NORTH CAROLINA.

Things Mentioned in our State Exchange that are of General Interest The Cream of the News.

Mr. John P. Kerr has been appointed postmaster of Asheville. Mr. Kerr was at one time a typo on the Weldon News.

Weldon News: It is rumored that the Coast Line will bring its men back to Weldon and that all changes of engines and men will be made here, as formerly.

Kinston Free Press: Messrs. Harvey & Fields will establish a large fertilizer factory here next fall to make fertilizers for sale. This is a needed industry and will doubtless be profitable.

Wikesboro Chronicle: Mr. Theo. Wooly, of Union township, has a remarkable ewe sheep. The ewe is now 16 years old, and is the mother of 32 sheep, having produced twins every year of her life.

The great Confederate Memorial Bazaar at Richmond will begin April 11th. North Carolina will have a "tent in the bazaar," at which suitable souvenirs will be sold, as well as many other attractive things. The bazaar continues three weeks.

An exchange says that a gentleman, in Durham, who was afflicted with rheumatism, recently stepped into a vessel of hot water and severely scalded one of his feet. He was laid up for a week or two, but when his foot got well he was surprised to find that his rheumatism was gone.

The oddest illicit distillery yet to be heard of was captured in Moore county a few days ago. The shanty was erected on the top of a clump of small trees in the middle of a tobacco pond, and the capacity of the still 65 gallons. The capture was made while the business was in full blast.

Wilmington Messenger: The body of young Ed Blackman, who was drowned in the Cape Fear, opposite the Wilmington cotton mills on Tuesday, March 14th, was not recovered until the 25th although there was a report published to that effect. The body of the young man was discovered by a fisherman named Henry Arthur, floating in the river opposite the mouth of Redmond Creek, three quarters of a mile below the city, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. John Ruse, who was with the young man when he was drowned, and who was himself rescued by the German sailors, rowed down to the body with a friend and they brought it to the city.

H. B. Randolph, Brunswick, Ga., writes: "I was under the care of nine different doctors, but not one did me the good that Botic Blood Balm has done me."

The State Convention of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons of North Carolina will be held in Oxford, N. C., May 11th and 12th. It is earnestly desired by the "Lead a Hand" Circle, of Oxford, that each Circle in the State will send at least one delegate, with full reports of the work accomplished. Send names of delegates to Mrs. W. S. Black, Oxford Orphan Home, Oxford, N. C. Pleasant homes will be provided, and the reception committee will meet all visitors at the train.

He tells what he saw. Mr. Clas, J. Wiestrand, Berlin, Clearfield Co., Pa., writes: "My father caught a very severe cold in the mines and he purchased a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and after using it he had no more cold."

CHILD BIRTH... MADE EASY!

"MOTHERS' FRIEND" is a scientifically prepared Liniment, every ingredient of recognized value and in constant use by the medical profession. These ingredients are combined in a manner hitherto unknown.

HOUSE AND HOME.

Carefully Culled Matter on Leading Topics.

What Children Should Be Taught. Green Lights Bad for Beauty. A Unique Marriage Rite—Electricity in Dwellings.

What should children be taught to believe in order that, when they grow up, they may find that later experience does not alter what they learned when young? We must teach them that, beyond what they feel and see and touch, there is something better and greater which they can neither feel nor see nor touch. Goodness, kindness to one another, unselfishness, giving up their own inclinations—these are the best things in all the world. It is true that goodness and kindness have no faces that we can kiss, no hands that we can clasp; but these are certainly there, in the midst of our work or our play. And this goodness and kindness which, except in outward acts, we cannot see is something which existed before we were born. It is from this that we have all the pleasant things of this world—the flowers, the sunshine, the moonlight—all these were given us by some great kindness and goodness which we have never seen at all. And this goodness and love are that great Power from Whom all things flow.

A Household Problem.
To wash flannels without shrinkage have a tub half full of water that is more than warm, but not very hot, and make a strong suds with laundry soap of the best quality. Add a tablespoonful of powdered borax. Shake the flannels thoroughly, then squeeze them with the hands, so they are not rubbed down, and then wring them down, and if necessary rub the spots between the hands. Do not rub soap on the flannels, and do not rub them on a board. Wring from the first suds and put into another of the same temperature. Rinse through this water, then put them into another as warm, that does not contain soap. Wring dry, shake vigorously, and dry quickly. Iron before they are quite dry with a moderately hot iron, then press well. Do not use borax for colored flannels.

Dainty Work Bags.
For dainty workbags to hold needles and silks, brocade is a favorite material. Plush is rich looking, but it draws up clumsily; ribbed silk has a hard, severe appearance, and plain satin is old-fashioned. Many of the sachets are double, so that the work may be kept in one-half, the silks in the other, or all the materials in one bag, and handkerchiefs, scent bottle, 7-2 cents, in the other. A broad stiffened strap joined around as a ring is slipped over the hand when the sachet is carried. The sachet is thrown over the back of a chair when work is in progress. The two backs of the sachets are in one place, and the ring encircles them. Across the front a spray of silk embroidered leaves is thrown.

Green Lights Bad for Beauty.
While green is a gay, pretty and fashionable color for decorations, the wise hostess will never put green shades on any lamp when she is to entertain women. The green lamp is more beauty destroying than the liver complaint and renders faces as pallid and ghastly as those of persons lead. The woman who refused to rent a pew in a church where the windows were all of green stained glass was not so far wrong after all. To sit under a green light for two hours a week would be asking too much of the most unaffected woman. Yellow, light, red and white, all soften and are becoming to all faces. Even Mrs. Langtry would retire from a globe of green glass.

A Unique Marriage Rite.
In the island of Banquet there is a tribe of Dusuns differing widely in language, religion and customs from other tribes bearing that name. Marriages are performed there in the presence of two families. There is no public gathering or feast. The rite consists in transferring a drop of blood from a small incision made with a wooden knife in the calf of the man's leg to a similar cut in the woman's leg. After marriage the man takes the bride to her home, where she resides in future as a member of the family.

Electricity in Dwellings.
It is proposed to utilize electricity for cooking and heating in private houses. Machines for the purpose have already been contrived. It is estimated that ninety meals for a family of ordinary size can be cooked in this way at a cost of $6.57. For the house-heating four machines, each doing the work of an ordinary stove, can be maintained for about $6.40 per month, making a bill of $12 or $13 per month for cooking and heating.

Notwithstanding the enormous increase given to human strength by the mechanical powers, the lever, the pulley, the wheel and axle, etc., the removal of heavy weights is still attended by strains and sprains. There is positively nothing better for such casualties than Salvation Oil.

EVENLY MATCHED.

BY WALLACE F. REED.

The right winz of Sherman's army was only a few miles from Blue Rock, a mountain village in north Georgia.

The simple villagers felt little alarm. Blue Rock was a point of no strategic importance to either federals or confederates. One fine morning in the early spring John Dickson started out from the little hamlet to visit his farm, only a mile or two distant. Dickson was a young man, and a chronic lameness had secured him exemption from military service, and as he had a wife and two children entirely dependent upon him, he regarded his disability as a blessing.

Still he was a strong confederate, and on this particular morning, while he was limping slowly along the rough country road, he paused more than once to listen with a frowning face to the sullen boom of Sherman's guns, several miles away.

"I am not able to do much fighting," he muttered, "but if they come to Blue Rock and cut up any of their devilry I'll kill some of them if I have to die for it." He meant what he said. This quiet young farmer had plenty of grit when he was put to the test. The walk tired him, and he left the road and stretched himself in a grassy place under the shade of a sturdy oak.

He threw himself on his back and closed his eyes for a moment. Then he looked up into the green foliage above him. A queer expression flitted over his face, but his gaze remained fixed upon one point.

In a careless way he raised his hand to his face, and stroked his mustache. Then the hand wandered down over his vest, and at last it slipped downward to a hip pocket, and reappeared as quick as a flash of lightning, this time with a pistol aimed upward.

"Now, you come down," said Dickson gruffly. "Hah! ha!" laughed someone up in the trees.

"You have found me, have you?" The laugh surprised and irritated Dickson. His keen eyes had discovered a fellow in a blue uniform sitting on one of the opposite limbs of the tree. It had flashed into his head that it would be an easy matter to capture him, and march him into Blue Rock. And now the rascal was laughing at him!

"You'll grin on the wrong side of your mouth pretty soon," said Dickson. "I'll soon be business. Don't you know that you are my prisoner?" "Well, no," was the cool reply. "I hadn't thought of it in that light. In fact, I was under the impression that you were my prisoner, and I was wondering how to dispose of you."

"Confound you!" roared the young farmer, "if you don't come down at once, I'll shoot!" "See here, my friend," answered the soldier, "you don't understand the situation."

"O, I don't!" snorted Dickson. "No, where are your eyes? Take a good look, but don't move."

"All right, I'll trust you," he said. "Go ahead, and I'll take no advantage of you. But you may expect to see me in Blue Rock before night."

"Well, I'm off. Good-bye!" And he rose to his feet, and walked off as briskly as he could. He scorned to look back. If the federal was mean enough to break his word and fire, it was all right. But his heart burned against his ribs until he had placed a hundred yards between him and the tree. When the blue jackets swarmed into the village that afternoon, the score or two of male inhabitants saw that resistance was useless against such a force.

"The captain sent me to guard your property," said a soldier, as he peeped in front of Dickson's door.

"I am obliged to him," replied Dickson, "but I don't see why."

The man went on duty, and the little family passed the night undisturbed, and with the feeling that they were securely protected. "The captain requests you to come to his headquarters."

This astounding message made Dickson a little nervous when it was delivered to him the next morning. His wife could not conceal her alarm.

"There is nothing wrong," the messenger assured her. "The captain merely desires to see your husband a moment."

There was nothing to do but to go. Dickson quieted his wife, and proceeded to the dwelling indicated to him as the captain's headquarters.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Dickson," the captain remarked with a pleasant smile. "My wife wishes to thank you for your courteous and sensible conduct yesterday."

DRAW POKER.

One of Senator Pettigrew's Pet Games.

Senator Pettigrew, of South Dakota, who has been making himself quite popular recently at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, is very fond of a quiet game of draw poker. It is told of him that soon after his appearance in the Senate he joined in a game which soon produced a jack-pot, and some one of the party opened it at first, but finally concluded to come in and drew four cards. The man who opened the pot bet $50, which the Senator promptly raised a like amount.

The third player dropped out, as the man who opened had not drawn any cards. It being then the turn of the opener, he raised another $50, which Pettigrew doubled. This sort of thing went on some time until the fellow who had opened the pot began to get uneasy. "How many cards did you draw, Senator?" he asked. "Four," was the laconic response. "Well, you are betting lively on a four-card draw. Senator Pettigrew said nothing except to suggest that they raise the limit to $100. The other fellow thought that his opponent could not possibly have a better hand than his own and raised another fifty. Pettigrew came right back at him without a smile, and the first man in desperation called. Pettigrew laid down his hand—ace, king, queen, jack and ten-spot of clubs. "Great Scott!" was the chorus. "Guess that's my pot," said Pettigrew. "What in thunder do you draw to?" asked his companions. "That type-writer," replied the Senator, indicating the modest little queen of clubs. "What did you open it on?" "Three kings and a pair of aces," Washington experts are very careful nowadays when they tackle the Senator from South Dakota at the game of draw poker.

How a Snake Swallows a Frog.
The method of swallowing is a very simple one, although, if the frog be large, more than half an hour may be consumed in the process. The two bones of the lower jaw are separate and capable of independent movement; so the reptile loosens its hold upon one side of its jaw, and, pushing that side forward as far as possible, it drives the teeth in again, and then draws the jaw back to its original position. The result is that the prey is drawn down by the movement. The process is then repeated by the other half of the jaw, the inevitable forcing the victim inward. The snake's skin stretches enormously, and the jaw is, of course, dislocated, but the extensible ligaments hold the bones together. The disproportion between the diameter of the frog and the serpent's slender neck is, indeed, marvelous, and snakes have been observed to split themselves open by attempting too ambitious a mouthful.

After perhaps half an hour of laborious contortions all that is seen is the poor frog's great swelling that the contracting muscles are rapidly forcing down the reptile's neck. If one liberates the captured frog before it is too late, the wretched animal often seems to overcome by fear, or perhaps stupefied by the serpent's saliva, that it will not leap, but crawls in a painful manner. We must not allow ourselves to be duped into a mistaken sympathy, however, for such is the poetic justice of the case. Large frogs esteem small snakes a particular delicacy. A. G. Mayer, in the Popular Science Monthly.

How to Run Fast.
In the mountainous valleys of Germany the letter-carriers are the hardest-worked people in the country. They carry all the mail and are compelled to go at the rate of about five miles an hour. You know that in running even a short distance you quickly get "out of breath," as you say. The German letter-carriers, to avoid this shortness of breath, carry a quill in the mouth so that the air cannot be so rapidly expelled from the lungs.

If boys who want to become "sprinters," or very fast runners, will practice carrying something in the mouth when running, they will find that they can soon run a long time without losing breath. They must be very careful, though, not to swallow what they are carrying in the mouth. And they must be such careful runners that they will not fall. Very young sprinters would do well to wait awhile before trying to become champions.

ETIQUETTE OF WEDDINGS.

Correct Deportment for Both Bride and Groom.

A Few Valuable Points for the "Uninitiated"—No Longer the Proper Cap for Everybody to Kiss the Bride.

Almost every day come in our mail inquiries relative to the etiquette of weddings. Possibly the general ignorance on this point comes from the fact that it is the first offense of the writer, therefore he or she cannot be expected to be quite au fait in a matter which it takes time to become accustomed to.

In answer to the many anxious ones we will say that if the wedding takes place in the morning the groom does not wear a dress coat. He wears a formal morning suit, and wears gloves or not, as he chooses. A best man is usually chosen, he being the groom's brother or most intimate friend. It is his duty to follow the husband to the altar, standing at his right hand, a little behind him, and holding his hat during the service. The best man pays the clergyman's fee and returns to the house either by himself or with the maid of honor.

The bridegroom, if he so pleases, may present the bridesmaids with some pretty souvenir of the occasion, such as a fan, bracelet or locket. He pays for the wedding ring and the bride's bouquet. Cards and carriages, as well as the wedding feast, are furnished by the bride's parents.

The bride drives to the church with her father, who gives her away. Her mother and relatives, who have preceded her, sit in the front pews. Her bridesmaids await her in the chancel of the church.

The bridal procession is generally formed of the ushers walking two and two, then the bridesmaids, and last the bride on her father's arm. Sometimes a maid of honor walks with or just before the bride, in which case the father forms no part of the cortege. On reaching the altar the ushers and bridesmaids separate to right and left, leaving a space for the bride pair. The bridegroom advances and takes his bride by the right hand and the clergyman proceeds with the ceremony.

Husband and wife walk down the aisle together, the others following. Formerly, brides removed the whole glove. Now the finger of the left hand one is adroitly cut so that the ring can be easily adjusted without removing the entire glove.

All brides should write a personal note of thanks for each gift, whether it be large or small. After an hour and a half with her guests the bride retires to don her traveling gown, usually accompanied by her most intimate friends. When she returns she is met at the foot of the stairs by the groom, who has also changed his costume, and the good-byes are said, the rice and satin slippers thrown, and it is all over.

Wedding cake is no longer sent about, but neatly packed in boxes and placed where guests can take it on leaving the house. Such is the etiquette of a church wedding, the refreshments served being either elaborate or simple, as the tastes choose. The bride is no longer kissed by everybody, only the very intimate friends being allowed that privilege. If we have omitted any point that has proven a vexed one to expectant brides, pray pardon the omission and let us know wherein we have failed, and once again the pen will be taken up on so important a subject.—Philadelphia Times.

HOUSE AND HOME.

Wives Should Not Abandon Their Winning Ways.

Ventilation for the Sleeping Room. Pretty Figures for the German. Perfumed Baths—Baby Mental Philosophy.

We all know how some women after a year or two of married life get careless about their dress. They seem to think that their fortune is made and it isn't necessary to arrange the hair becomingly or put on a pretty house gown just for their husbands. This is wrong and it is an error that comes from laziness. Men like to see their wives look pretty just as much as they did when they were but sweethearts. Take a woman's advice and if you can't have but one attractive gown, let that be the one to wear indoors. Aim to have daintily arranged hair and a neat and simple costume for breakfast. Go in largely for laces. A man is very fond of frills, bits of white about the neck and wrists always appeal strongly to him. Have plenty of lace on your apron, as the case may be, and in fact aim to make yourself just as winsome after the fish is landed as when you were not so sure of him.

Sleeping-Room Ventilation.
The proper arrangements of draughts for the ventilation of sleeping-rooms has perplexed all. One thing, however, is certain. It has been proved by actual experiment that a layer of air lies against the walls which is subject to very little movement, even when there is a strong circulation in the middle of the room. It is, therefore, important that a bed should not be placed close to the wall. If kept there during the day time it should be moved at least several inches out into the room at night. Alcoves and curtains should be avoided. In an alcove inclosed on three sides a lake of air forms, which may be compared to the stagnant pools often observed along the margin of rivers. A few yards away a rushing tide may be moving swiftly along, but these placid pools are unrefreshed by the current.

Pretty Figures for the German.
Among the pretty and original figures danced at a recent "dinner german" was that of the spinning-wheel. A pretty girl sat spinning at a wheel decorated with two bows, one of pink and one of green. Two rivals come to her, one with a pink favor on his coat and one with a favor of green. The wheel is set in motion, and as it finally stops its revolutions the color on top decides which man is to dance with the spinner. In another figure the maidens all sit in a row, with aprons, hats and parasols of tissue paper at their feet. At a signal by the leader as many men as there are maidens, and one more, rush forward, array themselves in the hats and aprons and open the parasols. The man who finishes his toilet last is left without a partner.

Rubenstein.
Rubinstein, the pianist, it is declared, would become an American citizen if it were not for the objections of his wife. He is quoted as saying: "I am a Russian of Russians; but I am also a Republican, and America is the land for those that love liberty."

A Smart Old Lady.
Mrs. Nancy Phillips, of North Carolina, nearly 82 years of age, put the loom and wove 13 yards of cloth from the 13th to the 20th of January, which embraced the very coldest days. Her loom was in an old house with only one fire place.

A Novel Sensation.
Miss Centmiles—No, Mr. Cashless. Why did you imagine I would marry you? Mr. Cashless—I never thought so. Miss Centmiles—Then why did you ask me? Mr. Cashless—I wanted to see how a man feels who has just lost a hundred thousand dollars.—Puck.

Not So Bad After All.
Uncle John—What, still studying, Nellie? They give you hard lessons to learn, I fear. Nellie—Yes, Uncle John, they are hard to learn, but then you know, they are awfully easy to forget.

One Thing He Was Sure Of.
Tomdick—Do you think that American women are growing taller? Hojak—I don't know about that, but they are keeping American men as short as ever.

He has been in Oxford several months, and has been liberally patronized by our people. The professor is a progressive and intelligent colored man, and has made a study of hair. Besides selling and applying his remedy, he is an expert maker of hair jewelry. He has just completed a drop charm made of a piece of hair from General Robert E. Lee's war horse. It is a beautiful and artistic piece of work. The hair was given him by an Oxford lady whose father secured it in the '60's. He has also a piece of jewelry made from the tail of Stonewall Jackson's "Old Sorrell." Prof. Bell deserves much credit and is deservedly successful. He sets a good example for his race.—Oxford Day, Jan. 1st, '91.

Personal.

Mr. J. H. Tucker, of Asheville, is here. Rev. G. F. Smith went to Raleigh yesterday.

Miss Julia Foley was sick last week but has recovered.

Mr. S. M. Schultz went to Rocky Mount Saturday.

Mr. J. R. Moyer returned Saturday from his northern trip.

Mr. B. D. Evans went to Tarboro yesterday to spend a few days.

Mr. H. M. Foard, of Wilmington, has been in town the past week.

Mr. J. C. Lanier has moved his family back to Greenville from Wilson.

Mr. M. R. Lang returned home Saturday from a visit to Philadelphia.

Mr. Alex. Heilbroner was quite sick part of last week but is now up again.

Prof. Steele, of aeronaut fame, is in town arranging for a balloon ascension.

Mrs. E. S. Harris, of Falkland, has been visiting Mrs. C. M. Bernard the past week.

Mrs. Shuford accompanied Judge Shuford to Greenville and will remain here during Court.

Miss Carrie Coghill went to Rocky Mount, Friday, to spend Easter with her home people.

Rev. J. N. H. Summrell filled his appointment here Sunday night and spent Monday in Greenville.

Mr. J. L. Harris came down from Scotland Neck Saturday and spent Sunday with his parents.

Mr. C. W. Priddy, of the firm of Young & Priddy, went north yesterday to buy new goods for his firm.

Miss Clyde Boyette, of Scotland Neck, came down Saturday and spent a day or two visiting Miss Lena Harris.

Mr. J. J. Cherry went to Richmond yesterday to attend the meeting of the Old Fellows and Orphans Relief Association.

Miss Annie Harding, of Centerville, spent part of last week visiting the family of her uncle, Register of Deeds H. Harding.

Misses Johnson, two very charming young ladies of Scotland Neck, have been spending the past week with Mrs. C. T. Munford.

Cadet J. B. Cherry, Jr. came home from Horner School, Oxford, Thursday night, to spend the Easter holidays with his parents.

Rev. Dr. L. E. Nash, pastor of Fifth Street M. E. Church, Wilmington, was greeting his many friends here part of last week. He preached twice in the Methodist church while here.

His congregation and many friends were glad to welcome Rev. J. H. Lamberton back to Greenville Saturday. He filled his appointments in the Baptist church Sunday. Services at the usual hours to-morrow night and next Sunday.

Now that winter is over comes the announcement that the price of coal has declined 50 cents per ton. That's tough.

March was certainly lamb-like in its departure and never went out like a lion at all. Upon the whole it strikes us that it wasn't such a very windy month, either.

A tenant house occupied by colored people on the plantation of Mr. W. H. Harrington, four miles from town, was destroyed by fire Saturday evening. The loss was light.

There will be an educational mass meeting at Ayden on Wednesday, 19th inst. At 2 o'clock P. M. ex-Gov. Jarvis will deliver an address. A large attendance is expected.

The mails got awfully off last week. Friday night's mail brought in Raleigh papers for three days, Wilmington papers for two days, and other mails in about the same proportion.

A freight train being thrown from the track at Scotland Neck, last Friday afternoon, was the cause of the mail train getting in so late that night. It did not get here until 11 o'clock.

Get your attention on J. B. Cherry & Co's. place. They want your trade and are going to show you that their nice goods and reasonable prices are features that should not be overlooked.

Rev. P. W. Williams, pastor of the colored Methodist church, baptized twenty-three persons at the river Sunday morning. The big revival has been conducting for four weeks is still in progress.

The Washington District Conference, of the M. E. Church will convene in Washington, N. C., April 20th, 1893, and will embrace the fourth Sabbath in April. Bishop Duncan will be present and preside.

The matter of the selection of Councilmen for Greenville is something that every citizen should be interested in, and as a nomination is equivalent to an election the time to do the talking is before the ward meetings are held.

Mr. J. S. Congleton and Mr. J. J. Stokes will both open grocery stores here in the next few days. Mr. Congleton will occupy the store next door to REFLECTOR office and Mr. Stokes will occupy the store under Germania Hall.

So much fertilizers has been coming in this season that an extra steamer has had to make several trips up the river to bring the shipments to the various river landings. The steamer Greenville was here last week with a cargo of kainit.

The fire alarm caused considerable excitement among our citizens about 10 o'clock Saturday night. It was caused by a burning chimney at the residence of Mr. James Brown. The chimney was very fowl and burned in a high blaze for quite a while.

On Friday evening little Jesse Lee Sugg, daughter of Col. I. A. Sugg, accidentally stuck a needle in her knee and broke off an inch of it in the flesh. Dr. O'Hagan cut the piece of needle out, the little girl showing wonderful nerve by hardly flinching under the operation.

There is a prospect for three more mercantile establishments to open here in a few days, in fact all the arrangements have been completed. Now if our people will just talk up factories to keep up a good trade for all the merchants you will see Greenville pulling forward.

The firm of Cobb Bros., of Norfolk, has been changed to Cobb Bros. & Co. The firm is now composed of Messrs. E. J. Cobb and C. C. Cobb, of Pitt county and Mr. Joshua Skinner, of Perquimans county. They are a strong firm and promise satisfaction to all who make shipments to them.

M. Carrie Hyde, Ruth Hall and Kate Chopin, three of the recent women writers who are "in vogue" just now, are represented by verse or story in the April Wide Awake. Price 20 cents a number, $2.40 a year. D. Lothrop Company, Publishers, Boston. Orders filled at Reflector Book Store.

Talk about unearthly shrieks, just listen at the whistles to some of these trains. The freight that came down Monday afternoon had a whistle hung to it that beat a war whoop and would almost make your hair rise. A train went through one night last week with a whistle so sharp that it would penetrate a brick wall.

Judge Shuford made an excellent charge to the Grand Jury Monday morning. It occupied about an hour and a half and covered thoroughly all the statutes to which the attention of the Jury needed specially to be directed. He is an able lawyer. Solicitor Woodward is at his post doing vigorous work for the State.

Old man Redmond Caesar, colored, commonly known as Red Blow, died in this town on last Thursday. He was 87 years old. For many years he followed the occupation of dryman and was a prominent figure about the wharf. In his prime he was the strongest man in the community and could lift a heavier weight than any competitor.

At the residence of Mr. George Belcher, in Carolina township, on Tuesday, Mar. 28th, his daughter Miss Minnie Belcher, was married to Mr. J. T. Brown, of Robertsonville, Rev. J. L. Windfield officiating. The couple were attended by Mr. W. T. Taylor with Miss Lida Belcher, Dr. R. J. Nelson with Miss Delphia Belcher, Mr. S. A. Congleton with Miss Laura Peal, Mr. J. T. Keel with Miss Minnie Belcher, Mr. R. B. Roebuck with Miss Lennie James, Mr. W. R. Keel with Miss Lillie Everett.

Horses at Auction.

The Norfolk Horse Exchange, McCleary & McCleary, proprietors 59 Union St., Norfolk, Va., has regular auction sales of horses and mules on Tuesday of each week, beginning at 10:30 A. M. Buyers from this section can go to Norfolk any Monday, attending the sale Tuesday morning and get back home that evening. This arrangement saves long absence from home and a large assortment of stock to select from. McCleary & McCleary receive several car loads of stock each week and can supply any demand either at public or private sale. They sell number one stock at reasonable prices. Give them a trial.

Jurors.

The following compose the Grand Jury at this term of Court:

Foreman, Slade Chapman, J. H. Smith, W. H. Ross, J. N. Moore, Jas. M. Williams, A. H. Critcher, W. J. James, B. H. Ives, Josephus Gaskins, W. H. Clark, J. Tucker, J. J. Hathaway, W. T. Godwin, Marshal Baker, James H. Bryan, R. L. Griffin, R. C. Chapman, Caleb Weatherington, H. A. Sutton officer of jury.

Petit Jury for first week—J. J. Gray, John L. Cox, James H. Blandford, Rufus Clark, G. P. Grimes, R. J. Little, J. H. Manning, W. G. Wall, H. Dunn, Rufus Dunn, C. C. Braxton, A. B. Hudson, S. M. Jones.

Lost His License.

A colored man applied to Register Harding, the other day for a marriage license. He had a good sized bottle with him and intimated that he was going to take some liquor along to the wedding. He and a white man left town together and they filled up so full from the contents of the bottle that the marriage license was lost before the destination was reached. Discovering that he had no license and realizing the predicament he was in sobered up the colored man a bit, and he came all the way back to town that night to ask the Register of Deeds for a duplicate. He concluded it best not to take any whiskey with him on the second trip.

Marriage Licenses.

During March the Register of Deeds of Pitt county issued licenses to seventeen couples six white and eleven colored.

White—M. S. Hodges and M. L. Mills, W. H. Mercer to Mary W. Parker, Z. B. Loftin and Maggie N. Haddock, Jos. J. Jenkins and Lela P. Sutton, J. T. Brown and Minnie E. Belcher, H. H. Moore and Mary E. Tripp.

Colored—John Whitty and Sophia Little, John Hines and Laura Williams, Henry Staton and Mary Gray, Green Edwards and Mary Johnson, Richard Tharp and Daffney Barrett, Willie Cox and Anada Chapman, David Little and Sarah Little, Malachi Hardy and Elizabeth Dawson, Fred Cannon and S. E. Smith, Otis Hardee and Becca Morris, Henry Peyton and Sarah Grimes.

Advertising.

An advertiser who is quite a success in his line, says a great deal of money is lost by spasmodic advertising. It takes a great deal more capital to get returns from advertising after the advertiser has allowed his advertisement to be with drawn for a time than if he allowed it to run continuously. Too many advertisers break up their advertising in small lots and advertise indiscriminately. Their returns are not commensurate to the money expended. Advertisements should be frequently changed and adequate space to give a proper exposition of what the advertiser has to offer should be purchased. Small crowded advertisements are usually ineffective, and in all cases it pays to place advertising with the medium which go directly to the purchasing class.—Ex.

Mrs. J. E. Person's Remedy Will Cure Skin Eruption.

I, the undersigned, do certify that our babe, at the age of three months, was taken with a breaking out or skin eruption, which baffled the skill of our finest physicians for two years, and never did get relief until I used Mrs. J. E. Person's Remedy, and one half bottle made a final cure.

Died.

Mr. Caleb Tripp, a highly esteemed citizen of Contentment town, died on Sunday, Mar. 26th. He was 75 years old.

Mrs. Lida Weatherington, wife of Mr. E. L. Weatherington, of Chisolm township, and daughter of Mr. Samuel Cory, died on Thursday of last week. She had been married not quite two years and leaves a husband and a child only a few months old. Death under such circumstances is truly sad.

Our people were shocked and pained, Saturday evening, upon learning that Miss Fannie Albritton, a most estimable young lady, had died quite suddenly at the home of her sister, Mrs. Nannie Anderson, one mile above Greenville. She had been sick for several days but so far recovered as to be up again. Friday she was taken with meningitis and died Saturday evening. The funeral took place Sunday evening at the family burial grounds, three miles below town, and was largely attended. Rev. J. H. Lamberton conducted the services. Deceased was about 30 years old and beloved by all who knew her.

L

TOBACCO JOTTINGS AND LOCAL NOTES.

The favorable weather last week caused a sudden reaction in sales at the warehouses which shows that many of our planters still hold on to a few pounds of the weed.

Mr. J. S. Jenkins one of our prominent leaf dealers has moved into the Ricks house near the depot. Rumor has it that Mr. Jenkins will buy this property.

Mr. W. A. Darden, of Greene, had a load of fine tobacco at the Greenville Warehouse on Wednesday. Mr. Darden, like many other Greene county planters, has become convinced that the Greenville market holds her own with the older markets.

We notice with regret that Maj. Ragland of Hyco, Va. is dead. No one has done more to advance the standard of our bright tobacco than Maj. Ragland and many of our bright varieties attest to his successful experiments, at his seed farm at Hyco. Maj. Ragland has also by his writings shown to our planters many improved methods in cultivating and housing their crops and his name was almost familiar with every planter in our State. His death leaves a place that will be hard to fill.

With much pleasure we congratulate Bro. Harman of the Southern Tobacco Journal on the successful completion of his sixth volume. Bro. Harman has worked faithfully for the interests of the tobacco industries in the State and that his efforts are now being recognized is shown by his splendid advertising patronage. This week's issue comes to us with a new cover and much improvement in dress and size and presents the neatest appearance of any journal that comes to our desk. We wish you much success Bro. Harman in your publication and trust that you may complete many more volumes in your fight for the interest of our State.

We notice on our streets quite a number of half grown boys of both races who have no occupation and often on account of their idleness cause much trouble to their parents and annoyance to the community. We can not but think how different this would be if we had a few more prize houses here. At this season of the year when dealers are picking and prizing their stocks, a large number of these idlers could find employment at remunerative wages. Idleness leads to crime and our moneyed men could invest their money to no better advantage than in building industries that will not only place money in the hands of the worthy but will also do much to improve the morals of our community.

MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS

In Brights Annually Becoming More Dependent on Eastern North Carolina for the Production of this Grade of Tobacco.

A few days ago we had a long talk with an experienced tobacco-ist and in the course of his talk he said that the world was looking mainly to Eastern North Carolina for the production of her bright tobacco, that the Central and Western part of the State were annually falling off in the production of this grade, the demand for which is increasing much faster than any other class of tobacco. Said he, your farmers have it in their power to become one of the most prosperous people of any section that I know of in the world. Your deep rich soil composed chiefly of vegetable matter with just enough of silica or mineral matter ought to produce the softest, most silky textured, rich yellow tobacco in the world.

When we told this gentleman that a number of our farmers had realized as much as two hundred dollars an acre for their tobacco, he expressed no surprise at all, but said that under skillful management every farmer that would stick to his business and study as he should ought not only to pay out of debt but also to become independent and self sustaining in the cultivation of bright tobacco here in Eastern North Carolina. Because there is only such a small territory in which bright tobacco can be successfully grown that there is no probability of ever over-supplying the demand.

Every tobacco grower knows that whenever bright tobacco is put on the floor it don't make any difference in what house or on what market, it always outsells anything else.

Now to the farmers of Eastern Carolina. Out in Tennessee, in Kentucky, in Wisconsin and in most of Virginia the farmers grow a heavy tobacco which is used for plug purposes and for which they realize from three and one half to seven cents per pound. They make about 1,000 or 1,200 pounds to the acre. They don't try to make fancy brights but devote their time and attention to getting as much in quantity per acre as they can for their money lies, but here it is different, we must depend on quality and not try to make so much in pounds of common tobacco for they can cultivate, cure and house their tobacco at much less expense than we can ours and make more per acre.

The thing for our Eastern planters to do is this: Study closely, carefully and analytically the nature of their land and then apply practical common sense in the selection of manures and the manner of cultivating, curing, housing and marketing their tobacco, and there is no danger that Eastern North Carolina will ever go bankrupt cultivating bright tobacco.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at Woods' Drug Store. Large bottles 50c, and $1.00.

We are informed by reliable authority that a Pitt county farmer carried a load of his tobacco to a certain market and that the warehouse man there asked him where he had been selling his tobacco. He told him that he had been selling principally in Greenville, whereupon the warehouseman told him that he had lost money by selling in Greenville, that he, the warehouseman, had been selling tobacco for one of the Greenville buyers and was making for him from $30 to $40 per hoghead.

Now we challenge any warehouseman in North Carolina to prove this assertion. It is palpably false and utterly barren of the slightest semblance of truth. We like to see honest competition and above all things admire an energetic and hustling business man, but when a man resorts to such low and contemptible means of getting tobacco to his house for the small amount of commission there is in it for him, he is so far off of the high plain of business principles that he will do no one much harm, and words and time are wasted in criticism of his conduct hence we withhold further comment.

From the time we assumed the responsibility of writing up this department we have labored zealously and persistently in trying to show to the people of Greenville that it was to their interest to foster and encourage the tobacco industry which was so rapidly taking root in this section of the State. Without an exception, in every issue of this paper we have urged the building up of more prize room as the first and all important step in building up a tobacco market. At first it was an up-hill business. No one seemed interested enough to make a start, but we kept right on stating facts and figures until now, it is exceedingly gratifying to know that a few of our business men and men who have the money to execute their designs are becoming interested in the matter. Four more large prize houses is the least that we want to begin with another season and we believe that we will have them. All who wish information on this subject call on this writer. We can rent out this number of houses without any trouble and will charge you no commission.

The American Tobacco Company should be run out of the State and it will be or it will run everybody else out of the tobacco market.—Laurinburg Exchange.

That's what's the matter, and that's what makes the tobacco trust so infinitely viler, a so much greater public enemy, than any other. The plaid trust doesn't reduce the price of cotton; the whiskey trust doesn't affect the price of corn; the sugar trust doesn't depress the price of raw sugar; the book trust doesn't scale down the price of white paper, nor printers' wages; but the tobacco trust puts its own ruinous price upon leaf tobacco and pillages the maker of the raw material as the very first step in its operations. Other trusts skin the consumer; this one reaches back and robs the producer. If it were content with laying its hand upon those who smoke its vile manufactures, all would be well, even though it taxed them a dollar a dozen upon its offensive products; but this is no part of the trouble. The trouble is just what the Exchange points out; if it isn't throttled it will run everybody else out of the tobacco business.—Charlotte Observer.

THE EASTERN TOBACCO WAREHOUSE.

O. L. JOYNER, Owner & Prop.

To my friends and customers who have so liberally bestowed their patronage on me during the past year, I wish to say that I have purchased the entire Warehouse interest of Mr. Alex. Heilbroner and I earnestly solicit a continuation of your visits with heavy loads of the yellow weed and I will guarantee to get you just as much money as can be had anywhere on any market.

With this I am before you. Now give me your co-operation and in less than five years Greenville will take her stand among the foremost of North Carolina Tobacco markets.

Emeralds Decreasing.
Emeralds are said to be steadily disappearing. In the '50s and '60s emeralds were the favorite jewels, and were worn strung on a thread like pearls. Such a string of emeralds was exhibited in a jeweler's window in Unterden Linden, and was estimated to be worth 12,000 marks. Now emeralds are no longer polished into a round form, but are polished like diamonds. Faultless stones of a deep color have always been as valuable as diamonds. The reason of the scarcity of emeralds is the decrease in production in the Ural Mountains. Emeralds were first discovered on the right bank of the Tokowol, near Katharineburg, in 1830, and in the first years the harvest was a rich one. Now the decrease, both in quantity and quality, hardly repays the labor. The harvest of emeralds in Labachtal, in the Salzburger Alps, has also proved disappointing, so that emeralds are now only to be had from Australia and Muso, near Santa Fe de Bogotta, in Columbia, in any appreciable quantity. The latter spot has been noted for its emeralds since the sixteenth century.

Cooking a High Art.
"It will not be many years," said Mrs. S. T. Rorer, of Philadelphia, who devotes her life to gastronomic affairs, "before cooking will form as important a department in the curriculum of our girls' public and private schools as mathematics and geography. It is, in fact, on a par with any of the arts, and yet is the most neglected. In Philadelphia, Boston and New York it is taught as it should be, in the normal schools, due attention being given to chemistry and hygiene. The chemistry of food should be thoroughly understood, and is by high-priced, trained chefs. Women must be educated in cooking, and it is, in my mind, much more important than the higher accomplishments."

Ripans Tabules are compounded from a prescription widely used by the best medical authorities and are presented in a form that is becoming the fashion everywhere.

Ripans Tabules act gently but promptly upon the liver, stomach and intestines; cure dyspepsia, habitual constipation, offensive breath and headache. One tabule taken at the first symptom of indigestion, biliousness, dizziness, distress after eating, or depression of spirits, will surely and quickly remove the whole difficulty.

Ripans Tabules may be obtained of nearest druggist.

Ripans Tabules are easy to take, quick to act, and save many a doctor's bill.

The Fundamental Principle of Life Assurance is protection for the family. Unfortunately, however, the beneficiaries of life assurance are often deprived of the provision made for them, through the loss of the principal, by following bad advice regarding its investment.

Under the Tontine Installment Policy of

The Equitable Life you are provided with an absolute safeguard against such misfortune, besides securing a much larger amount of insurance for the same amount of premiums paid in.

For facts and figures, address

ADOLPH COHN,
NEW BERNE, N. C.

General Agent for North Carolina, who is now handling goods direct from the manufacturers, as follows: HIGH GRADE MEHLIN PIANOS, distinguished for tone, workmanship and durability and endorsed by nearly all the musical journals in the United States. Made by Paul G. Mehlh, who is at this time one of the best mechanics and inventors of the day. Thirteen new patents on this high grade Mehlh Piano. Also the NEWBY & EVANS UPRIGHT PIANO which has been sold by him for this state and up to this time has given entire satisfaction. The Upright Piano just mentioned will be sold at from $200 to $350, in Ebonized, Rosewood, Oak, Walnut or Mahogany cases.

Also the CROWN PARLOR ORGAN from $50 to $150 in solid Walnut or Oak cases.

Ten years experience in the music business has enabled him to handle nothing but standard goods and he does not hesitate to say that he sells a musical instrument about 25 per cent cheaper than other agents are now offering.

Refer to all banks in Eastern Carolina.

PATENTS

obtained, and all business in the U. S. Patent office or in the Courts attended to for Moderate Fees.

We are opposite the U. S. Patent Office engaged in Patents Exclusively, and can obtain patents in less time than those more remote from Washington.

When the model or drawing is sent we advise as to patentability free of charge, and we make no charge unless we obtain a Patent.

We refer, here, to the Post Master, the Supt. of the Money Order Div., and to officials of the U. S. Patent Office. For circular, advise terms and reference to actual clients in your own State, or county address,
