

[TO: ELIAS CARR, Esq., SPARTA, N. C.]

New York

Apr 13 1842

Mr Carr

I have lately become a very poor correspondent, but because I write so seldom don't think yourself forgotten. I often think of the pleasant days spent with you and sincerely hope soon to have an opportunity of returning your hospitality. Come to Gotham, our theatres never were running such good plays and we have two operatroupes, all the Beer Gardens are waking up, and soon we shall have plenty of mist for juleps.

Yesterday Jim Whitney dined with us, all is once more serene, it is impossible for me to keep my mad up, when the face of an old friend turns up I think of the fun we used to have, and all the spirit fire vanishes. After dinner I called on Rockwell of the Reviver, and after receiving a sufficient amount of spiritual consolation, three of us started for the Park Coming back we indulged in Beer. It went well, the day was warm and our throats dry, the Germans were out in force a band gave us choice music and all was salubrious, untill an insane desire to hear the "Watch on the Rhine," seized one of us & we spoke to the band leader, but that grandee heard us not, but one of us said alrirts and his ears were opened, he drank, the band drank and we drank, the music started up, while enjoying it a waiter rudely demanded pay for the Beer. Now we were all broke but neither knew about the financial condition of his companions, each one supposed the other had lucre, our pockets were searched and after two minutes foraging we got sixty three cents together, our score was only sixty so after dividing the balance so that neither of us should be penniless we sorrowfully started for home, you know yesterday was the 14th which accounts.

for my financial distress, I have something new for you, it was gotten up by McBride Davidson & Harry Feller two old thorough bred sports, they sent the following telegram to police headquarters,

Supt Police

I have just found the body of Josephine Mansfield opposite Blackwells Island floating in the water

R. Superwards

Do you see the point? After sending the despatch they started in a coach for the central office to see if the sell would take, they arrived just as a coroner was leaving the building, of course they stopped him and the only request held was over a dozen or so of the sparkling grape juice.

I do not expect to get out this spring in fact it will be almost impossible for I am nearing a state of ruin, You see that notwithstanding my good resolutions it is impossible for me to be a good boy, what is bred in the bone will come out in the flesh, my great trouble is I don't know when to put on the brake and check the speed, but I look forward with pleasure to the good time coming when you arrive in this village,

You requested me to send pictures of Fisk & Mansfield or States to some one but I have forgotten who,

Please remember me to Miss Carr and the boys,

Yours etc

W J Bruce

P.S. I find that I forgot to head my private property, please excuse the neglect as I am hurried,

Yours
W J B