

had effects from it - uncle B. was sure the trip would be the death of her, but she got along better than any we had a right to expect. I am not feeling better, but I should like very much to come to be out of a day, or two, and do some good. I am expecting a letter from Mr. Barter. I had planned to go to St. Mitchell today, but as Mattie was not as well as usual, I am not well, have given it out, for the present.
It is a lovely & pretty day, but enough foggy, however. The winter has been really mild, this year had some very cool & a great many rainy days in March. Mr. Barter's "Thompson" and other vegetables looking well.
They had some little cold weather in June, etc. recently, - they seem to be having their winter, now, but the rains & sudden changes were much more disagreeable than a steady cold winter.

Uncle B. sold out his interest in the Sawmilling works in June, & has by gone in that other part of the place, so Mr. G. still owns half interest in the business - uncle B. went however through the business - he received monthly - since it is to be sold for cash, as he wanted sister to be kept home keeping & living at his house, as she looked her servant, & was doing her work - Mr. G. heard of it, & sent money to her to go to Lowell - as she looked up - she hated taking money from school, but thought it best, under the circumstances, to go.
Bessie, you know, has been keeping home there, but she has been wanting to come away for some time, as soon as sister got there, she & Dr. Cassel left - he was getting a hundred fifty dollars per month, & they were at an expense, whatever, to keep her - until that signified - Sister went
