The Tecoan

NINETEEN HUNDRED TWENTY-THREE

Volume One

PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS OF
EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS COLLEGE
GREENVILLE, N. C.

Foreword

THIS is the first volume of Teachers College Annual—
THE TECOAN. It is published by the various classes of the College. By the permission of the Faculty, this volume is substituted for the spring issue of the Quarterly.

In this volume we have attempted to portray the life of the college as it appears to the camera. If such portrayals are disappointing to you, blame the camera, and not those in charge of the Annual. On the other hand, if they should recall to you scenes that have become closely and happily intertwined in your lives, and if they should cause you to re-live the joyful days of college life, we shall feel amply compensated for all our efforts.

We wish to take this opportunity of thanking all who aided in making this book a possibility; particularly do we wish to express our deep gratitude to those officers and teachers who gave unstintingly of their time and who co-operated so loyally with the students in making this, our first effort, a success. We can only hope that future classes will receive the same hearty coöperation.

Class Song

(To tune of: "Believe Me of All Those Endearing Young Charms.")

Black and gold ware on high
For a class that is dear
To the hearts of our classmates so true.
They're the symbol of a spirit so loyal and right,
That will bring back fond mem'ries to you.
Alma Mater, we'll praise all the rest of our days,
You'll inspire us to heights yet unknown.
We'll be grateful to you more and more as days pass,
Alma Mater, we call you our own.

—A. H. F., '24.

Class Poem

There have been many classes
We're known from year to year—
Loyal, noble, faithful, true,
They never knew a fear.

There have been days of struggle
To make the grade up hill,
And many days of pleasure
That linger with us still.

The climb is nearly finished,
Our goal almost in sight,
Under colors black and gold
We're nearly won the fight.

Though days may come and days may go
The days that we will cherish
Are our Junior-Senior days,
Of all, these will not perish.

—A. H. F., '24.

MABEL THOMAS
Pittsboro, N. C.

Abounding in wit, duty and good philosophy."

Member of Poe Society; Member of Y. W. C. A.; Chairman of Music Committee 1919-'23;
President of Student Government, 1922-'23.

Mabel's the musician of our class, and merry music does she give us. She is an excellent student, as well as a capable and efficient leader. She is always full of fun and is the life of any crowd. Her originality is very prominent in the English themes she writes. She is a good psychologist and will, perhaps, teach psychology some day.

LOIS HASKINS
Oriental, N. C.

"Pleasure sometimes, but not always."

Member of E. A. Poe Society, 1919-23; Editor-in-Chief of "TECOAN."

Lois is gentle and good, and has winning ways that we all would like to possess. She is always at her post of duty just on time, and does the social stunt for our classes too. She is always the same sweet girl that everyone loves. She is friendly, and has a smooth and even disposition and is also an excellent entertainer. When once you have been with her, you want to be again.

NONIE JOHNSON
St. Paul, N. C.

"A smile is a blessing; a hearty laugh cannot be estimated."

Lanier Society; First Vice-President of entire Alumnae Association; Chairman of Social Service Committee of Y. W. C. A., 1919; Critic of Class, 1920; President of Robeson County Club, 1923; Class Representative to Student Council, 1923; President of Pitt County Alumnae Association, 1923.

Everyone is not gifted with an optimistic nature, but among the few that are is Nonie. It seems good to meet her and hear her cheery, companionable greeting as she passes by. "Ring-stand," a name she acquired in the chemistry laboratory, has a sense of humor that downs the blues for other people as well as for herself. In her sunshiny, happy way, she lives, and, living, makes the world a little more pleasant for the rest of us.

MILDRED MAUPIN
Culpepper, Va.

"A sweet disposition is a gift of the gods."

Lanier Society; Lanier Glee Club; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Member, 1917; Treasurer of Y. W. C. A., 1918; School Glee Club, 1918-'20; Treasurer of Lanier Society, 1918; Secretary of Lanier Society, 1919; Chairman of Inter-Society Committee, 1920; Historian of Class, 1920; Associate Editor of Annual, 1923.

No matter how highly we may prize our "Made in Carolina" products, we do not value Mildred less because she is not present in that list. Those of us who have the privilege of knowing her know she is a diligent student, possessing the knack of a ready answer to any question (and it's usually correct). A good friend and a partner in anything that comes within student government limits. A saying that is not applicable to all is true of her: "It is more pleasant to be with her than to be without her."

ORENE HOLLOWELL
Tyner, N. C.

*"She is serious, sometimes gay,
Yet she makes things go her way."*

Captain of the Basketball Team, 1918-'20; President of Athletic League, 1919-'20; Member of Lanier Society; Member of Lanier Glee Club, 1918-'20; School Glee Club, 1918-'20; President of Athletic League 1921-'22; Lanier Glee Club, 1921-'22; School Glee Club, 1921-'22.

Of all the things that she can do well tennis stands out prominently. She revels in it, and is never happier than when playing a real, snappy game. With a lot of "pep" and a strong determination to win, she won an enviable record in tennis. This attitude of hers not only makes her a star performer in athletics, but one in other activities as well. She tackles all things with never a thought of failing, and somehow, through all the difficulties, she steers a straight, true course.

Prophecy

Twenty Years Later.

MY DEAR SPONSOR:—

Perhaps you don't remember that you were once a part of our class. Perhaps you don't remember us at all, for you were such a tiny tot then. But we have not forgotten you, not by any means, and we never will.

Do you recall our happy Nonie Johnson? You will certainly be shocked, I'm sure, to learn that she is a bunch of nerves and complaints. Why, she's a regular grouch. I was never so surprised as I was when I walked into a class room in Porto Rico and found Nonie "bossing the job," with the aid of a healthy-looking switch. No, she has never married. She has taught until she feels there is nothing else for her to do. She might rest awhile if she could only see the wrack it has made of her. She's positively forgotten how to smile, even.

Aren't you glad there aren't so many more to tell you about? But they all asked to be remembered to you, so I'm doing as requested. Please be patient just awhile longer. It won't all be disillusion.

Orene Hollowell is the same person in regard to her indifference toward spinsterhood, but other great changes have been wrought. She once was serious and philosophical, but now—well, she's what folks used to call a "flapper." With the necessary accessories to such a name, she lolls her time away in the various resorts of the world. She lives only for present pleasures, and if she is serious she successfully conceals it. What a different person she is! Strange what time will do for us, isn't it?

Can you guess what Mildred Maupin is interested in at present? I understand that she's a lecturer, a staunch supporter of the modern girl and her rights. All over the world she is being received with great enthusiasm, and large audiences attend each of her lectures. She has become a brilliantly interesting speaker. I don't know why, but I always predicted Mildred a quiet, serene life. Perhaps it isn't yet too late for her to settle down, though.

I had a very pleasant trip to Washington this summer, and while walking down Pennsylvania Avenue I noticed a great crowd gathered on one of the street corners. After inquiring, I learned that a suffragette meeting was being held. I made my way through the throng, and beheld Lois Haskins in full male attire following in the footsteps of Susan B. Anthony. I learned that for many years Lois had been the women's leader, and she had achieved great success in obtaining women's equal rights. You remember what a man hater Lois was!

While glancing over the society columns of a New York City paper I was very much surprised to see Mabel Thomas as the leader of Fifth Avenue society. Later in the summer, I went to visit her, and her home was the most beautiful that I had ever seen. She was giving a big dinner dance in my honor the evening I arrived, and what a wonderful time we had! Her husband was a very rich banker. How happy she and her husband were! Mabel had indeed fooled us, for we all thought that she would be the old maid of our class, but one never can tell, you know.

Am I through? I'm sorry, for it has been a real pleasure to tell you something about the members of our class. I believe you have an interest in us even though it may be slight, and I'm sure we are interested in you. Don't let your various other interests keep you from writing us, occasionally, at least.

With very best wishes for your happiness and success, I am,

Most sincerely yours,

CLASS SPIRIT.

*Round us at twilight comes stealing,
Memories to us that are dear,
Dreams of our days in the classes,
And of our class without fear.*

CHORUS:

*Twenty-three, twenty-three,
The class that we love best;
In the sea of memory you're dearer than the rest.
Happy days, fearless days,
Among our classmates true
We stand alone and boast you our own
The class of twenty-three.*

CHORUS:

*Come, girls, with hearts full of laughter,
Come, and let's be true
To our dear old classmates, come often,
We wish for them pleasures anew.*

MARY RUTH ALLSBROOK
Greenville, N. C.

"Work while you work—play while you play."

In Ruth we find a combination of sunshine and laughter. She never leaves her smile behind, because it is a part of her. As to her future—well, there are rumors and rumors, you know—but it could be nothing but bright, whether she enters the teaching profession or—some other!

ANNIE LOLA ARNOLD
Vanceboro, N. C.

"Her hair is not more sunny than her smile."

There's a ray of sunshine to be found in the darkest places when Annie Lola is around. A sweet disposition, a strong friend, a good sport—all these are found in her.

MARY BAGGETT
Lumber Bridge, N. C.

*"I pin my faith to no man's sleeve,
Have I not two eyes of my own."*

They say that daisies won't tell, but if you want to tell anything, tell Mary. She is the most confidential girl on the hill, and as true as steel. Loyal, dependable, studious—that's Mary.

ARLINE BARBER
Wilmington, N. C.

"Behind those blue eyes there lies much mischief."

Arline is a girl who needs no one to lead her. She does what she thinks is best, and is seldom wrong in it. One would hardly think there is much fire behind those blue eyes, but woe unto you if you try to find out. She stands well in her class, and with all the "get up" she has I am sure she will make a success in whatever she undertakes.

ELMA BARNES
Branchville, Va.

"Smile and the world smiles with you."

Elma is a hard worker, and she always meets her tasks and difficulties with a smile. We know that her strong ambition and her sunny disposition will bring her much success wherever she is.

MILDRED BEAMAN
Stantonsburg, N. C.

*"To see her is to love her,
To know her is to praise."*

If you desire a pal with a sunny, lovable disposition, seek Mildred. Lucky are they who gain the loyal, affectionate friendship of this true-hearted girl.

ZULU BELLE

Troy, N. C.

"She can who thinks she can."

Here she comes! Happy-go-lucky girl! Good natured, dependable. What more could be said of her?

She always smiles and changes our gloom to mirth. We expect to hear of Zulu later, and perhaps she'll be found "seconding the motion."

NORA BLACKMORE

Warsaw, N. C.

"To thine own self be true."

Nora hails from Warsaw. She's a serious-minded girl, and realizes a sense of duty. Even though she has a serious view of life, she has a sense of humor. She never talks unless she has something to say, and she never fails to help those less fortunate than herself. Though rather quiet, she has the knack of winning many friends, and I think it can be truthfully said that those won are never lost.

HATTIE BOSWELL

Wadesboro, N. C.

"With a heart of cheer I like the girl who faces what she must."

Hattie is our ambitious girl—one who always wants to lead her class, and thus far has realized her desire. "On time and never late" is her motto, and she's always "there" ready for business.

EDYTHE BRADLEY

Seaboard, N. C.

*"She may be serious, she may be gay,
But she's a rare good pal in a rare good way."*

What a number of different qualities we find in Edythe. If she can't create excitement in any other way, she just starts raving about "Roy." We all feel if Edythe doesn't tell us the latest school news, we would be hopelessly lost. She makes such a handsome man that some of the Juniors have been heard to say, "Oh, wasn't Edythe Bradley the best looking man?" Edythe has stage ambition, and unless something happens, and happens soon, I'm afraid it will be a hopeless case for the "Dr." But we feel sure she will succeed in whatever she undertakes. Good luck to you, old girl!

ROSA BRASWELL

Nashville, N. C.

"To know her is to love her."

A funny girl is Rosa. At times she is as quiet as our history recitation period, and again she chatters and giggles without ceasing. In class we never hear much from her, but when she is among her friends she is always talking and expressing her opinion. Rosa has been a member of our class only a year, but she leaves a place that will be hard to fill when she is gone.

NANNIE BRAY

Camden, N. C.

"Shun not the struggle; face it."

Nannie is a pal good and true—a bright, energetic girl, never shirking the most difficult task, but always meeting it with a feeling of, "I can do it if I try." Though she isn't heard much, we all know she has a lovable disposition, and the class feels fortunate in having such a friend.

MYRA BRIDGEMAN

Swao Quarter, N. C.

*"She's kind, she's modest, sincere, and true,
More studious, more generous than most of you."*

Myra is quiet, dignified and faithful to a degree that commands admiration from her classmates; a good, lovable girl, whose high sense of humor exceeds the average. She is jolly and full of life, and will always be remembered as a loyal comrade.

ELOISE BRIDGER

Windsor, N. C.

"Not afraid of work, but not in sympathy with it."

Where can you find Eloise on a sunshiny afternoon at 3:30, when not in school? Rest room. What does Eloise like better than "Lib" and "Lil"? Hot chocolate. What does Eloise like better than math? Spelling. One of the prettiest girls in the class, she knows just what to wear to look her best. A good sport and a true pal are her chief characteristics.

LILLIAN BRITT

Buie, N. C.

"To know her is to love her."

Lillian is a girl of rare type, and her ingenuity will keep her always in the right. She gives her whole soul and being to her work, and a duty she never shirks.

RUTH BRITTON

Woodville, N. C.

*"Not too serious, not too gay,
But a good fellow day by day."*

Ruth is one of our hand who is good-hearted and sympathetic to the very highest degree. She is usually found directing her own business, yet she takes an active part in every organization of which she is a member. She does her work well, and then has time to sit on the campus and converse with her friends as they come and go.

MILDRED BRODIE

Tarboro, N. C.

"Pluck makes luck."

Mildred likes college life in general, but home much better. At first she thought of college life as a joke, but one day something intercepted her path which caused her to take life more seriously—practice teaching. She is very ambitious. Watch her succeed!

HELEN BROWN

Greenville, N. C.

"What is worth doing at all is worth doing well."

Although we did not enjoy the privilege of having Helen as a "C," we have doubly enjoyed having her as a "D." She is a rare combination of attractiveness and diligence—a girl who is a valuable asset to the class, and one whom we all admire.

KATHRYN BROWN

Mocksville, N. C.

"Life without laughing is a dreary blank."

Avoid strong drink—for coffee maketh you nervous! A good sport? Indeed she is, and the "Committee" couldn't exist without "Kat." Besides the success she makes in the teaching profession, she's specializing in the art of making friends—she's succeeding there, too, (like everything else she attempts), 'cause everybody likes "Kat." She's a jolly good pal, but she has a serious side, too,—specially when one of the "Committee" has an idea.

BONITA BRUCE

Mars Hill, N. C.

"Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety."

There is never a dark cloud but has a silver lining. When searching for this silver lining look for "Pid." If she cannot cheer you with words, her music will, for our violinist is "Pid." An all-round sport is "Pid," and we can only say, "She's the stuff!"

ARNETTE BRYAN

Garner, N. C.

"A sunny disposition is half the battle."

Arnette is the little sunshine of our class. No matter what be the trouble, she always has a "prophecy" which drives away our frowns in a jiffy. Maybe that "prophecy" is what makes her so popular. She is always giving sunshine in the darkest places and the gloom of studies, and that is why we all love her so.

BONNIE BUNCH

Edenton, N. C.

*"She is jolly, good-natured and true,
And her share she is willing to do."*

Bonnie, who is blessed with personality and gifted with charm that makes everlasting friends, will always be remembered by her classmates as companionable, unselfish and lovable. In her jolly way she goes around advocating the saying, "laugh and the world laughs with you; weep, and you weep alone."

NELLIE BURBAGE

Bath, N. C.

"She is pretty to walk with, interesting to talk with, and pleasant, too, to think on."

Nellie is a very studious girl, and very ambitious to make a success. The class of '23 feels that Nellie's efforts to make a success will not be in vain. She will be either an "Old Maid School Teacher," for which she is now training—or, well, a teacher of one. Who? Err Ronald!

LUCIE PEARLE CARRINGTON

Stem, N. C.

*"Divinely tall, and full of grace,
Surely you know this maiden with the lovely face."*

Conscientious! Now, you've said it! "Shortie's" authoritative personality, winsome ways and sunny disposition has won a place in our hearts for her.

GAYLE CHEEK
Goldston, N. C.

"Still waters run deep."

"Cheek" to those who know her, with her dainty and lovable way, has won a place in each of our hearts. She is never too busy that she cannot find time to play tennis for one-half hour every afternoon. At this rate she will soon fulfill her desire to be a champion tennis player.

LOUISE DIGGS
Rockingham, N. C.

"When duty and pleasure clash, let duty go to smash."

When Louise is around, we are always sure of a good time. But she isn't all frivolity, and in the serious side of her we find equally as much to love as in the frivolous. We think Louise is living up to her favorite slogan, "Day by day, in every way, I'm growing fatter and fatter, and better and better."

GRACE DIXON
Elm City, N. C.

"'Doll Baby' is what we call her. Look and see if you don't agree."

Petite? Yes, but it happens to be quality this time instead of quantity. Her favorite expression is, "I am about to laugh." Three cheers for "Doll Baby," the cutest girl in the class of '23.

MAGGIE DIXON
Elm City, N. C.

"If 'Rice' is the 'Staff-of-life,' you'll never hear of 'Maq' yielding to the punishment known as starvation."

Even though the "best-all-round" and "most influential" are parts of her make-up, you'll never miss hearing a "sporty" report when you mention the following three: "Bottle," "door" and "cafe." And now that the time has come for her to depart from the class which has been guided by her leadership during the years of '21 and '23, we grant her the privilege of establishing a "Banking and Trust Co." anywhere she so desires.

CLARA DOWDY
Harbinger, N. C.

"Where there's a will there's a way."

Clara has just the proper mixture of common sense and justice, severity and sweetness to make her loved and respected by all. She is always there when it comes to work in Y. W. C. A., Society and other College organizations. Clara is dependable, otherwise she would never have been voted the most reliable girl in our class. Her strong character and strong will tell us that she will eventually, with Ora, carry out her long-cherished travel plan.

HILDA DUKE
Ahoskie, N. C.

"Life is full of laughter, but even laughter ends, Give me instead forever the friendship of my friends."

Here's to "Red," the musician of the class, who is always there when music is wanted. For two years she has been a leader in the musical and social world of E. C. T. C. What are we "gonna" do without her? "Red" is the best old sport in the world. If everyone were "Red" there wouldn't be a single stranger to be found. She is willing to play for a crowd, but a crowd doesn't stop her, for she might even play for "Moore."

THELMA EDGERTON
Goldsboro, N. C.

*"A perfect woman, nobly plann'd,
To warm, to comfort, to command."*

To like Thelma you have to know her. Knowing her you will find her a valuable companion. She is always ready with a winning smile to solve any problem that might confront you. As for her being a good student, examine her reports and draw your own conclusions. Though we know not her ambitions, we predict success for her.

LOUISE EURE

"Who can express thee, though all can approve thee."

Here is a girl who has instilled in her a heart of a true friend. She is very much interested in music, and we predict success for her in the musical world.

ORA EVANS

Harbinger, N. C.

"Strive and succeed."

Ora is a splendid worker in all college organizations and anything else that calls for capability. She performs her many duties in such an unassuming manner that we often wonder how they are done so well. In addition, she has that indefinable something called personality, which makes her liked by everyone.

GENEVA EXUM

Greenville, N. C.

"She hath a daily beauty in her life."

When seeking information go to Geneva and you will be sure of your desires. Bright and industrious is Geneva, and always anxious to help others. Sweet, good, and kind have we found her—the same yesterday, today and tomorrow.

BESS FARLESS

Merry Hill, N. C.

"To know her is to love her."

Everybody likes Bess! With her lovable and generous disposition she has won many friends, to whom she is capable of being a genuine friend in return. She never considers a favor too great to do for a fellow-student—except to share mail coming from Carolina!

CLARICE FLETCHER

Durham, N. C.

"Sweet music breathed her soul away."

This quiet girl doesn't stand out as a star performer in any particular branch of work, but she is a steady and earnest worker in everything she undertakes. We realize her capabilities, and predict her success in the world.

Laura Foley
Greenville, N. C.

"When joy and duty clash, let duty go to smash."

Laura is endowed with the invaluable virtue—optimism. Her gay, sunny disposition cannot be conquered by difficulties which arise in the daily grind. She is the kind of girl one likes to have around on disagreeable rainy days, and is a friend we are all proud to claim.

Fannie Forbes
Fountain, N. C.

"She's little and low, but never slow."

Fannie is as quiet and placid as the night breeze. You can always depend on her to do her duty, and she leaves with the good wishes of the class of '23.

Cora Jane Fowler
Tabor, N. C.

"A little of laughter, love and good-will lengthens life."

Here she comes: a happy, good natured, dependable girl. What more can be said of her? She always smiles, and in so doing she always reveals to us those wonderful dimples.

Senia Frazier
Swansboro, N. C.

*"She always wears a smile,
Is happy and cheerful all the while."*

This is Senia—the young "Tar Heel" who is always willing to try her best in everything she attempts, and is as full of kindness as of valor. Senia has proven her ability by her success at teaching, and she has won many friends while up here four years.

Hannah Fulford
Greenville, N. C.

*"A smile for all, a greeting glad,
An amiable, jolly way she had."*

Hannah is a "sho nuff" sport—her jolly good nature is a drawing card. In primary work she takes the lead. However, we think she will not tarry in this field long, for "they say" she has a more thrilling plan for the fall. Eh, Hannah? Happy-go-lucky, never worried with a care, Hannah is a girl whom everybody likes and likes to be thrown with.

Sarah Grant
Ridgeway, N. C.

"Give her of the fruit of hands, and let her own works praise her."

Sarah hails from Ridgeway! She is always on the mountain top of preparedness for any task from working math to having her lesson plans in on time. Speaking her mind, too, is one of the prominent traits of her life. We wish you success in your teaching career, Sarah!

LILLIAN GRAY
Wadesboro, N. C.

"Success always comes to those who labor."

Judging from Lillian's appearance in the class room you might think of her as being a quiet and easy-going girl. To see her on the basketball court you would consider her a champion basketball player. An interesting characteristic is that she has an unusually quiet and unobtrusive way of attracting and winning the admiration of the opposite sex.

CLARA GRIBSSON
High Point, N. C.

"Some folks are content to envy success in others. Others achieve it for themselves."

At our first acquaintance with Clara we discovered that she was endowed with the "gift of gab." She is one of those folks who make you forget to feel blue. Her happy disposition, plus her good sportive nature, has made for her a host of true friends. For Clara we predict a brilliant future, especially in the political world.

MABEL GUFFY
Cleveland, N. C.

"Quiet in appearance, with motives unknown."

Mabel is a quiet girl of few words, sticking strictly to her own business. She will always be ready to say, "I will try," when called on for any duty.

VIRGINIA HARPER
Hookerton, N. C.

"The mildest manners with the bravest mind."

Virginia has been an invaluable asset to the class—whether it is work or play she is "right there" when she is wanted. The girl who counts Virginia her friend is lucky for her friendship is truly worth while. With her sweet disposition, strong character and strong will, she deserves the best that life holds, and we truly hope she may get it.

MARTHA HARRELL
Elizabeth City, N. C.

"I'll be merry, I'll be free, I'll be sad for nobody."

Good-natured, happy-go-lucky Martha is one of the best. Broad-mindedness, supplemented by personality, wit and originality, make her one of the most popular at E. C. T. C. Always in a hurry—yet there is always time if you must talk to her about your troubles. Martha, we feel sure the future holds much success and happiness for you.

IRMA HARRISON
High Point, N. C.

"She hath a genius to be loved."

Irma is blessed with an unlimited amount of humor. She is always ready to laugh at a good joke, and frequently has one to offer. Had one visited the library during Irma's Senior year, he would have found that she was very studious. Irma's personality is very prominent, and for the rest notice the statistics.

WILLIE MAE HEDGEPEETH
Louisburg, N. C.

"How good to live and learn."

Willie Mae is not one of the sreeees that you emu knock down and she comes up smiling. She is in a good humor when a good humor is appropriate, but, take my word for it, she let's nobody "walk over" her. Willie Mae likes school studies, but enough fun and "good time" to flavor 'em up.

MARY HENDREN
Elkia, N. C.

*"Joy, temperance, and repose
Slam the door on the doctor's nose."*

For effective primary supplementary material, see Mary at address given. In our class there is no one more reliable, faithful, and generous. And al cve all—sl e is a good old pal.

CORA HOLLAND
Warsaw, N. C.

*"No sinner, nor saint, perhaps,
But, well—the very best of chaps."*

"Cory" is just an "all-round" girl, and possesses that rare quality of being the same wherever you see her. She spends a great deal of time writing letters, and it is a certain fact that she is devoted to the "mails." Her "Special" boxes on Sunday are the salvation of quite a few. Ask Cora if she ever sang at Y. W. C. A. We are expecting great things of her in the musical world if the "Bills" are not too many.

MARGARET HOLLAND
Bethel, N. C.

*"Her greatest ambition—I regret to state,
Is this—to graduate."*

Even if this is her greatest ambition, it isn't her only one. For her best friends know that there is a tall, dark-haired man, from whom "Specials" are a delight to her. And it seems she is about to gain both her ambitions. We all wish her success.

ANNIE OLA HOLLOWELL
Aurora, N. C.

"Thy modesty is a candle to thy merit."

Quiet, sedate and reserved is Annie Ola, and we agree that if "Beauty is as beauty does" she, too, is quite beautiful. She is a faithful and capable worker. We can't forget the way she always stood by her class basketball team. Her actions are always from honest motives, and mindful of her fellow-man. We have all learned to love her.

ELIZABETH HUMMELL
Goldsboro, N. C.

*"To sum up all, be merry, I advise,
And as we are merry, may we still be wise."*

Fate always sends "Lib" where someone needs a cheerful word—a veritable Pollyanna. She is ready for all the fun, as well as her share of work. Her intimate friends know how loyal and kind "Lib" is, with all her love for a good time. She is always thoughtful, and one of those who helps to make school life enjoyable.

MARTHA INMAN
Fairmont, N. C.

*"Not too serious, not too gay,
But a rare good fellow when it comes to play."*

Here's the girl of our class who is our star athlete. She played in all the final tournaments for the year '22. A helpful member of the "Poc Society" is Martha—and a thoughtful girl.

THELMA JACKSON
Momeyer, N. C.

"I chatter, chatter as I go."

Thelma is a "come-what-may" type of a girl. She thinks only of today and lets tomorrow take care of itself. Though very brilliant and studious, she always finds time for a little fun—if the teacher's back is turned. When she laughs, all eyes fall directly upon her. The class of '23 sends her out with a brilliant future.

HILDA JEANETTE
Scranton, N. C.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you."

Hilda is a happy-go-lucky type of a girl—never worries, but always comes out on top. She has the "gift of gab" along with a mathematic brain. Nothing is more delightful to her than to deal with figures. We wish her success in her future work.

PATTIE JENKINS
Greenville, N. C.

"I held ever, virtue and knowledge were endowments greater than nobleness and riches."

A sweeter girl cannot be found. She goes about with that smile of happiness and content which she shares with everyone. Pattie stands high, not only among her friends, but her class. Industrious and straightforward in every way is Pattie.

LILLIAN JONES
Tarboro, N. C.

"She looks wise. Pray correct that error."

"Marie" is the kind of girl we all love—a good sport—a real pal—kind, amiable, unselfish and attractive. Schoolmates will find it hard to forget her, and classmates cannot. Her room-mate never fails to tell of the "only one" fuss they had during the two years. She follows the example of the "Committee," especially when eating is the practice.

LILLIAN JORDAN
Wilmington, N. C.

*"It doesn't pay to worry,
Things will happen, anyway."*

You may search the world over, but you will never find another like Lillian. Her wit and originality has won many friends. She is true blue, and we count it a privilege to have her as one of our pals. "Frank"-ness is her chief characteristic.

HAZEL KENNEDY
Norfolk, Va.

*"I leave thy praises unexpressed,
I leave thy greatness to be guessed."*

Hazel has always responded gracefully to the demand for originality in the class of '23. She has her own opinions—reliable ones—which she expresses, regardless of contradiction. As for athletics, watch her handle the basketball, and draw your own conclusions.

ANNIE JOE LANCASTER
Warrenton, N. C.

*"A perfect woman, nobly planned,
To warn, to comfort, and command."*

Who said Annie had a "Special"? Judging from her C-i-e-m-e-n-t disposition, you would not dare wonder at the number. She is coquettish, striking and a good all-round sport. Teachers' College is proud of her, and boosts her, for she knows her influence as a teacher will be great.

BEATRICE LINK
Durham, N. C.

"Her name is Link, and she is a golden link in the friendship chain of many."

"Bee" is a very quiet, dignified girl, and possesses a store of knowledge. She isn't a "chatterbox," but when she does speak it is worth your while to listen.

She worries and worries about her practice teaching, but we always find her coming out on top in the end, and we know she will succeed when she goes away. "Red headed" people are always great!

MILDRED LYON
Windsor, N. C.

"Best things come in smallest packages."

In this particular "small package" we find wit and humor galore; the truest of friendship, an enviable disposition, and a spirit of good sportsmanship.

WILLIE MATTHEWS
Nashville, N. C.

Willie is a modest, quiet, unobtrusive young lady. She is the embodiment of thoughtfulness and unselfishness, with a generous share of humor. Her books, as well as her classmates, have found in her a friend staunch and true.

MATILDA MAYO
Clayton, N. C.

*"Matilda can dance, Matilda can walk,
But no one can beat Matilda talk."*

Dear old "Tilley"! Though a big talker of our school, is one we all love and cherish. She never studies—never had to, really, but every once in awhile her conscience sends out a warning, so she grabs a book, runs to the library and reads references long since due, jots down a few notes frantically, then goes to breathe sweet air once more. No. "Tilley" is not a joke—she's just a fine, wholesome, whole-souled girl, and we all love her.

ROSALIE McEACHIN
Maxton, N. C.

"Rosalie smiled, and all the world was gay."

It is an important "tour-de-force" to attempt to sketch so admirable a character in so little space. We can only say that during her two years here she has steadily grown in the esteem of her classmates. She is a good student, a girl of solid judgment and with a good sense of humor.

VERA MILLER
Maribel, N. C.

"A little curly-headed, good for nothing;
A mischief-maker from her birth."

Just say athletics, and see her eyes beam;
She plays on the Volley Ball and Basketball teams.
And to add to her honor and fame,
She has the President of Athletics attached to her name.
She loves cats of every variety,
So we place her in the Poe Society.

MABEL MONTAGUE
Woodsdale, N. C.

"Life is real; life is earnest."

One glance at her brown eyes tells the tale. Besides having a sunny, good nature, we find that she has those characteristics of personality and character that naturally make people like her. Mabel is an earnest student, and we feel sure that the way to success is open to her.

ANNIE RUTH MORGAN
Hertford, N. C.

"Happy am I—from care I'm free,
Why aren't they all content, like me?"

One would have to go far to find a sweeter and nobler girl than Annie Ruth. E. C. T. C. was lucky to get her, she always carries plenty of "pep," a good disposition, and a kind word and smile for everyone. In addition, she has that indefinable something called personality, which makes her liked by everyone.

RUTH MUNDEN
Elizabeth City, N. C.

"She openeth her mouth with wisdom, and in her tongue is the law of kindness."

With her modest, composed disposition, Ruth has woven a chain of friendship. A good teacher? Well, I reckon so! And here's wishing her success.

HAZEL NICHOLS
Fairmont, N. C.

"Much could be said of her, if one could read her mind."

Hazel is one girl who glories in the right all women have—the right to speak her mind.

ANNABEL O'NEAL
Scranton, N. C.

"Good nature and good sense must ever join."

When everyone else has a frown on their face, Annabel can always find something to laugh about. She is ready for all the fun, as well as her share of work, and no one dares to call her a shirker. We anticipate a great future for her.

BEATRICE O'NEAL
Scranton, N. C.

*"I leave thy praises unexpressed,
I leave thy greatness to be guessed."*

"Bee" is a typical blonde in our class of '23. She is a very graceful dancer, and the varied variety of her character, her sympathies, and her considerate manners have won for her many loyal friends. Though we know not her ambitions, we predict success for her.

MARY LOUISE OUTERBRIDGE
Scotland Neck, N. C.

"In youth and beauty, wisdom is but rare."

Good looks, ability, attractiveness and a "sport" combine to make up this pleasing personality known as Mary Louise. She has defied the old saying that "beauty is only skin deep" by her success as a debater. Besides this, she enters into everything connected with college life—especially the making of hot chocolate under all imaginable conditions (such as beds, dressers, etc.) Hail-fellow-well-met with everyone, she has won a host of friends, who consider themselves fortunate in knowing such a girl.

"Duty comes before pleasure."

This quiet, dignified girl lives up to her motto—always ready when duty calls her. Yet, we find in her a humorous side. She is always ready for play when her duties are done. Eula is a good friend to have.

MILAH PEELE
Hatteras, N. C.

*"Say what you have to say,
Be what you are and no other way."*

"Pee-Wee" has been a faithful member of the class of '23—always ready to enter any project mentioned. Though noted for her sarcasm, she has another predominating characteristic—ambition. She has even expressed a desire to become ruler of the "White House." Her chance seems favorable if some "Mann" doesn't side-track her. Although she laughs at nothing, her classmates expect to hear of her as a successful disciplinarian in the teaching world.

ALICE PENNY
Garner, N. C.

"She hath a natural, wise sincerity."

A girl like Alice isn't to be found every day. She has two selves—as we meet her in her room (jolly, witty and full of humor), and as we meet her outside—quiet, dignified. She's a friend worth having.

ALICE POPE

Raleigh, N. C.

"She is clever, brilliant and sparkling beyond most of her kind."

Here is the greatest combination of brains and personality found anywhere. "Pope" is a Society President, and that shows how much we think of her. What kind of personality would one have without temper? Alice has enough of this to put spice in life. She is absolutely true blue, and we count it a privilege to know her.

ELOISE REDD

Maysville, N. C.

*"Who to herself is always true,
And therefore must be so to you."*

To have Eloise for a friend is to have one that is loyal and true. In school she is an excellent student, and out of school she is always ready for a good time.

RUTH REED

Morehead City, N. C.

*"And this little maiden with no other fault
Than to love and be loved."*

Although Ruth is small, she has a big heart, of which fact we are constantly aware by her sunny disposition and her ability for making others love her. She is quiet and retiring, but has an appealing personality, which makes one know she is a real pal.

VIVIAN RICE

Stonewall, N. C.

"She has the mildest manners and the bravest mind."

She came to us in her Sophomore year,
And added joy to all of us here;
To her history is as hard as thunder,
But in arithmetic she is a wonder.
As a teacher we expect her to shine,
And then her happiness will be sublime.

MAE WILLIS ROBERTS

Fairfield, N. C.

"What's the use of worrying? It never was worth while."

From the picture one would conclude Mae Willis a very dignified girl, but just slip up on her when she is in another girl's room. Between stitches in knitting or crocheting she entertains her friends with humor and hearty laughs. Too, Mae Willis is very brilliant and studious when she is interested in a subject.

NINA ROGERS

Roxboro, N. C.

"Much I know, but to know all is my ambition."

She is tall, quiet, brunette, and one we will always be watching out for, because she is on the Council. Really, she is not as serious and dignified as one might expect, for when she is with a crowd and tells them what she knows (not all), it is easily seen that she's living up to the above motto.

NOMA ROGERS
Roxboro, N. C.

"Thy modesty is a candle to thy merit."

This member of our class has a peculiar gift—the ability to attract little children. Yet there is no mystery about her power—she just loves them. The same about "big" children—if she likes you, she likes you lots; in the same manner she dislikes you. This is Noma, and we all like her.

EULA RUSSELL
Matthews, N. C.

"Start right, aim right, and keep pegging away."

Eula is a true and noble friend through all troubles. She is jolly, self-willed and determined. Here's wishing her the best success.

ROXIE SEWELL
Middletown, N. C.

"She can do what she can."

Roxie is quiet, studious and ambitious—on whom you can depend at all times. She is loved by her friends for her kind and gentle manner, and with her persistent determination, she is bound to win in whatever she attempts.

PATTIE BARROW SMITH
Windsor, N. C.

"Time is flying away; catch it!"

Pattie could truly be called a "Mercury" of today. Though she's seen hooking a dress or adjusting a hair net on her way to breakfast—she gets there! But she always gets on class, and she gets there with the goods, too. Pattie's slight in stature, but big as to a kind and generous heart. Why can't we have more like her?

MARY JOE STEWART
Henderson, N. C.

"Silence is golden."

Mary Joe is one of the smallest members of our class. "Small packages are most valuable." She is one of the most "studious" girls you can find, and her will power will carry her safe in her life-work. Three Rahs for Mary Joe!

NANNIE LINDSAY STOKES
Greenville, N. C.

"Her voice is seldom heard, but when she speaks it ravishes all senses."

Gentle, sweet and kind is Nannie, our class poet of whom we are proud. By her sweet voice is she known among us. Nannie always stands high in her studies—very bright and industrious.

LILLIAN SUGG
Greenville, N. C.

"My heart has learned to glow for others' good, and melt at others' woe."

Here stands Lillian among her many friends, waiting to do a good deed. Always cheerful and helpful we find Lillian, and never happier than when doing something for her friends. A good sport in every way is what we find in her.

ELMA SULLIVAN
Pinnacle, N. C.

"Methinks I heard a strain of silver music."

Elma is an important member of the class of '22. She is the pianist in the Y. W. C. A. She puts her soul into her playing. The class boasts to have Elma as the first student in the college to compose a song, which is taught in the Model School. Elma is faithful in every task which she undertakes.

LUCY GUNN UZZLE
Wilson Mills, N. C.

"A friend in need is a friend indeed."

Lucy Gunn is a friend indeed, and lives up to her motto. Her favorite greeting is "Children, I'm falling off, ain't I?" Her reliability is unquestionable, and she is ready and prepared for any occasion, whatever it may be. All in all, "to know her is to love her."

JULIA VANN
Woodland, N. C.

"Kind hearts are more than coronets."

Little in physique, but a giantess in heart—for Julia is ever generous, and has an unbounded love and interest in human nature. She works untiringly till the task is done.

ELSIE VAUGHN
Scotland Neck, N. C.

"To her stream of talk there is no dam."

After digging three terms under careful watchcare of our "Psychologist," Elsie "Mac's" classmates have come to the conclusion that she can easily "adapt herself to any situation." She's to be envied of the fact that she can read novels until 10:30 at night, and then show up better on class next day than anyone else! Thoughtful and unselfish? That's what she is exactly—she thinks doubly—once for herself, and the other for her roommate. With an I. Q. like hers we know she's "gonna" succeed.

MARY VAUGHN
Virginia, Va.

*"She lives content, and envies none,
Not even a monarch on his throne."*

Mary is as quiet and placid as the night breeze. She is always ready to do her duty. With her persistent determination she is bound to win.

RUTH WADE
Kinston, N. C.

"Good nature and good sense must ever join."

She is always happy and ready for mischief, which can be told by one glance at her eyes. She is always willing and ready to help her classmates when they ask her.

MARJORIE WAITE
Raleigh, N. C.

"Smile all the while."

In short, Marjorie might be called our "sunshine girl." She always wears a smile regardless of how difficult the task may be. Her sweet disposition has won for her a place in our hearts, which will be a lasting memory. We predict for her a most successful future in whatever she undertakes to do.

PAT WALKER
Reidsville, N. C.

"From care I'm free, Why can't they all be happy like me?"

"Pat" is a treasure—when we need a friend we go to her, for never was one so willing to help, especially when anyone is in trouble. She is a genuine good sport—and never troubles trouble, and is ready for all the fun. We can sum "Pat" up as being a true, lovable and sweet girl, and we wish her the best success.

HELEN WELLS
Teachey, N. C.

"If she will she will, but if she won't, she won't."

Another scientific theory exploded! Here's a girl who never lets her temper run away with her, despite the fact that she has very "radiant" hair. She rains for all the fun, for she will never be sad when there is any fun around. Her good nature, congenial smile and perseverance combine to make her one of the most loyal of the class of '23.

LAURA WEST
Kinston, N. C.

*"Unconcerned, but true,
If she likes you, will stand by you."*

Laura is a member of that formidable group who spends all its energy on "drawing note-books." Her penmanship is held up as an example for the less fortunate to follow. A good combination for a primary teacher, is it not?

MITTIE WEST
Kinston, N. C.

"Life is real, life is earnest."

Here is a girl who has never been known to let a "practice period" slip. Remarkable, isn't it? She has been heard to remark that these are the most enjoyable moments of the day. We predict that the musical world will hear much of Mittie.

EULA WHEELER

Stem, N. C.

*"For all she has a kindly thought;
From her, unkind remarks are seldom heard."*

Eula is one of our girls who is always willing to help others. She walks in her own gentle way, and is one of the few who has learned not to meddle with other people's affairs.

INEZ WHITE

"She can who thinks she can."

With her persistent determination she is always bound to win. Inez is known for her smile. It was missed, however, when she taught seventh grade Geography, for her motto was, "Work while you work."

MILDRED WHITE

Pollocksville, N. C.

"As busy as a bee."

Here's an unusual girl, but when it comes to lessons she is quite positively on the good side. If she works as hard and faithfully in later life as she has done for us, she will undoubtedly succeed. We wish her great success in her chosen profession.

ROSE WINSTEAD

Elm City, N. C.

"There is a Rose without a thorn."

Just "Rose" is what we call her, and though not always as soft as that name might imply, she is nice to be around. For reference, call on the Banking and Trust Company, of Greenville, N. C. As she goes out to enter upon her profession we advise that she keep her eyes open, so that she can find—her "Ideal" man.

MABEL WOOTEN

Stantonsburg, N. C.

"Her air, her smile, her notions, told of womanly completeness."

"Ted" is one girl that glories in the right that women have—that right is, the right to speak her mind. She is zealous in her work, thoughtful, loving, and sympathetic with her friends, a jolly good sport, ready for fun. This is "Ted," and we all like her.

IRMA WORREL

Boykins, Va.

*"To those that know thee not no words can paint,
And those that know thee, know all words are faint."*

Irma is small, but judge not by size, for she has shown that she not only possesses ability as a teacher, but has proved to be an equally good "Chauffeur," driving to and from Winterville. Her good disposition is indeed to be envied. Irma is never too busy to stroll up and down the campus in hopes of seeing and hearing someone called "Cheese." We wish for her the happiest life when she takes her M. R. S. degree.

Roses

*Fat, pink rose buds,
Waving hands of children venturing close
To the shiny green leaves with thorns,
With trembling.*

*Deep petaled roses
Velvety redness as alluring as crimson lips,
Half hiding behind a softly waving fan
And smiling.*

*Pale golden roses
Thoughts of mothers, with patient smiles,
Loving much and self-forgetting for their children,
Loring much.*

*Pure white roses
Faces of young girls with undimmed eyes,
Looking up and watching for the first star,
Looking up!*

—Mabel Montague, 1923.

Class History '23

THE Class of '23 wishes to say in its crude attempt to relate just a few of its most important dates, that the year '23 alone would amount to a "young encyclopedia."

On September 23, 1919, there were scattered among the student body 41, who thought they were supposed to remain within the walls of the building for fear some "old girl," as they were called, would slam a door on them. This fear lasted only a few days, when we discovered that the "old girls" were our only friends.

After a period of six weeks the small 41 organized themselves properly, and, under the guidance of Hattie Moore, who was made president for the first year, made their first appearance before the school by rendering a most interesting chapel and Y. W. C. A. program.

As the days brought us nearer to June, little did we realize the responsibilities and hardships that were to be mixed with the joys and glad times of the coming year.

June 5th—Vacation.—A dream.

The day of September 24, 1920, was like the returning of the Prodigal Son for the members of the '23 class. Then the class, with the unlucky number of thirteen added to it, stepped out on the highways with the thought that "the B Class" could do anything. That thought was not far from being right, and under the leadership of Maggie Dixon, '23, succeeded in laying the concrete foundation for her press onward to the goal.

Only a few months, which seemed days, passed before we looked up and saw vacation day again—June 6, 1921.

On September 29, 1921, the Class of '23 was more than delighted when the news was told that 154 was the number of pupils who had registered as members of '23.

This year being the first year that the class was looked upon as a leading class, it felt more deeply the responsibility of taking charge of the activities expected of it that year.

Mary Baggett, proving a successful president and leader for that year, led us safely over the rough waves of the following dates:

Thanksgiving Day ball game—'22 vs. '23. "We won."

December 16—Led Y. W. C. A. services.

February 16.—Decision on class rings.

March 18.—Junior-Senior reception.

May 8—"May Day," under auspices of '23.

May 20.—Last regular class meeting of '23 class while known as "C's."

September 27, 1922, at last brings us to the curve of the winding path. The long wished-for title was then ours—"Dignified Seniors."

We were very much handicapped this year on account of the incompleteness of the auditorium. The handicap lasted only until March 3rd, when the "State College Band" rendered a most interesting program on the new stage of the auditorium.

March 10.—Led chapel services.

April 25.—Senior play, "Pride and Prejudice." Then comes the end of a perfect dream—Commencement—when the happy band of 106 were given the worked-for prize, and tossed out in the "land of beginnings" again.

Advice from '23

WE, the Class of '23, feel that it is impossible for us to depart, after having "learned it all," without leaving a few directions and a bit of advice to those we leave behind.

To each of the following we give this advice, hoping that day by day in every way, it will prove beneficial.

Mr. Leggett: We advise, if you desire to continue as the "pet" member of our faculty, to make your "exams" not longer than a period of fifteen minutes.

Miss Davis: We feel that if your history assignments were shortened the infirmary would have fewer patients with "histories," at least three times a week.

Miss Reaves: We are sure that your fashion shows will be as successful in the coming year as in the past year, if you will let the Class of '23 be your "living models."

Miss McKinney: Always remember that there is no better exercise than a walk down town—window shopping.

Mr. Meadows: Should you desire real affection, highest regard, and sincere wishes, we suggest that you work with the coming classes as diligently as you have worked with us on THE TECOAN.

Miss Vaughn: In order to make your English more helpful to the student body, we urge that you get a hundred copies of Carlyle's essays.

Miss McFadyen: Bear in mind that there is more than one girl in a class that is handsome.

Miss Wilson: We can assure you that your days will be longer upon this earth if you continue the use of high neck collars and "do as you please."

Miss Lewis: In order to make Industrial Art the success it has been in the past, we suggest that you still have everything drawn "to the line."

Miss Graham: We feel that you will get better results from your classes if your supply of "Teachings of Arithmetic," by Klapper, is increased.

Mr. Austin: It almost breaks our hearts to tell you, but if you gave fewer "C's" and "5's" in the future, you would rank next to Mr. Leggett as "pet" teacher.

Miss Muffy: Remember that there will always be a few in your classes that aren't "well-bred;" we insist that you manage these in your same skillful manner.

Miss Whiteside: When you observe the girls at the Model School next year, think of the days when you did your first teaching. Have mercy on them!

Miss Maupin: We advise you to continue teaching the Constitution of the United States, so when you become Supreme Judge you will be familiar with it.

Music Teachers: In order to secure better results from your pupils, we would say put "Jazzy Methods" in your courses.

Class of '24: The supply of salt is nearly exhausted, and we insist that you order 2,000 T., and have it in readiness for next year's "Freshies."

Sister Class: Dear Sisters, we advise that you follow most carefully the advice given the Class of '24 and, in addition to this, study diligently your child psychology, so that your practice teaching at the Model School will be easier.

Freshmen: It seems that there is still a coat of greenness that you have failed to remove, and we suggest that you cast it aside before returning next year.

Sophomores: You have tried to outrank us, but in this you have failed; just one bit of advice, and that is, stick to the dignity which has distinguished you from other Sophomore classes.

Juniors: 'Tis hard to give our superiors advice, but we would like to say that if you do not like to go down the street more than five times a week we feel that you will find it profitable.

MARTHA HARRELL.

A Jaunt

THERE are a great many people who say emphatically that they do not believe in fairies and elves, but I shall give you an incident that has caused me to regard elves and their supernatural powers as indispensable. I was rambling through the woods one warm spring afternoon, trying to see how many different birds I could find when, all at once I heard soft footsteps. I turned quickly, and what should I see but two little green elves? They were having an altercation as to which could be of greater service to the world. One said he could reveal the future, while the other said he could restore anything that had been lost.

When they were near enough I asked them to let me be the judge. They did not seem at all surprised to see me, and were eager for me to settle their dispute. I asked the first if he could reveal the future of my classmates, with whom I should soon be no longer. He gave me three small berries. No sooner than I had swallowed them than I fell into a deep trance. Presently I thought I was at Monte Carlo. I could hardly believe my eyes when I beheld Laura Foley, singing in her beautiful soprano voice, accompanied by Hilda Duke at the piano, and Bonita Bruce, violinist. Nor was I any less surprised when Hannah Fulford touched my arm as she and her husband took their seats directly behind me.

I visited Switzerland while I was in Europe. I saw Roxie Sewell and Mae Willis Roberts traveling with a St. Bernard dog that had been given them by a native. I then went to England, just before sailing for America. I spent all of my time there with Lady Hanover, formerly Mildred Beaman. Lillian Britt and Cora Jane Fowler were also sightseeing, and were guests at the same time. They had been to Africa visiting Hattie Boswell and Willie Matthews, missionaries there.

I sailed home on the "Bonnie Bunch," the ship named for the Captain's wife. I spent much time with the cook, Eula Wheeler, who had had her hair dyed. When I was again on American soil, in New York, I sought the Blackmore Hotel. In the lobby I saw Lucy Gun Uzzell, Ruth Munden, and Mary Ruth Allsbrook, politicians, discussing Inez White and Maggie Dixon, candidates for President of the United States. Passing the desk, I saw a very attractive stenographer, who was none other than Lillian Sugg.

The next day I left for Washington, where I expected to spend some time with Mabel Montague and Rosalie McEachin, stenographers for Wade Insurance Co. On the crowded train I was exceedingly fortunate to find a seat by Lillian Jordan. She told me she was chaperon for the girls of George Washington University. While I was yet in the city I ran up against the West Twins, who were on their way to the Art Gallery. They told me they had been visiting Julia Whitly, who had married a wealthy widower, and had employed Ruth Reid as governess for her two stupid step-children.

As I was crossing the street I was attracted by a barber's sign, "Bryand and Grant;" below were the names of two modern manicurists, Mabel Guffy and Lillian Gray. This caused me to be run over and knocked down by a limousine driven by an elaborately dressed lady. This proved to be Louise Diggs, who carried me to a nearby hospital. As I was not seriously injured, I remained there only one day, but long enough to receive the attention of the gracious Dr. Jackson and two nurses, Bess Farless and Thelma Edgerton.

A trip to California was included in my travels, which enabled me to see more of my classmates. I joined Pattie Smith, Pat Walker, Eloise Bridger, Rosa Braswell, and Willie Mae Hedgepeth, members of the Pope and Cheek Touring Party in Chicago. Before we left the city the Bradley and Peele Bargain Store gave us a luncheon in their bakery department. Among the waiters, I was surprised to see Nellie Burbage and Clarice Fletcher. We were permitted to go over every department. I could not help but feel I was dreaming when I recognized Ruth Britton purchasing lace from Geneva Exum. The milliners were Elma Barnes and Annie Ola Hollowell. They had just finished their course under Mary Vaughan. We also called on Elizabeth Hummell, who was giving dancing lessons, and Mary Joe Stewart, her valued assistant.

When we reached California I was delighted to find a letter from Annie Lola Arnold, who was a missionary in Japan, asking me to look up Irma Harrison and Mildred Lyon, who were taking a course at the University of California. Eula Page was our guide when we were visiting the Salt Lake and Yellowstone National Park. There we were overjoyed at the privilege of seeing Virginia Harper, Clara Grissom, Cora Holland, and Martha Harrell, chief characters in a play given by Morgan & Co. Irma Worrell, Rose Winston, and Grace Dixon, chorus girls, told us the play had been written by Nannie Lindsay Stokes. As our touring party was passing through Wyoming, we saw Zula Bell and the O'Neal sisters, who were teaching in one of the country schools.

The members of our party separated at Nashville. I visited the Governor's wife, whom I knew to be Mary Hendren. I was asked to remain for the reception she was giving that night in honor of Hilda Jeannette and Mira Bridgeman, recent brides. Nannie Bray and Lucy Pearl Carrington were also present. They were kindergarten supervisors of the city.

My next trip was made by aeroplane. Sailing over Virginia I witnessed a train wreck. The aviator landed nearby and we hastened to the scene. You can imagine my horror when I saw Nina and Noma Rogers unconscious, their handsome suits torn and dusty; Mabel Wooten, with a sprained wrist, and Mildred Brodie, who had lost all her teeth. My anxieties soon subsided when Drs. Vann and Forbes and the nurses, Kathryn Brown, Lillian Jones and Matilda Mayo, were given full charge. The next morning I purchased a newspaper edited by Elsie Vaughan. Among the names of those who escaped injury in the wreck were: Hazel Kennedy, Vera Miller, and Vivian Rice, who were on their way to the Legislature. I also saw where Clara Dowdy and Ora Evans had secured their much-desired positions as Y. W. C. A. secretaries. Glancing over the society page I saw the announcement of the engagements of Helen Brown and Margaret Holland. I wondered if business was thriving, when I saw the advertisement of "Inman and Eure," cotton buyers.

Visiting the western part of the State of North Carolina, I heard of the busy social service workers, Marjorie Waite and Mary Baggette. They had found warm places in the hearts of all the mountaineers, and especially among the school teachers, some of whom were Hazel Nichols, Mildred White, Helen Wells, and Annie Lancaster. When they told me Eula Russell was in the Insane Hospital I held my breath and felt myself dropping down and down, and could barely hear their last words, "She is matron there."

Just then I awoke, and the second elf asked me if I had lost anything. When I told him my Science note book was lost, he said, "You will find it in your drawing-bag." Which elf was more valuable to me?

E. C. T. C., we all love you;
We'll cherish your name forever.
We'll praise and we'll boost you along
With the will of a mighty endeavor.

CURIIOUS did we come to thee
To learn of your noble aim.
Anxious and eager to help you
Keep your ever-increasing fame.

TO you we can never repay—
The debt grows greater each day.
The aid that you gave us so freely
To help us along life's way.

CONSISTENT you've taught us to be
In all work that we undertake.
Have patience and persistence, too,
Would we the best counsellors make.

—N. L. S.

Seniors

“SERVICE” we have learned from you
Is the surest road to success.
You’ve shown us that service alone
Can bring us the true happiness.

EAGER for our best welfare
In everything that you do.
You’ve proved a faithful friend
For which we each thank you.

NOW, as our ship swings out
On a sea of trouble and doubt,
On a sea that has billows of unrest,
And waves that seethe and rout.

IN a spirit of love and kindness
May you, as you’ve always done,
Place your strong hand in ours
And say, “Your fight shall be won!”

“ONLY have true faith, my daughter;
Have faith in your fellow-man.
Be patient with him in his blindness,
And help him to understand.

“REMEMBER, that once you were blind—
We gave the vision to you.”
’Tis true, dear home of learning,
We caught the vision from you.

SO here’s to our Alma Mater,
Whose deeds we’ll ever relate.
The greatest college that e’er will be
Within this “Grand Old State.”

Oh, Des—The Freshmen

“SAY, come on, nobody’ll hurt you! Wait your time, and maybe you’ll know: everybody and everything. How ’bout meditating over such sayings as ‘Fortune comes to those who wait.’ You have? Well, what did you find?”

“A bunch of live, wide-awake, active girls, who had decided to venture out in life; not on the would-be path of least resistance, but to dip into a college degree!”

“They lived through? Well, good! And now everybody walks ’round and says, ‘What a fine bunch The Freshmen are, ’cause they’ve got pep and vim, and always drive the blues away!’”

“Surely if they hadn’t, somebody, ere this, would have turned from green to blue. But it’s not that way with The Freshmen, ’cause they absolutely, positively, go howling everywhere:

*‘Little of Psychology, nourished with chocolate pies,
Will soon be making The Freshmen
Typically Sophomore—wise!’”*

“That made me think. They surely attack the food with the same determination. Beef hash and fish roe! Well, it doesn’t last long ’round The Freshman.”

“And say, did you hear the latest rumor? You didn’t, eh? Well, they’ve actually learned to venture nearer Fifth Street, and—. Is there more? Just ask——.”

“THE FRESHMEN.”

Class Song

(Tune of "Santa Lucia.")

Three cheers for twenty-four,
Our banner raising,
Flying the gold and white—
Joyfully praising
Our class, so staunch and true,
Upholding standards bright,
Marching with step so firm,
Fighting with all our might.
Our hearts 'round you entwine,
Spirit so great and fine,
Class of twenty-four, we cheer you,
Cheer, class of twenty-four.

Dear class, we owe to you
Much we can ne'er repay;
The vision we have gained
Will light us on our way
Through all the coming years.
Memories sweet and fair
Will live in us again
And chase away our care.
You mean so much to us;
In you we place our trust.
Class of twenty-four, we cheer you,
Cheer, class of twenty-four.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet

D. W. C. A. Activities

THE year 1922-'23 has been very successful for the Young Women's Christian Association. There has been a full program of social and religious meetings during the entire time. Morning watch services were begun last fall, and have been held each morning, except Sunday mornings. These services have proved a success, and it is thought that much good and joy have been attained through them. A series of four evangelical services have recently been held. Many of the girls were very desirous of these services and, as a result, nine girls signified their resolve to lead a Christian life.

During the fall and winter terms mission study classes and Bible study classes were conducted. The members of the faculty had charge of or taught all these classes. We are assured that these classes were worth while by the beautiful mission pageant given by the classes of Misses Sharpe and Hallie Seoville.

One of the most interesting enterprises of the year, to the girls, is the securing of a temporary place for a Y. W. C. A. store. This idea had been in view for some time but, on account of the lack of room, it had been put off quite awhile. At present the store is in a room in East Dormitory; but as soon as the work on the Administration Building is finished it will be moved over there. The profit received from the store will go to the Blue Ridge fund and the hut fund. Another means of raising the Blue Ridge fund is the May Day fete. These exercises are under the direction of the Y. W. C. A., the girls of the two-year normal classes taking the lead. They are held out on the campus, beginning in the afternoon and lasting through the evening. Refreshments, candies, fruits, etc., are sold. Usually enough money is made to send five girls to Blue Ridge.

The members of the Association, as well as the College, are looking forward to having a new Y. W. C. A. hall. Within the next two years a campus building is going to be erected. This building will serve as a home for all social and religious activities of the College. This building will also contain an auditorium, in which fifteen hundred people may be seated. The Young Women's Christian Association is planning to equip its hall in this building. The fund necessary for this equipment has already been started. The chairs in the old Y. W. C. A. hall have been sold to the College, and the money received for these placed in a savings bank, where it will stay until the new building is erected.

Blue Ridge

FROM the time the College opens in the fall, you can hear the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet members talking about Blue Ridge, and in a few weeks or months many of the new girls are filled with wonderful desires to go as a delegate next June. It is a rare privilege to witness the beauties of the Old North State, to be awakened by the bugle in order to see the sun rising, and casting its purplish rays over every mountain top and into every valley. It is a wonderful opportunity for one to come in contact with more of Mother Nature's handiwork. The views that one gets while winding around those mountain tops, climbing the steep trails to see the sun rise, are never to be forgotten. Drinking from those mountain springs and streams, always overflowing with ice cold water, visiting places such as Chimney Rock or Grove Park Inn, and catching the real "Blue Ridge spirit," are priceless gifts to anyone, especially to the girl who has never before seen the mountains.

When the nine of us left there last June, each one had a feeling of sorrow at leaving so soon the spot among the hills that we had all learned to love. Although we hated to leave, each one of us considered the real good and information that we had received while there, and left with a desire to see how much we could carry back to our College. Even though a number of weeks were to pass before this could be done, the "Blue Ridge spirit" still remained with us, and during the summer, each delegate was making her plans for the next year, and held to her enthusiasm, and also to the new ideas gained, and has tried to put the latter into practice on our own campus and in our own Y. W. C. A.

When we look at the figures 1-9-2-3,
 What is the thought that comes to you and me?
 Ah, now we have it, it's basketball.
 The player in the center is long and tall.
 'Tis true the right forward is a little low,
 But when she gets the ball she makes it go.
 Inman and Rogers are splendid dodgers,
 Not everyone can play that trick,
 But these two girls may be compared to "Tanglefoot"—
 "They Stick."
 Our side center player cannot be beat,
 She can tussle the ball from under your feet;
 She's a star on the court, in athletics a sport.
 It's "hobby" we cheer, don't you?
 "Kennedy!"
 She's played four years in basketball,
 Well, we all admit,
 But greater to say than that
 She seldom makes a mis-hit.
 Sometimes she falls and sometimes she rolls,
 She "rolls" up the score by throwing the goals.

Tale of an Alumnae

S-h-h-h! Don't make so much noise. Come on now to the third story of the Administration Building. Here we are. But how in the world shall we keep folks from hearing us? Don't ask me anything about a light. Didn't I tell you I'd let you get a candle after all of us "settle down?" My! I don't know how I'm going to tell you all the things that are fussing around in my head. I just might as well not try. Teachers College Alumnae are just like all other college graduates the world over, anyway. But if you will make me—Oh, where is my encyclopedia, and those notes? I have no idea, not the slightest. Let me think. I can't recall. I'll just have to remember what I can.

A fundamental principle of our graduates is that composite virtue we call Loyalty—a virtue that implies love, honor, allegiance and faithfulness, fealty, duty.

The graduate of loyalty keeps faith with others, and with her own self, recognizing what is right and due, and daring to be faithful to that ideal, both in word and in action. She scorns disloyalty in all its forms. She is punctilious in living up to her ideals, prompt and direct in discharge of her duty. A high conception of her trust makes her do more than public opinion expects of her. More and more allegiance is being put into practice. We are coming to see that our school cannot have a healthy growth without this. We should feel that our Alma Mater's existence depends upon us, and that we have a sacred trust to be guarded jealously. We are beginning to feel that way about it.

Oh, not yet; you see everyone must work out her own problems. There are two classes of graduates now; those who have always been faithful, and those who may become faithful. Many of us have already become so interwoven with social and industrial life that we need some kind of stimulus to make us feel that we are indispensable to our Alumnae organizations. Everyone who withdraws from the ranks weakens us just that much. Pardon my cough. I seem to have got chilly up here and it has upset my throat.

The Alumnae Association of East Carolina Teachers College must have been organized with a two-fold purpose; upholding the ideals of president, faculty, and board of trustees, and extending the influence of the College by selling it to the people of the State. We have always depended upon the enthusiasm of the classes for membership.

I don't know that we've done anything wonderful, exactly, but—yes, I suppose you are right. The Association is just feeling its way along, and it is not easy to say just what is most important to be done. One day of Commencement week has been set apart as "Alumnæ Day." In the morning there is a business meeting of the general association, given over to reports of committees, election of officers, and purely routine affairs, followed by a luncheon in the Dining Hall given by the College in compliment to the Alumnæ. This is followed by a concert by some artist of note. Headquarters have been provided in "Alumnæ Hall" for all graduates returning for Commencement. Every class has been entertained gratis the first year after "finishing."

Yes. It was. Of course there were a few who could not come back. Our problems? Yes, those problems of today which must be settled by our entire group, a fundamental unit in the organization of North Carolina society, especially. We really ought to do more advertising. People should know who it is trying to be of help to so great a multitude of children. It is a responsibility, but then you get more out of it than you can possibly put into it. I just asked myself a number of questions that I knew I would have to face sooner or later, such as: What shall I do to extend the service of my Alma Mater? How many commencements have I attended since I left school? Why did I miss the others? What efforts have I made to get girls to visit the annual gatherings? Do I read the Quarterly? Have I done all I could? That sounds fairly reasonable. Not all the other educational clubs and organizations in the State can mean so much as contact with a live-wire organization. It prepares you to meet discouragements and nerve strain; transforms hardships into pleasures.

To truly loyal Alumnæ Teachers College comes first, and we generally think of her as superior to all other schools. I read something the other day about a Pitt County Association, away off yonder somewhere, that is making progress. The Pitt Chapter was organized in the fall of 1920. They get up the program for "Alumnæ Night," serve as a unit on the Finance Committee of the entire Alumnæ Association. Miss Dicie Howell, an artist from New York, gave a program in 1921. Last year Miss Helen Yorke appeared in concert, and we are glad to announce that she will be here again this year on the night of June 4th. There have been four chairmen: Mrs. Leland Stancill (Luella Lancaster); Mrs. Carey Warren (Marjorie Davis), '12; Miss Nomie Johnson, '19-'23, and Mrs. A. S. Bynum (Emma Cobb), '13. Lois Haskins, '23, is Secretary. Their present membership includes: Estelle Green, '12; Flora Barnes, '18; Mrs. K. B. Pace (Lida Taylor),

'16; Mamie Hayes, '22; Mrs. Clifton Edwards (Mary Lee Gallup), '19; Bruce Exum, '21; Mildred Maupin, '20; Lalla Pritchard, '13; Mary Outland, '19; Arley Moore, '18; Mary Whitehurst, '19; Annie Howard Felton, '22; Nonie Johnson, '20; Mrs. Carey Warren (Margie Davis), '12; Mrs. A. J. Moore (Nell Pender), '11; Mrs. L. P. Thomas (Bettie Spencer), '15; Mabel Thomas, '21; Leah Cooke, '22.

Probably you saw in the March issue of the Digest an account of what the Wake County branch of East Carolina Teachers College Alumnae is doing. That Chapter was organized on September 12, 1920. Charter members were: Ruby Garris, '20; Mrs. R. H. McLawhon (Janie Tyson), '20; Mrs. Karl Chadwick (Blanche Alligood), '19; Louise Smaw, '16; Annie Smaw, '15; Lela Carr Newman, '15; and Pattie S. Dowell, '11. The College faculty has always been honorary members. The regular business meetings are always followed by a social hour. Books and current literature are circulated. They have tried to locate all former students and keep in touch with their interests; arranged for the Thanksgiving get-together dinners, and talked Teachers College. Their 1922-1923 roll reads: Lela Carr Newman, '15; Mrs. J. C. Holland, '19; Ruby Garris, '20; Laura Newton, '19; Mrs. Ben Tongue, '14; Mrs. B. M. Lackey (Janet Matthews), '16; Louise Smaw, '16; Bettie Pearl Fleming, '13; Camilla Pittard, '21; Blanche Lancaster, '14; Cora Lancaster, '18; Fannie Jackson, '20; Alice Whitehurst, '20; Louise Stalvey, '16; Bonnie Howard, '19; Alice Best, '21; Mrs. K. G. Hite (Hattie Taylor), '13; Blanche Atwater, '18; Mrs. J. C. Gregory (Helen Stewart), '20; Pattie S. Dowell, '11, and three associate members, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Underwood and Meta Godwin.

We must get back to our rooms before daylight! No, that would never do. Why, 'tis—Oh, mercy me! Anyway don't forget that our Alumnae Association is the greatest thing in the world! We must have great faith, overcome every obstacle, and accomplish things.

Girls! Girls! I've missed my—Oh-h-h! I'm so—. Wake up, you all. While you were up here dreaming twelve years have stolen away.

—P. S. D., '11.

Joyce Gardner: "What was he talking about?"

Annie Ruth: "He didn't say."

Clara Grissom: "Does Lillian ever work?"

Marie Jones: "Yes, but she doesn't like to be caught at it."

Candy Palace

THE EVERY-DAY DESSERT

Our Pure Ice Cream and Home Made Candy are more than a dessert. Its food value exceeds that of most table foods. A dish of our Ice Cream has the same food value as a pound of steak or four pounds of potatoes. We leave it to any member of the household to say which is the most appetizing. Lautares' Ice Cream has passed by the State Food Inspection at Raleigh, and has proved to be a pure cream and a rich cream.

Our Ice Cream plant has been installed by the Southern Construction and Supply Co., Atlanta, Ga., and is the best and most up-to-date in the State.

Elizabeth Morris: "You remind me of our new clock on the mantel."

He (glancing at the mantel and swelling up): "H-m-m! That's a very handsome clock."

Elizabeth Morris (wearily): "Yes but we can never make it go."

Mary Gold Shelton (reading "The Vision of Sir Launfal"): "What is so rare as a day in June?"

Ruth Wade: "A Freshman who isn't green."

Helen Viniarski (to, photographer): "Which way shall I look?"

Photographer: "At that sign, please."

Sign reads: "Terms cash."

Miss Vaughan: "Marie, give me a sentence."

Marie Mitchell: "Thirty days."

Miss Muffly remarked that the only thing she believed impossible was perpetual motion. She's never seen Flora McCormick chewing gum.

News Item: "Nadine Oldham falls down the steps unhurt. She must have had on a light fall suit."

Claude: "You are the sunshine of my life. You alone reign in my heart. Without you life is but a dreary cloud."

Irene Dozier: "Is this a proposal or a weather report?"

SENIORS CRY FOR IT

“A peanut sat on the railroad track,
Its heart was all a-flutter;
The four-fifteen came thundering past,
Toot! Toot! Peanut Butter.”

Winnie Taylor (in restaurant): “Do you serve lobsters here?”
Waiter: “Yes I’ll serve you in a minute.”

WE appreciate the co-operative support given us by the business men of Greenville, and by the business concerns in other cities. Let us show our gratitude by patronizing those who advertise with us.
