FOREWORD

WITH pleasure we submit to you this, the third volume of THE TECOAN. By means of these feeble attempts to contribute to literature, and to present perfect likenesses of our college mates, we hope to immortalize the incidents and friendships that are most dear to the hearts of our readers. If any leaf in this book brings sweet memories of East Carolina Teachers College to your minds, or makes your hearts throb with joy and pride, we shall feel that our task is well done.

“THE BOOK OF TIME”

Rainy days,
Gloomy days
Are mingled in Time's pages;
Sunny days,
Happy days,
Have come through distant ages;
Good deeds,
Noble deeds,
Each a page in Time's great book;
Kind thoughts,
Golden thoughts,
The goal to which we look;
By acting them,
Proving them,
It wavers before the sight;
Fearing not,
Daunting not,
The dream is brought to light;
Days and deeds,
Thoughts and acts,
Make up the book of Time;
Acting things,
Doing things,
Help make it line by line.

WORK

Let me but to do my work from day to day ;
    In field or forest, at the desk or loom,
    In roaring market-place or tranquil room,
Let me but find it in my heart to say,
When vagrant wishes beckon me astray :
    "This is my work ; my blessing, not my doom :
    Of all who live, I am the one by whom
This work can best be done, in the right way."

Then shall I see it, not too great, nor small,
    To suit my spirit and to prove my powers ;
    Then shall I cheerful greet the laboring hours,
And cheerful turn, when the long shadows fall
    At eventide, to play and love and rest
    Because I know for me my work is best.

HENRY VAN DYKE.

CLASS SONG

Our class today,
It is up and away
At the peep of early morning,
With the staff in hand,
An eager band,
Our hearts as light as air,
The Purple and Grey is leading away
As the earth our feet are scorning,
And off we start with a buoyant heart
And with never a thought of care.

CHORUS:

For it is step, step, swinging along,
We keep the time with a marching song,
Left, right, steady and strong,
Our class is leading the way.

ALMA MATER, SYMBOL OF SERVICE

Alma Mater, you've been a friend,
To your our wills we'll ever bend,
Your motto we'll bear unto the end,
For you we'll serve and carry on.

Alma Mater, to thee we'll raise
Our grateful prayers and songs of praise
Remembering in the darkest of our days
To give to mankind the Symbol of Service.

Alma Mater, we adore you
And our duty may we ever do
By making our lives to your memory true,
For you we'll toil forevermore.

—G. H. S.

THE FIRST BOOK OF THE TRIBE OF '25 CALLED '21

N the year of our Lord '21 there entered the land of E. C. T. C., to begin their sojourn there, the tribe of '25. They, the first Freshman Class, were eleven strong. But they were sore afraid.

Then Herring took the tribe of '25 and led them through the wilderness. And they came to Thanksgiving, with cheers for the C's—the C's won. And the tribe of '25 grew in wisdom and in favor with the faculty.

And it came to pass in '22, under McArthur, in the fifth month and the twentieth day of the month that the tribe of '25 adopted colors, purple and grey, and a banner.

Moreover, in the same year, Reaves called the tribe together and they furnished a cabin. The inside whereof was gray and rose. And the chairs were three and the windows five thereof. And the sight thereof was beautiful. And behold, the tribe of '25 chose that as their meeting place.

And it came to pass afterward that the Queen of May was crowned. So the tribe of '25 did make merry and feast. They guarded the animal tent at the merry-making. The sight whereof was great to behold.

And it came to pass in the third year of the sojourn of the tribe of '25 that Colwell was chosen leader. In the ninth month of the third year of the sojourn of this tribe the play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," was given. The tribe felt well pleased by the laughs they got from the crowd.

And behold! The year '25 approacheth. The journey of the tribe of '25 nears its end. Thus, in the last year of the tribe's journey, with its number increased to seventeen, the tribe of '25 advances with its face to the front.

In the sixth month of this year the tribe put on another play, "Lady Windermere's Fan," which was quite different from the other one.

They helped put out an annual, THE TECOAN, and behold, when the king says "do" the tribe of '25 is ready to do.

And it came to pass after four years the tribe, pale and thin from practice teaching in the land of E. C. T. C., comes forth victorious.

Now, therefore, the tribe of '25 reaches its end and receives its "A.B." in a cap and gown on the 2nd day of the sixth month, of the year One Thousand Nine Hundred, Twenty-Five.

Thus ends the trials and tribulations of the tribe of '25. And they are scattered throughout the earth, to the four corners thereof.

"FATHER TIME,"
Historian.

The Freshman stood on the railroad track,
The train was coming fast;
The Freshman got off the railroad track,
And let the train go past.

The Senior stood on the railroad track,
The train was coming fast;
The train got off the railroad track,
And let the Senior pass.

AT TWILIGHT ON CORE SOUND

'Twas calm; the drowsy sea had rocked itself to sleep,
And the boats, weary of the tossing of the waves
Throughout the day, rested gently on its bosom,
Bathed in the last rays of the sun.
Many tinted rays; blue which changes into pale green.
Then the loveliest of all—glowing lavender:
A filmy, gauzy, delicateness that hovers,
Just a moment then passes on.
The noises of the busy world are absent now,
The engines of the motor boats have long been still.
Shrieking gulls, dipping here and there to snatch a fish,
Have found their meal and flown away.
Silence—silence over the watery distance.
Time for rest and peace has come and nature obeys,
Yet listen closely, one can hear the distant ocean.
Forever tossing in its bed.

ANNIE H. FELTON, 24.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

As an old man, making preparation to start on his last journey, wills his cherished possessions to those whom he loves, so we, the College Seniors, realizing that our days, as students are numbered, wish to bequeath certain gifts to those we leave behind us.

Our one request is that these, our most honored possessions, be carefully guarded and that they be passed down to succeeding generations of E. C. T. C. as gifts from the class of '25.

ITEM I

To our parents and friends, who have made our education possible, we do bequeath our love and appreciation. May they ever hold first place in our hearts.

ITEM II

To our Alma Mater we will our lives to carry out its motto—"To Serve."

ITEM III

To the faculty in general we will our unmeasured esteem and gratitude for every attainment they have helped us reach; moreover, there are certain individual bequests.

1. To Mr. Austin, our imagination, so he will be better prepared to make his pupils, who come after us, visualize unseen objects as they exist.

2. To Miss Wilson, all our sarcasm, to be used only in her classroom when especially needed.

3. To Miss Hall, a lock and key for her classroom door so the noise of the girls on the hall will not force her to commit suicide.

4. To Miss Jenkins, all the scrambled tests she has so generously given us; the class as a whole desires them to be given back to her.

5. To Miss Hooper and Mr. Deal, our undying love and gratitude for the services rendered us in coaching our Senior play.

6. To Mr. Fitzgerald, all the startling information we have furnished the various teachers from time to time on our examination papers. This information is to be given out to the rural teachers over Pitt County, when he thinks they are ready to receive it.

ITEM IV

To the Juniors, we donate all our surplus dignity and sophistication, hoping this honor will not be too heavy for their young shoulders. We also bequeath a magnifying glass with which to find our privileges.

ITEM V

To our sisters, the Sophomore Class, we leave our love and spirit of co-operation, and with tears and sobs we give them our beloved "hut" on condition that it be well preserved, and that the unmarried furniture be left in its present beauty.

The 1925 Trecoan

ITEM VI

To the Freshmen, we leave this motto: "To be seen, and not heard."

ITEM VII

To the Student Body, we do lovingly bequeath certain familiar sayings: "Can you see that in your mind's eye?" "Yes, um-huh." "Good morning, daughters." "If you think that is a good idea raise your hand." "Draw it to the line." "For instance." "Any questions?" "Let me use this for an illustration." "All right girls, let's not drag it." "Pardon this personal illustration." "AND YET, And Yet, and yet, and yet." "If I see any more talking back there I am going to send you out of this room." "Two plates of bread, girls. Do you understand?" "Exactly, my dear." "Score yourself zero." "Oh, by the way."

ITEM VIII

Grace Strassburger wills her place at Mrs. Beckwith's right side to the next Student Government President.

ITEM IX

Marie Lowry bequeaths all of her "flapperism" to Maude B. Fulford, hoping that by its aid Maud may attain the height that she has reached.

ITEM X

Millie Roebuck leaves all her lipstick, flipsticks, face powder, beauty spots and rouge spots, together with her hair nets and general knowledge of beauty, to Annie Mae Edwards.

ITEM XI

Cleora Quinn wills Juanita Worthington her ability to bluff so the latter may forever afterwards be freed from the "pest" called study.

ITEM XII

Pearl Wright, having very emphatically declared her purpose of becoming an old maid, leaves a certain "generous" man of her acquaintance to Isabella Cro-martie.

ITEM XIII

To one who feels the need of an extensive, comprehensive, compendious, and voluminous vocabulary, the Class of '25 leaves the well-known one of Ivy Phillips'.

ITEM XIV

Millie Everette's place in Miss Jenkins' heart shall be given to Rachel Lee, and the popularity of the entire faculty may be of great use to her.

ITEM XV

Melene Congleton wills her ability to put on airs to Mary Fannie Trexler.

The 1925 Teroan

ITEM XVI

Rebecca Colwell bequeaths her long string of beaux to any Junior who fears she will be an old maid.

ITEM XVII

Amanda Tillman wills her unbounding love for European History to Margaret Smith, also the knowledge she has acquired in Sociology.

ITEM XVIII

Willie Mae Hedgepeth does forever bequeath her hatred of the opposite sex to Louise Crawford, but does retain her desire for a rich husband.

ITEM XIX

Annie Blanche Herring wills her heartfelt sympathy and her pleasant dealings with the photographer to the next business manager, provided she carries this on in a business-like manner.

ITEM XX

Mary Outland wills her quiet dignity to the loudest Freshman in college. (Here it will be left to a vote.)

ITEM XXI

To Sallie Ross, who has slick black hair, Alya Taylor leaves a patch of gray hair, which she got from hard study.

ITEM XXII

To the poor, rattle-brained student who needs it most, Mrs. Petteway (known as Lillian Hewett to the Class of '25) wills her knowledge of the universe.

ITEM XXIII

Bonnie Howard wills two feet five and a quarter inches of her height to Edith Furr.

ITEM XXIV

Trixie Jenkins bequeaths to any lovesick Junior her stack of novels. They will be found in room No. 321.

If for any reason dissatisfaction should occur as to the dispensation of this property it shall be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder, in front of Five Points Drug Store. We appoint Mr. R. C. Deal, Chief Administrator.

Signed and sealed on the third of June, A. D., nineteen hundred and twenty-five, by:

RUTH DEAN, (Seal),
Testatrix.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

HOULD you ask me where my classmates,
Where my present friends will be
With their memories of college,
With their plans for greater service,
Carrying out their life's great program,
Following higher ideals ever;
In the year of nineteen fifty.
I should answer, I should tell you,
Northward, Southward, Eastward, Westward,
To the four winds of this great earth;
From the lands of icy climates,
To the lands of ceaseless summer;
From the lands of steepest mountains,
To the lands at ocean level.
Over mountains, over valleys,
Over oceans, over rivers,
Are these friends so widely scattered.
If still further you should ask me,
Saying tell us of these classmates;
Tell us where each member now is,
Where by daily life and duties
Life is being made so happy
For the ones with whom she mingles,
Hoping these to guide and strengthen.
I should answer, I should tell you,
In the cornlands of the Northwest,
In the region of the Great Lakes,
Do we find Amanda Tillman;
Teaching, guiding, helping, leading,
Children of these husky farmers,
To form plans for future greatness.
Near her is another classmate,
Cleora Quinn, our domestic member;
With her wisdom, gleaned at college,
Teaching mothers and their daughters
How to use their home-grown products,
In many ways they ne'er had thought of.
Here, too, is Rebecca Colwell,
Who helps them also with their sewing,
Plans their dress for all occasions,
Tells them which are most becoming,
To their special size and makeup.

We hear her, as we did in college,
Telling some "long lines are better,"
Others, "you are rather taller,
Broken lines are quite the thing."

Still others of our classmates,
Through love for our capital city,
Have found their work among the thousands
Who yearly go to live there.
One, who in her college days
Showed ability for greater things
Than she had heretofore accomplished,
That it seemed success was evident,
So we find her in the senate,
Grace Strassburger, from Pennsylvania,
Representing, to her best ability,
Her people, who with the same confidence
In her that her schoolmates had,
Know that she will never forget
To do the right thing for them.
Bonnie Howard has succeeded,
Since our early days together,
In reaching heights almost unknown,
And has helped to organize
A Department of Education
In the Cabinet of our President.
She is doing many great things,
As the head of this department,
And a member of the cabinet,
To whom our President turns for counsel
Regarding the education of the children
Of our liberty-loving country.
Still another of our classmates,
Melene Congleton, our Secretary,
Reserved, demure and unoffending,
Listening quietly to our chatter
In our precious class meetings,
Is still a Secretary;
But this time to the President
Of our great and grand Republic
Of our own United States.

Some have answered life's great calling,
By helping to relieve the suffering
Of humanity around them.

Three are in a large hospital
In our sister country, South America,
Doing to their very utmost,
Everything they possibly can do,
To combat diseases common
To the land in which we find them.
Thus we find these members daily
Accomplishing far greater things
Than they ever did in college.

One a doctor, Willie Mae Hedgepeth,
Doing marvelous operations,
Lecturing as she operates
To a group of medical students,
Who are eager in their listening
To the truths of the great doctor,
In whom they have the utmost confidence.

Nothing can be more important
To the work of the great physician,
Than a nurse of sterling character,
One with a pure and open countenance,
One that feels her duty keenly,
Feels it of such great importance,
As to call forth her best effort.
Thus, a nurse, we find Millie Everette,
Standing by this doctor always,
Helps her with her operations,
Boosts her when she feels disheartened,
Ready to give her faith and courage,
Helps the weary patients also,
Helps them bear their trials and sufferings
By speaking to them words of kindness.

Yet another thing of moment
In caring for the sick and weary,
For the mind and body sufferers,
Drawn with pain and burned with fever,
Is the nourishment of their bodies,
Food that makes them live and prosper,
Food that means one-half the battle,
In this place of such importance,
As dietitian, Alya Taylor,
Planning always nourishing foods
To strengthen their weakening bodies,

To lift them out of the depths
Of the bodily sick and despondent,
And bring back to their cheeks the roses.

Your surprise should not be so great
When I tell you of Mrs. Petteway,
For surely every one expected
Great things from our married member,
She has lived up to our fond hopes,
And is now a solemn judge
In the Supreme Court of our country,
Showing kindness to rich and poor,
Playing fair with innocence and guilt,
Dealing justice to all alike.

We have another national figure,
Ivy Phillips, Attorney-General
Of this dear old United Country.
Well do we remember how
In college days she used to argue
With various teachers on current topics,
And in the end her ready wit
Had gained the point for which she sought,
So it seems 'twas quite in evidence,
With her enormous vocabulary,
That her fate should thus be trended.

Ruth Dean is an important character,
Lecturer for the Y. W. C. A.,
For that world-wide organization
That binds Christian girls together.
Broadens their outlook on living,
Giving e'er the best that's in her,
In the upbuilding of our nation,
In the raising of our morals
To a higher and nobler standard.

Another that is surely helping
With the advancement of God's kingdom,
Is Trixie Jenkins, in far China,
Working as a missionary,
Working for the missions gladly.
Daily she is found and sought out
By some struggling idol worshipper,
To be told about the Great God
That gives pleasure to his followers,
Saying if such things are true
He would give all he possesses
For this peace of mind and spirit.

Way out in the Pacific Ocean,
On the Islands of the Philippines,
Teaching mathematics to the natives,
Annie Blanche Herring is holding sway.
Through her absolute faith and courage
In the people and their customs,
She is attaining great success;
The results she gets are pleasing.

Some of the leaders of one subject,
Others leaders of some other,
All are leaders in their own line.
Pearl Wright's line is education;
So we find her as the chairman
Of the National Education Association,
Organizing, standardizing,
All the schools throughout our land,
So the poor have equal chances
With the rich in this free country,
In this land of opportunity,
Where all race and class distinction
Is fast being done away with.

Marie Lowry showed a fondness,
Back in 'Teachers' College days,
For the books in our library,
Thus we see this love has carried
With her through the following years,
Until now she is librarian
In our big Congressional library.
Here she has become acquainted
With the books of many nations,
Making them her choicest friends,
When alone she is not lonesome,
For in them she finds companions.

Still one other of our classmates
Is going forward to success
In the field of General Science,
Tearing down old superstitions,
Putting in their places doctrines
Based on facts, found out by research.
Millie Roebuck is now teaching
Science in her Alma Mater,
To the boys and the girls
Of her loved State North Carolina.

Thus I've told you of my classmates
Who since leaving 'Teachers' College

The 1925 Tecoa

In the year nineteen twenty-five,
Have succeeded in their purpose
Of upholding their class motto,
"Service above Self," which always
Has been our chief and highest ambition.
Some have followed early training,
That of teaching hungry intellects,
Yet, to all, their former knowledge,
(Be they doctor, lawyer, teacher),
Is of most inestimable value.
For by it they are better able
To understand their own companions.
And the ones with whom they mingle
Are made just a little better
Through their close and friendly contact.
So, my classmates, let me wish you
Godspeed in your future attempts,
That you may attain yet greater
Heights than you have thus far reached,
In this year of nineteen fifty.
And remember always, ever,
That the teachers at our college
Watch us climbing, higher, higher,
And their hearts grow glad within them,
And we owe to them a great deal
For thus helping in the shaping
Of our lives and future progress.

Thus I wish to send a greeting
To my classmates where they're scattered
In the regions of the mountains,
In the frozen icy climates,
In the regions of the sun-kissed,
In the many lands of progress,
Classmates whose vocabularies
Contain not the words "to fail,"
Striving ever upward, onward,
With their faces toward the future,
Never faltering, never failing,
Backward going, never, never,
In the year of nineteen fifty.

CLASS HISTORY '25

VER since the Fall of 1923 when 280 "C's" entered the halls of East Carolina Teachers College, the class of 1925 has presented a unique record.

In every type of college activity, and in that spirit which belongs to East Carolina Teachers College, the class of '25 has laid at the feet of her Alma Mater a worthy contribution.

In November we organized ourselves, after due consideration and thought, under the leadership of Ella Outland, who proved that she was both worthy and capable of being president of the class.

Thanksgiving Day—Basketball game between the "C's" and "D's." Our team won.

January 27, 1924—We rendered a most interesting Y. W. C. A. program.

April 19—We entertained the "D" class by giving them free tickets to the Wake Forest Glee Club Concert, which was given in the school auditorium.

May 12—We did our part in making May Day Festival a success.

May 19—We had our class picnic, and never before had we seen so many good things to eat at one time. Mr. Deal won out in several races he had with girls eating "hot dogs" and ice cream cones.

June 3—We witnessed with great envy the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class.

June 4—Vacation.

On September 26, 1924, 176 members of our class returned to finish the good record started in 1923.

On October 18 our class was organized and again Ella Outland was chosen as the guardian angel of the "D" class.

October 31—The witches and ghosts of the "D" class assembled in the Model School woods and had a real Hallowe'en party.

November 15—We signed a contract for our class rings.

November 23—Our class conducted Y. W. C. A. services.

Thanksgiving Day—Ball game. We were, as ever, victorious.

In December our class conducted the Christmas Y. W. C. A. services. A beautiful and impressive pageant was given.

January 12—The Carolina Glee Club was brought here under the auspices of the "D" class.

In February we gave a reception in honor of our friends.

In April the "D" class presented a play to the school.

The 1925 Yearbook

June 1—Class Day.

June 2—The most important date of our whole school life, the presentation of diplomas.

A note of sadness creeps in as we chronicle these events, for, we realize there has been so much left undone. We have done our best as a class, and when we have passed from the doors of our Alma Mater into real life, we feel that we shall be capable of representing E. C. T. C. in our lives and by our example always.

ISA GORDON TUCKER.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

State of North Carolina }
County of Pitt }
Town of Greenville }

EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS COLLEGE

E, the members of the Senior Normal Class of '25 being of sound health, and balanced mentally, do solemnly bequeath our good will and all our earthly goods et cetera to our beloved brethren and "sistern" who will be left behind to follow in our noble footsteps. Therefore, let it be known that all former wills are declared by us null and void.

First: We do bequeath to the school as a whole all our intellectual attainments, and our eternal love and devotion.

Second: To our Faculty:

ITEM I. To Mr. Meadows we do will and bequeath a thousand revised short stories, written by the Normal class students in their first year, with the hope that his insatiable taste for stories be appeased, and that the poor mortals who come after us may not suffer from writers' cramp.

ITEM II. To Mr. Deal we bequeath this chest of cigars, in order that he may never be without his boon companion.

ITEM III. To Misses McKinney and Wilkes we bequeath this adding machine, so that they will have no trouble in adding the failures in Mathematics.

ITEM IV. To Miss Lewis, we leave this dictaphone. We hope that it may save her voice by telling the many "C" classes to "draw it to the line."

ITEM V. To Mr. Austin we do will and bequeath the ingredients for a cake, to be shown to his geography classes, and to save the girls from wearing out their imagination.

ITEM VI. To Miss Jenkins we have dedicated this book, and hereby make a gift to her of this copy of "Mother Goose Rhymes vs. Shakespeare."

ITEM VII. To Miss Chamberlain we leave one hundred doll houses, to be given to the class of '26, thus saving the members of that class many hours of hard labor, and nervous breakdowns.

The 1925 Decree

ITEM VIII. To Messrs. Adams and Haynes we bequeath this uncivilized baby monkey, with the hope that they will do research work of original nature.

ITEM IX. To Mr. Henderson—This volume of choice answers to "Why, which, Give your reasons; How do you know?" etc.

ITEM X. To Miss Kuykendall, a megaphone to be used in teaching Community Singing.

ITEM XI. To Mr. Frank we leave this "Mouthometer" to record the speed of his speech on "Contemp" lectures.

ITEM XII. To Miss Davis, four sets of North Carolina History, compiled from newspaper clippings by the class of '25.

ITEM XIII. To Miss Wilson, we leave many of our most cherished articles: one oz. water, one box rouge, one lipstick, one eyebrow pencil, and a pair of strapped sandals.

ITEM XIV. To Mrs. Jeter and Miss Keel—This corn-fed cow, the symbol of the dining room.

ITEM XV. To Miss Gray—A share in Miss Kuykendall's megaphone, so she will have no trouble in keeping the library quiet.

ITEM XVI. To Misses McFadyen and Whiteside we leave this bottle of smelling salts, to be kept ready for use when they make their unexpected visits to student teachers.

ITEM XVII. To Miss Hooper we bequeath this volume of plays, by the noted author, "Tellher Spookshakes."

ITEM XVIII. To Miss Hall: A latch for her door, which opens into the main corridor of the Administration Building.

ITEM XIX. To Miss Ross: This group picture of the Senior Normal class, in appreciation of the many books she has given us.

ITEM XX. To Mr. Keech: These suggestions to be used in his next book, "Scientific Facts, Frankly Discussed."

The 1925 Tercon

ITEM XXI. To Mrs. Beckwith we leave this little bulb which, when squeezed, says "Daughter." May she use it to advantage, and so save herself the trouble of calling us into the office as we pass by.

ITEM XXII. To Miss Harding: A new system of speaking tubes for all rooms in the Administration Building to help her find the girls she is always looking for. These tubes will add six months to the life of her shoe soles.

ITEM XXIII. To Miss Moore: This periscope for examining mattresses. We hope this will save her the trouble of tearing up the girls' beds every Wednesday.

ITEM XXIV. To Miss Beaman we bequeath this mocking bird, so she will not have to listen to the rasping (?) voices in her dormitory.

ITEM XXV. Miss Culp: May you have unbounded pleasure in giving this ton of salts to the undergraduates.

ITEM XXVI. To Miss Scoville: This machine which prints examination questions and invisible answers.

ITEM XXVII. To the Music Teacher: A fish, so their pupils will have no trouble with "Scales."

ITEM XXVIII. To the Model School teachers we leave the fruit of our year's work at the Model School, 16,800 lesson plans.

ITEM XXIX. To Miss White we leave a portion of Miss Wilson's height.

Third: To the following classes:

ITEM I. To the "C" class we leave our knowledge of all things, great and small, mostly small. We bequeath to you our most cherished accomplishment of "getting by." May our senior dignity be as becoming to you as it has been to us! We further leave you our "knowing look," which, after all, is our most important asset, for thereby we "Fooleth" the instructors!

ITEM II. To the freshmen we leave this sponge to help wash away the unbecoming green. We also leave them our privilege of going down town six days in the week.

The 1925 Tecoan

ITEM III. To the Sophomores we leave this book on etiquette, so that they may know how to act at the many social functions which will take place during their Junior year.

ITEM IV. To the Junior class we leave our Nods and Becks and Wreathed smiles."

Fourth:

ITEM I. To our Annual Staff: We leave our good will and appreciation for their untiring efforts in getting out this edition of THE TECOAN.

ITEM II. To the Y. W. C. A. we leave this big bag full of cement "All-day suckers," to be sold at ten cents each.

Fifth:

To Mr. Wright we leave our love and appreciation for all he has done for us.

Sixth:

To dear old E. C. T. C. we leave our unfailing loyalty and support.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the class of '25, the testators, have to this, our last will and testament, set our hand and seal, this the second day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

SENIOR NORMAL CLASS PROPHECY

(By Leased Wire to The News and Observer.)

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y. The most brilliant social affair of this season took place at the lovely apartments of Misses Isa Gordon Tucker and Frances Warren last evening. Misses Tucker and Warren are two of New York's leading business ladies. Miss Tucker is director of the Physical Education Department at Columbia University, while Miss Warren is director of the History Department.

The fête was given in honor of Educational Advisor of the President's cabinet, R. C. Deal, and his Private Secretary, Virginia Johnson. Assistant Secretary, Grace McLeod. The guests were the members of the class which graduated from East Carolina Teachers College in 1925.

Misses Lucille Lawrence, Minnie Robertson, Lucille Terry and Gladys McCracken, chief interior decorators of Europe, offered their services to the hostess; the decorations evidenced the hands of artists. Everywhere the color scheme of blue and white (the colors of the class) were used.

One feature of the evening that was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone was a dance by Misses Phoebe White, Elinor Grimes, Sallie Dees, Louise Phelps, Bettie Horne and Valera Moore. These girls formed a dancing club back at E. C. T. C. and are now noted teachers of dancing throughout the whole of America.

Misses Willie Aiken and Helen Mattocks, noted operatic stars, favored the guests with, "It Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'." They were accompanied on the ukeleles by Misses Katherine Barnette and Grace Gregory, who travel with them.

Next on the program was a playlet directed by Misses Ella Outland and Lucille Creel whose productions have become famous in the state of Arizona. The play was written by Misses Mamie Cutler and Mary Davenport, for the occasion and has never been presented to the public.

Mlle. Marie Dupont (in private life Miss Mary Reid Daniels) famous Parisian actress, was seen in the leading role. She was supported by Thelma Brown, Blanche Evans, Hettie Gardner, Carrie Mae Knight, Catherine Fisher, and Janie Delle Carawan. Probably never in all history has such a company of stars performed.

Miss Annie Ives Andrews, Dot Broughton and Pegg Bullock, substantial modistes of Greenville, plan all the gowns that Miss Daniel and her supporters use.

The draperies, furnishings, etc., used in the apartment were purchased from the Edwards Supply Store, Mary, Lida and Daisy having joint stock in this firm.

The menu for the evening was planned by the well known dietitians, Margie Lee Horton, Bessie Norville and Helen Jones, ably assisted by Selma Bowers, U. S. Food Commissioner.

Between courses Miss Bertha Baxley, American Consul to Paraguay, gave short interesting talks on South America. She was assisted by her companion

Alberta Wallace, while Mattie Mae Lyon, owner of the Paint Slingers Art Studio, sketched cartoons of the speeches.

The program ended with one of our favorite songs of 1925, "Sailing" with Miss "Cat" Spain, Metropolitan pianist of Washington, N. C., and Misses Virginia Hubbard, Lucy Clair Ivey, Edith Furr, Velma Matthews, Rachel Olive, and Rachel Godwin, whose voices had been cultivated since last we parted. However the elaborate entertainment lasted until the wee small hours of the morning, closing after each guest had given a brief account of her life since graduation, thirteen years previous.

The other distinguished guests present were: Misses Jeanette Propst, and Elizabeth Archie, authors of the much read book, "How to Enjoy School Days." Miss Louise Chalk, Junior leader of the Redpath Chautauqua, and Misses Appless White and Ladybird Barnes, bareback riders in Ringman Brothers show.

Blanche Trogdon a dealer in Ford cars:

Says she the flivver
Has goth the Reo beat
For it has no big partition
Right beside the drivers seat.

Misses Jane Bahnson and Thelma Everette, Governors of North and South Carolina, respectively, with their flunkies, Fannie Martin, Esther Stearns, Ida King, Irma Cox, Lulabelle Floyd, and Verla Haigler, Home Demonstration Agent for Ivory Soap; Miss Velda Conwell, Lib Harrison, telegraph operator for the Norfolk and Southern, Mattie Ratliffe, a cupid in the Ziegfeld Follies, Phoebe Trexler, once known as a book worm, now teaching high school geometry, changing from a book worm to an angle worm. Misses Opal McCallum, Annie Gray and Ruth Overcash, returned missionaries from China.

Alverta Brendle, Reba McCoy, Deruchia Gay and Annie Bradley, philanthropists. Kate Frisbie success matron of the reform school at Winterville. Misses Ernestine Taylor, Frances and Norman McKeithan, private nurses of the President's family.

Misses Edna Brown, Vera Laidlaw, True Hubbard and Mary Nelson Smith, Western North Carolina's tragical bootleggers; Misses Gladys Brown, Bessie Mae Savage, Dora Collier and Wincy Johnson, eastern Carolina's noted boot-blackers. Misses Lillian Owen and Ruby Delamar, manufacturers of the famous face lotion—Peaches and Cream. Dot "Heart" and Martha "Cherry" still hold their records as speeds and are now acting as speed cops. Miss Elizabeth Gravely is superintendent of a prosperous truck farm of poultry and "taters." Thelma Toler, Secretary of State (of Peripolis). Misses Bec Knox, Mary Hooks, Evelyn Terry, and Edith Alexander in using their knowledge of Math are bridge constructors. Misses Ruby Daniels and Florence Dean, U. S. chief champion walkers. Lena Hartness and Margaret Kelly, having loved and lost, have taken up positions that keep fresh in their minds the sad past. Lena is a tamer of wild animals, especially tigers (that the name "Tige" may live). Margaret is fixing watches and clocks (to hear the Tick). Esther Johnson, Ellie Nesbit and Myrtle Livingston are famous detectives; they received their inspiration at E. C. T. C. Ada Shaw, Aline Stephenson and Devilla Story, operators of the peanut and popcorn stand at Five Points. Misses Daisy and Willard Whichard, U. S. Supreme Managers of "Bills." Beatrice Abernethy, victor in "Rapid Fire Grin Tryouts," Miss Eula Lane now featuring in, "Trapping the Bird." Antha Black and Eula Whitley, industrious hat checkers at the Proctor Hotel, Greenville, N. C. "Mache" Overman, owner of a large ranch in Wyoming, and her helpers, Lida Phillips, Mary Etta Tunstall, Ida Whitehurst, Kathleen Yates and Lina Fleming. Misses Sarah McCallum and Essye Neal Ward, park police, preventing any spooning. Hallie Peele, Virla Tom Price, Fannie Jones Turner and Jesse Mitchell, happily married ladies who left their husbands at home and attended the reunion alone that they might take back their maiden names for the occasion. Misses Daisy Cleaton, Nannie Madre and Marie Strickland extend invitations to the class of '25 to visit them in their beautiful homes at Atlantic City. Misses Elizabeth Wilkins and Selma Williams, Senators from Wisconsin. Gladys Stokes and Annie Lois Williams, Campaign Managers for The Women's Independent Party. Annie Uzzell and Lillian Van Dyke, prominent dentists of Fountain, N. C. Carrie Mae Umstead and Pauline Taylor, struggling teachers of Psychology at Meredith College. Alda Hamrick, giggling clown, traveling with a well known carnival. Harriet Batts and Sarah Gilliam, owners of the Batts-Gill Beauty Parlor. Hettie Draper and Julia Grant, inventors of the Make Your Hair Wave Brush. Eunice Benton, Lillian Joyner, Ida Carter, discoverers of the chemical that keeps your eyes pretty; they call it "winks." Miss Sarah Mercer, Athletic coach at Farmville, N. C. Margaret Roberson, Ellen Rouse, Eula Vincent and Ruth White have charge of Craig's Old Maids' Home in Norfolk. Misses Corrinne Tucker and Julia Felton, best known as the "Arbuckle twins," are progressive salesmen for the Maxwell House Coffee Company. Mary Spruill, Allean Myers, and English Wade, operators of a Chinese laundry in Bagdad. They always liked stiff collars. Lillian Wethington, President of Federation of Labor, and her cabinet, Thelma Ashworth, Hazel Allen, Eva Mizelle, and Rose Williamson. Misses Sadie Smith and Sadie Boyette, who runs a freight boat from Norfolk to Washington. D. C. Blanche Thornberg, street car conductor and Ida Woodward, motorman on the White Line. Miss Delilah Whitfield who stands a good chance of winning world championship as a prize fighter, and her manager, Eulah McCullen. Misses Alverta Brindle and Rosa Worsley, research workers, now trying to determine why all our famous men were born on holidays. Miss Johnsie Winfield, President of the Southern Pow-der Co. Misses Glennie Mae Scarboro and Merle McAdams, now driving the buses from Raleigh to Greenville. Miss Stella Howell, a very efficient writer, one of her latest and most widely read books being, "The Blessings of Dignity." But listen, out of that enormous class of the year 1925 only two have stuck to the profession, and built upon the foundation laid at East Carolina Teachers College. They were Misses Mattie Teague and Ethel Harrison, now successful teachers in the grammar schools of Chicago, Ill.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

FLOWER: White Rose

COLORS: Purple and White

MOTTO: "Not failure, but low aim is crime."

CLASS POEM

Three score and more we came
Quite fresh to Teachers College,
Yet, we're a band of happy workers,
We, the class of twenty-eight.

The college laws we had to learn,
And take a test on them, too;
Mid many other hardships,
For our trials are not a few.

And as time passes on its way,
Our freshman year is creeping,
But now it is almost gone
And our last rewards we're reaping.

Our aim is to be good teachers,
Mighty in word and in deed
Always ready to lend a hand,
Or help a wanted need.

Thus we feel, as our motto says,
"Not failure, but low aim is crime,"
Then midst our trials and joys,
We'll strive to reach the heights sublime.

Then year by year in every way,
We'll strive to do our best,
Always raising our standards,
Until they're among the rest.

Dear old memory your place will be great,
Tho' we, as a class, stray afar,
For the affection we have for you today
Neither distance nor time can mar.

So watch us as the years go by,
Until we mount the heights,
We'll carry with us on our way
Our memories to aid our fights.

THE WITCHING HOUR

"Come to order," the President cries,
"It's 1 A. M., and a new case before us lies."

After stating the case they said, "May
Each one of us have our say?"

First to speak was Mary Outland,
"Nothing like the truth is what we demand."

"We didn't get it," reminds Copeland,
"So let us chastise her with the hand."

The Smiths gave a loud derisive laugh
And said, "Pshaw, all that's chaff."

Parsons, being shocked beyond measure,
Primly said, "Self-control is a treasure."

"Well, the only thing to do," says Gray,
"Is that we send her far away."

"What has she done?" Ivey asks,
"That we can impose so hard a task."

"I'm sleepy, oh, so sleepy," says Jones,
Amidst the order she sighs and moans.

Thomas with her mouth wide open,
Said what should never have been spoken.

The President raps, and calls, "Come to order,"
In the land of sleep, Jenkins is on the border.

Trexler pleads, "Let us haste away,
And come back here another day."

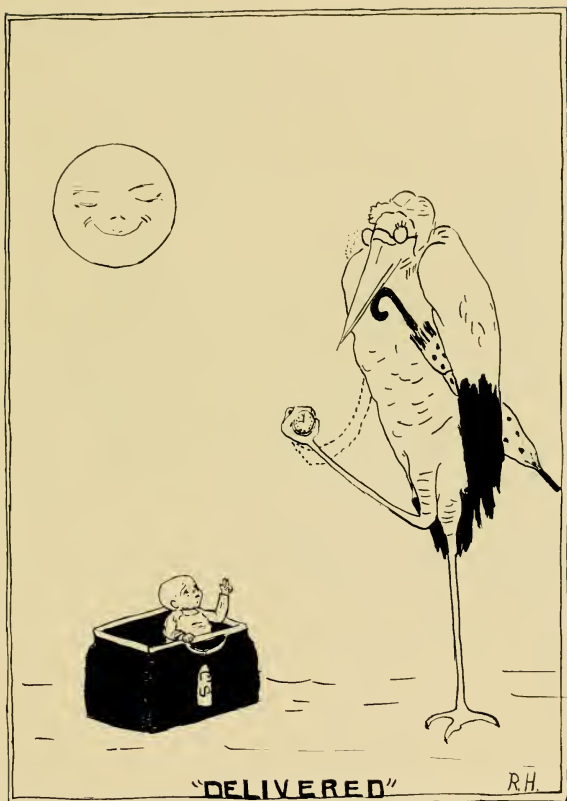

Allen, Usrey and Hartness pleaded
For the rest we so much needed.

Only Taylor and Cogdell lament
That no more time on the case is spent.

"Let us drop the case," says Vick,
"And that will do the trick."

The cry arose, "Let us adjourn."
In lock step they went out turn by turn.

Class Mascot

CLASS POEM

We are the Junior Normal Class,
Three hundred number we.
In many sections tho' we be
Just one big family.

Memories return of our early history,
Thoughts of autumn of '24,
Of the time when we came to Greenville,
And thought t'would rain forevermore.

But soon our path looked brighter,
As we united as one
We realized that opportunities lay before us,

That our tasks were just begun.

In '26 we will be Seniors
Of dear old E. C. T. C.
Altho' we have had many trials
May we efficient teachers be.

So we took up our Junior Normal work,
With a good will and determination
To do whatever was right
Since we'd chosen this honorable vocation.

Altho' our "C" class of '24 strove
To win honors and fame,
We learned to be good losers,
To do noble things in life's game.

We were loyal to our colors,
Which were Lavender and White;
For the success of each member
We wish with all our might.

VIDA BELL, '26.

"BROKE"

No one knows how it feels to be broke,
Never to have a cent;
'Till all his money belongs to others,
Because it's already spent.

Others sympathize and tell you
That they have been broke also;
But you'll notice if you've a mind to,
That they have a pile of dough.

This broke feeling is a bad one,
You see many things for which you care;
You never feel that you can afford them,
'Cause you've not a cent to spare.

Every day you want more things,
That you adore but cannot afford;
You say so much about being broke,
All the folks around you are bored.

But if your prospects grow any brighter,
And you see any money comin' in,
You're glad to see your friends and debtors,
Even greet them with a friendly grin.

Then if you pay debts and more debts,
And have some more money to spend;
You're likely to meet most all your friends,
'Cause you have some money to lend.

It isn't so much fun to be broke once,
Even if later you have good luck;
But always to look on the bright side,
Takes a mighty lot of pluck.

Now my friends, let me tell you,
If you don't care to get in this pie,
Don't spend your money before you get it,
If you do you'll want to cry.

For it's easier to pay for what you need now
And let the rest alone,
Than it is to spend it before hand
And then need it after it's gone

FOUR TIMES A YEAR

"What is so much noise about?"

"I don't know, let's go see." "Goodness! our reports."

"What did you get on English?"

"I don't know, but I'm off to the postoffice now." Looking like an escaped convict, I jerked on my coat and ran around the back way in order to escape the mob and the powers that be.

However, I ran into the raving crowd when I entered the postoffice. With the help of my umbrella I finally reached my box, although I was taken off my feet up into the air several times. After much suffering of the brain and the many knocks from all sides, I opened my box with trembling fingers. By the time I reached the open and light again my eyes had devoured the contents. It was then that I became aware of what was going on around me.

"Landsakes! I worked my head off and then didn't get but a four." "Sally Jones got a one." "I know I deserved as much as she did."

"Ding that old man! I never did like him."

"As hard as I worked for her, I'm going to stop work and then see what I get."

"I don't care if I did flunk the old mess, it won't do me any good any way."

With a start I remembered my roommate was anxiously awaiting the results of her toil and laborious work. So I retraced my steps again and finally reached my room to find Ruth Dean and Elizabeth standing in the middle of the floor, faces scarlet, eyes sparkling and their tongues loose at both ends. The conversation that followed is not publishable.

ATHLETICS

ATHLETICS is something that every college girl should take part in, and we have found that all the girls of our college this year have been more interested in athletics than ever before. When we think of athletics we think of tennis, baseball, basketball, track, golf links, and skating rinks.

The first game of importance at E. C. T. C. is the Thanksgiving basketball game between the two normal classes. Long before the game comes off the girls of both classes are practicing hard, and this was noticed last fall more than any fall previous, because the girls seemed to be more interested in the outcome of the game. This game caused much excitement in the last quarter when the "C" class made so many scores. This only caused the "D" class to work much harder, and, by doing this they won by a score of 33-31. This was one of the most exciting games in the history of the college, and we are hoping for it to be even more exciting next year.

"Field Day" is full of lively athletic features with all classes participating. The games played on this day decided the winners of the two silver cups. The class winning the most points in tennis, baseball and track receives the athletic cup, and the class winning in basketball receives the basketball cup.

Members of the faculty have asked that we have a "Kite Flying Contest" in March. This will be a new sport at E. C. T. C. and we feel sure all the girls are going to do all they can to make this day on which the contest takes place, interesting and full of pep.

ELIZABETH GRAVELY, '25.

WHEN WE EAT BEEF

The shades of night were falling fast,
When through the rain the girls did pass,
Holding umbrellas over them all,
On their way to the dining hall,
    To eat the beef.

The bell had not rung, so on the step
They stood in the rain, but soon their pep
Had sunk to such a low degree,
They wondered if they'd able be
    To eat the beef.

Soon the loud and noisome bell
Pealed forth in the notes that tell
Us when it's time to go within,
And after the blessing, to begin
    To eat the beef.

"Try not the beef," the old girls say,
"It's broken teeth, before today,
The steak and hash alike are tough,
And soon you'll find you've had enough
    Of the beef."

"Oh say," a poor girl feebly cried,
"This steak to chew, I've tried and tried,
But now I know what you say is true,
In this whole place, there are only a few
    Who eat the beef."

Beware the beef that looks so sweet,
So tender, and arranged so neat,
For soon you'll find that underneath
Your lips, you there will have no teeth
    To eat the beef.

A traveler chanced one day to come
To see us in our college home,
And said he was glad with us to dine,
But his disappointment was to find,
    That we had beef.

There in the dining hall, truth to say,
We remember to this very day,
How he left his beef on the back of his plate,
And learned his lesson much too late,
    About our beef.

So girls if you have some kind friend,
Who hopes to come, and spend the weekend,
Do not let him get caught by fate,
But warn him ere it is too late
    About our beef.

Just one more word, and then I'm through,
We have our beef fixed up in stew.
We have it baked, we have it fried,
We have it hashed, we have it dried
    But still it's beef.

HISTORY OF PHI EPSILON

THE world today is not only calling, but is pleading for laborers in the scientific field because the rapid scientific development has brought about great and influential changes in social and economic conditions as well as in thought. These changes bring about great problems that the twentieth century must solve, and science is the only means of solving these problems because science is the father of inventions.

Therefore, in January, 1924, a group of those students from the college classes who were interested in this great task, organized under the direction of Professor R. J. Slay, into what is now known as the Phi Epsilon.

Our purpose in organizing this club was to draw these students into a mutual fellowship and thereby foster a desire for extensive study, and perhaps research work, in all phases of science. Our aim in attempting every problem was to broaden our experiences and gain knowledge suitable to impart to the children of the state.

The club did some splendid work and progressed rapidly with Miss Annie Blanche Herring as president and Miss Grace Strassburger as secretary and treasurer. We met twice each month and studied the life and works of Madam Curie, Louis Pasteur, Thomas A. Edison, Luther Burbank and others. At each meeting every member told some new occurrence of a scientific nature.

During the spring we held our picnic at Flowing Spring and later adjourned for the summer vacation.

The club did not begin work until the winter term of 1924-'25, but now we are faithfully striving with Professor J. A. Keech as our advisor, and Miss Janie Jackson as president. Although the club is not permanently established we are working with a mighty endeavor and trust that before the year passes we will accomplish something beneficial.

O is for opinion we all express
H is for happiness that we spread among the rest
N is for nonsense rendered by us all
S is for sarcasm which from our
Tongues we never let fall
O is for obedience that to our character is added
N is for nonchalance never seen by one in our roll.
Put them all together they spell JOHNSTON,
The word that means the world to us .

Of all the counties in our state,
You can sure bet on Martin;
In everything she's up-to-date,
Of that we are quite "sartin."

Just read the list in our squad,
Exactly a dozen 'tis told,
Whose flower is the goldenrod,
Whose colors are Black and Gold.

To do our best, whate'er our quest,
Is our club motto;
We'll stick to this through every test,
No matter where we go.

Pitt County girls, we sing-a-ling-a-ling with all our hearts to you;
We hope there'll be something-a-ling a-ling that we can do for you.
In autumn, winter, spring-a-ling-a-ling and all the whole year through,
Will ring-a-ling-a-ling, and ting-ling-a-ling and ching-a-ling for you.

REMARKABLE THINGS

1. Mattie Ratliffe and Kathryne Barnette came to Miss Jenkins' class on time (once).
2. Bill Aiken didn't say a word in Psychology class. (She was absent.)
3. Miss Davis did not meet her history class. (She was out of town.)
4. One day passed without Ruth Dean making an announcement in chapel. (She was in the infirmary.)
5. We failed to get hash for dinner. (The butcher was sick.)
6. Miss Moore failed to inspect one day. (It was Christmas Day.)
7. A whole week went by without a council meeting.
8. We got three plates of bread for dinner.
9. Mr. Frank found one history he agreed with.
10. Julia Tyler stopped talking a few minutes. (She was asleep.)

MUSETTE MONTAGUE: "I know why you part your hair in the middle."

JACK MOORE: "You do, why?"

MUSETTE: "Oh, because every block has an alley, you know."

PHOEBE TREXLER (to dining room girl): "What is this we've got for dinner?"

DINING ROOM GIRL: "I don't know, but I'll go to the kitchen and see what they call it on the menu."

"OH! HENRY"

F you were at East Carolina and you heard some one say, "Oh! Henry, won't you move my flowers for me?" and then a masculine voice, "Yes, ma'am, des as soon as I gets through here," we hope that you would immediately think that the last remark belonged to no other person than the janitor. Henry is a janitor, but not an ordinary one.

The above statement is not intended as a reflection against him, for his environment has helped his heredity considerably, and he well deserves his rank among the officers of the college. While he does not serve as an instructor in any of the various departments, there is no doubt that he could give some very good hints on sweeping and dusting.

With apologies to Henry, I will attempt to describe him. Those persons who insist upon believing in the "Monkey Theory," would probably say that Henry didn't spring as far as some others of his kind, but I think this can be partly explained by his "Charlie Chaplin" moustache, and his snugly fitting dust cap, which carries out his color scheme as well. These are his outstanding characteristics.

Henry plays his part in the college life quietly, and unassumingly, but this doesn't mean that he is lacking in personality. He has likes and dislikes as well as anybody. His favorite place to sweep is in the Y. W. store. It is said that he will pick up trash until it gets to be imaginary dust; and then if he doesn't get the piece of candy, he will try other tactics. In contrast to this, Henry "des draws de line," on cleaning another room, for it defies all of his efforts at orderliness. He was overheard one day, saying, "Miss Jenkins I'm afraid to tech anything in here. I can't tell which you wants to keep and which you don't." She agreed with him and then as he turned to leave, she said, "Oh! Henry, please bring me that pile of old newspapers out of the trash can."

BRUCE ELLIS, '26.

MISS MCKINNEY: "I want to see you get a '2' on this exam, Annie Blanche."
ANNIE BLANCHE: "So do I, let's pull together."

VIRGINIA: "No, Sam, I can never be any more than a sister to you."
SAM: "All right, kiss brother good night."

Miss Wilson asked Vera Wester to work some starch out of some flour into a pan of water.

VERA: "Must I work it out with my fingers?"
MISS WILSON: "Oh, no, work it with your toes."

LIB SAUNDERS (dressing for a date): "I think I'll wear my sevens and a half so my feet will look small."

NANCY HINSON (making an English booklet): "Ina, go to some girl's room and see if you can find an attractive picture for the cover of my booklet."
INA (on returning): "Alma sent you the picture of her best beau, if you can use that."
NANCY: "Tell her thanks, but I haven't started a zoo."

MISS DAVIS (on history class): "Mattie, name a notable date in history."
MATTIE RATLIFF: "Anthony's date with Cleopatra."

HORTENSE MOZINGO (reading Virgil): "I strove to cast my arms around him, and—and that's as far as I got, Mr. Deal."
MR. DEAL: "Well, Miss Mozingo, that was quite far enough."

ELIZABETH HARRISON: "Why did Maude Blow Fulford's wondrous beauty fade?"
ANNIE ROWE HOUSE: "She got caught in a rain storm."

FRESHMAN: "Have you had Math under Miss McKinney?"
ZILPAH FRISBIE (Soph): "Yes, I've had it, but she might give me an encore."

SIMPLE SOPH: "Everybody I know is running for some office—Lib, what shall I run for?"
LIB HARRISON: "Girl, if I looked like you, I'd run for the woods!"

MR. AUSTIN: "Is the world flat or round?"
HELEN VINIARSKI: "Neither, Professor."
MR. AUSTIN: "Then, what is it?"
HELEN: "Crooked."

MATTIE MAE LYON: "Mr. Adams, how long could I live without brains?"
MR. ADAMS: "Why, Miss Lyon, that remains to be seen."

LESSIE: "I wonder who will take charge of Muscle Shoals?"
FRIEND: "Who is Muscle Shoals?"

ESTHER GARRISS: "Were you ever in Holland?"
MELBA WARREN: "No, but I've been in Dutch."

THE EVERY-DAY DESSERT

Our pure Ice Cream and Home-Made Candy are more than a dessert. Their food value exceeds that of most table foods. A dish of our Ice Cream has the same food value as a pound of steak or four pounds of potatoes. We leave it to any member of the household to say which is the most appetizing. Lautares' Ice Cream has passed the State Food Inspection at Raleigh, and has proved to be a pure cream—and a rich cream. Our Ice Cream Plant has been installed by the Southern Construction and Supply Company, Atlanta, Ga., and is the best and most up-to-date in the State.

"I have had playmates, I have had companions
In my days of childhood, in my joyful school days,
All, all are gone, the old familiar faces."
—Charles Lamb, "Old Familiar Faces."

But you—today—have preserved in this annual the familiar faces of your schoolday companions and the incidents of your school life and in alter years you'll come to appreciate more and more the value of this annual and the part that we have played in preserving to you these memories. Knowing this we strive—always—to render the closest co-operation that we too may look back with pleasure and pride on every book in which we play a part.
