My Dear Bro Carr,

I write you at the request of many of the brethren, they are exceedingly anxious that you allow them to use your name as the Democratic candidate for our next representative in congress. Many of them will not support Mr Simmons at the conventions or at the ballot-box.

If you would consent to run. They think you have a fair chance of election,

They and I prefer to vote for you rather than any other man. We hope that you have been considering the matter favorably because you have not publicly declined after having been publicly nominated by the Farmers Southern and seconded in Pro Farmer. Our demands must go before the people Legislation? No; the ballot, the ballot, is the weapon and now, within the party if we can, but if we are fought as frugally as the present seems to indicate that we will be, then without if we must, Dear bro I appeal to you, take up the standard and we will follow, if you will not hand to some one else and long as a fold of it flutters in the breeze let us march forward to victory or a glorious death, show this letter to my friends and yours and tell not to forget that unite that is so dear to us,

Yours Truly
