The Baptist State Convention which met in Charlotte last week adjourned Monday. It is said to have been one of the best sessions the Convention has had since its organization at Greenville 64 years ago. In spite of the hard times no debt was reported to the body and something over ten thousand dollars was contributed by the delegates during the present session. The Convention reports showed that the denomination was growing and prospering in the State. The preaching on Sunday was exceptionally fine. The Convention was handsomely entertained by that flourishing city. The next session will be held at Greensboro.

The members of Congress from the North do not seem to favor Secretary Carlisle's financial plan. They say it expands the currency. Southern members generally favor it and their reason for liking it is that it does in some degree increase the volume of money. Thus it ever is—what we want the North opposes; what they want is not acceptable to us. We need not expect any financial legislation from the present session of Congress. Mr. Woodard says the repeal of the ten per cent. tax on banks will not pass either. We don't look for much favorable legislation from the incoming Congress, so the people had about as well make up their minds not to fret but to do the best they can under existing circumstances. The interests of the United States are so varied that there always will be more or less friction in legislation.
