Commissioners Prod Schools' Merger

Pitt County Commissioners met late yesterday afternoon with members of the Greenville and Pitt County Boards of Education.

Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners R. L. Martin opened the meeting by saying the session was called, "to have a meeting of minds and have a school study in Pitt County."

Commissioners, in September 1977, asked the two boards of education to study a possible merger of the separate school administrative units. As a result of that request, the Division of School Planning of the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction conducted a survey of the two systems. But at the request of the Greenville City Board of Education, the survey, made public in mid-1978, did not include any recommendations regarding the question of merger.

Commissioners, again in January 1979, asked that the two boards appoint a committee to, "study and propose a plan of unification or merger of the two school districts that would improve the curriculum, enrichment programs and physical facilities for the future advantage of educational opportunity in Pitt County."

"The paramount consideration of any plan would be the best interest and equal opportunity of each school child," commissioners emphasized.

The Greenville Board of Education, in the early Spring, named three members to serve on the joint committee, while only recently did the Pitt County Board of Education name six members to study the unification question.

The January 1979 request of the Board of Commissioners asked that a merger plan be developed by October 1.

Martin, telling the school officials, "if any predetermination has been made, it won't work," said, "it is not our prerogative," as a board, "to tell you how to compose your committee," but suggested that committee members should have an open mind on the question and consider what is best for all school students in the county.

Mark Owens, chairman of the county education board told Martin, "I assume the committee is ready to function and go forward whenever they get together. I'm sure the county Board of Education is ready to go forward."

Nancy Middleton, vice-chairman of the Greenville board replied, "We certainly are."

"We need to look at it objectively for what's good for Pitt County," Martin emphasized. Following a discussion of the number of persons appointed to the committee, Greenville City School superintendent Glenn Cox and county superintendent Ott Alford agreed to schedule a meeting of the committee.

It was agreed that the joint committee should set a reasonable timetable to report on the question of consolidation.

Fuel Costs Spur Inflation Rate In July

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — American consumers benefited from a leveling-off of food prices in July, but this was more than offset by continued rapid rises in gasoline and home heating oil costs, the government said today.

As a result, consumer prices last month rose 1 percent, the Labor Department said.

The July increase, identical to that of June, marked the seventh consecutive month of inflation near or above the 1 percent mark.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department reported that workers' average weekly earnings declined 0.3 percent from June to July when adjusted for inflation.

"Over the year, real average weekly earnings were down 3.9 percent," the report said.

Spensible earnings — what a worker with three dependents has left after Social Security and federal income tax payments — also fell last month. The 0.4 percent decline helped push spendable earnings about 4 percent below July 1978.

The price increases continued at the fastest pace since the early 1950s and could leave the nation with an inflation rate this year approaching 13 percent. Carter administration economists, however, say the worst of the price increases are behind and that more moderate increases are ahead.

Food and beverage prices rose a modest 0.1 percent in July, the smallest increase since July 1978.

"Beef prices declined for the second month in a row, and pork and poultry prices for the fourth consecutive month following substantial increases during the fourth quarter of 1978 and earlier this year," the report said. The price for eggs, a good meat substitute, fell 4.5 percent.

The increases were in fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, coffee, bread and cereal products.

Energy prices have been rising rapidly in the wake of the temporary Iranian crude-oil production shutdown and price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

In July, energy was blamed for a 1.2 percent rise in the housing component of the index and a 1.8 percent jump in transportation.

The consumer price index stood at 218.9 in July. This means that goods that cost $100 in the base year 1967 last most cost $218.90.

The index figure was 11.3 percent ahead of July 1978.

Meat prices, which fell 2.7 percent in July after a 1.8 percent drop in June, are benefiting consumers both at the grocery store and some fast-food chains.

Tunnel 'Study' Voted

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — The state Advisory Budget Commission voted unanimously today to reconsider the controversial matter of a tunnel to link a proposed new office building with the Legislative Building.

On a motion by state Sen. Marshall A. Rauch, D-Gaston, who supported the tunnel in a 5-4 vote of approval last month, the commission agreed to have a five-member subcommittee study the project and report back next month.

The subcommittee also will compare the costs of building the tunnel, currently funded at $315,000, and building an above-ground walkway between the $8.5 million new office building and the Legislative building.

Rauch said he had considered the tunnel "a good idea" until he had been told by another commission member, Rep. John Gamble, D-Lenoir, that the tunnel would come closer to costing $600,000.

"I don't think anyone understands it," Rauch said of a furor that has been raised over the tunnel project. Opponents include Gov. Jim Hunt.

Eddie Knox of Charlotte, chairman of the commission, the subcommittee's deliberations would include a public hearing.

He named Rauch chairman of the subcommittee. Other members are Rep. Liston Ramsey, D-Madison; Rep. Ben Tison, D-Mecklenburg; Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir; and Sen. Joe Palmer, D-Haywood.

Palestinians Expect A Security Council Vote

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Arab representatives said they expected the Security Council to vote today on the Palestinian statehood resolution the United States said it would veto, but some Western delegates predicted the Council would adjourn without voting.

Senegal, chairman of the U.N. Committee on Palestinian Rights which drafted the resolution, filed the measure Thursday night after the Council adjourned and was to present it formally today with a speech in the Council.

Although Senegal is not a member of the Council, any U.N. member can submit a resolution. But it can be voted on only if a member asks for a vote.

Reporters asked the Arab member of the council, Ambassador Abdalla Yacoub Bishara of Kuwait, if there would be a vote, and he replied, "I think so."

The Palestine Liberation Organization's U.N. observer, Zehdi Labib Terzi, also said he expected a vote. But some Western diplomats said there would be no request for a vote. One said some Third World members wanted "to save Andy Young from having to veto" the resolution.

U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young, who resigned last week because of an unauthorized meeting with Terzi that embarrassed the Carter administration and outraged Israel, told reporters after the council session Thursday he was ready to veto the resolution on orders from Washington.

Iran Steps Up War And Executions

SAQQEZ, Iran (AP) — Helicopter gunships swept over the rebel-held city of Saqqez today, firing at anything that moved in an apparent prelude to a government attempt to land reinforcements inside the city's besieged army garrison.

Troops and revolutionary guardsmen inside the garrison fired mortars and rifle-propelled grenades into the city to keep the rebels at bay.

At least eight Kurds were killed and 15 wounded in today's firing. A school was turned into an emergency hospital to treat the scores of wounded Kurds, including women and children.

Kurdish sources said the helicopters and the government forces in the garrison were "firing indiscriminately" into areas inhabited by civilians. "Many women and children were unable to escape and have been killed by the explosions and shooting from helicopters," one source said.

The rebels shot down a U.S.-made Cobra gunship Thursday night as government helicopters strafed rebel positions. Government Phantom jets repeatedly smashed the sound barrier over Saqqez overnight, keeping the inhabitants on edge.

In the Kurdish city of Kermanshah, a government firing squad executed four persons today, including one Kurdish rebel convicted of killing revolutionary militiamen in last week's uprising in the Kurdish city of Paveh, the official Pars news agency reported. Pars said two of the men were condemned for selling drugs and another was killed for committing homosexual acts.

The Iranian armed forces chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Hossein Shaker, went on radio today saying, "The army expects the people of Saqqez to defend the Islamic revolution of Iran and to fend off any counter revolutionary conspiracies."

Saqqez was the third city in Kurdistan Province to become a battleground in the Kurdish struggle for home rule. Rebel Kurds besieged the Saqqez army garrison Thursday and poured heavy machine-gun fire "almost nonstop" into the compound.

Western reporters on the scene said the fighting there was the heaviest so far in the 10-day-old flareup in the Kurdish fight for autonomy that began in March.

NO JURISDICTION

DANGEROUS INTERSECTION

A valued citizen of Falkland died recently when her car was struck by a loaded gravel truck at the intersection of Highway 43, Highway 222, and State Road 1247 in the middle of Falkland. There are few people of the Falkland area who have not at one time or another had a close encounter with one of those rock trucks. When they come from the quarry at Fountain east on 222, they're loaded, yet they are not compelled to come to a complete stop. Traffic from the Rocky Mount direction coming south on 43 is the only traffic stopped, except, of course, that coming out from 1247. Shouldn't there be either a stop light there, or perhaps, better still, a stop sign that would make every loaded rock truck stop? R. T.

Yours is not the only call Hotline has received about the Falkland intersection. We talked to Falkland Mayor Pro Tem Woodrow Wooten, who said a letter was sent by the Town of Falkland to the Department of Transportation immediately after Mrs. Ora Joyner's accident Monday, Aug. 7. A followup call was made by one of the town commissioners, he said. The letter requested a meeting with DOT engineers and officials by town officials. As of yesterday afternoon, he said no word of a meeting time had been received.

Hotline talked this morning with DOT Engineer Gerald England, who said he had only yesterday received traffic and accident count figures for this intersection out of Raleigh. He said he'd be looking at the intersection today and would be arranging a meeting for the very near future.

He refused to comment on the warrants for a traffic light or change of stop sign placement until after he looks at the intersection.

Mayor Pro Tem Wooten said Falkland people argued with the DOT during the administration of Highway Commissioner Arthur Tripp when the intersection was changed. He mentioned several accidents that have taken place at this intersection, including the recent fatality, which he said has prompted a concerted effort to get something done.

Both Wooten and England mentioned that sight distances up 222 for drivers coming out of 1247 need to be improved.

Ayden Sells Bonds And Bond Anticipation Notes

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — Ayden electrical system bonds totaling $1,565,000 were awarded to Interstate Securities Corporation during bid openings at the Local Government Commission in Raleigh Tuesday.

According to Ayden Town Manager Don Russell, Interstate Securities submitted a low interest bid of 5.8452 percent. Second lowest bidder was First Citizens Bank and Trust with an interest rate of 5.8672 percent. Other bids were submitted by First Charlotte Corporation and a joint bid by Wachovia Bank and Trust, Planters National Bank and J.E. Pellier.

"We're extremely pleased over the bond sale," said Russell. "We expect the funds from the sale to be delivered to a bank of our choice by September 11."

According to Russell, the low interest rates were obtained probably due to the fact that the bonds were rated "A" by Standard and Poor's of New York and "A" by Moody's Investor Service of New York.

Town Manager Russell, Mayor Ross Persinger and Ayden Commissioner Dr. J. Elliott Dixon went to New York August 14 to meet with representatives of the two bond rating agencies. Results of the meetings were reported to Russell during the next two days.

"The 'A' rating shows that the town has a strong capacity to pay the principal and interest on the bonds, even under economic stress," noted Russell. "The 'A' rating shows that the town still has a strong capacity to pay the principal and interest, but that capacity could be changed if economic stress arose."

The highest rating municipal bonds can receive is "AAA," with the lowest "BBB," Russell explained that some bonds may go on the market without a rating, but may receive higher interest rates in return.

"We're extremely pleased to receive such a high rating from these national rating organizations," said Russell. "It's somewhat difficult for small towns without a heavy industrial base or large tax base to receive high ratings."

Russell said that he felt that the ratings helped in receiving the low interest rates during the meeting Tuesday.

Also during the Tuesday meeting, the Local Government Commission awarded

Pitt Community College Nurses Are Pinned

The pinning ceremony for Pitt Community College's associate degree and diploma nurses was held last night at Memorial Baptist Church here.

Dr. Alfred L. Ferguson, M.D., was the speaker for the ceremony, which saw 28 associate degree nurses and 42 diploma nurses receive their pins.

Associate degree graduates receiving pins were: Vandy Beaman, Renee Crane, Brenda Lewis, Rhonda Mills, Ruby Norris, Margie Osborn, Julie Priett, Sharon Shipley, Lydia Smith, Lenna West, Nancy White, and Tien Tran of Greenville; Betty Hines, Lynette Skinner and tha Ivey of Rich Square; and Carleve Venters of Clayroot.

Practical nurse graduates receiving pins included: Lynn Cox, Peggy Bond, Mary Anne Kruger, Connie Palmer, Carol Lappin, Tammy Lockhart, Pam Messner, Teresa Gargis, Lori Chamberlain, Betty Jean

Johnson, Vickie Saulter, Gwyn Tavasso, Marily Rabey, and Barbara Murray of Greenville; Carol Garris of Falkland; Doris Boyd, Audrey Perry, Sally Wolinsky and Deborah Lyle of Winterville; Mary T. Mercer of Farmville; Winnie Hill of Snow Hill; Debbie Emanuel of Pinetown; Diane Casper, Jacqueline Ragland and Ann Purvis of Bethel; Jeanette Thompson, Debra Cunningham Lavern Howard and Debra C. Clark of Kinston; Sherri Harris, Ethel Caraway and Larry Morton of Ayden; Louise Boseman of Grimesland; Deborah Parker of Robersonville; and Sherry Glover of Washington.

Housing In Farmville Is Surveyed

FARMVILLE — There are nearly 1,700 housing units in the Farmville municipal limits, according to a survey the data for which was gathered by town administration summer intern, Debbie Dixon.

"When you're out there counting on a hot summer day, it seems like even more," said Miss Dixon, interviewed by telephone at her dormitory at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Miss Dixon, daughter of Mrs. Delores Dixon of Farmville, is a computer science major at UNC-G.

According to Patrick Thomas, town administrator, who supervised Miss Dixon in the data-gathering, the survey revealed two important facts concerning the housing situation in the community: 1. that the occupancy rate is 97.5 percent, and 2. that there are more than 50 vacant but "buildable" lots within the town.

Of the 1,670 housing units in Farmville, there are 1,340 single-family homes; 310 multi-family dwellings, and 20 mobile homes. Some 35 of the single-family homes and six of the apartment units were, at the time of the survey, unoccupied. The count of unoccupied units included dilapidated, "unfit for human habitation" ones.

The high occupancy rate discovered in the survey is an indication of the high demand for housing in the community, Thomas said. Equally important for housing development purposes was the finding that there are more than 50 buildable vacant lots in town. Thomas said these vacant lots represent "a real tragedy in the midst of our need for more and better housing and a waste of public resources available to these properties." He pointed out that virtually all of these lots abut paved and curbed streets with water and sewer readily available. He expressed the hope that owners of these lots would respond to the community's acute housing needs by making these lots available for development.

Miss Dixon said that the surveying showed her that Farmville has come a long way in upgrading its housing and that most dwellings in the town are now in good shape.

Home Mission Day Observance

Fleming Chapel A.M.E.Z. Church will observe its Women's Home Mission Day Sunday in services beginning at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The morning sermon will be delivered by Eldress Shirley Braxton of Cherry Lane F.W.B. Church. Also, a special Women's Day address will be given by Ms. Constance R. Bond, medical librarian employed by East Carolina University.

A challenge to the ladies will be extended by Mrs. Jean Darden, assistant principal at J.H. Rose High School. Following the challenge, a sermon will be given by Eldress Diane Harris of St. Ville's Holiness Church.

Refreshments will be served, and the pastor, the Rev. Alvin Cratic, invites the public to attend.

Store Awning Fire In Night

Greenville firefighters were called to the Cotanche Street entrance of Belk-Tyler Co. about 10:10 p.m. yesterday when an awning at the entrance was reported on fire.

Officers, who reported minor damage, said the blaze, which burned a hole in the awning fabric, probably started when someone threw a cigarette on top of the canopy.

Priest's Lawyer Sees Justice System Flaws

By GWEN FLORIO
 Associated Press Writer
 WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) —

The trial of the Rev. Bernard T. Pagano, a Roman Catholic priest accused of robbery, showed "the weakness of the criminal justice system and why we have to be vigilant at all times," a defense attorney says.

"The worst thing that could happen is that an innocent person could be convicted," added Dennis Spivack, estimating Pagano had had a 40 percent chance of conviction before another man confessed to the "Gentleman Bandit" robberies.

Five charges of armed robbery and one of attempted robbery against Pagano were dropped Thursday when Ronald Clouser, 39, of Brookhaven, Pa., pleaded guilty to three charges of second-degree robbery in the holdups.

Pagano, 53, still faces an attempted-robbery charge in Pennsylvania. It was not immediately known what would happen to that case.

Pagano's trial was halted Monday when Clouser confessed to involvement in the crimes. Seven witnesses in the case had pointed out Pagano as the man who displayed a small chrome-plated revolver and demanded money.

Defense attorneys contended the witnesses were unduly influenced by newspaper photographs of the priest.

Accidents In Early Hours

An estimated $3,225 property damage resulted from two collisions on Fifth Street between Cotanche and Reade Streets early today.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 1:50 a.m. mishap 62 feet East of the Cotanche Street intersection.

A car driven by James Henry Molitor of 203A North Summit St., investigators reported, went out of control and collided with the front of Proctor's Limited store, causing an estimated $2,500 damage to the car and some $300 damage to plate glass and tile at the front of the clothing store.

Police, who charged Molitor with careless and reckless driving and driving under the influence, reported that Molitor and a passenger in the vehicle were injured.

A 12:40 a.m. mishap 50 feet East of the Cotanche Street intersection involved vehicles driven by Webster Alton Toler of Route 1, Ernul and Ernest Ted Lane Jr. of Camp Lejeune.

Damage to the Toler truck was set at $250 while damage to the Lane car was set at $175.

Toler was charged by investigators with careless and reckless driving and failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, while Lane was charged with improper passing.

til he has been sentenced in three Pennsylvania holdups. Clouser could be sentenced to up to 30 years.

Under the terms of the court action, Pagano could be retried should any new evidence come to light.

Clouser's attorneys, Saul Segan of Philadelphia and Marsha Kramarek of Delaware, said he was examined by two psychiatrists and found competent to make the pleas though a lie detector test indicated he did not commit the robberies.

"The defendant wishes to plead guilty because he is guilty. He wishes to right a wrong," Segan said Thursday. Clouser said he felt relieved.

"A great burden has been lifted from me by coming forward," he said. "Father Pagano has unjustly suffered for six months. I apologize to the public for the delay in coming forward and to Father Pagano in particular."

During a Mass of Thanksgiving following the court proceeding, Pagano said he felt no bitterness toward Clouser.

"I ask of almighty God for His grace for that man who must suffer and for the suffering he already has gone through. I challenge you to love and pray for Ron Clouser as much as you did me," he said.

In an interview with WHY-TV, however, Pagano said police had a "rather clumsy way of going about things."

"If they had talked to some of the witnesses I had given them, none of this would've happened," he said.

THE RED NECK SALOON... and Restaurant near Grifton on Highway 118 was totally destroyed by fire yesterday, beginning about 3 p. m. The owner and operator, Tommy Sugg, was one of the Grifton volunteer firemen fighting the blaze. Grifton was assisted by Ayden, Gardnersville, and Kinston, plus the Grifton

Rescue Squad which administered first aid for smoke inhalation and overheating. The business place was valued at $75,000, the Fire Marshal's office reported. (Reflector Photos By Tommy Forrest)

Tree-Sitter's Hopes Dashed

RANDOLPH, N.J. (AP) — After 61 days, 21 hours and 56 minutes in a maple tree, Drew Rusnack thought he had a world record. But the 14-year-old has since discovered he went out on a limb for nothing.

Rusnack ascended to his backyard berth just after school closed in June. He plans to descend on Sept. 5, just three days before starting his freshman year at Randolph High School.

The aim was to topple the 61-day tree-sitting record recognized in the Guinness Book of World Records. On Thursday, Rusnack belatedly discovered that someone else cornered the honor in 1978 by spending half a year in a tree.

"It's like shock," Rusnack said Thursday from his tarp-draped perch 20 feet off the ground. Even so, he refused to come down. "I said I was going to go through it and I'm going to," he said.

As for trying to break the newly discovered 182-day record, his father, Jack Rusnack, axed the idea. "He has to go to school, he just has to," the elder Rusnack said.

Until Thursday, the young Rusnack thought he was aiming his sights at a 61-day record. But Carol Klarman of Stirling Publishing Co., which puts out the U.S. edition of the book of superlatives, confirmed that a record of 182 days and 2 minutes was included in the 1980 version, to be published in October.

A marathon sitter named Glenn T. Woodrich was listed as having sat in a tree in an amusement park in Norwalk, Calif., from Jan. 1 to July 2, 1978, Ms. Klarman said.

Drew got the idea for his feat while sitting in a tree one day, his father said. When the dark-haired teen-ager discovered that the Guinness book listed a record for what he was doing, he decided to try to beat it, said Rusnack.

The boy's meals and clean clothes were carried up on an aluminum ladder by his 11-year-old sister, Tina, and his father. For a toilet, he used a bucket lined with a plastic bag.

With no shelter but the permissible tarp, Drew weathered the summer's frequent rains and cold snaps without a sniffle. "At night, he wears a woolen shirt," his father said. For exercise, the boy climbs "to the tippy-tippy top" since he may not come down, his father said. "I'm a little scared about the climbing," he said. "But I didn't worry about him. At least I knew where he was going to be."

Concert To Aid Building Fund

Mrs. Molly Small will be presented in concert at White Oak Baptist Church, Grimesland, Sunday at 5 p.m.

Mrs. Small, a Pitt County native and a graduate of H. B. Sugg High School, Farmville, has a degree in music from Winston-Salem State University and has done graduate work at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C. She is employed as a music education teacher in the Pitt County Schools and also serves as director of the Eastern District Choir of the United Holy Church of North Carolina and as choir director of Mount Moriah United Holy Church, Farmville.

She is presenting this concert as a benefit for the building fund of the church. The public is invited.

Couple Says Marriage Vows Saturday Evening

FARMVILLE — The First Baptist Church here was the scene of the marriage vows of Barbara Wheelless Roebuck and William George Jackson of Los Angeles, Calif., Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Ronald Lee Davis officiated.

John Barker of Greenville was organist and Mrs. Tommy Bullock sang "Through the Years," "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Loren Jackson of Los Angeles.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride is the daughter of Mrs. James Monroe Wheelless Jr. of Farmville and the late Mr. Wheelless. She wore a formal gown of ivory crepe chiffon fashioned with a blouson bodice highlighted with Venise lace, scalloped rows of bridal pearls and iridescents. It featured a modified Queen Anne neckline and short bishop sleeves with a gathered chapel train skirt. She chose a chiffon picture hat with tiered chiffon brim accented with silk illusion and side tulle bow. She wore a diamond necklace, a gift of the bridegroom. Her bouquet featured roses, gypsophila and greenery.

Attendants included the bride's daughter, Barbara Dean Roebuck, maid of honor and her sister, Mrs. Ron Lilley, Raleigh, matron of honor. Mrs. Moses Moye was bridesmaid. They wore formal gowns of Williamsburg blue tiana styled with blouson bodice and silk macrame necklace. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of peppermint carnations while the others carried bronze long-stemmed chrysanthemums.

April Lewis was flower girl and wore a candlelight colored dress like the bride with a yoke collar and skirt trimmed in lace and pink ribbons. She wore a pink daisy and gypsophila in her hair and carried a basket of rose petals.

Albert Van Lewis Jr. was best man and groomsmen included Ron Lilley, Raleigh, brother-in-law of the bride, Bill Bass, her cousin, Walter B. Jones II and Moses Moye.

The mother of the bride chose a formal gown of light pink chiffon and the mother of the bridegroom selected a gown of light blue chiffon. Both had white orchids pinned to their handbags.

For traveling, the bride changed into a slate blue lounge ensemble and wore a cymidium with roses in her hair. The couple will be living in Huntington Beach, Calif.

The bride attended Averett College, Danville, Va., and ACC, Wilson. Prior to her marriage, she was a secretary at McDavid Associates, Farmville. The bridegroom graduated from Texas A & M University and is employed by the Ernest Hahn Co., Los Angeles, as a project manager for the development of malls. He was project manager of Carolina East Mall, Greenville.

Mrs. Bernice B. Turnage and Mrs. Walter B. Jones II directed the ceremony.

The couple and their families greeted guests after the ceremony.

The mother of the bride entertained at a reception for family members and friends of the couple at her home following the ceremony. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bass, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Assisting in serving were Miss Veronica Edwards of Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. John Owens of Mebane, Mrs. Ken

MRS. WILLIAM GEORGE JACKSON

Craft of Kinston and Mrs. Bob Bleecker of Fayetteville, all cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Dick Rains of Bailey presided at the guest register and good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Wheelless, aunt and uncle of the bride.

The couple was entertained at a dinner party Friday evening at the Colonial Inn by Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDavid Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Van Lewis Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses Moye entertained the bridal couple Thursday evening at a dinner party. Assisting hosts and hostesses included Mr. and Mrs. John M. Mewborn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alex G. Corbett and Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Jones II.

A luncheon was held Saturday at the Colonial Inn given by Mr. and Mrs. Max McLeod of Dunn, Mrs. Martha Bass and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Bass.

DEAR CECILY: I've just inherited an electric waffle iron and directions for using it. Now I think it would be fun to serve waffles to company for week-end brunches. What's a good recipe? — FORMER SLEEPYHEAD.

DEAR FORMER SLEEPYHEAD: I think you'll like the following recipe. I borrowed it from the latest (1973) edition of "The Good Housekeeping Cookbook." It includes more butter or margarine than a good many waffle recipes — and from the standpoint of texture and flavor that's all to the good. — C. B.

RICH WAFFLES
1¾ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups buttermilk
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
4 eggs

About 30 minutes before serving: preheat waffle baker as manufacturer directs. In large bowl, with wire whisk or slotted spoon, mix first 4 ingredients; add remaining ingredients and beat until well blended. When waffle baker is ready to use, pour batter into center of lower half until it spreads to about 1 inch from edges. Cover and bake as manufacturer directs; do not lift cover during baking. When waffle is done, lift cover; loosen waffle with fork; serve at once. Reheat baker before pouring in next waffle. (If batter becomes too thick while standing, stir in a little more buttermilk until of good pouring consistency.) Makes 4 cups batter or about 5 waffles. Can't Countenance Seniors' Discounts

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm all for taking care of our old people and giving them every possible break. But I think giving every person who reaches age 60 or 65 lower rates for transportation, haircuts, entertainment, etc., is just plain ridiculous!

I have friends and relatives who are loaded with money, but because they're "senior citizens" they take advantage of all these reduced rates and laugh about it.

I would like your opinion — and the opinion of others.

DEAR STIFF: Most senior citizen rates are intended to attract the senior citizen's business as well as give a break to older folks living on a fixed income.

To separate those who need it from those who don't, and then exclude those who don't, would be a horrendous task. Not to mention the inequities that could result.

DEAR ABBY: An acquaintance of mine is about to give birth. She is married, but the baby is not her husband's. He married her when she was six months along, knowing the baby wasn't his, but he loved her anyway. (The baby's real father just took off.)

My question is this: After the baby is born, what should I say to her husband? Would congratulations be appropriate under the circumstances? Or do you think it would be in poor taste? After all, everybody knows he didn't have anything to do with it.

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Congratulations are indeed in order. If not for the achievement, for showing himself to be more of a man than the baby's natural father.

DEAR ABBY: I had a friend who would have been 84 tomorrow. She was struck by a car and died instantly. She had no family and left no will. She had quite a bit of money that she wanted to go to her favorite charities, but she never got around to putting anything in writing. Consequently, the state will get it all! She had some valuable furniture and jewelry which was auctioned off. The state will get the proceeds and strangers will have her precious personal possessions.

She told me that she wanted to be cremated, but since she left no instructions, she was buried.

I am 41, and have learned a valuable lesson. Death may not be a pleasant thought, but it is inevitable and can come without warning, so I have made all my wishes known in writing — with copies to several relatives and friends. Even if things have only sentimental value, if no specific provisions have been made for their disposition, the public administrator can (and does) throw all personal items away. (Letters, pictures, etc.)

Last year this happened to over 6,000 people in Los Angeles alone. If only one person reads this and does something about it, I'll feel that my friend did not die in vain.

BROKENHEARTED IN L.A.

DEAR BROKENHEARTED: I agree with your suggestion but, in order to be absolutely certain that one's wishes are carried out, a lawyer should be consulted.

DEAR ABBY: I took your advice and went to a psychiatrist. Let me tell you what happened.

The psychiatrist has more problems than I have. In three visits I knew all about his lousy marriage, his rotten kids and his childhood hangups.

I thought a psychiatrist was supposed to let the patient talk, but all mine did was talk about himself. I tried to tell him about my sleepless nights, my feelings of loneliness and frequent depressions, but he always turned the conversation back to himself.

When it comes time for me to leave, I'm so frustrated I can hardly wait to get out of his office.

I told my husband all of the above and he said maybe that was the doctor's way of making me feel that my problems weren't so heavy after all.

Is this the way psychiatrists operate? Or did I pick a lemon? How many more sessions do you think I should have to give him a fair chance to help me with my problems? He charges $40 for 50 minutes.

BEWILDERED IN BRENTWOOD

DEAR BEWILDERED: It appears that your psychiatrist needs a psychiatrist. Inform him at your next session that you have decided to see another therapist. Tell him why, and encourage him to seek help from a colleague. If you need help in selecting another therapist, consult your county medical society, your family doctor or your local mental

NOW Chapter To Sponsor Walkathon

The Greenville chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW) will sponsor a walkathon in support of the Equal Rights Amendment Sunday.

Walkers will cover a course starting at Elm Street Park and covering approximately 10 miles within the city. Participating in the event are NOW members and other ERA supporters who will be sponsored by per-mile contributors to the National NOW ERA Ratification Fund.

A kick-off rally will be held shortly after noon Sunday and the walk will begin at 1 p.m. according to Danielle Behler, president of the Greenville NOW chapter. The local walkathon is part of a nationwide commemoration of Women's Equality Day sponsored by NOW to support its ERA ratification campaign.

Sunday is the 59th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment which granted women the right to vote. The day has been declared Women's Equality Day by every president since 1974.

This is the third year the national organization has held nationwide walkathons on Aug. 26. The local chapter's 1977 walkathon resulted in a total of $450 for the ERA campaign. That total is expected to be exceeded this year said Ms. Behler.

Persons interested in joining this year's event or in attending the rally are invited. Each walker is asked to wear comfortable, lightweight clothing in white and green, standard colors of the original suffragists.

Further information is available from the walkathon coordinator Jerelyn O'Connor, 758-6317, or Ms. Behler, 758-2592.

Freezing herbs is a good way to save them for use later in the year.

Gather them and wash if dirty. Pat off the excess water and place into freezer containers and freeze immediately. When ready to use the frozen herbs, snip or chop without thawing.

Another easy method recommended by NCSU agricultural extension specialists is to put the chopped herbs into an ice cube tray, fill with water and freeze. Place the cubes into plastic bags and place back in the freezer. The cubes can be added to stews or soups when needed.

We were leaving the house to go shopping and I decided to take one of my plastic shopping bags. We had quite a bit of shopping to do, so my daughter took one, too.
If you want to get waited on in a hurry, just carry a large empty shopping bag into a department store! The salespeople were coming out of the walls offering their assistance. But when we had filled the bags, locked them in the car and returned empty-handed, we were virtually ignored.
Try it sometime. It's hilarious.

Reveal Poor Kind Of Policies

The North Carolina Center of Public Policy Research has issued a report "Making North Carolina Prosper." It is critical of the state's balanced growth policy. Most of our citizens should beware of the center's report.

The report asks whether the state will coordinate federal development monies with investments made efficiently "or will they be allowed according to a geographically biased policy to prejudice investment decisions?"

The question may seem sound until one encounters statements such as these in "Making North Carolina Prosper":

"According to a body of expert opinion, a policy that shifts industrial growth from metropolitan to rural regions would also shift growth from high-wage sectors to low-wage sectors."

Or: "The advantages of locating in or near cities have been listed in a number of recent books on urban economics and industrial location, and most lists show advantages that both reduce costs and increase revenues for sophisticated industries."

Or: "Another weakness of rural development is that the low-wage industries that tend to locate there also tend . . . to be low profit."

The governor's office was quick to issue a statement disputing the center's findings, most particularly the contention that increasing growth in lagging rural regions is designed to slow growth in metropolitan areas.

"The aim of the balanced growth policy is to encourage economic progress and job opportunities throughout the state as adopted in the Balanced Growth Policy Act of 1979," the administration commented. "Our metropolitan areas are a special Growth Center category in the criteria now being recommended to the governor." The governor's office makes it clear that there is no "shift" policy, but rather one of encouraging growth in all regions. It points out that 115,000 new jobs were added in metropolitan areas from 1962 to 1976. That was on a base of 415,000 jobs. Percentage growth was larger in non-metropolitan areas — 93,000 new jobs added to a base of 113,000. As we see it, neither region lost.

The center's report strikes us as being heavily biased in favor of a few metropolitan areas of North Carolina. It brings up nightmares of the "glory days" in state government when economic development policies ended at the eastern city limits of Raleigh and the western outreaches of Winston-Salem. Those concerned with development can well remember, for instance, those days when the thoughts of adequate highways in the east and west were considered quaint among the power bloc that controlled Raleigh. Having lived in that era of neglect, we would never favor any policy which would place the needs of any section of the state over that of another . . . but neither would we stand by and see the return of archaic policies to the detriment of the vast majority of North Carolina's citizens.

It appears to us that the N. C. Center for Public Policy Research Report might very well aim us in that direction.

Dear Sir:

I am writing in regard to employment with your firm. I have a BS from USC and a Ph.D. in physics from the California Institute of Technology.

In my previous position I was in charge of research and development for the Harrington Chemical Co. We did work in thermonuclear energy, laser beam refraction, hydrogen molecule development, and heavy-water computer data.

Several of our research discoveries have been adapted for commercial use, and one particular breakthrough in linear hydraulics is now being used by every oil company in the country.

Because of the cutback in defense orders, the Harrington Co. decided to shut down its research and development department. It is for this reason I am available for immediate employment.

Hoping to hear from you in the near future, I remain

Have you noticed? We don't have a gasoline shortage any more. Where are our friends who brought this shortage to our attention such a short time ago? Is anyone out there? Is anyone listening?

G. Philip Koonce

To the editor:

It is my opinion that the Greenville Utilities Commission has hidden charges of which they are not making their customers aware.

One year and two months ago we bought a new house in Greenville. When we moved I wanted a gas stove, rather than an electric. I called the Greenville Utilities Commission office and SPECIFICALLY asked if it would cost me more per month for a gas hookup instead of adding a stove to our electric usage. I was told that, in all honesty, it would be slightly higher, maybe a dollar more, but the amount would be so insignificant that I wouldn't notice it.

I realized, by my later bills, that no matter how I tried to conserve energy, my bills on gas remained the same and, in many cases, increased. Then I learned from a friend that the Utilities Commission charges a base facility rate of $3-per-month for gas and the amount of gas I use is added on top of that amount. The same is true for electricity. There is a flat rate of $5.27 per month and your usage is added to this and not included in it. Water and sewage each have a base charge of $1.50 EACH. In other words, if you have electricity, gas, water and sewage, you are paying $11.27 a month in charges which are not paying for any consumption of energy.

The energy you use is added on TOP of this base charge. After learning this, I called Greenville Utilities and they verified it.

After a little more than a year's use of my gas stove, I have paid $75.07 for $28.57 worth of gas. This breaks down to $39 in base charges (more than the gas itself), $7.50 for installation and $28.57 for gas.

The Utilities Commission did not tell me about this basic facility charge. If they had, I would have bought an electric stove and eliminated at least one of the hidden charges.

A general committee to make arrangements for the seed exposition and annual meeting of the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association has just been named, and a meeting of the group has been set for tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce.

"It is the aim of those behind the meeting and exposition to make them the biggest in history, declared Willard T. Kyzer, executive secretary of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, in announcing committee personnel and meeting.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize and set policies and undertake preliminary arrangements for the event.

The effects of the European war scare apparently are being reflected in Greenville police circles," according to Chief of Police George Clark.

"Hitler is doing so much talking about war that culprits in this section are afraid to even start a minor fight," declared Clark in commenting on the small number of cases requiring police attention at the present time.

"They are afraid if they start fighting among themselves over here, they will have to fight either for or against Hitler," added the police chief.

THIS AFTERNOON

Skilled Hands Needed

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Back To Basics was once the rallying cry of those pushing greater public school emphasis on reading, writing, and arithmetic.

Now it has become the theme for those who see a wide gap in North Carolina's efforts at training people to take skilled jobs in industry.

In this case the "basics" are knowing how to measure and cut and figure out how machinery works, and which end of an electrical plug goes in the socket.

As part of the homework in qualifying for designation as a Governor's Community of Excellence, local people contacted the chief executives of existing industries in their region.

One of the items was to identify needs or problems in the community as seen by existing firms. Fully half responded that the single most pressing need is for more vocational and mechanical training in the schools — particularly in the community colleges and technical institutes.

Concerned

From Gov. Jim Hunt to

Labor Commissioner John Brooks to Commerce Secretary Lauch Faircloth to field representatives in the business of economic development to local industrialists the cry is the same: teach young people to work with their hands.

"We are not talking about skills at specific jobs . . . that is impossible in many cases because nobody knows what the specific jobs will be. But rather the basic skills in using tools and understanding how to work with the hands are what we need," one industrialist explains.

"And that skill needs to be taught as early as the ninth grade in high school," he added. Whether the ability is ever put to use in an industrial plant, say the experts, the person who has it will appreciate it throughout life. Even a banker or English teacher would like to know how to repair a broken electrical plug or fix the furnace fan.

Despite overwhelming evidence that the 57-campus community college and technical institute system needs to pay more attention to mechanical and vocational things than to academic work, evidence suggests that those in leadership of that program consider such assignments secondary to "junior college" type of courses. The present rush is to change the name "technical institute" to "college" and pressure continues for those designated as "technical" to assume college-preparatory roles by becoming "community colleges".

BILL

NOBLITT

Any number of community college leaders insist that they can only offer the courses which students will take, and they can't force them to take vocational and technical training.

Blocks

Meanwhile, in the public high schools, stumbling blocks continue in the way of more job-oriented training. Supt. Craig Phillips has pushed hard for years to implement "career-choice" activities which would help students choose alternatives to the traditional college-preparatory track and prepare them for real world jobs. He has been frustrated by widespread insistence on more academic orientation instead.

Even the simple process of allowing technically minded youngsters in the public schools to take advantage of programs available in the community college system while still enrolled in the public schools have been thwarted by bureaucratic turf-fighting between the two systems.

In the field, representatives of the Department of Commerce who come into daily contact with this situation sum it up bluntly: There still seems a stigma attached to working with the hands . . . not on the part of those who want job training, nor on the part of those who employ skilled workers; but on the part of educators who see status and prestige attached to academic courses, and seek to downplay the technical.

WASHINGTON TODAY

Spontaneous Turn-Outs

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

Associated Press Writer
ABOARD THE DELTA QUEEN (AP) — President Carter tried his hand as a riverboat gambler, and may come away with a couple of chips.

For weeks, the president had been saying that he meant to take his case to the country, to break away from the confines of Washington and the concerns of the government establishment.

He did it on a Mississippi River excursion boat, in effect wagering that the people along his course would respond and provide a counter to the bleak news the pollsters have been delivering month after month.

They did.

At dusk or midnight, at 8 a.m. in a heavy downpour, even at 3 a.m., the president drew crowds along the river. It didn't solve his foreign policy problems, or get his energy tax bill passed. But it did provide a lift.

People even waded into the water to get a glimpse of Carter, and as one fellow passenger observed, it had to be an ego trip.

The president seems buoyed by the enthusiastic crowds he has encountered along the river after the political buffeting he took in Washington this summer.

The pace has hardly been one that most people would associate with a vacation. But between bouts of feverish handshaking, the president was able to read, lounge in the sun and chat with fellow passengers, including on several occasions groups of reporters. He was relaxed on those occasions and took time to marvel at a particularly stunning sunset and to watch the river flow.

The president in effect acknowledged to about 5,000 people gathered on the muddy shore in Dubuque, Iowa, that their presence did not mean they were all supporting Jimmy Carter.

Instead, he said, they were showing their respect for the president of the United States.

The crowds along the river have surprised the passengers, the White House staff and the president. Carter told reporters, in one of a couple of long, rambling conversations he had with them aboard the ship, that neither he nor his advance

Strength For Today

OBEDIENCE AND FREEDOM

The British naval hero Lord Nelson used to tell midshipmen that the first, and most important rule they had to learn in the naval service was, "Always obey orders".

In any democratic society which emphasizes the importance of freedom, such a rule seems inconsistent and archaic. But freedom and independence cannot exist in undiluted form in any society, free or otherwise. Before anyone can enjoy liberty in a democratic state he must obey laws, pay taxes, follow traffic signals, and conform to many other rules prescribed for the good of society as a whole.

The truest and most complete freedom which a person can know comes when the person gives himself or herself in complete obedience to a noble cause. If we want to be really free, we should choose the Master of Men as our own master, and learn to obey Him. This pathway of obedience leads to triumph.

There Is Trust And Distrust

By GAIL MICHAELS

I have often read that trust is the basic element in any healthy relationship.

If that's true, then my family has a real problem. There's more trust between Jody Powell and Bella Abzug than there is between Phillip and me.

I've tried; I really have. But how does one build a trusting relationship with a man who, upon losing his car key automatically says, "Where did you put it?" He is so suspicious that he thinks I spend an hour every morning cutting buttons off his shirts.

I know he cruises in the car until there's exactly .325 gallons left in the gas tank, then returns home and says, "It's your turn to have the car tomorrow".

He thinks that I remove the lint filter every time I dry his corduroy pants.

And I am convinced that he leaves a flair tip pen in his shirt pocket every 2 or 3 days just to test me.

He even accuses me of hiding cakes, cookies and pies from him.

(I do. I just can't trust the guy.)

Meg doesn't trust either one of us. She has a friend who told her that she rode on a rocket to Snow White's castle in the clouds over the weekend and met a handsome prince who promised to marry her after she finished college.

Meg believed her. Meg also believed her when she said that the waves at the ocean never hit her in the face because she stayed on her houseboat and that her mother often stayed up all night sewing and slept all day, leaving her to cook for her father and her baby brother.

I told Meg that we were out of potato chips . . . and she said, "Show me". It's incredible how much suspicion at our house centers around food. And at supper time it hits its daily high.

I say, "Dinner's ready." Phillip turns on the national news, and Meg retreats to her room to build a block replica of Mount Rushmore.

I call again, and Phillip retires to the bathroom with the Sunday New York Times. Meg visits the next door neighbor.

After years of this, I learned that if I called 30 minutes ahead of time, they would probably wander in sometime after I poured the milk and before I put out the salad.

But the other night I called, and for some inexplicable reason both of them were standing in the kitchen before I had a chance to turn back to the stove.

"Where is it?" they said in unison. I showed the plates into Phillip's hands and some napkins into Meg's and said, "Not long. Set the table."

I barely had time to blow on the water to make it boil faster, throw some canned mushrooms into the Ragù and grab a handful of noodles before Phillip was standing in the doorway again.

It took ten minutes to get supper on the table, and although I was too worn out to eat, I was ecstatic that my family was establishing a new pattern of behavior.

The next night I waited until supper was ready before I called them. Fifteen minutes later I found Meg in the basement patching the cracks in the wall with Play Dough and Phillip in bed taking a nap.

"Why didn't you come when I told you dinner was ready?" I asked Phillip. "After last night, how can I believe you?"

Will Challenge Auto Surcharge

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten says he will submit a court challenge to plans by the insurance industry to impose surcharges on auto liability policies beginning in December.

The N.C. Reinsurance Facility board voted June 25 to impose an 18.6 percent surcharge on drivers insured through the facility and a 1.1 percent surcharge on all drivers.

"We're ready to do battle in the courts," Edmisten said in an interview. "I don't know exactly what the time frame will be, but we are going to ask the court to settle this issue with a declaratory judgment and an injunction."

The facility is a pool through which insurance companies share the liability insurance losses of drivers they consider poor risks. The facility covers about 26 percent of the state's drivers. The new charges, which would be in effect for one year, would be designed to recover a loss of $31.4 million. The facility says it incurred that loss during the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

The attorney general said his decision to file suit in Wake Superior Court was made following the receipt of a written response from the facility Thursday from questions asked by the Justice Department.

Responses came from Thomas S. Carpenter of Charlotte, chairman of the facility's board of governors.

Edmisten said of the replies, "I respectfully disagree and we will let the court decide."

He said the state's legal action would not only cover the facility, but individual insurance companies as well.

Gov. Jim Hunt had requested Edmisten earlier this month to take steps to block the implementation of the surcharges, claiming there was no legal basis for imposing them.

Study Teen Sex Activity

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The problems associated with teenage sexual activity are the focus of a study being conducted by the Governor's Advocacy Council on Children and Youth. The study will continue into next year.

The purpose of the study is to determine the effectiveness of public and private agencies across the state in providing the proper services to meet teen needs.

Results from the study are also expected to show characteristics of the North Carolina's teens who are sexually active, pregnant or already parents.

The project will cover nine counties, as yet undetermined. It is being conducted under a grant of $15,800 from the Mary Babcock Reynolds Foundation in Winston-Salem.

The project is expected to be completed by February 1980, in time to present recommendations to the short session of the Legislature which convenes in June.

The investigation was prompted out of concern by state health officials for the rising rate of teen pregnancies in the state.

team had anticipated the turnout. White House staff members traveled the route of the river last week to plan the president's stops and help bring out the crowds. But they and Carter said no one on the White House team worked on the spontaneous events at the river's massive locks. Nor, they said, did they put together the noisy groups that shouted greetings across the water to Carter from beaches and bluffs.

Many of the locks are in tiny towns that are rarely if ever visited by a president or any other celebrity. And those were the locations — at all hours of the day and night and in misty, cool weather — where the president worked hardest as a campaigner.

Carter's trip was billed as a vacation and a campaign for his energy policies. But a campaign for policies in 1979 and a campaign for reelection in 1980 are really one and the same.

For as Carter has observed, the real test of his bid for a second term is going to be the voters' judgment of his first.

The bidding:

 3 ♦ Pass 4 ♦ Pass
 6 ♣ Pass Pass Pass
 Opening lead: Jack of ♣.

Quite frequently, there will be more than one way to play a hand. If one chance is as good as another, Dame Fortune will select the winner. On most occasions, however, one line will be superior to another. Failure to follow percentages in this case could be costly.

The auction was a model of brevity and accuracy. When North raised South's second suit, South decided that there had to be good play for him, so he simply bid what he thought he could make.

West led the jack of spades. South won the opening lead in dummy, led a heart to the ace and ruffed a heart. He returned to his hand with the king of spades and ruffed another heart. Unfortunately, East overruffed and returned a trump, and declarer eventually had to lose another heart for down one.

To be sure, South was the victim of a bad break in hearts, but we don't think that he played the hand to best advantage. He focused his eyes on the wrong hand. Note that dummy is solid except for the diamond losers. The hand should be managed in such a way that if East has either diamond honor (not to mention both), the contract will be assured.

Declarer should win the opening lead in hand and cash the king of trumps to see if the suit breaks. Once both defenders follow, declarer should draw trumps in two more rounds, ending on the table. Now the king of diamonds is led. If East plays the ace, all cares vanish. If he does not, declarer discards a heart from his hand. Assume West wins and continues spades.

Declarer wins in dummy with the queen and leads the jack of diamonds, in the hope that East has the queen. If he covers with the queen, declarer ruffs and the contract is home. If West has both honors, the hand goes down—but the odds are about 3-to-1 against that.

For the benefit of mathematicians (all others may skip this paragraph without feeling cheated), the recommended line has about a 76 percent chance of success, while the probability of establishing the hearts with only one loser is considerably less.

Goof Results In Gracious Gift

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A roofers' goof resulted in a gracious giveaway for David Converse, whose home happened to need some new overhead anyway.

Converse, a surgical nurse at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing, arrived home this week to find roofers slapping shingles atop his dwelling.

When he told them they had to be at the wrong address, they showed him the work order — only to have him explain they'd been confused by shifting street names. They were supposed to be doing their work at the same number one block west.

When Ed Hieftje, manager of the roofing firm, heard about it, he ordered to finish the job free.

"It was a mistake, we goofed up," said Hieftje. "Hey, what are you going to do? I just don't want to make the same mistake every month."

Gold Prices To Record Levels

LONDON (AP) — Gold prices leaped to record highs in early trading today on European markets while the dollar was mixed.

Gold shot to $315.625 an ounce at mid-morning in Zurich, up from Thursday's close of $309.375. The metal posted its previous record in Zurich on Wednesday when it hit $311.625, before closing at $309.25.

In London, gold dealers set the morning fixing price at $314.70 an ounce, up from Thursday's late rate of $309.375.

Gold prices have climbed by more than 5 percent in Europe so far this week.

The dollar gained for the fourth consecutive day in Tokyo, closing at 219.25 yen, up from 218.90 yen on Thursday.

The U.S. currency also gained against the British pound. The pound was trading in London for $2.2230, against Thursday's late rate of $2.2241.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 25, 1979

YOUR DAILY
Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day to reconcile any differences of opinion that you have had with others. Engage in whatever vocational or special activities that require neat touch, fine finish.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Showing more affection for loved ones brings good results. Have better understanding with good friends, also. Shop early and plan some fine amusement for the evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take care of domestic chores early before socializing with friends. Be more concerned with diet so that you feel better.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Any amusement plans you have now can work out just fine. Get into creative works and be more successful in them.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Busy yourself at fundamental affairs, whether at home or wherever, and get good results. Entertain at home in the evening and have fun. Look on the positive side of life and drive your worries away.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Encourage others and they cooperate more with you. A little gift for partners brings good results. Bring out your most magnanimous qualities and be happier.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk over with an expert how best to handle your most practical matters and then take proper steps. A new interest can bring you added income. Study into it seriously.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve health and appearance wherever possible. Meet with charming personalities and have a good time. Plan for the future more intelligently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Delve into whatever is puzzling to you and get the right answers. Show greater love for loved ones and be happier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get in touch with good friends and show them your affection, gain added goodwill. Plan a little party together.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get your home more comfortable and charming and then have friends in that you like. A bigwig you know will respond to the right kind of entertainment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get an early start and look into new projects that could bring added income. A newcomer could prove most helpful to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact experts in business who can fill you in on whatever it is you want to know. A special thought for loved ones can bring fine response now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will relate well with others but must be taught early to reach decisions more quickly, since too much deliberation could be a real fault here. Teach to be more loving and forgiving, too. Sports are good here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Shaken By Law Grads' Grades

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While officials of the State Board of Law Examiners are trying to determine the cause of the decline of those students passing the state bar exam, officials at N.C. Central are pondering another disappointing showing.

Approximately 71 percent of the law school graduates who took the 1979 bar exam passed, but the rate was the lowest in 15 years, according to a board spokesman. In 1977, 90 percent of those taking the test passed, and 84 percent made the grade last year.

At NCCU, only 45.4 percent of those students who took this year's exam passed, over 30 percentage points lower than the next lowest score, and 6 percent lower than NCCU's score last year.

"I haven't hit the panic button, although some other people may have," said Harry E. Groves, NCCU law school dean. "While we're concerned, we're not throwing in the towel!"

Chancellor Albert N. Whiting said: "I'm understandably upset. This was supposed to have been the year."

NCCU had seen a passing rate of 82 percent in 1977, up from the 35 percent mark in 1976.

Among those successful students in this year's test were 63 of 78 graduates, or 80.7 percent, of Campbell University's first graduating law class, according to Dean F. Leary Davis.

Figures have not yet been made available for Duke University's law school.

At the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, 82 percent passed the exam, as opposed to a 96.5 percent rate in 1978.

Wake Forest's law school dropped nearly 10 percent from last year's rate, turning out an 86 percent passing rate.

Law-school graduates must pass the bar exam to obtain a license to practice law in the state. The exam is given just once a year.

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today was steady. Wilson, 40.75; Rocky Mount, unreported; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourn, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 41.00; Salisbury, 40.00; Kinston 41.00 and Spivey's Corner, 38.75-39.75. Sows: Spivey's Corner, 325-600 pounds, 26.00-29.00; Fayetteville, 450 pounds up, 28.50.

Poultry

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina F.O.B. dock broiler market was higher, supplies moderate, demand good, weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for next week is 39.30 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,438,000.

Hens

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady with weak undertone, supplies heavy, demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter, 11 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell today, with analysts attributing the decline to news of hefty increases in consumer prices and the nation's money supply.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues was off 3.84 to 876.54 at noon.

Declining issues led advances by an 8-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Just before the market opened, the Labor Department said that consumer prices in July rose 1 percent, the same as in June and a 12 percent annual rate.

That news came on top of Thursday's report that the nation's basic money supply had risen $1.8 billion in the most recent reporting week. That gain was much larger than was expected, although a market drop in the final hour Thursday was attributed by analysts to worries about a big jump in the money supply.

Gulf Oil led the active list, rising 1/4 to 30 as energy companies continued to show strength.

The NYSE's composite average of its more than 1,500 listed common stocks was off .21 to 61.75 at noon. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .18 to 215.05.

Volume on the Big Board was 14.37 million shares in the first two hours of trading, compared to 16.09 million in the same period of the previous session.

Among other issues on the most-active list, IBM was unchanged at 69 1/2, Avco Corp. slipped 3/4 to 25 1/2, Pan Am dropped 1/4 to 7 1/2 and Bank America fell 1/4 to 39 1/4.

PUBLIC NOTICE Service Cut Ons and Cut Offs

Due to the need to conserve gas, persons applying for utility service or requesting services cut off, should do so at least 24 hours in advance. This will allow the service department to route their work and discontinue the practice of backtracking several times a day. Persons moving into new dwellings (newly constructed homes and apartments) should make application three to five days in advance. Any questions concerning this notice should be directed to the Customer Service Supervisor, 752-7166, Ext. 238.

Power Outage Affects Some

Some residents living on the west side of the city were without power for about an hour early today after a transformer at Greenville Utilities' main substation blew up.

GUC Director Charles Horne reported this morning that two banks of three transformers each are located at the substation off Third Street and a transformer on one of the banks blew "at the stroke of 12 midnight."

Horne, who said that the transformer failure "knocked out the whole substation," said that GUC has a mobile transformer at the station in the event of a problem and it took about an hour to get the mobile unit in service.

The official mentioned that the mobile transformer was still in operation this morning and he expected to be back on a regular transformer by noon today. Plans called for replacement of the blown transformer with a spare that was on hand, he said.

According to Horne, the power outage during the hour period of placing the mobile unit in service also affected some residents out Tenth Street and some down Hooker Road.

In addition, a short outage period occurred for some residents on the Falkland highway that resulted from a switching problem when the transfer was made to the mobile unit.

Dr. Prewitt On Radio Sunday

Dr. Clinton Prewitt will be guest on "Mental Health Matters" Sunday at 1:06 p. m. on WNCN radio.

He will talk about his recent presentation for Journal Club at the Pitt Co. Mental Health Center. Under his topic, "For Normal People Who Are Crazy," Dr. Prewitt discussed the questions of self-identity and suggests the value of positive appraisal of one's life. He said we must learn to live with some anxiety and use all our resources for mental health. "It takes much less psychic energy to live a happy, zestful and productive life than to live a defensive, fearful one," he advised.

Correction

The barbecued chicken and bake sale being held by King's Department Store employees for Muscular Dystrophy in the parking lot of the store is to be held Saturday, Sept. 1, not tomorrow, as was implied in yesterday's article.

A's Survive Six-Run First, Win 8-6

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

How often does a pitcher give up six runs in the first inning and survive to tell about it?

Rick Langford did Thursday night.

With his manager's blessing, the Oakland A's pitcher made it through that thunderous first inning, which included a grand slam home run by Andre Thornton, and toughened up to post an 8-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"I knew in that first inning that I wasn't throwing much up there," said Langford. "I was getting the ball up and I didn't feel loose. That's really poor, but the guys did a tremendous job just not quitting after that."

Langford was one of them. He only gave up one single the rest of the way — Duane Kuiper's base hit with two out in the ninth.

"I just tried to hang tough," said Langford. "I knew I couldn't give up more than six runs — that's my share. Then the guys started talking between innings and really battled back. That was a team victory all the way."

The A's-Indians American

League game was only one of two played in the major leagues Thursday night. In another AL contest, Baltimore edged Texas 6-5.

Langford, 9-13, was rocked for six hits in the Indians' big first inning. Along with Thornton's slam, the barrage included a solo homer by Ron Hassey.

Duane Kuiper followed Hassey's homer with a double, the fifth extra-base hit of the inning, but Langford retired the next 13 Cleveland batters. The right-hander walked Toby Harrah with two out in the fifth, then retired 12 batters before giving up Kuiper's single in the ninth.

The A's had taken a 3-0 lead in the top of the first before soon falling behind 6-3, Oakland eventually tied the game 6-6 on Mike Heath's two-run homer off Rick Wise in the sixth and a run-scoring single by Dave Revere in the seventh against reliever Sid Monge. Rickey Henderson singled home the eventual winning run in the eighth.

"He just didn't have his concentration in the first inning," said Oakland Manager Jim Marshall of Langford, "but I'm sure he knows how I feel about him. I don't think we overreacted in the first inning because it hasn't happened to him in so long."

Orioles 6, Rangers 5

Kiko Garcia doubled to highlight a two-run first inning and hit a three-run homer in the second to lead Baltimore over Texas. The triumph increased Baltimore's lead in the American League East to five games over the idle Boston Red Sox.

Garcia had gone 14 games without an extra-base hit when he doubled in the first following a leadoff walk to Al Bumbry, and both scored on grounders. The Baltimore shortstop hit his fifth homer, off Ferguson Jenkins, in the second to give him his first RBI in 16 games and his first homer since June 23.

Youngsters Must Mature If Charges Are To Be Contenders

By RICK SCOPPE

Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLEFIELD — Under the guidance of Coach Dixon Sauls, the Ayden-Grifton Chargers have finished second, behind Farmville Central, in the Eastern Carolina Conference the past two seasons.

If the Chargers, 6-1 in the conference the last two years, are to again battle for the league title their many young and inexperienced players must mature in a hurry.

"We're a very young team," Sauls said. "We've got inexperienced players at all the skill positions," beginning with quarterback, where sophomores Benard Ricciarelli and Chris Strickland are battling it out for the starting job.

Ricciarelli, because of his experience as junior varsity quarterback last season, is slightly ahead, according to Sauls. Strickland did not play last year, suffering a broken collarbone during preseason practice.

The Chargers, who return only four starters from last season's 6-4 team, will again be led by All-Conference fullback Billy Holland and tailback Calvin Ellison.

Holland, who will also play defensive end this year, was the league's second leading ground gainer, rushing for over 700 yards on only 100 carries.

Ellison, splitting his time between fullback and tailback a year ago, rushed for over 400 yards and is, according to Sauls, the strongest man on the squad, despite being listed at only 5'6", 155 pounds.

The Chargers, who are expected to run a lot early in the season from their power I, also have back top reserve Anthony "Pig" Chapman. Chapman, a junior, gained over 400 yards last year.

Also returning for Ayden-Grifton are guard Clayton McLawhorn, who started at tight end a year ago, and defensive tackle Todd Jackson, the team's third leading tackler last season. Sauls is counting on McLawhorn and Jackson to anchor the Chargers' front line.

"To have a good year, our offensive line is going to have to gain experience and learn how to execute and our young players are going to have to learn how to hit in a varsity game," Sauls said.

Top candidates for the remaining interior line positions include Chris Phillips, Michael Bell and Danny Chamberlain.

Doing the punting for the Chargers this year will be either Holland or Vance Barfield. Doing the place kicking and kickoffs will be either Barfield, Chris Phillips or freshman Chuck Smithwick.

Because of the lack of returning veterans, Sauls has had to resort to dipping into the junior varsity ranks. Much of the hope for the season rests on how these young freshman and sophomores react to varsity competition.

Among the young players Sauls is counting on are Greg Jackson at wingback, Smithwick at tight end and Donovan Arnold. Arnold is battling it out with sophomore Barry Sutton and junior Mark Anderson for the starting center position.

Defensively, the Chargers, who play what Sauls calls at "multiple six-man front," will be led by Timmy Edwards, who will also play split end, and Cleveland Coley in the secondary; Belland "Pig" Chapman at linebacker; Jackson and Holland on the defensive line.

"I think we have a bunch of battlers this year and I'm optimistic we can have a good year," Sauls said. "I just hope we can improve game-by-game and can correct our mistakes as we go along."

"One of our strengths this year, I think, is our ability to communicate with each other. Sometimes, that's underrated," he added.

"Football is the ultimate team game and communicating is gong to help us face adversity. I believe. Of course right now we haven't faced any adversity."

Such adversity may come at the hands of Farmville Central and Greene Central, Sauls' two favorites to fight it out for the league crown.

"They're the teams to beat, along with Southern Nash," he said. "But if a few things fall into place this year, and if we stay healthy, I think we can attain some of our goals for this year," including being in the thick of the conference race.

Ayden-Grifton opens the season August 31 against Williamston.

Accident Helps Quigley

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Dana Quigley directly tied together a near-fatal boating accident only two weeks ago with the best round of his life, a stunning, 8-under-par 63, in the first round of the $250,000 Hall of Fame Golf Classic.

"They're directly related," said Quigley, who'd never before even threatened strongly in a major event on the PGA Tour.

The accident occurred in the waters of Narragansett Sound in Rhode Island. Quigley, 32, from Barrington, R.I., and a companion were thrown into the water when a freak squall capsized and sank their 30-foot boat.

"I very nearly died," Quigley said, then related a tale of swimming for one-half hour through 5-10 foot seas to a jumble of rugged, jagged rocks, then being battered against the rocks by the waves before he reached safety.

"I was bleeding all over," he said. He's still limping from a badly damaged left knee. "I can't bend it, can't bend over to line up a putt," he said Thursday.

With his physical difficulties, the career struggler on the tour felt he had no chance at all to qualify for the Westchester Classic last week. So, he said, that was the time to try out a cross-handed putting stroke.

Smitty Creech and Bob Abbott had 64-70—134 to win the third flight. Barry Gardner and Derek Dunn were second with 66-69—135.

Chiefs Rebuild With 25-0 Win

By SCOTT PAPILLON
AP Sports Writer
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The best thing about the National Football League's exhibition season is that a team can build on its successes or forget about the lack of them.

Coach Marv Levy's Kansas City Chiefs plan to do some building following their 25-0 thrashing of Minnesota Thursday night.

The Vikings plan to do a lot of forgetting.

"Winning this way is very healthy for a team like ours, which hasn't experienced winning for a few seasons," said Levy, who watched his club finish its pre-season at 3-1. "But that doesn't insure winning in the regular season."

The defending NFC Central Division champion Vikings, winless in four exhibition contests, hope Levy is right.

"The only consolation we have now is that we're 0-0," said Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer, who was sacked four times and has yet to produce a touchdown.

"There's no excuses when you play like that," said Coach Bud Grant. "When you play as bad as we played and have a team execute as well as Kansas City did, it's going to show up in the score."

In four games, Minnesota has managed only 19 points — one touchdown, thrown by John Reaves, and four field goals.

Until now, Minnesota hadn't gone winless in pre-season since going 0-5 in 1961, its first season.

The Chiefs, who had the second-worst record in the NFL last season, rushed for 186 yards. But it was their passing game that destroyed the Vikings.

Mike Livingston started for Kansas City and completed eight of 10 passes for 96 yards and an 18-yard TD toss to Larry Dorsey.

Rookie Steve Fuller played the second half and connected on eight of 10 with two touchdowns — a nine-yarder to Tony Samuels, and one of 16 yards to Mike Williams on a field soaked by three days of rain.

"I never expected it to be this easy, but the footing was terrible and the receivers definitely had the advantage," said Livingston.

Kramer hit on 14 of 23 passes for 158 yards before being replaced by John Reaves in the fourth quarter. Kramer got the Vikings into scoring position only once, and then kicker Rick Danmeier shanked a 34-yard field goal attempt.

Grant, who has had only two losing seasons since taking over the Vikings in 1967, found a glimmer of hope.

"The good news is that we're the leading point blocking team in the NFL," he joked. "Make a story of that."

The Vikings blocked two of Jan Stenerud's extra point tries and a third failed when the snap from center was fumbled by Fuller.

The contest kicked off the final weekend of exhibition contests, giving each coach one last look at his team in game action before next Monday's roster cut from 50 players to 45.

Action continues tonight with Cleveland at Washington, Philadelphia at Miami, Detroit at Baltimore, Houston at New Orleans, New England at Denver, and San Francisco at Seattle.

On Saturday, it will be Chicago at St. Louis, Tampa Bay at Cincinnati, the New York Jets against the New York Giants, Atlanta against Green Bay at Milwaukee, Wis., Buffalo at Oakland, Pittsburgh at Dallas and San Diego at Los Angeles.

Juniors Tie New Bern

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department's Junior Tennis Camp tied with New Bern, 13-13, in matches for first place in the Harbor Town Racquet Club Junior Invitational Thursday.

North Green Country Club of Rocky Mount took second with ten match wins.

Kevin Fisher and Mike Herrin of Greenville were undefeated for the day with five and four wins, respectively. Other match winners for Greenville included Susan Taylor, Laura Vincent, Martha Taylor, Virginia White and Elizabeth White.

Pant-HERS To Start Practice

BETHEL — Volleyball practice will begin Monday at North Pitt High School.

Practice will get underway in the gym at 7:30 p.m. All participants must attend each practice, according to Coach Gail Stanfield.

STAIN or PAINT?

Cabot's STAINS

Undecided whether to stain or paint? Perhaps this will help: Stains are more economical than paint... they cost less, are easier to apply, require less maintenance; stains will not crack, peel, or blister; stains offer unique color effects in a wide color range... enhance the beauty of wood grain; stains preserve the wood by penetrating deeply. For building or remodeling, specify trouble-free Cabot's Stains, the original stains and standard for the nation since 1877.

Pirates Hold Full Scrimmage

East Carolina's football team scrimmaged for two and a half hours Thursday night under the watchful eye of coach Pat Dye with the younger players receiving a great deal of his attention.

Early in the first period of the scrimmage, Cleve Bryant, quarterback coach from the University of North Carolina, was spotted in the stands, and asked to leave, according to several assistant coaches who recognized him.

"I would have liked to have worked the first offense a whole lot more than we did," Dye said. "But we had to get the young players to come along because some of them will be playing this fall."

"There's no question that there were some good things out there tonight, but at the same time I'm glad that we weren't playing Western Carolina."

"We know now, or will after we watch the films anyway, who will be the players that we will start the season playing with against the Catamounts. I was impressed with the hitting I saw."

"I'm a little concerned about our conditioning. It showed a little in this hot weather. I hope we have some more hot dates soon. The ball was slick and we mishandled it a lot, but the defense caused some of that, too."

"I thought the defense was good against the running game and rushed the passer well. We had four interceptions, too."

The Purple team, again with all the first unit players on both offense and defense, followed up its 49-7 win from Saturday with a 39-0 result in the Ficklen Stadium drill Thursday.

Quarterback Leander Green scored on a seven-yard run. The Pirates added a run of 82 yards by fullback Theodore Sutton and a 50-yard pass from Green to tight end Billy Ray Washington for the next scores. Marvin Cobb, Jesse Hilton and Willie Swinson scored on one-yard bursts to post the final scores.

Split end Vern Davenport caught four passes for first downs, all in the first half. The interceptors were strong safety Ruffin McNeill, cornerbacks Charlie Carter and Freddie Jones and linebacker Chuck Jackson.

Christians Face Hard Life In Part Of World

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Christians are having a tough time carrying on their work in many regions of the world, according to reports coming into U.S. church offices.

Pressures are said to have tightened in areas of Africa, South America, the Middle East and particularly in Asia.

An "ominous trend" is evident in certain Asian countries, says United Methodist Bishop Roy C. Nichols of Pittsburgh.

A recent appeal from the National Christian Council of Pakistan expressed "deep consternation" at policies denying jobs, political and civil rights to Christians in that mainly Moslem country.

In India, where Christians are only a 3 percent minority of the mainly Hindu population, an anti-conversion law is being applied in some provinces and is under consideration by the federal Parliament.

"Christianity in the country is being slowly but systematically suppressed," Roman Catholic Bishop George Anathil of Indore told an ecumenical consultation there last spring.

He said the proposed new law has the "aim of permanently preventing us from testifying to our faith."

Indonesia, where everyone is virtually required to espouse some religion or be considered a communist conspirator, has been fully open to Christian missions but lately the picture has darkened.

About 100 missionaries working there for five years reportedly have been notified their visas would be renewed only for six months.

Also, recent Indonesian government edicts, if strictly enforced, would prohibit evangelizing anyone who claims a different religion, and require that foreign missionaries be replaced by nationals in two years.

In Vietnam, churches still are functioning, but under tightening restrictions by the communist regime, reports a Church World Service delegation that visited there.

In the central African state of Burundi, 52 missionaries, Protestants and Roman Catholics, were expelled this summer on charges of engaging in anti-government activities. "Preaching politics," a government spokesman said.

In Mozambique, where many Christians had backed the struggle that led to independence in mid-1975, the Marxist administration has been carrying on a campaign against the churches.

The reprisals seemed particularly directed at Roman Catholic leaders, who earlier had demanded an end of "arbitrary detentions" and other interference.

Reports from Ethiopia tell of continuing persecution, particularly of the ancient Ethiopian Orthodox Church which has 11 million members. In certain areas, churches reportedly have been looted and closed and Christians ordered to recant their faith as part of a "cultural revolution."

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, August 24, 1979—11

In Iran, where most missionaries pulled out during the tumultuous upheaval that replaced the government, only a few have managed to resume work there.

Scriptures selected by The American Bible Society

Happier than other children most of the time.
Sadder than other children some of the time.
Kathy's emotions always seem gigantic to us.
Because she is ours!
That's why we're giving her a Truth to live by.
A Faith to fall back on — and go ahead again.
A church that is home on Sundays,
A cherished center of life every day.

OUR DOCTRINAL STANDARDS—Our first and final rule for all doctrine, faith and practice is God's Holy Word, the Bible. We believe the Bible is the written Word of God, without error in the original manuscripts, and of infallible and divine authority in all matters of faith and practice. Therefore, all of our teaching and preaching is from the Bible.

OUR CHURCH'S VISION—All of our teaching and preaching is centered in the Bible. We believe God's Word provides the answers to today's situation, just as it did 2000 years ago. Just as man breaking God's laws disrupts the ecological balance, so man breaking God's spiritual laws upsets man's relationship with other men and God. Submission to God's Word, the Bible, is the key to resolving these problems.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — BROILING, STICKY DOG DAYS ANNOY BRISK CITY PEOPLE.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: U equals G

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

CENTER STAGE — Angela Davis sits center stage Thursday at the opening of the 22nd annual convention of the Communist Party U.S.A. at Detroit's Cobo Hall, as delegates from some 35 Communist parties, listened to tape-recorded greetings from Gus Hall, hospitalized leader of the party. Hall is expected to be the party's 1980 presidential candidate with Davis as his running mate. (AP Laserphoto)

Three Traffic Mishaps Here

An estimated $5,750 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police Thursday.

Heaviest damage, according to officers, resulted from a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Hooker Road and Arlington Drive, about 5 p.m.

Drivers involved in the collision were identified as Patricia Dewey Purvis of 213A Stancill Dr., Lindsay Victor Beddard of 2511 South Memorial Dr., and Anne Melvin Dudleck of Oakmont Square Apts.

Officers, who charged Ms. Dudleck with failing to yield the right of way, estimated damage at $1,300 to the Purvis car, $1,200 to the Beddard truck, and $1,800 to the Dudleck vehicle.

Cars driven by Michael Edward Finney of Greenville and Willie Siles Edwards of 1402 East Wright Rd., collided about 12:35 p.m. at the intersection of Third and Cadillac Streets, causing $500 damage to the Finney car and $300 damage to the Edwards auto.

Investigators reported a three-vehicle mishap about 7:50 a.m. on Evans Street, 30 feet South of the 13th Street intersection involved trucks driven by Leslie Dalton Nobles of Winterville and David Patrich Bundy Jr. of Winterville, and a car operated by Tina Maria Walls of Winterville.

Damage from the mishap was set at $500 to the Bundy truck and $150 to the Walls car.

Police said no damage resulted to the truck driven by Nobles.

12-Year-Old Ordered To Pay Worm Sales Tax

By TRUDY TYNAN
Assisted Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — As far as non-voting 12-year-old Jody Gerard is concerned it's "taxation without representation."

New York state's tax sleuths caught the pint-sized entrepreneur selling fishing worms dug out of his back yard, and forced him to remit 64 cents in uncollected sales taxes.

"It cost him 50 cents for the bank check," the boy's mother, Lynette Gerard, said.

Tax department spokesman Howard Brock said Thursday, "We're not embarrassed, we're proud. We followed routine procedures."

Jody's troubles began at the breakfast table one morning in mid-July, when he received a certified letter from the state Department of Taxation and Finance informing him the worms he was peddling for 35 cents a dozen were "tangible personal property" subject to 7 percent sales taxes.

If he didn't cough up the back tax due in 20 days, the letter said, the state would take action.

"He was sick for a week. Migraine. He thought they were going to come and take away his bicycle and his dinghy for the taxes," Mrs. Gerard said.

"I was scared," Jody acknowledged.

Finally the Gerards located the woman in the department's Albany office who had signed the form letter, and Jody got on the telephone.

They talked for a bit and finally she asked him how old he was.

"Twelve," Jody said.

There was a long pause.

After a week of consulting lawyers and plotting its course, the department dispatched two men from Albany to tiny Eddyville in the Catskill Mountains to audit Jody's pencil-written books.

"It's taxation without representation," Jody said he protested.

But, inevitably, he paid.

Officials had no estimate of how much time and money it cost the state of New York to collect.

"We don't have people out looking for lemonade stands," Brock asserted. "Someone complained so we sent out a form letter...We didn't know it was a 12-year-old boy. If we had, we would have handled it differently."

How?

"I don't know," Brock said. "It was the first case of its kind."

The tax department has assigned someone to help Jody, who suffers from dyslexia and has trouble reading, fill out his quarterly reports, which grow more complicated as business gets better.

When word got out about his taxes, Jody said the competition closed shop. Now, his sales are up to an average of $1.50 a day.

And Jody says he is even considering franchising his operation by letting all the other little worm-sellers in Eddyville operate under his license — for a modest cut in the take.

Annual Party

The annual Back To School Ice Cream-Frisbee Party sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will be held Monday, August 27 from 6:30 to 8 p.m. at three recreation sites — Elm Street, West Greenville, and South Greenville.

Children in kindergarten through grade six are invited to attend at any one of the three centers. The event will include an ice cream party, frisbee contests, and other activities.

Farmville Leaf Mart Volume Up Thursday

FARMVILLE — Volume on the Farmville market was heavy Thursday. Offerings consisted mostly of leaf and cutter grades. Non-descript and primings have increased in volume for the past two sales days.

Grade for grade prices remained steady. A large volume of green tip grades was responsible for a slight decrease in price averages compared with the previous sales day.

Stabilization receipts accounted for 7.27 percent of sales, and Stabilization has shown some gain for the past two days compared to Monday and Tuesday sales days.

The Farmville market Thursday sold 734,275 for $2,066,468 for an average of $145.24 per 100 pounds.

To date the market has sold 11,267,225 pounds for $15,592,669 for a season average of $138.40 per 100 pounds.

Remodel And Expand Bridal Shop Facility

Annie's Brides Beautiful, a bridal shop specializing in wedding fashions and wedding consultation services, has recently remodeled and expanded its operation.

Located on Arlington Boulevard in Greenville, Annie's Brides Beautiful is the largest shop of its kind in eastern North Carolina.

Coincident with its expansion, the shop is completing its first decade of business, and begins its eleventh year on September 1, 1979.

The extension program makes it possible for the shop to offer a more complete selection of bridal gowns, attendant's and mother's wear, and gowns for rehearsal. It has also added a greater range of tuxedo rentals, and has expanded its line of sportswear, evening wear and clothes for the honeymoon.

Gospel Sing On Sunday Evening

There will be a gospel singing at St. Matthew's Church Sunday at 7:30 p. m. in behalf of St. Luke.

Featured will be the Vines Sisters, the Pugh Sisters and the Southern Jubilees.

Monday the Rev. Hattie M. Cobb will preach at Bethel Chapel, accompanied by the Senior Choir. The pastor, the Rev. Clifton Gardner, invites the public.
