A regular Meeting of the Poe Literary Society was held in the auditorium on Feb. 25, 1922. The meeting was called to order by the president. The roll was called and the minutes read and approved. There were no reports from the different committees.

The president reported that they had decided to have the debate mar. 11, if it was not changed for the junior and senior reception.

Miss Thomas reported that she would debate if she could possibly manage it.

Miss Tapp asked that if anyone found any address for getting debating material to please let her know.

The president said she had not received any notice from the Lanier Society as to which side they had taken in the coming debate.

The president appointed Alice Penny to prepare the Society notes to go in the Y. W. C. A. handbook.

Katherine Tripp, Mildred Lyon and Louise Whichard were appointed to write the cards announcing the play, and place on the teachers tables.

The program consisted of the play: Casket Scenes from Merchant of Venice. It was thoroughly enjoyed by the society.

After the play and adjournment of the society, we were called back the president. A letter was read from the Lanier Literary Society in which they
