PRaise to GOD, IMMORTAL PRAISE.

MRS. DANBAULD.

Praise to God, immortal praise,
For the love that crowns our days—Bounteous source of every joy, Let thy praise our tongues employ!

For the blessings of the field,
For the stores the gardens yield,
For the vine's exalted juice,
For the generous olive's use;

Rejoice that whiten all the plain, Yellow sheaves of ripened grain, Fields that drop their fattening dews, Suns that temperate warmth diffuse;

All that Spring, with bounteous hand, Scatters o'er the smiling land;
All that liberal autumn pours From her rich, overflowing stores:

These to thee, my God, we owe, Source whence all our blessings flow!
And for these my soul shall raise Grateful vows and solemn praise.

THE PROBLEM OF EDUCATION.

BY J. W. LOWBER.

Our Puritan forefathers were among the best educated men in England, so they came to this country well prepared in mind as in body to be the fore-runners of a great nation. Even in the seventeenth century, the Massachusetts colony had compulsory education.

Every settlement with fifty inhabitants had to have its school, and the children were required to attend it. Every village with one hundred inhabitants was required to have its Grammar School, where Greek and Latin were taught.

The discipline of these schools was very severe, possibly too much so, but it must be admitted that it was better than the lax discipline found at the present time, in too many schools. The moral part of the children's education was not neglected, and those guilty of profanity did not have to be corrected by the teacher more than once.

In 1636 the colony of Massachusetts appropriated one thousand dollars for the founding of a college, to which John Harvard added two thousand, and it was called for him, Harvard College. Thus there was established within eighteen years after the first settlers landed upon Plymouth rock a college whose reputation has increased from that day to this. These early settlers took so much interest in education that these who were able to do no more, contributed one peck of corn a year for the support of Harvard College.

The colony of Connecticut, though impoverished by repeated Indian wars, considered that the interest of education and religion, required the founding of another college. Thus Yale College was founded at New Haven, and one hundred and fifty dollars were given it per annum out of the colonial treasury. Yale yet stands next to Harvard as the greatest college in America.

The other English colonies did not make that progress in education that was made by the New England colonies. A Latin school was opened in the city of New York in 1687 under the sanction of the English government; but there was no provision made by the colonial government for education until the early part of the eighteenth century. A grammar school was established in New York in 1701, and the legislature appropriated one hundred and fifty dollars per annum for its support for a limited time. During the seventeenth century the colonies of Virginia, Pennsylvania, and the Carolinas did but little for the cause of education. A few schools were established for the children of the wealthier planters, but no system of general education was thus far provided.

While Mexico and the South American States are far behind in education, Canada and the United States well keep pace with the most enlightened nations of Europe. The schools of Canada are good, even from the common school to the university; at Montreal, will compare favorably with European colleges. In 1879 I had the privilege of visiting McGill University. I was surprised at the educational advantages that institution affords. Dr. Dawson, its principal, is one of the most distinguished scientists in the world.
The public school system in the United States is evidently the best in the world; and our universities in a few years will, doubtless, afford nearly all the advantages found in the great German and English universities.

In concluding this chapter, I wish to emphasize the following facts:

1.—The Science and History of EDUCATION.

Family, the Church and the State have each its part in advancing the highest and truest culture.

When any one of these is excluded, there has always been deficiency either in the general application of the system, or in not completely developing all the faculties of the human mind. Let no one, then, be a dogmatist for either Church or State, for each has its proper mission. The Family, the Church, and the State should work in harmony in this great cause, and some of the most difficult problems of the age can be easily solved.

2.—In the past, education has been considered too much a crowning process. The more studies the student took was thought the better. This is a mistake, for education is a drawing out process. In fact, it is translated from a Latin word, which means to draw out.
The true object of education is the development of all man's faculties.
The brightest display of the infinite Mind was manifested in the creation of the human mind. Man was placed in this world to be educated not only for time, but also, for eternity. True education is at the foundation of the solution of all great problems.

3.—Some writers seem to think that the Jesuits will greatly endanger the future of our public schools. It is certainly true that the Jesuits have been very naughty in the past, and have even been expelled from Catholic countries.
But I do not think that they will ever seriously imperil our public schools. Times have changed and the Catholic Church would not now do what she once did. Whatever be the designs of the Jesuits, they will find our public schools too powerful for them. I hope, however, that their influence will go towards forcing our school authorities to give more attention to moral and religious instruction.
The Bible should not only be read in our public schools, but a text book embodying the grand moral and spiritual truths of the Bible should be taught in every school.
Is not sacred history as important as profane? There can be no reasonable excuse for excluding it from our public schools.

Says one, "It would be sectarian to teach the Bible in the public schools." This is on the apposite that the Bible is a sectarian book, which is not true. If the Bible is sectarian, our civilization is sectarian, for it is built upon an open Bible. The Continental Congress appointed a Thanksgiving day, and from the days of Washington to the present time the Christian character of our institutions has been recognized.
The Secularist Theory is against the history of our country. The clergymen in the army, and the oath administered in courts of justice, all clearly show the Christian character of American civilization. In fact, even a political convention cannot well be called without a minister to open with prayer. The reading of the Bible in our schools is certainly in harmony with the character of our institutions, and its exclusion is against the fundamental principles of our civilization. Even Prof.
Huxley whom the Secularist follows to honor favors the proper use of the Bible in the schools; and he further claims that where the intellectual side of the child's nature is alone developed, it is just as likely to produce a crop of scoundrels as anything else.—Evangelist.

ONE OF WHITTIER'S LAST POEMS

THE THREE-PAGE POEM OF JOHN G.

Whittier, which appears in the November St. Nicholas Magazine commemorates the visit of a party of young girls to the poet's home.
It contains the following lines, which have a peculiar significance now that the good Quaker poet has passed away:

"I would not if I could repeat A life which still is good and sweet; I keep in age, as in my prime,
A not uncheerful step with time, And grateful for all blessings sent,
I go the common way, content To make no new experiment, On easy terms with law and fate,
For what I must I calmly wait, And trust the path I cannot see—That God is good and true to me, And when at last upon life's play The curtain falls, I only pray That hope may lose itself in truth, And age in heaven's immortal youth, And all our loves and longings prove The foretaste of divine love!"

Not troubled with rheumatism any more,—Judge Gatewood, 84 Avery St., Cincinnati, Ohio, writes that: "I bought a bottle of Serravallo's Tonic for rheumatism, with which I was afflicted. The first application gave relief and I have not been troubled since."

What anniversary, then, commends itself more to the thoughtful, grateful Christian soul than that which calls forth the acknowledgment of dependence and the expression of gratitude? And this duty is enjoined all through the Word: "Sing unto the Lord with thanksgiving," says the Psalmist; and the Apostle makes it the one condition upon which the gifts of God are bestowed:

"Every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused if it be received with thanksgiving." And how much there is to call forth thanksgiving on this day as we take time to think about our mercies, as we gather in our homes, and group around our tables the dear faces that make moonlight and starlight in the heart—faces of little children, round and dimpled, faces sweet with patience, and faces blooming with youthful liveliness, faces framed in the silver of graying locks! And we need them all—all that we can get—the revered grandparents if God has spared them to us, the aunts and uncles, brothers and sisters and cousins, the old playmates and friends, the old familiar faces—yes, we need them all; for it is Thanksgiving! Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits.

Somehow Thanksgiving has a different feel about it from that which marks our other festivals.
It is the tribute of individual hearts to God; and it is more. In our home relations and in our State and national relations as well, we go up, as went the tribes of old, to pay our vows and offer our thanks to the Father who has brought us so far upon our way.
Seldom do we—and more's the pity—sit down and count the lovetokens we get from the skies. For the beauty of grove and field, for the blushing wealth of the orchards, for the wealth and bursting fullness of our garner heaped with golden grains; for the peace that is regnant; for strength and courage unbroken and undaunted —for these we lift our voice in gratitude and praise. But there is more, and the last is the best. For the manhood of the country, for its pure and gracious womanhood, for the light of love and the confidence of faith in tens of thousands of happy homes, we offer grateful praise. For prayers that rise like incense from family altars and ascend in a golden cloud from consecrated closets; for a brave and faithful ministry; for voices eloquent in the cause of truth; for institutions for feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, and providing a home for the homeless; and for churches dotting every hill side and valley and sending forth the sweetness of their chiming bells in the crisp November air, we lift up our Te Deum Laudamus.

Some of us will remember particular mercies on Thanksgiving day. Last year there was an obstacle in our path, a trouble that shut out the sunbeams. What is it now? In the gray dawn, lo! an angel came and rolled the stone away. Last year we were in grief because of some vanished joy. The joy is still a remembered one; it has left us, but it has put on garments of heavenly brightness.
But even if you sit under the shadow of the Cross, and the songs of your neighbor jar on the ear.
"Like discord in some mournful tune," even then you can be thankful, for the Healer comes closest in such

THANKSGIVING.

The soul as a close touch to nobility that can enter into the real spirit of Thanksgiving. To have that feeling is more than to simply feel glad or complacent or contented; it is, especially on this national festival, to feel a sense of gratitude for mercies received, and to express that gratitude in words and deeds. Gratitude implies the acknowledgment of undeserved favors received; for who renders thanks for that which is simply his due? Gratitude carries with it, also, appreciation of the giver and his gifts; and such a state of mind bespeaks the presence of that humility which is the crowning grace of the Christian, as it is, upon the authority of the Master himself, the fountain source of rest:

"Take my yoke upon you and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly of heart, and ye shall find rest unto your souls." So that to have the truly thankful spirit is also to possess the restful grace of humility.

What anniversary, then, commends itself more to the thoughtful, grateful Christian soul than
that which calls forth the acknowledgment of dependence and the

ries and puts its own cap-sheaf on the harvested riches of the year!— with joyful lips and gladsome hearts and devout ascriptions to our Father in heaven we bid it tian at Work.*

PAY OF THE ARMY AND NAVY.

So far as the actual pay is concerned, our Government does as well or even better by its graduates from its military and naval schools than any foreign country.
A major-general of the army gets $7,500 per year, and yet all our major-generals at this time are men who served the country in its need. A brigadier-general is appointed to get $5,500; a colonel $3, 500; a lieutenant-colonel $3,000; a major $2,500, and so on down to an unmounted first lieutenant at $1,400 per year.

In the navy the pay is somewhat the same. There is no admiral in the American navy now since Admiral Porter died. The rear-admirals, however, gets $6,000 a year when in command of a squadron at sea, $5,000 when doing shore duty at some of our navy yards, and $4,000 when waiting orders.
A lieutenant-commander in the service of the United States navy after the date of his commission for four years, gets $2,400 per year when on duty. After four years more of the service he may get $2,600.

Some may say that $7,500 a year, or $6,000, or even $2,500, is very good pay for a man who has little to do. Those who say this make a great mistake. There are men who have served honorably and courageously in the service in both the army and navy, who graduated with high rank from their respective schools, but who in their middle and old age are poor so far as the goods of this world are concerned. There are men who are in the service of the navy who have been looking for promotion these twenty years, and have received little of it yet.

"A Back Number."

This is the slightest remark that is applied to women who try to seem young, though they no longer look so.
Sometimes appearances are deceitful.
Female weakness, functional troubles, displacements and irregularities will often years to a woman's looks and make her seem as old as a black snake. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee on outside wrapper.

A SAD END.

The following obituary notice from an exchange will be read with tearful and at the same time with trustful and the profitable interest:

"DIED.—In Laodicea, the prayer meeting, aged three years and one month. The health of this little meeting was often despaired of. A few anxious friends kept it alive and at times it would so revive as to encourage them. Discouragement at last prevailed and the meeting died from neglect. Over forty Christians were living within a quarter of a mile, and not one was there. Had two been there their lives might have been saved, for "where two or three are gathered together in my name," etc. Two-thirds of the forty might have been there, had they been so disposed, but they were not, and the prayer-meeting died." Now, this is an old notice, but how many prayer-meetings on the present day does it describe!

Walter Bridger, Athens, Tenn., writes:
"For six years I had been afflicted with rheumatism, and an enlargement of the bone in my leg. I tried everything I heard without any permanent benefit.
But Botanic Blood Balm was recommended to me. After using six bottles the sores healed, and I am now in better health than I have ever been. I send this testimonial unsolicited, because I want others to be benefited."

Female Weakness Positive Cure.

To the Editor:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the thousand and one ills which arise from deranged female organs. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any lady if they will send their Express and P. O. address. Write respectfully, Dr. C. A. Marchesi, Utica, N. Y.

The adaptation of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup to the cure of all diseases of the throat and chest is certainly marvelous.
For cold, cough, croup, whooping-cough, and incipient consumption it is incomparably the best preparation made.

TOOTHACHE AND THE REMEDY.

BY H. D. HARPER, D. D. S.

So variable is the character of that sensation known as toothache, only those who have experienced it are eligible witnesses, nor should any other be allowed to testify as to what it is. And the causes of toothache are quite as numerous as the varieties. Hence no patent toothache drops, or any other preparation, can give the relief desired, in all cases, any more than can one certain remedy cure the various ills of the body.

Irritation and inflammation of the pulp (nerve) and inflammation of the membrane investing the roots are among the most frequent causes. But sympathy has caused many an innocent tooth, healthy and useful, to be extracted.

In order to know what to do for relief, then, it is necessary to know something of the causes of the pain.

Let's notice an exposed nerve.
When particles of food, hot or cold drinks, sweets or acids enter a cavity and produce severe pain, or if when chewing, you suddenly "feel like lightning had struck you," you may guess there is an exposed nerve.

Remedy.—With pick and tepid water remove all foreign substance from the cavity, and, if all pressure is taken away, relief generally soon follows; if it does not, then saturate lint cotton with camphor, land-annum or any of the common household remedies that are stimulating, and gently rub in the cavity, repeat, if necessary, and allow the cotton to remain for protection until you get to the dentist.

But if the exposure has existed long enough for inflammation to take place, the pain is simply an unpleasant, gnawing sensation, increasing until it assumes a throbbing character, then prompt relief should be sought, otherwise the pain increases until suppuration of the nerve takes place, and an abscess soon follows.

So long as the tooth does not seem started from its socket, nor pressure upon the tooth does not increase

WHERE THE ALLIANCE STANDS.

The last meeting of the National Alliance confirmed the fact that the Alliance has gone soul and body into the Third party. This does not apply to the entire membership of the Alliance, but as a body under its present officers and organization it is nothing more nor less than a political organization. Under the leadership of Loucks and Butler nothing may be expected of the order but what may be for the interest of these two rank Third party leaders. This is a great pity. In its original organization and with its primitive purposes it was a grand institution. The good it might have accomplished can not be estimated. What it will now do for the toiling masses will not be worth estimating. The scenes transacted during the last meeting were a disgrace to the good men who joined the order with pure motives and purposes. Just think of men calling each other liars and putting their hands on their pistols as if they were among and a part of a band of desperadoes. Many of the delegates were thoroughly disgusted with the proceedings and left the hall. Many of them will go home and advise their Lodges to surrender their charters. Many have done this during the past four months and many more will follow their example soon. A great many good men have left the order. A great many more will do the same thing. It is a great pity they were forced to do this, and yet they could not remain true to themselves and stay in the order when it is run by such designing men as Loucks, Butler & Co. No man can have a word to say against the Alliance as long as it remains true to the purposes for which it was originally organized. We heartily wish that it had not gone under the leadership of men without principle or character and then stranded so soon. We say stranded because it is very evident that so long as it is officered as it is now and led as it is now it will continue to decline and it will be only a matter of time when it will cease to exist entirely. Many of the men who still remain in its ranks are still hoping that it may yet be saved by being diverted to its original purposes, and unless this is done they, too, will refuse longer to be made subservient to the political advancement of a few unprincipled men. In this they are right. The Alliance can be made to be, as it was, a great order, but this can never be done under the leadership of such men as Gideon Wilson, Marion Butler & Co. These men will have to be expelled from the order before much can be expected. The REFLECTOR has not a single unkind word for the rank and file of the Alliance. It knows they have been deceived, misled and badly misled. This they can and will see now and the manly thing for them to do is to repudiate the men who are responsible for this whether they occupy high positions in the order, or are merely county or congressional district Gideonites. Such men are an abomination to every respectable citizen. The sooner they are laid on the shelf the better it will be for the order. Some of them are very "small potatoes" anyhow and are only noted for the evil they can accomplish. They are important only in their own estimation.

The returns are about all in and it is now found that the Electoral College will stand as follows: Cleveland 278, Harrison 138, and Weaver 28, California goes Democratic and the Democrats get one elector from Ohio.

They won't even let Mr. Cleveland go out to shoot a duck and warm his feet by a three-cornered stove without telegraphing it to the papers.

A 5-cent postage stamp issued in Alabama during the Confederacy was sold in New York Tuesday for $780. The Scott Stamp and Printing Company were the purchasers.

The legislation of the session of Congress soon to meet will probably have much to do with the question as to whether there shall be an extra session of Congress or not after Mr. Cleveland's inauguration.

The formal casting of the ballot of North Carolina for President and Vice-President will take place in Raleigh next Wednesday. The electors are required by law to meet there on that day and will cast their ballots for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Winston has had two fires recently. The first one burnt several valuable blocks. The one on last Thursday burnt the hotel. The hotel was preparing a Thanksgiving dinner. We regret to see these fires as this is one of our most progressive cities.

Cabinet making is going on at a pretty rapid rate just now. But one thing is almost certain and that is that when the cabinet is announced the hand of Mr. Cleveland will be seen in it as in everything that comes within his province of supervision.

Mr. H. A. Latham, editor of the Washington Gazette, is a candidate for Reading Clerk in the next House of Representatives. Heber has occupied this position before and discharged the duties satisfactorily and creditably. Capt. N. L. Shaw, of Warrenton, is also a candidate for the same position and the Record speaks very highly of his ability to fill it.

It is very evident that if North Carolina expects a cabinet position it will be necessary for the State to unite on one man and not bring forward every man within her borders who has been faithful to the Democratic party and gained some little reputation. Mr. Cleveland need not be expected to appoint any man who has not been thoroughly tested and found to be honest, true and capable. Only such men as these will constitute his cabinet.

Last Thursday was pretty generally observed as Thanksgiving day. The day has lost much of its religious significance that clustered around it in the days of the Puritan fathers. It is now more a national holiday and is made joyous by the meeting of friends long separated and the happy reunion of families that are scattered by marriage and other conditions incident to society. Another element of joy entered in pretty largely this year among Democrats—the great victory for good and honest government recently achieved gave a new relish to the ordinary pleasures of the day.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 26, '92.
Democratic Senators and Representatives are already quite numerous in Washington, and of those here at least three-fourths have expressed themselves as favoring an early extra session of the Fifty-third Congress for the purpose of dealing with financial and tariff matters. The reason given in most cases is that it is a custom of long standing with Congress that about one year should elapse from the time a new tariff law is enacted before it goes into effect, in order to give business circles and manufacturers an opportunity to make preparations for the change that will prevent any loss by reason of reductions made in the duties. So that even if an extra session be called in April it will be in the neighborhood of a year and a half after Mr. Cleveland is inaugurated before the people can begin to realize any benefit from the Democratic reform of the tariff. Surely that is long enough for the people to continue to bear the burdens imposed upon them by the McKinley law.

But there is another matter that is even more pressing than the tariff—the almost immediate need of the Government for money to meet the enormous obligations incurred by the Republicans; and it is not believed that the Republican majority of the Senate will be patriotic enough to drop their intense partisanship and aid in this matter during the present session of Congress; they don't care how much trouble the country gets into after it shall have passed into Democratic hands. Notwithstanding the continued assertions of Secretary Foster that there will be no deficit in the Treasury during the current fiscal year, many prominent Democrats believe there will be. The reason for this belief is that the officials of this administration can, if so disposed, withhold any one or another sum of the payment of many large sums that will fall due between now and the fourth of March next, leaving them to be liquidated by the Democratic administration, but not leaving the money to do it with. Indeed, it is the general belief that the deficit would exist to-day, except for this policy of delay in meeting payments which has been in vogue for two years or more. In any event, it cannot be much longer stayed off, and all admit that it will probably come during the next fiscal year.

How to meet it is the most pressing question with which the Democratic administration and Congress will have to deal next year. If it can be temporarily met in some way until the new tariff can get into working order and the Democrats get an opportunity to lop off the extravagant expenses of the Government and reduce expenditures to a Democratic basis of economy everything will be right, as the lower tariff will certainly add many millions to the Government receipts of the Government. It is because of this knowledge that quite a number of prominent Democrats favor issuing bonds at a low rate of interest for the money that will be absolutely needed, instead of increasing any present tax or adding a new one. It is a very interesting and a very important question and no fears need be felt that the best plan, all things considered, will not be adopted.

Representative Fitch, chairman of the House Committee which is engaged in investigating the method of the notorious John I. Davenport, Chief U. S. Supervisor of Elections for New York, wrote Secretary Foster, early this week, asking him not to pass or pay any of Davenport's accounts for expenses until the committee could examine them. This brought Davenport to Washington in double-quick time. His object is to get his accounts approved and paid before the committee gets at them, otherwise he knows they will be largely cut down. One thing may be put down as certain. When the first session of the Fifty-third Congress adjourns, whether it be extra or regular, there will be no such office as U. S. Supervisor of Elections.

The local Democrats, aided by thousands from the neighboring States of Maryland and Virginia, are to night conducting the largest political demonstration ever seen in Washington, and the jam of people on Pennsylvania avenue is full of brilliant fireworks.

Mr. Cleveland's alleged remarks expressing his disgust for office seekers, which were published here a few days ago, helped many a Republican office-holder to enjoy his Thanksgiving dinner, by making him feel that he was secure in his office. Democrats generally believe that when the people of the country voted by such an overwhelming majority for a change they did not mean merely a change in the Presidency and in the heads of the departments but a change all along the line, are loth to believe that Mr. Cleveland ever used the language attributed to him.

LETTER FROM TEXAS.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, Nov. 17, '92.
EDITOR REFLECTOR.—If noise, continuous fireworks and much firing to and fro could make a demonstration a success the Democratic jubilee last night over the election of Cleveland was a grand one.

At 7:30 the procession moved and it consisted largely of mounted men carrying torches and transparencies, some of the mottoes being very striking. I give only a few as all would be to numerous:

We cooked the goose, And turned Texas loco.
Old man Grover,
Again in clover,
On the 8th we ate 'em,
On the 4th they go forth.

Great bonfires were burning and with detonations like cannon anvils were fired at the four corners of the square as the crowd assembled. Many countrymen were in town and joined the Crowley, Cleveland and Hogz Club that came in 100 strong. After these came torches bearing torches then a large number of private carriages in many of which were ladies, then more mounted men with torches and transparencies. The parade started from the square with the first band playing "Dixie" and it was a continuous yell and hurrah for Cleveland, at times drowning the playing of the bands. There was almost a continuous shooting of the Roman candles by the riders in the procession. There was one disappointment during the speaking. A large balloon had been prepared to bearing on one side a likeness of Cleveland on the other Hogz, but the high wind that prevailed caused it to take fire and it was destroyed just as it was ready to rise. The crowd was a very patient and good natured one though the frisky wind played sad havoc with some of the ladies' coiffures and frequently caused them to back for an offing. They seemed to regard it as a part of the program and enjoyed it thoroughly.

When the head of the procession was seen coming up Main Street there was a general rattle for dry goods boxes and other methods of sending the ladies where they could see and hear. Just before the speaking began somebody attempted to send up a paper fire balloon which ascended gracefully to the second story of the court house paused a moment and then settled down gradually over the head of the crowd causing some of the ladies to vacate their seats which were immediately seized by the irreverent small boy.

Now that we had a regular land slide and burial of the gites in Texas I am anxious to see the REFLECTOR and hear from the Old North State and the good old county of Pitt, hoping that they, too, won the Democratic victory.

W. H. FLEMING.
P. S. Since the above was written the extra edition of the REFLECTOR has been read, giving the vote of glorious old Pitt.

BRANCHVILLE, (V.) JOTTINGS.

ED REFLECTOR.—The election being over and the country safe, the comet loometh up and seems to create more excitement than the election did. Our colored brethren seem to be greatly stirred up over its appearance. It is vastly amusing to see the expression of a subject on the faces of some of them while some person relates a "fish or snake story about the wonderful doings of the comet."

By the way, speaking of getting frightened reminds me of a good joke on one of our young merchants who is just a bit superstitious. (He told us last night he was only nervous about it.) A few nights ago while the meteoric display was in progress this young merchant was seen to kneel by the bedside in an attitude of earnest prayer and Johnnie says he is confident that "he" prayed more than he had before during the whole year, but we think the joke is equally on Johnnie as well as "he" or why did Johnnie go and beg "he" to stay with him? Explanations are in order. "He" admits the praying but insists that Johnnie was too scared to pray.

Jimmie, the young son of Mr. Duke, had the misfortune to break his right arm above the elbow a few days ago. Dr. Stancil of Margarettsville came and set the arm and the little fellow is doing well, well, well, can be expected it is very inconvenient sending six miles for a doctor and we think Branchville would be a fine place for some energetic young doctor and most of our citizens concur in this opinion. After the accident above spoken of the station hand ran a railroad velocipede to Margarettsville, N. C., after the doctor and return, a distance of twelve miles, in thirty-five minutes. Pretty good time.

Mr. J. C. James takes the cake on the turnip question. He gave your correspondent three Saturday nights, the three weighing 194 pounds, with tops cut off. He sent one to R. P. Ellis at Franklin, a few days ago, weighing 15 pounds. This is no fish story as the writer weighed them.

The farmers are rejoicing over the rise in cotton but some of them have long faces as they sold before the rise. There is not much cotton raised around here as it is principally a peanut country. Quantities of peanuts are raised. About 20,000 bags are shipped from here during a season.

Eddie Hanson returned yesterday from a visit to Atlanta, Ga. He simply went on a pleasure trip with his brother Dave, the express messenger. Eddie says his looks were caused by dust but it isn't decided yet whether he got on a Cleveland "jog" or was pulled through the mud and mire of the Ed says he enjoyed it anyway. We guess so. This is a dry town. QUILT PEN.

A Free Gift to Every Reflector Reader.

By special arrangement with the publishers, we are enabled to make every one of our readers a present of one of those exquisite Oil Pictures 36 inches long, a companion to "A Yard of Roses," which all who have seen admired. This exquisite picture, "A Yard of Roses," was painted by the same noted artist who did the "Roses." It is the same size, and is pronounced by art critics to be far superior to the "Roses." The reproduction is equal in every respect to the original, which cost $3,000, and accompanying it are full directions for framing at home, at a cost of a few cents, thus forming a beautiful ornament for your parlor or a superb Christmas Gift, worth at least $5. JENNINGS DEMOREST, 15 East 14th St., New York, with three two-cent stamps to pay for the packing, mailing etc., and mention that you are a reader of the EASTERN REFLECTOR and you will receive by return mail one of these valuable Works of Art.

Next Month's Weather.

Raleigh Chronicle.

The chief of weather bureau furnishes the following data, compiled from the record of observations for the month of December, taken at this station for a period of five years: The mean or normal temperature 45 degrees. The warmest December was that of 1889, with an average of 53.4 degrees; the coldest that of 1887, with an average of 41.1 degrees. The highest temperature during any December was 75 degrees on the 26th, in 1889; the lowest was 15 degrees on the 30th, in 1881. The average rainfall for the month, 2.72 inches. The greatest in one month was 4.99 inches, in 1887; the least was six tenths of an inch, in 1887.

The weekly papers of North Carolina, though now in the wake of the splendid victory, are scarcely thought of as contributing anything to the result, nevertheless, they were, if we may be pardoned for bringing it about. The editors worked manfully for Democracy without the hope of reward. They wanted no office, nor were they thinking of such a thing. Yet, we fear their work is not appreciated. We make a plea for the recognition of their work, at least.—Lexington Dispatch.

Are you one of those persons who take the liberty of helping themselves to certain things that are convenient when you go into a store to make a purchase? If so did you ever stop to think that the habit that many people have of helping themselves to an apple, peach, bunch of grapes or a handful of peanuts, a piece of cheese or a cake or two when entering a store is a constant drain upon the storekeeper's purse and patience? Don't do it.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Pronounced Replies, Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurl, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, coughed in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I have it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at Wooten's Drug Store, regular size 50c, and $1.00.

The attempt of the Third party leaders of Pitt county to capture the Hon. Willis R. Williams proved a signal failure. Mr. Williams not only said to them, get thee hence Satan, but he buckled on his Democratic armor and made several strong and effective speeches for the good cause.—Raleigh Chronicle.

Washing Clothes

or cleaning house with ordinary soap is like rolling a heavy stone uphill; it takes main strength and a good deal of it. The same work done with Pearline is like rolling the stone down hill—it's easy; quick; true; goes right to the mark; and with very little labor. All dirt must go before PEARLINE. It robs woman's hardest work of its drudgery—(a praiseworthy theft, by the way). The question is—does it or does it not hurt the hands, clothes or paint? We tell you it doesn't—but we are interested (as well as you)—so ask your friends who use it; you'll find most of them do; the annual consumption is equal to about three packages a year for every family in the land. But better yet—get a package (it costs but a few pennies, and every grocer keeps it), and try it for yourself—your gain will be larger than ours.

Beware
Pettlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—They are not, and neither are dangerous.

Mr. S. V. Joyner, of Kenly, has been spending the last few days here. He says the little extra REFLECTOR issued the Friday after election was immensely popular in his section.

We hope the high price of cotton now will not make all the farmers lose their heads next year and put in too many acres of it. The price can be run down to 6 cents again if too much is raised. More money is made on a small crop at a good price than on a large crop at a sorry price.
Next Monday will be an important day. It is first Monday and the beginning of a new fiscal year in matters political. On that day all the newly elected county officials must give their bonds and be inaugurated into their respective positions. The occasion will bring many people to town.
Died.
Mr. David Dunn died at his home near Greenville on last Friday night. He was about 25 years old, leaves a wife and two small children.
Mr. F. M. Hardee, a citizen of Greene county and well known here, died in Greensboro Sunday morning. The remains were taken home for interment.

Little Rippley, four-year-old son of Mr. P. M. L. Maxwell, died about 4 o'clock P. M. on Thanksgiving day. The remains of the little one were taken to Goldsboro Friday for interment. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of the community.
A Colored Man Shot.
A murder was committed in Contentment township Friday night about 8 o'clock. A colored man named John Thigpen was shot down while at the door of a colored woman who lives on the land of Mr. G. B. Braxton. A gun was used and the load was mixed turkey and buck shot. Whoever did the shooting was standing so close to the colored man that his bowels and liver were cut to pieces by the shot and his body was badly burned with the powder. No tidings of the horrible affair reached Coroner Keel until Saturday, when he summoned a jury and went to hold an inquest. The inquest was finished about noon on Sunday. The evidence before the Coroner pointed so strongly to Mr. Braxton himself as the perpetrator of the crime that the jury in their verdict said they believed him culpable and he was committed to jail to await investigation at the next term of Pitt Superior Court. The woman at whose house the shooting occurred was also placed in jail for safe keeping as a witness upon failure to give bond required for her appearance.

Thanksgiving Services.
There was a change in the Thanksgiving services Thursday morning from what had been announced for the day. Ex-Gov. Jarvis was prevented by sickness from delivering the address in the Methodist church, and Rev. A. D. Hunter, pastor of the Baptist church preached there instead. His sermon was an excellent one and listened to with pleasure by the large congregation. A collection was taken amounting to something over $20, which was divided between the Oxford and Thomasville Orphan Asylums.
Rev. Alban Greaves conducted morning prayer in the Episcopal church.
A very interesting service was held at Mr. Jack White's Sunday School, three miles above Greenville, and a liberal collection taken for the orphans.
It Didn't Come.
The fellow that got up all this comet talk and had the whole country on the qui vive of expectancy, had no doubt looked out the almanac and set the date for it on a cloudy night. He had depicted on several nights comet hunting, but the first person has yet to report seeing anything that looked the least like one. The comet was billed to come in close quarters with the earth on Sunday night, but it was too cloudy to see anything but clouds. Of course the astronomer will say the comet was there, only the clouds obscured it. Maybe it was, but we've got our doubts about it, and expect it's like the meteoric shower everybody sat up a week to see a few years ago, and then never saw it.
New Advertisements.
W. H. White to-day talks something about the good fortune awaiting those who trade with him. It is just as lucky to save money in buying goods right as it is to find the same amount. "A dollar saved is a dollar made."
The Old Dominion Steamship Company calls attention to its line of Tar River steamers and its service to all northern points. No company ever operating in these waters has better facilities for handling freights than the O'D Dominion. They are always prompt and reliable and give the lowest rates to be had. Their large double warehouse recently completed on the wharf here greatly increases their advantages for receiving and discharging freight at this point. See Uncle John Cherry when you have anything to ship.
Bible Paintings.
Mr. Arthur Butt showed his celebrated Bible paintings in Greenville for three nights last week. On Thursday night the pictures were on the book of Revelation and gave several illustrations of the visions of St. John while on the Isle of Patmos. Friday night the scenes were taken from the Old Testament, beginning with the creation and continuing down to the reign of Solomon. Saturday night the paintings were a temperance lecture. The history of a drunkard was given from youth to the gallows on which the penalty for murder was paid. The paintings at each entertainment were beautiful and together with the lectures accompanying them were exceedingly interesting and instructive. Every painting exhibited had a good lesson with it. Much of the Bible history can be learned from them.
COTTON MARKET.
[Reported by Cobb Bros.]
NORFOLK, VA., Nov. 26, 1892.—The excitement in the cotton market for the past few days has been great and values have improved five-eighths of a cent per pound here since our last. The rapid advance has been caused by the estimate of the crop by a leading New York firm of 5,925,000 bales. With such a heavy speculative advance it is only natural that the movement of the crop should show an increase when values will be subjected to the "tug of supply and demand." The excitement in the future market in New York has been intense, the sales yesterday (25th) being the largest day's transaction in cotton on record, namely, 55,900 bales.
The visible supply of the world is 3,913,847 bales against 4,037,617 bales last year and 2,937,677 in 1890.

Ulcerated Sore Throat.
Twelve years ago I was afflicted with a severe case of ulceration on the ankle, which was healed by external applications. Three years afterwards, the disease returned in the form of ulcerated sore throat. I was a severe sufferer; the roof of my mouth and tonsils of the throat were covered with a white mucous with little cavities in it. I was treated by the best physicians in Richmond, but they failed to effect a cure. My general health was wretched. I was suffering greatly from indigestion and general debility. At twenty years of age I weighed 85 pounds. I commenced using Mr. Joyner's Remedy last January, using the Bitters and Wash, and am so far relieved that the disease causes me no inconvenience. My general health is now perfect. Indigestion perfectly cured. I now weigh 140 pounds, and am still taking the Remedy, and am confident of a final cure.

And a good lamp must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, beautiful, good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.

TOBACCO DEPARTMENT.

Elevators have been placed in both of the prize houses.

The better the tobacco produced, the better the prices obtained. And simple truth.

Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, is ready for new crop tobacco. He guarantees highest prices.

Texas pays $2,318,400 per year for tobacco. Nearly everywhere in the State uses the weed.

The old reliable is Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson. Send your tobacco there. Cooper is the farmer's friend.

The weather last week was too cold for handling tobacco, he on the warehouse had only light breaks.

Remember if you send your tobacco to Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, you will obtain high prices and be happy. Try it.

Mr. R. W. Royster has run pipes through his prize and placed two engines near the building to be used in re-ordering his stock. Bob is a hustler and is making a splendid success of his work here.

Ship your tobacco to Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, and he will work honestly and faithfully for your best interest.

It is estimated that the South Carolina crop of tobacco this year was about 4,500 acres. The yield per acre is larger than in this State or Virginia—the total amount of pounds grown being put at 4,000,000. It is estimated that next year the South Carolina crop will be fully twice as large as it was in 1892.—Winston Tobacco Journal.

On Aug. 11th, Cooper's Warehouse, Henderson, sold new primings for R. Carr at 4, 8, 12, 15, 30, 20 and 30, and for F. T. Carr at 4, 4.50, 6, 9, 10.50, 11, 15.75 and 20. Cooper can make just as good sales for you.

The best tobacco in the State is grown at Petchabun. It is planted in open fields near the town after the floods in September or October, and the first crop or tips, which is considered the best quality, is gathered up in February and the last about the beginning of May. The very best quality cannot be purchased, as it is reserved for the special use of the king and sent down to Bangkok, where it is smoked in the palace and distributed to the chief officers of State.—Philadelphia Ledger.

WHY THE VOTER DIDN'T SHOW UP.

The Terrible Mistake Made by an Electioneer in the Wilds of Alabama.

I was doing some electioneering in the western part of Alabama when I rode up one day to what looked like a deserted cabin, as the windows were closed and the shanty door fastened and no one in sight. There was a field of tobacco growing on one side of the cabin and a thicket of scrub corn on the other, and in the middle of this stood a scarecrow, one of those homemade things composed of a stuffed figure in coat and trousers, crowned with an old straw hat. I was about to ride on one when a voice called:

"Hello; light, stranger, and gin us thay news."

I looked, but could see no one till my horse jumped to one side and I saw that the scarecrow had descended from its perch and was coming toward me.

"Hello!" I said; "are you the owner of this place?"

"Reckon I air. Did yer wanten chin about the crops in these yeh pawts?"

"No. I want to get your vote for our party. We represent the best principles of reform, and I have been told, Mr.—Mr.—Snaggs—thank you—that you—were one of our best citizens."

This was slightly stretching the truth, as I had never heard of Mr. Snaggs before, but I wanted his vote.

"I ain't nevah voted yit, mister," leaning his sharp, smooth chin on the top rail of the straggly fence and looking off into futurity in a dreamy, vague sort of way.

"All the more reason you should vote now. I want you to come to town and to my hotel and let me explain to you the principles of right and freedom that our party advocates."

"It costs tin to go inter town, an I ain't got no store shoes an fixins," said Snaggs, looking down at his broken leg boots, through the holes of which no socks were visible.

"I'll fix you out for that at the hotel. Of course I expect to d'fray all expenses."

"Be you the gov'nor?"

"No. But he is my friend, and if you vote for him you won't have to pay your way into town. Here's a bill that you'll know that to do with on election day. It'll get you first rate quarters at the hotel."

"I shoved a five dollar bill into the horny hand. It was received with a vacant grin.

"Got enny 'baccy, stranger?" asked Mr. Snaggs without any thanks for the money.

I had some and divided with him, and I left him in a radiant good humor. He was going back to his perch when I called for him.

"I didn't get your first name, Mr. Snaggs—Jim or John?"

"Tain't no odds—J. Snaggs is as good as enny."

"J. Snaggs, esquire," I said, with a polite bow.

The last I saw of Snaggs he was standing as immutable as the sphinx in the middle of his patch of corn.

He did not show up at the hotel, and as our party expected to get in by the skin of its teeth I was rather anxious and concluded to send a liveryman after him.

"Snaggs, Snaggs," said the liveryman musingly. "I only know one Snaggs in all this country; lives right over in the valley in a slab shanty and fixes up as a scarecrow when crops in."

"That's the one," I said. "J. Snaggs, and he's got to come in and vote for us sure."

But the liveryman was bent nearly double with laughter.

"I reckon you're out on the deal, kumel, ha! ha!" he shouted, "fur—fur—ha! ha!—Jen Snaggs air a woman!"—Detroit Free Press.

Old Dan Rice in Wall Street.

Wider known and more beloved than a score of millionaires is a hale old gentleman of sturdy frame and resonant voice whose hearty handshake is a pleasant thing to feel in the lower town—old Dan Rice. His immense breadth of shoulders covered with light colored goods, his shock of white hair and rather rolling gait can be distinguished in any crowd far ahead of you. But when you confront him and catch the full, frank glance of his keen eyes, and hear his cheery voice, your memory runs back at once and picks up the thread of long ago when you thought this same man one of the great of this green earth. Somehow under the magnetism of his presence you can't help but feel something like that yet.

Just now, however, met in Wall Street, he seems like some ancient historical figure recently exhumed and confused in your early recollection of the great with General Scott, Stephen A. Douglas, William Lloyd Garrison et al. But there is certainly no myth about the old Dan Rice of today, for he is about as splendid a physical specimen as I have seen in many moons. The same old circus voice, with the sawdust ring to it, familiar to hundreds of thousands of the boys of half a century ago. Dear old man! What pleasure he has spread over the earth in his time!—New York Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

We are still doing business at the same old stand, where we are better prepared than ever before to handle to advantage the fine bright Tobacco from the "New Golden Belt." We have a very large corps of buyers who are anxious for New Tobacco and are willing to pay good prices for it. "Eastern Tobacco" stands well on our market and is eagerly sought after both by our older men and speculators. We are very glad that we can say to the "honest yeomanry" of Pitt and adjoining counties that tobacco has "started off" better this year than we have known it in several years and that we look for good prices during the season. Hogsheds can be had FREE OF CHARGE by those planters shipping to us, by applying to S. M. Schultz & Co., Greenville, N. C., or to Amos G. Cox, Winterville, N. C. Remember that we bid lively on every pile put upon our floor and buy largely of all grades that we sell, and will see to it that you shall have nothing but prime for over 7000 pound sold with us.
