Dear Elias:

Yours just recd. Note what you will do in the way of shipping evergreens & hope you will make some money out of your venture. Have not seen any in town yet, but a dealer told me this morning that he expected a large sale this year. The marriage you speak of must have excited Tabora a great deal, I know none of the bachelors personally, but of course who they are, Bruce will know & will I expect grow wildly excited over it when I tell her.

The Gov. Report knocked the slipping out of cotton yesterday.
I expected it to be greatly off again today, Am just from a bucket shop where I waited an hour to hear the opening, glad to see it was no lower, but there is no telling what it will do before the day is out. Yes, I am taking cod liver oil & getting fat, but my cough still hangs on & strength in my legs & hips returns very slowly.
I can of course walk farther than when I left Braintree, but not much; from the office to the house - 7 blocks tires me a good deal, & when night comes I am exhausted, I believe however that with the advent of cold weather I will be all right.
Glad to hear you are better. M+B
