The verdict of the people at the ballot box seems to indicate that the tariff is a tax and that protection don't protect.

Exams' goats could not vote, therefore he has to continue sheltering with them instead of in the Governor's mansion.

They call it a cyclone, a landslide, an avalanche, and everything else. Call it what you may it struck the Republicans and Third party with both feet and left them inquiring "Where are we at?"

The extra edition of the REFLECTOR published Friday gave how the different States have gone. Later returns make very little change from what was then published. The result in California and Ohio is so close that nothing but the official count can determine which side has carried these States. If they go to Cleveland his electoral vote will reach 302. Without these two States he will have 276.

In reviewing the work of the recent political campaign in Pitt county the REFLECTOR wishes to make special mention of a certain gentleman of our town, whose efforts in the cause of Democracy is well known throughout the county. Much praise is due our gifted townsman, G. B. King, Esq., for his gallant and patriotic services. Mr. King was an active worker for the success of the Democratic ticket from the opening to the close of the campaign. He understood as few people did the actual political situation, and knew the combined opposition with which the Democrats had to contend, and he threw himself into the fight with a zeal and earnestness that strengthened the Democratic columns. He is at all times an able, fearless champion of Democratic principles, and his speech in all parts of the county had the effect to cheer the Democratic heart and strengthen Democratic hopes. His arguments and eloquence commanded attention and reached the hearts of the people. We say all honor to Pitt county's distinguished young son.

In the midst of the rejoicing over our great political conquest of a week ago, a shadow of gloom is cast over our State because of the death of two distinguished and highly honored citizens. On Sunday night Hon. A. S. Merriman, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, breathed his last at his home in the city of Raleigh. He was one of the most able jurists of our Commonwealth and worthily won the high honors the State placed upon him. Upon his shoulders the judicial throne was spotless, and he held his responsible position with credit to himself and honor to his State.

The next day Hon. Donald W. Bain, State Treasurer, passed away at his home in Raleigh after a painful and severe illness of several weeks. The State contained no better citizen or more worthy man than he. He was nearing the close of his second term as Treasurer of the State, and was on last Tuesday again re-elected to the same position. Besides the official trust reposed in him by his State, he has for some time been Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina, and for several years Clerk of the N. C. Conference of the M. E. Church, South. As a statistician he was noted as a superior in the State. He was noted for his liberality, for his uprightness, and for his faithfulness in every duty.

North Carolina feels severely this double loss that has befallen her almost in one day.

March 4th is now a blue looking day for the ins. After that date they will be numbered with the outs.

Aside from all the other rejoicing, it is something to be glad over that McKinley himself has been set down on. His district in Ohio elected a Democrat by about 1,000 majority. Tom Watson, of Georgia, meets a similar fate, only still more overwhelming. The people declare that they have had enough of the services of these two worthies.

It was a fortunate day for North Carolina when Hon. F. M. Simmons was chosen Chairman of the State Executive Committee. It may be said without any disparagement to the many able men who have filled this place in recent years that no one has shown as much tact and ability to manage a campaign as Hon. F. M. Simmons. No praise or reward that can be given him will be merited. The great victory in this State is due to no one man but no one has surpassed the above named distinguished gentleman in untiring effort to save North Carolina from the mongrel crew which labored so assiduously to get control of our political destinies.

The campaign through which we have just passed has developed wonderful talent for the discussion of men and measures. It would take more space than the REFLECTOR has to mention all who are deserving of notice. But there is one man to whom much credit is due for the magnificent victory just achieved. His council has long been felt in political affairs in North Carolina. Wise and prudent, his views upon any political question has had much to do in shaping the policy of the Democratic party. This has not been less true in the present campaign. The address issued to the people before the campaign began was very largely the product of his brain and an emanation from his council. The first appointments showed that he was to canvass the State from the mountains to the seashore in company with the candidate for Governor. This was by far the most important part of the canvass. As the State was impressed with the head of its ticket so it would go. The result speaks louder than words as to the impression made. Without detracting from the merit of any of the many distinguished gentlemen who did such noble work we are free to confess that no man's speeches did more good or won more votes for the party than Hon. Thomas J. Jarvis. He was one of the first in the field and among the last to leave. His sound logical argument and his mild persuasive eloquence was heard in almost every county of the State, and no report of any speech he made failed to mention the fact that great good was accomplished. He did not spare the deceptive leaders, and at the same time excessive abuse of the honest yeomanry who were thus deceived by these unprincipled men was noticeably absent from every speech he made. North Carolina has delighted to honor this distinguished son in the past and unless we are mistaken she will not be slow to recognize her further obligation to Hon. T. J. Jarvis. All honor to this noble, pure, honest son of Democracy.

The election is over. The result is before the people. We believe the people are satisfied—we are sure of one thing, that the REFLECTOR is no man since Gen. Grant has received so large a majority in the Electoral College as Mr. Cleveland. No man ever received as many votes. His popular majority will be about 600,000. In 1884 it was only about 60,000. In 1888 it was about 100,000. There never was such a landslide in favor of any party. The next Senate will stand 44 Democrats, 40 Republicans, and 4 Populists. The House remains Democratic. We can now have such legislation as will benefit the masses. Various reasons are assigned for the great victory, but the most generally received are that the policy of the Democratic party, and the measures it advocates are more in harmony with the demands and the necessities of the masses than are those of the Republican party. Besides its leader, Grover Cleveland, represents the integrity and the best reform spirit of Democracy. His courage and fidelity to duty, his high conception of public office, his uncompromising adherence to the Jeffersonian principles of this Government made him by far the strongest candidate that could have come before the people. This election shows that the people are with him on the great issues that won in this campaign. We will never have a Force Bill. We will have Tariff Reform in the true sense of the term. We will have more money and better money. In fact the REFLECTOR believes we will have a general prosperity along all the lines under the leadership of this noblest and grandest man on the American continent, Grover Cleveland.

There is cause for congratulation also on the result in North Carolina. We have a typical Southern gentleman of intelligence and character as Governor, together with efficient and honest State officers. Our Legislature is truly Democratic by four-fifths majority. We have the solid Congressional representation for the first time since the war. In fact we are safe all around and with this feeling we may expect that many of the burdens under which we have been laboring will gradually pass away.

America for Grover Cleveland, his successor, and Democracy forever.

GOVERNOR JARVIS MISTAKEN.

The Herald has the utmost confidence in Governor Jarvis, not only as a man, but in his wisdom as a level headed and farseeing politician. We have fought the battles of Democracy under his leadership for a number of years and have always found his predictions concerning the future of the country to be true. But once we have, to our delight, found Governor Jarvis mistaken in his calculations. Last Thursday, while in conversation with him we asked what would be the result of the election in Pitt county, our birthplace, and were told that it would probably go against us by a considerable majority, owing to the large Third party vote that would be given. Since then we have claimed that 1,500 former Democrats would vote for Weaver and Gov. Jarvis conceived them 500 to 700, which would have given us a comfortable majority. The Herald was considerably dampened by this intelligence but we hoped for a different result and watched the returns with interest and trembling. The doubt was removed yesterday by a special telegram, given to our readers, which contained the gratifying information that Cleveland had carried Pitt by 1,400 and that the entire Democratic county ticket was elected—Salisbury Herald.

The Herald overlooks one or two good points about this that ought to be mentioned. You see Gov. Jarvis in this campaign was helping to run the whole State and consequently could not have his eye so close on Pitt county as if he had been at home all the time. He knew what a disordered condition he left the county in when he started upon the canvass. He knew there were men here who for reasons that need not be stated had turned traitor to the Democracy and were trying to bring about the overthrow of the party, and it did make things look blue. And in his absence and hearing bad reports going up from the county, he for the time forgot that there were those left behind who could and would work like Trojans for the glorious old county; those who would lay bare the arm and know no fear when fighting for the success of the party, even though confronted with a double enemy. We won the battle, the victory is ours, and it will do to swear by that no man in his heart rejoices more or is prouder of what Pitt county has done than is Tom Jarvis.

MR. CLAUDE F. WILSON.

The mysterious disappearance of Mr. Claude F. Wilson, editor of the Wilson Advance, little more than two weeks ago, caused considerable excitement and anxiety among his many friends here. The REFLECTOR refrained from saying anything about it sooner because nothing intelligible could be told. There were different reports as to the cause of his disappearance and any suggestion or idea advanced about it was merely supposition without the facts to substantiate it. There were previous reports that threatening letters had been received by him, and upon his first disappearance there were fears that these threats had been carried to effect. Still there seemed no way to ascertain this. It was known that he intended to come to Greenville on the Saturday evening before he disappeared next morning, but he telegraphed his mother that evening that he missed the train and would drive through from Bethel Sunday evening. His people here heard nothing from him after this. The matter is still shrouded in mystery. We clip the following from the last issue of the Advance:

The readers of the Advance will regret to know that Mr. Claude F. Wilson, who has been editor of this paper for many years, has been mysteriously missing. The circumstances of his disappearance are shrouded in mystery. He left Wilson Sunday morning, October 30th, on the 8 o'clock train, without telling any one that he was going, and went to Weldon. He has not since been heard from and there was at first much fear that he had come to some untimely end. But it is now believed that he departed mysteriously for some cause that is not yet fully explained. He owed some debts, but his creditors were not pressing him and he had friends who would have gladly assisted him in any financial stress. A few weeks ago he received a note, said to be from Gideon's Band, threatening his life. Some think that this so frightened him that he became temporarily crazed, and while in this condition he took the train and went away to escape the threatened danger. He has not been heard from since his sudden and unexplained departure, hoping that the reason advanced that he was suffering from temporary insanity may turn out to be the correct one. It is the only theory that is consistent with the confidence that has been placed in him by the people of Wilson. His family have been greatly distressed as he left some word and his mother has been greatly distressed under the blow. It is the most inexplicable affair ever known in this part of North Carolina, Mr. Wilson is a young man of unquestioned integrity and honesty. He had a fine education and no young man in the State ever enjoyed more advantages to win a successful and useful career. It is sad that a man of his caliber should have disappeared so mysteriously and disastrously, and his reputation rests under a cloud.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11, '22. The Democratic cyclone which swept the country last Tuesday left this town enveloped with the most gorgeous collection of rainbows ever seen in the political firmament, rainbows which, instead of the faded pots of gold, have at their ends the promise of giving the country what it so loudly and ineffectually demanded two years ago—relief from unnecessary taxation. No wonder every Democrat feels exultantly jubilant. Few such victories have been won in the recent past. The experience of political parties having been to advance step by step towards control of all branches of the Government, while with one bound, as it were, the Democratic party has jumped into the control of the Presidency the Senate and the House of Representatives. True, the Senate will not probably have an actual majority of Democrats, but inasmuch as the people's party Senators will act with the Democrats on tariff matters it will, practically be a Democratic majority, and it may be set down as one of the certain results of the Democratic victory that the Fifty-third Congress will reform the inequities of the iniquitous McKinley tariff law, and further that it will do so without injury to any class of American wage earners and with benefit to the entire country.

The election returns from congressional districts show that the Democratic party of the ante-election claims made by Republicans and People's party men as to the next House of Representatives. The Republicans have elected a few more members to the next House than they have in the present—it was hardly possible for them to have elected fewer—but the Democrats will have an overwhelming majority in the next House. The people's party claims as to the election of members to hold the balance of power between the Democrats and Republicans in the next House was, in view of the news a few weeks ago from the Southern and Northwestern States, so plausible that it was accepted by many, even by a few Democrats. Now look at the result. Instead of holding the balance of power the People's party has even failed to even hold its own in the next House, which means that the Democratic party will hold the balance of power between the Democrats and Republicans in the next House.

Comments of Senator Hill and Tammany for their excellent work in the campaign are heard on all sides, and no Democrat can study the magnificent work brought out in New York without agreeing that the commendations are fully deserved; they have taken New York permanently out of the doubtful column and made it as certainly Democratic as Texas. Hon. Benjamin Cable, who was in charge of the Chicago headquarters, is also highly commended, as he deserves to be, for the result of his work.

Senator Gorman is one of the happiest men seen in Washington lately. Every prediction he made when he returned home two days before election and announced that the work of the National committee was done and that Cleveland's election was assured has been fulfilled. For the first time in twelve years he voted at a National election last Tuesday. In the '84 and '88 campaigns he was afraid to leave National headquarters in New York on election day.

Mr. Blaine will not talk about the election for publication, but he cannot hide the look of satisfaction which is now on his face for the first time since that warm day on which he hurriedly left the cabinet. Mr. Harrison professes to talk, but he is wise in his silence. Republican circles that he accuses Quay, Clarkson and other Blaine members of the republican National committee, with having hoodwinked Carter and betrayed the ticket in New York and Illinois. It is significant in this connection that not one single message was sent from any member of the National committee to Mr. Harrison, either on election day or the day following. Of course the reason for this may have been that which is most certainly true, that the Republican party has not yet recovered from its defeat in 1908.

If Whitlaw Reid has one single friend in the world he should hasten to extend his sympathy, for he certainly needs it. The Republicans have by general consent made him the scapegoat upon which to vent their wrath and curses loud and deep are certain to follow the mention of his name in the presence of a profane republican, and all of the worst things said about him in the past will be repeated by the Republicans.

And a good lamp must be simpler when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, beautiful, good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

Look for this lamp—The Rochester. If the lamp dealer hasn't the genuine Rochester, and you are sure you want, send to us for our new illustrated catalogue and we will send you a lamp safely by express—your choice of over 2,000 varieties from the Largest Lamp Store in the World.

TOBACCO DEPARTMENT.

Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, is ready for new crop tobacco. He guarantees highest prices.

Interest last week was centered in the election and there was very little tobacco offering. Some days there were no breaks at all. Friday was the best day of the week and what was sold brought satisfactory prices.

The old reliable is Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson. Send your tobacco there. Cooper is the farmer's friend.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning the plug and smoking tobacco factory of J. W. Fanoett at Durham was burned. It was a large wooden building. It was 75,000 pounds of plug tobacco. It is said the loss is $50,000, with $25,000 insurance.

Remember if you send your tobacco to Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, you will obtain high prices and be happy. Try it.

Mr. W. W. Rankin, of Mooresville, and Sheriff T. J. Allison have formed a partnership for the purpose of manufacturing tobacco here next year. They have leased the large factory erected by the Stateville Development Company and will work next season 150,000 pounds of tobacco.—Statesville Landmark.

Ship your tobacco to Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, and he will work honestly and faithfully for your best interest.

When all of our markets realize the necessity of keeping a correct record of actual pounds sold, and average monthly prices paid, they will have arrived at the only correct way to do business. Tobacco is too great a commodity in these days to keep the statistics hid. Vast amounts of capital are necessary for its handling, and money is always anxious to know what it is about.—Durham Tobacco Plant.

On Aug. 11th, Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, sold new primings for R. R. Carr at 4, 8, 12, 15, 20 and 30, and for F. T. Carr at 4, 4.50, 6, 8, 10, 11, 15.75 and 20. Cooper can make just as good sales for you.

WILSON MARKET.

By E. M. Pace, Reporter.

We are having a cold rain, and while it has failed to bring a tobacco season, the cheering news of Democratic victory make up for that loss. Receipts have been light. A good season would cause heavy breaks. Prices are stiff, thus a marked improvement in the quality of the offerings. F. H. Gorman, Esq., has located here and dealing in leaf.

A GIFT DIVINE.

This gift is given—

Unto a few.

Through virtue with human frailty allied

A glow divine is found distilled.

There's music rare

Played in the air

To such a one,

And measured by its metric flow

His breathing and his movements go.

As through the sky

The meteors fly,

So darts his glance,

Or it would seem as though soft hands

Had waved before his face like fans.

By man and beast,

From great to least,

He will be loved;

A child will sit upon his knee

And seek his face confidingly.

He cannot rest

Without the best

The world can give.

Our trust thought to him we bring:

Our sweetest song to him we sing.

And if we find,

Like all men find,

He, too, can sing.

We feel, although we sigh or weep,

His part divine is but asleep.

Diplomacy and Cookery.

The importance of cooks in the political world is much greater than people suppose. An ambassador's influence has often been in proportion to the skill of his cook.

On a celebrated occasion in Vienna,

when there was much excitement in all the European courts over affairs of international moment, the French ambassador was suddenly recalled

by his government.

"It is a very grave affair, is it not," Prince Metternich was asked by a lady at a court ball, "this recall of the ambassador?"

"Not so grave, I assure you, madame," the prince responded, "as it would have been if it had been the French ambassador's cook who was recalled. The ambassador can easily be replaced; it would be difficult to replace his cook!"—Youth's Companion.

Virginia's Dismal Swamp.

The Dismal swamp in Virginia,

one of the largest swampy tracts in America, is also one of the most promising areas of reclamation. It contains fully 1,500 square miles, and is at present of little value except for a supply of timber. It is an old sea bottom, and the western boundary of the swamp is a sea cliff and beach.

The chief animal population of the higher classes consists of water birds and snakes. Of the larger animals bears are abundant, and there is a peculiar and very ferocious species of wild horned cattle. The fighths of the bears are said to be very exciting.—Goldswaite's Geographical Magazine.

Derivations of Some Common Words.

One remembers how on the 15th of June, 1215, King John signed the great charter of the constitutional freedom of Britain, and how, after he had signed it, he flung himself in a burst of fury on the floor and gnawed the straw and rushes with which the floors of those days were strewn. Now what was "charta?"

Originally nothing more or less than a sheet of papyrus strips glued together as writing paper. So it is to the Egyptian root that we owe

our "charts," "charts," "cards,"

"cartes" (blanche and de visite), our

"cartoons" and our "cartridges."

Good Words.

Brought Back to Life.

Mr. Passavant records an instance of a peasant boy who revived after being supposed to be dead for several days. The boy bitterly resented his being called back to life, and informed those that gathered about him that he had been in a beautiful place, and had associated and conversed with his deceased relatives.

Before his insensibility his faculties

were not even ordinarily brilliant,

but afterward he conversed and prayed with surprising eloquence.—

Children of Mine Laborers.

Among the mine laborers of Pennsylvania, except in rare instances,

the Slavs and Italians never send their children to the public schools.

The boys are early set to work among their own people, and the girls can scarcely make acquaintance with those of other nationalities. This class-habit prohibits the acquisition of the English language and prevents the fostering of American patriotism in the coming generation.—Henry Rood in Forum.

M. Foral has calculated that the quantity of heat accumulated in the lake of Geneva during the summer is equivalent to that which would be given out by the burning of 51,000-tons of coal.

Think of paying $250,000 for a single meal! That is what a wealthy

Roman once did when he wished to impress a dozen guests with his disregard for riches.

small landed area one nobleman owns

1,326,000 acres and his wife 149,879

acres more.
