Dear Sir

Will you please kindly favor me with a reply to the following question? I was a member of the Farmers Alliance for about two years, and for about six months, president of a sub-alliance (Sapropos Fork Alliance, No. 591.): in the mean time I opened a drug store in connection with my profession as a Country physician, mostly to educate my son to be a druggist. who is about eighteen years old. I am still an active practitioner of medicine, and a life long Farmer. The drug store is a great convenience to the neighborhood, as it is about ten miles to the next nearest. Thinking that it was in violation of the constitution to remain a member, of the Alliance under the above circumstances, I asked for a withdrawal card. Since that time, I see that the National Convention at St. Louis ruled that if a man's principal occupation did not make him ineligible he would still be entitled to membership.

My interests and sympathies, have always been in full accord with the Alliance, both inside and out.

nothing, you see, I am all politician, and a life-long a great measure of it, & the that you will see it is not view of the fact that it is see that it is understood by all, and that it is always open to all, and with the, I think, with the

I am very anxious to belong to the Alliance, especially at this important juncture from the fact that it needs all the strength that it can acquire to make it a power for great good in the next election. I say this on account of others as well as myself, whose professions and occupations are not only not antagonistic, but in every respect identified with the ^{interests of} farmers and laboring men. Can I be reinstated? Please favor me with your opinion.
