INFLATE THE CURRENCY.

From the Watch-Tower. We have carefully read Senator Williams address before the State Grange last December. Mr. Williams is the Senator from Pitt and also Master of the State Grange. He has given all economic questions a diligent study. The relation between capital and labor has engaged the attention of the brainy Williams since the late unpleasantness. He is an uncompromising advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of silver. We extract the following from his admirable speech:

"All farmers and laborers' organizations of whatever name or kind are now demanding the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Wall street and the gold bugs oppose it. They know the scarcer the money is the more power it possesses. They know when money is scarce, all things else are low in price.

"Adam Smith, Hume, McCulloch, all and every writer on political economy say that scarce and tight money makes land cheap, and when the price of land is low all things are depressed. Soil has been denuded in 1873. It was done by John Sherman, and passed through Congress without hardly anyone knowing its import. It is said the bill was not even read. It is reported that General Grant said afterwards that if he had known the contents of the bill he would never have signed it. It cut off about half the circulating medium of the Union. Everything commenced falling, labor and the products of the farm went down about 50 per cent., and landed property since that time has been deplorable. It has enabled the money kings to buy up the homes of the American people. The way our free homes are going now, it will be only a matter of time when our country will be owned by landlords.

"It was asserted during the debate in the last Congress, and no contradiction has been made, that the English landlords already owned in their own right an area of land in the United States larger than the great State of Indiana, and with mortgages on an hundred millions more, but an interest so high that it can never, never be paid.

"John Lock, who wrote the first Constitution for the colony of North Carolina, said that whoever owned the land owned the people. This demonizing silver has destroyed thousands of free homes, and was a crime surpassing any robbery ever committed by a Democrat or Republican government.

"But there is not a civilized country on the globe that undertakes to do an entire business on gold and silver. Every nation confesses that there is not enough of the precious metals; so paper money is resorted to as a flexible medium. The government should issue legal tender notes, to the amount at least to $50 per capita. Now it is calculated not more than $10 or $12 per capita is in circulation. The national banks were organized only for moneyed men; they discriminate against the farmer inasmuch as they refuse to lend him a dollar on his only security—land.

"The National Grange endorsed the plan to loan farmers money direct on landed security at a low rate of interest. Most of us must be done to save the homes of the people. There is not money enough now even to meet the interest. I take the following from the Bankers Monthly Review, which is high authority on finance. It gives the mortgages registered against the six leading western agricultural States, viz: Kansas, $245,000,000; Indiana, $645,000,000; Iowa, $667,000,000; Ohio, $1,127,000,000; Wisconsin, $357,000,000; Michigan, $500,000,000. This makes an aggregate of $3,341,000,000, which at 6 per cent. interest amounts to more than $200,000,000 annually. All the gold and silver production is not enough to pay the interest. I have been unable to find out the indebtedness of North Carolina, but from data received, I am sure it approximates $50,000,000. This is alarming when we consider that our entire property is only assessed at $230,000,000. In this State these mortgages are recorded at 8 per cent. It should never have been more than 6 per cent."

"If the above figures are correct the condition of the country is really appalling. It is true, and very true that all the combines are systematically organized to defeat the measure now before the American people—the free coinage of the silver dollar. It is asked by those who oppose this method of inflation what will be gained if all the silver is to be coined free and the amount to be without limit. Mr. Williams ably shows that when you make any article scarce you make the price high. If money is scarce its price is high. The object to be gained by the unlimited coinage of silver is to increase the volume of currency. That the volume is too small can not be questioned by those who have given the financial States of the country proper study.

"We further think that Mr. Williams is right when he suggests that the government issue legal tender notes to the amount of $50 per capita. We will not become a prosperous and happy people until every month is fed and every body clothed. If meat is three cents per pound it is very dear to him who can't raise three cents.

"There may not be, in the language of Col. Sellers, 'millions in it,' but there is handsomely paying money and more in proportion to the land, capital and labor required than in anything the Southern farmer can engage in, and it is a business, too, which he can increase as he desires, without much additional expense. There is no danger of overstocking the market, for there is no day that chickens suitable for the table will not command a good price in the nearest market town or in towns of easy access. With the advantages the South has in climate, mild winters, and in the abundance of food the chickens can pick up this ought to be the great chicken section of the country and ought to bring in to our people as much money as the cotton crop now brings. It looks like a small thing, but there are immense possibilities in it.

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Wilmington Star. Poultry raising is not classed among the industries of this country, for there are very few who give special interest to it, and yet insignificant as it is generally supposed to be the aggregate sales of poultry and eggs amount annually to about $500,000,000, in addition to which millions of eggs are annually imported from Europe. There are farmers who wouldn't think of raising poultry for market or of bringing eggs to market because they think it looks too small. There are also thousands of farmers, North and South, who although they are not too proud to sell poultry and eggs never do sell them because they have ever attached any importance to them as sources of income. They raise enough for their own use, that's all. We have known farmers in this State to kill their chickens because they scratched up some of their grain.

There are some poultry farms in this country, a few, where the attention of the proprietors is given to the raising of fowls and eggs for market, and the surprising thing about it is that there are not more of them, and that the poultry and egg buyers of the country have to depend upon what is simply picked up upon the farms.

There is no industry in this country which yields as much money in proportion to the capital invested. It would not be an exaggeration to say that at least eighty per cent. of the $500,000,000 received for poultry and eggs is clear profit, the fowls feeding themselves from pickings around the farm, which would otherwise go to waste.

In the South the chicken is a much more common article of food than in the North, the per capita consumption being at least twice as great, which may be accounted for by the fact that raising chickens gives but little trouble here, the climate being so mild that there is no danger of their being frozen to death in the winter if not well housed, and no danger of their starving to death if not fed by hand. For this reason the raising of poultry is not attended in the South by the same risks and losses which it is in the North, for this reason it would be more profitable and should receive more attention.

It may seem an incredible statement that there are not poultry nor eggs enough sent to market in North Carolina to meet the home demand, while in all the larger towns on the railroads they always command a fair price and sometimes a very high price. In this city half grown chickens seldom sell for less than twenty-five cents by retail, and eggs seldom less than fifteen cents a dozen. At prices like these there are fortunes in chicken farms to men who will devote their attention to them, and study the chicken so as to be able to prevent or cure the diseases that sometime attack and carry them off. This is the most serious drawback to engaging in this as a special industry, for chicken cholera and other fatal diseases sometimes sweep them off by the hundred. The cause of this we don't know but investigation would probably show that it will be found either in the food they pick up, the water they drink or in the ill ventilated houses they roost in. The Northern chicken raiser has the same difficulties to contend against. But this does not occur often enough to be an insurmountable obstacle to success in the business.

There may not be, in the language of Col. Sellers, 'millions in it,' but there is handsomely paying money and more in proportion to the land, capital and labor required than in anything the Southern farmer can engage in, and it is a business, too, which he can increase as he desires, without much additional expense. There is no danger of overstocking the market, for there is no day that chickens suitable for the table will not command a good price in the nearest market town or in towns of easy access. With the advantages the South has in climate, mild winters, and in the abundance of food the chickens can pick up this ought to be the great chicken section of the country and ought to bring in to our people as much money as the cotton crop now brings. It looks like a small thing, but there are immense possibilities in it.

NEW YORK LETTER.

A New Ferry—The Doctors Fanned—A Great Trip Proposed. Regular Cor. of REFLECTOR.

A new ferry across the North river is soon to be established for the sole purpose of accommodating the fruit and berry trade of the metropolis, which has of late reached enormous proportions. The ferry will be connected with the freight yard of the Pennsylvania railroad in Jersey City, and the roadways will be laid with granite blocks between the tracks, so as to facilitate the transfer of the fruit from the trains to the wagons of the fruit dealers. Workmen are now building bridge, slips and sidewalks leading from the ferry on the Jersey City side, and the company expects to have the ferry in operation by the first of September. The establishing of such a ferry for the accommodation of vehicles only is, I believe, a step in the right direction. It is about time the great passenger ferries should be allowed to carry nothing but passengers, leaving the horses and vehicles to be carried by other boats. Why some such reform has not been inaugurated before is something I cannot understand.

LEAD IN HIS HEAD. The medical fraternity are very much interested in the recovery of Eddie Seifert, the fifteen-year old son of Col. A. E. Seifert, secretary of the Brewers' Exchange, who accidentally shot himself in the head on June 16 last while out hunting in the Catskills. The boy had tried to cross a creek by jumping from stone to stone, but had slipped, and his rifle had discharged, the bullet lodging in his brain. Probing demonstrated that the bullet had divided, and that there were two pieces of lead in the boy's brain. It was gradually sinking when it was decided to clean out the wound and insert drainage tubes so that there might be an opportunity of internal healing. This was accomplished, and some pieces of bone and shreds of lead, besides several clots of brain matter, were removed, but the bullet itself was not found. Nevertheless the lad began to improve immediately after the operation, and to-day is as well and strong, mentally and physically, as ever.

AROUND THE WORLD IN 40 DAYS. A dinner was given last week by Capt. Passall on board the steamship Majestic in honor of Citizen George Francis Train, who was welcomed as the "fastest human traveler around the globe ever known." The menu cards were decorated with figures of the World's Fair and Citizen's train's trip "from Omaha to Omaha." The event was quite appropriate, as the Majestic has just beaten the record on crossing the Atlantic. Captain Passall and his guest discussed the probability of success of Mr. Train's projected tour around the world to be made in forty days by a party of a thousand people. The best time to start, it was agreed, would be in December, as the party would then catch cooler weather in the Orient. It was estimated that the expenses for one thousand guests would be about $3,000 per day.

Mail Bag Lost. Concord Times. On Thursday evening, July 23, the mail bag that was hung on the hook at the depot for the agent on the flying vestibule to grab as the train went by, did not leave Concord until one week later. The mail agent made the grab, but missed the bag. It was knocked off into the weeds below the track. All went serenely until Mr. D. R. Coltrane, cashier of the Concord bank, who had $30,000 worth of checks in the bag, found out that something was wrong. Search was made and the bag was fortunately found unopened, just one week later. It was returned to the postoffice and sent off by the first train. The mail agent is the only person directly to be blamed. He ought to have reported the fact at once that he had failed to catch the mail.

THE PREMIUMS FOR FARMERS.

We have received five copies of the North Carolina State Fair Premium List, and are pleased to note that it contains a long list of valuable premiums on agricultural crops produced in North Carolina. For instance, forty dollars is to be awarded for best cotton; five dollars on best packed bale; seventy dollars on best tobacco; about fifty dollars on corn; forty five dollars on wheat; same on oats; about twenty five dollars on rye; forty five dollars on field peas; seventeen dollars on ground peas; forty five dollars on hay; forty dollars on grass seed; best ten pounds of flax five dollars. There are also splendid premiums on horses, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry. Nearly two hundred dollars are offered on fruits, fourteen dollars on dried fruits; five dollars on a five pound home made cheese; five dollars on best ten pounds of hard home made soap; three dollars on best gallon of home made soap—the winning soap and winning cheese to be given to the North Carolina Soldiers' Home; six dollars for best five pounds of starch made from corn or wheat; three dollars on best two hams; three dollars on best ten pounds of beef; ten dollars on live of bees showing bees working by having glass in the side of the gum; ten dollars for best ten pounds of butter; three dollars for best gallon of sorghum syrup or molasses; two dollars on best dozen heads of broom corn. Premiums worth more than fifty dollars are offered on the best bushel of Irish potatoes; two dollars on best dozen stalks of sorghum or molasses cane.

The premiums on racing will be such as to insure a good turn out of stock. No horses except those owned in North Carolina will be allowed to compete.

Pamlico, the famous trotter owned by Mr. Clarence Batchelor, that took the premiums all over the Northern States, will be placed on the track weekly during the Exposition by special request of the Exposition management. He will not compete against North Carolina horses as Pamlico is a most excellent trotter and Mr. Batchelor would win all the prizes, but he will only trot Pamlico for the amusement of visitors and not to take the premiums.

All who make exhibits at the State Fair of articles that can be used at the North Carolina Soldiers' Home, are urged to aid the old soldiers by making donations.

The brusque and fussy impulse of these days of false impression would run down all as worthless because one is unworthy. As if there were no notes in sublimity! Or comes among stars! Or attracts in peaceful rived! Because one remedy professes to do what it never was adapted to, are all remedies worthless? Because one doctor lets his patient die, are all Hammers? It requires a fine eye and a finer brain to discriminate to draw the differential line.

"They say" that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have cured thousands.

"They say" for a weak system there's nothing better than the "Discovery" and that the "Favorite Prescription" is the hope of debilitated, feeble women who need a restorative tonic and bracing nerve. And here's the proof. Try one or both. If they don't help you, tell the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. C., and you get your money back again.

This Fall's Elections. Elections will be held on the 3rd of November in the following ten States: Virginia will elect half its senate and a full house of delegates. Iowa and Massachusetts will elect Governor, State Officers and Legislature. Mississippi will elect three Railroad Commissioners and Legislature. Nebraska will elect Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and two members of the university. New Jersey will elect part of the Senate and the Assembly. Ohio will elect Governor, State officers, Legislature and a proposed amendment to the Constitution providing for uniformity of taxation. Pennsylvania will elect Treasurer and Auditor General and vote whether a constitutional convention shall be held and elect delegates to the same. New York will elect Governor, State officers, Legislature, ten Justices of the Supreme Court and Congressman from the 10th District. Maryland will elect Governor and State officers, a Legislature and vote upon six proposed amendments to the constitution. The Legislature elected will each elect a U. S. Senator; who will serve six years from March 4th, 1892.

COTTON AND THE OUTLOOK.

Charlotte Democrat. The reports are now in for July, showing the condition of cotton throughout the belt as 88.9, or about the same as the returns for June. This state of affairs did not fortify the "bears" for an additional attack on prices, but rather caused them to close out their shorts and await a fresh supply of rumors to better the market again. In the list of averages North Carolina is down to 75. The caterpillar and boll worm may yet prove wonderful factors in catching the speculative element, which has been feeling on continued declines. The present heated term, however, is favorable to what has been considered sickly crops, and it will not be a matter of surprise if North Carolina gains five per cent in averages for this month from that cause. A strong effort will no doubt be made by the cotton interests in this section to make the opening price seven cents, so that planters can base their hopes upon this figure and have them heightened or blasted as the result will prove. The heavy decline in the price of last season will stimulate manufacturing, and bring with it as a matter of course an increased demand, but while the coming crop will be absorbed, the difference in the total results as compared with the growth of 1890 is simply startling. Estimating the crop just marketed at 8,300,000 bales, and an average price of nine cents, we have $73,500,000, and this crop at 8,000,000 bales at an average of 7 cents, or $56,000,000, a shrinkage of $17,500,000 in the producing wealth of the cotton belt. This is a rather discouraging state of affairs, but it shows the great necessity of this immense interest being organized. The increase in average should be kept apace with the demand, but as it goes beyond that, down comes the value on all. In the present condition of cotton and its markets, the farmer must stop and think of the future of his estate. Ninety-three million dollars worth of this winter than last, with wheat, corn and meat to buy as of yore, with advanced prices for each, makes a greater outlay to be added to the already shrunken income. If, in the light shed upon our mistakes, we do not profit thereby, the fault will hereafter lie at our own door.

Clever Diamond Thieves. The nearsighting of a gang of diamond robbers who have been operating here in a very high-toned manner for a long time is the sensation of the week. The robbers were committed in a very clever manner, and generally right in the presence of the owners. The gang operated on the very best class of stores, the usual plan being for a woman to engage the salesman's attention while a man walked off with the diamonds. In this way one jeweller lost $7,000 worth of his valuable stock in about two minutes, and it took the police five months to catch the thieves. Many other jewellers have been robbed in a similar way, but the thieves have escaped every time. They are so fashionably dressed and apparently so wealthy that they are not suspected till it is too late. The man Howe, or Hamburg, who is now in custody, seems to have been the leader, and a very clever one at that. He is an "opium fiend," and his craving for the drug after being arrested caused him to confess. His female accomplice has also been arrested and is held in $5,000 bail.

A Father's Kiss. Hartford Post. A father was seeing his son off on the cars for some distant point. There was a moment of quiet conversation between the two, perhaps, a few words of such advice as a father should give a son, and then the train came thundering into the station. As the latter, a tall fellow well along in his teens, stepped on the platform, he extended his lips to his father. There was a gentle kiss of farewell, and the two separated.

There was no gush, no nonsense, no affection; just the expression of fatherly tenderness that had followed that son since he lay in the cradle.

Is there any danger of that boy straying from the path affectionately pointed out by his father? Or is there any danger of that father ever having to exclaim that son because he is "sowing wild oats?" We think not. The gentle power of a mother's kiss has been sung by poets, but is there not also a wealth of tenderness and a lasting memory for good in the kiss of a father.

STATE NEWS.

Happenings Here and There as Gathered From our Exchanges. Concord Times: Last year Cabarrus county produced $15,974 worth of gold, Stanly produced $8,912 worth, and Rowan $2,548 worth.

A mad dog bit two men—one white the other two colored—in Henderson a few days ago before he could be killed. It is feared that hydrophobia may result from the wounds, though they were cauterized at once. There is some excitement in Franklin county also about dogs that have gone mad.

Statesville Landmark: Mr. C. A. Kaymer, of Shiloh township, found, one day last week, a guinea nest in which were 83 eggs. — Mr. Peter Little and wife, of Shiloh township, celebrated their golden wedding on the 28th of July. All their living children and grandchildren, numbering 53, were present.

Carthage Blade: Last Saturday King Currie, colored, was placed in jail for shooting Sol. Alston, also colored, at Frytown, about 6 miles from here, dangerously wounding him. They had a row about a woman, and Currie threatened to shoot Alston, whereupon he said "shoot me then." And Currie says he just shot him for fun.

Washington Progress: Biggs & Davenport, of Williamsport, assigned last week; liabilities $52,000. The failure of the firm necessitated the individual failure of Mr. John D. Biggs for $18,000. Mr. Biggs has for some time been a director of the Insane Asylum and general agent of the Norfolk Southern Railroad. He is favorably known throughout this section as a careful business manager.

Scotland Neck Democrat: We heard a gentleman say Sunday that he had the finest crop he had had in ten years. This was so different from the general complaint that we could not help noticing it. There is a chance yet for a good crop.—We are sorry to learn that the hogs around Dawson's are dying of cholera. If those that die be buried good and deep so that other hogs cannot come near them, it will probably help to stop the spread of the disease.—The Baptist Church of this place last Sunday accepted the resignation of Dr. J. D. Hullah as pastor, which was mentioned in this paper two weeks ago. The resignation takes effect at once, but Dr. Hullah's salary continues until the first of October. The church unanimously called to its pastorate Rev. W. L. Wright, of Reidsville. It is not known whether or not Mr. Wright will accept. He ranks among the foremost preachers of the State and it is the general expression of those who know him that the church here will be fortunate in securing him as its pastor.

Mr. Henry Winter, formerly manager of the Savannah Brewery, says he had Rheumatism of the Heart for several years. Often he was unable to walk over a few blocks, his pain was so intense; he had trouble to get his breath; he had physicians in Philadelphia, his former home, but the best professor in the university there could not give him relief. Coming here he saw P. P. P. advertised, tried two bottles, and is now a well man. His pain has left him and he can now walk all day. He renders thanks to P. P. P., and says its workings are wonderful.

Hazing at the University. Statesville Landmark. We are glad to know that the students themselves, at the University, have developed such a spirit of manliness as to cause them to denounce the custom of maltreating freshmen. Now that the University has taken the lead, let all the colleges unite in abolishing rowdiness from college life. The following resolutions passed by the sophomore class of the University (and endorsed by the entire student body) are more honorable and more valuable evidences of manliness and courtesy than many pages of so-called "regulations," enacted by faculty and trustees: "Recognizing the fact that the development of the University depends upon the harmonious cooperation of its friends, and especially upon the voluntary adoption of true standards of manliness by the student body, the class of 1891 in meeting assembled do hereby resolve: "1. That the practice of hazing new students is far beneath the dignity of University men and contrary to the spirit of a real University.

"2. That new students who enter the University hereafter shall not be subjected to blacking or maltreatment by this class.

"T. B. LEE, "H. BINGHAM, "H. W. WHEEDER, "Committee.

At a mass-meeting of all the students of the University it was unanimously resolved, That the students of the class of 1891 and promising their hearty cooperation in eliminating from University life all maltreatment of new students."

TRUE AND FALSE.

GEORGE BRIDGWAY. A gem is a gem, Though it lie in the dust, Though each passer-by Should give it a thrust; Though hidden awhile, Still its virtues will shine, Till it suddenly gleams With a glory divine.

Sand is but sand, Though the wind, passing by; Should bear it above; To the stars of the sky; But, tried by the truth And the testings of fame, Forgotten it falls To the soil whence it came.

Though obscurely trampled And tread upon with, It will steadily rise From the trammels of earth; Though chance's vagaries The worthless advance, It will rise in dismay At Truth's conquering glance, —Detroit Free Press.

What to do With a Bad Temper. Starve it. Give it nothing to feed on. When something tempts you to grow angry, do not yield to the temptation. It may for a minute or two be difficult to control yourself; but try it. Force yourself to do nothing and the rising temper will be forced to go down, because it has nothing to hold it up. The person who can and does control his tongue, hand, heart in the face of great provocation is a hero. The world may not own him or her as such, but God does. The Bible says that he that ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city.

What is gained by yielding a temper? For a moment there is a feeling of relief; but soon comes a sense of sorrow and shame, with a wish that the temper had been controlled. Friends are separated by it, and pain is given to others as well as to self. That pain too often lasts for days, even years—sometimes for life. An outburst of temper is like the bursting of a steam-boiler; it is impossible to tell before what will be the result. The evil done may never be remedied. Starve your temper. It is not worth keeping alive. Let it die!

Some of the London papers have been bragging over some real estate in that town which is rated at $2,500,000 an acre, which makes the Chicago papers snicker and call attention to some patches of ground in that city which have sold at the rate of $3,125,500 an acre, and several large tracts which sold respectively at $100 a square foot, or at the rate of over $4,000,000 per acre. The great value of real estate in that town is one of the reasons why some of the people don't wash often.—Wilmington Star.

THE EDITORS MEET AND FEAST

The North Carolina Press Association held its nineteenth annual session last week in the thriving city of Winston-Salem. It was an interesting meeting. About fifty editors were present and they were indeed royally entertained by the citizens of the Twin City.

The convention assembled at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and an address of welcome was delivered by Mr. J. C. Buxton, which was responded to for the Association by Mr. H. A. London, of the Pittsboro Record.

The remainder of the morning session was devoted to the usual Association work and reports of committees.

In the afternoon the President, Mr. J. P. Caldwell, of the Statesville Landmark, delivered his address. It was an able paper and of much interest, especially to editors, for it gave them a deal of sound advice.

At 4:30 o'clock the editors were taken in carriages for a drive over the city. To those who had not before had the pleasure of visiting Winston-Salem it was indeed a revelation. Even those who had not been there during a few years past were hardly less astounded.

In the short space of ten years its population has grown from 4,000 to 15,000. Its manufacturing interests have increased equally as many fold. In 1881 the tobacco industries numbered only eighteen while now there are upward of fifty, some of them employing as many as five hundred hands.

In all there are a hundred factories of different kinds. There are six land improvement companies doing business here and these have enough property laid off and developing to accommodate a city of 100,000 people or more, and at the rapid rate that is marking the growth of Winston-Salem it will require comparatively a few years to develop all this new property and be reaching out for more.

One of the land companies is building a hotel to cost $100,000 which would be a credit to any city. This magnificent structure will be completed by December.

Winston-Salem has one of the best systems of electric street railways that is in operation anywhere. The shipments of manufactured tobacco, principally plug, aggregate near 10,000,000 pounds annually. Taking all in all it is the liveliest town in North Carolina and it is no wonder that people are flocking there so rapidly.

Wednesday night the association was tendered a banquet and concert at Salem Academy. Rev. J. H. Clewell, principal of this honored institution that has a brilliant record reaching over nearly a century and has done more for educating the women of North Carolina and the South than any other institution within our borders, proved himself a prince of hosts and won the heart of every guest. The concert was given by the Salem Orchestra one of the finest musical organizations in the State. On this occasion the annual oration by the Association's Orator, Mr. E. E. Hilliard, of the Scotland Neck Democrat, was delivered. No reflection is meant on any other when we say that it was the best oration to which the Press Association of North Carolina has ever listened. The poem read by Mr. H. C. Wall of the Rockingham Record was a brilliant effort and delighted the assemblage.

Thursday morning after getting through its other business the Association elected officers for the coming year. These are:

President—J. A. Thomas, Louisville Times

1st Vice President—E. E. Hilliard, Scotland Neck Democrat.

2nd Vice President—Jerome Dowd, Charlotte Times.

3rd Vice President—R. A. Deal, Wilkesboro Chronicle.

Secretary and Treasurer—J. B. Sherrill, Concord Times.

Executive Committee—S. A. Ashe, Raleigh News-Observer, H. A. London, Chatham Record, Thad R. Manning, Henderson Gold Leaf, Josephus Daniels, Raleigh Chronicle, H. A. Latham, Washington Gazette.

Orator—W. W. Scott, Lenoir Topic.

Poet—W. F. Marshall, Gastonia Gazette.

Historian—F. M. Williams, Newton Enterprise.

Delegates to National Press Convention—J. P. Caldwell, Statesville Landmark, Josephus Daniels, Raleigh Chronicle, Thad R. Manning, Henderson Gold Leaf, D. J. Whichard, Greenville Reflector. Alternates—E. E. Hilliard, Scotland Neck Democrat, J. P. Cook, Concord Standard, J. A. Robinson, Durham Sun, C. L. Stevens, Southport Leader.

Charlotte was chosen as the place for holding the next State Convention.

At 4:30 the Association was taken on an excursion over the Roanoke & Southern road to Mayo Falls, near the Virginia line. Refreshments were served on the cars by the managers of the road and the trip was an enjoyable one.

This road is a new one being built from Roanoke Va., to Winston-Salem with a view of extending it further South. It is being constructed principally with Winston-Salem capital and is a monument to the pluck and enterprise characteristic of the city. This road is through a splendid section of country and is carrying large trade to Winston.

Thursday night the editors again assembled around the festal board, this time at a banquet spread by the Winston-Salem Chamber of Commerce in their spacious hall. About 250 persons assembled around the tables and did ample justice to the splendid menu. It was an elegant lay out. Before the occasion closed it proved to be a feast of reason as well as a feast of good things for the inner man. A number of toasts were given out and responded to by members of the Press Association as follows:

"The Press, the leader of thought, not the follower of fashion," S. A. Ashe, Raleigh News-Observer.

"The manufacturers, the merchants, the builders of cities and promoters of general prosperity," Josephus Daniels, Raleigh Chronicle.

"The Railroads, the great avenues of Commerce," John R. Webster, Roanoke Weekly.

"The Union," Jerome Dowd, Charlotte Times.

"Piedmont Carolina, its resources and its future," R. A. Deal, Wilkesboro Chronicle.

"The Editor," J. P. Caldwell, Statesville Landmark.

"The women of North Carolina, her daughters the queens of the forest resembling," H. A. Latham, Washington Gazette.

"The mountains look upon the sea and rejoice in the prosperity of all," E. E. Hilliard, Scotland Neck Democrat.

"Agriculture, the basis of a nation's wealth," H. A. London, Pittsboro Record.

All the speeches were of a high order of excellence and showed that North Carolina has just cause to be proud of her editors. Such was the verdict of the people of Winston-Salem.

Friday morning the Association and many citizens of the Twin City were taken on an excursion over the North Western North Carolina railroad to the town of Wilkesboro. This is another new road that has just been built through the fertile Yadkin valley and follows the banks of the beautiful Yadkin river. It has opened up a section that will come to the front in way of progress. Wilkesboro is divided into two sections separated by the river. The new section is called North Wilkesboro and it was here that the party was dined. The editors were taken for a drive over the property which the land improvement company are developing and to points of interest around the town. In old Wilkesboro a handsome three-story brick hotel has just been completed. In this a banquet was given Friday night though but few of the editors could remain over to it. A brass band was out to meet the excursionists and the whole town and surrounding country turned out to welcome the editors.

Half way back from Wilkesboro to Winston, at the little town of Ekin, another welcome was extended the editors. The train was to stop there about half an hour and was met by many gentlemen and ladies of the town. As soon as the cars stopped boys approached with baskets of luscious fruit and little girls had exquisite button-hole bouquets tied with ribbon for the excursionists. Pleasant coincidences will occur sometime, and one so proved with this particular scribe. When a little maid approached and requested the pleasure of decorating our lapel with a boutonniere we turned to show our acquiescence to such a pleasure and found upturned to our gaze a rosy face with soft blue eyes and surrounded by wealth of auburn ringlets. Immediately our hat was raised in acknowledgement of the appreciation that like finds in like. It worried Jim Cook so because he wasn't red headed that he never smiled in half an hour.

Winston-Salem was reached in time for the night train South upon which a number of the editors took their departure for home, carrying with them many pleasant recollections of the Twin City and the unbounded hospitality shown them there.

While in Winston the editor of the REFLECTOR was the guest of Rev. R. W. Stancill, a native of Pitt county. Many of our readers are interested in this faithful young minister of the Christian Church and will be glad to know that he is held in highest esteem by the people of his new home. After graduating at the College of the Bible at Lexington, Ky., he went to Troy, N. Y., for a few years and while there was instrumental in the building of two magnificent houses of worship which stand as monuments to his energy. He is now engaged in a like work in the Twin-City, the State Board of Managers of the Christian Missionary Conference recognizing his ability as a church builder. His undertaking there is meeting with most encouraging success. Work was first commenced on the annex for Sunday School and lecture room, and that being now completed will be used for service while the work on the main auditorium will be pushed rapidly forward. We will not forget the courtesy shown us by Rev. Mr. Stancill and his excellent wife.

The meeting of the State Farmers' Alliance at Morehead last week was an enthusiastic one. The attendance was large, every county in the State being represented. The meeting endorsed the Ocala platform in full. Very little was said about a third party and the reforms to which the Alliance aspires will not be sought through that channel. Col. Polk was present and made a stirring speech. When the talk of electing officers began our townsman, Mr. E. A. Moxey, Pitt county's Superior Court Clerk, was prominently mentioned for President of the order, but his official duties here at home were such that he could not allow his name to be used. Mr. Marian Butler, editor of the Clinton Caucasian, was elected President, and Mr. W. S. Barnes was re-elected Secretary. Col. Harry Skinner was at Morehead during the meeting and was exceedingly popular with the Alliance-men. He is recognized among them as the only lawyer in the State who fully champions the Sub-Treasury. He has, by the way, been considerably in demand for making Alliance speeches of late. He recently addressed large gatherings at Snow Hill, Maxton and Rocky Mount, and is on the programme to speak at an Alliance Mass meeting in Durham week after next.

It was quite a disaster that befell Trinity College buildings at Durham not many days ago. On the night of the 8th the main tower which had just been completed caved in and crashed to the ground, bringing with it much of the roof and central part of the building, causing a damage of about $10,000. Faulty workmanship and material was said to be the cause of the tower giving away. The faculty had hoped to be able to use the new buildings for the coming fall session, but because of the accident it has been decided to re-open for the present at the old buildings in Randolph county.

Last Saturday evening Norfolk, Va., had a very disastrous fire, destroying property to the value of more than a quarter million dollars. Several prominent business houses were burned.

For the Reflector.

BY H. E. C.

Sitting alone in the shadows to-night,
With a puzzled, weary brain,
Thinking of the loved and lost,
And all that "might have been."

I listen to the rain drops fall
With a lulling, soothing sound,
Vainly trying to peer the thoughts
That in my heart abound.

Who can count the drops of rain?
Or who can stand stark
And dimly guess at the sorrowful things
Hidden away in the human heart?

Ah! me, this weary life we live!
Why were we born to this strife?
Where is the need of the weary pain
That followeth close with life?

But we will leave it all alone
To Him who sits above,
And while we struggle, mourn and chafe
We know that "He is Love."

ing with favorable prospects for his school which opens next Monday.

Dr. Charles J. O'Hagan, of Greenville, N. C., one of the most genial and accomplished gentlemen and distinguished surgeons of the State,
was a visitor to our town last week,
the guest of his friend Dr. J. H.
Tucker. Henderson is ready at all times to welcome with open gates and hospitable hands such honored visitors and would be glad to have Doctor O'Hagan come oftener.— Henderson Gold Leaf.

Elder W. A. Ross, of Pitt county, was in town yesterday. He tells us that the farmers of that section are very much disheartened at the crop prospects. The rains for the last two weeks have been very damaging to them. The elder is looking as well and as hearty as he did when we saw him twelve years ago. He does not drink from the fountain of youth, but he does better—he obeys the laws of kindly Mother Nature and she always treats such children kindly.— Wilson Advance.

We lose this week Prof. W. H.
Ragsdale. He leaves us to take charge of the Greenville Male School.
Prof. Ragsdale is a most excellent teacher and the Greenville people certainly ought to give him a liberal patronage for the sacrifice he is making in leaving his lovely country
home to comply with the request.
The Professor follows where duty leads. Our loss is Greenville's gain.
We wish him well and may he carry Greenville's banner always in the front ranks.—Adoniram cor. Oxford Ledger.

The Scholar's Companion, very thing for pupils, a neat box containing lead pencil, slate pencil, pen holder with pen, and 6 inch rule, all for 5 cents. At the Reflector Book Store.

Preparations are getting active among the merchants now for the coming fall trade. They should remember that a good advertisement is as necessary to trade as a well selected stock of goods.

Next week Mr. J. R. Moore, the clever railroad agent here, will begin the erection of a nice residence on the property he purchased of the Greenville Land and Improvement
Company, near the depot.

If a few more dwelling houses of a desirable class should be built here
for rent it would be no hard matter to find tenants for them. There would be more people here if they could get houses to suit them.

Interest in the Guard is looking up. Eight applications for membership are awaiting action at the next meeting. Good! Capt. Hooker says the company must either wake up or die. This looks like it is waking up.

While in the western part of the State recently we heard a gentleman who had traveled in various sections of the State say that he had been in
no Barber Shop in North Carolina
that was furnished nicer than Calley & Edmonds' shop in Greenville.

Henry Stancill and Berry Stancill, both colored, were arrested Monday night and placed in jail on the charge of being implicated in the robbery of Mr. Joel Gardner, June 4th. They will have a preliminary hearing before a Justice of the Peace this afternoon.

Greenville Institute, for both sexes,
with the public school combined, under the management of Prof. Z. D.
McWhorter, will open next Tuesday 25th. The assistant teachers are Mrs. McWhorter Miss, Bettie Warren and Miss S. L. Joyner; music instructor, Miss Minnie Cartaway.
We learn that the prospects point to a large attendance.

Party
Mr. and Mrs. Rawls gave a delightful party last Tuesday night
complimentary to Masters Charlie Farris, of Winston, and Leon Joyner, of Baltimore. A large crowd of young folks gathered about 8 o'clock and spent the time very pleasantly in games and social chats. At 10 o'clock
they were invited into the dining hall
and a splendid supper was served.
After supper they repaired to the parlor where music flowed and the happy blending of voices whirled the time away.

My son, E. L. Griffin, Jr., nearly 19
years of age, having left my home with-
out my permission and remaining absent
therefrom I hereby warn all persons
under penalty of law not to employ or
in any way harbor him.
E. L. GRIFFIN, Sr.

Arrested
Robert Hodges, colored, alarmed
the people in the vicinity of his home
on Greene street, yesterday morning by severely beating his wife. Parties had to go to her assistance to prevent her being seriously injured. Rob was under the influence of liquor and was placed in the guard house to sober up after which the Mayor will give the matter a hearing.

Attention Soldiers
Next Friday, August 21st, being third Friday, and regular drill day,
officers and privates of the Greenville Guard are hereby commanded to appear at your armory at 3 o'clock, in fatigue uniform, for practice and drill. Every member expected as business of importance will demand
your attention.

By order of Captain,
O. Hooker, 1st Sergeant

Married
On Wednesday, 12th inst., Mr. J.
J. Harrington, a popular young man of this county, was married in Suffolk, Va., to Miss Josie Mansfield, of that city. After spending a few days at Virginia Beach the happy couple came to Greenville on Saturday's train. They remain here a few days as the guests of Mrs. H. T. Daniel before proceeding to their home at Pactolus. The REFLECTOR extends best wishes to them.

Fests
Last Friday was a gala day in and around Parker's Chapel. It was the time of the picnic given by Messrs. R.
W. Ward, W. Harrington and others. About 10 o'clock the immense crowd began to gather and the general fun and enjoyment reigned.
Promenading, dancing and every conceivable kind of fun was indulged in. A large crowd from Greenville were in attendance and everybody expressed themselves as having a delightful time and were loathe to leave. The general verdict by all was,
"Do have another by all means."

Female School
We hear that there is a very strong sentiment among some of our prominent citizens to establish a strictly female school here. It is also being stated publicly upon the streets by reliable authority that such a school has already been determined upon
and will be opened under the charge of a highly accomplished and thoroughly competent lady not later than August 31st. Those interested in the enterprise can confidently rely upon its accomplishment. This female school seems necessary from the fact that there are persons in the community who will not send their daughters to a mixed school, and it must be established to give them advantages at home or they must be sent elsewhere to build up the schools of other towns. Prof. John Duckett, late principal of Greenville Institute,
recognized the growing sentiment
here for such a school and changed his accordingly the last session he taught here. The success with which he met showed the wisdom of such a change. The REFLECTOR believes there is ample material in Greenville and the country adjacent to sustain separate schools both for males and females as well as mixed schools, and would rejoice if such schools were established here as would render it no longer necessary to send a boy or girl
outside of the county to get their education. We wish all educational enterprises of every class unbounded success.

The National Game
Last Wednesday morning it was learned by some of our boys that the Tarboro Base Ball Club would pass through Greenville. A delegation of the home club was immediately sent to the boat to extend an invitation to stop over and play our boys a game that afternoon. The delegation went and succeeded. The visitors were promptly quartered at Hotel Macon under the management of that prince of caterers "Mike Host Skinner." At four o'clock the two clubs assembled at the grounds for the contest. Only a few of the home team were in town
but the boys hastily collected available players and made quite a creditable showing. The two teams were made up as follows:

TARBORO.
Pippin Wm. 1b.
Whitehurst, c.
Martin, cf.
Shaw, ss.
Bryan, p. 3b.
Eppin, Joe, 3b. p.
Coben, 2b.
Williams, H.
Staton, rf.

GREENVILLE.
Moye, E. A., 1b. c.
Moore, 2b.
Flanagan, 1f. p.
Balfour, 3b.
Smith, cf.
Heilbronner, c. 1b.
Coben, 2b.
Williams, rf.
Moye, Bob, p. lf.

The game started with the visitors in the lead. The billings featured were the pitching of Bob Moye and the second base play of Moore. For six innings Bob Moye held the Tarboro boys down to one solitary base hit, striking out eleven of their players. The visitors made their first score in the sixth inning on a succession of errors by the home club.
The home boys scored in the first,
second, third and fifth innings on timely batting coupled with a few errors on the part of the visitors.
Bryan started in to pitch for Tarboro and although he is quite lively and played a good game, covering a large part of the infield, the home batters were too much for him. Pippin was put in the box by the visitors in the fourth inning and met with better success, as owing to poor base running by the home boys they only scored one run off his delivery.
The game was called at the end of the first half of the seventh inning
as per former agreement, to allow some of the boys who are members of the military company to go out with their company for inspection.

The score by innings is as follows:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 Total
Greenville, 2 3 0 0 1 1 2 9
Tarboro, 2 3 1 0 1 0 7

The Tarboro club is composed of
as clever a set of young gentlemen as ever honored our town and Greenville was proud to entertain them.
While in our city they conducted themselves highly creditable, both to themselves and to their clever Captain and Manager Mr. H. B. Shaw.
The game was umpired by Messrs.
Jack Reed and R. D. Cherry.

Notice
My son, E. L. Griffin, Jr., nearly 19
years of age, having left my home with-
out my permission and remaining absent
therefrom I hereby warn all persons
under penalty of law not to employ or
in any way harbor him.

WILL THE GREAT COUNTY
Of Pitt be known and Represented at the Southern Inter-States Exposition
at Raleigh or Not?

MR. EDITOR:—Much is being said by the intelligent thinking
men of Pitt county at this time,
whether Pitt county will be known and represented at the Great Southern Inter-States Exposition at Raleigh in October and November of this year. Whether this large section of North Carolina, with its wealth and resources be brought before the people of the State, the nation and the world. Is it possible that the light of Pitt county be held under a bushel and important a time? Intelligent labor and active capital is looking more to the South now than at any period in the last decade. All around us, we see our sister counties making rapid strides towards enterprise and progress, and small Pitt county the captain of all others, and especially of the eastern counties have a vacant space at this great Exposition! Will our people show to the world that they are penny wise and pound foolish? Will not every person who should visit the great show of North Carolina resources, blush with shame when they are asked where is the Pitt county exhibit? Pitt county is now attracting the attention of enterprising people from other sections, and all who see the natural advantages we have in our county, wonder why they are not developed more rapidly.
The answer comes, that her people are not alive to the times, and not doing their duty to push before the eyes of the world what our real

us have a male school worthy of the town. Remember the day for the ple could have done more like circumstances, and my son joins me in saying we will ever remember you with the kindest of feelings.

Mrs. A. J. MOORE.

will be an honor to your town and county.
Very Respectfully,
Miss S. L. JOYNER.

A SEVERE TEST.

When you have articles too fine—too delicate to be washed in the ordinary way—the finest laces or embroideries—wash them with PYLE'S PEARLINE, in the manner directed on each package. There is no rubbing, hence no wear and tear of the fabrics. When you have something exceedingly coarse and soiled—something that you dread the washing of—try PYLE'S PEARLINE on it. There is no rubbing, hence no wear and tear on yourself. We guarantee PEARLINE to be harmless, but beware of the imitations. PEARLINE is the modern means for easy and good washing and cleaning. Manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR

It is a fact that the Bachelor must pass the ceremony of matrimony in Japan. When a festival came to pass the arrangements fell into the hands of a special class of the community called wakashis. These were in fact the bachelors of the community. They formed a sort of society or guild, and no one could be admitted without proper endorsement and a vote of acceptance. They were rather a wild set; they could not be called industrious, and the wineshop was the favorite rendezvous of these pleasure-loving youths. A merchant who had an eye to his son's future would seldom consent to his joining the band; and it was thus more numerous where artisans, whose sons had greater liberty, were more plentiful. But Japan is a marrying country; very few men, and still fewer women, continue long unmarried; and no one thought more than fifteen or twenty wakashis. There were two or three classes; one class was well off, and was expected to spend money handsomely; the others possessed less and were called on for less. It was into the hands of this gay company that the arrangements for merry making were always placed. The occupation was a congenial one, and this disposition of it came about naturally enough. There was one part of the duties, however, which was not very pleasant to the wakashis. This was the duty of the soliciting of contributions for festival expenses. The wakashis played the disagreeable part in old Japanese life that the book agent and campaign fund collector play with us. As a festival approached the wakashis went to the saloon and the house owners, and received general directions about the mode of celebration. Then a number went out to collect subscriptions. Every body knew how much his neighbor was worth, and each was asked to give a certain sum, according to his means.—J. H. Wigmore in Scribner's.

Great Attractions given in most of the African tribes to the care of the body. The tribes are cleansed with a stick which has been chewed into a kind of brush. The hands are washed frequently, not by turning and twisting and rubbing them together one within the other, as with us, but by a straight up and down rubbing, such as is given to the other limbs. This manner of washing is so characteristic of the African that it is distinguished from that of a European by reference to the color. The sun is their only towel.—Paul Reichard in Popular Science Monthly.

Write Short Letters.

A young woman in Pennsylvania took a novel way of selecting a husband from her choice of six admirers. She had each one write her a letter setting forth his proposal in due form. When the letters came they ranged in length from six lines to six pages. The young woman, believing brevity to be the soul of wit, chose the shortest epistle, which ran thus: "I will always try to do my duty as a faithful husband." The directness of this epistle won her heart and she has married the writer.—Detroit Free Press.

What is a gentleman? It is a grand old name, but what does it mean? At one time, to say of a man that he is a gentleman, is to confer on him the highest title of distinction that we can think of; even if we are speaking of a prince. Another, to say of a man that he is not a gentleman is almost to stigmatize him as a social outcast, unless for the company of his kind—when it is only one haberdasher speaking of another. Who is a gentleman, and yet who isn't? The Prince of Darkness was one, and so was Mr. John Halifax, if we are to believe those who knew them best, and so was one "Pelham," according to the laudatory Edward Butler, earl of Lytton, etc., and it certainly seemed as if he ought to know.—Harper's.

Sandwich Men to Boston.

"Go it, Katty! git down to it! Let's see you make a home man! What yer done with yer stile, Bradford! Git on to the crook in Brotherton's back!" Such remarks as these were being addressed by a crowd of taunting street urchins to a party of four men, three of whom seemed pretty near being old men. For their faces, unshaven for a day or two, had a stubble of white beard, their backs were bent a little, and their gait was stiff. Yet these venerable men were dressed up in jaunty baseball suits, with natty caps and jackets, and zouave trousers coming just below the knee; and below those, red stockings and baseball shoes. Every man of them carried a bat, as if he were on the way to play a game at ball; but, erected on the shoulders of each, was a big placard, which told that these were not baseball players at all, but only advertisements.

The Standard of Pure English.

When the London apprentice laughs at the Scotchisms of the North Briton, and when the London Athenaeum is depressed by the language of cultured Americans, there is to be discovered in the latter language, and the scorn of an ass about the many departures from the usage which obtains in London is most deplorable. The laugh and the scoff are the outward and visible signs of an inward and spiritual belief that the Londoner is the sole guardian and trustee of the English language. It is a belief for which there is no foundation whatever. The English language is not bankrupt that it needs to have a receiver appointed; it is quite capable of minding its own business without the care of a committee of Englishmen. If indeed a guardian were necessary, what Englishman would it be who would best preserve our pure English—the shepherd of Dorset or the miner of Northumberland, the Yorkshire man or the cockney? If it is not the London apprentice who is to set the standard, but the Englishman of breeding, it is hard to discover the ground whereon this Englishman can claim a superiority of taste or knowledge over the other educated men to whom English is in the mother tongue, whether they were born in Scotland, Ireland or America, in Australia, India or Canada.—Brander Matthews in Harper's.

Books for Boys Who Lived Years Ago.

A lesser book for children is attributed to A. C. Lewis, and contains questions on arithmetic which are said to be found even in some current school books. Here is a specimen of them: "An old man met a child. 'Good day, my son,' says he; 'may you live as long as you have lived, and as much more, and thrice as much as all this; and if God give you one year in addition to the others you will be just a century old.' What was the lad's age?" The first book given to the people in England by Alfred the Great was "Consolation of Philosophy," to which he added "The Universal History of Orosius," a very favorite book in monastery schools.

In the Tenth century Aelric, "the grammarian," wrote a "Colloquy," intended as a reading book to help boys to speak Latin. It consists of conversation about everyday life. In one place a boy is made to say that he is too young to eat meat, but he was not too young to drink beer, as he says that he drinks ale, "if he can get it." In the same century appeared a book on astronomy for children, as well as a map, now preserved in the British Museum, "less incorrect and having fewer fabulous countries than some made later."—London Saturday Review.

Full Jeweled Watches.

In timekeeping qualities and in finish there is no difference between a seven jeweled watch, a full jeweled watch and an adjusted watch. The advantage of a full jeweled watch is only in the patent regulator, by which the error can be reduced to a few seconds per month. The patent regulator moves the lever the ten-thousandth part of an inch at a time, while the lever movement by the hand of the lever in cheaper watches must be one hundred times greater. All watches not adjusted to temperature will run fast or slow when subjected to changes. If one compares time to regulate the watch to the condition there is little advantage in an adjusted watch. The extra cost over a seven jeweled watch is not in the jewels, which are worth one cent each, nor in any finer work on the movement, but solely in the labor of adjusting the balance so that it will run the same in an oven as in a cake of ice, and in the profits to the factory. This factory profit comes in higher grade movements, the seven jeweled being sold at about cost.—New York Truth.

"Sandy" Bowers and His Gold Mine.

Sandy B., familiarly known as "Sammy" Bowers, one of the first locators on the Gold Hill croppings of the Comstock, had twenty feet of wonderfully rich ground, from which he realized over $1,000,000 in a much shorter time than it took him to spend it. He bought the best ranch in Washoe valley, and on it built a large mansion of fine hewn granite, sumptuously furnished throughout, costing nearly $500,000. He took his wife to Europe where he bought stacks of fine oil paintings, and piles of jewelry about which he knew nothing, but the cost, and he didn't care anything for that—what he wanted was "ornament" for his house. Sandy's mine soon gave out, and he was financially embarrassed when he died. His widow lives among friends in California. Sandy is buried beneath lofty pines on the steep slope of the Sierra Nevada, a hundred yards above his lost home, and the Bowers mansion stands as a monument to the characteristically reckless expenditures of a Comstock millionaire.—Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.

An Anecdote of Talleyrand.

Two friends of Talleyrand, ladies of rank, had chosen his study as a place of meeting. They wished to select some ring, some bracelet, for a gift, and the great jeweler of Paris was to send one of his salesmen with sufficient to choose from. Of course the choice was soon limited to two, and there passed under Talleyrand's eye, at the farther end of the long library called "le salon," a magnificent diamond necklace. "Let me undertake to help you; to make your decision. Young man, of these two trinkets tell me which you prefer." "This one, certainly, your excellency." "Then," ended the experienced cynic, "please accept it for your sweetheart, and I think, ladies, that you had better take the other."—John La Farge in Century.

The French Wine Manufacturer.

The National Observer (London) tells of a French wine manufacturer who has discovered that the vinous bouquet is a matter not of original constituents, but of fermenting agents, and who has succeeded in making delicious vintages, both red and white, to say nothing of irresistible brandies, out of barley, without so much as a suspicion of grape juice in them. The consumers of these vintages keep up a vigorous opposition by still speaking knowingly of vintages and bouquets and aromas and styles and so on.

The Cashier Was Sharp Also.

A new version of the film flame game was tried on the cashier in Dennett's restaurant on Park row on Saturday, but the cashier recognized the game in time to beat the players. There were three of them, all young men, freshly dressed. Each laid a fifty dollar bill down on the desk, and each laid a fifteen cent check beside his coin. While the cashier was fishing out eighty-five cents change for No. 1 in the row of the men changed places in the row. The cashier laid the eighty-five cents beside the first dollar, and No. 1 in the row, who had been No. 3 when the cashier began to make change, but was now nearest the door, swept both the dollar and the eighty-five cents change toward him, and was about to gather them up, when the cashier gathered in the pile with his right hand, while with his left he raked in the other dollar which still lay on the desk. Then he distributed the proper change to the men at leisure. They smiled viciously at him, but departed without a word. "He tumbled blame quick," said one of the men as he stepped out of the door.—New York Sun.
