There was a call meeting of the Poe society in the Y. W. C. A. Hall Monday morning Mar, 20, 1922 for the purpose of practicing the songs for the night of the debate and to hear the debaters say their debates and to give them practice. It was decided that the whole society should wear red and white caps the night of the debate. It was also decided that we would use paper roses that night instead of real ones. The president appointed Louise Whichard as chairman and Clara Grissom and Lillian Paul as assistants of the committee for nominating Marshals. There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

A regular business Meeting of the Poe Society was held in the Auditorium March 25, 1922. The meeting was called to order by the president. It was moved and carried that the minutes and roll call be omitted. There were no reports from the different committees.

The president thanked the girls for their part in working for the debate. She also urged the members to attend the recital to be given by Miss Katherine Fahnstock.

Miss Bell suggested that we keep on having debates and not stop just because the debate between the Societies was over. Miss Cook offered to get some queries from Chapel Hill for us to debate on. Miss Henessee stated that she already had some that the society could use.

Miss Collins made a short talk. Miss Whichard, the chairman of the committee for nominating Marshalls,
