

ADJUSTABLE ROLLING CHAIR.

269 D. L. R.

The above illustration shows the divided independent leg rest chair, and differs from the previously described chair in that the leg rest is divided into two sections, both capable of being raised and lowered independently of one another at any desired angle. The sections can also be lengthened according to length of limb of the patient. This latter feature makes it particularly desirable for large patients.

Springs, as well as the other devices, can be attached to this chair, if desired.
