THE LITTLE QUEEN. No doubt many of our readers think it would be very nice to be a queen—indeed, I heard some little girls talking about the fine thing it must be to have such a high position in life.

BOASTING. "Boasters are cousins of liars," says the proverb. "Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed lest he fall," says the Word of God.

No wonder there is such a lovely rose color over the days of courtship, and no wonder it fades into very plain and commonplace gray so soon after marriage.

Then it was that a little man who had been an interested spectator tapped him on the arm and asked: "Does that belong to you?"

Then she choked back the sobs and hurried on with her work. The woman's earnings by making pants at 85 cents per dozen grows smaller with every moment taken for tears.

But can you imagine it? A shortage of 3 cents to buy necessary of life? The lack of two pennies to get a drink to cool the fevered thirst of a loved one who is lying, make life a long agony of regret!

New Bern Journal: Around New Bern a large amount of truck crops were planted and they are looking fine. The acreage in potatoes is probably about 25 per cent larger than last year.

It was excellent advice I saw lately given to young ladies urging them to marry only gentlemen, or not marry at all.

The Daily Prayer of Every Preacher Ought to be. Lord, make me as wise as a serpent, and as harmless as a dove.

It is the sober afterthought that takes all the romance out of the case. A husband coming home at night, grim and taciturn, with no eyes for anything but his paper, and no thoughts for anything but his business affairs—why, that's different, you see; just as the irritable little woman in the soiled wrapper is different from the radiant girl who used to come down and meet him in the most charming dresses that ever captured the heart of man.

And thus he squared himself with his conscience. There's my money, give me a drink! There's the clothing and food and fire of my wife and children—give me a drink!

A Swedish boy fell out of the window and was badly hurt, but with clenched lips he kept back the cry of pain. The king, Gustavus Adolphus, who saw him fall, prophesied that that boy would make a man for an emergency.

Charlotte Observer: The stewards of Tyron Street Methodist church met last night to take action in the case of Mr. T. J. Wilson, one of the members, applying for whiskey license.

"What on earth is the matter, Tilly?" said my wife. "Wh! I'm seekin'!" "What are you seeking?" "I'm a-seekin' ligiton."

Dr. E. M. Congrave, of the Dublin University, says: "It has been proved to my satisfaction, and I am sure, to the satisfaction of the majority of my hearers, that the avoidance of alcohol in any form improves the prospects of healthy life and length of days, and tends to preserve all the bodily organs in structural and functional health."

Mighty is the force of motherhood. It transforms all things by its vital heat; it turns timidity into fierce courage and dreadless defiance into tremulous submission; it turns thoughtlessness into foresight, and yet still all anxiety into calm content; it makes selfishness become self-denial, and gives even to hard reality the glances of admiring love.

SOMETHING TO THINK OF.

In keeping with the religious interest now so prevalent in Greenville and community, some paragraphs like these may furnish food for reflection.

A man can be moral and not be a Christian, but he can't be a genuine Christian and not be moral. Morality may simply be conformity to human law, while religion is conformity to the human and the divine.

Many persons are considered moral whose lives are as corrupt as perdition itself. Kid gloves, and gold-headed canes, and diamond rings, and Havana cigars, and tailor-cut clothes, and fine spans of horses, and elegant phetons, are no indication of morality on the part of those who worship them. One can make a splendid show with these in the day time, and then at night do things that would cause the devil to blush for shame. Daylight makes gentlemen of a great many people; but darkness covers an enormous amount of rascality.

Money is the god of this world. It seems to be the father of morality and respectability. If it were possible for a demon to emerge from the darkness of the bottomless pit with a good pile of money, he would be admitted into any society, without any questions as to where he came from, or where he was going. Money puts a man at the top of society's ladder; and men and women look up to him as if he were a "star of the first magnitude," or the "bright, consummate flower" of the community. Alas for society!

Religion makes a man pay his debts. If he doesn't do this, he hasn't got the genuine article. There are plenty of church members who can offer up touching prayers on the Sabbath, say Amen! as often and with as much fervency as any one else, sing as sweetly as a nightingale, shout at the rendering of the "Old Ship of Zion," and yet, alas! they habitually refuse to pay their honest debts. They'll dodge around the street corners or rush into the back alleys every time they catch a glimpse of a creditor. Perhaps they have an idea that they can pray and sing and shout their debts off on the Sabbath. But the person who doesn't try to cancel his just debts is not much of a Christian, and his praying and singing and shouting don't ascend very high. If the church generally could get rid of a lot of these non-debt-paying ministers and members, she would get along a great deal better.

Rhode Island was expected, elected the Republican ticket. There was an effort made to carry the State that it might give an impetus to Democratic success in the elections to follow in the other States. There was not much hope and yet the Republicans are boasting about it. If their signs of the times are true about the only thing they will have to boast of this year will be the fact that they have carried the States that have been republican for more than a quarter of a century.

The State Democratic Executive Committee met on the 7th inst in Raleigh. Among other things it did was to endorse the letter of the Chairman of the Committee, Ed Chambers Smith, to Mr. Ellington in reference to the qualifications of those who are to participate in the Democratic Primaries. We did not print these letters, but the substance was about this, that only those who were Democrats and expected to affiliate with Democratic party would be expected or would desire to take part in these Primaries. It advised that men who were Democrats should not be excluded promiscuously from participating in these meetings.

In another column will be found the call for the Democratic Convention of Pitt county. It is just what it ought to be and we call upon the Democrats of the county to read every word of it. The advice and encouragement attached is timely, and if followed will insure the fact that old Pitt will come up with her usual Democratic majority. The committee well says that if you remain at home and do nothing you do as you like, you can have no reason to complain.

We call special attention to what is said in reference to the selection of delegates. If there ever was a time in the history of the State, when we need wise and prudent action it is now. We can only expect this action from wise and prudent men. Let us be careful to select our most level-headed men—men who are not extremist in thought, word or deed, but men who are able to weigh the facts carefully and then act most prudently. If this is done we may expect and will have harmony. The best men of Pitt county assembled in Convention will do the best thing for Pitt county and then all of us can back them.

COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

ROOMS OF THE DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF PITT COUNTY.

Greenville, N. C., April 9th, '92.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Democratic party of the county of Pitt, held in Greenville this day, pursuant to a regular notice given by the chairman, it was ordered that a County Convention of the party to be held in Greenville on Saturday the 7th day of May 1892, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the State Convention called to meet in the city of Raleigh on the 18th day of May 1892.

It was further ordered that the township meetings to appoint delegates to the County Convention be held at the usual places in each township, at 2 o'clock P. M., on Saturday the 30th day of April 1892.

Each township will be entitled to appoint to the County Convention one delegate and one alternate for every twenty-five Democratic votes, and one delegate for fractions of fifteen or more votes cast in the last gubernatorial election, that is to say:

The committee have deemed it not inappropriate in making this call for a convention of the party to address a few words of advice and encouragement to those who expect to participate in it. And first of all we urge every Democrat in the county, who can do so, to be present at the township meetings and to take part in their proceedings. These are the primary meetings of the party under our plan of organization, and it is in these meetings that each member of the party can speak for himself, act for himself and vote for

AMONG THE JOURNALS.

The Durham Recorder has just reached the ripe old age of 73 years. It is the oldest newspaper in the State, and very unlike humanity does not weaken with age.

The Washington Progress began its seventh volume two weeks ago. That paper has recently made great improvements.

Last week the Weldon News entered upon its twenty-third volume. It has been ten years in the hands of its present editors who are making it a very excellent and readable paper.

Land Sale.

By virtue of a decree of the Superior Court of Pitt County at March Term 1892, His Honor H. B. Bryan Judge presiding, in the case of W. E. Cox vs. J. B. Blount the undersigned Commissioner will sell for Cash before the Court House door in Greenville on Monday the 2nd day of May 1892 the following undivided interest in the lands of J. P. Blount the first tract adjoining the lands of J. A. Blount, B. F. Sprague, A. W. Blount and others, containing 180 acres, more or less, the other tract adjoining the lands of J. P. Blount, the Nelsons land and others containing 180 acres, more or less.

This April 13th, 1892. J. G. JAMES, Commissioner.

Sealed Proposals.

The board of Commissioners of Pitt county will at their meeting on the 2nd day of May, 1892, receive sealed bids for the construction of a dam for a public roadway connecting at the north end of the bridge across Tar river at Greenville, and running from thence north one and one half miles to a roadway and thirty-two poles to the public road. The dirt to be used in the construction of said dam is to be taken from the land lying immediately upon the west side of the said proposed roadway. The bids are to be by the yard (cubic measure) for the dirt used in said dam, and successful bidders to clean the land upon which the dam is to be constructed of all trees, bushes and logs. The board of Commissioners reserves the right to reject any and all bids. For further information apply to the Commissioners, or Leonard Fleming at Greenville, N. C.

By order of the board of Commissioners of Pitt county.
D. H. JAMES, Clerk.

THE GOSPEL IN CREEDS.

Entrepreneurial Glasgow Preaching in the Wild West Camp.

We have a Glasgow Presbyterian in camp. He preaches in the week-days, and he has an interesting congregation and intends to open a mission here. Over $250 was subscribed for this purpose in one day. Following him came Rev. Joseph Gaston, a Presbyterian minister, of Unruh, who preached in the rear room of Unruh's gambling house. Mr. Gaston is an earnest young man, who draws the rough element to him by his manly qualities. There is no cant about his discourse. He does not talk about his wickedness surrounding him or admonish individuals concerning particular acts of wickedness. He goes at his work in a charitable, broad minded spirit, and will unquestionably do good work. He preaches a full and hearty intention to remain in the camp.

The Watson saloon and clubroom is the largest building in the camp and is always crowded with customers. The preacher's request was readily granted. The fare dealer gave him a table, and the preacher mounted it for a prostrum. Over the layout table, on which the spotted and pictured cards were run for the remaining days and nights of the week, Rev. Gaston stamped the leaves of the Bible and gave them to the members of the camp. He said that the system years for sympathy, and they are fairly susceptible to moral and religious persuasion. But in the evening, after various other tonic remedies have been applied, the boys are usually ready for the preacher's sermon. The Watson introduced Mr. Gaston to the crowds at the gaming tables and requested them to suspend play for twenty minutes. A great many did so, but the vast majority remained to daily with the devil's tool.

The improvised chapel was cold and the seating accommodations scant, yet some fifty rough men gathered around the enthusiastic young preacher and listened attentively to his simple stories of Gospel love. From the outer room came the click of chips, and at times loud imprecations; but the strange congregation seemed carried away by the earnestness of the man who was telling them about the humble Nazarene who laid down his life to sweep away the sin of the world. At the close of the service a number gathered around and thanked Mr. Gaston for reminding them once more that they were men with souls in peril.

Next morning Mr. Gaston, who used to live in Illinois, met one of his congregations about to take a drink at the bar. "No doubt you enjoy it," said he to the toper, "but as for myself, I can get along and feel better without it. You feel like the man, I suppose, who took up a glass of water and addressed it thus:

"You are profly when you are bubbling out of a spring and sparkling in the sunshine; you are grand when you are rushing down in the mountain brook and glorious in the rainbow, but— you ain't worth a darn to drink!"

"That is exactly the spirit," said the other, snarling with Gaston's ready appreciation of the case. "I'm hanged if I don't come to hear you next Sunday."—Creede (Colo.) Cor. Chicago Herald.

Notice to Creditors.

On the 4th day of April, 1892, the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt county, has assigned to the undersigned letters of administration as administrator de bonis non of the estate of L. R. Anderson, deceased, who died qualified and gave bond for the performance of his duties, to the creditors of said L. R. Anderson to present their claims to me for payment duly authenticated on or before the 18th day of April, 1892, or this notice will be filed in bar of their recovery. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment to me. This 13th day of April, 1892. R. J. COBB, Adm'r. d. b. n. of L. R. Anderson.

A New Enterprise.

Wishing to thank our patrons for the liberal patronage they have given us in the different lines of our manufacturing, we also wish to let them know that we have built truck barrels for Potatoes and would be glad to furnish those in need of barrels. We think we have as good and well ventilated barrel as will be on the market or it has been so pronounced by those acquainted with truck barrels. We sell them for 25 cents apiece in lots of 1000 barrels 25 cents. As we have no idea of the demand we would think these wishing to buy barrels to place their orders with us as early as possible so we may have prepared timber to build the barrels when needed. Those who do not give any notice of their order may not find barrels on hand when they need them. We are also prepared to furnish cotton planters or to do any repairs on them or furnish any repairs. Also we can furnish on short notice any trimmings for dwellings, or anything in our line of manufacturing.

We would also call attention to our new style circular seat for churches. Please address Cox & Campbell, Winterville N. C.

(An Interesting Correspondence.)

REV. J. B. HAWTHORNE, D. D.,
Atlanta, Ga.,

DEAR SIR:

Mo a that two years ago you were kind enough to allow us to publish a letter from you, in which you declare that you had been cured of Catarrh, by the use of King's Eucalyptometer. In the same letter you said that you had seen its curative effects upon various diseases.

Knowing your enviable reputation throughout the nation, and confident that the public would reply upon your statement coming from you, the manufacturer of King's Royal Germometer has been cured of Catarrh, by the use of King's Eucalyptometer. I take most consent to answer the following questions: 1st. Has there been any return of your Catarrh trouble? 2d. Have your observations of the effects of the medicine within the last two years strengthened the convictions expressed in your first published testimonials? 3d. Hoping to hear from you at your earliest convenience.

I am yours truly,
T. H. BLACKNALL,
Gen'l Manager, K. R. G. Co.,
Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR:

In reply to your letter requesting me to answer certain questions concerning King's Royal Germometer, I take most pleasure in saying that I indeed took the medicine for what seems to me a complete cure of catarrhal trouble. My present health is almost perfect.

My observations within the last two years has as strengthened my faith in the remedy, that I am prepared to say that there is not a medicine on the market more worthy of commending with it. Thousands of intelligent and reliable people, among them some of the most distinguished men of the country, have expressed to me the highest opinion of this medicine. Atlanta alone has a thousand living witnesses to its triumph over the LAGRANGE.

By conviction as to the merit of this medicine, it is as strong as any conviction can be yours truly,
J. B. HAWTHORNE.
