Dear Father,

Yours duly read, & carefully noted, I have never yet read a thanksgiving message, & am therefore entirely in the dark as to the sentiments & the manner in which they are usually expressed, I should say something like this, - It is meet that at all times and under all circumstances we bear in mind our utter helplessness and dependence upon the Most High for ~~all~~ the whatever of health and comforts we enjoy; and that (following a wise and pious custom) a particular Day, at this season of the year, be set aside, and given up to special thanksgiving and prayer for all the blessings which Heaven has bestowed upon us. Let — the — day of Nov. 1894, be kept in an appropriate manner, you need not of course follow the text, but I should say something like the above. Now with regard to Green's address, it would not do to follow ~~to~~ even the sentiment too closely, because the forthcoming paper is to be a public document. I will do with it all I can, I enclose you a clipping from this morning's Post. It is believed here that it is a scheme of Ransom's to gain a seat in the senate. He is a slippery "annery" cuss, & I believe the infusion of Marion Butler, taking it all in all, I, at least, had infinitely rather see Butler in the senate ^{than} Ransom.

Hastily & affly
