September 1. Credit cards accepted. Call today for free brochure. Enrollment is limited. Bacon & Sons School of Real Estate, Call Steve Sutton, Hill Realty, Kinston, 527-5179 (collect).

CLINIC on woodworking stoves. Three sessions, Tuesdays, July 17, and 24, 7 to 10 p.m. At Pih Community College, Room 103, Humbler Building. Registration fee, $5. Call 756-3130, extension 238 for further information.

62 LOST AND FOUND

FOUND. Brown, female boxer. 756-0790.

64 Mobile Homes

2 AND 3 BEDROOM mobile homes. Air conditioned, good location. No pets. 752-3286 or 825-5391 nights.

CLEAN, 2 bedroom mobile home with central air conditioning, located in Azalea Gardens for couples only. One bedroom, furnished apartment for singles or couples (located in Azalea Gardens). Contact: Tommy Williams at Azalea Mobile Homes, 756-7815.

2 BEDROOMS, 12 x 40. Central air, no pets. Call 756-2287 nights.

2 BEDROOMS, air conditioning, furnished. In Ayden. 758-3276 or 758-2219.

2 SHADY TRAILER spaces for rent. Call 752-0239 after 5.

12 X 40. Washer, dryer, air conditioning, 3 miles north of Belvoir. 758-2347.

MOBILE HOMES and lots for rent. Call 758-4413 between 8 and 5.

12 X 40, 2 bedrooms, $125; also, no bedrooms, $110. No pets. No children. 758-3644.

2 BEDROOMS, furnished. Private. wooded lot. 756-0070 after 7 p.m.

2 BEDROOM, carpet, washer, air. real nice. 756-9225 or 756-1900.

45', 2 BEDROOMS, washer, air. Nice, shady lot. No children. No pets. 756-7912.

2 BEDROOM trailer. Call after 6. 758-5727.

12 X 72, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, furnished, air, Shady Acres Trailer Park, $150 a month. Deposit required. 758-5019.

2 BEDROOMS, completely furnished. Buck's Trailer Park, 752-0196.

2 SMALL, 2 bedroom trailers. Located in Colonial Park, $135 per month. 756-5877.

66 Mobile Homes For Sale

GOOD SELECTION on used trade ins at Azalea Mobile Homes. Ask for Tommy Williams.

WHY PAY RENT? Own your own home from Azalea Mobile Homes. See Tommy Williams.

WE BUY used mobile homes. Tommy Williams, 756-7815, 752-5682.

12 X 60, 1967, 3 bedrooms, unfurnished, wood lot, central air, central air, washer/dryer hookups. 758-4716.

1975, 12 X 60, Central air, underpinned, Excellent condition. 758-6958 after 7 p.m.

2 BEDROOM trailer on 1 1/2 acre lot, 11 miles from Greenville Highway 43 West. 5271 after 6 p.m.

14 X 65 OAKWOOD, 3 bedrooms. Pay equity and assume $165.00 payments. 756-8986 after 6:30 weekdays, anytime weekends.

1971, 12 X 60 Shelby, 3 bedrooms, partially furnished including appliances, skirting, air. Excellent condition. 758-2563 days, 758-7085 nights.

1975 CONNER 12 X 36. One bedroom, furnished. 752-9003 after 5:30.

10 X 55 Ritzcraft, 2 bedrooms, 1 1/2 bath, $2800. Call 752-4793.

TURN GOOD HOUSEHOLD items you no longer need into Christmas cash. Sell them with an ad in Classified.

3 BEDROOM trailer. Central air, $100 down and take over payments. 758-8098.

1967, 12 X 50, 2 bedrooms, air. Also 1971, 12 X 45, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, air. Both for $6500. 756-5356.

1967 VAN DYKE, 12 x 45, 2 bedrooms. 752-8077 after 6 p.m.

24 x 60 unfurnished doublewide. Appliances included. Price negotiable. 752-1608 after 6.

1973, 12 X 65, 3 bedrooms. 752-3597.

68 OPPORTUNITY

BUSINESS LOANS to start or expand. No combine bills. Any amount. Call F. B. Whitfield, (919) 527-7201 from 9 a.m. till 4 p.m.

TASTEE DONUTS, INC., a national donut chain based in NC, franchising in the Greenville area. If you want to be in business for yourself but not your self, call Bill Simpson in Rocky Mount, NC, (919) 443-3141.

TO BUY OR SELL a business in confidence, contact: J. S. Swedner, Jr., at the Marketplace, Inc., Business Brokers, 401 West First Street, Telephone 752-3666.

100 CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

BOYD ASSOCIATES, INC.

general contractors

COMMERCIAL INDUSTRIAL

P. O. Box 1705 • Greenville, North Carolina 27834

100 CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

BOYD ASSOCIATES, INC.

general contractors

COMMERCIAL INDUSTRIAL

P. O. Box 1705 • Greenville, North Carolina 27834

100 CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

BOYD ASSOCIATES, INC.

general contractors

Community College Prexy Understands Dissent

COMMUNITY COLLEGE PREXY — Larry J. Blake talks about his new position on his first day of work in North Carolina. Appointed in February, many Tar Heels felt strongly the job should go to a native North Carolinian. (AP Laserphoto)

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
With Laserphoto RA-2
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — New state community college system President Larry J. Blake spent his first day on the job Monday and said he understood some of the opposition to his appointment.

Blake, 49, began work five months after he was named to the post by the state Board of Education. A native of Montana, he had served as president of Fraser Valley College in British Columbia, Canada, and has been surrounded with controversy since his appointment here.

He was greeted on his first trip to Raleigh by a resolution, overwhelmingly adopted by the state Senate, urging a North Carolinian get the job, and he was opposed by friends of former Gov. Bob Scott, who wanted the job.

"I understand the sentiment behind that resolution. They want someone intimately familiar with the state. I sympathize with it," Blake said. "I only hope that I can become that North Carolinian."

Blake earns $52,000 a year in the job, $10,000 more than the previous president, and his salary drew fire from Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, a member of the state Board of Education. Blake acknowledges he hadn't expected the disputes.

"I was surprised, yes. That's not normal," he said. "But bothered? Not that much. I was hired by the state Board of Education and had a strong commitment from them."

In an interview at his office Monday, Blake said he doesn't yet have any plans for changing the personnel or direction of the system, which is the third largest community college system in the country.

"That's what I have to determine in the next few months," he said. "One of the major questions I want the department to answer is what is the appropriate role of the state department of community colleges and what is the appropriate responsibility for the local boards of trustees. Where do you draw the line on when the state department makes a decision and when the local boards decide?"

Blake plans to travel the state to visit each of the community colleges and technical institutes soon, and believes most decisions about curricula should be left up to local trustees. He said he favors the name change for the 37 technical institutes — to technical colleges — permitted by the General Assembly this year.

Since Blake took the job, the Legislature voted to remove the system from the state Board of Education, which chose Blake, and set up a new board in 1981. Blake said he did not know of the plans when he took the job, but likely have taken the job anyway if he did.

Watching, Waiting For Skylab's Descent

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"Watching and Waiting" is the keynote to the prelude period of the imminent descent of Skylab, as the time range narrows before the expected event on Wednesday.

Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, coordinator of the Skylab re-entry watch team in Pitt County, this morning said

"right now we are keeping in constant touch with the North Carolina Civil Defense Office which is the headquarters for North Carolina observation and information on Skylab."

In turn, officials of Greenville's Police and Fire Departments and the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, are on standby to work with Joyner in the event any of Skylab's debris comes to earth in the local area.

"There's two major concerns," Joyner stated. "The first of course is to look for victims. Another of our instructions is to keep spectators away from the scene."

"The federal government has announced that they need to recover any debris that may be found, and have called on public officials and law enforcement people to not permit souvenir hunters to remove any of the debris that may fall."

Joyner has asked, in the event of a fall in this area, that his office, telephone 752-5136, be notified immediately, whatever the hour.

"We have our communications center open and manned 24 hours a day," he said. Apparently, the countdown hours in Pitt County are not at this time creating any emotional stress on the part of the public.

The coordinator at REAL House and the receptionist at the Pitt County Mental Health Center both reported that to date, they have not received calls from local residents expressing major concerns about the possibility of a fall in the area.

SCLC Chapter Meets Tonight

The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, Pitt County Chapter, will hold a meeting Tuesday, July 10, 9 p.m., at the SCLC office, 619 Albemarle Ave., Greenville.

Plans will be discussed for the national SCLC convention to be held August 9 in Virginia. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

N.C. Chauffeur License

Renewal Is Changed; Birthday Expiration Date

The renewal of chauffeur licenses has been changed by the 1979 General Assembly, according to the N.C. Department of Transportation.

D.O.T. reported that as of July 1, all chauffeur licenses will expire on the birthday of the licensee in the fourth year following the year of issuance. Previously, the chauffeur license expired on the second year after issuance.

The new fee for the license is $10, up from the previous fee of $5.

Chauffeur license renewal cards for July and August showing expiration dates of two years were mailed prior to passage of the June legislation, it was mentioned. Division of Motor Vehicles personnel will retype all renewal cards presented on or after July 1 at driver license examining stations.

What are you actually getting for all those insurance premiums?

If You're Not Sure, Take This ONE-MINUTE QUIZ

Are you getting, through your present agency, the protection of a national company like Aetna Life & Casualty, a company that can provide protection for all your insurance needs: individual, family, home, car, and business?

Are you getting the satisfaction of being protected by an independent insurance agency, one that is both able and willing to recommend the right protection at the right price?

Are you getting personal service — the kind of service that comes only from an agent that lives near you, knows you, and really wants to help you?

If you answered "no" to even one of these questions, you're getting less than you deserve. But cheer up! You can call us! Then all your answers will be positive.

Think Positive. Think Aetna. Think...

HOOKER & BUCHANAN, INC.

JIMMY BREWER - SKIP BRIGHT
INSURANCE OF ALL KINDS AND REAL ESTATE
511 EVANS ST. 752-6186

Aetna Casualty and Surety Company • The Standard Fire Insurance Company
The Automobile Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut • Aetna Casualty & Surety Company of Illinois

Eppes Classes Hold Reunion

The first reunion of the Classes of 1942-49 of C. M. Eppes High School was held Friday at the Ramada Inn, Greenville.

The festivities began at 6 p. m. with registration and a "sip and chat."

The Saturday morning brunch was presided over by Jean Johnson Darden, Class of '48. The Rev. C. B. Gray, former assistant principal of Eppes, welcomed the participating Eppesonians. Former teachers present were Mrs. Sujette A. Jones, Mrs. Mildred G. Thompson, Mrs. Edna B. Graves, J. W. Grimes, Herman Foust, and A. E. Murrell, the last principal of Eppes High School.

Mary Blow Johnson and her sister, Brenice Blow Parker, were recognized as the graduates who had traveled the greatest distance to attend the festivities. Alice Gibbs Moore was recognized as having the most children — 13; and Mildred Jenkins Whichard as having the most grandchildren, nine.

A special memorial tribute was paid by Mrs. Selina Forbes for members of the classes who have passed away. Each of the former teachers made remarks of encouragement and challenge. Mamie Hemby Anthony presented a gift to each female member of the Class of '45, her class.

The group agreed to form a C. M. Eppes Alumni Association. Imogene Taylor Dupree, Marion Gorham Wilkes, Mary Garrett Murrell and Luke Hemby were named to spearhead the organization strategies. The Rev. John H. Taylor III was directed to establish a C. M. Eppes Scholarship Trust.

Bouquets of flowers were presented by the alumnae to Marion Wilkes and Imogene Dupree, co-chairpersons of the Alumnae Weekend, and Alan E. Murrell.

A family outing was held Saturday afternoon on the former Eppes School football field.

Saturday night the former lunchroom at Eppes School became a "disco" for the alumnae. Gerald Barnes, assisted by other members of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, ECU, was the disc jockey.

The festivities ended Sunday when the alumnae and their families worshipped together at Sycamore Hill Baptist Church.

Among those attending were Mayme Taylor Goines, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, Neptune, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. David Waddell, Chesapeake, Va.; Lonnie Waddell, New York; Charles Dixon, New York; Mary Blow Johnson, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lee, Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Darden, Greenville; Mary Garrett Murrell, Greenville, Dr. and Mrs. George L. Jenkins, Bethesda, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hatfield, West Haven, Conn.; Beatrice Atkinson, Greenville; Melba Norris Hyman, Alexandria, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. William Nobles, Greenville; Mary Wilkins Harvell, Hillcrest Heights, Md.; Thomas Gray, St. Albans, N. Y.; Allegra Lawrence Barrett, St. Albans, N. Y.; Mamie Hemby Anthony, St. Albans, N. Y.; Williams P. Devone, Albany, Ga.; Clara Dawson Jones, Chesapeake, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lassiter, Hyatts, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Karl Knight, Baltimore, Md.; Imogene Dupree, Marion Wilkes, Mildred Whichard, Alice G. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. James Hagans, Julia C. Davis, the Rev. and Mrs. John H. Taylor III, all of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Levi Tyson, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Leid, Bronx, N. Y.; Mary Harris Oliver, Paterson, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Dan Jenkins, Washington, D. C.; Ann Clark Dew, Winston-Salem; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Parker, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Taft Jr., Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Alveroda Payton, Goldsboro, Dr. and Mrs. Billy D. Davis, Baltimore; Marian Davis Foster, Baltimore, Joan Eaton, Ellis Brown, and James Gallops, all of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Taylor, Baltimore, Md.; Emmanuel Jenkins, Syosset, N. Y.; Jackie Davis Johnson, Bronx, N. Y.; Randy Dupree, New York; Mary Hemby Mathews, Greensboro; Amy Harris Anderson, Leesburg, Va.; and H. B. Griffin, Washington, D. C.

Hearing For 5 In Smuggling

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — Five men were scheduled to appear before a U.S. magistrate today in a drug smuggling case in which about 10 tons of marijuana was seized on Oak Island Monday.

U.S. Customs officials said the marijuana was discovered as a shrimp trawler was being unloaded at an abandoned fishery.

William O'Shea, district director of customs at Wilmington, estimated the value of the marijuana at $8 million. He said more arrests were expected in the case but none had been reported by late Monday night.

The five men arrested were Samuel E. Ferguson, 37, of Louisiana; Bobby Lee Minton, 36, of North Wilkesboro; Wayne Henderson, 43, of Little River, S.C.; Hector Morales, 24, of Miami; and Victor Seni, 29, of Miami Beach.

All five were charged with illegal importation of marijuana, smuggling and conspiracy to smuggle.

O'Shea said Brunswick County authorities discovered a 40-foot trawler, the Queen Elizabeth, unloading at a fishery on Oak Island early Monday. He said the vessel apparently came from Colombia and was loaded off a larger vessel to the Queen Elizabeth, which is registered in Charleston, S.C.

Brunswick County deputies, Southport police and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation, state Wildlife and Fish Division, the U.S. Customs Patrol and U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration took part in the investigation.

Workshop On Day Care

Improving the quality of day care for children three to five years of age is the primary purpose of a one-day workshop to be held Tuesday, July 24, in the Willis Building, corner of First and Reade streets here.

The workshop is one of six being held this summer across the state for child care providers who work directly with children three to five in both private and publicly funded day care centers. They are being sponsored by the N. C. Office of Child Care Licensing, in cooperation with the regional Headstart Office in Atlanta.

Participants will learn about the Child Development Associate credential, how it can benefit them, and how to qualify. Sessions are free, but space is limited. Interested persons should contact Janet Nickerson or Julia Nienow, Office of Child Day Care Licensing in Raleigh, 733-4801.

Recreation And Parks Meeting

Three items, all under new business, are on the agenda for the monthly meeting of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 11.

The meeting will be at the Administrative Office, 2000 Cedar Lane.

Agenda items are: Rules for use of softball fields on weekends; summary of the 1979-80 budget; and nomination of officers.

Organize To Save Trees

The Save the Trees Committee of East Carolina University held its formation meeting Monday night under the leadership of the Student Planning Association (SPAN). The 24 members included concerned students, faculty and Greenville citizens.

The Committee resolved to contact ECU Chancellor Thomas Brewer concerning the possible salvation of the trees involved in the paving of several campus parking lots. These lots include Lot No. 1 parallel to Ninth Street; Lot No. 2 on Cotanche Street; Lot No. 3 on James Street; and Lot No. 4, next to Erwin Hall.

A subcommittee was formed to meet with Dr. Brewer this week to find out if there is still time to save the trees and what the consequences in changing the proposed plans would be. The plans now only show 15 of the 82 trees being saved, but a revision of the plans calls for an additional 17 trees to be spared.

"The committee hopes to see the number increase and sincerely shares Dr. Brewer's views on campus beautification," said Pat Garton, chairperson of the subcommittee.

Interested persons may call Ms. Garton, 756-6263 or 757-6961, or Sharon Heath, SPAN president, 753-4644 or 752-4137, extension 259.

AGRICULTURE:
PCA covers it.
...with a PCA loan.

Pitt-Greene Production Credit Assn.
Greenville
758-1512

WE RENT

Canoes Tents
Car-Top Carriers
RENTAL TOOL Company
3014 A.E. 10th St.
Dial 758-0311

LOOK at what you can save by

NOSE-ing around

THE DAILY REFLECTOR coupon ads.

Last week's coupons were worth $6.16

Don't miss a single issue - or a single savings.

Call today for home delivery.

752-6166

THE DAILY REFLECTOR

Since 1882, a mirror of the community.

Canning Session For Youngsters

A canning workshop will be offered at the 4-H office for boys and girls ages 9-19, Thursday, July 12.

The first session, 9 a.m. to 12 noon, will feature the boiling water bath method of canning. The second session, from 1-3 p.m., will feature the use of the pressure canner in canning. Cost for the workshop will be 50 cents per participant. Miss Addie R. Gore, Home Economics Extension Agent, will be the instructor for the course.

Persons can pre-register for the canning workshop by calling the 4-H Office, 758-1196, by Wednesday, July 11.

ALL YOU CAN EAT
WEDNESDAY ONLY
SPAGHETTI DINNER with tangy meat sauce
Shoney's Real Italian Spaghetti With Superb, Tasty Meat Sauce, Parmesan Cheese.
$1.99
SHONEY'S
264 By Pass
Greenville, N.C.