SGA To Vote On Senate Plan Monday

This week the SGA proposed a new plan for the association. The proposal is for a senate system rather than the Representative system now in use. As noted in the following Student Senate proposal, there will be only 35 members. This number is comparatively smaller than the present total since the new plan will omit officers of the respective clubs. Next Monday night, March 24 the association will vote on the following proposal, and it is requested that all members be present.

Student Senate Proposal
The membership of the Senate shall be as follows:
1. The President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and Historian.
2. The four class Presidents.
3. The President of each dormitory.
4. One day student representative.
5. Six Standing Committee Chairmen.
6. One Parliamentarian to be appointed by the President with the approval of the Executive Council. (He will have a seat but not a vote).
7. One SGA Reporter who shall be elected by the Senate (Will have a seat but not a vote).

College Union Sponsors Show

In cooperation with the various organizations on campus, the College Union is presenting a gala Spring Carnival April 24. Each organization will have a booth for money making purposes and the College Union is offering a door prize which will be kept a secret until Carnival week.

Operating a cotton candy machine and selling home made candy will be the Lutheran Club booth. The Wesleyan Foundation, the Methodist students on campus, are going to sell ham biscuits.

Gamma Theta Upsilon geography honor fraternity, is going to sell popcorn and the YWCA is going to sell hotdogs and pies.

Art Club members will make money by selling handmade enamel earrings and other jewelry. APO fraternity will have toy car races.

Lambda Chi Alpha will sponsor a pie throwing contest while the Canterbury Club will have a contest of throwing hoops on girls legs. The Woman's Recreation Association will have a contest for throwing pine cones into a stump.

Mocking the faculty in the ping pong room will be the Newman Club members. In the television room the YMCA will have a French Cafe with waiter service and dancing.

Kappa Sigma Nu will have a penny pitching contest and the Science Club will have a balloon dart throwing contest.

Sponsoring a cake walk will be the Library Club. The Phi Omicron will be selling cake slices.

12. Two advisors (Faculty)
Total: 38 members
35 voting members (President votes only in case of tie).

Executive Council
Members: President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Historian, Editor of Buccaneer, Editor of East Carolinian, Chairman of Men's Judiciary, Chairman of Women's Judiciary.

Budget Committee
Composed of: Treasurer, Chmn.; Assistant Treasurer, Secretary; Three members from Senate, Two students (not on Senate). Two advisors, (No members from Executive).

Choir Praised Following Tour

The East Carolina College Choir continues to receive plaudits following its winter tour of Eastern North Carolina and Tidewater Virginia communities.

Under the direction of Dr. Carl Hjortsvang, the choir appeared in nine concerts between February 23 and 26, including the "home" concert on the college campus.

The itinerary included concerts in Robersonville, Windsor, Cradock, Va., high school, O. F. Smith high school in South Norfolk, Va., Mount Vernon Baptist Church in Richmond, Va., Hopewell, Va. high school, Prince George, Va. high school, and Tarboro high school.

Miss Lillian M. Burch, acting principal of the Hopewell High School, wrote Dr. Hjortsvang that "everyone attending this program would like to hear the East Carolina College choir again next year." and J. J. Booker, Jr., principal of Cradock high school noted:

"You have an excellent group and they perform with such finesse I know you cannot but be proud of their fine work. This type of program is stimulating to high school youths and I am sure your group enjoyed the experience.

"You are to be commended for the fine work you are doing. The performance this year, in my opinion, is far superior to those in the past."

"More programs of this kind should be presented to young people on high school campuses," observed Principal S. Belches, of the Prince George high school.

Pittman, Shumaker

Serve As Co-chairmen 'Carousel' Production

Work is underway for the spring production of "Carousel," April 15, 16, and 17. "Carousel" is being produced by the SGA under the leadership of the production committee which is headed by Linwood Pittman of Rocky Mount and Ralph Shumaker of Grier, South Carolina as co-chairmen. Both of these people have seen much action in musicals in the past.

Ralph plays the virtuous Sir Galahad in "Connecticut Yankee." He has been a member of the chorus in "Brigadoon" and "Oklahoma." He headed the production of "Connecticut Yankee" as chairman of the production committee. Ralph, a senior music major, plays the low-down Jigger Gragen in this year's production of "Carousel." He also worked as a member of the production committee last year.

"Carousel," like "Oklahoma," is one of the favorites of the Rogers and Hammerstein musicals. It contains many beautiful and popular songs, such as "You'll Never Walk Alone," "If I Loved You," "June Is Busting Out All Over," and "This Was a Real Nice Clambake."

Music Festival Begins Tomorrow

The North Carolina Music Educators Association is sponsoring the annual eastern division of the North Carolina Music Contest-Festival to be held here Friday, March 21, and Saturday, March 22.

This eastern division consists of bands, choral groups, and piano students from both junior high and high school.

The judges for the choral groups will be Lew Lewis, High Point College, High Point, North Carolina, Nancy Staley, City Schools, High Point, and John Hanks, Duke University, Durham.

Paul Brown, Building of Education, Portsmouth, Virginia, will judge the band groups. Helping him in the decisions will be Clyde Duvall, City Schools, Norfolk, Virginia, and Frank West, Davidson College.

Piano judges will be Robert Darnell, Woman's College, Greensboro, and Jonathan Sweat, Elon College, Elon, North Carolina.

It is the story of Billy Bigelow, the carousel barker, and Julie Jordan who lives in a small New England fishing village. It is a beautiful love story based on Frederic Molnaire's play "Lilliom."

Alumnus' Play To Be Produced By EC Playhouse

The East Carolina Playhouse will carry an original play by Lloyd Bray on an alumnus of the Playhouse and East Carolina College, to the Regional State Drama Festival in Goldsboro and State Drama Festival in Chapel Hill. The play won the Pearl Steetzer Deal award for the best original play with a religious theme. The award is presented annually by the Carolina Dramatic Association.

The play, directed by Larry Craven and A. W. Caudill, is a story of the "Flash Gordon" generation of servants who are concerned with the "man upstairs" the "Last Supper." Into this situation the author has projected a subtle, but persistent, intrusion of spiritual awareness. In the foreseeable future certain forces in contemporary society become magnified in importance to the detriment of Christian values.

For the Greenville Fine Arts Festival the East Carolina Playhouse will present a modern version of a Japanese play "Hanjo" by Yukio Mishima translated by Donald Keene. The cast includes Alice Ann Horne as Jitsuko Honda, a spinster, Gwen McClamrock as Hanako, a mad girl, and Tom Hall as Yoshio, a young man. Dr. J. A. Withey will direct the play which will be presented on Thursday, March 27, in Shepherd Memorial Library at 7:30 p. m.

Shirley Dixon will direct an original one act play by Maywell Williams. The play "Tribulation" will be presented this spring in the outdoor theatre.

Juniors, Seniors To Converge For Annual High School Day

Juniors and seniors from more than one-hundred high schools throughout North Carolina will converge on campus April 4 to attend the 15th annual High School Day. This is the last year that this event will be held in the spring; next year it will occur during the fall and will be for high school seniors only.

According to Dr. Ed J. Carter, chairman of the High School Day committee, activities have been planned to give the visitors a glimpse of the various phases of college life.

The High School Day program will open in Wright Auditorium with a program featuring special music by the college choir, band, and orchestra. The main address of the morning session will be delivered by President J. D. Messick, and will concern the importance of continuing education beyond the high school level.

Following the program in Wright, the group will attend a Military Review on the athletic field sponsored by the AFROTC.

After a chicken barbecue lunch, the visitors will attend a series of convocations being held in the different departments. Department heads will be available for counseling the individual visitors who are making their vocation choices.

Style Show

The Home Economics Department will feature a style show in Austin Auditorium during the afternoon. The show will be presented by fifty or more high school girls from the eastern part of the state, modeling clothes of their own designing.

A dramatic production by the East Carolina Playhouse will be another feature of the day. At the same time physical education activities will be offered at the gym, and our visitors will attend the ECC-Atlantic Christian baseball game.

Throughout the day the Northeastern District Science Fair will be on exhibit in Flanagan Building. Awards to the district winners will be announced in an afternoon ceremony. There will also be Educational exhibits in the various departments.

Installation Of Closed-Circuit Television Now In Progress

Installation of closed-circuit television at East Carolina College is now in progress, and equipment is expected to be ready for use in the program of instruction by April 15, or earlier, Vice President Leo W. Jenkins has announced.

TV instruction will begin this spring with professors and students participating on an informal, experimental basis, he explained. A more extensive program of instruction by television is being planned for the summer session and the fall quarter of 1958, he said.

A sum of $75,000 was appropriated by the state to purchase the equipment. East Carolina College was selected as the state institution where the program of instruction would be in operation for a period of two years. The Sarkes-Tarzan Co. is in charge of installation.

Programs will originate in the Joyner Library. Various classrooms in both the Austin and the Flanagan buildings will be used for classes in which instruction will be by television.

Both an engineer and a production coordinator will be appointed to take part in the program of educational television on the campus. Their duties will include assisting teachers to plan programs and use equipment to the best advantage.

East Carolinian, Dr. Jenkins said, will serve as an experimental point for teaching by television in courses on the college level. Work done on the campus here will also serve to give public school teachers and administrators an opportunity to observe closed-circuit television instruction and to come to a better understanding of the feasibility and advisability of the new methods and techniques which it offers.

Dr. Jenkins stated that among values of closed-circuit teaching is the fact that a great number of students can have the advantage of receiving instruction from the outstanding teachers in each department.

He also emphasized the fact that televised classes provide a "practicable way to make new, up-to-the-minute 'visual-information' materials available to all class groups precisely when needed." These classes provide also, he said, an easy way to show an entire class group, at one time, a sequence of precise manipulations occurring within a precise area of operations or something so small that, without television, it could be shown to only one or two at a time.

Notices

It has been announced by the college traffic department that too many people are using the one-way street immediately back of Austin as a two-way street. This particular street is one-way going west. If students continue to drive on this street in the wrong direction Chief Harrell will be forced to take further action.

In addition, Chief Harrell states that people are failing to obey "Stop Signs." If this continues, the individual will be cited as violating this rule and will pay a $2 fine.

Recently, traffic signs have been erected back of Erwin Hall stating "No Parking at Any Time." The only parking allowed back of the faculty dormitory is for faculty members living in that building. Students will not park in that area.

Costumes are needed for the Fifty-fifth Anniversary pageant, "I Serve." Mrs. Ruth Gardner is in charge of locating the costumes. Anyone who has any of the needed articles should contact her in Fleming Hall or by calling 9885. Her box number is 120.

Needed for the pageant are six 1908 styled dresses, nine white dresses and ten other dresses in 1910 style, 5 pair of bloomers in 1910 fashion, 5 work dresses and five bonnets as worn in 1917, and two street dresses in 1922 style.

Mendenhall, Jones Awarded Honors At FBLA Convention

At the Fourth Annual FBLA Convention at the Battery Park Hotel in Asheville, N. C., Bee Mendenhall treasurer of the campus chapter was elected state treasurer for 1958-59.

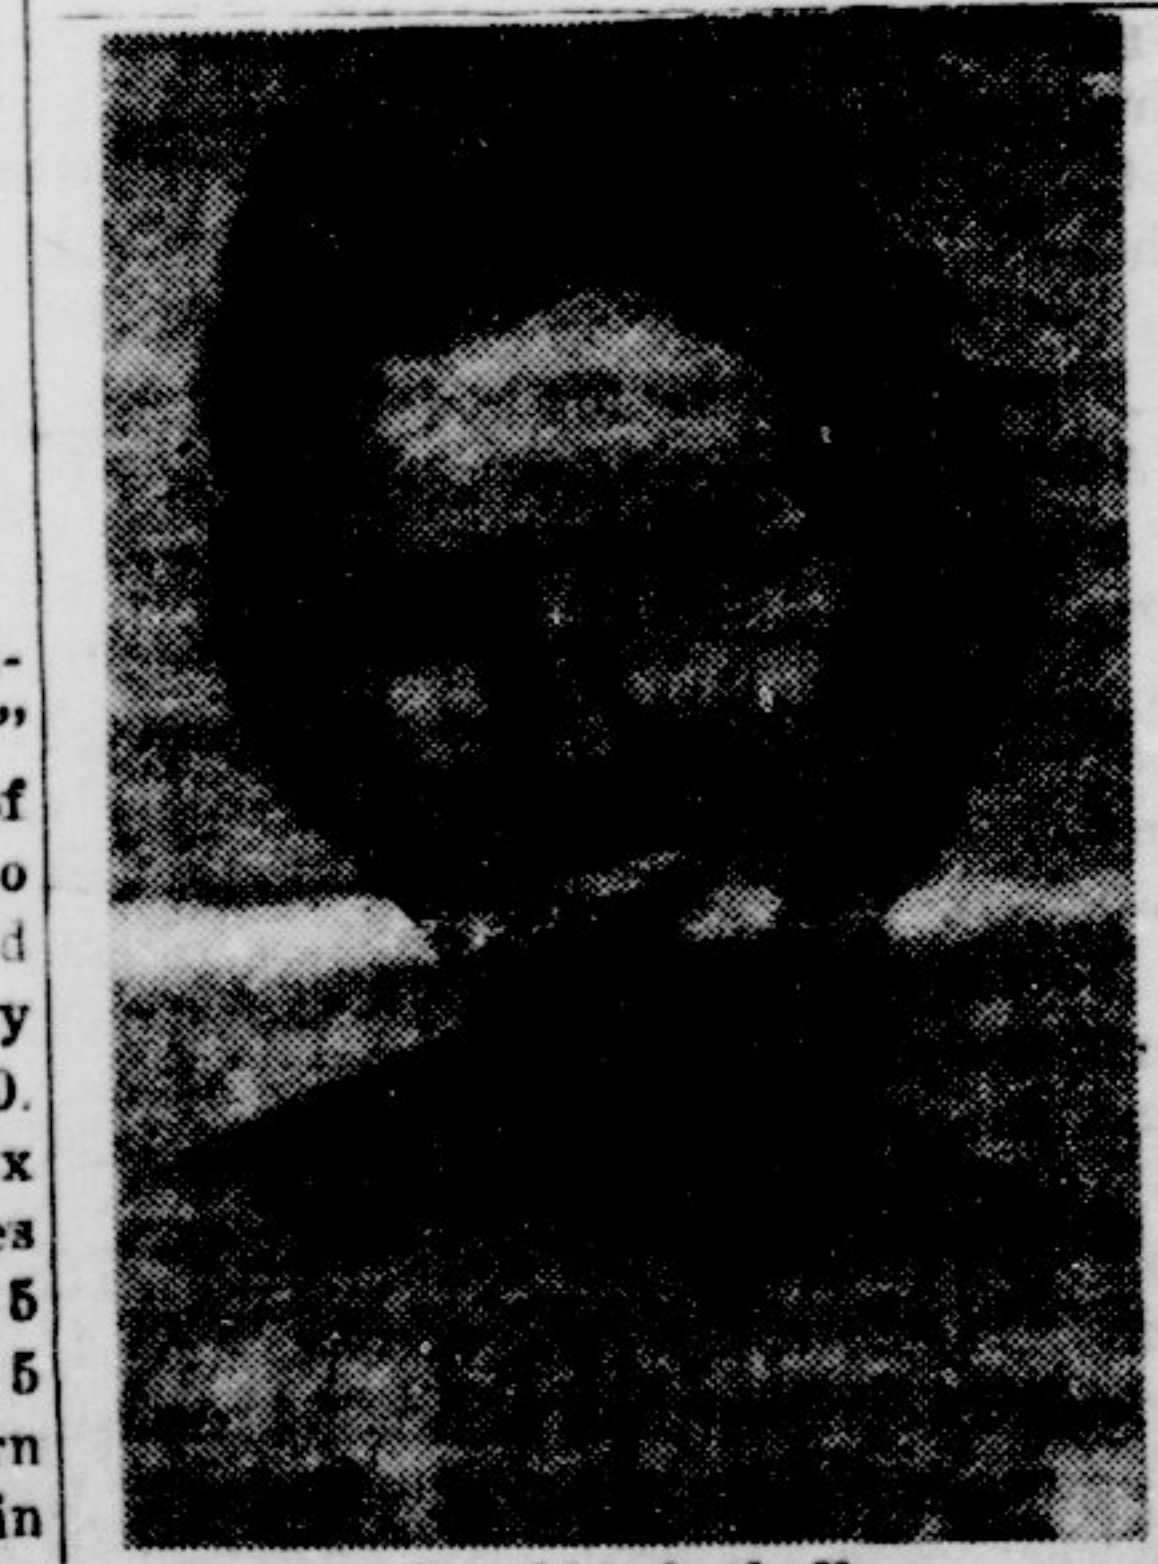

Sylvia Jones, campus president, from Kinston and Joseph Sicheloff of High Point College were selected as Mr. and Miss Future Business Executive.

Those attending the convention from ECC were Betty Daniels, Betty Clark, Arlene Schwab, Jimmy Wall, Council Jarman, Sylvia Uzzell, Edie Keel, Mary Lou Parker, Pat Hedgepath, Lou Lewis, Bee Mendenhall and Sylvia Jones.

Mr. Alton Finch, Miss Jane White, and Mr. N. L. Cameron of the Business Department are advisers for the ECC chapter. Mr. Alton Finch accompanied the group to the convention.

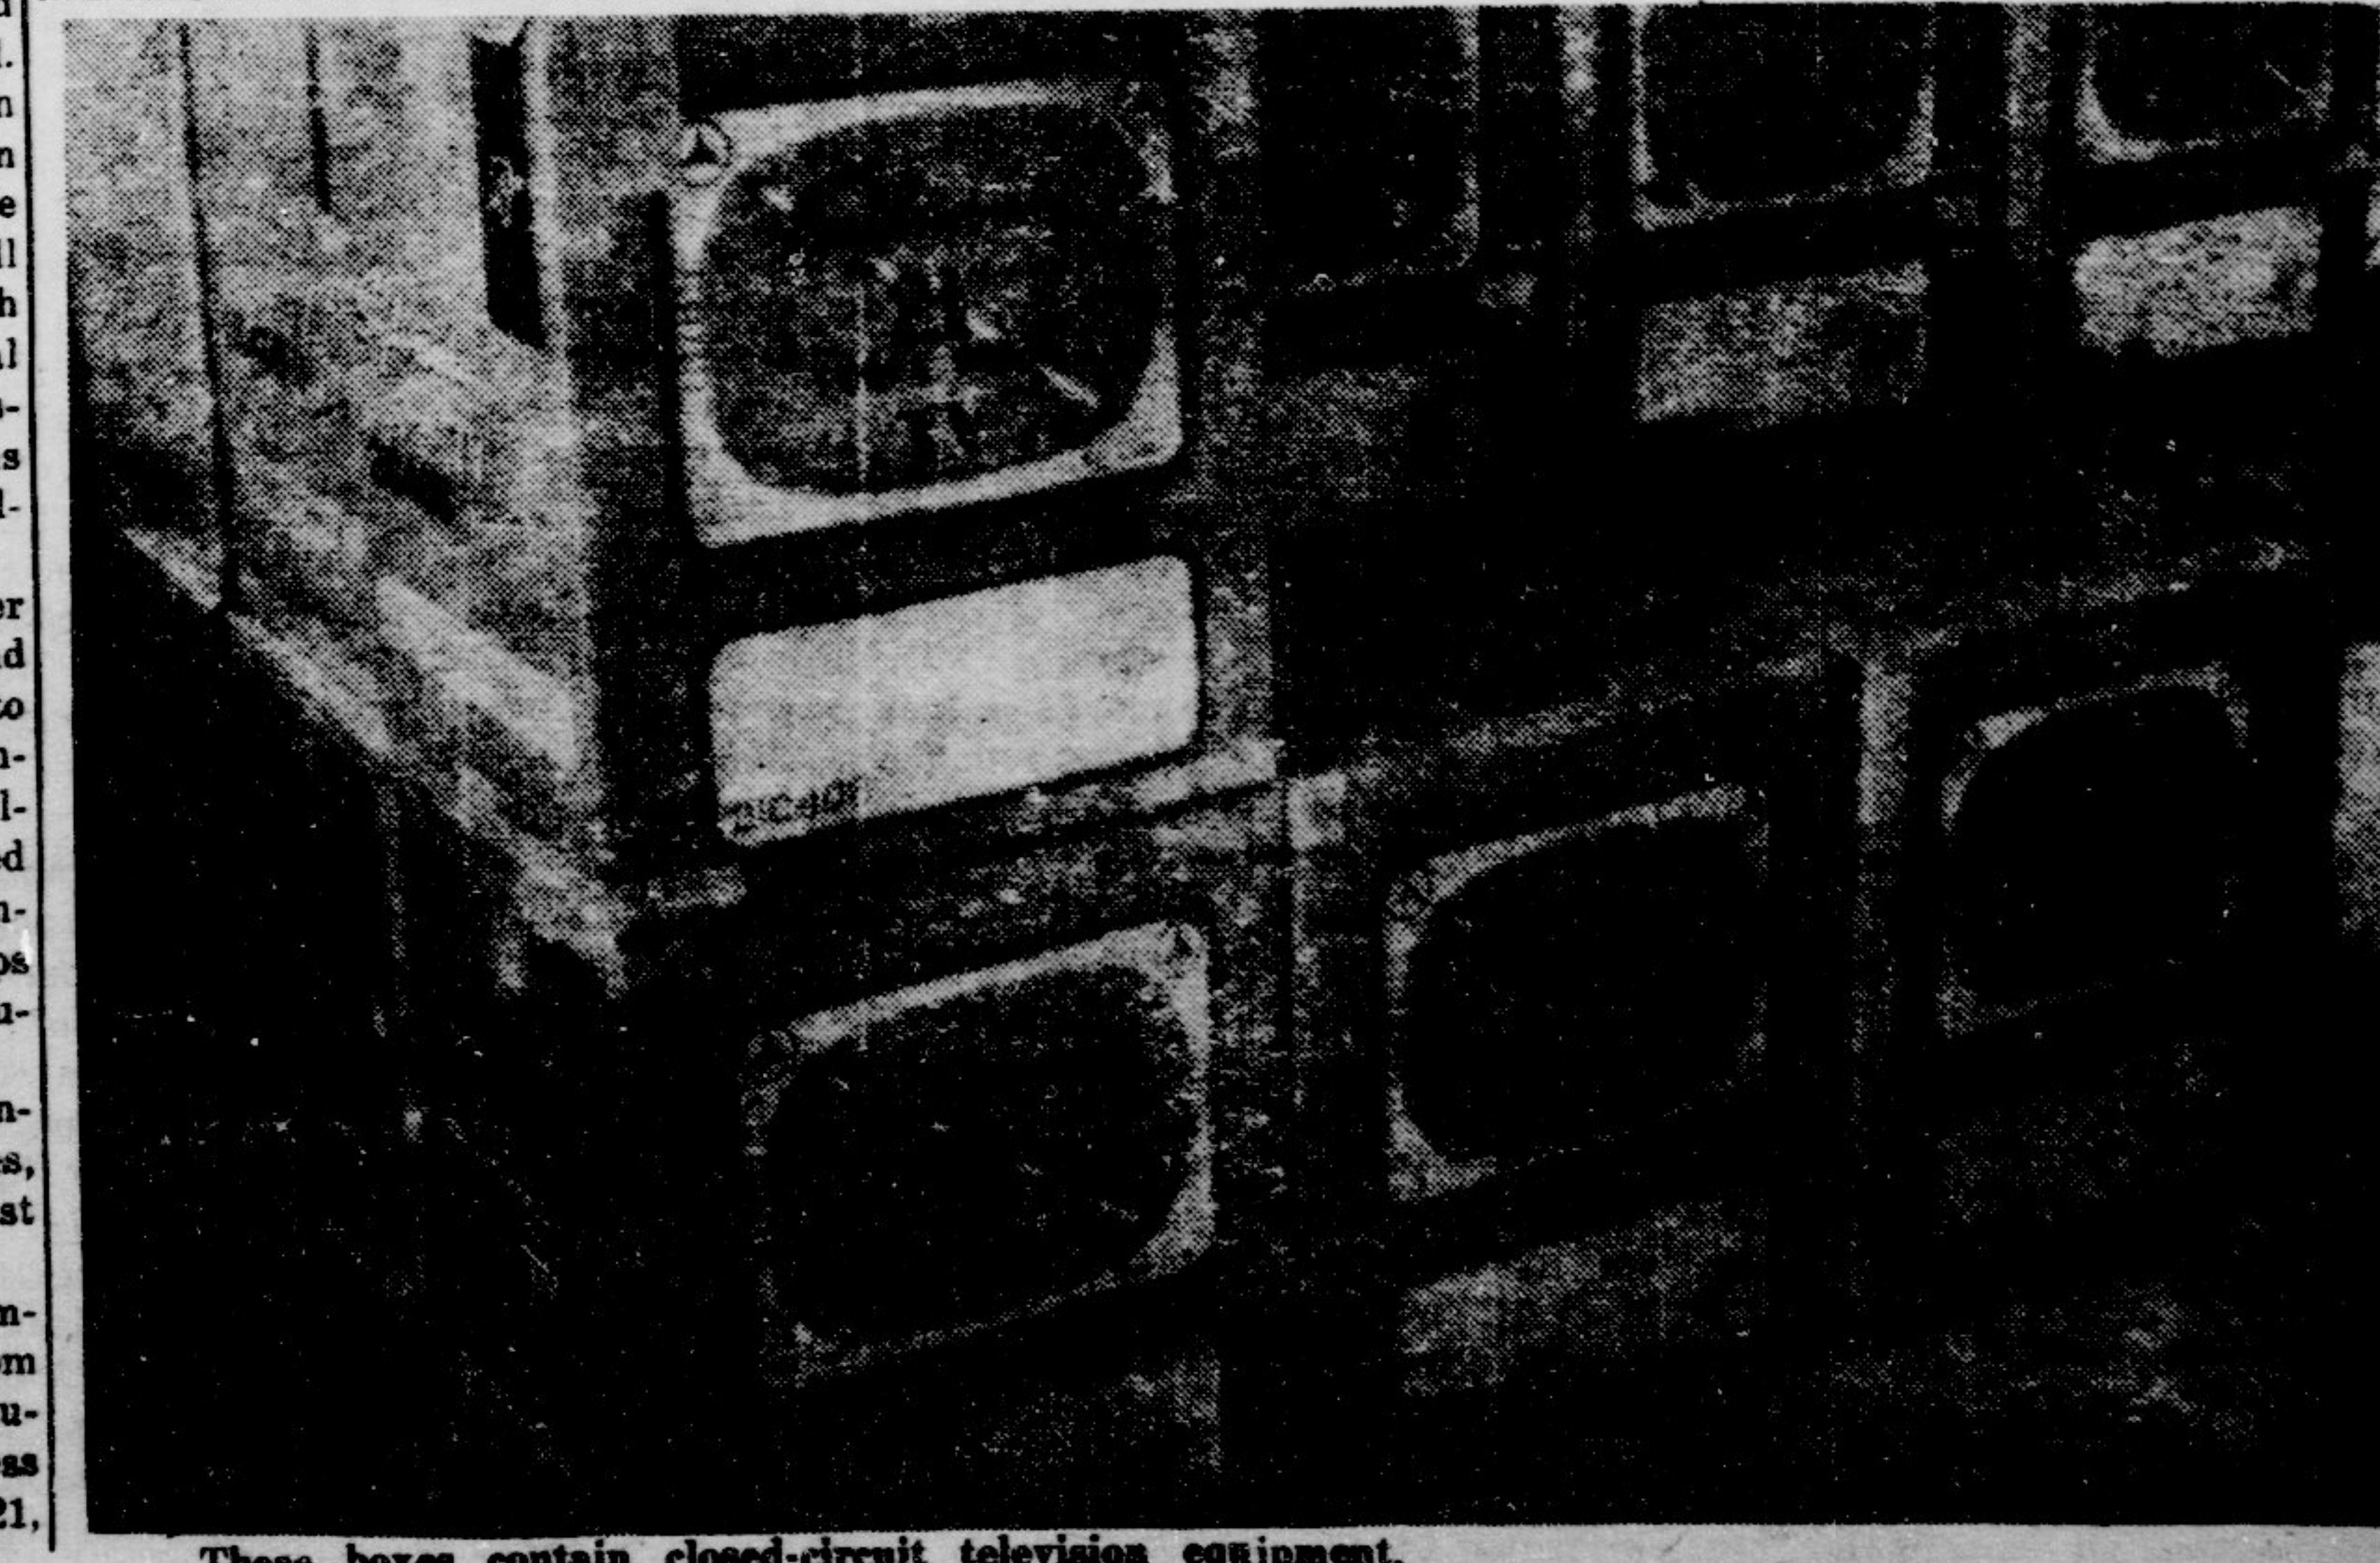

Dr. James L. White of the business department is state adviser for FBLA.

How Ike Stands Now!

By JAMES M. CORBITT

A short time ago, Americans across the nation read with mild amazement the unfavorable publicity received by President Eisenhower from the press for taking the Phoenix, Arizona route back to Washington from his Georgia vacation. As is commonly known now, the purpose of the detour was to allow Mrs. Eisenhower to visit a famous beauty-rest resort. The thing that astonished most readers about the incident, however, was neither the trip nor the purpose but, was instead, the way the press reacted to an event of seemingly minor importance.

However unimportant the incident might have been, one thing was clearly indicated by the reaction of the press: The reign of popularity that the President has enjoyed for so long is coming to an end. Not only is the decline noticeable with the nation's newsmen but with a growing number of American citizens as well.

Where did it all begin? What supplied the fuel to give it its snowball effect? It is difficult to pinpoint any single incident as the starting point. For the deep south, the spark may have been the calling of federal troops into Little Rock to enforce a Supreme Court decision that was already disliked. The ruling to ban segregation in public schools came during the Eisenhower Administration and many Southerners still hold him responsible for it.

In the midwestern and other farm states, the chief complaint has been and still is the lowering farm income coupled with the climbing cost of living. Until a few months ago, most of the blame for falling farm prices was placed on Secretary of Agriculture Benson's policies are still blamed, the people of these areas have now begun looking toward the President for help. They feel that Mr. Benson should be disposed of. The President has instead persistently acknowledged his faith in the Secretary at every opportunity and refuses to replace him.

The launching of Sputnik by Russia and the rising unemployment are other thorns in the President's side. Several other things have caused the anti-Eisenhower band wagon to grow. Some are of major significance; others are minor. Important or unimportant, they all point out the dire necessity for President Eisenhower to do everything within his power to replace the prevailing feeling of insecurity with a feeling of security, economy-wise and defense-wise, if he ever hopes to regain the respect and admiration of the American people that was once his.

Election Suggestions

"Apathy of the good makes possible the dynasty of the bad." We quote this in regard to SGA elections, for whether this is the case in this present election or not—it sets up such a possibility. Over at Appalachian, the newspaper ran an editorial last week titled: "Shall The Minority Rule?—More Interest In Politics Needed." Here at ECC, we agree. And we would like to take a few of their suggestions for your consideration. "We also suggest that the Junior Class name a nominating committee to study the prospects for president of the Student Government Association. We suggest that each class should select a nominating committee to offer a list of candidates for SGA positions and all other class officers. We suggest that every student take an active part in choosing class and campus leaders. We ask your support in gaining a majority opinion on the candidates for office. Let's put democracy to work." HOW ABOUT IT, ECC?

Editorially Speaking

We're happy to include as a portion of this column a letter from a former student who is now at UNC. We believe that her comments can be helpful to ECC.

It is with deep regret that the staff had to announce to the SGA president that we would be unable to come out a day early. Such things have to be planned weeks in advance and cannot be arranged on short notice. We wish to publicize the SGA elections—and announced at the SGA meetings earlier that students wishing to run for offices must contact the EAST CAROLINIAN no later than March 10 for advance publicity.

A surprise to some was the large turnout for the Vienna Choir Boys entertainment. Also we received remarks as to their wonderful reception here. All in all, we believe it was quite a success—and hope there will be more entertainments of the type to please our audiences.

For the information of the boys in Unstead who did not pick up their East Carolinian last week, circulation manager Trice explained that due to circumstances beyond control the papers were placed in Slay with a note that they were for both dorms. We have a few copies left.

Just for the record this year we entered the Columbia Scholastic Press Association scoring contest, although we did not send members to the convention in New York. We called New York and found that we had again received a rating of first place. This particular association has as a majority of its members high school newspapers, although it is divided into divisions and we have been entered in the Teachers College Division in the past for our rating. This year we attempted to please the student body rather than any judging organization. However, we are also entered in the Associated Collegiate Press contest and we are awaiting results of their judging. A third contest we entered this year for the first time—the Southern District Council of the American Newspaper Guild. Their winner of the collegiate journalism award will be announced at a later date.

I must admit that this is the first letter I've ever written to the editor of a newspaper. However, after reading the March 6 edition of the East Carolinian, I felt a sudden urge to do so.

Let me first comment on the coming SGA elections at East Carolina. I was very pleased to find that Mike Katsias had "thrown his hat in the ring." During my two years at ECC, I worked with Mike on many different committees and saw the enthusiasm with which he worked. I have never seen any greater interest shown. We always knew we could depend on him, and whenever there was anything to be done, we went to Mike. It's people like him who make a school great. The student body should deem it an honor to be able to cast a vote for him.

Secondly, let me refer to a section in your editorial about Carolina leading the way. This year I was fortunate enough to be elected to the legislature at UNC. It has been a unique experience and perhaps my most valuable one. There are people on the student legislature who I believe will someday be famous lawyers and perhaps even law-makers in the United States Senate or House of Representatives. Our latest bill, and one which, by the way, was just passed last night, involved putting a jury system into effect here at UNC. I was also lucky enough to be asked to serve on a procedures committee, which worked out the small, as well as the large details of the bill. What I'm getting around to is this—the entire bill dealt with our honor system. As you probably know, the honor system is the basis for "the Carolina way of life." In my opinion it's one of the primary reasons for Carolina's greatness. A person is on his honor not to lie, cheat, or steal. He is to report anyone he sees doing so. You can't imagine what a good feeling it is to be left in a classroom without a professor watching over you, or what a good feeling you have when you know your dorm room can be left unlocked at all times. You trust people, and they trust you.

East Carolina is growing. With growth comes change. Why not put the honor system into effect at ECC? The students can do it. It is my belief that someday soon they will see the need of it and will do something about it. It would never be regretted.

My best wishes to everyone. I really miss ECC.

Most sincerely, Diana Johnson, 317 Alderman, UNC Chapel Hill, N. C.

Letters

Letter to Editor: "In the last edition of the East Carolinian, I noticed where one of the candidates is advocating more ample parking, better student administration cooperation, a more lenient cut system, upper-class privileges, and strengthening of the national social fraternities. But I failed to see any advocacy of an "Honor System."

The above platform is a typical platform that every candidate has incorporated each year at ECC. I'm not degrading it, but I'm saying that the candidates are just using these bare essentials to win an election.

Last year in the Student legislature, the Honor System was brought to the floor and passed pending an indoctrination period. Thus far this year, I haven't heard of an indoctrination period, much less the Honor System.

Surely, a competent student that is running for the president of the Student Government Association should recognize the fact that ECC should have an Honor System. A system that can be enforced and respected by every mature student at ECC.

At the Medical College of Virginia, we have one of the best systems I've ever seen. Each student, having been under an Honor System in college, accepts it without question, and respects every word in the Honor Code. These students are happy to know that the professors and their fellow students trust them and their word. This means a great deal to an individual because he knows that he can be trusted in any of his endeavors.

The Dean's advisory Council, affiliated with the SGA instigated the Honor System last spring hoping that it would become a part, an integrated part, of ECC in prophetic growing prestige and tradition. A vote was taken, and over half of the student body voted in favor of it. To the candidate and students of ECC force the issue and stop running from it. Bring it up in the legislature and challenge your candidates to state pro or con on the issue in order to alleviate "on the fence" candidates.

ECC, my Alma Mater, gave me more than an education. This college gave me an insight into other intrinsic value such as honor and trust. And I hope to see in the near future an Honor System that will benefit ECC and each individual student.

Horace Rose Graduate class of 1957

I would like to announce my candidacy for the office of assistant treasurer in the SGA elections tomorrow. I would also like to have your support in my campaign.

I am a rising junior from Rockingham, N. C. and a business major. I am very much interested in the progress of the Student Government at East Carolina and if elected will do my utmost to represent the student body.

I hold no other offices at the present time and will strive to devote my time to the SGA and the duties of the assistant treasurer. I have about a "2" average and feel that my grades will reach the standards of those required.

Once again, I would like to ask your support tomorrow and would also like to thank my friends which have aided my campaign.

Yours respectfully, Charles "Bulldog" Dyson

Tours To Be Conducted In Cooperation With USSR For Americans

Following the recently signed cultural-tourism exchange treaty by President Eisenhower and the Soviet Ambassador, a series of Student and teacher tours have been arranged to Russia in cooperation with Intourist, the USSR government travel agency.

Each of the tours will be conducted by an American college instructor and will cover highlights of Europe, the Brussels' World's Fair as well as the historic cities of the Soviet Union. Members of the tours will have opportunities to meet their Russian student-teacher counterparts, to see the educational facilities, and to learn from personal observation the everyday life and ambitions of the Soviet Student.

The tour programs are economical priced and arranged only for students and teachers. Students who have been out of college for two years or less are eligible to join as well as students presently enrolled in college or senior high school.

The six scheduled conducted groups are privately organized and information may be obtained from authorized travel agents or from the sponsoring agent, the Maupin Associates of Lawrence, Kansas, one of the few Intourist contractual representatives in the United States.

'Cussin' N Discussin'

Our campus has been overwhelmed by a barrage of dignified visitors lately. The World Affairs Institute was fairly well attended, mainly because the students were required to go, and a great deal of attention was paid to everything except the programs. Students aren't interested in programs which they are forced to attend. In fact, we might as well face it—students aren't interested anyway. Let them wallow in their swaddling clothes a while longer.

It's an "affront to the individual liberty and privacy" stated the students of Woman's College at Greensboro in a resolution protesting the blanket search of rooms in New Guilford dormitory. Just who do these students think they are, anyway? Don't they realize that there is no such thing as "individual liberty and privacy" in a college? How do they expect the proper authorities to know if they are concealing bottles of vodka or dirty ashtrays in their rooms if the rooms aren't searched often? My goodness, these W. C. students are evincing quite radical tendencies! We don't mind people looking through our rooms, do we, girls?

For several years East Carolina students have had the privilege of staggering in glassy-eyed amazement through Dr. Martha Pingel Wolfe's classes. It is a well-known fact that she will be leaving us soon and her absence will be felt quite keenly. She is leaving a memento, though, entitled Catalyst, and those who are not familiar with it should become so. The poetry in Catalyst is extremely personal, giving insight into the workings of the poet's mind, and yet it has deep meaning for other minds which read and comprehend its depth.

Samuel Hoffenstein was a poet too. He wrote about all sorts of things. The totalling set often asks "Why?" Sammy will tell you . . . "Hope that springs eternal in the human breast, is fond of gin, Or Scotch or beer or anything Designed to help a hope to spring."

Farabee Urges Federal Aid Scholarship For Needy

Federal scholarships awarded on the basis of financial need and in all fields of study were urged by USNSA President, Ray Farabee in testimony presented today before the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare. Speaking for a majority of the undergraduate students enrolled in accredited four-year colleges, the student spokesman presented formal testimony at the request of the Committee which is conducting hearings on "science and education for national defense."

"The U. S. National student Association believes that federal assistance to college students is immediately necessary for our national defense and for the fullest development of the best minds in this country," Farabee stated.

He recommended that the scholarship program be bolstered by other forms of support "which cover both the needs of the college and the individual if we would insure this country of its most vital resource." He warned against any policy of "either-or," either aid to the individual or to the institution. Instead he asked for a sufficiently large scholarship program, along with assistance to institutions to aid in expanding faculty and facilities.

"The Federal Government would provide the appropriations," Farabee said in his prepared text for the Committee, "and would not in any manner have control of policy."

Referring to two specific bills before the Congress (S.3163 sponsored by Sen. H. Alexander Smith, R-N.J. and S.3187 sponsored by Sen. Lister Hill, D-Ala.) the 25-year old law student from the University of Texas pointed out that neither of these bills "totally restrict scholarship grants to one field of study, and yet we feel that the preference which would be given to science and mathematics would be an undesirable form of indirect control and would possibly divert qualified students to areas of study to which they were not best suited."

Questioned by Senator Yarborough (D-Texas) concerning the USNSA recommendation that students be free to use their Federal scholarship grants at any institution they chose and the subsequent possibility that the few "big-name" institutions would be overcrowded and the smaller schools neglected, Farabee pointed out that the proposed Federal grants would not be so large as to substantially build up a few schools in this manner and that the schools themselves would continue to limit the number of students they accepted on the basis of their ability to educate a certain number.

Both Senator Yarborough and Senator H. Alexander Smith, who sit on the Senate Committee, commended Farabee and the U. S. National Student Association for the work they are doing in the student community. Senator Smith said "I think you are making a most valuable contribution."

Students Make Parking Study

Question: What do you think they should do about the parking situation on campus?

Answer: Raymond Mills: It seems to me that the parking situation is becoming a problem, and the parking tickets, too. I don't think they are being quite just where they hand out parking tickets as they do. Students who drive in seldom have a place to park and if they park in the wrong place they get a ticket. There ought to be more day student parking places available and less parking tickets.

Barbara Lambert: There should be more parking space on this campus. It seems you get a ticket just about everywhere you park. Parking space should be added or fewer tickets should be given for illegal parking.

Dot Carrick: They should either increase the parking area or let the little men that hand out tickets get a bit of arm rest.

Phyllis Hearne: A larger parking area is needed if students are going to be allowed to bring their cars to school or either the parking area should be used specifically for dorm students.

Kay Overton: The parking facilities should be much larger. They should either be enlarged or tickets should not be given out so freely. I think that parking for dorm students should be given priority over parking for day students.

Ann Suggs: I feel that the parking situation on campus is in a bad state. There should be more space for the parkers who live in the dorm, and more parking space altogether. The tickets should not be given out so freely as they are.

The day of the meeting arrives and, as they enter his mother's house, he tells her that there is nothing to worry about. Then he adds: "Just one thing, darling. Straighten up a little." "I see you are not a gentleman," hissed the woman on the street corner as the wind swept her skirt over her head. "No," he replied, "and I see you aren't either." "Goodness, George, this isn't our baby. This is the wrong carriage." "Shut up. This is the better carriage." . . . "See the picture? See the nice young girl in the pink lace sitting under the magnolias and saying 'No thank yo'all, I don't want none of your mint julep.'" Southern Womanhood personified. And these are the traditions that we must keep.

There were speculations in the dorm. Speculations on politics and why only one candidate for the presidency. Speculations on the candidate's published and republished platform and speculations for and against the candidate.

Some young thing asked—"How about a girl running?" She was hoisted out of the room. A radical in the house. Maybe she has Red tendencies. Southern Womanhood in the presidency! Woman blushes, women must fold her lily-white hands and be lady-like not political. She is a China figurine on a dusty what-not. She is to be polished and shown off on occasions; she is not to be listened to—but smiled at. She is to decorate, to enhance, to be traditionalized but never to be heeded.

Southern Womanhood prominent in the politics of ECC! Never! She is not a hand-shaker but a hand-taker. She could never understand the delicate relationship between frats and presidents. Where and when would she caucus. She could not meet in the pool room after ten-thirty for this is not allowed.

Yet, in qualification and the American know-how, woman does not stand lacking in the necessary political characteristics. If she is not open like her men-folks she is quietly and sweetly malign. With brilliantly polished and evenly cut nails, she can tear into shreds the reserves of her opponents—the man-chaser who's after her guy, the steady who isn't steady anymore, that hussy with peroxide hair. Woman is innocently sincere while holding the knife ready if the act doesn't work. In my opinion, women are adequately suited for politics. And I should know—being Southern and a woman.

But Southern Womanhood should be sheltered. She should preside at teas and arrange flowers for the parlor. She should sit under the magnolias with downcast eyes. And Southern Womanhood at ECC is sheltered, cared for and put on the shelf with the other China figurines.

Pirates Sprout Beards

By KATHRYN JOHNSON

Have you observed the boys on campus who look as if they have thirty day shadows? Kinda makes one wonder how they're fixed for blades. The reason for this beard sprouting is the Pirate Jamboree at Nags Head April 22-27. As I was coming out of the College Union the other day I bumped into Roy Dennis. Man, he must have been cultivating his beard for a long time. Surely did look fierce . . . just like Blackbeard. On some of the boys the effect is quite good. Charlie Sioussat looks rather distinguished . . . reminds me of a great European scientist. The Sigma Rho Phi fraternity takes an active part in the beard growing and in the Jamboree. They sponsor a dance there during the week-end. Last year it was quite successful . . . as far as everyone's having a good time goes.

Speaking of Sigma Rho Phi, if you want to see what a bunch of boys working for a common cause can do, go take a look at their chapter room. The boys did all of the work themselves. I don't think a professional decorator could have done a better job. Most original are their curtains which are made of tow sack. They even have a television set on the week-end so that on Saturday night everyone can watch our hero Paladen.

Remember Margaret Starnes who was so active in the Playhouse her freshman and sophomore years here? She's at Carolina now and had a lead part in their production of "View from the Bridge," by Arthur Miller (Marilyn Monroe's hubby).

It really is a pleasure to have a class under Mrs. Mary Goodman in the English Department. Her clothes are so stylish, always in good taste, and her appearance is never less than impeccable. It's also a pleasure to pass Dr. Poindexter in the hall . . . do love to hear that Southern accent. Doesn't Coach Earl Smith remind you of Broderick Crawford? When Smith is explaining first aid methods I can imagine him on "Highway Patrol."

Remember the Azalea Festival isn't far off. Better save your money so you can cause this surely is going to be a dead place that week-end. Probably will look like a ghost town straight out of "Have Gun Will Travel." Old Ben Franklin must have been thinking about the Azalea Festival when he told the boys, "Women, Wine, Game and Deceit make the wealth small and the wants great."

Congratulations to our two new national fraternities which were formally initiated by fraternal officers. They are Theta Chi (formerly Phi Gamma Pi) and Lambda Chi Alpha (formerly Delta Sigma Rho). Lots of credit for this achievement goes to former presidents Gordon Robinson and Mike Katsias.

CAMPUS NOTES:

Carolyn Tripp Heads BSU

Carolyn Tripp, local Greenville girl, was elected president of the Baptist Student Union for the next academic year.

Carolyn, a rising senior and a primary education major, has been active in the BSU for three years. In reference to BSU Carolyn said, "I am grateful for the opportunities BSU has given me to continue my Christian growth while in college through service and fellowship. It is a wonderful privilege to accept this opportunity to serve as this organization's president."

Carolyn has been officers in Sunday School and the Baptist Training Union and this year she served as Enlistment Vice President on the BSU executive council. She is a member of the State BSU choir and will serve as its treasurer for the coming year.

Interested in campus and community activities Carolyn has been on the Day Student Council and a member of the ACE. She has been associated with the King's Daughters, an inter-denominational organization of Christian young women, for seven years. In 1955 she won the North Carolina scholarship for six weeks of studying arts and crafts in Chartauqua, New York. This summer she will use this training as director of arts and crafts at Moss Lake Camp, New York.

Ruth Turnage, a senior Home Economics major at East Carolina College had an article published in the March 1958 National Journal of Home Economics. This article, "What the Home Economics Club means to Me," first appeared in the magazine of the North Carolina Association of Future Homemakers of America.

To me, the East Carolina College Home Economics Club has been a doorway providing many opportunities to help me become a well-rounded individual," states Ruth in her article. She tells some of the activities of the Home Economics Club, such as making contributions to many organizations.

This article was based on a talk that she gave at a Home Economics departmental meeting in an attempt to challenge the group to become better club members and in turn become better people. In other words she told them they did not just help a club, the club helped them.

Ruth is now doing her student teaching at Junius H. Hose High School here in Greenville. "I really like it and plan to teach in North Carolina next year," says Ruth.

Winners of the 1958 National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament will be announced later in the Spring. East Carolina entered seven teams in the tournament sponsored by the National Association of College Unions.

North and South teams were Milton Collier and Zeke Coggin, Peggy Batchelor and Jack Baker, Bill Robertson and Al Colwell, Virginia Blanford and Burleigh Hill, Nancy Rogers and Gippy Whitehead, Grady Bailey and Carlton Adams.

East and West teams were Preston Fields and Pat Sawyer, Gus Manos and Pam Taylor, John Farmer and Barney Stratton, Kelvin Wood and Charlotte Woods, Jimmy Wall and Jean Duke, Bobby Conway and Marcia Forbes.

Members of the Robert H. Wright Chapter of the Student NEA, which was formerly FTA, are attending the State meeting in Asheville, N. C. The program began today and closes Saturday. Those attending are Coleman Gentry, newly elected President of the Student NEA; Jack Birmingham, treasurer; Elaine Smith, former vice president; Dwight Smith and Tanya Anderson, Mr. and Miss Future Teacher; and Clinton Davis, State Vice President.

On Wednesday night women from the Kinston Queen Street Methodist Church will visit the Methodist Student Center bringing with them a meal to be served to students at the center. At the supper will be Deaconess Nola Smea who will talk to all students who are interested in going into full-time Christian service. Following the supper the student center is sponsoring a movie, "Reply to Reality," which is to be shown at the Library Auditorium at 6:15 o'clock. Students of all denominations are invited to attend.

Members of the Beta Iota chapter of Gamma Theta Upsilon, honorary geography fraternity, conducted their initiation ceremony and dinner meeting on March 13 at the home of Dr. Robert E. Cramer, the fraternity adviser.

Before dinner, new members were initiated and admitted into the fraternity. They are Charles Boyd, Lawrence A. Brown, Roy J. Butner, Gayle L. Dunn, Beverly Durham, Betty L. Griffin, Donald R. Haskins, Robert N. Johnson, James H. Russ, James B. Slack, Dan Spain, Edward C. Stone, Jessie H. Swift, and Richard E. Young.

After the initiation the group enjoyed charcoal steaks prepared by Mrs. Cramer.

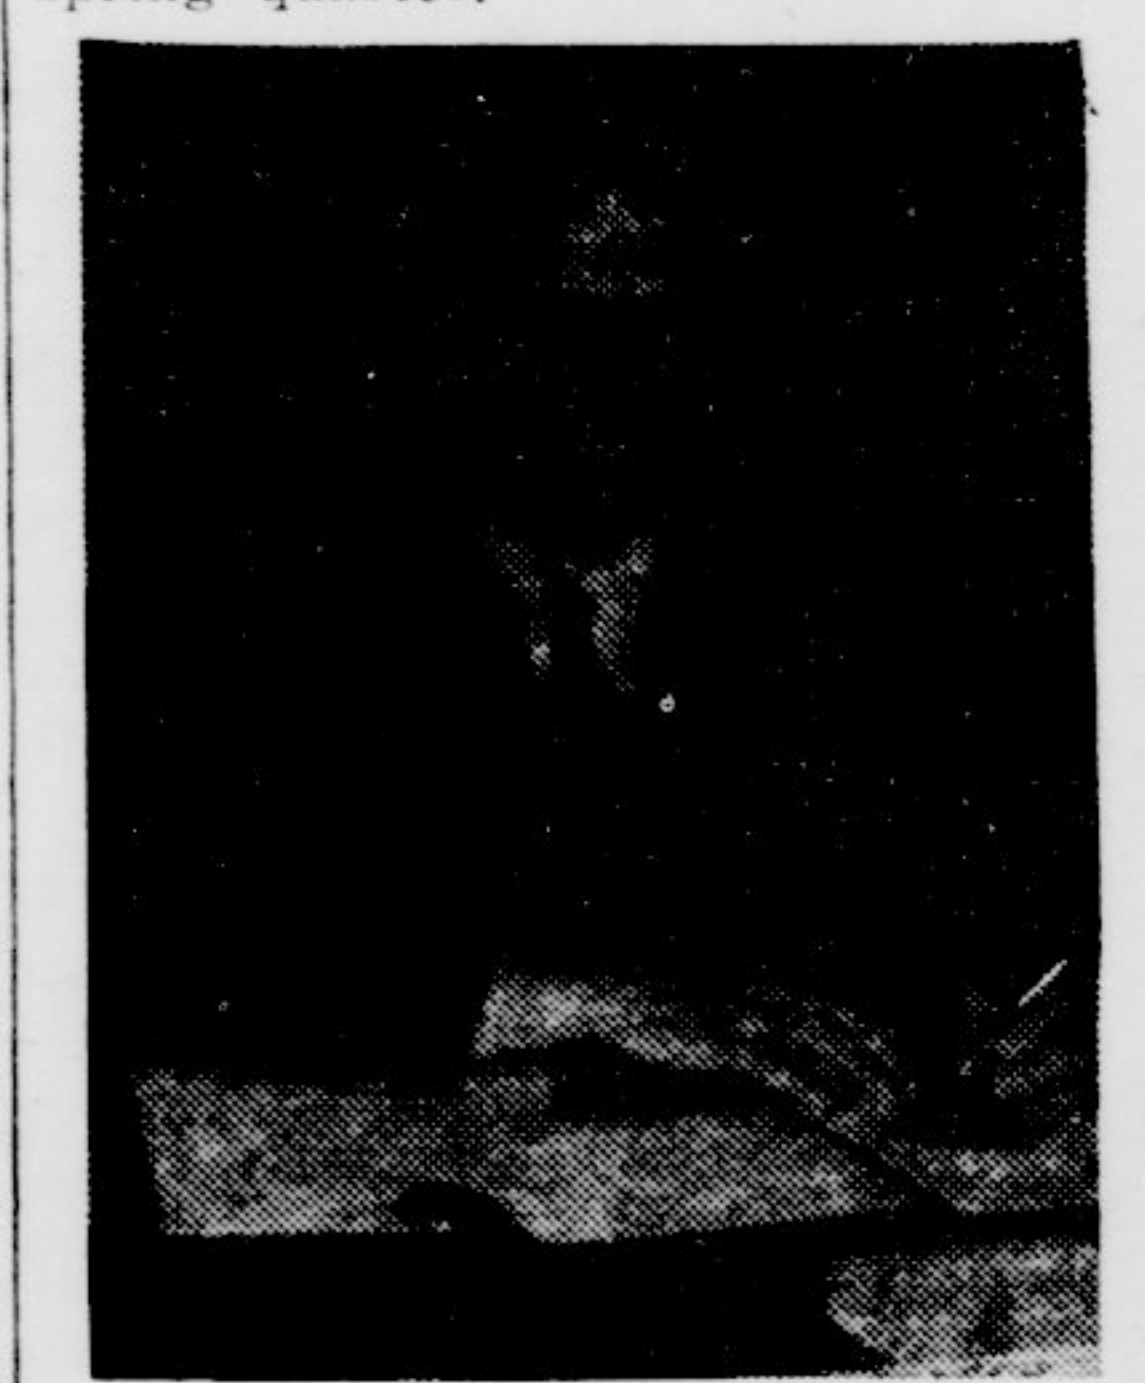

Major objective of the next meeting will be the election of new officers.

Dallas C. Dixon has assumed the position of Cadet Corps Commander for the spring quarter it was announced recently.

Dixon replaces Paul L. Singleton who is doing his practice teaching this quarter.

Dixon is from Greenville, a business major and social studies minor.

The AFROTC Cadet Corp Commander carries the rank of Cadet Lt. Col. Dixon's duties as Cadet Commander will terminate at the end of spring quarter.

Dean Leo W. Jenkins, who is also a Major (Retired) in the US Marine Corps, has been designated as Marine Corps Officer Procurement Liaison Officer for the college.

Jenkins will be authorized to swear in men and women officer candidates in the Marine Corps Reserve Officer Candidate Programs. He also will arrange for their physical examinations to be taken at the college.

John Fillicky, a sophomore, business major from Raleigh, announced his candidacy for Assistant Treasurer of the Student Government Association last week.

Fillicky, an active student on campus, was recently elected to a seat on the student legislature by his fraternity, Delta Sigma Pi. John has been an outstanding member of the business fraternity since his acceptance last spring.

Representative Fillicky is also a member of the Future Business Leaders of America and the College Choir.

John hopes to have the opportunity of serving the students as Assistant Treasurer. Commenting on his plans he said, "The only platform I have is to learn the job and perform it to the best of my ability."

Before entering East Carolina last year, Fillicky served with the United States Army for two years and performed Military Police duty in Alaska. Johnny is a member of the Veteran's club and the Young Democrats.

Dr. C. J. Bradner Jr., Director of Religious Activities on campus, announced recently that chapel will be held at 6:00 p. m. this quarter instead of the usual 6:30 p. m. This change is due to the inability to schedule a program of music at the 6:30 p. m. program.

To all organizations making entry in the College Union "Spring Carnival":

The date for Carnival Night has been moved to April 25, 1958. For this reason the entry deadline has been set up to March 22, 1958.

Anyone interested in working with the new closed circuit TV project either in the area of acting, productions, technicians, or writing should contact Dean Leo Jenkins in the Administration Building as soon as possible.

Miss Jackie Byrd was crowned "Sweetheart of Phi Sigma Pi" at the dance held last Friday night.

Picked from a field of seven candidates in a campus-wide vote, she reigned over the fraternity's Sweetheart Ball and will represent the organization at various functions throughout the year.

Saturday Night 'Jeanne Eagles' To Be Shown

"Jeanne Eagles" is a movie based on the life of a young actress who rises meteorically to success on stage and screen only to destroy herself, by accident or design.

Miss Eagles (Kim Novak) is a strikingly lovely small-town girl who is trying to "fix" a carnival beauty contest so that she alone will be sure of success. This sets the keynote for a ruthless, single-minded ambition which is to characterize her whole theatrical career. Even the eventual acclaim which she receives as Sadie Thompson in "Rain," her greatest triumph, is marred by the fact that she stole the role from a fading actress who was depending upon it for a come-back. The Eagles temper, her constant rows with Actor Equity, a loveless marriage, long bouts of drinking, and her ultimate recourse to dope make for a dramatic, almost melodramatic role.

Kim Novak's blonde beauty is appealing to the eye, but it is not enough to carry her through the demanding stretches of the action. She gets small help from her director, who seems more able to understand the onstage personality of Jeanne Eagles—i.e., in an interesting scene from "Rain"—than her offstage complexities.

Jeff Chandler gives a good account of himself in the sympathetic role of the Coney Island amusement park owner who was the one anchor in the short life of the legendary star.

George Sidney is the director and producer of this movie. Other leading players are Agnes Moorehead, Charles Drake, and Larry Gates.

Lambda Chi Team Initiates Local Frat Group

At a ceremony at the Rotary Club Saturday the campus Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity was formally initiated as a national chapter by an initiation team of twenty Lambda Chi members from High Point College. Also present were Lambda Chi members from the Duke and the Carolina chapters.

"Although we do not yet have our charter, we are recognized as a national chapter," stated Mike Katsias local chapter president. Along with the fifty-nine members initiated, seven local businessmen who helped the chapter before it became nationally affiliated were initiated as honorary members. Among them was James W. Butler, Alumni Secretary.

Following the ceremony a banquet was presented at the Cinderella Restaurant in celebration of going national. Speaker for the occasion was George Spaskin, National Executive Secretary of Lambda Chi Alpha. President Mike Katsias expressed appreciation to the High Point members who took part in the initiation service.

Phi Gam Becomes Theta Chi Nat'l.

Phi Gamma Pi, campus social fraternity, became the 123 unit of Theta Chi national fraternity when it was formally initiated as the Epsilon Iota Chapter at a closed ceremony in the Y Hut Saturday. Visitors from Theta Chi chapters at Wake Forest, Carolina, and High Point College were present.

At the end of the initiation ceremony the national vice president Joseph Ross Jr. presented the fraternity charter and key for the Epsilon Iota chapter to its president Mike Uzzell.

Following the ceremony there was a banquet at Respass-James restaurant at which George Perry, the faculty adviser provided the members and guests with several light, humorous songs and led them in the Theta Chi anthem.

Opening the banquet Dr. John D. Messick gave a welcome speech to the guests. Other speeches were given by Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, vice president of the college and by Executive Council members Joseph Ross, Ralph Grieserman, George Chapman, and by Secretary of State Thad Eure, who is also a Theta Chi member. Each speech contained congratulatory messages to Phi Gamma Pi for becoming the first national fraternity chartered and established at ECC.

Apology

Reporter's Apology to the SGA Speaking as SGA reporter, I would like to apologize for the misinterpretation in last week's paper. I misquoted Bucky Monroe, chairman of the House, in saying that he proposed that the association appropriate $300 for the use of the baseball and track teams. Actually he supported the adopted amendment of $500. Also according to my report the money would be used for transportation costs and meal expenses at the track meets. Only part of the funds will be used in this nature, I realize the seriousness of this awkward mistake and I hope that I will not fail in my duty again. Please accept this mistake as a new reporter's, due to the fact that this is my only excuse.

Superior Cadets Rewarded For Outstanding AFROTC Academics

The annual Awards Day Ceremonies of the AFROTC Cadet Group were held in Austin auditorium on Thursday, March 13th. Eighteen Cadets received awards for outstanding service and achievement in both college and Cadet Corps activities.

The program began with Lt. Colonel E. J. Maloney, Professor of Air Science, who welcomed the many guests and introduced Vice Admiral William E. Munsen, USN Ret., the principal speaker for the event. Admiral Munsen spoke briefly on the importance of recognizing individuals who distinguish themselves through their efforts and ability. He recalled that he had been called upon to make similar appearances at other awards ceremonies and said, "even though the uniforms are different, the faces of the outstanding young men are the same."

Admiral Munsen presented the Air Force Association Medal to Cadet Dallas C. Dixon for demonstrating outstanding ability in college and AFROTC Academics, leadership, military bearing, drill and exercise of command.

Cadet William P. Speight received the American Legion Medal for demonstrating outstanding qualifications for a potential officer in the United States Air Force, for military appearance and bearing, attitude, leadership potential, cooperation, and exercise of command.

Cadet Gordon E. Robinson received the Son's of the American Revolution Medal for outstanding leadership, military bearing and excellence in college and AFROTC academics.

As Admiral Munsen presented Cadet Willard K. Baker the Convoir Cadet Award for being tentatively selected for the Advanced Course and exhibiting an extremely high aptitude and interest for flying, he said, "As a special consultant for Convoir, it is with great pleasure that I make this presentation."

Cadet Calvin F. Mills received the Chicago Tribune Award (Gold Medal) for demonstrating outstanding ability in college and AFROTC academics, leadership, military bearing, drill and exercise of command as an Air Science III Cadet.

Cadet Willis K. Whichard received the Chicago Tribune Award (Silver Medal) for demonstrating outstanding ability in college and AFROTC academics, leadership, military bearing, and drill as an Air Science I Cadet.

Outstanding Service Medals for outstanding performance of duty while a member of the Cadet Corps during the school year 1957-58 were presented by the Professor of Air Science to Cadet Howard W. Nixon, Cadet Carlton G. Hall, Cadet Robert L. Needs, Cadet Thomas C. Gainer, Cadet Linwood C. Johnson and Cadet John D. Edwards.

Outstanding Achievements Medals for outstanding achievements of the campus were presented to Cadet Carlton G. Hall, Cadet James E. Phelps, Cadet James E. Speight, Cadet Thomas A. Farlow, and Cadet Willard K. Baker.

AFROTC Academics Awards for making three successive "ones" were presented to Cadets William P. Speight and Jackson A. Henley by Dr. Messick, President of East Carolina.

Captain George B. Patterson, Commandant of Cadets, made the Rifle Team Awards to; Cadet Dennis M. Biggs, expert; Cadet Linwood C. Johnson, sharpshooter; Cadet Thomas C. Gainer, sharpshooter; and Cadet Edward V. Allen, sharpshooter.

The Cadet group sponsors, Jimi McDaniel, Joy Jordan, Tennyson Warren, and Mary Bowden occupied honor positions on the awards stand during the ceremonies.

Baptist Contest for Writers Announced

A Baptist Student Writer's Contest has been announced by the Student Department of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tennessee.

Awards for the contest include $75, first place; $50, second place; $25, third place; and 10 two-year subscriptions to "The Baptist Student," the Christian collegiate magazine sponsoring the contest.

Eligible to enter the contest are Baptist graduate and undergraduate students currently enrolled in an institution of higher learning, provided they have not completed requirements for the doctoral degree.

Entries may be either fiction or nonfiction, short stories, articles, or poetry. They may be light or serious in nature, but should be slanted primarily toward student readers. Manuscripts should be limited to 2,000 words; rewritten, double-spaced; and references foot-noted with sources of quotations. Entries are limited to one per person.

Categories include student life and thought; practical Christianity; personal Christian experiences; national or international issues; and devotional and inspirational (including seasonal) writings.

Judging will be based on originality; skill in writing techniques; content depth and insight; organization and development of ideas; and interest and readability.

The contest deadline is March 25. Winners will be announced in April through news releases from the Baptist Sunday School Board.

Entries should be sent to "The Baptist Student Writer's Contest, 127 Ninth Avenue, North, Nashville 3, Tennessee." Students entering the contest are requested to enclose a brief biographical sketch, giving name, school and address, class rank, and home address, with their entry.

Library Club Elections

Elections of the Library Club officers for 1958-1959 will take place April 3 at 7:15 p. m. in the Library Seminar Room. Members are urged to attend this important meeting.

Jimi McDaniel, Queen of Military Ball, and escort.

Editor Modifies Personnel Staff

Several changes have been made in the "East Carolinian" staff.

Johnny Hudson has resigned as sports editor because of a heavy and conflicting schedule. Bill Boyd will take over as sports editor with Pat Harvey acting as assistant.

Kathryn Johnson will assume the full title of managing editor as former co-managing editor Bob Harper will be concerned more specifically with the job of staff photographer. Rosemary Eagles has been promoted to news editor.

Under the direction of Editor Jan Raby, Pat Harvey, Jeri Mills, and Bill Boyd will assume the responsibilities of make-up editors.

The news writers will have their first staff dinner April 11. It will serve as an awards dinner and keys will be presented to deserving members.

CHATTER

By BILL BOYD

MARION TALTON HAD JUST DRIVEN A FAST BALL FAR OVER THE RIGHT FIELD WALL AND AS IT LANDED NEAR THE TRAINING SCHOOL, NEXT TO COLLEGE STADIUM, a big smile shone on the face of baseball coach Jim Mallory. "I believe that was the longest home run I have ever seen hit here," said Mallory. This action took place last Saturday as East Carolina met Wilmington Junior College in a practice baseball game and had little trouble in winning. Talton will figure highly in Mallory's plans for a crack at the North State Conference title. A catcher, Marion is a left handed batter and hits the ball a country mile. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds. Perhaps one big reason for Mallory's optimistic outlook on the 58 season is the left handed slugging power of his club in general. Al Vaughn, slick fielding second baseman is certainly no Mickey Mantle with the stick but he is consistent and can hit short drives all over the field. Tommy Nance is about the most powerful hitter on the club pound for pound. It is amazing how far and hard Nance can hit a baseball since he weighs in at only 165 lbs. He too is a left handed swinger and will hold down the left field slot. Mallory's other nightmare against right handed pitching is Bill Altman, fleet footed centerfielder. He is a transfer from Wingate Junior College. What it actually boils down to is this! Never before at East Carolina has Jim Mallory had the left handed hitters that he needed. This year he has them and can shuffle them around to meet right and left handed pitchers. For instance, in right field he can use Jerry Phillips against a left handed hurler or John Jones against a right hander. This type of shifting is what he can do at several positions. When you go out to college stadium and see a left handed opposing pitcher go in to pitch to a left handed hitter for ECC, then observe that Mallory pulls the lefty for a right handed hitter to counter the left sided tosses of the opponent, and then see that the other coach has yanked his left handed hurler and installed one who pitches from the right, and then Mallory grabs another one of his boys off the bench who bats left handed to meet this new change... oh well this could go on all day... just set back and look, but play the seat keeper... he has to keep up with all of it!

Football fans will not see the face of Tommy "Happy Jack" Bland around East Carolina next year. Bland dropped out of school to go into the Army. Bucky Dennis is another fine player to be missing from Jack Boone's aggregation. He transferred to William & Mary College of Norfolk.

Tom Edison and John Spooner certainly deserve a lot of credit for the job they did in connection with intramural basketball this winter. Spooner is vice president while Edison is prexy of the league. Interest was high, response good, results excellent. They will handle intramural softball this spring and if the program is handled as well as basketball was, there should be many teams entered in the intramural softball league.

When the Pirate track team travels to Farmville, Virginia, to meet Hampden Sydney next week, seven of its members will be on native soil. They are Milton Collier, Joe Pond, Jim Henderson, Jessel Curry, Cliff Buck, Charlie Vaughn, and Foster Morse, all of Portsmouth.

Saw a fellow take a vicious swipe at a ping pong ball in the Student Union and miss. This caused him to fall off balance, hurl headlong toward the next table, knock down a fellow player, land on his back, hit his head on the corner of the door and then the paddle hit him in the face. Everyone rushed over to help both players up... they were quite shaken up. Wonder what would happen if he went out for baseball, took a good swing and missed? Needless to say... the result would be tragic!

Too bad that EC students and Greenville followers of the Pirate track team will not be able to see the team in action this year. As usual, every meet is away. In fact, the closest meet will be held at Durham in a triangular meet on the 13 of April with Wake Forest and Duke. When a cinder track here at EC is mentioned the same old question comes to mind, where will the money come from?

There are adequate facilities at Guy Smith Stadium for home track meets, and if better lighting was provided for the area in the stadium where the cinder path is located, perhaps even night track meets could be held. These meets would certainly be more than self supporting if everyone has the interest in night track meets as they seem to have in night baseball. The big question is where would the money come from to lay a good cinder path and establish other track facilities in the first place? Anyone have any suggestions?

Tennis And Golf Teams Have Many Returning Lettermen

Although not yet approved by the athletic committee, a tentative meet is scheduled with Atlantic Christian College next Wednesday and Coach Bill McDonald has been getting his team into shape for the first match of the 1958 Pirate tennis season. In addition to that unofficial meet with AC, there are also tentative meets planned with North Carolina State on the 27 of March and Wake Forest on the 28. Coach McDonald has four returning lettermen to work with. They are John West, Maurice Everett, Bill Hollowell and John Savage. Of the foursome, Hollowell is perhaps the most improved as far as practice has shown. He is expected to help pace the Buc netmen to a North State Conference victory, providing that enough conference matches can be lined up. That was the Pirate's trouble last year. Failure to participate in enough North State matches cost them the championship of the NSC last year.

Golf Team Opens At Elon Ira Land, Wayne Workman, Paul Goodman, Howard Beale, Reddy Holten, Tommy Harris, Mike Uzzell and Lewis Phelps have all been working out during the past few weeks in preparation for the first golf match of the 1958 season with Elon College at Elon on April 4th. Goodman, Beale, Land and Workman are expected to be the number one, two, three and four men for the Pirates in that order. All matches to be played in Greenville this year will take place at the Country Club and time is slated for 1 P. M. on scheduled home dates. The 1958 golf schedule is as follows: April 4 Elon There 7&8 Appalachian There 14 Atlantic Christian There 17&18 Guilford Here 24 Elon Here 25 Atlantic Christian Here May 2 Catawba There

Baseball And Track Teams Begin Play

Mallory's Nine Meet Wake Forest Here On Wednesday

Ben Baker, George Williams, Mitchell Moon, Charlie Russel, or Leonard Lilly will hurl the opening game against Wake Forest College here in College stadium next Wednesday evening. Ben Tench will probably start for Wake Forest. The Deacons have defeated the Pirates twice in as many years of hard ball play. Assuming that Tench does start against East Carolina, Mallory will employ Jerry Stewart at shortstop, Tommy Nance in left, Tommy Land at first base, Marion Talton behind the plate, Al Vaughn at second, John Jones or Jerry Phillips in right field, Bill Altman in center and Bucky Reep at third base. Stewart and Reep are Co-captains of the Buc nine. Mallory has high praise for Jim Martin who is behind Land at first base and Glen Bass who is the number two man at short. If pinch hitters are needed he has Gary Pierce and Jerry Warren to call on. Third baseman Bucky Reep was troubled with a bad back during earlier season practices, but is in fine shape at the present time and should be ready for the opening contest. In the event that a relief hurler is needed, Tom Salter is Mallory's choice for relief duty thus far. He plans to use Salter as a relief man only. Upon being asked what he thought about his club now that he has had a good look at the team under ideal conditions, he replied "I have been well pleased with the way the team has looked thus far. We are sound defensively and have a lot of speed. With any good hitting at all we are going to win a lot of ball games this spring." The game with Wake Forest is just the first of three with big four teams. He also has the University of North Carolina and Duke University lined up for season action. Besides Ben Tench, WF Coach Gene Hooks has right hander Bill Lovingood and lefty Bobby Lawrence to call on. These three head the Wake Forest pitching department. The contest will take place in college stadium next Wednesday and game time is slated for 3 p. m.

Basketball Ends In Intramurals; Softball Starts

Intramural basketball play ended at East Carolina last week as the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity team and The Hot Shots emerged winners of their respective leagues. In this tournament action the Lambda Chi outfit continued its winning way to defeat The Country Gentlemen by an impressive score of 56 to 34. The final victory gave the LCA team an undefeated season in intramural basketball. No other team achieved that honor. John West sank 26 points in the win while team mate Buddy Whitefield had 16 big points. John Spooner hit for 15 in the losing cause.

Over in the independent league, Bill Skeeter, flashy freshman from Portsmouth, Virginia dumped in a field goal during an overtime period to give his team, The Hot Shots, a close 56 to 54 win over Ace's All Stars. Skeeter had 20 points which led both teams in the scoring column. Nick Nichols and Bob Rainey officiated the contest. Nichols, a star varsity basketball player in his own right had this to say about the final contest. "Skeeter made the difference between the two teams. He played a terrific game offensively and defensively, and his calm playing during the overtime period led his team to the win."

Thus with basketball over and the Lambda Chi Alpha and Hot Shots winning intramural crowns, intramural softball is next in sight. Action will get underway this coming Monday. Games will be played each Monday and Wednesday evenings. Anyone wishing to know more about spring intramural softball at ECC may do so by contacting Tom Edison or John Spooner on the third floor of Slay Dormitory. Girl's Softball Begins The Spring Quarter program for the Womens' Recreational Association has just about been completed. Softball will be the dominating sport during the season. The softball season will be carried out in the same manner as was basketball. Beginning on Thursday, March 18, the practice games will begin. It will be run on dormitory basis. These practice games will continue on March 20, 25, and the 27. Then on the following Tuesday, April 1, the tournament will begin, and will run for about two weeks or through the finals game. Anyone interested in getting on a team should get in touch with their dorm representative for information concerning practice times. A general time, however, will be from 4:00 until 5:00 on each Tuesday and Thursday evening. It is hoped that the girls in the dorms, day students, and any others interested will get in touch with WRA members and dorm representatives and get on a team.

SEEN ABOVE ARE TWO OF JIM MALLORY'S FIVE STARTING PITCHERS, Charlie Russell (left) of Carthage, N. C., and Leonard Lilly (right) of Tarboro, N. C. Lilly is in top shape and ready to go, but Russell has been bothered with a sore arm. Both are lettermen and one of the two may start Wednesday's opening game with Wake Forest College here.

Miller's Trackmen At Hampden Sydney Of Farmville, Va.

Coach Jim Miller's track team will meet Hampden Sydney College at Farmville, Virginia next Monday in the season's first scheduled meet for the Pirates. A strong and experienced team is expected to face the Bucs at Farmville, but the EC squad is a favorite due to considerable depth in the distance running and sprinting departments. Jim Henderson, Bob Maynard, and James Speight will lead the team in the sprinting events while Foster Morse, Cliff Buck, Bobby Patterson, Joe Pond, Jessel Curry and Dave Thompson are expected to dominate the 440, 880, half mile, mile, and two mile events. Joe Holmes and Lynn Barnette will throw the discus and shot-put. Dennis O'Brien and Ace Bullock will take care of the pole vaulting for the Pirate squad. Wade Ward and Curry will do the high jumping and Curry, Eddie Dennis and James will hurl the javelin. Newcomer Charlie Vaughn is expected to make a good showing in the sprinting department. Coach Miller feels that all of his boys are in excellent shape and the forthcoming meet will give him a good look at his team. He will then be able to make predictions about such teams as Richmond and Guilford. These same Pirates' journey on to Richmond, Virginia where they will encounter the University of Richmond on Tuesday. Although the Bucs have beaten Hampden Sydney, they have never outscored the Richmond squad. Since they have more experience, speed and depth than they have ever had before, they certainly stand a good chance of returning to East Carolina with two big wins under their belts come next Wednesday. It has been announced by Coach Miller that the Pirate cinder team will enter a triangular meet with Duke and Wake Forest on the 13 of April in Durham. The squad will have its work cut out as it meets Guilford College at Greensboro on April 11, High Point College at High Point on April 12, and after the triangular meet on the 13, the team travels to Newport News, Virginia for a meet with the Apprentice School on April 15.

Pirate Swimmers 4th In NAIA Meet

East Carolina yielded its NAIA swimming throne, held for one year, to North Central Illinois College at Muncie, Indiana, as the Pirate swim squad took 4th place last Saturday in the annual NAIA event. Coach Charles DeShaw's team copped 29 points in doing so. Many new records were set at the meet and competition was much tougher than was last year's. The only first place honor for EC came when Ken Midgette took a first in the one meter diving event. The other five places were as follows: The Pirates took third in the 400-yd freestyle relay, third in the 200-yd backstroke, fourth in the 200-yd butterfly, fourth in the 200-yd freestyle, and fifth in the 400-yd medley. Bob Sawyer, EC captain and previously undefeated backstroke champion, copped third place in the 200-yd backstroke. Sidney Oliver snared the fourth spot for the Bucs in the 200-yd buterfly.

Also outstanding for the Pirate swimming crew were Gartman, Williamson, Carrol and Tucker.

ONE OF THE PIRATES' TOP DISTANCE RUNNERS, predominantly in the 880-yd run is Bobby Patterson. The 22-year old Rocky Mount native is running his final season for the Buc cinder team and should figure highly in their plans for another North State Conference title.

OCEAN TO OCEAN ACROSS SOUTH AMERICA--AND BACK--IN 41 HOURS! CHEVY'S NEW V8 LEVELS THE HIGHEST, HARDEST HIGHWAY OVER THE ANDES!

To prove the durability of Chevrolet's radical new Turbo-Thrust V8,* the tremendous flexibility of the new Turboglide transmission,* the incredible smoothness of Full Coil suspension, we tackled the most challenging transcontinental road in the world -- the 1,000-mile General San Martin Highway. To make it harder, the Automobile Club of Argentina sealed the hood shut at Buenos Aires -- no chance to add oil or water or adjust carburetors for high altitude. So the run began -- across the blazing Argentine pampas, into the ramparts of the forbidding Andes. Up and up the road climbed, almost 20 miles in the sky! Drivers gasped for oxygen at 12,572 feet -- but the Turbo-Thrust V8 never slackened its torrent of power, the Full Coil springs smothered every bump, the Turboglide transmission made play of grades up to 30 percent. Then a plunge to the Pacific at Valparaiso, Chile, a quick turn-around and back again. Time for the round trip: 41 hours 14 minutes -- and the engine was never turned off!

The sure-footed Chevrolet purrs past a road sign that says "danger!" and ahead lies the toughest part of the perilous Andean climb!
