Shall They Come.

Greenville has plenty of room for both cotton and tobacco factories, and an abundance of material for supplying both. It is raised right here at home. Further, the town stands in need of just these kinds of enterprises. There are people who need employment, and the merchants would not be found complaining if they had more trade. Factories will also supply these wants. Taking all this into consideration the question arises: why can't Greenville have factories?

You can put no better Fertilizer under your Tobacco than Ober's. Sold by G. E. Harris.

Spelling Bee.

The spelling bee given by the Baptist Ladies Aid Society, last Tuesday night, afforded much amusement to the audience. There were a number of spellers, both gentlemen and ladies and the words were given out by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale. Mrs. C. M. Bernard won the prize for the best speller, being the last to take her seat after a missed word. Bob Cox and Sam Daniel both laid claim to the booby prize, but we believe the decision was finally made in favor of Sam. The commendum supper also afforded much merriment.

Game, Pine Island, and Pata; sea Ganes are the very Fertilizers the farmers need for general crops. See G. E. Harris for prices.

The Boss Thief.

The champion thief got in some work last week and got ahead of the fellow who stole a church Bible and sold it. The members of Greenville Masonic Lodge who attended the last communication, were surprised to find that the orphan contribution box had been tampered with. An examination showed that the box had been gnawed open and it bore distinct marks of human teeth. The box contained about $5 all of which was taken. Some thief had effected an entrance into the lodge room and committed this unparalleled crime.

The best Fertilizers are the ones that always give the best results. Low grade goods are dear at any price. See G. E. Harris and get the best.

Making Progress Slowly.

This present term of Pitt Superior Court strongly illustrates some of the discussions before the recent meeting of the Magistrates of the county about the Courts being slow in their work, and adds testimony to their wisdom in voting to re-establish the Inferior Courts so as to give the Superior Courts more time in which to dispose of civil cases. Half of the first week of the term was lost because of the Judge being detained elsewhere longer than was expected, and the remainder of the week, with part of Monday of this week, was consumed in the trial of one case.

All brands of Fertilizers sold by G. E. Harris have been sufficiently tested to guarantee their value. If you want the best returns for your investment it would be advisable for you to see him before buying.

Horses at Auction.

The Norfolk Horse Exchange, McCleary & McClellan, proprietors, 59 Union St., Norfolk, Va., has regular auction sales of horses and mules on Tuesday of each week, beginning at 10:30 A. M. Buyers from this section can take to Norfolk any Monday, attend the sale Tuesday morning and get back home that evening. This arrangement saves long absence from home and affords buyers an open market and large assortment of stock to select from. McCleary & McClellan receive several car loads of stock each week and can supply any demand either at public or private sale. They sell number one stock at reasonable prices. Give them a trial.

Jail Delivery.

Sheriff King had quite a surprise early Thursday morning when he found that five prisoners had escaped jail the previous night. Wednesday evening these prisoners were as usual locked in one of the lower cages. They fled off the staple that held the lock to their cage and after getting in the corridor cut through the brick wall into the passage; then removing the lock from the front door they were soon at liberty. The names of the escaped prisoners were James Davis, James Hall, James Barnes, George Pender and Silas Forbes. The latter gave the Sheriff another surprise, Thursday evening, by returning and surrendering himself. He was quick to act for something to eat, saying he had not had a mouthful since he left. He said they all got out of the jail by 9 o'clock the night before and went over nearly to Bethel. To get out so early the prisoners must have been provided with good tools to do their work.

When this jail was built it was thought to be secure against the escape of prisoners, but this is the second time such has occurred. There ought to be a wall around the jail to prevent friends of the prisoners getting so near them. Exposed as the windows are it is an easy matter for any one on the outside to hand in tools or weapons to the prisoners.

Sheriff King set to work at once and did everything possible to get the information abroad and recapture the prisoners. James Barnes and James Hall were captured in Battleboro Saturday and the Sheriff turned the lock on them again Sunday evening.

An Old Ticket.

Mr. Allen Warren of this town has one of the election tickets used in North Carolina in the election of 1828 when Andrew Jackson was running for President and John C. Calhoun for Vice-President. The ticket is in a small frame and is well preserved. It reads as follows:

See What Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy Will do for Nursing Mothers and Female Troubles.

Hopewell P. O., Mecklenburg Co., September 4th, 1888.

Mrs. Joe Person—Madam:—Four years ago I took violent cold, which resulted in Quinsy, and after suffering almost death, got relieved; but alas the disease was my system, and finally culminated in a womb trouble which caused me great suffering that winter and spring. I could scarcely drag around and was often so miserable I would pray to die. I begged my husband to let me try your Remedy. He bought me one box and it has made a perfect cure of me. It has also cured me of Indigestion, and furthermore, after the birth of five of my children I would nearly lose the use of my arms, and suffered untold agony with Rheumatism and Neuralgia. I have not seen signs of their troubling me since I commenced taking the Remedy. I keep a bottle of the Remedy in the house all the time. My husband says it is better than a doctor. With all my other children, had great trouble with them during dentition. I can truthfully say, never did children teethe with so much ease and as little trouble as my last two have. Whenever I see any sign of their troubling me, I commence taking the Remedy. It keeps my stomach and bowels regular and in a healthy condition, and seems to have the same effect on theirs. It is certainly the best Tonic I ever tried. A few doses will brace me up and make me feel like a new person. Yes, publish any part of my letter that will help your cause in the least. I hate publicity, but if my experience with the Remedy will be the means of others trying it, I am willing for the public to know the good it has done me and mine. May God bless you!

I am very truly, MRS. ABNER ALEXANDER.

COTTON MARKET.

NORFOLK, Va., Mar. 10th, 1893.

The cotton market has passed another week of uncertainty though it has shown much steadiness throughout. Early in the week it seemed from foreign advices that the strike troubles abroad would soon be settled. This, together with the falling off in the movement, caused a slight advance Tuesday as our telegram that date showed. The quotations since that time have remained about steady, though the tone, which is "quiet to-day," shows the market is weaker. This is caused by the failure of striking operatives and the employers to agree upon positive terms at a meeting held today. To show the extent of this influence on trade, will say, the aggregate number of spindles idle in the Lancashire district is near 2,000,000.

Livestock market is quiet with very small business at 1-16d for Midding. Sales of the week 37,900 bales against 40,000 bales last year.

OUR WILSON STOCK AT COST!

Stand ready—everybody—to catch the quailies as they fly—We've grasped the knife this time with a grip of determination—nothing shall stay our hand—We'll turn our backs on the loss of profit—and snap our finger at the sacrifice of cost—The truth of it is just this—our Wilson stock has been moved to our Greenville store—where we have not the room for them—and you know we are not disposed to dabble in the future until the present is settled—so we are going to settle it NOW—At this "stage of the game" a mile of money is worth a mountain of stock to US—While there yet remains months of service for you—in these goods—deaf will be the ear that does not hear the breaking of these prices—Blind the eye that cannot see the opportunity—Poor—indeed—the purse that cannot claim a share of this monster sacrifice—This sale—will only be for 30 days—and don't fail—to take advantage of it. Respectfully, C. T. MUNFORD.

VAUGHAN & BARNES, COMMISSION -:-: MERCHANTS

Norfolk, Va.

The movement of the cotton crop thus far this season would indicate that there was some foundation for the bad crop accounts daily reaching us from all parts of the cotton territory, if so the staple is selling too cheap and parties wishing to hold for higher prices can do so by shipping it to us and drawing for $25.00 per bale on same and having it held for six months is so desired.

Faithfully yours, VAUGHAN & BARNES.

has been used in Eastern North Carolina for the last three years and without a single exception has given entire satisfaction. Mess. Edwards and Moyer purchased one of these machines last year and Mr. Edwards will testify that the machine was the salvation of his tobacco crop. Besides many others are willing to give any testimonial in its favor. A few of its advantages over hand setting are:

1. Plants grow 2. It leaves the land in better shape earlier for cultivating.
3. A more uniform form growth is produced, hence the worming and sucking season is shortened.
4. It saves many, many aching backs and sore fingers.

TOBACCO DEPARTMENT.

TOBACCO JOTTINGS AND LOCAL NOTES.

The Warehouses will continue operation till the first of April.

We propose to keep talking more prize room until we get it and then Greenville will be independent.

Mr. Richard Harper, who was on the floor of the Eastern with a heavy load of the weed a few days ago told us that he had sold the most of his crop in Greenville and that he had spent between $40 and $50 in Greenville for groceries and dry goods which usually went to Snodgrass merchants.

By a missprint in last week's issue of the REFLECTOR, this market is quoted as having sold only twenty-six thousand pounds of tobacco during 1891. It should have been two hundred and sixty thousand.

Mr. R. R. Cotten is also accredited with having obtained two hundred dollars an acre for four acres of his tobacco. It should have been Mr. C. Cannon. Mr. Cotten, we are sorry to say, has given his tobacco and his influence to another market, to the upbuilding of another town. We are therefore not prepared to say how much he has realized per acre. We know this, that Pitt county and Greenville beats the world on high averages for Messrs. Everett & Moyer sold off of four acres, on the Greenville market twelve hundred dollars. We are hard to beat.

COMMUNICATION.

A Letter From a Gentleman in an Adjoining County, who Thinks the Outlook for the Future of Greenville Encouraging.

It is with great pleasure that we have the privilege of publishing the following kind and generous letter, which touches forcibly the same points on which we are so zealously striving to impress the people of Eastern North Carolina. It is from the pen of a high-toned scholar and christian gentleman, Prof. Jno. Duckett, to whom the State of North Carolina owes a debt of gratitude for the valuable and patriotic work that he has done in the upbuilding of her educational interests.

HAMILTON, N. C., Mch. 1, 1893.

MR. O. L. JOYNER,
Dear Sir:—I am delighted in reading your department in the REFLECTOR. It always affords me great pleasure to learn of the success of any of my former pupils. Your articles are well written, sentences well formed, and your deas progressive and sound. The country needs the experience of the old, and the judgment of those who see further behind them than they can perceive before them. Yet after all, it is young men that make the world more progressive. Some years ago I visited Durham, and to my astonishment, the men that I had read about so much in connection with the progress and "get up and git" of Durham were nearly all young men. Some were almost beardless youths, yet the vim and push they have given Durham has made it the liveliest town in Central North Carolina. If Eastern North Carolina is ever to arouse from its lethargy and resurrect the garments of progress it once wore, or produce new ones, it must be done by its young men. If new fields are to be cultivated, if new enterprises are to be started and successfully prosecuted it must be done by its young men, hence I repeat that it affords me great pleasure to see a young man who was a faithful pupil under my instruction for two or more years launching out into new fields and starting up new enterprises, for this section at least, with prospects so high. May success crown your efforts and may you see the day when you are more to Eastern North Carolina than Jule Carr has been to the middle section of the good old North State. I can well remember when Durham was a much smaller town, and much less business was done in it than is now done in Greenville. Indeed back in the seventies no one thought that there would ever be anything in Durham but Blackwell's Durham Bull, and the depot. One new enterprise started another, and another and thus the town has grown from a railroad station to a live progressive city. Push and brains start, and money comes afterwards. There is not a single progressive city in the United States that has been started from the jump and made so by rich people. The start was first made by pushing men, then capital, like the reservoirs of water way up among the Rockies, which have held it there for ages, except what was evaporated, when a way was started from the dry valley to these reservoirs or lakes, the water did not wait for a wide channel to be opened but realizing how much the valleys could be made to smile and bring forth plenty rushed down and where was once sterility there is now great abundance. Capital never starts new enterprises. Indeed capital is cowardly, but as soon as a start is made by trains and dust it rushes in and fortifies and makes strong what could not otherwise succeed without it. The telegraph was started by a young man without means. Capital and even Congress was afraid of Morse's new ideas for a long time. Edison was a young man, poor in the world's goods when he invented and started the electric light.

But mark how capital has flowed in to strengthen these inventions and make them powerful and enduring. It often happens that a few men make a town, though many may reap the benefits. Keep level headed, but push on, not growing weary because obstacles may be met, and in days yet to come many may point to the success you have achieved not merely for yourself but for your town and county.

TOBACCO GROWING.

An Interesting Article on the Subject by a Pennsylvania Planter.

E. K. Hershey, in the Lancaster New Era, thus speaks on the subject of tobacco culture:

The cause of the deterioration of the tobacco is deficient nutrition. This brings me to consider a very important phase of the subject. My experience, covering a period of ten years, since 1882, shows me conclusively that we do not return to the soil the elements which are necessary to grow a good crop of leaf in the right proportions, by our systems of manuring.

Barn yard manure is considered the "acme" and is the manure for the farm crops generally raised. But I do not consider tobacco a farm crop in the sense we apply to corn, wheat, &c., but it is rather a garden or nursery crop, for it wants to be coddled and nursed from the plant bed to the warehouse, and it needs quite a different manure from grain crops as it is the leaf we are after and not the grain. Chemistry has aided the farmer wonderfully on the manure question, and our agricultural experiment stations are doing much good, which I am sorry to say, are not as fully appreciated as they should be. They have found that the tobacco plant is a great potash consumer and that our barnyard manure does not contain a sufficient quantity of that element available the first year it is applied to supply its needs. It will be observed that all new lands whose virgin soils have not been exhausted by cropping will invariably produce the finest tobacco. What then is the remedy? I found that if on the heaviest manured ground I wish to grow tobacco that will color well, burn well, and cure well, I must supplement the barn yard manure with some chemistry manure to bring the desired result.

Right here is where our average farmer runs against a snag in applying chemical manure. Most people think that one brand of phosphate is as good as another when, in fact, it is not a phosphate we want at all, as that is a grain producer and is entirely unfit for tobacco. It would be utterly impossible for me to recommend any particular brand of manure for general use, as that alone can be learned by long continued and costly experiment by each individual farmer, as the soil of different localities vary so much, owing to the treatment received by them in former years and also owing to their former condition; even some fields in the same farm may require a different fertilizer from others to produce the best results. This can not be learned by experiment stations scattered far apart, but by each farmer constituting his own farm in experiment station, and he will thus learn particular results and let the stations find out general results.

I have tested several different brands of chemical manure, besides nitrate soda, kainit potassium, sulphate, etc., and I find some brands were a positive injury to the tobacco. Thus it would be the height of folly to advocate a special brand for general use, but it would be safe to advocate any brand that analyses ten to twelve per cent. potash (sulphate form.)

Last year I applied soda nitrate at the rate of 400 pounds per acre with very good results, giving good growth and splendid color. But the wet season, perhaps, was favorable. I think we should also change our mode of applying on stable manure. The life of the tobacco plant is too short to receive the full benefit of it as in ten or twelve weeks the growth of the plant is finished and manure applied in spring is not yet decomposed.

I am not prepared to show by experience, but it looks reasonable, that we ought to apply a heavy coat of manure sod; plow for corn and then supplement with chemical manure for tobacco the following year. I am more forcibly convinced every year that our best way to grow tobacco to perfection is to select some suitable field and the best on the farm at that and keep that for tobacco and nothing else, and manure heavily. I have a lot of one and a half acres which was in tobacco the seventh successive year and this year's crop shows finer than any previous one. Witness the crops grown on lots in Washington borough, for instance, which was grown on the same ground every year. Few sections of the country produce heavier or finer crops, some of which was sold at 35 cents per pound last year.

Business Sympathy.
A bright printer's clerk who was instructed to write a letter of condolence to a firm, the head of which had recently died, did it in this way: "We are greatly pained to learn of the loss sustained by your house, and extend to you our heartiest sympathy. We notice that the circular you send us announcing Mr. —'s death was lithographed in the North. We regret that you did not see your way clear to let us estimate for the work. The next time there is a bereavement in your house we shall be glad to quote for your printing, and are confident that we can give you better work at less cost than anybody else in the business. Hoping soon to hear from you, we remain with profound sympathy, yours truly."

Do You Know.
Do you know that you can drive nails into hard wood without bending them if you dip them first in lard?
That a lump of camphor in your clothes-dress will keep steel ornaments from tarnishing?
That stale bread will clean kid gloves?
That bread crumbs cleanse silk gowns?
That milk, applied once a week with a soft cloth, freshens and preserves boots and shoes?
That gloves can be cleaned at home by rubbing with gasoline?
That weak spots in a black silk waist may be strengthened by "sticking" court-plaster underneath?

It Should Be in Every House.
J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St., Sharpsburg, Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cookport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than anything he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it.
