

Friday night, no limbs were broken: she started on the portico for something, and stepped out of the wrong window; she was for some time (perhaps several hours) senseless, which of course damaged them all very much, but the next day, was all right again.

All unite with me in much love to each of you.
You must write soon,
your affectionate niece,
Bettie W.

Dear Aunt Ell:-

I have often promised myself the pleasure of writing to you since you left, but as often deferred.
How are you all? Grand-ma was down last week, was well, and now in Warren town; Ma had a note from her last evening, telling her, that she would like for Sallie, & Laura, to stay with her and go to the College; Sallie was highly rejoiced at the contents, she was almost ready to start as one of the "College boarders." I was in town last Saturday, found Aunt Bet's family all with colds: and while there, Mr. Parker, received a letter from cousin Elias, announcing the good health of you all — and that he wished to employ hands — Pa has gotten as many as he desires — hope in this time cousin Elias has.

Last week, Cousins Alice, Jimmy and Fannie, staid all night with us on their way to see "Johnie": cousin Jimmy said he would visit you before his return.

Mr. Clements, is living at "Huntersville" this year, he, uncle Abel, (and perhaps cousin Henry, I do not know) rented the place: Grandma wanted some of the family to live there, I think she is almost out of the notion selling. Is Jennie with you? and Sarah

I reckon, will not care to come home, she is so pleasantly situated. Tell the "little boys," they must write to me — and "little Elias," I know, is a perfect hero in my imagination, no room to grow sweeter every day.

Cousin June Alston, is busy making arrangements to build between here and uncle Eds. Rice, is doubtless very much elated at the idea. I attended only one party during Christmas, that was at uncle Eds. had a large crowd, and a very nice supper.
