SAFETY MOTORS WITH YOUR BABES.

O, happy mothers, with your babes, How dare ye be so glad, When round ye mourning mothers are Whom misery makes mad?

How dare ye be so high, O hearts? When others, like to burst, Are brooding o'er the awful thought That death is not the worst?

When golden heads are gathered safe Against each happy breast, Oh, do you think of them who deem That babies dead were blest?

O, ye who see your little ones So lovely in their sleep, Say, do ye think of beds of woe Where other women weep?

Oh, as ye bend o'er cradled heads, How can your hearts but break To think of them who hourly pray Their babies may never wake?

O, happy mothers, with your babes! Your joy but seems a faint To them whose little ones are heirs Of sin and woe and want!

God help the mothers who must see Their babies starve and die! God help ye most, ye mothers glad, Who pass such mothers by!

NEW YORK LETTER.

A Demand for Better Mail Service—Lepers at Large—A Novel Butter Store.

Regular Cor. of REFLECTOR.

The subject of quick mail delivery for this city is now being quite vigorously discussed and the present slow service is being roundly denounced. The actual time required to deliver a letter mailed at the General Postoffice is so great as to be simply ridiculous when compared with the service of other large cities in Europe. From an hour and twenty minutes to five hours is the time required in New York, while in London or Paris the same service is performed in about ten to twenty minutes. The fact is, New York is about twenty years behindhand in mail facilities, and the public is beginning to find it out. As a result, they are demanding the pneumatic tube system of delivery, which has given such excellent results in London and other large cities. If this system is adopted, it will cost the Government about $275,000 for the sixty miles of connections in this city.

LEPROSY AMONG US.

The fact that two genuine Chinese lepers have been discovered in this city, and, after being sent to the Charity Hospital on Blackwell's Island, have been turned loose on the community, is causing a good deal of agitation and a large amount of indignation. It is a curious thing that, although this disease of leprosy is one of the oldest in the world, the doctors are unable as yet to decide whether it is contagious or not. This being so, it appears that there is no law to prevent a leper from associating with the public whether the public likes it or not. Dr. Edson, of the Board of Health, is in favor of establishing a hospital especially for lepers, but whether the lepers can be induced to go to such a place is another question. At present writing the two lepers in question are in hiding, while the Health Board is in pursuit.

AN ATTRACTIVE DAIRY.

A novel butter and egg store has just been opened on Sixth Avenue which is sure to attract the attention of all passers by. The idea has been to make it an elegant establishment and as unlike an ordinary butter and egg store as possible. The floor is laid with white mosaics and the walls and ceilings are decorated with glistening tiles edged with yellow. It has white painted doors while the windows are faintly streaked with gold. In the rear of the store stands a huge white and gold painted refrigerator. The entire front of the refrigerator is of glass, through which the stock in trade of the dairy can be seen, cool and sweet. Around the room are a number of Mexican onyx tables with polished brass legs. To crown all a pretty maid in a white costume waits on the tables, while a red checked man sells the butter and eggs.

EDWIN ARLINGTON.

Tobacco in Eastern Carolina.

Rocky Mount Argonaut.

The Southern Tobacco Journal has the following to say with reference to tobacco in Eastern Carolina: "The tobacco crop of Eastern North Carolina is now playing an important part in the annual yield of the State, while five years ago it amounted to practically nothing. Since 1888, markets have been established in Louisville, Rocky Mount and Wilson, and this year Tarboro and Greenville will come into line. A new golden belt has come into existence which will vie with that in the central section of the State in the production of fine 'brights.' And yet there is demand for all these fine goods, and increase in production does not seem to reduce prices."

Notwithstanding the increase in the product of tobacco in this section has been so large within the past five years, yet Eastern Carolina has but commenced the cultivation of this product, and the next five years will witness a vastly greater increase than the past five. The cultivation of tobacco is still in its infancy in this section. If it were not, our people would have dollars where they have not cents. But it is better late than never. With diversified crops, the farmer raising all of his home supplies, and with tobacco, trucking, fruit raising, stock raising, etc., as the money producers, this will be the most prosperous community under the sun.

Some twenty years ago three men owned a newspaper in Vicksburg, Miss., whose names formed a singular combination. They were Battle, Swords and Spears.

NUT CULTURE.

Vick's Magazine.

Learned men of the present day are much exercised about the kind of food necessary to produce the greatest amount of muscular health and strength, and nuts of all kinds have been pronounced by their par excellence as an article of diet. Besides the beauty of the nut trees and the gastronomic utility of their fruits, nut plantations seem to be rapidly making fortunes for those who have been sage enough to invest in them. Chief Van Dieman, of the department of agriculture, predicts that the cultivation of nuts will soon be one of the greatest and most profitable industries in the United States. The large returns from individual trees and immense profits from established orchards, have stimulated the interest, and our foremost enterprising fruit growers are planting nut trees largely for market purposes; others who enjoy nuts during the winter are realizing that they may be had in abundance for the mere trouble of planting.

The pecan is a nut of the future, Mr. Van Dieman thinks, but he forecasts large returns from walnuts, chestnuts, pine and hazel nuts, almonds, filberts, etc. "A grower in Florida has now a grove of 4000 pecan trees, 6 years old; when they begin to bear their product will be worth $100,000 yearly at wholesale." But this is counting the chickens too soon. "Mr. C. H. Daniels has a pecan tree which bears annually from ten to fifteen bushels of nuts, which sell readily at wholesale for $4 or $5 per bushel. Col. Stuart, of Ocean Springs, Miss., who has made a wide reputation as a successful cultivator says: "I planted those large persimmon pecan nuts when I was 57 years old, and now, at 69, I tell you they help me live. I got 117 pounds from one tree last fall, sold 105 pounds for $105, and planted the remainder of them, and have raised a fine lot of young trees, which are for sale. Pecan culture, planting the very large nuts, I consider one of the safest and best paying industries a man can engage in." This combined cloud of witnesses and figures certainly does make orange growing and tobacco raising seem much less tempting.

The pecan forests of Texas furnish large quantities of rich nuts to the market of New Orleans, whence they are shipped to Europe, where they are said to bring a higher price than any other nut. This Hicoria pecan is a native tree growing from southern Indiana to the Gulf of Mexico; valuable new varieties are being obtained which are propagated by grafting and sold for fancy prices. Hicoria pecan is known in our botanies as Carya olive-formis, but the genus was first named Hicoria, and the right of priority of the name has recently been recognized. It is a beautiful, symmetrical and rapid growing tree, with luxuriant, light green foliage, much narrower than that of any other hickory. Its nuts are oblong, smooth and thin shelled, with sweet and delicious kernels. There is a fine specimen tree in the grounds of the Capitol at Washington. The trees are generally planted forty-eight to the acre, covering the fresh nuts where they are to grow in the fall, as is the rule in planting all nut trees.

A Hundred Thousand a Year.

Durham Sun.

This is undoubtedly the day of large things in a literary way. There is in New York an editor of a periodical who offered Chancey M. Depew a yearly salary of $100,000 for five years if the railroad magnate would write his editorial page for him over his own name. Think of investing a round half million dollars in one man, and then think of that man declining the offer! Another editor recently paid $10,000 for a single feature for his magazine, and the feature had to be worked out, involving a very large additional expense. Senator Ingalls has had two offers to take the editorial helm; one of $10,000 a year, the other of $25,000, to which latter offer was attached the proviso that he would write only three editorials each month. Another magazine pays one of its editors several thousand dollars per year, and all travelling expenses, just to travel around, keep his ears open and his memorandum book full.

Yet some people kick if a country editor desires to collect what little is due him in order to pay for his blank paper, the running expenses of the office and lay up a bank account of 75 cents. There is a vast difference in the idea of journalistic work between the sections.

In this age of misplaced switches, loose railway ties, floundering, canned fruit, unloaded guns, misfit prescriptions, cyclones, dynamite cans, new explosives, cable cars and dead wires, it behooves every man, woman and child to have names and addresses tattooed on their bodies and stitched into their clothing, so that their friends can be notified and decent burial assured.—Louisburg Times.

THE FALL OUTLOOK.

A Season of Exceptional Prosperity is Predicted.

New York Commercial Bulletin.

It argues well for the prospects of the fall trade that we enter upon it with such substantially good conditions. But when to these assurances is added the promised results of the harvest, it seems warrantable to expect a season of exceptional prosperity. As prospects now stand, we may calculate upon the crop results of 1891, taken as a whole, surpassing those of any previous year. If the present promise of the cotton crop should be realized, we shall have a close approximation to the great product of last year. Corn, according to the acreage and condition reported to the agricultural bureau, is likely to give at least an average output. For the wheat crop the lowest estimated yield is 520,000,000 bushels and the maximum five hundred and seventy-five to six hundred millions, against last year's crop of 400,000,000. A harvest like this is the one thing needed to put the business of the country in first-class condition. The farmers have been suffering for so many years, not only from the grossly unequal tariff burdens laid upon them, but also from low prices for their products, that their industry has been undergoing a steady decadence. A harvest such as we have now promised will enable them to liquidate a large amount of debt and provide them with better facilities for cultivation. It will mean so many more millions of capital put into reproductive resources, and its benefits will therefore be permanent.

The memory of last year's extraordinary drain of cash to the interior and of the subsequent destructive stringency in the loan market gives rise to some anxiety as to how far we may be exposed this fall to a like experience. And yet there seems to be no serious ground for such apprehensions. Last year's confidence was prostrated by world-wide crisis, and trade was thereby denied its usual credit facilities at the season when it needs them most; no such conditions exist now. This year, the cash resources of the New York banks available for helping the crop movements are nearly double what they were a year ago, added to which we are in a position to command from Europe any amount of gold we are likely to need for interior purchases of grain which the continental nations will have to make in our markets. While, therefore, we may experience a reasonably active money market, we see no reason for apprehending any embarrassing stringency.

Assuming then that the harvest turns out as it now promises, it seems safe to anticipate for the second half of the year a run of active and prosperous business.

Rocky Mount Argonaut.

We make the following extract from a letter of Joseph Daniels to his paper: We publish it because we wish our people to thoroughly appreciate the exact position in which this section stands to day, and we desire to see them thoroughly educated up to the fact, that energy and push, and a thorough advertising to the world, of our grand natural advantages, are all that are necessary to bring about such an era of prosperity, as has never before been witnessed in the South. We have enough advantages, if they were but known to the world, to bring us all the capital we need to develop our manifold resources, as well as an industrious and thrifty addition to our population, enough to cultivate our surplus lands and convert them into prosperous and pleasant homes. Let us all pull together, there is no use of one pulling one way and another the opposite. Nothing can be accomplished without unity of purpose and harmony of action. The following is the extract referred to:

"I have devoted at least one-fourth of the Chronicle for the past month to the discussion of the possibilities of money making in Eastern North Carolina. There is no section of the State which offers greater inducements to the prospective settler. The fish and truck industries, upon which there is probably more clear money made than on anything else, are confined to Eastern North Carolina. The profits, as printed in the Chronicle, show the possibilities of money making in Eastern Carolina. In addition to these two sources of large profit, mention has also been made of the wonderful success attained in raising tobacco in the Eastern part of the State. The brightest and highest priced tobacco is raised in this section. These are the new sources of wealth. The production of cotton, corn, wheat, oats, rice and peanuts, not to speak of other things that are indigenous to the soil, makes this an ideal section of our State.

"And yet, with all these manifest advantages and a health climate, there has been little or no immigration to this section for a quarter of a century. Why? The chief reason is that no effort has been made to get it. There has been a depreciation of the advantages by the very people who enjoy them. They have not published to the world what they are doing and what can be done. They have permitted other sections, not having so many real advantages, to outstrip them in the race of progress.

"I do not like to bring this impeachment against the people of Eastern North Carolina. There are no people in the world and no better section of the country. But every thoughtful man will agree with me that we have not been aggressive enough in pushing our section; and that the great need to-day in Eastern North Carolina is faith and works in order that there may be rapid development and progress. Faith without works in town building is dead, a community may believe in its superior excellence, but it cannot induce other people to believe the same thing without working to that end. There is abundant opportunity for every county in this section to add to its population if it will advertise its resources properly, and work to secure immigration. If it neglects this work Eastern North Carolina must content itself to sit still and see other sections of the State grow rich and prosperous at its expense.

Mr. Know-it-all. Did you ever meet him? Well newspaper folks are constantly running across him. He knows more about your own business than you know yourself, and is always offering suggestions how you should manage to succeed, and the truth of the whole business is that he doesn't even know the meaning of the word but thinks he knows it all. He bobs up suddenly whenever a calamity happens and begins by saying "the knew it was coming for that thing wasn't managed right at the beginning," then he begins to tell what should be done. He is always telling other folks what to do, and never does anything himself, consequently he is about the biggest nuisance about town.—Richmond Sun.

ABOUT GREENVILLE.

Something An Intelligent Traveller Sees and Writes to the Wilmington Messenger.

A day in Greenville enables one to see that this famous old town is finely improving, especially since it has been receiving the galvanic touches of the railroad from Scotland Neck. The population has increased, and already numbers over twenty-five hundred inhabitants. Enterprise and a new life of vigor and promise, are here sure on all sides. Manufactures are springing up and Greenville is on the onward march and is destined to become one of the most prosperous towns in the eastern part of the State. The Greenville Land and Improvement company with its valuable real estate of one hundred thirty acres of land adjoining the large railroad depot, will be a potent factor in building up the town and improving Pitt county. It has been laid off in streets and building lots, constituting what is called South Greenville. The company was incorporated by the last Legislature and numbers, as members, some of the best and wealthiest citizens of Greenville and Pitt. Its able president, and a leading citizen, is Mr. J. R. Moore, formerly of Pender county. Coming here two years ago as the agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, he remains as the energetic and efficient representative of the company, and to the personal knowledge of the writer, has attained a high standing in this community as a gentleman and a man of superior business qualifications. He originated this Land and Improvement Company, and it is a deserved compliment that, without his solicitation, he has been placed at the head of its affairs. A large and expensive tobacco manufactory is going up on the property, and other fine buildings, and industrial establishments will soon follow, including the plant known as the Kenly Lumber and Steam Saw Mill Company to be brought here.

A Remarkable Case.

Statesville Landmark.

About 18 years ago a country merchant in the western part of the State sent an order to a Statesville firm for a bill of goods and gave a citizen of Statesville for reference. This citizen was called upon and enquired of concerning the customer and said he thought the firm would be safe in shipping the goods—he believed the merchant would pay for them. Time went on and the bill was not paid. Presently the merchant failed. Judgment was gotten against him and the judgment docketed, but there was no property subject to execution and the account was charged up to profit and loss. Once or twice the gentleman whom the broken merchant had referred to enquired of the creditor firm if the bill had ever been paid, and once when going to the mountains, in the direction of the debtor, he took a bill and tried to collect it but failed. Some days ago he stepped into the store of the firm and calling upon the matter said he didn't feel right about it and wanted to pay that debt himself. The head of the firm told him by no means could he allow that—that they had only asked him for his best opinion about the man and had never thought of holding him responsible for the debt. He said he knew that, but all the same he would feel better if he paid off the claim, and after a lot of argument on the part of the merchant and insistence on the part of the visitor, the account was looked up, the interest figured and the gentleman shelled out $101 and paid the bill.

This is a rare case, but if the name of this honest, conscientious man were told the people of Statesville would not be surprised at all; each of them would say: "Why, I might have known it was he!—it's just like him!" And it is. But when the recording angel entered up the transaction he ordered another star to be put in his crown which has for years and years been waiting for this noble, godly man.

Col. A. K. McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address to the North Carolina Exposition at Raleigh, October 21. He will also go to Asheville, where he says he has been long wanting to make a visit. Col. McClure will see a beautiful and progressive country and will be warmly welcomed.—Baltimore Sun.

The Wayne County Alliance at its last meeting passed a resolution condemning the conduct of the magistrates and county commissioners in voting $500 of taxes of the county to be used in the State Exposition.

THE COUNTRY SAFE.

Goldboro Argus.

As the Richmond State says, with our abundant grain harvest and with the great shortage abroad the general business of this country will be very active next fall. The farmer has not had such a chance for making money in many years as he has now. We have frequently advised our agricultural friends to let their grain out gradually, and not crowd the market, as they are always apt to do when prices happen to stiffen up. If they glut the market they will certainly defeat their object.

Reasonably regulated, the farmers can get fine prices for their product. Recent dispatches have indicated a slight improvement in the European crops, but after a careful compilation of reports the shortage is still very great indeed. This country's wheat harvest is estimated at 510,000,000 bushels to which must be added 20,000,000 left over from last year's crop, making a total supply of 530,000,000. Of this amount only about 300,000,000 will be needed for home consumption and about 60,000,000 for next year's seed. This then would leave about 200,000,000 for export.

The Philadelphia Record, in discussing the situation, says: "According to the extravagance of Mr. Charles A. Pillsbury, the Minneapolis miller, and others, the European deficit will not be less than 400,000,000 bushels the half of which can be supplied by the farmers of the United States; and upon this basis extremely high prices for wheat are confidently anticipated. Conservative judges put this deficit much lower; but it is conceded by them that the consumers of Europe will absorb this country's wheat surplus, large as it is, unless the market should be destroyed by the excessive greed of speculation."

Women and Other Women.

Sunny South.

A lady of distinction is reported to have once said that nothing reconciled her to being a woman but the fact that she would not have to marry a woman. Perhaps many other women entertain the same sentiment in regard to their own sex, for it is notorious that as a rule women are less tolerant of, and have fewer confidants among, women than among men. A recent writer speaking of the loyal and long-suffering friendship of women for men; how "their friendship for men is of that kind which is quick to overlook faults and alert to find justification for the friend's foibles and short-comings," goes on to contrast this friendship with that which the same women will exhibit for other women, and which they are not slow to give expression to.

"Women," he says "rarely have such friendship with other women. They have their likings, which for a time may even take the form of extravagant devotion and which may remain as lasting friendship if the two be not too long or too intimately associated. But the friendship of two women which will bear long and intimate association is very rare. They grow critical of each other, as men who are once friends never do, and as women themselves never do in the case of men with whom they form friendships. They irritate each other. In many instances they come to distrust each other where there is no reason for distrust. The truth appears to be that women do not like women so well as they like men, irrespective of love and sentiment. Even in the casual relations of life women find men more agreeable to them than women are. They prefer to be waited on by the salesman rather than by the shop girl, by the waiter than by the waitress. They more willingly crowd themselves together in the street car to make a seat for a male passenger than they will to render a like service to a woman. When a woman is in trouble it is usually a man whom she consults. If she be ill she prefers the male to the female doctor, especially if she regard her illness as serious."

This is a very curious trait in women, if it is true, and observation seems to settle it that way, and, as the writer from whom we have been quoting remarks, it somewhat tends to over-stimulate masculine conceit, and if men have a lurking suspicion of the superiority of their own sex, that vainglorious conception of themselves is in large part the product of woman's teaching."

STATE NEWS.

Happenings Here and There as Gathered From our Exchanges.

There are 1,200 deaf, dumb and blind children in North Carolina between the ages of 6 and 21 years.

Raleigh Chronicle: A thirteen-year-old boy has been brought to the penitentiary from Orange county. He is sentenced to seven years for highway robbery. He waylaid a poor and decrepit old man and came near killing him.

The latest project of that enterprising gentleman Col. E. G. Harrell, editor of the North Carolina Teacher, is the organization of a party of fifty teachers for a two weeks trip to Cuba during the Christmas holidays.

Tarboro Advocate: A mule belonging to Mrs. S. V. Hart got his head hung in a trough last week and despite all efforts to extricate him, he was so severely injured that death soon resulted from the wound. The mule was valued at one hundred and seventy-five dollars.

Statesville Landmark: John Kerley, of Sugar Loaf township, Alexander county, was on his way to a still house, Monday, on an ox-cart loaded with fruit, when the ox cart frightened and ran away. Kerley was thrown under the cart which ran across his body and killed him.

Elizabeth City Economist-Falcon: Rev. Jno. C. Jones, of the North Carolina Conference, stationed at Swan Quarter, Hyde county, was married last week to Miss Lula Dey, daughter of A. O. Day, at the residence of her father near Currituck C. H. Our kind congratulations to our young friends.

Kinston Free Press: While the steamer Kinston was running to Newbern Saturday and when in about four miles of that city Capt. Dixon shot and killed an immense alligator, weight estimated at 600 to 800 pounds. It was skinned and stuffed. When cut open, we learn from the Journal, a good sized hog was found in it.

Salisbury Herald: Mr. Joe McNeely has a hen that is carefully watching a brood of five young partridges. The hen hatched out the birds and is as devoted and attentive to them as if they were young chickens. The birds show considerable fondness for their foster mother and will play all around her, often jumping on and off her back.

Goldboro Argus: Our good friend Mr. Jno. G. Britt, of Greene county, one of the truly energetic and successful farmers of that substantial county of good farmers, was in the city yesterday, and laid upon our table two specimens of his recent crop of Irish potatoes that are indeed rare curiosities. One of them is in the perfect shape of a bull frog, and the other that of a terrapin.

Charlotte Chronicle: J. G. Brown, a citizen of Huntersville, died Thursday at the age of 87 years, and was buried yesterday. Mr. Brown leaves a wife, age 87, and a sister, aged 80. A gentleman walked into the Register of Reeds office yesterday and asked to see the Alliance Bible. He was in error and explained that he meant the acts of the last legislature recently published.

Tarboro Southern: The Edgecombe Homestead Loan association has not been in operation quite two years, yet in that time it has built ten dwelling houses and one lively stable, besides accommodating many with money which they use for other purposes. A tobacco prize house and a tobacco warehouse is also to be built by it. Every town and community should have one.

A NEW OLD TOWN.

Two weeks ago the REFLECTOR had the pleasure of spending a day in Salisbury. While it is an old town it is no longer given over to old ways.

Salisbury has been here almost as long as any other town in North Carolina, and in years prior to the war it held the distinction of being a leading business centre in all that section of the State. The devastations of war robbed it of its prestige and for a decade or two thereafter it did what some few towns in North Carolina still continue to do, managed to drag along at something of a snail like pace; barely keeping soul and body together, so to speak. Salisbury has some little historic distinction, but past glories don't keep up a town in this day and generation. To receive recognition a town must be in the living, moving, active present; and that is right where Salisbury has got today. It has pulled itself out of the old ruts of half a century ago and is forging ahead at such a rate as to be entitled to a position in the columns of progressive towns.

The man who knew Salisbury ten, twenty or thirty years ago, would hardly recognize it to-day as the same town. Even a decade ago it was void of any industry of note, but among the enterprises it has to-day are a cotton factory that is already paying 12 per cent dividends annually and two other such factories rapidly building; five plug tobacco factories, one smoking tobacco factory, a saw mill, a ice factory, a millinery, two saw mills and planing mills, three planing mills, one of the largest distilleries in the South, (we don't enjoy it in that however), two tobacco warehouses, and various other establishments of more or less note.
Thirty-six dwelling houses and a $20,000 Presbyterian church are in course of construction, the latter being built of granite.

By the way, Salisbury has an inexhaustible supply of granite of the very finest kind. There are just mountains of it extending for miles around the town, enough to supply the whole Southern States with building material. There is great demand for it and orders pour in to the quarries from far and near.

Recognizing the fact that a town to be truly progressive must keep its educational interests abreast—if not in advance—with all other enterprises, Salisbury has established as fine a graded school town as any in the State can boast.

The town also has a splendid system of water works and has voted for a large sum to be expended in improving and paving the streets.
A very large item in the business of the town is the fact that it is a paying office for the R. & D. railroad company and they pay out $12,000 there every month to employees.

his name revives pleasant memories of their associations together when fighting side by side under the Confederate flag.
Our young friends and former merchants of Greenville, Messrs.
Littmann & Lichtenstein, also came in for a share of our time and were anxious to make our stay long and pleasant. We found them the leading dry goods merchants of the town and having an immense trade.
They occupy a two-story building 25x100 feet and then have hardly enough room for their rapidly growing business. To give an idea of how much space they could utilize profitably they are offering to let the land owner a rental equal to 12 per cent on the investment if he will build them a store double the capacity of the one they now occupy.
Before taking our departure they both insisted that we bring from their establishment a souvenir of our visit to Salisbury.

The Board of Commissioners of Anson county ought to be retained in office all their life time. They have proven themselves to be men of stability and character. Two years ago Wadesboro, the county seat, voted dry. As liquor could not be sold at the county seat the Commissioners refused to grant licenses in the county. Last June Wadesboro voted wet. The town councilmen at first refused to recommend any one for license. But one of them resigned and after his successor was elected, they voted to recommend for license. The matter then went before the county commissioners. They took the matter under careful consideration, and after examining many witnesses on both sides as to the sentiment of the people and after hearing the arguments of counsel on both sides, they refused to grant licenses.

In this matter they showed care and deliberation. They have shown that they have the good of the people at heart, and do not want them cursed with liquor selling. Most boards of commissioners under such circumstances would have granted license at once. But the Anson county board is composed of men of pluck and nerve and they think and deliberate well before making any radical changes. Keep them in, ye Ansonians.

It is still in doubt whether or not Pitt county will have an exhibit at the Southern Exposition at Raleigh, but the chances are very much against it, judging by the interest that is taken in it. For several weeks the REFLECTOR has been advocating the measure and urging that an exhibit be made that would be a credit to the county, but all that has been said has only brought forth one endorsement in print, and only one man has come forward and voluntarily offered to contribute to such an enterprise. One of the leading farmers of the county said he was ready to contribute $10 to help provide an exhibit whenever a fund could be started. Verily, there seems to be but little interest in the matter and the county is missing a chance of showing her industries to advantage. We are glad to learn, however, that Mr. Allen Warren says that whether there is a county exhibit or not, he will certainly have an exhibit from Riverside Nursery.
May this step of enterprise on his part meet a full measure of reward.

Whatever else may have been short in yield this year, one thing is certain, there is an abundant grass crop. This being so we see no reason why the farmers can not save all the hay that will be needed for their stock. This way of farmers coming to town and hauling out load after load of Western hay and corn is a great factor in keeping them so poor.
The REFLECTOR hopes Pitt county farmers will do less of this during the coming winter and spring.
Corn and hay can be raised here for much less money than it can be imported.

The University Alumni Association offers five fellowships of the annual value of two hundred dollars each, to graduates of colleges who desire to pursue advanced literary, philosophical and scientific studies at the University. There is no charge for tuition so that the two hundred dollars defray all expenses. None need apply but men whose college record for scholarship and character has been highly credited. For particulars address President Winston at Chapel Hill.

Mr. Hugh F. Murray, a lawyer of Wilson, died at his home in that town on Thursday last. His parents lived in Greenville many years and if we mistake not he was born in this town. After moving away and growing to manhood he was for several years a regular attendant upon the Courts of this county.
Many of our people remember him well and regret to learn of his death.

We see it stated that the Legislature of Georgia, following the example of North Carolina, has enacted a law to prevent the sale of cigarettes to minors. It is one thing to enact a law and other to enforce it, however. If the law in Georgia is carried out (it is in North Carolina the boys of that State will continue to get all the cigarettes they want.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, August 21st, 1891.
Ex-Senator Mahone, of Virginia, is daring enough and unscrupulous enough to attempt almost anything, but if my information is correct, and there is every reason to believe that it is, his latest scheme is one of the most desperate in which he ever engaged. He once captured the State of Virginia and got himself sent to the Senate by getting control of the so-called readjuster movement in that State, and he is now plotting to get control of the Farmer's Alliance movement in that State, in order to capture the legislature and get himself again sent to the Senate, this time as successor to Senator Daniel.
The plot is all mapped out, and the decision of the Republican State committee of which Mahone is the owner, to nominate no Republican candidates for the legislature was part and parcel thereof. The world has passed along the Republican lines that they must support the nominations of the Alliance for the legislature if told to do so by their local leaders, and they are to be told to do so in every instance that a blind pledge—Mahone's name is not yet to be used—can be secured from the farmers candidate to vote as they may be told for the successor to Senator Daniel.

Harrison Republicans have never been plenty outside of the holders of the Federal office, but there is now a manifest disposition even among that class of Republicans to get aboard of the Blaine train, which is believed to have been given impetus enough by the semi-endorsement of the Pennsylvania State convention to enable it make the trip to nomination station without any serious difficulty, even should Mr. Harrison attempt to play the part of train wrecker by placing obstructions on the track, which he may or may not do, as circumstances may determine.

All the rumors about the coming retirement of Secretary Noble and Commissioner of Pensions Baum have been revived this week. One of the causes for this was the statement made by Secretary Foster that Mr. Harrison would return to Washington the first week in September instead of remaining away until the first of October as he had originally contemplated, because there was some very important business connected with the Interior department that required his personal attention. The only question pending before the Interior department, so far as the public knows, that might be considered important enough to require the personal attention of Mr. Harrison is that of compelling the cattle kings to vacate the Cherokee outlet, they having up to the present time quietly ignored the orders of Uncle Sam to get out; but the general sentiment seems to be that the important business is naming the successor to Secretary Noble and to Commissioner Baum, who are the two most important officials connected with the Interior department. Another thing which is probably having its effect in making Mr. Harrison change his plans is, that he can pull the wires for securing delegates to the national convention, should Blaine allow him to continue to think him self a candidate, to far greater advantages in the White House than anywhere else.

It is now absolutely certain that a very large amount of the 43 per cent bonds will not be presented for extension at 2 per cent, and Secretary Foster is now putting his trust in the belief that the most of the bonds that will not be presented for redemption and that they will come in slowly and in small quantities.
Should he be wrong, and the most of these bonds be presented for redemption immediately after their maturity, September 2, Mr. Foster will be carries out his present intention of using a part of the $100,- 000,000 gold reserve fund to pay them, in the opinion of able constitutional lawyers, render himself liable to be held personally responsible for the amount taken from the fund, to say nothing of impeachment by congress.

There are those who say that Land Commissioner Carter, Russell Harrington's protegee, has not overworked himself in trying to carry out the law by driving the cattle kings, some of whom are said to be warm friends of both "Bones" and himself, from the Cherokee outlet.
Some inquiry into this business may have to be made by Mr. Harrison senior.

Mr. Wanamaker was the principal speaker at a reunion of the "Old time telegraphers" and the "Military telegraphers," held here last night. Wires were run into the hall and every word of the proceedings was instantly ticked into more than one hundred thousand telegraph offices throughout the land.
A large number of distinguished scientists are here in attendance upon the annual convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

A Musical Treat.

A musical treat is in store for those who visit the great Southern Exposition to be held in Raleigh, N. C., during October and November. The band that is to furnish music for the Exposition has been selected from the most talented musicians. Some of them came from as far as the White Mountains of New Hampshire, and two from Europe. The selection of the musicians was made by the musical director, who had directions to select the best, so as to furnish the most complete band that has yet performed at a Southern Exposition.

TRADE MARK.
This Preparation has been in use over fifty years, and wherever known has been in steady demand. It has been endorsed by the leading physicians all over the country, and has effected cures where all other remedies, with the attention of the most experienced physicians, have for years failed. This Ointment is of long standing and the high reputation which it has obtained is owing entirely to its own efficacy, as but little effort has ever been made to bring it before the public. One bottle of this Ointment will be sent to any address on receipt of One

Rev. Dr. Morton, Presbyterian Evangelist of Kentucky, preached in the Opera House here last night. To day he goes to Falkland to assist in a meeting which Rev. Mr. Summrell commenced there on Sunday.

Prof. G. C. Foust, who taught one year in Greenville Institute, but now has charge of a large school at Abilene, Texas, was in town Friday and Saturday. From here he went to Falkland to visit his sister Mrs. Harris.

Greenville had a flush of Professors in town Saturday. Besides the residents, Prof. W. H. Ragdale and Z. D. McWhorter, the Reflector office had calls from Prof. John Duckett, of Hamilton, Prof. C. H. James, of Grifton, Prof. G. C. Foust, of Abilene, Texas, and Prof. J. E. Tucker, of Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. M. R. Lang reached home Monday evening from his purchasing tour through the Northern cities and his new goods are arriving every day. He says the weather was fearfully warm in New York and Philadelphia last week. He also tells us there was much excitement in both those cities over the horrible explosion that occurred in New York Saturday which wrecked several buildings and cost scores of people their lives.

Mr. J. B. Cherry, of the firm of J. B. Cherry & Co., accompanied by his son, Master James, leaves this morning for the northern markets to lay in the stock of fall goods for the firm. Carrying the unusually large stock of goods that this reliable firm does their purchases will be correspondingly large this season and purchasers may be assured of finding any article they want at their establishment, and that too at a most reasonable price. They handle general merchandise and as nice a stock as any town can show.

Nut culture, and especially the pecan, is demanding attention in various sections. Mr. Allen Warren, of Riverside Nursery can give you all information about this very profitable tree.

Transportation companies are being taxed now to bring in new goods for the merchants. Their work will get much larger when cotton and tobacco shipments get lively.

The large law suit, Smith vs. Quin, which had been in progress for some time and which was being heard before Mr. R. O. Burton, of Halifax, as referee, was compromised last Saturday.

Try It.
A good article and one that should be in every household is Christman's Ointment. By its own merit in the working of many wonderful cures it has won for it a high reputation. The advertisement which appears elsewhere in this paper cannot fail to be of interest.

Coming.
Not many days hence and the bill boards, cross roads stores and fences will be decorated with flaming fair posters sending forth the intelligence that the big pumpkin will soon go on exhibition and the bob-tailed nag be in the race. It would be no fall without fairs.

Give Him The Best.
Hon. Thos. G. Skinner and wife were in Raleigh yesterday on their way home from the mountains. He said the mountains might do for the up-country folks, but for him Perquimans county was the healthiest in the State, and he was in a hurry to breathe its pure air so he could feel well again once more.—Raleigh Chronicle.

Stole Him Iron.
Yesterday morning about day break a negro went to the Foundry and stole a wheel barrow load of old iron. He took it around to another part of the town then went with it to Five Points and offered it for sale to the junk dealer down there. He was caught up with and is having some trouble over the matter. He may take quarters at Hotel Tucker before the meeting closes.

"Fun for the Boy, but Death to the Frog."
The Tarboro base ball tossers have returned from their Washington and Greenville tour in search of diamond scalps. Their search was a vain one. Washington 14, Tarboro 4; Greenville 6, Tarboro 2. In justice to the boys it should be stated that they say they only played Greenville for fun! Fun for Greenville it is supposed.—Tarboro Southerner.

Business Ahead.
As soon as the crops now on the property are harvested the Greenville Land & Improvement Company will finish laying out the streets and will place maps of their lots before the public. It is desirable property and is going to be an attractive part of the town. The tobacco warehouse on this property is nearing completion and at an early day the company will have their large lumber mill moved down from Kenly.

Brand Over.
The little town of Ayden sent quite a delegation up here Monday to investigate a charge of conspiracy against twelve men of that community who stood indicted for that offense. The case was heard before Squire B. S. Sheppard, who bound five of the parties over to Court. The other seven were dismissed, no evidence being found against them. The charge was of a conspiracy to whip another man.

Cures.
Yesterday Mr. W. A. Hyman brought the REFLECTOR a corn cure that looks very much like a human hand and wrist. It resembles a hand partially closed with the ends of the fingers cut off.

On Monday Mr. B. W. Tucker brought us a triple apple. At first glance it looked like a large apple, but a closer inspection showed that it was three grown together. The three stems were distinct.

Rights of Way Secured.
There was quite a gathering at Pictolus on Monday, composed of those people living in Pitt county along the route of the railroad to be built from the A. & R. Junction to Washington. They met to receive pay for the rights of way through their land for the road. Payments for the rights of way over the entire route to Washington were completed yesterday. It is now expected that work on the road will begin about September 1st, and be pushed through as rapidly as possible.

Read This Paper.
So many new advertisements crowded in upon us last week that we could not give them all the special mention they should have received. At this season it is greatly to the interest of REFLECTOR readers to keep a close watch on its advertising columns. There are frequently bargains offered that are not called to your attention through any other channel, and these men who advertise and tell you just what they offer are the ones entitled to your trade. Don't fail to examine every copy of the paper.

Notwithstanding the very bad weather this week both the Male School and the Institute opened with a large and encouraging attendance.

Prof. W. H. Ragdale opened his Male School in the Academy Monday morning, and though there was a heavy down pour of rain at the opening hour 21 boys were present. Others entered yesterday.

Prof. Z. D. McWhorter opened the Institute for both sexes yesterday morning amid more bad weather. He starts with 38 boarders and a total enrollment of 104 for the Institute and Public School combined.

Almost every day for the next two or three weeks new pupils will be coming in to both these schools. The Female School will begin next Monday.

Farmville Firms.
The picnic at Hathaway's Grove, near Farmville, last Thursday was certainly a pleasant one and in every way a success. People were there from Pitt, Greene, Wilson and Lenoir counties, and they made a pleasant day of it. A large platform had been built, a good string band was present and the young people had a full day of dancing. The dinner was a bounteous one, enough and to spare for every one that was gathered together on this occasion. A pile of twenty-two barbecued porkers glistened all over the place and had been had of any one going away hungry. The managers were Messrs. J. W. Parker, T. L. Turnage, S. J. Parker, J. D. Carraway, Benj. May and Jerry Fields, and they know their business in getting up and conducting a successful picnic. The pleasures of the day were carried still further in a ball at Farmville at night. Greenville was well represented at both the picnic and ball.

The Female School.
An announced last week would be done, all arrangements for the strictly female school in Greenville have been perfected. The movers in this enterprise secured Mrs. J. J. Harrington (nee Miss Josie Mansfield) to take charge of the school and it will be opened next Monday in the Tyson school building on Greene street. Mrs. Harrington comes with the best recommendations that could be asked. She graduated at Hollins Institute, Va., and was in college six years preparing herself. She has had nine years experience at teaching. She is from Suffolk, Va., and bears high testimonials from Gen. L. S. Baker, of that city, from ex-Judge P. B. Prentiss, Superior Court Clerk of Nansemond county, Va., Mrs. C. Wm. Goodman, Campbell county, Va., J. T. McCreery, Notary Public, Blockster, W. Va., Dr. H. Holmes Hunter, Sunbury, N. C., Messrs. J. L. Fleming and J. R. Davenport, Pictolus, N. C., and others. The prospects are favorable for a good school. Advertisement for the opening will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Killed in South Carolina.
Information has been received here of the killing at Walterboro, S. C., of W. L. Harris, a native of this county. He left here last winter and went to South Carolina, engaging with a large lumber milling company near Walterboro. Sometime later two other young men, John and Joe Harris, were from this county to South Carolina and have been working at the same mill. On Saturday, August 8th, when the hands at the mill were paid off, a party of them, the three Harris in the number, got on a tram car and went to Walterboro. They drank very freely of liquor and were all more or less under the influence of liquor when they started back to the mill. On the way Joe Harris was teasing W. L. Harris about a cigar. The latter got mad at this and stuck his knife in Joe Harris. When the cutting took place John Harris, brother of Joe, put a standard from the side of the car and dealt W. L. Harris a blow on the head. The blow knocked him insensible and he never regained consciousness, the injury causing his death Sunday evening. John Harris stayed around the wounded man until it was discovered that he would die then fled to parts unknown. Persons who have written here about the occurrence say they could be the particulars as they could be gathered. They also say that W. L. Harris received every attention possible and was given decent burial.

Tobacco Crumbs.
The tobacco warehouse is nearly closed in and will be ready for the opening sale as soon as the floor can be laid. The stockholders will meet this week to select a manager. The REFLECTOR suggests that they also select a day for the opening break and begin publishing it, so that it may be made the biggest day Greenville has had in many years.

Monday morning Mr. McG. Manning brought in a sample that was cured on his place by J. S. McArthur in 30 hours. It is a nice cure and compares favorably with the other specimens on exhibition. We are believing that the time ordinarily required in curing a bale of tobacco can be materially shortened.

On Saturday Messrs. O. L. Joyner and L. F. Evans, who are farming together near Farmville, brought the REFLECTOR specimens of their tobacco. The cures are bright and everybody who has seen the samples pronounced them fine. These young men have several bales of a superior cure.

The best all around stalk of tobacco that we have seen was brought in Saturday by Mr. H. J. Hester. The stalk was a large one and contained fifteen leaves. Old handlers of the weed say it is as good a cure of the stalk through as they ever saw.

Several of the farmers of this section will finish curing their tobacco crops this week. Pitt is a long way ahead of the upcountry farmers who are just beginning to cure.

The talk in town Saturday was tobacco and nothing else. The people of Pitt county are becoming more and more interested in it every day.

A tobacco barn on Mr. J. B. Yellowley's place, just below town, burned down and burned down about one o'clock Friday.

Mr. Jacob Joyner lost a tobacco barn by fire one day last week.

Grifton Items.
Once again we will endeavor to get to you what we deem of most interest in the passing events of our town. However it may be of no use, for it seems impossible to get anything to you in time for publication unless we send it a week before hand. Surely our mail facilities need some alteration when it takes a letter two days to get 10 miles, and when we have a daily train to and from your place. Will not our P. M. ask Uncle Sam to come to our rescue and give us the mail by the railroad? This we think is a matter of importance and should be looked after at once, for we are in a fast age when one day's time in mail matters amounts to a great deal. Come to our rescue, you who have authority in this matter, and give us the mail by rapid transit, for "push" is Grifton's motto.

Sunday morning and at night the M. E. congregation enjoyed rich intellectual feasts in sermons by Presiding Elder Rhone. His sermons show deep thought. All become so charmed while listening to him that they soon forget his peculiar voice and are held spell bound at his eloquence.

The pulpit of the Christian Church here was filled Sunday afternoon and night by Rev. D. W. Davis, to the delight of all whose good fortune it was to hear him. He has not reached the meridian of life yet, and we predict that long before he reaches declining years he will have climbed high up the ladder of ecclesiastical fame.

Genron, N. C., Aug. 24th.

Hereafter all cheap novels purchased at the Reflector Book Store will be changeable at half price, that is the purchaser of a book can read it and by returning it unsold get a new one at half price, or one new one for two that have been read.

WEEKLY WEATHER CROP BULLETIN.

CENTRAL OFFICE, RALEIGH.
The reports of correspondents of the Weekly Weather Crop Bulletin issued by the North Carolina Experiment Station and State Weather Service for the week ending Friday, August 21st, 1891, show that very favorable weather conditions have continued. The temperature and amount of sunshine have been considerably above the normal. Occasional showers have fallen, but the rain-fall has generally been deficient, average less than one inch, the normal amount for this week being 1.52 inches. A hail storm occurred in Davie county, damaging tobacco and corn. Local heavy rains (over one inch) occurred at Asheville on 20th and at Raleigh on 21st. As compared with last week cotton and corn show slight improvement in condition, while tobacco has deteriorated somewhat owing to firing and damage in low places by flea-bugs. Without question the corn crop will be most excellent this year, while the cotton crop is about average. Correspondents remark that with favorable conditions and late fall an average crop can be made. Present condition of crops for the State: Cotton 76, corn 87, tobacco 85. (165 reports received, representing 66 counties.)

Eastern District.—The weather has been warm with abundant sunshine and occasional showers; in some places rather dry now, and crops needing rain. Reports concerning cotton rather diversified but generally showing marked improvement. Cotton fruiting better. Corn is well cared, and the saving of fodder has commenced. Lowland rice is reported in excellent condition. Present condition of crops in this district: Cotton 77, corn 84, tobacco 84, peanuts 83, potatoes 81. (40 reports, representing 22 counties.)

Central District.—The weather is beginning to be rather dry in the southern portions, while too much rain is reported at isolated places in the northern portions of this district. A severe electrical storm passed over Wake county Friday night. 1.38 inches of rain fell at Raleigh and lightning struck a barn at Apex, Wake county, destroying a number of bales of cotton. The past week has matured and developed crops considerably. Corn is in splendid condition. Cotton has improved two per cent, though not reported fruiting well and still shedding in low places. Turnips and oats being seeded. The fruit very fine and abundant, but being a little late prices range too low. Tobacco is firing considerably, and has not improved during the week; some farmers commencing to cut. Present condition of crops: Cotton 77, corn 85, tobacco 82. (165 reports received, representing 23 counties.)

Western District.—Fine season prevailed during the past week. Rain is needed at some places. A severe hail storm occurred at Mocksville, Davie county, damaging tobacco over a considerable area and injuring corn. Prospects favorable for a heavy crop of corn, the condition in this district is excellent. Tobacco improved 2 per cent. It is being cut and cured in low places. Hay making progressing slowly. Present condition of crops: Cotton 74, corn 91, tobacco 90. (60 reports received, representing 21 counties.)

Condition of crops stated on basis of 100.

Best condition is 100.

Excellent condition is 90 to 100.

Good condition is 80 to 90.

Fair condition is 70 to 80.

Poor condition is under 70.

FOUR BALES TO THE ACRE.

EDITOR EASTERN REFLECTOR:
I have been reading your paper ever since you have been publishing it and I like it well. You know I have been subscribing the last few years, and have never asked you to publish anything. But as I am a farmer and wish to say something, you will please print this in your next week's paper.

I have one acre of cotton on which I am trying for the $100 gold prize offered by the Pocomoke Gunco. Co., of Norfolk, Va. I bought the gunno tobacco from Young & Puddy, at Greenville. The cotton is in 5 foot rows and has met. It is from 4 1/2 to 7 feet high and will average 25 to 50 bolls with as high as 250 forms. This cotton did not come up until May 20th. It is doing well, and I think with twenty more good days it will make four bales.

D. R. KING.

[We take pleasure in publishing the above. Daniel King is the most prosperous colored farmer in the county. By his industry and honesty he has won the good will of everybody that knows him, and has more credit in business circles than many white men can command. He is a large tobacco farmer and is making money every year. If the colored people would emulate his example there would be far more thrift and contentment among them.]

We hope Daniel will make the four bales of cotton on his acre and win the premium also. His system of farming in this instance is along the line of the REFLECTOR's belief, that a small acreage well cultivated will pay better than a large acreage poorly cultivated. If the fertilizers that most of the farmers thinly spread over four acres was put upon one acre the harvest results would be much better to say nothing of the difference in the expenditure of having to cultivate a smaller number of acres. The way of cultivating two, three and sometimes four acres to get one bale of cotton is a poor system of farming and can be wonderfully improved upon. The lands of Pitt county are capable of much larger production, as this test of Daniel King's will show.—Ed.]

Gen. Greely to Visit the South.

Gen. Greely, the Chief of the United States Weather Bureau, and the Commander of the famous North Pole exploring expedition, has consented to visit the Southern Exposition at Raleigh, N. C., and deliver an address. The Exposition is to open October 1st and close December 1st, 1891. Gen. Greely will deliver an interesting address, and it will be a great treat for those who are so fortunate as to be present at the Exposition at that time.

It has a prominent front grille and headlights. The canopy is supported by several vertical poles. The wheels are large and spoked. The overall appearance is that of an early 20th-century motorized transport.

THE OLD JUG.

Joseph Cook, aged 81 years, of Cass-tes county, has a brown jug which is over 120 years old that was brought over from Germany by his grandfather.— Reidsville Record.

O precious old jug!
Thou cozy retreat
Of the juice of the bug!
How thy presence reminds
Of the foaming mug,
And the dutchman's beer,
And his rapturous shrug.
Thy cunning old rogue
For centuries past
You have been the vogue.
Will you open your mouth?
There's a terrible drought!
Won't you give me a slug?
Ah! generous old jug!
Say, what do you do
For a living, old fellow?
You're a sexton, true blue,
You say? Well, well!
Will I take a drop more?
No, no—no! thanks;
I feel it already.
Way down in my shanks!
But tell me, old boy,
"Ere I put in the plug—
Have you many graves dug?
What! thousands?
You brag, in your time?
You have digged them
With whiskey, and brandy,
And wine!
You monstrous old jug!
You bloody old thug!
Ha! I wring your old neck,
I break your old bones;
A fig for your groove;
Dye thousands of slaves?
Well, you won't dig mine! F.

Nellie, he said, with a kind of almost experimental, immature, early home-grown smile on his anxious face, —I may count on you as—a friend, may I not?

Certainly, Alfred, she replied.

As—a good friend?

To be sure.

You have no objection to looking on me as—a distant relative, perhaps.

You I have no object to looking on me as—a distant relative, perhaps.

No I have no objection to that.

Second cousin as it were?

I am willing to be your second cousin.

Or, first cousin once removed, he persisted, mopping his forehead with a trembling handkerchief.

Well I have no objection to that, either.

And I might as well be a first cousin, mightn't I?

Yes, I suppose so.

Do you feel, Nellie, he went on hastily swallowing something large and bouyant, as if you could be a—be a—sister to me?

No Alfred.

The Prince of Wales' Income.

Sunny South.

A yankee with that inquiring turn of mind that characterizes the bohemians among them, has been looking into the income of the Prince of Wales and has made the discovery that it is about $1,000,000 a year, three-fourths of which comes in the shape of appropriations to himself and members of his family from the British government; but that "prince of foily fellows" can not subsist on this small sum, and so every few years his debts have to be paid off by the government or his thrifty mother. Royalty seems to impose obligations which cannot be neglected except at the expense of being regarded as parsimonious, for this same yankee tells us that "the household of the Prince of Wales is on the same footing as that of a sovereign with the difference that his civil list is inferior to that of every reigning monarch, with the exception of the king of Greece." As this is imposed upon him as the heir-apparent to the throne of Great Britain it is simple justice that his frugal mother should help bear the expense.

In all the wonders of the South there is nothing more wonderful yet discovered than is Panacea water for Dyspepsia in all of its most distressing symptoms. It acts upon the Liver and Kidneys and cures them permanently. It is worth $4 per case, or 50¢ a bottle. Write to C. Ask your druggist or send an order to:

The Georgia editors of weekly papers are enjoying a grand junketing tour. They met in Atlanta and then went to New York in Pullman sleepers. Living in hotels, eating with knives and forks and having a clean towel every morning with sterile soap, will make home life very dull and prosaic to them. With fried bacon for breakfast, Georgia blue collards for dinner and cold victuals warmed over for supper, things will not look as rose colored as they did at the Kimball house, or Delmonico's. But the Georgia editor is tough and can thrive and write well on one towel a week and a good, square meal every Sunday.—Spartanburg (S. C.) Spartan.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Riordan's Africa Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits.

The Derivation of America.

New Orleans, Picayune.

Colonel Glenn, of this city, now in South America, recalls the fact that in 1492 he had become the Society of "Americanists," in Paris, on October 15, 1890, entitled "A Philologic Study of the Origin of the Name America," Bishop Carrillo, of Yucatan, a well known author on American linguistic matters, maintained that when Cortez landed on the coast of Yucatan, and on what is now known as the Mosquito Coast, the whole country was possessed by the Aztecs, and was known by them as Am-eli-ka, which in the Aztec tongue meant "The Windy Country, or the Country of High Winds." This name of "Am-eli-ka" was easily corrupted in pronunciation into America by the old Spaniards. The Italian geographer, Alberic Vespucci, prefixed it in place of the name by which he had been christened, and became known as Americus (Amerigo) Vespucci, in the same manner as the distinguished English geographer Gordon had prefixed Chi-ness to his name, and became known to the world as Chinese Gordon.

Of Interest to Ginners.

So much has been said about the use of scales at the gin house that we call particular attention to a new book entitled, "Jones of Binghamton" in Binghamton, N. Y., contains full information regarding cone scales, etc., and should be read by every intelligent ginner. A postal will get it.

From Bill Arp's Letter.

There are $900,000,000 spent in a year for whiskey, and $600,000,000 for tobacco, and $100,000,000 wasted in extravagant salaries, and if the Alliance would just come down like an avalanche upon those three things and save that $1,000,000,000 a year, all that money would be put into useful and profitable industries, and it would get scattered among the people and make everybody comfortable and happy, and the farmers wouldn't need any sub-treasury. Why if they will just tackle the whiskey alone and stop every still and all importation of spirits our courts would mighty nigh dry up for want of business, and our jails would be empty and our taxes be reduced 50 or 75 per cent. But the Alliance can't see it, for they want a little something for snake bites themselves, and the whiskey ring is a power in the nation, and so I have despaired of reforming the people by myself and have concluded to go and preach the gospel and leave mankind to the Lord who made them.

Does she feel poorly all the time suffer from lack of energy, and a general "incompleteness" of her system? She needs a tonic. Something is wrong with her blood. Run for a doctor? Not at all, my dear sir. Gather a bottle of P. P. P., (Pfeiffer's) Ash, Poke Root and Potassum, the very best Woman's Regulator and Tonic extant. It reaches the source of trouble quietly and quickly, and before you know it, your wife will be another woman, and will bless the kind fate that brought P. P. P. to her notice and relief. Our best physicians endorse and recommend this medicine for use in every household where pure blood and its concomitant happiness is appreciated, should be without it. For sale by reputable medicine dealers everywhere.

The full value of an education, especially in the mathematical line, is abundantly proved by the following anecdote: An Irishman was ordered to make a coffin, which he did; and to paint the inscription on the lid, which he did after a fashion which caused a little excitement in the churchyard. By dint of following the written copy, he managed to get as far as "Michael O'Radeity, aged—"; but try as he would, he could not imitate the "28". At last he remembered that he could write 7, and that four 7's made 28. So he finished it. When they came to bury Michael, the coffin stood at the grave-side, and the priest spoke as follows: "Ah! he is a fine lad. He had three 7's and a 28 on his coffin."

He is saying there so many, taken away in the prime of life. Young he was, too; only—" Here the priest looked down at the coffin-plate to see how old Michael was. "He was only—" said his reverence a gain, and he put his glasses on and went nearer, to see how old he really was; "he was only," he continued, "7,777 years old."

Young man, the proud possessor of your first baby listen to this: When it begins to feed or has cholera infantum don't get excited and give it nauseous doses, but send and get a few bottles of Panacea. It is perfectly harmless and will cure the child. It is nature's remedy. We tell you only what we can prove. It is worth $44.00 at Littleton, N. C. Ask your druggist or send order to—

Raleigh News and Observer: The editor of the North Carolina Teacher, Col. E. G. Harrell, is arranging to carry a party of fifty teachers on a two weeks charming trip to Cuba during the Christmas holidays. The entire expense of the tour is not to be over $75, which will include transportation, board and sight-seeing, and all necessary expenses. A week will be spent in Havana, and four days will be given to trips into the mountains of Cuba.— September first will mark a notch in the calendar of Raleigh if all the enterprises which it is contemplated to complete by that time result in satisfaction. It is announced that on the date the street railway will be ready for operation, the new Commercial and Farmers' Bank will open and the Yarbrough House extension will be completed.

Happy Recipients.
Wm. Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for I had feeling arising from kidney and liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer near Richmond, of same place, says: "I had Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50c, a bottle, at J. L. Woolen's Drug Store."

What a stupendous growth in the value of railroad property in North Carolina within the past few years! We see it stated upon the authority of State Treasurer Bain that "the aggregate value of the property of the sixty-seven railways in the State, as assessed for taxation by the Railroad Commission, is $18,444,048.28." Is there an industry in North Carolina that has done half so well? To know the aggregate value of the increased prices of other property, due directly to the construction of railroads, and the increase to the State by the way of taxes thus derived, would doubtless "startle the natives," and impart such news as would prove wholesome reading for us all to digest.—Fayetteville Observer.

REGULATOR

CANTERVILLE, April 20, 1896.
This will certify that two members of my immediate family, after having suffered for years from Menstrual Irregularity, being treated without success by Physicians, were at length completely cured by one bottle of Bradfield's Female Regulator. Its effect is truly wonderful. J. W. STRANGER.

Pitt's Oratory.

The highest impression imparted to me by words spoken was by those which I heard from Mr. Pitt, whose form is even now distinctly before me.
His power was of a mighty order, for he brought him without an absorbing interest, which is proof conclusive.
You felt you had been charmed in the listening. It was even to that which you had been thinking of within yourself. There was the secret in his elocu-cution as it is in the antique. In debate caught on the moment he saw intuitively the weakness of his opponents. He identified himself with them and impersonated their prevailing thought, which they with rapture heard in his gorgeous language.

In his periods of majestic correctness, and sometimes so elaborate as to take two minutes in the delivery, he never turned from or broke in upon one impression which he felt was pervading its development—and yet tantalizing in expressing it—protracting as though to be surer of it—after an interval of breathless suspense, he then unfurled his full display, like that of Caesar's mantle, at the instant of intensest expectation. They voted in delirium. He was the consummate master of his art, and the greatest leader the commons ever had or ever will have.—Pemberton Milnes.

Florida's Aquatic Scavengers.
The city of Jacksonville protects catfish in the river as scavengers. It is a five dollar fine to catch one of them, and the fish seem to know it. The river is full of them, and they vary in size from a baby to a 200 pound man.—Atlanta Constitution.

Lacking the Motive Power.
"I wonder why the car doesn't start!" exclaimed an impatient passenger.
"There are not enough people on board yet to make the cargo," replied another who understood the situation.

No! What's This?

—(2)—

Why another new discovery by Alfred Culley in the way of helping the afflicted by treating or addressing the scalp by rubbing on or applying the above named ointment? You have probably a bottle of Preparation that is invaluable for eradicating, and ruff and causing the tinkles hair to be perfectly soft and glossy, only by a three application a week is necessary, and a common hair brush is all to be used after rubbing the scalp vigorously for a few minutes with the Preparation. Try a bottle and be convinced, only 50 cents.
