

Religion from Congressional Lips.

Senator Jarvis, of North Carolina, and Representative Morse, of Massachusetts, delivered religious addresses at churches in Washington on Sunday. The Senator delivered an address at the young men's Gospel meeting at the Colored Christian Association rooms, 1607 Eleventh street northwest, and Representative Morse delivered a discourse on "The King's Highway" at the First Congregational church on Tenth and G streets, northwest. — Baltimore Sun.

Next year will be leap year. After that there will not be another leap year until 1904.

The Long-Handled Dipper.

Among the last letters written by Dr. Holmes was one to Charles Follen Adams, acknowledging the receipt of his dialect poem: "Dot Long-Handled Dipper," in which the genial autocrat said: "I thank you for the fresh draft from this long-handled tin dipper, which you have made a rival to the 'Old Oaken Bucket.' Some of my best drinks when I was a boy of fifteen at Andover were from a cocconut dipper, but that was not destined to immortality, like the more fortunate receptacles. I have always had a great liking for Yawcob and his young hopeful, and I hope they will long continue to make the world happier by their domestic history and family portraits."

At the Boarding House.

He drew a long breath. Being a skilled draughtsman he did this with comparative ease.

"I beg your pardon," he said to the landlady, with some severity, "I'd like to know, madam, when I'm ever going to get anything to suit me in this house."

"When you pay your board bill," replied the landlady with charming Adams avenue ablomb.

He assumed a business air at once. "Please be a little more definite," he said, and resumed his labors on the steak in front of him. — Detroit Free Press.
