The wind Saturday night blew up a cold wave and there was a little ice Sunday morning.

Dun's review for last week says all indications of the state of business are rather more favorable.

It was reported on the street this morning that another fire had occurred in Kinston, but we are glad to state that the report was an error.

The Orange (Va.) Observer, edited by an old bachelor, gets off the following: "An Oregon man wants to trade a mule for a wife. Some men never know when they are well off."

A very bright young druggist says that when a person is puzzled he should go to a drug store immediately. They always keep plenty of solutions on hand.

You are cordially invited to inspect the grand display of Choice Jewellery Monday and Tuesday, from 11 A. M. to 9 P. M., now on exhibition at Mrs. R. H. Horne's store.

At Duluth, Minn., a man and boy were killed while exhibiting a fire-escape. A rope by which they were suspended from a sixth story window broke and both fell together to the pavement.

A financial system under which a man can pay a debt of $100 with two bales of cotton at one period and then be compelled at another period to pay it with four bales of cotton is a system under which none can prosper except the shylocks, who are parties to the conspiracy which brings about such a state of affairs.—Durham Sun.
