BEAUFORT, NORTH CAROLINA

“KISSED BY THE OCEAN BREEZES”

The first money or property ever given for Public Education in North Carolina, was provided by James Winwright of Beaufort, in his will in 1744.

Beaufort was “laid off” into streets and named “Beaufort”, in 1722, and received its Charter in April 1723. Prior to 1722 it was called “Fish Town.” Oldest recorded deeds are dated 1713. Christopher Gale, the first Chief Justice of the Colony was Recorder of Deeds in 1713-14.

Commodore Cooke of Albermarle Fame, was born in Beaufort. So was Joseph A. Physioc, now of New York, possibly the greatest Scenic Painter in the United States. The father of War Secretary Stanton, of Lincoln’s Cabinet, was born eight miles from Beaufort.

Beaufort will complete by the Fall Term, two modern, equipped school buildings for White and Negro races, costing about $160,000.00.

Beaufort has the most beautiful kept court-house grounds, in the State. A whole city block is owned by the county and with flowers and shrubs and old knarled Live Oaks make it a beautiful spot.

Beaufort is a great shipping point for Truck, especially sweet and Irish potatoes. Hundreds of car loads leave Beaufort every year for market.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are invested in catching water products and the manufacture of fish-scrap, used as fertilizer. This is a great industry and means much to the business of the State.

Beaufort is a famous Summer Resort and has been for many years, even before the Civil War when the Atlantic Hotel was the most popular summer hostelry in the State and one of the famous places in the South.

Beaufort invites the people to our Town, new and yet old, where you can see a dwelling, now occupied though built before the Revolutionary War, to modern and up-to-date homes and business houses.
